

It has been truly remarked that Sir William Hunter was the discoverer of India in as real a sense as those early navigators who carried home such wondrous tales of its riches and glory. He left an enduring mark on its administration, and inspired his countrymen with a sentiment of its potentialities and grandeur. Had he survived to take part in the late imperial pageant he would have seen the full result of his teachings. He would have heard Lord Curzon of Kedleston proclaiming to the representatives of one-sixth of the human race assembled at Delhi that 'to the majority of these millions the King's Government has given freedom from invasion and anarchy; to others it has guaranteed their rights and privileges; to others it opens ever-widening avenues of honourable employment; to the masses it dispenses mercy in the hour of suffering, and to all it endeavours to give equal justice, immunity from oppression, and the blessings of enlightenment and peace. To have won such a dominion is a great achievement, to hold it by fair and righteous dealing is a greater; to weld it by prudent statesmanship into a single and compact whole will be, and is, the greatest of all.'

A HISTORY OF BRITISH INDIA.

By SIR WILLIAM WILSON HUNTER, K.C.S.I.

VOL. I., with 4 Maps. 8vo. 18s.

TO THE OVERTHROW OF THE ENGLISH IN THE SPICE ARCHIPELAGO, 1623.

VOL. II. 8vo. 16s.

TO THE UNION OF THE OLD AND NEW COMPANIES UNDER THE EARL OF GODOLPHIN'S AWARD, 1708.

* * Messrs. Longmans & Co. have arranged for the continuation of the late Sir William Hunter's 'History of British India,' and have entrusted the work to Mr. P. E. Roberts, of Worcester College, Oxford, who for some time acted as private secretary to Sir William Hunter, and after his death edited and finished the second volume, which has just been published.

It has been determined to complete the 'History' down to the eve of the Mutiny (1856) in five more volumes, making, with those already written, seven in all. The next volume will, it is expected, cover the period from the Earl of Godolphin's Award (1708) to Lord Clive's acceptance on behalf of the East India Company of the Divani of Bengal in 1765.

PRESS NOTICES OF VOL. I.

TIMES.—'No one in our time or in the past has done so much as Sir William Hunter for the history of India. . . . Every page of the volume speaks of diligent research. Everywhere presides a sober, calm judgment.'

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—'Its lessons are told with a clearness of vision which has been given to no other historian of British India. We see the spirit of the times reflected in each phase of the secular struggle for the trade of India.'

SPECTATOR.—'No man in these islands was nearly so well fitted for the task as Sir William Hunter. . . . We may assert without fear of contradiction that he knows more of these facts than anyone who has ever lived.'

ACADEMY.—'We have good hopes that at last our national reproach is to be taken away . . . that at last we are to have a History of British India to which we can point as sound and adequate work, which will respect the demands made upon the historian by the modern ideals of history.'

DAILY NEWS.—'With the historic sense—which is as rare as the poetic sense—our author is gifted in an exceptional degree. . . . His History, if it fulfils the promise of its beginning, will prove to be the British Indian history which has never yet been written, and which we have been waiting for.'

PRESS NOTICES OF VOL. II.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.—'The dark and uncertain period of struggle with the Dutch and Portuguese has not previously been treated by historians with the fulness of exposition Sir William Hunter has devoted to it.'

SPECTATOR.—'. . . The pen dropped from Sir William's hand before he had quite finished chap. 8, and the work has been completed with the help of his materials by Mr. Roberts. That gentleman has done his part in a very adequate fashion, and it would be quite wrong to deny him his fair meed of praise.'

TIMES.—'The lights and shades of the great picture are drawn with a master's hand. . . . There are few things more difficult than that of completing a work interrupted by its author's death. That the introduction as well as the concluding pages of this volume should preserve the spirit which animates the rest of the narrative proves that Mr. Roberts possesses many of the essentials of the historian's equipment.'

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—'A posthumous work bespeaks the critic's tenderest consideration, for its author is no longer at hand to meet animadversion or enjoy applause. The second volume of Sir William Hunter's "History of British India" stands in no need of indulgence on that score, for it betrays no sign of incompleteness, although he was taken from the scene of so much strenuous labour before the first stage in his vast design had been accomplished.'

LIFE OF SIR WM. WILSON HUNTER,

K.C.S.I., M.A., LL.D.

A VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL ASIATIC SOCIETY, ETC.

