RUPERT PRINCE PALATINE

By EVA SCOTT

Late Scholar of Somerville College, Oxford.

With Photogravure frontispiece.

New and cheaper Edition. Large Crown 8vo, 6s.

"The book is well written in a good style, is throughout most moderate and accurate, and is a worthy record of the gallant and true-hearted Rupert of the Rhine."—Literature.

"This well-illustrated and well-printed book is a very distinct addition to our historical biographies. It is strange that no serious life of the gallant Prince Rupert should have been written till now, but no one could have written with fuller knowledge or more genuine enthusiasm than Miss Eva Scott. She has ignored few if any of the manifold sources of information, printed and manuscript, from which the chequered history of the great soldier can be gleaned, and the result of work which must have been both assiduous and intelligent is a really admirable and complete historical study."—Guardian.

"A final word as to this book itself. It is well got up, well indexed, and well illustrated. There is a preface which gives a general view of the material used, and a series of careful footnotes that will aid the student."—Prof. Yorke Powell in the Morning Post.

"Miss Scott, on the other hand, has not only made herself familiar with Rupert and his surroundings, but is possessed of—what is seldom to be found—a rare talent for biographical presentment. Not only is there no overburdening of the narrative with documentary evidence, but everything of that nature which is introduced strengthens the author's argument instead of distracting the attention of the reader."—Mr. S. R. Gardiner in the English Historical Review.

"Though she properly makes a hero of Rupert, she is never blind to his failings nor does she extol his virtues without the warrant of documentary evidence. In brief, her monograph is a well-considered, impartial piece of work."—Spectator.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & Co., WESTMINSTER.

The Household of the Lafayettes

By EDITH SICHEL

With Photogravure frontispiece.

New Popular Edition. Large Crown 8vo, 6s.

"In the 'Household of the Lafayettes' Miss Sichel has given a very vivid and picturesque study of French life during the revolutionary period, mainly from the political and social point of view. Her style is on the whole well suited to her subject. . . . The book is a fascinating one, and of far greater interest than the majority of novels. We are carried along from chapter to chapter in very good company, and on very easy wings."—Morning Post.

"Miss Sichel possesses a lively and agreeable style, characterized by a refreshing absence of stock phrases. She does not disgust us with the obvious, or harass us with the unexpected; and her general observations—always a good test of an author's wits—are shrewd and happily expressed."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"The conversations between the First Consul and the General reproduced in this most interesting chapter of an interesting book shed the most instructive light on the character of two of the greatest, probably the greatest Frenchmen that either century had produced. In her laborious and sympathetic biography of the lesser of the two Miss Sichel has evolved a work which for picturesque yet faithful detail, should rank highly among the records of the most eventful period in French History."—Observer.

"We should have liked to quote many passages, picturesque touches of daily life, remarks of real political insight, clear views of the people and the tendencies of the age. But we must reserve space for a few words about Miss Sichel's introduction, which is one of the best and truest pieces of writing that we have met with for a long time."—Spectator.

The Kingdom of the Yellow Robe

Being Sketches of the Domestic and Religious Rites and Ceremonies of the Siamese

By ERNEST YOUNG

Fully Illustrated by E. A. NORBURY, R.C.A.
and from Photographs.

New Popular Edition. Large Crown 8vo, 6s.

"A pleasantly written little book, popular and light in style. The author, who was connected with the Siamese Education Department, is at his best in the first few chapters, wherein he describes the scenes of the city and the domestic life of the people. His educational duties enabled him to note some specially interesting facts with regard to the extraordinary aptness and intelligence which Siamese children as a rule display. . . ."—Times.

"Of the quaint courtship customs in the strange land where there are no old maids, and of many other curious things, we have, alas! no room to tell. It is with a feeling of regret that we put down this pleasant book, and take leave of so charming and interesting a people as that which inhabits the land of the Yellow Robe. The book is fully illustrated by Mr. E. A. Norbury and from photographs, which add greatly to its interest. It is a book to be read both for entertainment and instruction."—St. James's Budget.

"Here is a book of which I can speak with unstinted praise. It is not often that I find myself longing to get back to any book, unless it be a novel of extraordinary power; but I had this sensation with regard to this volume. It is a book difficult to drop from the first moment it is taken in hand, and one to which the reader returns with real delight. It is partly, one must admit, because there is much fascination in the subject, but it is also because the narrative is so simple, lucid, satisfying."—T. P. O'Connor in the Graphic.

