APPENDIX C.

Copy of Rule 431 of the Bombay District Police Manual, 1913.

431. When, in exercise of the powers given by section 128 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, a Magistrate or an officer in charge of a police-station engaged in dispersing an unlawful assembly is compelled, in the last resort, to direct the police acting under him to use their fire-arms, he shall give the rioters the fullest warning of his intention, warning them beforehand that the fire will be effective, that ball or buck-shot will be used at the first round, and that blank cartridge will not be used. Firing shall cease the instant it is no longer necessary. Care should be taken not to fire upon persons separated from the crowd, nor to fire over the heads of the crowd as thereby innocent persons may be injured. Blank cartridges should never be served out to police employed to suppress a riot.

(2) As policemen are liable to misunderstand military words of command conveyed to them otherwise than through the police officer in command and in the precise technical terms with which they are familiar, magistrates who have occasion to give directions in circumstances of a riot or affray to police acting under their orders will, as a general rule, communicate their orders to the policemen through the police officer in command.

APPENDIX G.

Copy of Articles I, V and VIII of the Sanad issued to the Maleks of the Thasra Taluka in the Kaira District.

This Sanad is issued on the part of Her Most Gracious Majesty, Victoria Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the Colonies and Dependencies thereof, by command and under the Signature of His Excellency the Honourable Sir Henry Bartle Edward Frere, Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, Knight Commander of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Her Majesty's Governor of Presidency of Bombay in Council, to the effect that—

Whereas you Mullek and your Co-sharers in the Wuzeh of the village of in the Thasrah taluka of the Kaira Collectorate, are heirs of the Mulleks with whom Captain Robertson made a settlement on the part of the British Government in the $\frac{\text{A. D.}}{\text{Samvat}}$ with respect to certain rights and privileges in the village of aforesaid, enjoyed from the time of the former Government; and whereas His Excellency Sir Henry Bartle Edward Frere, G.C.S.I., K.C.B., Her Majesty's Governor of Bombay in Council is desirous to confirm (subject to the condition of good behaviour and loyalty to the British Government) to you and your heirs for ever the rights and privileges aforesaid as now settled, consequent on the introduction of the revised revenue survey and assessment into the village; it is hereby declared as follows:—

Article I.

In the said village of there are acres and gunthas of Wuzellee land as set forth in Schedule A hereto annexed. On every rupee of the assessment of this Wuzellee land, you and your Co-sharers Mulleks of the said village, have a claim of annas and Government a claim of annas. The proportion of the said Wuzeh annas due to each shareholder is to be distributed and apportioned on the plan now existing, according to the share of each, as set forth in the Schedule A aforesaid, provided always that no further sub-division of shares than is set forth in the said Schedule shall be permitted or allowed, that is to say, as far as entries in Government accounts are concerned.

Article V.

In addition to any rights in the produce of trees and grass which the Mulleks possess at present according to existing custom, and with which the provisions of this Sanad do not interfere, they shall enjoy the miscellaneous Revenue accruing from the sale of grass, grazing, produce of fruit trees, wood on waste Wuzellee lands, etc., in the same proportion as the Wuzeh, that is to say, in those villages in which Wuzeh is fixed at nine (9) annas in the rupee, they shall be entitled to 9 annas in the rupee of the miscellaneous Revenue aforesaid, and in villages where the Wuzeh is fixed at 7 annas in the rupee, to seven annas of the Miscellaneous Revenue.

Article VIII.

Though this Sanad and its Schedules have been issued in respect to the aforesaid person or persons mentioned therein, it is to be clearly understood that the rights and privileges herein confirmed and guaranteed and the terms and conditions herein laid down, shall equally hold good in respect to each and all shareholders in the "Wuzeh".

PRESENTATION OF ADDRESS TO H. R. H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The ceremony of the presentation of the address voted by the Council took place on Monday the 21st November 1921 at 12 o'clock noon at the Durbar Hall, Government House, Bombay.

The Honourable the President with the Deputy President and Members of the Legislative Council proceeded to the Durbar Hall at quarter to twelve and awaited the arrival of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. At 12 o'clock, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales with His Excellency the Governor and the staff entered the Hall and proceeded to the dais:

After His Royal Highness took his seat, Mr. A. Montgomerie, C.I.E., I.C.S., Political Secretary to the Government of Bombay, presented the Honourable Sir Narayan Ganesh Chandavarkar, the President of the Legislative Council, to His Royal Highness.

The Honourable the President, on behalf of the Members of the Council, read the address which was presented in a silver case.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS.

We, most dutiful subjects of Your Most Gracious Majesty, George V, and members of the Legislative Council of His Excellency the Governor of Bombay, beg leave to present to Your Royal Highness our humble and loyal welcome, and to pay before you our homage to our Most Gracious Sovereign, by whose will and pleasure as also by Your Royal Highness's warm impulses of love and sympathy for the people of India Your Royal Highness has undertaken this visit to our Motherland.

