

IMPERIAL GAZETTEER OF INDIA

AFGHĀNISTĀN

AND

NEPĀL

SUPERINTENDENT OF GOVERNMENT PRINTING
CALCUTTA

1908

Price Rs. 1-8, or 2s. 3d.]

PREFACE

THE articles relating to Afghānistān were mainly contributed by Mr. E. H. S. Clarke, C.I.E., who was assisted by Major Cubitt, Indian Army, and by Mr. H. R. C. Dobbs, I.C.S., C.I.E. The early history of the Afghānistān State and of some of the minor places was written by Mr. W. S. Meyer, I.C.S., C.I.E.

The articles relating to Nepāl were mainly prepared by Major W. E. A. Armstrong, I.M.S. Mr. Eardley-Wilmot, Inspector-General of Forests, contributed the account of forests, and Mr. R. Burn, I.C.S., that of the early history.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

AFGHĀNISTĀN STATE

	PAGE
PHYSICAL ASPECTS	I-10
Dimensions	1
Boundaries	1
Natural divisions and scenery	2
Mountain system	3
The Hindu Kush	3
The Koh-i-Bāba	3
The Safed Koh	3
The plains	4
River systems	4
The Oxus	4
The Helmand	4
The Kābul	4
The Gomal	5
Lakes	5
Geology	5
Botany	7
Wild animals	8
Snakes	9
Meteorology	9
HISTORY	10-23
Persian, Greek, and Scythian rulers	10
Muhammadan dynasties. The Ghaznivids	11
The Ghorids. Tīmūr. The Mughals	11
Nādir Shāh. Ahmad Shāh Durrāni	12
Successors of Ahmad Shāh	12
The Bārakzais. Dost Muhammad	13
First Afghān War, 1838-42	13
Later years of Dost Muhammad	15
Sher Ali	16
Second Afghān War, 1878-80	16
Abdur Rahmān. Early years	18
Delimitation of Afghān boundaries to the north	18
Revolts of Ghilzais and Muhammad Ishāk	19
Further settlement of northern boundaries	20
Delimitation of British-Afghan boundaries	20
Accession of Habib-ullah Khān, 1901	20
Archaeology	21
POPULATION	23-30
Afghān races. Durrānis	23
Ghilzais	24
Non-Afghān races. Tājiks	24
Hazāras	24
Aimāks	25

TABLE OF CONTENTS

v

	PAGE
Uzbeks	25
Kizilbāshis	25
Other races	25
Language and literature	25
National characteristics	26
Religion and ceremonies	27
Marriage customs	27
Food and dress	28
Dwellings	29
•Amusements	29
Prevalent diseases	29
AGRICULTURE	30-32
Fruits	30
Domestic animals	31
RENTS, WAGES, AND PRICES	32-33
Land-ownership	32
Rents	32
Wages and prices	33
MINERALS	33-35
ARTS AND MANUFACTURES	35
TRADE	35-37
COMMUNICATIONS	37-38
Roads	37
Postal arrangements	37
FAMINE	38
ADMINISTRATION	38-39
Provinces	39
LEGISLATION AND JUSTICE	39-40
FINANCE	40-42
Land revenue	40
Currency	41
Weights and measures	41
ARMY	42-44
POLICE AND JAILS	44
EDUCATION	44
MEDICAL	44
BIBLIOGRAPHY	45
MOUNTAINS	46-50
HINDU KUSH	46
The range	46
Geology	47
Fauna and flora	47
The people	48
KOH-I-BĀBA	49
SAFED KOH	50

	PAGE
RIVERS	50-54
GUMAL	50
HELMAND	51
KĀBUL	51
OXUS	53
HARI RŪD	54
LAKE AB-I-ISTĀDA	54
KĀBUL PROVINCE	55-56
KĀBUL CITY	56
Situation, population, &c.	56
Climate	57
History	57
Buildings	58
Workshops	59
Fortifications, &c.	60
Trade	60
THE HAZĀRAJĀT	61
CHĀRIKĀR	61
GHAZNI	62
GHOR	63
Description	63
History	63
ISTĀLIF	65
JALĀLĀBĀD DISTRICT	66-71
JALĀLĀBĀD TOWN	67
KĀFIRISTĀN	68
Description	68
The Kāfirs	69
Their customs	70
KANDAHĀR PROVINCE	71-76
KANDAHĀR CITY	72
Description	72
Population, climate, &c.	72
Trade	73
History	73
FARRAH	75
GIRISHK	75
KALĀT-I-GHILZAI	76
LASH-JAWAIN	76
HERĀT PROVINCE	76-80
HERĀT CITY	78
Description	78
Population and trade	78
History	79

TABLE OF CONTENTS

vii

	PAGE
AFGHĀN-TURKISTĀN	80-87
Extent and boundaries	80
Physical features	81
Climate	81
History	82
Antiquities	83
The people	83
Manufactures and minerals	84
AKCHĀ	84
BALKH	84
MAIMANA	85
MAZĀR-I-SHARĪF	86
TASHKURGHĀN	86
BADAKHSHĀN	87-90
Description	87
The people	87
History	88
Climate	88
Minerals	88
FAIZĀBĀD	89
RUSTĀK	89

NEPĀL STATE

PHYSICAL ASPECTS	91-96
Boundaries, configuration, and hill system	91
Main geographical divisions and river systems	92
The Valley of Nepāl	93
Scenery	93
Geology	94
Flora	95
Fauna	95
Climate	96
HISTORY	96-107
Early period	96
The Newār kingdoms	98
The Gurkha conquest under Prithwī Nārāyan	99
Reign of Ran Bahādur Sah	99
Expulsion, return, and death of Ran Bahādur Sah	100
War with the British, 1814-6	101
Rise and rule of Sir Jang Bahādur	102
Sir Bīr Shamsher	104
Chandra Shamsher	105
Relations of Nepāl with the British Government and with China	105
The Prime Minister the real ruler of the country	106
Archaeology	106
Architecture	107

	PAGE
POPULATION	107-114
Diseases	108
Marriage customs	108
Races	108
Language	109
Religion—Hindus and Buddhists	110
Former Roman Catholic mission	112
Food	112
Dress and dwellings	113
Amusements and festivals	113
AGRICULTURE	114-116
Principal crops	115
Vegetables and fruits	116
Live-stock	116
Products of the Tarai	116
Tenures and rents	116
FORESTS	116-119
System of management	118
Forest tribes	118
MINERALS	119
ARTS AND MANUFACTURES	119-120
TRADE	120-121
With Tibet	120
With India	120
MEANS OF COMMUNICATION	121-122
GOVERNMENT	122
CIVIL AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE	122
REVENUE	122-123
Coinage	123
ARMY	123-124
EDUCATION	124
MEDICAL	124
BIBLIOGRAPHY	124
EVEREST, MOUNT	125
KINCHINJUNGA	125
BHĀTGAON	125
KAPILAVASTU	125
KĀTMĀNDU	126
Situation, &c.	126
Description	127
PĀTAN (Lālita Pātan)	128
INDEX	130-144

MAPS .

AFGHĀNISTĀN	} at end
NEPĀL

INDEX

A.

- Abdur Rahmān Khān, grandson of Dost Muhammad, recognized (1880) as Amīr, 17; his ruthless and strong rule, 20, 42, 43; accepted control of his external relations, 18, recovered Herāt and Kandahār, 18, put down the risings of his cousins Ayūb and Muhammad Ishāk and the Ghilzais, 18, 19, 75, reorganized army, 42, 43; accepted demarcation of boundaries with Russia and India, 19, 20; received (1883 and 1893) an annual subsidy, 18, 20; died in 1901, 20; his buildings and workshops in Kābul city, 59, 60; improved horses and forbade export, 31. Local references to: Kābul city, passim; Kandahār, 75; subjugated (1881) Afghān-Turkistān, 83, Maimana (1883), 86, Badakhshān (1881), 88.
- Ab-i-Istāda Lake (Afghānistān), 5, 54, dreary, shallow, salt, poisons the fish of its feeder, the Ghazni river, 55, has no open outlet, 55.
- Administration of Afghānistān, 38-42, since Abdur Rahmān, an absolute, highly centralized monarchy, minutely and directly supervising its provincial agents, 38; division of kingdom into six provinces, of provinces into districts, 39, legislation and justice, 39, 40; finance, 40, land revenue, 40, 41, currency, weights and measures, 41, 42; police and jails, 44.
- Administration of Nepāl, by the irresponsible Minister, with a council and officials, civil and military, nominated by him, 106, 122; division of country into governorships and districts, 122, and into circles for justice, 122; crime rare, punishments proportionate to crime, 122.
- Afghānistān = dominions of the Amīr, a geographical and political, rather than national, designation, 1, 23; once included the Punjab and Kashmīr, 1; an independent kingdom within the sphere of British influence, and controlled in its foreign relations by British Government, 1, 12, 38; its natural divisions and scenery, 2, 3.
- Afghān-Turkistān, a political term for territory in the basin of the Oxus subject to the Amīr, 80-87; its extent, boundaries, districts, and towns, 80; consists of mountain ranges, and of a plain stretching to the Oxus, 81; its climate, 81, 82; its history associated with the town of Balkh (Bactra), the province of Bactriana, and Khorāsān, 82, 83, 84, 85; its antiquities, 83; its population, reduced by wars, famine, and pestilence, 83.
- Afghāns, mainly a Turko-Irānian race, 23; their claim to be the lost tribes of Israel, 23; their language Pashtū, 25; their national characteristics, physical, moral, and social, 26, 27; their chivalrous hospitality, 27; vindictiveness, 28.
- Afghān War, first (1838-42), its immediate causes, 13, 14; march of Sir John Keane through Bolān Pass, 14, occupation of Kandahār, 14, entry of Shāh Shujā into Kābul, 14, return of Keane to India, 14, rising (1841) at Kābul and massacre of Burnes, Macnaghten, and others, 14, disastrous evacuation of the country by British garrison under agreement, 14, 15, treachery of Afghāns, 15, arrival of Dr. Brydon alone at Jalālābād from Kābul, 15, retention of Kandahār and Jalālābād by Generals Nott and Sale, 15, punitive expedition (1842) under General Pollock, 15, relief of Jalālābād, forced passage of Khyber Pass and occupation of Kābul, 15, recovery of prisoners from Bāmiān, 15, destruction of citadel and central bazar of Kābul, 15, evacuation of country by British army in December, 1842, 15. Local references to: Kābul city, 57, 58; Charikār, 62; storm of Ghazni, 62; destruction of Istālif, 66; siege and defence of Jalālābād, 68; Kandahār, 74; brilliant defence of Girishk, 76, of Kalāt-i-Ghilzai, 76.
- Afghān War, second (1878-80), its immediate causes, 16; occupation of Khyber Pass and Kandahār, 16, flight of Amīr, 16, Treaty of Gandamak with Yakūb Khān, 17, reception and subsequent murder of British Resident, 17, march of General Roberts by Kurram route, 17, his victory at Chārāsia and occupation of Kābul for a year, 17, punitive and defensive measures at Kābul, 17, 58, recognition of new Amīr and withdrawal of British forces (Aug. 1880) from Kābul, 17, 58. Local references to: Kābul city, 58; Ghazni, 62, 63; Jalālābād, 68; Kandahār, 74, 75.
- Agriculture in Afghānistān, 30-33; the great variety of products in grain and