The Alps from End to End

By SIR WILLIAM MARTIN CONWAY

With a Supplementary Chapter by the Rev. W. A. B. COOLIDGE.

With 52 Illustrations by
A. D. M'CORMICK.

New and revised Edition. Large Crown 8vo, 6s.

“A high place among these books of climbing which appeal to many who cannot climb, as well as to all who can, will be taken by the very pleasant volume ‘The Alps from End to End.’”—The Times.

“There is, perhaps, not another living Alpinist—unless we except Mr. Coolidge, who contributes a valuable précis of the topography—who could have combined the requisite knowledge with physical capacity for the task. . . . Sir William Conway’s book is as vivid as it is charming. . . . Mr. M’Cormick’s illustrations are, indeed, so vivid that many will be tempted to follow ‘The Alps from End to End.’”—Standard.

“There was room for a book which should tell intending travelers with only a limited holiday how to traverse the ‘Alps from End to End.’ This want is supplied by Sir William’s new and beautifully illustrated work.”—Daily News.

“The amount of variety Mr. M’Cormick can secure in a series of pictures, whose component parts of sky, snow, rock, and ice, must be seen to be believed.”—Daily Chronicle.

Among the Himalayas

By MAJOR L. A. WADDELL, LL.D.

(Author of The Buddhism of Tibet.)

With over 100 Illustrations. Large Crown 8vo, 6s.

"The book is moderate in size, beautifully printed on unloaded paper, rich in illustrations exceedingly well reproduced from photographs, conveying an impressive conception of the scenery and people which form their subjects."—The Times.

"He has been to many places where no other European has penetrated, and his book is not only a most interesting book of travel for the general reader, but has very much matter of special interest to the geographer, the climber, the ethnologist, and the politician. It is illustrated profusely and well, some of the photographs by Major Waddell and Mr. Hoffman being very fine."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"This book, in which Major Waddell sets forth the results of his investigation of the Himalayas, will be appreciated by geographers as a valuable contribution to our limited knowledge of a little-explored region. With the exception of Hooker, no European has got nearer to Mount Everest than the author, and his observations of this and the adjacent peaks, in combination with the admirable photographs that he provides, form a feature of the work that deserves special attention."—Morning Post.

On Plain and Peak : Sport in Bohemia and Tyrol

By R. LLEWELLYN HODGSON

Illustrated by HER SERENE HIGHNESS PRINCESS MARY OF
THURN AND TAXIS, and from Photographs.

Demy 8vo, 7s. 6d.

"An excellent idea of this lively volume may be obtained by glancing through the numerous illustrations. The drawings of Princess Mary of Thurn and Taxis are always admirable. The instantaneous Photographs of animals are equally good, and, of course, thoroughly life-like."—The Times.

Travels and Life in Ashanti and Jaman

By RICHARD AUSTIN FREEMAN

Late Assistant Colonial Surgeon, and Anglo-German Boundary
Commissioner of the Gold Coast.

With about One Hundred Illustrations by the Author and from Photographs, and also Two Maps.

Royal 8vo, 21s.

"The book itself, with its lively narrative, its wealth of description, its numerous photographs and sketches, and its excellent maps, is more than a mere narrative of travel. It is a great store house of well-arranged information on the countries with which it deals."—Daily Chronicle.

"He writes with a clearness, liveliness, and amount of solid but most readable matter to the square inch which makes this an exceptionally desirable book of its kind. From the Colonial Secretary down to the holiday-maker in search of entertaining reading, no one who invests in it will be disappointed."—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Russian Province of the North (Archangel)

By H. ENGELHARDT

Governor of the Province of Archangel.

Translated from the Russian by HENRY COOKE.

With 90 Illustrations after Photographs and Three Maps.

Royal 8vo, 18s.

"For commercial and for other reasons, one should have an eye on what is being done in this 'Russian Province of the North,' where Mr. Engelhardt has already made so notable a mark. Apart from the solid information and the masses of statistics the book contains, the 'Wayside Sketches' of life, manners, and scenery around the fringes of the White Sea and the Arctic Ocean will be found pleasant and profitable reading. The volume is admirably illustrated from photographs by Archangel artists."—Scotsman.

