Dhananjayarao Gadgii Library

KAYE'S AND MALLEA

OF THE

INDIAN MUL LARGE EXTENT SUDDENLY.

01

1857-8.

EDITED BY COLONEL MALLESON, C.S.I.

Vol. I.
By Sir JOHN KAYE, K.C.S.I., F.R.S.

CABINET EDITION.

LONDON:

W. H. ALLEN & CO., 13, WATERLOO I 1888.

[All Rights Reserved.]

- . . FOR TO THINK THAT AN HANDFUL OF PROPLE CAN, WITH THE GREATEST COURAGE AND POLICY IN THE WORLD, EMBRACE TOO LARGE EXTENT OF DOMINION, IT MAY HOLD FOR A TIME, BUT IT WILL FAIL SUDDENLY.— Bacon.
- . . As for mercenary forces (which is the help in this case), all examples show that, whatsoever estate, or prince, doth best upon them, be may spread his feathers for a time, but he will new them soon after.—Bacon.

If there be fuel prepared, it is hard to tell whence the spake shall come that shall set it on fire. The matter of seditions is of two kinds, much poverty and much discontentment. It is cretain, so many overthrown estates, so many votes for troubles. . . . The causes and motives for sedition are, innovations in religion, taxes, alteration of laws and customs, breaking of privileges, general oppression, advancement of unworthy persons, strangers, deaths, disbanded soldiers, pactions grown desperate; and whatsoever in oppending prople joineth and knitteth them in a common cause.—

Broom.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

In preparing a new, and, if I may so call it, a consolidated, edition of the History of the Indian Mutiny—that is, an edition in which Colonel Malleson's three volumes of continuation are blended with the two initiatory volumes of Sir John Kaye-I have had to encounter few difficulties beyond those of form. By difficulties of form I mean differences of arrangement, and differences in the spelling of Indian proper names. It seemed to me absolutely essential that in both these respects the two works should be brought into complete accord. I have, therefore, met the first difficulty by substituting, in Sir John Kaye's volumes, an initial "Table of Contents" for the chapter headings. Such a table, apart from other considerations, is more useful to a reader who may desire to refer to a particular incident. With respect to the other difference it was impossible to hesitate. The spelling of the past, based upon the impressions made upon men, ignorant of the Native languages, by the utterances of the Natives, a spelling based upon no system, and therefore absolutely fortuitous, has in these latter days given place to a spelling founded upon the actual letters which represent the places indicated. In its General Orders and in its Gazettes the Government of India of the present day adopts the enlightened system of spelling drawn up by Dr. Hunter, and this system has been adopted generally by the Indian Press, and by residents in India. Between the alternative of adhering to a barbarous system, fast dying if not already dead, and the more enlightened system of the present and of the future, there could not be a moment's hesitation. I have adapted, then, Sir John Kaye's spelling of Indian proper names to one more in accordance with modern usage, and in every respect more correct. In the text, I need scarcely say, I have not changed even a comma. That text remains, in these volumes, as he wrote and published it. Some of the indices, the interest in which has waned, if not altogether died out. have been omitted; some have been abridged; and in one instance the salient part has been transferred to the note to which it properly belonged. Colonel Malleson's three volumes have naturally met with far less indulgence at my hands. When these shall be published the reader will find that the severest critic of a work may be its author.

The work, when completed, will consist of Sir John Kaye's first and second volumes and of Colonel Malleson's three. These, with the index, will make six volumes. It is needless to discuss all the reasons why Colonel Malleson's first volume has been preferred to Sir John Kaye's third, for one will suffice. Kaye's third volume would not fit in with Malleson's second volume, as it concludes with the story of the storming of Dehli, which forms the first chapter of Malleson's second volume, whilst it omits the relief of Lakhnao, the account of which concludes Malleson's first volume.

I may add that on the few occasions on which I have deemed it absolutely necessary to append a note, that note bears the initials of the Editor.

G. B. M.

1st October, 1888.

PREFACE By Sir JOHN KAYE.

It was not without much hesitation that I undertook to writethis narrative of the events, which have imparted so painful a celebrity to the years 1857-58, and left behind them such terrible remembrances. Publicly and privately I had been frequently urged to do so, before I could consent to take upon myself a responsibility, which could not sit lightly on any one capable of appreciating the magnitude of the events themselves and of the many grave questions which they suggested. If, indeed, it had not been that, in course of time, I found, either actually in my hands or within my reach, materials of history such as it was at least improbable that any other writer could obtain, I should not have ventured upon so difficult a task. But having many important collections of papers in my possession, and having received promises of further assistance from surviving actors in the scenes to be described, I felt that, though many might write a better history of the Sipáhi War,. no one could write a more truthful one.