- fruits, 30, 31; two harvests in lower regions, 30; artificial irrigation, 30; domestic animals, 31, 32; the equal division of land, and frequent sales, both fostered by Muhammadan law of inheritance, 32; different classes of landlords, tenants, and labourers, 32, 33; wages and prices, 33.
- Agricultural labourers (Afghānistān), tenants, and cultivators, their relations to landlords and wages, 32, 33.
- Agriculture in Nepāl, 114-116, soils, cultivation by hand, manure, easy irrigation of terraces, 114, succession and rotation of crops, 115, principal crops, 115, 116, live stock, 116; all available land cultivated, holdings small, 114; land tenures, 116.
- Ahmad Shāh Durrāni, the founder of a national monarchy and the Sadozai dynasty (1747-73), 12, his great victory (1761) at Pānīpat over the Marāthās, 12; conquered Khorāsān, Kashmir, Sind, and the Punjab, 12, subsequently lost by his successors, 12, 13; his tomb at Kandahār, 23, 72. Local references to: Kābul city, 57; built existing city of Kandahār, 74, Balkh, 83.
- Aimāks (Afghānistān), the collective name of several semi-nomadic tribes, 25.
- Akbar the Great (sixth in descent from Timūr) (1556-1605), ruler of Afghānistān, builder of the Mughal empire founded by Bābar, 12. Local references to: Kābul city, 58; founder of Jalālābād, 68.
- Akchā, principal town in a district of Afghān-Turkistān, 84, a large walled town with much trade with Bokhāra, 84.
- Alexander the Great, his campaigns in Afghānistān and probable foundation of Herāt and Kandahār, 10, 73, his Seleucid successors, 10. Local references: Beghrām (Nicaea), 56; Kābul city (Ortospanum), 57; Kandahār (Alexandria Arachoton), 73; Herāt (Alexandria Arion), 79; Badakhshān, 88.
- Almond trees, common in Afghānistān, 30.
- Amusements and sports of the Afghāns, the chase, races, athletics, fighting animals, chess, and marbles, 29; of tribes of Hindu Kush, 49.
- Amusements and sports of Gurkhas in Nepāl, shooting, fishing, and gambling, 113; elephant-catching, 95.
- Antimony, abundant on Tobā plateau and elsewhere in Afghānistān, 34.
- Archaeology and antiquities of Afghānistān, Persian, Greek, Indo-Buddhist, and Muhammadan, 21-23; of Sar-o-Tar, 22, 23; of Kābul province, 55, 56; of Ghazni, 22, 65; of Ghor, 22, 65; of Jalālābād district, 67; of Balkh, 82, 83, 85.
- Archaeology and antiquities of Nepāl, mainly Buddhist, 106, 107; discovery of birthplace, &c., of Gautama Buddha at Kapilavastu, 125, 126; ruins of walls, gates and temples at Kātmāndu and Pātan, 127, 128, 129.
- Architecture of Nepāl, its Chinese character, 107; its temples, houses, monoliths, wood and metal ornamentation, 107; of Kātmāndu, 127, 128.
- Area and dimensions of Afghānistān, 1.
- Area and dimensions of Nepāl, 91.
- Arms and ammunition, workshops of at Kābul, 35; arsenal near Kātmāndu (Nepāl), 124.
- Army of Afghānistān, 42-44; originally a gathering of chiefs and clans, 42; organization of regular and standing army by Dost Muhammad and his successors, 42, 43; its strength, composition, rules of service and of promotion, and armament, 42, 43; auxiliaries of permanent foot levies or military police, and of local mounted levies, 43; failure to introduce military conscription, 43.
- Army of Nepāl, a standing army of regulars and militia of 45,000 men with reserves, 123, voluntary service of three years, 123; armament and arsenal, 123, 124; commanded by relations of the Minister, 123; the military castes or tribes, 103, 123.
- Arts and manufactures in Afghānistān, mainly of silk and wool textiles, 35, postins and camel-cloths, 35.
- Arts and manufactures in Nepāl, of cotton and woollen stuffs, 119; skilled work of Newārs in gold, silver, brass, and wood, 119, 120; discouragement of arts by Gurkha dynasty, 107, 120.
- Asafoetida, a condiment and a drug, its growth in Afghānistān, and export to India, 8, 36.
- Asoka (Nepāl), pillars and pilgrimages of, 106, 126; his visit to Nepāl, and marriage of his daughter, 97.
- Astrachan, the skin of unborn lamb, large trade in Afghānistān, 32.
- Auckland, Lord, dispatched Burnes to Kābul, his instructions and demands, 14.
- Aul*, a severe form of malaria in Tarai of Nepāl, 96.
- Ayūb (brother of Yakūb) Khān, his victory over the British at Maiwand, 17, 75, his defeat by General Roberts and finally by Amir Abdur Rahmān, 18, 75, residence since 1888 in India, 75.

B.

- Bābar, took Kābul (1504), 57; his invasion (1525) of India, 12, defeat of Sultān of Delhi at Pānīpat and foundation of Mughal empire in India, 12. Local references to: his tomb at Kābul, 23, 58; Kandahār, 73; Badakhshān, 88. Bābar grass (Nepāl), its growth and uses, 117, 118.
- Badakhshān, a province of Afghānistān, drained by the Kokcha, 87-90; its physical aspects and simple happy people, 87, 88; climate of extremes, 88; considerable minerals, 88, 89; history, 88.
- Bāghmati, the river of the Valley of Nepāl, 93.
- Bahādur Sah, his interrupted regency of Nepāl for his nephew (1775-95), 100.
- Balkh (Bactra), in Afghān-Turkistān, once a great historical capital, now a mean village, 85; once a seat of Buddhism, 82; its extensive but insignificant ruins, 85; its history under many rulers, and through twenty destructions, 82-85.
- Balwant Singh, his brilliant defence (1842) of Girisik, 76.
- Bamiān, ruins and colossi of, 21, 56.
- Basgars* or metayer farmers in Afghānistān, 32, 33.
- Beghrām (Alexander's Nicaea), the coins and ruins of, 21, 56.
- Bhātgaon, a town in the Valley of Nepāl, population 30,000, chiefly Newārs, 125, once capital of independent kingdom, 98, captured by Prithwī Nārāyan, 99, 125.
- Bhotiās (Nepāl), a Buddhist tribe, 98, 109, 111, carry enormous loads across the hills to British India, 120.
- Bibliography of Afghānistān, 45; of Nepāl, 124; of Kapilavastu, 126.
- Bir Shamsher, Sir, nephew of Jang Bahādur, Minister of Nepāl (1885-1901), 104, 105, a just progressive ruler, and friend of the British Government, 105, his buildings and improvements, 105.
- Bitumen, occurrence of, near Ghazni and elsewhere, 33, 34.
- Botany of Afghānistān, 7, 8; the flora a reflection of the climatic extremes, 7; flora of the mountains, 7, of the valleys, 7, 8, of the wastes, 8; of Hindu Kush, 47; of Safed Koh, 50; of Kābul city, 60; of Kāfiristān, 69.
- Botany of Nepāl, flora corresponds with that of its eastern and western neighbours, 95.
- Boundaries of Afghānistān, 1, 2; demarcation of, with Russia, 16, 18, 19, 20, with Persia, 20, 21, with British India, 20.

