Introduction

The Ministry of Education and Social Welfare publishes the statistics of education in India annually in their publication 'Education in India Vol. I and Vol. II'. These publications give the statistics at the national and state levels, but do not provide district-wise statistics.

2. To fill up this gap, the National Council of Educational Research and Training brought out a volume entitled 'Educational Statistics: District-wise' giving the bench mark of educational data of various kinds for all districts for the year 1960-61. To make inter-district comparison possible, some important indices such as enrolment ratios, percentages of trained teachers and per capita expenditure on education were also given. These comparative statements show a wide range of variation between the districts in every respect.

3. It had been decided to have a similar review of educational development in the districts for the year 1965-66. Such periodic reviews are necessary for several reasons. For instance, they help to judge the effectiveness of the measures taken to correct regional imbalances at the district level. Secondly, such collection and publication of data on different aspects of education at the district level help in the preparation of educational development plans for the districts, so that, they can be adopted, as recommended by the Education Commission, as the principal unit for administration, planning and development of school education.

4. It was also decided that in case of State of Punjab which was a composite State in 1965-66 but was reorganised with effect from 1.11.1966, district-wise statistics might be published separately for the reorganised States of Punjab & Haryana and the Union Territory of Himachal

Pradesh on the basis of the areas of these units as on 1.11.1966. District-wise statistics for the reorganised States of Punjab and Haryana have already been published. There were ten districts in the reorganised territory of Himachal Pradesh which came into being after merging the hilly areas of composite Punjab. After becoming a State in 1971 the number of districts in Himachal Pradesh has increased from ten to twelve by reorganisation of the districts. The present volume gives data for each of the ten districts of Himachal Pradesh on number of educational institutions, pupils, teachers, expenditure etc., at all levels of education. To make inter-district comparisons possible, some important indices such as enrolment ratios, percentages of trained teachers, per capita expenditure on education etc. are also given.

5. The Ministry of Education and Social Welfare takes this opportunity to express its appreciation of the cooperation and help received from the Director of Education, Himachal Pradesh and other educational authorities in the State.

District-wise transfer rates calculated as stated above are given in the table below:-
