

Walter H. Page

THE
LIFE AND LETTERS
OF
WALTER H. PAGE

Sir Edward Grey (now Viscount Grey of Fallodon), Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, 1905-1916

THE
LIFE AND LETTERS OF
WALTER H. PAGE

BY
BURTON J. HENDRICK

VOLUME
II

LONDON: WILLIAM HEINEMANN, LTD.

PRINTED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

CONTENTS
VOLUME II

CHAPTER	PAGE
XIV. THE "LUSITANIA" AND AFTER	1
XV. THE AMBASSADOR AND THE LAWYERS	53
XVI. DARK DAYS FOR THE ALLIES	81
XVII. CHRISTMAS IN ENGLAND, 1915	103
XVIII. A PERPLEXED AMBASSADOR	128
XIX. WASHINGTON IN THE SUMMER OF 1916.	148
XX. "PEACE WITHOUT VICTORY".	189
XXI. THE UNITED STATES AT WAR	215
XXII. THE BALFOUR MISSION TO THE UNITED STATES.	248
XXIII. PAGE—THE MAN	295
XXIV. A RESPITE AT ST. IVES	321
XXV. GETTING THE AMERICAN TROOPS TO FRANCE	349
XXVI. LAST DAYS IN ENGLAND	374
XXVII. THE END	404
APPENDIX	407
INDEX	425

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

Sir Edward Grey	Frontispiece
	FACING PAGE
Col. Edward M. House. From a painting by P. A. Laszlo	88
The Rt. Hon. Herbert Henry Asquith, Prime Minister of Great Britain, 1908-1916	89
Herbert C. Hoover, in 1914	104
A facsimile page from the Ambassador's letter of November 24, 1916, resigning his Ambassadorship	105
Walter H. Page, at the time of America's entry into the war, April, 1917	216
Resolution passed by the two Houses of Parliament, April 18, 1917, on America's entry into the war	217
The Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Prime Minister of Great Britain, 1916—	232
The Rt. Hon. Arthur James Balfour (now the Earl of Balfour), Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, 1916-1919	233
Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade, 1916-1918, Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, 1918.	344

	FACING PAGE
General John J. Pershing, Commander-in-Chief of the American Expeditionary Force in the Great War	345
Admiral William Sowden Sims, Commander of American Naval Forces operating in European waters during the Great War.	360
A silver model of the Mayflower , the farewell gift of the Plymouth Council to Mr. Page.	361

INDEX

INDEX

- Age*, Louisville, connection with, I 32
- Aid to stranded Americans in Europe on outbreak of war, I 304, 307, 329
- Alabama* claims, the framed check for, in British Foreign Office, I 390, II 78
- Alderman, Dr. Edwin A., early efforts in behalf of public education, I 73, 78; stricken with tuberculosis, but recovers health, I 120; on committee to lecture in England, II 346.
- Letters to*: expressing fear and hope of Wilson, I 121; on meeting of the Southern and the General Education Boards, I 125; after Wilson's inauguration, I 128; while enroute to port as Ambassador, I 129; on changed world conditions, II 142
- Ambassador, some activities of an, I 159; as a preventer of calamities, I 166
- America and Great Britain, only free countries in the world, II 121
- American Government, slight regard for by British, I 145, 152, 190, II 153; strong feeling against uncourteous Notes of, II 74; on handling of Lusitania case, II 79; on being under German influence, II 80, 97
- American Luncheon Club, could not adhere to neutrality, II 230
- American Navy, its aid in combatting the submarine, II 294
- American supremacy, a before-the-war prophecy, I 144; why the British will acknowledge, I 170
- Ancona*, torpedoed, II 79 note
- Anderson, Chandler P., counsel for Committee for relief of stranded Americans, I 307; backs up Ambassador in neutrality letter to Wilson, I 373; gives reasons why unwise to demand adoption of Declaration of London, I 387
- Anglo-American-German "pact," planned by Wilson and House, I 281
- Anglomania, charged against ambassadors, I 257
- Anti-Imperialists, protest declaration of war against Spain, I 62
- Arabic*, sinking of, thought surely to bring on war, II 26
- Arbitration Treaty, renewal of, I 285; significance of Germany's refusal to sign, I 294
- Archbold, John D., attempts to explain Foraker letters, I 88
- Archibald, James, trapped by British secret service, II 101
- Asquith, H. H., opposition to the House of Lords, I 137; at state dinner to King Christian, I 167; hint to, on Mexican situation, I 185; conciliatory remarks at Guildhall banquet, I 210; explains Dardanelles preparations, I 430; his ministry suspected of pacifist or "defeatist" tendencies, I 430; aged by the war, II 141; conversation with, regarding Casement case, and relations between Great Britain and America, II 168; refuses to discuss Wilson's peace note, II 207; in House of Commons speech welcomes America as ally, II 230; inclined toward seeking peace, II 353
- Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf, at the home of, II 380
- Atlantic Monthly*, editor of, I 53
- Atlantic Ocean, a blessing to America, I 162, 170, 310; II 117
- Austrian Embassy, left in charge of American Ambassador, I 305, 321; difficulties incident to, I 345
- Aycock, Gov. Charles B., efforts in educational reform, I 85; commendatory letter from, I 86
- Babcock, Commander, arrival in England, II 274
- Bacon, Senator Augustus O., declared he would have blocked Page's Ambassadorship had he known he was author of "The Southerner," I 93, 226
- Baker, Secretary Newton D., sees the war at first-hand, II 364; dinner at Embassy to, II 364, 370; Page's memorandum of his visit, II 366
- Baker, Ray Stannard, visit at Sandwich, II 384
- Balfour, aged by the war, II 141; drafts reply to Wilson's peace note, II 212; reply to question how best America could help, II 219; on the disposition of the German colonies, II 246; friendliness toward United States averts crisis in Venezuela dispute, II 249; much concerned at feeling toward British in the United States, II 251; his home life, II 257; conference with Bonar Law and, over financial help from America, II 261; satisfactory conference with Mr. Polk over black-list and blockade, II 265; explains "secret

