PREAMBLE

Extracts from the original Preamble to the Constitution of the Society written by the illustrious founder the late Gopal Krishna Gokhale, in 1905.

For some time past the conviction has been forcing itself on many earnest and thoughtful minds that a stage has been reached in the work of nation-building in India when, for further progress the devoted labours of a specially trained agency applying itself to the task in a true missionary spirit are required. The work that has been accomplished so far has indeed been of the highest value. The growth during the last fifty years of a feeling of common nationality based upon common traditions and ties, common hopes and aspirations, and even common disabilities has been most striking. The fact that we are Indians first, and Hindus, Mahommedans, Parsees or Christians afterwards is being realised in a steadily increasing measure, and the idea of a united and renovated India marching onwards to a place among the nations of the world, worthy of her great past, is no longer a mere idle dream of a few imaginative minds, but is the definitely accepted creed of those who form the brain of the community-the educated classes of the country. A creditable beginning has already been made in matters of education and of local self-government; and all classes of the people are slowly but steadily coming under the influence of liberal ideas. The claims of public life are every day receiving wider recognition, and attachment to the land of our birth is growing into a strong and deeply cherished passion of the heart. The annual meetings of Congresses and Conferences, the work of public bodies and associations, the writings in the columns of the Indian Press – all bear witness to the new life that is coursing in the veins of the people. The results achieved so far are undoubtedly most gratifying, but they only mean that the jungle has been cleared and the foundations laid. The great work of rearing the superstructure has yet to be taken in hand, and the situation demands on the part of workers devotion and sacrifices proportionate to the magnitude of the task.

The Servants of India Society has been established to meet in some measure these requirements of the situation . Much of the work must be directed towards building up in the country a higher type of character and capacity than is generally available at present, and the advance can only be slow. Moreover, the path is beset with great difficulties; there will be constant temptations to turn back; bitter disappointment will repeatedly try the faith of those who have put their hand to the work. But the weary toil can have but one end, if only the workers grow not faint-hearted on the way. One essential condition of success in this work is that a sufficient number of your countrymen must now come forward to devote themselves to the cause in the spirit in which religious work is undertaken. Public life must be spiritualised. Love of country must so fill the heart that all else shall appear as of little moment by its side. A fervent patriotism which rejoices at every opportunity of sacrifice for the motherland, a dauntless heart which refuses to be turned back from its objects by difficulty or danger, a deep faith in the purpose of providence which nothing can shake- equipped with these, the worker must start on his mission and reverently seek the joy which comes of spending oneself in the service of one's country.

The Servants of India Society will train men, prepared to devote their lives to the cause of the country in a religious spirit and will seek to promote, by all constitutional means the national interests of the Indian people. Its members will direct their efforts, principally towards (1) creating among the people by example and by precept, a deep and passionate love of the motherland, seeking its highest fulfilment in service and sacrifice; (2) organizing the work of political education and agitation, basing it on a careful study of public questions and strengthening generally the public life of the country; (3) promoting relations of cordial goodwill and co-operation among the different communities; (4) assisting educational movements especially those for the education of women, the education of backward classes and industrial and scientific education; (5) helping forward the industrial development of the country; (6) the elevation of the depressed classes.

Dr. P. K. P. Nair continues to supervise the programmes started with Sevagram as Centre by the Rural Development Wing of the Servants of India Society.

Of the 103 Ambar Charkhas distributed among five villages, it has been found that only 80 Ambar Charkhas were being used; and yet production in 1986-87 increased to about 95,000 hanks from about 60,000 hanks in 1985-86. The increase in production is the result of enhancement of the rates by Khadi Commission from 40 paise to 50 paise per hank. The Ambar Charkha programme has been nothing more than an employment guarantee to women. It may be realised that at full capacity working, 80 Ambar Charkhas could have produced about 3 lakhs and 20 thousand hanks.

The bricks and tiles unit set up with our help about six years ago, continued to function satisfactorily. In the current year, no country tiles were produced, but 10 lakhs bricks, many pots and clay images were produced. The unit has become independent and our help to the proprietor is now only marginal.

During the year, eight sets of harmonium and tablas were distributed to village Bhajan Mandals, on the condition that the villagers bear half the cost.

Two extension workers were continuously moving around the villages. Drainage channels were constructed in two villages for a total length of 1500 ft.; part of the cost was recovered from the villagers, the rest being financed by Bajaj Foundation.

The Rural Repair Workshops continues to function satisfactorily. The Rural Marketing Centre established with the assistance of the Central Handicrafts Board had a turn-over of about Rupees Three lakhs Thirty Thousand in 1986-87.

The Centre has been receiving financial assistance from PAD for their horticultural development programme. Under this programme, orange, guava and mango plants were distributed to the villagers. Improved bear plants from Rajasthan have also been received for distribution.

The Centre maintains a nursery development plot. The plants include subabool, bamboo, lemon and jack. The Centre also helped in the social forestry programme by planting in waterlogged areas about 5000 eucalyptus, 4000 subabool and 15000 babool.

Under the auspices of the Centre, a PADI camp was held at Sevagram for which 85 people from 5 States participated.

With the help of the Dairy Development Department of the Government of Maharashtra, a modernisation scheme for dairy was inaugurated. The purpose is to get dual purpose cows - for milk and for efficient bullock progeny. The scheme is mainly in terms of backward crossing of the available cross-breed animals. Under the same scheme, the centre has been able to popularise production of fodder in village lands, the varieties being Napier, M-P-Cherri, Sudan grass, Maize, Berseem and fodder jowar.

Nair has initiated a survey on the ecological aspects of agriculture and animal husbandry with respect to the improved practices promoted by the Government. The survey would aim to draw a "balance sheet", in terms of effects produced in a holistic sense, including sociological aspects.

LEGACY OF GOKHALE

" What is the moral of Gokhale's life ? What legacy has he left for us ? These questions were answered by Gokhale himself in his last words to the members of the Servants of India Society who were Present beside his death bed : Don't waste your time in writing a biography or setting up a statue, but pour your whole soul into the service of India. Then only shall you be counted among her true and faithful servants ".

--- Gandhiji---Gokhale my Political Guru.

Gokhale taught me not to glorify the country in language but to spiritualize its political life and institutions. He inspired my life and is still inspiring it in that I wish to purify myself and spiritualise myself. I have dedicated myself to that ideal. Political life must be an echo of our private life. There cannot be any divorce between the two. "

---Gandhiji---Gokhale, my Political Guru.

" The man who leads the life of goodness, whose instincts are good, who is full of gentleness, who is the embodiment of truth and who has fully shed his ego, is a Dharmatma, a man of religion, whether he knows it or not".

---Gandhiji---Gokhale my Political Guru.

" Gandhiji thought of Gokhale as an ideal Mahatma in his own heart, gave him a place therein, aspired to the realization of that ideal in himself, and in his own life manifested on a larger scale whatever virtues he perceived in his master".

--- K. G. Mashruwala
