PREFACE.

THERE are several definitions of "estate population" in Ceylon, and it is very necessary, in using any of the reported figures, to be quite clear as to the population to which they refer. Table No. II., giving the list of estates the Population Census of which was taken by the Superintendents or the persons in charge, may be taken to contain the detailed definition of the estate population referred to in this volume. These estates may be conveniently called "A" estates when a distinction is necessary. In all the Census publications where the 1921 "estate" figures are referred to without qualification, the "A" estate totals are meant.

In addition there was a number of small properties entitled to be classed as "estates" which, for various reasons, were enumerated by village headmen or Census enumerators, but the population thereon was relatively small, and it can be left out of account in the practical application of the statistics. These may conveniently be called "other" estates.

The other main definition of "estate population" includes only that on estates registered for Medical Aid, and it is to this population that the Registrar-General's Vital Statistics refer. These may conveniently be called "M" estates, and the totals are somewhat smaller than for the "A" estates. But the differences are probably less than the fluctuations caused by the migration, and the details are not given here.

There is also a considerable variety of practice in the classification of the estates according to locality. These are the main systems of classification—

- (1) By Revenue Districts and Divisions;
- (2) By Planters' Associations; and
- (3) By districts specified in Ferguson's Directory.

In this volume the estates are grouped by Revenue Districts, the Planters' Associations and the Chief Headmen's Divisions being shown in columns 1 and 2 of Table II. The relation of these classifications to the Directory districts is still under investigation.

One other difficulty may be noticed here, namely, that of estates with separate names which are included in groups under one administration. The composition of the various groups is shown as far as possible in footnotes.

It will be apparent that the unification of all the different systems of classification is very necessary. This work has been taken up, but has not been completed owing to pressure of other Census work. But it is hoped that some definite arrangement can be come to by which the above-mentioned difficulties may be minimized. The mere statement of them is the first step in the direction of some solution.

A further point which is receiving attention is the fact that the estate population is subject to somewhat violent fluctuations owing to the ebb and flow of migration according to the economic conditions of the various industries. An amended quarterly return on the lines of the return of immigrant labourers has been suggested, and it is hoped that it will shortly be practicable to frame closer intercensal estimates of the estate population than has hitherto been possible. In the meantime it has to be noted that the Census of 1921 was taken at a time when the estate population was below normal owing to the rubber slump, and allowance must be made for this in many of the figures.

The tables in this volume have been prepared on much the same lines as in 1911, but have all been included in a separate volume, while figures for the two previous censuses have been added in Table I. for ease of reference.

The co-operation of the Planters' Associations, the Estate Superintendents, and other persons responsible for the enumeration of the estates is gratefully acknowledged. Copies of this volume will be forwarded free—on application to the Director of Statistics—to estates where the enumeration was done at the Census by the Superintendents or persons in charge.

Colombo, March 5, 1923.

L. J. B. TURNER,
Superintendent of Census and Director of Statistics.

P. S.—The delay in the publication of this volume is greatly regretted, but was entirely unavoidable, the pressure of work at the Government Printing Office having been abnormally great.
