

AGRICULTURAL BANKS :

Their Object and their Work.

BY

HENRY W. WOLFF.

“It is strictly correct to say that Credit is Capital.”—H. D. MACLEOD.

“The land should be the great borrower of the nation.”—CHINESE PROVERB.

PUBLISHED BY

THE AGRICULTURAL BANKS ASSOCIATION,
7 & 8, PALACE CHAMBERS, WESTMINSTER.

1894.

[All Rights Reserved.]

A decorative border consisting of a repeating floral motif, possibly a stylized rose or flower, arranged in a rectangular frame around the central text.

PRESENTED BY

Dr. Dadasbhai Naoroji.

112
121

3.5.11

presented
BY THE

For consideration

By the same Author.

PEOPLE'S BANKS.

A RECORD OF SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC SUCCESS.

LONGMANS. 1893. 7s. 6d.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We may confidently refer those who desire information on the point to the book with which Mr. Wolff has provided us. It will be a most useful thing if it is widely read and the lessons which it contains are put in practice."—Athenæum.

"A book so practical and opportune, and likely to be fruitful in so many ways, it has not often been our happiness to read."—London Quarterly Review.

"This is an excellent book in every way, and thoroughly deserves the careful attention of all who are concerned for the welfare of the people."—Economic Review.

"It is impossible in the space at our disposal to do justice to Mr. Henry W. Wolff's 'People's Banks.' Mr. Wolff has carefully studied the subject and writes about it so admirably that his volume should be in the hands of everyone interested in the study of methods by which the lot of those who labour may be improved."—Observer.

"Dans son très intéressant ouvrage l'auteur retrace, avec beaucoup de lucidité, d'une façon très complète et un communicatif enthousiasme, toutes les expériences de banques populaires que nous ont offertes les différentes contrées."—Journal des Débats (M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu).

“Mr. Wolff’s engrossingly interesting book, ‘People’s Banks.’”—Cork Constitution.

“Mr. Wolff has written a very able and a very useful book. He has aken infinite pains to get at the facts. He writes lucidly, arranges his matter well, and covers the whole field. His monograph deserves to be widely read, and to be thought over with some deliberation.”—Newcastle Chronicle.

“He writes with the pen of a master. There is probably no treatise upon the question which so minutely traces its history and more lucidly explains its present condition.”—Hereford Times.

“An excellent book, profoundly interesting.”—Leeds Mercury.

“The author has rendered a public service in introducing the subject to English students of social questions.”—Western Daily Press.

“Those who are interested in . . . good work accomplished will be grateful to us for calling attention to a very valuable work on ‘People’s Banks’ from the pen of Mr. Henry W. Wolff.”—Birmingham Argus.

“This able and painstaking work . . . seems an exhaustive treatise on the subject. It should be read by all who have this pressing question of modern social life at heart.”—The Queen.

“We can only advise our readers to read Mr. Wolff’s most excellent work. The clearness of his argument cannot fail to bring home to them the merits of ‘People’s Banks.’ Mr. Wolff’s book is concise and complete.”—Public Opinion.

“Mr. Wolff’s book is crammed with facts which deserve the attention of all interested in the welfare of the nation.”—Sussex Agricultural Express.

“A most interesting history which is well worthy the attention of all who take an interest in social questions.”—Dundee Advertiser.

“This admirable study of Continental method is especially deserving of attention.”—The Quiver.

“At once interesting and inspiring.”—Cassell’s Family Magazine.

“Written from a practical standpoint.”—Ecclesiastical Gazette.

“A full and well-informed discussion of a decidedly interesting subject.”—Literary World.

Printed by :

SOUTH COUNTIES PRESS LIMITED.

The present volume was written on behalf, and at the request, of the Agricultural Banks Association, a Society formed to promote the creation of co-operative agricultural banks in this country. The responsibility for all that is said, however, rests entirely with the author.

Persons desiring to inform themselves more fully upon the co-operative work here spoken of are referred for a more complete account of the systems described and an explanation of their principles to the same author's "PEOPLE'S BANKS, A RECORD OF SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC SUCCESS," published by Messrs. Longmans & Co.

For particulars referring to the work of the Agricultural Banks Association, and the publications respecting agricultural banks already issued by that body, readers are invited to apply to the Honorary Secretary of the Agricultural Banks Association, 7 & 8, Palace Chambers, Westminster.