The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

WEDNESDAY, 7TH JANUARY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay, assembled under the provisions of the Government of India Act, 1915.

The Council re-assembled at 11-30 a.m. on Friday, the 12th December, 1919, at the Sir Cowasji Jehangir Hall of the University of Bombay, Bombay.

PRESENT:

His Excellency Sir GEORGE AMBROSE LLOYD, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., Governor of Bombay, President.

The Honourable Sir GEORGE CARMICHAEL, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. CURTIS, C.S.I., I.C.S.

The Honourable Sir IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA, Kt., C.I.E.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Mr. D. N. BAHADURJI).

The Honourable Mr. SALEBHOY KARIMJI BARODAWALLA.

The Honourable Mr. DATTATRAYA VENKATESH BELVI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. H. BROOKE.

The Honourable Mr. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. COVERNTON, C.I.E.

The Honourable Mr. PANDURANG ANANT DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Rao Saheb HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Major C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur SIDDHANATH DHONDDEV GARUD.

The Honourable Mr. F. ST. J. GEBBIE.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur KASHINATH RAMCHANDRA GODBOLE.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[The Vice-President; Mr. P. A. Desai; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

The Honourable Mr. MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.
The Honourable SHEIKH GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. J. D. JENKINS.
The Honourable Sardar GULAM JILANI.
The Honourable Sardar DULABAWA RAISINGJI, Thakor of Kerwada.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. MEAD, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. CHUNILAL VIJBHUKHANDAS MEHTA, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. LALUBHAI SAMALDAS MEHTA, C.I.E.
The Honourable Sardar SHRINIWAS COOPOOSWAMI MUDLIAR.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur VENKATESH SHRINIWAS NAIK.
The Honourable Mr. RAGHUNATH PURSHOTTAM PARANJPYE.
The Honourable Mr. GOKULDAS KAHANDAS PAREKH, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. ABDUL KADIR alias FAKIR MAHOMED walad IBRAHIM KHAN PATHAN.
The Honourable Sir DINSHAW MANOCKJEE PETIT, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI.
The Honourable Mr. L. ROBERTSON, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. E. L. SALE, I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur GANESH KRISHNA SATHE, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. SEDDON, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. SMITH, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. SHRIDHAR BALKRISHNA UPASANI.
The Honourable Mr. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E., LL.B.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. Further discussion of Resolution No. 7.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Mr. President,—I should like to make a few observations with respect to the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Garud. It cannot be denied that at present that portion of the staff of the municipalities and district local boards represented by the chief officers, engineers, and health officers, is not as competent as it ought to be. We have felt this difficulty in the Bijapur municipality. There the waterworks are under the management of the executive engineer, and we have to pay each year about Rs. 4,000 as supervision charges. We had it in our mind to ask Government to give us one competent man who could manage the chief officer's duties as well as attend to the waterworks, but we cannot find a man who could do both these duties. I understand similar difficulty is felt by other municipalities and local bodies, and there is no doubt that as far as the question of efficiency is concerned a service of the kind proposed is necessary.

But there are many difficulties in the way of forming such a service, as, unless all the municipalities and district local boards combine for this purpose, it is not possible to have a service of the nature proposed. Another difficulty is that supposing an engineer is appointed to a particular municipality and does not satisfy the members of that municipality, to whom will he be transferred? Other municipalities might perhaps think that, as he has been rejected or not found satisfactory by one municipality, they should not take such a man, and in that case what should be done with him if he has already served about five years in the municipality which is not satisfied with his work? The honourable mover of the resolution has not given us any data on which to form an opinion on this point.

I think that after the introduction of the reforms a local self-government central board might possibly be formed, which will be in a position to determine this question satisfactorily. I therefore think that the consideration of this resolution should be postponed for the present.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I wish to make a few remarks with reference to the resolution that has been placed before the Council by the Honourable Mr. Garud. A scheme for the organization of a service for the local boards and the municipalities of this Presidency is desirable, but in my opinion it will be unworkable because the formation of a service of this description will be inconsistent with the independence of local bodies, which should be free to select their own officers. As has been pointed out by previous speakers, when a member of this service is found incapable and unfit for his duties, or not quite up to the mark, it will be difficult to find a place for him anywhere as no municipality or district local board will take him. The independence of local bodies in choosing their own officers and appointing them should not in my opinion be interfered with.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

But I do not see why local bodies should not be able to secure the services of good officers if they treat them with due consideration, make their appointments reasonably secure and give them pensions or the benefit of a provident fund on the same lines as the railway companies give. The local bodies should also give to their officers reasonable latitude as regards details of work and in the matter of control of establishments. If they give their officers these facilities, I do not think that there would be any difficulty in getting good and efficient officers for municipal and local board service. What do we find is the case at present in municipalities in particular? The powers of their officers are hampered on all hands. If the officer fines a petty clerk under him, some member of the municipality gets up in the municipal council and asks why he has been fined. Then take the case of a small contract for the collection of metal. If the engineer gives such a contract, his proceedings are often called in question. Municipal engineers and health officers are often censured without adequate cause by a majority of votes in municipal councils. If the local boards and municipalities treat their officers in this manner, it is impossible to get good men for their services. If appropriate salaries are paid, if officers are treated with due consideration, and if they are given proper latitude and help in the carrying out of their duties, I think there will be no difficulty in local bodies securing officers of the right stamp.

I would draw attention in this connection to the Bombay municipality, the Bombay Port Trust, and the several railway companies. These bodies find no difficulty in getting health officers, engineers, traffic superintendents, and other officers, who are quite up to the mark. This is because the officers are properly paid, properly treated with due consideration and given due latitude as regards the carrying out of their duties. I do not think local bodies would be in any difficulty if they proceeded on similar lines in dealing with their officers.

The Honourable Mr. Upasani suggested, I think, that further consideration of this resolution should be postponed. I am also of the same opinion, and I will give the Council an additional reason why the consideration should be postponed. Honourable members of this Council are perhaps aware that the Government of India appointed the Public Works Department Re-organization Committee in 1916. The Committee has made its report to the Government of India, and made certain recommendations which have been reported upon by local Governments. One of the recommendations which this Committee has made is that all the district roads and buildings should be handed over to the district local boards. If this recommendation is accepted and carried into effect, the engineers of district local boards will be officers controlling large public funds and probably in receipt of handsome salaries like the present Government executive engineers. They will also be graded and will have pensions or good provident funds to rely upon. Under such conditions, they will be men of high qualifications. This change will solve the question of district local board engineers. If Government works are handed over to district local boards, Government will insist that the boards have at their disposal the services of efficient engineers, who will do their work efficiently and keep roads and buildings in good condition. If, as I said, the Public Works Department Re-organization Committee's recommendation is accepted by the Government of India, the district local board engineers will be quite different from what they are at present. Until this question is decided, therefore, I think that the further consideration of this question may be postponed.

I have already said the organization of one service for all the local bodies in the Presidency will be an unworkable scheme, which would interfere seriously with the independence of local bodies. The proposal cannot therefore be accepted.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye :—Sir, I am pleased the Honourable Mr. Garud has brought forward this resolution. I know quite well that there are many difficulties connected with it. All municipalities and local boards are finding very great difficulty in recruiting a suitable class of officers, and the difficulty is not only in recruiting but in retaining them. Men are always on the look-out for more highly paid appointments, and the municipalities suffer from the frequent changing of officers. This difficulty has to be overcome.

There are various points connected with this matter. If the control of the transfer of these officers is vested in the executive Government, I do not think public opinion will be prepared to accept that control over local bodies.

About two years ago there was a committee, of which the Honourable Mr. Pratt was chairman, which expressed an opinion that such a service was desirable. That committee did not go into details, but I think it is certainly advisable for Government to consider the question further in full consultation with all local bodies.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

I believe that the question is one which deserves consideration, and, although I am not myself prepared with a cut and dried scheme, we might take some action on these lines. We might, first of all, have a regular cadre and a definite method of admitting men into municipal service. There will have to be various sections of such services, one containing men who would be suitable as chief officers and secretaries, and another containing men suitable as health officers of municipalities. These sections should only include officers whose salary is, say, Rs. 100 and upwards. I do not think that we should trouble about appointments carrying salaries of less than Rs. 100. Most of the chief officers ought to have full control over the appointing of their subordinate establishments. Appointments the remuneration of which is about Rs. 100 should to a certain extent be entered into one cadre. If a municipality wants to appoint an officer out of this cadre, I do not think the controlling authority should have very much to say about it, because the man presumably will have had experience. The Pratt Committee thought that there should be a Local Government Board, but even such a board would have nothing to say against any particular appointment from men belonging to the cadre. If a municipality or a local board wants an officer transferred, they might very well be required to give definite reasons why such a transfer is desired. It will not do for a municipality merely to say that they do not want a particular man. They should be asked to state the reasons. If the affairs of local bodies are to be managed properly, some such control, not by an executive officer of Government but by a board on which the interests of local bodies will be fully represented (and including possibly one or two presidents of municipalities or local boards), will have to be exercised. I do not think that this control would be very much resented.

Further, we ought to require municipalities and local boards to have a provident fund for such officers, as an officer of the type in question ought ordinarily to get the advantage of a provident fund. If a municipality does not want a man, he ought not to be let loose upon the world by giving him one or two months' notice without his having something to fall back upon. If, therefore, there is a provident fund, I think the officer will have some sense of stability in his position; and this provident fund ought to be instituted in the case of the cadre suggested.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole told us of the satisfactory nature of the Bombay municipal executive. But there is a very great difference between Bombay city and the mofussil. The Bombay municipality is a huge concern with a large number of superior officers, and men employed by the Bombay municipality have an opportunity of rising to higher grades. On the other hand, in each municipality or district local board there are only two or three very senior officers, such as the chief engineer, the secretary of the municipality, or people like that. But in Bombay there are several high appointments which afford sufficient prospects for an ordinary person. In the case of mofussil municipalities or local boards the number of high posts is very limited. Even in the Poona municipality I do not think there are more than two or three officers drawing more than Rs. 200. It will not be possible for a municipality like Poona to give a regular gradation; but, if the Poona municipality and five or six larger municipalities join together for the purpose, it will be possible to have between them perhaps a dozen officers who could be placed in a regular grade. This might not be altogether in the manner of an ordinary Government cadre; but still there would be certain prospects. If officers are not satisfied with their position in one municipality, for instance, they can try another municipality. The municipalities should ordinarily be expected to take officers from this cadre, and there will be no great harm done if we prevent municipalities from appointing persons who are entirely outsiders.

I only offer these hints, not as a cut and dried scheme, but as something which a committee might consider. There is, I think, no question but that this is a matter of the utmost importance if local bodies are to do their work efficiently. Government might appoint a committee to consider this question in all its aspects. The committee could possibly go round and consult various local bodies before formulating its scheme. I think the question is one which deserves consideration, and I hope that the Council will support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas :—Mr. President,—It seems from the various speeches delivered on this question that the circumstances of municipalities vary in different localities. I presume that all the honourable members who have preceded me have some kind of connection with the municipalities in the Presidency. While it seems that on the one hand the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, the mover of this resolution, has experienced some difficulties, on the other hand I should imagine that the other speakers who struck a contrary note do not seem to have experienced those difficulties. So far as my own municipality (Karachi) is concerned, we have not experienced any of those difficulties. Far from that being the case,

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas ; Mr. C. V. Mehta.]

I can inform the Council that our experience has been that whenever we have advertised any vacancy we have received a great number of applications—sometimes hundreds of applications—and we have not had the slightest difficulty in making our choice. But the question very largely resolves itself into one of means. It is very likely that municipalities who cannot afford salaries sufficient to attract good men should feel the inconvenience which has been pointed out by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. That is a sufficient answer to the remark made by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole that the municipality of Bombay, the railways, and other departments do not bring forward any complaint of this nature. They are able to pay good salaries and therefore able to secure very good and competent men.

The resolution as brought before the Council seems, in my humble opinion, to be incomplete. I quite sympathise with the remarks of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye when he says that some kind of solution should be found, but I am not sure that the present proposal is the right solution. For one thing, public opinion has always expressed itself against even some of the shackles which exist at present by which the liberties of municipalities are interfered with. Much more therefore would some municipalities resent these appointments being placed under Government officials. Possibly interference on the part of Government does sometimes work well; but sometimes it does not, and probably any fresh powers for interfering in the matter of municipal appointments might create resentment on the part of the municipalities. While the proposal might find favour with some municipalities, such might not be the case with others. Municipalities generally speaking like to have complete control over officers who are their subordinates, and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has to take into consideration the fact that, in the event of his proposition being carried, the cadre will necessarily be entirely under the control of Government.

Further, when a cadre is proposed, you must provide for provident fund, leave rules and so forth. The honourable mover has made no suggestions in this respect. There are a lot of other difficulties which suggest themselves and which will have to be solved before a scheme can be put forward. For instance, what is the meaning underlying the proposition that a cadre should be created ? Is it intended that a limited number or a prescribed number of men should be constantly retained in service for the purpose of recruitment by the municipalities ? There will also be the difficulty as to how many men of a particular grade should be maintained, how many should be requisitioned, how many should remain idle, and so on. Whilst I recognize on the one hand that the question deserves consideration, on the other hand I should imagine that the present is not a suitable time to consider it. I agree with those speakers who have suggested adjournment of this question until a more favourable time, and I would rather prefer that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole, and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, should consult and bring forward a workable scheme. Possibly the various municipalities could join hands and form themselves into a conference to devise some scheme which would be practicable and workable. Therefore I would rather join with the Honourable Mr. Desai and the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole in suggesting that the matter should be postponed for the time being.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Mr. President,—Whatever be the merits of the resolution before us, I wish that it were cast in a somewhat different form, because as it stands now it directly asks Government to organise at once a separate service for the municipalities and local boards of the Presidency. I do not know whether the meaning is that the service would be created and controlled by Government only, or whether the various municipalities and local boards would have some voice in the creation as well as the control of that service. If the idea is that Government alone is to create and organise this service, and later on to control it, I am afraid it is repugnant to the principles of local self-government and that it will not find favour with the general public. The instance of the Bombay municipality has been quoted in this connection, and I may say that, however great may have been the difficulties which we have sometimes found in obtaining our officers and although we have had in certain instances to approach Government for the loan of the services of its officers, the feeling is growing in the corporation as well as outside that the more independent the municipality is, the better it will be. I therefore think, sir, that if an attempt is to be made to tackle this difficult question, it would be certainly better that it should first be handled by a representative committee, on which the municipalities and local boards would be strongly represented.

Coming now to the question of the merits of the proposal, various honourable members have pointed out the great difficulties which will be experienced. At first sight, it appears as if the difficulties were almost overwhelming. It seems to me that the control in such matters as the pay of its servants, and the authority to judge their work and to dismiss them if they are found unsatisfactory, will gradually go more and more out of the hands of the municipalities, which would be really unfortunate. It appears that the difficulty under which most of these municipalities labour is one of ways and means. That has been the difficulty found by almost all the local bodies, including the Bombay municipality. They find that they cannot hope to retain their officers, both of the superior and the lower grades, on the old scale of salaries to which they were accustomed for so many years, and that the scale of pay in other bodies such as the Port Trust and the Public Works Department of Government has been largely increased on account of circumstances of which honourable members are well aware. There has been no alternative, therefore, but to increase their own scale of salaries in order to obtain and retain the services of good officers.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[Mr. C. V. Mehta; Sardar S. C. Mudliar; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the Vice-President; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

It seems to me that the real way out of the difficulty is the creation of a proper provident fund, which will retain in the municipalities the services of such officers as have obtained their approval. Once such a fund is introduced, and the various facilities to which the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole referred are given to the officers, I should imagine that there ought to be little difficulty in retaining good officers. If, however, a regular cadre is required, the scheme ought in my opinion to be discussed by a committee on which the local authorities are strongly represented; and when it is ultimately put into practice it ought to have as its controlling authority a number of presidents and vice-presidents of these local bodies directly elected to that controlling authority.

The Honourable Sardar S. C. Mudliar:—Sir, the resolution put before us by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud is really one which is of very great interest and worth consideration. In my opinion, the organisation of separate services for municipalities and local boards will not be very useful. I think that the powers and pay of these officers should be increased, as without that I do not suppose the municipalities will ever obtain the services of efficient officers. I know, for instance, that in the Poona municipality an engineer and a health officer who really did good service for the municipality had to leave because they found that their powers and their prospects were very limited. On the last occasion on which the health officer's appointment was advertised, the municipality was not fortunate enough to get even one or two applications, and had to turn to one of the health officers who had really done very good service to the municipality, and who is at present on military service. He too refused the offer as there was no prospect before him. In addition his powers were all in the hands of the sub-committee or some other officials. Therefore, my opinion is that this step of organising a separate service will be of no avail. I think that the powers and the pay of these officers should be increased, when only there will be a chance of getting able men of the right type.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Sir, the difficulty of finding suitable men for the special services of municipalities and local boards is, I think, admitted on all hands, except perhaps for the province of Sind. There is no lack of clerical staff. Several applicants can be obtained when a post is vacant, and they can be trained for the ordinary work. But there are various other branches—the sanitary branch, the engineering branch, the cess collection branch, and the account branch—for which special training is necessary, and some scheme must be formulated to attract, and if necessary to train suitable men for these local bodies. If that is done, it would supply a great want. But I feel that the resolution, as it is placed before the Council, rather pins down Government to consider the question in a particular manner. I do not think that that is the proper method, and if it were open to me to suggest an amendment, I would put the resolution as follows:

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that steps may be taken to remedy the difficulties of municipalities and local boards in obtaining suitable men for their services who need special training, after consulting the local bodies."

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—We will proceed with the discussion of the amendment and the resolution together.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I think that the resolution, as I have amended it, will not pin down Government to any particular course, but will request it to consider this matter in any form which may eventually be found suitable. I would, therefore, commend this resolution as amended to the consideration of the Council.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—Sir, I do not know what I should say about the amendment moved by the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai. It is worse than the resolution itself. However, as the discussion on both the resolution and the amendment is to proceed together, I shall make reference to both in my remarks.

It is true that a certain amount of difficulty is experienced in securing good men, particularly in the higher grades which require technical knowledge, such as that of engineering, of sanitation,

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

and of hygiene. It is also sometimes found difficult to secure capable executive officers for the larger municipalities. It is not enough that the Council should be merely informed of the difficulties that are admitted on all hands. The main question is whether the remedy suggested in the resolution would really meet the situation. We have to consider how difficult it is for Government to form a cadre for officers required by municipalities spread over the whole Presidency. The income of municipalities varies to a large extent, and it will be very difficult to bracket municipalities even for the convenience of exchanging officers between them. For instance, take the case of the municipalities of Ahmedabad, Surat, Hubli, Sholapur, and Poona. Practically they stand on the same level. Assuming that a cadre of chief officers for these various municipalities is formed, let us examine the matter from a practical point of view. Suppose the Hubli municipality selects a particular chief officer, retains him for a couple of years or more, and is not satisfied with his work. How is he to be got rid of? Would it be proper to ask Government to send him away to any of the other municipalities? If the Hubli municipality were to do that, the other municipalities would certainly complain that Government had no business to send them a man who had been found unfit by a particular municipality.

The real solution, to my mind, appears to be that each municipality should have a free hand in the selection of its officers. The remedy lies with them. If they form a schedule of the requirements of each municipality, and if there is a sliding scale and time scale pay system with various other prospects (in the larger municipalities at least, of pension, and in the smaller municipalities of provident fund), I do not think that there will be any real difficulty in securing the right sort of people. At present I believe there are very few municipalities which have got provident funds. None, except the Bombay corporation, has the pension rules. How can you expect officers of the grades of chief officer, engineer, and health officer, to enter municipal service, unless you make the service sufficiently attractive, place before them good chances of promotion, and make provision for their old age and accidents?

The request made in the resolution is that Government should form a regular service for the several municipalities. I put it to the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud: how is it possible for Government to form a cadre? How is Government going to determine the pay of the several officers required by the various municipalities? Is it intended that Government should pool the revenues in connection with the municipal staffs, and pay municipal officers out of these revenues? To my mind the whole scheme appears impracticable and unworkable.

If we really want to improve the existing system, the municipal councillors should not appropriate this function of appointing, fining, and dismissing officers; these powers being vested in presidents and vice-presidents in the case of small bodies. At present officers are chary of entering Government service on account of the instability of their appointments. Their continuance in the appointments rests with the whole body; and Government and the members of this Council will be able to appreciate my remarks when I ask them to consider whether it is feasible for a body of 27 or 30 councillors to select officers, to consider their claims to promotion, whether they have been remiss in their duties, and whether they deserve to be fined, suspended or dismissed. These questions ought necessarily to be left to a body of very few people. They will be done more efficiently if entrusted to the head of the administration. I recognise that there might be cases of abuses. No doubt much depends on the calibre and independence of the president and vice-president. In any case, however, this matter should be left in the hands of one man or of a very few men. If, instead of doing that, these questions are going to be discussed by the whole council or corporation in accordance with the existing system of the Municipal Act, and determined by the decision of the majority, it will always be found difficult to secure the right sort of people for municipalities or local boards. What is really wanted is a change in the Municipal Act so far as the appointments of the high-grade officers are concerned. A second change required is the provision of good salaries, and pensions or provident fund whenever the municipal revenues will permit.

In these circumstances, I think it would be well not to press this resolution; but, as my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye has suggested, if it is considered desirable that matters should not be left in this unsatisfactory state, a small committee might be appointed. I therefore oppose the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—Sir, as a representative of the municipalities in the Southern Division, I feel it my duty to express my views on the subject of this resolution. I have no doubt that the main object present to the mind of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud in moving this resolution is to make it easy for municipalities and local boards to secure an efficient service. The only question is whether formation of a special service is the right method to achieve that object. It seems to me that the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has mistaken his remedy. I do not at all agree with him in his view that his purpose will be served by the formation of a special service. I find that in the case of mofussil municipalities provision has already been made by Government by which municipalities can get at least three classes of servants who might be described as efficient. The first class is the schoolmasters who serve in municipal schools. Government is pleased to contribute to each municipality half the expenditure incurred by municipalities in educational matters; but Government insists on municipalities employing men who are really efficient and who have attained a prescribed standard. Therefore there is no grievance so far as teachers in municipal schools are concerned.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

Government also holds out an inducement to municipalities to appoint efficient chief officers. It is laid down that if a municipality is willing to accept the services of a man approved by the Collector—which means the approval of Government—Government is ready to give to the municipality a certain percentage of his salary. Each municipality has to make up its own mind. If it wishes to appoint its own chief officer irrespective of the wishes of Government, then it has to pay the chief officer the whole of his salary.

The third class of servants in whose case Government is pleased to make a concession is sanitary inspectors. If a municipality chooses to employ a sanitary inspector who has passed the sanitary inspectors' test, and further undertakes to pay him a certain minimum salary, Government undertakes to provide a certain part of his salary. In most cases municipalities take advantage of this offer of Government and employ sanitary inspectors who have passed the prescribed test. The only difficulty is with regard to the employment of servants in other departments of municipalities. I was rather surprised to hear it stated that municipalities found no difficulty whatever in employing an efficient clerical staff. It may be that my experience in this respect is different from that of my friend the Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai. So far as my own district is concerned, I have found to my sorrow that in respect to its clerical sevice, the municipal office in each town is looked upon as a rendezvous of all the failures of secondary schools. These men cannot find employment in the offices of the mamlatdar, the assistant collector, or the Collector. In the case of municipal clerks, nine out of ten will be found to be men who have passed no examination whatever. You cannot get matriculates; you cannot get men who have passed the school final examination on the miserable salaries paid at present; you can get only the failures of high schools and of Anglo-vernacular schools.

What is the remedy? Every municipality should agree to pay its servants a little more than it does now, and in this respect Government can assist municipalities. If Government lays down a certain educational standard as the minimum in the case of municipal clerks, and agrees to pay to a municipality a certain percentage of the salaries (the percentage may be large, or it may be small), perhaps municipalities might be induced to employ men capable of rendering the efficient service expected of them.

In the case of menial servants, I do not think it is necessary to hold out any inducements to municipalities. As regards accountants, however, Government might consider whether it is possible to induce municipalities to employ accountants who know how to keep accounts. Our experience in the mofussil is that ill-educated men who do not know how to keep accounts are employed as accountants by municipalities. Hundreds of mistakes are pointed out annually to each municipality by the Government auditors who inspect the municipal accounts, and the accountants are warned by the president or the vice-president. But what is the result? The same mistakes are probably repeated the following year, and so on. The real remedy lies not in the formation of a special service as proposed by this resolution, but in taking measures such as I have suggested. This might be done either when the Municipal Act is revised after the new Councils come into existence, or by amending the present Municipal Act. The formation of a special service will do no good whatever. My opinion is that each municipality or local board should be a self-contained unit. No municipality has a right to demand for its service a man from another municipality or local board who is an efficient servant. The object of local self-government is to develop the corporate life of each institution. Will that object be promoted by the creation of a department and by Government taking on its shoulders a heavy responsibility? I do not see how this resolution is to be worked even if the Council accepts it. As for the amendment suggested by the Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai, I fail to understand how it is an amendment. It seems to me to be a substantive proposition in itself, and at present I am not prepared to offer any remarks on it.

I regret I cannot accord my support to the resolution which has been moved by my friend, the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Sir, is it open to me to speak on the amendment ?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Yes.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Sir, yesterday I expressed my inability to support the resolution as it stood. It virtually gives away to Government the powers which municipalities possess of administering their own affairs, including the making of appointments. This is more than the municipalities would consent to, or the Government itself would undertake. Therefore, I suggested that the question should be postponed for the present until the new local self-government organisation comes into being under the Reforms Scheme.

Turning to the amendment which the Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai has suggested, I think that the right way to move for the present would be for Government to collect the opinions of the various parties concerned as to what could possibly be done in this matter.

Each municipality will not be able to move in the matter and may not be able to do what is necessary. If however action is taken through Government, we shall have a body of opinion on which the necessary action might be safely taken. It is admitted that the difficulty exists, and we cannot shirk the fact. We must tackle the question and discover a remedy. It may be possible to start some central institution for training the various grades of servants required for municipal service, to which institution Government might amply contribute. The expenditure required to maintain such an institution will be beyond the means of the municipalities, and some arrangement will have to be made by Government as is done for the supply of teachers, sanitary inspectors, and other officers required for municipal and local board service. In the case of these officers, the local bodies contribute not only towards their salaries and promotion, but in part for their initial training and towards their pension. Some similar arrangement might well be made for all grades of servants required.

I am certainly not in favour of surrendering to Government the right of the local bodies to make these appointments, or to vest them in the president or the vice-president alone. The right of making the appointments of these officers must rest with the whole body of the local institutions.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Sir, I think that the discussion has been very useful in clearing the air in regard to a very complicated question. The facts of the case are admitted. Various local bodies, municipalities, and district local boards, find it exceedingly difficult to get suitable officers and to retain them. The difficulties are due to the question of pay and promotion.

The work of local self-government has to be carried on and the help of these executive officers is necessary for efficiency. The problem is how to get them and how to retain them. One way of doing so is that municipalities, if they can economically afford to do so, should fix a schedule of appointments for these officers so as to give them promotion as they advance in service, and at the end of it to give them the benefit of a pension or a provident fund. If this can be done, it appears to be the best solution of the problem.

In this connection the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole pointed to the Bombay Municipality, the Port Trust, and the railway companies, and he said that these bodies did not find any difficulty in securing the services of efficient officers. The explanation is that the income of the Bombay municipality is nearly two crores, that of the Port Trust about a crore and a half, and that of the railway companies several crores. To talk in the same breath of district local boards and district municipalities is begging the question. Many district municipalities and district local boards have a very small income, and a part of that income is dependent on Government grants. How can they afford to maintain on their establishment men who would expect to rise in their service and obtain the benefit of pension or provident fund at the end of it ? The difficulty therefore is one of efficient local self-government in the district, and some remedy that would deal with the problem is required.

Having admitted the difficulties, the question of providing a remedy presents very serious difficulties. Many honourable members have pointed out the complexity of the problem. In the first place, if a provincial cadre is maintained, what should be the authority which will appoint men to this cadre ? You will want an authority who will have not only the duty of making these appointments but of dealing with promotions, transfers, and retirements. You cannot separate any of these functions, but will have to deal with the matter as a whole. The honourable mover has asked Government to do all this work. I am very glad that the suggestion has emanated from a non-official member. If Government had suggested anything of this kind, it would have been open to the charge that it meant a substantial encroachment upon the privileges of local self-government. If Government maintained such an institution it would mean a surrender of the rights and privileges which local self-governing institutions enjoy at present. In this Presidency all local bodies are entitled to appoint all their officers. Are local boards and municipalities prepared to surrender these powers? This, sir, is not a question which can be disposed of by a debate in this House.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL BOARD SERVICE—TALUKA CIVIL COURTS—SIND; PAY OF SUBORDINATE JUDGES.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

As the Honourable Mr. Pararjpye and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe pointed out, Government did appoint a representative committee to consider amongst other things this problem of local self-government. On that committee there was a substantial representation of non-official members, and the committee recommended that it was a very desirable thing (as I think you will all admit) to have a cadre of this character. If something of that kind can be done, I am sure it will tend to greater efficiency in the administration of local affairs. The committee also recommended that the difficulty of constituting an authority to discharge these duties might perhaps be overcome by the formation of a local self-government board. The question naturally arises as to what should be the constitution of such a board, what should be the proportion of representation of local bodies on it, and how are the local representatives to be elected. It was at one time the intention of this Government to refer the Pratt Committee's report to city municipalities for their views on the subject, but that has not been done in view of the decision which was announced by His Excellency in his opening speech at this session of the Council. He said that the question of the amendment of the District Municipal Act and of the District Local Boards' Act will be taken up after the Councils are reformed and local self-government has passed into the hands of Ministers.

As I have already said, the resolution has served a very useful purpose in clearing the air and drawing pointed attention to an admitted difficulty. No remedy can, however, be applied at present till legislation in regard to local self-government is introduced after the introduction of enlarged Councils. During that time it is open to the municipalities and district local boards whose representatives sit at this Council to consider the problem in all its aspects in view of the discussion which has taken place, and to suggest to Government some constructive proposals adequately to cope with the problem.

For these reasons I hope that both the honourable mover of this resolution and the honourable mover of the amendment will be content with the discussion which has taken place and withdraw the resolution and the amendment. No practical effect can at this stage be given to the course proposed in the resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai :—I beg to withdraw the amendment.

The amendment was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—I beg to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 12. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the system of taluka courts, and of linked courts where necessary, be extended to all the districts in the Presidency so that the ryots may not have to go beyond the limits of their revenue talukas for their civil litigation."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Mr. President,—This resolution was sent up by me with a view to remove the inconvenience suffered by the ryots in several talukas in the Presidency in having to go beyond the limits of the revenue talukas for litigation. I understand, however, that the matter is under the consideration of Government, that the District Judges have been asked to submit reports on the point, and that the Honourable Mr. Justice Hayward, who is out on a tour of inspection, is going to consider this matter after local inquiry. That being the case, I ask for permission to postpone the consideration of this resolution to the next session.

The resolution was by leave postponed.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 18. The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.

"That it be recommended to Government that the last grade pay of the subordinate judges in Sind be raised to Rs. 200 per mensem."

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas :—Mr. President,—The genesis of this resolution is that recently there was an order of Government by which the minimum pay of subordinate judges in the Presidency proper was fixed at Rs. 200, instead of Rs. 150, which was the original pay. But from that order Sind was expressly excluded.

SIND; PAY OF SUBORDINATE JUDGES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Sheikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; the Vice-President.]

I can inform you, sir, that the feeling in Sind was very much against that notification because of the suggestion that officials in the Presidency proper deserved higher pay than officers in Sind. But the truth is that the reverse is really the case. The conditions of life in Sind are harder, and expenses are heavier than elsewhere, and instead of Sind being given an inferior place, it should be given better treatment than the Presidency proper. It is not for me to blow the trumpet of my own province, but that fact has often been impressed upon Government.

I remember an instance when the Commissioner in Sind had to impress upon the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction the fact that living in Sind was much dearer than in the Presidency proper, and that the pay and prospects in Sind therefore required to be even better than in the Presidency. The cost of living in Karachi city is as high or higher than in Bombay city, and even in the rest of Sind the cost of living is much higher than in the rest of the Presidency proper. Therefore, sir, it will be a great injustice if this notification is not reconsidered with a view to seeing that Sind is placed on the same level as the rest of the Presidency. That is, the minimum pay of a subordinate judge there should also be fixed at Rs. 200 instead of being left at what it is at present, namely, Rs. 150. There is no need, I think, of any very elaborate arguments in support of my resolution, because it is only the actual conditions obtaining in Sind as regards the cost of living which have prompted me to make this proposal. But I would only appeal, sir, to your sense of fairness and justice. I daresay you are aware of the conditions in Sind.

With these few remarks, I leave the resolution in the hands of the Council.

The Honourable Sheikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah :—Mr. President,—I rise to support this resolution. I might bring to the notice of this Council that this is one of the many instances in which Sind has been treated in a different manner to the Presidency proper. My honourable friend has shown the Council that the cost of living in Sind is very high—higher than in the rest of the Presidency—and I therefore do not see why subordinate judges in Sind should not be treated the same as subordinate judges in the Presidency proper. In connection with this question I sent in an interpellation a short time ago, and the reply received was that the matter was under consideration. I think three months have passed since then and the question is not yet decided.

With these remarks I support the resolution of my honourable friend.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—I rise to say that Government does not wish to oppose this resolution. The matter stands thus: the Judicial Commissioner in Sind has recommended to Government that subordinate judges in Sind on the lowest pay should be put exactly on the same footing as their confreres in the Presidency proper. Government is disposed to consider this recommendation favourably. The matter is under reference to the Financial Department, whose report is awaited.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas seemed to think that this recent notification to which he has referred, and which relates entirely to subordinate judges in the Presidency proper, lays down that the subordinate judges in Sind will not in any circumstances get the increased scale. That is not so at all. Proposals in connection with subordinate judges in the Presidency proper come from the High Court, while those in connection with subordinate judges in Sind come from the Judicial Commissioner in Sind, and that is why separate orders have to issue on each proposal. The proposal from the High Court was received a short time ago and was sanctioned, and the question of Sind was reserved till the Judicial Commissioner's proposal was received by Government. There certainly was no intention of leaving out Sind altogether. But, as I say, Government does not oppose this resolution, but is awaiting the report of the Financial Department on the recommendation which has been received from Sind.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas :—Mr. President,—I acknowledge with appreciation the remarks that have fallen from you, and I am very glad that the misunderstanding which originally existed in our minds has been cleared up. I must say that when we in Karachi heard of the notification in question the impression created was that subordinate judges in the Presidency proper only were to benefit by the proposal and that those in Sind were not to benefit. I am glad to hear that this has never been the intention and that a proposal from the Judicial Commissioner in Sind has been received and will be favourably considered by Government. Our grievance has, therefore, practically been removed.

The resolution was put to the vote and carried.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[The Vice-President; Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. J. G. Covernton.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 3. The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—Mr. President,—The resolution which I wish to move runs as follows:-

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to direct that teachers employed in Government secondary schools shall be strictly prohibited from doing the business of private tutors."

The reason why I move this resolution may be stated briefly as follows. My attention was called to the fact that many teachers employed in Government high schools were teaching privately boys studying in their own classes, and were receiving fees from them. I thought that this was a matter which needed attention, and with a view of finding out whether such a course was pursued with the knowledge and approval of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction, I interpellated Government in the year 1915 at one of the meetings of this Council. Honourable members will find on page 399 of the proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay for the year 1915 the question which I put. Its first part was:

"Will Government be pleased to state the total number of candidates sent up for matriculation from each of the Government high schools in the Central and Southern Divisions in the years 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1915, and the number of candidates who passed successfully in each of these years?"

This was the first part of the question. Now the second part, which is more pertinent to the problem under consideration, stood thus:

"What is the total number of teachers in all these high schools together, and how many of them are permitted by their superiors to earn money as private tutors at present?"

And I was told in reply by Government that a certain number of these teachers had been permitted to accept employment as private tutors. The full particulars supplied to me by Government are to be found on page 439, appendix D. A reference to this appendix will give my honourable colleagues the information regarding Government high schools in the Southern and Central Divisions. Figures were given to me as regards fifteen high schools in two divisions. I find by referring to this appendix D that out of 40 teachers who were employed in the high school at Bombay, one was permitted by the Educational Department to do the business of a private tutor, and availed himself of the permission. In the case of Poona, out of sixteen teachers in the high school three were given and had utilised this permission. In the case of Satara three out of eighteen teachers were given and had utilised permission. In Sholapur out of 22 teachers six were given this permission and all had utilised it and had made money privately. In the case of Nasik, I find that out of eighteen teachers in the high school three were given permission, but one only had acted as a private tutor. In the case of Jalgaon, I find that out of fifteen teachers four had obtained permission, of which one had given private tuition. In the case of Dhulia, out of 21 teachers eleven were granted permission, of which five were employed as private tutors. In the case of Belgaum, out of 21 eight were given permission by their official superiors, of which four were employed as private tutors. In the case of Dharwar, out of 21 two were given permission, and both earned money by private tuition. In the case of Bijapur, four out of twenty were given permission and all fully utilised it. In the case of Karwar, none received permission. In the case of Ratnagiri, five out of thirteen were given permission, and of these five three acted as private tutors. Then there was a case of a girls' high school, the Poona girls' high school. Out of fourteen teachers one was granted permission, and the teacher concerned used the permission and earned money as a private tutor.

Thus the Council will see that out of a total of 255 teachers, 51 were given and 34 made use of permission to act as private tutors.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton :—May I ask the honourable member to what year the figures stated by him refer?

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—These figures were supplied to me by the Educational Department in 1915. I do not know whether things have changed since then either for the worse or for the better, but if they have changed, I should like to be enlightened in the matter. I know as a matter of fact that there are teachers even now in Belgaum giving private tuition to boys whom they teach in their own classes in school. If the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction gives an assurance to me that this practice has been discontinued, I shall not take the trouble to move this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton :—Sir, it may perhaps curtail discussion on this resolution if I explain at once that one of the departmental rules laid down is that no class teacher

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. J. G. Covernton; Mr. D. V. Belvi.] shall give private tuition to a pupil of his own class. In consequence of receiving notice of the Honourable Mr. Belvi's resolution, I have made enquiries of all the divisional inspectors and they report without exception that in no case has an instance come to their notice of this rule being broken by any teacher in a Government high school or middle school; in other words, that the rules laid down by the department for curtailing this privilege are strictly observed.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—I am much obliged to the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction for the information he has given to me. I find from the information laid before the Council that the orders obtaining in the Educational Department are that teachers in Government high schools are not at liberty to teach privately boys in their own classes. I argue from this that it is intended that teachers may be employed as private tutors to boys in other classes in their schools. I think it is necessary for me to press this resolution.

What are the duties of a teacher? His duties as a teacher and as a public servant are to do the work for which he is paid by Government out of the public exchequer. A teacher has no right whatever to spend his time outside the school-house in private work connected at least with the teaching profession. My experience is that the orders issued by the Educational Department are observed more in the breach than in the observance. There are, for instance, shastris employed in many Government high schools, and a shastri is expected to teach Sanskrit to boys in all the standards from the fourth to the seventh; I can point to two instances in which these shastris are making money privately, by imparting instructions in Sanskrit to pupils in these very classes. I am prepared to satisfy the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction with information as regards assistant masters who, out of a class of 30 boys whom they teach in a school, teach privately not less than twenty pupils. Is it fair to the public that these public servants should be freely allowed to spend their time in this way? The time which they should employ, properly speaking, in assisting their pupils in various ways is spent by them in earning money. I may perhaps be told that a schoolmaster is permitted to teach a few boys privately and that his assistance is available to boys in subjects in which they find themselves rather deficient. It sounds very plausible, but what is the effect? It is that a schoolmaster who spends two or three hours at home with his pupils finds himself tired, and cannot render his services zealously and with industry when he takes his seat in the class-room. At home, a teacher is expected to correct the exercises of his pupils, and to read the lessons he has to teach in the class-room. I know that even eminent professors like Dr. Selby never came into the class-room unless they had read the lessons which they had to teach. I know of an instance in which Dr. Selby declined to teach on a certain day a chapter of such a simple book as Jane Austen's 'Pride and Prejudice', not because he was not competent to teach it without reading it—he must have read the book a hundred times, if not more—but for the simple reason that he had not read the chapter which was to be taught in the class on that particular day. He told his pupils frankly that he had not read the chapter on that day, and therefore he declined to lecture on it. That is the way in which conscientious teachers will always do their duty. Are the teachers employed in secondary schools men who can be considered capable of teaching their classes without previously looking at the lessons which they have to teach? They are tired, because they have to work in school from 11-0 a.m. to 5 or 5-30 p.m. At night they do not find much time to devote to the study of the lessons which are to be taught in the class-room the next day. In the morning they have to teach their pupils and make money privately. The effect is that exercises of pupils are examined carelessly, and schoolmasters pay very little if any attention to the lessons they have to teach in their classes. The result is that the instruction imparted to pupils in the class-room is extremely indifferent. This is a theoretical ground, but I have another objection which in my opinion is unanswerable and very serious.

Even a schoolmaster is a public servant. Whoever draws any salary from the public exchequer is a public servant. Is a public servant at liberty to accept anything from anyone for the very duty which he has to perform as a public servant? Why should not the provisions of section 161 of the Indian Penal Code be made applicable to schoolmasters who make money in this way? Is not this equivalent to receiving illicit gratification? This is a matter which must be seriously considered; if you consider that it is not an offence, and that there is nothing in it punishable under the criminal law, one may contend that a subordinate judge may do the business of a chamber lawyer. He may say that he will go to court at 11-30 a.m. and attend to his court work up to 5 p.m; the rest of the time is his and he is at liberty to do the business of a lawyer. He may draft plaints, write statements and advise parties. Is that open to a subordinate judge? And if it is open to a teacher in a Government high school to earn money privately, why should not the same privilege be open to any other class of public servants? This is a serious matter which Government should be pleased to consider.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi; the Vice-President; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

I may perhaps be told that teachers in Government high schools are at present underpaid, and I am willing to acknowledge that in certain cases the grievance is real. But what is the remedy? The right remedy is not to tell these men to go and find employment wherever they like to earn money to eke out a decent existence, but to increase their pay. If the Council considers that these men or any section of them are underpaid, their salaries should be enhanced. It is absolutely wrong to allow any of them to do privately the work they are expected to do publicly. I know that those boys who do not pay their teachers privately do, not infrequently, suffer immensely. Their lessons are neglected, and no attention is paid to boys who are not in a position to pay. All the attention of the masters is devoted to the boys who do pay, and it is but natural that whoever pays a man must receive his best attention. I am told that the orders in the Educational Department will not apply to a class which the master does not teach. Unless every master is given to understand that any attempt on his part to act as a private tutor will be visited with a severe penalty, I fear that the present unsatisfactory state of things will continue to the detriment of real educational interests.

The resolution which I intend to move hereafter formed originally a part of this resolution, but my original resolution was split up by Government into two parts, and so I cannot bring in whatever I have to say in support of the second resolution in placing my case for the first resolution before the Council. I would have shown how the results of a class-room.....

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—May I ask the honourable member what is the second part of the resolution?

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—It is shown in the agenda as resolution No. 4. I wanted to show that what is contained in resolution No. 4....

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—That is an entirely different subject.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—It is not open to me to point out how poor results are shown annually as an outcome of this pernicious system which is allowed to grow under the orders of the Educational Department. Unfortunately, I have not got the figures for the current year, or for all the Government high schools in the whole Presidency. But the Southern and Central Divisions may be taken as typical instances, and it is open to me to argue on the strength of the figures that were supplied to me in the year 1915 that very nearly the same state of things obtains in the rest of the Presidency. It is for the Council to consider whether it is right to allow this state of things to continue. It ought to be stopped and schoolmasters should be strictly prohibited from acting as private tutors.

With these observations, I commend the resolution to the acceptance of the Council.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—Unfortunately, I have not had the advantage of listening to the earlier part of my honourable friend's speech, but as far as I can judge I am afraid that the Honourable Mr. Belvi's method of dealing with this question is not the proper one. I believe that he has got hold of the wrong end of the stick. There is no doubt that private tuition is a great evil. Generally speaking boys should obtain everything that they require in the way of teaching in schools and in schools alone. I look at it from the point of view of the boys rather than from the point of view of the teachers, and I believe that public opinion ought really to be educated to realise the fact that boys should not be allowed the facility of private tuition. The guardians of the boys should see that the schools to which their boys are sent are sufficiently efficient, and that they should not have the help of private tutors. If the guardians find that their boys are not doing sufficiently well with the tuition that they get in the schools, there is a clear case for going to the heads of the schools and finding out what is wrong. The question ought rather to be looked at from this point of view than from that of making any penal regulation regarding teachers.

There is another point to be considered in this matter. The number of Government high schools is exceedingly limited. Against about 20 to 25 Government high schools, there are over 200 private schools. By means of a resolution like this, my friend the Honourable Mr. Belvi will be taking into consideration only these 20 or 25 Government schools. He cannot touch the remaining 200 private high schools and their teachers. All that he will be able to do by means of his resolution if Government acts upon it, will be to take away from the teachers of the Government high schools whatever opportunities they have at present for private tuition, and to pass them on to the teachers of private high schools. I am entirely against private tuition as such. I think I would put the point as a suggestion to the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction that when educational inspectors go round to inspect the schools, they should make it their business to find out how many boys engage private tutors. If an inspector finds that a large number of students in any particular school, whether Government or private, have recourse to private tutors over and above the tuition they get in the school, then there is a clear case for drawing unfavourable deductions about the efficiency of the school. If the Honourable Mr. Belvi had brought forward a proposal asking educational inspectors to find out how much private tuition is given, and to discourage it as far as possible, I think that would have been the proper way to remedy this evil which, I agree, is very rampant and is lowering the efficiency of our schools. I do not wish to go into details about the legal claims which Government has over its teachers, but I know that a large number of Government servants—in fact servants of every corporation—do a little private work. All that these bodies can do is to see whether their servants are efficiently doing the work for which they are paid. I believe Government has regulations limiting the amount of private work that teachers may do. As far as I understand, teachers getting less than Rs. 100 are allowed to do some private work for a couple of hours a day. At least, there used to be a regulation of that kind.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. D. V. Belvi; the Vice-President; Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna.]

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—That is so.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—I think that private tuition has got to be discouraged, and that guardians of students have got to be taught the evils of the system. Many servants of private bodies do undertake some private work. I shall give an illustration of various higher officials. The teachers or professors in the colleges do some work as examiners in the universities. It is usually done during vacation, but occasionally part of it is done during college term time. How is the honourable member going to prevent professors of Government colleges from doing any work as examiners? That to a certain extent would interfere with their regular work, but I do not know that Government can interfere with the private arrangements of every one of its servants. All that Government can do is to see that the servants they engage give sufficient devotion to their work.

So far as private tuition is concerned, I have already mentioned that I am entirely against it in relation to schools. Schools ought to be able to do the whole amount of work, and genuine cases in which private tuition is necessary are very exceptional indeed. If a boy has fallen ill and is unavoidably detained from attending school for two or three months, it might be necessary for him to engage a private teacher; but such cases are few. Perhaps, also, a particularly bright boy desirous of winning a special scholarship open to competition might possibly require a little private coaching; but ordinarily it ought to be unnecessary to give any student private tuition.

I remember that when I was in Cambridge private tuition was quite the regular thing. Several years ago it was almost the only tuition in certain subjects. The lectures were merely nominal and everybody had a private coach under whom the serious work was done.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Professors as private tutors?

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—The colleges had lectures occasionally, but they did not matter. What really mattered was the work.....

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Who were the private tutors?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—More attention is now being devoted to lectures, and, with this growing efficiency in public teaching, private teaching has to a slight extent diminished. The necessity for private teaching will cease when the ordinary teaching in the schools is made more efficient. That is what has to be done; and the suggestion I made to the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction to give instructions to inspectors and deputy inspectors to discover how many students in any class in any school are undergoing private tuition, will be the best means of judging of the efficiency of schools. I believe that the Honourable Mr. Belvi has suggested an altogether wrong solution of the question. It will not do much good, and all that will happen will be that teachers in private schools will get the work. I am therefore not prepared to support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna:—Sir, I am quite in accord with the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye. If the object which the honourable mover has in mind in bringing forward this resolution is to prevent teachers from giving private tuition to their own pupils, then he is perfectly justified, but the ground is cut from under his feet by the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction, who has just informed the Council that this practice no longer prevails, and that no teacher can have for his private pupil any boy who reads in his own class. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye referred to the fact, which is confirmed by the Honourable Member in Charge, that a teacher whose salary is less than Rs. 100 is entitled to give private tuition, but only for a period of two hours a day. That appears to me a very salutary rule, and I think the honourable mover ought not to press the resolution any further.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna; Mr. G. K. Parekh; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

The Honourable Mr. Belvi stated that because a teacher spent some of his time in giving private tuition, he would come unprepared for the purpose of imparting instruction to his class in the subjects entrusted to him. He will admit that the teachers dealt with in his resolution have to teach subjects with which they are perfectly familiar, as they handle the same from week to week and from month to month. I contend that these teachers do not require any special preparation every day as referred to by the honourable mover in the instance of Professor Selby. These teachers perform very ordinary work, and they certainly can conveniently spare some time for giving private tuition.

The Honourable Mr. Belvi said that teachers were "making money", using the expression as if to imply that they were growing fat on the extra income derived by giving private tuition. The Honourable Mr. Belvi has joined other members whenever a complaint has been brought forward in this Council—and very rightly—that teachers are ill-paid. In fact, they are not paid as much as labourers in the city of Bombay. If, therefore, they are able to add a little to their income by giving private tuition during their leisure hours, I think it would be a positive hardship to interfere with them in the manner proposed; and particularly, as the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has pointed out, as the resolution will only affect the few teachers in Government schools and not the very large number of teachers in private schools.

Again, the honourable mover instanced the case of a sub-judge, who, he said, could not possibly outside office hours do any other work to add to his income. I admit that he cannot on account of the position he fills make money by giving legal advice to parties, but if he chooses he can certainly devote his leisure hours to the editing of some legal work or do something similar. If he does so, such editing will bring him an income in addition to his pay. Is not the Honourable Mr. Belvi aware that even members of the higher department of the educational service annotate text-books and add to their incomes? Why then be so severe on a class of teachers who are certainly ill-paid, and who ought to be permitted to add legitimately to their incomes, as reasonably permitted by Government under the existing regulations?

The Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh :—Sir, I deprecate the giving of private tuition by teachers to pupils of their own classes for payment. This tends to lower the dignity of teachers, as people will suspect that they will show favour towards those whose parents engage them, and disfavour towards those who do not do so. It is undesirable that teachers should be placed in this position. But I see no reason to prevent teachers from giving private tuition to others than pupils of their own classes. Teachers generally are not very munificently paid, and it would be very hard on them if they could not do the work of private teachers, for which they are best fitted, to supplement their small salaries, while they are permitted to do private work of any other kind outside their school hours. If the teachers of private schools are not prevented from giving private tuition for payment, I see no reason why teachers in Government schools should not enjoy the same advantage. I therefore consider that the general restrictions which my honourable friend wishes to place on all teachers employed in Government schools go too far.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Sir, I regret I cannot see my way to support the resolution of my friend, the Honourable Mr. Belvi. I think that the action already taken departmentally is more than sufficient. As the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has pointed out, no teacher in a Government school can take up private tuition without departmental permission. No teacher is permitted to take up private tuition without the headmaster's sanction, which again is to be given only when necessary. The headmaster must know the particulars of such tuition to satisfy himself of the necessity for the grant of the required permission. Another rule is that the headmaster is to give permission for private tuition up to a period of three months only, and should report to the inspector the names of the teachers concerned. A further rule requires that the pupil receiving private tuition should not be from the teacher's own class. If these injunctions are insufficient, I fail to see that the drastic action proposed by the resolution will be of much use. I do not think that we need take a pessimistic view and show a want of confidence in the teachers and headmasters, who are for the greater part graduates of our universities, and expected to realise their responsibilities under the existing rules. There may be cases here and there of teachers who abuse the confidence reposed in them; but I think that the figures quoted by the Honourable Mr. Belvi himself show that this has not happened to any serious extent. Out of 255 teachers, 51 only asked for permission for taking up private tuition, and of these 51 only 34 availed themselves of such permission. It will thus be seen that there is no need for any further action in this matter.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

I think that the teachers in Government schools are better qualified than those in private schools, and it would not be in the interest of the students if the help of these more highly trained teachers was not available. There are children who are slow of comprehension and who require coaching. Others fall ill, are not able to keep pace with their classes, and require private tuition. Would it be desirable to deprive these students of the help they now receive from these teachers ?

I do not think that we should subscribe to the theory that every Government servant is a whole-time servant of Government, and that for the whole 24 hours he is expected to do nothing except to attend to his official duties alone. The reason for the rule is apparently only to exclude Government servants from taking part in political matters or activities of which Government does not approve, and is certainly not meant to require that for all the 24 hours Government servants should do nothing beyond the duties for which they are engaged. That would prevent any teacher from doing any outside work offered to him, though it may improve his qualification as a teacher. Teachers are badly paid, and if you do not allow them to supplement their income by giving private tuition which does not interfere with the proper discharge of their duties, the position will become very hard. You cannot increase their pay, and if you do not allow them to supplement their meagre income by private work, their position will be that of a child whom the mother will not feed and the father will not allow to beg. It will practically drive them to have recourse to doubtful means. If you consider their social status, their qualifications, and the cost of living, you will find that they are not adequately paid. The Education Department pays most niggardly. It is, therefore, in the interests of the department and of the teachers and the students themselves that we should be satisfied with the existing regulations, which are amply sufficient to secure the efficiency of both the teachers and their pupils.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The Council will now adjourn for lunch till 2-30 p.m.

The Council adjourned for lunch.

After lunch.

The Council re-assembled at 2-30 p.m.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Order, order. Further discussion of Resolution No. 3.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai :—Sir, that the evil of private tuition has been tending to lower the efficiency of teaching in schools cannot be denied, but it is not confined to Government schools only. It applies to other schools as well, and I think that the remedy suggested by the honourable mover of this resolution is not the right remedy. I believe the proper course lies in the direction of the suggestion made by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, and I would add to it by submitting that every secondary school, whether Government or aided or recognized, should be asked to maintain a register with reference to each class in it showing the pupils who receive private tuition, and also whether the teacher in each case is the class teacher, or another teacher of the same school or any other school, or one who follows another profession. The headmaster or inspector could look into it and get reliable information and it would go a great way in checking the evil. But the course suggested by my honourable friend seems to be a difficult one and it would be very unfair to teachers in Government secondary schools to pass a resolution of this kind.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola :—Sir, the discussion which has taken place on this resolution has largely simplified my task. Most of the honourable members appear to be of opinion that the total prohibition which the honourable mover of the resolution wishes to enforce is undesirable. It must be pointed out that no teachers in Government secondary schools have the right of giving private tuition. Very salutary rules have been framed to govern the matter and I shall read out to the Council the four rules which have been laid down in this connection. I feel confident that when honourable members are in possession of the information with regard to these rules they will be satisfied.

The rules are:

(1) That no teacher in receipt of a salary exceeding Rs. 100 per mensem shall give private tuition.

(2) That the additional work involved does not in any way interfere with the legitimate duties of the teacher, and that no teacher shall give private tuition for more than two hours a day.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola ; Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

(3) That no teacher shall give private tuition to a pupil of his own class.

(4) That before commencing to give private tuition a teacher shall obtain the express permission of the authority competent to sanction the remuneration to be received.

Honourable members will see that every detail in this connection is controlled by higher authorities, and this is borne out by the statistics which the honourable member read out to this Council. In answer to his interpellation he found that out of 255 teachers in secondary schools 51 only have received permission to give private tuition, and of these 51, 34 only were able to find pupils for tuition. That is to say, when 51 teachers in different parts of the Presidency were permitted to give private tuition, only 34 were able to find pupils for private tuition. That is indirectly an answer to the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, with most of whose remarks I entirely concur. The evil is not so widespread as has been suggested.

I can quite understand that there may be breaches of these rules. If the honourable mover or any other honourable member were to draw the attention of the Educational Department to any such cases which may have come to their notice, the department will be very glad to look into them. But when the question of total prohibition of all these teachers who are accepting private tuition is raised, you have to bear in mind, as the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye pointed out, that, while there are only 25 Government secondary schools, there are about 200 private secondary schools in the Presidency, and that you could not control all these schools without bringing about a state of things which can hardly be considered very desirable in the interests of the students. I would therefore ask honourable members to consider whether a motion of this character prohibiting all private tuition is a matter of practical politics. I can well believe that in theory it is admirable and that private tuition is undesirable from the point of view of the students themselves. If students take the trouble of working up their own lessons without help, they will be better qualified to succeed than if they are helped by private tuition; but no uniform system can be laid down in this respect, and I trust that the Council will hesitate to commit itself to the total prohibition of private tuition by teachers in Government secondary schools.

There is one point which appears to me of very great importance in its moral effect, viz., that teachers should give private tuition to students in their own classes. I quite see the drawbacks of that practice and the injustice likely to be done to other students in the same class who do not receive private tuition from their own teacher. Honourable members will have observed from the rules which I read out to them that such a practice has been prohibited. The Honourable Mr. Belvi has, however, told us that he knew of a case in which, out of 30 students in a particular class, twenty received private tuition from the teacher of that class. If any such case is brought to the notice of the department, I am sure it will deal with the offender very severely.

The Honourable Mr. Belvi raised a question regarding Government servants. Under the Government Servants' Conduct Rules a Government servant may not, without the previous sanction of the local Government, engage in any trade or undertake any employment other than his public duties. It may be pointed out, however, that under the Civil Service Regulations, any officer may receive a fee from a private person, a private body, a public body whose funds are not administered by Government, or from a Native State, for work voluntarily done for it, provided that:

(1) he has undertaken the work with the knowledge and sanction in writing of the head of his department;

(2) the head of the department certifies that it can be carried out without detriment to his official duties; and

(3) the acceptance of a fee and the amount of the fee are approved by the authority having power to sanction it.

It will be observed that it is not in the case of schoolmasters only but of all Government servants that these rules are laid down. They provide for meeting exceptional cases in which Government servants may be employed on work other than their regular duties.

Taking all these circumstances into consideration, I think that no case has been made out for laying down a complete prohibition against private tuition, and that the safeguards which Government have already provided are amply sufficient to meet the case.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—Sir, I have listened with great interest to the debate which my resolution has provoked in this Council. I should have been really glad to hear the views of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction. I do not know why he did not speak on a resolution which pertains to his department. However, I shall try briefly to reply to the several points that were attempted to be made against my resolution.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

I am quite alive to the fact that the sympathies of all my honourable colleagues are with the assistant teachers in Government high schools, who are at present underpaid, but, as the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola observed, the principle or which the resolution is based is perfectly sound. The question which this Council has to solve is whether it is right for teachers in Government high schools to be permitted to do privately what they are expected to do officially.

That is the one point on which attention must be concentrated. The sympathy extended to these teachers is well deserved, but to me it seems that the application of this sympathy is altogether misdirected. If we really sympathise with the position in which they are placed, we are in duty bound to see that their salaries are enhanced or that they are remunerated by Government in some other way. But to say that they may be permitted to add to their income in private in the line in which they are expected to work publicly is surely wrong.

One objection which was raised to this resolution was that it did not meet the case of secondary schools maintained by private persons or private bodies. We are not now concerned with private high schools, but with persons who are admittedly public servants, and the fact that teachers in private schools are allowed to do what they like is no justification whatever for allowing a public servant to do what is prohibited by law. I shall take a concrete instance. Suppose A is apprehended for a theft. Is it any defence to say 'Oh! there are hundreds of people here, 99 out of 100 of whom have committed thefts and who go scot free.' That is the kind of argument that is brought forward against this resolution. It will be for this Council and for the Educational Department to consider whether teachers, even in schools which receive grants-in-aid, should not be subjected to a prohibition of this kind. But to say that we should allow teachers in Government high schools to add to their incomes in the manner that they do at present is manifestly wrong.

We are told that educational inspectors should enquire how many boys in each class are under private instruction. Is that done? Is there any provision that such a thing should be done by the Educational Department? I shall be quite content if the department keeps a register for each boy showing whether a private tutor is employed for him; if so, who is the tutor; and whether the information is checked, say, annually or biennially by inspectors when they tour on inspection. Such a procedure might go a great way towards checking the evil, but even that is not done at present. At present teachers have been given a free hand in the matter. All that they have to do is to secure the previous permission of their superiors, and that permission is as a rule granted for the asking provided that the teachers' pay happens to be less than Rs. 100 a month.

The next argument advanced was that professors of colleges are allowed to be examiners and to earn a little money. I fail to understand that there is anything parallel between the two cases. What have professors' acting as examiners to do with private tuition? Am I to suppose that a professor of a college can give private tuition to boys in his own class provided that his pay is less than Rs. 100? If the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye had cited a single instance where professors of Government colleges were allowed to give private tuition for money to students of their own classes, I should have admitted that it was a strong point against me. I asked him twice during the course of his speech whether professors of Government colleges in Cambridge acted as private tutors to students studying in those colleges, but I did not receive any reply.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye :—Certainly.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—Well, if that is so, it is something new to me, but I do not profess to know what is the practice in England. But it seems a very strange thing in a Government college that a professor should be allowed to take fees privately for the very lessons which he is expected to teach in the class room.

The next opponent was the Honourable Mr. Sethna. He says that teachers in high schools do not require special preparation before teaching their classes. I shall only ask him whether he thinks an Indian teacher who has to teach Sanskrit to, say, the seventh standard, can do his work conscientiously without preparing the lesson at home? We know that even professors, who are far abler men, have to prepare themselves before teaching the subject to a class. To me it is very difficult to believe that any teacher, however competent he may be, will be able to teach his class conscientiously without first scanning what he has to teach and seeing the difficulties that boys are likely to find.

Another point which was made against the resolution was that a subordinate judge or other Government servant may write a book and may make money. I would respectfully say that there is no analogy between the writer of a book and a private tutor. There would be some analogy were the subordinate judge allowed to write a plaint or a written statement. The question is not whether he may not write a book on the theory of law.

SECONDARY TEACHERS AND PRIVATE TUITION—DISTRICT LOCAL BOARDS; NON-OFFICIAL PRESIDENTS—STAMP VENDORS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi; the Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

My honourable friend Mr. Parekh said that a teacher may employ himself as a clerk in a shop. I do not know of any instances in which teachers are allowed to do work of that kind.

Then comes a very strange argument from my honourable friend Mr. Upasani. He says that a Government servant is not a whole-time servant of Government for the 24 hours of the day. It is curious that this statement should have come from my honourable friend who himself has been a Government servant for many years. Can we possibly appreciate or accept an argument of this kind?

Turning to my honourable friend Rao Saheb Desai, I am glad to find on his part an admission of the existence of this evil. He says that the evil is undoubted, but that it is not confined to Government schools. Then he makes a valuable suggestion, namely, that in each school a register should be kept showing the history or progress of each boy. I believe each boy in a school is at present given a book called a 'Progress Book' in which his progress in his studies is noted. If the Educational Department undertakes to leave a column in that book showing whether the boy receives private tuition, and if so from whom, it will, I think, have a very salutary check upon the propensities of teachers who wish to add to their incomes by private tuition.

The Honourable Member in Charge referred to some rules in the Government Servants' Conduct Rules. I do not see how these rules can possibly furnish any justification for what is undoubtedly an evil.

No reply has been attempted by any gentleman in this Council to an argument which I advanced. My contention was, and still is, that to receive any money from a boy for teaching him privately what a teacher in a Government high school is expected to teach in the class-room is equivalent on the part of the teacher to receiving illicit gratification. I should like to hear from any lawyers here—any lawyers of standing—a cogent reply to that argument. I am told that a schoolmaster's pay is very small and that he may therefore be allowed to add to it in this way. May I ask this Council whether it is permissible for a policeman, whose duty it is to guard property, to receive from the owner of each house a certain amount of money for keeping a watch on the houses within his beat? It is the business of a policeman to keep a watch on the houses in his beat. We may as well say, and with more reason, that if a policeman has a large family, say five sons and seven daughters, how can you expect him to maintain himself and his family on the Rs. 10 or Rs. 12 which he gets as salary? Look at the question from the point of view of principle. If you consider that teachers are underpaid, by all means increase their pay; give them higher salaries, higher war allowances, or special remuneration, but do not allow them to add to their incomes in this manner by giving private tuition which must militate against a conscientious discharge of their duties.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 8. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the privilege of electing their own non-official presidents be granted to the remaining district local boards of the Central Division."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—Mr. President,—I beg leave to withdraw this resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 13. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the number of stamp vendors in the several districts be increased and the rates of their fee raised."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Mr. President,—I propose to move this resolution with a view to remove the inconvenience in getting stamps which is at present experienced by people living in villages. The number of stamp vendors in the Presidency is far too limited to allow the ryots sufficient facilities for obtaining the stamps they require. They have to go miles together and spend considerable time and suffer loss of wages to get the stamps they want. It will be seen from last year's report of the Stamp Department that there are in all only 1,159 stamp vendors in the whole Presidency. They are distributed as follows:—300 in the Central Division; 182 in the Northern Division; 344 in the Southern Division; and 333 in Sind. This works out at one vendor for 24 villages and for an area of 106 square miles. Coming to districts particularly, the proportion is very varying. In the districts in the Central

STAMP VENDORS.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. P. A. Desai.]

Division we find that there is one licensed vendor for from 30 to 42 villages and for an area of from 134 to 206 square miles, except in East Khandesh and Nasik where the proportion is one vendor to 20 and 27 villages and to 64 and 96 square miles respectively. In Gujarat there is one stamp vendor for from 13 to 27 villages and for an area of from 36 to 106 square miles, except in the Thana district where the proportion is one vendor to 53 villages and to 115 square miles. People in the Southern Division are more fortunate, because there the proportion is one vendor for from thirteen to 45 villages and 67 to 76 square miles, except in the case of Kanara in which district the proportion is one vendor to 50 villages and to 157 square miles. Then, looking to the area and the number of villages and also to the value of the stamps sold, we further find that the several districts do not stand equally well and are very unequally served. Thus, we find that in West Khandesh, which includes 1,096 villages and covers an area of 5,439 miles, there are only 35 stamp vendors, though the value of judicial stamps sold comes to Rs. 1,56,797 and that of non-judicial stamps to Rs. 73,336. On the other hand, Bijapur, which has nearly the same number of villages and the same area, has 81 stamp vendors, though the value of the stamps sold is much lower, being only Rs. 76,657 in the case of judicial stamps and Rs. 60,140 in the case of non-judicial stamps. The same will be found to be the case if we compare the figures for the other districts in the several divisions; another fact which has to be noted is that out of the total number of 1,159 stamp vendors, a considerable proportion is posted at district and taluka headquarters, so that so far as the outside villages are concerned, the number is still smaller. On a reference to the figures of the census returns we find that these taluka places and district headquarters for the greater part include only towns which have a population of more than 5,000. These, however, number only 215 out of a total number of 26,256 villages and towns in the Presidency. Out of these, 15,264 have a population of less than 500 each and 6,497 of between 500 to 1,000, while not less than 3,217 towns have a population of between 1,000 and 2,000, and 1,010 towns a population of between 2,000 and 5,000 each. Considering these figures referring to the several classes of villages and towns, I think it is necessary in the interests of the poor people that much better provision should be made for the supply of stamps to them. In most cases they have to go miles together to the village where there may be a stamp vendor. If he is not at home, they have to go again, so that in order to get a stamp for two annas they have to spend half a day and sometimes more. Very often stamps of the value required by the people are not in stock with the vendor, and they have to go again when the vendor gets them or to purchase stamps of higher value than they actually require. These people are thus put not only to loss of time, but also to the inconvenience of having to pay more than is necessary for their actual purpose. Government makes an annual revenue of over a crore of rupees from this source, and that being the case I think it is only reasonable to ask that it should take into consideration the actual needs of the people and make better provision.

So far as the fees are concerned, they are far too low to allow of people coming forward in larger numbers to take up these duties. In the Southern Division, where there is a larger proportion of stamp vendors, their income comes to Rs. 62 a year, i.e., a little over Rs. 5 a month, and in the Bijapur district to only Rs. 3-8-0. In the Northern Division the average is Rs. 101 a year, or a little over Rs. 8 a month, and in the Central Division it comes to Rs. 9-8-0 a month. With this very small income, it is not possible for these people to keep body and soul together. They have to pay in advance for the purchase of the stamps. For this they have to borrow and have to pay interest on the amount borrowed for capital required for the business. In their case, unless a little more is paid, and the scale of fees is raised, it will not be possible for people in the mofussil to undertake these duties. The improvement therefore that is required is to increase the number of stamp vendors and at the same time to increase the scale of their fees. The present scale allows only 1½ to two pies per rupee in the case of judicial stamps and nine pies to one anna per rupee in the case of non-judicial stamps. In the case of adhesive stamps the rates vary from three pies to one anna a rupee. The remuneration that they now get is, I think, inadequate and insufficient for the work required of the vendors. They do not remain at home all the time to allow people to get stamps whenever required, and in this way people are unnecessarily inconvenienced. To remove this inconvenience, and in the interests of these poor people, I beg that some action may be taken by Government in the direction suggested by me.

With these words, I beg to move the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai :—Mr. President,—The resolution, as it stands, is vague. It says:

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the number of stamp vendors in the several districts be increased."

STAMP VENDORS.

[Mr. P. A. Desai; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

How much the increase should be is not stated. I do not know if the honourable member will be satisfied if in his district one more stamp vendor is appointed. In the same way, the resolution recommends that their fees should be raised. The present rate in the case of judicial stamps is two pies per rupee, in other cases 2½ pies and so on. The honourable mover does not say to what extent the rate is to be increased. Having regard to the present number of stamp vendors, namely, 1,159 for 26,000 villages, the ratio is one stamp vendor to about 25 or 26 villages. It is no doubt a very limited number and it ought to be doubled. But when we think of the convenience of the people, there is another danger which also has to be averted. I can speak of my district but not of the surrounding districts. I do not pretend to know what the practice in the neighbouring districts is, but in my own district the general idea of the villagers is that in addition to what is prescribed by law, they are to give something additional to the stamp vendors. If I ask a cultivator to buy a stamp valued at four annas he tells me that there is no stamp of four annas, but that there are stamps which can be had for five annas. So in increasing the number of stamp vendors, the danger will be that unless their fees are adequately increased, each one will demand something for himself.

The honourable mover has told us that at present in the Central Division the amount which a stamp vendor gets throughout the year is simply Rs. 62. Having regard to prices, Rs. 62 is not sufficient even to keep body and soul together. Therefore, my submission is that the present number ought to be doubled and the rates of commission which are at present allowed to the stamp vendors should similarly be doubled.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis :—Sir, I venture to think that before taking action on the lines suggested by the honourable mover of the resolution, we ought to have more facts to justify it. It is very easy to take up an administration report, calculate the population, the area, and the profit, and say that such and such a thing should be done and that the rates ought to be doubled. I entirely fail to see that there is more virtue in having one stamp vendor for twelve villages instead of one for 24 villages. In either case, I imagine that the villagers who want the stamps will have to walk three or four miles before they can get them. As a matter of fact, I believe that the majority of the villagers generally want to have their petitions written by somebody else who is more competent to do it, and they generally go to the taluka head-quarters, so that in the ordinary course the fact that there are only five to ten vendors in the other parts of a taluka does not affect the case very much. I submit that the figures quoted by the honourable mover that there is an average of one vendor for 24 villages, and that the ryot has to walk very long distances, would not be fair to go upon.

As regards the rates given to these vendors, I must point out that the stamp vendor is never a whole-time man. He generally looks after a shop of miscellaneous articles, and only occasionally devotes himself to the sale of stamps. It is not a particularly responsible duty, and I imagine that he does not spend more than a few minutes a day upon it. Having regard to that fact, I do not think that the remuneration is insufficient; and further, I cannot accept the figures with regard to remuneration quoted by the honourable mover of the resolution without checking them. The experience of every Collector is that where a stamp vendor resigns, there is great competition for his post, and therefore it does not appear that the remuneration is inadequate.

With reference to the fact mentioned by the Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai that stamp vendors charge larger sums than the actual cost of the stamps, it is for persons in the position of the honourable member, whenever such instances come to their notice, to complain to the registrar of the court or the Collector with a view to necessary action being taken. That is, I think, the obvious course of action that you would expect a lawyer of the High Court to follow. If officers holding the position of High Court vakils do not take action of this character, it is impossible to check the imposition of extra charges by the stamp vendors.

In respect to the rates of remuneration, I must remind this Council that they are fixed by the Government of India, and therefore to raise them we should have to get the sanction of the Government of India.

I think no reasons have been advanced for accepting a resolution of this vague character. If there are cases where people have to walk unusually long distances before they get their stamps, I have no doubt that the local Collector or the Commissioner will be pleased to consider the matter and take steps to remedy it.

That there is any general want of more stamp vendors, or any inconvenience to the public generally, under the present arrangements, has not, I think, been shown at all. Any increase in remuneration would involve heavy expenditure, which would not be justified until reasonable cause is shown. In these circumstances, Government cannot accept the resolution.

STAMP VENDORS—EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS—PLEADERS IN REVENUE CASES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President; Mr. D. V. Belvi; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Sir, I was aware of the fact referred to by the Honourable Mr. Curtis that any changes in this matter as regards the scale of fees would require a reference to the Government of India. It was for that very reason that I could not make any definite recommendation as to the proposed increase in the amount by which the scale of fees should be raised. I purposely left it to Government to fix the details as to how far this could be done. My figures are taken from the official report and they have not been questioned. The Honourable Mr. Curtis said that my resolution was merely based on the report. I do not think the grievance is an imaginary one. I was personally aware of the inconvenience suffered by the people in this respect, and it was only to give the Council a clear idea of the extent of the inconvenience that I made reference to the figures given in the report. People generally prefer to go to taluka headquarters for judicial stamps required for their litigation, but the taluka headquarters may be from eight to 30 miles from a village. Is it desirable to compel people to walk twenty to 30 miles to purchase a stamp? It is certainly undesirable, and we should not leave it to the will of the stamp vendor to remain at home or not on the ground that he is not a whole-time officer. One reason why people have to wait indefinitely, and to go again and again to the stamp vendor, is because he does not hold a substantive post and is not a whole-time officer. This inconvenience ought to be met, and the only way to do so is to increase the number of stamp vendors and the scale of remuneration. The fact referred to by the Honourable Mr. Desai that in his district it is not unusual for stamp vendors to charge more than the actual value of the stamp, and that illiterate people have to pay this extra charge, goes to support the more strongly the need for the action I have suggested, and it would not be right to allow the people to continue to suffer the existing inconvenience and to pay any extra charge for the stamps to supplement the stamp vendors' remuneration. Therefore, in the interests of the masses something should be done in the direction suggested in my resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—I should like to say one word before I put the resolution to the meeting, and that is that I foresee very heavy charges in connection with development when the reforms come into force; and no strong argument has been advanced why this Government should spend Rs. 1½ lakhs to Rs. 2 lakhs per annum to achieve the purposes which the honourable member has in view.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 4. The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to direct that the Educational Department should examine annually each class in Government secondary educational schools in all the subjects prescribed therefor by the department."

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi :—Sir, I have to gather some information relating to this resolution from the Educational Department. My information is not yet complete, and I therefore request permission to postpone this resolution to the next Council meeting.

The resolution was by leave postponed.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 9. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Commissioners and Collectors be requested not to refuse admission to lawyers to argue before them in applications and appeals under the—

(1) Land Revenue Code,
(2) The Income Tax Act,
(3) The Watan Act,
and other similar matters."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—Sir, last year I asked Government to inform the Council of the places in which Commissioners and Collectors did not allow pleaders to appear before them. I was told that it was a matter of discretion, and from that I inferred that it was not confined to any particular district, but depended on the officer concerned.

Sometimes the officer exercises his discretion by allowing pleaders to appear before him under these acts, and sometimes he refuses them permission. I submit that this matter should be governed by some rule. Judicial discretion is not a matter of chance but is something which is governed by justice, equity, and good conscience, and therefore some kind of rule ought to be observed in these cases.

PLEADERS IN REVENUE CASES.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

Generally speaking, clients never depend upon themselves to make any applications to officers under these acts. They go to pleaders to discover how the applications are to be made, or upon what particular points of law they should be based, and these applications have to be drafted by lawyers. When they have been so drafted, the lawyers sometimes find that the petitioners themselves have to present their applications. As a rule a petitioner is not able to understand the application or to argue on the grounds on which it is based, and he finds that his work consists of handing over the application to the officer concerned and then quietly retiring. In these cases he certainly feels that justice is not being done to him, although I know that the officer may very carefully peruse the application and write his orders on it. The point is that it is not only important to do justice, but to show that justice is being done by seeing that the petitioner receives satisfactory answers to his doubts when his petition is refused. I therefore think that the time of the officer is very properly employed when he is hearing a lawyer as to why a particular petitioner has appealed. Sometimes this discretion is exercised by officers in a widely different manner. No particular reason is given for a refusal, and the lawyer or the petitioner has to be satisfied with the officer's decision not to allow any one to explain the complaints in the application. In some cases there really seems no reason why lawyers should not be allowed to appear. The questions are technical and can be handled only by men who know the particular statute under which an application or appeal is being made. I therefore submit that there should be a general rule not to refuse admission to lawyers when they are sent to explain their clients' cases. I do not think there can be any particular reason why they should not be allowed to appear. At any rate no such reason has been advanced, and I hope the resolution will commend itself to the Council.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe :—Sir, my friend, the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, will be surprised to hear that, although a member of the same profession, I do not agree with him and cannot support his resolution. I oppose it, not because I am against my own class, but because the resolution is worded in such a way that we ask Government to show some grace to the lawyers. My point is that, if they are entitled to appear, let them appear, and no one will have the right to dispute their presence in court. If under statute they have no right to appear, why request Government to issue orders to their officers that permission should be granted to lawyers to appear in particular cases?

There are instances in which discretion has been very wisely exercised by the Commissioners and Collectors. I have been practising at the Bar for over twenty years, and my experience has been that, in many cases arising out of the Land Revenue Code, the Watan Act, and so on, permission has been granted to pleaders to appear. I am not very familiar with the procedure followed in the Commissioner's office, but I know that in important cases some Commissioners have allowed the parties concerned to be represented by their pleaders.

To take first the question of applications and appeals under the Land Revenue Code. There are certain provisions in that Code which give discretion to the presiding authority to admit pleaders or not. They are generally admitted if the case is serious, or if the injustice that is complained of is of a flagrant character.

In income tax cases, if I rightly understand the present act, pleaders have a right to appear and in my district at least under the new act of 1918 pleaders have invariably been allowed to appear and to argue the appeals before the income tax commissioners.

(His Excellency the President at this stage occupied the chair.)

The third point is about applications and appeals under the Watan Act. I look at this resolution more from a lawyer's point of view. At present is there any such difficulty being felt by the lawyer class as is sought to be made out by the honourable mover? Under Regulation II of 1827 we are allowed to practise in all judicial proceedings. Now everything depends on the fact whether a particular proceeding is a judicial proceeding or not. To my mind it appears that, as far as the lawyer is concerned, his cause will not be furthered by this resolution. I am afraid that, if the resolution is rejected by this Council, the concession which is now given to us (if it is a concession at all: I say it is a right in certain cases) might be stopped. I, therefore, earnestly ask my honourable friend Mr. Garud whether he would not consider it safer to withdraw the resolution and not to place it before the Council for consideration.

Under the new bill which was for some time before Government, and the object of which was to repeal Regulation II of 1827, a provision has been made for the appearance of lawyers in revenue, watan and other proceedings. That has been done not because Government wants to give further representation to the lawyer class, but because, under the definition which has been given in Regulation II of 1827, lawyers have a right to appear in certain proceedings. That right is continued to them. I shall mention one case particularly under the Land Revenue

PLEADERS IN REVENUE CASES—TRAINING OF SECONDARY TEACHERS.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.]

Code in which one of the judges who tried an immortal criminal sessions case in this Presidency against a mamlatdar remarked that such a serious offence would not have occurred had the revenue authorities allowed lawyers to represent parties in assistance appeals. This point was specially brought to the notice of Government by that Sessions Judge, and I am sure that Government will, if necessary, issue orders on such points to their officers. My earnest desire, however, is that this resolution should not be pressed by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud.

The Honurable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Your Excellency,—The points raised by the last speaker are of a somewhat legal nature, and I must confess to this Council that I am not prepared on behalf of Government to say what its decision may be.

Speaking generally, the view of Government is that it is prepared to instruct its officers to allow representation by lawyers or pleaders if that course is helpful. Further than that we cannot go. As the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe pointed out, the question as framed in the resolution involves legal issues, and it is impossible at this moment to form any opinion on the various points.

I suggest that the honourable mover might perhaps be satisfied with the assurance that Government will instruct its officers to allow representation by lawyers if that course is helpful, and leave the matter in this way without raising the legal question which, as the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe has said, is otherwise likely to arise.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—I did not bring this resolution in the interests of the lawyers. Lawyers can defend their own interests and I am quite content to leave them alone. I brought this resolution in the interests of the general public. What practically happens is that a party engages a lawyer in a case of this description, the lawyer goes to the particular officer concerned, and that officer says that he will not admit a lawyer. The latter returns and the poor client who has engaged him is deprived of the benefit of his help. It is said that there is discretion vested in the officers to allow or not to allow lawyers to appear in these matters and it is to prevent that discretion from being exercised that I have brought this resolution. I see no reason why a lawyer may not be allowed to appear before a Commissioner or a Collector, and, since Government is willing to give that assurance, I do not see what thorny points remain to be settled.

If I am allowed to know what particular points are referred to by the Honourable Mr. Curtis, I shall consider whether to withdraw the resolution or to place it before the Council.

His Excellency the President:—I am not quite clear whether the honourable member is seeking to withdraw his resolution. The matter is rather complex, and Government can do no more by way of explanation than to say that it is prepared to instruct its officers to allow representation by lawers in the appeals referred to whenever such a course is likely to be helpful. If the honourable member considers the matter carefully, I think he will see that some degree of latitude and discretion must be allowed to Government officers, and I am afraid that Government cannot accept the resolution as it stands. I am sure the honourable member will be satisfied with the assurance that has been given, and I should like to know whether he is inclined to press for a division, or to withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—I do not know why any reservation is necessary. However, since Government has given an assurance that it will instruct its officers generally, I withdraw the resolution.

The reslolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 14. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that provision be made in arts colleges for the training of secondary teachers."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I propose to move this resolution to meet the very inadequate provision which at present exists for the training of teachers for secondary schools. Out of the total number of 3,416 teachers who are in the middle and high schools for Indians, only 726 are trained, while 2,690 are untrained. In 1916-17 the number of teachers in these schools was 3,288, and out of these only 616 were trained and 2,672 were untrained. The matter attracted the attention of Government, and in their review of the report of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction for 1916-17 this is what Government was pleased to observe on this point in their resolution No. 297 dated 1st February 1919:

"The Governor in Council regrets to find that the Director of Public Instruction is unable to speak very favourably of the actual work accomplished by the Training College for secondary teachers in Bombay, but realises that the circumstances have been adverse .....At present it is to be feared that the advantages of a strict and careful training are not sufficiently appreciated either by the teacher himself or his employer.....Government are giving their attention to the problem of increasing the accommodation in the College and enlarging its activities. At the same time they are not prepared to undertake the responsibility of providing trained teachers for every secondary school in the Presidency. In the opinion of His Excellency in Council, this is a duty which devolves upon educational associations, school managements, and private individuals, and it is a duty in the execution of which Government are willing to offer not only sympathetic advice but also substantial pecuniary assistance."

TRAINING OF SECONDARY TEACHERS.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

Subsequent to the date of the resolution just referred to, this matter was again most carefully considered by the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction in connection with a letter No. 813, dated the 30th August 1916, from the Government of India, and in the course of his report he stated that the case of secondary teachers required little elaboration, and observed as follows :

"Out of 2,868 secondary teachers in Government and aided and recognised schools in 1915-16, only 660 were trained.....The facilities for training are ludicrously inadequate and have been long recognised as such by both Government and the Department. Want of funds has prevented the extension of facilities. There is but one training college, the benefit of which is practically restricted to Government schools, and which turns out but 34 trained teachers per annum. If we accept seven per cent. as a normal rate of increase for secondary teachers, and allow four per cent. for wastage, we have to provide for each year after 1915-16 about 315 secondary trained teachers, or 1,575 in five years.....For this our present machinery is hopelessly insufficient.....It is for consideration whether the adoption to a much larger extent than at present of aided agency in training teachers might not reduce the otherwise very considerable expenditure which would be involved in any attempt to make good deficiencies through Government institutions only. The cost of turning out a trained student from the Secondary Training College is annually Rs. 1,313."

Government, in its resolution No. 1714, dated the 9th July 1918, on this letter from the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction, admitted that the machinery for training teachers was wholly insufficient, and further stated as follows :

"Having regard to the fact that the needs of primary education have.....a predominant claim on the resources of the state, and that the scheme for training primary teachers which has been approved will commit Government to a large expenditure, it appears to Government that it will be impossible to find the funds for training the full number of secondary teachers required.....It will, therefore, be necessary to adopt a lower standard than that suggested by the Government of India for a long time to come. In the opinion of the Governor in Council what should be aimed at by Government themselves is to provide annually a sufficient number of trained teachers for all Government institutions, and for the rest to depend upon aided secondary training institutions, as suggested by the Director."

This resolution was issued on the 9th July 1918. I do not know how far the subject has advanced since then, but apprently until last year Government was not prepared to do what was necessary in this matter and expected private associations and private bodies to do it. I would humbly submit that it would be more difficult for private associations and private bodies to take up this responsible work when it is so difficult even for Government itself to undertake it. However, it entirely depends upon the facilities for the training of secondary teachers whether a substantial advance is to be made in secondary education, and it is very necessary that every attempt should be made to afford the required facilities in that direction. The University has recently instituted a degree for this branch of education——I mean a diploma in teaching. I understand a curriculum for this degree has been drawn up by the University and submitted for the approval of Government. I do not know whether it has yet been approved or not, but I hope it will be sanctioned soon and needful provision made in at least some of the existing Government arts colleges for the training of secondary teachers. I think Government should also help the aided colleges with grants to enable them to open courses for this training in their own institutions. The Fergusson College has its own high school and middle school, which could serve as practising schools. The other arts college at Poona has also its own school. The St. Xavier's College and the Wilson College have also their own secondary schools which might very well serve as practising schools. And if Government were prepared to assist these aided colleges on the lines I have indicated, I am sure what is necessary will be done to meet the needs of the Government as well as of private institutions as regards secondary teachers. Therefore, in the interests of secondary education I beg to commend this resolution to the Council.

TRAINING OF SECONDARY TEACHERS.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta; Mr. J. G. Covernton.]

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye :—Your Excellency,—I do not think that the Council would be well advised in accepting the resolution as it stands. My honourable friend has already mentioned that the University last year passed detailed regulations regarding a degree in teaching. The proposal to institute this degree in teaching has gone up to Government, but Government is taking a long time over it. I do not know the actual reason, but I suppose we must presume that the delay is due to some differences of opinion in the matter. I think the proper remedy is to sanction the regulations for this University degree as soon as possible.

As far as the question of arts colleges making arrangements to open classes for the training of secondary teachers is concerned, it appears to me almost an absurd proposition. Of course, I know that there are some subjects which a professor in a college could teach in this course. A professor of psychology, for instance, might be of some use in teaching parts of the method of education. But to a great extent the work has to be done in connection with secondary schools, and the course proposed by the University has gone, I think, the right way. In the proposed regulations a student has to study in the training college for one complete year and then work for one year in a secondary school. For those students who cannot afford to study for one complete year in a training college, the University has proposed an alternative. It says that some schools might be recognised so that if a student has worked in one of them for three years as a regular teacher, and the school undertakes to give him some practical training and practical help in the science of teaching, he might also be allowed to appear for this degree in the same manner as private students. In many of the provinces there is already a degree in teaching (L.T. or B.T.), and I do not know why our Government should have waited so long in regard to the proposal of the Bombay University. I really do not understand the causes of the delay, but I believe it may be due to some differences of opinion between Government and the University; however, we should like to have this matter disposed of without further delay. The teaching profession has got to be organised. It is not sufficiently organised in this Presidency as, for instance, it is in the presidency of Madras. They have much better teachers there so far as the science of teaching is concerned.

The proper method to adopt is not to ask the arts colleges to make provision for training secondary teachers, because the work of training colleges is of an entirely different character. I therefore think that we should not ask the arts colleges to do this work. I know for instance that the society with which I am connected would be very glad in favourable circumstances, and particularly if Government is prepared to give substantial assistance, to start a training college themselves; but to ask the Fergusson or any other college to provide the necessary arrangements is not, I think, a question of practical politics. Separate institutions are really required and, if they are to be connected with any other institutions, they should be connected with secondary schools rather than with arts colleges. With these remarks I hope that my honourable friend will not insist on this resolution being put to the vote.

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta :—Your Excellency,—I entirely agree with the remarks of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye. The University has made certain proposals which I think cover almost all that the Honourable Mr. Upasani wants and in fact go much further. What the Honourable Mr. Upasani's proposal amounts to is that the arts colleges should do the work which is done by the training colleges at present, but it would be done in a slipshod manner. We require something better. We want a separate college for teaching the course required for the degree of B. T. When the Senate considered this question, they hesitated at first, and said that unless there was a college to teach the course they would not have a degree. At that time my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye and other professors of the Fergusson College gave an assurance that, if a degree in teaching was established, they were prepared to start a college themselves. That assurance the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has given even to-day. He says that his society would be prepared to start a college under favourable circumstances, and if Government gives substantial financial assistance. If Government is not itself prepared to start more training colleges, the best thing would be to give grants to societies like that of my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye to enable them to start colleges. That, I think, is the right course, and I hope my honourable friend Mr. Upasani will see his way to withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton :—Your Excellency,—I have very little to add to what has been said by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta. The resolution as moved by the Honourable Mr. Upasani seems to me extremely vague, and I do not think he has quite realised how it would work in practice. If this resolution is passed, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has indicated the difficulties which would be felt by the various colleges. In the case of Government colleges, it might be possible to provide the necessary staff at considerable expense, but I think that the aided colleges would find it very difficult to do so. It is all very well to say that these aided colleges have high schools connected with them which they could use as practising schools. But it must be remembered that it might be very inconvenient to utilise them in that way. I think that the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta has indicated a preferable way—and it is a method to which the department certainly has no objection—that special colleges or institutions ad hoc should be established. I may be permitted to say that Government has considered this question and that a proposal is now before it for a greatly enlarged secondary training college, which will enable a very much larger number of teachers, possibly 150 or so, to be dealt with at a time. If that is not enough it may be possible later on to supplement it with another college somewhere else. At the same time proposals of that kind would not militate against giving grants to representative societies to enable them to do something in the same direction.

TRAINING OF SECONDARY TEACHERS.

[Mr. J. G. Covernton; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

In the circumstances, it seems to me that the method proposed by the honourable mover of the resolution is unsatisfactory and, if he will pardon me for saying so, really impracticable, and I should much prefer to adopt one of the methods mentioned by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Your Excellency,—I have very little to add to what the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has said. No one disputes the fact that a largely increased supply of trained teachers for secondary schools is necessary. The question is in regard to the best means of securing them. As the Honourable Mr. Covernton has pointed out, Government has practically decided to establish a new secondary training college in Poona instead of the one at Bombay, and that college will train about 150 teachers per annum. That will go a great way towards meeting the demand which doubtless exists for secondary trained teachers. The method of obtaining this supply of trained teachers which the Honourable Mr. Upasani has advocated has, as pointed out by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and others, been clearly shown to be impracticable. If a resolution of this character is to be brought at all, I think that it should be submitted not to the Legislative Council, but to the University, which has already decided to institute a degree in teaching. Let the University decide on the means to be provided for training the teachers whom they wish to examine. After all, the Bombay University is an examining institution, and it is for them to consider the means to be employed for training students who are to appear at their examinations.

There has been considerable difference of opinion among experts with regard to the provision of means and facilities for training secondary teachers, in order to admit them to the examination which the University is instituting, and that is the reason why orders have not yet been passed. However that might be, so far as the resolution before the Council is concerned, I think honourable members will be satisfied that the method which the honourable mover has advocated is not practicable, and that Government is doing everything in its power to increase, in the right manner, the number of trained teachers for secondary schools.

For these reasons, I hope that the Council will reject the resolution, unless the honourable mover wishes to withdraw it.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I had hoped to receive wholehearted support from the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in what I urged in my resolution. I regret to find that he has been able to extend it only half-heartedly. I think that in England and America provision for training teachers is made in all collegiate institutions and even in secondary schools, and I do not know why it should not be possible for higher institutions in our Presidency to make similar provision for it. The existing provision in the secondary teachers' training college maintained by Government in Bombay is admittedly unsatisfactory and inadequate. At present the department entertains graduates as probationers and keeps them for four or five years, until their turn comes to be admitted to the training college, and some are over-age before they can be admitted, until which time they are uncertain as to their future prospects. Then the training given is only for one year, which is neither satisfactory nor sufficient. In these circumstances I expected that those who are connected with education, and particularly the non-official gentlemen like the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, who have been long connected with the advancement of secondary and higher education, would be able to help us in finding a solution for this responsible and important matter. I do not insist that the required provision should be made in a particular manner or in only the arts colleges. If a separate college is more convenient, and deemed to be more efficient for this training, nobody will be more glad than myself to have it. And if Government has now reconsidered its resolutions of last year, and has decided to open an additional training college at Poona to train 150 secondary teachers a year, I think that will go a long way to meet my resolution. This lead by Government will, I

TRAINING OF SECONDARY TEACHERS—CO-OPERATIVE BUILDING SOCIETIES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna.]

I hope, be followed by the Honourable Mr. Paranjype in his own college, and rather than hold back, he will follow the example set by Government and make provision for similar training in the institutions under his charge.

With these few words, I beg, with your Excellency's permission, to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 10. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Government do take active steps to provide facilities in obtaining bricks, chunam and wood scantlings at reasonable rates to co-operative house building societies."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—Government has already shown its sympathy with co-operative housing societies by the financial assistance which it has given, but mere financial assistance is not sufficient. It is, therefore, necessary to afford some practical facilities for the working of these societies. Government can come to their aid by providing them with special facilities to obtain necessary housing materials. Government has control of large amounts of wood and chunam, and can also instruct the Director of Industries to provide facilities for creating machine-made bricks. Government can easily provide all these facilities, and I have accordingly brought forward this resolution to request Government to provide them, in order to aid municipalities also. If Government maintains, for instance, on the main lines at convenient spots depots for scantlings of wood, and provides some machinery and expert advice for making bricks, it will help the housing societies immensely. Unless these facilities are provided, I do not think the housing societies will be able to get any real benefit from the assistance rendered by Government. I have, therefore, moved this resolution in the hope that Government will see its way to afford these facilities to housing societies, and thus indirectly help the municipalities also.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Is it municipalities as well as housing societies? I did not quite catch what the honourable member said.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—The municipalities do not want help, but it would assist them to have good housing in their areas.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Your Excellency,—The resolution that has been placed before the Council by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud seems to me to militate against private enterprise. The only assistance that can be given by Government to co-operative building societies is the capital required for the construction of their buildings, out of the public revenues, on the same terms as those on which Government are able to borrow in the open market. The other facilities which the honourable member wishes to secure for these societies at the hands of Government are matters of private enterprise which should not be interfered with. The preparation of chunam, the manufacture of bricks, and the conversion of log wood into scantlings, are trades which are in the hands of private tradesmen, and I think Government will not be justified in interfering with these private trades. As I said, the only help that co-operative housing societies should get from Government should be financial help, which is being given already. Beyond this, Government should do nothing for these housing societies. If assistance on the lines asked for is given, it will also discourage large building contractors all over the Presidency who are employing machinery and improved methods in manufacturing building materials on economic lines, wherever practicable. I therefore oppose the resolution that has been placed before the Council.