- treaties" to President Wilson, II 267; conference with McAdoo on financial situation II 267; sends dispatch to President Wilson substantiating previous reports of Page and Sims on submarine peril which were not taken seriously, II 284; indignant over misunderstanding with Brazilian Navy, II 304; at the Embassy dinner to Secretary Baker, II 365, 370; at train to bid good-bye, II 402; most affected at leave-taking, 403
- Balfour Mission to the United States, II 249 et seq.
- Barclay, Esther, Mr. Page's maternal grandmother, I 6
- Bayard, Thomas F., accused of Anglowanie while Ambassador, I 257
- Beckendorff, Count, talk with, II 82
- Belgium, violation of, the cause of Great Britain's participation in the war, I 315; sending food supplies to aid starving, I 346
- Benham*, misunderstanding over American destroyer's action during submarine operations off Nantucket, II 253
- Benton, William S., Englishman, murdered in Mexico, I 285
- Beresford, Lord Charles, complains of attitude of Foreign Office in pacifying America, I 365; makes speech in House of Lords on attitude of U. S. Destroyer Benham, II 253
- Bernstorff, Count von, objectionable activities of, I 335; efforts to secure intercession of the United States toward peace, I 403; at the Speyer dinner, I 404; instructed to start propaganda for "freedom of the seas," I 436; gives pledge that liners would not be submarined without warning, II 30 note; thought in England to dominate our State Department, II 80; cable proposing suspending of submarine war, II 149; threatens President Wilson with resumption of submarine sinkings unless he moves for peace, II 200; news of his dismissal received in London, II 215
- Bethmann-Hollweg, not seen by Colonel House, I 289; tells King of Bavaria peace must be secured, II 181
- Biddle, General, at the Embassy dinner to Secretary Baker, II 365, 370
- Bingham School, studies and environment at, I 16; selected for honour prize by Ambassador, I 17
- Blacklist, feeling in America over the, II 184; conditions change on American entry into war, II 264, 265, 266
- Blanquet, General, in Mexican uprising, I 175
- Bliss, General Tasker, wisdom and tact impress the Allies, II 351
- Blockade, British, compared to our blockade in Civil War, II 55 et seq.; the American Note protesting against, II 69
- Blockade, strong feeling in America against, II 184
- Bolling, Thomas, at President Wilson's luncheon, II 171
- Bones, Miss, at President Wilson's luncheon, II 171
- Boy-Ed, dismissal of, II 108
- Brazilian Navy, ships join American unit in European waters, II 304
- Breitung, E. N., makes test case with Dacia registry, I 393
- British Navy League, activity in keeping up the navy, I 284
- Bryan, William Jennings, uncomplimentary editorial on, in World's Work, I 87; attitude toward concession holders in Mexico, I 181; refuses to consider intervention in Mexico, I 193; an increasing lack of confidence in, I 193; tirade against British, to Sir William Tyrrell, I 202, to Col. House, I 206; Asquith's opinion of, 236; Page's appeal to Colonel House that he be kept out of Europe, I 235, 236; regards Ambassador as unneutral, I 362; insists that Great Britain adopt the Declaration of London, I 373, 377; interested in the Strans peace proposal, I 407; resignation after Lusitania notes, II 6; proposes going to England and Germany to try peace negotiations, II 12
- Bryan, comments on his political activity but diplomatic laxity, I 194, 225, 236; crank once, crank always, II 27; democratic party wrecked by his long captaincy, II 190
- Bryce, Lord, hopeless of the two countries ever understanding one another, II 39; concern at our trivial notes, II 67; conversation with, on misunderstandings between America and Great Britain, and the peace settlement, II 165; depressed at tenor of Wilson's note proposing peace, sends him personal letter, II 207; in House of Lords speech welcomes America as ally, II 230; frequent visitor at the Embassy, II 315; attitude toward a League of Nations, II 357
- Burns, John, resigns from British Cabinet on declaration of war, I 316
- Buttrick, Dr. Wallace, intimacy with, I 85; efforts in building up Southern agriculture, I 94; in hookworm eradication, I 99; lectures on the United States throughout Great Britain, II 291; his speeches a source of inspiration to British masses, II 345; asked to organise a committee of Americans to extend the work, II 345; informed by Colonel House of Wilson's disapproval, II 348; warns Page of breakdown if he does not at once return to America, II 375; beneficial effects of his lectures, III 388

- Canterbury, Archbishop of, in House of Lords speech welcomes America as ally, II 231; on gratitude shown to America, II 245
- Carden, Sir Lionel Edward Gresley, his being sent to Mexico, a British mistake, I 187; anti-American propaganda in Cuba, I 196; as British Minister to Mexico shows great hostility to the United States, I 197; formally advises Huerta to abdicate, I 209; Page's part in recall from Mexican post, I 215 et seq.
- Carlyle, Thomas, new letters from, discovered in Canada, I 60
- Carnegie, Andrew, visit to, at Skibo, I 142
- Carranza, Venustiano, thought by Wilson to be a patriot, I 227, 228
- Carson, Sir Edward, resists the Home Rule Bill, I 137; at Bonar Law dinner, II 119; tells Lloyd George submarines must be settled before Irish question, II 260
- Casement, Sir Roger, trial and conviction inspire movement from Irish-Americans resulting in Senate resolution, II 166
- Cecil, Lord Robert, incident of the "Boston Tea Party," I 392; receives German proposal from Page as "German Ambassador," II 201; letters to Sir C. Spring Rice on Germany's peace proposal, II 201, 202; Page's interview with to explain Wilson's peace communication, II 208; at train to bid good-bye, II 402
- Chamberlain, Senator, presents petition demanding Ambassador's removal, I 259; demands Senate be furnished with copy of Panama tolls speech, I 260
- Chancery, removal of, to better quarters, I 341
- Children, crusade for education of, I 72
- China case, the, satisfactorily settled, II 154, 155
- Choate, Joseph H., understanding of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, I 242; accused of Anglomania while Ambassador, I 257
- Christian, King, royal reception to, I 167
- Christmas in England, 1915, II 103
- Churchill, Winston, proposal for naval holiday, I 277, 278, 279, 298
- Civil War, first contact with, I 1; his father's attitude toward, I 5; early recollections of Sherman's invasion, II 10; the aftermath, I 13
- Clark, Champ, opponent of repeal of Panama Tolls Bill, I 264
- Cleveland, President, an influence in formation of ideals, I 40; conversation with, I 40
- Cotton, the question of contraband, I 267
- Country Life Commission, appointed on, by President Roosevelt, I 89
- Court, presentations at, I 156, 172
- Courtesies in diplomatic intercourse, necessity for, I 147, 190
- Cowdrey, Lord, head of British oil concessions in Mexico, I 181; withdraws request for Colombian oil concession, I 217; long talk with on intervention in Mexico, I 225; great monetary loss in giving up oil concessions, I 227
- Cradock, Admiral, does not approve American policy toward Mexico, I 230
- Crewe, Marquis of, on Page's tact as Ambassador, II 397.
- Criticisms and attacks on Ambassador Page; the "knee-breeches" story, I 133; Hearst papers watching for opportunity, I 149, 261; furor over "English-led and English-ruled" phrase, I 258; speech before Associated Chambers of Commerce, on Panama tolls, I 259
- Cuba, a problem, I 176
- Curzon, Lord, in House of Lords speech welcomes America as ally, II 230
- Dacia* incident, the, a serious crisis averted, I 392, II 4
- Daniels, Josephus, protest made against his appointment to Secretaryship of Navy, I 119
- Dardanelles: Asquith explains preparations, I 430
- Daughters of the Confederacy, considered not helpful to Southern regeneration, I 44
- Davis, Harry L., Mayor of Cleveland, letter to, expressing regret at not being able to attend meeting for purpose of bringing England and America closer together, II 405
- Davis, Jefferson, call on, I 37
- Declaration of London, Bryan insists on adoption by Great Britain, I 373, 377; history of the articles, I 375; the solution of the difficulty, I 385
- Declaration of War, America's, and its effect in Great Britain, II 230 et seq.
- Delcassé, Kaiser makes proposal to, to join in producing "complete isolation" of the United States, II 192
- De Kalb, Courtney, congratulations from, I 59
- Dent, J. M., loses two sons in the war, II 111; opinion of Asquith, II 116
- Depression in England, the dark days of the war, II 64, 81, 94
- Derby, Lord, "excessive impedimenta," II 344; at the Embassy dinner to Secretary Baker, I 365, 370
- Dernburg, Bernhard, instructed to start propaganda for "freedom of the seas," I 436
- Desart, Earl of, formulates Declaration of London, I 375
- Diaz, Porfirio, authority maintained by genius and force, I 175
- Dilettanti, Society of, dinners at, II 312
- Doubleday, Frank N., joins in publishing venture with S. S. McClure, I 64; the Harper

