

Dhananjayrao Gadgil Library

GIPE-PUNE-000915

John Lubbock

Engraved by J. G. Armytage from a Photograph.

LIFE
OF
LORD LAWRENCE

BY

R. BOSWORTH SMITH, M.A.

LATE FELLOW OF TRINITY COLLEGE, OXFORD : ASSISTANT MASTER AT HARROW SCHOOL

AUTHOR OF 'MOHAMMED AND MOHAMMEDANISM'

'CARTHAGE AND THE CARTHAGINIANS'

ETC.

IN TWO VOLUMES

VOL. I.

WITH PORTRAITS AND MAPS

THIRD EDITION

LONDON

SMITH, ELDER, & CO., 15 WATERLOO PLACE

1883

All rights reserved

V 2, L. M 69 w

B 3.1

915

CONTENTS

OF

THE FIRST VOLUME.

CHAPTER I.

EARLY LIFE. 1811-1829.

	PAGE
Introductory—The Scoto-Irish and their Characteristics—Henry and John Lawrence compared—Scope and Object of Biography—John Lawrence's Father—His Mother—His Sister Letitia—His successive Homes—His Childhood—His Nurse Margaret—His School at Clifton—Anecdotes—Foyle College and its Surroundings—His Companions—Anecdotes—His Intellectual Progress—Dr. Kennedy and Sir Robert Montgomery—Wraxall School—Reminiscences by Wellington Cooper and F. B. Ashley—Offer of Writership by John Huddleston—'A soldier I was born, and a soldier I'll be'—Haileybury College—Its Staff of Professors and Course of Education—Contemporaries of John Lawrence—Anecdotes—Reminiscence by J. H. Batten—Sir Charles Trevelyan—Irish element in John Lawrence—Chelsea Friends	1

CHAPTER II.

LIFE AT DELHI. 1829-1834.

Prospects of John Lawrence—Start for India—His Companions—Homesickness—Residence in Calcutta—Ruling Principles of his Life—Appointed to Delhi—History and Description of Delhi—Battles for Empire—Successive Cities—The Great Mogul and his Treatment by the English—Crimes

	PAGE
and Abuses in Palace—Sir Charles Metcalfe—Theophilus Metcalfe— Duties of Resident—Character of City Population—The Delhi District —Reminiscence by Charles Trevelyan—Work and Life of John Law- rence as ‘Assistant to Resident’ for four Years—The Sullateen—Slavery —Forgery—Story-telling—A Family Gathering—Robert Napier . . .	34

CHAPTER III.

LIFE AND ADVENTURES AT PANIPUT. 1834—1837.

Paniput, historical and geographical—Battle-field of India—The Jats and their Characteristics—The Sikhs and their Religion—Duties of Collector —Their Variety—‘Cutcherry on Horseback’—Sympathy with People— Reminiscence by Charles Raikes— Jan Larens sub Janta —John Law- rence’s Mode of Working—Anecdotes—The Village Cowherds and Arrears of Revenue—Reminiscence by Sir Richard Pollock—A Tonic— A Durbar—Solitude—Purchase of Chanda—Narrow Escape—Frag- ment of Autobiography—‘A hunt, a robbery, or a murder?’—Jan Larens— Legendary Fame—The ‘Breasts of the Faithful’—Physical Strength— Moral Courage—A Service repaid—Story of ‘The Brothers’—Arrest and Detection of the Murderer by John Lawrence—Murder of William Fraser, Commissioner of Delhi—Detection of Murderer—Saves Russeldar from Drowning—Chase after a Robber—‘The widow and her money-bags’ . . .	49
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER IV.

LIFE AND ADVENTURES AT GORGAON AND ETAWA. 1837—1840.

