

Dhananjayrao Gadgil Library

GIPE-PUNE-245056

SEPARATE REPORT

BY THE

REY. TREBENDARY H. RUSSELL WARRENFIELD,

MR. FRANCIS CHANDLER,

MR. GEORGE LANSBURY,

AND

Mrs. SIDNEY WEBB.

Y 434.23 N05t

D9.3

A-CNO - 245056

CONTENTS.

	Page
PART I.—THE DESTITUTION OF THE NON-ABLE-BODIED.
CHAPTER I.—The General Mixed Workhouse of To-day	726
(A) The Promiscuity of the General Mixed Workhouse—(B) The Unspecialised Management of the General Mixed Workhouse—(C) The Universal Condemnation of the General Mixed Workhouse—(D) Why the General Mixed Workhouse has continued to exist.
Conclusions	738
CHAPTER II.—The Outdoor Relief of To-day	739
(A) Local By-laws as to Outdoor Relief—(B) The Practice as to Outdoor Relief—(C) The Cause of the Failure of the Present Administration of Outdoor Relief—(i.) The Destitution Officer—(ii.) The Many-Headed Tribunal—(D) The Scotch Inspector of Poor—(E) The Suggested Abolition of Outdoor Relief—(F) The Substitution of Charity for Outdoor Relief.
Conclusions	769
CHAPTER III.—Birth and Infancy	772
(A) The Provision for Birth and Infancy made by the Destitution Authority—(i.) Domiciliary Treatment of Expectant Mothers and Mothers with Infants—(ii.) The Workhouse as Maternity Hospital—(iii.) The Workhouse as Infant Nursery—(B) Voluntary Agencies for Providing for Birth and Infancy—(i.) Rescue Homes—(ii.) Maternity Hospitals—(iii.) Domiciliary Midwifery Agencies—(iv.) Day Nurseries—(v.) Infant Asylums—(vi.) The Insufficiency of the Voluntary Agencies—(C) The Supervision of Birth and Infancy by the Local Health Authority—(i.) Provision of Midwifery—(ii.) Provision of Hygienic or Medical Advice—(iii.) Provision of Milk—(D) The Need for a Unified Service dealing with Birth and Infancy.
Conclusions	799
CHAPTER IV.—Children under Rival Authorities	801
(A) Children under the Destitution Authority—(i.) "Boarding-out within the Union"—(ii.) Boarding-out in Scotland, and "Boarding-out without the Union" in England and Wales—(iii.) Certified Schools and Institutions—(iv.) Scattered Homes—(v.) The Boarding School of the Destitution Authority—(vi.) The Receiving Home—(vii.) Children of Unfit Parents—(a) The "Ins-and-Outs"—(b) The Children of Vagrants—(c) The Abandoned Child—(d) The Assumption of Parentage—(B) Children under the Police Authority—(c) Children under the Education Authority—(i.) Medical Inspection and Treatment—(ii.) School Feeding—(D) The Failure of the Destitution Authority to relieve Child Destitution—(E) The Supersession of the Destitution Authority by the Local Education Authority.
Conclusions	843
CHAPTER V.—The Curative Treatment of the Sick by Rival Authorities	846
(A) The Medical Service of the Poor Law—(B) Domiciliary Medical Treatment under the Poor Law—(C) The Restriction of Domiciliary Medical Treatment—(D) The Hospital Branch of the Poor Law—(E) The Defects of the Poor Law Medical Service traced to their root—(F) The Treatment of the Sick by Voluntary Agencies—(G) The Treatment of the Sick by the Public Health Authorities—(i.) Municipal Hospitals—(ii.) Notification and Disinfection—(iii.) Supply of Medicines and Anti-Toxin—(iv.) Municipal Out-patients' Departments—(v.) Pediculosis and Scabies—(vi.) Health Visiting—(vii.) Municipal Home Nursing—(viii.) Diagnosis—(ix.) Home Aliment—(x.) The Characteristics of the Public Health Authority's Treatment of Disease—(H) The Need for a Unified Medical Service.
Conclusions	889
CHAPTER VI.—The Mentally Defective	891
(A) The Rival Authorities for the Mentally Defective—(B) The Mentally Defective under the Poor Law—(C) The Mentally Defective under the Local Lunacy Authorities—(D) The Recommendations of the Royal Commission on the Feeble-minded—(E) The Withdrawal of the Mentally Defective from the Poor Law.
Conclusions	897