Boundaries of Nepāl, 91.

- Brydon, Dr., the sole survivor of the British garrison (1842) at Kābul who reached Jalālābād, 15, 58.
- Buddha, Gautama, identification of his birthplace in Nepāl, and of sites connected with his life, 106, 126; found his religion already planted in Nepāl, 110.
- Buddhism, destruction of its monuments in Afghānistān by Muhammadans, 21; under Kanishka and his successors, 10, 11; ancient remains at Bamiān, 56, in Yaman, 65; in Jalālābād district, 67; at Balkh and in the valley of the Oxus, 82; at Haibak, 21, 23, 83.
- Buddhism, important Buddhist discoveries in Nepāl, 106, 107; numerous shrines and stūpas in Valley, 107; its equal rights and numbers with Hinduism, 110, debased or modified by Hinduism, 111, shrines and festivals frequented by Hindus and Buddhists in common, 111, 114.
- Burial, usual Muhammadan ceremonies of, in Afghānistān, 27; substitute for, in Kāfiristān, 71.
- Burial in Nepāl, Hindus and Buddhists burn their dead, 112.
- Burnes, Sir Alexander, his mission (1836) to Dost Muhammad, 13, 14, his murder (1841) at Kābul, 14, 57.

C.

- Camels (Afghānistān), more robust than Indian, 32, 400 lb. an average load, 32, the Bactrian or double-humped camel, 32; kākma, an expensive camel's-hair cloth, 35.
- Carboniferous (geological) system in Afghānistān, 6.
- Carpets (Afghānistān), Adraskan and Sabzawar, industry and export of, languishing, 35.
- Castor-oil plant, grown commonly in Afghānistān, the source of most of the oil, 30.
- Cattle (and horses and camels) the main wealth of Afghānistān, 32, cows and sheep, 32.
- Cattle in Nepāl, save in Tarai, little grazing-ground and few cattle, 116, cattle for food imported, 116; large herds in Tarai, 119.
- Cavagnari, Sir Louis, appointed (1879) British Resident at Kābul, and murdered, 17, 58, 59.
- Chandra Shamsher, present Minister of Nepāl, nephew of Jang Bahādur, 105; attended (1903) Coronation Darbār at Delhi, 105; friendly towards the British Government and knows English, 105.
- Chārikār town, in Ghorband valley of

- Afghānistān, 61, 62; custom-house for Turkistān, 61; destruction of Shāh Shuja's Gurkha garrison (1841) and escape of Pottinger, Political Agent, 62.
- China, boundary of Nepāl with, as suzerain of Tibet and Chinese frontier custom-houses, 91, Chinese successful support (1791) of Tibet against Nepāl, 100, acknowledgement (1792) of suzerainty of China, 100; Chinese suzerainty now nominal, 106; the Chinese character of Nepālese architecture, 107; its picturesque effect at Kātmāndu, 117, 128.
- Chingiz Khan, the Mongol, his devastating invasion and rule, 11, 76, 82, capture of Kandahār, 37, sacked Farrah, 75.
- Christian missions (Nepāl), none since Gurkha invasion, 112; previous success of Roman Catholic mission under Newārs, 112.
- Climate of Afghānistān, varies with altitude rather than latitude, 9; the extreme ranges of temperature, 9; beyond the influence of the south-west monsoon, 9; of Kābul province, 55; of Kābul city, 57; of Jalālābād, 67; of Kandahār, 73; of Afghān-Turkistān, 81; of Badakhshān, 88.
- Climate of Nepāl, varies as in India with rainfall and altitude, 96, of Tarai, 96, of Valley, 96.
- Coal (Afghānistān), occurrence of, in Lower Tertiary and older rocks as in India, 33, abundant and accessible at and near Chahil in Afghān-Turkistān, 33, 84.
- Coal in Nepāl, none known, 119.
- Coins, ancient, at Beghrām, 21, 56, Valley of Kābul, 55, in Jalālābād district, 67.
- Commander-in-Chief of Nepāl, always next eldest brother of Minister, 123, next to Minister and ordinarily his successor, 106.
- Copper ores in Afghānistān, their plentiful occurrence below and on surface, 34, their former and present workings, 34.
- Copper ores in Nepāl, dug from open trenches, 119.
- Cornwallis, Lord, his negotiations with Nepāl, 100, sent Colonel Kirkpatrick on mission to negotiate between Nepāl and China, 100.
- Cotton (Afghānistān), grown in Herāt valley largely and in Jalālābād district, 30, in Badakhshān, 90.
- Cretaceous (geological) system in Afghānistān, 6.
- Crime and its punishments in Afghānistān, 39; in Nepāl, 122.
- Crops, principal, in Afghānistān, 30, 31, wheat, barley, rice, and pulses, 30, fruits, 31.
- Crops, principal, in Nepāl, 115, 116, rice and other grains, 115, of the Tarai, 116, vegetables and fruits, 116.
- Currency in Afghānistān, of gold (scanty), silver, and copper, 41; depreciation of exchange value of Kābuli rupee, 41, the mint at Kābul, 60.
- Currency in Nepāl, silver mohars, and copper pice, stamped and unstamped, 123; Indian coinage current, 123.
- Curzon, Lord, on the source of the Oxus, 53.
- D.
- Diseases of Afghānistān, due to cold and diet, and fevers especially prevalent, 29; sporadic small-pox, 29; cholera rare, and plague unknown, 29, 30.
- Cholera (1872) in Herāt and Afghān-Turkistān, 83.
- Diseases of Nepāl, small-pox and cholera yielding to vaccination and good water, 108, malaria in low-lying districts and Tarai, 108.
- Dost Muhammad, half-brother and avenger of Mahmūd Shah's blinded Wazīr, 13, founder (1835) of reigning Bārakzai dynasty, and restorer of the kingdom and order, 13, failure of Burnes's mission, 14, first Afghān War, 13-15, dethronement and deportation (1840) of Dost to India, 14, his resumption of power (1842-63), 15, his part in the second Sikh War and defeat at Gujrat (1849), 15, final loss (1850-63) of Peshāwar, 15; his reconquest of Balkh, Kandahār, and Herāt, 15, 16; renewal (1857) of friendly relations with British Government and fidelity during Mutiny, 15, 16, death (1863) at Herāt, 16. Local references to: sacked Jalālābād, 68; Kandahār, 74; siege and capture of Herāt, 80.
- Dress in Afghānistān for hot and cold weather, 28, 29, of rich and poor women, 29.
- Dress in Nepāl, of Gurkhas and Newārs, men and women, 113; different coiffures of uncovered heads of women, 113; use of flowers in the hair, 113.
- Duncan, Jonathan, Resident (1792) at Benares, negotiated first commercial treaty with Nepāl, 100.
- Durrānis or Abdālis, the ruling race in Afghānistān, 3, their locality, 24.
- E.
- Education in Afghānistān, primitive and elementary, with Korān as textbook, imparted by Mullās, 44; introduction of compulsion and of public higher education, including English, designed by Amlr, 44; at Rustāk, 90.

