PREFACE.

As the case law relating to Trade Unions has, during the last two years, undergone considerable development in the House of Lords, the English Court of Appeal, and the Scottish Court of Session, the author has deemed it advisable to supplement his former work on "The Law Relating to Trade Unions" by an analysis of all the Trade Union cases decided since its publication. A chapter on the Trade Union Act, 1913, has been added, thus bringing the law on the subject down to date.

JOHN H. GREENWOOD.

THE LAW RELATING TO TRADE UNIONS

Demy 8vo. 1911. Cloth, 10s.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This work brings the law upon this Subject quite up to date. It should be very useful both to lawyers and trade union officials, as the full facts of and copious extracts from the judgments are given, while the index is very complete."—Law Times, April 15th, 1911.

"A very excellent little treatise."—Law Students' Journal, April, 1911.

"The lawyer and ordinary reader will find everything here he requires."—Saturday Review, April 8th, 1911.

"Mr. Greenwood deals very fully with the functions and status of trade unions, the doctrine of restraint of trade, the liability of unions in contract and in tort, strikes and trade union funds. The book should save the lawyer who uses it the trouble of consulting the original reports. It will be found most valuable, however, by trade unionists themselves."—Glasgow Herald, April 6th, 1911.

"The book is a substantive exposition of the law, addressed more especially to the instruction of trade union officials and others who have not ready access to the Law Reports. Its logically divided and detailed index, its table of contents, its table of cases cited, and its apparatus of reference are all such as consult with professional knowledge and care the particular needs of legal practitioners. An exactly learned, carefully digested, and always intelligible treatise."—The Scotsman, April 10th, 1911.

"An excellent text-book, designed by its author to make the legislation on this matter intelligible to the trade union officials and others who have not ready access to the Law Reports. The volume gives all necessary information in detail."—Newcastle Daily Chronicle, April 17th, 1911.

PRESS NOTICES OF FORMER EDITION.

"There is an excellent introduction, and the various sections of the Act are fully annotated. The book is a timely one, and should be appreciated by both branches of the legal profession."—Law Times.

"Mr. Knowles has produced an able commentary on the Act."—Law Journal.

"The subject is treated in a satisfactory way."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Will occupy a permanent and leading place among works of its class."—The Law Clerk.

"Admirable discussions of some of the points that will arise for decision on the new Act. The notes explanatory of the new and old legislation are very clear and suggestive, and will add greatly to the value of the work."—Law Quarterly Review.

the staff of those Reports.

COMPLETENESS

is ensured by the inclusion of every Appeal heard in the English Courts, not only on the construction of the Acts, but in any way dealing with the subject: and of a full selection of the Appeals in the Scottish and Irish Courts. Furthermore, the judgments of all the Judges in the House of Lords and Courts of Appeal will be given verbatim.

AUTHORITATIVENESS

is ensured by the fact that the work of editing and reporting is done by members of the Bar who have been for many years associated with the oldest established series of Law Reports now in existence.

Subscription for 1913 to the cumulative Parts and bound Volume,
12s. 6d. Postage 1s. extra.

The new feature for the coming year will be the inclusion of Insurance Cases, including National Insurance Cases.

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS OF THE FIRST PART:

"In this First Part we find over thirty cases of genuine importance, more than half of which appear for the first time in collected form. The apparatus of the series is excellent, and the series ought speedily to become of standard authority."—Law Journal.

"The series will, in a short time, come to be recognised as authoritative in the fullest sense, in a field where there has hitherto been a want of standard authority."—Law Students' Journal.

"Mr. W. E. Gordon, the sub-editor of the Law Journal Reports, has conferred a benefit on his fellow lawyers when from the ample resources at his command he has drawn up this full and useful compilation."—Midland Counties Herald.

"To laymen and to lawyers, but, of course, primarily and chiefly to the latter, this new series of reports will undoubtedly be extremely welcome."—Western Morning News.