Reminiscence by W. S. Seton Karr—His Friendship for Lawrence, and his Tribute to his Memory—John Lawrence transferred to Gorgaon—Preda- tory Character of People—Nature of Country—‘Passive resistance’— ‘Settlement officer’ at Etawa—Robert Mertins Bird—His Services and Career—Retired Civilians—‘Settlement of North-West’—‘Perma- nent settlement’—Its Results—Law of Sale and its Results—Difficul- ties of Settlement—Village Communities and Boundary Disputes—The Talukdars—Settlement Officers of North-West—Opposing Schools— Description of Etawa—Famine—Its Causes, Effects, and Remedies— Views of John Lawrence—Pilgrims and Pilgrimages—The Goddess Situla, or Small-pox—A Brahmin Pilgrim—Starvation—Work at Etawa—Reminiscence by J. Cumine—Some personal Characteristics of John Lawrence—Story of ‘The disputed boundary’—Remarks by Sir Henry Maine—Dangerous Illness—Determines not to Die—Journey to Calcutta—Goes on Three Years’ Furlough—General Character of first Ten Years in India—Reminiscence by Herbert Edwardes . . .	81
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER V.

FURLOUGH AND MARRIAGE. 1840-1842.

	PAGE
Paucity of Materials for Biography—No Journals, and few private Letters— How explained—Changes in Clifton Home—Death of Father—Marriage of Sister Letitia—The 'Lawrence Fund'—Death of old Nurse Margaret —Visit to Scotland—Visit to Ireland—Meets his future Wife—Visit to Bonn—Visit to Bath—Reminiscence by Mrs. Kensington—Visit to Lynton —John Sterling and Caroline Fox—Second Visit to Ireland—Becomes engaged to Harriette Hamilton—Her Antecedents—'Carders' of Meath —Story of her Father and Andrew Rabb—Her early Life—The Mar- riage—Its Happiness—Anecdotes—Wedding Tour on Continent—Visit to Rome—News of Cabul Disaster reaches them at Naples—First Letter of John Lawrence—His Illness—'If I can't live in India, I must go and die there'—Sails for India	130

CHAPTER VI.

THE FIRST AFGHAN WAR. 1838-1842.

Sketch of Afghan War—Why material to Biography—Governor Generalship of Lord Auckland—Progress of Russia—Character of Afghanistan and Afgans—Dost Mohammed—His Advice and the Way in which he was treated—Advice of other great Authorities, and how treated—Mission of Alexander Burnes—Shah Soojah—'When your military difficulties are over, your real difficulties will begin'—Fatal Infatuation—Rising at Cabul—Death of Burnes and Macnaghten—Akbar Khan and the Retreat—The Moral—Lord Ellenborough and the Army of Vengeance— The Sandalwood Gates—Manifesto of Lord Ellenborough—Who was to do most to carry it into Practice?	149
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER VII.

MAGISTRATE OF DELHI; AND FIRST SIKH WAR. 1842-1846.

John Lawrence and his Wife land at Bombay—Adventurous Journey across Central India—Lord Ellenborough's Pageant—Dearth of Employment— Camp Life—The Taj at Agra—Meeting with George Lawrence on his Return from Captivity—Narrow Escape of George Lawrence—John Lawrence reappointed to Delhi—Sir Robert Collie Hamilton—Annexa- tion of Khytul—Reminiscence by Colonel Henry Yule—Birth of Eldest Daughter—Meeting of the Lawrences and their Wives at Kurnal—Con- dition of Kurnal—Sanitary Inquiries of John Lawrence—The 'Purvey ance system'—Condition of Native Women—Story of 'The leper'—

	PAGE
Treatment of the Natives by English—Sympathy with them—The Great Gulf—Magistrate of Delhi—Jail Reform—John Lawrence owed Nothing to Patronage—Annexation of Scinde and its Character—'Peccavi'—A Heritage of triumphant Wrong—Sir Henry Hardinge Governor-General—His History and Character—His Preparations for Defence against Sikhs—Meets John Lawrence at Delhi—Mutual Impressions—First Sikh War—'No one can tell what fools may do'—Battle of Ferozeshah—A Cadmean Victory—John Lawrence 'the Base of Operations' for Sohraon—Battle of Sohraon—Annexation of Jullundur Doab—Questionable Treatment of Jummoo and Kashmir—'Send me up John Lawrence'—Reminiscence by Colonel Ramsay	16

CHAPTER VIII.

