

For Favours & Reviews

INDIA

AND OTTAWA.

"No Ottawas For Us"

*- V. J. PATEL, ex-Speaker,
Indian Legislative Assembly.*

BY

Prof. Ruchi Ram Sahni.

With a Foreword by

Prof. Brij Narain, M.A., Principal of the S. D. College, Lahore.

*Obtainable from -
Messrs. Ramakrishna
Booksellers, Lahore.*

PRICE:—Annas 4.

PREFACE.

I am greatly flattered by the numerous requests from friends to make the ten articles I have lately contributed to the columns of the local "Tribune" available in a collected form. I am glad to find that the forthcoming Ottawa Conference is beginning to attract a good deal of public attention in this country. The whole of my thesis may best be summed up in the four simple words in which Mr. V. J. Patel expressed his views about the Conference the other day: "No Ottawas for us." If there are five Indians outside the prison-walls to-day who are entitled to speak on a question like this in the name of their country, the distinguished ex-Speaker of the Indian Legislative Assembly certainly is one of them.

Prof. Brij Narain, who is a recognised authority on Indian Economics, has laid me under obligation by writing a foreword for this pamphlet. My thanks are also due to Pt. Pearay Mohan Dattatraya, Senior Assistant Editor of the "Tribune," for reading the proofs and seeing these pages through the press.

RUCHI RAM SAHNI.

22, Rattigan Road, Lahore.

5 June, 1932.

CONTENTS.

	Pages.
Preface
Foreword	.. 1—8
Article I.
1. Interest in Ottawa Conference lacking ..	9
2. "British Commonwealth" may herald a new era of world peace	9—10
3. Idea of "Commonwealth" once charmed the great Congress leaders like Gandhi, C. R. Das and Motilal Nehru ..	10
4. C. R. Das's strong advocacy of "Dominion Status" for India—Dominion Status regarded as a higher ideal than Independence ..	10—12
Article II.
1. India's place vacant in the British Commonwealth of Nations ..	13
2. Adjustment of India in the Empire—at bottom a racial problem ..	13
3. Size of India an obstacle in establishing a Federal Parliament for British Empire ..	13—14
4. Attitude of Canada and Irish Free State finally sealed the fate of Imperial Federation ..	14
5. The Round Table Conspiracy: India to be led to self-government jointly by Britain and Dominions ..	15—16
6. Premature disclosures alarm India ..	16

Article III.

1. After the War marked change in the constitutional position of the Dominions and India .. 17
2. Dominions and India represented at the Peace Conference at Paris .. 17—18
3. Also as original members of League of Nations .. 18
4. Dominions insistent upon real equality with Britain .. 18—19
5. India's position of equality merely shadowy .. 19—20

Article IV.

1. The treatment of Indian emigrants in the Dominions and Crown colonies further testifies to India's continued subordinate position .. 21—22
2. Rapid growth of Dominions into "sovereign nationhood." .. 22—23
3. India remains a dependency .. 23
4. Dominions demand a share in the foreign policy of Britain .. 23—24

Article V.

1. Post-war opportunities: Dominions made full use of them. India too much absorbed in the Rowlatt Act agitation and the Martial Law happenings .. 25—27
2. Imperial Conferences of 1921 and 1923: Dominions including the newly created Irish

- Free State informally demanded a clear definition of the constitutional relations of the various units of the Commonwealth .. 28
3. Strong agitation carried on in the Dominions for a recognition by Britain of their status as sovereign status .. 28—29

Article VI.

1. Before the Imperial Conference of 1926 and the passage of the Statute of Westminster in 1931, British Parliament was the supreme authority within the Empire .. 30—31
2. Imperial Conference of 1926 appointed an Inter-Imperial Relations Committee under the chairmanship of Lord Balfour .. 31
3. Formula devised by Lord Balfour's Committee accepted by the Dominions and proposed to be embodied in a Statute .. 32—33

Article VII.

1. A Committee of experts appointed to examine existing legislative machinery of each Dominion .. 34
2. The Reports of the Experts Committee and Balfour Committee discussed at the Imperial Conference of 1930. Conference decides to embody proposed changes in a Statute of Westminster. Statute passed by the House of Commons in 1931 .. 34

	Pages.
3. Statute of Westminster made the Dominions sovereign States of equal status, powers and authority with Great Britain in all respects ..	35
4. The "Commonwealth" a recent growth. It is an alliance of equals in every respect, the only tie keeping them all together being their common allegiance to the King ..	35—37
5. India not included in the Commonwealth ..	37—38

Article VIII.

1. Passing away of political imperialism in the Dominions. Preparations for laying the foundations of an Economic Empire at Ottawa ..	39
2. India receiving harder kicks since the passing of the Statute of Westminster ..	39—40
3. Ottawa a menace to India. Conference will impose economic domination of Dominions and Britain upon India without relaxing the pressure of political domination of England ..	40—41
4. Indian "delegates" nominated by irresponsible Government of India not representatives of India ..	41
5. Economic needs of the country ..	42—43

Article IX.

1. Imperial Preference a pivotal subject to be discussed at the Ottawa Conference ..	44
--	----

v

	Pages.
2. India stands to lose from any scheme of Imperial Preference till she is given the rights and status of a Dominion ..	45—47
3. Indian Fiscal Commission Report quoted in support of the above statement ..	47—48

Article X.

1. Ottawa Conference— an economic peril for India ..	49
2. Economic disorganisation of India ..	49—50
3. What Dominion India will do for her economic development ..	51—52
4. "A scheme of Imperial Preference for India is economically detrimental, politically inexpedient and financially ruinous." ..	53

FOREWORD.

Prof. Ruchi Ram Sahni deserves the thanks of the public in general and of the readers of the "Tribune" in particular for educating public opinion on the important questions which will soon form the subject of discussion at Ottawa.

He had set himself a twofold task—that of tracing the evolution of the British Commonwealth in recent years, and of explaining the growth of economic Imperialism. His discussion of preferential trade, based on authoritative sources, will be read with interest and profit by all students of economics; his account of the transformation of the British Empire into the British Commonwealth of Nations will do credit to a professional historian.

The Statute of Westminster turned the Dominions in November, 1931, into sovereign States. As the author remarks, the Commonwealth is an alliance of equals in every respect. This implies the right of secession; the right to make laws; the right to enter into treaties with foreign powers without the intervention of Britain.

India has no place in this Commonwealth. "What has become of England's promises about the liberty of weak nations?", asks the author. Well, these promises served their purpose. They were not meant to be taken seriously.

Since the passing of the Statute of Westminster "we have been receiving even harder kicks than before." We deserve them. These kicks exemplify the "Dominion