The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna:—Your Excellency,—I entirely agree with what has fallen from the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole. What the honourable mover wants Government to do, would amount, as the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole has pointed out, to competition with traders and contractors. This surely Government does not desire. What is more, the logical sequence of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud's proposal would be that once Government begins to supply chunam and other materials it would next be asked to supply labour at a rate which would be cheaper than that at which it was ordinarily obtainable. The honourable mover wants to give relief to co-operative housing societies. But, as their very name indicates, because they are co-operative bodies, they will be dealing with a larger number of houses than an individual owner will do, and that being so, they will be able to buy chunam, bricks, and other materials, cheaper than others buying smaller quantities. Consequently, a member of a co-operative housing society would be much better off than if he were building on his own without the help of a co-operative society. Government is doing enough in extending monetary help, and cannot be expected to go any further.

CO-OPERATIVE BUILDING SOCIETIES—VISUAL INSTRUCTION.

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the President; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Your Excellecny,—I have very little to add to what has fallen from the Honourable Mr. Sethna and the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole. Government is anxious to give assistance to co-operative housing societies, and for that reason has made an offer of financial assistance on very good terms, but it cannot undertake to supply materials of this nature. As at present drafted, the resolution cannot be accepted by Government.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—With your Excellency's permission, I beg to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 15. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends that steps be taken to get photographic and stereographic plates to be prepared to illustrate the history and geography of each district and that needful provision be made for proper inspection of visual instruction in the districts."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—May it please your Excellency,—I had drawn attention to this subject by a resolution which I moved in March last year, and I was then assured that necessary action would be taken after Government had catalogued all the slides, on which a good deal of money had already been spent by the department. That work, I believe, has been completed and I recommend that this work may now well be undertaken. Even at the time that I moved my last resolution, the desirability for action in the direction indicated in my resolution was, I think, recognised by Government. The slides prepared for my district had met with the approval of the late the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction (Mr. Sharp), and I believe they have also met with the approval of the Honourable Mr. Covernton. These were prepared by an officer of the department at his private expense, but I do not think it will be possible for him to prepare them for the other districts unless needful pecuniary help is extended to him by Government. It is very necessary for the pupils of primary schools that action should be taken regarding visual instruction, so far as the illustration of local history and geography is concerned. These slides appeal to their eyes and ears, and I think leave a vivid and enduring impression of all that they are taught by means of this visual instruction. Therefore, I hope that Government will be pleased to accept the resolution which I have moved.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Your Excellency,—The honourable mover will be pleased to hear that Government is in full sympathy with the object with which this resolution has been brought forward. As the honourable member is aware, this subject was taken up as an experimental measure, and a non-recurring grant was provided in the budget to gain experience as to whether this method would be really beneficial. Government believes that sufficient time has already elapsed in carrying out the experiment, and is satisfied that it is to the advantage of the students. Government has therefore decided to provide a recurring grant in the next year's budget with a greatly reduced non-recurring provision so that the object which the honourable mover has in view will be met, if these items are allowed to stand. The honourable mover's further object will also be attained by a provision which it is proposed to make in the next year's budget of Rs. 3,000 for the entertainment of a special officer in connection with the organisation of visual instruction. The honourable mover will therefore see that all he desires is being done, subject of course to the condition that the provisions made in the budget are accepted by the Legislative Council.

A catalogue of all the slides is ready and covers a large number of pages in small type. Further work in the same direction is contemplated. With this assurance, I hope that the honourable mover will be satisfied and will withdraw the resolution. Further action depends upon the passing by the Legislative Council of the proposals which Government has embodied in the next year's budget. I am quite ready to assure him that as soon as the budget is passed, and if these provisions are allowed to stand, his wishes will be carried out in the direction indicated.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I am thankful to the Honourable Member in Charge for the assurance that he has given, and I have no objection to the withdrawal of the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

CO-OPERATIVE SCHOLARSHIPS.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [The President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 11. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that at least two scholarships be granted to selected persons every year for the study of co-operation in foreign countries.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—Your Excellency's Government has shown a good deal of interest in this subject, and considerable interest in co-operative matters has also been aroused among the general public. It is, therefore, necessary that co-operation should be studied in foreign countries and that we should have the assistance of experts in developing this movement. A similar resolution has been accepted by another provincial Government, and I hope your Excellency's Government will accept this resolution and afford practical help for the study of co-operation.

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta:—Your Excellency,—A similar suggestion was made at the first meeting of the Co-operative Institute, presided over by your Excellency, when you showed your sympathy for this proposal. If however I remember rightly, you said that the initiative should come from the Institute or the public, and that later the question might be discussed by Government. Your Excellency further said that we should not count upon Government for any financial assistance at present, but that subsequently, if there was a definite proposal and some funds had been collected, we might approach Government for a grant-in-aid.

Personally I do not think that the stage has been reached when we should ask Government to accept this resolution. Later it may be necessary to send out co-operators to study the various systems of co-operation in other countries, but the time is not yet ripe for this action and I hope my honourable friend will withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Your Excellency,—I may say on behalf of Government that this suggestion has received consideration, and the conclusion arrived at is that it cannot be accepted in its present form. Co-operation has not yet reached the stage when it may be described as an exact science, and the theory that a university graduate might, after taking his degree, receive in Europe or elsewhere a further course in co-operation is perhaps rather premature. Further, it is extremely doubtful whether a young graduate would benefit by his experiences in foreign countries. Co-operation, as it stands at present, is very largely a matter of practical experience, and before any one can travel to Denmark, Ireland, or elsewhere, to study the co-operative movement there, it is necessary for him to have a groundwork of practical experience here. Only after practical experience has been gained would the expenditure of funds on a journey to foreign countries be justified. For these reasons, I think the line Government is prepared to take is that indicated by the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta in his speech. There are directions in which benefit can be gained by foreign experience, and for that reason the incoming registrar, Mr. Rothfeld, is at present on tour to certain countries to study co-operation in some of its aspects. I believe that at least one of the assistant registrars has also been given the chance of studying co-operative arrangements abroad.

Government thinks that there are cases in which experienced co-operative workers—for instance, Mr. Devdhar—who have actually done work here might be assisted to some extent when they do visit Europe, in order to enable them to make trips to Denmark, Ireland, or elsewhere. But that a system of scholarships should be founded does not at present seem to Government a practical proposition. I suggest that the honourable member may accept the assurance of Government that a reasonable amount of interest is being taken in the matter, and that Government is prepared to afford financial assistance to gentlemen who have demonstrated their practical interest in co-operative work and obtained some experience of the various problems to be solved in this country. Should the honourable mover accept this assurance, I think he will be wise to withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—I accept the assurance of Government and beg leave to withdraw the resolution.

His Excellency the President:—In view of the reference to my remarks at the Poona Co-operative Conference, I should like to echo what my honourable colleague has said. The stage which co-operation has reached in this country, especially in the wider development now contemplated, will render some foreign experience increasingly necessary for those at the head of the movement, but I and my honourable colleagues do not think that scholarships are at all suitable for the purpose. We are, however, anxious, that all the benefit possible should be obtained from foreign experience, and in the cases of people who, by their energy, enterprise and keenness in co-operation show themselves to be suitable, Government will sympathetically consider any form of financial assistance that will enable them to extend their knowledge on the subject.

CO-OPERATIVE SCHOLARSHIPS—LAW COLLEGES.

[The President; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 17. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I beg to move that:

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that law classes be opened at Poona, Ahmedabad and Karachi, to remove the inconvenience which the law students suffer in Bombay.

This resolution is intended to remove the very great inconvenience and hardship suffered by students who have to stay in Bombay for two years to study for their LL.B. examination. In April 1909 the number of such students stood at 342. In March last the number had reached 714, and I believe that, with the fresh admissions made in June, the total has gone up to over 800 or probably to 1,000. Your Excellency's Government has not found it possible to provide any hostel accommodation for these students. The instruction given in the law class is, moreover, only for an hour in the forenoon or an hour in the evening. There is no whole-time school. The cost of living in Bombay, as your Excellency is aware, has increased enormously; but apart from the cost of living there is the more serious difficulty of finding accommodation at all. Of these students about 135 only are from Bombay city itself. The remainder come from the mofussil. I think it undesirable that students who have finished a four years' college course should be detained in Bombay for a further period of two years under these circumstances. What do they do here? Most of those who come from the mofussil cannot afford to pay their own expenses in Bombay and have to take up posts as teachers in schools, clerks, etc. They work all day and then put in a formal attendance at a lecture for a bare hour in the evening. The right sort of training cannot be given at that late hour by the professors after their day's work. The matter has engaged the anxious attention of Government. A committee was appointed to consider what action should be taken. It was decided that a full-time school was not feasible, and the old arrangement continued except for some slight improvement. While the existing arrangement is an improvement so far as training is concerned, the economic situation is far more acute for the students than formerly. If we open classes for the purpose of study at important centres like Poona, Ahmedabad and Karachi, I think that students will not have the same difficulty in regard to house accommodation and the cost of living. They will be able to devote more time to study, and it might be possible to arrange a longer course than is feasible in Bombay under the existing arrangements. As I have already stated, most of these students are from the mofussil, and they are expected to practice in the mofussil courts. If they are trained there they will be better able to keep in close touch with the work and practice of those courts. It might be possible to give them actual training in the drafting of plaints, written statements and other legal documents, and also in the discussion of law matters, for which there is no time or convenience in Bombay.

Therefore, in the interests of efficient training, I desire that some provision should be made to remedy the inconvenience, and I think there will be no difficulty in finding efficient law teachers in places like Ahmedabad, Karachi and Poona, where so many barristers and senior pleaders are in practice.

In addition it has been noted that for many years Government has been making a profit of about Rs. 30,000 a year from the fees realised from the school, but even that amount has not been found sufficient to provide any hostel accommodation. Of course that would be a serious matter at present in Bombay. Therefore, for the convenience of students and Government alike I hope that Government will be pleased to do something in the direction referred to in my resolution.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Your Excellency,—I have very great pleasure in supporting the resolution that has been brought forward by my honourable friend Mr. Upasani. The condition of law students in Bombay is very difficult indeed, and there is a large number of students of which details were given in answer to some questions here. The students come here simply for the purpose of attending one hour a day in the Law School.

Honourable members of this Council have always been told that for various kinds of education Government has to put down a large amount of money, but the Law School is the single educational institution which does not cost Government any money at all. Government on the other hand makes a profit from the Law School of something like Rs. 25,000 a year. This is a peculiar characteristic of this institution, and what we ask is that Government might be content not to make this large profit out of an educational institution, but to spend it elsewhere.

LAW COLLEGES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Further, there is this peculiarity about the Law School and its students. While in other professional colleges you find students taking a keen interest in their education, it is only in the Law School that they feel they are there simply for the purpose of technically keeping a term, and do not attend a single day more than the minimum number of days required by the University regulations. They calculate the minimum days they are required to keep, and after they have attended for that period they arrange to go to their homes long before the term is over. I know there have been in recent times some improvements in the Law School. In bygone days of course the attendance at the Law School was a scandal. In those days after the roll call was over some students used to get out of the windows without caring to attend the whole lecture. I suppose the matter is not quite as scandalous as it was then, but I know from information received from a large number of law students that they do not pay very much attention to their lectures, which are not of much use to them. To a certain extent I think that they are justified in thinking that way. I do not wish to speak with disrespect of the staff of the Law School, but one can say that it does not consist at any rate of leaders of the Bar and of the legal profession. I stop at that although in many cases one could make rather stronger remarks about the staff, or at least about some members of the staff, but I do not want to be personal. The Council will understand that, for the remuneration given by Government (about Rs. 350 for a professor), it is not possible for a lawyer with a very good business to undertake this work. Government has therefore to take junior barristers or pleaders for the staff of the school. If of course there were on the staff of that school people at the very top of the profession—for instance like my friend the Honourable the Advocate General—who at least lectured occasionally, the case would have been different. But people of the calibre of the present professors of the Law School can be obtained very easily in Poona, Ahmedabad, or Karachi. I think, therefore, that no great harm will be done, and a great deal of convenience secured to law students, if facilities for legal training are afforded in those cities.

Of course we may consider further the question whether the keeping of a term for the law examination should be at all necessary, but I do not want to enter into that matter. We know that many years ago the legal training that barristers got at Inns of Court in England was merely attendance at a specified number of dinners per term. In recent years examinations have been made more stringent, but 30 or 40 years ago legal education in Inns of Court consisted of a specified number of dinners and taking lessons with famous coaches in law in England. This state of things has altered now, I admit. It may therefore be a question whether the keeping of a term at the Law School is necessary. If the legal training is efficient, then certainly it is desirable to retain it.

It must be understood that we have 700 students attending the Bombay Law School, and lately, I understand, it has been found very difficult to make arrangements for all the students who are coming in. Each year students of each class have got to be divided into three or four batches, and, there not being sufficient room available in the Elphisntone College where the classes of the Law School meet, this (the Sir Cowasji Jehangir) Hall has sometimes to be made use of for the purpose of holding the classes. Moreover, these students have to reside in Bombay without any hostel accommodation, and consequently have to make their own arrangements. House accommodation in Bombay being scanty, it is difficult for them to secure rooms in the city. The Bombay climate, too, is different from that of the mofussil. At times the health of students deteriorates through this complusory residence in Bombay. We have been told that Bombay is the metropolis where the High Court of Bombay is located and that this is helpful for the study of law. But as far as I can find out the students of the Government Law School have absolutely nothing to do with the High Court. The only connection they have with the High Court is that, while going to attend the law classes for keeping their terms, they have to pass the High Court. But I have not heard of a single student going to the High Court and listening to the learned judges trying and deciding cases. Therefore the excuse occasionally made for confining legal education solely to Bombay of the presence of the High Court appears to be quite lame. There is no real connection between the two things. The best men of the legal profession are in Bombay, and that also is given as a reason why this school is confined to Bombay, but the best men of the profession are not available for the staff of the school.

The student who passes the LL.B. examination is only a pleader and as such is not allowed to practice on the Original Side of the High Court. A great number after passing the LL.B. examination practice in the mofussil courts, and a few on the Appellate Side of the High Court in Bombay, in the Court of Small Causes, and in the police courts. Therefore there is no special merit in confining legal education to Bombay only.

LAW COLLEGES.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna; the President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. P. A. Desai; Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

I think it would be very desirable for the students to be kept in places where it is convenient to house them and better for their health. As is well known, most of these students work practically the whole day in some school or office, and only attend the Law School for the purpose of keeping their terms. If they are doing other work, it may be safe for the students to do it in centres like Ahmedabad, Karachi and Poona.

For these reasons I think that the resolution should be accepted. It will relieve congestion. We have also been told that by multiplying schools of law we might multiply lawyers. I have often said that I do not particularly wish that the lawyers' profession should be overcrowded. But the effect of this resolution will not be to overcrowd the profession, but to save the students who do wish to enter it the expense of living in Bombay.

As I have said, the Law School is a very paying institution, and almost the only educational institution in the Presidency which is bringing in a large profit to Government. I do not think that Government ought to make any profit out of this institution, but should attend to the convenience of the students. I therefore hope that the Council will accept this resolution.

The Honurable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna:—Your Excellency,—I am speaking neither in favour of nor against the resolution, and propose to strike a new note altogether. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has told us that students attending the law class go there for an hour in the evening. I did not know that the attendance required is at present for one hour a day. Some years ago it was only two or three hours in a week. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has told us how indifferently these law classes are worked. I remember an instance years ago of a certain law professor who used to have his roll call, and, although only about 30 would be actually present, when he called out the names about 60 answers would be in the affirmative, and they would all be marked as present.

The point I want to make is that it is high time for Government to consider, particularly in view of the fact brought out by the honourable mover that Government makes about Rs. 25,000 to Rs. 30,000 from the law classes, the advisability of establishing a full-time law college with full-time law professors. That would be a step in the right direction. The speakers who preceded me told the Council that students attend the law classes only for the sake of filling terms and not for real instruction, such as one might expect in an arts or science college. If we had a full-time college with full-time professors .....

His Excellency the President:—Order, Order. My impression was that the honourable member was not confining his remarks to the resolution, and now I find that that is so. The honourable member is entitled to speak with regard to the Law School, but he must not quote any alternative suggestion.

The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna:—I bow to your Excellency's ruling. I only wanted to suggest a remedy for the present state of affairs, which I think would have been a better course for the honourable mover to follow than to have brought forward his present resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I rise heartily to support the resolution that has been moved by the Honourable Mr. Upasani. The inconvenience to the law students at present is very serious. To have to live in Bombay is very expensive, and the lack of proper accommodation causes great inconvenience. Students have to live in Bombay for keeping up the terms and some have to accept employment in one form or another to maintain themselves during the period of their stay in Bombay. The inconvenience to the students, as I have stated, is very great and the congestion at the school is also very great. If the resolution is passed by the Council, the facilities afforded to the students will be considerable, and, instead of one centre, there will be three centres where they can at least keep their terms for the law course. I therefore support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I should like to give my hearty support to the resolution. I need not reiterate the arguments as to why it is necessary to have more law schools in the Presidency, but I should like to say one thing. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye stated that, if these law classes are taken to the various places suggested, the number of pleaders might be increased. I say the number of pleaders might be increased, but it will have a wholesome effect upon the economic conditions of the people. On the principle of supply and demand, if there are more pleaders, they will charge smaller fees, and in that way the general public will benefit. With these remarks I heartily support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta:—Your Excellency,—I am sorry I have to oppose this resolution. My honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye said that he had had his fling at the lawyers in this Hall and outside. I have not done so, and my opposition is based on educational grounds only and not because I have not sufficient regard for lawyers. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye says that the class of instruction given in the present Law School is not of a very superior character. But what is the logical conclusion at which he should have arrived? Not to increase the number of inferior types of law schools in the mofussil, where the professors will probably be of an intellectually poorer calibre than the professors who are giving education here, but to have a better class of professors in the Law School here. If necessary we may ask for a full-time college.

LAW COLLEGES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

I quite realise that many of the students here do not pay sufficient attention to the teaching given in the class. It may be due partly to the fact that the teaching is not what it ought to be. It may be due partly to other causes. If, however, the right type of professor was selected and the college made a full-time one, or more time was devoted to teaching in the class than is done at present, I believe students would pay more attention to the teaching in the class instead of merely studying their books at home, as they have to do at present, without any assistance. I do not want to minimise the hardships of the students referred to by almost all the speakers. The figures show that many students had to return for want of hostel accommodation. What is the logical conclusion of that condition? It is that you ought to have more hostels. The right solution is not to have second class or inferior classes of law colleges but . . .

The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye :—They will not be inferior classes, if proper men are selected.

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta :—Very well. My honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye says they will not be inferior classes. He says that for our college here we do not get the best men from the legal profession to act as professors because they do find that it does not pay them. But does he really mean that the best men in the mofussil would be available there? I think the result would be that, instead of getting second rate men in Bombay, you would get second rate men in the mofussil. It is much better to have one college with the best professors that you can secure and with proper hostel accommodation. That would be the correct solution, and not the one suggested by my honourable friends Mr. Upasani and Mr. Paranjpye.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola :—Your Excellency,—I have carefully followed the discussion which has taken place, and it appears to me that a great deal of matter has been introduced into the debate which is not relevant to the wording of the resolution under discussion. It is all very well for us—I am speaking of myself as a layman—to discuss a subject of this technical character. Government has the assistance of qualified lawyers whom it consults in all these matters and whose recommendations are generally accepted. A committee of leading lawyers was appointed as recently as 1915, and one of the subjects referred to that committee for consideration was the question which the honourable mover has raised by his resolution. I will read out to honourable members that portion of the committee's report which deals with this subject. The committee states:

"The time is not yet when schools or colleges for the study of law can be allowed to be started in any place in the Presidency outside Bombay, with due regard to the sound requirements and efficiency of legal education in this Presidency."

I hope honourable members will bear in mind the words that are used by the committee, namely, 'with due regard to the sound requirements and efficiency of legal education in this Presidency.' The committee goes on to say:

"As observed by Mr. Donald, lately a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, for some years to come the teaching of law can best be done only in Bombay where all the best facilities for that teaching exist, such as the highest courts, and a more healthy atmosphere of law and public opinion than is found in other towns in the Presidency. Bombay alone affords opportunity for studying the law in its mercantile aspects; besides that it introduces the student into an atmosphere of general culture and enlightened public opinion which are necessary and important in the development of a high standard of professional honour and etiquette. The aim of the Government and the University should be to develop and strengthen the Government Law School."

Then there was a complaint that the Law School was overcrowded and that all the applicants for admission did not find accommodation. On a reference being made to this committee, it recommended that it is not desirable to fix a limit to the maximum number of students for admission to the Law School, and that, if the classes become unwieldy, they should be subdivided on the principal's recommendation. Government has recently sanctioned the formation of an additional First LL.B. class at a cost of Rs. 8,616 per annum, and there are now six classes, two for the Second LL.B. and four for the First LL.B.

LAW COLLEGES.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola ; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

As regards the stu dents at present attending the Law School, the following statement will be of considerable interest to honourable members. The total number of students attending from the Northern Division is 230 ; from the Central Division 108 ; from the Southern Division 142 ; from Sind 27 ; from Bombay City 135 ; and from outside Bombay Presidency 66.

It has to be borne in mind in this connection that all the expert opinion which is available to Government is in favour of the retention of the Law School in the city of Bombay. It has been said that the professors are not drawn from the leaders of the bar. I admit it, but the professors are appointed not directly by Government, but on the recommendation of an expert board, of which the Honourable the Chief Justice is the chairman. It is a representative board of which the Honourable Mr. Parekh is, I believe, one of the members. Members of this board are conversant with all the practitioners in the local courts, and make their recommendations with a full sense of responsibility. Their recommendations are generally accepted.

Now I cannot understand how honourable members who have spoken on the subject reconcile the two statements which they have made. Firstly, they said that the class of professors appointed is inferior, and secondly that the students do not as a rule care for the lectures delivered to them. They simply put in their appearance to fill the term and then go away. Notwithstanding this, it must be regarded as curious that the results of the examination for the degree of LL.B. should show that about two-thirds of the candidates who appear get through. How do you account for that fact ? It can only be accounted for by admitting that the students possess extraordinary capacity. It is stated by some that they study by themselves, while others maintain that they have no time to do so, because they are obliged to take employment in Bombay to earn a living. If most of them do so, they must, I believe, be working in their offices from at least 11 to 5. It is alleged that they do not take any advantage of the lectures in the Law School and still the percentage of passes is something like two-thirds of the number of students who appear for the examination. Now, sir, if all these things are to be reconciled, thay can be reconciled only on the ground that the students who appear at the examination are all intellectual prodigies. Bad teachers, bad attendance, and no study ; still this result in examinations. If the explanation which I have given of the students being intellectual prodigies is not accepted, then the only conclusion can be either that the examinations are too simple or the examiners do not know their business ; and the examiners are appointed by the University of Bombay.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—May I point out that the students who pass take more than the normal number of years to pass ?

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Well, that is a statement which will require to be substantiated. But even assuming that to be so, it does not answer the point. If they take more than the normal number of years, they have at some period to pay proper attention to the studies which are prescribed before they can hope to get through their examination. It is all very well to criticise the existing order of things, but we have to consider all the aspects of the question. As the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta has said, if your grievance is that you have not got good teachers, ask for better teachers. If it is that hostel accommodation is not adequate, ask for the additional provision of hostels. The real difficulty appears to me to be the want of hostel accommodation. There may be also a difficulty as to those students who are in private service. I should like, in the first instance, to know the definite views of a large body of the students themselves as to what is suitable for them in this connection. I should like to know whether the facility which Bombay provides for employment is not an advantage for them in prosecuting their studies. Does not this help in two directions ? The first advantage is that during their service they are able to pick up a considerable amount of knowledge of the internal commercial administration, which must prove of great help to them for the purposes of practice. The second advantage is that this provides an income which helps them to prosecute their studies. Before asking this Council to accept any resolution of this character, is it not necessary to ascertain what the views of the bulk of the students themselves are on the subject ? It is perfectly open to these students to bring to the notice of their principal, or to the notice of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction, the grievances which they may have and to see whether they can be remedied or not. They may, if they so desire, ask whether it would not be possible to provide the teaching of law in other centres.

LAW COLLEGES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola ; Mr. S. B. Upasani.]

In this connection, it is necessary to point out what the practice is in all the other parts of India and in Great Britain. As far as my information goes, all the students wishing to qualify for the Bar in England have to go to London to do so ; all those who want to study in Scotland and Ireland have to go to Edinburgh and Dublin. Let us now examine what is the case in the other provinces of India. Law classes are established in places where the highest courts of each province are situated. In view of these facts, has a case been made out for making a departure in this Presidency? Can it be said that the present arrangement is not in the best interests of the students, who get support by service, and an insight into the internal administration of mercantile houses, thus receiving a training which it would not be possible for them to obtain in other parts of the Presidency ? Then again, is there a demand for a change ? At present the total number of students from the Central Division is 108 only. Is a school to be established there for such a small number ?

A great deal was made of the profit that Government is making. I have not looked into the figures, and I do not know whether they are correct. But I can tell you that, if all the items legitimately debitable to the Law School are taken into account, the so-called profit will have to be largely discounted. There are various other charges which have to be debited, for supervision and other matters. However, that is beside the question. Government does not wish to make a profit on this or on any other educational institution, and it is quite prepared to consider any measures which may be suggested for the improvement of instruction and for the greater comfort and convenience of the students. Government is quite prepared to incur further expenditure, if a case is made out for it. These are questions which are hardly relevant to the present discussion.

I will now invite the attention of the honourable members to the wording of the resolution, which reads as follows :

" This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that law classes be opened at Poona, Ahmedabad, and Karachi, to remove the inconvenience which the law students suffer in Bombay."

May I enquire whether honourable members are satisfied that a sufficient case has been made out for them to pass this mandate on to Government ? The resolution recommends that three additional law classes be opened at Poona, Ahmedabad and Karachi. Apart from the merits of the case, and apart from the reasons which have been advanced both for and against the resolution, I raise the simple issue for the consideration of honourable members whether they would be justified, from the facts and arguments which have been placed before them, in passing an open mandate on to Government, asking it to open law schools at these places, without going further into the merits of the case. I am quite confident that the good sense of the honourable members will prevail, and that they will refuse to pass the resolution proposed by the Honourable Mr. Upasani.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—May it please your Excellency,—I am very thankful to those of my honourable friends who have been so kind as to support me. I am at the same time very sorry that the spirit of my resolution should have been construed in the manner in which the Honourable Member in Charge has been pleased to construe it. Nothing could have been further from my mind than to issue a mandate to this Council ; much less to Government. I have not the least objection to putting my resolution in as humble a way as the Honourable Member in Charge may desire. I could have it amended to some such form as follows :

" This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to consider the desirability of opening law classes at Poona, Ahmedabad, and Karachi, to remove the inconvenience which the law students suffer in Bombay."

If the Honourable Member in Charge had suggested it, I would have agreed to do it. The resolution is not a mandate, but is in the usual form in which resolutions are placed before the Council, and I pray that it be not understood otherwise than in the spirit in which it is really meant to be placed before the Council.

Now, as regards the merits of the case, I may inform your Excellency that we speak from a personal experience of the actual state of things in the college. We have passed through it ; at least those of us who supported the resolution have done so. We are also in close touch not only with the students but with their parents also, and if the Honourable Member in Charge was in the same position, I am quite sure that he would have supported my resolution more strongly than our friends have done. The very figures which he has quoted to the Council were given by Government in reply to a question which was asked by myself in November last year, and those figures will speak more eloquently in support of my resolution than in support of the view which the Honourable Member in Charge is pleased to take. Your Excellency will note that the figures show that the number of students from Bombay city is 135 only, from the

LAW COLLEGES.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani; the President.] [12TH DECEMBER 1919.]

Northern Division 230, from the Central Division 108, and from the Southern Division 142. There are only 27 students from Sind. I need hardly tell this Council that the Central Division is the largest division in the Presidency. It has nearly three times the area and about double the population of the Northern Division. Yet the former division sends less than half the number sent up by the latter division. What is it due to? Students in the Northern Division can better afford a residence in Bombay and have better connections and facilities for employment in Bombay. It is, therefore, a denial of the facilities necessary to the students in the Central Division if you locate your college in Bombay city alone; and, if you make it a whole-time college, I assure your Excellency that it will be practically excluding the poor students from the Central Division effectively from the law course. Then the fact that the number of law students from the Southern Division, which has also a smaller area and less population than the Central Division should exceed that from the latter division likewise supports my view. Sind being too far away also cannot send its proper quota. When these two major divisions, the Central Division and Sind, are both thus handicapped, do you want to continue permanently the handicap on the students from both these major Provinces in the Presidency? Should they be placed in these circumstances? Is it necessary and would it be fair? Now as to the better efficiency that would be obtained by having a college in only one place, the arguments against it are so patent, and they have been so clearly and forcibly stated by the honourable member who supported me, that they should have appealed to any one who could take a reasonable view of them. 860 students are stranded here without provision for accommodation. Though the Law College has been in existence for over 50 years, it has not been found possible yet to provide even a building for it. It is still located in the Elphinstone College and has to be held at an inconvenient hour to suit the convenience of that college. The law lecturers have to lecture at an inconvenient hour. After a day's labour, it puts a double strain on the lecturers as well as upon the young students. Is it necessary that young men at the best time of their lives should be thus overstrained, and for what? For instruction which the professors may be anxious to give, but which probably the students themselves are not in a mood to receive? The students who join the law course do it after they are graduates and they are at that stage well able to study for themselves and are anxious to make the best of their opportunities. Even in these circumstances they do manage to live under uncongenial hard conditions and prosecute their law studies, but at what cost do they do it? We have lived among the students. Nobody can desire for greater efficiency for them than ourselves who know the value of teaching in law. We have ourselves been judges and been concerned with law. We know the hardships. We have come into close touch with the gentlemen who have come from this institution, and I can assure the Council that it will be in the best interests of the efficiency of the teaching and in the interest of the students and the public generally if law classes are opened in the other centres I have suggested. I do not propose that the law class in Bombay should be closed. If it be found to be more efficient, more boys will come to it than to the other centres, but why compel everybody to come here? I most humbly appeal to your Excellency that it is beyond the means of the Central Division students to remain here under present conditions. Nothing can be further from the intention of Government than to put any particular handicap upon any particular division. The Central Division is the nearest to Bombay, and yet it sends the least number of students. Why? Because the parents cannot afford to pay the heavy cost of living here. If the parents cannot afford it, should this state of things be allowed to continue when other arrangements can be made? Poona is not far from Bombay. Professors like those who are engaged here will certainly be available even at Poona, Ahmedabad, and Karachi. We get professors even from England and other remote places. We can get them from Bombay city itself and from other provinces in India also. I am sure there will be no difficulty on that score. There are distingished lawyers in Ahmedabad and Karachi who will be only too glad to take up these law lectureships if they are assured of Rs. 300 to Rs. 500 a month in addition to the income they derive from the practice they may get. Considering all these circumstances, it will be in the best interests of the students and the efficiency of the law study if Government is pleased to accept my resolution. If the Honourable Member in Charge so desires it, I shall be prepared to put my resolution in as humble a form as may be necessary. I only repeat that nothing is further from my mind than to issue a mandate in the form of a resolution.

His Excellency the President :—I am afraid that, despite the several speeches which have been made on the subject, no great case has been made out for the resolution. The question of overcrowding is the only really strong argument in its favour, and I think that that might be adduced with almost exactly similar force in Edinburgh or London to-day; but I have not yet seen any proposals that law classes should be opened in Manchester, Birmingham, and other such cities.

LAW COLLEGES.

[12TH DECEMBER 1919.] [The President.]

Overcrowding is an unfortunate occurrence which is at present rife all over the world. Against this, there are solid advantages in the establishment in Bombay of a school for law students. There is the High Court with its tradition, which one honourable member made very light of, although no one else has seen fit to do so. He knows very well that there is a great deal which is valuable in the tradition of the High Court, whether these law students do or do not go there every day to listen to the learned judges.

There is also that to which I should have thought honourable members would have paid more attention—the very great assistance in obtaining employment which the facilities of a great city afford to many a struggling student. All these, as well as the wider atmosphere and knowledge of commercial life (as my honourable colleague has pointed out), offset very largely the one great handicap of lack of housing accommodation.

I really do not think that honourable members would be wise in recommending this change to Government, and in any case I am afraid that my Government could not possibly accept the resolution as it stands.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost, seven members voting for and 21 against it. The Council divided as follows :

AYES.

The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Sriniwas Naik.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.

NOES.

His Excellency Sir George Ambrose Lloyd, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., Governor of Bombay, President.
The Honourable Sir George Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable the Advocate General (Mr. D. N. Bahadurji).
The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Major C. Fernandes, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. F. St. J. Gebbie.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Kashinath Ramchandra Godbole.
The Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Gokuldas Kahandas Parekh, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. E. L. Sale, I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Phiroze, C. Sethna, O.B.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.

His Excellency the President :—The Council will now adjourn.

The Council then adjourned sine die.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

R. B. MILNE,
Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY : PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FRIDAY, 30TH JANUARY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi, Gujarati and Kanarese, and the translations to be published in the "Bombay Government Gazette". To be translated also into Sindhi and the translation to be published in the "Sind Official Gazette". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bill No. II of 1920.

A Bill further to amend the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879, in manner hereinafter appearing and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor-General required by sub-section (2) of section 79 of the Government of India Act, 1915, has been obtained for the passing of this act; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

Bom. V of 1879.

5 & 6. Geo. V., c. 61.

1. This act may be called the Bombay Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Act, 19 .

Short title.

2. In section 187 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879, before the portion commencing with the words "And all persons who may have become sureties", the following provisions shall be inserted:

Bom. V of 1879.

Amendment of section 187 of Bom. V of 1879.

"And any money ordered by a liquidator appointed under section 42 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, to be recovered as a contribution to the assets of a society or as the costs of liquidation may, notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (5) of section 42 of the said Act, be levied under the foregoing provisions of this chapter and all the foregoing provisions of this chapter shall, so far as may be, be applicable thereto:

II of 1912.

"Provided that every application for recovery in such manner of any such sum shall be accompanied by a certificate signed by the Registrar appointed under section 3 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, that the amount may be recovered as an arrear of land revenue."

II of 1912.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this amendment is to provide for the recovery under the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879, of sums the recovery of which is necessary for the purpose of liquidating co-operative societies under section 42 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912. At present recovery is possible only through the agency of the civil courts and this method has been proved to be so dilatory that the need for an amendment of the law is recognised. The present amendment is proposed as a temporary measure which will have effect until an amendment of section 42 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, can be effected. A similar measure has, for similar reasons, been enacted in Bihar and Orissa [see schedule I, clause 14, and section 5 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act, 1914 (B. & O. IV of 1914)].

2. The Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, is an Act of the Governor-General in Council but may be amended locally with the previous sanction of the Governor-General under section 79 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1915.

29th August 1919. (Signed) G. S. CURTIS.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 29th January 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FRIDAY, 13TH FEBRUARY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following report of the Select Committee of the Council of his Excellency the Governor of Bombay on the Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, and the Bill as amended by the Select Committee, are, in accordance with rule 25 of the Rules for the conduct of business at meetings of the Legislative Council, published for general information:—

BILL No. VI of 1919.

(A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

We, the undersigned members* of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VI of 1919 (a Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901), have the honour to report as follows:—

We are, by a majority, of the opinion that an agency other than that of the Presidency Magistrate, which entails the use of the Police, should be employed for the purpose of collecting the arrears of mofussil municipalities. We have substituted for the Presidency Magistrate the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, and have given him the power of delegation to a subordinate officer. Clauses 3 and 4 of the Bill have been amended accordingly.

(Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA.
(,,) R. P. PARANJPYE.
(,,) G. K. SATHE.
(,,) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI (subject to minute of dissent).
(,,) A. F. I. PATHAN.
(,,) C. V. MEHTA.

Bombay, 12th February 1920.

* The signature of the Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S., will be published when received.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.)

I am not satisfied that the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay would not be able to perform the duty now laid on him by law if provision were made for his being able to endorse the warrants to his subordinates. If necessary the Bombay Municipality may be indemnified against risk; and the expenses could be reimbursed by authorizing the levy of a fee.

2. It seems to me that the work is peculiarly suited to a Municipal Establishment and ought to be performed by the Bombay Municipality as a return for the amenities provided to the residents of Bombay by the District Municipalities. The Ward establishment is intimately acquainted with the localities where the defaulters reside and could without extra trouble perform this duty during their usual rounds.

3. If, however, the Municipal Commissioner is to be relieved at any cost, the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, is the next best authority to execute the warrants of mofussil municipalities, where the property of the defaulter is in the City of Bombay. He should be authorized to delegate his powers to any subordinate officer.

4. In order, however, to prevent as far as possible the evasion of payment of taxes by persons liable to pay by suddenly leaving the limits of District Municipalities it is necessary to insert the following provision in the Bombay District Municipal Act III of 1901 analogous to section 210 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act III of 1888, as section 83-A :—

"Section 83-A (1) If the officer authorized to sign a warrant under sub-section (2) of section 83 shall at any time have reason to believe that any person from whom any sum is due on account of any Municipal tax is about forthwith to remove from the Municipal District the said officer may direct the immediate payment by such person of the sum so due or about to become due by him and cause a bill for the same to be presented to him.

"2. If on the presentation of such bill the said person does not forthwith pay the sum due or about to become due by him, the amount shall be leviable by distress and sale in the manner hereinbefore prescribed except that it shall not be necessary to serve upon the defaulter any notice of demand, and the said officer's warrant for distress and sale may be issued and executed without delay."

(Signed) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

22nd January 1920.

BILL No. VI of 1919.

A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901.

(As amended by the Select Committee.)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Bom. III of 1901.

1. This Act may be called the Bombay District Municipal (Amendment) Act, 19~~19~~20.

Short title.

2. After the first paragraph of clause (b) of section 39 of the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, hereinafter called the said Act, the following explanation shall be inserted, namely:—

Amendment of s. 39 (b) of Bom. III of 1901.

Bom. III of 1901.

"Explanation.—For the purpose of this clause, octroi duty includes a terminal tax."

3. ~~In section 83 of the said Act,~~

~~(a) to sub-section 1 the following proviso shall be added, namely:—~~

~~Amendment of s. 83 of Bom. III of 1901.~~

~~"Provided that where any such property is within the City of Bombay, such sum with all costs of the recovery may be levied in the manner provided in sub-section (5) of this section and not otherwise";~~

~~(b) from sub-section (2A) the following words shall be omitted, namely:—~~

~~"Where the property is in the City of Bombay the warrant shall be addressed to the Municipal Commissioner for the City of Bombay";~~

~~(c) after sub-section (4) the following sub-section shall be added, namely:—~~

~~"(5) (a) Where the moveable property of the defaulter is within the City of Bombay, the sum payable with all costs of the recovery shall be recoverable on application to a Presidency Magistrate in the manner provided in sub-section (2) of section 161 for the recovery of fines imposed under this Act.~~

~~Recovery in Bombay.~~

~~(b) Such application may be made by the president of the municipality, or by the Municipal Commissioner if any, or in the case of a City Municipality by the chairman of the managing committee, or by an officer to whom the Municipality have delegated their powers under section 37, or by the chief officer if any, or by any municipal servant authorised in writing in this behalf by any of the persons aforesaid."~~

In sub-section (2A) of section 83 of the said Act,

Amendment of section 83 of Bom. III of 1901.

(a) for the last seven words the words "Registrar of the Court of Small Causes of Bombay" shall be substituted; and

(b) the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

"provided that the Registrar may endorse such warrant to a subordinate officer."

4. ~~To~~ In section 84A of the said Act, ~~the following words shall be added, namely:—~~

Amendment of s. 84A of Bom. III of 1901.

(a) after the word "officer" where it occurs for the first time the words "or Registrar of the Court of Small Causes of Bombay" and after the word "officer" where it occurs for the second time the words "or Registrar" shall be inserted; and

(b) the following words shall be added to the section, namely:—

"Such officer or ~~a Presidency Magistrate applied to under sub-section (5) of section 83~~ Registrar shall, after deducting all costs of recovery incurred by him, remit the amount recovered under the warrant ~~or in accordance with the application~~ to the authority by whom it was issued ~~or made~~."

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,

Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 12th February 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FRIDAY, 20TH FEBRUARY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following report of the Select Committee of the Council of his Excellency the Governor of Bombay on the Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances, and the Bill as amended by the Select Committee, are, in accordance with rule 25 of the Rules for the conduct of business at meetings of the Legislative Council, published for general information :—

BILL No. VIII of 1919.

(A Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

We, the undersigned members * of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VIII of 1919 (a Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances), have the honour to report as follows :—

Clause 4.—We have reverted to the provision of the present Act by which the licenses are renewed from January 1st of each year. This facilitates their renewal and the work of inspection and is in accordance with the present practice and with the petition of the Bombay Hack Owners Association. We have, therefore, in sub-clause (c) of clause 2 defined " Licensing year ".

Clause 5.—We have deleted sub-clause (b) as being vague and indefinite in its scope.

Clause 10.—We have assimilated the law to what we understand is the present practice of the Commissioner of Police in Bombay and have made a responsible veterinary officer the final judge as to the unfitness of a horse for use.

* The signature of the Honourable Mr. S. K. Barodawalla will be published when received.

Clauses 12 and 13.—We have transposed these clauses to obtain uniformity in drafting and we have in clause 12 made more precise the grounds on which a driver's license may be refused.

Clause 14.—We have by an additional clause made provision for a charge for the driver's license. This is in accordance with the law prevailing in Calcutta and is a just charge to cover the cost of badge and licensing.

Clause 18.—We have made the fixing of the legal rates of fares subject to the conditions of the sanction of the Governor in Council and of previous publication.

Clauses 20 and 26.—We have made provision for the driver to carry his license with him and to show it to a police officer on demand and we have in sub-clause (e) of clause 26 made it an offence to refuse to show such license or the list of fares on demand to a police officer. We have by a new sub-clause (i) made it an offence to use insulting or abusive language and by an addition to sub-clause (l) (v) an offence to loiter. We have increased the fine imposed by clause 26.

Clause 31.—We have by the addition of new sub-clause (5) endeavoured to prevent vexatious complaints to the Magistrate by providing for the payment of compensation in such cases.

Clause 36.—We have by the addition of sub-clause (5) provided for the payment to local authorities in Sind and the Mofussil of the fines realised under this Act after deducting expenses.

Other amendments are verbal.

(Signed) G. CARMICHAEL.

(„) PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS.

(„) C. V. MEHTA.

(„) PHIROZE C. SETHNA.

(„) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

Bombay, 17th February 1920.

BILL No. VIII of 1919.

A Bill to amend the Law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances.

(As amended by the Select Committee.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to the regulation of public conveyances; and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by sub-section (2) of section 79 of the Geo. 5, Government of India Act, 1915, has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bombay Public Conveyances Act, 1920.

Short title and extent.

(2) This section and sections ~~35~~, 36, ~~37~~, 38 and ~~38~~ 39 extend to the whole of the Presidency of Bombay. The rest of the Act extends, subject to the provisions of section ~~35~~, 36, only to the City of Bombay.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

Definitions.

(a) "Commissioner of Police" means the Commissioner of Police for the City of Bombay and includes any person authorised by him to exercise or perform any power or duty imposed or conferred on the Commissioner of Police by this Act;

1.] (b) "public conveyance" means a wheeled vehicle, drawn by one or more horses or other animals or by hand, which is used for the purpose of plying for hire for the conveyance of persons or goods;

(c) "licensing year" means the calendar year commencing on the first of January of each year;

6.] (e) (d) "driver" includes a conductor, attendant or other person in charge of a public conveyance;

(d) (e) "licensee" means the holder of a license granted under this Act for a public conveyance or a horse or a driver of a public conveyance.

Licensing of Public Conveyances.

2.] 3. (1) No person shall keep or let for hire any public conveyance without a license granted by the Commissioner of Police in this behalf.

Public conveyances to be licensed.

(2) On every public conveyance—

(a) the number of the conveyance as entered in the license granted for the same, and

(b) where the conveyance is licensed to carry passengers, the number of passengers which it is licensed to carry, shall be clearly inscribed in such manner as the Commissioner of Police may direct.

4. (~~1~~) ~~Licenses for public conveyances shall be granted by the Commissioner of Police.~~ [s. 8.

(~~2~~) (1) Such licenses shall remain in force for ~~one~~ the licensing year, unless sooner determined under the provisions of this Act, and shall be renewable.

Licenses for public conveyances.

(~~3~~) (2) Such licenses shall contain the following and such other particulars and conditions as the Commissioner of Police may prescribe: [s. 4.

(a) the full name and address of the licensee;

(b) the date on which the license was granted and the date on which it will expire by efflux of time;

(c) the local area for which the license is granted;

(d) the number and class of the conveyance;

(e) the number of horses or other animals (if any) by which it is to be drawn;

(f) the number of passengers (if any) which it may carry.

(~~4~~) (3) Such licenses shall not be transferred by the licensee to any other person without the sanction of the Commissioner of Police and if transferred without such sanction shall thereupon become void. Such sanction when granted shall be endorsed on the license. [s. 12.

5. (1) The Commissioner of Police may refuse to grant a license for a public conveyance if in his opinion— [s. 6

Grounds on which license may be refused or cancelled.

(~~a~~) the conveyance is insufficiently found or is otherwise unfit for the purpose for which it is intended;

~~(b) the applicant for the license is unfit to be entrusted with a license.~~

(2) The Commissioner of Police may refuse to renew, and may at any time suspend or cancel, a license for a public conveyance on ~~any~~ either of the foregoing grounds, or if in his opinion— [s. 9.

(i) the licensee has committed a breach of any provision of this Act or of a rule made under this Act or of a condition of the license, or

(ii) a conveyance licensed for carrying goods has been used for carrying passengers.

(3) When refusing to renew, or suspending or cancelling a license for a public conveyance, the Commissioner of Police may erase the inscription made thereon in accordance with this Act.

5, 8 and .] 6. (1) When granting or renewing a license for a public conveyance, and at other times when necessary, the Commissioner of Police shall cause the particulars required by clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (2) of section 3 to be painted or otherwise clearly inscribed upon the conveyance.

Number, etc., to be inscribed on conveyance.

7 and .] (2) No fee shall be charged for any inscription made under the foregoing sub-section when it is made at the time when the license is granted or at the annual renewal of the license, but when such inscription is made at any other time a fee at one-half of the rate chargeable for the grant of a license for a public conveyance under section 7, sub-section (1), shall be charged.

s. 7.] 7. (1) For the grant of a license for a public conveyance a fee shall be charged at such rate as the Commissioner of Police shall prescribe.

Fees for public conveyance licenses.

11.] (2) For the renewal of such license a fee at one-half of the rate chargeable under the foregoing sub-section shall be charged.

Licensing of horses.

8. (1) No horse shall be used for drawing a public conveyance except under a license granted by the Commissioner of Police in respect of such horse.

Licensing of horses.

(2) Such licenses shall remain in force for ~~one~~ the licensing year unless sooner determined under this Act, and shall be renewable.

(3) Such licenses shall contain the following and such other particulars and conditions as the Commissioner of Police may prescribe:

(a) the full name and address of the licensee;

(b) the date on which the license was granted and the date on which it will expire by efflux of time;

(c) the local area for which the license is granted;

(d) a description of the horse for which the license is granted and the marks of identification of the same;

(e) the class of conveyance to draw which the horse may be used.

(4) Such licenses may not be transferred by the licensee to any person without the sanction of the Commissioner of Police and if transferred without such sanction shall thereupon become void. Such sanction shall be endorsed on the license.

9. When granting a license for a horse the Commissioner of Police shall brand such horse on the hoof in such manner that it may be easily identified.

Branding of horses.

10. (1) The Commissioner of Police may refuse to grant or renew, and may at any time suspend, a license for a horse if in his opinion such horse is in any way unfit for use in a public conveyance.

Grounds on which license for horse may be refused or cancelled and examination by a veterinary practitioner.

(2) In case of such refusal or suspension the owner of the horse or licensee, as the case may be, may require that such horse be examined by a veterinary practitioner of the Government or of a local authority, and, if in the opinion of such practitioner the horse is fit for use in a public conveyance, the Commissioner of Police shall grant or renew the license or cancel the order of suspension.

Licensing of Drivers.

11. (1) No person shall act as driver of a public conveyance without a license granted by the Commissioner of Police in this behalf.

Drivers to be licensed.

(2) Such licenses shall remain in force for ~~one~~ the licensing year unless sooner determined under this Act, and shall be renewable.

(3) Such licenses shall contain the following and such other particulars and conditions as the Commissioner of Police may prescribe:

(a) the full name and address of the licensee;

(b) the date on which the license was granted and the date on which it will expire by efflux of time;

(c) the local area for which the license is granted;

(d) the class of public conveyance which the licensee is licensed to drive.

~~13~~ 12. (1) The Commissioner of Police may refuse to grant a license to a driver if in his opinion such driver is unfit on account of youth, infirmity, bad character or any other reason to pursue the occupation of driver of a public conveyance.

Grounds on which driver's license may be refused or cancelled.

(2) The Commissioner of Police may refuse to renew, and may at any time suspend or cancel, a driver's license on the foregoing grounds or if the holder has committed a breach of any provision of this Act or of a rule made under this Act or of a condition of the license.

~~12~~ 13 (1) When granting a license to a driver the Commissioner of Police shall provide him with a metal badge bearing the number of the license.

Drivers' badges.

(2) Every driver who has received such badge shall wear the same on a conspicuous part of his dress at all times when pursuing his occupation as driver.

(3) No driver who has received such badge shall permit any other person to wear the same: provided that any person, other than the driver to whom a badge has been given by the Commissioner of Police, who shall wear such badge shall be presumed, until the contrary is proved, to wear it with such driver's permission.

14. (1) For the grant of a license to a driver a fee shall be charged at such rate as the Commissioner of Police shall prescribe.

Fees for drivers' licenses.

(2) For the renewal of such license a fee at one-half of the rate chargeable under the foregoing sub-section shall be charged.

Provisions relating to licensees.

~~14~~ 15. Every license which has been suspended or cancelled shall be returned by the licensee to the Commissioner of Police within twenty-four hours after the suspension or cancellation thereof.

Licenses when suspended or cancelled to be returned.

~~15~~ 16. Whenever a licensee shall change his residence he shall within one week thereafter give notice thereof in writing signed by himself to the Commissioner of Police.

Change of address of licensee to be reported.

~~16~~ 17. Every licensee of a public conveyance or horse shall produce such conveyance or horse for inspection whenever the Commissioner of Police shall require him to do so.

Public conveyance or horse to be produced for inspection when required.

Fares and stands.

~~17~~ 18. The Commissioner of Police shall, subject to the conditions of previous publication and the previous sanction of the Governor in Council, fix the legal rates of fares for public conveyances.

Rates of fares.

~~18~~ 19. The Commissioner of Police shall appoint stands or places, at which alone public conveyances may stand to ply for hire.

Stands.

~~19~~ 20. (1) Every driver of a public conveyance shall have with him when pursuing his occupation as driver the license granted to him under section 11 of this Act and a clean and legible list, in English and such vernacular language or languages as the Commissioner of Police may direct, bearing the name in full of the licensee of the conveyance and showing the rates of fares fixed for the time being for the hire of the conveyance, with an abstract of the law relating to public conveyances.

Drivers to have his license as driver and list of fares.

(2) Every such driver shall on demand by a police officer produce for inspection such license and list.

(2) (3) Every such driver shall on demand produce such list for the information of any hirer of, or passenger travelling in, the conveyance.

~~20~~ 21. Lists of the fares fixed for public conveyances, as for the time being in force, together with the abstract referred to in the preceding section, shall be prepared by the Commissioner of Police and sold to the public at a reasonable price.

Book of fares to be issued.

Offences and punishments.

~~21~~ 22. Any person who shall

(a) keep or let for hire any public conveyance without a license granted by the Commissioner of Police in this behalf and for the time being in force, or Keeping public conveyance without license.

(b) who shall keep or let for hire any public conveyance on which the number and other particulars required by section ~~7~~ are not clearly inscribed in such manner as the Commissioner of Police directs, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

~~22~~ 23. Any licensee of a public conveyance who shall without sufficient reason fail to cause such conveyance to ply for hire when required to do so by a police officer, and any driver of a public conveyance who shall without sufficient reason fail duly to pursue his occupation when required to do so by a police officer, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Failure to cause public conveyance to ply when so required by the police.

~~23~~ 24. Any licensee of a public conveyance who shall, when the same is used for the purpose of a public conveyance, permit any person to act as driver thereof other than a driver duly licensed under this Act, or who shall, when such conveyance is used for the purpose aforesaid, permit the same to be drawn by a horse other than a horse for which a license is in force under this Act, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Licensee of public conveyance permitting unlicensed driver to use the same or permitting the same to be drawn by unlicensed horse.

~~24~~ 25. Whoever, being the licensee of a public conveyance or horse, shall fail to produce such conveyance or horse for inspection when required to do so by the Commissioner of Police shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

Failure to produce public conveyance or horse for inspection.

~~25~~ 26. (1) Whoever shall act as driver of a public conveyance without a driver's license granted by the Commissioner of Police in this behalf and for the time being in force, or without a badge granted to him by the Commissioner of Police or, when acting as such driver, shall fail to wear such badge on a conspicuous part of his dress; and Offences by drivers of public conveyances.

(2) Whoever, being the driver of a public conveyance, shall—

(a) permit any other person to use his license or badge;

(b) permit more passengers to be carried in a public conveyance than it is licensed to carry;

(c) conceal or permit to be concealed from public view the inscription made on a public conveyance in accordance with this Act, or prevent or attempt to prevent any person taking note of such inscription;

(d) permit any person to be carried, without the express consent of the hirer, in a public conveyance the whole of which has been hired by any person;

(e) fail to produce, on demand by a police officer, the license granted to him under section 11 or a list of the legal rates of fares as required by this Act;

(e) (f) fail to produce, on demand by a hirer of, or passenger travelling in, a public conveyance a list of the legal rates of fares for such conveyance as required by this Act;

(f) (g) refuse or neglect to give way, if he conveniently can, to any private conveyance, or obstruct or hinder the driver of any other public conveyance in taking up or setting down any person into or from such other public conveyance;

(g) (h) be intoxicated at any time while pursuing his occupation as driver;

(i) make use of insulting or abusive language or gesture;

(h) (j) refuse to obey the reasonable orders of any person hiring a public conveyance of which he is in charge;

(i) (k) when acting as driver, permit the inside of a public conveyance of which he is in charge to be dirty; or

(j) (l) when in charge of a public conveyance other than a cart used for conveyance of goods,—

(i) demand prepayment of his fare, or

(ii) refuse without reasonable cause to carry any person desiring to hire the conveyance, or

(iii) refuse or delay to proceed with reasonable expedition, or

(iv) demand for the hire of the conveyance more than the legal fare, or

(v) stand to ply for hire at any place other than a stand or place appointed under this Act or loiter for the purpose of being hired in or upon any public street, road or place, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to ~~twenty~~ fifty rupees.

~~26~~ 27. Any licensee

(a) who shall fail to return a license which has been suspended or cancelled to the Commissioner of Police within twenty-four hours after the suspension or cancellation thereof, or

Failure to return license or to notify address.

(b) who, after changing his residence, shall fail to give notice thereof in writing signed by himself to the Commissioner of Police within one week after such change has taken place, or shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

(c) who shall contravene any condition of his license,—

~~27~~ 28. Any person using a public conveyance who shall wilfully or negligently injure the same shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees, and shall also pay the owner of such conveyance such compensation as the Magistrate may direct, and such compensation shall be leviable as a fine.

Injury to public conveyance.

~~28~~ 29. The driver of any public conveyance who shall by negligence or misconduct cause any hurt or damage shall, in addition to any punishment to which he may be liable by law, pay the complainant such reasonable compensation as the Magistrate may direct, and such compensation shall be leviable as a fine.

Compensation payable by driver causing damage.

Procedure.

~~29~~ 30. Any police officer may arrest without warrant any person who has committed any offence under this Act, and may seize and detain any conveyance or horse in relation to which such offence has been committed.

Arrest by police.

~~30~~ 31. (1) In case of any dispute between the hirer and driver of a public conveyance, either party may require the other to proceed forthwith to the nearest Magistrate's Court, where the dispute shall be determined in a summary manner by the Magistrate then sitting.

Procedure in case of dispute.

(2) If no Magistrate is then sitting either party may require the other to proceed to the nearest police officer of rank not below that of inspector, who shall, if necessary, arrange for the hearing of the case at the next sitting of the Court.

(3) On failure of either party to appear before the Magistrate in pursuance of a requisition under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), or to attend the Court at any subsequent sitting to which the case may be adjourned, the Magistrate may decide the case ex parte and his decision shall be binding on both parties.

(4) Provided that, if the hirer is about to leave the City of Bombay, a police officer to whom reference has been made under sub-section (2) may, after hearing both parties, require the hirer to deposit such sum, if any, as appears to be due by him, and, if any compensation appears to be due under section ~~27~~ 28, an additional sum of ten rupees, and the hirer shall not be required to attend the Magistrate's Court. The police officer shall report the dispute to the Magistrate and the Magistrate may award the driver such sum, if any, not being in excess of the amount deposited by the hirer, as he considers just, and if any offence appears to have been committed, shall inquire into the same according to law. In either case where any surplus remains of the deposit made by the hirer, the Magistrate shall give notice thereof to the hirer and return it to him on demand.

(5) Where the Magistrate is satisfied that one party had no reasonable ground for requiring the other party to proceed to his Court or to the nearest police officer, he may direct the former party to pay to the latter such compensation not exceeding fifty rupees as he thinks fit, and such compensation shall be leviable as a fine.

~~31~~ 32. (1) When a complaint is made before a Magistrate against a driver of a public conveyance under this Act, the Magistrate may, if the driver fails to appear, summon the licensee of such conveyance to appear and produce the driver. [s. 26.]

Licensee may be required to produce driver: penalty.

(2) If the owner after being duly summoned fails without reasonable excuse to appear or to produce the driver he shall be punishable with fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

~~32~~ 33. If any person who has hired a public conveyance refuses to pay the legal fare thereof, the Magistrate may order payment of such fare and also of reasonable compensation for loss of time; such fare and compensation shall be leviable as a fine. [s. 28.]

Refusal to pay fare.

Miscellaneous.

[s. 31.] ~~33~~ 34. (1) All property left in any public conveyance shall be forthwith deposited by the licensee or driver of such conveyance at the nearest police station.

Disposal of property: penalty.

(2) The Commissioner of Police shall cause such property to be returned to such person as shall prove to his satisfaction that he is entitled to the same, on payment by such person of all expenses reasonably incurred and of such compensation to the driver of the public conveyance as the Commissioner of Police may consider just.

(3) Any licensee or driver failing to deposit any property as required by sub-section (1) shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

[s. 14.] ~~34~~ 35. (1) The Commissioner of Police, subject to the condition of previous publication, may make rules not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act for the regulation of public conveyances.

Rules.

(2) Such rules shall be published in the Bombay Government Gazette.

[s. 34.] ~~35~~ 36. (1) The Commissioner in Sind or the Commissioner of a division may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette extend this Act or any specified provisions thereof to any area within his jurisdiction from a date to be stated in such notification.

Extension of Act.

Bom. I of 1904, s. 3 (6).

(2) Where this Act or any portion thereof is extended to any such area, the Commissioner in Sind or the Commissioner of the division, as the case may be,—

(a) shall by notification appoint some person to perform the functions assigned by this Act to the Commissioner of Police; and

(b) may by notification direct that any particular Magistrates or classes of Magistrates shall exercise jurisdiction under this Act, and

(c) may by notification direct—

(i) that any class of vehicles shall be exempt from all or any of the provisions of this Act, or

(ii) that all or any of the provisions of this Act, except those which relate to plying for hire, shall apply to vehicles or to any class of vehicles which are kept, or ordinarily let, for hire, but which are not used for the purpose of plying for hire.

(3) A notification under this section extending this Act or any portion thereof to any area shall be published at least thirty days before the date fixed for its coming into effect.

(4) When this Act or any portion thereof is extended to any area, the powers of fixing ~~fares and~~ fees and of appointing stands and of making rules shall be exercised subject to the approval of the Commissioner in Sind or the Commissioner of the division, as the case may be.

(5) When this Act or any portion thereof has been extended to any area, the Commissioner in Sind or the Commissioner of the division, as the case may be, shall pay to the local authority administering this Act in such area or, if there be more than one such local authority, to the local authorities of such area in such proportion as he shall think fit, the balance remaining after deducting from the fees charged in such area under this Act or the rules made thereunder the expenditure incurred in the administration of this Act in such area.

~~36~~ 37. The Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette direct that all or any of the provisions of this Act, except those which relate to plying for hire, shall apply to vehicle or to any class of vehicles which are kept, or ordinarily let, for hire, but which are not used for the purpose of plying for hire.

Application in city of Bombay of certain provisions to vehicles not used for plying for hire ~~37~~ 38. All powers conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Powers may be exercised from time to time.

~~38~~ 39. The enactments specified in the Schedule are hereby repealed to the extent stated in the fourth column thereof.

Repeal of certain enactments.

THE SCHEDULE.

(See section ~~38~~ 39.)

1	2	3	4
Year.	No.	Short title.	Extent of repeal.
		Act of the Governor General in Council.
1895	XVI	The Amending Act, 1895.	The entry in the second Schedule relating to Bombay Act No. VI of 1863.
		Acts of the Governor of Bombay in Council.
1863	VI	An Act for the regulation of public conveyances in the town, suburbs and harbour of Bombay.	So much as has not been repealed
1887	V	An Act to amend Bombay Act No. VI of 1863.	The whole.
1915	III	The Bombay Decentralization Act, 1915.	The entry in Schedule I relating to Bombay Act No. VI of 1863.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 19th February 1920.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following report of the Select Committee of the Council of his Excellency the Governor of Bombay on the Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902, and the Bill as amended by the Select Committee, are, in accordance with rule 25 of the Rules for the conduct of business at meetings of the Legislative Council, published for general information :—

BILL No. X OF 1919.

(A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902).

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

We, the undersigned members of the select committee appointed to consider Bill No. X of 1919 (a Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902), have the honour to report as follows :—

1. We are of opinion that no direction should be issued under the second alternative in new sub-section (1) of section 28 without the previous sanction of the Governor in Council and that notice should be given as under the first alternative. We have amended clause 3 of the bill accordingly. We are by a majority of opinion that the punishment of whipping provided in new section 126A should be omitted as brutalising in its effects. We are further of opinion that sub-section (2) of new section 126A should cover detention by a threat to take legal proceedings for the recovery of money lent and have inserted the necessary provisions in the said sub-section.

2. As the intention of clause 7 is to prevent smoking and spitting in public buildings, we propose to insert a new section limited to that purpose.

3. The other amendments proposed are merely verbal.

(Signed) G. CARMICHAEL.
(„) PHIROZE C. SETHNA.
(„) PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS.
(„) C. FERNANDES.
(„) C. V. MEHTA.
(„) LALUBHAI SAMALDAS.
(„) T. J. STRANGMAN.
(„) SHERIFF D. CANJI.

Bombay, 17th February 1920.

Bill No. X of 1919.

A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902.

(As amended by the Select Committee.)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902, in manner hereinafter appearing; and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor-General required by section 79, sub-section (3), of the Government of India Act, 1915, has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Bom. IV of 1902.

5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 61.

1. This Act may be called the City of Bombay Police (Amendment) Act, 1920.

Short title.

2. In section 1, sub-section (2), of the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902, hereinafter called the said Act,

Amendment of section 1.

Bom. IV of 1902.

(a) after the figures "27" the figures "28" shall be inserted; and

(b) for the word and figures "and 102" the words and figures "102, 110A and sub-section (3) of section 126A" shall be substituted.

3. (1) Section 28 of the said Act shall be renumbered sub-section (1) of section 28.

Amendment of section 28.

(2) After the word "place", where it occurs for the first time in the said sub-section, the words "in the City of Bombay" shall be inserted, and the following words shall be added to the said sub-section :—

"or ~~to direct~~ directing such person or woman after a date to be mentioned and fixed as aforesaid to remove himself or herself to such place, whether within or without the City of Bombay, ~~or places~~ by such route or routes and within such time as the Commissioner of Police shall prescribe."

(3) The following sub-sections shall be added to section 28 of the said Act :—

"(2) If any person or woman so directed under sub-section (1) fails or refuses to remove himself or herself as directed ~~outside the City of Bombay~~ within the time specified, the Commissioner of Police may cause such person or woman to be arrested and removed in police custody to the place prescribed. ~~as he may direct.~~

(3) No direction under the second alternative in sub-section (1) shall be made without the previous sanction of the Governor in Council."

4. In section 33, clause (j), of the said Act, after the figures and letter "111A" the words, figures and letter "or section 126A" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 33.

5. In section 69 of the said Act,

Amendment of section 69.

(1) after the word "confined" the words "or detained" shall be inserted; and

(2) after the word "confinement" the words "or detention" shall be inserted.

6. After section 110 of the said Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

New section 110A.

"110A. (1) Whenever it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court of a Presidency Magistrate that a bond taken under this Act has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof, or to show cause why it should not be paid.

Procedure on forfeiture of bond.

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person or his estate if he be dead.

(3) Such warrant may be executed within the ~~local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it~~ City of Bombay; and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to such person without ~~such limits~~ the City of Bombay, when endorsed by the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

(4) If such penalty is not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the person so bound shall be liable, by order of the Court which issued the warrant, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

(5) The Court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(6) Where a surety to a bond dies before the bond is forfeited, his estate shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the bond, but the party who gave the bond may be required to find a new surety.

~~7. For section 123 of the said act, the following section shall be substituted, namely:—~~

Amendment of section 123.

~~"123. Whoever in any court, police station or office or in any building belonging to Government or appropriated to public purposes~~

Disorderly conduct and disregard of orders in office or public building.

~~(a) behaves in a violent, disorderly or indecent manner, or~~

~~(b) smokes or spits in contravention of any notice affixed to such court, police station, office or building, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.~~

7. After section 123 of the said Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

New section 123A.

"123A. Whoever in any Court, Police station, Police office, building occupied by Government or building occupied by any public body smokes or spits in contravention of a notice previously approved by the Governor in Council and affixed to such Court, station, office or building, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees."

Disregard of notice in public building.

8. After section 126 of the said Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

New section 126A.

"126A. (1) Whoever detains any woman or girl against her will

Unlawful detention for purpose of prostitution: presumption to be drawn: bar of legal proceedings in certain cases.

Cf. 48 Vict., c. s. 8.

(a) in any house, room or place in which the business of a common prostitute is carried on, or

(b) in or upon any premises with intent that she may have sexual intercourse with any man, other than her husband, whether any particular man or generally, shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or ~~with whipping or with any two of those punishments~~ with both.

(2) Where a woman or girl is in any house, room or place in which the business of a common prostitute is carried on or is in or upon any premises for the purpose of having any sexual intercourse, a person shall be deemed to detain such woman or girl in such house, room, place or in or upon such premises if, with intent to compel or induce her to remain there, such person withholds from her any wearing apparel or other property belonging to her, or, where wearing apparel or money has been lent or otherwise supplied to such woman or girl by or by the direction of such person, if such person threatens such woman or girl with legal proceedings if she takes away with her the wearing apparel so lent or supplied, or for the recovery of such money.

(3) No civil suit shall lie, and no proceedings whether civil or criminal shall be taken, against any such woman or girl or against any person on her behalf, by or on behalf of any person occupying or managing or acting or assisting in the management of any such house, room, place or premises, for the recovery of any wearing apparel, personal ornaments or other property alleged to have been lent or supplied to or for such woman or girl or to have been pledged by or for her or for the recovery of any money alleged to be payable by or on behalf of such woman or girl."

Amendment of section 128.

9. In section 128 of the said Act, after the figures "27", the words and figures "or section 28" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 130.

10. In section 130 of the said Act, after the figures "122", the figures and letter "126A" shall be inserted.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,

Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 19th February 1920.

BOMBAY : PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

SATURDAY, 21ST FEBRUARY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following report of the Select Committee of the Council of His Excellency the Governor of Bombay on the Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats, and the Bill as amended by the Select Committee, are, in accordance with rule 25 of the Rules for the conduct of business at meetings of the Legislative Council, published for general information :—

Bill No. XI of 1919.

(A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

We, the undersigned, members * of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats), have the honour to report as follows :—

Clause 3.—We have entirely redrafted this clause and we have provided that the Commissioner shall only act on the application of the Collector or of the district local board after either of these two authorities has given notice to the other of its application.

Clause 5.—We have redrafted this clause. We are by a majority of the opinion that the village patel should be an ex-officio member of the panchayat as giving administrative experience to a body that may otherwise possess none, but we have provided that the revenue patel where possible shall be the ex-officio member. In certain villages such as Khoti villages there is no patel. We have by the words " if any " provided for this contingency aud we have preferred in such cases to keep the panchayat wholly elective in character rather than introduce as an ex-officio member the managing Khot. We are also by a majority of the opinion that neither talukdars, jagirdars nor inamdars should be ex-officio members of the panchayats in their own villages either in addition to, or in substitution for, the patel. We have provided for the decision of possible disputes as to who is the senior patel by making the president of the district local board the arbiter.

* Signatures of the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud and the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah will be published when received.

Clause 6.—We have considerably mitigated the severity of the conditions of disqualification in certain cases by the deletion of sub-clause (d) and by substituting in new sub-clauses (d) and (e) for a permanent disqualification, a disqualification for a period of five years, and we have enabled the district local board to remove a disqualification imposed under sub-clause (h).

We have by a new sub-clause (g) disqualified an undischarged bankrupt.

Clause 8.—Where the validity of an election is in dispute, we have made provision for due enquiry by the Collector.

Clause 10.—We have extended the period of office of members from two years to three and we have transferred sub-clause (2) to new clause 17.

Clause 11.—We have subjected all appointments of secretaries to the approval of the district local board, so as to eliminate, as far as possible, unfair influence in the village.

Clause 12.—We have transferred sub-clause (3) to new clause 17.

Clause 15.—We have arranged that the district local board should hear the views of a panchayat before the removal by it of any member for unfitness.

Clause 16.—We have provided for the decision of disputes as to questions of "residence."

Clause 17.—We have in this clause more conveniently arranged sub-clause (2) of clause 10 and sub-clause (3) of clause 12 and by a new sub-clause (3) applied to the disqualification of a sar-panch the disqualifications of a member.

Clauses 18 and 21.—We have guarded against any presumption that the panchayat is responsible for tanks and wells used for irrigation, and we have made it clear that the panchayat is responsible only for the maintenance of buildings which vest in them, and we have by a new clause 21 empowered the Governor in Council and the district local board to transfer property to the panchayat for this purpose, and we have made it clear that works constructed by the panchayat vest in the panchayat.

Clause 23.—In the case of dismissal of a servant we have provided for an appeal from the order of the sar-panch to the panchayat.

Clause 25 (e).—As it might be held that mahars and other village servants are not "private" persons within the meaning of this section, we have by the deletion of the word "private" safeguarded their rights.

Clause 27.—We have by a new sub-clause (2) provided for the imposition of an octroi in addition to other taxes.

Clause 36.—We have given the panchayats an opportunity of making representations against any proposed order of supersession by providing for a reference to the district local board before such order is made, and we have guarded against the invalidity of acts done by the panchayat between the making of the order and its communication to the panchayat by making such orders operative from the date of communication.

Clause 39.—We think it undesirable that pleaders and other legal practitioners should be allowed to appear before the village panchayats in the small affairs with which they will be called upon to deal, and we have made provision for their exclusion.

Clause 41.—In case the panchayat should experience difficulty in the absence of the necessary machinery in recovering fines, we have empowered the panchayat in case of need to invoke the assistance of a magistrate.

Clause 44.—We have in the last clause of the bill made provision for the disposal of the property of the panchayat on its ceasing to exist.

(Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA.

(„) T. J. STRANGMAN.

(„) C. N. SEDDON.

(„) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI
(subject to a minute of dissent).

(„) K. R. GODBOLE
(subject to a minute of dissent).

(„) G. K. SATHE
(subject to a minute of dissent).

(„) P. A. DESAI
(subject to a minute of dissent).*

(„) DULABAWA RAISINGJI
(subject to a minute of dissent).*

Bombay, 19th February 1920.

* Will be published when received.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.)

I am not convinced of the necessity of allowing the patel of a village to be an ex-officio member of a village panchayat. He is the last person in a village to wish the panchayat to prosper. If he is useful let him enter it through the door of election. If there is reason to fear that his chances to enter it through the vote of his neighbours are problematical, that itself is a justification to insist that he should be there through their franchise only. He would be put on his good behaviour if he has to rely upon the good will of the inhabitants of his village. To make him secure of his seat would be to provide no check on his undesirable ways. There would be either continuous friction between him and his colleagues, or the security of his seat would make the other members his slaves. His case stands on a different level from that of the talukdars, inamdars, jagirdars or khots. If at all any one deserves to be an ex-officio member of a panchayat it is the proprietory owner of a village or the senior among them, but not the patel.

2. I would altogether omit sub-clause (a) of clause 6. There should be no sex disqualification for membership of a panchayat. If the adult male residents want to elect a female member why should the legislation interpose a sex-bar to their choice? After the Legislative Council recommended the removal of the sex-bar from the Bombay City Municipal Act, it would be a retrograde step to insert it in a fresh legislation of this character. At several places there are females who hold the Matá. They have a voice in the election of the patel; and they often act as patels through their deputies.

3. I cannot agree to confiscate the rights of women who at present enjoy the franchise to vote at the local board and municipal elections. I would therefore allow the voting franchise to adult females holding immovable property in their own right as well as to women who are literate in the sense of having passed the vernacular fourth standard.

4. As regards the duties and functions of the panchayat I would have preferred to make a provision empowering the Governor in Council to invest, at his discretion, judicial powers in petty civil and criminal cases; but as it is likely to delay the Bill, I would be satisfied if sub-clause (d) of clause 18 were amended by deleting the word "administrative" which stands before "duties" and by adding the words "and functions" after "duties". There is no need to place a positive limitation on the powers of His Excellency the Governor in Council to invest a panchayat with such powers.

5. Clause 23 had better be amended so as to enable the Governor in Council to place to the credit of the village fund "the proceeds of such incomes as may be assigned to it by any general or special order of the Governor in Council". Those who are aware of actual facts know that Government do not realise as much revenue under the head of miscellaneous receipts in villagers such as assessed Government waste, trees, sand, kankar, etc., as the villages themselves would do, if they had to manage and appropriate them for the village fund. If these were assigned to the village panchayats they would be a fat source of income to that body. Such an enabling provision would cause no harm; but if advantage were taken of it by Government at their discretion, the resources of the panchayats would be considerably improved. The statutory house tax may then be regulated according to local conditions so as not to press hard.

6. Lastly, I would like the operation of the bludgeon clause of supersession to follow, if need be, a dissolution and re-election of a defaulting panchayat.

HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

17th February 1920.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.)

I consider that the Bill as amended by the Select Committee is defective in so far as it makes no provision for investing panchayats with judicial functions (for dealing with petty civil and criminal cases) as provided for in the Central Provinces Bill. This is a serious defect, but as the inclusion of judicial functions at this stage will throw back the Bill for over 12 months, I have agreed to sign the report on the understanding that a supplementary Bill authorising the Local Government to invest select panchayats in this Presidency with judicial functions will be coming before the Council in the near future.

(Signed) K. R. GODBOLE.

Poona, 18th February 1920.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe, C.I.E.)

I do not intend to refer here to many points of details which we discussed in the Select Committee. The three main questions were (1) the presence of the officiating patil as an ex-officio member of the panchayat, (2) adult woman suffrage and (3) conferment of judicial powers in petty civil and criminal cases. The decision of the majority on the first two questions is mentioned in the main report. The third point was fully debated in the Select Committee, but was not eventually put to vote as the chairman declared that the consideration of that subject was beyond the terms of the resolution by which the Bill was referred to the Select Committee. It was further stated that in case the question was pressed and carried by majority the Bill will have to be resubmitted to the Governor General under section 79 of the Government of India Act. This being so, members of the Select Committee could not formulate any definite proposals in this connection.

I am of opinion that the Bill should contain a separate chapter dealing with judicial functions. It is recognized that it may not be possible to invest every panchayat with such powers. The legislation may, therefore, be permissive and Government should have a free hand in selecting panchayats for the investiture of these powers. That such a provision will make panchayats living organizations, that it will bring justice at least in petty cases nearer to the homes of the people, that it will be less expensive to the litigants and that it will be a good training ground for the people, are amongst others principal points in favour of the view I take in this matter.

Some years ago the Government of Bombay also favoured this view. They had put forward a Bill on these lines. Moreover, the Government of India have in their resolutions of 1915 and 1918 (on Local Self-Government) expressed a favourable view on this subject. That the Governor General should under section 79 of the Government of India Act, sanction the introduction of bills authorizing panchayats to try petty civil and criminal cases in the Province of Bengal and in Central Provinces goes a long way in support of the view I have expressed above.

G. K. SATHE,
Additional Member of the Legislative Council.

Bill No. XI of 1919.

A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats.

(As amended by the Select Committee.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to give the inhabitants of certain small areas the opportunity of providing for the requirements of such areas in respect of water supply, sanitation and other works of public utility, with the object that they may be encouraged to take an interest in local self-government; and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor-General required by section 79, sub-section (2), of the Government of India Act, 1915, has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

5 & 6 Geo. 5, C. 61.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bombay Village Panchayats Act, 1920.

Short title.

(2) It extends to the whole of the Bombay Presidency.

Extent.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context—

Definitions.

(a) the word "village" means any local area duly declared to be a village for the purposes of this Act;

(b) the word "prescribed" means prescribed by rules under this Act;

(c) the word "sar-panch" means the chairman of the panchayat elected in accordance with the provisions of section 12.

3. ~~(1) On application being made either by the district local board or by the Collector, the Commissioner may, by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette, declare any local area to be a village for the purposes of this Act.~~

Declaration of area.

~~(2) On a similar application the Commissioner may from time to time by a declaration made as aforesaid include or exclude any area in or from a village or may cancel any declaration:~~

~~Provided that no declaration shall be made under either of the above sub-sections until the district local board or the Collector, as the case may be, shall have had an opportunity of opposing any application made thereunder.~~

On application in writing being made either by the district local board after previous notice to the Collector or by the Collector after previous notice to the district local board the Commissioner may, by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette—

Declaration of area.

(a) declare any local area to be a village for the purposes of this Act;

(b) declare that any area should be included in or excluded from a village; or

(c) cancel any such declaration.

4. In every village a panchayat shall be established consisting of such number of persons not less than five as shall be determined by the district local board.

Establishment of panchayat.

Cf. Ben. II of 1865, s. 38. Mad. V of 1884, s. 11

5. ~~The panchayat shall be wholly elected with the exception of the officiating patel, who shall be ex-officio a member. If there be more than one officiating patel, the senior officiating patel shall be a member.~~

Election of panchayat.

The officiating patel, if any, or, if there be more than one, the officiating revenue patel, or if there be more than one officiating revenue patel, the senior shall be ex-officio a member of the panchayat.

Members of panchayat.

The president of the district local board shall in case of doubt or dispute decide who is the senior officiating revenue patel and his decision shall be final.

Save as aforesaid each member of the panchayat shall be elected.

6. No person may become or continue to be a an elected member of a panchayat who—

Disqualifications.

Cf. Bom. I of 1884, ss. 10 11. Bom. III of 1901, s. 15

(a) is a female, or

(b) is under twenty-one years of age, or

(c) does not ordinarily reside in the village, or

~~(d) has been dismissed from Government service, or~~

(e) (d) has been sentenced by a Criminal Court to imprisonment or whipping for an offence punishable with imprisonment for a term exceeding six months, or to transportation, or has been ordered to find security for good behaviour under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, such sentence or order not having subsequently been reversed or remitted or the offender pardoned, and whose disqualification has not been removed by an order which the Governor in Council is hereby empowered to make, or

V of 1898.

(f) (e) has been permanently debarred from practising as a legal practitioner by order of any competent authority, or

(g) (f) has been adjudged by a competent Civil Court to be ~~of unsound mind~~, a lunatic, the adjudgment being still in force, or

(g) has been adjudicated an insolvent by a competent Court and has not obtained his discharge, or

(h) has been removed from office under section 15 and whose disqualification has not been removed by an order which the district . local board is hereby empowered to make.

A disqualification under clause (d) shall cease on the expiration of five years from the order of whipping or the termination of the period of imprisonment, transportation or security, as the case may be, and a disqualification under clause (e) shall cease on the expiration of five years from the date of the order.

7. Subject to the foregoing provisions and to such rules as may be made by the Governor in Council, elections shall be made in each village by the adult male residents therein at a meeting presided over by the Assistant or Deputy Collector or other officer or person appointed in this behalf by the Collector and the result shall be reported by him to the Collector and the district local board.

Elections.

8. If the Collector after enquiry is satisfied that any member ~~is~~ has been elected in contravention of the provisions of section 6 or ~~if~~ that any corrupt or irregular practice has been committed in connection with the election of any member which in the opinion of the Collector should ~~be held to~~ invalidate such election, the Collector shall declare the election of such member to be invalid and such declaration shall be final.

Validity of elections.

9. If the Collector shall declare the election of any member invalid, ~~or a member shall incur disqualification for any of the reasons mentioned in clauses (e) to (g) of section 6 or shall be removed from office under section 15~~, a new election for the ~~place thus left~~ vacant seat shall be held in accordance with the foregoing provisions.

New election if ~~vacancy~~ election invalid.

10. (1) Members elected at a periodical election under this Act shall ordinarily hold office for a term of ~~two~~ three years and shall be eligible for re-election.

Cf. Be... of 19... 42.

Term of office.

11. Every panchayat shall appoint a secretary. ~~If the village accountant be appointed secretary~~. Such appointment shall be subject to the approval of the district local board.

Secretary.

12. (1) The members of the panchayat shall elect one of themselves as sar-panch.

Cf. Be... of 19... 41-A... Mad. 1884 ... 23.

Sar-panch.

(2) The sar-panch shall ordinarily hold office for one year, but shall be eligible for re-election.

13. The procedure at a meeting of a panchayat shall be in accordance with rules made by the Governor in Council in this behalf.

Procedure at meetings.

14. The resolutions of the panchayat shall be carried out by the sar-panch, in whom the entire executive power of the panchayat shall be vested, and who shall be directly responsible for the due fulfilment of the duties imposed upon the panchayat by or under this Act.

Cf. M... 188...

Executive of panchayat.

15. The district local board may after hearing the views of the panchayat remove any elected member or any sar-panch of a panchayat who is in its

Cf. M... 188... U. P... 191...

Removal of member, sar-panch, or secretary.

opinion unfit to be a member or sar-panch, as the case may be, or is persistently remiss in the discharge of his duties as such; and a sar-panch so removed may, unless he be an ex-officio member of the panchayat, ~~in addition~~, at the discretion of the said board, also be removed from the panchayat. The district local board may also remove the secretary of a panchayat for similar reasons.

Residence of member to be decided by Collector.

16. If any dispute arises as to whether a member does or does not ordinarily reside in the village such dispute shall be decided by the Collector after enquiry and his decision shall be final.

Vacancy due to disqualification, etc., of elected member.

f. Bom. III of 1901, s. 18.

17. (1) Any vacancy due to the disablement, death, resignation, disqualification or removal of ~~a~~ an elected member shall be filled up as soon as convenient by the election held in accordance with the foregoing provisions of a person who shall hold office so long only as the member in whose place he is elected would have held it if the vacancy had not occurred.

f. Bom. III of 1901, s. 18.

(2) Any vacancy due to the disablement, death, resignation, disqualification or removal of a sar-panch shall be filled up as soon as convenient by the election of a member who shall hold office as sar-panch so long only as the sar-panch in whose place he is elected would have held it if the vacancy had not occurred.

(3) A sar-panch shall become disqualified if as a member of the panchayat he becomes disqualified.

f. Mad. V of 1884, s. 141.

Duties of panchayat.

~~16.~~ 18. (1) It shall be the duty of the panchayat within the limits of the fund at its disposal to make reasonable provision for carrying out the requirements of the village in respect of as many of the following matters as the district local board shall direct, viz.:—

(a) the supply of water for domestic use;

(b) the cleansing of the public roads, drains, tanks ~~wells~~ and wells (other than tanks and wells used exclusively for irrigation) and other public places or works in the village;

(c) the construction, maintenance and repair of minor roads, drains and bridges: provided that such works shall not be undertaken without the permission of the person or authority in whom or in which the road, drain or bridge vests;

(d) sanitation, conservancy and the prevention and abatement of nuisances;

(e) the preservation and improvement of the public health;

(f) the maintenance and the regulation of the use of public buildings vesting in the panchayat, grazing lands, tanks and wells (other than tanks and wells used exclusively for irrigation); and

(g) the lighting of the village.

(2) The panchayat may also make provision for carrying out the requirements of the village in respect of any other matters approved by the district local board.

Cf. Mad. V of 1884, s. 142.

Additional duties.

~~17.~~ 19. The district local board may at any time, with the consent of the panchayat, transfer to such panchayat the management of any institution or the execution of any work not provided for in ~~the above~~ section 18, and it shall thereupon be lawful for such panchayat to undertake the management of such institution or the execution of such work: provided that in every such case the funds necessary for such management or execution shall be placed at the disposal of the panchayat by the district local board.

Other duties.

~~18.~~ 20. (1) The panchayat shall, subject to rules made by the district local board under this Act—

(a) supervise the village school;

(b) supervise the labour employed by local boards on works within the village;

(c) manage and maintain cattle pounds;

(d) perform such other administrative duties as may from time to time be assigned to it by the Governor in Council by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette.

(2) Rules made by the district local board under this section shall be made within six months from the passing of this Act. If not made within that period, it shall be open to the Governor in Council to make rules in this behalf.

Cf. Bom. I of 1884, ss. 41 and 42.

Property of panchayat.

21. (1) It shall be competent to the Governor in Council or the district local board from time to time to direct that any property vesting in Government or the district local board, respectively, shall vest in a panchayat.

(2) Every work constructed by a panchayat shall vest in such panchayat.

Cf. Mad. V of 1884, s. 134.

~~19.~~ 22. The panchayat shall, subject to the provisions of section 32, determine and submit to the district local board a schedule of the number and salaries of its servants required for carrying out the duties imposed upon the panchayat by or under this Act.

Schedule of servants.

Cf. Mad. V of 1884, s. 134.

~~20.~~ 23. (1) The sar-panch shall appoint these servants of the panchayat and pay ~~them~~ their salaries from the funds at his disposal. He may also in cases of emergency engage such temporary servants as he may ~~be~~ deem necessary. The sar-panch may from time to time by order fine, suspend or dismiss any servant appointed by him.

Appointment of servants.

(2) No appeal shall lie against any order passed under this section other than an appeal to the panchayat against an order of dismissal.

Cf. Mad. V of 1884, s. 150.

~~21.~~ 24. (1) The panchayat shall determine annually and shall submit to the district local board on or before such date and in such form as may be prescribed by the district local board a statement of—

Budget.

(a) the opening balance and estimated income of the village fund for the following year;

(b) the expenditure proposed on establishment and the discharge of the duties specified in sub-section (1) of section ~~16~~ 18;

(c) the expenditure proposed under sub-section (2) of section ~~16~~ 18.

(2) The district local board shall within two months from the date of the receipt of ~~this~~ such statement either approve the same ~~it as it stands~~ or direct that the proposed expenditure on any of the duties specified in section ~~16~~ 18 shall be increased or decreased: provided that the district local board shall not have power to direct that ~~such~~ the total proposed expenditure shall exceed the estimated income of the village fund for the following year.

~~22.~~ 25. For each village there shall be at the disposal of the panchayat a village fund and there shall be placed to the credit thereof—

Cf. M. 1884, U. P. 1914

Village fund.

(a) any amount which may be allotted to the village fund by the Governor in Council under the provisions of section 191 of the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901;

Bom. 1901

(b) the proceeds of any tax imposed under section ~~23~~ 26 or section ~~24~~ 27;

(c) all fines realized in prosecutions for breaches ~~within the limits of such village~~ of the by-laws made under this Act;

(d) all other sums ordered by a Court to be placed to the credit of the village fund;

(e) the sale proceeds, except in so far as any ~~private~~ person is entitled to the whole or a portion thereof, of all dust, dirt, dung, or refuse (including the dead bodies of animals) collected by the village servants;

(f) sums contributed to the village fund by ~~any~~ a district local board;

(g) all sums received by way of loans from Government or by way of ~~or~~ gift; and

(h) such other sums as may be assigned to the village fund by any general or special order of the Governor in Council.

~~23.~~ 26. In every village a house tax shall be levied in accordance with rules made by the Governor in Council.

Cf. M. of 1 57 (i U. P. 1914

House tax.

~~24.~~ 27 (1). Subject to the veto of the Governor in Council a panchayat may, with the approval of and in accordance with rules made by the district local board, levy any tax upon the owners or occupiers of houses or lands within the limits of the village. Any such owner or occupier may appeal against the assessment or levy of any such tax to the district local board, whose decision shall be final.

Additional taxation.

(2) Subject to such veto a panchayat may with such approval and in accordance with such rules impose an octroi.

Any resident of the village may appeal against the imposition of such octroi to the district local board whose decision shall be final.

25. 28. (1) If at any time in the opinion of the district local board the regular income of the panchayat falls below what is necessary for the proper discharge of the duties specified in section ~~16~~ 18, the district local board may call upon the panchayat to take steps within six months to increase its income to such a figure as it considers necessary. If the panchayat fails to take adequate steps to increase its income to the required amount, the district local board may require it to increase the house tax:

Increase of income.

Provided that in no circumstances shall the district local board have power to require the house tax to be increased beyond the maximum rate prescribed by the Governor in Council.

(2) Any panchayat may appeal to the Commissioner against the enhancement of its income and no action shall be taken by the district local board to effect such enhancement until the appeal has been decided.

Cf. Bom. III of 1901, ss. 82 and 83. U. P. II of 1914, ss. 20, 21.

26. 29. (1) On any person failing to pay any tax or instalment thereof or any due on or before the specified date of payment, the panchayat shall cause a writ of demand to be served on the defaulter and, if payment is not made within 15 days from such service, may levy such sum by distraint and sale of his movable property.

Recovery of taxes.

(2) If the panchayat either fails to recover the taxes or fines due to it or neglects to take action under the provisions of the preceding sub-section or of sub-section (4) of section ~~38~~ 41, the district local board may request the Collector to recover the same as an arrear of land revenue, and the Collector may, after holding such enquiry, if any, as he thinks fit, proceed to do so.

27. 30. Notwithstanding anything in the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1884, the district or taluka local board may assign a portion of the local fund to a panchayat for expenditure in connection with the provisions of this Act.

Bombay Local Boards Act.

Bom. I of 1884.

28. 31. (1) The district local board shall have power—

Cf. Bom. I of 1884, s. 62.

Power of inspection.

(a) to enter on and inspect, or cause to be entered on and inspected, any immovable property occupied by any panchayat, or any work in progress under it or under its direction;

(b) to call for any extract from the proceedings of a panchayat, any book or document in the possession of or under the control of a panchayat, and any return, statement, account or report which it may think fit to require such panchayat to furnish;

(c) to require a panchayat to take into consideration any objection which appears to the district local board to exist to the doing of anything which is about to be done or is being done by such panchayat, or any information which the district local board is able to furnish and which appears to it to necessitate the doing of a certain thing by the panchayat, and to make a written reply to the district local board within a reasonable time stating its reasons for not desisting from doing, or for not doing, such thing.

(2) All or any of the powers given to the district local board under the preceding sub-section may be delegated by it to its president, vice-president, chief officer, public health officer or executive engineer.

29. 32. If in the opinion of the district local board the number of persons maintained or proposed to be maintained by

Cf. Bom. I o 1884, s. 63

Extravagance in establishment.

a panchayat as officers or servants, ~~to whom a panchayat proposes to maintain~~, or the remuneration ~~assigned~~ given or proposed to be given by the panchayat to ~~those~~ such persons is excessive, the ~~said~~ panchayat shall, on the requirement of the district local board, reduce ~~the~~ such number or remuneration ~~of the said persons~~:

Provided that the panchayat may appeal against any such requirement to the Governor in Council, whose decision shall be final.

Cf. Bom. I of 1884, s. 64.

~~30.~~ 33. (1) If in the opinion of the district local board the execution of any order or resolution of a panchayat or the doing of anything which is about to be done or is being done by or on behalf of a panchayat is causing, or is likely to cause injury or annoyance to the public, or to lead to a breach of the peace, it may, by order in writing, under the signature of its president, suspend the execution or prohibit the doing thereof.

Suspension of execution of order.

(2) When a district local board makes any order under the preceding sub-section, it shall forthwith forward to the Governor in Council and to the panchayat affected thereby a copy of the order with a statement of the reasons for making it, and it shall be in the discretion of the Governor in Council to rescind the order, or to direct that it continue in force, with or without modification, permanently or for such period as he may thinks fit.

Cf. Bom. I of 1884, s. 65.

~~31.~~ 34. (1) In cases of emergency the district local board may provide for the execution of any work, or the doing of any act, which a panchayat is empowered to execute or do, and the immediate execution or doing of which is, in its opinion, necessary for the health or safety of the public, and may direct that the expense of executing the work or doing the act, ~~with a reasonable remuneration to the person appointed to execute or do it~~ shall be forthwith paid by the panchayat.

Execution of work in case of emergency.

(2) If the expense ~~and remuneration are~~ is not so paid, the district local board may direct the officer in charge of the treasury in which the village fund is kept to pay ~~the~~ such expense ~~and remuneration~~, or as much thereof as is possible, from the balance of such fund in his hands.

(3) The district local board shall forthwith report to the Governor in Council every case in which it uses the powers given to it by sub-section (1).

Cf.

~~32.~~ 35. (1) If at any time it appears to the district local board that a panchayat has made default in the performance of any duty specified in section ~~16~~ 18, it may order that that duty be performed within a specified period and, if the duty is not performed within the period specified, it may appoint some person to perform it and direct that the expense of performance ~~performing it with a reasonable remuneration to the person appointed to perform it~~, shall be paid by the defaulting panchayat within such period as the district local board may fix.

Performance of duty.

(2) If the expense ~~and remuneration are~~ is not so paid, the district local board may direct the officer in charge of the treasury in which the village fund is kept to pay ~~the~~ such expense ~~and remuneration~~, or as much thereof as is possible, from the balance of such fund in his hands.

(3) The district local board shall forthwith report to the Governor in Council every case in which it uses the powers given to it by sub-section (1).

Cf.

~~33.~~ 36. (1) If in the opinion of the Governor in Council a panchayat exceeds or abuses its powers or makes persistent default in the performance of the duties specified in section ~~16~~ 18, the Governor in Council may, after reference to the district local board, by an order in the Bombay Government Gazette, supersede ~~that~~ such panchayat for a period specified in the order.

Supersession of panchayat.

(2) When a panchayat is so superseded,

(a) all members thereof shall vacate their offices as members as from the date of the communication of the order to the sar-panch;

(b) all powers and duties of the panchayat shall, during the period of supersession, be exercised and performed by such person or persons as the district local board may from time to time appoints in that behalf; and (c) on the expiry of the period of supersession the panchayat shall be reconstituted and the persons vacating their offices under clause (a) shall be eligible for re-election.

34. 37. In all matters connected with this Act, the Governor in Council shall have and exercise the same authority and control over the district local boards as he has and exercises over them under the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1884.

Authority of Governor in Council.

Bom. I of 1884.

35. 38. (1) The district local board may, with the previous sanction of the Governor in Council, make by-laws providing for—

Cf. Bom. III of 1901, s. 48. U. P. II of 1914, s. 26.

By-laws.

(a) the purification and protection from pollution of all sources of water used for drinking purposes;

(b) the prohibition of the removal or use for drinking purposes of any water from any stream, tank, well or other source where such removal or use causes, or is likely to cause, disease or injury to health and the prevention of such removal or use by the filling in or covering over of such ~~well~~ tank or ~~tank~~ well or by any other method which may be considered advisable;

(c) the prohibition of the deposit or storage of manure, refuse or other offensive matter in a manner or in places prejudicial to the public health, comfort or convenience;

(d) the regulating of offensive callings or trades;

(e) the disposal of corpses by burning or burial;

(f) the excavation of earth and the filling up of excavations and depressions injurious to health or offensive to the neighbourhood;

(g) the removal of noxious vegetation;

(h) the repair and removal of dangerous or ruinous buildings;

(i) the prevention of the erection of buildings without adequate provision for ventilation or the laying out and location of streets;

(j) the regulation of markets and slaughter-houses; and

(k) the general regulation of sanitation and conservancy; and may with the like sanction provide a penalty not exceeding ten rupees for a breach of any such by-law.