COMMISSIONER OF TRANS-SUTLEJ STATES. 1846.

Great Leap in Advance—Folio Volumes of Letters—Character and Population of Jullundur Doab—Reminiscences by Robert Cust and Hercules Scott—Heavy Work—Powers of Despatch—Harry Lumsden and Edward Lake—Fortress of Kangra—Its History, Resistance, and Submission—A Bloodless Victory—Land Tax to be paid in Money instead of in Kind—Importance of this Reform—The Rajas of the Hills—Female Infanticide—Its Causes—The Bedi of Oona—'Those Bedis were not such bad fellows'—Humour of John Lawrence—Danger of Combination among Sepoys foreseen—His Relations to his Subordinates—Visit to Simla	19
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER IX.

ACTING RESIDENT AT LAHORE. 1846-1848.

Character and Career of Runjeet Sing—'It will all soon be red'—Eastern Dynasties—State of Punjab under Runjeet's Successors—Character of Sikhs—Sir Henry Lawrence Resident at Lahore—Bonâ-fide Efforts to save the Sikh State—His Measures—John Lawrence takes his place at Lahore—His Special Difficulties—Divided Responsibility—The Sirdars, the Maharani, and her Grand Vizier Lal Sing—Letters—Anecdotes—The Question of Jagheers— Jem Laras sub Janta again—Absolute Straight-forwardness—Golab Sing and Imamuddin—Their Characters—State Trial and Banishment of Lal Sing—Henry Lawrence practically Ruler of the Punjab—His Assistants and his Work—John Lawrence returns to Jullundur—A bold Prophecy—'Assess low'—George Christian and George Barce—Treatment of Chiefs in Jullundur Doab—Important and Difficult Question—A Cow Riot—Banishment of the Maharani—Character of Sir Henry Lawrence's Rule in Punjab—His Happiness there—Henry a John-ite, and John a Henry-ite—Henry Lawrence goes to England with Lord Hardinge—Relation of Lord Hardinge to the Lawrences	21
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER X.

THE SECOND SIKH WAR. 1848.

John Lawrence 'acting' Resident at Lahore again—Letter of Lord Hardings to him—Drawbacks and Difficulties in his Work—Passive Resistance of Sirdars—Reminiscence by Lewin Bowring—Simplicity of Life—'The gorgeous East'—House and Household—Friendship with Sir Colin Campbell—Arrival of Lord Dalhousie in India—Sir Frederick Currie succeeds John Lawrence at Lahore—Birth of second son Henry—Dhurmsala—Murder of Agnew and Anderson—Was it planned?—Story of Moolraj—Letters and Advice of John Lawrence—Delay of chief Authorities—Lord Gough and Lord Dalhousie—Exploits of Herbert Edwardes—Van Cortlandt—Siege of Mooltan and its Vicissitudes—General Rising in Punjab—Second Sikh War—Sikhs allied with Afghans—Battle of Chillianwallah—A Victory or a Defeat?—Achievements of 'Assistants to Resident'—George Lawrence—James Abbot—Lieutenant Herbert—Reynell Taylor—Position of John Lawrence in Jullundur Doab—Contentment of People—Force at his Disposal—Risings in the Hills—He conducts a Thirteen Days' Campaign—Leads Sikhs against Sikhs—Successes—Bedi of Oona again—Escape of a Guru—Charles Saunders—John Lawrence attracts Attention of Lord Dalhousie—Masterful Character of Lord Dalhousie—His Relations to Lord Gough and Henry Lawrence—Change of Master, and what it often implies—Local Experience and its Value—Racy Letters of Lord Dalhousie—Bulk of his Correspondence sealed up for fifty Years—Return of Henry Lawrence to India—His Iktal—Capture of Mooltan—Battle of Gujerat—Submission of Sikhs—'Runjeet Sing is dead to-day'—Advice of John Lawrence—Annexation of Punjab and its Justification. 239

CHAPTER XI.

