PREAMBLE

Extracts from the original Preamble to the Constitution of the Society written by the illustrious founder the late Gopal Krishna Gokhale, in 1905.

For some time past the conviction has been forcing itself on many earnest and thoughtful minds that a stage has been reached in the work of nation-building in India when, for further progress the devoted labours of a specially trained agency applying itself to the task in a true missionary spirit are required. The work that has been accomplished so far has indeed been of the highest value. The growth during the last fifty years of a feeling of common nationality based upon common traditions and ties, common hopes and aspirations, and even common disabilities has been most striking. The fact that we are Indians first, and Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsees or Christians afterwards is being realised in a steadily increasing measure, and the idea of a united and renovated India marching onwards to a place among the nations of the world, worthy of her great past, is no longer a mere idle dream of a few imaginative minds, but is the definitely accepted creed of those who form the brain of the community—the educated classes of the country. A creditable beginning has already been made in matters of education and of local self-government; and all classes of the people are slowly but steadily coming under the influence of liberal ideas. The claims of public life are every day receiving wider recognition and attachment to the land of our birth is growing into a strong and deeply cherished passion of the heart. The annual meetings of Congresses and Conferences, the work of public bodies and associations, the writings in the columns of the Indian Press—all bear witness to the new life that is coursing in the veins of the people. The results achieved so far are undoubtedly most gratifying, but they only mean that the jungle has been cleared and the foundations laid. The great work of rearing the superstructure has yet to be taken in hand, and the situation demands on the part of workers devotion and sacrifices proportionate to the magnitude of the task.

The Servants of India Society has been established to meet in some measure these requirements of the situation. Much of the work must be directed towards building up in the country a higher type of Character and capacity than is generally available at present, and the advance can only be slow. Moreover, the path is beset with great difficulties; there will be constant temptations to turn back; bitter disappointment will repeatedly try the faith of those who have put their hand to the work. But the weary toil can have but one end, if only the workers grow not faint-hearted on the way. One essential condition of success in this work is that a sufficient number of your countrymen must now come forward to devote themselves to the cause in the spirit in which religious work is undertaken. Public life must be spiritualised. Love of country must so fill the heart that all else shall appear as of little moment by its side. A fervent patriotism which rejoices at every opportunity of sacrifice for the motherland, a dauntless heart which refuses to be turned back from its objects by difficulty or danger, a deep faith in the purpose of providence which nothing can shake—equipped with these, the worker must start on his mission and reverently seek the joy which comes of spending oneself in the service of one's country.

The Servants of India Society will train men, prepared to devote their lives to the cause of the country in a religious spirit and will seek to promote, by all constitutional means the national interest of the Indian people. Its members will direct their efforts, principally towards (1) creating among the people by example and by precept, a deep and passionate love of the motherland, seeking its highest fulfilment in service and sacrifice; (2) organising the work of political education and agitation, basing it on a careful study of public questions and strengthening generally the public life of the country; (3) promoting relations of cordial good will and co-operation among the different communities; (4) assisting educational movements especially those for the education of women, the education of backward classes and industrial scientific education; (5) helping forward the industrial development of the country; (6) the elevation of the depressed classes.

The Servants of India Society

Report for 1989-90

Introduction

The Servants of India Society was founded by Gopal Krishna Gokhale on June 12, 1905. Its objects are the training of national missionaries for the service of India and the promotion by all constitutional means, of the interest of the Indian people without distinction of caste or creed. The members of the Society are pledged to give throughout their lives the best that is in them to the cause of the country in all secular fields. The circumstances in which the Society was founded and the objects, which the Founder had in view in founding it, are explained in the preamble he wrote to its constitution in 1905, extracts from which are given in the preceeding two pages. The Preamble has been a source of inspiration to the Society during the eighty-five years of its existence.

GOKHALE INSTITUTE OF POLITICS AND ECONOMICS
PUNE - 411 004

ANNUAL REPORT
1989-90

The Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics was founded in June 1930 with an object to do research into the various economic and political problems of India and the training of workers for such study and research. Over the years, the Institute has set the standard for high quality research and training in a variety of fields of economics.

In 1989-90 fourteen studies were completed in various areas such as agricultural economics, irrigation, demography, bank deposits etc. A number of studies in these areas and other areas such as planning and Development, Macro-economics, Monetary Economics, Transport and industry were in progress during the year at the Institute. The members of the staff published 39 research papers and 4 books during this period. The research staff also participated in several national and international conferences/ Seminars, delivered lectures in other institutions/ organisations and continued to work on various committees appointed by the central and the State Governments and by other public agencies. Some staff members visited other countries for research studies. Six scholars and academicians from foreign countries visited the Institute and gave seminars.

Apart from the work on various research projects, the members of the research and teaching staff were engaged in the teaching programme for the M. A., M. Phil. (Regular) courses in Economics. They also continued to guide Ph. D. research students during the year under report.