- experiment, I 65; has "business" visit from a politician, I 88
- Letters to:* impressions of England, I 138; absent the Christmas holidays, etc., I 164; Christmas letter, 1915, II 110; impressions of Europeans, II 132; on America's programme after declaration of war, II 224; on wartime conditions and duties, II 240; on the good showing of the Americans in war preparation, II 324; depressed at long continuation and horrors of the war, II 325
- Doubleday, Page & Co., founding of the firm, I 66; attains great influence and popularity, I 86
- Dumba, Dr. Constantin, given his passports, II 30 note
- Duncan, Dr., president of Randolph-Macon College, I 20
- Education: efforts in behalf of Southern child, I 72; church system declared a failure, I 78; organization of Southern Educational Conference, I 83; Southern Education Board organized, I 84; General Education Board founded by John D. Rockefeller, I 84; the South's awakening, I 85
- England, why unprepared for war, II 35; changed and chastened, II 342
- Englishwoman's letter from Berlin giving Germany's intentions toward England, America, and the world, I 347
- "English-led and English-ruled," furor over phrase, I 258
- "Excoorators," disregarded, I 80-83
- Falkenhayn, cynical toward proposals of Colonel House, I 289
- Farming, love of, and home in South, I 115, 127, 128
- Field, Eugene, succeeds to desk of, on St. Joseph Gazette, I 36
- Fisher, Lord, remark that Balfour was "too much of a gentleman" for First Lord of the Admiralty, II 101
- Flexner, Dr. Abraham, cites Page as greatest educational statesman, I 85
- Flexner, Dr. Simon, interested in hookworm campaign, I 100
- Foraker, Senator Joseph B., career destroyed by exposure of Archbold-Standard Oil letters, I 88
- Forbes, Cameron, fails to see President Wilson on his return from Philippines, II 174
- Ford, Henry, the venture in the peace ship, II 110 note
- Forgotten Man, The, address at Greensboro, I 74
- Forum*, The, made of great influence and a business success, under editorship, I 49
- Fosdick, Harry Emerson, on proposed committee to lecture in England, II 346
- Fowler, Harold, in London, I 134; sent to Belgium, I 338; enlists in British Army, I 358
- France, not in favour of England reducing naval programme, I 284; a gift of a billion dollars to, proposed, II 218
- "Freedom of the seas," Colonel House's proposed reform, I 435
- French, Field Marshal Sir John, informs Page of undiplomatic methods of State Department in peace proposals, I 425, 427; aged by the war, II 141
- Frost, W. G., writes for Atlantic Monthly, I 60
- Fryatt, Captain, execution of, hardens British people to fight to finish, II 182
- Garfield, President, assassination deplored throughout the South, I 39
- Gates, Dr. Frederick T., interested in hookworm campaign, I 99
- Gaunt, Captain, sends news from Washington of Bernstorff's dismissal, II 215
- General Education Board, organized by John D. Rockefeller, I 84; assists Dr. Knapp in agricultural demonstration work, I 96
- George V, received by, I 135; very likeable, I 157; overwrought condition in speaking with Page on declaration of war, I 309; much distressed at tenor of Wilson's note proposing peace, II 207; as a "human being," II 235; night spent with, II 236, 240; luncheon to General Pershing, II 237; telegram of regret at resignation of Mr. Page and ill-health that occasioned it, II 397
- German Embassy, left in charge of American Ambassador, I 306; difficulties incident to, I 306, 345, 359
- Germany: ridicules idea of naval holiday, I 279; would have been victorious in World War had she signed arbitration treaty with United States, I 294; attempts to embroil the United States and Great Britain, I 393, 400; move for peace, 1916, II 179
- Germany, travels in, in 1877, I 30
- Gilderleeve, Professor, Basil L., at Johns Hopkins University I 24, 25; Page a favourite pupil of, in Greek, II 299
- Gilman, Daniel Coit, constructive work as president of Johns Hopkins University, I 23
- Godkin, E. L., writes for Atlantic Monthly, I 60
- Grady, Henry, kindness of, I 34, 37
- Great Britain and the United States only free countries in the world, II 121
- Great Britain's participation in the war, the cause of, I 315
- Greek, proficiency in, I 21, 24, 25, 30; II 299
- Grey, Lord, ex-Governor-General of Canada, I 150

- Grey, Sir Edward, credentials presented to, I 135; high regard for, I 150; his fairness facilitates diplomatic business, I 155; talks with on Mexican situation, I 184, 185, 188, 199; informed as to Carden's activities, I 219, 220; asked to meet Colonel House at luncheon, I 245; note to Sir C. Spring Rice on Wilson's address to Congress on Tolls Bill, I 254; criticized for "bowing too low to the Americans," I 261; depressed at extent of Anglophobia in the United States, I 266; evinces satisfaction at clearing up of problems, I 285; weeps as he informs Page of ultimatum to Germany, I 309, 315; "subservience" to American interests, I 364; accepts Declaration of London with modifications, I 384; joking over serious affairs, I 390; welcomes Page's solution of the Dacia tangle, I 394; letter to Sir Cecil Spring Rice regarding Speyer-Straus peace proposal, I 408; states war could be ended more quickly if America ceased protests against seizure of contraband, I 421; talk on detained shipping and Wordsworth poems, II 103; "a God's mercy for a man like him at his post," II 118; aged by the war, II 141; satisfactory settlement of the China case, II 155; speech in House of Commons on Peace, II 157; nothing but praise heard of him, II 159; memorandum of conversation with, on conditions of peace, II 160; receives Senate Resolution asking clemency for Sir Roger Casement, II 167; forced to resign, because he refused to push the blockade and risk break with America, II 233; guest with Mr. and Mrs. Page at Wilsford Manor, II 288; walk to Stonehenge with, II 292; serious blockade questions give way to talks on poets, II 305; promises government support of Belgian Relief plan, II 310; frequent visitor at the Embassy, II 315
- Letters from:* congratulations on Wilson's address to Congress advising declaration of war, II 234; expressing grief at Page's departure and citing his great help, II 400
- Haldane, Viscount, at Thanksgiving Dinner of the American Society, I 213; discussion with Von Tirpitz as to relative sizes of navies, I 278; knew that Germany intended war, II 35
- Hall, Admiral William Reginald, brings news of Bernstorff's dismissal, II 215
- Hanning, Mrs. Robert, sister of Thomas Carlyle, I 60
- Harcourt, Right Honourable Lewis, eulogizes work of International Health Board, I 101
- Harden, Maximilian, says Germany must get rid of its predatory feudalism, II 193
- Harper & Brothers, difficulties of, I 64
- Harrow, visit to, and talk to schoolboys, I 17
- Harvey, George, succeeds Page as editor of Harper's, I 66
- Hay, John, understanding of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, I 242; accused of Anglomania while Ambassador, I 257
- Hays, Sir Bertram, captain of the Olympic, races ship to hasten Page's homecoming, II 404
- Hearst, William Randolph, used by Germans in their peace propaganda, I 410, 411
- Hearst papers, antagonism of, I 149, 256, 264, 286
- Hesperian*, submarined in violation of Bernstorff's pledges, II 30
- Hewlett, Maurice, his son among the missing, II 115
- Home Rule Bill, Carson threatens resistance to, I 137; "division" in House of Lords, I 138
- Hookworm eradication, efforts in, I 98
- Hoover, Charles L., war relief work while American Consul at Carlsbad, I 334
- Hoover, Herbert C., relief work at beginning of war, I 333; selected by Page for Belgian Relief post, II 310
- House, Colonel Edward M., wires Page to come North, expecting to offer Secretaryship of Interior, I 118; transmits offer of Ambassadorship, I 130; on Cowdray and Carden, I 218, 220; meets Sir Edward Grey to talk over Panama, Tolls question, I 246; mission to the Kaiser a disappointment, I 289; no success in France, I 297; fancied security in England, thinks his mission unnecessary, I 298; telegrams, to and from Wilson on proffering good offices to avert war, I 317, 318; declares bill admitting foreign ships to American registry "full of lurking dangers," I 392; declares America will declare war on Germany after Lusitania sinking, II 2; sees "Too proud to fight" poster in London, II 6; recommends Page's appointment as Secretary of State, II 11; fails to alter Wilson's opposition to Taft Committee visiting England, I 348
- Letters from:* reporting progress in Panama Tolls matter, I 253; plans to visit Kaiser and bring about naval holiday between nations, I 277; cites further plans for visiting Germany, I 281; respecting proposed trip to Germany, I 285, 286, en route, I 288; note from Berlin, I 296; from Paris, I 297; on the outbreak of the war, I 299; transmitting Wilson's warning to adhere more strictly to neutrality, I 362; explains the toning down of demands that Declaration of London be adhered to, I 378; on German peace proposals, and giving his ideas for a settlement, I 413; proposing that Wilson start peace parleys, I 416; thinks Germany ready for peace proposals, I 424, 425; decides to visit combatants in interests