(2) All or any of these by-laws may be applied to any village by the district local board.

(3) The making of such by-laws shall be subject to the condition of previous publication.

36. 39. (1) Every breach of a by-law made under this Act shall, unless the District Magistrate otherwise directs, be cognizable by the panchayat.

Trial for breaches of by-laws by panchayat.

(2) The panchayat shall in the presence of the accused person, or if notwithstanding the service of a notice upon the said person he fails to appear, then in his absence, take evidence as to the alleged breach and any evidence produced by the said person in his defence and shall thereupon either acquit or convict the accused person and, if he is convicted, the panchayat may sentence him to such punishment authorised by this Act or by the by-laws as it thinks reasonable.

(3) No advocate, attorney, pleader, vakil or mukhtiar shall appear before a panchayat on behalf of an accused person.

(3) (4) A person convicted by the panchayat may, at any time within ten days after sentence is passed against him, apply for revision to the District Magistrate or to such other Magistrate, not being a member of such panchayat, as the District Magistrate may, subject to the orders of the Governor in Council, from time to time appoint in this behalf.

(4) (5) In revision the Magistrate may confirm, reverse or modify the decision of the panchayat and may pass any order as to punishment which it was competent to the panchayat to pass; his order shall be enforced in like manner as one made by the panchayat.

(5) (6) Such Magistrate may suspend execution of the sentence pending disposal of the application when such suspension shall appear to him necessary or expedient, on such terms as ~~shall seem reasonable~~ he may think fit.

~~37.~~ 40. Where the District Magistrate by a special or general order so directs, any breach of such by-laws shall not be cognizable by a panchayat under section ~~36~~ 39 but shall be cognizable by a third class Magistrate and punishable as provided in this Act.

Trial by Magistrate.

U. P. II of 1914, s. 1.

~~38.~~ 41. (1) A breach of any by-law made under this Act shall be punishable, unless in any case a smaller punishment is provided in ~~the said~~ such by-laws, with fine which may extend to ten rupees and in the case of a continuing breach with fine which may extend to two rupees for every day during which the breach continues after conviction for the first breach or after receipt of notice from the panchayat to discontinue the breach.

Punishment.

(2) A person convicted by a Magistrate of a breach or a continuing breach may be sentenced in default of payment of the fine to simple imprisonment for a period which may extend to four days.

(3) A panchayat may allow a person sentenced by it to pay a fine such time not exceeding four days as it may think proper for the payment of the fine, on such terms as to security as it shall seem to the panchayat necessary to impose.

(4) Fines inflicted by a panchayat shall be recoverable by distraint and sale of the offender's movable property. If the amount of the fine is not fully recovered, the ~~offender may be imprisoned in the chavdi for a period not exceeding four days~~ panchayat may apply to a Magistrate to recover the fine or such part thereof as has not been recovered and the Magistrate shall proceed to recover the same as if the fine had been imposed by himself.

~~39.~~ 42. (1) The Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette make rules—

Rules.

(a) under section 7, regulating the elections of members of panchayats;

(b) under section 13, regulating the procedure at a meeting of a panchayat, providing for the casting vote of the sar-panch, and fixing a quorum;

(c) under section ~~18~~ 20, on default by the district local board, regulating the performance by panchayats of the duties therein referred to;

(d) under section ~~23~~ 26, regulating the levy of a house-tax;

(e) under section ~~25~~ 28, fixing a maximum rate of house-tax.

(2) The district local board may, with the previous sanction of the Governor in Council, make rules to carry out the objects of this Act except in the cases provided for in sub-section (1); in particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, such rules may be made—

(a) under section ~~18~~ 20, regulating the performance by panchayats of the duties therein referred to;

(b) under section ~~21~~ 24, fixing a time limit for submitting and the form of the statement therein referred to;

(c) under section ~~24~~ 27, regulating the levy of additional taxation.

The making of such rules shall be subject to the condition of previous publication.

~~40.~~ 43. The Governor in Council may by notification authorise any person to exercise any of the powers vested in him or conferred on district local boards in respect of panchayats by this Act and may at any time in like manner modify or cancel such authority.

Delegation of powers.

~~41.~~ 44. On any area ceasing to be a village the unexpended balance of the village fund and the property vesting in the panchayat shall vest in the district local board and shall be ~~applied~~ utilized for the benefit of the inhabitants of the area as the district local board may thinks fit:

Balance of village fund.

Provided that any property which Government may have directed to vest in the panchayat under sub-section (1) of section 21 shall re-vest in Government.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,

Secretary to the Legislative Council

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

WEDNESDAY, 25TH FEBRUARY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay Castle, 24th February 1920.

No. 428-L.—With reference to the foot-notes to the Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats), published in the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 21st February 1920, it is hereby notified that the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, LL.B., and the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B., have intimated their approval of the report as published.

2. The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai, LL.B., has recorded the following minute of dissent:—

"1. I think, in Inam, Khoti, Jahagirdari and Talukdari villages, the senior Inamdar, senior Jahagirdar, senior Talukdar and the Managing Khot should, in substitution for the Patel be ex-officio, a member of the Panchayat. In Khoti villages, there is no Patel and the administrative experience which a Patel possesses in non-Khoti villages is possessed by the Khot and the part which would be played by the Patel in non-Khoti villages will be played by the Managing Khot in Khoti villages. In Inam, Jahagirdari and Talukdari villages, the presence of the Inamdars, Jahagirdars and Talukdars as ex-officio member will add to the weight and influence of the village Panchayat. I, therefore, think that necessary changes should be made in clause 5 of the Bill in this respect.

2. In clause 6, sub-clause (a), which disqualifies a female from becoming or continuing to be an elected member of the Panchayat should be deleted. When we are trying to remove a similar disqualification imposed upon females by other enactments such as the District Municipal Act and the City of Bombay Municipal Act, we should not impose a similar disqualification on females from serving on the village Panchayats. If the adult males of the village, having regard to the education and position of a female residing within the limits of the village, think that a particular female should be fit to serve on a Panchayat I think there should be no obstacle in the way of a competent female standing as a candidate in an election.

3. In clause 7, provision should be made to entitle females in whose names house-property stands in that village, to vote at the election. The chief source of income is the house-tax and it will be anomalous to tax the house-property of a female without giving her a right of representation and therefore in the case of such females, the franchise should be given to them.

4. In clause 18 an additional sub-clause should be added, imposing the duty of planting and maintaining road-side trees and trees for shade within the limits of the village on the village Panchayats, of course within the limit of the fund at its disposal. As the construction and maintenance of minor roads is a duty imposed on Panchayats, it is necessary that provision should be made for the planting road-side trees for the comfort of the villagers and travellers.

5. In clause 20 a sub-clause should be added empowering the Panchayats to supervise the inferior village servants. In villages, certain services are rendered by Mahars to ryots and it is advisable to invest the power of control of such village servants in the Panchayats as the members of the Panchayats being the residents of the village are in a position to know the duties and liabilities of such village servants and of the ryots so as to settle disputes and make the village servants to discharge their work properly.

6. In clause 26 a proviso should be added excluding the farm houses which are not the dwelling houses of the residents of a village and which are specially constructed for purposes of agriculture, from the imposition of a house-tax."

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

MONDAY, 8TH MARCH 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay Castle, 6th March 1920.

No. 657-L.—With reference to the foot-notes to the Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats) published in the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 21st February 1920, it is hereby notified that the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud has signed the report subject to the following minute of dissent:—

"I think—

(1) that the patel should not be an ex-officio member of the panchayat;

(2) that there should be no sex bar for voters or members of panchayats;

(3) that panchayats should be invested with Civil and Criminal powers in petty cases;

(4) that some heads of village revenue should be assigned to the panchayats."

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FRIDAY, 26TH MARCH 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following papers which were placed on the Council Table at the meeting of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay held on the 13th March 1920 are published for general information :—

LIST OF BUSINESS TO BE BROUGHT FORWARD AT A MEETING ON THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY TO BE HELD IN THE COUNCIL HALL, SECRETARIAT, BOMBAY, ON SATURDAY, THE 13TH MARCH 1920, AT 12 NOON.

I.—NEW MEMBERS—

Before taking his seat a newly elected or nominated Additional Member is required to make an oath or affirmation of allegiance to the Crown.

II.—QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS—

(The list of Questions and Answers will be printed and laid on the Council Table.)

III.—PRESENTATION OF THE REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY FOR THE YEAR 1920-21—

(Resolutions on the statement have been printed and laid on the Council Table.)

IV.—BILLS—

1. A Bill to amend the law relating to the duty payable on tobacco and to the import, transport, retail sale and warehousing thereof in the City of Bombay (Bill No. IV of 1919).—Second Reading. (For amendments, see head V below.)

2. A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901 (Bill No. VI of 1919).—Second and Third Readings. (For amendments, see head V below.)

3. A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888 (Bill No. VII of 1919).—Second Reading.

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

4. A Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances (Bill No. VIII of 1919).—Second Reading.

5. A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902 (Bill No. X of 1919).—Second Reading.

6. A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats (Bill No. XI of 1919).—Second Reading. (For amendments see head V below.)

7. A Bill to amend the Bombay Disqualification of Aliens Act, 1918 (Bill No. I of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings.

8. A Bill further to amend the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879 (Bill No. II of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings.

9. A Bill to amend the Bombay Cotton Contracts Control (War Provisions) Act, 1919 (Bill No. III of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings.

V.—AMENDMENTS TO BILLS—

Notice has been received of the following :—

1. Bill No. IV of 1919 (A Bill to amend the law relating to the duty payable on tobacco and to the import, transport, retail sale and warehousing thereof in the City of Bombay) as amended by the Select Committee.

From the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

1. Clause 3.—In lines 5, 6 and 7, omit the words " the rate of seven rupees and eight annas a maund " and substitute the following for them, viz., " at such rate not exceeding 10 per cent. ad valorem as may be fixed by the Governor in Council from time to time."

2. Clause 3.—In lines 12, 13 and 14, restore the words " and any rate so fixed shall be notified in the Bombay Government Gazette."

3. Clause 18 (b).—In the last line, omit the words " arrest him " and substitute for them the following, viz., " seize it and take proceedings against him."

4. Clause 21.—Omit.

2. Bill No. VI of 1919 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901) as amended by the Select Committee.

From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

After Clause 3.—Insert the following :—

" 3A. After section 83 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

'83-A. (1) If the officer authorized to sign a warrant under sub-section (2) of section 83 shall at any time have reason to believe that any person from whom any sum is due on account of any Municipal tax is about forthwith to remove from the Municipal District the said officer may direct the immediate payment by such person of the sum so due or about to become due by him and cause a bill for the same to be presented to him.

(2) If on the presentation of such bill the said person does not forthwith pay the sum due or about to become due by him, the amount shall be leviable by distress and sale in the manner hereinbefore prescribed except that it shall not be necessary to serve upon the defaulter any notice of demand, and the said officer's warrant for distress and sale may be issued and executed without delay.' "

3. Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats) as amended by the Select Committee.

Clause 1.—

(1) From the Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.

To sub-clause 2 the following words shall be added, namely :—

" but not to any village therein in which one-half or more of the land is held on Talukdari, Inami or Khoti tenure."

(2) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

At the end of sub-clause 2, substitute a comma for the full stop and add the following :—

" but it does not apply to alienated villages or to villages held on Talukdari or Khoti tenures."

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

Clause 5.—

(3) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Substitute the following for the present clause :—

"The Panchayat shall be wholly elected."

(4) From the Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.

Between the first and second paragraphs the following proviso shall be inserted, namely :—

"provided that in any village in which one-half or more of the land is held on Talukdari, Inami or Khoti tenure, the senior Talukdar, senior Inamdar, or the Managing Khot, as the case may be, or a person resident in any such village and nominated for the purpose by any such Talukdar, Inamdar or Khot as his deputy shall be ex-officio a member of the panchayat in place of the patel."

Clause 6.—

(5) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Omit sub-clause (a) and re-letter the other sub-clauses.

(6) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

(1) Drop the 5th line "(a) is a female or"

and substitute for the letters (b), (c) and (d) at the commencement of subsequent sub-clauses, (a), (b) and (c) respectively.

(2) Drop sub-clause (e) and substitute for the letters (f), (g) and (h) at the commencement of subsequent sub-clauses, letters (d), (e) and (f) respectively.

Clause 7.—

(7) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

From line 6, delete the word "male".

(8) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Insert the following words after the word "residents" in the clause :—

"and by every adult female resident who either holds immovable property in her own right or has passed the vernacular fourth standard".

Clause 12(1).—

(9) From the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

After the words "one of themselves" insert the words "excepting the ex-officio member".

Clause 15.—

(10) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Omit the following words in lines 11 and 12 :—

"unless he be an ex-officio member of the panchayat".

Clause 18 (1) (c).—

(11) From the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

In the third line omit the words "and bridges"; also in line 7, omit the words "or bridge".

Make the consequential change by inserting "and" after the word "roads" in line 2.

Clause 18 (1) (f).—

(12) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

In sub-clause (1) (f) add before the words "grazing lands" the word "village".

Clause 20.—

(13) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

In sub-clause (d), omit the word "administrative" occurring before the word "duties" and add the words "and functions" after the word "duties".

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

Clause 23.—

(14) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

In line 10 add the words "a written" before the word "order".

Clause 25.—

(15) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

(a) Add the following as sub-clause (i) :—

"(i) the proceeds of such incomes as may be assigned to the village fund by any general or special order of the Governor in Council".

(b) Add the following as sub-clause (j) :—

"(j) the incomes of any property vesting in the panchayat under clause 21".

Clause 26.—

(16) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Add the following words at the end of the clause :—

"unless the Governor in Council directs otherwise".

(17) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

(1) Between the figure "26" and the word "In" add the figure "(1)",

(2) After clause 26, sub-clause (1), add the following :—

"(2) In alienated villages or villages held on Talukdari or Khoti tenures in which the holder of the village owns the houses, the house-tax shall be leviable from the occupiers thereof and not the owners".

Clause 27.—

(18) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

(1) After the word "village" in the 8th line add the following :—

"But in alienated villages or villages held on Talukdari or Khoti tenures in which the holder of the village himself owns houses and lands of the village as landlord, the tax on houses or lands shall be leviable from the occupiers of the same."

(2) The second sub-clause be deleted.

Clause 34.—

(19) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

At the end of sub-clause (1) add the following :—

"But the District Local Boards shall not direct the panchayats to pay any sum larger than is available to the panchayats at the time of the order either as cash or deposit in the treasury in which the funds of the panchayats are lodged or both taken together."

Clause 36 (1).—

(20) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Insert the following between the words "Government Gazette" and "supersede" in line 10, viz. :—

"in the first instance dissolve the panchayat and order a re-election thereof, and if the panchayat so re-elected is found equally remiss or refractory may".

Clause 36 (2).—

(21) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

(a) Insert the words "dissolved or" before the word "superseded" in sub-clause 2 of the clause.

(b) Insert the words "dissolution or" before the word "supersession" in line 21 of sub-clause 2 (b) of the clause.

Clause 40.—

(22) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

In line 7 substitute for the words "a third class" the word "any".

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

VI.—DISCUSSION OF MATTERS OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST—

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, LL.B.

1. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to direct that the Educational Department should examine annually each class in Government Secondary Educational schools in all the subjects prescribed therefor by the Department."

Resolution by the Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.

2. "That this Council respectfully recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Government be pleased to appoint a committee consisting of officials and non-officials to visit, if necessary, the different municipal towns, inquire, examine and report whether the taxes imposed by the District Municipalities in the Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by them to their rate-payers; and to recommend the minimum direct tax which each municipality should levy having regard to the facilities and amenities of life it has been affording to its rate-payers, the programme of improvements which each municipality has in view and the paying capacity of the residents of the municipal area."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

3. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the system of taluka courts, and of linked courts where necessary be extended to all the districts in the Presidency so that the ryots may not have to go beyond the limits of their revenue talukas for their civil litigation."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.

4. "This Council recommends that Government be pleased, when acquiring land for a new commercial concern under the Land Acquisition Act, to lay down a condition that the dispossessed owners be given the option of receiving the compensation for their lands in the form of fully paid up shares in that concern at par."

5. "That Government be pleased to consider the advisability and practicability of appointing honorary visitors to factories in the various industrial centres in the Presidency to assist the regular factory inspectors in their work of seeing that the regulations are being regularly followed in all factories."

Resolutions by the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.

6. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to convey to His Majesty the King-Emperor the humble loyalty and devotion of the Council to the person and throne of His Imperial Majesty, and its deep feelings of gratitude for the Royal Proclamation graciously expressing the Royal assent to the Government of India Bill and announcing the adoption of the great principle and policy of responsible Government for the Indian people."

7. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council eithe, to open Anglo-Vernacular schools in central places in the various sub-divisions in Sind or to make provision for the teaching of English in the Vernacular schools in important places."

8. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to make due provision for the lodging of the non-official members of the Legislative Council, during the sitting of the Council, either by the reservation of accommodation in the hotels or by the construction of residential quarters."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

9. "That a message expressing the loyal and dutiful homage of the people of this Pesidency be respectfully conveyed to His Majesty the King-Emperor and that the profound gratitude of the people be conveyed to His Majesty for His Gracious Proclamation of the 23rd December last and for giving His Royal Assent to the Government of India Bill passed by Parliament and for His Royal condescension in announcing His intention to depute His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to visit India as His Majesty's representative for the purpose of inaugurating the new constitution; and this

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

Council tenders its respectful assurance to His Majesty the King-Emperor that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will receive a most cordial and enthusiastic welcome from the people of this Presidency."

10. "That the warmest congratulations be conveyed to His Majesty's Government, to the Right Honourable Mr. E. S. Montagu, the Secretary of State for India, to the Right Honourable Lord Sinha of Raipur, the Under Secretary of State for India, and to the British Parliament on the successful passage of the Government of India Bill through the two Houses of Parliament, which measure the Council regards as a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realisation of responsible Government."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. G. M. Bhurgri, Bar.-at-Law.

11. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the draft Rules and Regulations to be framed under the Reform Act be referred for opinion to a Committee of non-official members of this Council before Government forwards its own recommendations in regard to them."

Resolutions by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

12. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the present procedure relating to the official approval of the plans and estimates for buildings for primary schools is unnecessarily cumbrous and deserves to be revised so as to facilitate the speedy construction of such buildings."

13. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the revenue year (from August to July) should be adopted as the official year for local boards instead of the financial year (from April to March) as at present."

14. "This Council recommends that His Excellency the Governor in Council may be pleased to take early steps to get the Local Boards Act amended so that the local boards may be authorized to levy a tax on vehicles including motors."

15. "This Council recommends that His Excellency the Governor in Council may be pleased to take early steps for the amendment of the Bombay District Municipal Act III of 1901 so as to empower a Municipality constituted under the said Act to prescribe the conditions on, or subject to which, and the circumstances in which, and the areas and localities in respect of which licenses may be granted, refused, suspended or withdrawn for the use of any place not belonging to the Municipality as—

(a) a factory, workshop, work-place, baking house, or as a business place in which steam, water, or other mechanical power is employed, and

(b) a hotel, eating-house, tea or coffee shop, restaurant, dining saloon, refreshment room and the like."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta, LL.B.

16. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that early legislation be undertaken for the compulsory registration of public charities."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

17. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to appoint a Committee of Inquiry to investigate the social and economic conditions of Mill and Factory Labour in the Presidency and to report on measures necessary for the prevention and handling of labour strikes, and the improvement of labour conditions in general."

18. "This Council recommends that an Advisory Committee of the Non-official Members of this Council be formed to advise Government on the rules framed under the Government of India Act, 1919, and on other cognate matters arising out of the recommendations of the Joint Select Committee, with special reference to the Bombay Presidency, the Committee to remain standing until the rules are finally approved by Parliament."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

19. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that provision be made for opening dispensaries at Taluka and Peta head-quarter stations which are at present without dispensaries."

20. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that adequate provision be made for opening a sufficient number of Marathi schools for the Marathi speaking children in the Kanara district having regard to the proportion of the Marathi speaking population of that district."

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

21. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that head masters of taluka schools be relieved of the work which they have at present to do in connection with the Vernacular schools in the taluka or be given an extra hand for the same."

22. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that he may be graciously pleased to consider the cases of the prisoners sentenced in the Akola riot case for remission of their sentences in view of the Royal Proclamation recommending amnesty in the case of persons sentenced under the Indian Defence Act."

23. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Municipalities and Local Boards be allowed to introduce the teaching of the first three English standards in their upper vernacular schools if there be more than 25 students available to attend the English classes."

Resolutions by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

24. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed to recommend what steps should be taken to make the administration of civil justice more expeditious and efficient in this Presidency."

25. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed to consider the proposals submitted by heads of offices and to make recommendations about the revision of pay of the subordinate services."

26. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the medical department of the Government of Bombay be directed to issue and widely circulate bulletins recommending simple treatments for the cure of diseases for the benefit of the village populations."

27. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that non-official presidents be appointed for District Local Boards in the remaining districts of the Central Division."

Resolution by the Honourable Major C. Fernandes, M.D., F.C.P.S., I. M. S.

28. "This Council recommends that Government be pleased to move the Government of India to amend the Lepers Act, 1898, in the light of the present day knowledge of the disease of leprosy and the manner of its spread."

VII.—PAPERS PRESENTED TO THE COUNCIL—

1. Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VI of 1919 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901).

2. Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VII of 1919 (A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888).

3. Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VIII of 1919 (A Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances).

4. Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. X of 1919 (A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902).

5. Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats).

6. Letter from the Government of India, Legislative Department, No. 186, dated 14th January 1920—Returning with the assent of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General signified thereon the authentic copy of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling (Amendment) Law, 1919.

7. Petition, dated 8th December 1919, from Mr. L. H. Idgunji and 39 others of Honavar, district Kanara, in connection with Bill No. VIII of 1919 (A Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances).

8. Representation from the Ahmedabad Municipality in connection with Bill No. VIII of 1919 (A Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances).

9. Petition, dated 20th January 1920, from Mr. J. M. Deshpande, Honorary Secretary, Inamdars' Association, Bijapur, in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats).

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

10. Translation of a petition, dated January 1920, from Mr. Udeysing Najabhai of Sanodar in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats).

11. Letter from Mr. Parshuram Abaji Bhat, LL.B., Chairman, Managing Committee, Kolaba Zilla Sabha, Bombay, dated 14th February 1920—Submitting a petition in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats).

12. Translation of a petition, dated 20th February 1920, from Khachar Giga Lakhman and 125 others, Mulgemetis of Khambhda, taluka Dhanduka, district Ahmedabad, in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provided for the constitution of village panchayats).

13. Answer to question No. 10 put by the Honourable Khan Bahadur Ebrahim Haroon Jaffer at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 7th July 1919.

Note.—The following representations in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats) as amended by the Select Committee were not considered of sufficient importance to print, but the originals have been placed upon the Council Table and are available to the Honourable Members :—

1. Letter without date from the Honorary Secretaries, Bar Association, Chikodi, district Belgaum.

2. Letter dated 26th February 1920 from Mr. Daulatrao Bajirao Deshmukh of Kasegaon, taluka Pandharpur, district Sholapur.

3. Letter No. 1, dated 7th March 1920, from Mr. P. N. Bhatkar, Honorary Secretary, Bahiskrita Hitakarin Sabha, Bombay.

4. Letter dated 9th March 1920 from Sardar Naharsingji Thakor of Amod.

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 11th March 1920.

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

FINANCIAL RESOLUTIONS ADMITTED FOR DISCUSSION AT THE MEETING OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY, THE 13TH MARCH 1920.

7.—EXCISE.

Resolution by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

1. "Omit item 22 under excise in the Draft Financial Statement."

Resolution by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

2. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the provision of Rs. 9,00,000 contained in item No. 22 in Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement for 1920-21 relating to the expenditure in connection with the supply of country spirit to licensed retail vendors in certain areas in the presidency proper be changed to Rs. 3,00,000."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

3. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 50,000 under head 22, Education, in the Draft Financial Statement for the next year for the encouragement of manual training in Boys secondary schools under private management, and to meet the expenditure by a corresponding reduction in item No. 22 under head Excise, of Statement B (expenditure in connection with the supply of country spirit to licensed retail vendors)."

4. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 50,000 under head 22, Education, in the Draft Financial Statement for 1920-21 for grants for the encouragement of the study of Domestic science (cookery, laundry, house-work, etc.), in Girls' Schools, and to meet the expenditure by a corresponding reduction in item No. 22, head Excise of the Statement B (expenditure in connection with the supply of country spirit to licensed retail vendors)."

Resolution by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

5. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the provision of Rs. 7,39,000 contained in item No. 24 in Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement for 1920-21 relating to compensation to licensed manufacturers of country spirit owing to high prices of distilling materials be dropped."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

6. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 30,000 under head 22, Education, of Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement for the next year, for providing swimming baths at Poona, Ahmedabad and Dharwar to encourage swimming among students belonging to all schools and colleges; and that the expenditure be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 24 of the said Statement B (compensation proposed to be paid to licensed manufacturers of country spirit)."

7. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to increase the provision for Building grants in item No. 263 of the Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement, under head 22, Education, by Rs. 1,00,000 and to make a corresponding reduction in item No. 24 of the same Statement, viz., compensation to licensed manufacturers of country spirit, the amount of Rs. 1,00,000 to be ear-marked for free building grants for Primary schools in municipal areas."

Resolutions by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

8. "Reduce item 24 under excise in the Draft Financial Statement by rupees one lakh and provide that sum for compensation to licensees of opium and ganja shops for losses sustained by them in the years 1918-19 and 1919-20."

9. "This Council recommends that lump provision be made for grant of Rs. 10,000 for swimming bath for schools, Dhulia, to be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 25 of the Draft Financial Statement B."

11.—FOREST.

Resolutions by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

10. "This Council recommends that lump provision be made for grant of Rs. 30,000 for Khillari cattle farm, Shirpur, to be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 41 of the Draft Financial Statement B."

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

11. "This Council recommends that lump provision be made for grant of Rs. 20,000 for Arunavati bridge, Shirpur, to be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 42 of the Draft Financial Statement B."

20.—POLICE.

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

12. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 25,000 under head 22, Education in the Budget for the next year, for grants-in-aid to approved Free Reading Rooms and Libraries in the Presidency chiefly for the purchase of reference books, and that a corresponding reduction be made in item No. 207 in Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement (Lump provision for bad climate allowance to Police officers)."

13. "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to increase the provision for the development of Primary education from the surplus excise revenue (item No. 242 of Statement B, Draft Financial Statement) by Rs. 100,000, the amount to be ear-marked for providing special facilities for the encouragement of primary education of girls, both in municipal and rural areas; and that a corresponding decrease may be made in item No. 229 of the said Statement B."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

14. "This Council recommends that the Governor in Council be pleased to disallow entries Nos. 218, 219, 220 and 221 under the head of Police in Statement B attached to the Draft Financial Statement of the Government of Bombay."

15. "This Council recommends that the Governor in Council be pleased to disallow entry No. 233 under the head of Police in Statement B attached to the Draft Financial Statement of the Government of Bombay."

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 12th March 1920.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL, 13th March 1920.

LIST OF QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

THE HONOURABLE MR. D. V. BELVI, LL.B.

Questions.	Answers.
1. (a) Is it a fact that in the Ranebennur taluka of the Dhárwár district many people who have contributed to the Second Indian War Loan through the revenue authorities have not yet received their war bonds? War Loan in Ranebennur táluka, district Dhárwár.	1. (a) On the 14th October 1919, 77 bonds of the Second Indian War Loan subscribed for through the Ranebennur Post Office remained undelivered.
(b) Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that the táluka authorities are now returning money to some of the contributors?	(b) In some cases subscribers to the Second Indian War Loan tendered payment to the Mámlatdár in Post Office Cash Certificates of the First Indian War Loan. The surplus proceeds of these Cash Certificates over and above the amounts subscribed to the Second Indian War Loan have been returned to the subscribers.
(c) Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that some bonds that have been applied for through the revenue authorities and issued are found to be in the names of persons whose identity could not be traced and thus they remain undelivered with the postal authorities?	(c) Of the 77 bonds mentioned in the answer to clause (a) 60 are in process of delivery to the persons entitled. In the case of the remaining 17 bonds, of the nominal value of Rs. 750, the full names of the holders have not been entered by the Calcutta Issue Office. The original applications have accordingly been asked for from the Calcutta Issue Office for verification. When received arrangements will be made for the delivery of the bonds.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 18th September 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]
2. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to an article in English published by the newspaper Shubhodaya under the heading "the Educational Inspector, Southern Division" in its issue of the 7th November 1919 and to an article in Kanarese under the same heading published by the newspaper Chandrodaya in its issue dated the 10th November 1919? Educational Inspector, S. D.	2. (a) and (b) In continuation of the reply given at the last meeting, it may be stated that Government have since also seen the article in Kanarese referred to by the Honourable Member. They do not, however, think that any grievance exists.
(b) If so, has Government been pleased to pass any orders for redressing the grievance of the Southern Division set out therein?
3. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if the road from Hungund to Ilkal in the Bijapur District is in a bad condition at present? Bijapur Hungund Ilkal Road.	3. (a) The road is 7½ miles long of which 4½ are in fairly good condition. Three miles made up of scattered portions are not in good condition.
(b) How many Nullas are there on the said road from Hungund to Ilkal and how many of them have been either paved or have causeways or culverts over them?	(b) There are 21 nullahs on the road of which four have slab drains and one a paved dip.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

Answers.

4. (a) With reference to their reply to question No. 11 put by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai at the meeting of the Council on the 18th September 1919, will Government be pleased to state whether the Committee has called for the opinions of any practising lawyers in the Presidency and whether it has taken any other steps to ascertain the views of the public.

Judicial Service Commission.

4. (a) The answer is in the negative. The Public Services Commission, whose recommendations regarding the Judicial Branch of the Provincial Civil Service the Committee was required to consider, had already ascertained the views of the public on the matter.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state how long and how many years ago each one of the three Indian Members of the Committee was "a practising lawyer" and the monthly salary on which each one of them began his service in the Judicial Department?

(b) A statement* giving the information is placed on the Council Table.

* Vide Appendix A.

5. (a) Is it a fact that the forest authorities of the Mundargi range in the Kanara district have recently detained over 100 agricultural animals of the inhabitants of Vannalli at Divgi, Mirjan and Mundargi and that they have demanded one rupee per herd of the cattle on the ground that they were allowed to graze in a wrong range?

Kanara, Grazing Fines.

5. (a) No. At Divgi four agricultural bullocks of Vannalli cultivators were detained for half a day by a mistake of the Patil. At Mirjan and Madangeri no Vannalli cultivators' cattle were detained.

(b) If so, is it a fact that the villagers of Vannalli used to graze their cattle in the Mundargi range of forests up to a recent date?

(b) They still do so on payment of 2 annas extra.

(c) Have any changes been recently introduced into the apportionment of ranges regarding grazing areas near the villages under consideration?

(c) Yes, in 1916.

(d) If so, was the convenience of the ryots consulted through any of their representatives before making the changes?

(d) The changes did not affect the grazing arrangements in force at that time and the cultivators were therefore not consulted.

(e) What steps were taken to inform the ryots of the changes made?

(e) None.

(f) Will Government be pleased to state the rules under which the demand made by the forest authorities is warranted?

(f) The demand of Re. 1 for agricultural animals is not warranted by rules, and in the few cases where it was collected under a misapprehension, the sum has been refunded.

6. (a) Is it true that the Conservator of Forests, S. C., has issued orders withdrawing from the cultivators in the district of Kanara the privilege of bringing fencing materials from the forests without permits?

Kanara (Fencing materials).

6. (a) and (b) The Honourable Member is referred to the answer to Question No. 14.

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to place a copy of the order or orders on the table?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.

Answers.

7. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that in the Ranebennur taluka of the Dharwar district large sums of money collected from ryots for the Second War Loan have been invested under directions of the Mamlatdar of the taluka by the postal authorities in War bonds in the names of certain Co-operative Credit Societies in the taluka without the consent of the contributors?

Ranebennur, War Loan Collections.

7. (a) Out of the sums subscribed by the ryots in Ranebennur Taluka for the Second Indian War Loan a portion was invested in war bonds through the Post Offices in the names of the Co-operative Credit Societies of the taluka. This was done with the concurrence of the members of the War Loan Committees but without the consent of the individuals concerned except in some cases where the societies themselves took the initiative, collected the money and invested the same in war bonds.

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state the names of the Co-operative Societies together with the amounts of the War Bonds thus issued in their names?

(b) The names of the Co-operative Credit Societies and the amounts of the war bonds so issued in their names stand as under:—

	Names of Societies.	Amounts of War Bonds.
		Rs.
1.	Hulihalli Agricultural Co-operative Credit Society...	1,600
2.	Motebenur do. ...	3,700
3.	Maknur do. ...	3,850
4.	Yennihosahalli do. ...	1,450
5.	Karur do. ...	2,000
6.	Chalgeri do. ...	1,925
7.	Bannihatti do. ...	1,300
8.	Asundi do. ...	2,300
9.	Airani do. ...	1,100
10.	Joisarharalali do. ...	3,000
11.	Kadarmandalgi do. ...	2,925
12.	Magod do. ...	3,500
13.	Ranebennur do. ...	12,675
14.	Byadgi Housing Association ...	500
		41,825

(c) Is it a fact that the Mamlatdar sent in the names of the contributors to the Co-operative Credit Societies considerably long after the amounts had been collected asking them to open an account in the names of the contributors and to credit the amounts contributed by them as deposits for five years without the consent of such depositors?

(c) The Mamlatdar sent the list of contributors to the majority of Co-operative Credit Societies without undue delay, but in some cases there was a delay varying from two to four months. This is reported to have been due to the rush of collections. Government have no information that the Mamlatdar specified any period for the deposit. The bonds are for a period of three years. One society, the Ranebennur Agricultural Co-operative Credit Society, contends that the investment is for five years.

(d) If so, is it true that many of the contributors are now pressing the Co-operative Societies either to return their money or to give them War Bonds in their names on the ground that they did not pay their money to be deposited with Co-operative Societies and that the Assistant Collector to whom the matter was referred in some cases has ordered that the deposits should be returned?

(d) Some of the contributors belonging to 5 villages out of 50 villages concerned have asked for the return of their money. They did so on the ground of their pecuniary needs. None of the contributors asks for War Bonds. The District Deputy Collector has ordered repayment of Rs. 275 in respect of such contributions.

(e) Is it a fact that some of the Co-operative Societies sold the War Bonds

(e) All the Co-operative Credit Societies except No. 14, viz., Byadgi

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
under the belief that the deposits were for a period of five years and advanced the proceeds of the sale in loans to their members and that the Societies are now unable to return the deposits without serious inconvenience?	Association, have sold the bonds. As stated above all the Societies except the Ranebennur Agricultural Co-operative Credit Society have acted on the assumption that the investments were for a period of three years. The sale proceeds of the bonds have been advanced to members (including among them some subscribers) of the Societies. Some Societies are prepared to repay the amounts in less than three years and the Magod Agricultural Co-operative Credit Society has already repaid the whole amount. The Ranebennur Society alone finds it inconvenient to repay the amounts before the expiry of five years, mainly on the ground that the Society is not otherwise likely to be much profited.
(f) Will Government be pleased to state in how many individual cases of deposits in the different Co-operative Societies the amount of the deposit was more than Rs. 25 and the reasons which led the Mamlatdar not to purchase War Bonds in the names of the ryots through the Post Office?	(f) Amounts of and over Rs. 25 collected from 525 individual contributors have been invested in purchasing War Bonds in the names of Co-operative Credit Societies. It is reported that this action was taken because the necessary applications for War Bonds from the contributors themselves did not reach the Mamlatdar of the taluka in time.
8. (a) Is it true that a considerable portion of cultivable land in the Haliyal taluka of the Kanara District has not been sown this year owing to unseasonable and heavy rain? (Kanara, Haliyal Crops.)	8. (a) and (b) The approximate percentage of lands left fallow to the total cultivable area is 10·6.
(b) If so, what is the approximate percentage of such land to the total cultivable area in the taluka?
(c) Have any petitions been received by the Collector of Kanara and the Commissioner, S. D., either for suspension or remission of land revenue for the current year?	(c) Yes; for both.
(d) What were the total amounts of suspensions, remissions and takavi loans granted in the taluka during each of the last five years?	(d) The appended statement* gives the required information. * Vide Appendix J.
9. (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they have empowered any District Judges or Assistant Judges in the Presidency including the Province of Sind under clause 2 of section 3 of Bombay Act VI of 1917 since the said Act came into force? (Election cases.)	9. (a) This question has already been answered.
(b) Is it a fact that a large number of cases involving questions of the validity of elections under the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, and the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1884, are pending	(b) In Sind and the Central Division there are no such cases. In the Northern Division there were two such cases in the Surat District and in the Southern Division twenty in the Bel-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
disposal for want of Judges specially empowered to try them?	gaum District and 9 in the Dharwar District. Assistant Judges in these districts have already been specially empowered to try such cases.
10. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to stray note No. 2 published in the same issue of the same newspaper* complaining against the imposition of a fine of Rs. 100 on cultivators in a village in the Kanara district? Kanara, Fines. *i. e., the "Karwar News" in its issue of 12th November 1919.	10. (a) Yes.
(b) Are the facts correctly set out in the stray note?	(b) No.
(c) If not, what are the real facts?	(c) The Honourable Member is referred to the answer to Question No. 17* put by him at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 10th December 1919. * Printed as Question No. 5 in this list.
[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]
†11. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to a letter in Marathi published in the newspaper The Kanara News in its issue of the 4th October 1919 over the signature of "A poor ryot of Supa" complaining of the exorbitant grazing fees demanded by the forest authorities there? Forest Grazing Fees.	11. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, what steps have Government taken in the matter?	(b) Collectors are authorised to raise grazing fees to Re. 1 and, with sanction of Commissioner, to Rs. 2, in cases where forest fires are frequent and the villagers do not render assistance to the authorities in preventing them. Government do not therefore consider that any action is necessary in the matter.
†12. With reference to their reply to my question No. 19 (b) put at the sessions of the Council in July 1919, will Government be pleased to state if any circular orders have been issued to the Revenue and Forest Officers in Kanara to afford all possible facilities for cultivation in the forests with a view to stimulate agriculture in the district? Cultivation in Forests.	12. Orders were issued in 1918 that cultivable land lying waste in Forest villages should be afforested and given out for cultivation by the Forest Department. The question of the correct policy with regard to Kanara forests is under consideration at present.
†13. (a) Will Government be pleased to state with reference to their reply to my interpellation No. 18 (b) in the meeting of the Council in July last if they have received a detailed report from Kanara, Decrease of Population.	13. (a) and (b) A preliminary note by Mr. Tupper has been received and the question is under investigation which must take time.

† These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answers to it were not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
Mr. Tupper, lately Collector of Kanara, regarding the decrease of population in the district?
(b) If so, what action have Government taken in the matter?
*14. (a) Has the attention of Government been called to a leading article under the heading "The end of temporary Forest concessions" published by the Karwar News in its issue dated the 12th November 1919? Forest Concessions.	14. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state the nature of the concessions, the date on which they had been granted and the reasons for their withdrawal?	(b) The concession granted was permission to take material for fences and for dams from open Forest without a permit. The concession was granted on 25th November 1918 as a temporary measure because (a) the influenza epidemic had so reduced the Forest staff that the permits could not be granted as promptly as usual and (b) in accordance with the orders of Government it was desirable in a famine year to extend the area of cultivation by all means possible. The concession was withdrawn as the special circumstances referred to no longer existed and it was found that in consequence of the concession wilful damage was done to valuable timber.
(c) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table copies of the orders for the grant and also for the withdrawal of the concessions?	(c) Copies† of the orders passed by the Conservator of Forests, S.C., are placed on the Council Table.
	† Vide Appendix N.
15. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the correspondence published on page 15 of the issue of "The Bombay Chronicle" dated 31st December 1919 under the heading "Forced labour in Bareja; Harassment by Officials"? Forced labour in Bareja.	15. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, are the allegations made therein correct?	(b) No.
(c) If not, what are the real facts?	(c) On November 8th a bullock of Jetha Valabhbhai was impressed from his well. It was found not fit for carting and returned to Jetha Valabhbhai's nephew. There is no evidence that Jetha Valabhbhai was abused and it is certain his allegations of being caned and beaten are false. The allegation that the Mamlatdar threatened Jethabhai Gokalbhai and compelled him to bring a cart is false. The Mamlatdar attempted to persuade him to give his assistance in inducing the villagers to supply carts.

* This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answer to it was not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions. Answers.

Eleven cases were lodged by the Mukhi Bareja against various villagers. There is little doubt that these cases were false. The Mukhi, a youth of 22, will be punished.

16. (a) Will Government be pleased to state in the case of each District in the Presidency of Bombay except the Province of Sind the names of the villages in which "Jagir-lands not under the General Regulations" within the meaning of section 6 of Bombay Act No. III of 1869 are exempted from the payment of local cess of one anna on every rupee of Land Revenue or Sayer Revenue?

Jagir lands: exemptions from local cess.

(b) What will be the total amount of money leviable each year in the absence of such exemption?

16. (a) and (b) Information will be called for.

17. (a) Has the attention of Government been called to a letter published on page 7 in the issue of the Bombay Chronicle dated the 16th January 1920 under the heading "Belgaum Railway Station"?

Belgaum railway station.

(b) If so, are the allegations made therein true?

(c) If not what are the real facts?

17. (a), (b) and (c) The attention of Government was not drawn to the letter in question. The Agent, Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company, was however addressed in the matter and a copy of his letter* is laid on the table.

Vide Appendix GG.

18. (a) What was the average number of tickets issued to third class passengers every day at the railway station at Belgaum from the 1st of January 1919 to the 31st December 1919?

Issue of railway tickets, Belgaum.

(b) What is the total number of platform tickets issued from the said railway station during the aforesaid period of time?

(c) What are the hours during which the booking office at the said station is open for issue of tickets to passengers?

(d) Is there a booking office at any other place than the railway station at Belgaum?

18. (a) The daily average of 3rd class tickets sold at Belgaum from 1st January 1919 to 31st December 1919 was 909.

(b) The total number of platform tickets sold at Belgaum during the same period was 30,305, i.e., average 83 daily.

(c) The booking office at Belgaum is open from 5 a. m. to 9-30 p. m. daily and during the night for 2 hours prior to due departure of each passenger train.

(d) There is no booking office at any other place than the railway station at Belgaum.

19. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) The total number of Indian public servants in each department of the administration in the Bombay Presidency?

Public servants: employment of "untouchables."

(b) The total number of public servants in each department who belong to "the untouchable classes?"

19. (a) and (b) Information is being collected.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
20. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if there are any scholarships or free studentships exclusively reserved for pupils from "the untouchable classes" in Government secondary schools or Government colleges in the Bombay Presidency including the Province of Sind? Government educational institutions: scholarships for "untouchables."	20. (a) and (b) Enquiries are being made.
(b) If so, how many and in which institutions?
21. What is the total number of pupils from "the untouchable classes" at present studying in the Presidency in Government and aided— Government educational institutions: attendance of "untouchables."	21. The information has been called for.
(a) secondary schools,
(b) professional colleges,
(c) arts colleges,
(d) medical schools, arts schools and technical and industrial schools?
22. Will Government be pleased to state:—	22. (a) The attention of the Honourable Member is requested to the statistics furnished in the last report on the administration of Civil and Criminal Justice.
(a) The total number of Civil and Criminal Courts of all descriptions in the Presidency of Bombay including the Province of Sind? Civil and Criminal Courts.
(b) The number of Civil and Criminal Courts in which there is sitting accommodation provided for parties and witnesses?	(b) and (c) Government have no information on the subject but will be ready to consider representations in any specific cases.
(c) The total number of Civil and Criminal Courts in which there are separate rooms for members of the legal profession?
23. Will Government be pleased to state if they ever applied to His Excellency the Governor General of India for extension to the Presidency of Bombay of the provisions of Act XXVI of 1917? Act XXVI of 1917.	23. No.
24. (a) Is it a fact that both the Civil and the Criminal Circular Orders of the High Court of Bombay have been out of print for some years? Criminal and Civil High Court Circulars, Bombay.	24. (a) and (b) The information will be obtained.
(b) If so, when may the public expect to have a new and revised edition of them?
25. Will Government be pleased to state:—	25. (a) and (b) Information will be called for.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
(a) The total number of students of the Bombay Veterinary College who volunteered to go on military duty and who went overseas during the last great war and who have since entered the Civil Veterinaty Department?
Bombay Veterinary College: Students and war service.
(b) The total number of such students as were specially rewarded for their services in war?
26. (a) Is it a fact that the revised scheme for the Civil Veterinary Department in the Bombay Presidency has been drawn up?	26. (a) Yes.
Civil Veterinary Department: Revised scheme.
(b) If so, was the scheme drawn up after consulting the employees of the Department and after listening to their grievances?	(b) Memorials were received and considered and the Officers of the Department consulted.
(c) When will the revised scheme come into operation?	(c) The scheme has been submitted for sanction.
27. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if they have framed any rules under section 69 of the Bombay Local Boards Act I of 1884 as amended by Bombay Act V of 1919?	27. (a) and (b) Rules have been drafted and the Commissioners have been asked to obtain the opinions of the District Local Boards with non-official presidents in their respective charges on the draft.
Rules under Bom. I of 1884.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to place a copy of the rules on the table of the Council?
28. (a) Is it a fact that the Commissioner, S. D., has recently issued a circular to the Collectors in the Division about an admixture of castes among candidates for Mamlat?	28. (a) to (e) Report will be called for.
Appointment to Mamlat: Southern Division.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the circular on the Council table?
(c) Is it true that a copy of the said circular has been sent to Rao Bahadur R. C. Artal, a retired Deputy Collector, with a request to recommend Lingayat candidates for Mamlat?
(d) Have any appointments of Mamlatdars been made recently by the Commissioner, S. D., in the Belgaum District in accordance with the principle of the aforesaid circular superseding the claims of several duly qualified and competent senior candidates for Mamlat?
(e) Was the circular issued by the Commissioner, S. D., with the approval of Government?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
29. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to an article in the issue of the Mahratta, dated 25th January 1920, under the heading "Amnesty and Savarkar brothers"? The Savarkar brothers.	29. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, is it true that Mr. G. D. Savarkar was convicted of abetting the waging of war against His Majesty by publishing a poem and was sentenced to transportation for life and confiscation of property?	(b) Ganesh D. Savarkar was sentenced to transportation for life and forfeiture of property and to two years' rigorous imprisonment by the Sessions Judge of Nasik, concurring with the assessors, for offences committed under sections 121 and 124-A of the Indian Penal Code by the publication of a book of Marathi poems which were held by the original Court and by the High Court on appeal to contain matter of a grossly seditious character and incitements to rebellion.
(c) Does the article contain a correct statement of facts?	(c) and (d) No such representations as referred to in the article have reached this Government.
(d) If not, what are the real facts?
(e) Will Government be graciously pleased to say if they ever recommended the Savarkar brothers or either of them to the clemency of the Government of India in view of the recent Royal Proclamation?	(e) No.
30. (a) Will Government be pleased to state what amounts of wharfage fees, at one anna per passenger, have been realised till now at each of the ports touched by the Killick Nixon Company's steamers sailing from Bombay to Mangalore? Wharfage fees and convenience of passengers, Bombay-Mangalore.	30. (a) to (c) The information has been called for.
(b) Are there any schemes under the consideration of Government for the convenience of passengers?
(c) If so, when are they likely to be materialised?
31. (a) Is there any prospect of the Karwar-Hubli Motor Mail Service being opened early? Karwar-Hubli Motor Mail Service.	31. (a) There is no immediate prospect of the service being opened.
(b) Why has it been delayed so long?	(b) The delay is due to the fact that the road as at present constructed is not safe for a motor service during the monsoon months.
32. (a) Will Government be pleased to place on the table a statement in a tabular form, giving the cultivated area, the anna valuation of crops, the amount of remission and suspension of revenue, the total amount of annual assessment, the number of cattle, and the general agri- Taluka Haliyal, district Kanara.	32. (a) Information will be called for.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
cultural condition of the Haliyal Taluka of the Kanara Collectorate, for each year from 1916 to date?
(b) Are Government aware of the demands made by the land holders of the taluka, as formulated in their resolutions passed at the Taluka Sabha held on 1st February 1920?	(b) No.
33. (a) Is there any reserved forest consisting of casurina trees in the Karwar town? Is Government aware of the resolutions passed by the General Committee of the Karwar Municipality on 24th June 1919 or thereabouts, asking for disafforestation of the area in the interest of the growth of the town? Reserved forest, Karwar town.	33. (a) and (b) The information asked for by the Honourable Member in the first sentence of the Question will be called for. Government are not aware of the resolutions referred to.
(b) What action has Government taken in the matter?
34. (a) Is it a fact that a certain forest official in Kanara had been entrusted with the work of preparing a scheme for the introduction of the "Taungya" system of "in-forest" cultivation in Kanara? "In forest" cultivation, Kanara.	34. (a) and (b) "Taungya" or kumri cultivation within forest boundaries has been permitted in certain places in Kanara for sometime past. The efforts which have been made to give this form of grain cultivation some economic value by combing with it tree cultivation, are now beginning to show promising results. For example 140 acres in 14 villages of the Honavar and Bhatkal talukas were cleared and cultivated with teak and ragi and the young teak is now coming on well.
(b) If so, what has been the result?
35. (a) With reference to their reply to Question No. 8 put by the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah on the 10th December 1919, will Government be pleased to state if they have submitted any proposals for the sanction of higher authorities in the matter of war allowance to Government servants on monthly salaries above 70 rupees? War allowances to Government servants.	35. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, has the sanction been received?	(b) and (c) Sanction has just been received.
(c) If not, cannot the allowance be paid in anticipation of the sanction?
36. With reference to Press Note No. 1717 (Judicial Department), dated 20th February 1920, will Government be pleased to state in a tabular form the names of the 46 printing presses and 8 newspapers in respect of which deposit of securities under the Indian Press Act, 1910, was taken and the names of the 34 presses and 5 newspapers in connection with which securities have now been ordered to be returned? Newspapers and Presses.	36. The information asked for is contained in the attached* lists. Owing to a change in the designation of one press which had not been reported at the time the Press Note was issued, the figures 46 and 34 should be altered to 45 and 33 respectively. * Vide Appendix X.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Sheriff Devji Canji; Mr. P. A. Desai.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

THE HON'BLE MR. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.

Questions.	Answers.
1. (a) Have the Government read the remarks of the Indian Industrial Commission on the question of housing of the working classes in Bombay and on the question of the location of the G. I. P. Railway workshop in the midst of an expanding residential area? (Housing of working classes, Bombay.)	1. (a) Yes.
(b) Will Government be pleased to state the steps that they have taken or propose to take in connection with the matter referred to in (a)?	(b) The matter is at present under the consideration of Government.
2. (a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to an article in the "Gujarati" of the 15th instant printed on pages 345, 346 and 347 regarding painful state of the teachers of the Mahi Kantha Agency? (School teachers, Mahi Kantha Agency.)	2. (a) Yes.
(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether teachers of the Mahi Kantha Agency are allowed any war allowance etc.? If paid, how much? If not why not?	(b) A report has been called for.
3. Will Government be pleased to state—	3. (a) and (b) A report has been called for.
(a) What is the total number of schools in the Mahi Kantha Agency? (Schools, Mahi Kantha Agency.)
(i) Number of boys and girls in each school.
(ii) Number of teachers in each school and the qualifications of each teacher.
(iii) Salaries paid to each of the members of the teaching staff in each school.
(b) When was the present scale of salaries fixed and whether the scale was revised in each case?

THE HONOURABLE MR. P. A. DESAI.

1. Will Government be pleased to state—
(a) Whether the original survey settlement in the Mangaon taluka of the Kolaba district was made after 1854 and whether any portions of lands were left unassessed as "Pot Kharab"? (Kolaba Khots: assessment of Pot Kharab.)	1. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. P. A. Desai.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) Whether Government has issued a resolution after the survey directing settlement officers to accept and confirm such "Pot Kharabs" as exempt from assessment, even at any subsequent revision?	(b) Yes.
(c) Whether the said resolution was translated into the vernacular and copies thereof were sent to all the khots in the Mangaon taluka?	(c) This resolution together with others was printed in the Government Gazette, copies placed on Editors' Table, translations into vernaculars made and supplied to vernacular newspapers. District officers were asked to place a copy of the translation on village records and to distribute it freely to the public.
(d) Whether such "Pot Kharabs" were since then brought under cultivation by the occupants at their expense?	(d) Pot Kharab has in many cases probably been brought under cultivation by occupants at their own expense, but as such improvements are not assessed, Government officers do not record them.
(e) Whether in spite of the resolution above referred to, such lands have been assessed at the Revision Survey? and	(e) and (f) No.
(f) Whether complaints with regard to the grievance were made to Government, and, if so, with what result?
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 7th July 1919, when an ad interim reply was given.]
2. Will Government be pleased to state—	2. In continuation of the reply given at the last meeting it may be stated that it is reported that Thana Municipality has, owing to insufficient funds not yet paid its primary school teachers war allowance at the scale fixed by Government. The question of making an advance asked for by the Municipality for the purpose is, however, under consideration.
(a) If the teachers of the primary schools of the Thana Municipality have applied to the Director of Public Instruction for obtaining war allowance at the scale fixed by Government and from January 1918? Thana Municipal War Allowances.
(b) What steps, if any, have been taken by Government towards securing the allowance sought for?
(c) Whether the Thana Municipality have paid these teachers according to the above scale and from the above date? If not, why not?
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when an ad interim reply was given.]
3. Will Government be pleased to state how many first and second Appeals were disposed of by the first Bench of the High Court of Bombay from June to December 1918? Appeals: High Court, Bombay.	3. The information will be obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. P. A. Desai.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
4. (a) Is it a fact that there is a dearth of hands in the Sharistedar's office on the Appellate Side of the High Court and is the work of supplying certified copies of the orders of the Court delayed for over months together? Sharistedar's office, High Court, Bombay.	4. (a) and (b) The information is to be obtained.
(b) Is it a fact that the whole of the working establishment of the Sharistedar's office on the Appellate Side of the High Court is huddled up in one room and does this not cause serious inconvenience both to the office and the pleaders practising on the Appellate Side?
5. Is the rule that the certified copies should be supplied to the applicants within ten days strictly followed on the Appellate Side in recent times in the High Court of Bombay? High Court, Bombay: Supply of certified copies.	5. The information is to be obtained.
6. (a) Will Government be pleased to publish the terms of the proposed monopoly of the tail water from Hydro-Electric Works at Khopoli to be given to the Khopoli Land Company? Tail water, Khopoli.	6. (a) The main conditions are:— (1) Payment of the cost of acquisition of the land required by the company. (2) Royalty for the use of tail water to be charged at the rates mentioned in the Press Note published on page 8 of the supplement to the Bombay Government Gazette dated 8th January 1920. The other conditions are based as far as possible on the terms of the agreement entered into with the Andhra Valley Power Supply Company, Limited, which has been published in Government Notification No. 14857-A. dated 20th December 1919, printed in the supplement to the Bombay Government Gazette dated 25th December 1919. The agreement containing the terms to be granted to the Khopoli Land Company will be published when it is executed.
(b) Does Government propose to call tenders as desired by the Indian Merchants' Chamber for giving the intended monopoly?	(b) No. Government had already fully considered the effect of a monopoly with a view to the fullest utilization for industrial purposes of all the water available.
7. Will Government be pleased to furnish a statement of the lands purchased by the Khopoli Land Company? Khopoli Land Company.	7. Government are not aware that any lands have been purchased.
8. Does Government propose to give monopoly of the tail water of the third Hydro-Electric Works now under construction in the Roha taluka of the Kolaba district by Tata Power, Limited? Hydro-Electric Works, taluka Roha, district Kolaba.	8. It is presumed that the Honourable Member refers to the Nila-Mula scheme. No proposals as regards the utilization of the tail water are at present under the consideration of Government.
If so, what are its terms?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

[Mr. P. A. Desai; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.]

Answers.

of Educational Inspector carries with it duties which are more important than those of a Head Master and because the question of the reclassification of the posts included in the Indian and Provincial Educational Services has not yet been finally settled.

*19. Will Government be pleased to state—

Fishery development.

(a) What progress has been made so far in the development of fisheries in the Southern Range?

19. (a) The Honourable Member is referred to paragraph 28 of the Annual Report of the Department of Industries for 1918-19.

(b) Whether Mr. Walke, the Superintendent, had been deputed to visit the Malabar Fishery under Sir Frederick Nicholson?

(b) Mr. Walke inspected the operations of the Madras Department of Fisheries at Calicut in May 1919.

(c) What steps have Government taken to train the local fishermen in the improved methods?

(c) Mr. Walke visits the fish curing yards for the purpose of training the local fishermen in improved methods.

THE HONOURABLE RAO SAHEB HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to give the following information in the form of a statement as regards the warrants referred to the Municipal Commissioner for the City of Bombay for execution by the Executive Officers of the District Municipalities since the insertion of sub-section 2-A to section 83 of the Bombay District Municipal Act III of 1901 by Bombay Act VIII of 1914, viz.:—

Arrears of mofussil municipalities collected in Bombay.

(1) Name of the Municipality sending warrants for execution;

(2) Number of warrants sent up by it for execution every year;

(3) The total amount to be recovered under the said warrants per year;

(4) The number of warrants executed and the total yearly recoveries for such Municipality;

(5) How many warrants remained unexecuted and for what amount.

1. (a) The information required by the Honourable Member is contained in the accompanying statements.†

† Vide Appendices O and P.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state which, if any, of the District Municipalities have made representations to Government that the Municipal Commissioner for the City of Bombay has refused to comply with his obligations under section 83 (2 A)? If so, what action have Government taken thereon?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state whether the opinion of the Honourable the Advocate General was taken in about 1917 as to the legal obligation of the Municipal Commissioner, Bombay, to execute the warrants sent up by the District Municipalities?

(b), (c) and (d). These have already been replied to.

* This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answer to it was not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

(d) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is not a fact that the District Municipalities have been mutually helping each other in executing warrants sent up for execution?

2. Will Government be pleased to state—

Municipal teachers: Salaries and War Allowances.

(a) Whether it is a fact that the teachers of the municipal schools in the towns of Mahudha in Kaira District and Ghogo in the Ahmedabad District have not received war allowances and salaries as per time scale sanctioned by Government since several months?

(b) Whether it is a fact that the Collector of Kaira had reported that the town of Mahudha was unable to bear any further taxation and that the Government should give a special subsidy to help the Municipality to bear the additional liability under the head of education?

(c) Whether the additional grant has been sanctioned?

(d) If not, are Government going to sanction it?

(e) How many other Municipalities are in a similar predicament?

3. Will Government be pleased to state

Vernacular teachers: Compulsory retirement.

(a) whether it is a fact that trained teachers in vernacular schools are compulsorily retired at the age of 55 years even when they are physically fit?

(b) If so, the grounds for not giving extensions to teachers of primary schools in cases where they are physically fit?

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when ad interim replies were given.]

*4. Will Government be pleased to state—

Ahmedabad: Government control of foodstuffs, etc.

(1) Whether any one has been appointed commission agent in Ahmedabad for alizarine colours? If so, what is his name, and remuneration and what are his duties?

Answers.

2. (a) In continuation of the reply given to him at the last Council Meeting, the Honourable Member is informed that it has been ascertained that the Ghogo Municipality have not yet paid war allowance and revised code pay to their school teachers.

Parts (b), (c), (d) and (e) of the question have already been answered.

3. (a) Trained teachers in vernacular schools like other non-ministerial officers are ordinarily required to retire at the age of 55 unless unquestionable public grounds for retention in service are shown to exist and there is no doubt as to the physical fitness of the teachers.

(b) There are no special orders regarding extension to teachers of primary schools. Their cases like those of all non-ministerial officers are governed by Article 459 (b) of the Civil Service Regulations as recently amended.

4. (1) An arrangement has been made for the distribution of alizarine dyes in Ahmedabad through an agent named Tribhovandas Hansraj who is allowed to charge six per cent. as his profit over and above the cost price and expenses of carriage from Bombay to Ahmedabad. A register of the names of persons to whom the dyes are issued is maintained by the Collector and dyes are distributed only to the persons listed by the Collector, and in proportion fixed by him which is settled according to the number of men employed.

* This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answer to it was not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. P. A. Desai.]

Questions.	Answers.
9. With reference to my question No. 4 asked at the meeting of the 10th December 1919 will Government be pleased to state definitely as to what are those steps contemplated by Government? Khopoli canal,	9. The appended statement* gives the information desired by the Honourable Member. No tannery effluent is to be discharged into the river unless chemically treated to the satisfaction of Government. * Vide Appendix Y.
10. With reference to my question No. 10 asked at the meeting of 24th July 1917 will Government be pleased to state whether Government have taken any definite steps to construct a bridge on the Patal-Ganga river? Patal-Ganga bridge.	10. Detailed plans and estimates for a bridge over the Patal-Ganga river are in course of preparation.
11. Will Government be pleased to state what was the expenditure for the district local board clerical staff under official presidents and what is it now under non-official presidents? Clerical staff, district local board.	11. Information is being obtained.
12. Will Government be pleased to state—	12. (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f). The Honourable Member's attention is invited to the final reply given to question No. 8 asked by him at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 7th July 1919.
(a) Whether the original survey settlement in the Mangaon taluka of the Kolaba district was made after 1854 and whether any portions of land were left unassessed as "Pôt-Kharab?" "Pôt-Kharab": taluka Mangaon, district Kolaba.
(b) Whether Government has issued a Resolution after the survey directing settlement officers to accept and confirm such "Pôt-Kharabs" as exempt from assessment even at any subsequent revision?
(c) Whether the said Resolution was translated into the vernacular and copies thereof were sent to all the Khots in the Mangaon taluka?
(d) Whether such "Pôt-Kharabs" were since then brought under cultivation by the occupants at their expense?
(e) Whether in spite of the Resolution, above referred to, such lands have been assessd at the revision survey?
(f) And whether complaints with regard to the grievance were made to Government and, if so, with what result?
13. Will Government be pleased to state how long they intend to keep rice under control? Rice control.	13. The attention of the Honourable member is invited to the Press Communique issued by the Government of India on the 24th of December last. It will be seen that no definite period has been stated therein. The matter is one for the Government of India to decide.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. P. A Desai.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
14. Will Government be pleased to state when they intend to take over charge of the present Anglo-Vernacular School at Bagalkot in the Bijapur district from the Municipality and raise it to the status of a High School? (Anglo-Vernacular School: Bagalkot, district Bijapur.)	14. The matter is still under consideration.
15. Will Government be pleased to state whether the railway station at Bijapur is to be removed to another site to prevent damage to the Gol Gumaz from its vicinity; if so, what site has been selected for building the railway station? (Removal of railway station, Bijapur.)	15. Information will be called for.
16. (a) Is it a fact that cultivators living near the Goa frontier in the Karwar taluka in the villages of Majali, Mudgeri, etc., are being daily subjected to examination by the customs authorities while going to their daily duties of cultivating the fields lying between the Customs Naka and the Goa frontier? (Customs Naka, Goa Frontier.)	16. (a) As long as the Customs Naka is at Majali, examination must be made there; but the villagers have recently been granted the concession of bringing fencing materials from Portuguese territory without duty.
(b) Was the attention of Government drawn to the resolutions passed by the Karwar Taluka Agricultural Conferences held at Halga and at Mudgeri complaining of the above and suggesting the removal of the Naka to the farthest limit of the frontier?	(b) Yes.
17. Is there any truth in the complaint made by the "Kanara News" of Kumta in the Kanara Collectorate in its issue of 19th February that certain restrictions on the fishing rights of the local fishermen in the Aghanashini river have been placed by Mr. Walke, the Superintendent of Fisheries in the Southern Dvision? (Fishing rights, Kumta, district Kanara.)	17. Information has been called for
18. (a) Is it a fact that Mr. Savarkar who has been admitted into the I. E. S. has been acting on a P. E. S. and that Mr. Hungund of the P. E. S. is acting on the I. E. S. post? (An educational appointment.)	18. (a) and (b) Mr. Savarkar, Educational Inspector, Northern Division, was promoted to the Indian Educational Service by utilizing the vacancy in the post of Head Master of the Dharwar High School but on the distinct understanding that he would continue to serve in his own appointment, pending inter alia the re-organization of the Indian Educational Service. He therefore continues to do duty as Educational Inspector, N. D., and Mr. Hungund, who is doing duty as Head Master of the Dharwar High School, is serving in his own post in the Provincial Educational Service and is not acting in the Indian Educational Service. The arrangement is continued because the post
(b) If so, how did the anomaly arise and on what grounds is it continued?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.]

Questions.	Answers.
(2) Why his intervention is necessary and whether he does not get commission for practically no work or risk?	(2) The Agent is a necessary part of the machinery of control which had to be introduced to prevent the exploitation of the small dyer by profiteering middlemen. Having regard to the work to be done, Government have no reason to believe that the rate of commission paid is excessive.
(3) In how many matters whether foodstuffs or other articles there is still Government control in Ahmedabad? Who are the intermediaries? What are their names in each case? What is their remuneration and what are their duties?	(3) Government control is exercised in the case of the following articles:— (i) alizarine dyes; (ii) Wheat, gram and Burma rice. As regards (i) the Honourable Member is referred to the reply to clause (1) above. As regards (ii) movement of grain between the districts within the Presidency is free. Imports from Bombay or from outside the Presidency require licenses. The latter are issued by the Director of Civil Supplies, Bombay. At present there are 64 such licensees in the City of Ahmedabad and 71 in the District whose names are given in the list† appended. The price of Burma rice alone is controlled and the licensee is allowed to charge eight annas per bag over and above the Bombay price plus the cost of carriage, etc., The prices of wheat and gram are not now controlled. These licensees alone can import these three food stuffs from Bombay and from outside the Presidency according to the allotment made by the Collector. † Vide Appendix B.
5. Will Government be pleased to give the following information:— Appeals: High Court, Bombay. (a) The number of pending appeals, civil and criminal as well as revisional applications, civil and criminal, before His Majesty's High Court at Bombay on 1st June 1919, excluding those pending for admission only. (b) The number of appeals and applications civil and criminal decided by the First and Second Divisional Benches on the Appellate Side of the High Court between 1st June 1919 and 31st December 1919. (c) A statement showing— (1) the number of appeals and applications, civil as well as criminal pending for admission only on the reopening of the High Court after the summer vacation of 1918 and 1919: (2) the number of appeals and applications civil and criminal filed between the reopening of the Court	5. The information will be obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Sardar Syed Ali El Edroos.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
after summer vacation of 1918 and 31st December 1918 and between the reopening of the summer vacation of 1919 and 31st December 1919.
(d) The number of appeals and applications, civil and criminal, similarly disposed of between the periods referred to in item (2) above.
6. Will Government be pleased to place on the table the opinion of the Advocate General No. 34, dated 11th August 1917, referred to in No. 5954, dated 24th August 1917, G. D., to the Bombay City Municipality printed as Appendix J in reply to my question 10 (b) at the Council of 10th December 1919, and relating to the obligation of the Municipal Commissioner for the City of Bombay to execute the warrants addressed to him by mofussil municipalities? (Mofussil Municipalities: warrants in Bombay City.)	6. A copy of the Honourable the Advocate General's opinion* (No. 34, dated the 11th August 1917) is placed on the Council Table. * Vide Appendix Q.
7. Will Government be pleased to state whether any special concessions of free places and scholarships are being given to the backward population of Dharalas in Gujarat for study in Middle Schools and High Schools? (Scholarships for Dharalas.)	7. "Information is being called for from the Director of Public Instruction."
8. Will Government be pleased to state whether arrangements have been made to introduce time scale salaries to teachers of primary schools in Agencies and to grant them War Allowances? (Salaries of teachers in Agencies.)	8. A report has been called for.
9. Will Government be pleased to state whether any arrangements have been made to preserve the prospects of graduates who joined service in the Revenue Department of Government before the system of taking up probationers by selection was introduced? (Graduates in the Revenue Department.)	9. Yes.

THE HONOURABLE SARDAR SYED ALI EL EDROOS.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if it has come to its knowledge that in the districts of Surat and Broach the crops are being damaged every year to a great extent by wild pigs? (Damage to crops by pigs.)	1. (a) Some damage is reported from the Chorasi Taluka of the Surat District and less from a few villages in the Broach, Jambusar and Vagra Talukas.
(b) If so, what steps have been taken to destroy them?	(b) In both districts fresh gun licenses have been issued and in Surat a grant of Rs. 300 has been made and a party of shikaris organised.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Major C. Fernandes; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hadayatallah.]

THE HONOURABLE MAJOR C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.

Questions.	Answers.
1. What were the cart hire rates per mile of impressed carts in Kanara in the years 1890, 1900, 1910, and what are they at present? (Kanara : Cart hire rates.)	1. The rate of cart hire of impressed carts in the Kanara District in the years 1890, 1900 and 1910 was two annas per mile. The present rate is four annas per mile from 1st June to 30th September and two annas per mile throughout the rest of the year.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]
*2. With reference to Government's reply to my interpellation No. 15 in the last March Session of this Council, regarding the spread of malaria in the Kanara District owing to the large growth of forest, will Government be pleased to state whether the question has been submitted to expert investigation and, if so, with what result? (Kanara: Spread of malaria.)	2. The answer is in the negative.

THE HONOURABLE RAO BAHADUR S. D. GARUD.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether the Purmapada Tank in the West Khandesh district is likely to be taken up for completion in the near future? (West Khandesh Purmapada Tank.)	1. (a) The tank will be taken up as a relief work when necessary.
(b) How much is it estimated to cost?	(b) About Rs. 10 lakhs.
(c) What amount has been already spent upon it as a famine relief work?	(c) Rs. 2,11,953.
(d) How many acres is it expected to irrigate?	(d) About 3,000 acres.
(e) When is it likely to be completed?	(e) It will take at least five years to complete the tank, if sufficient labour is available.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]

THE HONOURABLE SHAIKH GHULAM HUSSEIN HADAYATALLAH, B.A., LL.B.

1. Will Government be pleased to state— (a) If there are any balances on the educational side of the District Local Boards in Sind? (Local Board Educational Balance.)	1. (a) Yes.

*This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answer to it was not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hadayat-allah.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) If so, why they have not been spent?	(b) The balances were mainly due to the fact that grants-in-aid of school buildings were received late in the year 1918-19 and could not therefore be spent during that year.
2. Will Government be pleased to state—
Sind : peasant proprietorship. (a) If there are any peasant proprietors in Sind;	2. (a) Yes.
(b) If any attempt has been made by Government to encourage peasant proprietorship in Sind?	(b) Yes.
3. Will Government be pleased to state—
(a) What sums have been spent by Government on the clearance of the canals in Sind during the last five years; Sind : Canal Clearance; Public Works Department Bungalows.	3. (a) and (b) The Honourable Member is referred to the answer given to a similar question, No. 3, put by the Honourable Mr. G. M. Bhurgri at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 7th July 1919.
(b) What sums have been spent on the construction and maintenance of the Public Works Department Bungalows in Sind during the same period?
4. Will Government be pleased to state—
(a) What sums are proposed to be budgeted on the provincial roads in Sind; Sind : Provincial roads.	4. (a) It is not yet possible to say what sums will be allocated to these roads.
(b) Specify the District Local Board roads in Sind which they propose to provincialize?	(b) From information received up to date it is possible that the following roads may be provincialized:— 1. Road from Karachi Cemetery to Drigh. 2. Hub River Road. 3. Tatta-Jungshahi Road. 4. Radhan-Meher Road. 5. Road from Sukkur to Shikarpur. 6. Road from Shikarpur to Jacobabad. 7. Road to Maurypur Salt Works. 8. Chor to Umarkot. 9. Pad Idan to Naushahro. 10. Uderolal to Hala. 11. Uderolal to Uderolal station. Complete proposals are shortly expected.
5. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the orders of the Commissioner in Sind stopping direct recruitment to the appointment of Resident Magistrates in Sind for 2 years? Sind : Appointment of Resident Magistrates.	5. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hadayatallah.]

Questions. Answers.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons for such action?

(b) Owing to temporary causes, direct recruitment of Resident Megistrates was far in excess of normal requirements in the year 1918, and officers so recruited had to be absorbed in the ordinary cadre and the promotion of men by the ordinary method from the lower ranks was therefore blocked. In order to restore equilibrium between the two methods of recruitment, and to prevent injustice to men already serving in the lower ranks, it has become necessary to suspend direct recruitment of Resident Magistrates.

6. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the following resolutions passed by the All-India Mahomedan Educational Conference held at Khairpur in December last, viz —

Sind: Teaching of Persian; Mahomedan education.

(1) that Persian be retained as one of the subjects in the Vernacular Training College at Hyderabad as essential for the efficient teaching of Sindhi;

(2) that the recurring grant of a lakh made by Government towards Mahomedan education in Sind be substantially increased?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state what action, if any, has been, or is proposed to be, taken in the matter?

6. Resolutions of the nature referred to have not been received by Government.

7. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the memorial submitted by the primary teachers in Sind in respect of their salaries?

Sind: Memorial of primary teachers.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state what action, if any, has been, or is proposed to be, taken in the matter?

7. (a) A memorial signed by one individual teacher of a primary school in Sind has been received.

(b) The general question regarding the pay and prospects of primary school teachers is under the consideration of the Director of Public Instruction, and the memorial is being referred to that officer for consideration along with the general question.

8. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) Whether an officer who holds a permanent appointment in a higher grade and who is subsequently brought down from that appointment to one in a lower grade in the same service is to be considered reduced or reverted;

Subordinate Judges in Sind.

(b) If considered reduced, whether it is a fact that the Sub-Judges in Sind made permanent by the Commissioner in Sind's Notification No. 455, dated the 25th April 1918, Sind

8. (a) (b) and (c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to his question No. 10 put at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 10th December 1919.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hadayatallah; Sardar Gulam Jilani Bijlikhan.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
Official Gazette, dated the 2nd May 1918, Part I, page 761, as Second Class, 1st Grade, Second Class, 2nd Grade, and Second Class, 3rd Grade, have been reduced to Second Class; 2nd Grade, Second Class, 3rd Grade, and Second Class, 4th Grade, respectively, by the Commisioner in Sind's Notification No. 295, dated the 1st July 1919, Sind Official Gazette, dated the 10th July 1919, Part I, page 1466, and No. 626, dated the 17th December 1919, Part I, page 2610;
(c) If so, whether they should not be reinstated in the appointments in which they were made permanent by the Commissioner in Sind's Notification No. 455, dated the 25th April 1918, referred to above, since they have been reduced without fault?
9. Will Government be pleased to state what has been done about one lakh of rupees that has been given by Khan Bahadur Mir Ghulam Mahomed Khan, O.B.E., of Tando Bago for education in Sind? Gift to education in Sind.	9. Enquiry is being made.

THE HONOURABLE SARDAR GULAM JILANI BIJLIKHAN.

1. (a) Is it a fact that four members are nominated by Government to the Tasgaon Municipality in the Satara District in addition to the elected members? Tasgaon Municipality.	1. (a) This has already been replied to.
(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether it has been the general practice to nominate one Mahomedan as a councillor of the Municipality?	(b) and (c) A Mahomedan councillor was nominated in each of the triennial periods commencing 1907, 1910 and 1913, for which no Mahomedan councillor was elected. In 1916, a Mahomedan councillor was nominated in addition to an elected councillor of that community. In 1919, however, as the number of nominated members was reduced to 4, no Mahomedan was nominated as one member of that community was elected and it was thought that this representation was sufficient for the Mahomedan population (635 out of a total population of 6,825). Moreover, in addition to the two nominated official councillors, it was desired to nominate a Maratha and a Mahar, there being no representative of the depressed classes on the Board, and only one Maratha.
(c) If so, will Government be pleased to state why the abovementioned rule was not observed after the recent municipal elections of Tasgaon?

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

THE HONOURABLE MR. B. S. KAMAT.

Questions.	Answers.
1. (a) With reference to the general revision of pay of clerical establishments proposed by Government this year (vide Circular No. 8311, Financial Department, of 6th December last) will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table a statement showing with reference to the Revenue Department, the number of clerical and other subordinate appointments affected, the rates of pay in force at present, and the total annual costs for the establishments for all the districts?	1. (a) For the Presidency proper, the Revenue clerical posts to be revised are 3,550 in number. The rates of pay including war allowance range from Rs. 22½ to Rs. 131 per mensem and the total cost of the pay including war allowance is Rs. 20,68,788 per annum. Information for Sind is not yet available.
Pay of clerical establishments.
(b) Will Government also give figures of the total outlay on account of war allowance for the above?	(b) Information will be called for.
(c) Will Government be pleased similarly to give a list of the departments from which proposals are invited for a revision of the pay of the clerical establishments giving a tabular statement for each department, showing details as above?	(c) It is proposed to revise the pay of clerical establishments of all Departments, but the details asked for are not yet available.
(d) Will Government be pleased to state if the pay of the clerical establishments of any other department than Salt and Excise has been revised since the close of the war, and if so, what is the minimum pay of the lowest grade as now revised?	(d) Revised pay for certain clerical establishments in Bombay City have been sanctioned since the war. The lowest rate of the pay sanctioned under these revisions is Rs. 45.
2. (a) With reference to the recommendation of the Joint Select Committee on the Government of India Act, 1919, concerning reservation of seats for the Marathas, will Government be pleased to say what steps are being taken to arrive at the suggested settlement by negotiation between the Brahmins and the Marathas?	2. (a) The Reforms Commissioner has had discussions with representatives of the Maratha League and Deccan Ryots' Association on the question of who should be regarded as Marathas for the purpose of the special representation recommended by the Joint Committee. He has now called a meeting of representatives of these two bodies, of two representatives to be nominated by the Collector of Kolaba and Ratnagiri and of representatives of the Provincial Congress Committees and of the Deccan Subha to discuss the question of the extent of the special representation to be provided.
Reform Scheme: Seats for Marathas.
(b) Will Government also state the principle on which representatives of both the sides will be chosen?	(b) The principle on which Government are acting is to obtain as full representation of both sides as possible.
3. (a) Are Government aware of a universal feeling prevailing amongst the inhabitants of Poona City that the health of the town has been adversely affected owing to the defects in the Poona City drainage works?	3. (a) to (d) An enquiry is being made.
Health statistics of Poona City.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) Will Government be pleased to say if the Sanitary Commissioner to Government has looked into the comparative statistics of the health and mortality of city in the predrainage days and since the construction of the drainage system?
(c) If the answer is in the affirmative will Government please say if he has arrived at a conclusion justifying the prevalent belief?
(d) If the answer is in the negative, will Government be pleased to furnish comparative figures bearing on the mortality and the diseases in Poona City, say, during three years prior to the commencement of the drainage as well as since the construction of the drainage?
4. With reference to the proposed hydro-electric scheme by the Tata Power Company in the Poona District will Government be pleased to furnish the following information? (Hydro-electric scheme; Tata Power Company.)	4. (a) Information will be called for.
(a) What is the number of villages likely to be submerged by the dam, the number of landholders, and the total population likely to be affected?
(b) Regarding the acquisition of this area for Tata Power Company, have Government considered the practicability of any special method of compensation to the owners concerned, in view of the wide and wholesale character of the dispossession which the scheme will cause?	(b) Government propose to stipulate for the payment by the Company of all costs of compensating adequately those dispossessed either in land or cash.
(c) If the agreement under the license has been already made with the Tata Power Company, were any steps taken by Government to ask the company to treat the claims for compensation on behalf of the owners with a consideration deserving of the special hardship caused? If so, what are the provisions in the license in the interest of owners?	(c) The agreement has not yet been passed but attention is invited to the answer to (b) above.
5. Will Government be pleased to say— (a) How many shops there are in Bombay City for the sale of foreign liquor, wholesale and retail? (Foreign liquor shops.)	5. (a) The number of foreign liquor licenses in the City of Bombay is as follows:— 1. Wholesale ... 70; 2. Retail "Off" ... 55; 3. Refreshment Rooms ... 41; 4. Hotels ... 12; 5. Permanent Refreshment Stalls ... 4; 6. Retail "On" ... 38
(b) Have the licenses for these been granted by an open auction system or otherwise?
(c) If no auctions were held, were there any special reasons for the decision?	(b) and (c) Only foreign liquor "On" shops as being in the position of country

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

Questions.	Answers.
	liquor shops (excluding privileged shops, 12 in number) were granted by auction. Owing to the difficulty of securing premises and the consequent absence of free competition, a reserve price assessed at fixed fee rates was fixed, and bidding only allowed when there was more than one competition for the license at the reserve price.
6. Will Government be pleased to say:—
(a) How many shops for the vend of country liquor in the Presidency had to be re-auctioned last year owing to the licensees having failed to carry out their contracts, and what was the loss or gain to Government by the re-auctioning? Country liquor shops.	6. (a) Information will be called for.
(b) Is the auction system to be continued after the 1st of April next?	(b) and (c) The privilege of vend was disposed of by auction for 3 years ending March 31st, 1921. There will be no material change of arrangement before that date.
(c) Is the number of country liquor shops in the Presidency proposed to be generally kept the same for next year?
7. With reference to the distillery contract given to Messrs. Carew and Company for certain parts of the Presidency, what is the total loss, if any, direct or indirect to Government— Distillery contracts.	7. (a) and (b) The information will be available when the company's accounts are examined after the expiry of their contracts on 31st March 1920.
(a) Owing to the fault of the contractors?
(b) Owing to causes beyond the control of the contractors?
(c) Did Government make any cash advance to Messrs. Carew and Company to help them with the working of the contract?	(c) Yes.
8. (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many posts of Assistant Directors of Industries are proposed to be created at present and whether they are to be recruited for in England or India? Assistant Directors of Industries.	8. (a) There are at present two Assistant Directors of Industries. It is impossible to say how many more may be required in future. Assistant Directors will be recruited wherever qualified men can be found.
(b) Will Government be pleased to say (i) what were the professional qualifications of Captain Wishart who was in the Industries Department till recently? (ii) What was also his salary per month, and what was the nature of duties assigned to him specially at Dapuri? (iii) Had he any professional degree or diploma? If so, which?	(b) (i) and (iii) Captain Wishart is a B. Sc., Edinburgh, served apprenticeship with Messrs. Doughlas and Grant, and taught Engineering at the University of Birmingham and in South Africa. (ii) Rs. 1,000 per mensem. His duty was the reorganization of Dapuri Workshop to fit it for work required under the Industries Department.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Thakor of Kerwada.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
THE HONOURABLE SARDAR DULABAWA RAISINGJI, THAKOR OF KERWADA.
1. Will Government be pleased to place on the Council Table a statement showing number of inam villages in each district of the Presidency? (Inam villages in Bombay Presidency.)	1. The Honourable Member is referred to the statement placed on the Council Table at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 18th April 1907 in reply to the Question No. 3 asked by the Honourable Meherban Narayanrao Govind alias Baba Saheb Ghorpade, Jaghirdar of Ichalkaranji, at the meeting of the Council held on 16th March 1907.
2. Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table a list of Khoti villages in the Deccan? (Khoti villages in the Deccan.)	2. There are none in the Deccan.
3. Is it a fact that the village police are maintained by the proprietors of the village? (Village Police in alienated villages.)	3. No.
4. (a) Is there any educational qualification necessary for the selection of revenue and police patels of these inam villages? (Patels in alienated villages.)	4. (a) The Honourable Member is referred to page 320 of the Hereditary Offices Act edited by H. S. Phadnis.
(b) Who recommends for the post of these Patels in Inam villages?	(b) Patels are normally appointed under the provisions of Act III of 1874, under which no recommendation is required.
5. Will Government be pleased to place on the Council Table a statement showing talukdari villages in the district of Ahmedabad? (Talukdari villages in Ahmedabad district.)	5. The number of talukdari villages is 319 as shown below :— Dholka ... 43; Dhandhuka ... 110 (excluding 28 villages of the Limbdi State); Gogho ... 55; Sanand ... 34; Viramgam ... 77; Total ... 319
6. Have Government obtained the opinion of district officers on the legislation concerning village panchayats? (District officers and village panchayats.)	6. District officers were consulted before the original draft bill was prepared by Mr. Martin. They have not been consulted subsequently.
7. Will Government be pleased to place on the Council Table the opinions of district officers and all the papers relating to this legislation as well as all memorials by people against this legislation? (Papers concerning the Panchayat bill.)	7. As regards the opinions of district officers relating to the legislation in question the Honourable Member is referred to Appendices A and C to Section V of the Report of the Special Officer on Local Self-Government. Government are not prepared to place on the Table the papers relating to the legislation. With regard to the memorials by people against the legislation the attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the papers presented to the Council.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

[Thakor of Kerwada; Mr. C. V. Mehta.]

Questions.

Answers.

8. Will Government be pleased to state—

Talukdari estate of Bhunkoda.

(a) since how long the estate of Bhunkoda is under the management of the Talukdari Settlement Officer and for what grounds and sections of the Talukdari Act, it is still continued?

8. (a) The Honourable Member is referred to the answers given to clauses (a) and (b) to Question No. 4 put by the Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai at the meeting of the Legislative Council held in September last.

(b) Is it a fact that talukdars holding 91 Dokdas' Bhag of Bhunkoda applied for releasing their estates from the management of the Talukdari Settlement Officer?

(b) Inquiry will be made.

9. Is it a fact that the estate of Makhiawa was taken under the management under section 28 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act as per Government Order No. 2117, dated 6th March 1914, only for one year, and although the period of one year expired five years ago and in spite of the protest of the widows of the late Thakor, the management is still continued?

Talukdari estate of Makhiawa.

9. Inquiry will be made.

THE HONOURABLE MR. C. V. MEHTA, LL.B.

1. With reference to Press Note No. 15086 of 23rd December 1919 regarding the export of cattle will Government be pleased to state—

Export of cattle.

(a) Whether the figures relate to the year 1919;

1. (a) The figures relate to the period from 1st January 1919 upto the date of the Press Note.

(b) whether there were exports from other places besides Bombay; and if so, the number of such exports;

(b) Statement* X showing the number of cattle exported from Calcutta to foreign countries during 1918-19 and from April to December 1919, and statement* Y showing the exports of cattle from the Ports of the Madras Presidency during 1919 are appended. During the period from 1st April 1918 to December 1919, the total number of cattle exported by sea from Karachi on private account was two and on account of the Military Department was 1,059.

* Vide Appendices R and S.

(c) the number of cattle exported to Mesopotamia and other places not included in the Press Note for military or other purposes;

(c) There were no exports of cattle from Bombay to Mesopotamia and other places on account of the Military Department.

(d) the figures for exports as above during each of the last five years including 1919?

(d) The appended statement† Z shows the number of cattle exported from Bombay to foreign countries on private account during each of the five years ending 1919. There were no exports on account of Military Department during this period.

† Vide Appendix T.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. C. V. Mehta.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

2. Will Government be pleased to state the quantities of ghee and butter exported to Mesopotamia and other places during each of the last five years including 1919?

Export of ghee and butter.

3. (a) Are Government aware that several fatalities have occurred at the bathing sands at Versova and Juhu?

Drowning accidents: Bathing sands at Versova and Juhu.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the number of such accidents during the last five years?

(c) Is it proposed to take any action?

4. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the names of Kalambandi villages of Matar taluka, Kaira district, with the extent of land under cultivation and irrigation in each?

Kalambandi villages, taluka Matar, district Kaira.

(b) Is it a fact that water-rate in addition to ordinary assessment is charged on all lands in three villages? If so, what is the rate charged and the annual amount realized thereby?

(c) (i) Was water from Khari river regularly supplied to such lands during the last five years?

(ii) If not, will the Government be pleased to state why and in which years it was not so done?

(iii) Was any remission granted for the years in which water could not be supplied?

(iv) If so, what is the area for which remission was granted and the amount so remitted?

5. Has the attention of Government been drawn to resolution No. 14 passed at the first conference of the Bombay mill hands on the 14th December 1919 to the effect that liquor shops, both foreign and Indian, be closed during holidays and that Government be asked to take steps for the early closing at Mill hands and liquor shops.

Answers.

2. Statements* V and W showing respectively the quantities (i) of ghee and (ii) of butter exported from Bombay to foreign countries on private account and on account of Military Department during each of the four official years 1915-16 to 1918-19 and the first 9 months of the current year are attached.

Vide* Appendix U.

3. Enquiries are being made.

4. (a) The names of the Kalambandi villages are as follows:—

Dhathal,	Pinglaj,
Bherai,	Kanera,
Naika,	Malarpura,
Chanindra,	Pansoli,
Kathwada,	Govindpura (Inam).
Navagam,

Information regarding extent of land under cultivation and irrigation will be called for.

(b) No.

(c) Information will be called for.

5. Government have noticed the resolution but do not propose to take any action as country spirit shops in Bombay are already closed during Holi and Moharam holidays and the existing closing hour of 9-30 p.m. was fixed after consideration of all circumstances.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. C. V. Mehta; Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.]

Questions. Answers.

8 p.m. of liquor shops? Will Government be pleased to state what action has been taken in the matter?

THE HONOURABLE RAO BAHADUR V. S. NAIK.

1. With reference to the figures given in columns Nos. 19 and 21 of the statement No. 2 accompanying the latest Municipal taxation and expenditure report or the one for the year 1916-17, will Government be pleased to state separately how much of the amount in column 19 refers to the general water-rate and how much to special water-rate (including rate for taking house connections of water pipes) and how much of the amount in column 21 refers to general conservancy cess and how much to the special conservancy cess (including the cess for cleaning private latrines)?

Municipal Taxes.

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 18th September 1919, when an ad interim reply was received.]

1: The information required by the Honourable Member is contained in the accompanying statement*.

* Vide Appendix M.

2. (a) Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that vaccinators during this and last year were supplied with the same quantity of lymph every week as in the previous years although the number of children to be vaccinated was less and this lymph was usually supplied without previously consulting the vaccinators as to what quantity they might be able to consume and if any quantity was returned unused the vaccinators were invariably fined?

Supply of lymph.

2. (a) No. On the contrary owing to the set-back which vaccination work received as a result of the epidemic of influenza, the quantity of lymph supplied in the first quarter of 1919 was on the basis of 31 per thousand of population instead of the usual rate of 41. The Deputy Sanitary Commissioner and his inspectors are in the best position to estimate any change in the requirements of lymph for each area.

(b) Will Government be pleased to say on how many occasions during the last six months the vaccinators of Dharwar district have been fined for either returning the vaccine lymph sent to them without full use or for the number of children vaccinated by them being less than in previous year?

(b) The accompanying statement† shows the fines inflicted on vaccinators in the Dharwar district during the six months ending November 1919. In no case was a vaccinator fined simply because the number of children vaccinated was less than in the preceding year. Fines were inflicted after repeated warnings and after the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner had satisfied himself that the wastage in lymph was due to laziness on the part of the vaccinators in not doing the vaccination work that was available. The punishment of fines is inflicted only as a last resort.

† Vide Appendix K.

(c) Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that the vaccinators have represented to the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, S. D., that as the (c) Vaccinators who do not do their work properly always bring forward the excuse that the number of births is less than normal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
number of births during 1918 and 1919 was less than the average and consequently the number of children for vaccination was also less and thus the usual quantity of lymph supplied to them could not be consumed?
(d) Is it a fact that in spite of this representation in some cases the quantity of lymph sent was increased and in some cases the vaccinators were fined for not consuming the whole quantity of lymph supplied to them?	(d) The quantity of lymph was increased in certain areas for purposes of re-vaccination owing to the presence of epidemic small-pox in 1919. As already explained, the non-use of the lymph supplied is not the only criterion on which punishment of fines is inflicted on vaccinators.
3. Will Government be pleased to say if it is a fact that the vaccinators' peons in Dharwar district are not given travelling allowances either fixed or according to the distances travelled by them? (Vaccinators' peons: travelling allowance.)	3. Yes.
4. Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table the names of the places in which City Survey and Record of Rights have been completed, with the dates on which the records were finally promulgated, but the survey maps of which have not yet been printed? (City Surveys.)	4. The dates of promulgation of the Record of Rights are as under:—
[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]
5. (a) Will Government be pleased to say with reference to the announcement made by Government last year regarding the policy of opening 15 Government High Schools in rural areas during the course of these years and the provision of Rs. 1,00,000 made last year to meet the cost of opening 5 such High Schools in the beginning, if the 5 High Schools intended to be opened last year have been opened, and if so in what places? (Rural High Schools.)	5. (a) to (c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to a question on the subject put by the Honourable Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.
(b) If the 5 High Schools constituting the first instalment of this scheme have not been opened will Government be pleased to state the reasons that have delayed Government in carrying on the scheme and when public can expect these schools to be opened?
(c) If they have made a scheme as to where and in what years to come they wish to open these 15 High Schools?
6. Will Government be pleased—	6. (a) and (b) Yes.
(a) to obtain from the Central Provinces Government the report of the (Tractor ploughs.)

1.	Sholapur	... 15th September 1917.
2.	Nasik	... 13th April 1918.
3.	Ranebennur	... 1st June 1918.
4.	Byadgi	... 29th November 1918.
5.	Bhusawal	... 23rd February 1919.
6.	Bagalkot	... 16th April 1919.
7.	Igatpuri	... 4th July 1919.
8.	Yeola	... 12th December 1919.

QUESTIONS ANDANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Questions. Answers.

tractor plough competition recently held in the Province and lay it on the Council table or publish otherwise for the information of the agriculturists and people interested in agriculture in this Presidency?

(b) To have the report of the tractor plough competition recently held in Central Provinces examined by the agricultural experts of the Presidency as to whether the tractor ploughs and their work will be suitable to the different lands of this Presidency both for deep and shallow ploughing and for removing the weeds in the land and publish the result for the information of the agriculturists and people interested in the development of agriculture in this Presidency?

7. (a) Will Government be pleased to say how many of the graduates in each division who entered service in the Revenue Department before 1904 have still remained without getting Mamlat or offices equal in rank to Mamlat? Graduates and Mamlat.

7. Information will be called for.

8. (a) Are Government aware that recently large stacks of grass stored by rayots as fodder on their farms near the railway lines and many Gavali huts who have settled for a very long time, some even prior to the introduction of railway, towards the west of Dharwar took fire and were completely destroyed causing damage to the extent of thousands of rupees as the result of engine drivers of the M. & S. M. Railway carelessly and wantonly blowing sparks in the air? Fire caus by engine drivers.

(b) Will Government be pleased to make enquiries whether similar damages were caused to the rayots almost every year and collect information for the last 5 years as to on how many occasions the grass stored took fire along the railway lines as the result of sparks being blown from the railway engines and the extent of damage caused on each occasion by such fires and lay the same on the Council table?

8. (a) and (b) Enquiries are being made.

THE HONOURABLE MR. R. P. PARANJPYE.

1. (a) Is it a fact that Mr. Mahadeo Balkrishna Nijsure, Head Master, Mahad School, has been selected for the selection grade of Rs. 75 but that the Mahad Municipality declares its inability to pay him this increase of pay? Mahad School, pay of Headmaster.

1. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) Has Mr. Nijsure applied for a transfer to the District Local Board under which he can get the pay of the selection grade? And if so, what answer has been given to him?	(b) The presumption in the concluding portion of the first part (viz., that the master cannot get the pay of the selection grade under a Municipality) is not correct. It has been reported that Mr. Nijsure did not apply personally for a transfer to the District Local Board. Arrangements are, however, being made to transfer him from Mahad to District Local Board service on Rs. 75.
2. Will Government be pleased to say, if the Municipality of Mahad has paid war allowance to its teachers? (Mahad, Municipal war allowances.)	2. It is reported that the Municipality has been paying war allowance to its teachers since November last and that arrangements have been made to enable it to discharge its liability in this respect for the previous period.
3. Will Government be pleased to state— (a) Whether any remuneration is given to examiners for High School and Middle Scholarship Examinations (1) for Indians (2) for Europeans? (Scholarship examinations, examiner's fee.)	3. (a) This part of the question has already been answered.
(b) If so, how much was paid last year to each?	(b) In continuation of the reply given at the last meeting, it may be stated that the remuneration paid to each examiner for the High and Middle School Scholarship Examinations for Europeans was as follows :—
[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when ad interim replies were given.]
4. Will Government be pleased to say how far the project for the proposed railway from Kudchi (Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway) to Bagalkot viâ Jamkhandi has progressed? (Railway from Kudchi to Bagalkot.)	4. The Chief of Jamkhandi first applied for this line in November 1909. After consulting the Sangli and Kolhapur Durbars the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company was asked to carry out a survey which was sanctioned by the Railway Board in 1911 The project report and estimates were received by this Government in 1913. After consulting Jamkhandi Kolhapur, Sangli and Mudhol Durbars, Government communicated their views as also the terms of Jamkhandi and Sangli regarding financial aid to the Railway Board in 1914. That Board suggested revised terms. Jamkhandi accepted them but Sangli suggested modifications which were however withdrawn subsequently. The other Durbars were not willing to join the scheme.

One	at	Rs.	316	12 0
,,	,,	,,	206	4 0
,,	,,	,,	90	12 0
,,	,,	,,	85	0 0
,,	,,	,,	252	12 0
,,	,,	,,	243	0 0
,,	,,	,,	40	12 0
,,	,,	,,	177	12 0

In August 1916 this Government asked the Railway Board to sanction the construction at least of the western section of the line as early as possible. That Board intimated that for want of materials the construction of that section could not be commenced till after the war.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Pranjpye.]

Questions.

Answers.

In March 1917, the Railway Board raised the question whether Raibag should be selected as the junction with the main line and suggested that the question of the water supply at that station should be investigated by the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company. The above suggestion was approved by this Government after consulting the Kolhapur Durbar.

In September 1919 the Agent stated that a reliable supply of water was available at mile 90 on the Poona Branch and he proposed to make Raibag station the junction provided the Durbar was prepared to contribute towards the estimated cost of the watering arrangements to be made there. The Durbar has accordingly been addressed in the matter and its reply is awaited.

5. Will Government be pleased to lay on the table of the Council a list of railway lines in the Bombay Presidency (i) which are under construction, (ii) which have been sanctioned but are not under construction and (iii) those for which schemes have been submitted and are under consideration ?

Railway construction in Bombay Presidency.

5. A list* giving the information required by the Honourable Member is laid on the table.

* Vide Appendix C.

6. (i) Is it a fact that for some of the lands acquired by Government for the Belapur Sugar Syndicate, Government paid compensation equal to one hundred times the annual assessment and that now they are offering only sixty times the annual assessment for other lands required for the same syndicate ?

Land acquisition and Belapur Sugar Syndicate.

6. (i) Government have no inform as regards the number of multip the assessment represented by various awards in the acquisitior referred to. But in each case award represents, in the acqı officer's estimate, the market val the land plus 15 per cent. and is aı able to the District Court. No in tions have been issued fetterino

(ii) Is it a fact that Government intend to acquire by means of the Land Acquisition Act more land in the neighbourhood than is actually required by the Belapur Sugar Syndicate ?

7. (a) Is it a fact that the revised four years' course for the Engineering degree of the Bombay University was submitted to Government for sanction several months ago ?

Engineering degree course at Bombay University.

7. (a) Yes.

(b) Is Government going to make arrangements to introduce it from next June in the Engineering College ?

(b) The answer is in the negative. The requisite provision for the extra expenditure on account of the revised four years' course has not yet been made in the budget.

8. Will Government be pleased to lay on the table of the Council a statement containing the following information :—

Appointments of European officers.

8. The accompanying statement* furnishes the information asked for.

† Vide Appendix V.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

(a) The names of the new European officers appointed since the signing of the armistice on November 11th, 1918, to any of the services in the Bombay Presidency on recruitment either in India or in Europe?

(b) The scale of salaries granted to them?

(c) Whether the appointments have been made to fill actual vacancies or have been newly created?

(d) The qualifications of each person so appointed?

Answers.

9. (1) Did the strike of mill-hands of Sholapur begin on 26th January 1920?

Strike of mill-hands: Sholapur.

(2) Is it true that Messrs. Manikchand, Strutton, Khan Saheb Imam, retired police officer, C. I. D., and others formed themselves into a committee to intervene between the mill-hands and the mill-owners at the intance of the Collector?

(3) Is it not true that the second committee consisting of Messrs. V. N. Sathaye, retired deputy collector and honorary first class magistrate, and others along with strikers' representatives of the mill-hands from each mill, was formed to supersede the first committee in the morning of 28th January?

(4) Is it true that Messrs. Manikchand, Samant, Strutton, Laxmi Narayan and Dhumina met at the bungalow of Mr. V. N. Sathaye in the afternoon of 28th January 1920 to confer with the representatives of the mill-hands?

(5) Is it true that during the progress of this meeting at Mr. V. N. Sathaye's bungalow, Mr. Strutton got a letter from the Collector and that the former left the meeting stating that he did not wish to work on the committee?

(6) Is it true that Mr. Manikchand followed Mr. Strutton?

(7) Is it true that Messrs. Manikchand and Strutton saw the Collector in this connection that evening?

(8) Was Mr. V. N. Sathaye sent for by the Collector on 28th January 1920?

(9) Did not Mr. Sathaye visit the Collector late in the evening along with two other gentlemen?

(10) Did not the Collector insult Mr. Sathaye at this interview and threaten him that if he intervened, he would hold Mr. Sathaye responsible for any breach or blood-shed?

(11) Were mill-hands holding large meetings on Hom Maidan up to and inclusive of 15th February 1920?

9. (1) to (42). Information will be obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Questions.

Answers.

(12) Is it true that police officers were present at such meetings ?

(13) Is it true that in reply to the petition from the strikers the Collector insisted on Mr. Strutton being elected as one of the representatives ?

(14) Was there any indication of disturbance of peace on the part of mill-hands up to 16th February 1920 ?

(15) Did the strikers walk through the city without creating any disturbance in the morning of the 16th February 1920 ?

(16) Is it true that the mill-hands in the meeting on Hom Maidan swore Hindus by cow and Mahamodans by Kuran not to cause any disturbance or riot or to damage any property ?

(17) What is the distance of the place of tragedy of the 16th of February 1920 from the entrance to the Sholapur mill and what from that to the Narsingirji mill ?

(18) Do buildings exist between this place and the Narsingirji mill ? If so, what is the distance covered by the intervening buildings ?

(19) Did the strikers near the Narsingirji mill throw any stones at the mill on the 16th February 1920 ?

(20) Was any damage done to the mill buildings ?

(21) Did not the strikers near the Sholapur mill compound remain completely peaceful and fully carry out the instructions of Mr. Ellis, the District Superintendent of Police ?

(22) Is it not true that no firing was done there ?

(23) When did Mr. Ellis go to the place of firing ?

(24) Was any firing done subsequently ?

(25) Is it true that the crowd near the Sholapur mill dispersed quietly after Mr. Ellis left for the tragic place ?

(26) Is it true that it was about dark when the last firing was done ?

(27) Is it true that Government telegraph office refused to accept telegrams about firing for some time ? If so, how long and under whose orders ?

(28) Is it true that the District Magistrate and the District Superintendent of Police have made separate reports about the events of 16th February 1920 ?

(29) If so, would Government be pleased to publish them ?

(30) Is it true that those who were killed and wounded on the evening of 16th February 1920, received wounds above the waist and some in the back ?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. G. K. Parekh.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(31) Is it true that Honorary First Class Magistrate Mr. V. N. Sathaye was present at the inquests held on the dead bodies in the City dispensary on 17th February 1920?
(32) Is it true that in the case of one dead body the magistrate and the Panch suspected that the wound near the neck was by a sharp instrument and not of bullets?
(33) Is it true that this dead body was recommended by the Magistrate and the Panch for being sent to the Civil Surgeon for post-mortem examination?
(34) Was any post-mortem examination made in this case? If so, what opinion the Civil Surgeon gave?
(35) Were all those who died on account of the injuries received on 16th February 1920 in the evening buried?
(36) Is it true that Mr. V. N. Sathaye is a magistrate of over 25 years' standing?
(37) Is it true that the acting City Magistrate who took charge on 17th February 1920 called for all cases pending in the Court of Mr. Sathaye, either on 18th or 19th February 1920?
(38) Did the acting City Magistrate give any reasons for this order of his? Is it untrue that he took this action at the instance of the Collector and District Magistrate?
(39) Is it true that the District Magistrate has recommended for the withdrawal of Mr. Sathaye's powers? Has the District Magistrate given any reasons for such recommendation for withdrawal? If so, what are they?
(40) Has Government noticed the account given in the Bombay Chronicle of 26th February 1920 in the matter of mill strike and tragedy at Sholapur?
(41) Has Government verified the same by independent inquiry? If so, will Government be pleased to publish it?
(42) Does Government intend to make an independent inquiry in the matter?
THE HONOURABLE MR. G. K. PAREKH, LL.B.
1. Will Government be pleased to say— (a) Whether in the toddy booth licenses given in the taluka of Olpad of the Surat district the licenses are required to sell toddy at rates not higher than annas three per gallon? Toddy booth licenses.	1. (a) Yes; the maximum rate of three annas per gallon is applicable to that portion of the Olpad Taluka which is beyond ten miles from Surat City.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. K. Parekh.]

Questions. Answers.

(b) Will Government be pleased to say what are the average costs under the different heads of a toddy booth licensee who has obtained a license for tapping 25 trees?

(b) The expenses incurred in conducting a booth with 25 trees vary greatly. There is a fundamental division into two classes (1) the licensee who owns and taps his own trees and (2) the licensee who employs servants and takes trees on lease. The appended table* gives an estimate of the outgoings under the two classes. The estimate is only approximate.

* Vide Appendix FF.

(c) Will they be pleased to say what is the average yield of toddy per tree, at what intervals it yields toddy juice, and what is the average period during which a date palm yields toddy?

(c) The average yield of toddy per tree may be taken at 32 gallons. This is a rough estimate, the yield of trees varying considerably according to season and the care given to them. The average period during which a date palm yields toddy is three months (March, April and May) after which it is given rest for 21 months before being tapped again.

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]

2. Will Government be pleased to say—

Exportation of cattle.

(a) how many cows, bulls and young of cows were sold for export to foreign countries from farms under the management of the Agricultural Department of Government, and

2. (a), (b) and (c) Information has been called for.

(b) whether many of the animals sold were fine representatives of the Kankrej and other high caste breeds?

(c) to what countries were these animals exported?

(d) how many cows, bulls and the young of cows were exported by the steamer Numidia which left Bombay on or about the 17th October 1919 and by the steamer Varzian which left Bombay on or about the 23rd of December 1919, and

(d), (e) and (f) The accompanying statements* A and B give the information required.

Vide Appendix EE.

(e) to what countries were they taken?

(f) how many cows, bulls and the young of cows were exported by the steamers that left Bombay about 27th October and 8th November 1919 and 17th January 1920, and to which countries were they taken?

(g) whether any of the officers of Government took part or gave assistance in the purchase of animals on behalf of foreign exporters?

(g) The information has been called for.

3. Will Government be pleased to say—

Sale of opium: Ahmednagar district.

(a) whether after the issue of opium shop licenses for 1918-19 in the Ahmednagar district, Government raised the issue price of opium from Rs. 35 to Rs. 45 per seer?

3. (a) and (b) No.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. G. K. Parekh; Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) whether in the Nizam's territories that adjoin the localities of some of these shops there were numerous new opium shops opened which materially reduced the sales of the British territory shops?
THE HONOURABLE MR. A. F. I. PATHAN.
1. Will Government be pleased to state—	1. (a) (b) (c) (d) and (e) The accompanying statement* gives the information required by the Honourable Member.
(a) The number of Urdu schools in each Division of the Presidency proper and the number of pupils attending them—the numbers in each division to be given separately?	Vide* Appendix Z.
Urdu Teaching.
(b) The number of trained and untrained Urdu teachers in each division—the number of 1st year, 2nd year and 3rd year trained to be given separately?
(c) The number of Mahomedan pupils that appear with Urdu and pass in the Vernacular Final examination in each division?
(d) The number of Mahomedan pupils that appear from each division for the Training College entrance examination and the number of such pupils admitted in the Training Colleges?
(e) The number of non-Urdu primary schools in each division and the number of pupils attending them and also the number of trained and untrained teachers in these schools?
2. (a) Is it a fact that a training school has been opened at Bijapur and that such other schools are to be opened in every other district of the Presidency?	2. (a) This part of the question has already been answered.
Training Colleges.
(b) If so, has any arrangement been made or going to be made in any of these schools for Mahomedan primary schools in the Southern Division?	(b) Separate arrangements have not been made in the District Training Schools for the training of teachers for Mahomedan Primary Schools. Mahomedans are being admitted to these schools on the same terms as other teachers. A special class for Urdu mistresses is being opened at Hubli.
3. Is it true that the President of the Hubli Municipality has not recently been calling meetings in compliance with written requests made to him under section 26, clause (2), of the District Municipal Act?	3. In all four requisitions, two dated 13th July 1917 and 4th September 1917, respectively, in 1917-18, and two dated 1st August 1918 and 5th August 1918, respectively, in 1918-19 were received. In response to the two requisitions of 1917-18 special general meetings were called on 20th July 1917 and 12th February 1918, respectively. With regard to the third requisition (i.e., the first of 1918-19) the President reports that the Municipality, Hubli.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.]

Questions.

Answers.

subjects 1, 2 and 3 mentioned in the requisition were disposed of in the quarterly general meeting held on 12th August 1918 and subjects 4, 5 and 6 were disposed of in the adjourned quarterly general meeting held on 16th August 1918. The fourth requisition (i. e., the second of 1918-19) was only a reminder of the third.

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 23rd September 1918 when an ad interim reply was given.]

4. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) The number of candidates in the Ahmedabad and Poona Urdu Training classes respectively showing the number of candidates from each division in the 1st year and 2nd year classes separately?

Urdu Training Classes.

(b) The cost—recurring and non-recurring—of each of these training institutions?

4. (a) and (b) The accompanying statement* gives the information required by the Honourable Member.

* Vide Appendix L.

5. Will Government be pleased to state the number of Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors now attached to each district in the Presidency proper and the number of Mahomedan Assistant Deputies attached to each district?

Mahomedan Educational Inspectors.

5. The information required by the Honourable Member is contained in the accompanying statement.†

† Vide Appendix D.

6. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of non-Urdu primary schools that existed in each district in 1887-1888 and the number of pupils attending them?

Urdu Statistics, 1887-88.

(b) the number of Urdu schools that existed in each district in 1887-1888 and the number of pupils attending them?

(c) the number of Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors attached to each district in 1887-1888 and the number of Mahomedan Assistant Deputies attached to each district in 1887-1888 or 1888-1889?

6. (a) (b) and (c) The accompanying statement‡ gives the information required by the Honourable Member.

‡ Vide Appendix W.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when ad interim replies were given.]

7. Will Government be pleased (a) to state when Mr. A. C. Miller is expected to return and to start the Scout System in the secondary schools of this Presidency?

Scout system in secondary schools.

7. (a) to (c) Mr. Miller is expected to return to India by the middle of March 1920. No definite scheme has, however, been formulated for the introduction of the Boy Scout System in secondary schools in this Presidency pending the final orders of the Government of India on the whole question and no provision has accordingly been made on this account in next year's budget.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) To state what amount, if any, has been proposed to be set apart in the next year's budget for the purpose of introducing it?
(c) To lay on the Council table a copy of the proposed scheme?
8. Will Government be pleased—
(a) to state how far matters have proceeded in the matter of granting war allowance to Government servants drawing salaries above Rs. 100 and of revising the percentage of the war allowance now granted? War allowances to Government servants.	8. (a) The scheme has been sanctioned and orders of this Government are being issued.
(b) to lay a copy of the proposed scheme on the Council table?	(b) A copy of the Order will be supplied to the Honourable Member when issued.
9. Will Government be pleased to state when and where they propose to start the new high schools for which a provision was made in the last budget and why there has been so much delay in materialising this scheme? New High Schools.	9. A lakh has been provided in next year's budget for the purpose and five schools will be opened as soon as possible. Their exact location has not yet been decided upon. The delay has been due to the fact that Government have had their secondary education policy under consideration.
10. Will Government be pleased (a) to state when they expect to introduce the time-scale pay of secondary teachers? Improved pay to educationists.	10. (a) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to part (a) of a question on the subject put by the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani at the meeting of the Legislative Council held in March 1919. The sanction of the Secretary of State, which has been applied for through the Government of India, is still awaited.
(b) To state if it is a fact that the graduates of the Educational Department have memorialised the Government for bettering their prospects?	(b) and (c) No such memorial has been received by Government but enquiries are being made of the Director of Public Instruction.
(c) To lay a copy of the memorial on the Council table?
11. (a) Is it not a fact that village branch post offices are entrusted to the charge of such village schoolmasters as are recommended to the postal authorities by the Educational Inspector or the Deputy Educational Inspectors and that these schoolmasters get an allowance for the postal work that they do? Village schoolmasters and village post offices.	11. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, what is the maximum and minimum monthly allowance that is given to such schoolmasters for postal work and the net income of each of the branch offices in the charge of schoolmasters?	(b) Information is being called for from the Director of Public Instruction.
(c) Will Government be pleased to place on the table a statement for the Presidency proper, showing the villages in each district where postal work has been entrusted to schoolmasters, and	(c) As the preparation of the statement giving the information called for by the Honourable Member will involve too much time and labour, Government are not prepared to call for the statement.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.]

Questions.	Answers.
the religion and qualifications, period of service and pay of each of such schoolmasters as are getting postal allowance and the amount of postal allowance each gets ?
12. Is it a fact that the Forest Department used to allow people to take away wood fuel from the forests under what was called the Permit System at the rate of 4 annas per cart load and 4 pies per head load and that the system has now been abolished ? Permit System and wood fuel.	12. The Honourable Member is referred to the answer to Question No. 9 put by the Honourable Mr. Belvi at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 29th July 1918.
13. (a) Is it a fact that the Forest Department has opened several fuel depôts in the Kanara District ? Government fuel depôts; district Kanara.	13. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state how long have these depôts been in existence, the places where they have been opened, the cost of establishment and other expenditure of each of these depôts and the net profits realised each year from these depôts for the last five years and to state further whether the local forest contractors cannot supply the demand for fuel at the places where depôts have been opened ?	(b) Information has been called for.
14. (a) Is it a fact that the power to make appointments of Rangers and to give them promotions, which the Conservators used to exercise in their respective circles, has now been vested in the Chief Conservator of Forests ? Appointments and promotions; Forest Department.	14. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state whether a list of Rangers for the whole Presidency has been made or is going to be made for regulating the said appointments and promotions ?	(b) Yes.
(c) If the answer to question (b) is in the affirmative, will Government be pleased further to state the principles on which the appointments and promotions are proposed to be regulated ?	(c) For the appointment of Rangers the Honourable Member is referred to Government Notification No. 1540, dated 17th February 1913, published in the Bombay Government Gazette of the 20th idem. No special principles have been prescribed for their promotion.
15. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the letter written by a "passenger" and published in the Bombay Chronicle issue of 16th January 1920 ? Grievances of railway passengers, Belgaum.	15. (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) Attention is invited to the replies given to Questions Nos. 17 and 18 asked by the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, LL.B.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state what steps, if any, have been taken to inquire into and redress the grievances of the railway passengers complained of in the letter?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(c) What is the number of third class and platform tickets issued, on an average, every day at the Belgaum station?
(d) Is it true that a third class passenger is not allowed to enter the platform of the Belgaum station before the actual arrival of the train unless he obtains and produces a platform ticket in addition to his 3rd class ticket?
(e) Is it true that the 3rd class passenger has had to put up with great inconvenience and trouble in getting his ticket at the Belgaum station, and that this is due to Belgaum being the Military Cantonment, and if so, is it proposed to have an additional Railway station at Belgaum for the Military and a booking office in the Belgaum City as in Hubli and Poona?
16. (a) Is it true that intermediate class passengers are provided with seats only in the mail train on the M. S. M. Railway, and if so, what is the total number of intermediate seats provided in the mail train?	16. (a), (b), (c) and (d) Enquiries are being made.
Grievances of railway passengers; intermediate class.
(b) What is the average number of intermediate passengers travelling from Bangalore and intermediate stations to Poona every day?
(c) Is it true that the number of intermediate passengers far exceeds the number of seats provided for them, and if so, does the railway company propose to increase the accommodation for such passengers in the mail train or to provide seats for them in the passenger trains?
(d) Is it true that the intermediate passengers are obliged to purchase their tickets at the 3rd class booking window and have consequently to put up with the same inconvenience and trouble as the 3rd class passengers in big stations, despite the fact that they pay double the 3rd class fare? And if so, does Government propose to take any steps to redress this grievance of the intermediate passengers?
17. (a) Will Government be pleased to state what steps have been taken for reducing the cost of litigation in the Town and Island of Bombay?	17. (a) Government called for the opinions of certain public bodies on the subject, and the matter is at presen under the consideration of Government.
Cost of litigation in Bombay.
(b) Is it a fact that the High Court of Judicature at Bombay has recently, with a view to reduce the expenses of litigation, introduced a new rule of practice, viz., that in suits of the value	(b) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.]

Questions.	Answers.
of Rs. 5,000 and below, only one counsel should be engaged excepting such cases in which the Judge in Chambers certifies that the engagement of two or more counsel is necessary?
(c) If so, is it not true that this new rule, instead of remedying the evil, really adds one more item to the bill of the Solicitor in consequence of a separate hearing before a Chamber Judge as to whether in a particular case two or more counsel should or should not be engaged?	(c) Proceedings in Chambers under rule 504-A of the Rules and Forms of the Bombay High Court, 1909, are hardly ever taken.
18. Will Government be pleased to state—	18. (a) Government are not in possession of the statistics necessary to answer this question.
(a) Whether it is not a fact that the institution of attorneys entails an enormous and prohibitive cost on a greater number of litigants in Bombay? Expensive attorneys.
(b) Whether it is not the widespread desire of the public that the pleaders may be allowed to appear on the Original Side of the Bombay High Court?	(b) Government are aware that various bodies have expressed themselves in favour of such a step.
(c) Whether it is not a fact that pleaders are allowed to appear on the Original Side of the High Court at Madras?	(c) Government have no information.
(d) Whether Government have ever moved in the matters touched in sub-questions (a), (b) and (c) above, and if so, when and what were the steps taken and what was the result?	(d) The attention of the Honourable Member is directed to the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Mr. R. P. Paranjpye in the Legislative Council on 15th March 1916 and accepted by Government. In accordance with that resolution Government approached the High Court who stated that they were unable to alter rule 40 of the Rules and Forms of the Bombay High Court.
19. With reference to Government Order No. 2703 of 3rd November 1917 (Educational Department) will Government be pleased to state if all or any of the recommendations, made by the Committee appointed by Government to consider the question of the organization of the Government Law School at Bombay and accepted by Government in the said Order, have been so far carried out? And if not carried out, what are the reasons for the delay in giving effect to them? Recommendations of Government Law School Committee.	19. Of the recommendations accepted by Government in the Order quoted by the Honourable Member the only one to which effect has not yet been given is that for the provision of residential quarters for the students of the Law School on a self-supporting basis. As regards the reasons for the delay, the attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given at the meeting of the Legislative Council held in December 1919 to part (a) of Question No. 12 put by the Hon'ble Mr. D. V. Belvi. The matter will again be considered in due course.
20. (a) Have Government received any memorials from the Assistant Deputy and Deputy Educational Inspectors and from the Revenue Clerks' District Association at Dharwar praying for improvement of pay and prospects? Memorials from Dharwar.	20. (a) The reply to the first part of the question is in the negative and that to the latter part is in the affirmative.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to place copies of the memorials on the table and to state what steps is it proposed to take for redressing the grievances of the memorialists?	(b) The whole question of pay and prospects of clerical establishment is now under the consideration of Government. A copy of the memorial* from the Revenue Clerks' District Association, Dharwar, is appended herewith. * Vide Appendix AA.
21. Will Government be pleased to state when they are going to give effect to the scheme revising the pay of secondary teachers and Assistant Deputy Inspectors, and whether this scheme will have retrospective effect from April 1919? (Improved pay for educationalists.)	21. With reference to the first part of the question, the Honourable Member's attention is invited to the reply given to his Question No. 10. With reference to the latter part of the question the Honourable Member is informed that it has been suggested by this Government to the Government of India that the scheme may be brought into operation from 1st January 1920.
22. (a) Is it a fact that the Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors are required to be on tour throughout the year within their beats and that they have had no headquarter station except the district town where they are consequently obliged to keep their families? (Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors.)	22. (a) and (b) Enquiries are being made.
(b) If so, what are the facilities or concessions given to them for leaving their beats for the district town off and on to have a look into their family affairs?
23. Will Government be pleased to state how far they have hitherto progressed with the proposals accepted by them in their Order no. 1075 (Educational Department) of 22nd March 1919, passed on the report of the Director of Public Instruction, regarding the recommendations of the Committee appointed by Government to consider the subject of the promotion of Mahomedan education? (Recommendations of the Committee on Mahomedan education.)	23. The Honourable Member's attention is invited to the accompanying statement* which indicates the further progress made with regard to the proposals in question. * Vide Appendix CC.
24. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if they have received any proposal for starting the school of medicine, already proposed to be started at Dharwar, in Belgaum or some place other than Dharwar? (Proposed medical school: Dharwar.)	24. (a) and (b) Yes; a proposal of the letter referred to has just been received and the matter is under consideration. Government are not therefore prepared at present to make the grounds urged in support of the new proposal public.
(b) If so, what are the grounds given in support of the proposal and have the Government come to any decision?
25. (a) Is it a fact that a portion of the building constructed for the Royal College of Science at Bombay has been let out to Messrs. Thomas Cook and Son for purposes of a hotel? (Royal College of Science, Bombay.)	25. (a) and (b) No portion of the building has been let out to Messrs. Thomas Cook and Son. Part of the building is however being temporarily utilised for the accommodation of passengers under the management of that firm pending the completion of the building. This arrangement will cease when the building is ready to be handed over to the Educational Department.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to place on the table papers relating to the transaction?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.]

Questions. Answers.

THE HONOURABLE MR. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.

1. Will Government be pleased to state if 10th January 1920 which according to the London Gazette is fixed as the date of termination of the war between Britain and Germany will also be reckoned as the date for the purpose of section 1 (4) of Bombay Act No. II of 1918 (Bombay Rent War Restrictions Act) and also of section 1 (2) of Bombay Act No. VII of 1918 (Bombay Rent War Restrictions No. 2 Act)?

Date of termination of the War Bom. Act II of 1918: Bom. Act VII of 1918.

If not, will Government be pleased to state what date is to be reckoned for the purposes of the sections in the Acts referred to above?

1. By Government Notifications, Revenue Department (War Purposes Branch), Nos. 3381 and 3382, dated 18th August 1919, it has been declared that the Rent Acts II and VII of 1918 will remain in force for a period of two years after the date of the termination of the war as determined by clause (1) of section 2 of the Termination of the present war (Definition) Act 1919 (V of 1919). No official intimation of the declaration of such date has reached this Government and in its absence it cannot be said what date should be reckoned.

THE HONOURABLE MR. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to place on the table a statement showing the number of fairs at Pandharpur, Dakore and other pilgrimage centres (Hindu and Mahomedan) in the Bombay Presidency for which the required additional railway service was not made available owing to exigencies of the war during the years 1915-16 to 1918-19?

Pilgrimages: Railway Facilities.

1. (a) The required additional railway service was made available in the case of all fairs held at pilgrimage centres in the Bombay Presidency during the years 1915-16 to 1918-19 with the exception of the Ashadi and Kartiki fairs at Pandharpur. In the latter case, additional passenger trains were not run owing to the exigencies of the war but sufficient special trains were run to clear all the passengers who in spite of the restrictions on the issue of tickets managed to find their way to the fairs.

(b) Will Government be pleased to say for how many racing seasons at Poona during these same years race specials were not run?

(b) During this period no race special between Bombay and Poona was cancelled.

2. Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing the average variation (if any) in prices of text-books used in Government Primary, Secondary and High Schools during the years 1915-16 to 1918-19?

Education: Price of Text Books.

2. The information required by the Honourable Member is contained in the accompanying statement.* The figures given therein are merely approximate and based upon information readily available.

* Vide Appendix DD.

3. (c) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing exports of ghee including exports on account of the Military Department from Bombay during the years 1913-14, 1916-17 and 1917-18 and during the period 1st October 1919 to 30th October 1919?

Ghee exports.

3. (c) The information required by the Honourable Member is contained in the accompanying statement.*

* Vide Appendix E.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

Answers.

4. (d) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing the actual retail prices of Big Mill Special rice in the City of Bombay and at important places in the Thana and Surat Districts during last September and during the current month?

Food grain supplies.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when ad interim replies were given.]

4. (d) A statement of actual retail prices of Big Mill Special rice in Bombay during September and November 1919 was placed on the Council Table at the last meeting. Similar statements* for Thana and Surat Districts are attached.

* Vide Appendices F and G.

5. (a) Will Government be pleased to say whether they have started any scheme of fodder storage as a protection against poor fodder crops in the future, and Fodder storage by Government.

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement giving details of the same?

5. (a) and (b) The Honourable Member's attention is invited to Press Note No. 419, dated 11th February 1920, wherein Government have fully described the scheme for the storage of fodder.

6. (a) Will Government be pleased to say if they have proceeded with a systematic survey of suitable spots where green fodder can be grown by pumping water from rivers in years of scanty rainfall, and Survey for green fodder.

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to put on the table a report of the progress thus made up to date?

6. (a) A copy* of the Government Order on the subject is appended.

No. 720, dated 1st March 1920.

* Vide Appendix BB.

(b) Further details are not yet available.

7. With reference to Appendix H printed in the list of Questions and Answers at the Legislative Council Meeting of 10th December 1919, from which it appears that 402 applications for the use of boring apparatus could not be complied with by the Agricultural Department owing to the limited number of machines and staff at the disposal of the Agricultural Engineer to Government—

Shortage of boring plant.

(a) Will Government be pleased to say if this shortage of machines and staff is being remedied and if so,

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the extent to which the same is being remedied?

7. (a) and (b) Arrangements for training mechanics for boring machines are in progress. Until trained mechanics are available, it is useless to purchase more boring machines.

8. (a) Is it a fact that in slaughter houses in the Presidency, there are no restrictions against the slaughter of young milch-cattle of useful breed?

Slaughter of cattle.

(b) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing the average age of the milch-cattle slaughtered at big slaughter houses such as Bombay, Bandra, Poona, Ahmedabad and Belgaum during the last two years?

8. (a) and (b) Government have no information on the subject. It is being obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.]

Questions. Answers.

9. (a) Will Government be pleased to say what progress has been made regarding the selection of a suitable site for housing the Sydenham College of Commerce?

Housing of Sydenham College of Commerce.

(b) Pending a suitable building being ready, will Government be pleased to state if it is feasible to house the Sydenham College of Commerce in the Science Institute Building, where up to now accommodation has been found for non-educational institutions?

9. (a) The plot of land immediately behind the Royal Institute of Science, forming the chord to the arc of the Institute buildings has been selected for the construction of the proposed building of the College.

(b) It is not feasible.

10. (a) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing the amounts (if any) paid to contractors with Government in any of its departments in the years 1917-18, 1918-19, 1919-20 in excess of rates or terms fixed in contracts with such contractors?

Excess payments to contractors.

(b) If any such amounts have been paid, will Government be pleased to state the reasons for payment of such excess amounts in each case?

10. (a) and (b) The information will be called for.

11. (a) Is it a fact that the following dacoities occurred in the Surat district during the current year?

Dacoities: district Surat.

(1) About the beginning of February in taluka Olpad, village Mandroi, the house of a bania named Nemchand was attacked after dark by dacoits. The said bania was shot dead and a Musalman neighbour of his was similarly shot dead on his interfering.

(2) About the beginning of January last at taluka Olpad, village Ubhda, a Brahmin's house was attempted to be looted and the Brahmin, the village patel and the latter's son were severely wounded.

(3) In taluka Chorasi, village Bhedwad, about 5 in the afternoon in the beginning of February 1920, kanbis from village Vanz were looted on the high way and all the property that was in the carts was carried away.

(b) If the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to say if the culprits in all the three above cases have been traced, and if so, will Government be pleased to state how many days after each crime the culprits were traced?

(c) If the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state what precautions they have taken to prevent similar raids by dacoits here-

11. (a), (b) and (c) Information has been called for.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions. Answers.

after and to inspire confidence in the villagers in these parts of the Surat district?

THE HONOURABLE MR. S. B. UPASANI.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is fact that the Agent, G. I. P. Railway, has recently passed an order forfeiting the retiring gratuity in the case of the Railway employees who were absent from duty during the last strike of the workmen of the G. I. P. Railway workshops at Matunga and Parel?

Railway Strike. Retiring Gratuities.

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state what would be the total loss to the workmen as a result of this order?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is not a fact that absence from duty during the last strikes was condoned by the B. B. and C. I. and the Postal Authorities in the case of their employees for the purpose of the retiring gratuity?

1. (a) and (b) The reply is in the negative.

In this connection the attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the orders governing the grant of gratuities on retirement to subordinate State Railway employees, which are summarised in paragraph 3 of the enclosure to the Railway Board's letter No. 254—F.-16, dated 20th July 1917, extract* attached.

* Vide Appendix H.

(c) No strike occurred on the B. B. and C. I. Railway in January 1919, the time of the last strike on the G. I. P. Railway.

As regards the postal employees, the Director General, Posts and Telegraphs, ordered that the period during which the overseers and the other postmen remained absent from duty during the last strike should be treated as passed under suspension, and although for that period they were not allowed to draw any subsistence allowance he decided that it should count towards leave and pension.

2. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons why municipalities are not allowed to try the experiment of introducing the first three English standards in their own vernacular schools?

English in Vernacular Schools.

(b) Will Government be also pleased to state why no Marathi school in East Khandesh or West Khandesh was selected for the experiment?

2. (a) This part of the question has already been answered.

(b) As the experiment was to be tried in twenty villages in the whole Presidency, it was proposed to open only five classes in each division, one of them being attached to an Urdu Primary School in Central and Southern Divisions. It was therefore necessary to omit two of the seven districts in the Central Division. In the circumstances the East and West Khandesh districts were considered as one unit for the purpose of the experiment. The Urdu Primary School at Nasirabad in East Khandesh was considered to be the most suitable Urdu School in Central Division for the purpose of attaching English classes; hence no Marathi School could be selected from either of the Khandesh Districts.

(c) Did the people of Pimpalner and Nawapur in West Khandesh apply for (c) This part of the question has already been answered.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani.]

Questions. Answers.

introduction of the experiment in their schools and offer to pay the required additional charge for it, and if so why was their request not granted?

3. Is it a fact that the District Local Board of Poona has not yet removed the toll bar between Poona and Alandi, and if so will Government be pleased to state when it will be done?

Poona-Alandi Toll.

3. The toll bar has not yet been removed. Government propose to abolish, with effect from the 1st April 1920, tolls on all those local board roads in the Presidency on which they are levied at present; and the requisite provision has been made in next year's budget for the payment of compensation to the district local boards concerned for such abolition. This proposal will be carried into effect if the provision is retained in the budget as finally passed.

4. (a) Is it a fact that there has been irregular working of the goods trains on the G. I. P. Railway under the newly introduced system of heavy load trains?

G. I. P. Goods Trains.

4. (a) The answer is in the negative.

(b) Is it true that single engines are not able to work these trains and additional engines have to be attached and detached in several places at intermediate stations on the line?

(b) In order to carry a heavier traffic between Bhusaval and Igatpuri goods trains have been worked in heavier units than in the past and over the graded sections of the line a banking engine is attached.

(c) What was the usual scheduled time allowed for the run of goods trains between Bhusaval and Nandgaon and what average time is now required for the run since the heavy load train system was introduced?

(c) The running time of goods trains between Bhusaval and Igatpuri has been increased recently more on account of the depreciated condition of our locomotives as a result of conditions arising out of the war than on account of the increased load. The average scheduled running time between Bhusaval and Nandgaon is now 11 hours 15 minutes as against 8 hours 30 minutes in 1918.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]

*5. Will Government be pleased to state if the examination of the industrial and economic condition of the several parts of the Presidency undertaken by the Director of Industries, has been completed with reference to any district and, if so, will the results thereof be laid on the Table?

Industrial and Economic Survey.

5. The Honourable Member is referred to the reports of the Department of Industries for 1917-18 and 1918-19.

*6. Has the Director of Industries drawn up any scheme for the extension and improvement of industrial education in the Presidency and, if so, will the same be placed on the Table?

Industrial Education.

6. The general question of industrial education is under consideration.

*7. (a) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table the scale of fees at which licensed Stamp Vendors' fees.

7. (a) The scale† of fees is laid on the Council Table.

† Vide Appendix I.

*These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answers to it were not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.

stamp vendors are paid for sale of judicial and non-judicial stamps?

(b) What is the total number of licensed stamp vendors in the several districts in the Presidency and what was the total number of judicial and non-judicial stamps sold by them during the last official year and the average amount of fee per head earned by them?

Answers.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to statements IV at pages 7 and 14 of the Report of the Stamp Departments in the Bombay Presidency and Sind for the year ending 31st March 1919. Information as to the number of stamps sold is not available. The average of fees earned in 1918-19 was Rs. 156·3 in the Presidency proper and Rs. 68·9 in Sind.

THE HONOURABLE MR. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS.

1. Will Government be pleased to state whether it is true—

Supersession of a Police Inspector.

(a) That Mr. Udharam Gopaldas, Inspector of Police, in charge Nowshahro Circle in the Nawabshah District, Sind, has had his promotion stopped since 1916 and has been superseded by several of his subordinates, and is it a fact that at one time his services were considered so meritorious as to result in his being made to supersede several officers?

1. (a) It is the fact that Mr. Udharam Gopaldas had not been promoted since 1916, but there is no information to show that any one of the three officers who have superseded him since then was ever his subordinates. It is the fact that at the time that he was promoted to the rank of Inspector ten years ago, there were certain Sub-Inspectors senior to him who were not considered fit for such promotion and whom he accordingly superseded.

(b) that at first the instance of neglect alleged against him was that he had connived at the delay made by the Sub-Inspector in charge of the Chak Police Station in the investigation of a petty theft of wood?

(b) No. The correct facts are that ten months after the decision that his promotion should be suspended had been arrived at, the District Magistrate, on the occasion of his inspection of the records of the Chak Police Station, made a note to the effect that Mr. Udharam was blameworthy in that he had connived at the delay in the investigation of the theft in question.

(c) That the said charge was satisfactorily explained by Mr. Udharam by proving that the delay was due to the District Superintendent of Police ordering the Sub-Inspector concerned to await the result of the enquiry pending before the Mukhtyarkar respecting the ownership of the property in question?

(c) It is the fact that the District Superintendent of Police reported that in his opinion Mr. Udharam did not deserve the reprimand conveyed in the District Magistrate's note.

(d) that after the aforesaid charge was held disproved by the District Superintendent of Police, another charge was brought against Mr. Udharam by the Deputy Inspector General that he had failed to bring to the notice of the District Superintendent of Police the bad work of Sub-Inspector Ghullam Hussein Sahibali of Chak Police Station in the Shikarpur Circle, who held that charge from September 1917 to September 1918 and further that he (Mr. Udharam) failed to inspect Chak Police Station between 11th September 1917 and 5th April 1918?

(d) and (e) No such charges were formally preferred against Mr. Udharam. What happened was that, on receipt of Mr. Udharam's explanation in regard to the District Magistrate's note the Deputy Inspector General of Police for Sind in a memorandum which was communicated to Mr. Udharam, observed that in his opinion the latter did not know much about what was going on in his circle, enquired about his quarterly inspections, and stated that he was not fit for promotion. Mr. Udharam thereupon addressed a petition to the Commissioner asking for the cancellation of these remarks. In this document, however, he confined himself to rebutting the original charge

(e) that this charge was also satisfactorily explained by Mr. Udharam by stating that he was transferred from

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.]

Questions.	Answers.
the Shikarpur Circle to Upper Sind Frontier in October 1917 and that he visited the Chak Police Station on 11th September 1917?	of connivance at the delay in investigating a theft-case. The Deputy Inspector General of Police forwarded the petition with a letter in which he reported that on receipt of Mr. Udharam's original explanation he had arrived at the conclusion that that officer had omitted to bring to notice the bad work of the Sub-Inspector under him and had failed to inspect the Chak Police Station between the dates specified. The petition was recorded. It is the fact that Mr. Udharam was transferred to another charge with effect from October 1917 and that he inspected the Chak Police Station in September 1917.
(f) That the Sub-Inspector Ghulam Hussein, with not reporting whose bad work Mr. Udharam was charged, was subsequently confirmed in his appointment by the same Deputy Inspector General?	(f) The Sub-Inspector had been confirmed prior to any of these transactions.
(g) That Mr. Udharam represented to the Government that if the treatment accorded to him was due to the Home Rule activities of his son from the year 1916, he was not responsible for the same, that his son was beyond his control being a medical practitioner and a man of independent means and impervious to his discussions?	(g) No.
(h) Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table all the correspondence on the subject?	(h) Government do not propose to lay the correspondence on the Council table.
2. Will Government be pleased to state if it is true—
(a) that there are 39 posts of Police Inspectors in Sind?	2. (a) Yes.
Appointment of Police Inspectors.
(b) that the said appointments are filled up from among European sergeants and Indian Sub-Inspectors, i.e., 9 from among sergeants and 27 from among Sub-Inspectors?	(b) Yes. With the exception of direct appointments of Indian Inspectors. There are four such at present.
(c) that the number of European sergeants from among whom 9 posts are filled up is 12, and the number of Indian Sub-Inspectors from among whom 27 posts are filled up is 196?	(c) Yes. The nine posts filled by promotion from sergeants are at places where the presence of European Inspectors is considered necessary.
(d) that before being promoted to the post of Inspectors, European sergeants are not assigned any investigation work?	(d) European sergeants are responsible only for minor cases, but they have facilities for learning investigation work under the tuition of the Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors.
(e) that the post of Deputy Superintendents of Police are filled up from among last grade Inspectors?	(e) Posts of Deputy Superintendents of Police are filled up from any grade of Inspectors, the best men being appointed.
(f) that senior Inspectors are greatly dissatisfied with this procedure?	(f) Inspectors who are superseded are doubtless dissatisfied. That is, however no reason for sacrificing the public interest by promoting men of inferior qualifications.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(g) that promotions in the Police Department are given by reference to confidential sheets filled up by superior officers?	(g) Reference is usually made to the Inspector's or Sub-Inspector's confidential sheet before he is given promotion, but he is not judged solely on its evidence.
(h) that superior officers have rarely an opportunity of coming in personal contact with their subordinates, there being only one Superintendent of Police for one District?	(h) No. Superior officers come frequently into personal contact with the Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors under them. In addition to their tours of inspection and their visits to the scenes of serious offences, they have frequent occasion to meet them at their headquarters where the latter come for giving evidence, for shooting, for conferences and for other reasons.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when ad interim replies were given.]

*3. (a) Is it a fact that a committee was appointed in 1913-14 to revise the salaries of the Public Works Department clerical establishment in the Bombay Presidency including Sind and if so what was the result? Will Government place the committee's recommendations on the table?	3. (a) Yes, in 1913. A report was submitted but the proposals were held over owing to the financial stringency due to the war. The report is now out of date and new proposals are under consideration.
Public Works Department salaries.
(b) Is it a fact that the Public Works Department clerks in the Bombay Presidency including Sind have been memorialising Government ever since to hurry up the revision?	(b) Some memorials have been received from time to time.
(c) Is it a fact that some members of the Public Works Department are getting the pay fixed for their posts in 1867 and some that fixed about 1893?	(c) The last general revision was in 1910, followed by revision in individual offices in subsequent years.
(d) Is it a fact that a committee consisting of two Superintending Engineers and the Chief Engineer in Sind was again appointed about two months ago with the same object in view and if so what were the committee's recommendations and how far have they been carried out?	(d) No such committee was appointed by this Government.
(f) Is it a fact that His Excellency has ordered the appointment of a new committee to submit proposals for the revision of the pay of clerical establishments within a fixed period?	(f), (g) and (h) No such committee is to be appointed. Attention is invited to the reply given to question No. 7* put by the Honourable Mr. Upasani.
(g) If so, what is the period within which the committee is to submit its proposals?
(h) Is the revision to be made of the clerical establishments of all the departments or is it confined to Public Works Department alone?	* Printed in the list of questions and answers of the meeting held in December.
4. (a) Are Government aware that great inconvenience is felt by the public for want of telegraph offices in taluka towns in Sind and specially in Lower Sind.	4. (a) and (b). The inconvenience referred to is experienced all over the Presidency and Government propose to have all taluka towns connected by telegraph as soon as financial and constructional considerations permit.
Sind: telegraph offices.
(b) Will Government be pleased to remove that inconvenience by immediately opening telegraph offices in those places?

* This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919. The answer to it was not then ready.

APPENDIX A.

Name.	Period of practice as a pleader before being appointed a Subordinate Judge.	Date of appointment to a Subordinate Judgeship.	Salary on first appointment as a Subordinate Judge.
			Rs. a. p.
Mr. P. J. Taleyarkhan ...	About 5 years ...	3rd January 1899 ...	150 0 0
Mr. B. R. Mehendale ...	About 6 years ...	1st November 1901 ...	150 0 0
Mr. Tavardas Dayaram Vaswani ...	About 5 years ...	24th January 1903 ...	150 0 0

APPENDIX B.

List of grain dealers in Ahmedabad District who have been granted wholesale licenses to sell grain at controlled rates.

	Name of licensee.	Residence.
1.	Meman Jamal Umar ...	Ahmedabad.
2.	Haji Hasam Abha ...
3.	Jamnadas Chelabhai ...
4.	Nathalal Keshavlal ...
5.	Parsotam Amratlal ...
6.	Meman Hasan Rehman ...
7.	The Proprietor of the Beehive and B. B. S. Floor Mills.
8.	The Proprietor of the Bansi Floor Mills.
9.	Tribhovan Hansraj ...
10.	Radhakrishna Nathmaldas ...
11.	Mohanlal Mansukhram ...
12.	Sakarchand Balakhidas ...
13.	Mathuradas Jaliram ...
14.	Madanmohan Kishanlal ...
15.	Mansukhbhai Ravchand
16.	Laherchand Joitadas ...
17.	Maniram Gordhan ...
18.	Ramchandas Ramanujdas ...
19.	Kalidas Maganlal ...
20.	Ganpatram Nathalal ...
21.	Chhaganlal Kachradas ...
22.	Ramchandra Kanaiyalal ...
23.	Parasram Dwarkadas ...
24.	Mathuradas Ramchandra ...
25.	Hakamchand Lakhinarayan ...
26.	Rugnathdas Chhaganlal ...
27.	Dahyabhai Tarbhovan ...
28.	Harilal Nansa ...
29.	Ranchhoddas Vithaldas ...
30.	Gangaram Jamnadas ...
31.	Hathisingh Hargovandas ...
32.	Shah Chhotalal Chhaganlal ...
33.	Gopaldas Fatechand ...
34.	Keshavlal Ramchand ...
35.	Premchand Ganumal ...
36.	H. C. Mehta and Brothers ...
37.	Dharamchand Sarupchand ...
38.	Hiralal Dahyabhai ...
39.	Khoja Oghad Sangji ...
40.	Narandas Tricumdas ...
41.	Patel Maganlal Bapubhai ...
42.	Dahyabhai Lakhmichand ...
43.	Sakurbhai Umarbhai ...
44.	Shah Lalubhai Haribhai ...
45.	Suleman Jamal ...
46.	Janmehmad Abderehman ...
47.	Shah Khemchand Dahyabhai ...
48.	Motilal Girdhar ...
49.	Pochalal Pitamber ...
50.	Ahmedali Kikabhai ...
51.	Jamnadherji Potdao ...
52.	Shah Dahyabhai Ambalal ...
53.	Chhedimal son of Jiwanram ...
54.	Jamnadas Maganlal. ...
55.	Shantilal Sankalchand ...
56.	Ambalai Shivlal ...
57.	Nagindas P. Shroff ...
58.	Panachand Zaver ...
59.	Fadia Nathubhai Hirachand ...
60.	Chimanlal Dalpatram ...
61.	Panachand Gulabchand ...
62.	M. O. Suraiya ...
63.	Somchand Motiram ...
64.	Badriparsad ...
65.	Shah Bhagwanji Jethabhai ...	Viramgam.
66.	Manilal Ganchand ...
67.	Ramanlal Chimanlal & Co. ...
68.	Ramji Girdher ...	Viramgam.
69.	Kalidas Tribhovan ...
70.	Chhotalal Kalyanji ...
71.	Jethabhai Nathabhai ...
72.	Dhanji Devji ...
73.	Ramji Girdher, Gulam Husen & Co..
74.	Virpal Khodidas ...
75.	Wadilal Maniar, Honourary Secretary, Cheap Grain Shop.
76.	Shah Gulabchand Somchand ...
77.	Shah Virchand Batansi ...	Mandal.
78.	Vohra Manilal Somji ...
79.	Doshi Jagjiwan Chaturbhuj ...	Rampura.
80.	Shah Kalidas Pitamber ...	Viramgam.
81.	Thaker Dosa Anda ...	Dhanchi.
82.	Atmaram Mahadev ...	Patdi.
83.	Jethlal Jeitaram ...
84.	Prahladji Velji ...
85.	Pari Vadilal Pranlal ...
86.	Kalidas Motichand ...
87.	Kewalbhai Desaibhai ...	Bawla.
88.	Patel Desai Bhagwandas ...	Dholka.
89.	Harilal Sachabhai ...
90.	Gopal Punja ...
91.	Sangji Vehalji ...
92.	Nanalal Somabhai ...
93.	Pitamber Tarbhovan ...
94.	Nurbhai Dadabhai ...
95.	Kalidas Chhagan ...
96.	Jagjiwan Jaichand ...
97.	Chhaganlal Kuber ...
98.	Bansidher Jamnadas ...
99.	Damoderdas Gopaldas ...
100.	Dharamsi Samji ...	Bawla.
101.	Magan Dhanji ...
102.	Hargovan Narandas ...
103.	Kewaldas Kishoredas ...
104.	Manilal Premchand ...
105.	Nagindas Chhaganlal ...
106.	Hemchand Tarachand ...
107.	Shah Maneklal Parsotam ...	Dholka.
108.	Patel Chhaganlal Hargovandas ...	Bawla.
109.	Shah Vadilal Tarachand ...	Dholka.
110.	Karsan Bapalal ...	Kanka.
111.	Shah Narandas Kalidas ...	Dhandhuka.
112.	Doshi Vithaldas Maganlal ...	Ranpur.
113.	Shah Ratilal Vardhman ...
114.	Mathurdas Haribhai ...
115.	Zugabhai Jiwandas ...
116.	Chhotalal Haribhai ...	Dhandhuka.
117.	Shantilal Madhavlal ...
118.	Thaker Laxmidas Ratanji ...	Dhollera.
119.	Shantilal Taksi Parikh ...
120.	Khoja Velsibhai Dhanji ...
121.	Chunilal Lallu ...
122.	Sarafali Rajabali ...
123.	Bhawanishanker Bapuji ...	Ambli Road.
124.	Maganlal Lalchand ...	Acher.
125.	Sulabhai Vahalabhai ...	Bareja.
126.	Lallubhai Hakamchand ...
127.	Lallu Jayantilal ...	Gogha.
128.	Maganlal Panachand ...
129.	Tokarsi Tarbhovan ...	Sanand.
130.	Manilal Velsi ...
131.	Doshi Lallubhai Ganpatrao ...	Harsal.
132.	Ranchhodlal Mabalakhram ...
133.	Kotadia Tarachand Mithbhai ...	Parantij.
134.	Karimbhai Rasulbhai ...
135.	Sheth Maganbhai Pitamberdas ...

APPENDIX C.

List of Railway lines in the Bombay Presidency : (1) under construction, (2) sanctioned, but are not under construction and (3) for which schemes have been submitted and are under consideration.

Lines under construction.	Lines sanctioned but not under construction.	Lines for which schemes have been submitted and are under consideration.
(1) Harbour Branch Extension (Overhead connection) to Victoria Terminus.	(1) Gaekwar's Mehsana Railway—Khalipur-Khakhal and Wagrod-Khareda.	(1) Satara-Koregaon Railway. (2) Metre gauge (M. & S. M. Railway) extension from Hotgi to Sholapur.
(2) Savar Kundla (via Dongar)-Mahuva Railway, with a branch from Dongar to Port Albert Victor.	(2) Anjar-Bachau section of the Cutch State Railway.	(3) Vasad-Borsad-Kathana Railway. (4) Kudchi-Jamkhandi-Bagalkot Railway.
(3) Motipura-Tankhala Railway.		(5) Dholka-Dhandhuka-Botad Railway. (6) Viramgam-Radhanpur Railway.
(4) Dewusna (Bhoyani)-Bechraji Railway.		(7) Extension of the Ahmedabad-Dholka Railway to Dhollera. (8) Belgaum-Saundatti-Hubli Railway.
(5) Choranda-Koral Railway ...		(9) Pandharpur-Miraj and Pandharpur-Lonand Railways.
(6) Kuranga-Arathra Railway .		(10) Deesa-Tharad Railway (with a branch from Diodar to Radhanpur). (11) Nadiad-Kaira Railway. (12) Miraj-Nipani Railway. (13) Parola-Amalner-Soukheda Railway. (14) Jeur (or Pophlaj)-Karda Feeder Railway. (15) Vambori-Shegaon Railway. (16) Manmad-Malegaon-Satara Feeder Railway. (17) Thasra-Balasinor-Virpur Railway. (18) Belapur-Shevgaon and Belapur-Nasik Railways, with a branch to Sangamner. (19) Baramati-Baura Railway (Extension of the Dhond-Baramati Railway). (20) Bassein-Agashi-Virar Railway. (21) Hubli-Sirsi Railway. (22) Haveri-Havanur Railway. (23) Bijapur-Talikote Railway. (24) (a) Kapadvanj-Modasa, (b) Modasa-Meghraj extension of the Nadiad-Kapadvanj Railway and (c) Lunawada-Sunth Rampur extension of the Godhra-Lunawada Railway. (25) Dassalwada-Bahiel Railway. (26) Bulsar-Dharampur Railway (with possible extensions to Lavkar and Jahgiri). (27) Mumbra-Belapur-Panvel Railway. (28) Karad-Chiplun-Ulva Railway. (29) Modassa-Dongarpur Railway. (30) Talegaon-Khed Railway.

APPENDIX D.

Serial No.	Name of District.	Number of Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors attached to each District in the Presidency proper.	Number of Mahomedan Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors attached to each District in the Presidency proper.
1	Poona	6	1
2	Satara	6	1
3	Sholapur	4	1
4	Ahmednagar	5	1
5	Nasik	4	1
6	East Khandesh	8	1
7	West Khandesh	3	1
8	Kolaba	3	1
9	Ratnagiri	6	1
10	Bombay	3	1
11	Thana	4	1
12	Ahmedabad	7	1
13	Surat	8	1
14	Kaira	8	1
15	Broach	3	1
16	Panchmahals	4	1
17	Belgaum	6	1
18	Dharwar	9	1
19	Bijapur	5	1
20	Karwar	4	1

APPENDIX E.

Statement showing exports of ghee including exports on account of Military Department from Bombay during the period noted against each.

Period.	Exports on private account.	Exports on account of the Military Department.	Total exports.
	Cwt.	Cwt.	Cwt.
1913-14 ...	6,664	Not available.	6,664
1916-17 ...	8,070	77,280	85,350
1917-18 ...	8,858	125,300	134,158
1st October 1919 to 30th October 1919.	567	13,580	14,147

APPENDIX F.

Statement showing actual retail price of Big Mill Special rice prevailing in Thana, Shahapur and Bhiwandi during September 1919 and November 1919.

Name of place.	Retail price (seers of 80 tolas each) per rupee during
	September 1919.		November 1919.
	Seers.	Chataks.	Seers.	Chataks.
Thana	5	11	5	11
Shahapur	5	11	5	11
Bhiwandi	6	0	5	11

APPENDIX G.

Statement showing actual retail price of Big Mill Special rice prevailing in Bardoli, Jalalpore and Bulsar during September 1919 and November 1919.

Name of place.	Retail price (seers of 80 tolas each) per rupee during
	September 1919.		November 1919.
	Seers.	Chataks.	Seers.	Chataks.
Bardoli	6	4	6	.....
Jalalpore	6	.....	6	.....
Bulsar	5	9	5	9

APPENDIX H.

Extract paragraph 3 from enclosure to Railway Board's letter No. 254-F-16, dated 20th July 1917:

3. Qualifying Service.—Service rendered, which must be wholly on a railway, must be continuous and for a period of not less than 15 years. It must, in the opinion of the Railway Board, as well as of those under whom the employé has been serving, reach the standard of "good", "efficient" and "faithful" service to qualify for the gratuity.

Note 1.—For the purpose of this rule, any authorised leave of absence, whether with or without allowances, or an overstayal, for sufficient reasons, of any leave, except furlough, up to one week, does not constitute an interruption of continuous service.

Note 2.—Service beyond 30 years does not qualify for gratuity.

Note 3.—An employé who is retained in service after he has attained the age of 55 years, may be permitted to count the whole of his service, subject to the limit of 30 years, as qualifying for gratuity.

Note 4.—Service for which an employé has already received a gratuity does not count for another gratuity.

Note 5.—Participation in a strike ipso facto removes all eligibility for gratuity for service rendered.

APPENDIX I.

Statement showing the scale of fees at which licensed stamp vendors are paid for sale of Judicial and non-judicial stamps.

Kind of stamp.	Scale of fees. At places where stamps are sold by Government. Per cent.	At other places. Per cent.
	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
Court-fee (Judicial).
Stamps of the value of Re. 1 or less	1 0 8	1 0 8
Stamps of higher values	0 12 6	0 12 6
Non-judicial.
Adhesive stamps—
Stamps not exceeding in value 8 As. each in quantities of not less than Rs. 5 in amount.	4 11 0	6 4 0
Stamps exceeding in value 8 As. each, but not exceeding in value Rs. 5 each, in quantities of not less than Rs. 50 in amount.	2 9 8	3 2 0
Stamps exceeding in value Rs. 5 each, but not exceeding in value Rs. 50 each, in quantities of not less than Rs. 100 in amount.	1 9 0	1 9 0
Stamps embossed or engraved on stamped paper (including such stamps bearing the word "Hundi").	4 11 0	6 4 0

APPENDIX J.

Statement showing the amounts of suspensions, remissions and takavi loans granted for the last five years in the Haliyal Taluka (including Forest Mahals).

	1914-15.	1915-16.	1916-17.	1917-18.	1918-19.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
Suspension of C. L. R. ...	...	...	...	...	58,773 10 11
Remission of C. L. R. ...	...	...	...	569 2 8	...
Takavi loans granted ...	700	300	100	...	12,865 0 0

APPENDIX K.

Statement showing fine inflicted on vaccinators in the Dharwar District for the wastage of lymph during the months of June to November 1919.

Month.	Name.	Grade.	Taluka.	Salary.				Fine.	Remarks.
				Pay.	War allowance.	Pony allowance.	Total.
				Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs. a. p.
June 1919 ...	.....	Nil	.....	...	...	...	...	...	Total number of vaccinators in the Dharwar District— 8 Municipal. 19 Local Fund. — 22 Total.
July 1919 ...	.....	Do.	.....	...	...	...	...	...
August 1919 ...	.....	Do.	.....	...	...	...	...	...
September 1919 .	Ganesh Bhaskar ...	2nd Grade vaccinator .	Karajgi, W. D. ...	24	3	10	37	0 8 0
	Venu Gopal ...	3rd do. ...	Ranebenur, E. D.	18	3	10	31	0 8 0
	Vishnu Abaji ...	Do. do. ...	Mundargi ...	18	3	10	31	0 8 0
October 1919 ...	Ganesh Bhaskar ...	2nd do. ...	Karajgi, W. D. ...	24	3	10	37	1 8 0
	Govind Laxman ...	Do. do. ...	Navalgund ...	24	3	10	37	0 8 0
	Rango Tamaji ...	Do. do. ...	Kod, S. D. ...	24	3	10	37	0 8 0
	Hanmant Narsinha .	Do. do. ...	Hubli Taluka ...	24	3	10	37	0 8 0
	Vishnu Mahadaji ...	Do. do. ...	Nargund ...	24	3	10	37	0 8 0
	Venu Gopal ...	3rd do. ...	Ranebennur, E. D.	18	3	10	31	1 0 0
	Vishnu Abaji ...	Do. do. ...	Mundargi ...	18	3	10	31	1 0 0
	Ramchandra Balaji .	Do. do. ...	Karajgi, E. D. ...	18	3	10	31	0 8 0
	Shripad Anandrao ...	Do. do. ...	Gadag Taluka ...	18	3	10	31	0 8 0
November 1919 .	.....	Nil	.....	...	...	...	...	...

APPENDIX L.

Name of the Institution.	Number of candidates by Division.										Grand total.	Cost.
	Central Division.		Northern Division.		Southern Division.		Sind.		Total.			Re-curring.	Non-recurring.
	First year.	Second year.	First year.	Second year.	First year.	Second year.	First year.	Second year.	First year.	Second year.
												Rs.	Rs.
Urdu Training Class, Poona	26	22	...	...	4	7	...	1	30	30	60	12,932	23,210
Urdu Training Class, Ahmedabad.	8	9	19	26	4	4	...	...	31	39	70	13,912	5,100

APPENDIX M.

Statement showing the details of water-rate and conservancy cess shown in columns 19 and 21 respectively of statement No. 2 accompanying the report on municipal taxation and expenditure for the year 1917-18.

District.	Name of Municipality.	Water rate.			Conservancy cess.			Remarks.
		General.	Special.	Total.	General.	Special.	Total.
	Northern Division.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Ahmedabad ...	Ahmedabad ...	90,298	1,93,765	2,84,063	24,412	51,032	75,444
Kaira ...	Dakor ...	...	...	...	...	841	841
	Nadiad ...	...	...	...	1,996	1,990	3,986
Panch Mahals.	Dohad ...	...	...	...	...	531	531
Surat ...	Surat ...	...	1,26,245	1,26,245	1,794	35,339	37,133
	Rander ...	...	7,161	7,161	1,752	361	2,113
	Bulsar ...	...	...	...	1,648	2,164	3,812
Thana ...	Thana ...	1,157	11,564	12,721	...	10,326	10,326
	Kalyan ...	...	...	...	...	3,939	3,939
	Bhiwandi ...	...	2,064	2,064	1,562	...	1,562
	Bassein ...	...	...	...	...	2,008	2,008
	Bandra ...	...	47,396	47,396	...	26,048	26,048
	Kurla ...	...	66,933	66,933	9,429	...	9,429
	Ghatkoper-Kirol ...	...	...	...	...	1,684	1,684
	Central Division.
Ahmednagar...	Ahmednagar ...	11,504	8,628	20,132	...	9,438	9,438
	Sangamner ...	...	...	...	2,853	...	2,853
	Vambori ...	...	...	...	961	...	961
East Khandesh.	Jalgaon ...	2,810	15,216	18,026	1,989	2,908	4,897
	Bhusawal ...	...	...	...	3,558	2,843	6,401
	Yawal ...	...	...	...	427	...	427
	Faizpur ...	...	...	...	1,416	352	1,768
	Raver ...	...	...	...	...	652	652
	Savda ...	...	...	...	1,114	596	1,710
	Amalner ...	...	...	...	2,364	1,347	3,711
	Parola ...	...	...	...	1,751	451	2,202
	Chopda ...	...	...	...	2,798	1,227	4,025
	Dharngaon ...	...	...	...	2,219	950	3,169
	Erandol ...	...	...	...	961	703	1,664
West Khandesh.	Dhulia ...	3,952	13,771	16,723	2,635	4,065	6,700
Nasik ...	Nasik ...	2,451	13,752	16,203	*11,631	...	11,631	* The Collector remarks:— Up to the end of 1917-18 the Nasik Municipality credited all recoveries of conservancy cess under one head irrespective of the fact that there was a privy attached to a particular house or not. The rates were different. but there was no differentiation in treatment of the revenue derived according to the different rates. Different figures for the general and special conservancy cess cannot therefore be given in respect of this Municipality.
	Yeola ...	...	...	...	...	487	487
	Malegoan ...	...	...	...	4,056	660	4,716
	Sinnar ...	...	...	...	592	...	592
	Trimbak ...	...	...	...	592	323	915
	Igatpuri ...	...	...	...	4,028	...	4,028
Satara ...	Satara City ...	1,717	9,820	11,537	...	359	359
	Karad ...	...	723	723	...	936	936
	Wai ...	...	...	...	698	484	1,182
	Islampur ...	...	...	...	...	27	27
	Malcolmpeth ...	...	...	...	2,411	...	2,411
	Satara Suburban ...	...	...	...	60	...	60
	Panchgani ...	...	48	48	645	...	645
Sholapur ...	Sholapur ...	35,933	52,474	88,407	9,189	13,786	22,975
	Barsi ...	...	...	...	...	4,639	4,639
	Karmala ...	...	...	...	682	472	1,154
	Pandharpur ...	5,022	10,590	15,612	2,521	4,383	7,004
Poona ...	Poona City ...	...	59,861	59,861	7,465	30,748	38,213
	Talegaon-Dabhade ...	740	879	1,619	202	107	309
	Saswad ...	...	...	...	...	94	94
	Lonavla ...	...	5,318	5,318	...	†6,143	6,143	† General and Special sanitary cesses are consolidated. Separate figures cannot be given.
	Indapur ...	...	...	...	...	217	217

District.	Name of Municipality.	Water-rate.			Conservancy cess.			Remarks.
		General.	Special.	Total.	General.	Special.	Total.
	Central Division—continued.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Poona—contd.	Junnar	...	...	...	...	260	260
	Baramati	...	...	...	1,605	614	2,219
	Poona Suburban	...	...	...	3,554	...	3,554
	Sirur	...	...	...	153	484	637
	Alandi	...	...	...	78	66	144
	Khed	...	...	...	563	156	719
	Southern Division.
Belgaum	Belgaum	...	...	...	3,242	5,031	8,273
	Nipani	...	2,769	2,769	1,014	225	1,239
	Athni	...	...	...	...	3	3
	Gokak	...	...	...	...	1,372	1,372
Bijapur	Bijapur	4,204	6,860	11,064	2,459	1,602	4,061
	Ilkal	...	...	...	383	24	407
Dharwar	Dharwar	14,280	7,976	22,256	4,215	2,400	6,615
	Hubli	12,503	18,619	31,122	...	...	...
	Gadag-Bettigeri	...	...	...	831	...	831
	Navalgund	1,296	...	1,296	...	...	...
	Ranebennur	...	...	...	887	...	887
	Gudguddapur	200	...	200	...	...	...
Kanara	Karwar	...	...	...	...	926	926
	Kumta	...	...	...	...	193	193
	Honavar	...	...	...	...	24	24
Kolaba	Alibag	...	...	...	2,028	...	2,028
	Mahad	...	...	...	...	62	62
	Matheran	2,682	...	2,682	896	5,126	6,022
	Panvel	3,334	1,137	4,471	779	...	779
	Pen	1,019	210	1,229	1,201	...	1,201
	Roha-Ashtami	509	454	963	...	398	398
	Uran	...	...	...	520	448	968
Ratnagiri	Vengurla	...	...	...	...	762	762
	Ratnagiri	...	852	852	...	1,329	1,329
	Chiplun	...	668	668	...	229	229
	Sind.
Karachi	Karachi	2,88,172	1,27,681	4,15,853	1,24,784	63,824	1,88,608
	Tata	...	...	...	1,614	...	1,614
Hyderabad	Hyderabad	5,718	66,337	72,055	...	2,989	2,989
	Fando Allahyar	...	...	...	...	1,072	1,072
	Nasarpur	...	...	...	...	869	869
Sukkur	Sukkur	...	9,912	9,912	...	16,268	16,268
	Shikarpur	...	...	...	...	1,319	1,319
	Garhi Yasin	...	...	...	...	3,341	3,341
	Bohri	...	...	...	...	664	664
	Ghotki	...	...	...	...	3,903	3,903
Larkana	Larkana	...	...	...	204	847	1,051
	Kambar	...	...	...	101	1,146	1,247
	Ratodero	...	...	...	...	906	906
	Sehwan	...	...	...	...	713	713
	Bubak	...	...	...	284	...	284
Thar and Parkar.	Mirpurkhas	...	...	...	...	...	...
Nawabshah	Shahdadpur	...	...	...	...	5	5
	Tando Adam	...	...	...	...	329	329
Upper Sind Frontier.	Jacobabad	...	...	...	..	3,148	3,148

APPENDIX N.

Letter No. 93, dated 22nd/25th November 1918, from the Conservator of Forests, S. C., to the Collector of Kanara.

"I have the honour to confirm telegram 'Regret influenza has so disorganised Forest service that have been unable to issue required orders. Please instruct Patils to tell villagers to take required material for fencing and dams from open forests as temporary measure. Forest officials instructed accordingly' of to-day's date and to send you the copy of the telegram issued to the Divisional Forest Officers, Kanara. 'Order subordinates to allow villagers to take material for fencing and dams from open forests without permits through Patils as temporary measure' for perusal."

Letter No. 3914, dated 8th October 1919, from the Conservator of Forests, S. C., to the Divisional Forest Officers, Kanara.

Subject.—Removal of fencing material from forests without permits.

"I have the honour to invite a reference to this office letter No. 94, dated 22nd/25th November 1918, and to state that the special permission granted to villagers to take fencing material, etc., from open forests without permits is hereby cancelled. Necessary instructions should be issued to all subordinates."

APPENDIX O.

Statement showing the Distress Warrants received from the District Municipalities during the years 1914, 1915 and 1916.

Name of the Municipality.	1914.						1915.						1916.						Remarks.
	Cases in which amounts were recovered and were sent to the Municipalities.		Cases in which warrants remained unexecuted and were returned to the Municipalities.		Total number of warrants received.		Cases in which amounts were recovered and were sent to the Municipalities.		Cases in which warrants remained unexecuted and were returned to the Municipalities.		Total number of warrants received.		Cases in which amounts were recovered and sent to the Municipalities.		Cases in which warrants remained unexecuted and were returned to the Municipalities.		Total number of warrants received.
	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.	No.	Amount.
		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.
Bandra	1	19 2 1	1	41 10 3	2	60 12 4	3	47 15 2	8	271 6 3	11	319 5 5	2	121 15 11	10	602 5 11	12	724 5 10
Kurla	1	22 5 0	3	97 11 0	4	120 0 0	11	256 11 0	31	2,306 2 11	42	2,562 13 11	4	260 12 0	12	1,153 2 0	16	1,413 14 0
Nadiad	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	4	24 8 0	4	24 8 0	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....
Wai	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	5	14 3 0	4	16 3 6	9	27 6 6	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....
Surat	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	2	2 4 0	...	.....	2	2 4 0	2	4 4 0	6	5 4 0	8	9 8 0
Mahad	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	2	8 0 0	...	.....	2	8 0 0	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....
Barsi	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	1 1 3	...	.....	1	1 1 3	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....
Sholapur	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	2	30 8 0	2	30 8 0	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....
Junnar	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	9	14 11 0	71	92 10 0	80	107 5 0
Bassein	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	25 2 0	3	45 8 10	4	70 10 10
Malegaon	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	—	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	4	7 14 0	4	7 14 0
Thana	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	4	163 8 4	4	163 8 4
Pen	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	2 8 0	3	17 0 0	4	19 8 0
Kudapa	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	4 0 0	1	4 0 0	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....
Kalyan	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	3 4 0	1	3 4 0
Poona	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	2	2 12 0	12	15 8 0	14	19 4 0
Sukkur	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	7 1 8	...	.....	1	7 1 8
Bhiwandi	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	41 5 3	1	41 5 3
Poona Suburban ...	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	...	.....	1	31 8 0	1	31 8 0
Total ...	2	41 7 1	4	139 5 3	6	180 12 4	24	327 2 5	50	2,652 12 8	74	2,979 15 1	22	439 2 7	128	2,179 14 4	150	2,619 0 11

Total number of cases in which amounts were recovered	...	48	amount Rs. 807 12 1
Total number of cases in which warrants remained unexecuted	...	182	,, 4,972 0 3
Total number of warrants received	...	230	,, 5,779 12

Statement regarding the Distress Warrants received from District Municipalities during the years 1917-18-19.

Name of municipality.	1917					1918					1919
	No. of warrants received.	No. of warrants that were returned to the municipalities concerned owing to money received direct from parties.	Amount.	No. of warrants that remained unexecuted.	Amount.	No. of warrants received.	No. of warrants that were returned to the municipalities concerned owing to money received direct from parties.	Amount.	No. of warrants that remained unexecuted.	Amount.	No. of warrants received.	No. of warrants that were returned to the municipalities concerned owing to money received direct from parties.	Amount.	No. of warrants that remained unexecuted.	Amount.
			Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.			Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.			Rs. a. p.		Rs. a. p.
Kurla	16	.....	.....	16	2,283 5 0	11	.....	.....	11	1,033 13 2	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Bandra	18	1	29 3 7	17	380 2 1	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	3	.....	.....	3	328 3 5
Ghatkoper-Kirol	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	5	2	97 0 0	3	260 14 0
Lonavla...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	3	.....	.....	3	355 14 0
Poona	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	179 10 0	1	.....	.....	1	3 0 0
Bhiwandi	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	2	.....	.....	2	101 10 6	1	.....	.....	1	2 7 0
Kaira	1	.....	.....	1	45 8 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Panchgani	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	36 8 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Kalyan...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	4	.....	.....	4	22 0 0
Sholapur	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	21 8 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Igatpuri	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	13 8 0
Dharamgaon	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	7 10 0	1	.....	.....	1	8 4 0
Raver	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	8 0 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Bhaswad	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	7	.....	.....	7	7 12 0
Wai	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	8	1	Amount not known.	7	8 3 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Surat	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	1	4 2 0	1	.....	.....	1	5 14 0
Khed	1	.....	.....	1	3 6 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Malegaon	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	2	.....	2	1 6 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Pandharpur	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	1	0 7 0	1	.....	.....	1	0 7 0
Satara	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	5	1	Amount not known.	4	2 12 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Barsi	1	.....	.....	1	2 2 6	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Mahad	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	3	2	15 4 0	1	1 13 0
Matheran	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	2	2	111 8 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Nasik	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	1	1	29 14 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Anand	1	1	Amount not known.	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Vambori	1	1	17 2 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Jamner	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	43	43	69 2 0	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Total ...	39	3	46 5 7	36	2,714 7 7	81	48	210 8 0	33	1,410 9 8	31	4	112 4 0	27	1,010 0 5

	Warrants to be executed.	Amount.
1917	36	Rs. 2,714 7 7
1919	27	1,410 9 8

APPENDIX Q.

Opinion of the Honourable the Advocate General, No. 34, dated the 11th August 1917.

The questions for consideration are—

(a) Whether the provision in section 83 (2-A) of the Bombay District Municipal Act, viz., 'Where the property is in the City of Bombay the warrant shall be addressed to the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay', which was inserted in the Act by an amedment in 1914 has any operative force by reason of section 1 (2) which has stood as part of the Act from the commencement and provides that the Act shall extend to the whole of the Presideney of Bombay except the City of Bombay, and

(b) Whether, if so, the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay has a discretion to refuse to execute a warrant addressed to him under section 83 (2-A). I am of opinion that question (a) must be answered in the affirmative for three reasons, viz. :—

(1) 'It is a cardinal principle in the interpretation of a statute that if there are two inconsistent enactments it must be seen if one cannot be read as a qualification of the other', per James L., J., at p. 484; L. R. X., Ch. App. Here the provision in question in section 83 (2-A) can be read as a qualification to section 1 (2).

(2) 'If the two sections are repugnant, the rule is that the last must prevail,' per Keating, J., at p. 27, L. R. III., C. P.

(3) The provision in question being specific the general clause does not control it. 26 Beavan, p. 533. I am of opinion that question (b) must be answered in the negative, except to the limited extent indicated below.

The warrant is to be 'in the form of Schedule C or the like effect'.

The terms of Schedule C are mandatory as regards the officer addressed.

I do not agree with the Legal Remembrancer that the expression 'it shall be lawful' occurring in section 83 gives the officer addressed a discretion except to a very limited extent, viz., that when the premises in question are shut up it is left to that officer to decide whether they are likely to contain property liable to seizure under the warrant before he breaks open the premises.

The object of the provisions in section 83 (3), (4), and (4-A) where that expression occurs is merely to provide what may be lawfully done under the order contained in the warrant.

It is not to cut down the mandatory character of the order.

APPENDIX R.

Statement X.—Showing the number of cattle exported from Calcutta to foreign countries during the years 1918-19 to 1919-20 (April to December).

	1918-19.	1919-20. (April to December).
	No.	No.
Straits Settlements	268	256
Mauritius	.....	.....
Fiji Islands	.....	.....
Brazil	258	102
Sumatra	.....	204
Java	.....	10
Philippines	700	80
Maldives	.....	.....
British West India Islands	.....	.....
Austria Hungary	.....	.....
France	.....	90
Total ...	1,226	742

APPENDIX S.

Statement Y showing the exports of cattle (excepting sheep and goats) to foreign countries from the ports of the Madras Presidency during the calendar year 1919.

Ports from which exported.	To Ceylon.	Countries of final destination.					Total.
		To Straits Settlements (including Labuan).	To Federated Malay States.	To Sumatra.	To Java.	To Brazil.
	No.	No.	No.	No.	No.	No.	No.
Pt. Calimere	532	...	...	...	...	...	532
Negapatam	...	1,497	791	...	...	...	2,288
Adirampatnam	218	...	...	...	...	...	218
Tuticorin	8,867	...	...	...	...	329	9,196
Madras	...	141	17	676	96	...	930
Total ...	9,617	1,638	808	676	96	329	13,164

APPENDIX T.

Statement Z showing the number of cattle exported by sea from Bombay to foreign countries on private account during each of the years 1915 to 1919.

Countries to which exported.	1915.	1916.	1917.	1918.	1919.
Brazil	.....	.....	.....	.....	1,178
Belgium	.....	.....	.....	.....	110
France	.....	.....	.....	.....	217
Zanzibar	24	162	105	20	155
Total ...	24	162	105	20	1,660

APPENDIX U.

Statement V showing the quantity of ghee exported by sea from Bombay to foreign countries on private account and on account of Military Department during the period noted against each.

Period.	Exports on private account.	Exports on account of the Military Department.	Total exports.
	Cwt.	Cwt.	Cwt.
1915-16	10,936	41,677	52,613
1916-17	8,070	77,280	85,350
1917-18	8,858	125,300	134,158
1918-19	8,293	180,406	188,699
1919-20 (April to December 1919) ...	4,361	84,691	89,052

Statement W showing the quantities of butter exported by sea from Bombay to foreign countries on private account and on account of Military Department during the period noted against each.

Period.	Exports on private account.	Exports on account of Military Department.	Total exports.
	Cwt.	Cwt.	Cwt.
1915-16	812,481	280,674	1,093,155
1916-17	1,460,663	1,874,979	3,335,642
1917-18	1,503,078	2,509,068	4,012,146
1918-19	673,252	883,390	1,556,642
1919-20 (April to December 1919) ...	483,855	96,100	579,955

APPENDIX V.

List of European Officers appointed in this Presidency since 11th November 1918.

Name.	Appointment held.	Present scale of salary.	Whether the appointment is made to fill actual vacancies or is newly created.	Qualifications.	Remarks.
Mr. J. A. Neale ...	Mechanical Expert, Government Central Press, Bombay.	Rs. 300—10—350 plus Rs. 100 as temporary allowance for the additional duties of the Assistant Manager.	Against existing vacancy ...	A practical Printer with a special knowledge of the working of mechanical composing machines.
Dr. C. Strickland, M.A., B.Sc	Officer in charge Plague Operations, Belgaum and Dharwar Districts (Temporary appointment).	Rs. 1,200	Temporary appointment newly created.	He has an extensive epidemiological experience in various countries in connection with malaria and had special experience of plague investigation in East Anglia (England) under the Local Government Board.
Lieutenant Gilbert Charles Rowe, 1st K.G.O. Sappers and Miners, Roorkee.	Assistant Land Acquisition Officer ...	Rs. 900 plus Rs. 100 as conveyance allowance.	Newly created	Professional Associate of the Surveyors Institute.
Mr. D'Maule Cole ... „ J. A. Coghlan ... „ C. Y. Farrant ... „ H. M. Leverett ...	Indian Police Service	They start with Rs. 450 and stop at Rs. 1,400. (Above Rs. 1,400 there are select appointments, the salary of which ranges between Rs. 1,600 and Rs. 3,000).	Against existing vacancies ...	These officers have been selected on their records of service during the war and they have satisfied the Civil Service Commissioners in England that they have received continuous and systematic education up to the standard which, before the war, would have qualified them for success at the entrance examination for the Royal Military College at Sandhurst, and have further satisfied the Civil Service Commissioners in a qualifying examination in English, Arithmetic and General Knowledge.
Mr. A. W. Marks ...	Factory Department	Rs. 400—30—900 plus Rs. 100 for additional duties as Inspector of Steam Boilers.	Against existing vacancy ...	Has served two years' apprenticeship in Keyham Factory of His Majesty's Dockyard, Devonport, from where he was transferred to Malta for one year. In 1914 he was in charge of boiler and machine shop at Rosyth Naval Base and since then was Inspector and Foreman in the Royal Indian Marine Dockyard, Bombay.

Mr. J. Cubbon ...	Steam Boiler Department	Rs. 400	Do. ...	Practical training in Engineering Firms in England ; has experience of erection of machinery in India and holds a second class certificate of competency under the Boiler Act.	Temporary.
Mr. A. Chisholme ...	Do.	Rs. 350	Do. ...	Was trained in the Ammunition Factory, Kirkee, and has served for three and half years as Assistant Engineer in His Majesty's Mint. Holds a second class certificate under the Boiler Act.	Temporary.
Permanent Engineer Establishment.
Mr. H. J. Gleeson ...	Assistant Engineer (Provincial Service) ...	Rs. 300 plus personal allowance Rs. 100.	Against existing vacancy ...	Prior to promotion to the provincial service he was employed as a permanent Sub-Engineer, 1st grade. He passed out from the T. E. C. College, Rurki, in 1902 for the Upper Subordinate class, Higher Standard.	Appointed in India.
,, H. L. Francis ...	Assistant Engineer (Imperial) Service ...	Rs. 600	Do.	Details of qualifications not yet received from the India Office.	Appointed in England.
,, R. H. Hammett ...	Do. ...	,, 600	Do.	Do. ...	Do.
,, A. E. Sharp ...	Do. ...	,, 650	Do.	Do. ...	Do.
,, E. T. Roch ...	Do. ...	,, 650	Do.	Do. ...	Do.
,, W. H. E. Garrod ...	Do. ...	,, 650	Do.	Do. ...	Do.
Temporary Engineers.
Mr. F. Green ...	Temporary (Assistant) Engineer ...	Rs. 400	New appointment	Was originally employed on the permanent Upper Subordinate establishment as Sub-Engineer, 3rd grade. Is an Associate of the Institute of Sanitary Engineers as well as a Member of the Royal Sanitary Institute, London.	Appointed in India.
,, E. S. Whittle ...	Temporary (Assistant) Engineer ...	Rs. 300	Do.	Educated in the T. E. C. College, Rurki, in the Assistant Engineer class and served as a temporary Upper Subordinate, in the Public Works Department, and later also under the Karachi Port Trust. Was on military duty having enlisted in the Queen's Westminsters. (16th London Territorials).	Do.

Name.	Appointment held.	Present scale of salary.	Whether the appointment is made to fill actual vacancies or is newly created.	Qualifications.	Remarks.
Temporary Engineers—contd.
Mr. W. C. Jefferies ...	Temporary (Assistant) Engineer ...	Rs. 500	New appointment	Was originally employed as a temporary Sub-Engineer under the I. R. C. but was allowed to terminate his appointment with a view to proceed to Mesopotamia on military duty and was guaranteed re-employment on return. While on military duty he held His Majesty's Commission as a temporary Captain in the Inland Water Transport Royal Engineers.	Appointed in India.
Mr. J. W. Craigh ...	Do. ...	„ 750	Do.	Has had previous experience as a Municipal Engineer in the Water Department. Has also served in the Army in France during the war.	Do.
Temporary Engineer under covenant.
Mr. S. Woods Hill ...	Consulting Architect to Government ...	Rs. 1,550-50-1,750. Agreement for 5 years on terms and conditions fixed by Secretary of State.	Against existing vacancy ...	Is an Associate of the Royal Institute of British Architects and previous to war, practised at 8, Clifford's Inn, Temple Bar. Originally he was a pupil of the late Thomas W. Cutlar, F.R.I.B.A., F. San. I., and he supplemented this training at the Architectural Association in Paris where he studied for two years for the Prix de Rome (Decorative section), gaining a premium in that section). Was also a Lieutenant of Engineers with 4½ years' war service. Was also a premiated competitor in the London County Hall Competition, and was awarded 200 guineas.	Appointed in England.
Mr. H. Hamill ...	Educational Department	Rs. 500-50-1,000	Do. ...	M.A. (Ireland).
Mr. W. E. G. Solomon ...	Educational Department	Rs. 750-25-1,250	Do. ...	Took the highest award at Sir Arthur Cope's School for figure composition and for drawing from the Nude, the latter awarded by Sargent; passed the Entrance Examination for the Royal Academy Schools; went through the full curriculum there (5 years). Besides Painting, qualified in Perspective Drawing and Anatomy and attended the courses of Sculpture, Architecture, Chemistry, etc., under eminent Professors. Took highest awards of Royal Academy in Painting and a Gold Medal and travelling scholarship.

Captain T. H. O. Collings	Additional Land Acquisition Officer for the City of Bombay.	Rs. 1,200 plus Rs. 100 conveyance allowance.	Newly created ...	Associate of the Royal Institute of British Architects; practised as Architect Surveyor and valuer, 1907—14, in England.	All these officials served in the war, several being wounded.
Captain J. F. Calder ...	Temporary Forest Officer	Rs. 800	Do. ...	Technical training at Heriot Watt College and Agricultural College, Edinburgh (practical Forestry). Holds certificates of Board of Education and City of Guilds of London.
Captain W. Day Lovell ...	Do.	Rs. 800	Do. ...	Practical experience of Forestry and Timber trade with Government and with commercial firm.
Lieutenant W. J. Segar ...	Do.	Rs. 800	Do. ...	Representative of London Timber firm in England and Russia.
Captain Shannon ..	Do.	Rs. 600-50-800	Do. ...	Two and a half years in Political Department in Kathiawar.
Captain Charles Beaupre Bell Clee.	.....	Rs. 650	.....	Appointed by the Secretary of State.
Captain Walter Nigel Usher Dunlop.	Indian Civil Service ...	Rs. 650 ...	Against existing vacancy ...	Appointed by the Secretary of State ...	All these officials served in the war, several being wounded.
Lieutenant H. L. Shoveller, R. F. A.	Second Collector of Income Tax, Bombay ...	Rs. 1,000-50-1,500 per mensem	Do. ...	Member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants (with honours in examination), experience 1906—1914 in audit, accountancy, banking and financial work in London.
Captain H. C. B. Mitchell.	Registrar of Companies and Secretary, Auditors' Council, Bombay, and to do the duties of Controller of Hostile Trading Concerns and Custodian of Enemy Property, Bombay. Acts also as Administrator General and Official Trustee.	Rs. 1,200-50-1,800 per mensem. Duty allowance Rs. 600 per mensem. Acting allowance Rs. 500 per mensem.	Do. ...	Solicitor. 1908—14 with Messrs. Freshfield, Solicitors to the Bank of England, London.
Captain W. G. Wishart, R. G. A.	Mechanical Engineer in the Department of Industries.	Rs. 1,000 per mensem ...	Newly created ...	B.Sc. Edinburgh. 1906—10 apprenticeship with Messrs. Doughlas and Grant. Taught engineering at University of Birmingham and in South Africa.

APPENDIX W.

Name of the District.	Non-Urdu primary schools with pupils in 1887-88.		Urdu schools with pupils in 1887-88.		Number of
	Number of schools.	Number of pupils.	Number of schools.	Number of pupils.	Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors attached to a District in 1887-88.	Mahomedan Assistant Deputies attached to a District in 1887-88.
Poona	379	17,383	6	428	2	1
Satara	448	20,147	13	425	2	1
Sholapur	238	11,010	4	161	1	.....
Ahmednagar	276	11,692	17	1,427	2	1
Nasik	289	13,578	20	1,060	1	.....
Khandesh	417	20,992	20	1,453	3	1
Ahmedabad	246	18,935	6	353	2	1
Kaira	251	21,178	8	688	1	.....
Panchmahals	109	5,149	3	248	1	.....
Broach	274	15,253	8	821	1	.....
Surat	330	20,755	9	544	2	1
Thana	235	12,924	8	558	1	.....
Dharwar	471	23,386	16	3,831	2	1
Belgaum	297	17,073	11	1,339	2	1
Bijapur	274	11,788	5	583	1	.....
Kanara	186	10,739	10	682	1	.....
Ratnagiri	198	14,187	23	992	1	.....
Kolaba	143	7,816	10	685	1	1
Karachi	79	4,900	.....	.....	.....	.....
Hyderabad	143	7,530	.....	.....	.....	.....
Thar & Parkar	20	1,408	.....	.....	.....	.....
Sukkur (formerly called Shikarpur) ...	126	7,192	.....	.....	.....	.....
Upper Sind Frontier	35	1,276	.....	.....	.....	.....

APPENDIX X.

List of Presses and Newspapers under Security which is to be returned.

PRESSES.

Bombay City.

1. Hindustan Limited Printing Press.
2. Karnatak Printing Press.
3. Excelsior Art Printing Works.
4. Dharma Vijaya Press.
5. Indian National Printing Works.
6. Pathak and Company Press.
7. Balaram Printing Press.
8. Abadia Litho Printing Press.
9. Bharat Seva Printing Press.
10. Muslim Printing Press.

Ahmedabad.

11. Jain Advocate Printing Press.

Surat.

12. Surat City Press.
13. Jain Engine Printing Press.
14. Sunder Printing Press.
15. Shankar Printing Press.
16. Modern Printing Press.
17. British India Press.
18. Laxmi Printing Press.

Kaira.

19. Sharada Vijaya Printing Press.
20. Tribhovan Printing Press.

Thana.

21. Laxmi Venkateshwar Press.

Poona.

22. Raghuvir Printing Press.
23. Sudharak Press.
24. Lokashikshan Press.

West Khandesh.

25. Gajanan Press.

East Khandesh.

26. King George Printing Press.

Kanara.

27. Shri Ramkrishna Printing Press.
28. Star of Kanara Press, Kumta.

Sukkur.

29. Edward Printing Press.
30. Harising Printing Press.
31. Shri Gopal Press.

Kolaba.

32. Sudhakar Press (Pen).

Sholapur.

33. New Printing Press.

Newspapers or Periodicals.

1. Chitramaya Jagat periodical (Hindi edition), Poona.
2. New Times Newspapers (Karachi).
3. Hindu Missionary Newspaper (Bombay).
4. Vidushak (Bombay).
5. Satyaprakash (Satara).

List of Presses and Newspapers under Security which is not to be returned.

PRESSES.

Bombay.

1. Bombay Cronicle Press.
2. Shruti Bodh Printing Press.
3. New Jain Printing Press.

Ahmedabad.

4. Chandra Prakash Press.
5. Anglo-Vernacular Printing Press.

Surat.

6. India Printing Press.
7. Jain Vijaya Press.
8. Shri Anavil Printing Press.

Poona.

9. Chitrashala Press.

West Khandesh.

10. Atmaram Press.

Hyderabad, Sind.

11. Bharatwasi Press.
12. Hindu Press.

Newspapers.

1. Gujarati newspaper (Bombay).
2. Maratta newspaper (Poona).
3. Kesari newspaper (Poona).

APPENDIX Y.

Terms and conditions relating to effluents from factories to be erected on the acquired land.

1. All effluents from factories other than tanneries and Spinning and Weaving Factories shall be held up in settling tanks attached to their respective factories. This effluent is to be skimmed and screemed before entering these factory tanks, and will be thence discharged into one main settling tank situated to the west of the Bombay road.

2. This main settling tank shall be at least thirty yards from the river at its nearest point.

3. An exit shall be provided in this main settling tank by means of a sluice or sluices to pass the effluent into a channel discharged into the river. Discharge by these sluices shall be allowed only for a period of one hour commencing an hour before the full flow ceases in the evening of any given day.

4. The sill sluice or sluices referred to in clause 3 hereof must be not less than one foot above the bottom of the settling tank.

5. The point of discharge from the channel into the river shall be placed not less than three furlongs west of the bridge on the Bombay road.

6. The above restriction shall not apply during the heavy floods of the monsoon season.

7. The above restrictions shall not apply to any effluent purified by chemical process to the satisfaction of Government.

8. Until such time as the effluent exceeds one million gallons per day the Khopoli Land Company, Limited, shall have the option of placing the main tank on the east of the Bombay road and of discharging the effluent therefrom into the river to the west of the road at a point not less than 1½ furlongs to the west of the bridge. In this case the

APPENDIX Z.

Division.	1 *(a)		1 *(b)					1 (c)		1 (d)		1 *(e)
	Number of Urdu schools.	Number of pupils attending them.	Number of trained Urdu teachers.				Number of untrained Urdu teachers.	Number of Mahomedan pupils that appeared with Urdu and passed in the Vernacular Final Examination (during 1918-19).		Number of Mahomedan pupils that appeared for the Training College entrance examination and the number of such pupils admitted in the training Colleges (during 1918-19).		Number of non-Urdu Primary schools.	Number of pupils attending the non-Urdu primary schools.	Number of teachers in the non-Urdu Primary schools.
			1st year.	2nd year.	3rd year.	Total.		Appeared.	Passed.	Appeared.	Admitted.			Trained.	Untrained.
Central Division	346	25,082	67	112	87	266	683	130	55	33	16	3,867	232,003	2,491	4,738
Northern ,, ...	176	13,210	95	37	51	183	331	33	26	20	13	2,326	166,178	2,729	3,508
Southern ,, ...	330	17,998	34	80	71	185	382	67	46	54	17	2,606	152,487	2,594	3,245

* The figures in these columns are given as they stood on 31st March 1919.

APPENDIX AA.

To,

His Excellency the Governor in Council,
Bombay.

May it please your Excellency.

We, the clerks of the Revenue Department and members of the Revenue Clerks' District Association, Dharwar District, humbly beg to state that owing to the extremely high prices of food stuffs, clothing and other necessaries of life, we have been experiencing great hardships and humiliations by inability to purchase sufficient food and clothing and by reduction of our credit in the bazar and the loan market. Peace of mind, so very necessary for a full time servant of Government in the discharge of his duties is being seriously disturbed to the detriment of work.

2. The cost of living of a clerk's family consisting of himself, his wife, and two children in the beginning years of his service comes by a modest calculation to no less than Rs. 66 per month (vide Table appended).

We have not included in the above estimate the charges on account of an old mother or an old widowed relative who is a charge on most families and cannot be dispensed with.

Clerks of longer standing have to maintain larger families and face other charges than food and clothing such as education of children and essential religious rites including marriages, etc.

3. The above facts would we humbly submit show how inadequate the present salaries are and also how insufficient the increases contemplated by Government in Financial Department Resolution No. 8311 of 6th December 1919 are.

4. The statement made by Government in paragraph 1 of the Resolution that prices in all probability will not subside to the pre-war level has very greatly depressed our spirits and our only hope now lies in the grant by Government of adequate salaries fixed on the basis of prices current rather than a comparison with the salaries on the past.

5. Government recognise that permanent increase of pay rather than temporary supplementary allowances is required by the conditions which obtain. We request, therefore, that the salaries should kindly be fixed at the following minimum rates to enable us to pull on under the changed conditions :—

Clerks from Rs. 60 to Rs. 100 with a biennial increase of Rs. 5.