- Education in Nepāl, only one school, for the well-to-do, 124; some State students at Indian Engineering colleges, 124.
- Elephants, wild (Nepāl) in the Tarai, 117, their capture a sport and source of revenue, 95, method of capture by driving, 95, 96.
- Elphinstone, Mountstuart, his mission to Shāh Shujā, 13.
- English, not taught to and not known by natives in Afghānistān, 44.
- English and Europeans: employed by Abdur Rahmān, no longer required, 60; in Nepāl, the British Resident and his staff, 128.
- Everest, Mount (Nepāl), the highest known point in the world, 29,002 feet high, 92, 125, named (1856) after Sir George Everest, Surveyor-General of India, by his successor, 125; not visible from valley of Kātmāndu, 125; conclusively distinguished from peaks of Gauri Sankar, 94, 125.
- Expenditure in Afghānistān kept well within income of State, 40.
- Expenditure in Nepāl, much of it consists of grants of land, 123.
- Exports and imports of Afghānistān, value and nature of, with British India, 36, with Russia and elsewhere, 35; heavy imposts on imports, 36; of Kābul city, 60; of Kandahār, 73; of Herāt, 78; of Tashkurgān, 87; of Faizābād, 89.
- Exports and imports of Nepāl, with Tibet, 120, with British India, 121; duties on, 120, 121.
- F.
- Faizābād, capital of Badakhshān, 89; destroyed in 1829, 89; description of, 1866, by Ney Elias, its trade mainly Russian, dullness and insanitation, 89.
- Famine in Afghānistān, none since 1872, 38, scarcity relieved by Amīr, 38, the 'Persian' famine of 1872 in Herāt and Afghān-Turkistān, 83.
- Famine in Nepāl, unknown, 116.
- Farrah, capital of province of same name in Afghānistān, ancient and once important, 75, now a ruin with imposing ramparts, 75, its very bad climate, 75.
- Fauna or wild animals of Afghānistān, 8, 9, snakes, 9; of Hindu Kush, 47, 48; of Kāfiristān, 69.
- Fauna of Nepāl, as in corresponding parts of India, 95, 96.
- Feasts and Festivals (Nepāl), like the shrines, very numerous, 114, toleration of gambling during, 113; chief festivals Hindu, but frequented by Buddhists also, 114.
- Flora, see Botany.
- Food (Afghānistān), necessarily frugal and largely fruitarian, 28; religious rules about meat, 28; pīlao of the rich, krūt (maize porridge) of the poor, 28, wheat the staple food, 30; other grains and fruits, 30, 31; mutton, the main animal food, 32; Kāfirs will not eat fish, 69.
- Food (Nepāl), of higher and lower Hindu castes, of Gurkhas and Newārs, 112; more flesh generally eaten than in India, 112.
- Foreign relations of Afghānistān, their control by Government of India conceded by Yakūb Khān, 17, by Abdur Rahmān and his successor, 18, 21, 38.
- Foreign relations of Nepāl, controlled by Government of India, 105.
- Foreigners (Nepāl), jealous-exclusion or discouragement of, 94, 105, 112, 121.
- Forests in Afghānistān, 7, 50, 69; timber, a monopoly of Amīr, 36; no conservancy of, 36.
- Forests in Nepāl, the property of the State, 118, a source of revenue more than an object of care, 118, exactions of minor officials and heavy export duties discourage timber and jungle trade, 118; their division into (1) Tarai, swept by torrents, (2) Submontane with sāl and asaina, bābar grass, and bamboo, (3) Hill, with pines, deodār, and oaks, much denuded and wasted, 116-118, 119; forest tribes, 118, 119.
- Fruits in Afghānistān, great abundance and variety of, 7, 30, 31, of Kābul city, 60, of Kandahār, 73; of Kāfiristān, 69; of Mazār and Tashkurgān, 86, 87.
- Fruits in Nepāl, in the Valley and Tarai, 115, 116.
- G.
- Gambling, the great vice of Nepāl, 113.
- Gandamak, Treaty of (1879) with Yakūb Khān, its terms, 17.
- Geology, a general view of, of Afghānistān, 5-7; geological record very incomplete, 6; a table of the great divisions of the Tertiary series, 7; the coal-bearing strata, 33; of Hindu Kush, 47; of Afghān-Turkistān, 6, 7.
- Geology of Nepāl, little known, owing to exclusion of foreigners, 94, sub-Himālayan series of Upper Tertiary age, 95, older rocks, 95, strike and dip as of main Himālayan range, 95.
- Ghazni, chief town of district in Kābul province of Afghānistān, 62, 63; seat of Ghaznivid dynasty, 62, its ancient and recent history, 62, 64, the remains of its old splendour, its present decay, 62, 63; cold and unhealthy, 63.
- Ghazni river, 55.

- Ghaznivids, Turkish dynasty of Muhammadan rulers of Afghānistān, Persia, trans-Oxus, Punjab, 11, 62, 64; Mahmūd, the Iconoclast (998-1030), 11; finally dispossessed by the Afghān house of Ghor, 11; at Kandahār, 73, Herāt, 79.
- Ghilzais, the strongest of the clans in Afghānistān, 24, their descent and locality, 24, threw off (1704) Persian yoke, 74, their rising in 1886, 19.
- Ghor, a ruined city in an unvisited valley of Afghānistān, full of ruins, the seat of the Ghorids, 63, 64, 65.
- Ghorids, the, an Afghān dynasty, supplanters of the Ghaznivids, 11, their history, 63-65, their great Shahāb-ud-dīn Muhammad (1173-1206), 11, 64, 65, his empire from Khorāsān to the Ganges, from Turkistān to Gujarāt, 64; at Kandahār, 73; at Herāt, 79.
- Gillespie, General, death in battle (1815) at Kalanga in Nepālese War, 102.
- Girishk, an old fort in Kandahār province of Afghānistān, 75, 76; its brilliant defence under Balwant Singh in first Afghān War, 76, its antiquities, 22.
- Gold, occurrence of, near Kandahār, and elsewhere in Afghānistān, 34.
- Graeco-Bactrian dynasties, their unknown history and extensive empire, 10, 82, 84, coins, 55.
- Grapes, various, abundant and excellent in Afghānistān, 31, wine from, 31; of Kābul city, 60.
- Graphite, impure, occurrence of, in Afghānistān, 33.
- Greek antiquities and remains in Afghānistān, 21, 55, 56.
- Grierson, Dr., on the Kāfir dialects, 70; on the languages of Nepāl, 109, 110.
- Griesbach, Mr. C. L., late Director of Geological Survey of India, geological account of Afghānistān based upon notes recorded by him, 6.
- Gujrāt, battle of (1849), defeat of combined Sikh and Afghān forces, 15.
- Gumal or Gomāl river, in Afghānistān, 5, 50, 51, water, intercepted for irrigation, does not ordinarily reach the Indus, 51.
- Gurkhas, said to be originally from Rājputāna, 99, 109, invited from their hilly tracts to help Ranjit Mal, 99, their encroachments and final (1769) conquest of Nepāl, 99; their discouragement of art and monasticism, 107, 112, 120; their military tribes or castes, 108, 109; their physical characteristics, 109, most profess a less rigid Hinduism, 112; their superstition, 112; food, dress, and amusements, 112, 113; recruited for British service, 105. See also History of Nepāl.
- H.
- Habib-ullah Khān, reigning Amīr of Afghānistān, 20, 21, continued his father's treaty engagements and agreements, 21; accepted Major M^cMahon's boundary award between Persia and Afghānistān, 21; visit to India (1907), 21.
- Haibak (Afghānistān), its Buddhist caves, 21, 23, 83.
- Hakims, or governors of provinces in Afghānistān with judicial and civil functions, 39, refer cases to Kāzi's court, 39, appeal from, to Amīr, 40; their annual presents to Amīr, 40.
- Hari Rūd, river of Afghānistān 500 miles in length, used for irrigation, 54, lost in Tejend oasis, 54.
- Hazāras, a sturdy race in Afghānistān of Mongol descent, Shīahs, 24, 25, 61, the British Hazāra battalion, 61.
- Hazārajāt, the, or Hazāristān, a mountainous region in the centre of Afghānistān, 61, the country and people, 61.
- Herāt province of Afghānistān, 76-78; its Russian, Persian, and other boundaries, 76; its trade routes to Seistān, 77; its situation, fertile tracts, and barren mountains, 77; its people and tribes of Persian and Afghān race, 77, 78.
- Herāt city, capital of province in Afghānistān, 78-80; fortified and garrisoned, 78; its situation on the plain of a valley, 78; its gates, and converging bazars, 78; its crowded, squalid interior, 78; the Jāma Masjid of Shāh Husain, now going to ruin, 78; the Ark-i-Nao, or new citadel, 78; its population, shops, and trade, 78, 79; its strategical importance, historical reputation, and the prestige of its possession, 79.
- Herāt city (Alexandria Arion), history of, 79, 80, its foundation (probably) by Alexander the Great, 10, 79, its frequent sieges and destruction, 79; became one of the principal Muhammadan cities (661) under the Arabs, 11, 79; its subsequent vicissitudes under different dynasties, 79; acquired (1751) by Ahmad Shāh, 79; attacked in 1823 and 1837 by Persians, saved by Pottinger, 79; its independence proclaimed and guaranteed (1839) by British Government, 79; home and foreign disturbances, 79, 80; siege and capture (1856) of Herāt by Persians, 80; war between Great Britain and Persia (1857) and retirement of Persians, 15, 80; final siege and capture (1863) by Dost Muhammad, 16, 80.
- Helmand (Etymander), river of Afghānistān, basin and tributaries, 4, 51, loses

