REVENUE SETTLEMENT, SURVEY, LAND
RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE.

Dated the 14th October 1907.

SIR,

I have the honour to report on the administration of India Act X of 1904 in the Madras Presidency for the period of 15 months ending on the 30th June last.

2. Administration and tours.—I held the office of Registrar throughout the year, except for one month when I was on privilege leave and my Deputy, Mr. K. Vijayaraghava Chariyar, was in charge of my office. Mr. Vijayaraghava Chariyar was on special duty as my Assistant throughout the period under report. I spent on an average 16 days per month in camp and my Deputy put in nearly 20 days per month. The average touring per month of the Inspectors was nearly 25 days.

3. Societies.—The year began with 27 societies, of which one was central, 9 were urban and 17 were rural. Thirty-six new societies were registered during the year, of which 12 were urban and 24 were rural. As no societies were dissolved or wound up, the number on the last day was 63. Out of these, five had not got into full working order before the end of the year. The transactions of the remaining 58 are embodied in the accompanying statements. Of the 63 societies on the last day, 41 were rural, all being cash societies; 21 were urban, of which 11 were cash, two were productive and 8 were distributive societies. The remaining one society was the Central Bank. It is significant that every one of the 24 rural (cash) societies, registered during the year, accepted the principle of unlimited liability; and even of the twelve urban societies started, two were organized on the basis of unlimited liability. The apprehension at one time entertained that people will be generally very unwilling to accept unlimited liability has proved groundless.

4. Members.—The total number of members of all societies rose from 2,733 at the commencement of the year to 6,439 at its close. The changes were mostly on account of the admission of new members, the voluntary withdrawal at times of old members and deaths. There were also six expulsions. The expulsions were almost wholly due to suits filed by the societies against defaulters. It was obviously undesirable to keep on as a member of a co-operative society a man who drove it to go to court against him.

5. Share capital.—The partiality in favour of a paid-up share capital, referred to by me in paragraph 7 of my last report, has continued. Of the 58 societies whose transactions are covered by the present report, 43 had a paid-up share capital. In this respect, there is no difference between cash societies and non-cash societies, nor is there any difference between central, urban or rural societies. The unlimited liability societies display as pronounced a desire for a paid-up share capital as the limited liability ones. The paid-up share capital of all societies rose from Rs. 31,448 to Rs. 75,875.

6. Deposits.—The Act nowhere says that deposits can be put in only by members, and societies generally took deposits as freely from non-members as from members; but the latter far exceeded the former. The following figures show the transactions:—

	Held at the beginning.	Received.	Paid off.	Held at the close.
	RS.	RS.	RS.	RS.
By members .. .. .	48,532	2,48,299	1,33,931	1,62,900
By non-members .. .. .	7,706	96,943	25,252	79,397
Total ..	56,238	3,45,242	1,59,183	2,42,297

The interest paid by societies on deposits ranged from 3 to 9 per cent. per annum. The average interest paid may be taken to be between 6 and 7 per cent. Except in the case of two rural societies (which gave higher interest to members than to non-members) no distinction was made in this matter between members and non-members.

7. Other borrowings.—The societies raised funds also from other sources. Government gave loans aggregating to Rs. 21,800: a sum of Rs. 3,050 was disbursed out of the grant by Sir D. M. Hamilton and a sum of Rs. 34,452 was raised from miscellaneous sources—mostly in trading societies. The chief source of supply next to deposits and share capital was the Madras Central Bank, which issued during the year loans aggregating to Rs. 80,900. The Central Bank loans were given to all societies which required funds and on whose behalf recommendations were made by me. So far, 31 societies received Central Bank loans during the year. No distinction was made in this matter between rural and urban societies or between cash and non-cash societies or between limited and unlimited liability societies. The Central Bank charged  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum on the loans issued by it. The Government loans and the loans issued from Sir D. M. Hamilton's fund bore no interest during the year.

8. Sources of supply.—One of the most satisfactory features of the co-operative movement is the ease with which societies were generally able to finance themselves. The following figures show how much of the working capital was contributed by members, by Government, by other societies and by non-members:—

Amount due by societies.
To members as share capital and as deposits.	To Government.	To other societies.	To non-members.	Total.
RS. 2,38,774 or 54 per cent.	RS. 36,200 or 8 per cent.	RS. 51,500 or 18 per cent.	RS. 87,791 or 20 per cent.	RS. 4,44,265 or 100 per cent.

Thus more than half the working capital was derived from the members themselves. This was due to the fact that societies have generally been joined by the well-to-do people quite as readily as by the poor. This is a healthy sign. Though a co-operative society is primarily an association of borrowers, the adhesion of the well-to-do men of a place not only brings in funds but it inspires public confidence and procures business capacity for the management.