A Northern Highway of the Tsar

By AUBYN TREVOR-BATTYE, F.R.G.S.

Author of Ice-bound on Kolguev, etc.

With numerous Illustrations. Crown 8vo, 6s.

"Such a journey may therefore be regarded as quite exceptional and almost unique, and on that account alone it is well worthy of permanent record. Though Mr. Trevor-Battye tells his story with a light heart and unflagging spirit, it is an unbroken record of hardship, difficulty, exposure, privation, discomfort, and incessant peril."—The Times.

"A vivid and entertaining account of his journey."—Literature.

The Rise of Portuguese Power in India, 1497-1550

By R. S. WHITEWAY

Bengal Civil Service (Retired).

With Bibliography, Index, and a large Map.

Demy 8vo, 15s. net.

"Mr. Whiteway has many of the best qualities of a historian. He has gone for his material to original documents, of which he gives an excellent bibliography, and he has resisted the temptation—which besets the historian of heroic feats of arms—to spend himself in picturesque anecdote. Yet though he has reduced his materials to convenient bulk, he has continued to draw the character of the Portuguese leaders so vividly, that his story has the human interest of the most exciting romance."—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Chronology of India

From the Earliest Times to the beginning of the Sixteenth Century

By C. MABEL DUFF (MRS. W. R. RICKMERS)

Demy 8vo, 15s. net.

"Mrs. Rickmers has arranged the volume as a table of events in chronological order. The marginal date represents the year B.C. or A.D. If only approximate, it is printed in italics. For the benefit of students engaged in epigraphical research, references to inscriptions have been specially noted. By way of supplementing the chronological tables a brief revised list of Indian dynasties is appended. The book is also provided with a copious and carefully arranged index. The work has been compiled with great care, and contains in a condensed form a vast mass of information and erudition."—Daily News.

The Preaching of Islam.

By T. W. ARNOLD

Demy 8vo, 12s.

"Mr. Arnold's volume deserves all the praise which is due to ability, learning, and moderation of tone and statement, and is really a valuable compendium of facts."—Daily Chronicle.

The Popular Religion and Folklore of Northern India

By W. CROOKE, B.A. Bengal Civil Service.

With many Illustrations. 2 Vols. Demy 8vo, 21s. net.

"To these outlying domains of popular worship and village rites, Mr. Crooke has devoted years of fruitful labour. His duties as a Bengal Civilian brought him into daily contact with the people, and his agricultural glossary and ethnological handbook for the North-Western Provinces attest the powers of observation which he brought to his work. His present book is the mature result."—The Times.

The Life and Times of Richard Badiley

Vice-Admiral of the Fleet.

A Biography of a great Puritan Seaman

By THOMAS ALFRED SPALDING

Demy 8vo, 15s.

"It is not only a sympathetic reconstruction of a personality well worthy of the British Navy at its best, but a dramatic and convincing presentation of a very striking and hitherto almost unknown episode in the history of the first Dutch war. . . . Mr. Spalding tells the whole story of Badiley's proceedings in the Mediterranean in a very vivid and attractive manner, and the thanks of all students of naval biography are due to him for the life-like portrait he has drawn of a gallant but forgotten seaman."—The Times.

The Story of the (American) Revolution

A complete History of America's struggle for liberty.

By HENRY CABOT LODGE. 2 Vols. Demy 8vo, 32s.

"The most powerful and eloquent piece of interpretative history we have read for many a day. Learning, impartiality, clear vision, generosity, the historic sense, and very often eloquence, distinguish Mr. Lodge's book."—Daily News.

Two Native Narratives of the Mutiny in Delhi

Translated from the Originals

By the late CHARLES THEOPHILUS METCALFE, C.S.I.
(Bengal Civil Service).

With large Map. Demy 8vo, 12s.

"Of immense value, not only as studies in drama, but as the authentic material of history."—Spectator.

The Commune of London and other Studies

By J. HORACE ROUND, M.A.

Author of Geoffrey de Mandeville, Feudal England, etc.

With a Prefatory Letter by SIR WALTER BESANT.

Demy 8vo, 12s. 6d. net.

"Mr. Round has made a special study of English History during the eleventh and twelfth centuries, and his labour has been fruitful of some very valuable results. It is a very valuable contribution to the literature that deals with the history of that period, and it throws fresh and much-needed light on many a dark historical problem of that age."—The Guardian.