II. We beg to assure You, Sir, that Your Royal Highness comes amongst us as no stranger. The royal qualities of head and heart, of which you have given signal proofs, the readiness with which you entered the battle-field during the last war and heartened His Majesty's Army in defence of the Empire, and your visits to many parts of the British Empire where you have won golden opinions, have already made your name a household word amongst us as that of one determined to serve and strengthen the bonds of the Empire by your noble example of a strenuous life. Wherever Your Royal Highness has been—whatever part of the Empire you have honoured by your visit—you have by your human-heartedness struck the imagination and captured the hearts of His Majesty's subjects as the Future Hope of the British Commonwealth.

III. Nearly four hundred years ago, His Majesty, King Henry VIII of glorious memory, dreamt of and defined that Commonwealth as "a body politic, knit together," with the King and the people dependent on each other, both parts of one whole, "by all godly and politic means seeking the common wealth of the people and therefore called the British Commonwealth." Since the transfer of the Government of India from the East India Company to the British Crown, that spirit of the Commonwealth has formed the bond of aspiration and hope between the Royal Family and the people of this country. Your Royal Highness's great-grandmother, Her late Majesty the Queen-Empress Victoria the Good, drew the hearts of the people of this country to the British Throne by her Proclamation of 1858 and her unceasing interest in their happiness and prosperity. Your Royal Highness's father, our Most Gracious Sovereign, the King-Emperor George V, has twice visited India, His Majesty has moved freely among the people, and given them out of the abundance of his royal heart messages of Sympathy and Hope which still are cherished with devoted affection. And now Your Royal Highness's visit affords one more unmistakable proof that the heart of the Royal Family is with the people of India, and that undeterred by difficulties, living a full life of royal duty for the good of this ancient land as for the rest of the British Commonwealth, Your Royal Highness has come amongst us to bid India God-speed in the arduous work of national advancement that lies before her.

IV. In the speech which His Majesty the King-Emperor addressed to both Houses of the British Parliament on the 15th of February last, His Majesty, referring to India, was graciously pleased to say:—"The Duke of Connaught has inaugurated the new Councils in India and I pray that the assumption by my subjects in India of new political responsibilities may secure progress in administration and an early appeasement of political strifes." In joining in and repeating that prayer of His Majesty, while offering our humble and loyal welcome to Your Royal Highness, we assure You, Sir, that we are deeply conscious of our responsibilities as members of the new Parliament of this our Presidency. We recognize that a new spirit is abroad in the country and that it should be wisely directed by laws enacted to secure the progressive objects of sound and stable Government, removing all barriers of racial or political distinctions. Towards that end we realize the force of what Milton, one of the most unflinching supporters of civic liberty in England, said nearly three hundred years ago: "Freedom is the only safeguard of Government. So are order and moderation necessary to preserve freedom." In striving to discharge our responsibilities towards that end we hope to derive inspiration from your own princely example of selfless service for the good of the Empire, and from His Majesty's and your royal affection for the people of India.

It is our humble and devoted prayer that Your Highness's visit to India may prove both a source of happiness to You, Sir, and a lasting blessing to the people—the harbinger of peace towards all and of progress towards the realization of India's status as a self-governing member of the British Commonwealth.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales replied:

GENTLEMEN,

I thank you for your warm welcome and for the kind terms in which you have alluded to me. I will convey your loyal expression of homage to His Majesty the King-Emperor.

Your position and duties connect you in a direct manner with national progress in India. You may rest assured of my deep interest and sympathy in the advancement of this great country. It is my earnest prayer that your efforts in this behalf may prosper and that right instincts and true inspiration may guide you to secure the wellbeing of the people of this Presidency.

You have mentioned my experiences in the war. If I tell you something of the impressions which I took away from that struggle, I think it may have a bearing on your task. My comrades in the Great War came from many diverse parts of the Empire, but they had only one aim. They fought to vindicate Justice and Right, and to secure freedom, happiness and peace in the world for their fellow-citizens in the Empire. For this cause they were prepared to make any sacrifice and even to lay down their lives. They trusted each other : they worked with each other. Personal considerations and feelings, likes and dislikes, were laid aside ; they all laboured together with patience and endurance, one single purpose guiding them to a single goal. The sacrifices, which these men made, were not in vain. The cause for which they worked prevailed. They won freedom, happiness and peace for their fellow men in the Empire.

The days of peace have now come. The work which lies before you is instinct with a no less noble aim than that for which the comrades in the Great War fought and fell. Your efforts to secure your aim will call for the same qualities of unselfishness and sacrifice, of patience and endurance and of mutual trust which helped those men to make good. May you be fortified by their example and may your work for the welfare of the people of the Presidency be crowned like theirs with success.

Gentlemen, I thank you once again for the good will which you speed me in my task. The encouragement, which my journey. I trust that bodies in Bombay, strengthens me at the out know and love India better and my experiences, as I proceed, will help gratifying account of the progress of enable me to carry to His Majesty's gratifying account of the progress of this great country.

All the members, at the conclusion of His Royal Highness's reply, were presented by the Honourable the President.

His Royal Highness, His Excellency the Governor and suite then left the Hall amidst cheers.