So, relying on these external advantages to compensate all inherent deficiencies, I commenced what I knew must be a labour of years, but what I felt would be also a labour of love. My materials were too ample to be otherwise than most sparingly displayed. The prodigal citation of authorities has its advantages; but it encumbers the text, it impedes the narrative, and swells to inordinate dimensions the record of historical events. On a former occasion, when I laid before the public an account of a series of important transactions, mainly derived from original documents, public and private, I quoted those documents freely both in the text and in the notes. As I was at that time wholly unknown to the public, it was necessary that I should cite chapter and verse to obtain credence for my statements. There was no ostensible reason why I should have known more about those transactions than any other writer (for it was merely the accident of private friendships and associations that placed such profuse materials in my possession), and it seemed to be imperative upon me therefore to produce my credentials. But, believing that this necessity no longer exists, I have in the present work abstained from adducing my authorities, for the mere purpose of substantiating my statements. I have quoted the voluminous correspondence in my possession only where there is some dramatic force and propriety in the words cited, or when they appear calculated, without impeding the narrative, to give colour and vitality to the story.

And here I may observe that, as on former occasions, the 'historical materials which I have moulded into this narrative are rather of a private than of a public character. I have made but little use of recorded official documents. I do not mean that access to such documents has not been extremely serviceable to me; but that it has rather afforded the means of verifying or correcting statements received from other sources than it has supplied me with original materials. So far as respects the accumulation of facts, this History would have differed but slightly from what it is, if I had never passed the door of a public office; and, generally, the same may be said of the opinions which I have expressed. Those opinions, whether sound or unsound, are entirely my own personal opinions opinions in many instances formed long ago, and confirmed by later events and more mature consideration. No one but myself is responsible for them; no one else is in any way identified with them. In the wide range of inquiry embraced by the ·consideration of the manifold causes of the great convulsion of (1857, almost every grave question of Indian government and administration presses forward, with more or less importunity, for notice. Where, on many points, opinions widely differ, and the policy, which is the practical expression of them, takes various shapes, it is a necessity that the writer of cotemporary history, in the exercise of independent thought, should find himself dissenting from the doctrines and disapproving the actions of some authorities, living and dead, who are worthy of all admiration and respect. It is fortunate, when, as in the present instance, this difference of opinion involves no diminution of esteem, and the historian can discern worthy motives. and whose ways he may think erroneous, and whose course of action he may deem unwise.

Indeed, the errors of which I have freely spoken were, for the most part, strivings after good. It was in the over-eager pursuit of Humanity and Civilisation that Indian statesmen of the new school were betrayed into the excesses which have been so grievously visited upon the nation. The story of the Indian Rebellion of 1857 is, perhaps, the most signal illustration of our great national character ever yet recorded in the annals of our country. It was the vehement self-assertion of the Englishman that produced this conflagration; it was the same vehement self-assertion that enabled him, by God's blessing, to trample it out. It was a noble egotism, mighty alike in doing and in suffering, and it showed itself grandly capable of steadfastly confronting the dangers which it had brought down upon itself. If I have any predominant theory it is this: Because we were too English the great crisis arose; but it was only because we were English that, when it arose, it did not utterly overwhelm us.

It is my endeavour, also, to show how much both of the dangers which threatened British dominion in the East, and of the success with which they were encountered, is assignable to the individual characters of a few eminent men. With this object I have sought to bring the reader face to face with the principal actors in the events of the Sipáhi War, and to take a personal interest in them. If it be true that the best history is that which most nearly resembles a bundle of biographies, it is especially true when said with reference to Indian history; for nowhere do the characters of individual Englishmen impress themselves with a more vital reality upon the annals of the country in which they live; nowhere are there such great opportunities of independent action; nowhere are developed such capacities for evil or for good, as in our great Anglo-Indian Empire. If, then, in such a work as this, the biographical element were not prominently represented—if the individualities of such men as Dalhousie and Canning, as Henry and John Lawrence, as James Outram, as John Nicholson, and Herbert Edwardes, were not duly illustrated, there would be not only a cold and colourless, but also an unfaithful, picture of the origin and progress of the War. But it is to be remarked that, in proportion as the individuality of the English leaders is distinct and strongly marked, that of the chiefs of the insurrectionary movement is faint and undecided. In the fact of this contrast we see the whole history of the success which, by God's providence, crowned the efforts of our countrymen. If the individual energies of the leaders of the revolt had been commensurate with the power of the masses, we might have failed to extinguish such a conflagration. But the whole tendency of the English system had been to crush out those energies; so again, I say, we found in the very circumstances which had excited the rebellion the very elements of our success in suppressing it. Over the Indian Dead Level which that system had created, the English heroes marched triumphantly to victory.