There were 37 students in the M. A. class in the Institute and 7 students in the M. Phil. (Regular) programme during the year. 8 teacher fellows under the UGC Teacher Fellowship Programme, continued to work in the Institute on their research.

Seven students were awarded the M. Phil. degree and three students Ph. D. degree in Economics by the University of Poona during 1989-90.

Under the P. V. Pandurangi Prize Endowment, the Pandurangi Prize was awarded to Smt. Rinki Sarkar for her M. Phil. dissertation entitled "Analytical Transport Planning Models (with Special Reference to Demand Forecasting) : A Review of Literature."

During the year 1989-90 the Institute was identified by the University Grants commission as one of the Institutions to conduct refresher courses in Economics for Teachers in Western Region of India. The courses of three weeks duration each were successfully completed by the Institute in Co-operation with the Academic Staff College of the University of Poona as per following details :

(iv)	25th December 89 to 12th January 1990	29

Workshop on Open Economy Macro Economics and its Relevance to India : 15th to 17th March 1990

The Institute conducted Workshop on "Open Economy Macro Economics and its Relevance to India," during 15th-17th March 1990. Number of scholars in the field were invited to participate and present papers in the workshop. About 20 scholars took part in the workshop. Prof. John Williamson from Institute for International Economics, Washington, U. S. A., delivered the key-note address on the theme of the workshop.

The proceedings of the workshop were grouped into seven sessions under various sub topics : (i) Exchange rates (ii) External Debt (iii) Empirical analysis of Exchange rates (iv) Structure of foreign trade (v) Macro Economic Policy and Adjustment process (vi) Transmission of World Economic fluctuations to the Indian economy and (vii) Implications of the recent development in the world economy. Twenty two papers were presented in the various sessions of the workshop.

Donation from Professor N. V. Sovani

On the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee of the Institute, Prof. N. V. Sovani, who earlier worked as Professor in the Institute for 24 years and as Joint Director from 1958-59 to 1964-65 and who has greatly contributed to the building up of the Institute in its earlier years, has donated a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- (Rupees one lakh) to be used for the fulfilment of the aims and objectives of the Institute.

Grant from the Ford Foundation

The Institute has received during the year under report an endowment grant and a research grant from the Ford Foundation. The endowment grant is to support on a permanent basis new staff positions in the area of International Economics, a Librarian's post and Library acquisitions. The research grant is to support research work in the area of international economics, monetary and macro-economics and finance for a period of five years and includes provision for instituting Ph. D. fellowships and research assistant ships in the above mentioned areas.

Under a special grant from the Ministry of Agriculture, Govt. of India, to the Agro-Economic Research Centre, the Institute received a PC/AT two PCs and related equipments.

The University Grants Commission under UGC Special Assistance Programme has sanctioned further assistance for a period of Five Years from 1990-1995 to the Centre of Advance study. The UGC has also sanctioned under Development of Area Studies Programme at this Institute a further assistance for five years from 1st April 1988 to 31st March 1993.

The Annual Kale Memorial Lecture was delivered on 20th April 1989 by Professor Malcolm S. Adiseshiah, Chairman and Honorary Fellow, Madras Institute of Development Studies, Madras, on the Subject 'Eighth Plan Perspective.'

Three Lectures were delivered in Kunda Datar Memorial Lecture Series by Shri. Bagaram Tulpule, Veteran Trade Union Leader and Former General Manager, Durgapur Steel Plant, on 7th, 8th, 9th December 1989 on the Subject 'Technology Against Poverty or Poverty Through Technology.'

Apart from its quarterly journal in Economics 'Artha Vijnana', the Institute brought out the following publications :-

(1) Kale Memorial Lecture 1989 : Eighth Plan Perspectives -Adiseshiah, Malcolm S.

LEGACY OF GOKHALE

"What is the moral of Gokhale's life? What legacy has he left for us? These questions were answered by Gokhale himself in his last words to the members of the Servants of India Society who were present beside his death bed : Don't waste your time in writing a biography or setting up a statue, but pour your whole soul into the service of India. Then only shall you be counted among her true and faithful servants."

- Gandhiji - Gokhale, My Political Guru.

"Gokhale taught me not to glorify the country in language but to spiritualize its political life and institutions. He inspired my life and is still inspiring it in that I wish to purify myself and spiritualise myself. I have dedicated myself to that ideal. Political life must be an echo of our private life. There cannot be any divorce between the two."

- Gandhiji - Gokhale, My Political Guru.

"The man who leads the life of goodness, whose instincts are good, who is full of gentleness, who is the embodiment of truth and who has fully shed his ego, is a Dharmatma, a man of religion, whether he knows it or not."

- Gandhiji - Gokhale, My Political Guru.

"Gandhiji thought of Gokhale as an ideal Mahatma in his own heart, gave him a place there in, aspired to the realization of that ideal in himself and in his own life manifested on a larger scale whatever virtues he perceived in his master."

- K. G. Mashruwala