THE WORK OF THE PUNJAB BOARD. 1849-1852.

How was the Punjab to be governed?—Balance of Civil and Military Elements—Sir Charles Napier and Lord Dalhousie—A volcanic Board—Did it answer its purpose?—Its three Members: Henry Lawrence, John Lawrence, C. Greville Mansel—Their Idiosyncrasies—Physical Characteristics of Punjab—Its Rivers and Doabs—The Derajat—A Country of Extremes—Hill Districts and Plains—Boundaries and Mountain Ranges—Frontiernatural or 'scientific'?—Races inhabiting Punjab—The Peshawur Valley—Character of North-West Frontier—Runjeet Sing's Principles of Government, of Taxation, of Punishment—Disarmament of People—Protection of Country—Raising of Irregular Regiments—The Guide Corps, its History and Characteristics—Protection of Peshawur Valley—Defensive Arrangements of Frontier—The 'Wardens of the Marches'—Raising of Police—Prevention and Detection of Crime—

Cattle-stealing—Dacoity—Thuggee—Jails built—Native Customs, as far as possible, respected—Land Survey and Revenue Settlement—Its Benefits—Reforms in Taxation—Soldiers become Cultivators—Development of Resources—Road-making—Robert Napier and Alexander Taylor—The Grand Trunk Road—Canals—The Bari Doab Canal—Coinages and Languages—Education—Agriculture—Forest Trees—Sanitary Measures—'Perfection made up of trifles'—The Punjab a financial Success—General Results—Quotations from 'Punjab Report,' from Lord Dalhousie, and the Directors of East India Company—Sir Richard Temple's Retrospect	21
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER XII.

HENRY AND JOHN LAWRENCE. 1849—1852.

Difficulties and painful Character of the Subject—Dhurmsala—A Bear Hunt and a Nose Maker—Story of a Gudi—Mrs. John Lawrence during second Sikh War—The Lahore Residence after Annexation—Busy Scene—Meeting of the Board—Subjects to be dealt with—Spheres of the Lawrence Brothers—Sir John Kaye on John Lawrence—Differences of Opinion and Heart-burnings—Loss of Koh-i-noor—The Brothers compared and contrasted—Henry Lawrence's generous Fight for Sirdars—His unique Character—His Peregrinations—'Achilles absent is Achilles still'—John Lawrence brought into Prominence, how?—'A killing Summer'—Arrest of Sirdars—Reform of Tariff—Sir Charles Napier—His Character and Disappointments—His Biography and his Writings—Antagonism to Lord Dalhousie, to the Lawrences, and to Civil Government generally—Scinde and Punjab Schools in India—'Backward' and 'Forward' Policy—Frere and Lawrence—Quotations from Sir Charles Napier—His attack on Punjab Administration—His Knowledge of the Subject—His Opinions on Things in general—His Prophecies—Answer of John Lawrence—Meeting of Antagonists at Lahore—Story of Selection of Mean Meer Cantonments—Sir Charles Napier's Tour of Inspection—The Kohat Pass—Fierce Controversies—Letters of John Lawrence—The Administration in Scinde—Visit of John Lawrence to Lord Dalhousie at Simla—No Holidays allowed in the Punjab—'The Punjab head'—Question of Frontier Force—Visit of Sir Henry Lawrence to Kashmere and Ladak with Hodson—Illness of John Lawrence—Dr. Hathaway—Affectionate Letter of Lord Dalhousie—John Lawrence's own Anticipations of his Future compared with the Reality—Death of infant Son—Tenderness of John Lawrence—Daughters sent to England with Nicholson and Edwardes—Mansel leaves the Punjab—His Character—Succeeded by Montgomery—His History and Characteristics—The Triumvirate at Foyle College and on the Punjab Board—Story of the Simpson Brothers—Visit of Lord Stanley—'Heroic simplicity'—Subordinates of the Lawrences—Their Careers and Characters—The Board is to be dissolved—What it had done—Had it answered its Purpose?—Chief Subjects of Difference between the Lawrence Brothers—Which was right?—Reminiscence by General John Becher—How did Montgomery's Advent affect the Question at Issue?—'A buffer between two high-pressure engines'—Pathetic Letters of John Lawrence—Both Brothers offer to resign—Lord Dalhousie makes his Choice between them—Sir Henry Lawrence leaves the Punjab—Parting Scene at Lahore and at Umritsur—Career and Influence of Sir Henry Lawrence	PAGE 318.