In conclusion, I have only to express my obligations to those who have enabled me to write this History by supplying me with the materials of which it is composed. To the executors of the late Lord Canning, who placed in my hands the private and demi-official correspondence of the deceased statesman, extending over the whole term of his Indian administration, I am especially indebted. To Sir John Lawrence and Sir Herbert Edwardes, who have furnished me with the most valuable materials for my narrative of the rising in the Panjáb and the measures taken in that province for the re-capture of Dehli; to the family of the late Colonel Baird Smith, for many interesting papers illustrative of the operations of the great siege; to Sir James Outram, who gave me before his death his correspondence relating to the brilliant operations in Oudh; to Sir Robert Hamilton, for much valuable matter in elucidation of the history of the Central Indian Campaign; and to Mr. E. A. Reade, whose comprehensive knowledge of the progress of events in the North-Western Provinces has been of material service to me, my warmest acknowledgments are due. no one am I more indebted than to Sir Charles Wood, Secretary of State for India, who has permitted me to consult the official records of his Department—a privilege which has ennabled me to make much better use of the more private materials in my possession. No one, however, can know better or feel more strongly than myself, that much matter of interest contained in the multitudinous papers before me is unrepresented in my narrative. But such omissions are the necessities of a history so full of incident as this. If I had yielded to the temptation to use my illustrative materials more freely, I should have expanded this work beyond all acceptable limits.

LONDON, October, 1864.

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

Editor's Preface											PAGE
Author's Preface											ix
	J	300K	I	INT	ROD	UCT	ORY.
	•					_
			CE	IAPT	ER	I.
Administration of	Lor	l Dall	ousie	٠.	•						1
First Occupation	of th	e Pan	jáb								2
Sir Henry Lawren	ace a	nd the	Cour	icil of	$^{\circ}$ Reg	ency					5
Character of Sir I	Ienry	Law	rence			•					2 5 6 8
Work of Lawrence	e and	his S	chool								8
Sir Frederick Cur	rie sı	icceed	s Lav	vrence	э.						11
The Marquess of											12
Mulráj and Multá	n										13
The Attack on Va	ans A	gnew	and.	Ander	son						14
The second Sikh		٠.									15
Herbert Edwarde											19
Siege of Multán											23
Defection of Sher	Sing	h									24
Chatar Singh rise			zárab				-	- 1			24
Emphatic Declar	ation	of Lo	rd Da	lhousi	e						25
Lord Gough							-	-			26
Combat of Ramns	LORE			i				Ĭ	-		26
Sir Henry Lawren		turns	to In	aif	•	•	•	•	·	·	28
Capture of Multái		, 6 (4.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1.2 1			•	•	•	•	•	•	29
Chiliánwala .	•	Ť	·	·	Ĭ	·	·	•	-	Ţ.	30
The Afghans join	the	Qibha	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	31
Decisive Battle of	Cui	r6+	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	31
Annexation of the	Don	iáh a	nd rac	aona .	for th		٠.	•	•	•	33
Dhulíp Singh	, 1 an	Jau, a	uu io	dinon.	101 11	10 Ball	10	•	•	•	33
The Board of Adr	ninia	Hatior	. •	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	34
'They found muc				nndo.	"	•	•	•	•	•	39
The Panjáb Syste	m 10	uo, m	MC 60	шии		•	•	•	•	•	41
The Board of Adn	uinio	- -		· manda	i ho	M÷ T	ohn T	OTEPO	nce	•	44
Conquest and An	ninini Titiini	ion of	Door	19006	L Dy	mil. U	will L	10 H 1 D	400	•	47
ondress and wit	uczu.	TOH OI	regu	٠.	•	•	•	•	•	•	4/