9. Loans to members.—At the commencement of the year, there were 1,164 loans aggregating to Rs. 88,493 pending against members. During the year, 4,194 loans aggregating to Rs. 3,85,692 were issued. The repayments by members amounted to Rs. 1,52,989. The number and amount of loans outstanding against members on the last day of the year were 3,471 and Rs. 3,21,196 respectively. Societies have generally been prompt in disposing of loan applications. It was seldom that loans were refused on account of want of funds. The principle inculcated—and I am glad to say mostly followed—was that, when funds were not forthcoming locally to an adequate extent, the Central Bank should be applied to for help.

10. The loans issued to members were mostly of small sums. Out of the 4,194 loans issued during the year, 3,306 were of sums not exceeding Rs. 100. The security taken for loans was mostly the joint and several responsibility of one or two other members standing as sureties for the borrower. Of the total of 4,194 loans, 2,700 were suretyship loans. Land mortgage loans came next in importance, but neither the number of these loans nor the amount disbursed came up to even one-half of that of suretyship loans. In regard to the purposes for which loans were disbursed, I am glad to be able to say that the fear at one time felt that the increased facilities of borrowing opened out might lead to habits of extravagance, was falsified. The following figures are instructive :—

	RS.
(1) Loans issued for productive purposes ... ..	2,53,102
(2) " " paying off prior debts ... ..	1,17,354
(3) " " non-productive purposes ... ..	15,236
Total ...	3,85,692

The loans were mostly for short periods ; for 3,670 (out of the 4,174) loans were for periods not exceeding one year.

11. The rates of interest charged on loans varied from  $6\frac{1}{4}$  to 11 per cent. per annum. The average rate was 9 per cent. A slight tendency was manifest towards reduction by societies of the rates of interest charged by them. The Tirur and Kilacheri rural societies, the first two societies started under the Act, reduced their rates during the year from  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pies to  $1\frac{1}{4}$  pies per rupee per mensem.

12. Defaulting members.—Another satisfactory feature was the marked punctuality with which members repaid the moneys due by them to their societies. In the few cases in which coercive action was necessary, the societies promptly went to court and recovered the moneys due to them. Nine societies filed 22 suits in the civil courts. In four cases, the claims were satisfied prior to decree and in 15 cases decrees were obtained within the year, leaving a balance of only three suits pending at the end of the year. Nor was the execution of decrees less prompt than the disposal of suits. Including a decree obtained in the previous year, the number for execution was 16, out of which seven were completely executed and claims satisfied within the year. And most of the remaining nine decrees have been similarly executed since the close of the year. It is a source of gratification that these societies are so well able to take care of themselves. Not only did they finance themselves without much difficulty, but they held their own in the civil courts on the occasions on which they had to go to those courts. The feeling that these societies would be shipwrecked if they were permitted to go to court, has, like so many other apprehensions in regard to the co-operative movement, turned out groundless.

13. Productive and distributive societies.—The two productive societies were the Weavers' Union at Conjeeveram and the Tailors' Union at Triplicane. The Weavers' Union has been organised on the basis of unlimited liability. It has no paid up share capital and is financed wholly by funds lent by the Madras Central Bank. The union purchases raw materials and sells the same to the members. The finished products are repurchased from the members at rates fixed from time to time and then sold by the union. Out of the total net profits, one-half goes to the Reserve Fund, one-eighth to the Weaver panchayatdars as honoraria and the remaining three-eighths is divided among the members rateably to the volume of the finished products given in by them during the year. The methods are all right and the union worked at a net profit during the year. The weak point is the untrustworthy character of the weavers themselves. They go to the middle men when trade is brisk and come to the Union when it is slack. They are a hopeless lot and I cannot help feeling that the time and energy spent in reclaiming them is being spent in vain.

The Tailoring Union looks more promising, but it is too early to judge. It is organised on the basis of limited liability and the members are slowly building up a share capital. In other respects, its methods are the same as those of the Weavers' Union. The distributive societies all did very well. Coimbatore purchased stores for nearly Rs. 35,000 and sold for nearly Rs. 33,000. Madura purchased for nearly Rs. 34,000 and sold for over Rs. 25,000. Triplicane continued to maintain the lead. It purchased stores for over a lac and three quarters and sold for over a lac and seventy thousand. All the distributive societies follow closely the model of the Co-operative Trading Societies of England.

