

INDIAN FRONTIER POLICY
AN HISTORICAL SKETCH
BY
GENERAL SIR JOHN ADYE, G.C.B., R.A.

V235:1941-M9

V235:1941.M9
C7
000707

707

hananjarao Gadgil Library

GIPE-PUNE-000707

INDIAN FRONTIER POLICY

INDIAN FRONTIER POLICY

AN HISTORICAL SKETCH

BY

GENERAL SIR JOHN ADYE, G.C.B., R.A.

WITH A MAP

LONDON

SMITH, ELDER, & CO., 15 WATERLOO PLACE

1897

[All rights reserved]

PREFACE

THE subject of our policy on the North-West frontier of India is one of great importance, as affecting the general welfare of our Eastern Empire, and is specially interesting at the present time, when military operations on a considerable scale are being conducted against a combination of the independent tribes along the frontier.

It must be understood that the present condition of affairs is no mere sudden outbreak on the part of our turbulent neighbours. Its causes lie far deeper, and are the consequences of events in bygone years.

In the following pages I have attempted to give a short historical summary of its varying phases, in the hope that I may thus assist the public in some degree to understand its general bearings, and to form a correct opinion of the policy which should be pursued in the future.

JOHN ADYE,

General.

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

EVENTS PRIOR TO, AND INCLUDING, FIRST AFGHAN WAR OF 1839-41

	PAGE
Proposed Invasion of India by Napoleon I.—Mission of Burnes to Cabul—Its Failure—Hostility of Russia and Persia—First Afghan War, 1839-41—Its Vicissitudes and Collapse . . .	1

CHAPTER II

EVENTS PRIOR, AND LEADING UP, TO SECOND AFGHAN WAR

Conquest of Khiva, Bokhara, and Kokand by Russia—British Con- quest of Scinde and the Punjaub—Our Policy with the Frontier Tribes—Treaty of 1857 with Dost Mahomed—Shere Ali succeeds as Ameer, 1868—War of 1878—Abdul Rahman becomes Ameer —Withdrawal of British Army from Afghanistan, 1881 . . .	17
--	----

CHAPTER III

FRONTIER POLICY SINCE SECOND AFGHAN WAR, INCLUDING EXPEDITION TO CHITRAL

Further Advance of Russia—Merv Occupied—Sir West Ridgeway's Frontier Commission of 1885—The Durand Agreement with Abdul Rahman—The Chitral Expedition of 1895—Its Results —Sudden Outbreak of Frontier Tribes, 1897 . . .	43
--	----

MAP	To face p. 1
---------------	--------------

GENERAL SIR JOHN ADYE'S RECOLLECTIONS.

With Illustrations by the Author. Demy 8vo. 14s. net.

RECOLLECTIONS of a MILITARY LIFE.

By General Sir JOHN ADYE, G.O.B., R.A.

LATE GOVERNOR OF GIBRALTAR.

PRESS OPINIONS.

The ACADEMY.—'These reminiscences extend over more than sixty years; they comprise a record of manifold service, with a large experience of military affairs in the East, and in several parts of our Empire. . . . What has struck me most, however, in the work is the excellence of Sir John Adye's judgment in the policy he advocates for our Indian Empire—his true perception of the causes of the outbreak of 1857, the soundness of his conclusions as to the true modes of government and administration in Indian affairs, of ruling the dependent millions of the Great Peninsula. His reflections on this subject breathe the same spirit as those of Wellington in his Indian Despatches.'

The TIMES.—'General Sir John Adye's "Recollections of his Military Life" cannot fail to be interesting, especially as throughout those "Recollections" he subordinates himself to the events he witnessed and describes. . . . Sir John's views on the Central Asian question and those on the retention of Gibraltar by this country deserve perusal and consideration.'

PUNCH.—'These recollections are chiefly occupied with the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, though the old soldier has something to say about the Afghan War of 1878-9 and the Egyptian War of 1882. My Baronite finds most interesting the chapters about the Crimean War, certain incidents and episodes of which are narrated with soldierlike directness and simplicity.'

The DAILY CHRONICLE.—'Sir John Adye has written a very interesting and lively book, which will furnish equally attractive reading for soldiers and civilians.'

The DAILY TELEGRAPH.—'Most valuable as well as most interesting . . . It will possess attractions far beyond professional ranks.'

