The Council of the G. I. P. A. Institute of Public Affairs desire to make it clear that papers published and speeches delivered under the auspices of the Institute are not to be taken to represent necessarily the views or policies of the G. I. P. A. as such. Generally, the writer or the speaker is individually responsible for his statements; and the Institute's object is limited to providing opportunity and means for the communication of ideas and knowledge which, in its judgement, deserve the attention of the public and the authorities concerned.

NOTE

The need to revise the Draft Constitution of India in respect of nine very important points is urged in this Note for the attention of the Constituent Assembly by Mr. M. Ramaswamy, a distinguished lawyer, whose well-known studies in constitutional law have by their learning and insight elicited warm commendation from competent authorities. The Council of the Gokhale Institute of Public Affairs, in issuing this Note to the public, trusts that the citizen in general will also find it useful as an elucidation of certain matters fundamental to his liberty and well-being. The Council is grateful to Mr. Ramaswamy for this timely and valuable contribution in furtherance of one of the principal objects of the GIPA which is to promote the dispassionate and scientific study of public questions.
