

THE RISEN SUN

BY THE SAME AUTHOR :

THE VOCATION OF ALOYSIUS GONZAGA

CHRIST IS KING

THE KINGDOM AND THE WORLD

THE WOUNDED WORLD

THE MIND OF THE MISSAL

TRAVELLER'S PRAYERS

THE CREATIVE WORDS OF CHRIST

THE RISEN SUN

IMPRESSIONS IN NEW ZEALAND AND AUSTRALIA

BY C. C. MARTINDALE, S.J.

LONDON
SHEED AND WARD
31 PATERNOSTER ROW, E.C.

First Printed August, 1929
Second Impression September, 1929
Third Impression November, 1929

CONTENTS

| | Page |
|---|-------------|
| ITINERARIUM | vii |
| FOREWORD TO THE PREFACE | 9 |
| PREFACE TO THE PROLOGUE | 13 |
| PROLOGUE TO THE INTRODUCTION—SEA AND SEA-MEN | 19 |
| THE INTRODUCTION | 41 |
| Ao-Tea-Roa —Wellington and ‘St. Pat’s’; Flock House; towards Taupo; the princely race of Maoris; Mill Hill heroism; cook your fish in the river where you catch it . . .; hot headers into ice-bound pools; the Bouncing Boulder, the mud volcanoes; the steaming villages; the pre-primeval forest; Interlude; The kindness and the courtesy of Auckland and its Bishop, and goodbye to a land so soon grown dear to me. | |
| THE LAND OF THE RISEN SUN | 95 |
| i. Sydney : Adorable autocracy of Lewisham; the Completion of St. Mary’s; the Papal Legate and the Eucharistic Congress; a Catholic tour through Sydney, from St. Patrick’s-by-the-Quay, via convents, schools, and many a reunion; the Sisters of St. Joseph; Mary Ward ubiquitous; Sydney University. Is Catholicism the Religion of the Scullery? (I hope so; but that, too, of the remainder of God’s Palace.) St. John’s; Sancta Sophia. Goodbye from an aeroplane. | |
| ii. Brisbane : Silver-grey and fiery-rose; its audacious architects; an ‘Australian art’?; its Archbishop and the Foundation of its Cathedral; the Teaching Brothers and their colossal task—‘Do Catholics Grow Up?’; the problem of Secondary Education; Nudgee. Interlude. To the Fringe of the Skirts of the Bush; Dalby; almost the happiest week-end . . .; ‘Australia for Australians!’; and Australians for Australia? | |
| iii. Melbourne : More friends, new and old; University Sunday; a Library and its apostolate; a Retreat at Gracedale; Women’s Work; the Three Essentials—Book, Job, Retreat; the Mercy of Malvern . . .; a Diggers’ Dinner; the Stadium and the Race-course. | |

- iv. Adelaide : Its wreath of flowers ; its genial Press ; How sanctify your Sunday ? ; Prisons and our work there ; the Young Men's Society, and an ex-soldiers' club ; Sunshine and Sanity ; Interlude. Sevenhills and Clare ; a Vergilian world and the problem of wheat and vine.
- v. Perth : Another interlude. The trans-continental—Secret Waters ; Mysterious Beasts ; the Black Man's soul—' so very like our own.'
The Crown of Hospitality ; the Bushies' School ; industrial schooling (Clontarf) ; Castledare ; the Future of the Land (Mullewa) ; a day in Paradise ; the splendid Night of Stars.

EPILOGUE 246

Tear-salt ; sea-dreams ; Australia and Englishmen ; the World's work, and the To and Fro of Peoples ; Ceylon ; Empire and Imperialism ; Nation and Nationalism ; Without Differences, no Harmony ; Without Harmony, no Union—ourselves, Grace, the Church, Christ, the Trinity. Aden, Port Sudan, and Egypt ; Mass between Egypt and Mount Sinai ; the Catholic Family ; the Chosen Folk ; the Pagans ; Melchisedek and Abraham and Christ. The Pyramids, Crete, Asia and Italy ; the huddle of Time and Spaces. Marseilles ; Our Lady of the Guard and the Reds ; the Eucharist—' charity, peace, unity ', and the war of classes and of nations ; the Son of God and Mary ; ' In Christ there is neither Jew nor Gentile, Cultured nor Barbarian, nay, nor male nor female—you are all one thing in Christ Jesus '. Tilbury, and Goodbye to the Mongolia, but not altogether.

POST-SCRIPT 286

To the Diggers for whom this book was written, as the Foreword to the Preface presumably has made clear.