The Servants of India Society

Preamble

Extracts From the original Preamble to the constitution of the Society written by the illustrious founder the late Gopal Krishna Gokhale, in 1905.

For some time past the conviction has been forcing itself on many earnest and thoughtful minds that a stage has been reached in the work of nation-building in India when, for further progress the devoted labours of a specially trained agency applying itself to the task in a true missionary spirit are required. The work that has been accomplished so far has indeed been of the highest value. The growth during the last fifty years of a feeling of common nationality based upon common traditions and ties, common hopes and aspirations, and even common disabilities has been most striking. The fact that we are Indians first, and Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsees or Christians afterwards is being realised in a steadily increasing measure, and the idea of a united and renovated India marching onwards to a place among the nations of the world, worthy of her greatpast, is no longer a mere idle dream of a few imaginative minds, but is the definitely accepted creed of those who form the brain of the community - the educated classes of the country. A creditable beginning has already been made in matters of education and of local self-government; and all classes of the people are slowly but steadily coming under the influence of liberal ideas. The claims of public life are every day receiving wider recognition and attachment to the land of our birth is growing into a strong and deeply cherished passion of the heart. The annual meetings of Congresses and Conferences, the work of public bodies and associations, the writings in the columns of the Indian press-all bear witness to the new life that is coursing in the veins of the people. The results achieved so far are undoubtedly most gratifying, but they only mean that the jungle has been cleared and the foundations laid. The great work of rearing the superstructure has yet to be taken in hand and the situation demands on the part of workers devotion and sacrifices proportionate to the magnitude of the task.

The Servants of India Society has been established to meet in some measure these requirements of the situation. Much of the work must be directed towards building up in the country a higher type of Character and Capacity than is generally available at present, and the advance can only be slow. Moreover, the path is beset with great difficulties; there will be constant temptations to turn back; bitter disappointment will repeatedly try the faith of those who have put their hand to the work. But the weary toil can have but one end, if only the workers grow not faint-hearted on the way. One essential condition of success in this work is that a sufficient number of your countrymen must now come forward to devote themselves to the cause in the spirit in which religious work is undertaken. Public life must be spiritualised. Love of country must so fill the heart that all else shall appear as of little moment by its side. A fervent patriotism which rejoices at every opportunity of sacrifice for the motherland, a dauntless heart which refuses to be turned back from its objects by difficulty or danger, a deep faith in the purpose of providence which nothing can shake-equipped with these, the worker must start on his mission and reverently seek the joy which comes of spending oneself in the service of one's country.

The Servants of India Society will train men, prepared to devote their lives to the cause of the country in a religious spirit and will seek to promote, by all constitutional means the national interest of the Indian people. Its members will direct their efforts, principally towards (1) creating among the people by example and by precept, a deep and passionate love of the motherland, seeking its highest fulfilment in service and sacrifice; (2) organising the work of political education and agitation, basing it on a careful study of public questions and strengthening generally the public life of the country; (3) promoting relations of cordial goodwill and co-operation among the different communities; (4) assisting educational movements especially those for the education of women, the education of backward classes and industrial scientific education; (5) helping forward the industrial development of the country; (6) the elevation of the depressed classes.

The Servants of India Society

Report for the year 1993-94

Introduction

The Servants of India Society was founded by Gopal Krishna Gokhale on June 12, 1905. Its objects are the training of national missionaries for the service of India and the promotion, by all constitutional means, of the interests of the Indian people without distinction of cast or creed. The members of the Society are pledged to give throughout their lives the best that is in them to the cause of the country in all secular fields. The circumstances in which the society was founded and the objects, which the Founder had in view in founding it, are explained in the preamble he wrote to its constitution in 1905, extracts from which are given in the preceding pages. The preamble has been a source of inspiration to the Society during the eighty nine years of its existence.

Organisation

The Headquarters of the Society are at Poona, where the members meet every year in June for its annual session. The Society has branches in Bombay, Nagpur, Allahabad, Cuttack and Madras.

Shri Ajgaonkar, Dr. Kakade, Shri P. K. Dwevedi and Shri S. S. Misra continued to be Senior Members of Bombay, Nagpur, Allahabad, and Cuttack branches of the Society respectively. Loss

The President Shri S. S. Misra passed away on the 8th December 1993. The council has passed the following resolution recording its deep sense of grief at his death.

The Council of the Servants of India Society places on record its deep sense of sorrow and grief at the passing away of Shri Shyam Sundar Misra on the 8th December 1993. After a distinguished academic career at the Patna University, he joined the Society in 1936. During the period of his membership he was closely connected with the Trade Union movement, more particularly of primary school teachers in Orissa, Utkal University and some cultural organisations in Cuttack. He was a member of the All India Civil Liberties Council and organised its conference in Cuttack. He used to take lead in organising relief for people in distress. An illness in fifties created severe permanent handicaps in him which limited the number and range of his activities but did not affect his deep interest in and devotion to his work. He was elected President in 1986. In his death the society has lost an honest, sincere and devoted senior member and has suffered an irreparable loss.

General

Dr. R. G. Kakade continued to be Honorary Treasurer of Kunzru Centre for Defence Affairs Studies which aims at educating public opinion on all aspects of National Defence and thereby help to evolve a non-official expertise on defence matters. The Centre was started by the Late Shri N. G. Goray with Col. M.G. Abhyankar as its Hon. Director. Shri V. N. Gadgil, Bar-at-Law, is the Chairman of the Centre.

