PREFACE.

By the Editorial Secretary of the S.P.G.

THE first part of this book was published in 1922. But it is not out of date ; and the author finds nothing of any importance in it which needs revision. Of the second part, now bound up with the first, Miss Edwards writes:—

“ This second paper cannot in any way be described as a full account of the work of the Criminal Tribes Settlement at Hubli which has been carried on for the past ten years by S.P.G. workers. It is rather a series of reflections on that work by those who, being immersed in the work, are liable to miss the broader issues because of the mass of details by which they are surrounded. These reflections are an attempt to clear the vision and see the growth of the wood in spite of the thickness of the trees.”

The Rev. A. L. Bradbury, Superintendent of the Industrial Settlement, endorses these remarks of the author, who also tells us that he has given his help and counsel in preparing this account of “ ten years after.”