The Principles of Local Government

By G. LAURENCE GOMME, F.S.A.

Statistical Officer to the London County Council.

Demy 8vo, 12s.

"His criticism on the existing system show a thorough mastery of a complicated subject."—Daily Chronicle.

BY THE VICEROY OF INDIA

Problems of the Far East—Japan, China, Korea

By the Rt. Hon. LORD CURZON OF KEDLESTONE.

New and Revised Edition.

With numerous Illustrations and Maps.

Extra Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.

“We dealt so fully with the other contents of Mr. Curzon’s volume at the time of first publication that it is only necessary to say that the extreme interest and importance of them is enhanced by recent events, in the light of which they are revised.”—Glasgow Herald.

E. L. GODKIN’S WORKS ON DEMOCRACY

Unforeseen Tendencies of Democracy

Large Crown 8vo, 6s. net.

“No more interesting volume has lately been published than Mr. E. L. Godkin’s ‘Unforeseen Tendencies of Democracy,’ which is interesting, not only by reason of the general situation or predicament in which we are all more or less conscious of being steeped, but also as a result of the author’s singular mastery of his subject.”—Mr. Henry James, in Literature.

Problems of Modern Democracy

Large Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.

“He talks freely, always sensibly and to the point, and very often with more than ordinary wisdom.”—The Times.

Reflections and Comments

Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.

“Mr. Godkin’s book forms an excellent example of the best periodical literature of his country.”—Daily News.

meaning of the strategical expression, ‘The Command of the Sea.’”—The Times.

Imperial Defence

By SIR CHARLES DILKE and SPENSER WILKINSON

New and Revised Edition. Crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.

“To urge our countrymen to prepare, while there is yet time, for a defence that is required alike by interest, honour, and duty, and by the best traditions of the nation's history.”—Daily Mail.

Dante's Ten Heavens

A Study of the Paradiso.

By EDMUND G. GARDNER, M.A.

Second Edition Revised. Demy 8vo, 12s.

"As a help to the minuter study, not of Dante only, but of what has always been regarded as the most obscure part of Dante's writings, it is hardly too much to say that no more valuable work has appeared in English."—Athenæum.

"The very careful and admirable study which Mr. Gardner has made of the Paradiso is peculiarly welcome. We have read it with the deepest interest, and we believe that it will be found most helpful by all students of the immortal Tuscan poet."—Spectator.

"Mr. Gardner has given us a fascinating and masterly book. To a command of excellent English he adds a thorough knowledge of Dante's Tuscan, and he is equipped with the requisite knowledge of mediæval thoughts, things, and times."—Daily Chronicle.

Dante's Minor Poems

By EDMUND G. GARDNER, M.A.

Author of Dante's Ten Heavens.

The Chronicle of Villani

Translated by

ROSE E. SELFE

Edited by

Rev. P. H. WICKSTEED

"Perhaps no one book is so important to the student of Dante as the chronicle of his contemporary Villani."—Athenæum.

"The book, picturesque and instructive reading as it is, is not less interesting and still more valuable for readers of Italy's greatest poet."—Scotsman.

Some Observations of a Foster Parent

By JOHN CHARLES TARVER

Second Edition.

Crown 8vo, 6s.

“A very excellent book on the education of the English boy. The book is one which all parents should diligently read.”—Daily Mail.

“A series of readable and discursive essays on education. It is impossible in a brief notice to mention a tithe of the subjects on which he touches with much cleverness and suggestiveness, and with a humour that is seldom to be found in works of pedagogy. The book deserves to be read.”—Manchester Guardian.

“If there were more schoolmasters of the class to which Mr. Tarver belongs, schoolmasters would be held in greater honour by those who have suffered at their hands. His ‘Observations of a Foster Parent’ are excellent reading : we hope they will reach the British parent. He may be assured the book is never dull.”—Glasgow Herald.

Debateable Claims

A Series of Essays on Secondary Education

By JOHN CHARLES TARVER

Crown 8vo, 6s.

“Marked by knowledge and discrimination, not to mention a certain individuality of treatment that is decidedly speaking.”—Saturday Review.

“It may be doubted whether during recent years there has been published a more important or suggestive book dealing with secondary education than this volume of essays by Mr. Tarver.”—Spectator.