The WORLD.—'Will be found pleasant and profitable reading not only by those of Sir John's contemporaries who remain, but also by the rising generation of soldiers, to whom the great events of forty years ago are already ancient history.'

The MORNING POST.—'Sir John Adye's "Recollections" are well worth reading. They are on the one hand varied by expressions of well-considered opinion on important questions, and on the other hand brightened by a lively sense of humour and a considerable sheaf of anecdotes.'

The BROAD ARROW.—'We trust we have written and extracted enough to induce all our readers to obtain and ponder over this most readable and instructive book.'

The GRAPHIC.—'The recollections of a soldier who, like Sir John Adye, has not only held important commands in warfare, but has also formed part of the great military administrative machine at home, could not fail to be of special interest. . . . The book is full of many shrewd observations and a number of good stories. The sketch of the Crimean War is in many respects the best of the several volumes of reminiscences of that campaign which have been published lately.'

The TIMES OF INDIA.—'The "Recollections of a Military Life" which General Sir John Adye has published could hardly fail to be interesting. They are in fact much more than that, and the simple but vigorous English in which they are told, and the modesty with which he refers to incidents which made his brother officers proud of him lend to the volume a singular charm.'

London: SMITH, ELDER, & CO., 15 Waterloo Place, S.W.

A RECORD OF BRAVE ACTIONS.

NOW READY. Crown 8vo. 6s. With Sixteen Portraits and Eleven Plans.

MISDEEDS THAT WON THE EMPIRE:

HISTORIC BATTLE SCENES.

By the Rev. W. H. FITCHETT ('VEDETTE').

CONTENTS.

THE FIGHT OFF CAPE ST. VINCENT.	FAMOUS CUTTING-OUT EXPEDITIONS.
THE HEIGHTS OF ABRAHAM.	MOUNTAIN COMBATS.
THE GREAT LORD HAWKE.	THE BLOODIEST FIGHT IN THE PENINSULA.
THE NIGHT ATTACK ON BADAJOS.	THE BATTLE OF THE BALTIC.
THE FIRE-SHIPS IN THE BASQUE ROADS.	KING-MAKING WATERBLOO—
THE MAN WHO SPOILED NAPOLEON'S 'DESTINY.'	I. The Rival Hosts.
GREAT SEA-DUELS.	II. Hougoumont.
THE BLOOD-STAINED HILL OF BUSACO.	III. Picton and D'Erlon.
OF NELSON AND THE NILE.	IV. 'Scotland for Ever.'
THE FUSILIERS AT ALBUERA.	V. Horsemen and Squares.
THE 'SHANNON' AND THE 'CHESAPEAKE.'	VI. The Fight of the Gunners.
THE GREAT BREACH OF CIUDAD RODRIGO.	VII. The Old Guard.
HOW THE 'HERMIONE' WAS RECAPTURED.	VIII. The Great Defeat
FRENCH AND ENGLISH IN THE PASSES.	THE NIGHT ATTACK OFF CADIZ.
	TRAFALGAR—
	I. The Strategy.
	II. How the Fleets Met.
	III. How the Victory was Won.

EXTRACT FROM THE AUTHOR'S PREFACE.

The tales here told are written not to glorify war, but to nourish patriotism. They represent an effort to renew in popular memory the great traditions of the Imperial race to which we belong. . . . Each sketch is complete in itself; and though no formal quotation of authorities is given, yet all the available literature on each event described has been laid under contribution. The sketches will be found to be historically accurate.

From the TIMES.—"Deeds that Won the Empire" is admirably conceived and written. Wolfe's striking feat of arms at Quebec, Hawke's splendid victory in Quiberon Bay, Busaco, Albucera, the Nile, the action of the Shannon and Chesapeake, with other memorable fights by sea and land, are vividly described. Mr. Fitchett has not sacrificed historical accuracy to dramatic effect, and his words ring true.'

From the SPECTATOR.—"There have been plenty of attempts to write the story of England's battles on sea and land in a language which shall, while plain and easily understood, give a true picture of the events depicted; but we have never met with one which has proved so successful. The method, as well as the tone and temper, of the book is entirely satisfactory. The writing is full of life and colour, and dull must be he who can read its pages without a thrill of pride and pleasure.'

London: SMITH, ELDER, & CO., 15 Waterloo Place, S.W.