---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--------------

CHAPTER XIII.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE PUNJAB. 1852-1853.

Effects of Henry Lawrence's Departure—General Character of John Lawrence's Rule—His chief Fame rests on it—Consolidation and Development—Abolition of Board good for State then, and, still more, four Years later—Difficult Questions to be dealt with—Montgomery 'Judicial Commissioner'—Edmonstone 'Financial Commissioner'—Division of Labour—Shifting of Parts, but Actors the same—First Letter to Nicholson—'Nicholson worth the wing of a regiment'—Last Appeal of Henry Lawrence—Gravitation of John Lawrence towards his Brother's Views—Less Worry and more Work—General Characteristic of Chief Commissionership—Justice—Equity—Subordination—Economy—Thoroughness—Despatch—Kindness to Natives—Frontier Policy—Distribution of Patronage—'Avoid the hills'—John Lawrence's chief Objects, Occupations, and Difficulties—Correspondence with Lord Dalhousie best shows his Head; with Nicholson, his Heart—Difficulties in dealing with Nicholson, with Robert Napier, with Coke, with Macleod—'A lac of rupees'—'If you want the thing well done, go to Napier'—Taking of a Bribe—Description of Macleod—Exceptional Advice to Becher—Treatment of Natives by English Officers—Complications in Bahawalpore—Important indirect Results—Policy towards Afghans and frontier Tribes—Murder of Mackeson—Panic in Peshawur District—'An imperial No'—Lawrence's Opinion of Herbert Edwardes and Sir James Outram—'An imperial Yes'—Letters to Courtenay—Letters to Lord Dalhousie and increasing Intimacy—At Peshawur—The Bori Afridis—John Lawrence under Fire—His Glee—Attempt to Murder Godby—John Lawrence sends second batch of Children to England with Charles Saunders—Powers of Work—Visit to Mooltan and the Derajat—Cattle-stealing still—'The first specimen of the conquering race'—Futteh Khan Khuttuck—Lawrence's Description of him—Troubles with Hodson in Command of Guides—Complaints against him—John Lawrence's Forbearance—Court of Inquiry—Kader Khan—Hodson remanded to his Regiment—Differences between Tribes of Northern and Southern Derajat—The 'Cunctator'—Succeeds Edmonstone—The Delectable Mountains—House and Work at Murri—Birth of third Son Charles—Philip Melvill and George Christian—First Meeting with Richard Temple—His Powers of Work and rapid Rise—'Punjab Report'—Temple becomes Secretary to John Lawrence—Relief to Chief Commissioner—Reminiscence by Temple—Second Punjab Report—Moral and material Progress

CHAPTER XIV.

RELATIONS WITH HIS CHIEF AND HIS SUBORDINATES.

1854—1856.