Head Karkuns and others graded with them from Rs. 100 to Rs. 150 with a yearly increment of Rs. 10.

Head clerks to Collectors from Rs. 150 to Rs. 200 with a yearly increment of Rs. 10, pending the amalgamation of the post with Mamlat.

6. The hardships under which we are labouring are now current and immediate relief is necessary. prospect of obtaining arrears of increased pay after the publication of matured and sanctioned schemes is not likely to relieve our distress at present and we pray that increased salaries may be provisionally brought into effect at once in anticipation of the sanction of the Government of India and the Secretary of State. Account adjustments after the receipt of sanctions in due course are a matter of routine which we need not suggest.

7. Increase of remunerations is the most vital of the measures which are needed for alleviating our hardships. There are other measures which are also necessary with the same end in view and we beg leave to mention them for the consideration of Government.

8. The system of selecting direct recruits to the upper branch of the Revenue Subordinate Service has created a permanent bar to the majority of clerks to rise above a specific level and is detrimental to their life's career as well as to office work. It should kindly be discontinued and the old system of allowing all clerks to appear for qualifying examinations after specified periods of service and of promoting such clerks as pass them and are otherwise fit, to the upper branch may be revived.

9. In the interest of health and for other domestic conveniences such as settling marriages, visits to homes and to Devasthans, it is necessary that we should be sure of getting leave when we require. Privilege leave should therefore be kindly treated as a matter of course rather than one of grace.

10. Office work has grown heavier and more taxing than before and to be yoked to work for a long term of years is expected to affect health seriously and produce all the consequences of broken health. We request therefore that 25 years' service may be declared to qualify for superannuation pension and 20 years' service for invalid pension.

11. Cart-hire and hotel charges have increased in accordance with the ruling prices of food, fodder and clothing and increase of mileage, daily and pony allowances during journeys on duty is consequently needed and the matter should kindly be considered by Government.

12. In paragraph 4 of Financial Resolution No. 8311 of 6th December 1919 Government have desired the institution of inquiries with a view to reduction of superfluous posts. Revenue Offices are already harder worked than offices of most other Departments and work longer hours. Work has still more increased in recent years in the Correspondence, Account and Treasury branches owing to increase of schools and colleges, starting of agricultural farms and co-operative societies which are steadily increasing, and we pray therefore that the clerks who have to do original work should be given an opportunity to explain the details of the work they have to do and the quantity of the time and labour involved before submission of recommendations for reduction of posts.

13. House-rents have risen too high for our means in the towns of Dharwar, Hubli and Gadag. Ron, Hirekerur, Kalghatgi and Shiggaon are small villages and spare houses are not available. Elsewhere also rents have risen to some extent. We request, therefore, that Government should kindly undertake to build free residential quarters for us in healthy localities in the Head Quarters of the District and at all Taluka and Mahal Head Quarters. Until this is done adequate house-rent allowance should kindly be paid.

We beg to remain,

Your Excellency's most humble and obedient servants,

RAMCHANDRA BALACHARYA ARBATTI, President, for Members of the Revenue Clerks' Association,
Dharwar.

Dharwar, 14th February 1920.

P. S.—A copy has been submitted through the Collector of Dharwar.

Table showing the monthly cost of living of a Revenue Clerk's family consisting of himself, his wife and two children, in the beginning years of his service.

		Per month. Rs.
Monthly.
* Food charges of himself and his wife in accordance with the standard of the middle class		30
Do. for two children		16
House-rent		5
Medical charges		2
Conservancy charges, washing, etc.		2
Occasional and unforeseen charges, bedding, etc.		2
Yearly.	Rs.
Two pairs of simple dhoties	16
One pair of Upparnis (shoulder cloth)	6
Two coats, 4 shirts and 2 head cloths (Rumals) of simple pattern	30
One pair of shoes	3
Two sadis ordinarily worn by women of poorer families of the middle class	30
Four cholis	6
Clothes for 2 children	20
	111
per month Rs.		9
		66

* The monthly food charges of a student in the Dharwar High School and Dharwar Training College hostel are Rs. 15 and Rs. 13 per month, respectively. The boarders in these hostels are 50 and 400, respectively. In a family where a much smaller number of boarders is concerned the charges for each person are naturally likely to be higher.

President,
Revenue Clerks' Association,
Dharwar.

APPENDIX BB.

Famine.

Investigation of sites suitable for the production of fodder by pump irrigation in the Presidency proper.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Order No. 720.

Bombay Castle, 1st March 1920.

ORDER OF GOVERNMENT.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council held in July 1919 the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas asked for a list of places suitable for raising fodder crops by pump irrigation, with the approximate area which could be irrigated at each place. Government replied that enquiry would be made. A resolution which was moved by the same Honourable Member in the meeting of the Legislative Council held in September 1919 to the effect that Government should undertake a survey of suitable sites for the purpose stated above was, in view of the proposed enquiry, postponed. The Governor in Council is now pleased to direct that all officers of the Land Revenue, Irrigation and Agricultural Departments in the Presidency proper, while on tour, should be instructed to make notes of any sites they may find where there are

(a) a perennial supply of water, preferably from a pool in the bed of a river;

(b) moderately low river banks, and

(c) 150 acres or more of fairly level culturable land, close to the source of supply;

and to forward their reports on the sites so discovered to the Collector concerned at the end of the touring season. The Collector should forward a combined report for his district to the Director of Agriculture, who should submit his report to Government after the proposals have been examined by the Agricultural Engineer.

2. In the event of pumping being resorted to on an extensive scale in future famines, it has been suggested to Government that the Public Works Department might be in a position to order portable pumping sets, for use on their works, of a size suitable to the needs of the Agricultural Department and that such sets could be made available for issue on loan or hire in a famine year. The Director of Agriculture should be asked to favour Government with his opinion on this suggestion.

H. F. KNIGHT,

Under Secretary to Government.

To

The Commissioner, N. D.,
The Commissioner, C. D.,
The Commissioner, S. D.,
All Collectors and Executive Engineers in the Presidency proper,
All Superintending Engineers in the Presidency proper,
The Director of Agriculture,
The Settlement Commissioner and Director of Land Records,
The Mechanical Engineer to Government,
The Accountant General,
The Public Works Department,
The Political Department,
The Financial Department.

APPENDIX CC.

Paragraph of Government Order no. 1075, dated the 22nd March 1919.	Action taken.
2	The detailed proposals referred to have been received by Government and provisionally approved, the necessary amount being provided in the ensuing year's budget.
5	The proposals called for from the Director of Public Instruction have been received and the requisite orders have been issued in the matter.
8	The distribution statement since submitted by the Director of Public Instruction has been sanctioned. The amount of grant, viz., Rs. 30,000 distributed to the District Local Boards for the award of special allowance to Urdu teachers in Local Board Schools in the 3 Divisions is as follows :— Northern Division ... ... 11,460 Central Division ... ... 12,300 Southern Division ... ... 6,240 Total ... 30,000
9	The detailed proposals called for from the Director of Public Instruction are awaited. The Director has been expedited.
11	The particulars called for have been submitted by the Director of Public Instruction. In the circumstances reported by him, Government have decided not to accept the recommendation of the Mahomedan Education Committee that one-fourth of the examiners on the Examining Boards of the various Training Colleges should always be Mahomedans. It has been directed, however, that as a general rule, the percentage of Mahomedan Examiners should not be less than the percentage of Mahomedan students.
12	The report asked for in this paragraph is to be submitted after the Urdu-cum-vernacular standards sanctioned in February 1919, have been in force for a sufficiently long time.
13	The proposals in question have been received and are under the consideration of Government.
14	Rules for the grant of special scholarships to Mahomedans in arts and professional colleges have been published in Government notifications No. 4029, dated 1st September 1919, and No. 5602, dated 8th December 1919, respectively. Orders sanctioning the necessary expenditure in connection with these scholarships have also issued.
15	The report called for in this paragraph is awaited. The Director of Public Instruction has been expedited.
17	The question regarding the curriculum for Mahomedan girls was considered in connection with the proposals for the revision of standards for ordinary girls' primary schools since submitted by the Director of Public Instruction. In view, however, of certain facts disclosed, a further report is being called for from the Director in the matter.
18	The report of the Director of Public Instruction since received shows that there is at present no demand for Anglo-Vernacular middle schools for Mahomedan girls in the Northern and Southern Divisions. As regards the Central Division, it has been decided that for the present, a simple course in English should be taught in standards V and VI of the Central Urdu Girls' School, Poona, and in the normal class attached to it and that if the experiment proves a success a separate Anglo-Vernacular school should be started there. Orders sanctioning the necessary establishment in this connection are being issued. Further enquiries are being made of the Director as to the extent of the demand in Bombay for a school of the kind referred to above.

Paragraph of Government Order No. 1075, dated the 22nd March 1919.	Action taken.
19	The detailed proposals since submitted by the Director of Public Instruction have been approved. The provision of Rs. 6,000 for prizes, scholarships, etc., is to be divided equally among the three Divisions and a lump grant of Rs. 2,000 is to be placed at the disposal of each of the Educational Inspectors as provincial grant for distribution in his Division according to the requirements of all classes of schools (Government, Local Board, Municipal and Aided) subject to certain conditions.
20	The proposals for the utilization of the provision of Rs. 1,000 for grants for the encouragement of Urdu literature have been received and sanctioned. The amount is to be distributed as follows:— (i) Works of exceptional merit written in Urdu to be purchased and distributed to important Urdu and Anglo-Urdu schools in the three Divisions, Rs. 500. (ii) Prizes in the shape of good Urdu books to be given to Mahomedan boys at the annual examination, Rs. 150 (Rs. 50 for each Division). (iii) Urdu books of real work to be rewarded on the recommendation of the Urdu Text Book Committee, Rs. 250. (iv) Instructive illustrated Urdu periodicals and magazines to be subscribed for in behalf of Urdu school libraries, Rs. 100. The proposals in connection with the deputation of Persian teachers to places in Northern India submitted by the Director of Public Instruction are under consideration.

APPENDIX DD.

	Average increase in prices of text-books used in Government institutions between 1915-16 and 1918-19.
	Northern Division.	Central Division.	Southern Division.	Sind.	Average increase per cent. for Presidency.
	Per cent.	Per cent.	Per cent.	Per cent.	Per cent.
Primary	13	37	0·5	63	28
Secondary	27	32	30	120	52

APPENDIX EE.

Statement A showing particulars called for in clauses (d) and (e) of question No. 2 put by the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

Vessel's name.	Date of sailing.	Number of cattle.	Country of Final Destination.	Remarks.
S.S "Numilia" ...	20th October 1919 ...	155	Brazil ...	Details not known.
„ "Varzin" ...	23rd December 1919 ...	117	France ...	114 cows, 3 calves.

Statement B showing particulars called for in clause (f) of question No. 2 put by the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

Vessel's name.	Date of sailing.	Number of cattle.	Country of Final Destination.	Remarks.
S.S "Vyzantian" ...	29th October 1919 ...	100	France ...	Cows and bulls, number of each not known.
„ "Fratelli Bendiera" .	30th October 1919 ...	265	Brazil ...	Details not known.
„ "Normandier" ...	12th November 1919 ...	110	Belgium ...	10 bullocks, 100 cows.
„ "Gandora" ...	17th January 1920 ...	205	Brazil ...	Cows and some bulls, number of each not known.

APPENDIX FF.

Statement showing the average expenditure under several heads per booth of 25 date trees in the Surat District.

Heads of expenditure.	In the case of trees not owned by the booth licensees and tapper is engaged.	In the case of the trees owned and tapped by licensees.	Remarks.
	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
License fee	21 4 0	21 4 0	N.B.—Tree tax is Rs. 2-8-0 per tree in Olpad Taluka outside 10 mile radius from Surat City.
Tree tax	62 8 0	62 8 0
Tapper's pay	60 0 0	.....
Rent of trees	33 5 4	.....
Earthen pots	12 0 0	12 0 0
Coir yarn	3 0 0	3 0 0
Hutting charges	10 0 0	10 0 0
Measures	8 0 0	8 0 0
Sign board	2 0 0	2 0 0
Miscellaneous	10 0 0	10 0 0
Total ...	222 1 4	128 12 0

APPENDIX GG.

The Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Co., Ld.

AGENT'S OFFICE,
Rayapuram, Madras, N. E.,
26th/28th February 1920.

No. 757/T.

To

The Under Secretary to the Government of Bombay,
Public Works Department,
Irrigation and Railways, Bombay.

Sir

With reference to your letters Nos. 199 and 224 of 1920, dated the 4th and 7th February 1920, respectively, regarding questions Nos. 4 and 3 proposed to be put by the Honourable Mr. D.V. Belvi, LL.B., at the Meeting of the Legislative Council to be held on the 13th March 1920. I have the honour to state as follow:—

1. The allegations made in the letter to the "Bombay Chronicle" are generally speaking inaccurate, and the real facts are as under.

2. The Belgaum Booking Office is open from 5-00 to 21-30 hours daily and during the night for two hours previous to the departure of any passenger train. No complaint has so far been received from 3rd class passengers that they cannot obtain tickets at any time while the Booking Office is open, and, had any such complaint been received, it would have had prompt attention.

It is, however, a fact that passengers are apt to come to the station not more than half an hour before the due departure of their train and this results in congestion at the Booking Office such as may be seen at any big London terminus at a similar time. No complaint against the Police has been received.

3. The platform ticket system is in force at Belgaum and 80-100 such tickets are sold daily.

A platform ticket-holder is admitted at once to the platform and his ticket is collected at the gate when he leaves.

A practice has, however, arisen of 3rd class ticket-holders purchasing platform tickets in addition to their 3rd class tickets, so as to gain admission to the platform. This practice is recognised, and passengers holding both 3rd class and platform tickets are asked to give up the latter at the gate on admission to the platform, because there are no means of collecting them afterwards, the holders having gone away by train. But 3rd class passengers are not obliged to buy platform tickets unless they like, and the Company would prefer that they did not do so.

I have no evidence that the platform ticket system is a source of fraud, nor that passengers or non-travellers are allowed on to the platform without tickets on paying one anna to the Ticket Collector at the gate.

4. The opening of a separate Booking Office at Belgaum City is not justified. I do not think that passenger traffic (non-military) has increased materially since 1914. There are only 900 3rd class passengers daily from Belgaum.

5. Inter class passengers at Belgaum get their tickets at the 1st and 2nd class booking window and not at the 3rd class.

6. * * * * *

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
(Signed) C. L. MAGNIAC, Lieut.-Col., Agent.

BILL No. VI of 1919.

(A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.*

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VI of 1919 (a Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901), have the honour to report as follows:—

We are, by a majority, of the opinion that an agency other than that of the Presidency Magistrate, which entails the use of the Police, should be employed for the purpose of collecting the arrears of mofussil municipalities. We have substituted for the Presidency Magistrate the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, and have given him the power of delegation to a subordinate officer. Clauses 3 and 4 of the Bill have been amended accordingly.

(Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA.
(„) R. P. PARANJPYE.
(„) G. K. SATHE.
(„) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI (subject to minute of dissent).
(„) A. F. I. PATHAN.
(„) C. V. MEHTA.
(„) C. N. SEDDON.

Bombay, 12th February 1920.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.)

I am not satisfied that the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay would not be able to perform the duty now laid on him by law if provision were made for his being able to endorse the warrants to his subordinates. If necessary the Bombay Municipality may be indemnified against risk; and the expenses could be reimbursed by authorizing the levy of a fee.

2. It seems to me that the work is peculiarly suited to a Municipal Establishment and ought to be performed by the Bombay Municipality as a return for the amenities provided to the residents of Bombay by the District Municipalities. The Ward establishment is intimately acquainted with the localities where the defaulters reside and could without extra trouble perform this duty during their usual rounds.

3. If, however, the Municipal Commissioner is to be relieved at any cost, the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, is the next best authority to execute the warrants of mofussil municipalities, where the property of the defaulter is in the City of Bombay. He should be authorized to delegate his powers to any subordinate officer.

4. In order, however, to prevent as far as possible the evasion of payment of taxes by persons liable to pay by suddenly leaving the limits of District Municipalities it is necessary to insert the following provision in the Bombay District Municipal Act III of 1901 analogous to section 210 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act III of 1888, as section 83-A:—

> "Section 83-A (1) If the officer authorized to sign a warrant under sub-section (2) of section 83 shall at any time have reason to believe that any person from whom any sum is due on account of any Municipal tax is about forthwith to remove from the Municipal District the said officer may direct the immediate payment by such person of the sum so due or about to become due by him and cause a bill for the same to be presented to him.

* The Bill as amended by the Select Committee was published in the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 13th February 1920.

"2. If on the presentation of such bill the said person does not forthwith pay the sum due or about to become due by him, the amount shall be leviable by distress and sale in the manner hereinbefore prescribed except that it shall not be necessary to serve upon the defaulter any notice of demand, and the said officer's warrant for distress and sale may be issued and executed without delay."

(Signed) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

22nd January 1920.

BILL No. VII of 1919.*

(A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

We the members of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VII of 1919 (a Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888), have the honour to report that we have no change to recommend in the Bill as published.

(Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA,
(,,) C. V. MEHTA,
(,,) PHIROZE C. SETHNA,
(,,) DINSHAW PETIT,
(,,) GOKULDAS K. PAREKH,
(,,) SHERIFF D. CANJI,
(,,) E. L. SALE,
(,,) MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI, (,,) MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.

Bombay, 20th January 1920.

BILL No. VIII of 1919.

(A Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.†

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. VIII of 1919 (a Bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of Public Conveyances), have the honour to report as follows :—

Clause 4.—We have reverted to the provision of the present Act by which the licenses are renewed from January 1st of each year. This facilitates their renewal and the work of inspection and is in accordance with the present practice and with the petition of the Bombay Hack Owners Association. We have, therefore, in sub-clause (c) of clause 2 defined " Licensing year ".

Clause 5.—We have deleted sub-clause (b) as being vague and indefinite in its scope.

---

* Published at pages 903-907 of the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 10th October 1919. As the Bill has not been amended it has not been republished.

† The Bill as amended by the Select Committee was published in the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 20th February 1920.

Clause 10.—We have assimilated the law to what we understand is the present practice of the Commissioner of Police in Bombay and have made a responsible veterinary officer the final judge as to the unfitness of a horse for use.

Clauses 12 and 13.—We have transposed these clauses to obtain uniformity in drafting and we have in clause 12 made more precise the grounds on which a driver's license may be refused.

Clause 14.—We have by an additional clause made provision for a charge for the driver's license. This is in accordance with the law prevailing in Calcutta and is a just charge to cover the cost of badge and licensing.

Clause 18.—We have made the fixing of the legal rates of fares subject to the conditions of the sanction of the Governor in Council and of previous publication.

Clauses 20 and 26.—We have made provision for the driver to carry his license with him and to show it to a police officer on demand and we have in sub-clause (e) of clause 26 made it an offence to refuse to show such license or the list of fares on demand to a police officer. We have by a new sub-clause (i) made it an offence to use insulting or abusive language and by an addition to sub-clause (l) (v) an offence to loiter. We have increased the fine imposed by clause 26.

Clause 31.—We have by the addition of new sub-clause (5) endeavoured to prevent vexatious complaints to the Magistrate by providing for the payment of compensation in such cases.

Clause 36.—We have by the addition of sub-clause (5) provided for the payment to local authorities in Sind and the Mofussil of the fines realised under this Act after deducting expenses.

Other amendments are verbal.

(Signed) G. CARMICHAEL.

(„) PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS.

(„) C. V. MEHTA.

(„) PHIROZE C. SETHNA.

(„) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

(„) SALEBHOY K. BARODAWALLA.

Bombay, 17th February 1920.

BILL No. X OF 1919.

(A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.*

We, the undersigned members of the select committee appointed to consider Bill No. X of 1919 (a Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902), have the honour to report as follows:—

1. We are of opinion that no direction should be issued under the second alternative in new sub-section (1) of section 28 without the previous sanction of the Governor in Council and that notice should be given as under the first alternative. We have amended clause 3 of the bill accordingly. We are by a majority of opinion that the punishment of whipping provided in new section 126A should be omitted as brutalising in its effects. We are further of opinion that sub-section (2) of new section 126A should cover detention by a threat to take legal proceedings for the recovery of money lent and have inserted the necessary provisions in the said sub-section.

2. As the intention of clause 7 is to prevent smoking and spitting in public buildings, we propose to insert a new section limited to that purpose.

3. The other amendments proposed are merely verbal.

(Signed) G. CARMICHAEL.
(„) PHIROZE C. SETHNA.
(„) PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS.
(„) C. FERNANDES.
(„) C. V. MEHTA.
(„) LALUBHAI SAMALDAS.
(„) T. J. STRANGMAN.
(„) SHERIFF D. CANJI.

Bombay, 17th February 1920.

Bill No. XI of 1919.

(A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats.)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.†

We, the undersigned, members of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats), have the honour to report as follows:—

Clause 3.—We have entirely redrafted this clause and we have provided that the Commissioner shall only act on the application of the Collector or of the district local board after either of these two authorities has given notice to the other of its application.

---

* The Bill as amended by the Select Committee was published in the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 20th February 1920.

† The Bill as amended by the Select Committee was published in the Bombay Government Gazette, Part V, dated 21st February 1920.

Clause 5.—We have redrafted this clause. We are by a majority of the opinion that the village patel should be an ex-officio member of the panchayat as giving administrative experience to a body that may otherwise possess none, but we have provided that the revenue patel where possible shall be the ex-officio member. In certain villages such as Khoti villages there is no patel. We have by the words "if any" provided for this contingency and we have preferred in such cases to keep the panchayat wholly elective in character rather than introduce as an ex-officio member the managing Khot. We are also by a majority of the opinion that neither talukdars, jagirdars nor inamdars should be ex-officio members of the panchayats in their own villages either in addition to, or in substitution for, the patel. We have provided for the decision of possible disputes as to who is the senior patel by making the president of the district local board the arbiter.

Clause 6.—We have considerably mitigated the severity of the conditions of disqualification in certain cases by the deletion of sub-clause (d) and by substituting in new sub-clauses (d) and (e) for a permanent disqualification, a disqualification for a period of five years, and we have enabled the district local board to remove a disqualification imposed under sub-clause (h).

We have by a new sub-clause (g) disqualified an undischarged bankrupt.

Clause 8.—Where the validity of an election is in dispute, we have made provision for due enquiry by the Collector.

Clause 10.—We have extended the period of office of members from two years to three and we have transferred sub-clause (2) to new clause 17.

Clause 11.—We have subjected all appointments of secretaries to the approval of the district local board, so as to eliminate, as far as possible, unfair influence in the village.

Clause 12.—We have transferred sub-clause (3) to new clause 17.

Clause 15.—We have arranged that the district local board should hear the views of a panchayat before the removal by it of any member for unfitness.

Clause 16.—We have provided for the decision of disputes as to questions of "residence."

Clause 17.—We have in this clause more conveniently arranged sub-clause (2) of clause 10 and sub-clause (3) of clause 12 and by a new sub-clause (3) applied to the disqualification of a sar-panch the disqualifications of a member.

Clauses 18 and 21.—We have guarded against any presumption that the panchayat is responsible for tanks and wells used for irrigation, and we have made it clear that the panchayat is responsible only for the maintenance of buildings which vest in them, and we have by a new clause 21 empowered the Governor in Council and the district local board to transfer property to the panchayat for this purpose, and we have made it clear that works constructed by the panchayat vest in the panchayat.

Clause 23.—In the case of dismissal of a servant we have provided for an appeal from the order of the sar-panch to the panchayat.

Clause 25 (e).—As it might be held that mahars and other village servants are not "private" persons within the meaning of this section, we have by the deletion of the word "private" safeguarded their rights.

Clause 27.—We have by a new sub-clause (2) provided for the imposition of an octroi in addition to other taxes.

Clause 36.—We have given the panchayats an opportunity of making representations against any proposed order of supersession by providing for a reference to the district local board before such order is made, and we have guarded against the invalidity of acts done by the panchayat between the making of the order and its communication to the panchayat by making such orders operative from the date of communication.

Clause 39.—We think it undesirable that pleaders and other legal practitioners should be allowed to appear before the village panchayats in the small affairs with which they will be called upon to deal, and we have made provision for their exclusion.

Clause 41.—In case the panchayat should experience difficulty in the absence of the necessary machinery in recovering fines, we have empowered the panchayat in case of need to invoke the assistance of a magistrate.

Clause 44.—We have in the last clause of the bill made provision for the disposal of the property of the panchayat on its ceasing to exist.

(Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA.
(„) T. J. STRANGMAN.
(„) C. N. SEDDON.
(„) HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI (subject to a minute of dissent).
(„) K. R. GODBOLE (subject to a minute of dissent).
(„) G. K. SATHE (subject to a minute of dissent).
(„) P. A. DESAI (subject to a minute of dissent).
(„) DULABAWA RAISINGJI (subject to a minute of dissent).
(„) D. V. BELVI.
(„) SHAIKH GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH.
(„) S. D. GARUD (subject to a minute of dissent).

Bombay, 19th February 1920.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.)

I am not convinced of the necessity of allowing the patel of a village to be an ex-officio member of a village panchayat. He is the last person in a village to wish the panchayat to prosper. If he is useful let him enter it through the door of election. If there is reason to fear that his chances to enter it through the vote of his neighbours are problematical, that itself is a justification to insist that he should be there through their franchise only. He would be put on his good behaviour if he has to rely upon the good will of the inhabitants of his village. To make him secure of his seat would be to provide no check on his undesirable ways. There would be either continuous friction between him and his colleagues, or the security of his seat would make the other members his slaves. His case stands on a different level from that of the talukdars, inamdars, jagirdars or khots. If at all any one deserves to be an ex-officio member of a panchayat it is the proprietory owner of a village or the senior among them, but not the patel.

2. I would altogether omit sub-clause (a) of clause 6. There should be no sex disqualification for membership of a panchayat. If the adult male residents want to elect a female member why should the legislation interpose a sex-bar to their choice? After the Legislative Council recommended the removal of the sex-bar from the Bombay City Municipal Act, it would be a retrograde step to insert it in a fresh legislation of this character. At several places there are females who hold the Matá. They have a voice in the election of the patel; and they often act as patels through their deputies.

3. I cannot agree to confiscate the rights of women who at present enjoy the franchise to vote at the local board and municipal elections. I would therefore allow the voting franchise to adult females holding immovable property in their own right as well as to women who are literate in the sense of having passed the vernacular fourth standard.

4. As regards the duties and functions of the panchayat I would have preferred to make a provision empowering the Governor in Council to invest, at his discretion, judicial powers in petty civil and criminal cases; but as it is likely to delay the Bill, I would be satisfied if sub-clause (d) of clause 18 were amended by deleting the word "administrative" which stands before "duties" and by adding the words "and functions" after "duties". There is no need to place a positive limitation on the powers of His Excellency the Governor in Council to invest a panchayat with such powers.

5. Clause 23 had better be amended so as to enable the Governor in Council to place to the credit of the village fund "the proceeds of such incomes as may be assigned to it by any general or special order of the Governor in Council". Those who are aware of actual facts know that Government do not realise as much revenue under the head of miscellaneous receipts in villages such as assessed Government waste, trees, sand, kankar, etc., as the villagers themselves would do, if they had to manage and appropriate them for the village fund. If these were assigned to the village panchayats they would be a fat source of income to that body. Such an enabling provision would cause no harm; but if advantage were taken of it by Government at their discretion, the resources of the panchayats would be considerably improved. The statutory house tax may then be regulated according to local conditions so as not to press hard.

6. Lastly, I would like the operation of the bludgeon clause of supersession to follow, if need be, a dissolution and re-election of a defaulting panchayat.

HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI.

17th February 1920.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.)

I consider that the Bill as amended by the Select Committee is defective in so far as it makes no provision for investing panchayats with judicial functions (for dealing with petty civil and criminal cases) as provided for in the Central Provinces Bill. This is a serious defect, but as the inclusion of judicial functions at this stage will throw back the Bill for over 12 months, I have agreed to sign the report on the understanding that a supplementary Bill authorising the Local Government to invest select panchayats in this Presidency with judicial functions will be coming before the Council in the near future.

(Signed) K. R. GODBOLE.

Poona, 18th February 1920.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe, C.I.E.)

I do not intend to refer here to many points of details which we discussed in the Select Committee. The three main questions were (1) the presence of the officiating patil as an ex-officio member of the panchayat, (2) adult woman suffrage and (3) conferment of judicial powers in petty civil and criminal cases. The decision of the majority on the first two questions is mentioned in the main report. The third point was fully debated in the Select Committee, but was not eventually put to vote as the chairman declared that the consideration of that subject was beyond the terms of the resolution by which the Bill was referred to the Select Committee. It was further stated that in case the question was pressed and carried by majority the Bill will have to be resubmitted to the Governor General under section 79 of the Government of India Act. This being so, members of the Select Committee could not formulate any definite proposals in this connection.

I am of opinion that the Bill should contain a separate chapter dealing with judicial functions. It is recognized that it may not be possible to invest every panchayat with such powers. The legislation may, therefore, be permissive and Government should have a free hand in selecting panchayats for the investiture of these powers. That such a provision will make panchayats living organizations, that it will bring justice at least in petty cases nearer to the homes of the people, that it will be less expensive to the litigants and that it will be a good training ground for the people, are amongst others principal points in favour of the view I take in this matter.

Some years ago the Government of Bombay also favoured this view. They had put forward a Bill on these lines. Moreover, the Government of India have in their resolutions of 1915 and 1918 (on Local Self-Government) expressed a favourable view on this subject. That the Governor General should under section 79 of the Government of India Act, sanction the introduction of bills authorizing panchayats to try petty civil and criminal cases in the Province of Bengal and in Central Provinces goes a long way in support of the view I have expressed above.

G. K. SATHE,
Additional Member of the Legislative Council.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai, LL.B.)

1. I think, in Inam, Khoti, Jahagirdari and Talukdari villages, the senior Inamdar, senior Jahagirdar, senior Talukdar and the Managing Khot should, in substitution for the Patel be ex-officio, a member of the Panchayat. In Khoti villages, there is no Patel and the administrative experience which a Patel possesses in non-Khoti villages is possessed by the Khot and the part which would be played by the Patel in non-Khoti villages will be played by the Managing Khot in Khoti villages. In Inam, Jahagirdari and Talukdari villages, the presence of the Inamdars, Jahagirdars and Talukdars as ex-officio member will add to the weight and influence of the village Panchayat. I, therefore, think that necessary changes should be made in clause 5 of the Bill in this respect.

2. In clause 6, sub-clause (a), which disqualifies a female from becoming or continuing to be an elected member of the Panchayat should be deleted. When we are trying to remove a similar disqualification imposed upon females by other enactments such as the District Municipal Act and the City of Bombay Municipal Act, we should not impose a similar disqualification on females from serving on the village Panchayats. If the adult males of the village, having regard to the education and position of a female residing within the limits of the village, think that a particular female should be fit to serve on a Panchayat I think there should be no obstacle in the way of a competent female standing as a candidate in an election.

3. In clause 7, provision should be made to entitle females in whose names house-property stands in that village, to vote at the election. The chief source of income is the house-tax and it will be anomalous to tax the house-property of a female without giving her a right of representation and therefore in the case of such females, the franchise should be given to them.

4. In clause 18 an additional sub-clause should be added, imposing the duty of planting and maintaining road-side trees and trees for shade within the limits of the village on the village Panchayats, of course within the limit of the fund at its disposal. As the construction and maintenance of minor roads is a duty imposed on Panchayats, it is necessary that provision should be made for the planting road-side trees for the comfort of the villagers and travellers.

5. In clause 20 a sub-clause should be added empowering the Panchayats to supervise the inferior village servants. In villages, certain services are rendered by Mahars to ryots and it is advisable to invest the power of control of such village servants in the Panchayats as the members of the Panchayats being the residents of the village are in a position to know the duties and liabilities of such village servants and of the ryots so as to settle disputes and make the village servants to discharge their work properly.

6. In clause 26 a proviso should be added excluding the farm houses which are not the dwelling houses of the residents of a village and which are specially constructed for purposes of agriculture, from the imposition of a house-tax.

(Signed) P. A. DESAI.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.)

While I accept the Bill as an indication on the part of the Government of the desire to allow the people greater scope in the management of their concerns, I am very much in doubt if the people in general will accept it as such.

I am not in agreement with the line of taxation that is laid down in the Bill. Village people are not a very rich class of people and in these days of high prices for the daily necessities when it is difficult for a large number to find adequate suitable food and clothing, a direct taxation in the form of a house-tax will detract very considerably from the merit of the good will of the Government. Further when the legislation is applied there is infinite power for the enlargement of the scope for taxation, and I should not be surprised if within a short time of the application the new law became odious.

I think the better way would be for the Government to divert some of the already existing village revenue for the purposes of the new legislation and give them an opportunity to utilize the contribution in the best way they can. Direct taxation is always unwelcome and for the villagers to assimilate the idea that in getting their village huts taxed they are learning the art of self-government would be a severe struggle.

Coming to the details :—

Clause 5.—There is no need to make the village Patel an ex-officio member. Village Patels are not as a rule men with any education and a large lot of them are imbued with a spirit of partisanship and a majority of them would be unable to resist the temptation to please the powers that be. Provision should be made for the inclusion of Talukdar, Inamdar and Jagirdar in Inam or Talukdari villages, by legislation. At least they should have the right to nominate a member on the panchayat.

Clause 16.—Rights of private ownership over wells, tanks, etc., in Inam villages should be preserved from interference. Similarly in Clause 20 where the Talukdars or Inamdars already pay for the village servants, they should be protected from being called on to pay over again.

Clause 22.—Apart from the inadequacy of the sources of revenue shown in this clause, it is difficult to see how in the case of Talukdari and Inam villages, where the Talukdar or the Inamdar is the absolute proprietor of the trees, dust, etc., it is intended to derive the requisite money. I am assured by the Chairman that the Bill will not be trenching upon the rights of proprietorship at present existing, yet it is necessary that the matter should be put beyond a doubt. We have a large number of Talukdari villages, and the Talukdars have full proprietary rights including ownership of mines, minerals and trees. Vide Administration Report of the Bombay Presidency for the year 1911-12, page 48.

I therefore urge that in the case of Talukdari and Inam villages before the Act is applied the consent of the owner of the village should be obtained and he should have the right to nominate a member on the panchayat.

Lastly there must exist in the Act a provision whereby it should be possible for a village to which the Act has been applied to apply to the Commissioner that the application of the Act to it should be withdrawn. As the various provisions at present stand once the application of the Act is made by certain authorities, those affected by the provisions thereof even if they do not find any advantage therefrom have to bear the burdens."

(Signed) DULABAWA RAISINGJI.

(Minute of dissent by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.)

"I think--

(1) that the patel should not be an ex-officio member of the panchayat;

(2) that there should be no sex bar for voters or members of panchayats;

(3) that panchayats should be invested with Civil and Criminal powers in petty cases;

(4) that some heads of village revenue should be assigned to the panchayats."

(Signed) S. D. GARUD.

No. 186.

From

The Honourable MR. MONCRIEFF SMITH, C.I.E., I.C.S.,
Secretary to the Government of India,
Legislative Department;

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY,
Legal Department.

Dated Delhi, the 14th January 1920.

Sir,

I am directed to return herewith, with the assent of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General signified thereon, the authentic copy of the Law noted on the margin which was received with your letter No. 1531 dated the 20th December 1919.

The Bombay Prevention of Gambling (Amendment) Law, 1919

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,

(Signed) H. M. SMITH,
Secretary to the Government of India.

To

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY IN COUNCIL,
BOMBAY.

May it please Your Excellency,

We the ryats humbly beg to submit the following objections to the new draft bill proposed by Government and to state our views as follows :—

1. The absence of constant railway or steamer communication in the Kanara district is notorious. The steamer communication exists for only 6 months of the year, and that also between the coast-talukas—the ports at which the steamers touch being only 4. Consequently, the people have mainly to depend on land conveyances such as country bullock carts, damnies and pony-tongas.

Even as regards these, during the monsoon-months, the traffic is very small as will appear from the municipal toll-fees levied on these conveyances between Honawar and Kumta.

2. In the South Kanara district, two kinds of conveyances are in vogue, viz., (1) Two-wheeled one horse conveyances called Tongas and (2) Four-wheeled two horse conveyances known as Transits or "Jatkas". The former kinds carry four passengers excluding the driver and the latter eight passengers excluding the driver. It is worthy of note that the Public Conveyances Act is applicable in that district also.

3. The main objection to the Act being brought into force in this part of the district is the wretched state of the roads which are unfit for the horse conveyances. Besides, the hilly nature of the country makes these roads still worse. There are so many ups and downs on these roads that the ponies employed are hard put to it to pull these even light conveyances. With these natural disadvantages to face, any company will find it most difficult to carry on this sort of business successfully. If to these disadvantages are added the rigorous rules and provisions of the Public Conveyances Act, the adventurer is sure to come to grief in a few months.

4. One other fact may be noted. This Act is mainly intended for places of busy trade or commerce where a large number of conveyances and animals are employed. It is admitted on all hands that this part of the country is devoid of easy communications; and it may also be taken for granted that such artificial provisions as those contained in this Act serve to keep down the growth of any enterprise in the direction of opening up good communication.

The above are the general objections to the Act now in force. We now deal with the provisions in the proposed new bill, published in the Bombay Government Gazette dated 13th November 1919.

1. In the existing Act, a distinction is made between four-wheeled conveyances and two-wheeled conveyances. This distinction is sought to be done away with in the new bill. We submit that the distinction between four-wheeled and two-wheeled conveyances is necessary and ought to remain. Because four-wheeled conveyances are lighter in weight and therefore are easily drawn by ponies; and consequently can carry more passengers than two-wheeled conveyances can do.

2. As there are different classes of conveyances, section 13 of the existing Act should be retained.

3. There should be clearer rules about the classes of conveyances plying in a particular locality and these should be notified beforehand. Those that are not yet so notified should be given time before the Act is made applicable to such of them.

4. As low-paid police officials are always against these companies who make a living out of these conveyances, power should not be given them to arrest without warrant the driver except when such driver is guilty of a criminal offence. In other cases, a warrant from the Magistrate should first be obtained. Otherwise the companies and consequently the public will be at the mercy of these low-paid police officials. Serious loss to the company and much inconvenience to passengers will be the certain outcome if such power be given to the police constables.

5. When any offence against the Act is committed, the conveyances should not be attached nor should they be stopped while in motion, but for the period during which a Panchnama is being drawn up regarding the offence.

6. If horses or vehicles are found unfit, sufficient notice beforehand should be given to the company before any action is taken against them. Traffic should not be stopped pending arrival of new studs or vehicles.

7. Licenses should not be refused except for reasons stated in section 6, as otherwise the company which has already invested capital will be put to unnecessary loss.

8. Roads in the locality in which the Act is in force should be wide enough to admit two conveyances to pass and should be maintained in a fit condition. It is generally forgotten by the district officers while applying the provisions of this Act that the condition of the roads is as necessary to be looked at as the suitability of the studs or vehicles employed and that the former is as necessary for the convenience and comfort of the passengers as the latter.

9. Veterinary hospitals for treatment of ponies or other animals employed for these vehicles should be provided for before this Act is brought into force. It may be observed that in the coast talukas of this district not a single veterinary hospital is located.

10. Lastly, where there are very few licenses issued under the Act, the provisions of the Act should not be brought into force. The absence of a tolerable number of licenses indicates the failure of any such rules being worked successfully. It shows on the contrary that enterprise in this direction which ought to be encourged in this district which is wanting in good communications has been artificially checked.

Honawar,
8th December 1919.

(Signed) L. H. IDGUNJI, and 39 others.

No. P.—587 of 1919-20.

From

RAO BAHADUR RAMANBHAI M. NILKANTH, B.A., L.L.B., President, Ahmedabad Municipality ;

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL
OF HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY, BOMBAY.

MUNICIPAL OFFICE :
Ahmedabad, 20th January 1920.

Sir,

I have the honour to state that I have been desired by the Ahmedabad Municipality to submit the following representation to the Legislative Council regarding Bill No. VIII of 1919, a Bill to amend the Law relating to the regulation of public conveyances which is before the Council.

2. Section 7 of the present Public Conveyances Act No. VI of 1863 (which is to be repealed and substituted by the measure proposed by Bill No. VIII of 1919), as it was originally enacted, provided inter alia that the balance of licensing fees levied under the Act "after all necessary contingent expenses shall have been defrayed shall from time to time be paid into the Bank of Bombay by the Commissioner of Police to the credit of the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay". This provision was repealed by Bombay Act No. III of 1886, but section 111 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act No. III of 1888 provides for such balance being credited to the Municipal fund held by the Bombay Corporation.

3. Section 34 of the said Act No. VI of 1863 which provides for the extension of the Act to moffusil towns enacted that "it shall be lawful in any such case for the Governor in Council to * * * * dispose of the balance of fees as may seem necessary". Under this provision Government issued standing orders to the effect that the surplus fees of the Public Conveyance Fund shall be handed over to the Municipalities. The powers of the Governor in Council under this section were delegated to the Commissioner of the Division by Bombay Act No. III of 1915, but the standing orders referred to above have been maintained.

4. The present Bill contains no provision for the disposal of the balance of licensing fees. Clause 35 of the Bill, which like section 34 of the existing Act, provides for the extension of the Act to moffusil town omits the provision contained in the latter section giving authority for disposal of the balance of such fees. The power given by clause 34 to the Commissioner to make rules is confined to rules for the regulation of public conveyances. There is no provision in the Bill for making rules relating to such balance.

5. The Ahmedabad Municipality respectfully submits that the proposed law ought to contain a provision similar to that contained in section 111 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, for such balance being credited to the municipal fund of the municipal district to which the proposed Act is extended after defraying from the fees the necessary expenditure incurred on account of public conveyances. The Municipality further prays, that the Act may similarly provide that fines levied under the Act should be credited to the municipal fund. Municipalities have to provide for carriage stands for public conveyances and to make sanitary arrangements relating thereto and it is but fair, that the balance of all such recoveries must go to the municipalities.

6. I have to request that you may be so good as to lay this representation before the Legislative Council.

7. This representation has been forwarded through the Collector of Ahmedabad and a duplicate is forwarded to you direct.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

RAMANBHAI M. NILKANTH,

President, Ahmedabad Municipality.

To

His Excellency the Right Honourable

SIR GEORGE AMBROSE LLOYD, G.C.I.E., D.S.O.,

Governor and President-in-Council, Bombay.

May it please Your Excellency,

The Inamdars' Association, District Bijapur, begs to submit to Your Excellency's kind consideration the following representation in the matter of the proposed inauguration of panchayats in villages.

The Association notes with satisfaction the proposed inauguration of panchayats in the villages and they hope that the Village Panchayat Bill which is now before the Bombay Legislative Council, will soon pass into law with the necessary modifications. But much as the Inamdars care for the improvement of the conditions of the villages, they are equally anxious that they be given opportunities to work for the improvement of their Inam villages. The constitution of the panchayat, as provided in the Bill, however, ignores the position of the Inamdars altogether. For while making the officiating patel an ex-officio member of the panchayat, it does not give any similar position to the Inamdars.

The objects of the village panchayats are very dear to the Inamdars, and they will enthusiastically welcome the establishment of panchayats in their Inam villages. But in Inam villages the patels are only their servants so to say they being their deputies and the suggestion of the Association is that in the Inam villages the Inamdars should be ex-officio members of the panchayats instead of the patels. To leave the Inamdars to the trial of election will serve only to dissuade the Inamdars from welcoming the panchayats to their villages and also from serving on them not to speak anything of the situation being derogatory to their position. The patels who are their servants should not be given the place of honour in preference to the Inamdars who are their masters.

The panchayats, in order to serve their object in Inam villages, must include the Inamdars on their board. For the Inamdars should be given the position which will enable them to use their existing influence for the good working of the panchayats in their villages. It is also desirable that they should be the Chairman of these panchayats in their villages.

For the foregoing reasons, the Association prays that Your Excellency will be pleased to incorporate in the Panchayat Act the necessary amendment which would satisfy the wishes of the Inamdars as indicated above.

For this act of kindness, we and our Association as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

We beg to subscribe ourselves,

Your Excellency,

Your Excellency's most humble servants,

(Signed) J. M. DESHPANDE,

20th January 1920. Honorary Secretary, Inamdars' Association, Bijapur.

Translation of a petition dated January 1920 to the address of the President of the Legislative Council of the Government of Bombay from Udeysingh Najabhai of Sanodar, Taluka Gogha, District Ahmedabad, and 22 other Talukdars of the Gogha and Dhandhuka Talukas of the Ahmedabad District.

Honoured Sir,

We, the undersigned, Talukdars of the Ahmedabad District beg to state as follows :—

We have come to know that the Village Panchayat Bill has been brought before the Legislative Council. We do not know whether it is applicable to Khalsa villages only or whether it is also applicable to Talukdari and other villages, over and above Khalsa villages. We are arranging to get copies of this Bill; but we have not yet received them. We cannot submit our representations with regard to this Bill until we get the Bill in our hands and understand its provisions. We have heard that the Bill has been referred to a Select Committee after having passed the first reading, and that sittings of the Select Committee are going to be held for the purpose. Therefore it is humble request that you will oblige us by resolving not to hold meetings of the Select Committee till we receive copies of the Gujarati translation of the Bill after it has been made and printed and till we prepare and submit our representations after studying the Bill.

The number of us Talukdars in the Ahmedabad District is very large and of them only very few know English. Therefore, it will not fail to strike Your Excellency also that Gujarati copies are quite necessary for us. Therefore we pray Your Excellency to kindly grant our above request and (thus) give us reasonable opportunity (to submit our representations).

Note.—Thirteen similar petitions have been received in all. Eleven from the following villages while two petitions do not bear the name of any village ;—

1. Aniali.	4. Kanotar.	7. Dholka.
2. Jaskar.	5. Kharad.	8. Parabdi.
3. Gangad.	6. Ghodhavi.	9. Tansa.

From

PARSHURAM ABAJI BHAT, ESQ., B.A., LL.B.,
Chairman, Managing Committee, Kolaba Zilla Sabha ;

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY
in the Legislative Department, Bombay.

Sir,

The Managing Committee of the Kolaba Zilla Sabha respectfully begs to submit the following representation in connection with the Village Panchayat Bill now before the Legislative Council of Bombay (Bill No. XI of 1919) with the hope that the same may be duly considered by His Excellency and the Legislative Council to which the Select Committee will soon submit its report. The Committee welcomes the bill inasmuch as the Kolaba Zilla Sabha at its sitting in Alibag in 1917 passed the following resolution, viz., " that village panchayats should be constituted in this presidency, composed solely of elected members and invested with some authority in matters relating to health, irrigation, forests, and civil and criminal cases of a minor nature." The Committee, however, finds that the bill, as at present framed, does not satisfy the requirements of an effective and useful panchayat system and begs leave to submit a few important suggestions for consideration.

I. Section 3 in effect gives the power of instituting panchayats in villages to the Collector or the District Local Board. The Managing Committee submits that this procedure violates the principle of self-determination now respected all over the world. In particular to introduce this act in villages without the consent of villagers would be most irksome to them and it is felt that no good will accrue from compelling villagers to have the provisions of this bill applied to them against their wishes. It might be urged that this act will be a boon to villagers and might be applied to them without their consent. But it might be frankly stated that if the villagers have to impose a house-tax upon themselves and also other taxes since the Government and the District Local Boards are not going to supply the whole of the fund required for village purposes, Government has no right even to impose this boon in villages without their consent. They had managed to pull on so long without this boon and the Government interests had not particularly suffered on account of the absence of such a provision. At least henceforward no taxation should be imposed without the consent of those who are to be taxed and hence the Committee strongly but respectfully submits that section 3 should be somewhat as follows instead of the present one : "On the application of ten villagers or of the Taluka Local Board the Mamlatdar of the Taluka or some other independent officer (not above this rank) should convene a general meeting of all the adult male villagers in a village, the meeting being duly notified at least seven days before, and should explain to the meeting the provisions of the act and the duty and responsibility of the villagers and if the meeting by a majority of votes decides upon having the provisions of the act applied to the village, the Collector shall on a report to that effect declare the act applied to that village." The Committee thinks that the Commissioner of the Division should have nothing to do with this act and the Collector as little as possible. As, however, the Committee thinks that some respectable and responsible person should ascertain the wishes of the villagers, provision is suggested that the Mamlatdar should preside at the villagers' meeting.

II. The second suggestion which the Committee would venture to make is that the duration of the panchayats should at least be three years. Two years are insufficient for any body to show results in a continuous policy and moreover it is not advisable to throw a village into turmoil every second year.

III. The third suggestion which the Managing Committee begs to make is in connection with the powers of the panchayat. The Kolaba Zilla Sabha by its resolution above mentioned recommends that village panchayats should be invested with powers in connection with forests and also with civil and criminal matters. It is well known that villagers are usually troubled by the rules of the forest department. It is submitted that if village panchayats are utilized by the forest department and are invested with certain rights in forests, much of the friction now existing between villages and forest department will disappear and villages will be benefitted to a great extent. Nay village panchayats will be more and more popular than otherwise. As regards the judicial powers, the Committee thinks that at least some criminal powers should be given at the outset to these panchayats in certain minor specified offences. This will not only assure speedy and effective justice, but will also invest the position of a member of a village panchayat with some dignity which will act as an incentive to work in the cause of public weal.

It appears from the discussion in the Legislative Council on the first reading of the bill, that such powers are considered inadvisable by some members and notably by the mover of the bill, on the ground that factions exist almost in all villages and one faction getting elected on the panchayat might oppress its opponent. But this cannot be made a ground for denying the grant of useful powers. Moreover decisions of panchayats in cases under the Penal Code or other penal laws (not under bye-laws made under the Act) may be made subject to revision by the District or First Class Magistrate of the District and this would suffice to create a sense of responsibility in members of panchayats. As to procedure, it must of course be summary procedure under the Criminal Procedure Code. If Honorary Magistrates in town who are often not more educated than many well-to-do villagers can be entrusted with criminal powers, there should be very little objection to panchayats being invested with them.

IV. Lastly the Committee thinks that village panchayats should be at liberty to impose house-tax or not according to the condition of the village and the need of expenditure. A village composed of huts inhabited by poor villagers in whose hands money rarely comes, a house-tax may be very oppressive, but in another village inhabited by well-to-do people living in good houses, a house-tax may be collected without difficulty. It should be left entirely to the option of the village panchayat to impose any out of several specified taxes to the extent required by their needs. It should further be understood that District Local Boards should have no right to impose additional duties or to increase the burden of villagers or to increase any tax. The power of District Local Boards should be confined solely to inspection and they may have the power to cancel the appointment of any panch who is found to be obstructive or incompetent and the Collector, in case of gross abuse and complaint by villagers, may cancel a panchayat altogether.

The Managing Committee of the Kolaba Zilla Sabha hopes that this humble representation will be accorded favourable consideration by His Excellency the Governor as also by the Legislative Council when the bill as amended by the Select Committee comes before the Council for final disposal.

Dated this 14th day of February 1920.

We beg to remain,

Sir,

Your most obedient servants,

(Sd.) P. A. BHAT,
Chairman,
Managing Committee, Kolaba Zilla Sabha.

Office:
V. M. GOVILKER, Esq.,
Honorary Secretary,
Kolaba Zilla Sabha,
Fanaswadi, Jagannath's Chawl,
Bombay.

Answer to question No. 10 put by the Honourable Khan Bahadur Ebrahim Haroon Jaffer at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 7th July 1919.

THE HONOURABLE KHAN BAHADUR EBRAHIM HAROON JAFFER.

Question.	Answer.
10. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of Urdu Schools in municipal and local board areas in the 3 Divisions of the Presidency proper,	10. (a) 757.
Urdu Schools Statistics.
(b) The number of school committees or school boards formed to assist the said schools,	(b) 618. There are 5 Local Board schools without school committees and steps are being taken to appoint them. A Municipality has one school board or a committee to control all its schools and hence the number of school committees is less than the number of the schools.
(c) And the number of those which have no Mahomedan representative?	(c) 24. Steps are being taken to appoint Mahomedan representatives on school committees where it is possible to do so.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

THURSDAY, 1st APRIL 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay assembled under the provisions of the Government of India Act, 1915.

The Council assembled on Saturday, the 13th March 1920, at 12 noon, at the Council Hall, Secretariat, Bombay.

PRESENT.

His Excellency Sir GEORGE AMBROSE LLOYD, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., Governor of Bombay, President.

The Honourable Sir G. CARMICHAEL, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. CURTIS, C.S.I., I.C.S.

The Honourable Sir IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA, Kt., C.I.E.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir THOMAS J. STRANGMAN, Kt.).

The Honourable Mr. DATTATRAYA VENKATESH BELVI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. GHULAM MUHAMMAD walad Khan Bahadur WALI MUHAMMAD BHURGRI, Bar.-at-Law.

The Honourable Mr. RUPCHAND BILARAM, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. H. BROOKE.

The Honourable Mr. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.

The Honourable Mr. F. CLAYTON.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. COVERNTON, C.I.E.

The Honourable Mr. PANDURANG ANANT DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Rao Saheb HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. E. ENTHOVEN, C.I.E., I.C.S.

The Honourable Major C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur SIDDHANATH DHONDDEV GARUD.

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTIONS—THE ROYAL PROCLAMATION.

[The President; Sir G. Carmichael; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur KASHINATH RAMCHANDRA GODBOLE.
The Honourable Mr. MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.
The Honourable Shaikh GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. J. D. JENKINS.
The Honourable Mr. BALKRISHNA SITARAM KAMAT.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur PIR BAKSH walad MIAN MAHMUD, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. MEAD, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. CHUNILAL VIJBHUKHANDAS MEHTA, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. LALUBHAI SAMALDAS MEHTA, C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur VENKATESH SHRINIWAS NAIK.
The Honourable Mr. RAGHUNATH PURSHOTTAM PARANJPYE.
The Honourable Mr. GOKULDAS KAHANDAS PAREKH, LL.B.
The Honourable Sir DINSHAW MANOCKJEE PETIT, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI.
The Honourable Mr. L. ROBERTSON, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur GANESH KRISHNA SATHE, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. SEDDON, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. SHOUBRIDGE, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. SMITH, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. SHRIDHAR BALKRISHNA UPASANI.
The Honourable Mr. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E., LL.B.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir Thomas J. Strangman, Kt.), the Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, the Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram and the Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge took the oath of allegiance to the Crown.

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTIONS.

His Excellency the President:—Questions.

The numbers of questions were then called.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—Your Excellency,—As regards Question No. 7 (d) by the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, the number of villages given is 5, but a report has just been received from the Collector of Dharwar in which he states that that number should be 9 and not 5.

His Excellency the President:—I think Council will desire that, in accordance with practice, the loyal resolutions Nos. 6, 9 and 10 should be taken before the current business of the House. I shall, therefore, call upon the mover of resolution No. 6 to move his resolution, and afterwards the mover of resolutions Nos. 9 and 11, and then put all the three resolutions to Council in order.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Your Excellency,—The resolution that stands in my name reads as follows:—

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to convey to His Majesty the King-Emperor the humble loyalty and devotion of the Council to the person and throne of His Imperial Majesty, and its deep feelings of gratitude for the Royal Proclamation graciously expressing the Royal assent to the Government of India Bill and announcing the adoption of the great principle and policy of responsible Government for the Indian people."

This being the first meeting of the Council after the Royal Proclamation, I consider it our first duty to convey our loyal devotion and dutiful homage to our beloved Sovereign the King-Emperor. Our loyalty is unquestionable; therefore I need not dwell on it at great length.

Our next duty is to express our profound gratitude to His Majesty the King-Emperor for according his Royal assent to the Government of India Act which is going to be enforced shortly. This measure, your Excellency, constitutes a great landmark in the political history of India. (Hear, hear.) It inaugurates a great and good policy of responsibility in the sphere of administration. The measure has been acclaimed by people of all shades of opinion as a distinct step forward.

THE ROYAL PROCLAMATION—THE ROYAL PROCLAMATION; PROPOSED VISIT OF HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES—CONGRATULATIONS TO THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT, THE SECRETARY OF STATE, AND LORD SINHA.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Mr. G. K. Parekh; Mr. G. M. Bhurgri.]

Now, a word about the working of the new reforms. These reforms will be no good if both the people and the officials do not mean to make them a success. It is the co-operation on the part of both the people and the officials that will bring about the desired results. With these words I place my resolution before the Council.

The Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh:—Your Excellency,—I heartily support the resolution that has been put before the Council by my honourable friend, and there are resolutions, Nos. 9 and 10, which stand in my name, and I also beg to move them. Resolution No. 9 runs thus:—

"That a message expressing the loyal and dutiful homage of the people of this Presidency be respectfully conveyed to His Majesty the King-Emperor and that the profound gratitude of the people be conveyed to His Majesty for His Gracious Proclamation of the 23rd December last and for giving his Royal assent to the Government of India Bill passed by Parliament and for his Royal condescension in announcing his intention to depute His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to visit India as His Majesty's representative for the purpose of inaugurating the new constitution; and this Council tenders its respectful assurance to His Majesty the King-Emperor that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will receive a most cordial and enthusiastic welcome from the people of this Presidency."

Resolution No. 10 reads as follows:—

"That the warmest congratulations be conveyed to His Majesty's Government, to the Right Honourable Mr. E. S. Montagu, the Secretary of State for India, to the Right Honourable Lord Sinha of Raipur, the Under Secretary of State for India, and to the British Parliament on the successful passage of the Government of India Bill through the two Houses of Parliament, which measure the Council regards as a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realisation of responsible Government."

Your Excellency—In seconding the resolution that has been moved by my honourable friend Shaikh Ghulam Hussein, and in moving those that stand in my name, I submit that we are uttering the sentiments that prevail throughout the whole of this Presidency. I do not think many words are needed to commend this resolution to this Council. Your Excellency will note that it is the British Government that has qualified us for the gift that is now being given to us. They gave us education, they taught us history, and it would be remarkable if these things had not their effect upon our minds. They gave us liberal institutions, liberalised government at every step since the government was taken in hand by the Crown of England, and they have, not by large gifts showered at a time, but step by step, fitted and qualified us for the commencement of responsible government. Now we find that we are on the threshold of responsible government, though it may not be full, I trust all sides will respect His Majesty's wishes and try to co-operate and make this measure a full success, so that the people of India may get responsible government in course of time. We express our pleasure at the royal word that the heir-apparent to the throne of England is visiting India next winter for the purpose of inaugurating the Council of Princes and also the Reformed Councils, and I should think, Indian as I am, that the opening of these institutions by His Royal Highness augurs to us an immense success and I think that there will be co-operation between all the parties and between the different elements of Government so as to make the whole scheme a complete success. The members of the Royal House of England have always received the homage due to their high position from the people of India and I have not the least doubt that on this occasion India will not fail to do its duty.

My next resolution is in reference to the two great officers who had their share in passing the bill through the two Houses of Parliament, and we are greatly obliged to the Right Honourable Mr. Montagu for the immense trouble that he has taken in connection with the bill. Those of us who were in England bear testimony to the immense industry and the immense labour which he underwent for the purpose of getting this bill through Parliament (hear, hear), and I may say as well that we are indebted also to our countryman, Lord Sinha, for the way in which he carried the measure through the House of Lords. I trust that every party will follow His Majesty's advice and try to act in such a way as to render the measure a complete success.

The Honourable Mr. G. M. Bhurgri:—Your Excellency,—Having lost my voice, I did not intend to speak to-day, but I felt that it is my bounden duty not to vote silently on this resolution. As one who had closer insight into the work which Mr. Montagu had done in connection with the passing of the Government of India Bill, I feel I must say a word of appreciation, a word of thanks, to that great statesman and true friend of India. Sir, the difficulties which Mr. Montagu had to face and the courage with which he faced them are only to be fully appreciated when the veil is lifted from the proceedings which commenced with the pronouncement of His Majesty's Government in August 1917 and ended with the passing of the Government of India Bill. India, indeed, owes to him a deep debt of gratitude, and his name will always be remembered by her people with reverence and deep feelings of gratefulness.

THE ROYAL PROCLAMATION; PROPOSED VISIT OF HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES—CONGRATULATIONS TO THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT, THE SECRETARY OF STATE, AND LORD SINHA—REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Mr. G. M. Bhurgri; the President.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Resolutions Nos. 6, 9 and 10 were then put to the vote and carried.

His Excellency the President:—The Council would doubtless desire that I should convey their loyal resolutions in the usual manner.

His Excellency the President:—Gentlemen,—This is, as you are all aware, the last budget of the present year before the Reforms Scheme. We have a large programme on this occasion before us—an unusually large one—both legislative as well as financial, and I do not propose to delay the proceedings by any very long remarks this morning. I regret that I personally shall not be able to attend every sitting of the Council during this session, as I shall be absent for a day or two, but I hope I may find the Council still sitting on my return. The Vice-President, Sir George Carmichael, will preside.

I think it is only due that we should express, and the Council will, I am sure, desire to express, our regret at the loss of a very loyal and devoted servant in the shape of Mr. Arthur who rendered very distinguished services to this Presidency in excise work for many years. Indeed, I am afraid there is no doubt that his death is entirely due to a break-down from overwork. It will ill-befit this Council if we did not recognise his great services or let this sad occasion pass by without an expression of that real regret which I am sure every honourable member of this Council will feel.

Well, gentlemen, the budget which is just going to be presented to you is, I think, a very satisfactory budget. I propose to run through a few figures which will bring to your notice the financial course which this Presidency has gone through in recent years.

Now, our total pre-war revenue, quinquennial average, was 731 lakhs (all the figures I give you will be in lakhs), whereas our present revenue is 1,174 lakhs, that is to say, in that short space of time there has been an increase of 60 per cent. That is a very remarkable figure. I am just picking out a few figures to summarise the main features to which I desire to draw the attention of honourable members. Our total expenditure, pre-war, was 706 lakhs; the same is now 1,267 lakhs, which is plus 79 per cent.

Turning to the main heads of revenue increases, we shall find that Excise, in the quinquennial period before the war, gave us a revenue of 164 lakhs and now gives us no less than 430 lakhs, which is again a very large increase. There are some important observations in the printed budget in this connection to which I would draw your attention, but I will not make any further reference to them on this occasion. Land Revenue, under the divided head, half Land Revenue, pre-war, gave us 207 lakhs, and now gives us 244 lakhs. The biggest pro rata increase is shown in Income Tax. Half Income Tax pre-war was 28 lakhs; it is now 185 lakhs, a source of income which, I think, has only just begun to be felt. The machinery for its collection is hardly yet established. It is an easy and valuable tax, and one which, I think, will show us increasing returns in the future.

Now, under the main heads of increased expenditure, we find that Land Revenue, pre-war, was 74 lakhs. Now, it is 137 lakhs, due to increases of establishment and the like. Police, pre-war, was 93 lakhs; now it is 164 lakhs, a very large increase, and an increase which is only exceeded by that of Education which pre-war was 55 lakhs, and is now no less than 149 lakhs, that is, an increase of 170 per cent., which is really a staggering figure, and which is larger than the increase on any one head.

Honourable members will perhaps be tempted, when they examine the budget figures, to look with somewhat greedy eyes at the closing balance of 4 crores and over. I would just like to say one word of caution as regards next year's budget with regard to that closing balance. It is not a cash balance, in which it would be advisable for every department to dip their ready hands, because on calculations we have made, if we maintain our present standards of expenditure and provide for famine expenditure, which at present, I think, is 35 lakhs, the whole of this 4 crores will be wiped out in 5 years' time. So, honourable members have to realise the enormous increases in cost of establishment, with which we are being deluged every day, which are not yet met. There will be delays in rates, delays in sanction, and so on, before all the subordinate departments and others are brought up to the necessary standard of to-day. But he would be a very unwise financier who looked upon our cash balances with anything but cautious eyes, in view of the heavy demands that have been made upon us at the present time.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [The President; Sir G. Carmichael.]

There is also one other word of caution which I would like to say before I sit down, and that is with regard to Police. The police expenditure has increased, but, on the other hand, there is an increasing demand on all sides for larger establishments of police. Not only has the cost of the maintenance of the police increased in common with other establishments, but we are also faced with very heavy demands, especially in Bombay city, as a very much larger cadre of police should be established there. That is naturally a matter which in due course will have to be discussed in Council, and it does not arise to-day. But these very formidable demands made upon our revenues have to be noticed and watched.

We are also engaged, as honourable members are doubtless aware, in discussing with the Government of India the future financial relations between this Presidency and the Government of India to be, and we have to be very careful that the interests of this Presidency are as fully safeguarded as possible for the whole of the Reform period.

I think those are the only remarks which I desire to bring before you on this occasion, and I will now call upon my honourable colleague to introduce his budget statement.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—Your Excellency,—I have the honour to present to this Council the Revised Financial Statement for 1920-21. Copies of the Statement were sent out to honourable members on the 6th of March. I am sorry to hear that some members from Sind did not receive their copies until a very late date. His Excellency suggests that the Secretary of our Council overlooked the fact that there is an air mail between Bombay and Karachi which might have been used, so that honourable members living in Sind would have received their Financial Statement in time.

Copies have been placed on the table of the statement and also the memorandum showing the latest changes which have been made by the Government of India. In that memorandum you see certain changes made in the revised estimates for 1919-20, both on the revenue side and on the expenditure side, and similarly in the budget estimate for 1920-21.

Under Land Revenue, the cotton harvest of Gujarat has been later than expected, and, consequently, the collections have been delayed and we have received less in the current year. But the revenue will be received after March, between April and June. So, the shortage in the collection up to March in the revised estimate has been added to the budget estimates for 1920-21.

His Excellency has referred to the Police expenditure. The memorandum shows that a comparatively large sum of 2½ lakhs has been added, as required, for police expenditure in Bombay and in Sind. These new proposals are necessary in view of the increased cost of living. This brings the total of police expenditure up to 1,69.

The statement has been prepared in a form which I hope has enabled honourable members, who have received it in time, to obtain a clearer view of the general financial position as also all the details under each major head, the increases on the revenue side and of the various objects on which expenditure is being incurred.

In Part II of the Statement I have endeavoured to set out the salient features of the general financial position of the Presidency, and I take it that honourable members will hardly expect that I should go over the ground again. On the revenue side the marked feature is the satisfactory expansion which has occurred under the main revenue heads. This is shown in paragraph 5 on page 4. The largest increase, I should say, has occurred under Income Tax, of which provincial gets a half share, subject of course to a large deduction on account of the transfer to Imperial of that portion of the revenue which comes from the increased rates of taxation imposed in 1916. This amounts to 89 lakhs altogether, but is subject to a reduction of 6½ lakhs on account of payment made to us by the Government of India to cover the loss of our provincial half share, due to the introduction of the excess profits tax, and also the loss due to the recent raising of the limit of taxation to Rs. 2,000, as it is now.

On the expenditure side, as honourable members will see, we are faced with a very large increase of expenditure on establishments of all kinds. Specific provisions are shown on pages 6 and 7, and there is also a lump provision of Rs. 20 lakhs under the Land Revenue head. The Government of Bombay had proposed to postpone the permanent revision of establishments until normal conditions had returned. It was expected that after the war prices would fall. That, as we all know, has not occurred and, instead, the economic stress has been greater than before and it has been decided to undertake the permanent revision of our establishments. So far as the examination has gone, it appears not unlikely that we shall have to spend considerably more than the amount that has been provided in the budget, than the 20 lakhs for which provision has been made under Land Revenue.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Sir G. Carmichael; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

His Excellency explained matters with regard to balances. Our balance, subject to the corrections made in the memorandum of 12th March, on March 31st 1921, is 3,89 lakhs.

There is one further point in addition to those to which His Excellency referred and that is that the Government of India have suggested that we should take over our Provincial Loans and Advances account and finance it in future, that is, the loans to cultivators on account of tagavi, loans to municipalities, loans to local boards, to landholders, and miscellaneous loans. The balance outstanding on the 31st of March is estimated at about 3,15 lakhs. Now, if we were to take over the whole of the balance, we should of course save the interest charges. We pay interest at various rates ranging from 3½ per cent. to 5½ per cent., and a small amount is interest free. To take over the whole of the account would mean locking up the larger part of the provincial balances. This might unduly hamper our operations in future. We might be unable, for instance, to finance our famine expenditure. We shall have, when the new Government comes into being, to make the whole provision ourselves for large irrigation works. Of these, we have in view a very large project in the Sukkur barrage scheme.

Further, there are schemes for the development of Bombay for which money will have to be found. No actual decision has been taken of how much our Loans and Advances account we should take over. It may not be the whole at first. It will probably begin with the sum of about one crore of rupees. If the years are good, if we get good harvests, the outstanding of three crores will diminish of itself by repayment from the cultivators who have borrowed the money. The balance stands at present at an unusually high figure. We are so close on the failure of the monsoon of 1918, when large sums were given out for tagavi. But the experience of giving out large sums for tagavi in 1911 and 1912, two bad years, and again in 1915, has been that tagavi is repaid very promptly, so that the balance of the three crores fifteen lakhs provincial Loans and Advances account will be greatly reduced if we have the good furtune to have a succession of two or three years of good harvest.

Before I conclude, I wish to thank the members of the Finance Committee for their helpful and businesslike manner in examining the proposals, and I also wish to thank the Honourable Mr. Mead and those who worked with him for the very efficient performance of what was a most laborious task in getting together the figures for the budget.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—We have now to consider detailed heads.

As regards Land Revenue honourable members will notice that the revised estimate for 1919-20 contemplates collection of revenue amounting to 4 crores 95 lakhs of rupees. The budget estimate for 1920-21 is 10 lakhs higher or 5 crores and 15 lakhs of rupees. The figures are very high but contain amounts due on account of assessment suspended during the scarcity year 1918-19. Provision is made for remissions to the extent of 11 lakhs 98 thousand in 1919-20 and 8 lakhs 3 thousand in 1920-21. It is estimated that the arrears will at the end of the year 1920-21 be reduced to 31 lakhs 11 thousand. These estimates are based on the assumption that the season in 1920-21 will at least be a normal one. Should it prove otherwise, it is possible that the estimates may prove excessive.

On the expenditure side the budget estimate for 1920-21 shows a large increase. This is mainly due to a lump sum provision of 20 lakhs of rupees made for the purpose of increasing or revising the pay of subordinate establishments in various departments. The continuance of the high prices of the necessaries of life and the general expenses of living have forced Government to the conclusion that considerable revisions are necessary. Schemes for the revision of the pay of subordinate establishments are therefore in process of consideration.

The next provision of importance is one of 7½ lakhs of rupees for expenditure connected with the Reform Scheme. At present these charges are, it is proposed, to be debited to the provincial budget.

The third item of interest is the provision of 5 lakhs of rupees for the establishment of the directorate of development with large powers to undertake schemes for the development of greater Bombay and for the co-ordination of the work of local authorities and public bodies. Proposals to this end have been submitted to higher authorities and it is hoped sanction will be received shortly.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT—SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis; The President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

As regards Head IV, Stamps, this head is not open to discussion in a Provincial Legislative Council. It would be sufficient to note that the budget estimate for 1920-21 shows an increase of 43 lakhs over that of 1919-20 of which the provincial share is one-half. The figures are an eloquent proof of the commercial activity of our great cities.

As regards excise head, the budget estimate for 1920-21 amounts to 4 crores and 30 lakhs or 35 lakhs above the budget estimate of 1919-1920. Of this amount Rs. 32,10,000 are under the sub-head 'License' and 'Still-head fees' for sale of liquors and drugs. Revenue under this head continues to expand notwithstanding that consumption of liquor shows a tendency to decline.

As regards the expenditure side, considerable difficulties have been experienced during the past year by the manufacturers of country spirit in obtaining the raw materials necessary for distillation. Owing to the almost total failure of the mhowra crop in 1919 the price of mhowra flowers has risen enormously and in some places it has been impossible to obtain them. The contract of Messrs. Carew and Company, for the supply of Bombay city, Surat, Thana and Kolaba expires on the 31st of this month. It will not be renewed. In view, however, of the fact that mhowra is almost unobtainable and that it would have been necessary to call for tenders in November or December last, Government decided to postpone the date of the commencement of the new contract to the 1st of August and call for tenders during the present month when it is hoped that intending tenderers would be able to obtain information as to the prospects of the coming crop. It has consequently been necessary to arrange departmentally for the supply of spirit from the 1st of April to 31st of July. Eight lakhs of proof gallons of spirit has accordingly been obtained from Messrs. Parry & Co. of Madras and Messrs. Arratoon of Bombay at a total cost of Rs. 16,87,500. Of this sum 8 lakhs will be recoverable from shop-keepers, and the balance would be debitable to the provincial budget. A provision of 9 lakhs of rupees has accordingly been made. A further consequence of the failure of mhowra crop has been that it has been necessary to make advances to the distilling contractors to enable them to meet the enormously enhanced cost of raw materials. A total sum of 7 lakhs 39 thousand has been advanced to various distilling contractors on the understanding that their accounts are to be examined at the end of March 1920. When this is done, due regard will be had to the question what has been the profit or loss of individual contractors during the whole period of their contract. Should it be found that the loss sustained by the contractors, owing to the rise in the price of raw materials and the impossibility of obtaining machinery owing to the war, has been crippling, these advances will not be recovered.

The budget further provides for the amalgamation and the reorganization and increase of the staff of the Departments of Salt and Excise. The effect of this scheme will be, it is hoped, to improve the prospects of the combined service and attract to its ranks men of superior education and probity. With the rise and importance of excise revenue, which, from the provincial point of view, is by far the most important revenue head in the budget, it becomes increasingly necessary to ensure a high standard of efficiency among the staff to whom the administration is confided.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 1. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—The resolution that stands in my name reads as follows:—

"Omit item 22 under excise in the Draft Financial Statement."

The provision of nine lakhs under this item has been made because the contract of the company comes to an end on the 31st of March 1920. It is difficult to understand why Government do not allow another contract to begin immediately after the 31st of March 1920. It is said that they are waiting to see the nature of the mhowra crop. All our budget expenditure is based on the assumption that the next year is going to be normal. We, therefore, ought to give out this contract on the assumption that the next mhowra crop will be normal. If we find after August 31st that the mhowra crop has not been normal, then Government can easily make up any loss that the contractors might suffer by making such remission as Government may think necessary. But it certainly is not advisable to undertake the running of this contract as a Governmental department, merely because we are not quite sure whether the mhowra crop will or will not be normal. I submit this is not the only item which will be affected if the monsoon is not normal. I believe estimates have been made on the assumption that it will be a normal year. If it does not prove to be a normal year and the mhowra crop does not happen to be good, then we might consider their case. I submit, therefore, that this expenditure be dropped and the contract be given out at once and not unnecessarily delayed.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Your Excellency,—I rise to oppose the resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud. It appears that the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud overlooks that last year was a year of famine, when there was no mhowra crop, and it is not that Government are going in for this departmental work from 31st March till 31st August out of mere curiosity. If the Council will only read the remarks against item No. 22, they will see for themselves what arrangements have already been made for the supply departmentally of spirit to the areas in question. The last season was a poor one, as far as the supply of mhowra was concerned, and Government had to go as far as Madras and Java to get molasses, or rather to replace mhowra by molasses, to keep up the supply of liquor, and very high fees were taken from various shopkeepers at auction sales of shops. I am sure that Government cannot be expected to take a rosy view of things when there is nothing to base such a rosy view on for the following year. The remark referred to says that:

"New contracts will be entered into from 1st August 1920 because the next few months will help both the contractors and Government exactly to know how the question of the supply of mhowra will stand then."

I do not, therefore, see how it will be possible for this Council to say that this amount should not be passed.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas has, I think, put the case very correctly. The position is that last year's mhowra crop was a complete failure and, as the contract expires on 31st March, it would have been necessary to call tendtrs on the 30th November. It is quite clear that, if Government had done so, the contractors would have been unable to obtain mhowra at a very high price indeed. It is quite possible that the state of expenditure which this grant has provided might have become permanent and cause the administration a great harm. I would say that Government would have been put to an immense amount of worry and trouble of all sorts. It is very much simpler to pass on from contracts expired on 31st March to the new contracts of the 1st April. Government considers all this may be postponed till the settlement of the question of the supply of liquor. Accordingly, it was arranged departmentally for 4 months to postpone the actual commencement until 1st of April. Owing to the peculiar condition prevailing in the market of raw material, the actual cost of liquor has increased rather more than 125 per cent. On the other hand, shops were disposed of to obtain extra cost from shopkeepers. The total amount of 60 lakhs of rupees had been entered into by Government with these two firms. It is not possible for Government to go back upon the contract unless this Government has to acknowledge bankruptcy. These bills, when they are presented, must be provided in the budget. I ask the Council not to accept this resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—We are incurring this expenditure before ascertaining what the tenders are. We have not asked for tenders. All this expenditure is to be incurred on the assumption that the tenders may not be what we expect them to be.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—I rise to a point of order. Tenders have been asked for on Monday, the 15th March.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Yes, but I think I am correct in saying that this assumption has been made before the tenders have been received and before the tenders have been considered. We are told that the liquor must be supplied to the licensees at the contract rate and a deficit of 8 lakhs must be incurred in that transaction. The licensees are now permitted to charge what price they can realize. These prices have already gone up very high. Formerly a quart of country liquor used to cost Re. 0-10-0 and now it costs, I am told, Rs. 2-8-0. This difference in the price leaves an ample margin to the licensee and he must be asked to make good any increase in the cost price of liquor. We are therefore not justified in not calling for tenders and in working departmentally. I therefore submit that the provision is unnecessary.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [The President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.]

His Excellency the President:—The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud did not realise a very simple commercial point. The provision for 8 lakhs proof gallons means Rs. 9 lakhs or more, since, whereas it was estimated that liquor would cost Re. 1-1-0, it now appears that on an average the cost will be well over Rs. 2. The sum is a simple one. I think the honourable member must remember, whether it is fortunate or unfortunate, that Government was not aware of the unforeseen rise in the cost of raw material on account of the war. Thy new system introduced has worked well and, on the revenue side, Government have secured very large profits. I think questions of this character, which are entirely due to the rise in the cost of raw materials, should be dealt with in a sympathetic manner.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost.

His Excellency the President: –Resolution No. 2. The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—The resolution that stands in my name reads thus :—

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the provision of Rs. 9,00,000 contained in item No. 22 in Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement for 1920-21, relating to the expenditure in connection with the supply of country spirit to licensed retail vendors in certain areas in the Presidency proper, be changed to Rs. 3,00,000."

The honourable members will turn to this draft financial statement at page 7, item 22, under the head " Remarks ".

" The contract of Messrs. Carew and Company for the supply of country spirit in the town and island of Bombay, the districts of Surat, Thana and Kolaba and the Dangs expires on 31st March 1920. It has been decided to enter into new contracts with effect from 1st August 1920 as this course will enable would-be tenderers to have full information regarding the prospects of the new mhowra crop, and thus tender supply rates favourable to Government. Arrangements, therefore, will have to be made for the supply departmentally of spirit to the areas in question from 1st April to 31st July 1920, and a quantity sufficient for one month's supply from 1st August 1920 will have to be handed over to the new contractors. It has, accordingly, been decided to obtain 800,000 proof gallons from Messrs. Parry & Co. of Madras and Messrs. Arratoon & Co. of Bombay as shown below :—

From Messrs, Parry & Co.

300,000 proof gallons at Re. 1-12-0 per proof gallon.

300,000 proof gallons at Rs. 2-8-0 per proof gallon."

Lower down, you find a provision of one and a half lakhs for railway freight which would give six lakhs gallons at four annas per gallon. Thus, the average rate at which it is proposed to purchase six lakhs of gallons comes to Rs. 2-6-0 as against Re. 1-5-0, the rate of Messrs. Arratoon & Co. In the first instance, may I submit that eight lakhs of gallons are not required? The total consumption of country liquor in the Presidency proper is 26 lakhs gallons. The area in charge of Messrs. Parry & Co., is about half, that is, the requirement is less than 12 lakhs and a half gallons. Thus the rate per month is one lakh gallons. Secondly, the other contractors have continued their supply and will continue it, and we find from the report of this Government on the administration of excise that consumption of country spirit is decreasing and the revenue is increasing. I may say, by the bye, that the consumption of foreign liquor is increasing. Now, therefore, if we look to the requirements as shown above, it is five lakhs of gallons only. Now, two lakhs of gallons you are to have from Messrs. Arratoon at Re. 1-5-0 per gallon. You can have three lakhs gallons from Parry & Co., at Re. 1-12-0 per gallon: so that the amount at that rate plus the railway freight will be Rs. 3,62,500. The first question is, why give exorbitant rates to Messrs. Parry & Co., as compared with Messrs. Arratoon & Co. And the next question is, whether it is not possible to obtain from Messrs. Arratoon & Co. all the required quantity and have all Java imported spirit. There is very likely every reason to believe they would have given it at the rate of Re. 1-5-0 and the amount, in that case, would have been Rs. 1,56,250. I am deducting the amount which would be recovered from licensed retailers in all these calculations. Even if you add four annas per gallon for carriage, the amount would be Rs. 2,31,200. Even at the rate of Re. 1-12-0 per gallon the cost will come to Rs. 2,87,500 and not more. Hence, the item of three lakhs is proposed to be substituted in place of 9 lakhs. I would just refer to past events, when Messrs. Carew & Co. were introduced into the excise system. Messrs. Carew & Co. have been contractors by selection and not by open competition. If you

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. G. S. Curtis; The President.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

refer to the rates allowed to Messrs. Carew & Co., we find that while other contractors are to supply.....

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis :—I rise to a point of order, whether the honourable member is in order in referring to rates given two or three years ago.

His Excellency the President:—The honourable member may proceed.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—What I am going to submit is that the rates given to Messrs. Carew & Co. were higher than the rates of other contractors. They range from Re. 1 to Re. 1-3-0 while the rates to many of them are less than one rupee.

The next reason that is given in reply to the last resolution is that they did not call any tenders in December last because they feared perhaps the rates would be unfavourable to Government. I beg to submit that for so many years the financial year for the contract has been from April and no attempt has been made to change the financial year from August to July. The same official year is kept up and yet it is said that tenders were not called for in December because it was feared that the tenders would be high. I respectfully submit, what right have you to assume that the rates would have been high. If an attempt, as was the practice, to call for tenders had been made, the case would have been on firmer ground.

Secondly, the monsoon of 1918 had failed and, consequently, mhowra was not sufficient, but not the monsoon of 1919; and for many years contractors have been tendering in December and it has never been said that it is very great inconvenience to them; because they have to give tenders after knowing what the monsoon was. They usually give tenders in December and they had sufficient intimation as to the nature of the monsoon whether it was favourable or not. Under these circumstances, I do not see any reason or justification for not inviting any tenders at the usual time.

Let us see whether they are justified in asking to allow a provision of nine lakhs. Whatever may have been the tenders, the rates would never have been so unfavourable as this one of nine lakhs for departmental supply. Government are in a wrong box. It may be a bonâ fide assumption to say that the rates would have been unfavourable; but certainly a lay mind is apt to put things in juxtaposition and to say, if tenders had been invited Messrs. Carew & Co. would have lost their contract. Government have failed to invite tenders and, at the same time, are making arrangements for departmental supply. I really do not see why Government have laid themselves open to this construction by not having invited tenders, as was the usual practice to do. At one time, while I was in the financial committee, I was inclined to approach this item as the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud treated his resoluion.

But I then thought that a mistake was committed and as somehow the supply was to be made and, consequently, some arrangement had to be entered into, so I concluded that it was no use moving the Council for dropping the item altogether, and I am restricting my demand to as little an amount as is required and not further. Consequently I have moved for a change of the item from nine lakhs to three lakhs. At one time, it also occurred to me whether it would not have been possible to get the distillery at Surat to work for four months for the purpose of getting a supply, because, if you do not work the machinery, we have to dispense with the men and they are to be employed again in August or the beginning of September. Consequently, if arrangements had been made partly to get Java spirit at Re. 1-5-0 per gallon and if, at that rate, two lakhs of gallons had been obtained and for the rest if arrangements had been made to work the Government distillery at Surat, then it would not have been necessary to provide such a large sum. But it may, perhaps, be said that the machinery at Surat requires rest and overhauling and, consequently, that also is out of the question.

Under these circumstances, I have moved this resolution for the substitution of three lakhs for nine lakhs, as that is the amount which is absolutely necessary. Government did not make an effort to get Java spirit at the same rate at which Messrs. Arratoon & Co. get it. Even if they purchase it from Messrs. Parry & Co., they would not be requiring more than three lakhs of rupees. And I respectfully submit that, in any case, the fact that no tenders have been invited and matters have been simply assumed, looks nothing less than an administrative muddle, to say the least.

I submit, lastly, that when a contractor has come in by selection and is enjoying more favourable terms than others, when Government do not propose to change the official year from April to March, to August or to July, and when Government do not take care to invite tenders at the right time and proceed simply on the assumption that if the tenders were invited they would be unfavourable to Government, when all this happens and when there is such a large difference between the rates at which Messrs.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. Lalubhai S. Mehta.]

Arratoon & Co., supplies and the rate at which it is proposed to get country spirit from Messrs. Parry & Co., I think it would be in public interest that we at least provide for the sum which was required and no further, because, in that case, it may be possible for us to make provision for other important matters referred to in other resolutions.

In leaving this matter in the hands of the Council I do recognise that the head of excise is an important head of revenue, but, at the same time, it is our business to see that no undue tenderness is extended to any particular contractors or money is sought to be put into their pockets or their position is improved.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Your Excellency,—I have very few words to add to the debate on the resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai.

Perhaps the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai remembers that the Honourable Member in Charge at the Finance Committee showed us that all efforts were made to get molasses from Java and Madras at the best rates available. It was also mentioned that special facilities had to be requisitioned from the Government of India for the purpose of additional charges in the shape of customs duty to get molasses from Java. The Government of India said, I understand, that Imperial customs shall not pay for the sake of the excise revenue of the Bombay Presidency. However, the Bombay Government persisted in their attempt and suceeded eventually. Otherwise we would have seen this item at a much higher figure than that put down in the Financial Statement.

One interesting feature of the discussion that we have had and which struck me is that the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud in his reply said "Why pay anything out of public revenue, why not compel the retail vendor to try and get that additional amount out of his customers?" Your Excellency gave a reply to that argument in the course of the few pithy remarks that your Excellency made in closing the debate on the last resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai says he would not like the price of country liquor to be put very high because that will stimulate competition with foreign liquor. I do not know whether the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai is going to advocate Swadeshism in excise matters too. I think, if on no other grounds, but merely on the ground of business and commonsense, it is best to keep the price of liquor reasonably low and not risk having it replaced by foreign liquor. My views on this question are known to the Council and I am quite prepared to vote in favour of any member who brings up a suggestion regarding temperance. But that, perhaps, is a different question. All that I want to bring to the notice of the Council is that so far as my information is concerned—and I have made pretty full inquiries — the Government in last December did not ask for tenders for the supply of mhowra because even Messrs. Arratoon and Parry had to be given by the Government of India special facilities for their supply from abroad, e.g., through the shipping controller, etc.

Under these circumstances, I am opposed to the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta:—Your Excellency.— Not being a member of the Finance Committee, I am not in a position to have all the information that my honourable friend Mr. Purshotamdas has. I base my remarks on the information that is available from the draft and the revised financial budget as well as on the figures given by the Honourable Member in Charge, while replying to the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. In reply to the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud's resolution the Honourable Mr. Curtis said that the transaction with Parry Brothers and Messrs. Arratoon & Co., has been completed and that to go back upon these things is practically to accept bankruptcy and I hoped that my friend the Honourable Rao Bahadur Desai would have seen his way to withdraw this resolution. However, as the resolution has been moved, I feel that the Council would like to have some more information on the subject and I desire to put before the Council my views on the subject.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Desai says that Government ought to have asked for tenders in December and, if they had not been successful in getting tenders then, and then only, they should have carried on the distillery work departmentally. If they had found that this would not be better financially then they could have very well entered into contract with Parry and Arratoon. But, as it is, we have to take it that Government did make inquiry privately and found that it was perhaps more profitable to enter into an arrangement with these people. But, if tenders had been openly invited and the figures had been put before the Council, this misunderstanding would not have arisen.

There is one other point to which I want to draw the Council's attention. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Desai says that the method of working the distilleries departmentally was adopted to help Carew & Co. I do not think the inference drawn by the

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[Mr. Lalubhai S. Mehta; Mr. B. S. Kamat; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Honourable Rao Saheb Desai is correct; as a matter of fact, I have reasons to believe that Carew & Co. are not satisfied with the treatment they have received and they think that they have a grievance against Government. In this connection I would like to know if Carew & Co. were approached to continue the work for four or five months and to find out if that method would have been less costly than the method of carrying on the work departmentally. That is the only question which I would like to ask the Honourable Member in Charge. But, beyond that, after what the Honourable Mr. Curtis has said, I think we must support him as we cannot ask Government to go back on their promise of help.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—May it please your Excellency,—I am not quite convinced, even after the explanation that has been given, whether it is right and proper that the provincial finances should bear this item of nine lakhs of rupees for helping the retail vendors of liquor. Knowing something about the history of this contract given to Messrs. Carew and Company, from a reply given to me about two years ago in this Council, it seems to me that the whole affair is a deplorable muddle. At that time, tenders were before Government from the old distillery contractors at Uran offering to supply liquor at a rate of Re. 1-2-0 per gallon. If Gvernment had accepted that tender, then probably we should not have been in a position of purchasing liquor at the rate of Rs. 2-8-0 at the present moment. And therefore I think that, in the first place, when Government were not prepared. . . . .

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:— I am sorry to interrupt the honourable member, but he has made a statement which I cannot verify, but which, as far as I know, is incorrect. Messrs. Carew & Co.'s contract expires on the 31st March 1920. There is no contract till the 31st of March 1921.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I did not say that. There was an offer made to Government by the Uran distillers offering to supply liquor at a much lower rate. Here is the volume of the Council proceedings of 1918, and it is stated, in answer to my question at the Council Meeting in September, that the Uran distillers had made three alternative proposals, namely, a nine years' contract at the rate of 15 annas, or a six years' contract at the rate of 17 annas, or a three years' contract at the rate of 18 annas, i.e., Re. 1-2-0. My contention is that if, as a business proposition, when Government were not prepared to proceed with their distilling plant at Deolali, they had accepted the contract for three years from 1918 at the rate of Re. 1-2-0, we could have saved all this loss.

Now the second question is, as the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai has pointed out, were actual tenders invited with a view to gauge what would be the rates likely to be obtained from the 1st of April 1920? I understand no tenders were invited last December. So I think the Council has got some grounds to feel that we are asked to accept an arbitrary figure. If tenders had been called for, we should have been in a position to know what were the rates offered by the different distillers. But now we are proceeding entirely on an arbitrary basis in providing nine lakhs of rupees for loss based on rates of Rs. 2-8-0 fixed without tenders. Government have entered into a contract at rates which were fixed on an arbitrary basis, and therefore I think the Council has some justification if they have a feeling of complaint or grievance that this sum of nine lakhs has been fixed in a more or less arbitrary manner. Of course, I can understand payment of extra rate in abnormal times, but I do not quite understand why Government entered into contracts at certain high rates with the Madras firms before they had any idea of rates obtainable locally. The grievance is in a way justifiable, although I do admit that some sort of compensation is desirable for the retail vendors.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—May it please your Excellency,—In an old-fashioned novel I once saw a fancy picture of an Indian administrator's life. Most of his days were spent in a long arm-chair smoking a hookah, his only business being to sign papers for a horde of underlings before retiring to slumber in the early afternoon. That picture of an Indian administrator's life occurs to me when I see the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai making the remarks he did. According to him all that the Revenue Member of Council has to do in giving out liquor contracts is to say to Messrs. Parry and Co. "You take three lakhs of gallons": to Messrs. Arratoon "You take five" and the liquor will then be forthcoming at rock-bottom prices without any further trouble.

Your Excellency, it gives me some satisfaction to feel that perhaps twelve months hence, when this budget will be discussed, it will not be a member of the civil service who will have to answer for excise. The members of the civil service entrenched in reserved subjects will smile when they find an Indian minister having to answer for such a position. For all we know, it is just possible that the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai himself may have to answer as the Indian Minister in Charge.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

Your Excellency, I venture to think, from the remarks of the members who have spoken this morning, that the Council perhaps has not realised the extreme difficulty of the problem that presents itself in this matter to a mere administrator like myself. As the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai has rightly pointed out, we have to provide for the supply of country spirit for the Bombay city and the districts of Thana, Surat and Kolaba from the 1st of April. It has got to be got from somewhere. Messrs. Carew and Co. have not been working satisfactorily and they themselves had expressed a wish to be relieved of their contract. Subsequently, they had to manufacture machinery locally, and they had originally intended to bring out their machinery from Germany, which naturally they could not do. Their distillery in Surat is not working very well; consequently, it was thought undesirable to continue work with Messrs. Carew and Co. after the 31st March of the present year, on which date their contract expires. Something had to be done to find these eight lakhs of gallons from the 1st of April. Now, sir, the responsibility to find that quantity had to be accepted by some one. Every gallon of London proof spirit means 12·33 rupees in taxation in the Bombay area. In Thana it is rather less. Honourable members can easily imagine what the loss to provincial revenues would be and what the general inconvenience would be if the supply of funds, for which so much reliance is placed on excise revenue, was not forthcoming. Now, sir, what are the alternatives that have been placed before us by either the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai or the Honourable Mr. Kamat? The Honourable Mr. Kamat says, why did not Government do something in 1918? Well, no one then foresaw that there would be intense famine of mhowra in 1919. If Government had had those powers of foresight, then it would have been a different matter. They had not those powers of foresight, and, if the Honourable Mr. Kamat had them, it was open to him to move a resolution in Council that it was unwise for Government to act as they proposed to do. The Honourable Mr. Kamat did not know any more than Government did, and, if Government were lacking in this particular foresight, I do not think. . . . .

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—What I said was that Government knew that the Deolali distillery was not ready.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—All the same, it was quite impossible for Government to foresee that the arrangement then made in 1918 was not adequate for the supply of country spirit. No one could foresee that the mhowra crop would fail all over India as it did.

The other alternative is, why were not tenders invited in November or December last? Once more I make the answer which was made with reference to the resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. If tenders had been called for, it is quite impossible that they could have been placed on any natural basis. It has been held against the action of Government that everything is put on an arbitrary basis. I say that a tender based on the cost of raw material in the month of November could not have proceeded on any natural basis at all. The basis would have been an absolute guess work. It would have been impossible for any one to tell what the price of mhowra would be likely to be at the present moment. Mhowra flowers are now coming into demand for other purposes than distillation, such as alcohol for driving motors, and so forth. The consequence is that the prices have risen, and I think that persons conversant with the mhowra market would inform an enquirer that the prices are liable to extreme variation, and that at the close of 1918 prices had reached a height never before known. There was a danger, therefore, if tenders had been called for in November or December, that they would have been based either on pure guess work when the trouble must have arisen later, or they would have been fixed on a scale of prices of raw material which would have entailed a very large charge to the State during the whole period of the contract. Obviously, it would not be a good nor dignified thing to call for tenders once in December and call for tenders again three months later. That is not sound. If Government were to do so, it would look as if there was something very wrong about the Government contract. Therefore Government decided that it would be better to arrange for a departmental supply of liquor for four months and postpone the coming into force of the new arrangement until the 1st of August, by which time intending tenderers would have been able to obtain information and to make proper arrangements to ensure that the contract would be properly fulfilled. That may have been unwise, but I believe that persons conversant with the mhowra trade would tell us that no other course was open. Now, sir, so much with regard to the postponement of the contract.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

Now, as regards the measures taken for the supply of spirit during the four months from 1st April to 31st July, was there anything wrong in them? The first point that the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai made about them in his airy way is " Oh, sir, you should have given the whole job to Java at Re. 1-5-0 per gallon ". But there is a small difficulty there; it is not so easy as the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai imagines.