- “Mr. Tarver speaks not only with authority and vivacity, but logic as well. His books are far more worth reading than many of the numerous recent productions of educational theorists.”—Literature.

English Schools at the Reformation

1546-48

By A. F. LEACH, M.A., F.S.A.

Demy 8vo, 12s. net.

² A very remarkable contribution to the history of secondary education in England, not less novel in its conclusions than important in the documentary evidence adduced to sustain them.—The Times.

Botanical Microtechnique

A Handbook of Methods for the Preparation, Staining, and Microscopical Investigation of Vegetable Structures.

By DR. A. ZIMMERMANN

(Privat-docent in the University of Tübingen).

Translated from the German. Demy 8vo, 12s. net.

With over 60 Illustrations and Diagrams.

Contents:—Part I. General Methods. Part II. Microchemistry. Part III. Methods for the Investigation of the Cell-Wall. Appendix. Methods of Investigation for Bacteria. Tables of Reference. A valuable List of the Literature of the Subject.

“The scope of the book is sufficiently indicated by the title, and under its new form can be confidently recommended to English-speaking students.”—Nature.

The Surgical Anatomy of the Lymphatic Glands

By CECIL H. LEAF, M.A., F.R.C.S.

With Numerous Coloured Plates.

Demy 8vo, 10s. 6d.

“With a few exceptions all the diagrams are original. We have already mentioned that they are well executed, but that is a feeble expression of the excellence with which the diagrams have been reproduced; nearly all the plates are coloured, and they number eighteen. They are very good examples of chromo-lithography.”—The Lancet.

TWO HANDY REFERENCE BOOKS ON INDIA
Constable's Hand Atlas of India

A new series of Sixty Maps and Plans prepared from Ordnance and other Surveys under the Direction of

J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S., F.R.S.E., etc.

Crown 8vo. Strongly bound in Half Morocco, 14s.

This Atlas will be found of great use, not only to tourists and travellers, but also to readers of Indian history, as it contains twenty-two plans of the principal towns of our Indian Empire, based on the most recent surveys and officially revised to date in India.

The Topographical Section Maps are an accurate reduction of the Survey of India, and contain all the places described in Sir W. W. Hunter's "Gazetteer of India," according to his spelling.

The Military Railway, Telegraph, and Mission Station Maps are designed to meet the requirements of the Military and Civil Service, also missionaries and business men who at present have no means of obtaining the information they require in a handy form.

The Index contains upwards of ten thousand names, and will be found more complete than any yet attempted on a similar scale.

Further to increase the utility of the work as a reference volume, an abstract of the 1891 Census has been added.

UNIFORM WITH THE ABOVE
Constable's Hand Gazetteer of India

Compiled under the Direction of

J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S.

And Edited with Additions by JAS. BURGESS, C.I.E., LL.D., etc.

Crown 8vo. Half Morocco, 10s. 6d.

The Hand Gazetteer of India is based on the Index to Constable's Hand Atlas of India, which contains nearly 12,000 place-names. To these have been added very largely from various sources, bringing the number of entries to close upon 20,000. The populations of districts, towns and villages, and the position of each place are clearly indicated, thus forming within a small compass a general reference book to the topography of India, and a companion volume to the Hand Atlas of India.

Ten Shillings a Head per Week for House Books

An Indispensable Manual for Housekeepers.

Menus, Recipes, Hints and Advice for the Single-handed Cook.

By MRS. C. S. PEEL

Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.

“In these pages bills of fare for one week, according to the season of the year, have been carefully arranged for a household of six or eight persons. After a perusal of these menus, some housekeepers may imagine that it would be impossible to provide such a variety of food at so small a cost. The author, however, shows that with proper care and economy it can be accomplished. The work is specially suitable to those who have carefully to consider the question of ways and means.”—The Morning Post.

“Should prove a very good guide to young housekeepers beginning their business. It is an economical little work, and certainly shows how to get the most out of the sum allowed.”—Spectator.

The New Home

By MRS. C. S. PEEL

With many Illustrations by Agnes Walker.

Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.

“Those who feel unable to cope with the subject of ‘the house beautiful’ without advice, should seek guidance from Mrs. C. S. Peel, who, in her new book—‘The New Home’—offers some delightful and practical suggestions upon this interesting topic. Her words appeal to a very wide class, and will bring relief to many a home where a real desire for pretty rooms exists. Its many chapters, written by an acknowledged authority, cannot fail to be useful.”—Woman.