~		_	-	-
СН	A	rı	ΈR	- 11

								PAGE
The Question of "Adoption".								50
Satarah and the Right of Lapse								51
Satárah is Annexed								53
Annexation of Nágpúr								58
Jhánsi	-							64
Annexation of Jhansi								66.
Karáulí				٠.				66
Lord Dalhousie is refused permi	ssion to	anne	x Kai	áulí				68
Sambhalpúr is annexed								71
Treatment of the Peshwa .								71
Of his Heir				•				74
The Náná appeals to England								75
His Appeal is rejected					-	_		78
Azim-úllah Khan					-			79
Empty Titular Dignities danger	rous Pos	18e88i	ons	_	-	-		80
					•	-	•	-
~			_
Ci	HAPTI	CK I	ш.
Oadh								81
Early connection with Oudh .	•	•	•	•	-	•	•	81
Misrule of the Kings of Oudh	•	•	•	•	•	•	. •	82
Problem before the Government	of India	•	•	•	-	•		87
Lord William Bentinck's Schem	or minut	i	•	•	•	•	•	89
Views of Sir John Low	e rejeci	œu		•	•	•	•	90
A fresh Treaty is signed with a	new Ki	Dø	•	•	•	•	•	91
The new Treaty foolishly disalle	med par	tha	Const	of Div	· ·		•	92
Lord Hardinge warns Wajid Al	i .	етто	Ош	or Di	CCWI		•	95
Missela of Waild Ali		•	•	•	•	•	•	96
Colonel Sleeman's Report	•	•	•	•	•	•	:	97
His Advice not to interfere with	the Re	wann	og of t	ha Clar	nnt-w	•		99
Sir James Outram is sent to Out		4 СП П	CB UI I	Te CO	uner 3	•	•	101
Outram reports in favour of virt		ovot	ion	•	•	•	٠	102
Lord Dalhousie supports Outran			ЮП	•	•	•	•	104
The Court of Directors approve			•	•	•	•	•	106
Outram is directed to enter and	taka m		ion of	Ondh	•		•	107
Details of the annexation of Out		EDCOS	IOII OI	Vuun	•	• .	•	108
Details of the annexation of Out		•	•	•	•	•	•	100
~	T.
C	HAPT	ER 1	ν.
Destruction of the Territorial N	ability .	of To	dia					111
Settlement Operations	-		LL LOS	•	•	•	•	113
The Talukdar	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	115
The Administrative Agency .	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	117
The Thomason System	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	119
Treatment of the Native Gentry		•	•	:	•	•	•	120
Rent-free Tenures		•	•	•	:	•	•	121
Resumption Operations	•	•	•	•		•		123
The Bombay Inam Commission	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	127
Depression of the Upper Classes		•	•	•	•	•	•	100
				•	•

						_
	CON	ren:	TS	OF	VOL.	I.				xv
Priesthood .										PAGE 131
Priesthood .	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	132
rross of anlightenme	n.t	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	135
ive tion	ш	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	125
ala Education	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	136
marriage of Hindry V	Widow	:	•	•	•	٠	•	•	•	136
Dailman and the T	olooma		•	•	•	•	•	٠	•	138
Lanway and the re	eregral	Щ	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	141
en Dissiplins	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	149
benneden Alema			•	•	•	•	•	•	•	142 142 144
	.i.	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	144
annahilita of the M	otivo T	Vina	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	144 145
o Friesthood himanism gress of enlightenme teation tale Education marriage of Hindu V Bailway and the Te to toon Discipline the Mindu and the Lote ammadan Alarms Hindu and the Lote ammability of the No	SPITAG T	MINU.		•	•	•	•	•	•	149
BOC	K II.	.—T1	Œ	SIP	ÁHI A	RN	IY.
		CH	ΑP	TER	T.
ia was won by the S	word									146
ia was won by the S Fidelity of the Nat d Dalhousie's Minut it Sipahi Levies first Mutiny in Ber e and the Bengal Or radation of the Nati et of Caste on Disci Sipahi Officer	ive Ar	my a	n a	ccept	ed The	ory				147
d Dalhousie's Minut	e on tl	ne Si	páhi	i Arr	ny .					147
st Sipáhi Levies					•					148
first Mutiny in Ber	ngal									150
e and the Bengal O	fficers									152
of first Mutiny in Ber re and the Bengal Or radation of the Nati ect of Caste on Discip Sipahi Officer	ve Off	cer								153
ct of Caste on Disci	pline						• .			154
Sipshi Officer										155
Reorganisation of 1	1796 a	nd it	8 GO	Deeu.	uences					157
ot on the Sinahi of s	. Perio	d of	Pea	ce.		:	:	:	:	158
nct of Caste on Disa; Sipahi Officer Reorganisation of lot on the Sipahi of stiny at Vellur, and it ittement at Haidarab duct of the Nizam spiracy at Nandidra affled by the Vigilar rms at Páliamkottá	ta Can	RAR			•	•	•	•	•	162
itement at Haidaráh	264			•	•	•	•	•	•	170
dust of the Nizem	- Alva	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	171
anisons of Mandides	0	•		•	•	•	•	•	•	172
apinecy at Mandidru	5 nae of	Cant	nin	Rom		•	•	•	•	173
amen of Delicarization	TOO AT	Oapu	mit.	Jayı	100 .	•	•	•	•	174
rms at Lansmeore	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	176
l at Walajahábád Government disavo										110
41 1 41 37 . 42	_							vute	T TO	177
them by the Native	75 ·	P 41.	101-	4.4	:	•	•	-	•	177
erthoughts on the Ca	auses o	I TUO	ĽX	citen	TAF	•	•	•	•	178
ws of the Home Gov	ernme	υ£	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	182
		CH 4	יק ג	ER	TT.
iny of the Madras O	fficers,	, 1809	•							184
tiny of the Madras O trast between the Er il Privileges of the S Sipahi and his Office Policy of Centralise Transfer of Officers	nglish	Soldi	er a	nd t	he Sipál	hi		:		185
l Privileges of the S	ipáhi.									186
Sipáhi and his Offic	er									187
Policy of Centralia	ation.	and it	ta C	опвес	nences			:		188
Transfer of Officers	to the	Staff	Ē		1	1	-		-	190
vances of the Soldie	ry .		-	•	•	:	•	-	-	192
MATTER OF STATE POTENTE		•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	TOM