- of peace, I 425, 429; talks in Berlin with Zimmermann and others regarding peace parleys, I 432, 433, 434; on appointment of Lansing to succeed Bryan, II 11; on Bryan's intentions of going to England and Germany to try peace negotiations, II 12; reporting success of Balfour Mission, II 263
- Letters to:* comparing the Civil War with the World War, I 5; on the Mexican situation, I 189; asked personally to deliver memorandum to President on intervention in Mexico, I 194; on visit of Sir William Tyrrell to the United States, I 201; letters to Page on Mexican situation, I 205, 206; on Mexican question, I 210, 211; on Lord Cowdray and oil concessions in Mexico, etc., I 216; protesting publication of secret information respecting Carden, I 223; suggesting intervention in Mexico, I 230; on serious disadvantage in not having suitable Embassy, I 233; on rashness of Bryan's visit to Europe, I 235; appeal for attention to cables and letters by State Department, I 239; on necessity of repeal of Panama Tolls Bill, I 247; on the prevention of wars, I 270; asked to further plan to have Wilson visit England, as a preventative of European war, I 275; favouring alliance of English-speaking peoples, I 282; on French protest against reduction of British naval programme, I 283; transmitting pamphlets on "federation" and disarmament, I 284; told he will have no effect on Kaiser, I 287; reply to note as to prevention of the war, I 300; describing conditions in second month of the war, I 327; on the horrors of war, and the settlement, I 340; on difficulties of Sir Edward Grey with Army and Navy officers in releasing American cargoes, I 365; on evil of insisting on Declaration of London adoption, I 380; regarding the Straus peace proposal, I 410; explaining there can be no premature peace, I 417; on harmlessness of Bryan on proposed peace visit and cranks in general, II 13; commenting on slowness of Wilson in Lusitania matter, II 26; on sinking of Arabic, II 27; not interested in "pleasing the Allies," II 28; on Dumba's intrigues, and Wilson's "watchful waiting and nothing doing," II 30, 31, 37, 38; on the lawyer-like attitude of the State Department, II 54; the best peace programme—the British and American fleets, II 69; on uncourteous notes from State Department, II 72; on British adherence to the blockade, and an English Christmas, 1915, II 103; on the conditions of peace and the German militarism, II 134, 157; on prophecy as to ending the war by dismissal of Bernstorff, II 197; on the beneficial visit of the Labour Group and others, II 387
- Houston, David F., suggested to Wilson for Secretary of Agriculture, II 114; has proper perspective of European situation, II 176
- Letters to:* impressions of diplomatic life, II 151; suggesting vigorous action of Administration in prosecuting the war, II 226; on American cranks being sent to England, others prevented, II 359
- Houston, Herbert S., letters to, giving impressions of England, I 139
- Huerta, General Victoriano, seizes presidency of Mexico, I 175; attitude of Great Britain and the United States toward recognition; I 180; an epochal figure, I 183; rejects proposals submitted by Lind, I 193; proclaims himself dictator, I 197
- Huxley, Thomas H., delivers address at opening of Johns Hopkins University, I 25
- International Health Commission, endowed by John D. Rockefeller, I 100; coöperation by British Government, I 101
- Irish Question, the, British difficulties with, I 159; cause of feeling against British in the United States, II 251; Wilson requests Great Britain to settle, II 255; Lloyd George striving for solution, II 259
- James, Henry, frequent visitor at the Embassy, II 315
- Jeanes Board, appointment to, I 89
- Jellicoe, Admiral Sir John, vigilance in war time, I 335; after battle of Jutland, II 141; reply to question how best America could help, II 219; drafts dispatch explaining seriousness of submarine situation which Balfour sends to President Wilson, II 285
- Johns Hopkins University, teaching on new lines, I 23
- Johnston, Miss Mary, noted serial of, in Atlantic Monthly, I 56, 61
- Judson, Harry Pratt, on proposed Committee to lecture in England, II 346
- Jusserand, opinion of the Straus peace proposal, I 407
- Keller, Helen, persuaded to write "Story of My Life," I 90
- Kent, Mr., forms American Citizens Relief Committee in London at outbreak of war, I 304, 307
- Kerr, Philip, conversation with on future relations of the United States and Great Britain, II 84
- Kipling, Rudyard, loses his son in the war, II 115
- Kitchener, Lord, speech in House of Lords a disappointment, II 96; criticism of, II 120;

