NOTE

THROUGH the kindness of Messrs. Jackson, Wylie & Co., the successors of Messrs. James Maclehose & Sons, the publishers have been able to add to this edition of Hakluyt the Voyages by foreign discoverers which it was not intended to include when the set was originally planned.

These voyages, which throw further light on the Expansion of England and its effect on Elizabethan literature, will be printed in two additional volumes during the spring of 1928. They will be illustrated by Thomas Derrick, and the first supplementary volume will contain a note on Hakluyt's foreign researches in the Paris Libraries, and the second a comprehensive name- and subject-index to the whole of the ten volumes.
