The chief contributors are Mr. W. Ramsay, C.S., who prepared draft accounts of Description, Production, History, Survey History, and the Dángs, and Mr. John Pollen, C.S., the District Compiler, who, besides many corrections and additions, furnished the bulk of the materials for the Population, Trade, and Capital chapters, and a mass of details for History and Places of Interest. A manuscript account of the district, written in 1869 by Mr. A. Crawley-Boevey, C.S., was of great value especially in preparing the History chapter. Mr. Whitcombe's Sub-divisional Accounts and very complete survey figures for the Land Administration chapter, and Mr. Stormont's paper on Agriculture, are also most valuable contributions.

Since the district map was prepared the official spelling of a few names has been altered. The change is in no case so great as to cause confusion.

JAMES M. CAMPBELL.