- Memorandum after attending service in memory of, II 140
- Knapp, Dr. Seaman A., his "Demonstration Work" in Southern agriculture, I 95; his funeral, I 96
- Kropotkin, Prince Peter, writes Memoirs for Atlantic Monthly, I 61
- Lane, Secretary Franklin, comment on feeling against British for conduct in Huerta affair, I 198
- Lansdowne, Marquis of, letter favouring premature peace severely criticized, II 327, 353
- Lansing, Robert, regards Ambassador as unneutral, I 362; a lawyer, not a statesman, I 369; insistence that Great Britain adopt Declaration of London, I 378 et seq.; attitude of lawyer, not statesman, II 53; arguments against British blockade, II 62; mind running on "cases", not diplomacy, II 176; answers Page's letter of resignation, transmitting President Wilson's request to reconsider and stay at his post, II 199
- Lassiter, General, encouraged on trip to the front, II 245
- Laughlin, Irwin, First Secretary of the Embassy, I 133; requested to ascertain Great Britain's attitude toward recognition of Huerta, I 180; tells Colonel House he will have no success with Kaiser, I 285; on Germany's intentions toward America, I 351 note; as to depressing effect of the war on Page, I 357; backs up Ambassador in neutrality letter to Wilson, I 373; gives opinion that persistence is unwise in demanding acceptance of Declaration of London, I 387; Wilson's comment to, on Page's letters, II 22; diplomatically presents to Sir Edward Grey the Senate Resolution asking clemency for Casement, II 167; letters from, on occasion of Germany's 1916 peace movement, II 180; commended to President Wilson in letter of resignation, II 394
- Law, Bonar, gives depressing news from the Balkans, II 104; dinner with, II 119; reply to question how best America could help, II 219; conference with Balfour and, over financial help from America, II 261
- Lawrence, Bishop, on proposed committee to lecture in England, II 346
- Leadership of the world, American, II 105, 110, 145, 254
- League to Enforce Peace, Page's opinion of, II 144; Sir Edward Grey in sympathy with objects of, II 163; Lord Bryce, remarks as to favourable time for setting up such a league, II 165
- Leaks in diplomatic correspondence, gravity of, I 147, 148, 151, 222, 223, 224, 235, II 7, 276
- Lichnowsky, German Ambassador at London, almost demented at breaking out of the war, I 306, 309, 315; places blame for war on Germany, I 322
- Lincoln, Abraham, monument to, erected at Westminster, I 274
- Lind, John, failure of mission to Mexico, I 193
- Literary style and good writing, advice on, II 341
- Lloyd George, his taxing of the aristocracy, I 137; landowners fear of, I 158; at state dinner to King Christian, I 167; on the necessity of reducing navy programme, I 283; holding up under strain of war, II 83; aged by the war, II 141; in House of Commons speech welcomes America as ally, II 230; has the touch of genius in making things move, II 259; working for solution of Irish question, II 259; too optimistic regarding submarine situation, II 287; his energy keeps him in power, II 354; at the Embassy dinner to Secretary Baker, II 365, 370; congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Page on American success at Cantigny, II 375; letter expressing sorrow at Mr. and Mrs. Page's departure and reviewing their good work, II 398
- Loring, Charles G., marries Miss Katharine Page, II 87; in service on western front, II 375
- Loring, Mrs. Charles G., letters to, on travelling—and staying at home, II 88; autumn, gardens, family, and war news, II 92; Christmas letter, 1915, II 117; from St. Ives, II 332, 339
- Lowell, James Russell, accused of Anglomania while Ambassador, I 257
- Lusitania, torpedoed, I 436; bulletins of the tragedy received at the dinner given in honour of Colonel and Mrs. House, II 1; distress and disillusionment of the Wilson notes, II 6
- Madero, Francisco, overthrown as president of Mexico, and assassinated, I 175
- Mayflower Pilgrims, dedication of monument to, at Southampton, I 258
- Mayo, Admiral, sent to Europe to study naval situation, II 322
- McAdoo, Secretary, conference with Balfour Mission on financial situation, II 267
- McClure, S. S., joins forces with F. N. Doubleday, I 64; the Harper experiment, I 65; anecdote of, II 303
- McCrary, Lieut.-Commander, on Committee for relief of stranded Americans, 307
- McIver, Dr. Charles D., educational statesman, I 73, 74, 78; as the character, Professor Billy Bain, in "The Southerner," I 93
- McKinley Administration endorsed on measures against Spain, by Atlantic Monthly, I 63
- Mary, Queen, received by, I 136
- Mensdorf, Austrian Ambassador, marooned in

- London, at outbreak of war. I 305, 309; the war a tragedy to, I 321
- Mersey, Lord, comments on the tariff, I 150; at dinner of Dilettanti Society, II 312
- Mexico, "policy and principle" in, I 175 et seq.; difficulties of self-government, II 177; progress due to foreign enterprise, I 178; the problem of oil concessions, I 179, 181; intervention believed by Page the only solution, I 188, 193, 194, 200, 230, 273
- Mims, Professor Edwin, letter to, on attacks of Southern theologians, I 80
- Monroe Doctrine, the Kaiser's proposal to smash it, II 192
- Moore, John Bassett, suggestion that he be put in charge of American-British affairs, I 239
- Morley, John, at state dinner to King Christian, I 167; resigns from British cabinet on declaration of war, I 316; visitor at the Embassy, II 315
- Morley, Lord, on reforms, I 141
- Morgan, J. P., account of Allies with, greatly overdrawn at time of America's entrance into war, II 272; this paid by proceeds of Liberty Loans, II 273
- Morgan, J. P. & Co., in control of Harper & Brothers, I 64
- "Mummy" theme applied to the unawakened South, I 45, 75
- Munitions, American, importance of to the Allies, I 368
- Münsterberg, Prof. Hugo, pro-German activities of, I 335
- Navy Department, ignores urgent recommendations of Admiral Sims that destroyers be sent, II 276, 284
- Negro, the, the invisible "freedom", I 12; wrong leadership after the Civil War, I 14; fails to take advantage of university education during Reconstruction, I 18
- Negro education, and industrial training advocated, I 43
- Neutrality, strictly observed, I 358, 360; the mask of, II 230
- New York Evening Post, connection with, I 48
- New York World, correspondent for, at Atlanta Exposition, I 34; on editorial staff, I 35
- Northcliffe, Lord, illness from worry, II 66; "saving the nation from its government", II 116; attitude on Wilson's peace note, II 207
- Norway, shipping destroyed by submarines, II 281
- Nicolson, Harold, the silent toast with, II 301
- Ogden, Robert C., organizes Southern Educational Conference, I 83; after twenty years of zealous service, I 126
- O'Gorman, Senator, active in Panama Tolls controversy, I 243, 283
- "O. Henry," on Page's "complimentary" rejection of manuscripts, II 303
- Oster, Sir William, Page's physician, insists on the return home, II 393
- Pacifism, work of the "peace spies," II 210
- Pact of London, binding the Allies not to make a separate peace, I 409 note
- Page, Allison Francis, a builder of the commonwealth, I 4; attitude toward slavery and the Civil War, I 5; ruined by the war, I 13
- Page, Allison M., falls at Belleau Wood, II 392, 406
- Page, Anderson, settles in Wake County, N. C., I 4
- Page, Arthur W., Delcassé in conversation with tells of Kaiser's proposal to join in producing "complete isolation" of the United States, II 192; called to London in hopes of influencing his father to resign and return home before too late, II 393
- Letters to*; on the motor trip to Scotland, I 142; on conditions in second month of the war, I 335; a national depression and the horrors of war, I 344; emotions after Lusitania sinking, II 5; on the tendency toward fads and coddling, II 10; on the future relations of the United States and Great Britain, II 84; on the vicissitudes of the "German Ambassador to Great Britain," II 90; Christmas letter, 1915, II 121; on the attitude in the United States toward Germany, II 129; on the effect of the war on future of America, and the world, II 217; never lost faith in American people, II 223; on America's entrance into the war, II 238; on grave conditions, submarine and financial, II 287; on the occasion of the Plymouth speech, and the receptions, II 317; on the Administration's lack of confidence in British Navy, Wilson's reply to Pope, etc., II 322; Christmas letter, 1917, depicting a war-weary world, II 328; on pacifists—from the President down, II 337; views on Palestine, II 350; on personal diet, and the benefit of Secretary Baker's visit, II 369; on the anti-English feeling at Washington, II 385; while resting at Sandwich, II 388
- Page, Mrs. Catherine, mother and close companion, I 7; Christmas letter to, I 8
- Page, Frank C. in London, I 134; with his father in Rowsley when news of Arabic sinking was received, II 26; in service with American troops, II 375; realizes his father is failing fast and insists on his returning home, II 393
- Letters to*; on building up the home farm, and the stress of war, I 353; Christmas letter, 1915, II 121

