The Indian Council of World Affairs is an unofficial and non-political body, founded in 1943 to encourage and facilitate the scientific study of Indian and International affairs.

The Council, as such, does not express any opinion on any aspect of Indian or International affairs. Any opinions expressed in this paper are, therefore, the opinions of the Author and not those of the Council.

The transition from war to peace raises a host of problems on the successful solution of which depends the character of social life and prosperity in India for a generation to come: the reabsorption of the demobilized soldier in civil life, the increase of production, the stabilization of prices at a reasonable level, the determination of the pattern of trade etc. In this pamphlet, Dr. Gyan Chand, who writes with expert knowledge derived from many years' study of economic questions, gives a bird's-eye view of these problems and focuses attention on the kind of solutions that may be attempted.

The reader will find it useful to refer also to the pamphlet in this series on A Policy for Agriculture by V. Balasubramanian No. 3.

Dr. Gyan Chand is Professor of Economics, University of Patna; author of several books including Financial System of India and India's Teeming Millions.