	PAGE
The Crimean War—' Be on the Look-out for Menschikoff in the Khyber'—
Russia and Afghanistan—' Don't send a European Envoy to Cabul'—Views of Edwardes, of Lawrence, of Lord Dalhousie—Moral courage and Loyalty of John Lawrence—Character of Afghans—John Lawrence's Negotiations with Gholam Hyder Khan—Diplomacy not necessarily Trickery—Description of Hyder Khan—Herat and Peshawur—Mohammed Khan and George Lawrence—Anecdotes—' Look at his hand '—Khazwanis and Khugwanis
—The Turks beat the Russians—Conclusion of Treaty—Its Terms—' The soul of the battle '—Return of old Punjabis to John Lawrence—Lake—Reynell Taylor—Harry Lumsden—Neville Chamberlain—George Campbell—Sydney Cotton—What Lawrence cared for in his Subordinates—
' Keeping the team together '—Difficulties—Correspondence with Nicholson, Neville Chamberlain, Coke, Edwardes, Montgomery, Napier—' Blessed are the peacemakers '—Magnanimity and Forbearance of John Lawrence —Nicholson's ' Pen and ink ' Work—Napier's Public Works and Expenditure—Result of John Lawrence's Efforts—Relations to Lord Dalhousie
—Character of Lord Dalhousie—His commanding Powers—His Defects—
His Style of Writing—His Kindness—His Appreciation of Services—
His Ill-health—His Dignity—Every Inch a King—Masterful Character of John Lawrence—What enabled him to get on with Lord Dalhousie——Mixture of Qualities—' You are a good hater '—Correspondence with Lord Dalhousie—General Character of his Rule—A Baronetcy or a K.C.B. ?—Illness of Lady Lawrence—What she would have missed had she gone to England—Farewell Visit to Lord Dalhousie at Calcutta—Annexation of Oude—John Lawrence's Views of it—The ' Chief Commissioner ' to becom ' Lieutenant-Governor ' of the Punjab—Estimate of John Lawrence by Lord Dalhousie, by Sir J. P. Grant, and Sir Barnes
Peacock—Last Meeting of the Brothers Lawrence—Arrival of Lord Canning—Departure of Lord Dalhousie—He goes Home to die—His
Farewell Letters—The K.C.B. at last	449

CHAPTER XV.

JOHN LAWRENCE AND AFGHANISTAN. THE BREWING OF THE STORM. 1856—1857.

Masters—Impressions of Lord Canning—The War with Persia and its Causes—Disgust of Lord Canning and Sir John Lawrence—Who was to have the Command ?—Sir John Lawrence's Opinion of his Brother Henry—Reminiscence by Sir George Campbell—' Jobbing for one's friends '—Loyalty of his Friends—Popularity, and his Attitude towards it—Roughnesses—Appetite for Work—Overdone at last—' Distracted with one botheration and another '—Nicholson again—Anecdotes—The

THE FIRST VOLUME.

xiii

PAGE

Crimea, or Bhurtpore, or Kashmere?—Temple goes to England—'Never say Die'—Dost Mohammed and Candadar—Proposed Interview between the Dost and Sir John Lawrence—A wild-Goose Chase—Sir John Lawrence's Policy towards Afghanistan—Important Letters—Lessons for the Present and Future—Lord Canning agrees—Meeting in the Khyber—Picturesque Scene—Interviews with the Dost—Should English Officers be placed at Cabul?—'My verbal assurance pledges Government as much as a written article'—Terms of Treaty—Anecdotes of the Dost—His Truthfulness—How he made both Ends meet—Mission of the Lumsdens to Candahar—Strict Limitation of its Objects—Sir James Outram in Command in Persia—Sir Henry Lawrence becomes 'Chief Commissioner' of Oude—Death of Lady (Henry) Lawrence—Letter to Sir Henry with Hints for his new Work—The Sisyphæan Stone—Illness of Sir John Lawrence—Thinks of returning to England—'The little cloud'—Brewing of the Storm—The Chupatties—Causes and Symptoms of the Mutiny—Sir John Lawrence at Sealkote and Rawul Pindi—Bursting of the Storm 499

ILLUSTRATIONS TO VOL. I.

PORTRAIT	to face title-page
MAP OF THE PUNJAB AND ADJOINING COUNTRIES. 1849-1858	„ page 536