- Page, Henry A., letters to, stating a government might be neutral, but no man could be, I 361; on illusions as to neutrality and the peace proposals, II 152
- Page, Miss Katharine A., arrival in London, I 134; married in the chapel Royal, II 87; see also, Loring, Mrs. Charles G.
- Page, Lewis, leaves Virginia to settle in North Carolina, I 3
- Page, Logan Waller, has proper perspective of European situation, II 176
- Page, Mary E., letter to, II 376
- Page, Ralph W., letters to; impressions of London life, I 161; on wartime conditions, I 352; Christmas letter, 1915, II 121; on longings for fresh Southern vegetables and fruits and farm life, II 335; on style and good writing, II 340; on the big battle, etc., II 371, 372; in praise of book on American Diplomacy, II 381; on success of our Army and Navy, II 390
- Page, Mrs. Ralph W., Christmas letter to, 163
- Page, Robert N., letters to, impressions of social London, I 153
- Page, Thomas Nelson, Colonel House confers with in regard to peace parleys, I 434
- Page, Walter Hines, impressions of his early life, I; family an old one in Virginia and North Carolina, 3; maternal ancestry, 6; close sympathy between mother and son, 8, 11; birthplace, and date of birth, 9; recollections of the Civil War, 10; finds a market for peaches among Northern soldiers, 14; boyhood and early studies, 16; intense ambition, 20; Greek Fellowship at Johns Hopkins University, 24; renewed for the next year, 27; early prejudices against Yankees, 28; travels in Germany, 1877, 30; lectures on Shakespeare, 30; teacher of English at Louisville, Ky., 32; enters journalism, 32; experience with Louisville Age, 32; reporter on, then editor of Gazette, at St. Joseph, Mo., 33; a free lance, 34; correspondent for N. Y. World at Atlanta Exposition, 34; on the staff of N. Y. World, 35; married, 37; first acquaintance with Woodrow Wilson, 37; Americanism fully developed, 40; regard for President Cleveland, 40; founds State Chronicle at Raleigh, 42; a breaker of images—of the South, 44; the "mummy letters," 45; instrumental in establishment of State College, Raleigh, 47; with N. Y. Evening Post, 48; makes the Forum of great influence and a business success, 49; a new type of editor, 50; editor of Atlantic Monthly, 53; discovers unpublished letters of Thomas Carlyle, 60; attitude toward Spanish American War, 62; the Harper experiment, 65; joins in founding Doubleday, Page & Co., 66; his policy for the World's Work, 66; public activities, 72; in behalf of education, 72; his address, "The Forgotten Man," 74; his Creed of Democracy, 78; work with General Education Board, 85; independence as an editor, 87; severely criticizes John D. Archbold for Foraker bribery, 88; appointed by Roosevelt on Country Life Commission, 89; other public services, 89; author of "the Southerner" 90; activities in behalf of Southern agriculture and Hookworm eradication, 94; his interest in Wilson's candidacy and election, 102, et seq.; discourages efforts to have him named for Cabinet position, 113; why he was not named, 118; protests against appointment of Daniels, 119; love for farming, 127, 128; offered Ambassadorship, 130; impressions of London and the Embassy, 132, 144; impressions of Scotland, 142; handling of the Mexican situation, 183; belief in intervention in Mexico, 193, 194; complimented by President Wilson, Bryan, and Sir William Tyrrell, 208; his part in the removal of Sir Lionel Carden from Mexican post, 215; commended by Wilson, 219, 221; suggested for Secretary of Agriculture, 232, 286; why he wished to remain in London, 240; work in behalf of Panama Tolls Bill repeal, 244; assailed for certain speeches, 258, 259; opposed to including Germany in international alliance, favouring understanding between English-speaking peoples, 282; difficulties at outbreak of the war, 301 et seq.; asked to take over Austrian Embassy, 305, German Embassy, 306; varied duties of war time, 337; difficulties in charge of German and Austrian and Turkish embassies, 345; relief work in starving Belgium, 346; ageing under the strain and the depressing environment, 357; difficulties of maintaining neutrality, 358; warned from Washington, 362; tactful handling of the demands that Declaration of London be adopted, 370, 373; writes Colonel House that he will resign if demands are insisted on, 383; memorandum of the affair, 385; his solution of the Dacia puzzle, 394; attitude toward a premature peace, 417; learns through General French of the undiplomatic methods of State Department in peace proposals, 425, 427
- VOL. II
- Humiliations from Washington's failure to meet the situation, 5; remarks on Bryan's resignation, 10; considered for appointment as Secretary of State, 11; his feeling toward policies of Wilson, 18; boldness of his criticism, 21; Wilson and Lansing express anxiety that he may resign, 24; describes Zeppelin attack on London, 34, 38; Christmas in England, 1915, 103; perplexed at attitude of the United

- States, 128; his impressions of Europeans, 132; summoned to Washington, 148; memorandum of his visit to Washington, 171; Impressions of President Wilson, 172; waits five weeks before obtaining interview, 183; disappointing interview at Shadow Lawn, 184; letter of resignation sent to Wilson, 189; and the reply, 199; delivers Germany's peace proposal to Lord Robert Cecil, 201; comments to Secretary of State on "insulting words" of President Wilson's peace proposal, 207; implores Wilson to leave out the "peace without victory" phrase from his speech, 213; learns of Bernsdorff's dismissal, 215; memorandum of his final judgment of Wilson's foreign policy to April 1, 1917, 222; memorandum written on April 3, the day after Wilson advised Congress to declare war, 228; on friendly footing with King George, 234; joins with Admiral Sims in trying to waken the Navy Department to seriousness of the submarine situation, 278; Page—the man, 295-320; moves for relief of Belgium, 310, and delegates Hoover, 311; Speech at Plymouth, 316; goes to St. Ives for brief rest, 332; heatedly referred to as "really an Englishman" by President Wilson, 348; memorandum on Secretary Baker's visit, 366; failing health, 374; resignation in obedience to physicians orders, 393; representatives from King, and Cabinet at train to bid good-bye, 402; rallies somewhat on arrival in America, 405; the end—at home, 406
- Page, Walter H. Jr., Christmas letter from his "granddaddy," II 124
- Page, Mrs. Walter H., arrival in London, I 134; plays part in diplomacy, I 215, 224, 226; her great help to the Ambassador, II 315; the last letter, II 395
- Palestine and Zionism, views on, II 351
- Panama Tolls, a wrong policy, I 190; Sir William Tyrrell's talk with President Wilson, I 207, 209
- Panama Tolls Bill, Wilson writes of hopes for repeal, I 222; repeal of, I 232 et seq., the bill a violation of solemn treaties, I 242; the contest before Congress, I 255
- Paris, capture of city thought inevitable, I 401
- Parliament, holds commemorative sessions in honour of America's participation in the war, II 230
- Pasha, Tewfik, leaves Turkish Embassy in charge of American Ambassador, I 345
- Peace, Germany's overtures, I 389; her first peace drives, I 398; Wilson's note to warring powers, received with surprise and irritation, II 205
- "Peace without Victory" speech, of President Wilson, and its reception in Great Britain, II 212
- Peace Centennial, plans being formed for, I 236, 274
- Pershing, General, at luncheon with King George, II 237; his presence of moral benefit to French Army, II 290
- Philippines, a problem, I 176
- Pinero, Sir Arthur, reminiscences of Page at Dilettante gatherings, II 313
- Plymouth, Mayor and Council, present the freedom of the city, II 402
- Plymouth Speech, inspires confidence in American coöperation, II 316
- Polk, Frank L., invited by British Foreign Office to consultation in England, II 248; "could not be spared from his desk," II 256
- Letter from:* on wonderful success of Balfour Mission, II 263
- Letters to:* on Balfour and his Mission to the United States, II 252; on Secretary Baker's visit, II 361
- Price, Thomas R., noted professor at Randolph-Macon, I 22
- Probyn, Sir Dighton, calls at Embassy, I 339
- Raboteau, John Samuel, Mr. Page's maternal grandfather, I 6
- Randolph-Macon College, studies at, I 20
- Rawnsley, Rev. Hardwicke Drummond, a subject of conversation, I 149
- Rayleigh, Lady, political ability, II 257, 258
- Rayleigh, Lord Chancellor of Cambridge University, II 145
- Reconstruction, more agonizing than war, I 14; effects of, upon State University, I 18
- Reed, John, account of Mexican conditions influences Wilson's policy, I 228
- Religion, deepest reverence for, I 80
- Rüs, Jacob, writes for Atlantic Monthly, I 60
- Rockefeller, John D., organizes General Education Board, I 84; publication of Reminiscences, I 88; founds Hookworm Commission, and International Health Commission, I 100
- Roosevelt, Theodore, writes for Atlantic Monthly, I 60; appoints Country Life Commission, I 89
- Letter to:* introducing the Archbishop of York, II 307
- Letter from:* praising the Ambassador's services, II 401
- Root, Elihu, understanding of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, I 242
- Rose, Dr. Wickliffe, dinner to, in London, as head of International Health Board, I 101; hookworm work, I 127
- Round Table, The, organization for study of political subjects, II 84; Round Table, The, organ of above, a quarterly publication, II 84, 105

