TWELVE ENGLISH STATESMEN.

* * * A Series of Short Biographies, not designed to be a complete roll of famous Statesmen, but to present in historic order the lives and work of those leading actors in our affairs who by their direct influence have left an abiding mark on the policy, the institutions, and the position of Great Britain among States.

WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR. By EDWARD A. FREEMAN, D.C.L., LL.D., late Regius Professor of Modern History in the University of Oxford.

TIMES:—"Gives with great picturesqueness . . . the dramatic incidents of a memorable career far removed from our times and our manner of thinking."

HENRY II. By Mrs. J. R. GREEN.

TIMES:—"It is delightfully real and readable, and in spite of severe compression has the charm of a mediæval romance."

EDWARD I. By Professor TOUT.

HENRY VII. By JAMES GAIRDNER.

ATHENÆUM:—"The best account of Henry VII. that has yet appeared."

CARDINAL WOLSEY. By Bishop CREIGHTON, D.D., late Dixie Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the University of Cambridge.

SATURDAY REVIEW:—"Is exactly what one of a series of short biographies of English Statesmen ought to be."

ELIZABETH. By E. S. BEESLY, M.A., late Professor of Modern History, University College, London.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE:—"Able, penetrating, and independent, an eminently satisfactory piece of work."

OLIVER CROMWELL. By FREDERIC HARRISON.

TIMES:—"Gives a wonderfully vivid picture of events."

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE:—"A model biography of its kind."

WILLIAM III. By H. D. TRAILL.

CAMBRIDGE REVIEW:—"Mr. Traill has discharged a difficult task well, and has thoroughly succeeded."

WALPOLE. By JOHN MORLEY.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE:—"It deserves to be read, not only as the work of one of the most prominent politicians of the day, but for its intrinsic merits. It is a clever, thoughtful, and interesting biography."

WORLD:—"This admirable little book is in style, arrangement, and proportion the model of what history on such a scale should be."

CHATHAM. By JOHN MORLEY.

[In the Press.]

PITT. By Lord ROSEBERY.

TIMES:—"Brilliant and fascinating. Not only a luminous estimate of Pitt's character and policy, it is also a brilliant gallery of portraits."

PEEL. By J. R. THURSFIELD, M.A., late Fellow of Jesus College, Oxford.

DAILY NEWS:—"A model of what such a book should be. We can give it no higher praise than to say that it is worthy to rank with Mr. John Morley's Walpole in the same series."