Dr. Kakade continued to be Managing Trustee of the Late Justice Mahadeo Govind Ranade Charitable Trust. The Trust gives donations to educational and social welfare institutions in Pune and outside on Ranade Day, 18th January.

Dr. Kakade continued to be a member of Gokhale Cup Elocution Competition Committee of Nowrosjee Wadia

College. The Cup was endowed by the Late Raja of Sangli soon after the death of Gokhale.

Shri S. S. Aijaonkar continued to be the Honorary Secretary of The Bombay Social Reform Association, a non-political and non party Organisation, founded by the late Justice Narayan G. Chandawarkar and other fellow-workers of Justice Ranade after his death, in 1903. It is an off-shoot of the National Social Conference started by the late Justice Ranade in 1887. The Association, which stands for elimination of such disruptive forces as castism, communalism and others, and a common civil code, has a distinguished record of service for furtherance of Social Reform in the Country. It has played a valuable part in bringing many beneficial measures in the statute book. During the year under report, the Association celebrated 90th Foundation Day of the Bombay Social Reform Association on the 30th September 1993. The Association organised two seminars to celebrate the occassion, one on "Social Reform Movement and its future in India" and the other on "Ranade the visionary". The Association also donated Rs. 10,000/- to Andha-Sraddha Nirmulan Association for its Seminar on religious thoughts of Ranade, Phule and Ambedkar held on 2nd and 3rd October 1993 at Satara. The amount was paid through funds collected by B.S.R.A. to celebrate Sesquicentennial Anniversary (150th Birth Anniversary) of Justice Ranade. To these funds, Shri Sudhakar Naik, then the Chief Minitter of Maharashtra, had Contributed Rs. One lakh as the gesture of financial aid to B.S.R.A. for worthy cause of enlightening public on Ranade and his contribution to the Nation building. In this connection Shri S. S. Aijaonkar submitted Paper elaborating Mahatma Phule's views on religious begotary, Casteism and other evils crept in Hindu ethos during Phule's times. He referred to educational limitations of Phule and humiliations suffered by him. He referred to Phule's attracton to Christianity and Islam, which he thought were based on equality and brother-hood and his firm belief that caste-ridden Hindu Society would never allow depressed classes to progress. It was worth noting that BSRA was the first organisation to celebrate Phule's Birth Anniversary long back in thirties and before independence dawn on the country. Shri S. S. Ajgaonkar also referred to Dr. Ambedkar's determination not to die as Hindu and his vain and aborted attempts to embrace Islam and Sikhism to which his followers were not willing to join and about Dr. Ambedkar's after thought that he would lose his political force if he had embraced Moulvi dominated Islam. Shri Ajgaonkar also referred to Dr. Ambedkar's comparative and comprehensive study of different religions and his attraction to moral basis and ethical values of Buddha's teachings (no priestly class, no rituals) converted him to Buddhism. He elucidated with facts and available record that Dr. Ambedkar was not impressed by Christianity which was theocratic religion, where once Pope wielded both religious as well as State powers. It was left to Martin Luther to start secular movement, while Hinduism was basically secular, where King had no power to interfere with religion. While referring to Ranade's religious thought, Shri Ajgaonkar brought out his rationalistic approach to religion. He believed God, the unknown, and laid emphasis on Prayer. He totally discarded rituals (Karmakanda) and Casteism. Shri Ajgaonkar concluded his paper with views expressed by Samuel P. Huntington on the new perspective on clash of civilisations and views of Edward Tirykian on dimensions of religious exceptionalism and referred to post-independent India, getting divided into smaller and smaller caste loyalties and conflicts with danger of balkanisation of the country.

The B.S.R.A. donated Rs. 15,000/- for bringing out biography of Justice Ranade for children. The work was executed by Shri Raja Mangalvedhekar, wellknown writer of biographies for children. The B.S.R.A. donated uniforms to deaf children of Central School for Deaf, Agripada, Bombay during the year.

LEGACY OF GOKHALE

"What is the moral of Gokhale's life ? What legacy has he left for us ? These questions were answered by Gokhale himself in his last words to the members of The Servants of India Society who were present beside his death bed : Don't waste your time in writing a biography or setting up a statue, but pour your whole soul into the service of India. Then only shall you be counted among her true and faithful servants."

- Gandhiji - Gokhale, My Political Guru.

"Gokhale taught me not to glorify the country in language but to spiritualize its political life and institutions. He inspired my life and is still inspiring it in that I wish to purify myself and spiritualise myself. I have dedicated myself to that ideal. Political life must be an echo of our private life. There cannot be any divorce between the two."

- Gandhiji - Gokhale, My Political Guru.

"The man who leads the life of goodness, whose instincts are good, who is full of gentleness, who is the embodiment of truth and who has fully shed his ego, is a Dharmatma, a man of religion, whether he knows it or not."

- Gandhiji - Gokhale, My Political Guru.

"Gandhiji thought of Gokhale as an ideal Mahatma in his own heart, gave him a place therein, aspired to the realization on that ideal in himself and in his own life manifested on a larger scale whatever virtues he perceived in his master."

- K. G. Mashruwala