- Royal Institution of Great Britain, address before, I 191
- Royce, Josiah, associate at Johns Hopkins, I 25
- Russian Collapse, effect on the Allies, II 353
- Rustem Bey, Turkish Ambassador, given passports, II 49 note
- St. Ives, Cornwall, seeking rest at, II 332
- St. Joseph Gazette, connection with, I 33, 37; succeeds to Eugene Field's desk, on I 36
- Sackville-West, Sir Lionel, handed his passports by Cleveland, II 33 note
- Sargent, John, frequent visitor at the Embassy, II 315
- Saw-mill units, favourable reception of, II 291
- Sayre, Mr. and Mrs., hearty reception in London, I 213, 222, 275
- Schrippenfest, celebration of, in Berlin, I 291
- Schwab, Charles M., supplying war material to Allies, I 341
- Scotland, impressions of, I 142
- Scudder, Horace E., succeeded as editor of Atlantic Monthly, I 53
- Secret treaties, explained to President Wilson by Mr. Balfour, II 267
- Sedgwick, Ellery, recollections of Mr. Page, as editor of Atlantic Monthly, I 55; on the high regard in which Page was held, II 298
- Shakespeare, lectures on, I 30
- Sharp, Ambassador, his mention of peace resented by the French, I 389; at President Wilson's luncheon, II 171
- Sherman's army, cavalry troop camp at Page home, ransack, and destroy contents, I 10
- Shoecraft, Mr., receives news of Bernstorff's dismissal, II 215
- Sihler, Prof. E. G., reminiscences of Page at Johns Hopkins, I 27
- Simon, Sir John, frequent visitor at the Embassy, II 315
- Sims, Admiral, with Ambassador Page, dines with Lord Beresford, II 254; advised of terrible submarine situation, II 273, 275; arrival and welcome in England, II 274; recommendations ignored by Washington, II 276; backed up by Page in strong dispatch, II 278; praised in letter to Wilson, II 281; in command of both English and American naval forces at Queenstown, II 282; letters from, on submarine situation, II 282; in high regard with British Admiralty, II 290; at the Embassy dinner to Secretary Baker, II 365, 370
- Shaler, Millard, reports on destitution in Belgium, II 310
- Skinner, Consul-General, on Committee for relief of stranded Americans, I 307
- Slocum, Colonel, urged to hasten arrival of American troops, II 363
- Smith, C. Alphonso, an exchange professor to Germany, II 145
- Smith, Senator Hoke, "friendly deportation" of, suggested, II 17; campaign against British Blockade, II 56, 61, 63; urging embargo on shipments to Allies, II 211
- South, the, efforts in behalf of, I 38, 43, 74; three "ghosts" which prevent progress, I 91
- Southampton speech, press comments on, 141
- Southern Education Board, active work with, I 84
- Southern Educational Conference, organization of, I 83
- "Southerner, The," only effort at novel writing, I 90
- Spanish-American War, attitude toward, I 62
- Speyer, James, connected with German peace move, I 403
- Spring Rice, Sir Cecil, notifies Washington of British change of attitude toward recognition of Huerta, I 181; confidentially consulted by Col. House regarding demands that Declaration of London be adopted, I 379; notifies Washington that Dacia would be seized, I 393; opinion of Straus peace proposal, I 407; letters from Lord Robert Cecil on Germany's peace proposal, II 201, 202
- Squier, Colonel, American military attaché in London at outbreak of the war, I 301
- Standard Oil Co., editorial against, in Archbold-Foraker scandal, I 88
- State Chronicle*, connection with, I 42; editorially a success, I 48
- State College, Raleigh, N. C., instrumental in establishment of, I 47, 48
- State Department, leaks of diplomatic correspondence through, I 147, 148, 151, 223, 224
- State Dept., ignores official correspondence, I 94, 213, 219, 224, 225, 232, 238, 239, II 7, 55, 217, 253; not properly organized and conducted, II 8; trivial demands and protests, II 54, 68; uncourteous form of Notes, I 72
- Stiles, Dr. Charles W., discovers hookworm, I 98; work in combatting, I 127
- Stone, Senator William J., spokesman of pro-German cause, I 380
- Stovall, Pleasant A., Colonel House confers with, regarding peace parleys, I 434
- Straus, Oscar S., used as a tool in German peace propaganda, I 389, 403 et seq.
- Submarine sinkings, Germany threatens to resume, unless Wilson moves for peace, II 200; German military chieftains at Pless conference decide to resume unrestricted warfare, II 212; the most serious problem at time of American entry into war, II 273, 275, et seq.
- Sulgrave Manor, ancestral home of the Washingtons, restoration and preservation, I 274;