When the matter first came up, Java spirit was liable to the customs duty of Rs. 11-4-0 per gallon. Consequently, the customs duty on eight lakhs of gallons would have amounted to ninety lakhs of rupees. Reference was made to the Government of India, but they refused to remit the duty. Consequently, we were perforce driven to enter into negotiations with Parry & Co., as the only other people who could supply the requisite amount of liquor at something like reasonable rates. Their prices varied, as was natural, largely with the price of raw materials available in Java. At that time, Bengal and a large part of India were indenting on Java for raw materials for distillation, and, as a result, the prices in Java were inflated, and were fluctuating to an enormous extent. Consequently, there is considerable variation between the rate for the first contract and that for the second contract. The rates then obtained for liquor bear a very reasonable relation to the price of molasses then available in Java. On a further reference to the Government of India, they agreed to remit the customs duty on Java spirit. That was after arrangements had been made with Messrs. Parry & Co. At that time arrangements were made to obtain two lakhs of gallons from Messrs. Arratoon & Co. at Re. 1-5-0 per gallon. At the present moment we are a little overbought. Perhaps, some criticism may be made of the fact that we obtained in all eight lakhs of gallons instead of five lakhs. But it is a very good thing to have on hand a large stock, as it is possible that distilling will not be carried on in the monsoon so satisfactorily as in the dry season. It is, therefore, necessary to see that the supply is not in any way interrupted, and, for this purpose, the extra stock that we have on hand will come in very useful.

The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai alluded, in his airy way, to the fact that, while the revenue from country spirit was going up, the consumption was going down, but he said that the consumption of foreign liquor was increasing. I think he does not quite realise the significance of what he says. If honourable members will turn to the Imperial return No. 5, the Abkari Report of last year, which has just been published, they will find that the incidence of taxation on country spirit in Bombay city is no less than Rs. 12·33 while the tariff rate for imported liquor is Rs. 11-4-0 per gallon. Therefore, country liquor is already handicapped. I will not say that it is more heavily taxed than imported liquor, but it is as fully taxed as foreign liquor. There is also a very great risk, which honourable members must not overlook, and which I hope the future Minister in charge of Excise will not overlook, that competition between country-made spirit and Japanese spirit may arise.

We have, at any rate, introduced what has been a very successful experiment in this Presidency. It is evident that we have a body of traders, who, relying on the good faith of Government, have paid down considerable sums for the privilege of vend. It would not be fair, and it would not be equitable and honest if we suddenly gave notice to this large body of traders that, when they expect to purchase liquor from Government at Re. 1-1-0 per gallon, they will have to pay something like Rs. 2-4-0 to Rs. 2-6-0 per gallon. I do not think that any trader treated in that way will trust Government.

Coming back to the main point, Government have made these arrangements for the supply of liquor. For these five months contracts have been entered into for the purchase of eight lakhs of gallons. There is no question about it. The contracts are there, and they can be enforced in a court of law. Money has got to be found to meet them. I have endeavoured, as far as possible, to show that action has been taken after due consideration of the various factors. I contend that nothing has been done which has not been done, as far as possible, in the interests of this Presidency. Therefore, sir, this Council must enable this Government to carry out its promises. It would be unfortunate if an impression gets about that contracts made with the Government of Bombay are liable to be cancelled on such doubtful questions as the not calling for tenders.

There is one other matter which two or three honourable members referred to, I mean the matter of Messrs. Carew & Co.'s tenders. Messrs. Carew & Co., I believe, first came into this Presidency five years ago. I have not at this moment any information as to whether they were selected by Government without tenders, or whether they obtained their contracts after offering their tenders. My impression is that they did give tenders.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the President.]

They are certainly people who have had great experience of the work in Northern India. I believe that they made a tender in the ordinary way and that their area of supply was extended thereafter. But what I want to say is that the contract with Messrs. Carew & Co., or the action taken by Government, has no possible bearing on the present question. As the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai has said, Carew & Co. contend that they have been treated badly. Mr. Lalubhai further asked whether they were unwilling to extend their operations after the 31st of March. It is the case that Messrs. Carew & Co. at one time expressed a wish to discontinue their operations, but, after some correspondence, they agreed to carry on till March 31st. But, as far as I know, no special consideration of any kind has been shown to Messrs. Carew & Co. They came in in the ordinary way. But, sir, whatever the negotiations with Messrs. Carew & Co., that has nothing whatever to do with the present question. I, therefore, venture to hope that this Council will support Government in rejecting this resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I congratulate the Honourable Mr. Curtis for having adopted the trick of the advocate who, when he cannot straight away give a reply to the objection of the opponent, tells a story and laughs it out. That is how he treated the matter, and I think that upon the question raised by me none of the speakers who opposed my resolution, as also the Honourable Mr. Curtis, have controverted my figures, that for four or five months only 5 lakhs of gallons would be required and not more, and, consequently, the estimate of 8 lakhs of gallons is an unnecessary one.

His Excellency the President:—My honourable colleague frankly admitted that the figures referred to were correct. He said that according to it Government were rather overbought. I do not know what the honourable member means.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—So the figures given by me as to the amount of the country spirit required are admitted. It was said that it was necessary to stock the new contractors with some stock, but, as I said before, it is only Messrs. Carew & Co. who hold about half the area, because the other contractors have continued their supply and they alone will have to be supplied, if they get into the new contract on the 1st of August. Consequently, I think that the provision is only necessary for 5 lakhs, and, even at the rate of 2 lakhs to be taken from Messrs. Arratoon & Co. and 3 lakhs at Re. 1-12-0 from Messrs. Parry & Co., the provision which I propose would amply suffice.

Then, I did not want to draw any comparison between foreign and country spirit on this occasion. It was only a side rem rk that I made with regard to consumption when I said that the consumption of country spirit was decreasing and foreign liquor was increasing. I did not mean to make any remarks from the Swadeshi point of view. I am one of those who look upon the consumption of liquor as a matter which requires to be corrected, and that it should go on the lines of a temperance movement. Consequently, whether a man drinks foreign or country liquor makes no difference to me. The mere fact that he drinks is sufficient for me from the temperance standpoint. The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai said that Government had completed their arrangements with Messrs. Carew & Co. Of course there are also completed arrangements with Messrs. Carew & Co., and I will not say that we should not supply and that we should put our large revenue into jeopardy where contractors have failed. What I mean to say is that we should make actual provision for as much as is absolutely necessary, and, consequently, if we could do with 5 lakhs, I do not see why we should take 3 lakhs more at Rs. 2-8-0, with 4 annas railway carriage, and, if we deduct that, perhaps the provision which I propose will be the only one that will be necessary.

Before sending in this resolution, I had the honour of meeting the Honourable Mr. Curtis, and at that time I was inclined to move for dropping the item. But, after discussing the matter with him, I thought that it was not proper that I should move it in that way. So I changed my resolution and sent the present one. I also requested that I should be shown the papers relating to the contracts with Messrs. Parry & Co. and with Messrs. Arratoon & Co., and, if I was satisfied, I said that I would have no objection to withdraw the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Did the honourable member come for the papers?

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I wrote on Saturday last and did not get an answer and therefore did not go for the papers. It seems that my honourable friends Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas and Mr. Purshotamdas seem to be more in the know than myself.

SUPPLY OF COUNTRY SPIRIT TO LICENSED VENDORS—MANUAL TRAINING IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. L. S. Mehta; Mr. G. S. Curtis; the President; Mr. B. S Kamat.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta:—Not I.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—The honourable member came down here last week and went away to Ahmedabad. He sent a note saying that he would like to have a look at the papers. I had the papers ready for him; I have shown them to other members of the Finance Committee who expressed a desire to see them. But the honourable member never came to my office.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—Since the Honourable Mr. Curtis says so, I accept the explanation. Before I went to Ahmedabad I wrote to him, informing him that I was returning to Bombay on the 12th. Consequently, it would have been possible for him to reply; but I received no reply.

I submit, in any case, that the tariff duty on two lakhs of gallons to be imported from Java has been remitted, and, if an attempt had been made to get more, it would have been possible to get the required quantity. I therefore submit that, looking to all the circumstances which have been placed by me in my opening remarks, I think that the extra provision which is sought to be made in the financial statement is unnecessary and that, therefore, we should have a provision of three lakhs only.

His Excellency the President:—I think the honourable member would like to see that the information which he desired was waiting for him here in Bombay. This will perhaps remove any misunderstanding he might have that the papers were to be sent round to Ahmedabad. My honourable colleague had all the information to give.

I will only add one word to close what has been an interesting discussion, and point out that it is evident that the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai was perhaps unnecessarily modest as regards his own knowledge. As a matter of fact, the whole circumstances were told him by Government and he appeared at the time to be quite satisfied. I do not regret that this discussion should have arisen, because it is just as well that this Council should realise how great are the difficulties in dealing with such a large traffic. My honourable colleague has pointed out that, if Government made any error of judgment, they made only exactly the same error of judgment as the Honourable Mr. Kamat himself, who did not move any resolution. But it is impossible to see beyond a certain point the fluctuations of the market. I for one am glad,—my honourable colleague is glad too,—that this discussion should have taken place; but, in view of the contract having to be fulfilled, I think the honourable member will probably not wish to press his motion for the resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I beg leave to withdraw this resolution and, at the same time, beg to submit that only as much expenditure may be incurred on this head as may be absolutely necessary.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—The Council will now adjourn till 3 o'clock.

The Council adjourned for lunch till 3 o'clock.

After lunch.

The Council re-assembled at 3 o'clock.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 3. The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 50,000 under head 22, Education, in the Draft Financial Statement for the next year for the encouragement of manual training in boys' secondary schools under private management, and to meet the expenditure by a corresponding reduction in item No. 22, under head Excise, of Statement B (expenditure in connection with the supply of country spirit to licensed retail vendors)."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—May it please your Excellency,—The object of my resolution is to make a provision of a small amount of Rs. 50,000 under the head Education for the manual training in boys' secondary schools under private management. In order to meet this expenditure, I propose a corresponding reduction in item No. 22, namely, the expenditure in connection with the supply of country spirits to licensed retail

MANUAL TRAINING IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Mr. P. A. Desai.]

vendors, which we have just now discussed. Regarding the object of encouraging manual training, I venture to think that there cannot be two opinions in this Council and, when I propose this Rs. 50,000, I do not mean to say that education is not making any great strides in the Bombay Presidency. On the contrary, it must be frankly admitted that during the last few years if there has been any department at all which has been receiving very generous and liberal treatment at the hands of the Government of Bombay, it has been the Department of Education. It stands at the present moment in the forefront, and, I believe, comparing the expenditure of other provinces on their education, the Government of Bombay might well be considered to be in an exceedingly pre-eminent position so far as its expenditure on education is concerned. But still I do think there is room for improvement here and there, and one of the directions in which I wish to see improvement effected is that of manual training in boys' secondary schools chiefly under private management. The character of the education that is now being imparted, especially in secondary schools, is, in the opinion of many who are entitled to judge in this respect, more of a literary character, that is to say, industrial bias is lacking in the education. The time has arrived, in my opinion, when the education of boys, who are not fit, either by their inclination or by their other equipment, to go in for literary education of a higher character, should in their early career, be bifurcated, as it were, and their education should be placed in a channel where they can have facilities to acquire a sort of training which will fit them for industrial or technical careers in their after life. It is with this object, your Excellency, that I wish that Rs. 50,000 should be allotted to this head.

Now it may be said that we have already settled the question about the nine lakhs, from which I desire to draw the Rs. 50,000 to be set apart. But, in the course of the debate which we just now had, I think the Honourable Mr. Curtis stated that the number of gallons, namely eight lakhs, for which provision has been made, is perhaps over and above the requirements for four months. If that is so, I think we can cut down the nine lakhs of rupees and spare from that Rs. 50,000 for an object which I think will commend itself to the Council. With these remarks I beg to move the resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I heartily support the first part of the resolution as to manual training in secondary schools. I do not think it is necessary for me to supplement what the Honourable Mr. Kamat has said.

As regards the question whether there is room for making such a provision under item 22, I have been able to show in my remarks with reference to my resolution already moved that the provision is more than what is required, and, consequently, there is sufficient room for such a slender provision as Rs. 50,000 under this head.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis: —May it please your Excellency,—Owing to the peculiar procedure of this Council it falls on me, as Member in Charge of Excise, to speak to this resolution. I may observe in passing that No. 66 in the standing order of the House of Commons lays down that no expenditure can be proposed by anyone at all, unless he is a Minister of the House, and I do not think that I shall be guessing if I say that, when the new conditions come in, something similar to that provision standing in the British Constitution will be adopted in this particular legislature.

The immediate point at issue as regards this particular resolution is, whether the sum of Rs. 9,00,000 can be safely reduced to Rs. 8,50,000 in order to provide Rs. 50,000 for the object mentioned by the mover of the resolution. I venture to think that I made it quite clear that such a reduction is impossible. Government have entered into contracts to meet which they have to pay a sum of eight lakhs and old from the provincial exchequer. We have bought eight lakhs of gallons of liquor which we supply to shopkeepers, partly in Bombay area, partly in Surat, partly in Thana, and partly in Kolaba.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Bought or contracted for ?

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Bought, sir; we have bought or contracted for, that means the same thing. At least I presume the Government are out to meet their contracts and to pay for supplies which they have urged other manufacturers to make for them. Therefore, I say that this Government has contracted for eight lakhs of gallons of liquor. It is possible that not more than five lakhs may be wanted during the particular four months during which departmental arrangements are made, and it is possible, also, that there might be a demand from other areas. But, owing to the divergence of rates for the supply of liquor under the old and new schemes, there is the loss which must be debited to provincial revenue. As against this loss must be set off the fact that under the auction

MANUAL TRAINING IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS—COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT.

[13TH MARCH 1920.]

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; Mr. B. S. Kamat; the President; Rao Sahab H. D. Desai.]

system each shopkeeper pays a vend fee of Rs. 3-6-0 per gallon of liquor. On that Government stands to make a profit.

The provision that has already been made in item No. 22 is necessary and no reduction therefore is, I think, feasible.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Your Excellency,—I am rather in an unfortunate position owing to the procedure in this Council. Even though the object of the resolution might be good, I cannot touch the expenditure on certain items proposed by Government. The Honourable Member in charge of the Department has referred to the standing orders of the House of Commons. It is rather unfortunate that we are not acting under similar procedure of standing orders. The difficulty for me now is, from what source to meet the expenditure. The objections of Government are that there is no room to cut down any item whatsoever. The only margin is to recover from the retail vendors for the spirit supplied more than Government propose to do. Government have contracted to buy and supply liquor to the extent of Rs. 16,00,000, out of which, however, Rs. 8,00,000 are proposed to be recovered. I propose that Government should recover something more than Rs. 8,00,000. That is all I can suggest. If the object is good, the expenditure should be recovered from the retail vendors.

His Excellency the President:—I must explain that it is through oversight I have permitted the discussion of this resolution at all. It is out of order. It seeks to make provision for an item of recurring expenditure—at least I presume the honourable member intends the expenditure to be recurring—from an item of non-recurring expenditure. I must, therefore, disallow this resolution.

For the same reason resolution No. 4 cannot be allowed. Resolutions Nos. 3 and 4 were, therefore, disallowed.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 5, the Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the provision of Rs. 7,39,000 contained in item No. 24 in Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement for 1920-21 relating to compensation to licensed manufacturers of country spirit owing to high prices of distilling materials be dropped."

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—May it please your Excellency,—The remarks on page 9 of the Financial Statement are these:—

"Owing to the failure of the mhowra crop throughout India, mhowra flowers were not available in sufficient quantities for distillation purposes and what stocks could be had, had to be purchased at exhorbitant rates. This deficiency in the raw materials has to be made good by importing molasses from Java at prices far in advance of those payable for mhowra flowers in normal times. Licensed distilling contractors are therefore faced with ruinous losses, as their contract supply rates were fixed with reference to normal conditions. Owing to the abnormal circumstances and, as the failure of the contractors would not be in the interests of Government, it has been decided to examine the accounts of each contractor at the end of the year 1919-20 and to compensate him to such extent as may be reasonable after consideration of all the circumstances. The provision of Rs. 7,39,000 is intended for this purpose. In order to enable the contractors to meet their heavy liabilities at present, advances are being made which will be wholly or partly recoverable after examination of their accounts."

In the first instance, I beg to submit that this item was not before the Finance Committee in the statements which were submitted to it, and it is after the report of the Finance Committee that this item has been provided in this financial statement. In the discussion before the Finance Committee, objection was raised with reference to item 22. Then at the next meeting the question came up that certain contractors were asking for compensation for losses. As I have submitted, the area in charge of Messrs. Carew & Co. is half the other area of the presidency proper. That Company was given the area, not after having invited tenders; and after undertaking to supply departmentally for 4 months you are now going to put into the pocket of Messrs. Carew & Co. about four lakhs of rupees. About Rs. 4,00,000 they would be getting in this arrangement. I submit that the contracts were given by selection and not by open competition, and, as regards Messrs. Carew & Co.,

COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

they did get favourable rates. The whole matter is one of commercial contract. In past years, when prices were low, they must have made large profits in favourable years, and, if any subsequent year turned out to be a bad one, they must place the losses made in the bad year against the profits made in good years. It is a matter of ordinary occurrence with reference to every contract in the commercial world, and I think that it is not proper that compensation should be given to contractors on such grounds as the failure of the mhowra crop. So far as I have been able to gather, giving of compensation has never occurred during the last 12 or 15 years or even more, and I think, at least the impression is left on my mind, when I was in the Finance Committee, that objection was raised with reference to item No. 22. At the second sitting this question was put up, so that we are now, at least so far as Messrs. Carew & Co. are concerned, giving them the benefit. There is another aspect of the case. When Messrs. Carew & Co. were unable to supply liquor, several shops within their area remained closed. The retail vendors will claim refund or must have got refund. Government have to give refunds through their contractor's inability, and now we are practically putting this item of four lakhs into their pocket, and also providing an equal amount for the other contractors. I respectfully submit that it is a matter of commercial contract and we have to take that into consideration. When we remember the fact that Messrs. Carew & Co. appear to have been introduced into this business to break the ring of old contractors and that their introduction caused ruinous losses to the old distilling contractors of Uran, etc., and now that Messrs. Carew & Co. have failed, why not treat the matter as one of commercial contract and get in only such people afresh who may be in a position to carry out their contracts? It is perhaps the first time that such a provision has been made for compensating the contractors. They are not entitled to claim from us any losses that they may say they have incurred. It is natural for contractors to keep grumbling and to say that they have been badly treated by Government. It was a contract not entered into by open competition but by selection. It must be treated only as a commercial contract, and no provision need be made for this item.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Your Excellency,—I have great pleasure to support the proposition that is put forward by the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai. He has brought forward, first of all, the objection that this was not in the draft financial statement that was submitted. It might possibly be necessary to give some compensation, but I would like to say that this was not passed by the Finance Committee. I may say that the contractors necessarily took the risk of loss when they bid at the auctions. I do not see why only in this special case we ought to compensate for such loss. We should have to see, first of all, what profits the contractors have made during the whole period of the contract. There may be losses in one year. We have to see what are the total losses during the whole period of the contract. The way to treat them fairly is not to give them compensation for their losses. They might be given contracts again for a further period, so that in this manner they may be able to recoup their losses. But I do not think this is a proper way of spending the revenues of Government in paying this large amount to these contractors.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—The honourable member omitted this statement. I would invite attention to 1 (b) of the report of the Finance Committee. It reads as follows:—

"We understand that advances have been made to the various liquor contractors in the Presidency proper to enable them to meet the situation arising out of shortage of mhowra and that Government contemplate making a short recovery of these advances, if found necessary, in order to protect the contractors from crippling losses. We are of the opinion that, in determining such compensation, account should be taken not merely of the losses of any one year but of the profit and loss during the whole period of the contract.

(c) We recommend a reduction from Rs. 50,000 to Rs. 5,000 in the provision for the net liability of Government on the transfer of the distillery plant from the contractors, as we are of opinion that this smaller sum is adequate."

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—No definite figures were supplied. No explanations were given about the accounts submitted, nor any other details. I would point out on the whole that it is not right policy to sacrifice public revenue in this manner. It is a case of open competition. Contractors' losses or gains are due to their own high biddings; and we should not be benevolent at the expense of the public exchequer. If we examine the case of the P. W. D. contractors, we shall find that several of them had to lose because the prices suddenly rose. I am sure that similar cases did occur in other departments. Government sympathise with only these liquor contractors and offer to pay them compensation for all their losses. I do not know why we should make exceptions like this and pass this item and make the contractors a present of this large amount of over Rs. 7,00,000 out of public revenues.

COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani: -Your Excellency,—I have great pleasure in supporting this resolution. No reason has been shown in the Revised Financial Statement as to the necessity in this particular case for granting compensation for any loss sustained by these contractors. There is no reason why these particular contractors should be favoured with this concession. Last year, the opium contractors in Nagar represented to Government the serious losses sustained by them owing to the famine and owing to Government having themselves raised the price of opium sold to them and not having taken any steps to prevent shops being opened in the Nizam's territory adjoining that district which affected their sales. Theirs was a hard case, but Government declined to grant them any relief and asked them either to give up the contract or to continue it at a loss. If no relief was given to them, I do not see why relief should be given to Messrs. Carew & Co.

The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai has pointed out that if the next year's contract is given to these contractors, which is not unlikely, they will get this remission and, in addition, the supply for three months at half rate. We have to look at the question from all standpoints. In the first place, it is a bad precedent to allow any remission for loss for which Government is not in any way responsible. In the next place, Government have already to bear a part of the damages suffered by the shopkeepers for the company's failure to keep up the required supply. I do not see why we should make the public purse responsible for any loss sustained by these contractors when similar relief has been refused in more deserving cases.

I, therefore, think that this item should not be allowed.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Your Excellency,—I rise to support this resolution in a few words. I object very strongly to the principle which underlies this item No. 24. I have never heard of a case in which a contractor who makes huge profits out of a contract and who does not offer to pay the general taxpayer anything out of his profits should say that he is at liberty to demand compensation from the general taxpayer to make up his loss.

The information that is supplied to this Council in connection with this item is so very meagre that it is difficult to make out whether this particular item, to which the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai objects and in connection with which the name of Messrs. Carew & Co. looms large again, is really necessary. Are we going to burden the general taxpayer for the benefit of this particular firm? What right have we to make a present of such a large amount as seven lakhs of rupees to this firm of contractors and to other contractors similarly situated? We do not know the total number of contractors who are to be compensated, nor do we know anything about the details of the losses which have been suffered and the reasons which have led to the losses.

It seems to me that the principle is wrong and that it is not right to burden the general taxpayer for the benefit of these contractors. Why should we rob Peter to pay Paul? There is no reason why the general taxpayer should lose such a large amount for the benefit of these contractors. If liquor contractors have sustained losses, there are other contractors who have sustained losses equally. I ask the Council to look at resolution No. 8, which is about to be moved by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. In that resolution we are told that there are contractors of opium and ganja who have sustained losses. They may have equal claims to be compensated. Why should liquor contractors alone be compensated of all of them? If you once hold that such demands are to be allowed, every contractor will come forward and say that he has sustained a loss and you will have to compensate him for the losses he has sustained.

The very principle underlying this item is a vicious one and it is right that we should decide once for all that such amounts ought not to be debited to the general taxpayer's account.

I heartily support the resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Your Excellency,—I rise to oppose this resolution. First of all, as regards the question of facts, we had a remarkable statement from the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, viz., that this matter was not placed before the Finance Committee and that this item had not received the approval of that Committee. As I have already pointed out, that statement is not correct. Once more I read the extract from the report of the Finance Committee. It says:—

"We understand that advances have been made to the various liquor contractors in the Presidency proper to enable them to meet the situation

COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

tion arising out of the shortage of mhowra and that Government contemplate making a short recovery of these advances, if found necessary, in order to protect the contractors from crippling losses. We are of the opinion that, in determining such compensation, account should be taken, not merely of the losses of any one year, but of the profit and loss during the whole period of the contract."

Now, sir, I venture to submit that there is only one inference from that paragraph of the report of the Finance Committee. It is true that the item of Rs. 7,30,000 does not appear in the original statement before the Finance Committee, but, in the course of a long discussion with reference to the Rs. 9,00,000 wanted for the price of liquor, the whole of the details were placed before the Finance Committee, and, if I remember aright, I showed some members, at any rate, a full list of all advances made. Therefore, it is not correct to say that these particular advances had not the sanction of the Finance Committee. The only objection that the Committee took to the principle in question was that the losses should not be calculated for a period of one year only but on the whole period of the contract. I submit that is the plain English of the Finance Committee's Report and the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye having signed that report must be bound by it.

One or two honourable members, I think the Honourable Mr. Belvi and the Honourable Mr. Upasani, have asserted that no such compensation is allowed in the case of other contractors and that they are compelled to adhere to their original rates. There have, unfortunately, been numerous cases this year in which public works contractors have been unable to carry out their contracts on their original terms and have been given, in some cases, 25 to 30 per cent. enhancements. Such enhancements have been given very largely in the vicinity of Poona in the case of contractors involved in the supply of lime, gravel and so forth, which involved an unusually large provision of funds. It is, therefore, not correct to say that Government had never made such grants in exceptional circumstances. They have done so in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

Now, sir, as regards these advances to contractors, many honourable members of this Council are engaged in trade and they must be doubtless fully familiar with the fact that dealers make advances to their suppliers from the mofussil who send raw material to them. Occasions occur from time to time when, owing to seasonal causes or otherwise, particular contractors are involved in losses and then they come to the head office and ask for some allowance or remission on the advances made. There is nothing whatever unusual in Government, placed, as they are, in the position of a commercial firm, making advances to various firms of contractors for the supply of articles which are wanted for the purpose of distilling liquor. As a matter of fact, these advances have not been made habitually, but, as it is universally recognised, the circumstances of the past year have been quite exceptional and, consequently, Government have had to make these advances.

A great deal of the discussion has revolved round the ill-starred name of Messrs. Carew & Co. I would not have referred to this matter had it not been for the fact that the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai referred to it in his speech this morning. The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai came to my office on the 6th of this month and he left a note saying that he would come again on the 12th, as he wanted further information. I had collected the information and was waiting for the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai, who, if he had called again, as he said he would, would not have had any reason for complaint. He would have found that the actual advance to Messrs. Carew & Co. was not anything like four lakhs but only two lakhs, and, so far as the advances were concerned, no consideration had been shown to Messrs. Carew & Co. which has not been shown to other distillers in the same position. What Government said was; as it has been recognised in the report of the Finance Committee, that the circumstances of the past year have been entirely unusual and, having regard to these circumstances, if Government, on examining the contractors' losses, find that they do prove to be crippling, and if, under all the circumstances, it is recognized that they have suffered losses, the advances should not be recovered. I think, sir, that is a common, straightforward, business-like procedure, and, if the Finance Committee had thought it to be otherwise, they would have said so in paragraph 1 of their Report. We are all extremely indebted to the Finance Committee for the labour which they gave in going through the proceedings, but, if honourable members are to come forward and say, after signing the report with a paragraph of this nature, that they meant something else, then I venture to think that we shall have to find out a new form of procedure.

Speaking generally, sir, as I have said this morning, this is the last occasion on which a member of the Indian Civil Service will be replying on this head of the budget. As a result of my experience during the past years, I wish to make a few remarks on the general aspect of the question. We are shortly handing over to ministers a department with a magnificent revenue. Your Excellency in your opening remarks showed that the revenue in this particular department has increased from one crore and sixty-nine lakhs before the war to four crores and thirty-one lakhs in the current year. This increase in revenue has not been secured without a good deal of skill and a great deal of careful consideration of the various interests involved. Among these interests are those of the trade, on the one hand, and the contractors, on the other, some of whom have been working with Government for a generation or more.

COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT.

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Sir G. Carmichael.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

For the benefit of the honourable members of this Council who are likely to be ministers this time next year, I venture to record, as a result of very long experience of the subject, that it is advisable and necessary to be considerate with regard to those who manufacture and with regard to those who supply raw products. You ought to show the same consideration, sympathy and careful dealing with the trade on the one hand and contractors on the other. Trust in Government when you have difficulties and Government will listen to what you have to say. That has been the policy, sir, which underlies these advances and I think, sir, that is the policy which is followed in business houses in this city and I should regret if, by their vote, the Council will show that under revised conditions the various members of the trade and manufacturers who have had dealings with this department, a department built up mainly by the Indian Civil Service, that they cannot trust the representatives of Government and that they will not receive from them the same treatment that they have received from administrators such as Sir Charles Pritchard and Sir John Jenkins.

I venture to hope, sir, that the Council will reject this resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I fully appreciate the closing remarks of the Honourable Mr. Curtis as to the future handling of this department, and anyone who has that burden will perhaps see to it. He referred to a personal matter and said that if I had looked him up, I would have got all the information I wanted. When I wrote to him that I was coming on the 12th, I expected that I would have a line from the Honourable Mr. Curtis to say that he had no objection to giving me the information when I came, and, in that event, I would have looked him up on the 12th instant. I thought that, when I did not hear from him to that effect, to come to the Secretariat and ask him whether he could give me that information would be regarded as rather an unusual procedure. On that account it was, not having heard from him, I did not look in. Now that is about the personal matter.

About the report, the Honourable Mr. Curtis refers to paragraph 2 of item 1 in the Finance Committee's Report. With reference to that, all I wish to say is this, that all along in the December meeting as well as in the January meeting we had before us only that item of 9 lakhs in the financial statement, and, when a question was raised with reference to the justification for that item, in the January meeting it was said that some contractors had made applications that they had suffered losses. No idea was given to the Finance Committee that the amount was going to be Rs. 7,39,000. Secondly, it is ordinarily all right to say that because a member has signed a report, therefore it is not right for him to say anything against it later. But the practice of our committee seems to me to be that after discussion the report is not written in the committee itself but written out later and sent down for signature. On that account such paragraphs are not properly noticed and are not properly noted, and the object is also not properly understood. But it is a fact and I think the Honourable Mr. Curtis has not traversed that fact.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—My recollection is that the Honourable Sir George Carmichael drafted the report in the committee and that it was read out to the members.

The Honourable Sir George Carmichael:—That particular portion of the report.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—That is not my recollection. At any rate, the muddle was this. One explanation was given with regard to Rs. 9,00,000 in the first committee, and in the second committee, when I sent in certain questions, in the replies given the matter was made clear but, at the same time, this matter was put in, that several contractors had made applications putting in claims for losses. But we had no details and it was only roundly said that with regard to that matter the accounts will be examined with a view to see what were the years in which profits were made and losses sustained, and then the matter was to be considered. The whole thing was put in that way, but we never thought that an item of Rs. 7,39,000 was to be put in the budget. That is the position I know of.

COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the President; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

I have nothing further to say beyond what I have said in my opening remarks. I do not mean to say that Government contractors should be treated differently from contractors in commercial circles but I do maintain that if we were once to admit a principle of that character then perhaps there will be no end to it. And in a case like this, when they are likely to have made profits in one year and losses in another, it is certainly no use introducing a new principle which may be very embarrassing in the future. With these remarks I commend the resolution to the Council.

His Excellency the President:—I have only a few words to add on the subject which I think has been amply debated upon now. I myself somewhat regret that this Council has occupied itself in criticising a very ordinary, and I think a highly laudable, commercial transaction. If I may venture to make an observation, I think perhaps the Council might have spent their time to better advantage in thanking Government and particularly in congratulating the Honourable Member in Charge of the department on their fine record in regard to liquor policy. I cannot, however, resist alluding to the two rather unfortunate lapses of memory which have occurred in this debate. First, on the part of the honourable member, Rao Saheb Desai, who complained that he could not get information from Government. As Council has now seen, it has been proved in this debate that he would have got it if he had even taken the trouble to come to my honourable colleague who was waiting to give full information. Then we had the other slight lapse of memory on the part of my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye, who said that this was not discussed or passed in the Finance Committee. We find on clearest authority that it was and the printed report goes to prove it.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Not the figures.

His Excellency the President:—Certainly not the figures but the actual policy and it is actually the policy which is the subject of discussion. This is really a sheer waste of time if I may say so. Here is a transaction which would be carried out in any commercial firm of sound policy in trade. If you, gentlemen, want to teach the people whom Government trades with that they have got to put on a large insurance fee on the top of their prices before they trade with Government, you will pass this resolution. But if you want them to feel that they are trading with people who can always be relied upon to deal fairly with them, and not with people who would absolutely put them down regardless of any particular circumstances which may happen to go against them, then you would oppose it. I believe from some personal experience, as my honourable colleague pointed out, that in dealing with large affairs of business you cannot do better than get such a feeling of confidence and trust between Government and people who serve it and deal with it. There is nobody here who has attempted to suggest that there is anything improper in the transaction. What they suggest is that you had better let them stand alone; they may have made large profits in other seasons. I do not believe that is good business. If you begin to treat your people like that, you will never get such a return in the excise department again or get such good feeling between Government and their traders.

Well, gentlemen, that is my counsel to you; you can take it or leave it on one side. But I should be very sorry if my Government had to teach the business community with whom we deal another lesson. Government will most certainly oppose this resolution.

The resolution was then put to the vote and lost, eleven members voting for the resolution and nineteen against it. The Council divided as follows:—

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.	His Excellency Sir George Ambrose Lloyd, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., Governor of Bombay.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I. I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.	The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.	The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.	The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.

COMPENSATION TO LICENSED MANUFACTURERS OF COUNTRY SPIRIT—SWIMMING BATHS FOR STUDENTS.

[The President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

AYES.

The Honourable Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.

NOES.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.,
The Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Mahomedbhoy Hajeebhoy.
The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst. C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 6. The Honourable Mr. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 30,000 under head 22, Education, of Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement for the next year, for providing swimming baths at Poona, Ahmedabad and Dharwar to encourage swimming among students belonging to all schools and colleges; and that the expenditure be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 24 of the said Statement B (compensation proposed to be paid to licensed manufacturers of country spirit)."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—May it please your Excellency,—I think only a few words will be necessary to commend this resolution to the members of this Council. The object of the resolution is to make a provision of Rs. 30,000 in the next year's budget for providing swimming baths at Poona, Ahmedabad and Dharwar. Honourable members who have seen swimming baths in England need not be told the various advantages to school and college students, both from the point of view of physical training, as well as from the point of view, namely, that swimming is an art which often is an instrument of saving life. In England swimming is taught to boys of the ages of 10 to 14 or even more and it is almost a compulsory subject for all school children. The swimming baths are constructed in a very handsome manner. There are dressing rooms there and children are induced, almost compelled to go there and learn swimming at a very early age. I do think that it is a very useful art and a physical exercise too, which it is very desirable to introduce in this country, especially among school children and college students. I do not think I need take the time of this Council any more.

Now, regarding the question as to how this amount is to be met, I confess I am again rather in a very awkward position. For most of the resolutions which stand in my name, I propose that the amount should be drawn from this ill-fated compensation to the contractors. The Council has now decided to retain the item of Rs. 7,39,000 on which my proposition hangs. My proposal, if it is accepted by Government, would amount to this, that this amount of compensation should be reduced by Rs. 30,000. The object of the resolution is a laudable one, and I leave the matter entirely in the hands of Government and the Honourable Mr. Curtis, who, if he is disposed to give this amount, might do so; otherwise it would be very difficult, I know, for me to scrape up this Rs. 30,000 from any other source.

SWIMMING BATHS FOR STUDENTS—BUILDING GRANTS—COMPENSATION TO LICENSEES OF OPIUM AND GANJA.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. G. S. Curtis; the President; Mr. B. S. Kamat; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I have very great pleasure in supporting the resolution moved by my honourable friend Mr. Kamat. In a district like mine, especially during the hot weather, the students feel the necessity of a swimming bath very keenly. If this proposal is accepted, swimming baths will be immensely popular. I think my friend the Honourable Mr. Garud has also sent up a resolution for this very provision. I quite realise, your Excellency, that it has been decided to allow item No. 24 to stand but, even after meeting the provision required for that item, sufficient balance will be left available to meet this proposal and it will be quite easy to carry out this experiment in the interests of the health and recreation of the school children.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Your Excellency,—I need hardly say that, as far as I am personally concerned, I endorse the necessity for the institution of swimming baths and should be only too pleased to place funds at the Honourable Mr. Kamat's disposal. But as regards the item from which the money is to be re-appropriated, the view which I placed before the Council and which was accepted by it is that this Rs. 7,39,000 is wanted for another purpose. Therefore, I would be stultifying myself if I went over to the Honourable Mr. Kamat now and agreed to reduce the amount. I, therefore, hope that the Council, following the previous division, will reject this resolution.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 7. The Honourable Mr. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to increase the provision for building grants in item No. 263 of Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement under head 22, Education, by Rs. 1,00,000 and to make a corresponding reduction in item No. 24 of the same Statement, viz., compensation to licensed manufacturers of country spirit, the amount of Rs. 1,00,000 to be earmarked for free building grants for primary schools in municipal areas."

I may point out to honourable members that the previous resolution and this one are only consequential. I have allowed their discussion for a particular reason. It is conceivable that one might be taken with the other. But they are all consequential and I should not encourage honourable members to move them, although I shall allow them to do so if they desire.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—May it please your Excellency,—In view of the remarks which your Excellency has just made and also in view of the decision arrived at regarding the item of compensation, I do not think it is worth while for me to press this resolution on the attention of the Council. I only trust that if it is possible for the Honourable Mr. Curtis, after he has actually distributed the compensation, to reserve anything for me, (which I doubt), then I do hope that there will be a soft corner in his heart for the object which I have in view.

I, therefore, beg to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 8. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud.

"Reduce item 24 under excise in the Draft Financial Statement by rupees one lakh and provide that sum for compensation to licensees of opium and ganja shops for losses sustained by them in the years 1918-19 and 1919-20."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—By their vote on item No. 24 I take it that the Council have endorsed the principle that when contractors sustain losses they should be relieved, and it is from that point of view that I bring forward this resolution. I also take it that, if the whole of the amount under this item is not appropriated, and if any balance is left over, then we might be able to utilise it for any other purpose.

COMPENSATION TO LICENSEES OF OPIUM AND GANJA.

[18TH MARCH 1920.]

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

The opium and ganja contractors have already made liberal contributions to our excise revenue and I think they are a class who should be given reasonable relief. Last year they made petitions to Government and appeals for help. Government also appear to concede that they did suffer severely during the famine in 1918-19 and, in some parts of the Presidency, during this year also. I therefore submit that when liquor contractors receive a concession, that concession should fairly be granted to these opium and ganja contractors also and they should not be kept out of its benefit. If, therefore, we vote a large sum like Rs. 7,39,000 for relieving the Abkari contractors, a part of it may usefully be spent on these other contractors also.

I hope that the resolution will commend itself to Government.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah :—Your Excellency, —I support the resolution just now moved by my honourable friend Mr. Garud. I think the same principle ought to be applied to the opium and ganja contractors as has been applied to the liquor contractors. Some concession ought to be shown to the ganja and opium contractors. They also have suffered losses. If we adopt the same principle towards them as we adopted towards the liquor contractors, I think the opium and ganja contractors also will be satisfied.

With these words I support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I have very great pleasure in supporting the resolution. We have now adopted the principle of granting relief in these cases and I think we must now give effect to it also in all cases which come under hard cases and, in particular, in the case of the opium and ganja contractors in the Ahmednagar district in whose case the losses have been heavy and as regards whom not only the Collector but even the Commissioner had recommended a remission to the extent of 50 per cent. If that is the case, I think theirs is a very legitimate and deserving case for relief and, if we have allowed it in the case of liquor contractors, there is good reason for allowing it in the case of these people who have really suffered actual loss, not owing to any fault on their part, but owing to the famine and owing to Government not being able to prevent competition near the border and to Government having raised their own price of opium.

Considering these circumstances, I trust that the relief prayed for will be sanctioned and the resolution will be accepted.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Your Excellency,—I only wish to tell the Council some of the reasons why the ganja contractors in the Ahmednagar district deserve the concession that it is proposed to give them by the mover of the resolution. I happen to have seen copies of the petitions that were submitted to Government by these contractors. If the memorandums of the Collector of Ahmednagar as printed in those petitions are correct, I have no doubt that this resolution will commend itself to Government. The proximity of His Exalted Highness the Nizam's dominions to the Ahmednagar district, which brought about a loss to the contractors in the British territories in that neighbourhood, is a sufficiently strong reason to commend this resolution to the Council as well as to Government. My only hesitation is that we may be told by the Honourable Member in Charge that the item of Rs. 7,39,000 may be fully required for the purpose for which it has been earmarked. It is to be hoped that we may be able to save something on that item, but, supposing the whole of that amount is exhausted in giving relief to the liquor contractors, I would very strongly recommend Government to give relief to the ganja contractors in the Ahmednagar district from some other source. They fully deserve it on the same principle that your Excellency enunciated just before the division on the last resolution.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Your Excellency,—In the face of the decision which has just been reached by this Council as regards item No. 24, it seems to me that to discuss this resolution any longer is like flogging a dead horse. It is evident from what the Honourable Mr. Curtis was pleased to tell us that the whole amount of Rs. 7,39,000 is required to compensate the liquor contractors. I do not therefore see any useful purpose in discussing this resolution. It is quite clear that this resolution, with which many of us sympathise, cannot possibly be translated into action. The inevitable effect must be that all the sympathy of this Council must go to these opium and ganja contractors but all our money, the amount of Rs. 7 lakhs and odd, should go to Messrs. Carew & Co. and the other liquor contractors.

COMPENSATION TO LICENSEES OF OPIUM AND GANJA— SWIMMING BATHS FOR DHULIA SCHOOLS.

[13TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the President.]

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I oppose this resolution because I want to be consistent with the principle which I have advocated, that contractors should not be encouraged to put in claims which may be very difficult to investigate and to come to a right conclusion. I would therefore oppose this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—May it please your Excellency,—My brain is in a whirl (laughter). I find that when one honourable member says that he is against any consideration being shown to contractors of liquor, two other members come forward to support him. A few minutes later the same members get up and say, in regard to giving compensation to licensees of ganja and opium who have suffered losses, that they have great pleasure in supporting the proposition, without giving any details as to where it is to be paid, why it is to be paid and on what principle it is to be paid. Now, sir, the first thing I have to say is that the whole resolution is quite unnecessary. Every shopkeeper, under the new system, pays a levy for the privilege of selling opium and ganja, which he pays by monthly instalments, and it might be desirable to give him easier terms. Under no circumstances would any item be required on the expenditure side and under no circumstances, therefore, would it be necessary to cut down the unfortunate item of 7 lakhs.

As regards the petitions from licensees of opium and ganja, I do remember that substantial concessions have been given in areas where the pressure of famine and general stress were great in 1919. Larger concessions were, I think, given in Ahmednagar than in East Khandesh and one or two other districts. What the resolution does not say is what talukas require compensation for the opium and ganja licensees. Of course, where the reductions in the amounts of sales were large, the shopkeepers made out a case for considerate treatment. I think, sir, that I should ask the Council to leave the matter at that. We are fully aware that, in certain areas of the Deccan, the demand for opium owing to agricultural distress has decreased and, having regard to that circumstance, the Commissioner has already received instructions to be as considerate as he possibly can. I, therefore, think the honourable member will have to withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—I was referring to the districts that were affected by famine and scarcity in 1918-19, and particularly to the Ahmednagar district, to which the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas referred when he gave me his support. I submit, sir, that the concessions which have been given to ganja and opium contractors in these districts have been inadequate. The only concession that was given to them was to ask them to pay up all that was due to them and they were then to be relieved of their contract altogether, that is, the shops were to be taken away from them altogether. That would deprive them of the profit they hope to make in a normal year which, I submit, is hardly a concession at all. Some concession might be shown to them by giving them a longer period of contract and enabling them to recoup themselves for what they have lost in bad times. Therefore I urged that, in giving a substantial monetary concession to liquor contractors, some reasonable monetary help might be given to opium and ganja contractors also. I submit, sir, that in giving these grants to liquor contractors, if any surplus is left over, provision for these contractors might be made from that sum, or some amount might be paid later to liquor contractors and that sum appropriated for this purpose. Government are the best judges of the situation and Government will decide what is most convenient to them. But what I seek is a provision in this present item to give monetary relief and concessions to opium and ganja contractors along with their brother liquor contractors.

His Excellency the President:—Does the honourable member desire to move or withdraw the resolution? Item No. 24 in the Draft Financial Statement still holds good. Therefore it is academic to carry on further discussion.

The resolution was then put to the vote and lost.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 9. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

"This Council recommends that lump provision be made for grant of Rs. 10,000 for swimming bath for schools, Dhulia, to be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 25 of the Draft Financial Statement B."

SWIMMING BATHS FOR DHULIA SCHOOLS.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. G. S. Curtis; the President.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—Your Excellency,—Item No. 25 in the Draft Financial Statement B makes a lump provision for the amalgamation and re-organisation of the non-gazetted establishments (including menials) of the Department of Salt and Excise in the Presidency proper, the amount being two lakhs. In this provision certain sums will certainly be left unspent, and we may expect a certain amount of money to remain as balance. I, therefore, seek to make a provision from that balance by requesting Government to appropriate that sum for a grant for a swimming bath at Dhulia. This project was taken up long ago and was initiated by a Director of Public Instruction. But then the personnel of the department changed and, though we collected a popular contribution for the purpose, the matter had to stand over, because his successors in office did not like to push on with that project. That public contribution is, therefore, lying idle. But the object is still one which I think will commend itself to this Council and Government. I do not think there will be two opinions on the question of having a swimming bath in a hot place like Dhulia. I am sure the Honourable Mr. Curtis will bear me out when I say that in a hot place like Dhulia a swimming bath is not only not a luxury but a necessity, and I therefore seek to make a provision for that bath so as to enable Government to utilise the popular contribution which is at present, as I said, lying idle. The proposal contained in item No. 25 is not of such a nature as to require the whole amount. A part of it may be carried to next year and we certainly can have, if we really wish to do so, a small balance of Rs. 10,000 as a lump provision for the swimming bath. It is, of course, difficult to find out not only a suitable object but an item which can be dropped or modified to make provision for the money required for that object. I therefore hope that Government will show any other item, if necessary, and make provision for a swimming bath for schools at Dhulia.

The Hononourable Mr. G. S. Curtis :—May it please your Excellency,—The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud's remarks have my entire sympathy. I fully endorse his opinion as to the absolute necessity of swimming baths during the hot months. But, sir, I still find myself unable to accept the view that item No. 25 can be reduced. In all these proposals for re-organisation, we have to work hand in hand with the Government of India as the controllers of the Salt Department and it becomes our duty, therefore, when we submit big schemes, to make full budget provision for our share.

Item No. 25 referred to represents our proposals which are before the Secretary of State. If he sanctions the scheme, it is incumbent on us to find a provision. Therefore I submit that, in the interest of administration, this item should not be reduced.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—If Government approve of the scheme and are prepared to make a beginning, even a small amount may be sufficient this year. If Government say that in this case they are prepared to use unutilized portion of this grant this year, I shall be quite content and willing to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was then put to the vote and lost, 2 members voting for and 19 members voting against.

The Council divided as follows :—

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.	The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir Thomas J. Strangman, Bar.-at-Law).
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.	The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
	The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
	The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
	The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
	The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.
	The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

SWIMMING BATHS FOR DHULIA SCHOOLS—REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir G. Carmichael.]

AYES.

NOES.

The Honourable Mr. Mahomedbhoy Hajeebhoy.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta, C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shriniwas Naik.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M. Inst. C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael :—Your Excellency,—The next head is Forests. The outstanding feature of the estimates is that the receipts have been increasing and so also the expenditure. The Forest Department is to a large extent a commercial department and the success of its administration is usually gauged by the surplus of revenue over expenditure, provided—and it is a very important proviso,—that the capital stock is always being improved and never allowed to deteriorate. In 1916-17 there was a surplus of about Rs. 30,50,000 with a revenue of Rs. 55,00,000. In 1918-19 with a revenue of Rs. 1,04,00,000 the surplus fell to Rs. 26,25,000. This year we expect a surplus of Rs. 32,50,000 and next year of Rs. 35,33,000. The demand from the Munitions Board and from the general public stimulated the extraction of the forest produce: on the other hand, the cost of extraction, of cultural operations and of establishment h s increased. In addition, capital has had to be spent on communications and on tools and plant. The expenditure deducted to arrive at the surplus includes the whole of this capital expenditure as well as what may be called working expenses. The high figures of receipts in 1918-19 (Rs. 1,05,00,000) and in 1919-20 (Rs. 96,00,000) included the cost of famine grass which was given at cost price. This valuable work has been done at cost price and therefore adds nothing to the surplus. A provision of Rs. 5,26,000 has been made for a scheme for improving the pay of rangers, foresters and guards.

In no branch of Government service has short recruitment and restriction of leave during the war produced a greater depletion of staff than in the Imperial branch of the Forest service. Work increased, but the number of officers available decreased. The officers responded devotedly to the extra demands on their energies, but we cannot carry on till new trained recruits are available. As a temporary expedient Government has decided to recruit temporary officers up to the number of five, and provision has been made in the budget. It is also advisable to relieve the Divisional Forest Officers of forest engineering work, both mechanical and other. This side of the business cannot develop unless in the hands of special experts. Government has long been anxious to develop the commercial side of the work of the Forest Department but could not, owing to shortage of staff, spare any officers for the purpose. Now it has been possible to make a beginning and a Utilization Conservator has been appointed.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[The President.] [13TH MARCH 1920.]

His Excellency the President:—The Council will now adjourn till 11-30 on Monday morning.

The Council then adjourned till 11-30 a.m. on Monday, the 15th March 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

SATURDAY, 10TH APRIL 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay assembled under the provisions of the Government of India Act, 1915.

The Council re-assembled at 11-30 a.m. on Monday, the 15th March 1920, in the Council Hall, Secretariat, Bombay.

PRESENT.

The Honourable Sir G. CARMICHAEL, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. CURTIS, C.S.I., I.C.S.

The Honourable Sir IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA, Kt., C.I.E.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir THOMAS J, STRANGMAN, Kt., Bar.-at-Law).

The Honourable Mr. SALEBHOY KARIMJI BARODAWALLA.

The Honourable Mr. DATTATRAYA VENKATESH BELVI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. GHULAM MUHAMMAD walad Khan Bahadur WALI MUHAMMAD BHURGRI, Bar.-at-Law.

The Honourable Mr. RUPCHAND BILARAM, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. H. BROOKE.

The Honourable Mr. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.

The Honourable Mr. F. CLAYTON.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. COVERNTON, C.I.E.

The Honourable Mr. PANDURANG ANANT DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Rao Saheb HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. E. ENTHOVEN, C.I.E., I.C.S.

The Honourable Major C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur SIDDHANATH DHONDDEV GARUD.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur KASHINATH RAMCHANDRA GODBOLE.

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM.

[The Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.
The Honourable Shaikh GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. J. D. JENKINS.
The Honourable Mr. BALKRISHNA SITARAM KAMAT.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur PIR BAKSH walad MIAN MAHMUD, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. MEAD, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. CHUNILAL VIJBHUKHANDAS MEHTA, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. LALUBHAI SAMALDAS MEHTA, C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur VENKATESH SHRINIWAS NAIK.
The Honourable Mr. RAGHUNATH PURSHOTTAM PARANJPYE.
The Honourable Mr. GOKULDAS KAHANDAS PAREKH, LL.B.
The Honourable Sir DINSHAW MANOCKJEE PETIT, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. L. ROBERTSON, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur GANESH KRISHNA SATHE, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. SEDDON, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. SHOUBRIDGE, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. SMITH, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. SHRIDHAR BALKRISHNA UPASANI.
The Honourable Mr. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E., LL.B.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. Further consideration of the Revised Financial Statement. 11, Forests. Resolution No. 10. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud:—

"This Council recommends that lump provision be made for grant of Rs. 30,000 for Khillari Cattle farm, Shirpur, to be met by corresponding reduction in item No. 41 of the Draft Financial Statement B."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—Undeterred by my advice that it was impossible to make any provision for expenditure by a financial resolution, some of my friends and supporters in Dhulia saddled me with the task of moving this resolution and I am doing so in the hope that the Council will for once lay down a precedent that such a provision, in urgent cases at least, can be made by "direct action."

The scheme for the provision of a Khillari cattle farm was started on the initiative of Government officials. In his latest report the Director of Agriculture has recommended to Government the starting of a Government farm in the Shirpur taluka for the preservation of the Khillari cattle breed. The Agricultural Association of Shirpur took the lead and started a farm at Sangavi in the Shirpur taluka. That farm was started with the help and sympathy of the local Government officials and was also visited by the Director of Agriculture and I know that the Director of Agriculture and other officers of the department have given assurances of help from Government. But if we have to proceed by the circuitous route of departmental recommendations the matter would take a great deal of time. The farm which consists of nearly 50 cattle at present is enclosed by a thorny hedge. Recently I visited the farm at the end of February last and I was told that about two panthers have been busy taking away some of the finest cattle of the farm and, if the cattle are to be preserved and if it is not to be converted into a food store for panthers, a strong enclosure and some buildings for the men needed for the farm will have to be put up immediately. The need is great, the need is urgent. It is for this reason that I have taken this step of moving this resolution and I hope Government will see the necessity of providing for this item as soon as possible.

I am not very keen on striking out this item No. 41. All I want is that a provision for this farm should be made. If Government accept this resolution by modifying it in some manner, I shall be quite satisfied. The reason why I have chosen this item No. 41 is, as honourable members must have seen from the draft financial statement, that the scheme for the employment of two expert engineers has not yet received the sanction of the Government of India. We are providing this item in the budget in the hope that the higher

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. P. A. Desai; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] authorities will sanction the scheme at an early date. If that sanction is not received in time, a good deal of the money will lapse and will be available for some other expenditure and I, therefore, suggest that a provision for this farm may be made by a reduction in this item. We have provided in this item Rs. 52,800 for various expert engineers. My submission is that when the scheme is sanctioned we may begin with three engineers and leave the recruitment of the other three engineers who are to be recruited in England to the next year. However, as I said, I am not very keen on particularly reducing this item if Government will see their way to provide for this very necessary and urgent expenditure for the Khillari cattle farm. I will be quite satisfied if some provision is made for the farm in some other way.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Mr. President,—I am glad to support the resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. It is common knowledge that Khandesh is one of the most important agricultural districts. It is also common knowledge that the Khillari cattle is one of the best of the country. Every attempt must, therefore, be made to preserve that species as far as possible. It has been shown by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud that at present there is no big shed for these cattle being preserved. They are liable to the depredations of wild animals like panthers. The object with which this resolution is moved is a very laudable one. Every attempt should be made to improve the quality of such cattle, and, when we know that cattle are being exported to foreign countries, I think every effort must be made to replace them as far as possible. If the quality of the cattle is improved, the agriculturists will be able to do the agricultural work with a less number of cattle and, in that way, there would be economic savings on account of the less number of cattle being used.

As regards the difficulty about providing money for this grant, the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has pointed out the sum could be provided by reducing the provision in item No. 41. As he has pointed out, there is the difficulty of recruitment of the three engineers and, if they are not forthcoming for the present, the provision will lapse. I, therefore, submit that the money required for the Khillari cattle farm should be provided from this item No. 41 and that it should be applied to this laudable object.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I have very great pleasure in supporting this resolution. Government is aware that in the famine of 1900 the district of Khandesh lost as many as 50 per cent. of its cattle and then the district had to face another famine in 1918 and in this famine, as Government are aware, more than 40 per cent. of the cattle were again lost. That being the case, if this item, which is proposed to be utilised for the Khillari cattle farm by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, is allowed, it will be a great help to the agriculturists. In the absence of any measures taken by Government in the matter of replenishing the stock of cattle, people have taken upon themselves to make this experiment in the matter of the Khillari cattle farm. The local Government officials have visited the farm and they are of opinion that the farm deserves encouragement, help and support. The Director of Agriculture has taken interest in the matter, he visited the farm and he has also supported the recommendation of the local officers. Under these circumstances, the small provision that the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has asked for will, I think, meet with Government's approval.

Then, as regards the source which he has indicated, I do not think there would be any difficulty in making the required provision from item No. 41. This item is for the provision of three forest engineers and two experts to be recruited from outside India. On a reference to the civil budget estimate we shall find that we had already a fully sufficient staff required to meet the normal requirements of the department and that that staff has been recently strengthened year after year to meet the extra demands during war time. We have got three conservators and the chief conservator. Then an additional post of a separate conservator for Sind is proposed to be created this year. Besides th se highly paid officers there are 21 deputy conservators, 5 extra deputy conservators, 2 assistant conservators and 24 extra assistant conservators besides four probationary assistant conservators and the large army of rangers, foresters and guards. So there is a very large staff already and the superior officers, at any rate, must have sufficient expert knowledge about forest conveniences which are to be secured by these new appointments. That being the case, I do not think it would be desirable to recruit additional experts on high salaries from outside India.

Under these circumstances, I think the resolution should be accepted by Government.

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I do hope that Government will consider the question of this Khillari cattle farm very favourably. I should have very much liked it if my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Garud had brought the matter of this cattle farm before at least some members of the Finance Committee so that we might have been able to place the matter before Government while the budget was being framed. It is rather a difficult thing to sweep down upon a particular item when the arrangements for entertaining these officers has already been far advanced. If the suggestion had been made to some members of the Finance Committee, they would have been able to press it on the attention of the Honourable Member in Charge and the Finance Committee.

However, I do hope that the amount of Rs. 30,000 or so, which is required, may possibly be spared in view of the important object aimed at by my honourable friend.

As regards the suggestion of doing away altogether with or reducing the item of Rs. 52,800 for the entertainment of forest engineers, I am not quite certain whether that amount is to be actually spent during this year. But, even supposing that it is required, I hope that Government will be able to give a sympathetic answer on this resolution which is of the utmost importance to the country. The stock of cattle in the country has been depleted to a lamentable extent on account of famine and it ought to be quickly replenished. I, therefore, hope that Government will give a sympathetic reply to this proposition.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I want to make a few remarks with reference to this resolution. I am of the same opinion as the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, that matters like this should be brought before the members of the Finance Committee, in the first place. Honourable members have to bear in mind that, in the matter of cattle farms, Government have a special officer whose business it is to arrange for cattle-breeding and for the establishment of cattle farms, and probably this officer has some scheme for the establishment of Khillari cattle farms in this Presidency.

Probably a scheme has been drawn up like this. I think on the whole that the step which the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has suggested is the right one to adopt in such cases. When a revision of an item in the budget is to be pressed for the adoption of the Council, the proper way of pressing it is to place it before the Finance Committee in the first instance. It would be inconvenient for the Council at this stage to say that the particular item under consideration should be revised.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I rise to say that I am in full agreement with the views expressed by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole on this subject. The object is, indeed, a laudable one, but this is a matter which should have been brought up before the Finance Committee, and at this stage it is rather difficult to deal with it. But I do not see why it would not be possible for the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud to bring up this matter as an ordinary resolution in Council, so that, if it is accepted or passed, Government may be in a position to make a provision if they can find any room for it. I may, however, say that the statement appearing in the list of questions and answers as Appendix "Y", in answer to question No. 8 of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's interpellations, throws some light upon several newly created appointments in several departments, and Government may consider whether this item cannot have precedence over some of these provisions which appear to be for officials who were wounded in the war and need to be provided for. In any case, the stage is too late and, consequently, it would be well if my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Garud would bring it up as an ordinary resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—I rise to support the resolution. Although I think that any retrenchment in the provision made for the staff of the Forest Department is a thing not at all to be encouraged or wished for, I feel that, in view of the fact that the scheme is still before the Government of India and may take some time to be sanctioned, it is quite possible that Government may have certain balances left unused under item No. 41. I fail to understand why the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud did not bring this matter to the notice of the Honourable Member in Charge in the Finance Committee, but I certainly think, sir, that that should be no bar to give unprejudiced consideration to an important item like this in this Council, because, if that were so, and if Government refused absolutely to consider any proposals made in Council by any member of this Council, I submit and make bold to say that the consideration of the Financial Statement before the Council would be a mere formality. In view of what has fallen from various honourable members who have preceded me, I venture to hope that Government will very sympathetically consider this question and see that the cattle at this farm get the protection and help that is very badly needed. If the recommendations of the Collector of West Khandesh and of the Director of Agriculture carry any weight, I am able to assure the Council that they wrote to me several times during the period of the last famine very strongly urging the famine relief committee here to give all the support possible for the protection of this breed of cattle, not only out of their existing funds, but out of their balances, if any, later on. I may say that the famine relief committee did all they could for this farm and I very strongly recommend this item for the sympathetic consideration of Government.

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; the Vice-President.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I am very glad the honourable mover has brought this subject up for discussion. I agree with what has fallen from the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas, that it is open to a member of the Finance Committee, even after signing the Committee's report, to move a resolution in this Council in spite of the fact that he did not bring it up before the Finance Committee. At the same time I think it is most convenient that details, such as the one now under discussion, should be considered by the Finance Committee and I think the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud should have brought the matter before the Finance Committee meeting in December or January.

The farm, I understand, is not a new one. I do not know whether the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud considers that the farm is located in a suitable place. My recollection for the Shirpur taluka is that the neighbourhood of Palasner is a most unsuitable place for the location of a cattle farm, and, apparently, the chief ground on which this money is asked for is that without Government help the cattle will be destroyed by wild animals. Surely, that itself shows that the Shirpur Agriculturists' Association has not been judicious in selecting a site for their farm. This farm could have been located on some other site nearer the Tapti river where they could have more open land. It seems to me a wrong principle that Government money should be spent on an institution located in a place where it cannot possibly be properly run.

Another point is this. Government are already spending a very large sum on cattle breeding. If you turn to statement "B" of the Draft Financial Statement, you will see a large number of items which have been provided for the advancement of cattle breeding in this Presidency. First of all, Government have lately appointed an expert in cattle breeding, sheep breeding, and so on. They are giving a special grant in connection with the Chharodi cattle farm in Gujarat. They have provided for a new cattle farm at Bankapur in the Dharwar district. They have already spent considerable sums of money on the Chharodi farm in Gujarat, and the new provision for this farm is in addition. There is also an item of Rs. 15,000 provided for the Willingdon Cattle Farm at Karachi, item 380. Now, one must consider what part Government should take and on what objects Government money should be spent in this matter of improving the breeding of cattle in this Presidency. It seems to me that what Government should do is to provide means of instruction and advice and assistance to the private breeder. If an institution were run for private gain on a commercial basis, then possibly Government might have been willing to see that the persons who opened the institution received advice and assistance in starting it and working it. But it seems to me that the operations of an institution run by an agricultural association cannot be very much good to the country. What is needed is that the private persons, private landholders and private farmers themselves should take up the matter of cattle breeding. If they do, then Government assistance becomes of very great value.

The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai, I think, referred to the fact that cattle are being exported from this Presidency. As honourable members are aware, there has been considerable agitation about the export of cattle from Bombay ports. Now, it seems to me that this agitation is based on an entirely unsound economic idea. The statements made are that, if the cattle are allowed to be exported, the supply of milk will fail and cattle will not be forthcoming for the use of agriculturists. But, unless the private breeder has a very good demand for the stock which he produces, surely he is not able to carry on. If you do anything to increase the demand for the animals he breeds, then he will be able to provide better arrangements for the production of a larger number of cattle.

The stock of cattle, if the demand is a good one, will increase rather than decrease. I should like to tell this Council as to what happened in a part of the United Kingdom which I know pretty well, that is the north-east of Scotland. It is a bare, bleak country. The farmers used to have a very hard time of it, making both ends meet. But,

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM.

[The Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

about 30 or 40 years ago, a demand for cattle sprung up there, because they were needed for the Argentine, and then commenced a great export of cattle from that neighbourhood to the Argentine. The farmers responded by meeting that demand. They bred excellent cattle, improving the breed; they produced thousands of cattle and the cattle now in the area are far more numerous than could have been supported on the basis of the previous demands which the farmers were supplying. I took out the other day a small extract from a local paper of that part of the country, showing the results of a two days' sale of cattle in that area. The cattle are all brought together and auctioned off. The number of bulls sold was 348, at the average price of £71 or Rs. 700 each. This price is not for full grown animals, but for yearling stock. Cows were sold at £55 or Rs. 550 each, and 40 heifers, also yearlings, were sold at £59 or Rs. 590 each. That is the result of meeting a demand for the export of cattle, and there is absolutely no reason why that demand should not have the same effect in this country. The cattle exported from Bombay, or at any rate most of them, I think, go to Brazil. The reason why the Brazilian does not go to Europe for his cattle is that Brazil is a tropical country which is more like India, and the Indian cattle do better there than the European cattle; they are more immune from tropical disease. Now, if the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud who, I believe, is a big landholder, who has all the facilities and plenty of leisure, would only take up private breeding, he would do a thousand times more for the improvement of the cattle breeding in this country than by promoting a farm run by an association in the wilds of Khandesh.

The Honourable Mr. Upasani said that the stock of cattle in this country had been depleted to 50 per cent. in the famine of 1900, and it had not been replaced before the next famine came along. I think the figures of the census of cattle on record show that this is hardly a correct statement. According to those figures, I think by 1910 the actual number of cattle had been more than made up.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—I took my figures from the reports of the Director of Agriculture for last year and previous years, and according to those figures the number of cattle had not been made up.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—That may be for Shirpur. But I think for the country generally the census figures show that the loss had been made good by 1909.

I am sure that honourable members do not disapprove of the object of the expenditure under item No. 41, from which the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud proposes that this Rs. 30,000 should be provided. It has been suggested, however, that the money could be spared, because Government have not got the engineers ready. As a matter of fact, we have been told by the Government of India that two engineers are available at once, and a third is expected to be available very shortly. I do not think there would be any difficulty in making a start from the beginning of the year. As I said in dealing with the main head of Forests, our forest staff is very small. The Honourable Mr. Upasani says that we have a large staff. The actual position at present is this. In the Imperial forest staff, there are 24 places. But there are 3 vacancies which have not been filled up, because there has been no recruitment during the war. There have been 4 retirements this year, and 2 officers are with the Government of India. One of them will probably remain with the Government of India, because he is being employed on very important work in connection with the development of forest economics in this country. The other was taken because they had no other man available to undertake the instruction of the forest class at Dehra Dun. That leaves us only 15, a very small number for the amount of work which has to be done. This staff was very hard worked throughout the war. They had to exert themselves enormously to obtain a supply of timber and other requirements for the Military Department. Now several of them are breaking down and have had to be given leave. The work is being done in double charges and it is quite unfair to say that the staff is sufficient to carry on the work. We must do something to relieve the existing staff of this special work. After all, this expenditure which Government hopes to incur as soon as possible is reproductive expenditure. It will pay itself a hundred times over, and I think it would be most unwise to cut it out or postpone it.

There is one small point of great importance which I wish to make and it is this. As you all know, there have been great complaints about the rise in the cost of building material and Government have been appealed to do what they can to reduce the cost of building materials. With the aid of forest engineers we shall be able to produce a larger quantity of building material and put it on the market. This we shall not be able to do without the aid of these engineers. It is very important to do everything possible to reduce the cost of building materials, when we have so big a building programme in Bombay, Karachi and other places.

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

With these remarks, I hope that this Council will not agree to the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud's proposal.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I am thankful to the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas for the support he has given me, and, if he had been able to give us from the famine relief fund the money that the Director of Agriculture and the Collector requested him to give for this farm, I should not have come to the Council with this resolution at all. Now, the farm is situated, as I said, near Palasner which, if you recollect, is the home of the Khandesh Khillari breed. All the Khandesh cattle come from the northern part of Shirpur and the best cattle in the bazaar are bred in that part of Khandesh, and it is therefore necessary to create a centre there for distributing good Khillari cattle to the other parts of Khandesh. It is with that view that this farm has come into existence. Even after the farm came into existence, it was difficult to get pure Khillari cattle for it. It is with a view to encourage the breeding of the pure Khillari cattle that the Director of Agriculture has also made a recommendation to Government to start a farm, I understand, in that very area, and Government will, I think, accept this recommendation and start a farm there. There is need for more than one farm of that nature there. It is because the farm cannot be run on efficient lines that good cattle cannot be bred in Khandesh, and it is so difficult to get pure bred bulls. I hope, therefore, that Government will give favourable consideration to my proposal. The proposal which I am bringing up now may perhaps look rather sudden to the members of the Council, but Government had due notice of the proposal and I hope Government have utilised that time in finding out how best they can meet the suggestion made in my proposal. But Government, I find, are not inclined to view the proposal favourably.

The second point is the item from which I ask that the reduction should be made. As I said in the beginning of my remarks, I am not very keen on reducing that particular item if Government think that it would be absolutely necessary to spend the whole of it. But they can meet my proposal by pointing out some other item. I think that in a budget of Rs. 15 crores, there is certainly room for small urgent items like the one that I have brought before the Council, and if Government are not, in the first place, inclined to accept the proposal and, in the second place, are not inclined to show any other source from which that money can be easily taken, I submit that I am helpless.

I trust that the object which I have in view in bringing forward this resolution will commend itself to the members of this Council, and I hope the Council will carry my resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I wish to make one more observation with regard to what the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has said. I understand from the Honourable Mr. Curtis, and it is also my own impression, that there are no Khillari cattle bred in Khandesh, but that they all come up over the border. Shirpur may be the place from which they enter the district, but there are no places in Khandesh where they are bred, and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has not told us of any. I doubt very much whether you can breed Khillari cattle in Khandesh.

I should like once more to lay stress upon the fact that the only way by which you can make progress is for a private person to undertake it and set an example to the others. Without this we shall not make any progress at all. Government could not possibly afford to undertake the whole of the cattle breeding operations. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud suggests that Government should have a number of farms there. That will be quite impossible.

With regard to the suggestion that the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has made, that Government might consider the question of providing the money from some other item, I think it is quite impossible for Government to do that.

It would really mean that we should have to take an amount from one item in order to meet another. As the Honourable Mr. Curtis pointed out yesterday, the arrangements for discussing these financial resolutions are somewhat inconvenient. A member has to balance a proposal for spending money on a particular object by a proposal for a corresponding reduction on another. But this is the last occasion on which this inconvenient method will be adopted, as future discussions will be on an entirely different basis.

KHILLARI CATTLE FARM—ARUNAVATI BRIDGE.

[The Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The resolution was put to the vote and lost, 12 members voting for and 17 against.

The Council divided as follows:—

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.	The Honourable Sir George Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Ghulam Muhammad walad Khan Bahadur Wali Muhammad Bhurgri, Bar.-at-Law.	The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.	The Honourable the Advocate-General (Sir Thomas J. Strangman, Kt. Bar.-at-Law).
The Honourable Sheikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL. B.	The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.	The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shrinivas Naik.	The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.	The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, Q.B.E.	The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.	The Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.	The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Kaksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
	The Honourable Mr. Gokuldas Kahandas Parekh, LL.B.
	The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
	The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
	The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst.C.E.
	The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 11, the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud.

"This Council recommend that lump provision be made for grant of Rs. 20,000 for Arunavati bridge, Shirpur, to be met by a corresponding reduction in item No. 42 of the Draft Financial Statement B."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I did not bring this proposal before the Finance Committee, because really the most ideal way is not even to go to the Finance Committee but to go to some Government department. However, since I have the right to move a resolution directly in the Council, I take this opportunity to move this resolution in open Council.

It would perhaps be pertinent first to give a brief history of the Arunavati bridge. At the initiative of a Government official the large amount of Rs. 8,000 was collected from the people of Shirpur to give them a bridge near their town over a nullah, which is called the Arunavati river. This fund was collected four or five years ago and has been lying idle all this time, because nothing was done subsequently in the matter, as the particular official who was keen on getting that bridge was transferred to another place. Now this money has been lying quite unutilised for a long time, and there is also no hope, even in the distant future, of Government supplementing the popular contribution to put up this work. Unless Government come to the aid of the people with a substantial contribution,

ARUNAVATI BRIDGE.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the Vice-President; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

a very desirable work, which would connect Shirpur with other parts of Khandesh, will remain uncompleted. At the present moment there is a great deal of cart traffic there. As you are aware, this is the big hitch between the Agra Road and Shirpur. Though the river is not full, it is risky for a full laden cart to go over that nullah.

Now, since the money was raised so many years ago at the initiative of a district officer, I submit, sir, it behoves Government to make some provision for that work being carried out, and I hope that the money will be given from item No. 42 which is for the "entertainment of five additional temporary Forest Officers on Rs. 800 each per mensem." This is a kind of work which may, if some other urgent work is to have preference, be postponed for some time. I know that the forests are an item of increasing revenue, and that we may be able to develop them. But since this development has been postponed so long in favour of some other more urgent. . . ."

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I must point out to the honourable member that it has not been postponed.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Well, I submit, sir, that this expenditure has been taken up for the first time by Government, and, since it is taken up by Government for the first time this year, I submit it may as well be stayed over for the next year.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Is this bridge on a provincial road or a local board road?

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—I am afraid I am not able to give correct information on this point.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—On principle this resolution ought to be opposed and rejected. The honourable member comes forward with a statement that there is a certain town which is connected by a road with the main road, Agra Road. My recollection of that road is that it is a taluka local board road, and he suggests that it ought to be bridged. Primâ facie, if the road is a local board road, the bridge ought to be made by the local board, and therefore the only question can be a request for an additional grant for the erection of the bridge from the taluka local board and the district local board. It is quite irregular, I submit, that any local representative, without going to the local authorities, should come direct to the supreme Government for a grant to enable a work to be completed, which, for aught we know, the local body may be perfectly able to do. This is objection No. 1.

Objection No. 2 is, I submit, this. It seems to me to be a case of the tail wagging the dog. We are told that five years ago some Government official—who that official is, is not stated—raised a fund of Rs. 8,000 for this particular bridge. Therefore it is argued that, because the local board, the public of Shirpur and the municipality of Shirpur, who may require a bridge over the nullah, did not take any part in this transaction, these bodies are to be placed on the one side, and the Government ought to come with a large grant of Rs. 20,000 to bear the cost of the bridge. There must be many members of this Council who come from localities near which there are ditches, nullahs and flowing streams at least as dangerous, at least as much in need of crossing over,—shall we say by modern ferry boats?—as this particular Shirpur bridge, which, as far as my recollection goes, is only dangerous for a very few days in the year, and who have not approached this Council. It would be dangerous to select this bridge for a grant when there may be more deserving cases.

Therefore, on these two principles I submit this resolution should be rejected.

The Honourable the Vice-President:—I have to add one remark with regard to my interruption of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. He said that the scheme for this bridge should not be postponed as it had been delayed for so long. As I said in speaking on the subject of the proposed reduction, of the forest engineering staff, it is impossible to carry on unless the forest establishments are strengthened. Three vacancies have not been filled on account of no recruitment having taken place during the war. There have been four retirements and two officers are working for the Government of India, i.e., 15 only remain out of 24. A large number of men have been working throughout the war without any leave at all, some have had no leave since two or three years before the war. Leave had to be given. The work has increased during the war and, unless we get temporary men, we cannot carry on.

ARUNAVATI BRIDGE—REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the Vice-President; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Since Government are not inclined to move in the matter, I shall feel content myself in having brought this matter to the notice of Government.

The Honourable the Vice-President:—The resolution is by leave withdrawn.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Under the head Registration, as regards the increase of fees from registration, this is largely due to increased commercial activities and transactions in property.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Under the head Interest. I have nothing to add to the information given in paragraphs 24 and 25 as well as 27. As will be seen, there is an increase both in the revenue and expenditure. This is due to the heavy advance of tagavi after the failure of the monsoon in 1919.

Under the head General Administration, the budget proposals are for an expenditure of twenty six lakhs thirty six thousand as against twenty six lakhs seventy three thousand in the revised estimate of the current year. The increase over the actuals is due to the increase of pay of establishments and to three additional appointments of secretaries. One of these is for the special work occasioned in connection with the preparation for the introduction of the Reform Scheme of Government.

Under the head Law and Justice. Among the new proposals for which provision is made, there are two major ones. The first is the appointment of an eighth judge to the Bombay High Court to cope with the increasing work. The appointment has been sanctioned for a period of one year. The second is the creation of two new district judgeships. At present four revenue districts have no district and sessions court of their own but are included within the jurisdiction of adjacent districts. The proposal is that each of these four revenue districts should have a district and sessions court of its own. As a beginning, provision in this budget has been made for two district judgeships—one for the district of Kaira, which is included in the Ahmedabad district, and the other Kolaba, which is included in the Thana district. The needs of these two districts are considered to be more urgent than the other two. The other increases under this head are very largely due to the revision of the pay of establishments.

Under the head Jails. The expenditure has risen comparatively rapidly since 1916-17. Partly the increase is due to improvement of the pay of the establishments and partly to an increase in the jail population and high prices, which have greatly increased the average cost of maintenance per head. Part of the increase in the total is nominal because it is the result of transfers to this head of account of the cost of re-settlement of criminal tribes. This settlement work undoubtedly helps to keep down the population of the jails and is gaining a large measure of success. It has been recognized for some time past that the accommodation in all our jails is inadequate and that the buildings in some instances are below the standard of modern sanitary requirements. This is particularly the case with some of the older jail buildings. Schemes for their improvement are being pushed on. This will necessitate a heavy expenditure.

Under the head Police (Provincial), paragraphs 46 to 52. The budget is for one crore and sixty-seven lakhs as against one crore forty-eight lakhs in the current year. There is an increase of 19 lakhs over the expenditure for the current year. Out of this, three lakhs represent a nominal increase. The Government of India have decided that the Railway Companies should meet the cost of watch and ward police and Government that of crime and order. This involves an extra charge of three lakhs a year on the provincial revenue. But, on the other hand, the Government of India have given a contribution of the like amount. This is paid through the "transfer" head. Of the remaining sixteeen lakhs a greater part is for the improvement of the pay and allowances of the police force. I think the honourable members will agree that never in the history of this Presidency has it been more urgent than at present that we should have a contented and efficient police force—a force recruited up to its full strength. The pay of the force has been raised by the grant of war allowance to meet the rise in prices and to maintain the strength of the force in the face of the great and increasing attractions of other forms of employment. What has been done has not entirely met the situation. The economic stress has increased instead of decreasing. The terms offered are found still insufficient to attract suitable

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President.]

men in the number required. The police force is in fact considerably below its proper strength. This means that an unduly heavy burden of duty falls on the men who are in the force. Take, for example, the city of Bombay police. The strength is 3,000; they are short by about 500; that means that the work of 3,000 has to be done by 2,500. Lately, the work has been very arduous and, I think, it would be hardly right that we should remain idle and do nothing to bring this force up to its full strength. It is not only in Bombay that the police force have been subjected to a great strain during the past 12 months but in other places also, and I think the honourable members will agree that the force has borne the strain loyally and devotedly and their cheerful obedience and tact have tided us over many critical moments. Therefore, it is incumbent upon the Government to see that the terms offered are such as to secure the force being maintained at the full strength required for the duties to be carried out by them. The budget provides for a revision of pay on a permanent basis and also for various minor improvements. The more important minor provision is two lakhs—not a large amount—for free clothing to officers and men below the rank of sub-inspectors. The cost of cloth of all descriptions has gone up and the amount required for this supply of clothing is much more than it used to be.

Apart from the revision of pay and allowances, there is an important scheme for organizing sub-divisional police.

This will ultimately cost five lakhs and a half. In the present budget provision is made for an expenditure of 2·76 lakhs on this scheme. The idea underlying the scheme is that the revenue districts will be divided into police sub-divisions in the same way as they are divided into revenue sub-divisions. The sub-inspector will become the police officer of the taluka and under the District Superintendent there will be a Deputy Superintendent or an Assistant Superintendent in charge of each sub-division of the district.

The Inspector-General of Police, the Honourable Mr. Robertson, tells me that he hopes this scheme will effect great improvement in the investigation of crime and in the control over the criminal classes.

There are three other proposals dealing with the provision of separate police establishments for the cities of Karachi, Ahmedabad and Poona. This, it is hoped, will secure greater efficiency in the police administration of these large cities. It will also improve the administration in the districts where these cities are situated, because at present the time of the District Superintendent of Police is very much occupied by the work of the city and he is unable to pay due attention to the control of crime in the district outside. This proposal is the subject of a resolution.

Lastly, a provision is made for establishing a mounted police force. Events in Kaira and Ahmedabad last April, which will be in the recollection of this Council, made it abundantly clear that the magistracy and the police would have been more successful in coping with the disorder which occurred if they had at their disposal a body of mounted police. Government, therefore, propose to provide a small body of mounted police in certain districts. These districts will be those where there are large industrial centres and one or two districts where robberies are particularly rife and mounted police can be used with advantage against the disturbers of public peace. The total number of mounted police is considerably smaller than what was entertained in the past. The total is 150 altogether including head constables.

Before concluding my remarks on the head "Police" I feel I must allude to one important element in the position with regard to the strength of the police force in future. By reason of the industrial and other unrest in the past year we have had on several occasions to ask the military authorities to assist the civil power. We had to do so not only when disorders have occurred but also as a preventive and protective measure. Leaving aside for a moment the situation which arose in April last, I think it is a fair statement of the case that in the Bombay mill strikes in 1919, and again in 1920, the military were employed for prolonged periods on what were purely police duties. Now, if such strikes were to become a common feature, it is obvious that the Army Department will be justified in saying that we must increase our police force sufficiently to deal with the situations that are created by the strikes and, if they put the matter to us in that way, I do not think we should have any just ground for refusing to make necessary provision under the head "Police".

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 12. The Honourable Mr. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to make a provision of Rs. 25,000 under head 22, Education in the budget for the next year, for grants-in-aid to approved Free Reading Rooms and Libraries in the Presidency chiefly for the purchase of reference books, and that a corresponding reduction be made in item No. 207 in Statement B of the Draft Financial Statement (Lump provision for bad climate allowance to Police Officers)."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—The resolution which I wish to move recommends to Government to make a provision of Rs. 25,000 under the head, 22, Education, for grants-in-aid to free reading rooms and libraries, chiefly with a view to enable them to purchase reference books. These free reading rooms and libraries are springing up of late years in the mofussil, chiefly with a view to enabling the poorer members of the community to have access to newspapers of the day as well as to books, especially reference books. The principle on which they are started is that well-to-do members of society tax themselves in the shape of subscriptions in order that a man in the street might be able to walk in and read the morning papers and thus educate himself. Such libraries in countries in the West are a common feature. They are kept by municipalities and perhaps assisted by grants from the national exchequer. In fact, every big town in the West has one or more splendid libraries equipped with all sorts of books which people can have access to.

Unfortunately, in this country I do not think the resources of municipalities are able to stand the strain for giving sufficient grants for such free reading-rooms and libraries; neither can we have at the present stage of the community in this country a Public Libraries' Act compelling municipalities to levy municipal rates in order to maintain such libraries. It is inevitable therefore, at the present stage, at any rate, that libraries attempting all these voluntary purposes should be assisted as far as possible by Government, that is to say, by the general taxpayer.

I think this principle is admitted even in the budget which we have in our hands at the present moment. Thus, by way of analogy, I can point to donations which are provided for in this year's budget for certain societies of a miscellaneous character. For instance, there are donations sanctioned for the Society for the Promotion of Oriental Learning, or the donations which are provided for the museums, or donations for such societies as certain settlements at Khandala, and similar institutions.

If, therefore, a general taxpayer, in order to encourage certain good things, makes a grant to such miscellaneous societies, I do not see why a very small grant of Rs. 25,000 should not similarly be given to encourage a very good object, namely, to have free reading-rooms in different towns with a view to educate the ordinary man in the street.

The chief difficulty which is found in certain towns in the mofussil is with reference to reference books: for instance, books like the Gazetteer or the Civil List or books like the Encyclopædia or books like 'Who's Who' or the India Office List and such like publications. People in the mofussil, if they want to have some information from such books, have to come to Bombay or to go to some big literary libraries, like the Servants of India Society's Library in Poona. Therefore, it is quite desirable, from this point of view at any rate, to help these free reading-rooms to purchase reference books by making them grants from this amount of Rs. 25,000 which I have proposed.

I have indicated that this amount of Rs. 25,000 should be drawn from item No. 207 in Statement B, viz., lump provision for bad climate allowance to police officers. I indicate this source not because, on its merits, I am against the giving of bad climate allowance, but owing to the system under which a member of this Council has to indicate some source or other from the budget statement. Even apart from this, I think this item, which provides for the grant of bad climate allowance, Rs. 52,000, is not an urgent item which ought to be provided for this year. Under the head Police we have this year enhanced our expenditure by something like Rs. 19,00,000. We have this year made provision for a number of improvements in the department of police. If, therefore, certain other improvements are kept over for the next year or subsequent years, I do not think the police department need grumble at us. In other words, I think this item of Rs. 25,000 which I have proposed is for a better purpose and is of a much more urgent nature than the bad climate allowance for which Rs. 52,000 have been provided. Indeed, sir, I do not see that it is necessary to enhance the rate of bad climate allowance. I can quite appreciate that the war allowance has to be increased, that the house-rent allowance may have to be increased, because house rents may have gone up; but I cannot understand why a bad climate allowance has to be increased. I do not think since the war the climate has become worse than it was before the war.

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Mr. P. A. Desai; Mr. L. Robertson.]

Then there is another principle involved. What Government proposes is not only to enhance the rate of the bad climate allowance but they want to widen the circle of bad stations. They say they have discovered some new notoriously bad stations in the three divisions and that, therefore, they propose this bad climate allowance for these additional stations. I do not understand, sir, why all these years these notoriously bad climate stations were in hiding. I do not really understand the principle underlying the whole of this idea of giving bad climate allowance. As Government servants, I believe, the officers must take bad and good stations alike. If, during the course of their official career, they are sent to a good place like Poona at one time, they must also accept the other alternative, namely, to be sent to a bad climate station another time. They must take good and bad climate together. At any rate, I see no reason why these bad climate allowances are to be increased.

I have shown, sir, that these free reading rooms and libraries deserve to be encouraged. I have also shown that it is necessary to make certain grants on the same analogy as the donations made to certain miscellaneous societies and I think I have been able to show that there is no urgent need for enhancing these bad climate allowances for the Police Department. In fact, this item of Rs. 52,000 is uncalled for for the bad climate allowance. My proposal of providing Rs. 25,000 instead for grants to free reading rooms and libraries is a laudable and commendable one and I hope the Council will allow it to be inserted in this year's budget by making a corresponding reduction in the item for the provision of Rs. 52,000 for the bad climate allowance to police officers.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Mr. President,—I strongly support the resolution which has been so eloquently moved by the Honourable Mr. Kamat. Up till now we have discussed several resolutions but they have no more value than an academic one. We have been told that the objects for which these resolutions are moved are certainly noble and laudable objects but the question is that the money which is required for these objects cannot be cut off from the items that have been provided in the budget.

Now, here the same thing may be urged, namely, that we are bound to make allowances for bad climate for certain police officers. No doubt, we have to make provision for that, but the question here is of convenience and inconvenience. If we are to look to the convenience of a few police officers, we are to sacrifice the interests of a large number of people who would be benefitted if we make this grant-in-aid to these noble institutions, namely, free reading rooms and libraries, where, I submit, real difficulty is now felt for the want of these books of reference. If we read something of a subject and we want to refer to a big book on that subject, in the mofussil it is very difficult to get such books, for instance, books on currency questions and so on. So, if this grant of Rs. 25,000 is cut off from the allowance of Rs. 52,000 which is provided for the grant of bad climate local allowance, I think the purpose would be served, and, next year, if Government thinks it absolutely necessary to give these bad climate allowances to police officers, I think adequate provision may be made next year. But, if we cut off the amount, as proposed at present, I do not think there will be much inconvenience to the police officers. With these remarks I strongly support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson:—Mr. President,—I rise to oppose this resolution. I may say at once that I am quite in agreement with the honourable mover that an effort to provide reference books for free libraries is a good and useful measure. I consider, however, that the duty of providing free libraries is municipal and is not one which Government should undertake. I object to the proposal and hope this Council will not approve a measure which will provide facilities for the people of the Presidency to satisfy their literary curiosity or their appetite for facts and figures at the expense of the health of the police force.

Now, I may tell the Council what these allowances are and the objects which they are designed to serve. No new principle is involved in this proposal of bad climate allowances. They have been a feature of our administration for very many years and, in the places where they are paid at present, they are not drawn only by the police force, but by members of other services of Government also who are stationed at unhealthy places. The object of bad climate allowances is two-fold. In the first place, the additional allowance is provided in order that a man in the service of Government may be able to procure a more copious and more nourishing diet than he could procure without any addition to his remuneration, so that he may be able to combat disease. In the second place, it may be explained to the Council that service in these unhealthy places is, of course, very unpopular and some small extra remuneration helps to make a man transferred to such places contented with his lot. Now, the Honourable Mr. Kamat has taken objection to the enhancement of the rates of bad climate allowances on the ground that the climate is not really any worse now than before the war. But I would remind the honourable member that the prices of all articles of diet have largely increased and the articles which these bad climate allowances are designed to cover have also risen in price. For instance, milk, ghee, rice and so forth, have all abnormally risen in price. Then the honourable member has objected to the extension of these bad climate allowances to places where they have not been paid. I can assure the Council that the places where the bad climate allowances will be paid are all extremely unhealthy and extremely unpopular amongst the police force and it does not appear to me to be a good argument to say that because we have not in the past behaved very well to the Government servants who have to work there, therefore we should continue this treatment in the future. I may just mention the rates at which these allowances are to be paid at the places at which they will be admissible. The highest officer who will get the allowance is an inspector, and he is to receive at the rate of Rs. 20; the sub-inspector will receive Rs. 15; the head constable Rs. 5 and constable Rs. 3. I would also point out to this Council that if the officers at these places get sick, other men have to be sent to take their places, which means considerable expenditure in the shape of travelling charges owing to inaccessibility of these places, and so forth. I therefore trust that this Council will not pass the resolution now before them.

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[Mr. L. Robertson; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; the Vice-President; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I do not wish to say much about the principle of helping the free reading rooms and libraries, because I think that the absence of any wide system of free reading rooms and libraries is a great deficiency in the general educational system of our Presidency. I know of a Native State near by, for instance, where there is a large department of public libraries and I wish our Member in Charge of the Educational Department had put his mind to that subject. But what I wish to point out is that I am rather against giving these bad climate allowances in general. The arguments that are urged by the Honourable the Inspector General of Police do not appear to me to be very sound. There is a homely proverb, " Give a dog a bad name and hang him ". I think that a similar proverb would apply to such allowances; " Give a place a bad name and then give the officers there a bad climate allowance ". Well, after all, people have been living in these bad places. Places like Surat.....

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Might I explain to the honourable member that it is only in parts of the Surat district that these bad climate allowances are given and not in Surat city?

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—These districts of Surat, Thana, Khandesh, Nasik and Kanara appear to ordinary eyes not to be bad in point of climate. A large number of people are living there. Of course, many people would like to have allowances of various kinds under one name or another. We would all like to have allowances. The question is whether we are to encourage such allowances. There is also another thing. I think it is a recognised fact that an officer in the service of Government understands that he has the liability of serving at all times and at all places, and, if I am correctly informed, some of these unhealthy places are looked upon as a kind of penal settlement for some of the Government officers who are incompetent and I do not think that this inverted benefit of these places should be lost in this manner.

Then, again, there is the argument about the high prices of food-stuffs. Now, I do not know that bad climate has anything specially to do with high prices. I do not know why the allowance on account of high prices should be coupled with bad climate only. We have always been asked to sanction additional allowances owing to high prices, and they are given in other places also where there is good climate. What I wish to point out is that the system of these special allowances, particularly bad climate allowances, should not be encouraged more than it is absolutely necessary to do. In this case, I do not think that the Council should sanction these bad climate allowances.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—While listening to the Honourable the Inspector-General's remarks, especially his remarks that these allowances are not any extraordinary or new feature of the budget, but that they are a common feature of the budget, I expected him to elaborate his proposition by giving details as to this point; for instance, whether bad climate allowances are asked for in the case of other than police officers also. But I should imagine that the circumstances which have been suggested, such as the necessity of nourishing food, high prices and so forth, would apply equally to the officers of other departments with those of the Police Department. But personally I am not aware of any such bad climate allowances being provided in other cases. That being so, I think a great force lies in the remarks of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye that bad climate is a condition which is incidental to service and must be put up with as an unavoidable evil. There are places in Sind where, when officers are transferred, they grumble a good deal, because the local conditions are very unfavourable. As the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye said, these are considered to be rather as penal settlements for incompetent officers, and sometimes officers who are degraded are sent to these places. I think Government are introducing a very bad precedent in proposing to grant allowances for the sake of giving nourishing and good food to people in bad climates. If we approve of this, all kinds of people in future will come forward and make claims like this and the Finance Department would be greatly embarrassed. For these reasons, I think no strong case has been made out for the retention of this item and I quite agree with the honourable mover that this item should be disallowed.

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; the Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

Now, with regard to the Honourable the Inspector-General of Police's remark that the duty of providing free reading rooms and libraries is a duty of the municipality, I think he must be referring to the mofussil municipalities which are governed by the District Municipal Act of 1901. There are two sections in that act, viz., 54 and 56. Section 54 lays down the obligatory duties of municipalities, that is, duties which municipalities are bound to provide for, and section 56 voluntary duties. I do not remember just now whether the duty of providing a free library falls under section 56, but I am sure that this is not an item under section 54. That being so and knowing that most of our municipalities have not got such prosperous financial conditions as to be able to make provisions for these objects and knowing also, at the same time, that there are various municipal duties which for want of funds are now being done by Government, I think the proposal of my honourable friend is not at all unreasonable and I therefore most strongly support the resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I would just like to ask the honourable mover one question. I have not had time to look up all the items. He said that there are similar items where the principle has been accepted. I would like to know what they are.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—I take it that similar items to which I referred are these :—

(i) Donations to scientific societies include a grant-in-aid of Rs. 30,000 to the Cama Institute of Oriental Learning. (ii) Under head Miscellaneous, there is an annual grant-in-aid of Rs. 5,000, and also a building grant of Rs. 75,000 to the Society for the Protection of Children in Western India. (iii) There is also, I believe, a grant of Rs. 10,000 to the Kathkari settlement at Khandala.

From these grants, I conclude that such grants from the public exchequer can be made to private societies like Free Reading Rooms.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—With regard to the last item mentioned by the Honourable Mr. Kamat, the grant of Rs. 10,000 to the Kathkari settlement in Khandala, I should like to state that it is for the uplift of the Kathkaris in the Thana district and on the edge of the ghauts. The settlement is doing excellent work.

The other item which he referred to was the grant to the Society for ths Protection of Children in Western India. It is a Society of which I am the President and my honourable colleague, Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, is Vice-President. The work it does is purely social work. It does not, it seems to me, come under the principle enunciated by the Honourable Mr. Kamat. The Society protects and helps waifs and strays of children and tries to fit them for leading useful lives.

With regard to the grant to the Cama School of Oriental Learning, there are two other similar items in the budget: one is the grant to the Natural History Society and the other to the Prince of Wales Museum. The principle underlying these grants is that Government wish to help research work. It is quite a different principle, I think, from that involved in the giving of assistance to institutions of the nature quoted by the honourable mover of the resolution. I think that he said that the provision of free libraries was a national duty which should be undertaken by the nation out of Government revenues. But he also said that nn other countries this provision was made by municipal bodies rather than by Government, but that in India the municipalities were too poor to do so. I did not hear the Honourable Mr. Chunilal Mehta getting up, as I expected he would, to protest that the Bombay municipality was not a pauper body. It is a wealthy body, and I am sure, if the Bombay municipality thought it necessary to provide books of reference and free libraries, they could give a grant without any difficulty at all. But I understand that the complaint comes largely from the mofussil, where the district boards and municipalities are not able to make any grant at all and that at present such libraries, if any, are provided by private subscription. Now, there are, in this Presidency, very many wealthy men who could undertake to provide the facilities for which the Honourable Mr. Kamat asks that Government should pay. I do not think there is a single case where a rich man of Bombay, Ahmedabad or Poona has done anything to provide free libraries to the public. In every other country I think you will find that Government seldom pays these charges but it is the wealthy people, generally speaking, who provide these free libraries. In this country that is not so. If a man is considering how he should leave his property to be disposed of after his decease, one of the best objects that he can think of would be a free library. If the honourable mover would go round and propagate the idea that persons of wealth should spend a portion of their money on such a laudable object, I think he would be doing better than coming to this Council and asking Government to make the provision.

