1919

June 28, at 3.12 p.m. Peace was signed in the Galerie des Glaces, Versailles, where, in 1871, the ex-Kalser's grandfather had been declared German Emperor after the Franco-Prussian War which had been declared by Napoleon III. on July 18, 1870. On the same day Pius IX. confirmed the decree of Papal Infallibility. Italian troops took possession of Rome on September 20. The Pope prorogued the Vatican Council on October 20, and it has never reassembled.

A large number of delegates signed the Peace, the first signature being that of Hermann Müller, German Foreign Minister, then came Dr. Bell, then the five American delegates, and after them the English signed, of whom were Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Balfour, Lord Milner, and Mr. Barnes, followed by the Dominion signatories. Then came the French, of whom was M. Clemenceau, the only man of all that company who had been present at the German Peace of 1870. Other allied delegates followed, ending with Czecho-Slovakia.