- itself in the Seistān Hāmūn, 4, its fertile valley and signs of old prosperity, 51.
- Himalayas (Nepāl), the, 91, 92, 125, scenery of, 94, climate of Lower, 96.
- Hindu Kush, the, or Indian Caucasus of the ancients, 3, 46-49; recent increase in knowledge of, 46, 47; its direction, extent, and spurs, 46, its dreary scenery, 46, geology, 47; flora, 7, 47, fauna, 8, 47, 48; the mixture of races, languages, religions, customs, and institutions of its inhabitants, 48, 49; Muhammadanism professed by most, 48, 49, remains of caste and of original Hinduism in the Eastern Hindu Kush, 49; their character, amusements, and customs, 49; the distinct sect of Mughlis, 48.
- Hinduism (Afghānistān), traces of: caste, &c., found in Eastern Hindu Kush, 49; in Jalālābād, 67.
- Hinduism in Nepāl, the faith of the reigning dynasty and of half the population, 110, less rigid than in India, 112; its influence upon Buddhism, 111; reform of by Sankarāchārya, 97; murder and the killing of cows capital offences, 122; Brāhmans (and women) not punished capitally, 122.
- Hindus, their number and treatment in Afghānistān, 25.
- History of Afghānistān, 10-21: Persian, Greek, and Scythian rulers, 10, 11; Muhammadan dynasties, 11, 12; establishment of a national monarchy (1747-1826) under Ahmad Shāh Durrāni, 12; mission (1809) of Mountstuart Elphinstone to Shāh Shujā (Durrāni) at Peshāwar, 13; civil wars and final assumption (1835) by Dost Muhammad, Bārakzai, of title of Amīr, 13; first Afghān War (1838-42), 13-15, temporary restoration (1839) of Shāh Shujā, 14, occupation of Kābul by a British force, 14, native revolt and massacre (1841-2) of British envoy, troops, and prisoners, 14, 15; British army (1842) of retribution, 15; resumption of power (1842-63) by Dost Muhammad, and renewal of diplomatic relations with British, 15, 16; Treaty of Peshāwar (1857), 15, 16, accession (1863) of Sher Ali, 16; his estrangement from British Government and reception (1878) of a Russian mission, 16; second Afghān War (1878-80), 16-18, occupation (1879) of Kandahār, flight and death of Sher Ali, 16, 17; submission to British terms of his son, Yakub Khān, and Treaty (1879) of Gandamak, 17; murder (1879) of British Resident, 17; punitive expedition (1879) and occupation of Kābul, 17; recognition of Amīr Abdur Rahmān (1880-1901), 17, British defeat (1880) at Maiwand by Ayūb Khān and investment of Kandahār, 17, relief and complete victory by General Roberts, 18; withdrawal (1881) of British troops, 18; Amīr's acceptance of control of external relations by Government of India, 18; grants to him of subsidy, 18, 20; his wars, extension of territory, and confirmation of power, 18-20; delimitation (1896) of British-Afghān boundaries, 20; accession (1901) of Habib-ullah Khān, and formal continuation (1905) of his father's relations with British Government, 20, 21.
- History (local) of Kābul city, 57, 58; of Ghazni, 62, 63; of Ghor, 63-65; of Jalālābād, 68; of Kandahār city, 73-75; of Herāt, 79, 80; of Balkh or Bactra, 82, 83, 84, 85; of Badakhshān, 88.
- History of Nepāl, 96-105: early legends, 97; visit of Sankarāchārya and reform of Hinduism, 97; Nepār kingdoms, 98; King Jayasthitimalla of the fourteenth century, his reforms and reception of Buddhists into Hinduism, 98; from seventeenth century chronology established by coins, inscriptions, and chronicles, 99; the Gurkha conquest (1769), 99, failure of Kinloch's expedition, 99; invasion of Tibet by Gurkhas, 100, their defeat by Chinese, 100; Lord Cornwallis's mission (1792) for intervention and commercial treaty, 100; expulsion, return, and death of Ran Bahādur Sah, 100, 101; war with the British, 101, 102; treaty made 1815, signed 1816, 102; rise and rule of Sir Jang Bahādur (1816-77), 102-104; Sir Bir Shamsheer (1885-1901), 104, 105; Chandra Shamsheer, 105.
- Hiuen Tsiang, Chinese pilgrim of seventh century, his report of Buddhism in Bactria, 82; his mention of a king of Nepāl, 97, 106, of the split pillar at Kapilavastu, 126.
- Hodgson, Brian, his original studies and discoveries in the languages and Buddhism of Nepāl, 109, 111.
- Holdich, Sir Thomas, on the natural divisions and scenery of Afghānistān, 2, 3.
- Holland, T. H., Director, Geological Survey of India, contributor of note upon minerals of Afghānistān, 33-35.
- Horses (Afghānistān), export of, once extensive, now forbidden, 31; the breed much improved by Arab and English sires imported by recent Amīrs, 31, 32; the indigenous yabu, 31.
- Houses and dwellings in Afghānistān, generally of sun-dried bricks, 29; skilfully vaulted roofs due to scarcity of wood, 29; of Kābul city, 56, 57, of Kandahār city, 72, of Herāt, 78.

Houses in Nepāl, 'the land of good houses,' 107, 113; of Kātmāndu, 127.

I.

Ibex (Capra sibirica) found on Hindu Kush and hills of Afghānistān, 9, 47.
Imports, see Exports and imports.
Imposts in Afghānistān, on imports and exports, a principal source of revenue, 40; of Kandahār, 73; heavy on imports, e.g. indigo and tea, 36.
Imposts in Nepāl, heavy export duties on jungle produce, 48; on exports and imports with Tibet and British India, 120, 121.
Iron (Afghānistān), large deposits of, in Hindu Kush, 34, made from magnetic sand, 34, near Faizābād, 88; in Nepāl plentiful, 119.
Irrigation in Afghānistān, by canals, kārez or subterraneous aqueducts, and surface channels, 30, its vital importance, 32; assessment of land revenue according to, 40; rivers used for, Kābul, 52, Hari Rūd, 54.
Irrigation in Nepāl Valley, easy, 114.
Istālif, town in Kābul province of Afghānistān, 65, 66, its picturesque site and garden city, 65, 66; destroyed in first Afghān War, 66.

J.

Jalālābād, a large district of Afghānistān, once a province, 66, 67; its boundaries, physical aspects, and tribes, 66, 67; its archaeological interest, 67.
Jalālābād town, the only town in the district, 67, 68; walled and squalid, 67; climate as of Peshāwar, 68; well situated for trade, 68; palace of the Amīr, 68; history, 68.
Jang Bahādūr, Sir, Minister (1846-77) of Nepāl, his rise and rule, 103, 104; appointed commander of the army by the Rānī for murdering his uncle, 103, Minister for the massacre of the Khot, 103, 127; his strong, sagacious, just rule, 103, his friendship for the British, and visit to Europe, 104; offer of help early in the Mutiny, 104, accepted after fall of Delhi and relief of Lucknow, 104; his campaign in Oudh, and assistance at recapture of Gorakhpur and Lucknow, 104; treaty (1860) with, 104; created G.C.B. and G.C.S.I., 104; settlement of succession to his office, 104.
Jayasthitimalla, a Newār king of Nepāl, his reforms, patronage of literature, and buildings, 97; the division of the kingdom between his grandsons, 97.

Jazia, poll-tax levied from non-Muslims in Afghānistān, 40.

Justice in Afghānistān, administered originally and on appeal by Amīr in his supreme court at Kābul, 39, by Hākims or governors in the provinces, 39; inferior courts of Kāzis and Muftis, 39; based on codes of procedure and on Muhammadan law (Shara), 39; extraordinary and state offences dealt with by Amīr himself, 39; severity of punishments, 39; recent courts at Kābul, 40.

Justice in Nepāl, the Minister presides over supreme court of appeal, 122; judicial circles and courts, 122; old savage code of punishments abolished, 122.

K.

Kābul province of Afghānistān, 55, 56, its physical aspects, districts, tribes, and climate, 55; its various and interesting antiquities, 21, 55, 56.

Kābul city, capital of Afghānistān, 56-60; its site, surroundings, and population, 56; unimposing, dirty, and undrained, 56; remains of old walls and gates, 56; good climate and water-supply, low death-rate, 57; food abundant and cheap, 57; history, 57, 58; mosques, tombs of Bāhar and Timūr Shāh, 58, 59; fortified palace (Ark) and country houses of Amīr, 58, 59; steam factories of arms, coins, and useful articles worked by native artisans, 59, 60; buildings, fortifications, and cantonment, 58, 60; large local trade and with India, 60; its unlimited supply of fruit, 60.

Kābul river, basin, and tributaries, 4, 5, 51, 52; joins the Indus at Attock, 5, 52; divides into two branches which rejoin, 52; its ferries, fords, and bridges, 52, 53, 60; catastrophe at Jalālābād ford, 53; its irrigation canal, 52; its skin-rafts and boatmen (nilābi), 52.

Kāfiristān ('the country of the infidels'), its boundaries, physical aspects, valleys, and rivers, 68, 69; its flora and fauna, 69; inhabited by widely differing tribes, 69; their primitive paganism, 69; theories of their origin, and language, 69, 70; their tribal organization and strange customs and punishments, 70, 71; their late subjection and conversion to Muhammadanism, 70.

Kalāt-i-Ghilzai, fort in Kandahār province of Afghānistān, 76; its gallant defence (1842) under Craigie by the

- 12th Pioneers (Indian Army), whence their name and motto 'Invicta,' 76.
- Kandahār province of Afghānistān, its districts, physical aspects, population, and climate, 71, 72; name probably connected with Indian Gandarii of Greek writers, 71.
- Kandahār city, the capital of the province, 72-75, its situation, wall, and ditch, gates, streets, and quarters, 72, its insalubrious climate, 73; an important trade centre with large customs, 73; the tomb of Ahmad Shāh Durrāni and 180 Sunni mosques, 72; its central position and great strategical importance, 73; its history from Greek to modern times, 73-75.
- Kanishka, the greatest of the Scythian rulers of Afghānistān, 10; his services to Buddhism, 10, his successors, 11.
- Kapilavastu (Nepāl), ancient capital of the Sākya, ancestral home and birth-place of Gautama Buddha, 106, 125, 126; its recent (1895) discovery and excavations, 106, 126, pillars of Asoka, 126.
- Kāres, subterranean aqueducts for irrigation in Afghānistān, 30.
- Kātmāndu, capital of Nepāl, 126-128; population of 70,000, 126; legend of its foundation in A.D. 723, of its early name, and of the lake occupying its present site, 127; once the seat of the Newār kings, 127; its high walls and gateways now demolished or ruinous, 127; a labyrinth of narrow, filthy streets, leading into open squares (tols), 127; brick houses with court-yards and façades and balconies decorated with wood-carving, 127; the royal palace or Darbār, 127; the Khot, the scene of the massacre of 1846, 127; its picturesque appearance, due to Chinese architecture of temples, 128; good water-supply, 128; school, hospitals, and free library, 128; king, Minister, nobles, and British Resident live outside the city, 128; average rainfall and temperature, 96; trade routes from, to Tibet and British India, 120, 121.
- Kāzis (Afghānistān), subordinate magistrates, assisted by Muftis, administering Muhammadan and code law, 39.
- Keane, Sir John, in command during early stages of first Afghān War, 14.
- Kinchinjunga (Kānchenjungā), a mountain in Eastern Himālayas, on Sikkim-Nepāl boundary, second only to Mount Everest, 125.
- Kirātas, a dynasty of Nepāl, helped the Pāndavas, 97.
- Kizilbāshis (Afghānistān), immigrant Persianized Turks, Shiahs, largely engaged in urban and civil occupations, 25, their walled quarter in Kābul, 57.
- Knox, Captain, first (1802) British Resident in Nepāl, 101.
- Koh-i-Bāba range in Afghānistān, 3, 49, 50.