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[The Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

With regard to the other side of this resolution, the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai asked whether these bad climate allowances are paid to the Government servants of other departments. The policy of granting these bad climate allowances was adopted, I think, as far back as 1906. At that time the principle adopted was that if a Government servant in one department got the allowances, members of the other departments also should get it. The Honourable Mr. Robertson made it quite clear that these allowances are paid not to gazetted officers but to the lower paid ranks of the police service. When dealing with the main head of Police, I said that it was a very difficult thing for us to bring the police force up to its full strength and that, in order to do so and counteract other attractions, it was necessary to improve the pay and allowances of the men. This is one of the allowances which we propose to make, in order to get the police force brought up to the full strength. It is true that a Government servant is bound to serve wherever he is posted, but it is also true that if he is very discontented in a place, where he has no comforts and no society, he will give up Government service if he can get anything better. Now, it would be very bad policy to have discontented people serving in these unhealthy places. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye asked why this allowance should be given to a policeman in Surat. There is no intention of giving it to the policemen serving in the city of Surat. If the honourable member knows the Surat district well, he must know that there are some very unhealthy places there, particularly those tracts bordering on the Dangs, between Khandesh and Surat. It is for the Government officers serving in these out of the way and very unhealthy places that this extra provision is made. Government wish to keep the men there contented, because the conditions under which they have to work in these places are worse than what they meet with in other places. We must give them something more in order to keep them contented.

I am not quite sure if I understood the Honourable Principal Paranjpye when he stated that he was rather in favour of having a penal settlement in those places. With regard to that, I wish to say that the number of people who have to serve in these places without anything against them is very much larger than the numbers who are sent there because of their bad work. Some transfers to these places may be made as a punishment, but that is only one, say, in a hundred. There is no reason why the good man should be penalised. I should protest very strongly against this provision being cut out on that score. After all, there are other inhabitants there for whom police protection is necessary. Very often they require a larger measure of police protection than the people living in some of the more settled places. These unhealthy places are very often places where there is trouble from dacoits and robbers.

With these remarks, I hope that this Council will not approve of the resolution moved by the Honourabl Mr. Kamat.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—I shall deal, first of all, with the arguments of the Honourable the Inspector-General of Police. His defence is that bad climate allowances are justifiable on the ground that they are meant to cover the cost of more nourishing food for the persons who have to work there. That defence seems to be a very poor one indeed. I have not heard that men belonging to the Police Department, if they are posted to Kanara or Surat, eat more than they would if they were in other places.

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; the Vice-President.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Might I point out to the honourable member that it is only in the unhealthy parts of these districts that it is proposed to give the allowances? I think I made that point quite clear.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I am not referring to districts as a whole, or to the unhealthy parts. My argument is that I have never heard that these men posted to bad places, whether in towns or in parts of districts, eat more of ghee or of milk than they would ordinarily do if they were posted in healthy places like Poona or Bombay.

Secondly, even taking it for granted that they do eat more, I believe Government is giving them other allowances, which are expressly meant to cover the rise in the prices of foodstuffs and, therefore, there is no reason why even the bad climate allowances have to be enhanced.

The Honourable Mr. Robertson has not answered the other point which I raised, very effectively. I asked him why, since he assumed charge of the department, all of a sudden, in all the three Divisions of the Presidency, certain new places have sprung up where he holds that bad climate allowances ought to be given. We already knew the bad climate stations of the Presidency, but it is entirely a new thing to me, and also, I think, similarly to members of this Council, to be told that there are still in the various districts some other places which deserve to be included as having a bad climate. In regard to this point, there is surely no justifiable reason brought forward by him to show why these new places should now be added.

With regard to the question of municipalities being liable to maintain these libraries, I believe the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai, who is the president of such an advanced municipality as the Karachi municipality, has effectively given a complete answer by showing, in the first place, that it is not one of the obligatory duties of the municipalities to provide free libraries for the public and, secondly, by showing, as I anticipated he would, that, even assuming that they do feel it to be their duty, they have not the means.

Well, so much then regarding the arguments urged by the Honourable the Inspector-General. Now, as regards those which were put forward by the Honourable Member in Charge, he first asked me whether the principle underlying the grant of donations to certain societies in Bombay and elsewhere was analogous to the principle I advocated in respect of free libraries. I say it is only a matter of opinion. If Government think that for research work they can give a grant of Rs. 30,000 to the Cama Institute of Oriental Learning, I, for one, venture to think that there is absolutely no reason why a similar grant cannot be given to public institutions like approved reading rooms and libraries, where men go in search of facts, figures and statistics with a view to make certain researches. Now, for instance, if the Oriental Learning Institute gets a grant of Rs. 30,000 for research in dead languages like Sanskrit or Persian which perhaps may be useful only to some, then I say that a research into every-day practical matters of public importance is of much greater consequence to the public. I, for one, think that rather than patronise a collection of manuscripts and such like things in the Oriental Institute, I would like to have books of reference like the Parliamentary Reports and others placed in libraries, so that men might be encouraged in their studies of public questions, and that facts and figures might be within the easy reach of publicists in this country.

The second argument urged by the Honourable Member in Charge of the portfolio was that it was the duty of public citizens to help such institutions. I would like to point out to the Council that these free reading rooms were started and are being built up on a principle of self-help. As a matter of fact, although they have not been completely endowed and equipped by private donations, it is nothing but truth to say that citizens have come forward in some cases to give either their houses, or, in other cases, to give their benches, tables, cupboards or other things to set these libraries afoot. It is, therefore, clear that self-help has already come forward. Men have helped themselves and now they are coming to Government with a view that Government should also put its hands into its pockets and try to assist these institutions. I, therefore, think that it is high time that Government, on the analogy of the Oriental Institute, should also try to help institutions of this character.

I need hardly refer again to the bad climate allowances. Honourable members like Mr. Paranjpye and others have already spoken on the point.

FREE READING ROOMS AND LIBRARIES.

[The Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Before I put the resolution to the vote, I wish to say a few words in answer to the Honourable Mr. Kamat. With regard to the principle on which he proposes that this grant should be made, I would ask him to remember this. The societies which Government are assisting are carrying on research work. Government know that the work is being carried on. But there is no guarantee at all, if we provide volumes for reading rooms and libraries, that research work will be carried out there. It seems to me that this makes considerable difference.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—May I interrupt you, sir? I said reading rooms and libraries approved by the Director of Public Instruction.

The Honourable the Vice-President:—Then as regards bad climate allowances, the Honourable Mr. Robertson's arguments have been subjected to considerable criticism. Is it not the case that when you have fever patients in your house there is a larger consumption of milk than when you are perfectly healthy? The real point at issue is this. It is necessary to preserve a contented service in these unhealthy places as well as in healthy places.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost, 15 voting for and 20 against.

The Council divided as follows:—

AYES.

The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Ghulam Muhammad walad Khan Bahadur Wali Muhammad Bhurgri, Bar.-at-Law.
The Honourable Mr. Sheriff Devji Canji.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Kashinath Ramchandra Godbole.
The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.
The Honourable Mr. Chunilal Vijbhukhandas Mehta, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shrinivas Naik.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.

NOES.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable the Advocate-General (Sir Thomas J. Strangman, Kt., Bar.-at-Law).
The Honourable Mr. Salebhoy Karimji Barodawalla.
The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. J. D. Jenkins.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta, C.I.E.
The Honourable Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 13. The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to increase the provision for the development of primary education from the surplus excise revenue (item No. 242 of Statement B, Draft Financial Statement) by Rs. 1,00,000, the amount to be earmarked for providing special facilities for the encouragement of primary education of girls, both in municipal and rural areas; and that a corresponding decrease may be made in item No. 229 of the said Statement B."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—The recommendation contained in this resolution which I venture to make to Government is to make a provision of Rs. 1,00,000 for providing special facilities for the encouragement of primary education of girls, both in municipal and rural areas. I believe, sir, on Saturday morning I made a very willing acknowledgment to the Government of Bombay that during the last four or five years Government have made splendid progress in furthering the cause of education in this Presidency, chiefly under the able guidance of the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola and generally, therefore, I should have nothing to grumble at. And yet it is necessary to explain why I wish that a provision of a lakh of rupees should be made for primary education of girls. The reason, sir, is that, so far as I understand the condition of things, primary education of girls is lagging behind that of boys, and that a great leeway is to be made up, if at all we desire that the education of girls should run along parallel lines with the primary education of boys in the Presidency. To make this clear, I wish to read a few figures from the latest report of the Director of Public Instruction, and, in order that the members of this Council may be able to follow me, I have placed copies of the figures on the Council table. It will be clear, I hope, from these figures that, although Government are providing no less than Rs. 6,00,000 for the encouragement of primary education, still it is necessary to draw the attention of Government to the unequal pace between boys' and girls' education and to urge Government to adopt certain steps with a view to give special facilities to bring in line the girls along with the boys.

Now, sir, it will be observed from the figures that the total number of primary schools for boys in this Presidency is roughly 10,000, as opposed to girls' schools, which are only 1,321. The disparity is glaring. Similarly, the total number of boys receiving primary education in this Presidency is 6,00,000 in round numbers, whereas the total number of girls receiving primary education at the present day is 93,000, that is, less than 1,00,000. Really speaking, I believe the number of girls ought to be nearly the same as the number of boys, if the ideal, namely, to impart primary education to all school-going children, is to be adopted. It will thus be seen that, although we have been making every endeavour to spread primary education in the mofussil, still the number of girls attending elementary schools compared with the number of boys attending schools is extremely inadequate, so much so that the percentage of boys under instruction to the male population is 6·5, whereas the percentage of girls receiving education in all branches is a very small one indeed, namely, 1·8. Having shown from the numbers that the girls are lagging behind, I will draw the attention of this Council to the disparity in provincial expenditure on girls as well as on boys.

From the provincial revenue, the expenditure on boys is Rs. 52,00,000 and odd, whereas the total expenditure on girls for the primary education is only 4 lakhs, that is to say, something like one-thirteenth for the education of girls.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I should like to know whether these figures for the girls include a share of the expenditure for schools where there are boys and girls together?

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I think that this is the total expenditure on girls.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I take it that the honourable member is not able to give a definite answer.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I have not got separate figures. I can find them later on.

As regards grants to local bodies, the share of grants to municipalities for the education of boys comes to Rs. 6,45,000, whereas girls are getting from municipal grants only Rs. 1,70,000.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; the Vice-President.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

Lastly, I come to the question of scholarships for boys as well as girls. We see from the report of the Director of Public Instruction that the total amount for scholarships for boys and girls is Rs. 57,000, and the number of primary schools is 12,000. Thus, if the total number is 12,000 and the amount of scholarships is Rs. 57,000, then it follows that each school is getting less than Rs. 5 per annum. All these figures, sir, show that although, as I have said, Government is making every endeavour for the spread of primary education, still the girls are lagging too far behind in the race, and that it is necessary that special endeavours be made to bring the girls up in line with the boys. Now, what should be the nature of these endeavours? It is necessary, I think, to encourage the girls' education by special scholarships to girls—by giving them prizes, books, slates, cholis, saris or some such things, so that parents might be tempted to send the girls to the schools. Other attempts also should be made. Inspectresses or other officers should bring some sort of influence to bear upon the girls or their parents, so that girls may not be kept at home. It is no use saying that in this country social prejudices exist. It is the duty of Government to conquer such prejudices and to use special endeavours either by prizes or other facilities which I have indicated. In fact, similar procedure, I might point out, has been adopted on the recommendation of the Mahomedan community in Sind. We see a provision of something like Rs. 65,000 for the special encouragement of Mulla schools. There are special steps taken in this case by awarding prizes of cholis, etc. If, therefore, the Sind Committee has recommended that scheme and adopted this recommendation of spending a sum of Rs. 65,000 for special facilities for girls, I do not see why similar provision should not be made for the primary education of girls.

Now, once again I come back to the difficulty of indicating a source. The item which I shall show in order to meet the expenditure, it will be seen, is item No. 229, the Department of Police. In that item a recurring provision of Rs. 2,00,000 is made for free clothing grant to officers below the rank of sub-inspectors of police. In the remark column it is said that these proposals are under consideration of Government. I believe, therefore, that I am quite in time in bringing forward this proposal. We can at this stage make some sort of provision, if we really wish to promote female education. I do not see, sir, why this year a big provision of Rs. 2,00,000 should be made for free clothing if the police have been pulling on without a free clothing grant for a number of years. We have given the Police Department Rs. 19,00,000 for various reforms. We have shown a good deal of generosity over every reform of the Police Department; we can wait a little longer until this reform in clothing is secured. I think a much more urgent reform is the education of girls, for which a provision should be made this year, as I suggest.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Mr. President,—I beg to move the following amendment to the resolution:—

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to increase the provision for the development of primary education from the surplus excise revenue (item 242 of Statement B, Draft Financial Statement) by such amount as could be spared by not giving free clothing grant to sub-inspectors, that amount to be earmarked for providing special facilities for the encouragement of primary education of girls, both in municipal and rural areas; and that a corresponding decrease may be made in item No. 229 of the said Statement B."

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The amendment proposed by the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah is not provided for under the rules. This amendment is out of order.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The Council will now adjourn for lunch till 3 p.m.

The Council then adjourned for lunch.

After lunch.

The Council re-assembled at 3 p.m.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. Revised Financial Statement. Further discussion of resolution No. 13.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Mr. President,—As my amendment has not been allowed I want to say a few words on the resolution. It has been amply proved by the honourable mover of the resolution that female education needs special facilities for its encouragement. We know that the number of girls is very small and for that reason less money is provided for the education of girls than for that of boys. The object of this resolution is to bring in the education of girls in the same line with that of boys, and I think every one will consider that it is a very laudable and praiseworthy object.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.]

The way in which female education is to be encouraged is that there should be special scholarships and prizes for the girls. The honourable mover of the resolution proposes that, for the purpose of providing money for this object, a corresponding reduction should be made in item No. 229 provided in the budget for free clothing grants to officers of the Police Department below the rank of sub-inspectors. I am quite in agreement with the proposal that free clothing should be given to ordinary constables but not to the sub-inspectors. In the same budget I find that the present scale of the pay of the sub-inspectors has been revised. Their present grades are of Rs. 50, 60, 70, 80 and 100, and it is proposed to increase these grades to Rs. 60, 75, 100, 135 and 175. That means, in some cases, some of the sub-inspectors who formerly used to get Rs. 100 will draw Rs. 175. In this case, I think the question of higher prices and bad climate allowance will not come in, because they have been amply provided for. Then, again, I find item No. 205, where it is proposed to grant a house rent allowance up to Rs. 15 per mensem in each case to sub-inspectors who have been posted to places where house rents have risen to a considerable extent during recent years. For high prices they get a higher scale of salary. Not only that, but, besides this, they get war allowances too. Therefore, I submit that there is no necessity to give free clothing to the sub-inspectors, because they are well provided against high prices, high rents and against everything, and their salaries have been increased in every grade. I submit that such amount as could be spared by not providing free clothing to sub-inspectors should be devoted for the benefit of girls' education and for affording special facilities for girls' education.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—In addition to the remarks made by the previous speaker in support of the resolution I have to say this much, that item No. 229, which is sought to be drawn upon by the honourable mover in favour of girls' education, is under the consideration of Government and from that I gather that the item has been provided in the budget tentatively, that is to say, that the final decision has not been arrived at as to the expenditure on this head. That being so, I do not think there should be any objection to divert Rs. 1,00,000 from this item to the object of this resolution and to apply the remaining Rs. 1,00,000 to the proposed expenditure. I do not think the Honourable Member in Charge of the portfolio will deny the utility of the object sought to be served by the resolution.

I think for years and years it has been preached to us and we have been preaching to others that female education in this country is not what it should be and if, therefore, anybody comes forward with any proposal to improve that education, he deserves my gratitude as does the Honourable Mr. Kamat in bringing this resolution.

Now, comparing the benefit that is to be served by reducing this grant, as is proposed in the resolution, with the sacrifice that these officers have to make, coupled with the considerations put forward by the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein, namely, that these officers are very well paid, they get their salaries and also war allowances and other allowances in addition, as the advantages to be secured outweigh the disadvantages I heartily support this resolution.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I want to make a few remarks on this resolution. The resolution, of course, is worthy of support. But the question is whether, when we get this additional Rs. 1,00,000 for girls' education, we will be able to utilise the grant. I am afraid that if we give funds in addition to the large allotments that we are giving to the Educational Department already, that department will not be able to utilise them. I have just been over some of the schools in the Poona district which are supposed to contain over 25 boys each. When I visited the schools, I found that the attendance on the dates of my visits ranged from 5 to 10. One school-master had closed his school for a couple of days without authority.

The state of education in the backward tracts in our rural areas is not at all satisfactory, and if we ask the Educational Department to start new girl schools in such areas, it will be in my opinion a difficult, if not an impracticable, problem. For years together, there is no chance of girls' schools being a success in the backward tracts of our Presidency. I am afraid, therefore, that this additional grant of one lakh of rupees that we propose to give to the Educational Department may remain unutilised. Until, therefore, we have got an assurance from our educational authorities, that the proposed additional grant will be profitably utilised next year, I think the proposition before the Council should not be pressed further.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Mr. L. Robertson; Mr. P. A. Desai.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson:—Mr. President,—Before dealing with the specific resolution before the Council I should like to make one remark of a general nature which I had intended but omitted to make when speaking on the resolution that was disposed of before the interval. The remark is this. On behalf of the police service I desire to thank the finance committee and this Council generally for the generous manner in which funds have been provided for the police in the budget for next year and I would add that I shall do the best I can to see those funds properly utilised.

Now, coming to the resolution with which we are dealing, I would like to associate myself with the remarks made by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole as to the possibility of dealing with this Rs. 1,00,000 in furthering the education of girls.

I am thoroughly in sympathy with the object which the honourable member has in view, but I presume that full provision has been made in the budget for girls' education and that any further funds that may be placed at the disposal of the Educational Department would not be satisfactorily utilised.

Now, coming to the question of uniforms, this matter was very carefully considered by a committee of my officers. It is not the object to improve the uniform of the police to any great extent; we do not propose to provide better uniforms than are at present worn. The position before us was that the prices of textile and other manufactures which are used in making the uniforms have risen so enormously that the amount at our disposal was not sufficient to provide all the articles of uniform required. The Council must know that uniforms are provided for all ranks, from sergeants downwards. The committee of officers went into the matter very carefully; they consulted the contractors, and it was found that for sergeants, for instance, whilst Rs. 48 were necessary for their uniform previously, it was now necessary to spend Rs. 60 annually to purchase the same uniform which was formerly covered by Rs. 48. Of course, this figure does not cover a complete suit. A pair of boots, for instance, lasts for two years, and it is not necessary to purchase a pair every year for every man. As for the constabulary grant, the figure has risen in much the same manner. The constabulary grant was Rs. 10, it has now been raised to Rs. 25; and I had calculated that, in order to recover the additional expenditure on uniforms for the constabulary alone, a sum of nearly three lakhs would be necessary. I had actually asked Government for a provision of no less than four lakhs for uniforms. Government have already cut me down to two lakhs, and if the Council cut me down further to one lakh, I am afraid that the police will present a very ragged appearance towards the end of the year.

Now coming to the proposal of giving grants to sub-inspectors to assist them in purchasing uniforms, the fact is that in the past a sub-inspector has had to purchase and maintain his uniform out of his pocket. A sub-inspector receives at present a salary which begins at Rs. 50 and rises to Rs. 100, and, in consequence of the reorganization of the police as a result of the Police Commission's Report, the average emoluments of the sub-inspector were actually lowered owing to the large number of posts created in the lower grades of pay. Now, a complete suit of uniform costs at present over Rs. 160. Taking the average pay to be at Rs. 80, that means to say that the sub-inspectors have to pay considerably more than two months' salary on the purchase of their uniform. I do not think that there is any member of this Council who would expend two months' earning on the purchase of a suit of clothes.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Once the uniform is prepared, for how many years would it be of use to the sub-inspector?

The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson:—As in the case of the constabulary, each article of the sub-inspector's uniform is calculated to last for a certain number of years. The coat, for instance, may last for one year, the pair of boots may last for two years, and so on. The annual grant required is based upon the average arrived at by taking the number of years for which each article of the uniform is expected to last and dividing the cost of the article by that figure. This proposal to grant a small sum to the sub-inspectors to maintain their uniforms has been agitated for some years, but the extraordinary high rise in prices has brought it to a head.

Now, as regards the remarks that fell from the Honourable Mr. Kamat, he seemed to imply that Government has accepted the proposal without going very carefully into it. I may explain that Government has not accepted the proposal without close scrutiny. The papers had come back to me with certain suggestions, but I have gone through the rates proposed very carefully. That is what is meant by the remark opposite the item under discussion that the proposals are under consideration. It is not intended to convey that the money is not really required or will not be expended.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. L. Robertson; Mr. J. G. Covernton; Mr. S. B. Upasani.]

With regard to the amendment which the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein proposed, I may say that the total amount required for the grant to the sub-inspectors is Rs. 25,000 a year. The vast bulk of the money goes, of course, to provide uniforms for the constabulary. I think that, in order to show that the sub-inspector was a very well paid man, the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein referred to house rent allowances or free quarters. Well, I may explain to the Council that a free house was recommended by the Police Commission as an essential part of the remuneration of the sub-inspector. It was accepted by the Government of India and the Secretary of State, and, if we do not provide the sub-inspector with free quarters, it is necessary that we should grant him a house rent allowance; that is a matter of mere contract. Our estimated expenditure for uniforms is based, of course, on present high prices of textile and other manufactures, and, if those prices should fall, the grants will be curtailed proportionately.

For these reasons I trust that the Council will not accept the resolution before it.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—Mr. President,—I only wish to refer to two small items in the figures quoted by the Honourable Mr. Kamat which I think are not correct. He has, quite naturally, been misled by the confusing arrangement of our statistics and he has given only the figures for girls in girls' schools. He has omitted to take into account the fact that there are a large number of girls attending boys' primary schools. The total figure of girls should, therefore, be one hundred and forty-four thousand odd. This figure is a small one as compared with that of boys, but there are many reasons which render it difficult to get girls to go to school.

Secondly, with regard to the expenditure on schools, the Honourable Mr. Kamat has quoted Rs. 52,16,000 as expenditure on boys alone. That, also, is right as far as the figure goes, but again he has forgotten that this figure covers expenditure on girls attending boys' primary schools and, therefore, that figure cannot be put down solely to boys. These are two minor points, but I thought that they should be brought to the notice of the Council.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I have very great pleasure in supporting the resolution. I am only sorry that my honourable friend has not asked for a much larger grant than he has. The cause of female education has not, I regret to say, received the attention of the department which it should have. The numbers of males and females in our Presidency are nearly equal, but, as regards the numbers attending schools, the figures given by the honourable mover of the resolution show how deplorable the situation is as regards female education. In every country there has been an endeavour to bring the education of girls on a level with that of boys and the same ought to have been done here in our country. In fact, all the advanced countries have moved on with their programme of female education. In our own Presidency we have before us the splendid example of our Parsi friends. They form a very small portion of the population, but they are to the front in every walk of life and their success is due not only to the education they give to their males, but mainly to the education they give to their females. If you refer to the statistics, it will be seen that out of a total of 41,470 Parsi males 32,718 are literate and out of a total of 39,510 females 25,439 are literate and, then, out of these, 21,016 males and 6,925 females are literate in English. Illiteracy among that community is very small, whereas you will find among Hindus that out of 76,60,148 males and 72,62,163 females only 9,17,660 males and 67,198 females are literate, while 67,42,488 males and 71,94,965 females are illiterate. The condition of our Mahomedan friends is still worse. This is a condition which we should do our best to improve. I think numerous items have been provided recently for boys' education and we have to congratulate the Honourable Member in Charge on having secured large amounts for his department. But I think the provision made for education of girls bears only a very small proportion to what has been done for boys' education. I find only one item, 264, of Rs. 36,750, provided for the education of girls. That is a very small item considering the required provision for female education in this Presidency.

I think there should have been a much larger number of girls' schools than at present. I would submit that full primary and Anglo-vernacular girls' schools should be established at the headquarters of each district town. Therefore, considering all these circumstances, I think that the small grant which is applied for in this resolution should be readily given.

Now, as regards the source from which it is asked for, I think there will be no objection whatever to cutting down the police expenditure by rupees one lakh. There is no doubt that the subordinates of the Police Department will be most heartily grateful to the Honourable Mr. Robertson and to the Honourable Member in Charge of the Police Department for having secured this provision for them. But I really think that we are going too far in increasing our expenditure on the police on an extravagant scale which is really not justified. It will be seen from this year's budget that in 1916-17 the total expenditure on the Police Department came to rupees one crore six lakhs; this year it has mounted up to rupees one crore sixty-five lakhs, which shows more than 60 per cent. increase in four years. Everywhere there is a crying need for retrenchments. But we find that, in the case of the police, every item has been so liberally provided for and in so many ways that I do not know how hereafter the public will be able to maintain the burden that is being imposed upon them at present in respect of this department. It will be seen that the expenditure on the district police has increased from rupees seventy lakhs to rupees one crore and fourteen lakhs. On railway police it has increased from Rs. 2,91,000 to Rs. 7,64,000, in the case of the C. I. D. from Rs. 3,13,000 to Rs. 4,66,000. So, every branch of the police shows greater expenditure, and I think that there ought to be some limit placed upon this excessive increase in the expenditure. As regards this year, we find that the total expenditure provided for the department is Rs. 12,75,000 recurring and Rs. 9,00,000 non-recurring, giving a total of Rs. 22,00,000, and the whole will ultimately come to Rs. 18,54,000 recurring. This is a very large increase for one year. Only two years back, when we objected to it, a large sum was provided for rewards, and this year we find that it is again increased to Rs. 40,000. Only last year the mounted police was reduced. Now it is proposed to spend Rs. 97,000 on re-establishing it. An additional war allowance of Rs. 7,00,000 is also provided. While these increases are being sanctioned for the police constables, the poor primary school teachers are starved. If there was any margin available for providing increased salaries, it should have been utilised to give a living wage to the primary teachers.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; the Vice-President.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

For the reasons which I have given above, I hope that Government will agree to provide the sum demanded out of the police expenditure, and I hope that the Council will pass the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—The only part of the resolution that I would like to touch upon is the item from which it is proposed by the honourable mover to make the reduction. The Honourable Mr. Robertson, in the course of his remarks, said that it was necessary to retain this item because of the high prices of clothing and the consequent hardship to inspectors and sub-inspectors to provide clothing according to the standard which was in force. I am glad he had also said towards the end of his remarks that the item would be reduced if prices went down. I should only like, however, to point out to the Honourable Mr. Robertson that this is put down an item of recurring expenditure. If it was put under the head of non-recurring expenditure, I do not think that I, at any rate, would have had any great objection to that item standing in this financial statement, for the reasons that the Honourable Mr. Robertson has just explained. In the finance committee, when this item was being discussed, we were told that Government had not yet made up their mind. I venture, sir, to point out that whenever any suggestions come up for an increase of pay to the police, the Finance Committee and the Council deal with such suggestions very generously. We were a year back told that the pay had to be put up, because the price of clothing had gone up and the inspectors and officers had to get their own clothing. Now that their pay has been put up in more cases than not, there comes up a separate item for a separate allowance for clothing.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Are the poor policemen not expected to have any families and are they not supposed to provide clothing for them?

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Does not that apply to all officers of Government?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—We are revising the grades of pay of the whole of the subordinate establishment.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Would not that include the police establishment?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—But the present provision is for uniform and not for clothing.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—I should think, sir, that there would be no objection to this item, if it was put under the non-recurring head, so that next year, if the cost of clothing went up, the item could be increased and, if it went down, the item could be reduced. As I said, this is the only part of the resolution that I wish to touch

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. D. V. Belvi.] upon. I thought I might just mention to the Council how the Finance Committee allowed this item to stand, hoping that Government would put it as non-recurring, when they finally passed orders.

The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta:—Mr. President,—The Honourable Mr. Curtis told us the day before yesterday that he would have liked that the procedure adopted in this Council as regards such resolutions should be as in the House of Commons, that the ministers only move resolutions for making any addition to the expenditure on a particular head that they desire. I wish something more could be done in that direction. If honourable members were merely free to suggest that they wanted more money, but were not bound to show whence the money was to be got, our position would be much easier. For instance, here we have the fullest sympathy with the object which the Honourable Mr. Kamat has in view in asking for Rs. 1 lakh, and the question is whether the money should come out of item No. 229 or from any other source. Personally, I believe that the police must be given free clothing to get the best type of men in the service. In recruiting for the police nothing should be spared to get the best type of men. But, at the same time, I feel that we must go ahead with female education. So, what I would suggest is—I do not know whether it is possible or not—that if no contribution can be made from this item, we should draw from our balances and give Rs. 1 lakh to female education, as asked for by the Honourable Mr. Kamat. If it cannot be done, I should like Government to see if it is not possible to provide this money from some other departments, because I do not want this item to be cut out. Therefore, I should like to support the Honourable Mr. Kamat's resolution and to have this amount of Rs. 1 lakh in the cause of female education.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I wish also to add my support to the resolution that has been brought forward by the Honourable Mr. Kamat. The question of the education of girls is so vitally important to the progress of the country that I think hardly any words are required to support a thesis of that nature. We understand what difficulties there are in the way of an advance, and all kinds of encouragement should be given for this purpose. The people have to be encouraged by various inducements. In the olden days, these inducements had to be offered even for the education of boys. We have got over that at last, and now I think encouragement has got to be given for the education of girls. We are doing the same in the case of Mahomedan education and in the case of the backward and depressed classes. I think, therefore, that the proposal which my honourable friend makes is a very reasonable one indeed. I should have liked to have a larger amount, and I am not afraid like the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole that the department will not be able to spend this amount. I think it is quite easy to spend even larger amounts, provided there is the will to go earnestly about the matter. I, therefore, trust that the Council will pass this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—I have much pleasure in associating myself with all that has been said in support of this resolution by my honourable friend Mr. Kamat. I do not think that it is necessary for me to enter into a discussion of the utility of education for girls in the year of grace 1920. We have ourselves received the blessing of education, and we can appreciate this blessing even in the case of our female children. So, I do not think that I need enter into an examination of the statistics which were quoted by the Honourable Mr. Kamat, and which were slightly corrected in one or two respects by the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction.

I take it that it is not possible to have any two opinions on the first part of the resolution, namely, that more money should be spent, if possible, on the promotion of primary education among girls. The only question is whether we should take out from this item No. 229 the sum of money required in this resolution. In my opinion, we ought to take Rs. 1 lakh from item No. 229. The Council will see that by one stroke of the pen, a recurring expenditure of Rs. 2 lakhs is added on to the already heavy expenditure on the Police Department. The various ways in which the police expenditure is mounting up every year are well known to the Council. I have been in this Council for the last nine years or so, and I do not believe that there was a single year in which it was not pointed out to Government that the expenditure on police was going beyond our means. But what do we find? The result has been that this expenditure on police every year has increased and increased to our great disappointment. Item No. 229 is not the only item of expenditure to which exception may fairly be taken. I find that item No. 237 is supplementary to item No. 229. Item No. 229 provides for a free clothing grant to officers of the Police Department below the rank of sub-inspectors, and item No. 237 provides for a clothing allowance to inspectors of police. Thus we find that in this year's budget it is intended to add to the recurring expenditure on the Police Department not less than Rs. 2,05,000. I do not think that this is reasonable, and we are perfectly within our rights when we ask this Council to give at least Rs. 1 lakh out of this recurring expenditure of Rs. 2 lakhs for the promotion of education among girls.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

I was rather surprised to hear the remarks made by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole. His great difficulty is that the Department of Education may not be able to spend an amount of Rs. 1,00,000. I was anxiously looking forward to hear the observations of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction on this head, but, curiously enough, he held his peace, and from that I am entitled to conclude that he does not agree with what fell from the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole in that respect. Give the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction the money and ask him to do his best to spend it properly. If we find, at the end of the year, that he has not been able to find ways in which to spend the amount, then we shall think what to do next year. But, first of all, give him the money and ask him to do his best to advance the cause of female education. I do not think that the Honourable Sir Ibrahim and the Honourable Mr. Covernton will be at their wits' end to find ways in which Rs. 1 lakh may profitably be spent on the spread of education among girls.

I have full faith in the good sense of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction, and I have no doubt that he will be very glad to have more money for the spread of education among girls. So the difficulty raised by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole is only a fanciful objection. It does not deserve any consideration whatever. I support this resolution on these grounds.

There is one more ground which I would like to urge for passing this resolution. I have said already that I have been a member of this Council for the last nine years, and I have seen at least 100 financial resolutions moved and debated on in this Council, but I have not had the pleasure of seeing a single financial resolution carried. This is the last year of the Council under the present regime (laughter), and let me have the satisfaction of seeing that on one occasion at least a financial resolution was carried. Hitherto the impression has been that the items entered in the Draft Financial Statements are to be taken as unalterable, as unchangeable, as immutable as the laws of the Medes and Persians. There is to be no change. We may debate hours and days. But ultimately what is the result? There will be the official phalanx that will vote in favour of Government. If this resolution is passed, non-official members will have the satisfaction of seeing that this time at least an exception is made to the fate which is usually meted out to their financial resolutions.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I think I am in full agreement with what fell from the Honourable Mr. Belvi, and I do hope that at least this resolution will be carried. In the first place, I have full sympathy with the proposal which has been made by the Honourable the Inspector-General of Police and recommended by the Finance Committee. But, on the other hand, I have also full sympathy with the proposal which has been put forward by my friend the Honourable Mr. Kamat. It is, therefore, for Government to decide how they will meet this difficulty. No one is very keen on affecting any particular item which Government may like to have retained. But, at the same time, some other means have to be found. I was a member of the first Council under the Morley-Minto Reforms Scheme when Sir John Muir-Mackenzie congratulated himself on passing the one crore limit for our provincial balance. That one crore limit for our provincial balance had never before been reached. We are now accustomed to reaching four and five crores, and yet we do not find Government in a mood to accept even a single suggestion. I do not think that all the suggestions made to Government by non-official members are unreasonable. Some of them, at any rate, must be found to be acceptable, and Government will, I hope, be so accommodating as to provide for such items as they think really deserve consideration. I know there are and there must be some items in the budget from which money can be withdrawn. I am often concerned in framing the municipal budget, and I can point out several places from which money can very easily be withdrawn. But Government hold their peace and let the other members argue and find out in the budget a loophole from where they can appropriate the money for the purpose they have in view. In any case, the Member in Charge of Finance can tell us from what particular item this money can be withdrawn. If that is not possible, let us at least have it from the closing balance. I trust that this proposal will commend itself to Government as reasonable.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. F. Clayton; the Vice-President; Mr. P. A. Desai

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton :—I would like to ask the Honourable Mr. Robertson a question regarding item No. 229 which seems to me very suspicious. What I desire to know is, seeing 2 lakhs only have been given him in place of 4 lakhs asked for, whether the portion which would ordinarily have gone to Sind, is going to be cut down?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Rs. 4,00,000 for primary education?

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton :—I am dealing with police item of two lakhs which it is proposed to cut out for another purpose.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—My question was whether it is the honourable member's intention that the two lakhs which he says should have gone to Sind should be spent on primary education of girls in Sind. Otherwise, I think he is not speaking to the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton :— May I put the question another way, that is, should I be correct if I assumed that the two lakhs in item No. 229 will be divided in correct proportion between the Presidency proper and Sind, or whether the two lakhs which the Honourable Mr. Robertson asked for but did not get is the portion that would have been allotted to Sind? The reason why I ask this question is that reference to details in the police budget shows that the Bombay city and the Presidency proper are being liberally dealt with, compared with Sind and Karachi which are almost forgotten. If you refer, sir, to item No. 202, you will find there is a large lump provision for the grant of increased rates of pay to the constabulary in the Presidency proper but Sind gets nothing at all.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Might I draw the honourable member's attention to the memorandum on the Revised Financial Statement where provision is made for Sind?

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton :—Thank you, sir. I find again in No. 204—Re-establishment of the mounted police, that Rs. 1,92,000 is provided for the Presidency proper, nothing for Sind; am I to assume there are no mounted police there?

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Sir, I rise to a point of order. My submission is that the point before the Council is not whether Sind has been properly provided for or not in the matter of police. The point which has been raised is whether special facilities should be provided for the primary education of girls.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I understand that the honourable member is developing the point.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton:—Then, sir, I come to item No. 206. Here again we get nothing for Karachi and Sind as is also the case in item No. 213.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael): —I ask the honourable member not to go into too great detail on the point.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton :—In view of your remark, sir, I leave this point. What I desire is a guarantee that the police in Sind and Karachi will have a fair and adequate proportion of the amount of Rs 2,00,000 now being provided for expenditure on clothing and which I hope will be sanctioned.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):— We have had a very interesting discussion on the two subjects with which the resolution deals. I take, first of all, the question of the proposed expenditure under the head 20 Police. The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas asked why, if this expenditure is reduced in future owing to the fall in the price of cloth, we show it as a recurring expenditure. If the honourable member could tell us that during the course of the year the price of cloth will return to its normal, then I should be quite prepared to give him the assurance that the expenditure will be shown as non-recurring to the extent of the saving. But nobody can foresee at what price it will be possible to buy the clothing for the uniform of the police, and therefore it is financially wise to treat the expenditure as recurring. No one can tell when the prices will fall sufficiently to ensure that a reduction can be made under this head.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein has said that we are already providing a large amount for improvement in the pay of the sub-inspectors, and he referred to rent allowance and war allowance in addition to the increase in pay. The increase is for a permanent revision of their pay, and, when that has been sanctioned, the war allowance of course will be withdrawn. It will not be given in addition to the permanent increase. With regard to the house-rent allowance, the Honourable Mr. Robertson has told us that it used to be the practice of Government to give the Inspector-General of Police a certain grant for house rent allowance to sub-inspectors in places where the house rent was very high. The amount was Rs. 15,000 a year. That did not go very far. Many sub-inspectors, who were as much entitled to receive this allowance as some of their brethren, got nothing. So Government thought it very much fairer to everyone concerned that it should be given where it was necessary to give it and not be limited by an arbitrary fixing of the total amount which might be given.

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

I think the honourable members can rely on the Honourable Mr. Robertson, the Inspector-General of Police, administering the grant of two lakhs in as economical a manner as possible. As I say, the greater portion of the increase is forced upon us by the increase in the cost of raw materials of clothing already supplied to the police. The supply to sub-inspectors is no doubt a new item of expenditure, but it seems to me a very necessary one if we are to get a good class of men to come forward. The cost of their uniform, as the Honourable Mr. Robertson pointed out, is a very large amount to come out of the pay which these officers receive. I may mention that in Bombay city it has been given for some time past. Sub-inspectors in the Bombay city police are supplied with a uniform free and receive Rs. 10 per mensem to maintain it. This is very much in excess of what is proposed for sub-inspectors in the district police. With regard to the remark made by the honourable member that the police in Sind do not get the same treatment as the police in the Presidency proper, I can assure him that, when any proposal for the improvement of the police service is under consideration, the requirements of Sind are always taken account of at the same time. When we have the Inspector-General of Police and the Commissioner of Police in Bombay forwarding any proposal we always consider how this proposal would affect Sind, and, if Sind is in any way concerned, then Sind gets the same treatment as is given to the Presidency proper. I am surprised to hear of the absence of mounted police in Sind where I always thought they were the backbone of the force. I cannot give the actual number but I believe it is very much above the small force which we are proposing to establish in the Presidency proper. The Honourable Mr. Belvi made an app al to the Council to pass this one resolution before the new arrangements come into operation. It seemed to me that this appeal of his is, in fact, a great tribute to the work of the Finance Committee. None of the three proposals were opposed before they came before the Council. The Honourable Mr. Belvi made another remark with regard to the expenditure on police in this Presidency. With regard to this, the Honourable Mr. Belvi, I think, forgets one occasion, when the Honourable Mr. Patel brought forward a resolution in this Council that the police expenditure was extravagantly large, the resolution was discussed at great length at a meeting of this Council and a large majority of this Council found that the honourable mover had not a real case. Honourable members have referred over and over again to the education of girls as something quite apart from primary education. I do not know whether the honourable mover does or does not mean to make a distinction between primary education for girls and primary education for boys and girls. He did not state how much had been provided in the budget for fresh expenditure on primary education. The department has a provision of Rs. 6,00,000 for the opening of new primary schools—Rs. 1,00,000 for schools for backward classes and Rs. 1,00,000 for the Bombay city and several other items connected with primary education. I think the provision is ample and I do not think that a single member would have supported the Honourable Mr. Kamat if he had mentioned how much money had been provided in the budget. The provision has not been earmarked for the education of boys. There is no reason why the girls should not share. The honourable member seems to suppose that girls have been neglected. That is not the intention of Government for one moment. The provision may be used for the benefit of girls as well as of boys. The liabilities of Government are increasing. We are taking over the administration of irrigation, protective and otherwise. There are certain other big schemes, such as the development of Bombay, for which the provincial will be responsible. Considering the expenditure to be incurred, I express a hope that this Council will not support the honourable mover's resolution, not because I am not in full sympathy with any scheme for the improvement of the education of girls, but because we have already made as ample a provision as can be made in view of the necessities of maintaining an adequate balance for next year.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—After hearing the debate there is only one impression, I presume, general among the honourable members of this Council, namely, the impression that the resolution which I have brought forward is an exceedingly reasonable one; or the impression that the defence which has been made in favour of the policemen is an extremely unreasonable one. The Honourable the Inspector-General of

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; the Vice-President.]

Police tried to make out that owing to high prices of textile material it was absolutely necessary to make a recurring provision of Rs. 2,00,000; while the point which I really raised was, was it at all absolutely necessary this year, when he is already having so many other reforms out of the provision of the extra Rs. 19,00,000, to rush on also with this clothing reform in the Police Department? Was not the sub-inspector of police in the Police Department efficiently equipped till the last year? The Honourable the Inspector-General of Police has made out no case why it is absolutely necessary this year to provide free clothing. Then, again, he himself pointed out that originally he had asked for four lakhs for this provision from Government; it was shown to him that in making this attempt he had not been fair to other departments; besides, when he wanted four lakhs, Government thought it would be reasonable to give him two lakhs. I now proceed further and request Government to say that two lakhs even is an unfair grant and that he ought to be satisfied with only one lakh. I do not think it reasonable on the part of the Honourable the Inspector-General of Police to have all the plums from us for himself and his department, and to throw all the crumbs to the other departments. He is having, excluding this, various other big items, such as the bad climate allowance and the war allowance and the increase in the rate of hutting allowance and various other allowances. I am afraid he is trying to hold a very tight and greedy grip on the available balances for his department at the expense of the Department of Education and I trust honourable members of this Council, while voting, will look to the merits of the case and not only to the extraordinary demands that have been put forward by the Honourable the Inspector-General of Police.

Regarding what fell from the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction,—and he slightly corrected the figures I quoted, (and I thank him for that)—I must confess that the number of girls attending the boys' schools escaped my attention. Even with that slight correction, however, the main proposition which I have placed before the Council is not affected in the least, namely, the statement that the education of girls is lagging lamentably behind the education of boys. That main proposition is not affected, I say, by what he said and, therefore, honourable members will not mind the slight correction which the Honourable Mr. Covernton made.

There is only one thing at which I am greatly surprised, namely, the attitude taken by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole. He found it an impossible proposition to be able to spend Rs. 1,00,000 for rewards and prizes in the towns in the Presidency. . . .

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—I said that the educational officers should be asked whether they will be able to utilise that amount.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—So far as I heard the honourable member, I think he said it was an impossible proposition. Now, in answer to the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole, let me ask him whether or not the Finance Committee and the Government provided, in the first instance, Rs. 2,00,000 for primary education and then added Rs. 4,00,000, making in all six lakhs, and the department could spend it very easily; now when I come forward and ask him to spend one lakh more he says it is rather an impossible task for him. If he works out the whole question he will see that it is not a difficult task indeed. As I have pointed out in my opening remarks, each school under the local boards is getting scholarships of Rs. 5 annually and I dare say if that amount is increased my honourable friend Dewan Bahadur Godbole will find in his own district that his local board schools will surely be able to distribute prizes and rewards, if the grant is only increased from Rs. 5 to 10.

Now, regarding what fell from the Honourable Member in Charge of the Finance Department—he asked me regarding the wording of the resolution, why I have said in my resolution that it is necessary for this amount to be drawn from the surplus excise revenue,—I may point out to him that I have simply quoted, word for word, what is stated against item No. 242 in the budget estimate and the phraseology which I used in my resolution is exactly the phraseology of the budget.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I was pointing out the fact. It is not a question of phraseology but actual fact.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I know the recurring available excise revenue is something like Rs. 26,00,000 and we surely can draw from that recurring item.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—What I said was that the amount allotted by the committee with regard to the spending of this surplus excise revenue for recurring expenditure was 13,15 lakhs. The department have, as a matter of fact, actually committed themselves, on the score that they were spending the surplus excise revenue, to an expenditure of 26 lakhs.

[The Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

PRIMARY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—If I am able to catch the honourable member's words correctly, I think it will not be difficult to make a provision of one lakh recurring expenditure from the surplus excise revenue. Now, as regards intention, I never said Government is intentionally making a discrimination between boys and girls. I do not think it is the intention of Government at all. Government have been very liberal and generous as regards primary education in general; what I wanted to point out was that the result of their distribution of money practically is that in ordinary practice girls' education is kept back. It is not that it is done intentionally, but that is the result, and what I am trying to make out is to speed Government up in bringing the education of girls on the same level with that of boys.

Lastly, as my friends the Honourable Mr. Belvi and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud have said, this question would be more or less a test. I hope honourable members will vote on the merits of the question of girls' education and see the unreasonableness of the provision of Rs. 2,00,000; and I trust honourable members will vote with a free mind and show that they are appreciating the question of the education of girls.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I wish to make one point clear with regard to the proposal that this expenditure should be met out of surplus excise revenue. For the spending of that revenue a committee was appointed. They distributed the money between education, medical and sanitation; each department got a large share. They also distributed each share in recurring and non-recurring grants. The Educational Department have already appropriated their share of the allotment for recurring expenditure. Their share was 13½ lakhs for recurring expenditure; they propose to spend nearly double this sum on recurring commitments, i.e., a larger amount than they were entitled to under the recommendations of the committee; so that there is no surplus under the surplus excise revenue for any recurring charge, but a deficit. I presume the honourable mover means that the expenditure he proposes on primary education for girls should be recurring.

I did not exactly hear the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole's reply to the question put to him by the Honourable Mr. Kamat, but I think his position is this. He knows the schools in the Poona district, and I do not know whether the Honourable Mr. Kamat has made a tour in the Poona district to visit these schools such as the schools in Khed and Junnar talukas. The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole has been over the district as President of the district local board and he says that you are not getting the value of the money you are spending on these schools and so he advises caution that the educational officers should be instructed to pay attention to this point in order to secure that this grant, if provided, will be properly utilised.

The resolution was then put to the vote and lost, the Honourable the President using his casting vote. The Council divided as follows:—

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.	The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Ghulam Muhammad walad Khan Bahadur Wali Muhammad Bhurgri, Bar.-at-Law.	The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Sheriff Devji Canji.	The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable the Advocate General Sir Thomas J. Strangman, Kt. Bar.-at-Law.)
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.	The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Kashinath Ramchandra Godbole.	The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.	The Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, C.I.E., I.C.S.

CERTAIN PROVISIONS FOR POLICE PURPOSES—POLICE BAND AT HEAD-QUARTER TOWNS —REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Mr. Chunilal Vijbhukhandas Mehta, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. Mahomedbhoy Hajeebhoy.
The Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas Mehta, C.I.E.	The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shriniwas Naik.	The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.	The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.,
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.	The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.	The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.	The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M. Inst. C.E.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.	The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The next two resolutions stand in the name of the Honourable Mr. Gokuldas Parekh, but I do not see him here.

"This Council recommends that the Governor in Council be pleased to disallow entries Nos. 218, 219, 220 and 221 under the head of Police in Statement B attached to the Draft Financial Statement of the Government of Bombay."

"This Council recommends that the Governor in Council be pleased to disallow entry No. 233 under the head of Police in Statement B attached to the Draft Financial Statement of the Government of Bombay."

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—The Honourable Mr. Parekh has been called away to the High Court to give evidence and has not been able to be present, and he has asked me to move the two resolutions standing in his name. I beg to add that my information is that, on one occasion, when the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye was engaged in the University Senate, the Honourable Mr. Patel was allowed to move a resolution standing in the name of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye — of course, an ordinary resolution, not a financial resolution—and also in one other case—it was a matter of an amendment—the mover was absent and the Honourable Mr. Upasani was allowed to move it. Of course, there is no provision in the rules themselves in this connection, as far as I can see, but there are precedents and, if precedents or past practice are taken into consideration, the permission I ask for can be granted. In any case, there are no rules on the subject and I leave it to you, sir, to decide.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I asked for precedents in the matter and I could only find one. It was a question of an amendment, and there it was definitely ruled that the amendment could not be put in by any other member without the permission of the chair. On that occasion His Excellency the President declined to give it, and I think in this case I should refuse such permission.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Ports and Pilotage. The Honourable Mr. Curtis.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—The revenue account of this head shows an increase of something like half a lakh of rupees, mainly due to the fact that the Steam Vessels Survey Department has been provincialized. On the expenditure side there is a considerable increase, due to the same cause. Simultaneously with the proposal for provincialization, proposals had been submitted to the Government of

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

India for the revision of the pay of the shipwright surveyors in Bombay and for the entertainment of a shipwright surveyor for Karachi. These have been sanctioned. The honourable gentleman who comes from Karachi—I am sorry not to find him here—will be glad to notice that the injustice done to the port of Karachi, in not providing for a shipwright surveyor of its own, has at last been remedied and a whole-time steamship surveyor has been provided for Karachi.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—In introducing the Education head of the budget last year, I drew the attention of honourable members to the striking increase in expenditure of nearly 32 lakhs which had taken place during the financial year 1918-19 and the further increase of 20 lakhs contemplated in the year just coming to its close. The revised estimates of the current year show an expenditure of Rs. 1,24,60,000 while for next year a sum of Rs. 1,48,80,000 has been budgetted for under this head. This amount is exclusive of a sum of Rs. 10,75,000 which has been specially provided for educational buildings under the head '45-Civil Works.' Thus, the ensuing year's provision for expenditure on education exceeds by about 35 lakhs the estimated expenditure of this year. It will be of interest to honourable members to hear what has been the growth of expenditure on education during the last few years. In 1909-10 the expenditure was Rs. 43,53,000; in 1913-14, the year before the war, it was Rs. 72,76,000; during the war as a result of financial restrictions it slightly decreased from Rs. 83,03,000 in 1914-15 to Rs. 79,96,000 in 1917-18, since when it has risen by about 50 per cent. The total revenues for the same period were Rs. 6,44,71,000 in 1909-10, Rs. 7,92,29,000 in 1913-14, Rs. 8,87,21,000 in 1917-18, and are estimated at Rs. 11,71,45,000 in the ensuing year. Thus it will be seen that education has claimed a substantial share of the expanding revenues during the last 10 years. The important items of educational interest have been fully explained in the revised financial statement. I will confine myself to indicating the progress which has been made in the several branches of education in pursuance of the policy of the Bombay Government which I outlined in my budget speech last year and the further measures which are in contemplation during the ensuing year and in the near future.

In the sphere of primary education, so far as urban areas are concerned, the chief point which attracts attention is the fact that only 4 municipalities out of a total number of 156 have taken advantage of the Compulsory Primary Education Act. The result has been that only a small portion of Rs. 2 lakhs provided in the budget on account of the grants payable by Government under the rules is expected to be utilized in the current year. A provision of Rs. 1 lakh will be available in the ensuing year on this account and Government hope that this will be fully utilized. With regard to Bombay city, the contemplated legislation enabling the corporation to prepare for the introduction, when so disposed, of free and compulsory education for boys or girls or for both throughout the city, either simultaneously or by wards or by sections as may appear suitable, has been undertaken and the requisite bill will be introduced shortly.

In regard to rural areas, I regret to say that the scheme for the expansion of primary education at a much more accelerated pace than in the past which I foreshadowed last year has not materialized. The main cause of the delay has been the uncertainty of the financial position of the local Government under the Constitutional Reform Scheme especially in respect of education, but as honourable members will no doubt have noticed, an additional provision of Rs. 4 lakhs has been entered in the ensuing year for the opening of new primary schools over and above the provision of Rs. 2 lakhs made in the current year for this purpose from the surplus excise revenue, making a total of Rs. 6 lakhs.

The scheme for the training of additional primary teachers, to which the requisite sanction of the Secretary of State was received some time back, has progressed and eight further training schools in addition to the four established last year at Bijapur, Satara, Nadiad and Shikarpur have been opened in the districts of (1) East Khandesh and (2) Sholapur in the Central Division; (3) Dharwar (intended for the Kanara District but located at Dharwar as a temporary arrangement) and (4) Ratnagiri in the Southern Division; (5) Surat and (6) Panch Mahals in the Northern Division; and (7) Nawabshah and (8) Karachi in Sind, thus bringing the number of these schools to twelve out of the total of twenty five provided for in the scheme. The requisite further provision, viz., Rs. 75,000 recurring has been entered in the ensuing year for the opening of additional schools in other places. The total provision on this account thus amounts to Rs. 2,25,000.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

For the reason I have already given in connection with the scheme for the expansion of primary education the provision of Rs. 1 lakh entered in the current year's budget for the opening of new Government high schools for boys has not yet been utilized for the purpose for which it was made. But steps will be taken to utilize the provision which has been repeated in the next year's budget at the earliest possible date.

Last year I briefly outlined the policy proposed to be pursued by Government in the matter of the promotion of secondary education among girls. I am glad to say that a detailed scheme has since been worked out and as honourable members will no doubt have noticed, a provision of Rs. 64,550 has been entered in the ensuing year's educational estimates on this account. It will be utilized in carrying out the following measures:—

(1) Separation of the high school for girls at Ahmedabad from the training college for women at the same place and its creation into an independent institution with the resultant advantages; in this connection I may add that arrangements have already been made to carry out the proposals from the 1st instant on which date the new school term was to have begun;

(2) establishment of an independent middle school for girls at Dharwar and of similar schools at Thana and Ahmednagar where the demand is reported to be strong. Government hope that these schools will be developed into full fledged high schools at an early date;

(3) attachment of girls' Anglo-Vernacular branches, with separate staff and separate accommodation, to the Government high schools for boys at Nasik and Bijapur as an experimental measure.

These two items (2 and 3) also will be carried into effect shortly.

(4) admission where possible of girls to boys' high schools on a more liberal scale than at present in places where a demand for secondary education of girls exists but which are not yet ripe even for separate branches. This measure pre-supposes that satisfactory arrangements for seating girls separately from boys and also separate sanitary and retiring arrangements exist. Government are awaiting a detailed report in the matter.

Turning to collegiate education honourable members will recollect that in August last Government published their conclusions on the recommendations of the College Accommodation Committee. At the same time they announced their decision to utilize the munificent donation of Sir Mahomed Yusuf towards the establishment of a first grade Government Mahomedan Arts College at Andheri in Salsette and steps have already been taken for the acquisition of certain sites in this connection. The requisite plans and estimates are also under preparation.

Since then Government have decided to take two important steps, viz., (1) the raising of the Karnatak College, Dharwar, to the status of a first grade college from June next and (2) the opening of the Royal Institute of Science from the same time. With regard to the first, Government have made arrangements for purchasing the main railway buildings at Dharwar belonging to the M. & S. M. Railway Company with certain subsidiary buildings, and the requisite additions and alterations to them have already been put in hand. The question of the number of students to be provided for in the college when transferred from its present temporary premises to the railway buildings is receiving the careful consideration of Government in view of the local desire for the establishment of a private second grade college under the auspices of the Karnatak Education Society.

As regards the Royal Institute of Science, the scheme for it received the general approval of the Secretary of State some years back but owing to the outbreak of the war and the utilization of the buildings as a War Hospital though in an incomplete state, the opening of the Institute has had to be deferred up to now. It is hoped, however, that the work which still remains to be done will be completed by June next. I may take this opportunity to explain that while it is the earnest desire of Government, and I trust that in this respect honourable members will agree with Government, that for reasons both of economy and of efficiency all higher science teaching should in the course of time be concentrated in this institution, they have no intention whatever to interfere with the freedom of private colleges to continue to maintain their science departments if they so desire, and as an earnest of this policy they have very recently decided to abandon their original intention of discontinuing the provincial grants to aided colleges in this city on account of those departments.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

Under this branch of education I have only to add that the question of the establishment at Hyderabad in Sind of an amalgamated agricultural and arts college or in the alternative of an independent arts college, if the former is not found feasible, has been taken up and referred to the heads of the Agricultural and Educational Departments for examination and the framing of schemes at an early date.

One of the most pressing of educational problems of the immediate future is the reorganization of the system of technical education. This is all the more so in view of the great industrial possibilities of India revealed by the Industrial Commission's Report. The whole question has accordingly been engaging the attention of Government for some time past. After a preliminary examination of the policy pursued by Government in recent years and the results obtained therefrom an outline scheme for the future drawn up by Mr. Tom S. Dawson, Principal of the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute, Bombay, together with the remarks thereon of the Director of Public Instruction from the departmental point of view, has been referred to the Committee of Direction for Technical Education, whose recommendations in the matter are awaited.

In concluding my remarks I have to refer briefly to the reorganization of the superior educational services in India. As honourable members are no doubt aware, the orders of the Secretary of State on the most important of the recommendations of the Public Services Commission in regard to the Educational Department have been received and their substance was announced to the public by the Government of India in a press communiqué issued in the early part of January last. The details of the new scheme have been given there and I need not reiterate them. The three main features of the new scheme to which I may draw the attention of honourable members are (1) the provision for the immediate admission to the Indian Educational Service of a considerable number of Indians, (2) the recruitment in the future for vacancies in the Indian Educational Service of Indians and Europeans on a basis of 50 per cent. each for India as a whole and (3) the institution of common scales of pay for both Indians and Europeans with overseas allowance for officers of non-Indian domicile. The extra cost entailed by the new scheme will be considerable and as no provision has been made in the ensuing year's estimates owing to the non-receipt of the orders in time the expenditure on this account in the ensuing year will be met by re-appropriation.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—Under the head 26 Medical, there is again a large increase of Rs. 15,25,000 in the budget. To some extent, this has been occasioned by the higher prices of necessaries and the higher scale of salaries sanctioned for the officers of the Indian Medical Service. But there are also directions in which the budget provides for a marked increase in departmental activity. In particular, a scheme for improving the nursing arrangements throughout the Presidency, which owes its inception to Her Excellency Lady Lloyd, deserves special attention. It is now being generally recognised all over the world that the nursing staff is as important as the doctors, and that a hospital which is not well nursed is only half equipped. What is not perhaps so generally recognised is that in India it has an importance all its own. Statistics show that at hospitals where there is an adequate nursing staff women constitute 32 per cent. of the patients. At hospitals having a partial nursing staff women constitute 22 per cent. of the patients, and at hospitals where there are no nurses they constitute only 10 per cent. of the patients. These point to the conclusion that women patients have no objection to male doctors. What they do value, and naturally, is nursing at the hands of women, and it follows from this that the simplest and cheapest way of bringing medical relief to the numbers of women in this country is less perhaps the duplication of medical institutions, which involve enormous expenditure, than the equipment of our existing hospitals with proper nursing staffs trained on English lines and following the English model. It will be seen that a sum of Rs. 2 lakhs non-recurring and Rs. 50,000 recurring has been provided in the budget for the current year for this particular purpose. If the expansion of the scheme eventually supports the conclusion here indicated, a great deal will have been accomplished.

In addition to this very important provision, there are the usual provisions for opening new dispensaries, and there is an increased grant to the Lady Dufferin Hospital at

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

Karachi and the new leper asylum at Palghar. Finally, there is a provision of Rs. 1,50,000 for the long deferred School of Tropical Medicine at Parel, and a provision of Rs. 73,000 for a Central Hygiene School.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—In introducing the budget for sanitation, I have to make the following remarks.

A sum of Rs. 7,00,000 was provided out of the Imperial assignment in the current year's budget under the head "24-B—Sanitation" on account of grants-in-aid to local bodies for sanitary projects. Out of this amount, grants aggregating Rs. 3,65,000 have been sanctioned, the principal grants being those of (i) Rs. 25,000 to the Bombay municipality in aid of the anti-malarial measures in the Bombay city, (ii) Rs. 14,095 to the Poona city municipality representing the entire cost of the chemical treatment of the Poona city water supply, (iii) Rs. 15,210 to the same municipality towards the cost of its water supply and drainage and (iv) Rs. 25,000 to the Barsi municipality towards the cost of its water supply scheme. A sum of Rs. 1,00,000 was sanctioned for expenditure on original works in connection with the development of Salsette as a residential area. The Sanitary Board have been authorised to sanction projects costing up to Rs. 20,000 and to make grants up to a limit of Rs. 10,000 for any work. For the latter purpose, a lakh of rupees was allotted to the board this year. In next year's budget estimates a sum of Rs. 11,00,000 has been provided on account of grants-in-aid to local bodies for sanitary projects. The provision includes (i) Rs. 2,00,000 for a grant-in-aid for the Dhulia sewerage scheme, (ii) Rs. 2,00,000 for a grant-in-aid in connection with the construction of the Thorla Shaikh Sullah bridge in Poona, (iii) Rs. 1,11,500 for a grant-in-aid for the Ahmednagar water supply scheme, (iv) Rs. 1,00,000 for a grant-in-aid for the pavement of the Nagzari Nalla in Poona, (v) Rs. 1,00,000 for allotment to the Sanitary Board to enable that body to make grants for minor sanitary projects, (vi) Rs. 1,00,000 for original works in connection with the development of Salsette as a residential area, (vii) Rs. 75,000 for a further grant-in-aid in connection with the improvement of the Poona drainage, (viii) Rs. 38,152 for the Nawabshah Drainage Scheme, (ix) Rs. 15,000 for the chemical treatment of the Poona city water supply and (x) Rs. 11,500 for trial surveys and preliminary investigations of sanitary projects.

In addition to the sum of Rs. 7,00,000 provided out of the Imperial assignment, a sum of Rs. 9,37,500 was also provided in the current year's budget under the head "24-B—Sanitation" for expenditure out of the surplus excise revenue. Out of this provision grants aggregating Rs. 4,87,500 have been sanctioned, the principal grants being (i) Rs. 1,00,000 for the distribution of quinine treatments to the public in Sind and Kanara and school children, (ii) Rs. 25,000 to the Bombay municipality in connection with the project for the supply of water to Salsette from Pawai lake, (iii) Rs. 1,43,092 for the purchase of boring machines, (iv) Rs. 1,02,300 to the Trimbak municipality as a grant-in-aid to cover the entire cost of its water supply scheme, (v) Rs. 29,790 to the Nasik municipality for an intercepting drain on the left bank and for filling up the hollows in the rocks of both banks of the Godavari river, (vi) Rs. 37,016 to the Hyderabad municipality as a grant-in-aid for filling up the Doman Wah Hollow and tank no. 2, and (vii) Rs. 10,000 in aid for Child Welfare Exhibition in Bombay. Moreover, Government are likely to sanction during the current year Rs. 58,180 to the Sukkur municipality as a grant-in-aid for filling up the Gharibabad tank and Rs. 75,000 as a further allotment towards the project for the supply of water to Salsette from the Pawai lake.

In next year's budget estimates a sum of Rs. 11,00,000 has been provided for expenditure from the surplus excise revenue. This provision includes (i) Rs. 2,75,000 for a grant-in-aid to the Bombay municipality for the construction of a reservoir in connection with a scheme for the supply of water to Salsette from the Pawai lake, (ii) Rs. 2,61,800 for expenditure in connection with the destruction of rats in the districts of Belgaum, Dharwar and Poona, (iii) Rs. 1,75,000 for a grant-in-aid to the Karachi municipality for the purchase of a destructor for the incineration of the town refuse, (iv) Rs. 1,00,000 for a grant-in-aid in connection with the Alandi water supply, (v) Rs. 1,00,000 for the distribution of quinine treatments to school children and the public in Sind and Kanara, (vi) Rs. 75,000 for the establishment of a bacteriological laboratory at Karachi, and (vii) Rs. 12,000 for plague research work at the Poona Research Laboratory.

The provision made in the current year's budget on account of grants towards the cost of the entertainment of health officers and sanitary inspectors by municipalities amounts to Rs. 40,000. The provision consists of (i) an Imperial recurring grant of Rs. 20,000 and (ii) a provincial allotment of Rs. 20,000. Out of this amount grants aggregating Rs. 36,000 approximately have been sanctioned. For next year the current year's provision of Rs. 40,000 has been repeated.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. G. S. Curtis; the Vice-President.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

An additional provision of Rs. 10,062 has been made for grants to new village sanitary committees and for increased grants to some of the existing committees in the Presidency as follows:—

		Rs.
Northern Division	...	1,799
Central Division	...	6,022
Southern Division	...	1,240
Sind	...	1,001
		10,062

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—The next head is Agriculture. On the revenue side of this budget head, it is not necessary to make any remarks. On the expenditure side there is once more a large increase of nearly Rs. 5 lakhs, the principal feature of which is the large provision made for the extension of agricultural education. This is a matter to which this Government has given very special attention for many years. Provision has been made in the current year for further improvements at the Agricultural College at Poona. This college is already one of the most advanced and most efficient in India, and the proposed extension will probably make it by far the most go-ahead institution of its kind in the country. The Imperial Government have made a liberal contribution, which will be utilised for the provision of more land and improved buildings. Provincial funds will be used for supplementing this provision. Funds are also to be spent for the new appointment of Professor of Horticulture and Mycology. A deputy director of animal breeding has already been appointed, and various grants are proposed for the extension of the Chharodi Cattle Farm in North Gujarat and the cattle breeding farm at Bankapur in Dharwar. Arrangements have also been made to provide two agricultural schools in the mofussil areas.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Scientific and Miscellaneous, the Honourable Mr. Curtis.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Under Scientific and Miscellaneous, on the revenue side it will be noted that under Miscellaneous there is a drop. This is due to the fact that it is not anticipated that the boom in company promoting, which was conspicuous in the past year, will continue in the coming year. On the expenditure side it will be noted that there is a large increase for development of industries. Funds have been allotted for the appointment of a deputy director and three industrial engineers. The appointment of a superintendent of fisheries is already made as well as that of an assistant chemist and research scholar. The Government workshops at Dapuri have been transferred from the Public Works Department to the Department of Industries. Funds are also provided for the further expansion in the work of this Department, as industrial specialists become available.

Provision has also been made for the cost involved in the proposals for the amalgamation of the Factory, Steam Boiler and Smoke Nuisance Departments.

A special grant to which reference has already been made is Rs. 30,000 to the Cama Institute of Oriental Learning.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Under the head Superannuations, the revenue is going up very slowly, while the expenditure is going up comparatively rapidly. The expenditure is consequential as it depends on the total pay of the establishment. This has gone up in recent years, so also superannuation allowances and pensions.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Under the head of Stationery and Printing, I am glad to state that I have not very much to say. As a result of drastic economy in the use of printing matter, the cost of printing on Government account is expected to be much the same in the coming year as it was in the current year. Some comment has been aroused by the fact that the Government Central Press is still in the premises on the sea face. The site which was ear-marked for the press was taken over by the Government of India during the war and amalgamated with the dockyard. It is now being used for the purpose of the Indian Marine, and is not likely to be available for our purpose for some years to come. Consequently, arrangements were made to erect a new press at Agripada near Byculla. These proposals have been reconsidered, and it has now been decided to move the press from Bombay altogether and locate it in the new industrial locality near Chembur. Plans and estimates for this are under preparation.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[15TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—The following items under the head "32—Miscellaneous" pertain to the General Department. In 1918-19 Government announced their intention to subsidize municipalities in the Bombay Presidency, including Sind, to the extent of one-third of the pay of their executive officer, provided they comply with the following conditions:—(1) that they appoint as their chief executive officer a person approved by Government; (2) that they pay him an adequate salary; and (3) that they delegate to him adequate powers. Government have, at the same time, stated that, in the case of municipalities which appoint a Government servant as their chief executive officer on conditions (2) and (3), they will be prepared to further subsidize them by making a grant equivalent to his pension and leave contributions. In accordance with these orders, grants aggregating Rs. 38,000 approximately have been sanctioned up to now to the several municipalities which applied for the subsidy. In next year's budget an aggregate provision of Rs. 50,000 has been made for this purpose.

In the last two years and the current year Government have appointed non-official presidents for 12 district local boards giving them the powers which the official presidents, namely, the Collectors, exercised before. In order to get the ordinary administration of the boards clear of its very intimate connection with the Collector's office, of which it formed practically one branch, a self-contained office, together with the services of a chief officer, was placed at the disposal of the non-official president. As the district local boards were unable to meet the expenditure on this account, they have been granted subventions of about Rs. 83,316, equivalent to the amount of the cost of the appointment of chief officer and of the local fund establishment in the Collector's office.

Government have approved a scheme for the abolition of tolls on local board roads. Under it, the district local board concerned is to be granted an annual contribution equal to the average of its receipts from tolls, on the condition that the whole amount is spent by the board exclusively on the construction and maintenance of roads. It was announced that, as in the case of abolition of tolls on provincial roads,, the scheme would be introduced gradually and as speedily as the state of provincial finances permitted. The current year's provision on this account is Rs. 1,40,000. Out of this grant sums aggregating Rs. 55,983 have so far been sanctioned to the following district local boards:—Ahmedabad, Bijapur, Satara, Nasik, Kanara and Thana. The provision could not be fully utilised during the current year, as the question of the payment of compensation to the Thana district local board for the abolition of tolls on the Bandra Ghodbunder Road was to be settled. When that question was decided, tolls had already been farmed out by the remaining boards that had agreed to the scheme. Government now propose to abolish tolls on all the remaining local board roads and to pay compensation to the boards concerned and also to those local boards which abolished tolls before 1914, either partly or wholly. The amount required in this connection is estimated at Rs. 3,09,300 against the provision of Rs. 1,40,000, and a further sum of Rs. 1,69,300 is provided for next year. The necessary action will be taken when the budget is finally passed.

The Bombay Municipal Corporation have agreed to the repeal of section 190 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act with a view to discontinuing the toll leviable on vehicles entering the city from Salsette, which are not liable to the tax under section 180 of the Act, in return for an annual subsidy of Rs. 25,000 from Government.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—The heads 42 and 43, Irrigation, do not call for very much comment. Honourable members, however, who have followed recent debates, will be interested to note that in the budget estimate for 1920-21 there is a provision for Rs. 25,000 on account of repairs of small irrigation tanks. As regards the works managed by the Public Works Department, the grant has risen from 34 lakhs 57 thousand in the current year to 48 lakhs 77 thousand in the coming year. The policy of Government is to afford, as far as possible, increased grants under these heads so as to make small works as efficient as possible.

The budget provision under the head Civil Works for the coming year reaches the high figure of 1,88,95,000. In the past years the largeness of these figures under this head has been a matter of unfavourable comment in this Council. But I think when the matter is gone into more carefully, it will be realised by members of this Council that the Public Works Department is really the handmaid of other departments. And as regards this particular grant, the comfort and efficiency of other departments largely depend on the extent to which their particular wants are provided for under this head. If the detailed remarks in paragraphs 126 and following are examined, it will be found that the works for which this money is spent are nearly all works pertaining to various departments such as medical, communications and so forth, works of the most useful character and absolutely essential for the efficiency of the departments concerned.

REVISED FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; the Vice-President.] [15TH MARCH 1920.]

The only items which have been entered since the Draft Financial Statement was prepared and which are of special interest may be mentioned. It is proposed eventually to impose a cess on lands in tracts newly opened for irrigation in order to enable local boards and other authorities to repair and build roads necessary for the development of those tracts. Legislation for this purpose is in preparation. Some time, however, will elapse before the bill will pass this Council, and it is proposed to give local boards special grants at once. It is hoped that the local boards concerned will make full use of these grants in order to enable cultivators, in places like Ahmednagar and Poona, to have speedy access from main roads to their fields.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The last head in the budget is Transfers between Imperial and Provincial Revenues, page 24 of the Revised Financial Statement. It will be seen that the balances against provincial have been increased from 33,91 in the revised statement in the current year to 57,92. This is largely due to the increase under Income-Tax. The Government of India, as I said before, take the whole increase due to the revised rates of taxation introduced in April 1916. The provincial half share is restricted to the half share of the old rates. The Government of India, as will be seen from item 7 on page 55, take over Rs. 89,31,000 on account of this additional revenue. They return Rs. 6,50,000 to make up the decrease in the provincial half share which was caused by the introduction of the excess profits tax on the top of income-tax for the last year, and also to make up the loss which accrued on account of the raising of limit of taxation to Rs. 2,000.

The only other item to which I would call the attention of honourable members is item No. 16, three lakhs of Imperial contribution in connection with the revised system of apportionment of police charges between Government and the railway companies. The Provincial Government are to pay the whole of the police required for law and order, and the railway companies are to pay for their watch and ward.

This concludes the budget.

The Council will now adjourn till 11-30 o'clock to-morrow.

The Council then adjourned till 11-30 o'clock on Tuesday, the 16th of March 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette
PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

TUESDAY, 20TH APRIL 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay, assembled under the provisions of the Government of India Act, 1915.

The Council re-assembled at 11-30 a.m. on Tuesday, the 16th March 1920, at the Council Hall, Secretariat, Bombay.

PRESENT :

The Honourable Sir G. CARMICHAEL, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. CURTIS, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir THOMAS J. STRANGMAN, Kt.).
The Honourable Mr. SALEBHOY KARIMJI BARODAWALLA.
The Honourable Mr. DATTATRAYA VENKATESH BELVI, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. GHULAM MUHAMMAD walad Khan Bahadur WALI MUHAMMAD BHURGRI, Bar.-at-Law.
The Honourable Mr. RUPCHAND BILARAM, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. H. BROOKE.
The Honourable Mr. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.
The Honourable Mr. F. CLAYTON.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. COVERNTON, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. PANDURANG ANANT DESAI, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Saheb HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. E. ENTHOVEN, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Major C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur SIDDHANATH DHONDDEV GARUD.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur KASHINATH RAMCHANDRA GODBOLE.

BOMBAY TOBACCO BILL.

[The Vice-President; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.
The Honourable Shaikh GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. J. D. JENKINS.
The Honourable Mr. BALKRISHNA SITARAM KAMAT.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur PIR BAKSH walad MIAN MAHMUD, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. MEAD, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. CHUNILAL VIJBHUKHANDAS MEHTA, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur VENKATESH SHRINIWAS NAIK.
The Honourable Mr. RAGHUNATH PURSHOTTAM PARANJPYE.
The Honourable Mr. GOKULDAS KAHANDAS PAREKH, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. ABDUL KADIR alias FAKIR MAHOMED walad IBRAHIM KHAN PATHAN.
The Honourable Sir DINSHAW MANOCKJEE PETIT, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI.
The Honourable Mr. L. ROBERTSON, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur GANESH KRISHNA SATHE, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. SEDDON, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. SHOUBRIDGE, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. SMITH, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. SHRIDHAR BALKRISHNA UPASANI.
The Honourable Mr. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E., LL.B.

BOMBAY TOBACCO BILL (BILL No. IV OF 1919).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. A bill to amend the law relating to the duty payable on tobacco and to the import, transport, retail sale and warehousing thereof in the City of Bombay (Bill No. IV of 1919), second reading. The Honourable Mr. Curtis.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—I ask permission to postpone once more the second reading of this bill till the meeting of this Council in August next.

The questions at issue between Government, on the one hand, and the municipal corporation of Bombay and the tobacco trade, on the other, are almost entirely of a financial nature. I mean that the question whether the power for taxation should be retained depends mainly on the anxiety of the Bombay municipality not to lose what, it is contended, is an expanding head of revenue. The financial position of the Bombay municipality will shortly come under review in connection with the proposals submitted by the Government regarding the housing question, sanction to which, it is hoped, will be received shortly. It will be better, therefore, to defer consideration until the whole position has been re-examined in the light of this proposal. I would, therefore, ask that the second reading of this bill may be deferred as I have stated.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I rise to a point of order whether the President can allow any business on the agenda to be adjourned, under rule 6, to any day which is not a part of the present session without a regular motion for adjournment being brought under rule 7.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Rule 6 (1) reads:—

> "The President may adjourn any meeting or any business to any future day or to any part of the same day without any discussion or vote, but shall adjourn any meeting if the quorum prescribed by Regulation XIII of the Regulations for the Nomination and Election of Additional Members of the Legislative Council is not present."

I take that to mean that the President has the power to adjourn without any discussion or vote any motion to any future session of this Council. I do not think we can read into this section the wording which the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai wishes us to read.

The motion for the second reading of this bill is by permission postponed.

BOMBAY DISTRICT MUNICIPAL BILL.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY DISTRICT MUNICIPAL ACT, 1901 (BILL No. VI OF 1919).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Bill further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901 (Bill No. VI of 1919), second reading. The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the second reading of the bill.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—I beg to move that the bill to further amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, be read a second time.

Honourable members will observe that the two points with which this bill deals have received the support of a very large number of the members of the select committee. Honourable members are aware that when the bill was read the first time it was opposed on the ground that the Presidency Magistrates should not be the authority to take the place of the Municipal Commissioner in the matter of collecting the arrears of taxation for district municipalities. I informed the Council on that occasion that Government were quite willing to consider any suggestions which may be made for the substitution of the Presidency Magistrate by some other authority. All that they wanted was that the Municipal Commissioner should be relieved of this duty. In the select committee the appointment of the Presidency Magistrates for this work was criticized on the ground that it was likely to lead to the use of the police and the majority of the members felt that it was undesirable to introduce the police in this matter. They, therefore, suggested that the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes should be called upon to do this work. Government readily accepted that suggestion and honourable members will observe that it has now been incorporated in the bill. The effect of this amendment is that, in the future, instead of the Municipal Commissioner, the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes will have to do the work of collecting these arrears.

I hope honourable members will recognize that it is an improvement and that Government have tried their best to meet the wishes of honourable members.

The other point which the bill deals with is in connection with the terminal tax and octroi. On that point the committee is unanimous and I need not take up the time of the Council in dilating upon it.

In regard to the first point, I observe that the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai has sent in a minute of dissent. He seems to be under the impression that the Municipal Commissioner should not be relieved of this duty and that because Government at one time decided to put the Municipal Commissioner in for this work, he wishes to continue that practice in spite of the fact that experience has shown that the system has worked very unsatisfactorily from the point of view of the district municipalities. In answer to the honourable member's interpellation a full statement of facts in connection with the work done in the past has been given. The attention of the honourable members was drawn to these figures on the occasion of the first reading. They are now printed and any honourable member who scrutinizes this statement will recognise that if the appointment of the Municipal Commissioner to do this duty was to lead to the results indicated in this statement it is in the interests of the district municipalities that he should be changed for some other officer who may be able to do the work of collecting the arrears more efficiently.

There is only one more point which the honourable member refers to in his minute of dissent and it deals with the introduction of some measures for the purpose of enforcing payment of these taxes. When the amendment is moved it is my intention to call attention to the previous rulings on the subject and to point out that in amending bills amendments can only be admitted in regard to the subject matter that is being amended by the bill. Frequently points have been raised for the amendment of other sections of the act when an amending bill is under consideration and it has been held that that cannot be allowed because it would mean that the whole of the act which is under amendment can be made the subject of discussion.

I am not sure, sir, whether, apart from the point of order which I propose to raise at the proper time, it is a wise measure to give municipalities such wide powers as are proposed by the honourable member. It is perfectly true that these powers were given in the Act of 1888 to the Bombay municipality. But, as far as I know, they have not been utilised. The District Municipal Act was amended later in 1901 and the legislature did not then consider it desirable to concede them to district municipalities.

Honourable members of this Council who are conversant with house property, especially chawl property, know what an amount of feeling was brought out when managers

BOMBAY DISTRICT MUNICIPAL BILL.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

or servants employed to collect rents used to take the law into their own hands and lock up the property of the tenant on the mere plea that he was going to abscond. To give such powers by law to officers of district municipalities would enable them to demand payment at the point of the bayonet on the mere supposition that the tenant was going to run away. I am sure honourable members would hesitate to give such far-reaching powers to municipal officers as against the members of the public. I do not, however, wish to go into the merits of the question at present. I will raise the point of order at the proper time and, if necessary, will then refer to it further.

The two issues under the bill as introduced are whether the Municipal Commissioner or some other officer should be entrusted with the duty of collecting these arrears in the city of Bombay, and whether octroi and terminal tax should be put on the same basis in the matter of reaching agreements between local bodies in the same area. I trust the Council will be satisfied that Government have met the wishes of non-official members and that they will accept the recommendations of the majority of the members of the select committee. I beg to move, sir, that the bill be read a second time.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I think the provision made in the bill to recover these dues through the Court of Small Causes will be inconvenient and expensive. We know the difficulties which creditors have to experience and the expenses they have to incur in getting their decrees executed by bailiffs of the Small Cause Court in Bombay, and, in the case of warrants for recovery of amounts due to outside municipalities, there will be still greater difficulty in their recovery through this agency. I think the Bombay municipality was the proper agency for the recovery of these municipal dues and, if it was at all not possible to secure that agency, provision should have been made for their recovery by the Collector of Bombay as a revenue demand. I cannot, therefore, see my way to support the second reading of the bill as it stands.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I do not wish to oppose this motion for the second reading of the bill, because the question with which we were concerned was to supply to the mofussil municipalities a machinery as good as the one which was laid down in the District Municipal Act by the amendment which was introduced into it in 1914. Consequently, though I put in my minute of dissent and I have my own fears whether the machinery which is sought to be given, namely, the Registrar of the Small Cause Court, would be a proper machinery, I thought that it would be satisfactory if the mofussil municipalities are given sufficient powers, on the analogy of the powers which are conferred on the Bombay city municipality, to be watchful and to collect their taxes in the right time so that there may be no occasion to resort to any machinery in Bombay for collection. Appendix "O" and appendix "P", to which reference has been made by the Honourable Member in Charge, will show that the difficulties mostly have arisen in the case of suburban municipalities like Bandra, Kurla, Ghatkoper, Lonavla, Poona and Bhiwandi. Residents of Bombay go out to stay in the suburban municipalities for about two or three months for the benefit of their health and appear to return without paying their taxes. Consequently, you find that, in the case of the Kurla municipality, as will appear from appendix "O", the amount to be recovered in 1914 was Rs. 120, in 1915 it was Rs. 2,562, in 1916 it was Rs. 1,413, and the total amount to be recovered in 1917 was Rs. 2,714, in 1918 Rs. 1,410 and in 1919 Rs. 1,010. Under such circumstances, the mofussil municipalities require some power, and, though the Honourable Member in Charge has given intimation to the Council that he is going to raise a point of order with reference to the amendment which I will be proposing hereafter, I beg to submit to the chairman as well as to honourable members that what the amendment would seek to do would not be to raise a distinct issue for amending the act upon any ground which is different from the main purpose for which the amendment has been undertaken. The reason why the amendment is undertaken is that the machinery provided in the District Municipal Act for the recovery of arrears is not sufficient. Therefore, the amendment is undertaken in order to provide a better machinery. Now, I propose that the proper machinery would be both a machinery in Bombay and also a machinery which would enable the district municipalities, if they are watchful, to recover their taxes in right time, so that the Bombay officers may not have to be troubled and expenses may not have to be incurred. Therefore, my proposal with reference to the amendment which I am going to propose is quite cognate to the subject under discussion and quite consistent with the amendment proposed to be undertaken under this bill. With these words, I do not wish to oppose the second reading of the bill but would allow it to pass on for consideration section by section.

BOMBAY DISTRICT MUNICIPAL BILL.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. C. V. Mehta; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Mr. Chairman,—I have pleasure in supporting the second reading of this bill. I am glad, sir, that the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai has not taken up the same ground of opposition to the bill as he did at the time of the first reading. The matter was fully discussed when the first reading was moved and passed by this Council, and I therefore do not think that any useful purpose would be served by showing why it is necessary that the amendment of the act be undertaken.

As regards the change from the Presidency Magistrate to the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes, it was felt in the select committee and unanimously agreed that it would be an improvement and that an agency which is removed from the police would perhaps be the best agency for the recovery of these dues. We, therefore, came unanimously to the conclusion that the Registrar of the Small Cause Court ought to be recommended to this Council as the person who should recover these taxes.

With regard to the amendment which the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai wishes to propose, asking for powers to be given to the district municipalities to recover taxes at the point of the sword, as was pointed out by the Honourable Member in Charge, he does it, I believe, on the analogy of such a section being in existence in the Bombay Municipal Act. I think I am correct in saying, sir, very rarely has this section been made use of. But whether that was so or not, it appears to me that giving this power to the district municipalities, which would naturally be used by the servants of those municipalities, would be too drastic and disproportionate a power for the recovery of what are, as you see from the appendices attached to the questions and answers, really small amounts. I should like to ask the honourable member whether he believes that the liberty of the inhabitants of the district municipalities should be endangered for the recovery of what have been shown to be very small amounts, and I am afraid that, if this amendment were introduced by this Council at the instance of any one member, we will perhaps be in the same position in which we were when the amendment of the District Municipal Act was introduced compelling the Municipal Commissioner for the city of Bombay to be the agency for the collection of these dues, without consulting the Bombay municipality. I believe, sir, that, even if this amendment were desirable, it would be necessary to ascertain the wishes of the district municipalities themselves, as to whether they, in their opinion, think that it would be advisable to invest their officers with the somewhat drastic powers that are proposed by the honourable member. I think whatever be the merits of the question on technical grounds, whether the amendment is in order or not, it is hardly fair that, without ascertaining the wishes of the district municipalities, the Council should straight off, on the recommendation of one honourable member, undertake legislation which would put into jeopardy the liberty of a large mass of people. I therefore hope, sir, that the amendment will not commend itself to this Council.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Sir,—I was disappointed to hear the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai saying that he wanted a machinery as efficient as the existing one for the recovery of these taxes. I am delighted to find that, in spite of the statistics that have been supplied in reply to his interpellation, the honourable member still considers the present machinery, that is, that of the Municipal Commissioner, to be so very efficient as to demand another which is equally so.

Sir, the facts as stated in the statement clearly disclose a different story. Taking the year 1917, out of 39 warrants received, only 3 were executed. Now, if that is efficiency, I congratulate the honourable member on his conception of efficiency. What we want, sir, is that a machinery should be provided, under which almost the whole amount of these warrants should be collected, and, for that purpose, we are now suggesting, at the instance of non-official additional members of the select committee, the substitution of the Registrar of the Court of Small Causes for the Presidency Magistrate and the Municipal Commissioner, with a view to finding out whether it will not be more efficient than the existing one. If, by any chance, it does not prove to be more efficient, it will be open for this Council to consider whether some other agency cannot be provided.

Then, sir, I was surprised to find that an honourable member, who is eminent in his legal profession, could not see the distinction between the bill and the amendments which he wishes to move. He says that we want a better machinery in the districts for collecting the municipal taxation. The issue before the Council is better machinery for enforcing distress warrants in the city of Bombay. This bill has got nothing whatsoever to do with the collection of taxes outside the city of Bombay. We are not sitting here to consider what should be the machinery for the more efficient collection of municipal taxes in district municipal areas. All that we are concerned with at present is the best machinery that could be evolved for the purpose of collecting the arrears of taxation of district municipalities from people in the city of Bombay, and anything which deals with that question is alone relevant. The whole question of the more efficient collection of taxes in district municipal towns is not before the Council, and can be raised by honourable members in the form of a separate resolution, asking Government to legislate in that direction, or perhaps the more constitutional method would be the one suggested by the Honourable Mr. Chunilal Mehta, namely, to move the municipalities to make representations to Government, asking them to legislate in the direction of any suggestions which they may have to make for the better collection of taxes within district municipal areas. I beg to submit, sir, that that distinction is so clear that I am sorry the honourable member has not been able to see it. Sir, I do not wish to take up any more time of the honourable members, and I trust that they will recognise that, in discussing this bill, the Council cannot enter into the whole problem of the more efficient collection of taxes by district municipalities within local areas, and that they will confine themselves to the issue in the bill, namely, the more efficient manner in which the arrears of taxation could be collected from people in the city of Bombay. For that purpose Government have accepted the suggestion of non-official additional members, by putting in the Registrar of the Small Cause Court for the Municipal Commissioner. I hope this will satisfy honourable members and that the second reading of the bill will be carried.

BOMBAY DISTRICT MUNICIPAL BILL.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the Vice-President.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

Bill read a second time.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

Bill read clause by clause.

The bill was then read clause by clause.

Clauses 1 to 3 were then severally put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—For reasons which I have already indicated, I now ask for a ruling as to the relevancy of the amendments proposed to be moved by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai. I beg to submit that, for the reasons which I have given, they are quite out of order.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—Is it open to me to explain my position in reference to the amendments?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Yes.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I beg to submit, sir, that several inhabitants of Bombay used to take advantage of suburban municipalities for a short time and used to go away without paying the taxes, and great difficulty was felt in recovering the money.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—May I ask the honourable member to confine himself to the point of order as to whether this is relevant on the present occasion? The question is not whether it is desirable or not.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I beg to explain that the relevancy of my amendments arises in this way, that the machinery which was given by the amendment to the District Municipal Act for the collection of arrears from people who had returned to Bombay was not found efficient. Whether it was so because the municipal machinery in the city of Bombay was not efficient, or whether there was not the will, and therefore there was not the way, is a different matter. But on account of that, this amendment was undertaken. Now, the question is whether, if the provisions of section 83 were so amended as to allow watchful district municipalities to recover arrears of taxation while the persons are within the local area, it would not form a cognate part of the whole matter. The question is about the machinery for the collection of taxes, and I suggest that, if this section 83A were added, the machinery would be complete, both outside as well as in Bombay. The whole question is a cognate one. You are considering how to help district municipalities to recover the money. I say that they could recover the money when the person is within the local area in this way, but, if he comes here without payment, the money can be recovered by the officer named in the amending provisions. I think the whole question is cognate, and I am not seeking to introduce any element which is different from the purpose of the bill.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I am compelled to adhere to the view that the amendments are not in order, and for this reason. The principle underlying the bill is with regard to the machinery for the collection of municipal arrears in Bombay, and the amendments deal with an entirely different matter, as pointed out by the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola. So I rule that these amendments are not in order.

BOMBAY DISTRICT MUNICIPAL BILL—CITY OF BOMBAY MUNICIPAL BILL—PUBLIC CONVEYANCES BILL.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; the Vice-President.]

Clause 4 was then put to the vote and carried.

The preamble was then put to the vote and carried.

The Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the third reading of the bill.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Sir, I beg to move that the bill be read a third time and passed.

Bill read a third time.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY MUNICIPAL ACT, 1888 (BILL No. VII OF 1919).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—A bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888 (Bill No. VII of 1919), second reading. The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.

The Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the second reading of the bill.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—I beg to move that Bill No. VII of 1919, a bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, be read a second time. Honourable members will observe that the select committee has not made any change in the bill. It has been unanimously approved by the members of the select committee and I do not, therefore, wish to take up the time of the Council in dilating upon it. I will, therefore, content myself by moving that the bill be read a second time.

Bill read a second time.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

Bill read clause by clause.

Clauses 1 to 7 of the bill were then severally put to the vote and carried.

The preamble was then put to the vote and carried.

The Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the third reading of the bill.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Sir, I beg to move that the bill be read a third time and passed.

Bill read a third time.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

A BILL TO AMEND THE LAW RELATING TO THE REGULATION OF PUBLIC CONVEYANCES (BILL No. VIII OF 1919).

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael moves the second reading of the bill.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I rise to move the second reading of Bill No. VIII of 1919, a bill to amend the law relating to the regulation of public conveyances. The select committee have introduced a good many changes in the bill, some of importance, but most of them of a minor nature.

With regard to the period for which conveyances are to be licensed, they have decided to fix the period according to the existing system. This is favoured by the Bombay Hack Owners' Association. The select committee also asked the Commissioner of Police his views, and he advised that any other system would be most inconvenient for the licensing authorities in Bombay. If the system is one which commends itself to all parties in Bombay, where there are thousands of vehicles to be examined, it can surely be adopted so as to work without causing inconvenience in places like Poona, where public conveyances are numbered by hundreds only. That is the opinion of the select committee, and they have recommended accordingly that a fixed licensing period should be provided for. They have fixed it to run from the 1st of January to the 31st of December of every year.

Sub-clause (b) of clause 5 has been struck out. The select committee did not think that the licensing authorities need consider the fitness of an applicant for a conveyance license, provided the conveyance was a good one and well found. The fitness of the driver is, of course, another matter. For that, provision has been made under clause 12.

We have also given applicants for licenses the power to require that their horses be examined by a veterinary practitioner in the service of Government or of a local authority, in any cases where they are not satisfied with the verdict of the licensing authority. These changes are designed to protect applicants for licenses against any possible arbitrary action on the part of the subordinate officers of the licensing department.

PUBLIC CONVEYANCES BILL—CITY OF BOMBAY POLICE BILL.

[The Vice-President.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The original bill did not provide for the charging of any fees for the driver's license. The committee were inclined to think, however, that this must have been an oversight, and, following the Calcutta practice, they have made provision in the bill for the levy of a fee. The committee were further of opinion that the fares to be charged and the changes in the scale from time to time should be published for criticism before being finally sanctioned. An amendment has been made to give effect to this. It was suggested to the committee that it was not an uncommon practice for drivers to blackmail their passengers by the use of abusive and insulting language. Honourable members will also further remember that the bill was criticised at the time of the first reading on the ground that no provision had been made against the practice of drivers loitering in the streets for hire. It was found on examining the Calcutta Act that both these matters were dealt with by clause 26, sub-clauses (i) and (1) (v), and the committee recommended that similar clauses should be incorporated in this bill. The committee further recommended that an addition should be made to clause 31 to prevent vaxatious references to magistrates.

The last point is that, when the bill was under discussion, it was pointed out that, if it were passed as it stood, the local authorities, with the exception of the Bombay municipality, would not receive, as they used to receive, the balance between the receipts under the act and the expenses incurred in connection with the licensing operations in their areas. The new sub-clause 5 to clause 36 rectifies this omission in the original bill, which I hope will satisfy, among other local authorities, the Ahmedabad municipality, which has made representation to this Council on the subject.

With these remarks I beg to move the second reading of the bill.

Bill read a second time.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

Clauses 1 to 31 were then successively read and carried.

Bill read clause by clause.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I wish to draw the attention of honourable members to clause 32, sub-clause (2), which reads:—

"If the owner, after being duly summoned, fails, without reasonable excuse, to appear or to produce the driver, he shall be punishable with fine not exceeding fifty rupees."

In the preceding sub-clause, i.e., sub-clause (1), you will notice that the phrase used is not "the owner" but "the licensee of such conveyance". I think it would be advisable to have a uniform wording in the two sub-clauses. I, therefore, beg to move that for the word "owner" in sub-clause (2) the word "licensee" be substituted.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

Clauses 32 to 39 and the schedule were then successively read and carried.

The preamble was then put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael moves the third reading of the bill.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I now beg to move that the bill be read for a third time.

Bill read a third time.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

A BILL TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY POLICE ACT, 1902 (BILL No. X OF 1919).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902 (Bill No. X of 1919).

I rise to move the second reading of Bill No. X of 1919. The important part of this bill relates to certain measures proposed to be taken for the protection of women against their detention and ill-treatment in brothels. The bill gives the Commissioner of Police power to deport from the city of Bombay persons at whose hands the unfortunate women in brothels are likely to suffer gross ill-treatment. The committee were of opinion that any person against whom the power may have to be exercised should have due notice. Seven days' notice is provided for in other cases where the Commissioner of Police has power to deport from the city of Bombay, and it is proposed by the committee that the same period of notice should be given in any case where the Commissioner of Police proposes to deport under the new provisions of this bill. Also, the committee were of opinion that the deportation order should be subject to the sanction of Government. They considered that this measure would ensure that any such order would

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael moves the second reading of the bill.

CITY OF BOMBAY POLICE BILL.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; the Advocate General.] be made with due consideration. In the draft, as it now stands, whipping has been struck out as a form of punishment which might be awarded for the unlawful detention of women for the purpose of prostitution. The majority of the committee were opposed to this form of punishment because they considered that it is brutalising in its effect.

The conditions constituting this offence of unlawful detention have been slightly amplified by making it an offence to detain a woman by threat of proceeding against her for the money lent as well as for the recovery of wearing apparel lent or supplied to her.