Author of 'The Annals of Rural Bengal,' 'The Old Missionary,'
'A History of British India,' &c.

By FRANCIS HENRY SKRINE, F.S.S.

LATE H.M. INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.—'A striking picture of a remarkable career.'

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—'A very interesting Life, the writing of which has evidently been to Mr. Skrine a labour of love.'

MORNING POST.—'Early in life it was Sir W. W. Hunter's ambition, in his own words, "to obtain a hearing for India in Europe." Mr. Skrine in this volume describes his success.'

DAILY NEWS.—'Sir William Hunter is shown to us as a journalist, an historian, an official of the Government of India, and in his private life; and the impression left when one puts down the book is that Mr. Skrine has done his work well.'

SPECTATOR.—'No one can read this absorbing book without a better appreciation of the fine qualities of the sturdy Scotsman who was not only our most sympathetic writer on Indian subjects, but was also a vivid personality and every inch a man.'

TIMES.—'It is eminently fitting that the life of the Anglo-Indian who has done more than any other man to bring home to his countrymen the careers of the great Anglo-Indians who have gone before should itself be adequately commemorated.'

DAILY CHRONICLE.—'To write the history of such a life required a knowledge of India to appreciate its value, and an independent mind to judge between Hunter and his official superiors. These qualities Mr. Skrine supplies in the superlative degree, and his biography is a model of sympathetic insight joined to sanity of judgment.'

INDIA.—'We welcome very cordially Mr. Skrine's ample and effective biography of the late Sir William Hunter. Fortunately, there has been no undue delay in the just commemoration of a most distinguished and many-sided public servant, who has impressed his mark on the relations between England and India, as well as upon Indian administration. "The story is indeed," as Mr. Skrine says, "well worth telling."'

THE ANNALS OF RURAL BENGAL.

NEW, REVISED, AND CHEAPER EDITION (THE SEVENTH).

Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

'It is hard to over-estimate the importance of a work whose author succeeds in fascinating us with a subject so generally regarded as unattractive, and who, on questions of grave importance to the future destiny of India, gives the results of wide research and exceptional opportunities of personal study, in a bright, lucid, forcible narrative, rising on occasion to eloquence.'—TIMES.

'Mr. Hunter, in a word, has applied the philosophic method of writing history to a new field. . . The grace and ease, and steady flow of the writing almost make us forget, when reading, the surpassing severity and value of the author's labours.'—FORTNIGHTLY REVIEW.

(London: Smith, Elder, & Co.)

ORISSA:

THE VICISSITUDES OF AN INDIAN PROVINCE UNDER NATIVE AND BRITISH RULE.

Being the Second and Third Volumes of 'Annals of Rural Bengal.'

TWO VOLS. DEMY 8vo. WITH MAP AND STEEL ENGRAVINGS. 32s.

'The mature and laborious work of a man who has devoted the whole power of his mind, first to the practical duties of his profession as an Indian civilian, and next to the study of all that relates to or can illustrate it. As long as Indian civilians write books like this—as long as they interest themselves so passionately in their work, and feel so keenly its connection with nearly every subject which can occupy serious thought—the English rule will not only last, but will prosper, and make its subjects prosper too.'—PALL MALL GAZETTE.

'A great subject worthily handled. He writes with great knowledge, great sympathy with the Indian people, a keen and quick appreciation of all that is striking and romantic in their history and character, and with a flowing and picturesque style, which carries the reader lightly over ground which, in less skilful hands, might seem tedious beyond endurance.'—SATURDAY REVIEW.

(London: Smith, Elder, & Co.)

A LIFE OF THE EARL OF MAYO,

FOURTH VICEROY OF INDIA.

From Official and Family Documents.

SECOND EDITION. TWO VOLS. DEMY 8vo, 24s.

'The picture presented to us of the late Lord Mayo is a fair and noble one, and worthy of the much lamented original.'—EDINBURGH REVIEW.

'This masterly work has two great recommendations: it is the vividly and faithfully told narrative of the life of a man; and it contains a lucid and comprehensive history of recent administration in India.'—WORLD.

(London: Smith, Elder, & Co.)

THE EARL OF MAYO.

(Rulers of India Series.)

THIRD THOUSAND. ONE VOL. 2s. 6d.

'A brief but admirable biography.'—TIMES.

