NOTICE.

THE extracts which have unavoidably been briefly quoted in this Work, especially in the latter part of it, are meant neither in disrespect to the opinions of any authority whatever, nor to contradict or disprove the assertions of certain writers in Indian journals. That is the province of men of higher talents and abilities; nor are they meant as self-boasting by the Author. Far from it. They illustrate the pages merely as evidence to his statement, which otherwise might have been considered partial.

"This work is intended for a guide to the young gardener, bailiff, &c. in the higher and more scientific branches of their professions. It is in form a collection of plain and practical treatises, linked together by their connexion with horticultural and agricultural pursuits. The use of such a volume to fit an intelligent man for a superior station is evident. Indeed, a slight examination of its contents is sufficient to confirm Mr. Loudon's opinion of its usefulness. To superior gardeners, foresters, land-stewards, bailiffs, and farmers, it supplies a mass of sound instruction, which can no where else be found combined in the same space, or given in so lucid a style."—BRITANNIA

"Prof Low's work appears to us to treat fully of every branch of the subject of cattle-breeding which can be of service to the farmer. The improvement of soils, and fitting them for specific purposes, shewing by what means and to what extent the alteration of certain component parts is produced, and how the loss can be repaired, demonstrating the danger of pursuing similar systems under different circumstances, and that what is good at first may become bad by continuance, laying down rules for cultivation, for grazing, and for sowing the breeds of animals to the localities and climates when they, as it were, transform themselves, by degrees, to the necessities of their conditions, all these and many more kindred matters are handled by Mr Low with masterly ability, the result of careful observation and prolonged experience. We cannot too strongly recommend his work as a treatise and vade mecum to every cultivator of British land."—LITERARY GAZETTE

"A series of striking articles on the tragical contests of Peres and Philip. It is extremely well translated, and forms a very interesting volume. There are few lines in history of more adventure and vicissitude than that of Peres, and few more suggestive of reflection. We find in M. Mignet's researches much that we were not before acquainted with, even of the residence in England, and the weaving of the authorities into the text is skilfully managed. The moral of the reckless life and melancholy death of Peres is well pointed, and the reader's interest sustained till the last sentence."—EXAMINER.
