The Servants of India Society places on record its profound grief and deep sense of loss at the passing away of Shri Dinkar Desai, the Senior Member of the Bombay Branch on the 6th November 1982. With brilliant academic career, Shri Desai joined the Servants of India Society in 1936. During 46 years of his membership of the Society, he distinguished himself in astonishingly diversified fields of public work and human welfare. For many years, he was Secretary of the Bombay Trade Union Congress, General Secretary of Hind Mazdoor Sabha and Founder-President of Indian Seamen's Association. He visited England in 1945 to study conditions of Indian Seamen working in English Ports. He represented India at International Labour Conferences at Copenhagen and Seattle. He was a member of the Bombay Municipal Corporation for 13 years and Trustee of Bombay Port Trust for 10 years. The Canara Welfare Trust started by him in 1953, is his greatest contribution in the field of education. From scratch he developed the Trust into mighty organisation comprising thirty educational and welfare institutions in the forest district of North Canara. He was awarded D. Litt. by the Karnatak University in 1975, in recognition of his services to the downtrodden in the field of education. He represented his home constituency in Parliament. He organised famine relief work in Bijapur District for many years under the guidance of Thakkar Bapa. He was an outstanding poet in Kannad and Konkani languages, a constructive journalist and recipient of numerous awards. His unique contribution to Kannad poetry is in "CHUTAKAS", a four line political satire in poetic form. He has ten books to his credit written on varied subjects.

In his death the Society has lost an esteemed Member and the true Servant of India of dreams of Gopal Krishna Gokhale.

The Servants of India Society

PREAMBLE

Extracts from the original Preamble to the Constitution of the Society written by the illustrious founder the late Gopal Krishna Gokhale, in 1905.

For some time past the conviction has been forcing itself on many earnest and thoughtful minds that a stage has been reached in the work of nation-building in India when, for further progress, the devoted labours of a specially trained agency applying itself to the task in a true missionary spirit are required. The work that has been accomplished so far has indeed been of the highest value. The growth during the last fifty years of a feeling of common nationality based upon common traditions and ties, common hopes and aspirations, and even common disabilities has been most striking. The fact that we are Indians first, and Hindus, Mahomedans, Parsees or Christians afterwards, is being realised in a steadily increasing measure, and the idea of a united and renovated India marching onwards to a place among the nations of the world, worthy of her great past, is no longer a mere idle dream of a few imaginative minds, but is the definitely accepted creed of those who form the barain of the community—the educated classes of the country. A creditable beginning has already been made in matters of education and of local self-government; and all classes of the people are slowly but steadily coming under the influence of liberal ideas. The claims of public life are every day receiving wider recognition, and attachment to the land of our birth is growing into a strong and deeply cherished passion of the heart. The annual meetings of Congresses and Conferences, the work of public bodies and associations, the writings in the columns of the Indian Press—all bear witness to the new life that is coursing in the veins of the people. The results achieved so far are undoubtedly most gratifying, but they only mean that the jungle has been cleared and the foundations laid. The great work of rearing the superstructure has yet to be taken in hand, and the situation demands on the part of workers devotion and sacrifices proportionate to the magnitude of the task.

(ii)

The Servants of India Society has been established to meet in some measure these requirements of the situation...Much of the work must be directed towards building up in the country a higher type of character and capacity than is generally available at present, and the advance can only be slow. Moreover, the path is beset with great difficulties; there will be constant temptations to turn back; bitter disappointment will repeatedly try the faith of those who have put their hand to the work. But the weary toil can have but one end, if only the workers grow not faint-hearted on the way. One essential condition of success in this work is that a sufficient number of our countrymen must now come forward to devote themselves to the cause in the spirit in which religious work is undertaken. Public life must be spiritualised. Love of country must so fill the heart that all else shall appear as of little moment by its side. A fervent patriotism which rejoices at every opportunity of sacrifice for the motherland, a dauntless heart which refuses to be turned back from its object by difficulty or danger, a deep faith in the purpose of Providence which nothing can shake—equipped with these, the worker must start on his mission and reverently seek the joy which comes of spending oneself in the service of one's country.

The Servants of India Society will train men, prepared to devote their lives to the cause of the country in a religious spirit and will seek to promote by all constitutional means the national interests of the Indian people. Its members will direct their efforts, principally towards (1) creating among the people by example and by precept, a deep and passionate love of the motherland, seeking its highest fulfilment in service and sacrifice; (2) organizing the work of political education and agitation, basing it on a careful study of public questions and strengthening generally the public life of the country; (3) promoting relations of cordial goodwill and co-operation among the different communities; (4) assisting educational movements especially those for the education of women, the education of backward classes and industrial and scientific education; (5) helping forward the industrial development of the country; (6) the elevation of the depressed classes

Shri Ajgaonkar continued to be a Member of the Mafatlal Gaganbhai Textile Technical Institute Supervising Committee of the Social Service League. The Institute was started in 1924 to provide for systematic training to those who seek entry in the textile industry as a career and those who are already in the industry. The school is the only one of its kind in the country which imparts theoretical and practical training in textile technology to students without interfering with their jobs in any way. The training in the school is divided into two Sections. The Post-Employment Training Section and Pre-Employment Training Section.

In the Post-Employment Training Section there are two courses viz., (1) The Textile Apprentice Course in Spinning and Weaving and (2) The Certificate Cotton Spinning and Certificate Cotton Weaving Courses.

The Textile Apprentice Courses are meant for officers, workers and apprentices in textile mills who have passed S. S. C. Examination. The medium of instruction is English.

The Certificate Cotton Spinning and Cotton Weaving Courses are meant for ordinary textile workers who aspire to hold such posts as Jobbers and Supervisors in the Textile Mills. The Courses are of Two Years duration and are held morning and evening so as to accommodate employees working in different shifts. The medium of instruction is Marathi and the minimum qualification is Vernacular VI Std.

In the Pre-Employment Section a Certificate Course of Three Months duration in weaving is conducted for those who seek employment as weavers in Textile Mills.

The school also organises sessions in Basic Training and Related Instructions for the Apprentices deputed by the Textile Mills at the instance of the Bombay Millowners Association and the State Apprenticeship Advisor, Government of Maharashtra under Apprentices Act, 1963 (Central). The Bombay Millowners Association entrusted upon the Mafatlal Gagalbhai Textile Training School this training programme on behalf of the Millowners of the City. It also organises training programme for workers of the mofussil textile mills. Such a training programme provides industry with a trained labour force and increased productivity, while the workers earn more owing to acquired skill.

The Institute also publishes booklets on different processes of spinning and weaving in Marathi language, which is the mother tongue of the majority of textile workers in Bombay. This has helped to tide-over the acute dearth of literature on textile technology especially in the regional language.

Thus the Institute is doing its utmost in helping the Textile Industry and improving economic condition of the workers by equipping them with technical know-how for their trades. During this year the League organised a class in Participative Management for the apprentices in the Weavers trade. The class proved very useful for the trainees and the response from the trainees to the discussions that followed the lectures was very encouraging.

The Management of the Factory financed the project in its entirety. After a preliminary survey of 350 families of labourers migrating from Beed, Osmanabad, Ahmednagar and Pune districts, 185 children were enrolled for the project. The average attendance in the class was about 100 per day. Shri Balasaheb Bharade, Ex-Minister of Maharashtra Government, Shri N. G.