14. Custody of funds.—Every society was allowed one or more public accounts with the nearest post office which did banking business. The custody of funds presented no difficulty worth mentioning for the reason that the well-to-do classes nowhere kept aloof from the movement and safe men were therefore generally available to perform the duties of Treasurer without remuneration.

15. Receipts and disbursements.—The receipts and disbursements of all societies were as shown below :—

	RS.		RS.
Receipts ... ..	9,72,525	Disbursements ... ..	9,56,005
Opening balance ... ..	13,639	Closing balance ... ..	30,159
Total ...	9,86,164	Total ...	9,86,164

Every one of the older societies developed business during the year. In many villages the Co-operative banks have practically displaced the individual lender and in some of the towns they have begun to take the lead.

16. Profits.—The societies were on the whole managed with care. Out of the 58 societies reported on by me, 56 worked at an aggregate net profit of Rs. 17,860. The only two societies which worked at a loss, viz., the Berhampore Bank and the Tenali Stores, so worked for special reasons which were to a considerable extent inevitable. I have no doubt that the loss of Rs. 115 incurred by these two societies will be more than made good in 1907–1908. The Board will remember that, during 1905–1906, two societies (the Tanjore Town Bank and the Conjeeveram Weavers' Union) worked at a loss of Rs. 217. I am glad to be able to report that these two societies not only made good the deficiency but have earned a fair net profit besides.

17. Reserve Funds.—The Reserve Funds of all societies rose from Rs. 689 at the commencement of the year to Rs. 3,369 at its close. The increase was due to the payments made to the credit of their Reserves by all societies during the year out of their net profits of 1905–1906. It is expected that, out of the net profits of the year under report, more than Rs. 10,000 will go to the Reserves. It is the rule with every society to keep its Reserve Fund quite separate from its General Fund. The Reserve Fund is either put into the Postal Savings' Bank or invested in the Madras Central Bank. It cannot be used for being lent to members. It cannot be drawn upon by any society without my previous sanction.

18. Audit and inspection.—The audit work of all societies was kept going throughout the year. The Inspectors worked hard and worked well. The figures adopted for this report are all audited figures. I am glad to be in a position to assure Government that the audit work is completely current. I trust that the audit staff will in due course be strengthened as suggested by me in a separate communication. The general inspection work fell on me and my Deputy Collector. Mr. Vijayaraghava Chariar was of great assistance to me, not only in organising new societies but also in keeping on correct lines the older ones.

19. Resources.—I have already, in paragraph 8 supra, dealt with this question. I think that our co-operative societies have obtained access to the general money market. It was because I felt that, that I recommended to Government to withdraw the notification regarding the grant of Government loans. As, however, Government were not pleased to agree with me completely, I do not presume to say anything further on the subject.

20. Managing bodies.—The managing bodies of societies have been satisfactory. The correct kind of men have mostly come forward and taken up the work. Considering the large volume of practically unpaid labour involved in the management of these societies, it is creditable that it has been done and done so well. The attendance at general and committee meetings was good. Out of 186 general and 1,549 committee meetings held during the year, only 8 of the former and 71 of the latter broke up for want of quorum or other cause.

21. Disputes and litigation.— I have already, in paragraph 12 supra, mentioned that 22 suits were filed by nine societies in the civil courts against defaulters. As in no case did any defaulter dispute the claim made, I hardly think that I shall be justified in calling these things disputes. There was one case, however, of a different character. An applicant for membership in the Triplicane Society, feeling aggrieved by the order of the Directors refusing him admission, filed a suit against the society claiming admission. The suit was of course dismissed. I may add that societies have so far shown that they are well able to settle their own disputes locally and I have made it my policy to discourage references to me.

22. Acts, rules and by-laws.—In regard to the Act, I have to say, firstly, that the distinction between urban and rural societies has so far served no useful purpose, and, secondly, that the absence of any provision to facilitate the registration of 'Nidhis' is felt by most people as a mistake. The Nidhis, however, have been kinder to the co-operative movement than the movement has been to them. The Madura Nidhi helped the local co-operative society with a loan and the Nellore Nidhi has, since the close of the year under report, followed suit.

23. The question of rules under the Act received a great deal of consideration during the year and a complete set of rules has been issued by Government since its close.

24. In regard to by-laws, the policy of allowing societies the utmost latitude in framing their constitution has been persisted in with most advantageous results.

25. Attitude of the public.—The attitude of the public, including that of the much maligned money-lender, has been undoubtedly favourable. Wherever I went I was received with enthusiasm; and but for my anxiety to proceed cautiously and slowly as I picked up experience, I could have started a great many more societies. In regard to official assistance, I generally refrained from asking for any. With such a large volume of non-official help and enthusiasm available, it would have been as unwise, as it would have been needless, to ask for the intervention of Collectors and Divisional-officers, and I most earnestly advise the continuance of this policy.