CHAPTER VII.—The Aged and Infirm	899
(A) The Three Policies of the Destitution Authority—(B) The Aged and Infirm under the Destitution Authority of to-day—(C) The Establishment of National Pension Scheme—(D) The Need for Diversified Provision for the Aged and Infirm—(i.) The National Pensioners—(ii.) Provision for Persons ineligible for National Pensions—(iii.) The Helpless Aged—(v.) The Infirm and Permanently Incapacitated under Pension Age.
Conclusions	926
CHAPTER VIII.—Charge and Recovery by Local Authorities	928
(A) Charge and Recovery by the Destitution Authority—(i.) Contributions by Relations—(ii.) The Device of Relief on Loan—(B) Charge and Recovery by the Public Health Authority—(C) Charge and Recovery for the Maintenance of Children by the Education Authority and the Police Authority—(D) The Need for Uniformity of Principle and Judicial Adjudication in Personal Assessments.
Conclusions	947
CHAPTER IX.—Settlement and Removal	948
(A) The Game of "General Post"—(B) The Proposal to abolish Settlement and Removal—(C) The Provisions necessary in a Reformed Administration—(i.) Safeguards for the Local Health Authority—(ii.) Safeguards for the Local Authority for the Mentally Defective—(iii.) Safeguards for the Local Education Authority.
Conclusions	952
CHAPTER X.—Grants-in-Aid	953
(A) England and Wales outside the Metropolis—(i.) The Relief to the Local Ratepayers—(ii.) Discrimination in favour of desirable Expenditure—(iii.) Giving authority to Central Control—(B) The Metropolis—(i.) The Relief to the Local Ratepayers—(ii.) Discrimination in favour of desirable Expenditure—(iii.) Giving authority to Central Control—(C) Scotland—(i.) The Relief to the Local Ratepayers—(ii.) Discrimination in favour of desirable Expenditure—(iii.) Giving authority to Central Control—(D) Ireland—(i.) The Relief to the Local Ratepayers—(ii.) Discrimination in favour of desirable expenditure—(iii.) Giving authority to Central Control—(E) What should be the terms of the National Subvention—(i.) It should be a Grant, not merely an Assignment of Revenue—(ii.) It should be dependent on Local Efficiency—(iii.) It should be applied to definite deliberately selected services—(iv.) It should be conditional—(v.) It should be based on a Scale of Distribution according to Need and Ability.
Conclusions	976
CHAPTER XI.—Supervision and Control by the National Government	977
(A) The Orders—(B) Audit—(C) A Court of Appeal—(D) The Inspectorate—(E) The Poor Law Division of the Local Government Board—(F) The Need for Specialised Central Control.
Conclusions	997
CHAPTER XII.—THE SCHEME OF REFORM	999
(A) Schemes that we have rejected—(i.) The Continuance of a Denuded Destitution Authority alongside of other Local Authorities providing for the Poor—(ii.) The Monopoly of Public Assistance by a Deterrent Destitution Authority—(iii.) The Extension of Public Assistance by a Disguised and Swollen Poor Law—(B) THE SCHEME WE RECOMMEND—(i.)—The Supersession of the Destitution Authority—(ii.) The Distribution of the Services of the Destitution Authority—(a) The Duties to be transferred to the Local Education Authorities—(b) The Duties to be transferred to the Local Health Authorities—(c) The Duties to be transferred to the Local Pension Committees—(d) The Duties to be transferred to the Local Authority for the Mentally Defective—(iii.) New Machinery for the Co-ordination of Public Assistance—(a) The Registrar of Public Assistance—(b) The Public Register—(c) Charge and Recovery—(d) Sanction of Home Alimant—(e) The Registrar's Receiving House for Omitted Cases—(f) The Registrar as National Pension Officer—(g) The status of the Registrar—(C) The Conditions of Eligibility for Public Assistance—(D) Disfranchisement—(E) The Sphere of Voluntary Agencies—(F) The Practical Application of the Scheme—(i.) The Rural Counties—(ii.) The Metropolis—(iii.) Scotland—(iv.) Ireland—(v.) The Departments of the National Government—(G) Some Theoretical Objections answered—(i.) The Integrity of the Family—(ii.) The Withdrawal of the Destitution Officer—(iii.) The Economy of Efficient Administration—(iv.) The Right to Relief.
Summary of Proposals	1031

PART II.—THE DESTITUTION OF THE ABLE-BODIED.