'The world is indebted to the author for a fit and attractive record of what was eminently a noble life.'—ACADEMY.

(Oxford and London: The Clarendon Press)

THE INDIAN EMPIRE:

ITS HISTORY, PEOPLE, AND PRODUCTS.

THIRD AND STANDARD EDITION. WITH MAP. Demy 8vo. 28s.

'Never before has the whole subject of Indian history been so adequately and so intelligibly treated.'—PALL MALL

'A compact body of information arranged and classified on correct principles.'—ACADEMY.

'A model of combined lucidity, conciseness, and comprehensiveness.'—ECONOMIST.

(London: Smith, Elder, & Co.)

THE IMPERIAL GAZETTEER OF INDIA.

SECOND EDITION. FOURTEEN VOLS.

(Out of print.)

'The publication of the "Imperial Gazetteer of India" marks the completion of the largest national enterprise in statistics which has ever been undertaken. . . . The volumes before us form a complete account of the country, its geography, topography, ethnology, commerce, and products. . . . It is one of the grandest works of administrative statistics which have ever been issued by any nation.'—TIMES. (Two notices.)

'Dr. Hunter has rendered to the Indian Government and to English people generally the highest service a public servant could achieve.'—ATHENÆUM.

(London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co., Limited.)

THE INDIAN MUSALMANS.

THIRD EDITION.

(Out of print.)

(London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co., Limited.)

A STATISTICAL ACCOUNT OF BENGAL AND ASSAM.

IN TWENTY-TWO VOLS.

(Out of print.)

'Un ensemble d'efforts digne d'une grande nation, et comme aucune autre n'en a fait jusqu'ici de semblable pour son empire colonial.'—REVUE ORIENTALE.

'Twenty volumes of material, collected under the most favourable auspices, are built up under his hands into a vast but accessible storehouse of invaluable facts. Invaluable to the statesman, the administrator, and the historian, they are no less interesting to the general reader. Mr. Hunter undoubtedly has the faculty of making the dry bones of statistics live. But they also contain matter which may be regarded as the fountain of the yet unwritten history of Bengal. They are a guide for administrative action now. They also seem to be the point of a new departure for the future.'—NINETEENTH CENTURY.

(London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co., Limited.)

FAMINE ASPECTS OF BENGAL DISTRICTS.

SECOND EDITION.

(Out of print.)

'One of the boldest efforts yet made by statistical science. . . . In this work he has laid down the basis of a system by which he may fairly claim that scarcity in Bengal has been reduced to an affair of calm administrative calculation.'—DAILY NEWS.

(London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co., Limited.)

A LIFE OF BRIAN HOUGHTON HODGSON.

BRITISH RESIDENT AT THE COURT OF NEPAL.

14s.

'In this life of a great Indian civilian and scholar, Sir William Wilson Hunter has produced a work which might serve as a model for biographies of the kind.'—TIMES.

'A revelation of a remarkable and most interesting personality. A charming book.'

SCOTSMAN.
'Gracefully and tenderly written . . . The story of Brian Hodgson is not only of interest to the man of affairs, the scholar, and the student of science, but it is a tale which appeals to all who can notice and appreciate genuine human qualities.'—ATHENS JOURNAL.

(London: John Murray.)

---

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE INDIAN PEOPLES.

TWENTY-SECOND EDITION, EIGHTY-SIXTH THOUSAND.

3s. 6d. (Clarendon Press.)

'By far the best manual of Indian History that has hitherto been published.'

TIMES OF INDIA.

---

A LIFE OF THE MARQUESS OF DALHOUSIE.

SEVENTH THOUSAND. 2s. 6d. (Clarendon Press.)

'A brilliantly written account of the life and work of that able ruler of men, the Marquis of Dalhousie.'—ASIATIC QUARTERLY REVIEW.

---

BOMBAY, 1835 TO 1890.

A STUDY IN INDIAN ADMINISTRATION.

15s. (Henry Frowde.)

'Few living writers have done so much as Sir William Hunter to make British India and its government intelligible to English readers.'—TIMES.

---

THE OLD MISSIONARY.

TWENTY-FIRST THOUSAND.

ÉDITION DE LUXE. ILLUSTRATED BY GENERAL SIR CHARLES D'O'LYLY,
BART. 2s. 6d. (Henry Frowde).

Also a SMALLER EDITION, square 16mo., paper covers, 1s. net.