The Mutiny at Barrackpur The Abolition of Corporal Punishment and its Reintroduction CHAPTER III. The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipahis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patna Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Rawalpindi Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjab Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirabad The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipahi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Dislike of the Bengal Sipáhis to Shipboard The Mutiny at Barrackpur The Half-Batta Order The Abolition of Corporal Punishment and its Reintroduction CHAPTER III. The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipáhis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Mutiny at Barrackpur The Half-Batta Order The Abolition of Corporal Punishment and its Reintroduction CHAPTER III. The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipáhis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád . The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
The Half-Batta Order The Abolition of Corporal Punishment and its Reintroduction CHAPTER III. The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipahis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
CHAPTER III. The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipáhis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
CHAPTER III. The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipáhis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Pathá Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
The effect of the Afghan War on the Sipáhis Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta . Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry . And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments . Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective . CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy . Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí . Suppressed by Colin Campbell . Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb . Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád . The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded . Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie . Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign . Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind . The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities . CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi . His Character . The Dangerous Feature of his Character . Its Better Side . Defects in the Military System affecting him . The Question of Caste considered . And of Nationalities . Of Separation from his Family . Of the different Systems of Promotion . Of the European Officers . Of the Intermixture of European Troops . The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small . Rumours current during the Crimean War . Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh .
Sindh and the Reduction of Extra-Batta . Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry . And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments . Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective . CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy . Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí . Suppressed by Colin Campbell . Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb . Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád . The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded . Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie . Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign . Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind . The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities . CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi . His Character . The Dangerous Feature of his Character . Its Better Side . Defects in the Military System affecting him . The Question of Caste considered . And of Nationalities . Of Separation from his Family . Of the different Systems of Promotion . Of the European Officers . Of the Intermixture of European Troops . The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small . Rumours current during the Crimean War . Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh .
Mutinies of the 34th N. I., the 7th L. C., the 4th, the 64th, and the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
the 69th N. I. Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	d
Mutiny of the 6th Madras Cavalry And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	-
And of the 47th Madras N. I. Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir O. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh Penal Measures for Mutinous Regiments Disbandment simply an Expedient—and Ineffective CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
CHAPTER IV. The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Patná Conspiracy Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Mutiny of the 22nd N. I. at Ráwalpindí Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Suppressed by Colin Campbell Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Sir C. Napier makes a Tour of Inspection in the Panjáb Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirábád. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Colonel Hearsey represses Incipient Mutiny at Wazirabad. The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipahi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The 66th N. I. Mutiny; are baffled by the Gallantry of Macdonald and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	• and disbanded Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	:
Sir Charles Napier's Action is condemned by Lord Dalhousie Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipahi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
Dalhousie is Supported by the Duke of Wellington, and Napier resign. Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipahi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War	•
Evil Effect of the Controversy on the Native Mind The just Grievances of the Sipáhi are not recognised by the Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
CHAPTER V. CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Authorities CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
CHAPTER V. Moral Deterioration of the Sipahi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	9
Moral Deterioration of the Sipáhi His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
His Character The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Dangerous Feature of his Character Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	4
Its Better Side Defects in the Military System affecting him The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Question of Caste considered And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	4
And of Nationalities Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	1
Of Separation from his Family Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	1
Of the different Systems of Promotion Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	†
Of the European Officers Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Of the Intermixture of European Troops The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
The Proportion of the Latter dangerously small Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
Rumours current during the Crimean War Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh
Some Effects of the Annexation of Oudh	•
	•
Summary of Deteriorating Influences	•
	251