L.

- Lake Victoria (Wood's Lake, the Sarikol), in the Great Pāmīr, 5, the source of the Pāmīr river, 5.
- Lakes in Afghānistān, 5; said to be several in Nepāl, 93.
- Land-ownership, equal division of land in Afghānistān, 32; causes that maintain a peasant-proprietorship, 32; ryotwāri tenure in Nepāl, 116.
- Land revenue in Afghānistān, 40, 41; paid largely in kind, 40; based on average produce and variously assessed, 40; its payment no protection from arbitrary exactions of chiefs and their followers, 41.
- Land revenue in Nepāl, rent on ryotwāri tenure, variously estimated, and not oppressive, 116.
- Language in Afghānistān, Pashtū or Pakhtū, the national tongue, 25; the spreading use of Persian, 25, 26; other languages and dialects, 26.
- Language of Nepāl, a Tibeto-Himālayan branch of the Tibeto-Burman family, 109; languages of the tribes, 109, 110.
- Lapis lazuli found in Kokcha valley in Afghānistān, 35, 88.
- Lash Jawain, a fort in the Farrah province of Afghānistān, 76; extensive old Arab ruins, 76.
- Lawrence, Sir John, his interview (1857) with Dost Muhammad, 15.
- Lead, frequent occurrence of, in Afghānistān, 34, with silver, 34.
- Literature of Pashtū, in prose and poetry, 26.
- Lumsden, Sir Peter, his mission to Dost Muhammad at Kandahār, 16; member of Joint Commission (1884-8) to delimitate Afghān and Russian boundaries, 19.
- Lytton, Lord, his unsuccessful negotiations (1873-7) with Sher Ali, 16.

M.

- Macnaghten, Sir William, special Envoy (1839-41) at Kābul, 14; his assassination by Dost Muhammad's son, 14, 58.
- Madder, abundant in Western Afghānistān and exported to India, 30.
- Mahmūd, the Iconoclast (998-1030), the greatest of the Ghaznivids, 11, 62; his wide rule, plunder of India, and muni-

- ficent encouragement of literature and art, 11, 62.
- Mahmūd Shāh, dethroned (1803) by his brother Shāh Shujā, 13; restored (1809), 13; deposed (1818) by the brothers of his blinded and murdered Wazīr, 13.
- Maimana, head-quarters of district in Afghān-Turkistān, 85, 86; a large decayed town, with an important exchange trade, 86; its motley population and history, 86.
- Maiwand, defeat (1880) of British troops by Ayūb Khān, 17, 75.
- Malaria in Afghānistān, 29; in Kābul city, 57; in Kandahār, 73.
- Malaria in Nepāl, of Tarai, 96; of valleys between Sandstone range and Lower Himālayas in rainy season, 96; immunity of the Thārus, 96.
- Marble, white and green, quarries of, in Afghānistān, 35.
- Marco Polo, on Hindu Kush, 48, 49.
- Mārkhōr*, the, a wild goat found in the mountains of Afghānistān, 9.
- Marriage customs in Afghānistān, 27, 28; purchase of wives and easy divorce, 27; rules about widowhood, 27; exogamy frequent, 28; polygamy to the extent of four wives lawful but a luxury, 28; polyandry unknown, 28; in Hindu Kush, 49.
- Marriage customs in Nepāl, of Newārs, 108; of Gurkhas, 108.
- Mayo, Earl of, his friendly interview (1869) with Sher Ali, 16.
- Mazār-i-Sharif, capital of Afghān-Turkistān, 86; a growing town and trade centre, 86; its baseless sanctity, 86; its history, 86.
- Medicine in Afghānistān, a complete ignorance by native hakims of its science and practice, 44; employment by Amirs of English lady doctors and qualified Indian hospital assistants, 45.
- Medicine in Nepāl, two male hospitals, one female, with Indian surgeons, 124, 128; vaccination, 124.
- Melons, various, abundant and excellent in Afghānistān, 31.
- Merv, occupation of (1884), by Russians, 18, 19.
- Meteorology of Afghānistān, 9, 10. See also Climate, Rainfall, Temperature.
- Minerals of Afghānistān, no expert report or identification of valuable, 33-35; a monopoly of the Amir, 36; considerable in Badakhshān, 89.
- Minerals of Nepāl, undeveloped but supposed to be great, 119; copper, iron, and sulphur plentiful, 119.
- Minister or Prime Minister, the real ruler of Nepāl, 106, 122, 123.
- Monasticism (Buddhist), its disappearance from Nepāl since Gurkha conquest, 111, 112.
- Monopolies of Amir of Afghānistān, 36; of Nepāl State, 121.
- Mosques at Kābul city, 58; 180 (Sunni) at Kandahār, 72; of Bābar, 23, 58.
- Mountain system of Afghānistān, 3, 4, 46, 50; of Kāfiristān, 68, 69; of Afghān-Turkistān, 81; of Badakhshān, 87.
- Mountain system of Nepāl, 91, 92, its four zones of Tarai, of Sandstone range, of Lower and Higher Himālayas, 91, 92, 125.
- Mughlis or Maulais, a distinct religious sect in Hindu Kush, 48; identified with the 'Assassins' and the Druses of Lebanon, 48; the Agha Khān of Bombay their spiritual leader, 48.
- Muhammad Ghorī, the greatest of the Ghorids, 11, 64, 65.
- Muhammad Ishāk Khān, his revolt (1888), 19.
- Muhammadanism, the religion of Afghānistān, 27; tolerated in Nepāl, 112.
- Mullās, their influence and functions, in Afghānistān, 27; their general ignorance and bigotry, 44; conduct popular education in the Korān, 44; the Khān-i-Mullā at Kābul, reference to, of disputed cases in law, 39.
- Mutiny, the Indian, fidelity of Dost Muhammad during, 15, 16; help rendered by Jang Bahādūr, 104.

N.

- Nādir Shāh, his conquest (1738) of Afghānistān, 12; sack of Delhi, 12. Local references to: Kābul city, 57; Kandahār city, 74; Farrah, 75; took Herāt, 79.
- Nepāl, the kingdom of, the land of the Gurkhas, a Native State, general view of, 91-124; Kātmāndu, the capital of the kingdom, 93; special and local notices, 125-129; its independence in the management of internal affairs, 105; control of foreign relations by Government of India, 105; its principal obligation, to receive a British Resident at Kātmāndu, 105, 128; in its political status compared with Afghānistān and Native States, 105, 106; the Prime Minister the real ruler, 106, 122.
- Nepāl, the Mahārāj Dhirāj or sovereign of, a dignified figure-head, like the Mikado, 106; the present king, 104.
- Nepāl, the name, preserves the name of the Newār dynasty, 97.
- Nepāl, Valley of, its position and configuration, 93; its river, Bāghmati, and its gorge, 93; its geology, 95; climate and rainfall, 96; cultivation, 115.
- Nepālese War (1814-6), 101, 102; its

