Additional copies of this pamphlet may be obtained upon request. It is the policy of the Committee to distribute its literature free of charge within the limits of its financial resources.

Such distribution is made possible by the gifts of contributors who believe in the usefulness of the Committee. These gifts are accepted under conditions specified by the Executive Committee.

The stipulations read as follows: "Believing in the purposes of your Committee, I hereby subscribe the sum of $..... to be used by the Executive Committee in its educational campaign to foster a sound currency system for this country and to combat dangerous and unsound schemes and legislation. It is clearly understood by the Committee and the donor that these funds are given without restrictive condition, made or implied, and that the Executive Committee and its officers are to be the sole judges of policies and of how the funds are to be spent."

PURPOSES OF THE
ECONOMISTS' NATIONAL COMMITTEE
ON MONETARY POLICY

1. To enlighten the public as to the economics of the monetary issues before the country.
2. To educate the public as to the desirability of an early return to a gold standard.
3. To combat unsound monetary programs such as those of the inflationists, devaluationists, and commodity dollar advocates.
4. To issue public statements on current monetary issues as circumstances seem to warrant.
5. To place speakers at the disposal of the public.
6. To distribute its own and other literature.
7. To suggest from among its members experts for those who wish such aid.