BOOK III.—	THE	OUT	BRE	AK	OF '	THE	MU'	TINY.	,
		CH	APT	er i
Lord Dalhousie leaves I Character of Lord Dalho His great Error based und Antecedents of Lord Car Succeeds Lord Dalhousi Speech of, at the Farew Reaches Egypt	ndia		_	_						259
Character of Lord Dalhe	onsie		:	:		-				259
His great Error based up	non Be	mign	Inter	tions						263
Antecedents of Lord Car	ning									264
Succeeds Lord Dalhousi	e as G	overr	or-G	enera	١.					274
Speech of, at the Farewo	ell Ba	aquet	;							276
										280
Disembarks at Calcutta										282
His Initiation .										282
Sir John Low	•									283
Mr. Dorin and Mr. J. P.	. Gran	t					•		•	284
Sir John Low Mr. Dorin and Mr. J. P. Mr. Barnes Peacock General Anson		•					•			285
Geperal Anson .			•				•	•	٠	287
1 \
}		CH.	APTI	er i	I.
	A 11			•						an i
dministration of	Oudn	•.	÷ .	٠.			•	•	٠	290
ion of Successor to	pir J	umes	Outr	am D	ebat	ea.	•	•	٠	291
foverley Jackson is tels between the N	Appo	nnted	l 		M.	A.i.		•	٠	292
Ex-King of Oudh to	ew Co	mmis	Bione	r aug	MIL.	Crubb	ms	•	٠	293
Queen-Mother proc	ekes u	b ma	alond		oraru	Down	acu		•	295 295
dies in Paris .	eeus i	0 Եոն	Simmo	ю ш	uke i	reis	DIENT A	zbberr	•	295 296
evances of the Ex-Ki	· in	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	296
content of Lord Ca	mg mnino	· w:+1	iπ.	· co	2012	w Tor	keon	ond.	ita	230
Cause	uning	MILL	11 1111	. 00	10110	y oak	ASUII,	anu	113	298
ture with Persia	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	300
Question of Herát	Stated	•	:	:		÷	•	•		301
British Minister ou	ita Te	heran	1	:	•				•	302
ling of Dost Muham	mad r	espect	ting l	Herút		-		•	:	303
Canning's Views o	n the	Crisia							:	304
douloused with Dans										2000

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

declared with Persia

d Elphinstone's Views

erbert Edwardes .

The Future of Herát

stion of Command—Lord Canning's Views.

d Elphinstone's Views
James Outram is nominated to Command .

Results in a Cordial Understanding . . .

aggests the Advisability of a Personal Conference with the Amir

Interview between John Lawrence and the Amir at Peshawar

The Amir accepts the Invitation .

An Euglish Mission sent to Kandahar

Merms of Agreement with the Amir .

John Lawrence doubts his good Faith .

