

6/- NET

4447

SERVANTS OF INDIA SOCIETY'S LIBRARY, POONA 4.

FOR INTERNAL CIRCULATION

To be returned on or before the last date stamped below

23 FEB 1963

Dhananjayrao Gadgil Library

GIPE-PUNE-004447

FINANCIAL REFORM

MACMILLAN AND CO., LIMITED

LONDON · BOMBAY · CALCUTTA · MADRAS
MELBOURNE

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

NEW YORK · BOSTON · CHICAGO
DALLAS · SAN FRANCISCO

THE MACMILLAN CO. OF CANADA, LTD.

TORONTO

FINANCIAL REFORM

BY

HENRY HIGGS, C.B.

MACMILLAN AND CO., LIMITED
ST. MARTIN'S STREET, LONDON

1924

Preface

THIS little book consists in the main of four lectures delivered to the Institute of Bankers in London at the end of 1923. An Introduction and a Conclusion have been added.

The Journal of the Institute for December, January, and February last contains a shorthand report of the lectures. The courtesy of the Council has permitted this report to be used in compliance with requests that the lectures should be made available in collected form.

Brevity and a certain levity were called for in addressing an audience composed for the most part of junior bank clerks who had just finished a day's work. With the additional matter now included the volume may be regarded as a political tract, using the word "political" to indicate what pertains to the art and science of government, and not to the art of winning elections and obtaining or retaining political power.

Contents

	PAGE
INTRODUCTION - - - - -	I
Urgent necessity for Financial Reform—Changed conditions call for organic reform approaching more nearly to ideal finance, especially in respect to Justice in Taxation—Our revenue system, with its mixture of methods and motives, a "hit or miss affair"—Direct taxation, based upon capacity to pay, as evidenced by net income and net capital, the ideal—Defects of present system—"Broaden the basis of taxation" not a remedy—Agriculture and taxation—Capital levy—Pitt and Peel on indirect taxation.
LECTURE I. - - - - -	9
Special importance of the subject to the banking community—The responsibility of the Cabinet and especially of the Chancellor of the Exchequer—His powers and limitations—Different views as to his proper functions—Examples from other countries—Defects of our present system of framing the budget—Remedies discussed—Need for broad scientific treatment of finance with greater regard to justice, efficiency, and its effect upon Trade, Industry, and Commerce.
LECTURE II. - - - - -	26
The House of Commons and Finance—Evolution of its power of control—Exercise of this power impaired by lack of knowledge, opportunity and will—Control by the Civil Service, especially the Treasury and the Audit Office—Defects of this control—The Geddes and Anderson Committees.
LECTURE III. - - - - -	44
The Chancellor and City advice—Diminished prestige of representative government throughout Europe—Our revenue system—its blunderbuss character—History of taxation reveals a continuous groping after justice—Method of trial and error—capacity to pay the ultimate criterion of Justice—Modes of taxation considered—Objections to indirect taxation—High rates and low yields, Estate Duty criticised—Should Capital be taxed?—Capital Levy considered—Proposed simplification of taxation, conducive to justice, certainty, economy, and efficiency—Objections considered.

CONTENTS

	PAGE
LECTURE IV. - - - - -	62
The Estimates Committee—Currency and Credit—Gladstone on ideal currency—Stability of purchasing power the ideal—Evils of a depreciating currency—Government and the Money Market—Overdrafts, National Saving Certificates, Treasury Bills, Exchequer Bonds and Public Debts—Issue of Loans—Inflation and Deflation—Professor Irving Fisher's proposals—State regulation of credit—exaggerated claims made on its behalf—An intelligent interest in public finance part of the duty of every citizen.
CONCLUSION - - - - -	81
More light needed by the Cabinet, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the House of Commons, the Civil Service and the public at large—Lincoln and the post-war finance of the United States—Reforms needed in House of Commons organisation and procedure—Legislation by reference in tax matters condemned—The Civil Service and its need for a Staff College—"Taxation; the people's business"—Mr. Mellon and President Coolidge on this subject—Need for proper provision for teaching and study of Finance in our Universities.	