PART II—SUBJECTS

BOMBAY

SOCIETY'S LIBRARY, TOWN HALL.

1922

PREFACE

THOUGH I have followed previous editions of the catalogue in giving the name "Subjects" to this part, it is not a real Subject-Index. It is only a Title-Index. The title entries here represent subjects in so far as a word or words indicative of the subject-matter of a book are put first, other portion of the title being suitably arranged. A book, therefore, which has in its title more words than one suggesting different subjects, is entered according to this system, in more than one place under words standing for those subjects. Where no such word could be found the book is given under its title without any change, the article, if any, being dropped. Most of the poetical and dramatical works are entered in this way. Sometimes, however, the first or principal title of a book does not contain a word indicative of its subject-matter, but the sub-title does. In such cases entry is made of the sub-title, with the suggestive word placed first; and the principal title is added in a bracket so as to make identification of the book easy. Details mentioned on the title-page are supplied in several entries in order to convey the exact nature or scope of the books. Only books published under the title "Works," "Complete Works," &c., are not entered in this part. They will be found under their authors in the first part of the Catalogue. Novels on the Fiction Shelves have been omitted as has been done in the Author-Index.

Care has been taken to see that every book in the Library has found at least one entry in this part, the method for doing this being identical with that adopted for the same purpose in the case of the other part of the Catalogue. In the same way books representing entries in each galley of the first proof were taken down from the shelves, and the entries were compared with the titles of the books so as to ensure that details given here are as correct as possible.

Books, the titles or sub-titles of which do not mention their subject, are comparatively few, but there can be no doubt that these should come under the subject they treat. This is not possible in such a Title-Index as this part represents. A classified Subject-Index is, therefore, a necessity and it will have to be undertaken as early as possible.

It was my intention to add as separate entries the important series of books such as the 'Bibliotheca Indica,' the 'Sacred Books of the East,' 'Gibb Memorial,' 'English Men of Letters,' &c., and to give under the head of every series a list of the volumes of that series obtained by the Society. But the catalogue became much larger and the work proved considerably more arduous than originally anticipated. Besides, the press took considerably long to print this part, and the publication of the list of series would have still further delayed the printing. For these reasons I thought it desirable to postpone publication of the lists, which may be done as a supplement to one of the catalogues of the annual additions to the Library.

Those who had generously helped me in the work of the Author-Index continued their kind help in the preparation of the Subject-Index also. My sincere thanks are due to all of them, as also to Dr. E. A. Parker who was good enough to go over the proofs of the last portion of this catalogue.

It is a matter of regret that this part took nearly five years to be printed, while the Authors' part, which is shorter by 250 pages, was ready in a year and a half's time, having been published in 1917. The delay is due entirely to the press having had to contend against unusual difficulties created by the world-war and its after effects, such as the scarcity of material and labour, strikes of workmen, &c. The delay has, however, been utilised to bring up this catalogue to the end of 1917, the Authors' part containing entries to the end of 1915 only.

P. B. G.

HINTS FOR REFERENCE

The general plan of entries remains the same as in the last edition of the Catalogue, viz., the title (with the word or words suggesting the subject placed first), the author, numbers of volumes and the place of location.

Editors and translators have been added in the case of many important books, and in some entries this is done to mark different editions of the same books. Similarly to distinguish the impressions or editions of a book, the number of the edition with its year of publication where available has been mentioned. The series to which a book belongs has also been given in cases where the series was an important one. Names of authors, editors, translators and series are put in italics.

In the Authors' index the size, the place and the year of publication of all books of which authors are known have been entered. Books without authors have a place in this part of the catalogue only, and details as to the size, &c., of these, therefore, appear in this index.

In successive entries of titles under any particular word, that word is mentioned in the first or top entry, a small line is put in its place in the other entries in order to avoid repetition as well as to save space. In cases where more words than one had to be repeated, the words are printed in black type, so that the line in these cases represents the words in black type at the top. This was done only if the number of such entries was sufficiently large. Where such entries were few, particularly in the case of proper names, the line stands for the word at the top with the word which follows in a bracket.

The above points will be made clear by the following illustrations :—

- (1) British Academy.
— admirals. }
— Africa. } Here the line stands for 'British'
— America. } (see page 142.)

HINTS FOR REFERENCE

- (2) British Empire. }
 — and America. } Here the line stands for 'British'
 — and its history } Empire.'
 — through the. }
- British enactments. } Here the line stands for 'British'
 — enterprise. } (see page 144.)

It will be noticed here that the second word in the entry printed in black type has the right place in the alphabetical order under entries of 'British' when the entries of 'British Empire' are complete the word 'British' is repeated; and the line thereafter represents 'British' only. (See page 144.)

- (3) Smith (Adam). Hirst }
 — life of. Haldane } Here the line stands for 'Smith'
 — life of. Rae } (Adam.)
- Smith (Admiral Sir Sidney) } Here the line stands for life, &c. } Smith (Adml. Sir Sidney).
 — memoirs of, *
- Smith, Alexander, early years of. } Here the line stands for — Capt. John. } 'Smith' only (see page — Gerrit. } 1072).

These are additional hints for this part. General hints as to the language of a book, &c., have been already given in the Authors' part.