XVii

306

306

309

310

312 314

316

317

318

318

322

323

324

327

327

CONTENTS	\mathbf{or}	VOL.	I.
----------	---------------	------	----

xviii

Lord Canning appoints Sir I	Henry La	wrence	to be	Chie	f Con	missi	oner	PAG of Oudh Sir Henry Lawrence takes u	n his Offic	·	•	•	•	•	•	32: 33:
and Lichty Lawrence takes a	p bis om	•	•	•	•	•	•	00.
	CHAP	TER 1	III.
Retrospect of 1856.			_					33-
Policy regarding the Native	Army .							33
Evils of Extended Dominion							•	33
Lord Dalhousie and the 38tl	h N. I							339
How to send Reliefs to Pegu								34(
The Duty to devolve tempor		he Ma	dras A	rmy				34(
								341
Lord Canning alters the En Effect of the Alteration on the Enlistment of more Sikhs	he Mind o	f the S	Sipáhi					344
Enlistment of more Sikhs			٠.					34;
Apprehensions and Alarms i								34(
Lord Canning and the Relig	ious Socie	eties						345
Progress of Social Reform								2
Excess of Zeal in propagatin	g Christia	nity						;
The King of Dehli and Pers	ia
Rumours of coming Absorpti	ons of Hi	ndu Si	ates					j
The Century since Plassey
•								. 22
	CITTAIN	men i	r37					22
	CHAP	TER	LV.					228
The rising Storm								228
The old-fashioned Musket to	he renla	ed by	an imi	· Yore	a w o	enon	•	229
Story of the greased Cartridge		cca oj	41 III]	,1010	u 110	upon	•
Spread of evil Tidings		•	•		•	•	•	230
Disseminators of Evil .	: :	:	•	•	•	•	•	232
The Barrackpur Brigade		·	•	• •	•	·	•	233
General Hearsey reports an	Ill-feeling	r in the	Brice	de			Ċ	234
Incendiarism and Excitemen	t at Barra	ckoúr				Ċ	Ī.	200
The 19th N. I., at Barhámpi	ír. mutini	es .						236
The 19th N. I., at Barhámpi Details of the early History	of their M	utiny						}
Story of the Mutiny of the 19	th N. I.							1
A Court of Inquiry assemble
								8
								!
•	CHAP	TER	V.					1.
The Military Hierarchy in I	ndia consi	dered	.•	•	•	•	•	3
					_			3
Delays thereby Caused .			٠			٠,٠	•
Inquiry proves that but few	greased C	artridg	es had	beer	issu	ed		377
Inquiry proves that but few and Orders are transmitted not to	greased C	artridg e issue	es had	beer	issu	ed .		378
Inquiry proves that but few and Orders are transmitted not to Composition of the Cartridge	greased C use those	artridg e issue	es had	beer	issu	ed .	:	378 379
Inquiry proves that but few and orders are transmitted not to Composition of the Cartridge Causes of Alarm among the S	greased C use thoses s Sipahis	artridg e issue	res had	beer	issu	ed.	:	378 379 382;
Inquiry proves that but few orders are transmitted not to Composition of the Cartridge Causes of Alarm among the Schemal Heavey realises the	greased Couse thoses sipahis	e issue	d .	•	:	•		378 379
Inquiry proves that but few and orders are transmitted not to Composition of the Cartridge Causes of Alarm among the S	greased C ouse thoses s Sipahis Danger state thei	e issue	d .	•	:	•	of	378 379 382;

CON	TENTS	OF. A	OL.	ı.	•			xix
								PAGE
Hearsey addresses th	iem in H	industá	nı	•	•	•	•
es not convince them					••			387
th arrives from Rangu	n .		.• ~	·	٠
Hearsey addresses the senot convince them the arrives from Ranguastances connected with	h Sindhia	ı's Visit	to C	alcutt	a			389
nurs of Intended Revolt sey again addresses the l again fails to make a pe- itory of Manghal Pandi							٠	390
sey again addresses the l	Brigade	•			٠.			392
again fails to make a per	rmanent l	[mpres	Bion					394
Story of Manghal Pándi								395
indment of the 19th N.	Ĺ.,							400
Story of Manghal Pándi indment of the 19th N. l by addresses the Brigad	le for the	third t	time	•	٠	•	•	401
	CHAPT	rer v	т.
ce executed on Mangh jtent of the 34th N. I. seereus Prompt Action of Events at Ambi at Station ader-in-Chief add Officers express t	al Pándi							402 tent of the 34th N. I.								403
versus Prompt Action								403
of Events at Amba	álah .					-		405
at Station .								406
ader-in-Chief add	lresses th	e Men	-					407
Officers express t	heir Opin	ions on	the (Crisis				408
The &Commander-in-C	Chief .					-		409
The LCommander-in-C Quest Canning		-	Ĭ.	-	-	Ĭ.		410
Mr CExcitement finds	s a vent i	n gener	rai In	cendia	rism			412
Quar Henry Barnard of The Irath The Irath The of the Ground Bon She Chapátis Grigtrigues Disch Lawrence at Lakh Rupf Náná Sáhib	on the Cr	isis				•	·	413
The frath	 01	1010	•	:	•	•	•	414
The of the Ground Bon		•	•	•	•	•	•	416
She Chapátis		•	•	•	:	:	:
Grietriones	•	•	•	:	•	•	•	421
Dish	• •	•	•	•	•	•		422
Lawrence of Lokh	nan .	•	•	:	•	•	•	423
Runf Nana Sahih	awo .	•	•	•	•	•	•	424
The		•	•	•	•	•	•	121
The
Feel	CHAPT	ED 377
Lord	CHAFI	CP AT	. L.
WarConfidence at Calcu	itta and a	alsowhe	T.O.					427
QueN. I. is Disbanded		, AGO 11 11 C		•	•	•	•	430
Lorwrence reports the 4	Sth N T	to he	hoky	. •	•	•	•	421
SirOndh Irregulars mut	inv at Ta	khnen	J. I. I. Y	•	•	•	•	431 432 433 435
Cev Lawrence qualla th	e Revolt		•	•	•	•	•	102
Thateresting Convergeti	on with a	Noti-	. Offi		•	•	•	45k
Haning in favour of Die	ahandman	t og e	Punic	hm en	٠.	•	•	436
Siting hegins at Miroth	10th May	v 1957	. unit	men	٠.	•	•	437
Week of exciting Tologon	TANT TASE	y, 100 1	•		•	•	٠	400
Mutineers seize Dobli	ниб .	•	•	-	•	•	•	438 438
Maranicers seize Delli		•	•	•	•	•	•	438
				_		-		439
Is ures taken by Lord Cann	of Alta Do			-	•	-		440
Is ares taken by Lord Cann C. eered by the Conclusion	of the Pe	rsian V	Var	.	,	. ;,		439 440
QueN. I. is Disbanded Lorwrence reports the 4 SirOudh Irregulars mu Cey Lawrence quells th Tinteresting Conversati Haning in favour of Dis Stiny begins at Mirath Tweek of exciting Telegra Mutineers seize Dehli sures taken by Lord Cann Ceered by the Conclusion i upon Lord Elgin and Ge Troops destined for China Is for Troops from Rurmal	of the Pe	rsian V hburnh	Var am to	divez	t to l	India	the

