SIR DINSHAW EDULJI WACHA

FIRST EDITION
Sir Dinshaw Wacha’s Speeches and Writings.

Messrs. G. A. Natesan & Co., Madras, have just published a bulky volume of 544 pages containing an up-to-date and comprehensive collection of the Speeches and Writings of the veteran publicist Sir D. E. Wacha. Sir Dinshaw, "a marvel of untiring energy, a living encyclopedia of experience and facts" has spoken and written on a variety of subjects covering a wide field—political, educational, industrial, commercial, and financial. His numerous speeches and writings besides serving as an interesting account and criticism of nearly fifty years of British Indian administration form also a valuable record of the various public movements of his time. Sir Dinshaw Edulji Wacha is one of the very few public men of India who have made a lifelong study of economic problems and it is hoped that his speeches and writings, now collected for the first time under one cover, will be appreciated not only by those who have specialised in such subjects but by lay readers as well. This book is priced Rupees Three only.

In former days, when the Congress was held, we were told that it was a Hindu Congress and that the Muhammadans did not join it. "Of course, when there is a difference of opinion, how can we agree to all the propositions urged by a Hindu Congress." So we were not unfrequently told by the Government. But the Hindus and Muhammadans are amalgamated. There is unanimity of thought, speech and mind between both communities. Government now trot out the question of Brahmins and non-Brahmins. That is the usual way with the bureaucracy, and there is nothing particular about it. I understand it to be intelligent enough. But what if there are Brahmins and non-Brahmins? There is the Charter Act which lays down clearly that 'proved merit and ability' shall be the only qualifications for the public service. One may be a Brahmin, or non-Brahmin, or an Australian, or a Canadian, or a Negro or a Hottentot, what of that? So far as the Service is concerned we are to have the best men for the Indian Government. There is nothing further to be said about it. Why then should we have any more difficulty here with Brahmin preponderance or Muhammadan preponderance or Parsi preponderance or any other? The Charter Act is clear on the point; it says 'men of proved merit and ability' only shall be employed in the public service. Then it is laid down that there shall be no 'governing caste' in India. Where is the governing caste? The governing caste is the Civil Service; they are the governing caste, and yet the Brahmin is denounced. I cannot at all, Sir, understand that argument.

The Civil Service has its traditions, and those traditions are, that they must be bequeathed from generation to generation. There is nothing new that from time to time these traditions are trotted out. It has gone on for the last 75 years. These Civilian interests have become vested and whenever vested interests are attacked the reply is 'This is impossible and that is impossible; you cannot do this and you cannot do that; the war is with us and we must not discuss this, that and the other.' They are all mere plausible pretenses to say non-possimus. I am sorry to have to say all this, but speak we must frankly and express our honest convictions on the subject.
SECOND EDITION.

DADABHAI NAOROJI'S
SPEECHES AND WRITINGS.

This is the first attempt to bring under one cover an exhaustive and comprehensive collection of the speeches and writings of the venerable Indian patriot, Dadabhai Naoroji. The first part is a collection of his speeches and includes the addresses that he delivered before the Indian National Congress on the three occasions that he presided over that assembly; all the speeches that he delivered in the House of Commons and a selection of the speeches that he delivered from time to time in England and India. The second part includes all his statements to the Welby Commission, a number of papers relating to the admission of Indians to the Services and many other vital questions of Indian administration. The appendix contains, among others, the full text of his evidence before the Welby Commission, his statement to the Indian Currency Committee of 1898, his replies to the questions put to him by the Public Service Committee on East Indian Finance. Dadabhai has been in the active service of his motherland for over sixty years and during this long period he has been steadily and strenuously working for the good of his countrymen; it is hoped that his writings and speeches which are now presented in a handy volume will be welcomed by thousands of his admiring countrymen.

This book contains a brief and succinct account of India's demand for Self-Government. Mr. Natesan points out that the time has now come when the people of the land should be given a real and effective voice in the administration of the country, that the uncontrolled power now vested in the Bureaucracy should be transferred to the representatives of the people so as to enable them to regulate the policy of the state, control the finances, and make the Executive responsible to the Legislature.

The Bengalee.—It is an important contribution to the cause of Indian constitutional reform and will prove highly useful to all students of Indian politics.

SURENDRANATH BANERJEA

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjea is a remarkable figure in the public life of India. The speeches and writings published in this volume cover a period of over forty-two years. They are not only a record of the strenuous work of one of the most devoted of our public men, but a history of the public movements of his time with which Mr. Surendranath Banerjea has been so prominently associated. In one sense, it is a history of the times and of the revolution of Indian public life. They are the record of the politics of India during perhaps the most momentous period of Indian development. Their study will really be the study of the growth of Indian national life in its most formative period. The speeches cover a wide field dealing with a variety of topics, political, educational, municipal and industrial. They are co-extensive with the many-sided activities of Mr. Surendranath Banerjea.

At the request of the publishers, Mr. Surendranath Banerjea has kindly selected the speeches himself, and they give the reader a kaleidoscopic view of his activities.

THE GOVERNANCE OF INDIA
AS IT IS AND AS IT MAY BE
A HAND-BOOK OF PROGRESSIVE POLITICS
BY GOVINDA DAS.

Babu Govinda Das's book on the "Governance of India" offers a constructive scheme of reforms in the Indian constitution. It gives in no vague or uncertain terms a scheme for the better government of India without impairing its efficiency while satisfying the legitimate aspirations of the Indian people. The author has brought together most of those suggestions that have been made since the fifties of the last century for the improvement of the administration of India by officials and non-officials, Indians and Europeans—suggestions which have stood the test of public criticism. The book is full of original and fruitful observations, the result of the author's continuous study and reflection on the subject for over two decades. With the help of apt quotations gathered from rare publications, defects in the system of administration are driven home and ways shown by which the defects could be eliminated and the system improved. "The Governance of India" is a hand-book of living practical politics, a vade mecum for active politicians which no one, official or non-official—interested in the reform of the Indian administration—can afford to neglect.