- immediate causes, 101; British advance from western frontier, 102; British losses and repulses, and death of General Gillespie at Kalanga, 102; success (1815) of Sir David Ochterlony, and treaty of peace concluded, not ratified, 102; advance (1816) of a large British force from Bettiah, to within three days' march of Kātmāndu, 102; Nepālese sue for peace, and ratify (1816) the previous treaty, 102; terms of the treaty, 102.
- Newār kingdoms, the (Nepāl), 97, 98; the reforms of king Jayasthitimalla, 98; kingdoms in eighteenth century of Bhātgaon, Kātmāndu, and Pātan constantly at variance, 99; Rānjit Mal of Bhātgaon's application to king of Gurkhas for help, 99; the disastrous results, and final overthrow of Newār dynasties, 99.
- Newārī, the ancient state language of Nepāl, and the vernacular of Central and Eastern Nepāl, 110.
- Newārs (Nepāl), a tribe of Mongolian origin, 97; inhabitants of Valley of Nepāl, 109; their occupations and physical characteristics, 109; their marriage customs, 108; their language, 110; mostly Buddhists, 111; their superstitions, 112; great flesh-eaters, 112; dress, 113; the skilled mechanics and artisans of Nepāl, 119, 120; as coolies across the hills to British India, 120; the chief traders, 121; not allowed to bear arms, 123; the majority in the three towns, 125, 126, 129.
- Nickel, occurrence of, with gold at Kandahār, 34.
- Nilābi*, boatmen of Kābul river, between Jalālābād and Dobandī, 52.
- Nott, General, held Kandahār in first Afghān War, 15, 74; retook Ghazni and carried off its gates, 15, 62 and (n.), and joined Pollock in forcible occupation of Kābul, 15, 74.
- O.
- Ochterlony, Sir David, his skilful operations (1815) in Nepālese War, 102.
- Oil plants, abundant in Afghānistān, 30.
- Oil-shales, found in Band-i-Turkistān, 34.
- Opium, places of its not large production in Afghānistān, 30; a monopoly of the Amīr, 36.
- Opium, in the Tarāi of Nepāl, 116.
- Oxen, generally used for draught purposes in Afghānistān, 32.
- Oxus (Turkī, Аксu), river basin, course, and tributaries, 4, 53, 54, 81; the frontier between Irān and Turān, 53; its disputed source, 53; the boundary between Afghānistān and Bokhāra, 154; flows into Aral Sea, 53; its valley once a seat of Buddhism, 82.
- P.
- Pāmīr river, its source in Lake Victoria, 5.
- Pāmīrs, subject of negotiations (1893) between British and Russian Governments, 20; source of the Oxus, 53.
- Panjdeh, defeat (1885) of Afghāns at, by Russians, 19; negotiations before and after, 19.
- Paropamisus*, the name of a range of mountains and of the division of the Persian empire north of the Kābul river, 10, 77.
- Pārsiwāns (of Persian descent), in Kandahār province, 71. See Tajiks.
- Pashtū or Pakhtū, the national language of the Afghāns, a branch of the Aryan or Indo-Iranian family, 25; its literature, 26.
- Passes, of Kābul valleys, 5; of Hindu Kush, Khāwak, 46; Dorah, 46; Shibar and others of Koh-i-Bāba, 49, 50; Khyber and others of Safed Koh, 4, 50.
- Passes from Nepāl to Tibet, 91; river passes through the Sandstone range, 92; from the Valley of Nepāl, 93.
- Pātan (Lālita Pātan), one of chief towns of Nepāl, with a population of about 30,000, 128; described by Dr. Wright, 128, 129; resembles Kātmāndu, 128; once the capital of an independent kingdom, 98; captured by Prithwī Nārāyan, 99.
- Pepper (Nepāl), much cultivated and famous for its delicacy, 115.
- Persia, its ancient possession of Kandahār, 73, of Herāt, 79; recent designs (1836) of, upon Herāt, 14, 79; capture (1856) and relinquishment (1857) of Herāt, 15, 80; demarcation of boundary with, 20; routes to, 37 See also Herāt and Kandahār.
- Persian empire, the four divisions or satrapies comprising modern Afghānistān, 10.
- Persian language, its spreading use in Afghānistān, 25; in official correspondence and in towns, 26; in Herāt province, 77; in Afghān-Turkistān, 83.
- Peshāwar territories annexed (1849) to British India, 15.
- Physical aspects of Afghānistān, 2-10.
- Physical aspects of Nepāl, 90-96.
- Plains of Afghānistān, their limited extent, 41; of Herāt, 78; of Afghān-Turkistān and Oxus, 81.
- Police and jails in Afghānistān, arrangement of, 44.
- Pollock, General, forced Khyber Pass and relieved Jalālābād, 15, 68; occupied Kābul (1842), 15, 58.

- Polygamy in Afghānistān, lawful but limited to four wives, confined to rich, 28; not uncommon in Nepāl, 108.
- Population of Afghānistān, roughly between $4\frac{1}{2}$ and 5 millions, 23; probably much larger of old, 23; of Kābul city, 56; of Kandahār, 72; of Herāt, 78.
- Population of Nepāl, roughly not more than 4 millions, 107, 108.
- Postal system in Afghānistān, primitive, 37, 38; supply of impressed stamps in use from 1872-1902 exhausted, 37; rarity of early stamps, 37; letters posted and delivered in larger towns only, 37; no telegraph, 38; Amīr's domestic telephone, 38.
- Postal system in Nepāl, between Kātmāndu and British India, and internal, 121, 122; at Kātmāndu, 128; no telegraph, 121.
- Postins*, sheepskin coats largely made in Afghānistān, sold and exported, 35, 63.
- Pottinger, Eldred, Political Agent, his escape (1841) from Chārikār, 62; his splendid services (1837) at Herāt against besieging Persians, 79.
- Powindas, native traders plying in armed caravans between India and Bokhāra, 36, 37; their method and route, 36; carry no arms in British territory, 36.
- Prices of wheat in Afghānistān compared with wages, 33; of food in Kābul city, 57.
- Prisoners in jail in Afghānistān always numerous, 44; their employment, 44.
- Prithwī Nārāyan, king of the Gurkhas, applied to by Newār king for help, 99; his encroachments, 99; ineffectual British aid and conquest of Nepāl (1769) by Gurkhas, 99.
- Pyne, Sir Salter, superintended construction of workshops in Kābul city, 60.
- R.
- Races of Afghānistān, (a) Afghān, Durānis, Ghilzais, and Shinwāris, 23, 24; (b) non-Afghān, usually speaking Persian, 24, 25.
- Races of Nepāl, originally Mongolian, 108; the Gurkhas of mixed origin, 109. See also Tribes and clans and castes.
- Rainfall of Afghānistān, rare in summer owing to absence of monsoon, 9; average rainfall at Kābul, 10.
- Rainfall of Nepāl at Kātmāndu, 96.
- Ran Bahādur Sah, grandson of first Gurkha king of Nepāl, 100; regency of his uncle till 1795, 100; his accession, atrocities, and (1800) abdication, 100; exile at Benares and conclusion (1801) of treaty, 101; reception (1802) of Captain Knox as Resident at Kātmāndu, 101; intrigues of Darbār and withdrawal (1803) of Resident, 101; return and death (1804) of Ran Bahādur Sah, 101.
- Ranjit Singh (1780-1839), his conquest of Kashmīr and designs upon Peshāwar, 13; the failure of Burnes's mission (1836) to make pence between him and Dost Muhammad, 14; his treaty with Shāh Shujā and the British, 14; his refusal to allow passage of British troops, 14.
- Religion of Afghānistān, a very elementary and superstitious Muhammadanism, 27; the only common bond of union, 23; weakened by bitter sectarianism of Sunnis and Shiah, 23; traces of original Hinduism and of fire-worship in Hindu Kush, 48, 49, and Kāfiristān, 69; the independent sect of Mughlis, 48.
- Religion of Nepāl, 110-112; Hinduism and Buddhism equal in numbers and rights, 110; Buddhism much modified by Hinduism, 111; Muhammadanism tolerated, but not Christian missions, 112.
- Rents and leases in Afghānistān, 32, 33; in Nepāl, 116.
- Resident, British: attempts to enforce one upon Afghānistān, 14, 17; in Nepāl, 101, 105, 128.
- Revenue of Afghānistān, of unknown amount, its principal sources and present (probable) amount, 40, 41; its increase since 1856, 40; expenditure always well below income, 40; land revenue largely paid in kind, 40, 41.
- Revenue of Nepāl, entirely managed by Minister and chief treasurer, 123; its increase and probable amount, 123; its chief sources, 116, 120, 121, 123.
- Rice, the most common crop in Nepāl, 115.
- River systems and basins in Afghānistān of the Oxus, the Helmand, the Kābul, 4, 5.
- River systems and basins in Nepāl, river basins of the Kauriālā, of the Gandāk (Sapt Gandakī), of the Kosi (Sapt Kosi), 92, 93.
- Roads and routes in Afghānistān to India, Badakhshān, Bokhāra, Persia, and Seistān, 37, 73, 77; no wheeled carriage of persons or merchandise, 37.
- Roads and routes in Nepāl, trade routes (not roads) with Tibet, 120, with British India, 120, 121; absence of easy communications part of a deliberate policy, 121.
- Roberts, General (now Lord), his march (1879) by Kurram route and forcible occupation of Kābul, 17, 58; his march (1880) from Kābul to relief of Kan-