General Measures of Defence taker Communication with Lord Elgin	at	the M	oment			•
And with General Ashburnham	•	•	•	•	•	٠,
Issues a Proclamation declaring t	he l	Purit y	of the	Int	entions	of Government		•
Confers large Powers upon Respon	sible	Offic	ers		_	. /
Lords Harris and Elphinstone					-
The Lawrences						Į.
Movements and Views of John Lav		ice.				3
Sir Henry Lawrence's Suggestions		•	•			7
Was it Mutiny or Rebellion? .						4
)2

XX

)3 .3 5

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

APPENDIX . .

APPENDIX.

THE NÁNÁ SÁHIB AND AZIM-ÚLLAH KHAN.

[The visit of the Náná Sáhib to Lakhnao, in April, 1857, referred to at page 424, is thus described by Mr. Martin Gubbins in his history of the Mutinies in Oudh.]

"I must here mention a visit which was made to Lakhnao, in April, by the Náná of Bithur, whose subsequent treachery and atrocities have given him a pre-eminence in infamy. He came over on pretence of seeing the sights at Lakhnao, accompanied by his younger brother and a numerous retinue, bringing letters of introduction from a former Judge of Kánhpúr to Captain Hayes and to myself. He visited me, and his manner was arrogant and presuming. To make a show of dignity and importance, he brought six or seven followers with him into the room, for whom chairs were demanded. One of these men was his notorious agent, Azim-úllah. His younger brother was more pleasing in appearance and demeanour. The Nana was introduced by me to Sir Henry Lawrence, who received him kindly, and ordered the authorities of the city to show him every attention. I subsequently met him parading through Lakhnao with a retinue more than usually large. He had promised before leaving Lakhnao to make his final call on the Wednesday. On the Monday, we received a message from him that urgent business required his attendance at Kánhpúr, and he left Lakhnao accordingly. At the time his conduct excited little attention; but it was otherwise when affairs had assumed the aspect which they did at Kánhpúr by the 20th of May. His demeanour at Lakhnao and sudden departure to Kanhpur appeared exceedingly suspicious, and I brought it to the notice of Sir Henry Lawrence. The Chief Commissioner concurred in my suspicions, and by his authority I addressed Sir Hugh Wheeler, cautioning him against the Nana, and stating Sir Henry's belief that he was not to be depended on. The warning was unhappily disregarded, and, on the 22nd of May, a message was received stating that 'two guns and three hundred men, cavalry and infantry, furnished by the Maharajah of Bithur, came in this morning."

Many readers will smile at the statement that the Náná Sáhib was in correspondence with Russia, and received an answer to his overtures. But it is by no means improbable that Azim-úllah Khan entered into communication with some Russian officers, responsible or irresponsible, and it is certain that at the time of the Crimean War nothing could have better served the interests of Russia than a revolt in India. That Azim-úllah visited the Crimea we know upon the best possible authority—that of Mr. Russell, who has given, in his "Diary in India," an interesting account of his meeting with the Náná's agent in the trenches before Sebastopol.

LONDON:

PRINTED BY WILLIAM CLOWES AND SONS, LIMITED, STAMFORD STREET AND CHARING CROSS.