Acknowledgement

In preparing this study, first and foremost, gratitude is due to those who participated in it as respondents. Despite cynicism and a sense of suspicion that can invariably overtake a person after being in prison of any sort of communication, most of the respondents bore patiently with the lengthy questioning, and gave off themselves freely and generally amicably to the exacting demands of the investigator. Almost equal gratitude is owed to the staff at Yervada Women's Prison particularly the Jailor, Teacher and Wardens who helped overcome not merely a language barrier but also, on occasion a personality barrier for the investigator.

To the Office of Inspector General of Prisons, Poona and to the excellent research and statistical outfit there, indescribable appreciation and gratitude are due for their readiness to share what they knew, and to encourage a search for whatever might not be known.

My guide, Mrs. Kumudini Dandekar has shown extraordinary patience as well as faith and it is her continued interest and guidance that have allowed this difficult research assignment to be carried through to its completion.

Finally, I would be failing if I did not mention my three daughters, two of whom were born during the course of this study. At the time of writing they are 8, 5, and 4 years old. All three have been mature, eager observers and well-wishers, encouraging their mother to complete what had been started. For many hours of play and mother-child interaction that have been by-passed on account of this study, I felicitate my girls and thank them, and their father, for their supportive presence.