“A useful book, treating of the arrangement, decoration, and furnishing of a house of medium size, to be maintained by a moderate income. It contains many useful hints; and by means of illustrations gives good ideas of how best to arrange a house and to provide useful accessories.”—The Weekly Sun.

“These books of Lover's seem to us to reach almost an ideal for a library edition, so far as type and form are concerned, and are in the best traditions of this publishing house.”—Literature.

“Annotated with care and judgment and beautifully printed.”—Pall Mall Gazette.

SPENSER'S FAERIE QUEENE

Now complete in Six Volumes. Cloth in box, 9s. net.

Edited by KATE M. WARREN

Foolscap 8vo, 1s. 6d. net each volume.

Also Art Canvas gilt extra, with Photogravure Frontispiece,
2s. 6d. net per Volume ; complete in case, 15s. net.

“The text of the present issue, which has been prepared with great care, is based on that of the editions of 1590 and 1596. Each volume is provided with an admirable glossary, and with notes, containing all that is necessary for an understanding of the text. The introductions are ably-written, and show much critical power.”—Spectator.

SUNNINGWELL

By F. WARRE CORNISH

Crown 8vo, 6s.

“No more agreeable picture of a clergyman has been drawn since ‘The Vicar of Wakefield.’ No more sympathetic or humorous treatment of a provincial society has been published since ‘Cranford.’ It is only the form of these two books which suggests comparison, for ‘Sunningwell’ stands by itself and owes nothing to any one model.”—Speaker.

“This is a scholarly, well-written, and interesting book, not without a good deal both of humour and of pathos.”—Manchester Guardian.

“There can be little doubt that the author presents a truthful picture of the ecclesiastical life of the last generation ; the work is one, moreover, that in an age of hurried book-making deserves recognition by reason of its thoughtful and scholarly character.”—Morning Post.

“‘Sunningwell’ is a book into the making of which much shrewd and humorous observation and much cultured and vigorous thought have gone, and it is a book worth reading—even worth buying.”—Scotsman.

“The views put forward throughout the volume, whether or not the writer’s own, are always worth considering, even when we dissent from them—certainly they cannot be lightly put aside. And the book is excellent reading, for it is full of vigorous and weighty sayings and full of humour too.”—Guardian.

The Taming of the Jungle

By C. W. DOYLE

The Cover specially designed by J. T. NETTLESHIP.

3s. 6d.

“‘The Taming of the Jungle’ is one of the most striking books of Indian life that we have seen since Mr. Kipling produced his ‘Plain Tales from the Hills,’ and it does not suffer by comparison with the work that made Mr. Kipling famous. Indeed, if Dr. Doyle had been first in the field, we venture to think that Mr. Kipling’s work would have been adjudged less good than this later effort.”—Literature.

“One needs no previous knowledge of this folk of the Terai, away there under the Himalayas, to appreciate the insight and observation which characterise every stroke of the charming sketches. It would be altogether unfair to say that the author owes his inspiration to Mr. Kipling. He speaks from long and close experience; and, what is better still, his note is his own. . . . In a brilliant illustration by Mr. Nettleship, full of fire and movement, the beasts of the jungle are seen careering across the back of the book. The covers, in fact, have been drawn as well as any huntsman could do it.”—Punch.

“The book reflects the romance of the jungle and the thoughts and customs of an uncultured race, endowed with many admirable characteristics and some of the qualities of barbarism, in a manner that deserves appreciative recognition. The author has evidently lived among the people and closely studied their ways, so that, while the picture that he presents is engaging, it also conveys a sense of verisimilitude.”—Morning Post.

“I am impelled to say a word in warm praise of the extremely pleasant little book of Indian stories, without caring a fig for the purely academic question as to whether they would have been put forth exactly as they stand had Mr. Kipling never lived. Dr. Doyle knows the folk of the Terai intimately; he has the power of spinning a good story out of the good stuff with which his memory is stored.”—T. P. O’Connor, in M. A. P.

Janice Meredith

A Story of the American Revolution

By PAUL LEICESTER FORD

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"Mr. Ford, who is already a distinguished American writer, is greatly to be congratulated on a very delightful novel, which, no less from its historical than for its literary merit, will considerably add to his reputation."—The Daily News.