- plan to have President Wilson at dedication of, I 274, 275, II 248
- Sussex "pledge", a peace move of Germany, II 150
- Taft, William H., fails in having Carden removed from Cuba, I 196, 215, 219; accepts British invitation to head delegation explaining America's purposes in the war, II 346; Wilson's strong disapproval interferes with the project, II 347
- Tariff Commission, travelling with, for N. Y. World, I 35
- Teaching democracy to the British Government, I 187, 211
- Tennessee, sent to England on outbreak of war with gold for relief of stranded Americans, I 307
- Thayer, William Roscoe, disappointed in policy of the World's Work, I 66; letter to, in explanation, I 67
- Tillett, Wilbur Fisk, friend at Randolph-Macon College, I 20
- Towers, Lieutenant, shown remnant of torpedo from Hesperian, II 40
- Trinity College, studies at, I 19
- Turkish Embassy left in charge of American Ambassador, I 346
- Tyrell, Sir William, significance of his visit to the United States, I 201; unsatisfactory consultation with Bryan, I 202; explains to President Wilson the British policy toward Mexico, I 204, 207; conversation with Colonel House, I 206; Colonel House informs him of plan to visit Kaiser in behalf of naval holiday plan, I 277; advises House not to stop in England on way to Germany, I 289; expresses relief on withdrawal of demands that Declaration of London be adopted, I 387; comment on Dumba's dismissal, and Bernstorff, II 101
- Underwood Tariff Bill, impressions of in Great Britain, 150, 172
- Van Hise, on proposed committee to lecture in England, II 346
- Vanderlip, Frank A., at the Speyer "peace dinner", I 404
- Villa, Pancho, thought by Wilson to be a patriot, I 227, 228
- Vincent, George, on proposed committee to lecture in England, II 346
- Von Jagow, offers no encouragement to Colonel House's proposals, I 289
- Von Papen, dismissal of, II 108
- Von Tirpitz, discussion with Viscount Haldane as to relative sizes of navies, I 278; hostile to Colonel House's proposals, I 289
- Waechter, Sir Max, efforts for "federation" and disarmament, I 284
- "Waging neutrality", policy of, I 362
- Wallace, Henry, letters to: on Wilson's candidacy, I 105; on backing up new Secretary of Agriculture, etc., I 115
- Wallace, Hugh C., accompanies Colonel House to Europe, I 286; joins "assemblage of immortals" at Embassy, II 315
- Walsh, Sir Arthur, Master of the Ceremonies, I 135; at train to bid good-bye, II 402
- Walsh, Senator Thomas anti-English attitude, II 61
- War, American efforts to prevent the, I 270 et seq.
- War, memorandum at outbreak of the, I 301
- Washington, Booker T., writes for Allantic Monthly, I 60; induced to write "Up From Slavery", I 90
- Wantauga Club, activities of the, I 47; crusade for education of Southern child, 73
- Wheeler, Benjamin Ide, gives Colonel House information of conditions in Germany, I 281
- White, Henry, understanding of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, I 242
- White, William Allen, writes for Allantic Monthly, I 60
- Whitlock, Brand, eulogized, I 334
- Willard, Joseph E., Colonel House confers with, in regard to peace parleys, I 434
- Williams, Senator John Sharp, demonstrates blockade against Germany not an injury to cotton-producing states, II 63
- Wilhelm II, nullifies Hague Conferences, I 280; Colonel House disappointed in mission to, I 289; derides American arbitration treaty, I 294; Colonel House's impressions of, I 295; asks President Wilson to transmit peace offer to Great Britain, I 426; makes proposal to Delcassé to join in producing "complete isolation" of the United States, II 192
- Wilson, Miss Willia Alice, married to Page, I 37
- Wilson, Dr. William, father of Mrs. Page, I 37
- Wilson, Sir Henry, succeeds Sir William Robertson as Chief of Imperial General Staff, II 354 note
- Wilson, Woodrow, first acquaintance with, I 37; writes for Allantic Monthly, I 60; Page greatly interested in his candidacy and election, I 102, et seq.; Colonel House introduced to, I 107; memorandum of interview with, soon after election, I 110; offers Ambassadorship, I 130; attitude toward recognition of Huerta, I 180; formulates new principle for dealing with Latin American republics, I 182; refuses to consider intervention in Mexico, I 193; suggestion that he officially visit Sulgrave Manor, the ancestral home of the Washing-

- tons, I 195; explains attitude on Panama Toll question to Sir William Tyrrell, I 207; expresses gratification in way Page has handled Mexican situation, I 208; letter giving credit for Carden's recall from Mexico, and for constructive work, I 221; addresses Congress asking repeal of Panama Tolls Bill, I 253; plan to visit England on occasion of restoration of Sulgrave Manor, I 274, 275, II 248; requested by resolution of the Senate to proffer his good offices for mediation between Austria and Serbia, I 317; telegrams to and from Colonel House on proffering good offices to avert war, I 317, 318; message to King George proffering good offices to avert war, I 320; neutrality letter to the Senate, I 360; desires to start peace parleys, I 416; insists on pressing the issue, I 423; the "Too proud to fight" speech derided and denounced in England, II 6; the Lusitania notes, II 6; Page's feeling toward policies of, II 8; appreciation of Page letters, II 22; peace activities after Sussex "pledge", II 148; his reply to the German note concerning the submarine cessation, II 150, 156; reluctant to speak on foreign matters with his ambassadors, II 171, 172; lived too much alone, no social touch, II 173; addresses Congress on threatened railroad strike, II 172; refuses to send high ranking officers as military attachés, II 177; interview with Ambassador Page at Shadow Lawn, II 185; sends peace communication to all the warring Powers, II 204; reception in Great Britain of the "Peace without Victory" speech, II 212; answer to the Pope's peace proposal, II 321, 323; coldness toward the Allies, II 345; his strong disapproval of closer relations with Great Britain, prevents visit of Taft and noted committee, II 346
- Letters from:* on "mistaken" opinion of British critics of Carranza and Villa, I 227, 228; expressing gratitude and regard of and hopes for repeal of Toll Bill, I 254; regarding the criticized speeches, I 262, 265; reply to proposal to visit England, I 276; acceptance of Page's resignation, II 396
- Letters to:* congratulations and suggestions on Election Day, I 108; as to best man for Secretary of Agriculture, I 114; impressions of the British people, I 144; on royal reception to King Christian of Denmark, I 167; on the Mexican situation, I 184, 185, 188; memorandum sent through Colonel House on intervention in Mexico, I 194; on feeling in England toward Panama Tolls question, I 248; recapitulating events bringing the two countries more in unity, I 251; explanation of speech before Associated Chambers of Commerce, I 260, 263; suggests speech attacking Anglophobia, I 264; on the outbreak of war, I 303; on German atrocities, I 325; on agreement of nations not to make peace separately, etc., I 338; attempts to enlighten on the real nature of the war, I 370; "Rough notes toward an explanation of the British feeling toward the United States," I 373; on liability of Paris being captured and German peace drive being launched, I 401; on feeling of English toward American inaction after Lusitania notes, II 40, 41, 43, 44, 45; told that if he broke diplomatic relations with Germany he would end the war, II 51; on the military situation, fall of 1915, and the loss of American prestige, II 94; while waiting for interview sends notes of conversations with Lord Grey and Lord Bryce, II 183; letter of resignation—with some great truths, II 190; regarding success of Balfour Mission, etc., II 256; on financial situation among the Allies and the necessity of American assistance, II 269; on seriousness of submarine situation, II 280, 283, 286; on slow progress of war and comments on Lord Lansdowne's peace letter, II 327; on British opinion on subject of League of Nations, II 355; on the cheering effect of his war speeches and letters, II 385; the resignation in obedience to physician's orders, II 393
- Wilson Doctrine, the, I 217
- Wood, Gen. Leonard, methods in Cuba an object lesson, I 177
- World's Work*, founding of, I 66
- Worth, Nicholas, nom de plume in writing "The Southerner", I 90
- York, Archbishop of, letter commending him to Roosevelt, II 401
- Zeppelin attack on London, II 34, 38
- Zionism, view of, II 350
- Zimmermann, German under Foreign Secretary in communication with Colonel House regarding peace proposals to Great Britain, I 426; talk with House on peace terms, I 432
- Zimmermann, says Germany must apply for armistice, II 182
- Zimmermann-Mexico telegram influence on the United States declaration of war, II 214.