26. Conclusion.—There can be no doubt that co-operative societies have come to stay, so far as the Madras Presidency—about which alone I am competent to speak—is concerned. We have now 63 societies working in 18 districts. There can be no difficulty in starting a great many more, in view to the large number of applications for fresh societies on hand. It would, however, be a mistake to rush the registration of new societies. A comparatively small number of societies able to take care of themselves will in the end ensure a greater—because a more certain—volume of progress than a larger number requiring constant outside help to keep them going. As mentioned by me in more than one place, the societies we have now on hand have so far shown marked ability to take care of themselves. Every successful society will be a centre from which the co-operative idea will radiate all round. The movement of course requires careful watching, but it requires equally careful abstinence from interference with its natural development.

27. I have, in drafting this report, followed the lines laid down by the last Simla Conference. The information required by the Government of India is furnished in the Imperial Statements I to IV in Appendix A. The more detailed information required for administrative purposes is given in the Provincial Statements I to XV which form Appendix B.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

P. RAJAGOPALA CHARI,

(a) Several of the pending decrees have been executed and claims satisfied since the close of the year.

11th November 1907.

(Signed) R. RAMACHANDRA RAO,
Registrar.

Resolution—No. 380, dated 19th November 1907.

The report received from the Registrar of Co-operative Credit Societies on the working of India Act X of 1904 in the Madras Presidency during the fifteen months ending 30th June 1907 will be submitted to Government with reference to paragraph 1 of G.O., No. 1281, Revenue, dated 28th May 1907 and G.O., No. 1790, Revenue, dated 17th July 1907.

2. The Board regrets the delay in the submission of the report which is mainly due to its late receipt from the Registrar. The delay on the part of the Registrar was presumably due to the adoption of audited figures. Proposals to strengthen the inspecting staff so as to expedite in future the process of audit will be submitted to Government shortly.

3. Number of societies.—In addition to the twenty-seven societies which were in existence on the 31st March 1906, thirty-six societies were newly registered during the period under report, twenty-four of them being rural and twelve urban. All the rural societies and two urban societies were organised on the basis of unlimited liability and the remaining ten urban societies on a limited liability basis. Twenty-five societies were started in districts in which similar institutions were already in existence, while the remaining eleven societies were organised for the first time in the districts noted in the margin. No societies have yet been started in the districts of Vizagapatam, Gódvári, Malabar, South Canara, Anjengo and the Nilgiris; the Registrar's attention will be drawn to this matter and he will be requested to extend his operations, as opportunity arises, to these districts.

4. Members.—The aggregate number of members rose from 2,733 at the end of the previous year to 6,439 at the end of the year under report. Thirty-one per cent. of the members were agriculturists, pure and simple, and 32 per cent. non-agriculturists; the remaining 37 per cent. derived their income partly from agriculture and partly from other sources.

5. Finance—(i) Share-capital.—Of the fifty-eight societies which conducted their operations during the year forty-three societies—thirty rural and thirteen urban—had a paid-up share-capital aggregating Rs. 75,875 at the end of the year.

(ii) Deposits.—Forty-three out of the fifty-eight societies borrowed an aggregatesum of Rs. 3,45,242 by way of deposits, of which Rs. 1,59,183 were repaid during the year, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 2,42,297 as against Rupces 56,238 * at the end of the preceding year.

More than two-thirds of the deposits were contributed by members, the bulk of them being of the nature of fixed deposits. According to the by-laws of the various societies the interest on fixed deposits ranged from 5 to 9 per cent. and was invariably paid in cash, while the interest on current deposits in the rare cases in which such deposits were received was 3 per cent.

(iii) Loans from Government.—Loans amounting to Rs. 21,800 were disbursed by Government to seventeen rural societies during the year. The deposits of the members, together with the share-capital paid up by them, were either equal to or greater than the amount lent to them by Government except in the case of the Damal Agricultural Bank and the Gudur Rural Credit Society where the aggregate amount of deposits and share-capital fell short of the borrowings by Rs. 375 and Rs. 50 respectively. The Registrar is requested to move these societies to make good the deficiency at an early date.

(iv) Loans paid out of Sir D. M. Hamilton's allotment.—Loans amounting to Rs. 3,050 were disbursed out of this fund to nine rural societies.

(v) Loans from other Co-operative Credit Societies.—Loans aggregating Rupces 80,000 and Rs. 1,000 were granted during the year by the Madras Central Urban Bank and the Conjeeveram Urban Bank respectively. to other Co-operative Credit Societies established under the Act. Detailed statistics of loans similar to those embodied in Enclosure E to Statement VII of the Administration Report for the previous year have not been furnished by the Registrar for the year under review. He is requested to see that the omission does not recur.