"The story is an excellent and carefully executed romance of love and war."—Spectator.

"Janice and her girl friends are delightful."—Literature.

"Mr. Ford has the right feeling for romance; he knows how to bring his reader into the thick of the excitement and give him the right thrill of personal participation in the struggle, and he keeps his grip on the reader's attention through a long and interesting book."—The Speaker.

"There is not one of them that is not dainty and entertaining."—Daily Mail.

"A very attractive and highly entertaining book by the clever author of 'The Story of an Untold Love.'"—Observer.

Dracula

BY BRAM STOKER

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"In seeking a parallel to this weird, powerful and horrible story, our minds revert to such tales as 'The Mysteries of Adolpho,' 'Frankenstein,' 'Wuthering Heights,' 'The Fall of the House of Usher,' and 'Marjery of Quelher.' But 'Dracula' is even more appalling in its gloomy fascination than any one of these."—Daily Mail.

"It is horrid and creepy to the last degree. It is also excellent, and one of the best things in the supernatural line that we have been lucky enough to hit upon."—Pall Mall Gazette.

WORKS BY FIONA MACLEOD

The Dominion of Dreams

Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo, 6s.

"For the gifts of Miss Fiona Macleod, it is impossible to use the common words of gratitude. To people who live in a paved city, or a half-paved suburb, dimly conscious of sky, and aware of the voice of the wind only when a gale sings in the telegraph wires, her writings are as the water of life. We know not, neither do we care, whether Fiona Macleod be man, woman, or spirit, though we suppose her treasure is hidden in an earthen vessel. Enough for us that she hears, as only poets hear, the old authentic voices of the world."—Daily Chronicle.

"Of the extreme beauty and subtlety of Miss Fiona Macleod's writing there is no need now to speak. She has caught the habit of the true Gael, who sees an idea in a picture, and expresses a thought in a metaphor."—Literature.

Green Fire

A Story of the Western Islands.

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"There are few in whose hands the pure threads have been so skilfully and delicately woven as they have in Fiona Macleod's."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"The fuller revelation which we looked for from Miss Fiona Macleod's earlier works has been amply fulfilled in this volume."—Western Mail.

The Laughter of Peterkin

A Re-telling of Old Stories of the Celtic Wonder-world.

Illustrated by SUNDERLAND ROLLINSON.

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"The writing is full of beauty and passion."—St. James's Gazette.

"To no more skilful hands than those of Fiona Macleod could the re-telling of these old tales of the Celtic Wonderland have been confided."—Morning Post.

By Order of the Company

By MARY JOHNSTON

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"Miss Mary Johnston's former novel prepared the reader to welcome her name on a title-page, and 'By Order of the Company' will not disappoint such expectations, for it is quite as good reading as 'The Old Dominion.' The picture of the very earliest days of Virginia is excellently painted, and the personages of the story are sympathetic and interesting."—Spectator.

"'By Order of the Company' is fascinating; as a picture of Virginian life about the year 1621, it is fully as good. And as a record of the deeds of brave men, and one lady who was passing fair, it is worth a dozen of the novels that are turned out by the type-writers and phonographers of those writers known above everything else as 'popular.'"—Black and White.

The Old Dominion

By MARY JOHNSTON

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"We have had of late an abundance of romance, but not better than this. The heroine is adorable. The whole book is a masterpiece of romance."—British Weekly.

• "It is an exciting narrative of a perilous adventure, and of a hate that was converted into love as strong as death. The characters are drawn with a strong hand, and the interest is sustained to the end."—Punch.

Caleb West

By F. HOPKINSON SMITH

(Author of "Tom Grogan," etc.)

Second Edition. Crown 8vo, 6s.

"It is a long time since we have met with so satisfactory a book as 'Caleb West.' Readers must go to the book for themselves, and enjoy its pathos, its humour, its rich character-drawing, and its thrilling adventures, as we must confess that we have done."—Speaker.

"The reader will find enough of all sorts to hold his interest to the end. Mr. Hopkinson Smith writes well and carefully, and often charms us with literary workmanship of a really high order."—Westminster Gazette.

"Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith is to be congratulated on having written a really fine novel, which is full of admirable character."—Daily Telegraph.