CHAPTER I.—The Able-bodied under the Poor Law	- 1,036
(A) The Persistence of Outdoor Relief—(i.) Sudden or Urgent Necessity—(ii.) Reported Exceptions—(iii.) Going Out to look for Work—(iv.) Are Women Able-bodied?—(B) The Outdoor Labour Test—(c) The General Mixed Workhouse as an Asylum for Able-bodied Men—(D) The Able-bodied Test Workhouse—(i.) Poplar—(ii.) Kensington—(iii.) Birmingham—(iv.) Manchester and Chorlton—(v.) Sheffield—(vi.) Compulsory Detention—(vii.) Summary of Objections to the Maintenance of a Penal Establishment by a Destitution Authority—(E) The Casual Ward—(i.) The Casual's Free Hotel—(ii.) The Casual's Prison—(iii.) The Unwarded Vagrant—(iv.) Who are the Casuals?—(v.) The Dilemma of the Casual Ward—(vi.) The Need for more Prolonged and more Specialised Treatment—(F) The Able-bodied in the Scottish Poorhouses.
Conclusions	- 1,093
CHAPTER II.—The Able-bodied and Voluntary Agencies	- 1,095
(A) Emergency Funds—(B) Voluntary Relief Works—(c) Shelters and Labour Homes—(D) The Undermining of a Penal Poor Law by Voluntary Agencies.
Conclusions	- 1,101
CHAPTER III.—The Able-bodied under the Unemployed Workmen Act	- 1,102
(A) The Provision of Work at Wages by the Municipal Authorities, 1886-1905—(B) The Unemployed Workmen Act of 1905—(c) The Distress Committees—(D) Rural Colonies—(E) The Labour Exchange—(F) Paying the Cost of Removal—(G) The Inadequacy of the Unemployed Workmen Act.
Conclusions	- 1,129
CHAPTER IV.—The Distress from Unemployment as it Exists To-day	- 1,131
(A) Class I.—The Men from Permanent Situations—(B) Class II.—The Men of Discontinuous Employment—(i.) The Operatives of the Building Trades—(ii.) The Public Works Men—(iii.) Existing Agencies dealing with the Men of Discontinuous Employment—(c) Class III.—The Under-Employed—(i.) The Casual Labourer—(ii.) The Fringe of Casuals about the Skilled Trades—(iii.) The Under-Employment of Declining Trades—(iv.) The Social Evil of Under-Employment—(v.) The Swamping of the Distress Committee by the Under-Employed—(vi.) Under-Employment the Main Cause of Pauperism—(vii.) The Cause of the Constant Existence of an Under-Employed Class—(viii.) Existing Agencies dealing with the Under-Employed—(D) Are Women Unemployed?—(E) Class IV.—The Unemployable—(i.) The Daily Manufacture of the Unemployable—(ii.) The Wife and Mother as Breadwinner—(iii.) The Misuse of Boy Labour—(iv.) The Alleged Exclusion of the Elderly—(v.) Raising the Standard of Efficiency—(vi.) Existing Agencies dealing with the Unemployable—(F) Character and Unemployment—(G) The Need for a National Authority for all Sections of the Unemployed.
Conclusions	- 1,177
CHAPTER V.—Proposals for Reform	- 1,179
(A) The National Labour Exchange—(i.) The Experience of Germany—(ii.) The Experience of London—(iii.) The Experience of the Seamen's Labour Exchange—(iv.) The Functions of the Labour Exchange—(a) The Labour Exchange and the Men from Permanent Situations—(b) The Labour Exchange and the Men of Discontinuous Employment—(c) The Labour Exchange and the Seasonal Trades—(d) The Labour Exchange and the Under-Employed—(e) The Labour Exchange and the Suppression of Vagrancy—(i.) The Labour Exchange as a Method of enforcing Personal Responsibility—(B) The Absorption of the Surplus—(i.) The Halving of Boy and Girl Labour—(ii.) The Reduction of the Hours of Labour of Railway and Tramway Servants—(iii.) The Withdrawal from Industrial Wage-Earning of the Mothers of Young Children—(c) The Regularisation of the National Demand for Labour—(D) The Provision for the Unemployed—(i.) Trade Union Insurance—(ii.) Maintenance under Training—(E) The Ministry of Labour—(i.) The Minister for Labour—(ii.) The National Labour Exchange—(iii.) The Trade Insurance Division—(iv.) The Industrial Regulation Division—(v.) The Emigration and Immigration Division—(vi.) The Statistical Division—(vii.) The Maintenance and Training Division—(F) "Utopian?"
Summary of Proposals	- 1,215
Summary of Conclusions and Recommendations of Parts I. and II.	- 1,218