(vi) Other borrowings.—Particulars of other borrowings are given in the foot-notes to column 26 of Statement V in Appendix B to the Registrar's report. Eight societies raised loans under this head, the bulk of the loan amount having been raised by the distributive societies of Triplicane and Madura. The net amount outstanding against these societies at the end of the year was Rs. 3,944 as against Rs. 1,358 at the end of the previous year.

In this connection the Board observes that most societies have, in consonance with the provisions of section 9 of Act X of 1904 (India), enacted by-laws limiting their borrowing powers, but the report contains no information as to whether this limit has been exceeded in any instance and, if so, what action has been taken to remedy the irregularity. The omission should be supplied.

6. Loans to members.—In 2,700 cases involving an aggregate sum of Rs. 2,34,447 loans were granted on the joint and several responsibility of the borrower and one or more other members standing as sureties. In 122 cases loans aggregating Rs. 13,052 were granted on the simple bond of the borrower without any collateral security or surety. In the remaining 1,372 cases involving an aggregate sum of Rs. 1,38,193 the loans were granted mostly on the security of the paid-up share-capital and the deposits of members or on the mortgage of immoveable property, the amount disbursed on the security of moveable property being less than half per cent. The loans were generally repaid with marked punctuality.

7. Grain banks.—No attempt was made during the year to organise grain banks in the Madras Presidency, presumably because the circumstances prevailing in most districts were unfavourable for such institutions. Nor were any experimental grain banks started in the manner contemplated in paragraph 2 of G.O., No. 487, Revenue, dated 1st June 1906.

8. Management of societies.—The societies were, as a rule, managed by non-official gentlemen who generally rendered gratuitous service. Out of 186 general and 1,549 committee meetings held during the year, only eight of the former and seventy-one of the latter failed for want of quorum or other causes. The management was satisfactory, the net profits of the year excluding the amount added to the reserve fund yielding a dividend of 6 per cent.

9. Concessions granted by the Local Government in aid of Co-operative Credit Societies.—In addition to the benefits conferred on these institutions by the Act and the notifications issued by the Government of India thereunder in the matter of administrative supervision, free audit by officers of Government and exemption from stamp duties, registration fees and income-tax charges, the Local Government have also granted or obtained in favour of the societies certain small concessions which go a long way towards raising their prestige in the eyes of the public and in engendering a feeling of security and confidence in the movement. For instance, the annual reports of Co-operative Credit Societies with the Registrar's audit reviews thereon are published in the District Gazettes, copies of which are supplied free of charge to all rural societies. Societies are further allowed to send remittances to one another by means of remittance transfer receipts at par and they are also permitted to deposit their strong boxes in Government treasuries.

10. Cost.—The appended statement shows that the cost of the experiment to Government, besides the expenditure incurred in the shape of State loans, amounted to Rs. 40,571 during the period under review.

11. Map.—A map showing the localities where Co-operative Credit Societies have been established up to date is enclosed.

12. In conclusion, the Board desires to congratulate Mr. P. Rajagopala Chariyar on the great success achieved by him in organising on a sound and rational basis a large number of societies in eighteen out of the twenty-four districts of the Presidency and maintaining them in a thoroughly efficient condition.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.
REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Order—No. 2980, Revenue, dated 5th December 1907.

Miscellaneous.

Recorded.

2. The year was one of satisfactory progress in all respects and its results raise great hopes of the ultimate success of the movement in this Presidency. A glance at the map shows that only the fringe of the subject has yet been touched and that the societies as yet formed occur in a few patches.

3. With reference to paragraph 27 of the Registrar's report, the Government consider that the statements in Appendix B are susceptible of much improvement. Such statements are probably needed as posting statements in the Registrar's office, but as the societies increase in number, they will become too unwieldy for inclusion in the annual report. They should be carefully revised so as to show the salient features in the working of the societies; and the Board of Revenue is accordingly requested, in consultation with the Registrar, to draw up revised forms for future use. In particular, the revised forms should show clearly the extent to which repayment of loans or interest thereon was overdue either by or to societies, somewhat on the lines of statements Nos. 16 and 17 in the annual report on the settlement of Land Revenue (Jamabandi).

4. His Excellency the Governor in Council is pleased to record his appreciation of the excellent service rendered by M.R.Ry. Diwan Bahadur P. Rajagopala Chariyar during his tenure of the post of Registrar of Co-operative Credit Societies.