'A tale of tender pathos which it is difficult to read without tears.'—SPECTATOR.

'A descriptive study analogous to some of M. Paul Bourget's "Pastels." Perhaps the best of these, Un Saint, will be recalled to the memory of its readers by Sir William Hunter's "Old Missionary."—TIMES.

THE THACKERAYS IN INDIA.

AND SOME CALCUTTA GRAVES.

SIXTH THOUSAND. 2s. 6d. (Henry Frowde.)

'It is a grand record, and Sir William tells it in the picturesque language and with the subtle humour and dignified pathos which we have learned to expect from the author.'

as it was kept by the previous native dynasties, and deals directly with the cultivators. The Government is the landlord itself, and it is necessary to see how it has behaved to its tenants. Bengal forms the most typical representative of the former system, and Madras is usually taken as the most typical representative of the latter. But even in Madras, the British rulers have made over a large part of their territory (paying about one-eighth of the land revenue) to private proprietors; and my remarks will be confined to the remaining seven-eighths, which remain in the hands of the Government. The population has here also increased, and the people have been forced back upon inferior soils. The figures have been worked out only for the past quarter of a century—that is, from 1853 to 1878. They show the following results. In 1853 the general population was estimated at twenty-two millions; in 1878, at thirty-one and a-half millions, showing an increase of 43 per cent., or nearly one-half. The cultivated land, held by husbandmen direct from the State, had increased from twelve to twenty millions of acres, or 66 per cent., exactly two-thirds. The area of tillage had, therefore, not only kept pace with the increase of population, but had extended at a rate of 50 per cent. more rapidly. This resulted partly from the fact that the inferior lands, now reclaimed, could not support so large an average of people as the superior lands which were already in cultivation at the commencement of the period. The Government recognised this, and has accordingly increased its rental only from three millions to three-and-four-fifth millions sterling; being only 26 per cent., or one-fourth, while the area of cultivation has increased by 66 per cent. The Government, in fact, has reduced its average rental over the total area of cultivation from 5*s.* an acre in 1853 to 3*s.* 10*d.* an acre in 1878, or over 23 per cent., say one-fourth. According to the ordinary theory of rent, rates should have risen enormously during that period; and they have risen enormously wherever the land is held by private proprietors. As regards the Madras Presidency, therefore, the facts may be recapitulated thus. During the twenty-five years the area of cultivation has increased by 66 per cent., or two-thirds; the population by 43 per cent., or nearly one-half; and the Government rental by only 26 per cent., or one-fourth; while the average rates of each summer. In some districts Government has land of its own which it could thus plant ; in others it is only a sleeping partner in the soil. The system would have to be considerably organized on a legislative basis, but Mr. Hume, the highest authority on such a subject, declares the system perfectly practicable. For the details I refer the reader to his valuable pamphlet on 'Agricultural Reform in India.' In Switzerland, I found that the occupiers of allmends, or communal lands, have at least in some cantons to keep up a certain number of trees. It seems a fair question whether plantations ought not in many parts of India to be now made an incident of the land tenure ; they would go far to solve the two fundamental difficulties of Indian agriculture—the loss of cattle, and the want of manure.

Meanwhile, the natives set an increasing value on manure. The great cities are being converted from centres of disease into sources of food supply. For a time, caste prejudices stood in the way of utilising the night-soil. 'Five years ago,' writes the Secretary to the Poona Municipality, 'agriculturists would not touch the poudrette when prepared, and could not be induced to take it away at even a nominal charge. At present the out-turn of manure is not enough to keep pace with the demand, and the peasants buy it up from four to six months in advance.' At Amritsar, in the Punjab, 30,000 donkey loads were sold in one year. A great margin still exists for economy, both in the towns and villages ; but the husbandman is becoming more alive to the utilisation of every source of manure, and his prejudices are gradually giving way under the stern pressure of facts.

The third impediment to improved agriculture in India is the want of water. Mr. Caird, the chief English authority who has inquired into the subject, believes that if only one-third of the cultivated area were irrigated India would be secure against famine. At any rate, an extension of irrigation would alone suffice to raise the food supply by more than  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. during many years. Since India passed to the Crown, great progress has been made in this direction. Money has been invested by millions of pounds ; 200 millions of acres are now under cultivation ; and in the five British provinces which require it most 28 per cent. of the area, or say one-third, is