Dinkinbar

By HERBERT C. MACILWAINE

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"There is good food for thought as well as a right good story in Mr. MacIlwaine's record of 'Dinkinbar.'"—Daily Chronicle.

"Have been much interested in a book constructed on very unconventional lines, entitled 'Dinkinbar,' by Herbert MacIlwaine. I have read a great many stories of bush life, but none that seemed to present it with such vivid naturalness."—Weekly Sun.

"Mr. Herbert MacIlwaine's name is new to us, but in 'Dinkinbar' he has written the best story of Australian bush life we ever came across."—Standard.

In the Shadow of the Crown

By M. BIDDER

With an Introduction by MAURICE HEWLETT

Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"Remembering that as a rule historical novels are somewhat dull, and that therefore the reading public is inclined to neglect them, we repeat with added emphasis that in our opinion Mr. Bidder's contribution to this kind of literature deserves a large audience and close attention."—Literary World.

"A very brightly written and coherent story."—Daily Telegraph.

"The author, while giving free play to a picturesque imagination, has succeeded in imparting an air of reality to everything, the romantic atmosphere blending with the truths of history."—Scotsman.

"'In the Shadow of the Crown' is a remarkable book, and one of great promise."—Fall Mall Gazette.

Portraits

A Series of Portraits of Distinguished Men and Women of the day, reproduced from Original Drawings.

By THE MARCHIONESS OF GRANBY

£2 2s. net.

“One of the most artistic and spirited of modern collections of portraits of our contemporaries is the handsome folio published by Messrs. A. Constable & Co., and entitled ‘Portraits of Men and Women,’ by the Marchioness of Granby.”—Athenæum.

National Worthies

A Selection from the National Portrait Gallery.

With Biographical Notes.

About 150 Illustrations. Crown 4to. £2 2s. net.

Only 750 copies printed, of which 260 have been reserved for America.

The binding of this Volume in full leather is reproduced in facsimile from an example by Roger Payne, now exhibited in the King's Library at the British Museum. The publishers are indebted to Mr. Cyril Davenport, F.S.A., for advice and assistance in the reproduction of this beautiful example of the celebrated eighteenth-century English craftsman.

To Messrs. A. Constable & Co. has come the happy thought of issuing in a volume entitled ‘National Worthies’ reproductions of 154 of the pictures in the National Portrait Gallery. A fine paper has been used, and the portraits, for the most part, come out remarkably well. They have been judiciously selected. They are followed by notes on each, consisting of concise biographical sketches, with suitable quoted comments on each.”—The Globe.

Ornament in European Silks

Crown 4to. Bound in half vellum, gilt. 32s. net.

The Romance of our Ancient Churches

By SARAH WILSON

With nearly 200 Illustrations by ALEXANDER ANSTED.

Crown 8vo, 6s.

"A very interesting book, carefully put together from the best authorities, and excellently illustrated. The successive styles of architecture, the chief features of the church, and the peculiarities found in individual buildings—these and other things, more varied and numerous than we can describe here, are dealt with. . . . May be confidently recommended."—Spectator.

London City Churches

By A. E. DANIELL

With numerous Illustrations by LEONARD MARTIN, and a Map.

Imperial 16mo, 6s. Second Edition, with a Map.

"The illustrations to this book are good, and it deserves to be widely read."—Morning Post.

"The author of this book knows the City churches one and all, and has studied their monuments and archives with the patient reverence of the true antiquarian, and, armed with the pen instead of the chisel, he has done his best to give permanent record to their claims on the nation as well as on the man in the street."—Leeds Mercury.

Leaves from the Golden Legend

Chosen by H. D. MADGE, LL.M.

With numerous Illustrations by H. M. WATTS.

Post 8vo, half linen, gilt top, 3s. 6d. net.

"One of the prettiest of current publications is 'Leaves from the Golden Legend,' a small volume which is a miracle of good taste in the matters of type, paper, illustrations and binding."—Globe.

Human Immortality

By WILLIAM JAMES

Professor of Philosophy at Harvard University.

Fourth Edition. 16mo, 2s. 6d.

"Professor James is well known as one of the most suggestive and original writers, and as certainly the most brilliant psychologist living. Whatever, therefore, he has to say on this subject is worth listening to; for he thinks freely, and he knows all that the scientist knows, and more too."—Spectator.