- dahār, and total defeat of Ayūb Khān, 18. Local references to: Kābul city, 58; Ghazni, 63; Kandahār, 75.
- Robertson, Sir George, his missions to Kāfiristān and theory of origin of Kāfirs, 69, 70.
- Rosaries of chrysolite, largely made at Kandahār and exported principally to Mecca, 35.
- Rubies, found in crystalline limestone near Jagdalak, 34; in Badakhshān, 88, 89.
- Russia, Afghān boundary with, 1; negotiations and demarcations of in 1873, 16; occupation of Merv (1884) and appointment of joint-commission for demarcation, 18, 19; the Panjdeh incident, 19, negotiations in 1893, 20; Russian mission to Dost Muhammad, 14, to Sher Ali, 16; Russian and British spheres of influence, 16, 20; trade with, 35, 36, 73, 79, 85, 89.
- Rustāk, town and most important trade centre in Badakhshān, 89, 90; population mainly Persian-speaking Tājiks, 89; its manufactures in iron, 90.
- Ryotwārī*, the prevailing tenure in Nepāl, 116.
- S.
- Safed-Koh, a terminal branch of the Koh-i-Bāba range of Western Afghānistān, 3.
- Safed-Koh range of Eastern Afghānistān, 3, 4, 50, divides Afghānistān from Indus Valley, 4, the Khyber and other passes, 4, 50; forests of, 7.
- Sāfis, originally a Kāfir tribe, 25, 66, 67, 70.
- Sale, General Sir Robert, held and defended Jalālābād in first Afghān War, 15, 68; Fort Sale, 68.
- Salt, rock-, largely mined in Badakhshān, 34, 88.
- Sanitation in Afghānistān, generally absent, of Kābul city, none, 56, 57; of Ghazni, none, 63; of Kandahār city, 73; of Herāt city, 78; of Faizābād, none, 89.
- Sanitation in Nepāl, of Kātmāndu and Bhātgāon, a system of drainage introduced by Sir Bīr Shamsher, 105, but otherwise bad, 127, 128; of Pātan, bad, 128.
- Sankarācharyā, visit to Nepāl and reform of Hinduism, 97.
- Sar-o-Tar, in Afghān-Seistān, Major M'Mahon's description of its famous ruins, 22, 23.
- Scenery of Afghānistān, 2, 3; the many-hued carpet of spring flowers, 8; of Hindu Kush, 46; of Kābul, 57, 60; of Istālif, 65, 66; of Kāfiristān, 69; of Herāt, 78.
- Scenery of Nepāl, 93, 94.
- Scythian invaders and rulers of Afghānistān, their overthrow of Greek and Parthian power, 10; their great Buddhist king, Kanishka, 10; his successors in the Kābul valley, the Turkī Shāhīs, 11.
- Seistān, trade routes to, from Kandahār, 73, 77.
- Seistān Hāmūn, lake, the receptacle of the Helmand river, 4, 5.
- Seleucid dynasty, foundation and decline of, 10, 73, 79, 82.
- Shāh Shujā, grandson of Ahmad Shāh, seized (1803) his brother's throne, 13; his unpopularity, 13; defeated, dethroned, and finally (1815) a refugee in the Punjab, 13; replaced (1839) on the throne by British force early in first Afghān War, 14; rising in Kābul, massacre of British envoy, soldiers, and prisoners (1841-2), 14, 15; punitive expedition and assassination of Shāh Shujā (1842), 15. Local reference to: Kandahār, 74.
- Shahāb-ud-dīn Muhammad (1173-1206), the greatest of the Ghoriids and conqueror of North India, 11, 64, 65; virtual founder of first Muhammadan empire of Delhi, 11.
- Sheep (Afghānistān) white and brown, 32; large exports of wool, 32.
- Sher Ali, succeeded (1863) his father Dost Muhammad, 16, 74; unsuccessful British negotiations with, 16; second Afghān War, 16; flight (1878) and death, 16, 17, 75.
- Shiahs, a small minority in Afghānistān persecuted by Sunnis, 23; the Hazāras, 61; numerous in Kandahār city, but have no mosque, 72; their forcible conversion by Sunnis in Badakhshān, 87.
- Shins, of Hindu Kush, their beliefs and customs, 49.
- Sikarām, highest summit of Safed-Koh range, 3.
- Silk, best produced in Afghān-Turkistān and taken to Bokhāra and Meshed, 35; also produced and manufactured at Herāt and Kandahār, 35; one of the chief imports into Nepāl, 21.
- Silver mines, once worked in Panjshīr valley and near Herāt, 34; silver found with lead, 34.
- Siwāliks (Nepāl) or Sandstone range, hills immediately above Tarai, 91; scenery of, 94, malarious climate of, 96.
- Slavery (Afghānistān) and slave traffic, declared illegal and punished by late Amir, 28; serf cultivators without wages, 32.

- Small-pox, in Afghānistān, 29; in Nepāl, 108, 124.
- Snakes abundant everywhere in Afghānistān, 9; vipers, the cobra, and Echis carinata, 9.
- Subsidies from Government of India, to Dost Muhammad, 15; to Sher Ali, 16; to Abdur Rahmān, 12 lakhs raised to 18 (1893) annually, 20; to his successor, 21, 40.
- Sunnis, a persecuting majority in Afghānistān, 23.
- T.
- Tājiks (Pārsiwāns), a non-Afghān, indigenous, subject race, 24; their distribution, language, and occupations, 24; in Hindu Kush, 48; in Istālif, a fine military race, 65; in Balkh, 83; in Badakhshān, 87, 89.
- Tarai (Nepāl), lowland at foot of hills, 91; scenery of, 93, 94; fauna, 95, 117; malarious climate, 96; its rich soil and vegetable products, 116; the main source of revenue, 116; forests, 116, 117; grazing grounds, 119.
- Tashkurghān, the largest and richest town in Afghān-Turkistān and a principal trade mart, 86, 87.
- Taxes in Afghānistān, irregular and arbitrary, press heavily on cultivators and townsmen, 40, 41; in Nepāl, rents are light and government lenient in times of scarcity, 116.
- Temperature in Afghānistān, the extreme ranges of, 9; of different regions, 9, 10; mean average at Kābul, 10.
- Temperature of Kātmāndu (Nepāl), 96.
- Temples (Nepāl), numerous, of Chinese architecture in Kātmāndu, 128; in Pātan, 128, 129.
- Tertiary (geological) series in Afghānistān, 6, 7; the great divisions of, in Herāt Valley, Maimana, and Turkistān, 7.
- Tertiary, Upper, of Nepāl, 95.
- Thārus (Nepāl), aborigines of the Tarai, 96, 109, 118, 119; their apparent immunity there from malaria, 97; their resemblance to Kāchins of North-Eastern Burma, 119; inveterate hunters, but also able cultivators, 119; are losing their individuality, 119.
- Tibet, boundary line with Nepāl, 1; passes and custom houses, 1; invasion of (1791), by Gurkhas, 100; their defeat by its suzerain, China, 100; hostilities (1854) with Nepāl, 104; treaty concluded whereby Tibet is bound to annual tribute, encouragement of mutual trade, and to reception of representative of Nepāl at Lhāsa, 104; trade with and routes to, 120.
- Timūr Lang, his devastation and subjection of Afghānistān and sack (1398) of Delhi, 11, 12, 22; his descendants, Bābar and Akbar, 12.
- Tobacco, grown in Afghānistān wherever climate allows, 30; in the Tarai of Nepāl, 116.
- Trade of Afghānistān, 35-37; no general statistics, 35; with British India, value and nature of exports and imports, 36; crushed by heavy imposts, 36; with Russia, Bokhāra, and elsewhere, 35, 89; trade routes and roads, 37; armed caravans of Powindas, 36, 37; of Kābul city, 60; of Jalālābād, 68; of Kandahār city, 73; of Herāt, 78, 79; centres of, Maimana, 86, Tashkurghān, 87, Faizābād, 89, Rustāk, 89, 90.
- Trade of Nepāl, (1) with Tibet, its two chief routes high and hard, 120; revenue from, 120, chief imports and exports, 120; (2) with British India, centres and routes, 120; carriage by carts and coolies, 120, 121; value and chief items of export and import, 121; trade generally free, subject to duties, 121.
- Tribes and clans and castes of Afghānistān, 23-25; of Hindu Kush, 48, 49; of Kābul city, 56; of Jalālābād, 66, 67; of Kandahār, 71; of Herāt, 77, 78; of Afghān-Turkistān, 83; of Badakhshān, 87.
- Tribes and clans and castes of Nepāl, the military tribes or castes of the Gurkhas, of mixed origin, 108, 109; the Newārs and others, 109; the tribes and their languages, 109, 110, 111; Parbatya ('hill speech') the lingua franca, 110; the Thārus of the Tarai, 96, 109, 118.
- Turkistān, the native name of Afghān-Turkistān, 80.
- Turks in Badakhshān, their characteristics, 87.
- U.
- Uriāl (Ovis vignei), wild sheep, found in the hills of Afghānistān, 9, 48.
- Uzbek, a scattered population, chiefly in Afghān-Turkistān, 25, 84, 86, 87; their former rule, 83, 85.
- V.
- Vaccination in Nepāl, optional but spreading, 124.
- W.
- Wages of labour, in Afghānistān, 33.
- Water-supply, of Kābul city, excellent, 57; of Kandahār city, tolerable, 73; of Tashkurghān, good, 87; of Kātmāndu and Bhātgau, good, due to Sir Bir Shamsher, 105.

- Weights and measures in Afghānistān, ordinary system of, 41, 42; vary according to locality, 42.
- Wheat, the staple food of Afghānistān, 30, in Nepāl largely grown and much used to make beer and spirits, 115.
- Widows, remarriage of, in Nepāl, not allowed, but concubinage permitted, 108.
- Wine, manufacture introduced into Afghānistān by late Amīr, 31.
- Women in Afghānistān, their handsome features of Jewish cast, 26; rigidly secluded, save in Hindu Kush, 26, 49; bought as wives, 27, easily divorced, 27; their outdoor dress, 29; are slaves in Kāfiristān, 70, 71.
- Women in Nepāl, marriage customs of Gurkhas and Newārs, 108, dress and ornamentation, 113; may not be capitally punished, 122; hospital for, at Kātmāndu, 128.
- Wood-carving in Nepāl, 107; at Kātmāndu, 127, at Pātan, 129.
- Wool, largely exported from Afghānistān, 33, 36; barak and kurk, soft, warm, expensive cloths of, 35.
- Y.
- Yakūb Khān (son of Sher Ali), signed Treaty of Gandamak, 17, his flight and abdication, 17, 74.
- Z.
- Ziārats*, shrines of local saints (pīrs), on every hill-top in Afghānistān, 27.
- Zoology, see Fauna and Snakes.