Coming to the other part of the bill, the original bill made it an offence to behave in a violent and disorderly manner in a building belonging to Government or appropriated for a public purpose. The committee were of opinion that such a clause might undesirably restrict the freedom of debate or, shall I say, freedom of action on the occasion of a public meeting. The sub-clause has accordingly been deleted and the bill now provides only against disregard of a notice prohibiting smoking and spitting. The intention of Government in bringing the bill was to provide for these matters only.

The other changes which appear in the bill have been made with a view to improve the drafting.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—On referring to clause 7 of this bill I find that the provisions of that clause have been framed in the select committee while the bill was before that committee. I think that such a provision is likely to be observed, so far as Government officers are concerned, rather in the breach than in the performance, and I very much doubt whether it would be wise to put such a thing in an enactment of this character.

Clause 7 says:—

> "Whoever in any Court, Police station, Police office, building occupied by Government or building occupied by any public body smokes or spits in contravention of a notice previously approved by the Governor in Council and affixed to such a Court, station, office, or building, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees."

Now, leaving the spitting aside, I just refer to smoking to make my meaning clear. Suppose, here in the Secretariat, a notice is put up that anyone smoking inside this building will be liable to be prosecuted and punished. There would be so many officers and servants of Government working in such a big building; and is it possible that there would be perfect prohibition against smoking on their part and is it possible to observe the rule in the performance? I think it is rather a very drastic provision and is one which, if it were introduced with reference to a building like the High Court or the Secretariat, I do not think that Members of Council or secretaries or heads of departments, who very often are seen moving about in the building with a cigar in their mouths, would be stopped by it. In that case would the notice of Government be that, except Government officers, anybody who smokes will be prosecuted? In that case, what would be the result of it? I am only pointing out to the Council the redundancy, or rather the awkwardness, of this provision, and I have nothing further to say on that point.

Reading the report of the select committee and looking at the provision, it seems to me that perhaps we are going too far and, I think, we may have to stop short when issuing the notice under the act, or, if a notice is issued, then it may be rather only against the public and in favour of public officers if it is to be observed.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—I just rise to say that this same point was raised in the select committee and we were told that notices, whenever put up, would be put in such rooms, or such parts of Government buildings, where smoking was not to be allowed, e.g. in the court rooms of the Court of Small Causes and in the corridors and other such important parts of the building. That does not mean that every room in the Small Cause Court, such as the pleaders' room and judges' chambers, will be affected by the notice. And I think the same analogy would apply to the Secretariat. No smoking may be allowed in the Council room but anybody may smoke in the terrace near the lift. The question was thus raised in the select committee and the clause allowed to stand in view of the above explanation.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir Thomas J. Strangman):—Mr. President,—The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai is mistaken in supposing that clause 7 was inserted by the select committee as something new. If he looks at page 3 of the bill he will see that the original clause, 123 (b), has the same effect as the present clause,

CITY OF BOMBAY POLICE BILL—VILLAGE PANCHAYATS BILL—ALIENS' DISQUALIFICATION BILL.

[16TH MARCH 1920.]

[The Advocate General; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the Vice-President; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

123A, and that the only difference between clause 123A and the original clause, 123 (b), is in matters of drafting.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas has given the correct answer to the other objections which have been raised by the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai. The notice to be approved by Government may be confined to particular portions of a building and the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai, I think, may rest assured that he will not be prohibited, when he comes to the Secretariat, from smoking in any convenient place where he has been accustomed to smoke.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I do not smoke at all.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I do not think I need add anything in reply to the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai because the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas has given a satisfactory answer to him and I can assure him, with regard to Government officials, that any orders issued will be carefully observed. We shall also have ministers as members of Government in the near future and I think we may be confident that they too will observe the orders.

Bill read a second time.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

Bill read clause by clause,

Clauses 1 to 10 were then severally put to the vote and carried. The preamble was then put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael moves the third reading of the bill.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I beg to move that the bill be now read a third time.

Bill read a third time.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR THE CONSTITUTION OF VILLAGE PANCHAYATS (BILL No. XI OF 1919).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats (Bill No. XI of 1919). The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—Since this bill was introduced for the first time and up to very recently many representations have been received by Government from a large number of villagers asking that the bill should not be proceeded with till they have had an opportunity of examining its provisions in the vernacular, so that they may be able to make their representation to Government in connection with it. It so happens that the vernacular translations of the bill and of the report of the select committee were published within the last few days and Government do not wish, in such an important matter, to rush through the bill without giving the villagers an opportunity of a free discussion and representation. For that purpose, they have decided that the bill should be postponed. I hope honourable members will recognise that it is eminently desirable that the village community, to which this measure directly applies, should not remain under the disadvantage of not having had an opportunity of representing their views to Government for consideration. For these reasons, I beg to ask, sir, that the bill be postponed.

Further consideration of the bill was by leave postponed.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—Am I permitted to say something on this motion?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I cannot allow the honourable member to say anything on the motion. Under rule 6 I have power to allow the postponement.

A BILL TO AMEND THE BOMBAY DISQUALIFICATION OF ALIENS ACT, 1918 (BILL No. I OF 1920).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Bill to amend the Bombay Disqualification of Aliens Act, 1918 (Bill No. I of 1920). The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.

ALIENS DISQUALIFICATION BILL—LAND REVENUE BILL.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; the Vice-President; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Mr. C. V. Mehta.]

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Sir,—Honourable members will remember that this legislation was undertaken recently and it was the intention to disqualify aliens from taking part in all elections for local bodies. It has since been brought to the notice of Government that the bill disqualifies individuals only and that firms consisting of alien partners were not disqualified by it. The intention was to disqualify both individual and alien firms. This bill is introduced merely to rectify a drafting omission and does not involve any new principle. I beg, therefore, to move that the bill be read a first time.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the first reading of the bill.

As no new principle is involved, I should like the honourable members to agree that the bill may be read a second and third time also.

The motion for the first reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

Bill read a first time.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—I beg to move, if honourable members have no objection to proceed with the second reading, that the bill be read a second time.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the second reading of the bill.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

Bill read a second time.

Clauses 1 and 2 were then severally put to the vote and carried. The preamble was then put to the vote and carried.

Bill read clause by clause.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—I beg to move that the bill be read a third time and passed into law.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola moves the third reading of the bill.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

Bill read a third time.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LAND REVENUE CODE, 1879 (BILL No. II OF 1920).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—A bill further to amend the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879 (Bill No. II of 1920). First reading. The Honourable Mr. Curtis.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. Chairman,—The object of this bill is to amend section 187 of the Land Revenue Code in order to allow of the recovery, as arrears of land revenue, of sums due from members of co-operative societies when the societies are under liquidation. The question of the method of recovery of arrears of co-operative societies is one on which opinion is sharply divided, but it has been generally admitted that when a society is under liquidation, the arrears should be recovered in as swift a method as possible. It is accordingly proposed to amend section 187 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code. Similar legislation has already been passed in Bengal and Behar and Orissa, and it was recently stated by a member of the Viceroy's Council that legislation applying to all India will be carried through when the general act (the Co-operative Societies Act) comes in for amendment. With these words, I propose that the bill be read a first time.

The Hon'ble Mr. G. S. Curtis moves the first reading of the bill.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Mr. Chairman,—I have much pleasure in supporting the first reading of this bill. Speaking on behalf of the Bombay Central Co-operative Bank, I may say that some such provision of this character is badly required. At present, the process is extremely dilatory and the work of liquidation of the societies is largely hampered, and I think that, on the whole, the co-operative movement also suffers under the existing rules. It is therefore necessary, sir, that some more expeditious method be devised. For the present, at any rate, until section 42 of the Co-operative Societies Act is amended, this is the best way of procedure.

Bill read a first time.

The motion for the first reading of the bill was then put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. Chairman,—As the measure is of a non-contentious character, I beg to propose that it be read a second time.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis moves the second reading of the bill.

LAND REVENUE BILL—COTTON CONTRACTS BILL—EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.]

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; the Vice-President; Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Bill read a second time.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

Bill read clause by clause.

Clauses 1 and 2 and the preamble were then severally put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis moves the third reading of the bill.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. Chairman,—I now beg to move that this bill be read a third time and passed into law.

Bill read a third time.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

A BILL TO AMEND THE BOMBAY COTTON CONTRACTS CONTROL (WAR PROVISIONS) ACT, 1919 (BILL No. III OF 1920).

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—A bill to amend the Bombay Cotton Contracts Control (War Provisions) Act, 1919 (Bill No. III of 1920). First reading. The Honourable Mr. Curtis.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis moves the first reading of the bill.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—The object of this measure is to make it clear that no member, officer or servant of the Bombay Cotton Contracts Board and no member of any committee appointed under the board shall be personally liable for anything done in good faith under the provisions of the act. That is the object of section 5A. Section 5B, as drafted, provides that the board shall not be liable for any loss or damage arising out of any wrongful act or omission on the part of any person in their employment. This section was originally inserted in the bill, as it was understood that the board felt it probable that they would be unable, through want of funds, to meet claims arising, as above stated. It has since been represented by the board that there has been a misunderstanding and that the funds at their disposal are ample to meet claims of the nature contemplated in section 5B. Government have, therefore, on further consideration, decided to drop section 5B and the bill will consist of one section only, section 5A. I now propose, sir, that the bill be read a first time.

Bill read a first time.

The motion for the first reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis moves the second reading of the bill.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—The bill as modified as I have suggested will, I submit, be of a non-contentious character and I, therefore, beg to propose that it be read a second time.

Bill read a second time.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

Bill read clause by clause.

Clause 1 was then put to the vote and carried. Clause 2 (with the omission of sub-clause 5B) and the preamble were then put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis moves the third reading of the bill.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—I now beg to propose that the bill be read a third time and passed into law.

Bill read a third time.

The motion for the third reading of the bill was put to the vote and carried.

DISCUSSION OF MATTERS OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 1. The Honourable Mr. Belvi.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—The resolution which I crave permission to move runs as follows:—

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to direct that the Educational Department should examine annually each class in Government Secondary Educational schools in all the subjects prescribed therefor by the Department."

I may state to my honourable colleagues the reasons which have actuated me in bringing forward this resolution for discussion in this Council. Recently, a change seems to have been introduced by the educational authorities in this Presidency, so far as the inspection of secondary schools and also so far as the inspection of primary schools are concerned. When I was a schoolboy, I remember that there was an annual examination held both in the primary school and also in the secondary school. The result was that, in the case of boys in primary schools, particular care was taken by schoolmasters to see that the boys were ready in the several subjects in which they were to be examined by the inspector or the deputy educational inspector or by an assistant deputy educational inspector. There was such wholesome fear working on the minds of schoolmasters that the boys were kept ready in all the subjects and the result was, in my opinion, very salutary. At present, all this fear has disappeared. The schoolmaster has simply to see that the boys are ready when they are inspected, sometimes by the inspector and more often by the deputy educational inspector, once or twice in the course of a year, and what is most curious is that the task of examining the boys in each class is now entrusted to the very schoolmasters who are the teachers of those boys. This system is common both to primary schools and to secondary schools at present. It is true that my resolution does not cover the large number of primary schools and is intended to apply only to secondary schools. I want to narrow the limits of my resolution still further by saying that it should apply only to Government secondary educational institutions. My contention is that, so far as Government secondary schools are concerned, at any rate, there should be an annual examination by the authorities of each class in the whole of the curriculum prescribed for that class. I may be told that the number of schools has now very largely increased and that the educational authorities will find it impossible to examine each class in every subject even in secondary schools. But I do not think this is a very valid objection. I have had the objection stated to me by some gentlemen with whom I had the pleasure of discussing the question. To me it seems that Government secondary schools are intended to operate as model schools. At any rate, in these schools there should be a regular annual examination by the educational authorities and the examination should be comprehensive and complete in each subject prescribed in the curriculum for each class.

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

I do not find that the number of Government high schools has perceptibly increased in recent times, but I find that the number of assistant educational inspectors has considerably increased. A reference to the two appendices " D " and " W ", published among the papers that were laid on the table of this Council on Saturday last, will satisfy my honourable colleagues as to the extent to which the number of assistant deputy educational inspectors has been raised. My honourable colleagues will find that, whereas formerly in almost every one of the districts of the Presidency there was only one assistant deputy educational inspector, at present there are, in some districts, so many as 7 assistants to the deputy educational inspector. I do not think that I need weary my honourable colleagues by reading the figures in the case of each district, because all that information is to be found on page 3, appendix " D ", among the papers to which I have already alluded. My honourable colleagues will thus see that, so far as Government secondary schools, or, to be more accurate, Government high schools are concerned, there should be no difficulty whatever in examining annually each one of them.

I may, perhaps, be told that most of the time of these deputy educational inspectors and their assistants is occupied in inspecting the large number of schools in the rural areas. That is perfectly true, but I do not believe that it is very difficult to arrange for an annual examination of a Government high school, which is mostly located in the headquarter town of each district, and this annual examination should be substituted for the occasional and very indifferent inspections which are at present carried out. I know that I shall be told that the schools are formally inspected by the inspectors, and sometimes—very rarely indeed—by the Director of Public Instruction himself. But I know the kind of inspection that we have had. The inspection, to put the matter bluntly, is more farcical than serious. I do not know of any inspection under which a whole class is ever systematically examined. The inspector looks at the boys or girls of a class and all that he wants to satisfy himself about is whether they present a neat and tidy appearance. The second thing which may attract his attention may be the kind of instruction that is given, and in this connection he puts one or two questions to one or two pupils in a class and he is satisfied. If he wishes to go into the details in any particular class, which he does not generally do, it is open to him to examine the whole class, but, so far as I know, I have not come across a single case in my own district, in the high school at Belgaum, where an inspector was pleased to examine a whole class in one or two subjects, and the Council may well imagine the inevitable effect of this kind of indifference on the part of the educational authorities.

I know that I shall be told that an annual examination is held by the head-master and also by the assistant-masters in a Government high school. But I should ask my honourable colleagues to consider whether it is right to leave the business of examining the boys to the gentlemen who have the privilege to train them. Unless I see that there is some revolution in the constitution of the human mind, it will not be hard to believe that these schoolmasters must be partial to their pupils more often than not. It is not as if the teachers in one school are asked to examine the boys or girls in another school. As I said, this business of examining the pupils and of promoting them to higher classes is entrusted to the very persons whose work is under examination. It is not very safe, indeed, to entrust to their hands a responsible business like this.

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The matter becomes all the more serious when we see that this novel system has been recently extended even to primary schools in rural areas. The schoolmasters who have to work in vernacular schools are men of very limited means, and, from my point of view, of limited education too. The guardians and parents of children living in rural areas are naturally anxious that their sons or their daughters should be promoted. They are not in a position to examine their boys themselves; many of them are illiterate. The parents try to curry favour with the schoolmasters in a hundred ways, but I need not detail the different ways in which this is done. Those of my honourable colleagues who have had the privilege to spend some months in a village, as I do spend every year, will agree with me when I tell them that schoolmasters are favoured by the villagers in more ways than one, and it may be out of this consideration or it may be out of the fact of their self-interest that many boys and girls are promoted to higher classes without any guarantee whatever that the boys or girls who are promoted have undergone the training which they are expected to undergo. This applies mutatis mutandis to boys and girls in Government high schools.

What I advocate is that the educational authorities should be asked to examine the boys and girls in Government high schools systematically, as they used to do in former times. I should like to hear what the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has to say in reply to my resolution, and I shall await the discussion of the subject matter of this resolution with interest, and whatever remarks I have to make I shall make in my reply.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I am afraid that ordinary persons like my honourable friend Mr. Belvi moving resolutions upon the technical management of educational matters are led on by theoretical considerations rather than by what is actually practicable. This resolution, like another one that he moved some time ago, is a good illustration in point, and the resolution that he has brought forward to-day seems to me to be both impracticable and inadvisable.

Let us consider, first of all, its impracticability. He has told us that the number of inspectors and their assistants has considerably increased during recent years and, therefore, that they can well cope with the work of this examination that he desires. Remember that ultimately it is not the annual examination of boys only in all secondary schools that he aims at; he aims at also the examination of boys in all primary schools. Now, that, in my opinion, is an exceedingly large order, and I do not know how much inspecting and examining staff will be required to do this work. But, restricting ourselves for the moment to the question of secondary schools and Government secondary schools, let us see whether even this limited object is practicable in the present circumstances. When he tells us that the number of inspectors has increased largely, I take the example of a single division under the control of one inspector, namely, the Central Division, which also includes Bombay city. There is only one educational inspector for this division. We are told that Government will soon have another, but at present there is only one inspector, 39 assistant inspectors and 8 Muhammadan assistant inspectors. These are the number of people at the disposal of the Educational Department. Now, you have got to understand that the transference of the boys from one standard to another has to take place ordinarily during about one particular fortnight of the year. Practically all the annual examinations of the schools are held within the course of a fortnight in the whole of this Presidency, certainly in the whole of this division. There are about eight or nine Government high schools, and the total number of students in these high schools would not be far short of 4,000. The number of papers that will have, therefore, to be examined by these inspectors will be something in the neighbourhood of 20,000, and remember that all these 20,000 examination papers will have to be examined practically within the course of a fortnight because you cannot keep the students of these schools hanging for two or three months before being promoted, as they will have no work to do. All this work has got to be done at very great pressure indeed. In fact, even in schools where the teachers themselves are examining the boys, the pressure of the annual examination is very hard. All the results have got to be brought out within a week at the utmost, and I would put it to the Honourable Mr. Belvi whether these 20,000 papers, coming from all parts of the division, can be properly managed by these 40 men at the disposal of the Educational Department. I think that it is an altogether impossible proposition indeed. He has told us that after all it is a question of the human factor. If the schoolmasters are men, I expect the inspectors and assistant inspectors are also men. If the schoolmasters cannot be trusted to do their work properly, I do not know that we are going to have these inspectors from some other part of the world rather than our Bombay Presidency. The work of the examination, further, is so awfully boring and monotonous that only those who have got experience of that work can realise its exhausting nature. Now, to put upon these inspectors all this work is, to my mind, to ensure most certainly that it will be done far worse than it is actually done by the teachers in the schools.

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

The Honourable Mr. Belvi has asked us to confine his resolution to Government schools. But, if he looks at the number of recognised schools in the Presidency, he will find that the number of Government schools is something in the neighbourhood of 30. There are other schools in the Presidency, which are private schools, and his resolution does not touch them. At present, a large number of these private schools flourish on the leavings of the Government schools. Many of these take up students who are declared, to a certain extent at least, unfit for Government schools. One knows exactly how the ordinary Government regulations are evaded by various sorts of subterfuges. For instance, in the case of a Government high school, if any of the conditions as to the promotion of a student are not fulfilled, the Department will come down upon the school. One knows that some of these boys who are not promoted are often taken up in the private school on probation for a short time, and after a month or two the head-master promotes these boys. What will happen if these examinations are much more rigorous in Government schools is that there will be a tendency for the boys to leave the Government schools and enter private schools.

Then, there is the question whether the reform, even if it be possible, is desirable. The educational opinion of the present day is almost unanimous on the point that the examination of the students should be generally conducted by the teachers themselves. The teachers know what the boys have been taught, how the boys have been taught, what particular points have been emphasised and what particular points have not been emphasised. I quite admit that, if a man does not want to do his work, he might slur over it. But, all the same, not only in schools in this country but everywhere the trend of educational opinion is to have this examination generally in the hands of the teachers themselves. In the universities of all countries there are even distinct rulings that the examination is most easily and efficiently conducted by internal examiners, and that occasionally external examiners are to be associated with them. The prevailing idea is that the promotion of students and the giving of marks of recognition to them should be done by the teachers themselves and I think that this is, on the whole, the right policy. We quite understand that occasionally there may be teachers who may not be doing their work properly, that they might put questions to their boys which they know very well, so as to bring out very good results. But, all the same, the way to remedy this is not to take all the work out of the hands of the teachers but to have more rigorous supervision over these examinations.

There appears to be a good deal of misconception between inspection and examination. They do not mean the same thing. As regards inspection, what might be done by the inspector is to go over a class. If the inspector is conversant with his business, he will find out the actual state of affairs in a class very much faster than a stranger, who only occasionally visits a school, will be able to do. He will ask a few of the boys presented to him to read a few sentences and he will choose his own boys and not those presented to him by the master and he will be able to find out how the class is progressing much more quickly than an ordinary man who is not conversant with his work. The inspector, for instance, goes and sees the teacher teaching the class. There, again, if a man does not know his business, the teacher will easily deceive the outside visitor. He will generally take a lesson which the boys know perfectly well and will thus leave a very good impression on the inspector. But the inspector who knows his business will not fall a prey to these subterfuges. By these means I think the inspector will be able to get a good knowledge of the general progress of the school, and that is what we expect the inspectors to do. The inspector even now occasionally sets to the boys in a particular class a few questions, takes the answers from them and the next day finds out what the boys have done and how they have fared. Again, he can easily find out from the high schools whether promotions from the schools have been properly made or not. If my friend the Honourable Mr. Belvi has got a complaint to make against the inspecting officers, he ought to bring to the notice of the Director of Public Instruction that the inspection is not done properly. But to ask them to do the work of examining each class—the papers of so many boys in a school—is, I think, impracticable and also inadvisable.

In the first place, the teachers will always be on the look-out as to what questions the inspectors are likely to ask. They will slur over those parts of the subjects in which the inspectors are not likely to ask questions. I do not say that examinations are altogether to be avoided. They are occasionally necessary. But everybody recognises that examinations are a necessary evil, and it is not right that we should emphasise or increase the evil more than is absolutely necessary. I, therefore, do not think that this resolution ought to commend itself to this Council.

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; the Vice-President.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

I have already spoken about private schools. The Honourable Mr. Belvi hinted at some underhand practices of the teachers. The teachers are apparently amenable to bad influences in making promotions of boys. He did not make an accusation in the most direct terms but he apparently left such an impression on the minds of some members of this Council. Now, I do not say that such things do not exist. Mishaps will occur in the best regulated families. But the remedy is not to take away all the work from them, but to see that the work which they have got to do is done properly. In this connection I might say that there is a grave responsibility attaching to the guardians themselves. At present, the guardians think that all their work is finished if only they pay the fees of their boys and do nothing else. They do not even take the trouble of signing the progress books of their boys when sent to them. They even ask whether they are compelled to sign a book of that nature. They do not make inquiries, even for their own information, how their boys are getting on in schools. No doubt the boys ought to get all their schooling in their schools, and I certainly think that private tuition is the most undesirable thing in the world except in very exceptional cases. Guardians should keep a sharp look-out as to the way in which their children are studying. The children, at any rate, should feel that their guardians are taking interest in their education, and that everything is not left to the teachers. They should see that their children are making proper progress and, if there is anything wrong, they ought to complain to the authorities that such and such things are not being done properly. On account of all this, therefore, the guardians have got to be wide-awake.

For these reasons, the resolution that has been brought forward by my honourable friend ought not to be accepted by this Council. There are other means of improving the inspection, and, if my friend had brought forward a suggestion for improving the quality of inspection, there might be something to say for it. I do not mean to say that the inspection is an ideal one. All the same, the resolution is one which ought not to be accepted by the Council. (Hear, hear.)

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole :—Mr. President,—I might tell the Council that in old days, about 50 years ago, I was a schoolmaster for some time, (hear, hear), and I know what the educational inspectors did in those days. We had an inspector at that time — I think Major Waddington was his name. When he went round visiting high schools and examining them, he spent over a week in each school. He examined each pupil in the subjects that he took up,—he took up English and mathematics in those days,—and he assessed marks in the case of each pupil. He examined all the 300 or 400 boys of the school in the course of 6 or 7 days and he made the deputy educational inspector of the district and his assistants conduct the remaining examination on the same lines. The inspection of a high school in those days was thorough and efficient. Such inspections and examinations are what my friend the Honourable Mr. Belvi apparently wishes to have in these days. I think, however, that when we have got experienced head-masters and trained teachers, such as man present-day schools, the educational inspector need not spend much time in examining the classes; the work of examinations and the promotion of boys can very well be entrusted to the teachers and the head-masters themselves.

What I want the educational inspectors to do in these days is to pay more attention than they are doing to the primary schools in their charge. I find that, in the case of many of the primary schools, the only inspecting staff that the teachers are aware of is the deputy educational inspector and his assistants. The educational inspector and the Director of Public Instruction are unknown. This is not proper. The educational inspector must move about in his districts; he should be relieved to a certain extent, if necessary, of work in connection with high schools. The high schools can be left very well to the present staff, but the primary schools should have more attention from the educational inspector than they are receiving at present. I find that, in the case of many of the primary schools, they are manned by men who are most. . . .

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Might I draw the attention of the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole that secondary educational schools is the question under discussion and not primary?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Yes, what I want to drive at is that the educational inspector, instead of being asked to examine high schools in the way in which the Honourable Mr. Belvi wants him to examine them, should be relieved of this high school examination work to a certain extent and should be asked to pay attention to schools in rural areas.

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. J. G. Covernton; Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—Mr. President,—I waited for the Honourable Mr. Belvi's resolution with some curiosity, as it has been pending for several months and it was postponed from last session. I have all this time been trying to conjecture what grounds could be found to support this proposal which I consider to entail an extremely retrograde procedure. Now we know what he has to say about it and I must admit that I cannot agree with him.

The Honourable Mr. Belvi has made a certain number of errors in his statement and he is entirely wrong, utterly and absolutely wrong, on the general technical educational point. How wrong he is has been shown admirably by my learned friend the Principal of the Fergusson College (the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye). In fact, the Principal of the Fergusson College has left very little ground for me to cover, but I venture to put certain details before this Council.

I may, first of all, take a certain statement made by the Honourable Mr. Belvi in regard to which I fear I must say that he is quite wrong in his conception of the matter. The Honourable Mr. Belvi implied that the present system of inspection was quite new and he said that, in his days, it was never heard of. Well, I do not know whether my recollection goes back as far as the Honourable Mr. Belvi's but, unfortunately, it goes back to a certain extent and I can tell the Honourable Mr. Belvi that this is not a recent change. I remember perfectly well, when I was educational inspector in Sind, being one of the first to advise the change. When I went to Sind—roughly speaking, it was somewhere between 1898 and 1900—I was obliged to examine the three Government high schools in Sind in practically the same way that the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole has ascribed to Major Waddington. I do not know what Major Waddington thought about the process but I have a clear recollection of what I did. I sat down and wrote a report to the Director of Public Instruction and pointed out the defects and futility of the old system. I do not wish to take either the credit or the discredit of the new system entirely to myself, but a change was made not long after. In 1901 the matter was gone into by this Government and the Government of India and was discussed at a conference at Simla that year. It was then decided that the system of detailed examination by educational inspectors should be abolished and the present system of examination was introduced not only in this province but in most of the others, and it has been found to work satisfactorily. A revival of the old system would be extremely prejudicial not merely to the interests of the inspecting staff but also to the schools. The new system had already been tried in Great Britain and other countries for some years before it was introduced into India. I have two books here, one of which was written shortly after the introduction of the system in England, and the other book is a new book written last year which deals with the results in England. I should like to quote extracts from each of these books which will give honourable members a clear idea of the object and the results with which the new system was introduced.

"The beginning of the fundamental change was quietly introduced in 1894 by the substitution of the system of inspection instead of examination for infants' schools."

Then the writer continues:—

"This system of inspection was extended in the following year to all schools."

The writer was writing in 1897 and he adds:—

"The new order of things was welcomed with almost universally heartfelt approval by the teachers and soon received general praise from inspectors for its practical value as shown by its effects on school work. From this time the old order had definitely to change and give place to the new."

The other book is by a retired inspector of schools in England, one of the most experienced and level-headed inspectors that England has had the good fortune to possess and he writes as follows.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Is that Mr. Newton's book?

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—Yes, Mr. Newton's.

Mr. Newton in his book says:—

"The annual examination, which was strictly obligatory, involved very heavy work and many inspectors had very little time for inspection."

Mr. Newton then continues:—

"Every inspector who endeavoured to do justice to everybody was disheartened by the impossibility of his task. I think, too, that competent school managers were

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[Mr. J. G. Covernton; the Vice-President; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

generally suspicious of reports and grants that rested on the shaky basis of annual examinations."

To proceed to other points in the resolution, I do not know why Government schools were singled out by the Honourable Mr. Belvi. He said in his speech that Government schools are model schools. If that is the case, why should he begin his reform with the model schools? But, apparently, he does not really consider them models. In this connexion, I should like to take this opportunity of publicly resenting, as strongly as possible, the Honourable Mr. Belvi's aspersions—I do not know if they were deliberate, but he cast a slur, and a gross slur, on the staff of our schools and on our inspectors. I do not believe that our Government head-masters and assistant-masters, as a rule, condescend to the practices which the Honourable Mr. Belvi hinted at. Even if they do, the inspection which the inspectors undertake is only too likely to catch them out. An inspector does not, as the Honourable Mr. Belvi implied, loaf into a school for two minutes and then loaf out again. On the contrary, he often spends days and days together in a Government school. He goes into all manner of subjects besides examination results and it is very unlikely that, if promotions have been wrongly made, the inspector will not detect them.

Now, as regards examinations, if persons undertake to carry on a school as teachers, they should be able to examine their students. In other countries it is usual for the school staff to examine its pupils and, if it is a public school, that is to say, a school which admits of an inspection by Government inspectors, it has to see that promotions are made properly on the results. A teacher is responsible for his class. He knows the boys in that class better than any inspector and it is only fair to him and his pupils that the ordinary annual examination should be held by that teacher.

The great defects which the system urged by the Honourable Mr. Belvi would entail have been emphasised quite correctly by my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye and I think I need say very little more on that point, except that I would like to add this, that I am afraid a good many honourable members of this Council and a very large number of the outside public have only a very vague idea of the work of educational inspectors. An educational inspector is one of the hardest worked officers in the Presidency. Apart from inspection, he has a very large amount of office work. For instance, I may mention that the other day in Sind I found that the inspector's correspondence had reached the register number of something over 16,000. Now, such an officer has to look after all his office work as well as to undertake the actual inspection of many aided schools and, if you are going to put upon him the burden of examining Government schools in detail in every branch of the school work, then I say plainly that he will have no time for his other work which is equally important. To speak bluntly, the educational inspectors in that case will become so hard pressed that it will be impossible for them to cope with their work and the educational administration is likely to break down.

As regards what is really a side issue, which the Honourable the President has ruled as not relevant to the discussion before this Council, namely, the question of primary education, I do not wish to prolong discussion on that point. But I should like to say emphatically that I entirely sympathise with what fell from the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole. It is, I think, one of the saddest results of the heavy pressure, under which the educational inspectors now suffer, that they find it very difficult, indeed, to get round the districts and actually visit in detail vernacular schools.

I remember, when I was inspector in the Central Division, Northern Division, as well as in Sind, I was not so hard pressed and I had time for tours of greater or shorter length, which were very useful from the point of view of general work as well as of the schools. Unfortunately, now the position has altered and the inspectors find it extremely difficult to go out in the districts and visit any large number of primary schools; however, if enquiries are made, you will find that inspectors do manage to see a certain number of vernacular schools. On the other hand, if I were to burden . . .

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—May I point out to the honourable member that he has already exceeded his time?

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—It is impossible for inspectors to actually examine all the primary schools, but they do visit a certain number of them every year. I trust in the light of what the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and I myself have said that this Council will not endorse the resolution.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—My task is greatly simplified by the able speeches which have been made on the subject by the Honourable

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Mr. Paranjpye and the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction. I do not think that the Honourable Mr. Belvi could have realised, in advocating his proposal, that the course of reverting to holding examinations by outside authorities could not possibly be acceptable under present conditions. I do not wish to take the Council over the changes which have been made in the system during the last twenty years; but the fact remains that, as the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye so eloquently pointed out, the system advocated by the honourable mover is both impracticable and undesirable. There is only one new point which I should like to bring forward, and that is, whether the honourable member has clearly realised the effect on the students in the matter of their physical well-being. We all know, and the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has already pointed it out, that the experts regard examinations as a necessary evil and efforts have been made in the past to reduce the number of examinations in the interests of the physical well-being of the students. The Honourable Mr. Belvi now wants that an examination by an outside authority should be held every year of a character which will mean a very severe strain upon the students. I do not think that there is any unanimity of opinion that examinations are really the best test for ascertaining the knowledge of students. We have heard a great deal about the cramming resorted to by students in order to get through examinations and experts have declared their opinion that, in the interests of students, examinations should be as few as possible.

Now, sir, we cannot say that under the present system there are no examinations, but the issue is between examinations by the teachers themselves of the students who come in contact with them every day of their student life and those by outside inspectors. I do not think it can be seriously contended that the strain upon the students comes to the same thing in both these cases.

The problem really is, whether these examinations by outside authorities should be applied to Government schools only. I do not know why the honourable mover wishes to restrict these examinations to Government secondary schools only. As the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has pointed out, there are about seven times as many private schools as there are Government schools. Does the Honourable Mr. Belvi, if he really thinks that the system which he advocates conduces to greater educational efficiency, desire that all the benefits of this system should go to the few select students who go to Government high schools, while all those thousands of students who attend private secondary schools should be deprived of the benefit of that system? I take it that he has advocated the restriction to Government high schools because he feels that the cost of holding these examinations would be very prohibitive and that Government may be able to provide it, while proprietors of private institutions cannot do so. I cannot conceive that honourable members would advocate a course under which differential treatment is to be meted out in a matter which is recognised to be of educational efficiency for the student class. Sir, taking everything into consideration, it appears to me that the honourable member has misconceived the remedy which he wishes to employ and I submit that for the reasons so ably advanced by the previous speakers the Council should refuse to pass the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—I listened with very great care to the interesting and animated debate which we have had over this resolution, but, before I reply to the points made by some honourable members, I must repudiate, with all the emphasis I can command, the baseless assertion made by my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye who characterises the resolution as mischievous. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye knows as well as I do that I do not stand alone in my view in the matter of these annual examinations but there are several educational experts who hold the same opinion. The other day the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and I had an opportunity of discussing this resolution with a recently retired educational inspector of the Southern Division, and he did thoroughly agree with the view I advocate. Perhaps the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and the Honourable Mr. Covernton are personally concerned, both being eminent educationalists, and they do not see the enormous harm that is being done to the cause of education by the new system, for the introduction of which the Honourable Mr. Covernton takes credit for himself. It is well said that by-standers see more of the game than the player himself. It is true that I have not been an educationalist myself, but I have had opportunities of seeing the kind of progress that is made by boys in high schools. If the Honourable Mr. Covernton pays a visit to Belgaum and sends for me, I could gladly accompany him to the Government high school there and point out to him scores of students who do not understand a syllable of the rules in the first Sanskrit book of Dr. Bhandarkar. Is he aware of this fact? Does he know what kind of instruction is imparted in that school? I do not mean to say that every schoolmaster is idle, nor do I say that the system at present followed is iniquitous. Education is now imparted on a large scale and it is likely that it will expand. It may be good in England or other countries that there are no examinations held, but we have to take into consideration the habits of the people of this country, the class of teachers that we have, and other circumstances. Because a certain system is considered very suitable in England it does not follow that the same should be transferred to India without any changes whatsoever. We are often told, in political matters, that what is good for England or other countries may not necessarily be good for India. Why should we not apply the same reasoning to matters educational in India? What is our actual experience here in the matter of these examinations? It may be very difficult for educational officers to examine thoroughly each class, but why not introduce at least some sort of examination? Why not examine boys of every alternate class? At present the real examination is held when a boy appears for the Matriculation Examination; the long period of time before he appears for this examination is spent in a slipshod manner. It may be true that some inspectors do actually examine classes in high schools; but does the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction know that there are other inspectors who visit a school and say "Well, Mr. Head-master, I hope your school is doing very well"?

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. J. G. Covernton; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—May I ask the honourable member to give me an instance?

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:— I do not think it will be right for me to name an inspector in public in this way.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—I think that this wholesale condemnation of the inspectors as a class is totally undesirable and highly objectionable in this Council, unless the honourable member is prepared to prove that his statement is correct.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—I do not wish to make any accusation against the class of inspectors as a whole. I simply want to point out that such things sometimes do occur and my only intention is to make them impossible. I am asked why I do not include private schools in my resolution. My object is to extend the principle of this resolution to private schools also. I do not admit that the principles on which grants-in-aid are made at present to private schools are sound. The present method is a vicious system under which there are no salutary checks. I may be wrong in that view, but that is a view which I honestly hold.

Now, to come to the several points made against my resolution. The first point made against my resolution by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye is that the resolution is impracticable and inadvisable. You may say that a considerably larger staff may be necessary if the resolution is to be complied with, but surely you cannot say with any show of reason that it is inadvisable.

Then I am told that an inspector might require one month instead of one day if he were to examine every class in every high school. I do not think that the illustration which the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye gave of the Central Division can help him to prove the proposition he lays down. It should not be very difficult for the inspectors and the deputy educational inspectors to examine these few high schools, say, in the course of a fortnight. There is no will to do it, because the supposition is that things are well managed by head-masters and assistant-masters. If that be so, why not abolish the posts of inspectors and the post of the Director of Public Instruction as well? If you have got such implicit trust or faith in your head-masters and assistant-masters, why should we impose any burden on the public exchequer for these officers if no supervision is needed?

Then I am told that it is a question of the human factor. Certainly it is. But I submit that it is necessary to provide for some sort of wholesome check. Do not place implicit confidence in the very men whose business it is to teach boys and girls. It may be very well in theory to say that a school-master is expected to know the merits and demerits of a boy and it is on his recommendation that the boy is promoted. But all the same there is this difficulty with which we have to reckon.

We are next told that guardians ought to be more alert. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, who resides in a district town, is not perhaps alive to the fact that out of every 100 boys that study in a Government high school, at any rate 50 of them come from the mofussil, and what is the educational status of the guardians and the parents of the boys who come to district towns for their education from rural areas? Are they in a position to see what progress their children are making in the school? I think it is too much to expect these guardians and parents to do it. Most of them are ignorant, many of them have not received English education, and they cannot possibly check the studies which their children are undergoing in a school. It is true that some parents do take an intelligent and keen interest. I may tell the Council, without any sense of adulation, that I do take an interest—and an intelligent interest I hope—in the education of my own sons whom I have to teach. I have to supply the defects in their education which are disclosed to me, and I see what kind of education they receive in a high school. If other members of this Council do not do it, let them try it. If they have got any spare time, I do not think it can be more profitably spent than in occasionally inspecting the lessons which their boys learn at school. I have no doubt that many of them will be undeceived if they care to spend their time in this way.

EXAMINATION OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS—MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. J. G. Covernton; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; the Vice-President.]

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole says that head-masters and assistant-masters are now trained men. Were they not trained men in the olden days?

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—No.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Even if they were not trained men, I can say from personal experience that most of them were abler than head-masters of the present day.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—What about the assistant-masters?

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—They are trained now. But, even in the case of assistant-masters, if the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction cares to come to Belgaum, I shall show him the kind of pronunciation and English that is taught by these trained masters there. I hope he will not forget my request when he visits Belgaum next.

Then the Honourable Member in Charge says that the strain on the students will be increased. That is a hackneyed argument. As if boys have not to undergo any strain when the inspector comes to the school! I believe . . .

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Therefore add to it?

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Add to it only once. These boys undergo a regular examination only once in a whole year.

As I have stated, my principal object is to call the attention of this Council to the present unsound system which prevails in this Presidency. You are now extending education. But you do not wish to see that the education imparted is really sound and useful.

With these few observations, I commend my resolution to the Council. I know well that there is a difference of opinion on this point, and many of my honourable colleagues do not see their way to agree with me in this matter. All the same, I felt that it was my duty to ventilate this matter, and I believe that I have done it to the best of my ability.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The Council will now adjourn till 3 o'clock.

The Council then adjourned for lunch.

After lunch.

The Council re-assembled at 3 p.m.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, Order. Resolution No. 2. The Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.

"That this Council respectfully recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Government be pleased to appoint a committee consisting of officials and non-officials to visit, if necessary, the different municipal towns, inquire, examine and report whether the taxes imposed by the District Municipalities in the Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by them to their rate-payers; and to recommend the minimum direct tax which each municipality should levy having regard to the facilities and amenities of life it has been affording to its rate-payers, the programme of improvements which each municipality has in view and the paying capacity of the residents of the municipal area."

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik:—Mr. President,—The resolution which I have given notice to move in this Council and which you were kind enough to just read asks Government to appoint a committee of officials and non-officials for two purposes; firstly, to inquire, examine and report whether the taxes imposed by the district municipalities in this Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life they are affording to the rate-payers, and, secondly, to recommend the minimum direct tax which each municipality should levy, having regard to the facilities it has been affording, the programme of improvements it has in view and the paying capacity of its rate-payers.

At the outset I should like to state that my object in bringing this resolution before this Council is not to cast aspersions on the abilities of the different municipal boards in the matter of managing their own affairs or to fetter their discretion as regards the local taxation and improvements in the areas entrusted to them. I should further like to state that my object is not in the least to introduce any outside control or interference over the affairs of these municipalities.

The world is advancing rapidly in various directions, more improved sanitary and hygienic ideas are conceived, and appliances are invented and their advantages are brought to the notice of these bodies. The immediate necessity of driving away the illiteracy from the masses and of educating them morally, intellectually and in various other ways has been more appreciably realised by these bodies as one of their most important and primary duties, and it is essentially necessary that the resources of these bodies, who are responsible for the adoption of new and modern ideas and methods, should be more carefully scrutinised and every possible source should be tapped to find out funds to meet the cost of ever increasing demands. Without more money and greater resources it is not possible for these bodies to tackle big problems like water supply, drainage, town planning, free and compulsory education of the masses, introduction of sanitary and hygienic appliances on an extensive scale and various other things pertaining to the health and well-being of the rate-payers.

It is a fact and it must be admitted that none of the district municipalities in this Presidency have been discharging all the obligatory and discretional functions entrusted to them under Chapter VI of the District Municipal Act completely and in accordance with the modern ideas to the entire satisfaction of the rate-payers and the city fathers themselves, and thus do not require any more funds than what they now get for the local improvements. Although every municipality is spending its income to the best advantage of its rate-payers, a careful scrutiny of all the possible sources of its income is essentially necessary to see if more funds could not be found to meet the cost of ever increasing demands on its resources in the discharge of its obligations satisfactorily. The chief and certain resource from which the municipalities are authorised to raise their revenue is by the powers of taxation given to them under section 59 of the District Municipal Act. It is true there are also other sources from which revenue flows into the municipal coffers, such as from fees, rents, revenue from property, grants, contributions, etc. But these sources are dependent upon local conditions and circumstances and cannot be counted upon as sure and certain ones and the rate-payers are not responsible for their fluctuations. It is an admitted fact, and also beyond controversy, that local people should contribute towards the local improvements. Under section 59 of the District Municipal Act, there are 11 sub-clauses under which a municipality is authorised to levy rates and taxes and raise its revenue. In 10 out of these sub-clauses it has been specifically laid down by statute on what these rates and taxes should be levied, and in sub-clause 11 the municipalities have been authorised to levy such of the other taxes, the purpose, nature and object of which will have previously been approved by the Governor in Council. Under section 60 of the act these municipalities are required to select as many of these taxes as are suitable to them and levy the same, subject to such limitations as to rates as Government may think expedient. As per latest municipal taxation report available, viz., the one for the year 1917-18, there are 155 municipalities constituted under the District Municipal Act, out of which 2 are temporary and 153 permanent ones. Taking into consideration the cases of only these permanent municipalities, it will be found that out of 10 specified heads, under which the municipalities can impose taxes and raise their revenue, 2 municipalities have been raising revenue by having recourse to the taxation under 7 heads, 15 under 6 heads, 24 under 5 heads, 40 under 4 heads, 21 under 3 heads, 23 under 2 heads and 18 under only 1 head. Under sub-clause 11 of section 59, by the authority of which these municipalities can levy certain other taxes, with the previous sanction of the Government as to the nature and object of these taxes, only 1 municipality is taxing under 5 such heads, 2 under 3 heads, 9 under 2 heads and 31 under 1 head. Thus, it will be seen that most of the municipalities are not raising their revenue under many of the heads of taxation they are authorised to levy. I am alive to the fact that the circumstances and conditions of these municipalities vary greatly, and the requirements of individual cases are quite different, and a common standard of taxation cannot be prescribed for them all. But the above facts disclose that a careful examination as to whether the taxation by these municipalities has been to their full capacity is essentially necessary. If we examine the rates of these taxes they vary so much in the case of different municipalities that a thorough examination into them, having regard to the local conditions and circumstances, is also necessary.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.]

Amongst the various taxes enumerated in section 59, octroi is an indirect tax. It is no doubt a productive tax, and, being paid in small amounts, the effect of the payment is not generally perceived. The imposition of the tax is sanctioned by immemorial usage, and people are accustomed to it. It also possibly reaches a stratum of society in the towns which, by reason of poverty, could not pay any form of direct taxation. But the disadvantages from it outweigh all its virtues. It provides constant opportunities for fraud and oppression, owing to the necessity of entrusting large discretionary powers to a subordinate agency, and is greatly wasteful and, in many cases, it constitutes a serious burden on trade in general and, in particular on through-trade, notwithstanding the provisions made for refunds. It is beyond the purview of this, my resolution, to consider the relative merits of direct and indirect taxes, but it will suffice my purpose when I say that the evils of this form of indirect taxation are generally recognised and the United Provinces Government, after an elaborate and exhaustive enquiry, have decided that octroi is an objectionable and unsuitable tax, that the delays, trouble and expenses incidental to its collection, the opportunities for malpractices it affords, the heavy cost and other economic objections combine to make it an undesirable means of raising municipal revenue. Such being the nature of this indirect tax many municipalities, when they find funds from this objectionable source to meet a few of the obligations imposed upon them, are loath to raising further funds from direct taxation. Out of 153 municipalities in this Presidency, 46 municipalities raise their revenue by direct tax only, 104 municipalities both by direct and indirect taxes, and 3 municipalities only by indirect tax. The ratio between direct and indirect taxes in the case of these 104 municipalities is 1 to 1 or less than 1 in the case of 48 municipalities, 1 to 2 in the case of 22 municipalities, 1 to 3 in the case of 15 municipalities, 1 to 4 in the case of 4 municipalities, 1 to 5 in the case of 5 municipalities, 1 to 6 in the case of 1 municipality, 1 to 7 in the case of 1 municipality, 1 to 8 in the case of 2 municipalities, 1 to 13 in the case of 1 municipality, 1 to 17 in the case of 1 municipality, 1 to 24 in the case of 1 municipality, 1 to 28 in the case of 1 municipality, and 1 to 30 in the case of 2 municipalities. Thus in only 48 cases out of 104 the indirect tax is equal to or less than the direct tax, and in 56 cases it is more than the direct tax, being in a few cases as high as thirty times. These figures clearly prove that there is very great disproportion between direct and indirect taxes and a careful examination into the matter is essentially necessary. Again, on examination of the taxes levied by different municipalities, it is found that in Sind 21 out of 26 municipalities do not levy tax on houses and lands. The city fathers of these places in Sind must have realised the evil results of octroi and they must also be alive to the fact that, being a wasteful tax and costly to collect, it keeps out of the pockets of the poor people greatly over and above what it brings into the municipal coffers. It is also a very strange thing to find that in a city like Ahmedabad, which is the biggest municipality under the District Municipal Act, where property is so valuable and funds for improvements are greatly needed, the municipality does not levy tax on houses and lands owned greatly by well-to-do people within its walled area and is content with terminal and other taxes the burden of which falls mostly on poor people. The income from tax on houses and lands at Ahmedabad is only Rs. 84 out of a total income of Rs. 7,68,396 from taxation. It does not mean that these municipalities get sufficient funds from indirect and other taxes and do not require any funds from direct taxes, but it rather looks likely and probable that they are loath to raise their taxes simply on account of the unpopularity they may have to incur in their places by levying direct taxes on property. It is therefore necessary that an outside body like the one proposed by me should examine the question of taxation and prescribe a minimum direct tax either on property or any other taxable medium. There are also certain cases in which the rate-payers are complaining that the taxes they are paying are heavy and they are not getting in return as much benefit from their municipalities as they should do.

The taxation is required to be based on two things, firstly, on the paying capacity of the people, and, secondly, on the facilities and amenities of life a municipality affords or proposes to afford to its rate-payers. The paying capacity of the people is always a controversial question and a common rule cannot be made applicable to all towns. It differs so much from town to town that it is essentially necessary to examine the question more minutely in individual cases. It is also equally difficult to lay down a common rule of proportion between the taxes imposed and the amenities of life afforded in return for the taxes. If an independent body like the one proposed by me were to examine both these questions in different municipalities I submit that they can be able to say whether taxes raised by different municipalities are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by these bodies to their rate-payers and thus both the rate-payers and bodies will be able to know whether their taxes are adequate or otherwise, judged by the opinion of this committee, based on comparison with various other municipal towns. It is often argued, and it might be argued, that these things should be left to the municipalities themselves, and outside interference is not necessary. In many towns we find people who want improvements such as increased and better water supply, proper drainage, better lighting, quicker and more effective removal of refuses, better roads, free and cheap education and medical relief and are even ready to pay higher taxes, those that want these improvements but are not willing to pay higher taxes, and even those that neither want improvements nor are willing to pay for them. Thus in some cases the opposition to the proposals for improvements and raising the taxes is both from within and without the municipality, with the result that in many cases there has been a complete stagnation of activities and improvements. The municipal wants are always growing and must always continue to grow and to find out more money to meet the growing demands it is essentially necessary that a thorough examination of the municipal taxation by an independent and outside body as the one proposed in the resolution should be made. I do not wish, and it is not my intention, that the municipalities should be hide-bound by the opinion of this committee in the matter of their taxation, improvements to be effected and the amenities of life they wish to give to their rate-payers, but the report of this committee, after careful examination of the question and the result of their inquiries, will be very useful to both the municipalities and to Government, to the former as a guide to increase or reduce their taxes and adjust the programme of their improvement in their towns and of the amenities of life to their rate-payers according to their income, and to the latter as a very important source of information as to how they should distribute the various grants which they are now distributing as doles, without any definite and fixed principles.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

Now under the Reform Scheme shortly to be introduced, local self-government has been a transferred subject, and it is necessary to finance these bodies more liberally than before, and a preliminary survey of these bodies as to whether the local resources have been fully availed of is essentially necessary, and I submit that the scope of inquiry by the committee now proposed will cover such a survey.

In this connection I addressed all the municipalities of this Presidency, inviting their opinion as to whether their funds were adequate, whether there was any scope to increase or decrease their taxation, having regard to the facilities they gave to their rate-payers, and whether they liked to have the question of taxation and amenities of life afforded by them examined by an independent body. Out of 152 permanent municipalities that are now in this Presidency, only 63 municipalities were courteous enough to reply my inquiry, and all of these bodies are of opinion that the funds at their disposal are inadequate, and they have been greatly handicapped from carrying out further improvements for want of funds. Regarding the inquiry about taxation and the amenities of life, only 32 out of these 63 municipalities have been pleased to express their opinion, 22 are in favour of the inquiry being held by an independent and outside committee and only 10 in favour of the inquiry being held by the municipal members themselves.

From the above facts I think that there is a strong case for appointing a committee to inquire into the local taxation and amenities of life afforded by the different municipalities, and I move that this Council respectfully recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Government be pleased to appoint a committee consisting of officials and non-officials to visit, if necessary, the different municipal towns, inquire, examine and report whether the taxes imposed by the district municipalities in the Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by them to their rate-payers and to recommend the minimum direct tax which each municipality should levy having regard to the facilities and amenities of life it has been affording to its rate-payers, the programme of improvements which each municipality has in view and the paying capacity of the residents of the municipal area and place this resolution in the hands of Government and my honourable colleagues with the hope that it will meet with their sympathetic consideration and approval.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Before discussing this resolution I would like to invite the attention of the honourable mover to rule 14 of the rules for the discussion of resolutions. It seems to me that, if the honourable member had availed himself of the privilege offered by this rule, he would have better consulted the convenience of this Council. This is not the first occasion on which it has been necessary to invite the attention of the honourable member to the existence of this rule.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—It seems to me that we are living in an age which has got great penchant for commissions and committees. As Tony Weller of Pickwickian fame considered " Halibi " as the most effective defence in any kind of litigation, so our age seems to think that committees and commissions can cure every evil under the sun. That being so, it behoves us, first of all, to see that we do not ride this hobby to its death and, whenever any proposal of this nature comes forward before us, I think it is our duty to carefully examine it and to see whether the appointment of a committee would do any good to the people and will serve any object that the appointment has in view, or whether, instead of doing any useful work, it will result in sheer waste of time. Judged by the light of these considerations, I am humbly of opinion that the committee proposed by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik will not serve any useful purpose but will result in sheer waste of time.

At the very outset I want to disabuse him of any idea that, as president of the Karachi municipality, I am shirking enquiry. I tell him that the Karachi municipality would have nothing to fear and nothing to conceal from such an enquiry. We have no objection to such a committee going into our form of taxation and the amenities and facilities of life that we offer. But I would beg of him to closely examine this question and see whether the recommendations of such a committee, if appointed, would be of any practical use.

Now, to begin with, I am afraid I shall have to say that the honourable mover has travelled a little beyond the scope of his resolution in the remarks that he has offered. He will pardon me for saying that, although he has devoted a good deal of labour on the statistics he has read to us, which deserves the highest praise, he has unnecessarily spent a great deal of time on the subject, because the object of the resolution, as appears from the wording, seems to be that the committee should inquire, examine and report whether the taxes imposed by municipalities in the Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by them to the general tax-payer with which the statistics have nothing to do. The honourable mover has also gone beyond the scope of the resolution by telling us that municipalities impose direct and indirect taxes and by discussing the merits of such taxes.

Now, let us see what such a committee, if appointed, will do. It will be a roving and itinerant committee which will go round and examine the presidents and members and take their evidence and make a report to Government saying that such and such a municipality is imposing such and such a tax and such and such facilities and amenities are wanting. What can Government do if it actually saw that the municipalities have not done their duty and are not affording the tax-payer the facilities and amenities commensurate with the taxation? If you examine the provisions of the very chapter of the act from which the honourable mover has quoted sections, prescribing the procedure for the imposition of taxes, viz., Chapter VII, you will find that all the guarantees that he wants for the purpose of securing that the people are not over-taxed are laid down there and that there is no necessity of appointing a committee to ascertain whether the people get the facilities and amenities commensurate with the tax that is imposed upon them.

It is not possible for anybody to say whether a particular municipality is providing proper facilities and amenities commensurate with the taxes, as every municipality frames its own budget according to its wants and the budget gives the two sides of receipts and expenditure nearly balancing each other, and, when the municipality is obliged to levy fresh taxation, they invite objections from the public, who would be very brisk in objecting, if they had any valid objections, and then, also, to pass the tax only after Government have given their sanction.

The honourable mover said that there are certain municipalities who are not imposing direct but only indirect taxation. I quite sympathise with him in his disapproval of this course and in the trouncing he gave to the good people of Ahmedabad for evading direct tax if the charge is true. But the sponsor of that municipality being in this Council may give any answer he has to this charge. We in Karachi are imposing, however, direct taxes, wherever necessary, which we have only recently increased. I also agree that octroi should be discouraged. But that question does not come within the province of this resolution. It is doubtless true that there are certain municipalities averse to the imposition of a direct tax because it comes directly out of people's pockets, whilst the indirect tax is paid only occasionally and the ultimate consumer, who has in the last instance to bear the tax, does not see it or feel it. But, apart from that, to say that municipalities have not done their duty by not providing all these services which are necessary for the people and also which are demanded by the amount of taxation they are imposing, is a very large question which cannot be solved in this manner.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Mr. C. V. Mehta; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

No doubt the object of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik, as he has explained, is to collect data for the new Councils which will shortly come into existence under the Reforms Scheme, so that we may know beforehand where we stand, but I do not think that the method suggested in the resolution is the proper one. I think the purpose can very easily be served by calling upon municipalities to furnish statistics which will serve for the guidance of the new reformed Councils. The scope of this resolution is very limited, and I submit that a committee appointed for this purpose will not serve any useful purpose at all.

I, therefore, oppose the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Mr. President,—I did not quite catch the figures which the honourable mover gave as regards the enquiry which he addressed to various municipalities in the Presidency. At all events, he did not mention how many were in favour of having this enquiry. It seemed to me that only a few of the 152 municipalities replied to his request, but he did not go on to say how many were in favour of having this enquiry. At all events, Mr. President, it appears to me that it is somewhat difficult to believe that municipalities of their own accord will desire to have this kind of a committee of enquiry sit upon them and investigate the various questions that the honourable mover has put down in his resolution. Both on general grounds and on the ground of the impracticable nature of the enquiry, such as is proposed, I am afraid this resolution will not commend itself to honourable members of this Council. We know very well, sir, that we have always been asking for more direct election to these municipal councils and it seems to me that, if the inhabitants of the various municipal district towns are dissatisfied with the way in which their affairs are conducted, then it is in their own hands to improve matters by electing such members as will carry out their wishes and it is hardly necessary to ask a committee, composed, if you please, of officials and non-officials, to interfere in their affairs and to direct what shall be the minimum direct taxation to be levied and to say whether the amenities which are provided out of the proceeds of taxation are proportionate or not. Further, sir, it seems to me that, as the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai has pointed out, the enquiry can hardly be of a practical nature, and, even if you succeeded in arriving at certain conclusions, it would be extremely difficult for Government or anybody to frame directions which should be followed by various municipalities, even if they were desirous of availing themselves of the advice of such a committee. I think, sir, that, in the interests of municipal government, the more independence is given to the local bodies, the better it will be for everybody concerned. They should be left alone in determining the amount of taxation and determining what return they will give in the shape of services. The question of direct and indirect taxation is a vexed one and it must vary with the circumstances of each particular town, and no committee of the nature that is proposed can give any useful advice or opinion on such matters or frame uniform rules. I therefore think, sir, that the municipalities ought to be given all the liberty that they desire.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—I endorse every word that has fallen from my honourable friend Mr. Harchandrai and also the Honourable Mr. Chunilal Mehta regarding this resolution. Being connected with the Poona municipality for a number of years and having had to attend the municipal meetings every week in connection with taxation and the progress of our amenities I think I may safely say that, although we are fully aware and conscious of our defects, still no committee of enquiry of the nature suggested in this resolution or a roving commission can be of any practical use to us. I strongly oppose this resolution on another ground as well. I believe it is no principle of local autonomy to ask that an outside body composed of officials and non-officials should go round the Presidency to tell or direct municipalities what minimum direct or indirect taxation they should have, what programme of amenities they should lay out and how they should distribute that programme over a period of years, and so on. I think it is absolutely against the principle of local self-government; I also believe that, even if a committee were given to us, it would be an impossible and impracticable task for this committee to, in the first place, suggest what should be the minimum direct taxation and, secondly, also to give any useful advice in laying out a programme of amenities to be afforded. Recently, I had occasion to look into the incidence of taxation for my municipality as compared with other municipalities in the Presidency; although we are conscious of our defects of taxation, still the only remedy that I can suggest to improve matters is to educate the people in municipal areas to a sense of their responsibility and to see that the public conscience is aroused to realise that they must tax themselves. In western towns people always expect that they should have certain amenities like tramway, drainage, or electric lights or gas lights, and such other things, and they realise that they must be prepared to tax themselves for all these amenities. But unless a higher standard of living is known to our people and the public conscience is aroused, it is no use an outside body like a committee coming and telling us that we must ask for electric lights, that we must ask for a tramway system, that we must ask for a drainage system, and so forth. I am afraid the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik has entirely misconceived the very object of his enquiry and the remedy he has suggested cannot possibly be expected to accomplish what he desires. I therefore oppose the resolution.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I feel that the resolution proposed by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik is rather ill-advised and appears to me to be a distinct encroachment upon the domain of local self-government and completely at variance with the principle underlying it. Every local body is, under the law, left to work out its own mission, subject to certain powers of control which are provided for in the act, and there is no reason why we should interfere with the discretion vested in the local bodies and the local people with reference to their wants and with reference to the manner in which they should tax themselves to provide for those wants. I think that local development should be left to the local people, and they know best how they can make both ends meet and how they can find money best for their wants. I think, if such a committee were appointed, it would be widely resented by all the municipalities. Only if such a direct question were put to the municipalities as to whether they would like to be guided by an outside committee as to what taxation they should have, what amenities they should give, and so forth, everyone of the municipalities would have said "No, no; we do not want your interference; you had better mind your own business; we can look after ourselves". That is the position, and I do not think that, unless we want to interfere with local self-government, we ought to think of a committee like this. Particularly now that we are on the eve of reforms, all these questions will be in the hands of ministers and then there will be every occasion to consider this matter at the hands of the representatives of the people, and these things can be worked out quietly through a local government board, if at all it is considered to be a useful institution. But, at any rate, such a committee is out of the question at this juncture, and I should say at any juncture, because I would not like anyone from outside to come and tell us "You do this and you do that". I would say "We know our wants and how to provide for them. Who are you to tell us that this thing should be done and that should be done?" I, therefore, strongly object to this resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I rise to support the resolution that has been placed before the Council by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik. The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai spoke rather lightly of the appointment of committees and quoted Mr. Pickwick. But I have not seen any single new policy initiated by Government without the appointment of a committee. A committee has the advantage of being able to take a detached and independent view of things and men who move in the routine of a particular department every day do not see exactly what is necessary to improve the working of that department, unless that working is examined from time to time by an outside body. They bring independent thought to bear upon the subject, and that helps a great deal. After all, the conclusions of a committee merely act as recommendations to Government. Government, again, get an opportunity to examine those recommendations, and only such of the recommendations as are approved by them and are not opposed by the public will have any chance of being put into actual practice. I, therefore, do not know why my honourable friends who represent so many municipalities should fight shy of an examination by an independent public body. Now we shall have the reforms introduced and we are also to be subjected, after ten years, to an enquiry by a committee. My honourable friend would perhaps wish that no such enquiry was ever held and that all the instalments of reform may come in without any enquiry at all. But I submit that it is not a reasonable attitude to adopt. I am myself a member of a municipality and I think an examination by an outside body like a committee would be very helpful and useful to the municipalities themselves in putting their house in order. Now, the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik wishes to find out whether the taxes imposed by municipalities bear any direct proportion to the facilities and amenities afforded by them. I think this is a question which really requires consultation and examination. In some places, we find there is heavy direct taxation; in other places, there is very light direct taxation. Sometimes it is found that that light taxation cannot be disturbed because an influential electorate will not allow it to be disturbed. An examination by an outside body would be very helpful, indeed, and would strengthen the hands of such a municipality. It is not a very light matter or a very easy matter to recommend and get a proposal for taxation passed. I have some experience of that myself as a member of a municipality and I am sure other members too have similar experiences.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. P. A. Desai.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

A direct tax may be very desirable, but it is, as you all know, generally resented by the public and sometimes by the house-owning population. In those cases, interference by Government is sometimes necessary, and it often comes and is found useful in increasing the direct taxation. I think that, even with the supervision which is at present bestowed by Government on the working of municipalities, the advice of an outside body would be very useful. I am, therefore, in agreement with the proposition which has been placed before the Council by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik, and I do not think it merits the opposition which has been shown to it.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Mr. President,—I must first thank the honourable mover of the resolution for the trouble he has taken in collecting the material for putting forward his proposition. (Hear, hear.) Unfortunately, as soon as he finished, our revered warrior, the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai, rose and put cold water upon all the efforts of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik.

The main ground upon which all the four gentlemen opposed the resolution is that they fear that, if any committee is appointed, the committee's decision or suggestions will interfere with the freedom and independence of the municipalities. That is the main ground on which the opposition has been based. Now, I do not know how the freedom and independence of the municipalities will be interfered with if suggestions are made by the committee after full enquiry. Of course, my honourable friends might be sick of the plethora of committees, but there are committees and committees. Another one of the main grounds which has been put forward in opposing the resolution is that there will be waste of time, waste of energy and waste of money. The honourable mover never proposed that the committee should consist of several officials and non-officials, that it should be an important committee like the Public Services Commission. That is not the idea at all. The committee may consist of one official and two non-official members or two official and one non-official member. The object is that the committee should visit the several places, look into matters and make suggestions. It is nowhere stated by the honourable mover that the suggestions ought to be accepted by Government, without closely examining them. It has nowhere been said that the municipalities will be bound by the suggestions of the committee.

I say it is a matter known to everybody that the present system is not desirable. There is no common rule; there is nothing to go upon. For instance, I say that as regards these taxes—the house tax, the conservancy tax, and the water tax—you will find that the same rule does not apply in all cases. Of course, difference there must be, according to the local conditions, but there ought to be something to guide us. I will give but one instance. I am the president of the Bijapur municipality, and its financial position is most undesirable. When His Excellency paid a visit to Bijapur, he gave me specific instructions to see that the municipal conditions are improved, and the only way to do it was by the imposition of taxes. Now, it is admitted that people are always averse to pay direct taxes. We wanted to raise the house tax, the conservancy tax, and the water tax, but there was strong opposition. But when we wanted to revise the octroi rate there was the very least opposition, because people do not like that money should go from their own pocket, although they do not mind others paying it. But whenever any proposal is made for raising the taxes the people exclaim "In the neighbouring town of Sholapur, a half inch pipe is taxed at Rs. 12 or Rs. 15; why do you want Rs. 18?" There is no answer to that. We simply say that we want the money. I say that, if these matters are closely entered into by the committee, of course, they will have to take into consideration the different local conditions, they may be able to find out something which is common, and may be able to give certain suggestions. If these suggestions appear to be sound to Government after close examination then Government might accept them and lay down some principles for the guidance of the municipalities. The municipalities, of course, would not be bound by the instructions, but the effect of that would be that those persons who want to raise the tax might say "Here are the suggestions, the matter has been closely gone into by a committee, and Government have approved of the suggestions ". That might give some satisfaction to the people who are to be taxed. But at present there is nothing to guide us. The general principle which is placed before us by the Government officials is that each department of the municipality should be self-supporting. They say that the water department should be self-supporting, the conservancy department should be self-supporting, and the house-tax department should be self-supporting. But our experience is that it is not possible. For instance, in Bijapur we have spent about Rs. 4,00,000 to Rs. 5,00,000 on water works, and each year we have to pay to Government Rs. 19,000 as an instalment of the loan taken from Government for the water works. In addition, we have to pay about Rs. 22,000 for the management of the water works. In all, we have to spend about Rs. 40,000 on this water item. Our income is about Rs. 1,20,000. Out of this about one-third has to be spent on one item, and it is impossible to raise this amount of Rs. 40,000 from the water tax.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. P. A. Dèsai; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.]

I submit that, if all these questions are gone into by a committee, they might make certain suggestions, which would be very useful to the municipalities. I have, therefore, great pleasure in supporting the proposition for the appointment of a committee, which must be a small committee, so that there would be no great cost incurred by Government in this matter.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe :—Mr. President,—I congratulate my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik for the keen interest he takes in matters relating to local self-government. But I am bound to say that I do not see eye to eye with him on this subject, firstly, because of the impracticability of the suggestion which he has made and, secondly, because it entrenches upon the free action of the municipalities. When I say that, let me assure him that I am alive to the difficulties of the several municipalities and I am also conscious of the fact that everything that ought to be done is not being done by the majority of these municipalities. The question of taxation is always one on which people will have divided opinions. It is unpalatable and one has to convince not only the general electorate but also the members of the corporation as to the necessity for taxation. That more money is required cannot be disputed or denied; but is this the method of setting the house in order? The honourable mover asks, in the first instance, for a committee of officials and non-officials, to examine the present state of affairs and to recommend what minimum taxation there should be in each municipality. Has the honourable mover got any adequate idea as to the amount of work which this committee will have to do? I take it that there are 152 permanent municipalities in the Presidency, the income of which varies from about Rs. 20,000 to Rs. 12,00,000. Now, a committee like this will have to go over a wide area and to examine all these questions from the point of view of the capacity of the people living in local areas, from their standard of living and from the amenities of life which the committee might wish to extend to them or the people might wish to have for themselves. Such a kind of examination will not only take a very long time but I submit that the members themselves will not be in a position to advise each municipality on the merits of individual cases.

At present, there are officers of Government, for instance the Collector and the Commissioner, who examine this question of the adequacy or otherwise of taxation, and they bring to the notice of several municipalities that they are not taxing themselves as fully as possible. This action of theirs, though in some cases very justifiable, is resented, because, in the first instance, people are unwilling to pay more and, secondly, because they consider it as an undue interference on the part of the officials. That being the case, a committee of officials and non-officials would not be of any great advantage. Even assuming that a committee of wholly non-officials is appointed, still I think that this is a kind of work which has to be done by people who will do it as a labour of love. In fact, if you want to create a sense of responsibility of this character in the several municipalities and if you want to spur them up, a committee will not be of any use.

If the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik is very anxious and keen on this matter, I would appeal to him that he should choose some gentlemen to associate with him, and, if he takes up this work as honorary organizers do in the co-operative department and he simply goes and advises people as to the way in which they should do their work and as to how they should improve their finances, such a programme is likely to prove far more successful than going into committee and asking it to make recommendations to Government.

Now, if we look at this question from the sentiment of the several municipalities which he was good enough to address, what is the result? Out of the 152 municipalities addressed only 63 replied; only 32 gave an opinion as to the suitability or otherwise of such a committee; 22 were in favour and about 11 were against it. Taking the total number of municipalities and ascribing the non-receipt of replies from some of the municipalities either to their unwillingness to give a reply in the affirmative or to their indolence, the result is that we have only 22 municipalities who have expressed their willingness to such a committee. Comparing this number with the large number of the remaining municipalities, we can very well say that the general sense is against the appointment of such a committee.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

My friend the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik has entered into various other questions. I feel no doubt that the several municipalities will have to tax themselves more, if they want more benefits and if they want to discharge satisfactorily the obligatory duties imposed upon them by the statute.

My second objection is this. Why does the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik want to commit this Council by bringing this resolution when the whole question of local self-government is to be given in the hands of a minister in a short time? It would very well have waited, and I would ask him to wait until a time when this department will be transferred.

The third point which I want to impress upon the members of this Council is this. Has he ever examined the genesis of this apathy for getting ourselves taxed more? We have two-thirds of elected majority in our municipalities. Even with the two-thirds elected, if we are not doing what best we can do or we ought to do, the only deduction is that the screw is loose somewhere; and, if it is loose, we are responsible for it. In all the city municipalities, at any rate, the most intelligent people are on these bodies, and I do not consider that they are not alive to a sense of their responsibilities.

The resolution will no doubt serve this purpose, that the several municipalities would know that here is a gentleman in this Council who is not satisfied with the work of the several municipalities. The result will be that they will be more alert and will show greater zeal in the discharge of their duties.

I do not intend to dilate upon the other parts of the resolution, but I do say that, though my friends the Honourable Mr. Desai and Rao Bahadur Garud were in favour of this resolution, they do not seem to have any idea of the magnitude of the work which is expected of this committee and the impracticability of appointing such a committee. I, therefore, oppose the resolution.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I rise to oppose this resolution on more than one ground. I consider the resolution will achieve almost nothing and that the cost that will be involved will be practically so much money thrown away. The information that the proposed committee will be able to get is mostly available at present from the printed records, reports and the reviews of municipal administration that are published by Government from year to year. The cost of a committee like the one proposed by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik will run, I think, into thousands of rupees, and, in return for this cost and the time that the members of the committee will have to spend, we will be getting information which is already available from printed reports and reviews. I think, on the whole, that the committee will be a useless body. I, therefore, oppose this resolution.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Sir,—I am very greatly attracted to this resolution by the thorough-going and comprehensive manner in which it has been brought forward. The Honourable Mr. Mehta and the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai were very angry at the subject not having been previously referred to the municipalities and strongly objected to such a committee sitting in judgment on the manner in which they have discharged their duties in the past. I can quite understand that they will not like this inquisition into their internal administration. In dealing with this subject I am reminded of a speech which Sir Stafford Northcote made in the House of Commons when he was a member of the Cabinet. He was referring to the case of a new member who had just been elected and who was most anxious to render all the service he could to the country. He did not know what subject to take up. Within a few days he was taking lunch at a restaurant and ordered some oysters. The waiter told him that he could not be served with oysters because oysters were scarce. Here was the subject readily available. He took it up at once and put an interpellation in the House of Commons asking the Minister in Charge why oysters were scarce. And lo and behold! the man found himself famous at once. He was named the honourable member for oysters. (Laughter.)

I congratulate the honourable mover for having evolved a similar new subject, and I think the honourable member is entitled to be called a member for municipal amenities. Let us examine what he wants. I want honourable members to go over the resolution which has been put before them in an elaborate speech and which has received the support of the Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. What is it that the honourable member wants? He says, "That this Council respectfully recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Government be pleased to appoint a committee." So far it is all right. "Consisting of officials and non-officials to visit, if necessary, the different municipal towns." So far, also, it may be said to be all right. We can have a committee, the members of which will visit the different municipal towns. But what are the duties that are to be assigned to this committee? They are to "inquire, examine and report whether the taxes imposed by the district municipalities in this Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by them." That is, they are to examine and report not what the municipalities want but whether the taxation that they levy is adequate to the amenities of life. Surely, I think it is obvious that, whatever amenities of life the municipalities are affording, they provide them out of the revenues obtained from the people. You do not want a committee to go and examine whether the taxes imposed by district municipalities in the Presidency are commensurate with the facilities and amenities of life afforded by them. They are either doing it, or they are taxing more and are not returning that taxation in the shape of amenities but pocketing the money themselves. I do not know what the honourable member really means, because if the administration, in money matters, of municipalities is honest,—they may make mistakes,—they would be returning the money received in the shape of taxation in the nature of amenities, unless, as I said, they are charged with misappropriating it. I do not think the honourable member, when he drafted this resolution, really intended to convey something of that kind.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.]

Further, the honourable member recommends a minimum direct tax which each municipality must levy, having regard to the facilities and amenities of life it has been affording to its rate-payers in the past. This is the second issue. The municipalities are to be told that they shall levy a minimum of direct taxation in order to render the same amenities that they are rendering now. Why then this interference?

Then he says "The programme of improvements which each municipality has in view and the paying capacity of the residents of the municipal area." Now, sir, if this is not a tall order, I really fail to see what a tall order can be. How are the members of the committee to determine the paying capacity of residents of municipal areas of 156 municipalities, and then base their minimum direct taxation upon it? Does not the honourable member wish to have any indirect taxation whatsoever? Does he mean that the direct taxation to be imposed at such a minimum would cover the cost of all the amenities that are needed? The Honourable Mr. Kamat pointed out that some people may want not only water-supply, drainage and good roads, which are necessities, but also electric lights and various other comforts. What are this committee to do? Are they going to say that every municipality, in consequence of its living in the twentieth century, shall provide all sorts of comforts and that, in order that these comforts may be provided, it shall levy a minimum direct tax?

But let us accept all this as practicable. The honourable member goes on to say, and his supporters confirm him in that view, that a committee should be appointed. I wish honourable members would realise that a committee of this character will take several years to report, and, after all this expenditure of time and money, they will send in a report containing suggestions which are binding on nobody. Any binding character can only be given to them by legislation or by Government orders; but that would be interference with local self-government. Theirs will be mere suggestions only, to be accepted or rejected. I can conceive of no more impracticable resolution than the one which has been brought forward. If the honourable member had the courage of his convictions and had said "I want these amenities to be provided in the municipal areas; I want the people to be taxed; I want to lay down the minimum standard of comfort for them, for which they should be forced to pay the requisite revenue," it would have been a logical position to take up. But he does not do so. He merely says "Let this committee be appointed. Let it go over 156 municipalities, investigate all these elaborate details and make suggestions." And what is to be the fate of these suggestions? They are, I take it, to remain as suggestions only. They cannot be translated into action.

I think the time of the Council has been taken up by a motion which has no practical bearing and I trust the Council will reject it.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik:—Mr. President,—I am very sorry that the fate of my resolution is almost already declared, and, in view of the strong opposition which it had, I would rather withdraw it.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 3. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the system of taluka courts, and of linked courts, where necessary, be extended to all the districts in the Presidency so that the ryots may not have to go beyond the limits of their revenue talukas for their civil litigation."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—The first part of the resolution which I beg to move proposes an extension of the taluka court system, a reform which was recommended by the Government of India and was adopted by our Government so far back as 1879 for the four Deccan districts in which the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act was introduced in that year. That reform was recommended by the commission which was appointed to inquire into the causes of the Deccan riots which occurred in 1875. That commission made a report which covered four volumes and the recommendations made by it formed the basis of the action that was taken by the Government of India in passing the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act.

So far as my present resolution is concerned, it will be sufficient if I only refer to the main grounds which were urged by the Honourable Mr. Hope in support of the necessity for the reform proposed in this resolution. He pointed out that the agriculturist debtors were placed at a great disadvantage with regard to the courts owing to not having sufficient facilities to make their defence. He urged that the agriculturists were generally illiterate, ignorant and far too poor to be in a position to engage pleaders to place their defence before the court and that, in the majority of cases, the decrees were passed against them ex parte and the creditors with their superior advantage of purse and intelligence had the legal machinery working all in one way in their favour. To meet this and to afford facilities for the debtors' appearance in courts for making their defence, it was proposed that there should be courts in every one of the talukas in the four districts in which the Relief Act was to be introduced and, for that purpose, the Government of India sanctioned 12 new appointments of subordinate judges for the required additional courts for those districts. It was, further, recommended that steps should be taken to place the courts as near the people's homes as possible to enable them to appear personally in each case for investigation of the claims and that in no case should the ryots be required to go beyond the limits of their own talukas for the administration of justice. This was insisted upon by the Honourable Mr. Hope in the interests of the illiterate agriculturist debtors and to secure a more rapid disposal of the court's work and at the same time to reduce the cost of litigation. These were points which he had particularly in view in recommending the reform. The Government of Bombay adopted the reform and then all the talukas in the four districts which came under the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act were provided with separate courts for each of them.

After some years' experience it was found that in some of the talukas there was not sufficient work to occupy the full time of the subordinate judge and then what did Government do? They introduced the linked courts system which is proposed in the second part of my resolution. Under it one sub-judge is put in charge of two talukas. But, at the same time, the subordinate judge was required to hold his court at the headquarters of each taluka by turns. The recommendation made by the Government of India, namely, that the agriculturists should not be required to go beyond the limits of the taluka for justice was thus respected and carried out even under this arrangement and this system has been in operation for over 30 years in the four Deccan districts in the talukas in which there was not sufficient work for a whole-time judge. More subsequently, however, when the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act was extended to the whole Presidency proper the principle of this recommendation of the Government of India was lost sight of and needful action was not taken to afford the required facilities to the ryots. In the absence of this provision the extension of the act to the other districts has entailed hardship on the poor agriculturists. Under this act they are required to be present in courts far off from their villages and, if they do not appear voluntarily, they are brought there under warrants.

Now, when the court happens to be located beyond the limits of their own talukas, the hardship to the ryots is greater. As a matter of fact outside the four Deccan districts the location of the courts was fixed more than 50 years ago and in accordance with the needs and conveniences of those times. Since then a great many changes have taken place in the local conditions and the administrative needs. Some of the talukas which were then backward have advanced, cost of litigation has increased and the value of time is far better appreciated now than in those days. Under the existing old arrangement some of the districts are very lucky in having courts for each taluka, whereas other districts are not equally lucky and some like my own (Khandesh) have been particularly unfortunate in having, instead of courts for each taluka, one court for two or three, and even five, talukas. This is a state of things which involves very great hardship to the agriculturist debtors and, therefore, I propose that there should be a court for each taluka, and, if that be not possible, at any rate a linked court, upon the principle recommended by the Government of India that the ryots should not have to go outside the limits of the revenue taluka for their civil work.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President.]

I hope the Council will bear with me if I quote to them a few figures. I need not refer more particularly to the four Deccan ditsricts which have been actually enjoying the benefit of these taluka courts and linked courts which I propose. In the Nagar district a subordinate judge holds his court almost in every taluka. The same is the case in the Poona, Satara and Sholapur districts. The latter has got seven talukas and five courts, of which two are linked. If you go to the other districts, you find that they are not all equally fortunate. In Gujarat, Broach has four civil courts for its five talukas and Amod taluka is alone without a court in that district. Ahmedabad, Kaira and Panch Mahals, which together form one judicial district, are not quite as fortunate. Between them they have about 12 courts for 16 talukas and 5 petas. Surat, on the other hand, has 4 courts for 8 talukas. Thana and Kolaba, which together form one judicial district, are more fortunate in having 11 courts for 16 talukas. Belgaum has 8 talukas and 5 courts.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I must ask the honourable member to have in view the amount of business before each court and not only the number of courts. If the honourable member will state the quantity of the business that each court does, it will be very enlightening.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—I will come to that, sir, in a minute. I will show that the number of courts that are provided is not based on the area or population, or even on the amount of litigation in the several districts, nor on the land revenue which the agriculturists pay to Government. Thus we find that my own district, West Khandesh, which has an area of 5,497 square miles and a population of over 5,80,000 and pays Rs. 21,51,000 as land revenue, has got only three courts for its 8 talukas while Broach, with an area less than one-third of West Khandesh and a population about half of West Khandesh, has got 4 courts for its 5 talukas.

Then, as to amount of litigation, I may state that East and West Khandesh together have a file of about 20,000 suits a year. This file of these two districts which form one judicial district is equal to the file of the three districts of Satara, Sholapur and Nagar put together and, while these three have 25 courts, East and West Khandesh together have only 9 courts. Now, going to the other districts in the Southern Division, we find that Belgaum, with a population of over 9,00,000, has got 3,637 suits and 5 courts for 8 talukas while Bijapur and Dharwar, with a population of over 8,00,000 and 10,00,000 respectively and files of over 3,000 and 4,000 suits, have got only 3 and 4 courts for 8 and 11 talukas respectively. Now, the result of this unequal distribution is that the subordinate judges in several courts are overworked and require assistance of one or more joint sub-judges to relieve the congestion of their files.

In 1913, Ahmedabad, Belgaum, Dharwar, Dhulia, Nasik, Ratnagiri, Satara, Sholapur and Thana required additional first class sub-judges and about 38 courts required second class subordinate judges for whole or part of the year. In 1917, 6 additional first class subordinate judges and 42 additional second class subordinate judges were required. This was hardly a satisfactory state of things. So far as the talukas in West Khandesh are concerned, it will be seen that 5 out of its 8 talukas, viz., Nandurbar, Shahada, Taloda, Sakri and Navapur, which together cover an area of 3,581 square miles and have a population of 3,04,780, are placed under one court, viz., Nandurbar. These talukas are populated by some of the most backward classes who are more illiterate and helpless to protect their own interests than any in the Deccan districts and in their interest in particular the facilities referred to by the Honourable Mr. Hope are far more needed than in the favoured Deccan districts. That being the case, is it not fair and just that the people of these talukas should also be afforded the facility of having courts for them nearer their homes and within the limits of their own talukas. At present those people have to go long distances from their homes with difficulty about roads and communications and having to cross hilly tracts. Now, as regards the East Khandesh district, people of Chopda, Raver and Jamner talukas have applied for additional courts for them and their demands are overdue. People of Chopda have to go 32 miles to the east to the Yawal court and 32 miles to the west to the Shirpur court between which that taluka is divided. People of Raver have also to go long distances to Yawal and they have to cross several rivers. That being the case, I think provision should be made for giving separate courts to these talukas. Now, both Chopda and Raver have enough work to occupy an additional sub-judge. I need hardly state that I have brought forward this proposal in the interests of the poor agriculturist debtors for whom this provision of additional courts was recommended 40 years ago. Bijapur and Dharwar districts also suffer like my district in the matter of this inconvenience. That being the case, I pray that Government will be pleased to do the needful for those districts also.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. P. A. Desai; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

Another thing which I have to urge is that, if Government is pleased to extend this convenience to all talukas, sub-judges in the talukas which may not have sufficient work may be invested with criminal powers just to give help to the magistrates in the more important cases. At present a pleader has to run after a touring magistrate from taluka to taluka if he wants to conduct any case before him. Moreover, in talukas where there are no civil courts, there are no resident pleaders and the magistrates dispose of cases without the parties having the benefit of engaging pleaders, and, if they engage any, they have to pay far more than they would have to pay if the pleaders were available within the taluka. Thus my proposal, if accepted, will have the advantage of removing an inconvenience with regard to civil work and also as regards criminal work. And what is more important is that it will place the relations between the agriculturist debtors and their creditors on a fairer basis than they are at present and secure all the advantages for which this reform was recommended by the Government of India.

With these few words, I commend my resolution to the Council.

The Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai:—Mr. President,—I should like to support this resolution. The first question is whether, under the present system, any inconvenience is felt by the people of the districts. I will confine my remarks to my own district, Bijapur. There are 3 courts, 8 talukas and 1 mahal in Bijapur. Now, all these 8 talukas and 1 mahal depend upon 3 courts. The court at Bagalkot serves for 3 talukas, Bagalkot, Hungund and Badami, and the distance from the farthest end to the court house is about 50 miles. So a ryot who has to sue on a simple bond of Rs. 10 has to travel a distance of 50 miles because there is no court established within the limits of his own taluka. I, therefore, submit that there is a real want, because the necessity is felt, for such courts, and I submit that the resolution which asks for separate courts for each taluka, or linked courts, is very modest in its demand. The advantage of the linked courts would be this, that for some days the sub-judge will be in one station and other days he will be in other stations, and the difficulty and inconvenience, which is now felt by the ryots, of having to go to a distance of 50 miles would, to a very large extent, be obviated. I, therefore, support the resolution on these grounds.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I have very great support to this resolution. This inconvenience is most felt in Khandesh, where, as the Council may be aware, the headquarters of the district is sometimes as distant as 50 miles from some places. In the Sakri and Sindkheda talukas this difficulty is most felt. It is exceedingly difficult to go to Dhulia, which is very nearly 50 miles distant. This difficulty will be removed if this resolution is accepted. In cases where a particular taluka does not give enough work to a subordinate judge, the difficulty can be solved by investing the subordinate judge with criminal powers.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik:—Mr. President,—I have very great pleasure in supporting this resolution. In the first place, I would like to state the state of affairs in this respect in my district, namely, Dharwar. There are four courts in Dharwar district, namely, Dharwar, Hubli, Gadag and Haveri. Under Dharwar we have got four talukas, Dharwar, Kalghatgi, Navalgund, including Nargund peta, and upper ghat portion of Halyal taluka of Kanara district. Here three sub-judges are sitting. At Hubli two sub-judges sit and they have got jurisdiction over two talukas, Hubli and Bankapur. The Gadag court has jurisdiction over two talukas and a peta, Gadag, Ron and Mundargi (a peta). At Gadag, about five years ago, there used to be a joint sub-judge; at present only one sub-judge is sitting there, but I am informed that one more is proposed for that court. At Haveri, which has got four talukas under it, namely, Haveri, Hangal, Ranebennur and Kod, for the last ten or even more years, two sub-judges were sitting in this court. It is only during the last year or two one sub-judge is managing the work of this court, but I am told that an additional joint sub-judge has again been proposed for this court. So, when it is found that during the last ten years in almost every court there has been more than one sub-judge and when the litigant public have to go a great distance without railway facilities, I think separate courts for each taluka, or one for a couple of talukas at least, can be conveniently located. It is very hard that these litigants should have to leave their houses and to go long distances where the courts are situated, particularly at the time of their harvest and at the time of the agricultural operations. These agriculturists have to go to the courts and spend one full week, or even more, away from their homes, for the purpose of one day's work in the court and sometimes, on account of heavy work or other causes, their cases are not heard on the days arranged for and they are asked to come again. All this means very great harm and inconvenience to the agriculturists. I therefore think that, if possible, one court for each taluka, or at least linked courts in the case of those places where work is supposed to be light, is essentially necessary and I strongly support the resolution.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—Mr. President,—I have great pleasure in supporting this resolution. But I do intend to say that the wording which has been used in the resolution is not a very happy one. I am going to support the Honourable Mr. Upasani on general grounds and they are these. This question of the location of courts has not been gone into recently, at least during the last thirty years. During these thirty years litigation has increased and the circumstances of individual talukas have also changed. During the last ten years, at any rate, it has been found necessary by Government to create additional places of subordinate judges and to appoint temporary subordinate judges as additional sub-judges in the taluka courts. This question was referred to by me in one of my speeches on the budget debate. The effect of such an arrangement is that you get the work congested, which necessarily takes a longer time for the disposal of cases. The first essence in the administration of civil justice is that it should be speedy, less expensive and thoroughly efficient. We are not concerned here with the last point, namely, that of efficiency; but, as regards the two other points of expense and speedy disposal of cases, I may assure this Council that, if they intend to get more information on this point, they need only look at the reports of the administration of civil and criminal justice and they will find that original cases and appeals are delayed too long. Besides, if additional help is required to dispose of cases which are pending in one court, why should it not be possible for Government to create additional courts instead of putting two or three sub-judges in one place? To have a taluka court or one sub-judge for each taluka will be an ideal system no doubt. What I am not quite positive about is as to whether each taluka would find sufficient work for one subordinate judge. The next best arrangement would be to have a survey of the areas over which these courts are extended and to redistribute either the jurisdiction of courts or to locate new courts according to the requirements of each particular locality. This question seems to have attracted the attention of Government, as I am led to believe that the Honourable Mr. Justice Hayward, when he was on an inspecting tour recently, gave some thought to this question. If this question is being enquired into by Government and by the High Court, then I would state for their further information that it would be as well not only to redistribute the present jurisdictions but to examine the whole question as to the location of courts according to the number of suits and according to the quality and quantity of litigation of each district and of every taluka in each district.

If this is done, much of the hardship which is now really felt by the litigants will be removed. Take, for instance, as my honourable friend Mr. Desai has stated, the case of Bijapur, and, as the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik has said, the case of Dharwar and Haveri, and that of West Khandesh particularly referred to by Mr. Upasani. In the monsoon days it is a great hardship for people to go over 50 or 60 miles for a small litigation, and, looking to the inconvenience to which these people are put, it would be worth while for Government to examine this question and start courts wherever they are necessary.

As for linked courts, I do not know what my honourable friend Mr. Upasani has to say about it, but those of my friends who have served in the Judicial Department really complain of this system of linked courts. In the first instance, it is very inconvenient to the officers concerned. They have to shift every month, and that interferes with their comfort and with the education of their children. It also dislocates the arrangements of pleaders practising in such courts, and, therefore, the linked courts, which were started at the commencement of the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act, do not now find favour, and I think that system need not be continued. The ideal arrangement would be to have a court for each taluka, and, failing that, to examine the whole question and to locate courts according to the requirements of each place. Linked courts to my mind are not a convenience and it would be better if they were abolished.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Mr. D. V. Belvi; the Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—I have very great pleasure in supporting the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Upasani. The object which he has in view is to facilitate the work of the ryots and to afford them relief against the present conditions, under which it is very hard for them to attend the courts. I myself know something of village life, being myself a villager, and I find that, on account of the long distance between a particular village and the place where the courts are situated, the poor people generally who are sued as defendants find it very difficult and sometimes allow a suit to go undefended. Likewise, people who have got just claims as plaintiffs shrink from going to the courts and enforcing their just claims. Now, if the suggestion that is underlying the proposition of the Honourable Mr. Upasani is adopted, this difficulty will, to a great extent, be removed.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe, with his characteristic thoroughness, has examined the feasibility of adopting the suggestion, and I think the recommendations that he has made in his speech are worth consideration. Of course, it is a question more for the Government to decide than for individual members of the Council like myself to advise upon, having regard to the considerations of finance and the quantum of work executed, whether it would not be feasible to have one court for each taluka. But I think that that kind of difficulty can be very easily met by locating the courts in some such central places where they could serve two talukas in cases where one court for each taluka is not practicable and it becomes necessary to have one court for two talukas.

I have no experience of linked courts, which form part of the Honourable Mr. Upasani's resolution and to which reference has been made with disapproval by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe, because we have no such system in our part of the Presidency.

So far as the principle underlying this resolution is concerned, I think it deserves the support of the Council and I, therefore, commend the proposition of the Honourable Mr. Upasani for the acceptance of the members of the Council, leaving it to Government to work out the details that might suit the situation.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I have really no right to interfere in this discussion, but, in the district to which I belong, namely, Poona, we have got some linked courts. We have got a linked court for Saswad and Sirur talukas. For one month the court is held at Saswad and for the next month it is held in Sirur taluka. In each of these talukas separately I am told that there is not sufficient litigation to engage the attention of the judge throughout the year; hence the present arrangement of a linked court which is apparently giving satisfaction to the people who seem to be quite content with it. In assigning one court for each taluka, if it is found that there is not sufficient work for the judge throughout the year, then these linked courts will, in my opinion, prove a satisfactory alternative.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—I wish to make a few observations in support of the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Upasani. But, before I do so, I agree with my honourable friend, Rao Bahadur Sathe, that the wording of this resolution is not quite exact. It is only now that I discover that the Honourable Mr. Upasani wants to have a civil court located at the headquarters of each taluka. That is how I understand the resolution. The resolution simply says that there should be a court.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The resolution refers to linked courts.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—My resolution refers to a court at each taluka, if possible, but, if that is not possible, then a linked court.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Is it a civil court?

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Yes.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—I shall support the resolution only on general grounds. There is no doubt as to the inconvenience that is caused to ryots by the present system. I shall state what happens in my own district. I have been a lawyer there during the last 27 years and I find that in the town of Belgaum itself, during the last 12 years or so, there has been a joint subordinate judge. There is a first class subordinate judge and at least there is one subordinate judge exercising the powers of a second class subordinate judge. Now, the jurisdiction of the joint subordinate judge at Belgaum extends over two talukas, the taluka of Belgaum and the taluka of Khanapur. I do not really understand why this second class subordinate judge, who is located at Belgaum, should not be located at Khanapur to the immense convenience of the people of Khanapur, because most of those cases which can be tried by the second class subordinate judge at Belgaum come from Khanapur. All the same, men from the remotest part of the Khanapur taluka have to travel all the way to Belgaum. Sometimes they have to travel 40 miles and sometimes more than 40 miles. Inconvenience of this kind will be at once removed by the location of a civil court at the headquarters of each taluka.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi; the Vice-President.]

We may be told that it will be difficult to find enough work for a subordinate judge, if he were to be located in each taluka. That is perfectly true, but is it very difficult to provide the subordinate judge with sufficient work? Why should not a subordinate judge, who cannot find sufficient civil work in his own taluka, be asked to try criminal cases? Subordinate judges are generally men who are trained in law. They are generally graduates in law. They have to study law systematically and to pass a rigid test. I know that it may perhaps be said that it may interfere with the mamlatdars. I may be told that there is a mamlatdar exercising magisterial powers and that may give less work to the mamlatdar. Now, here again, in my opinion, the difficulty is not insuperable. It has already been accepted on the part of Government, in the case of a resolution which, I believe, was moved in the year 1917 by the Honourable Mr. V. J. Patel. The resolution related to the increase in the appointments of resident magistrates, and, in the course of the discussion, I remember that the Honourable Sir Mahadev Chaubal admitted on behalf of Government that it was not very difficult to make some sort of arrangement in the case of mamlatdars and magistrates. My suggestion then was, and I repeat it, that for revenue purposes, in the case of important talukas, there should be a mamlatdar, but that, in the case of unimportant talukas, the revenue work may be transacted by an aval karkun, and the magisterial and civil work may be handed over to the subordinate judge. I do not mean to deprive aval karkuns of their magisterial power. I know that there is a feeling among revenue officers that they must always be invested with magisterial powers to maintain their dignity. I am quite willing to leave some magisterial power to the aval karkun. But for two talukas there may be one mamlatdar who may supervise the work of the aval karkuns in the talukas so far as the revenue side is concerned. These mamlatdars may also exercise criminal jurisdiction if it is thought necessary.

What is wanted by the people is a resident stationary officer who exercises both civil and criminal powers. It is very inconvenient for the poor ryot to travel to a civil court which is situated at a distance of many miles, and it is also equally inconvenient for the ryot to follow a revenue officer who has to try criminal cases ,and who happens to be on tour at least for a fortnight every month.

I have already pointed out to this Council in the two resolutions which were accepted by Government last year the inconvenience to which ryots are exposed, and we are, I think, making an advance so far as criminal cases are concerned. If Government sits down to consider how to minimise the inconvenience which undoubtedly is caused to the ryot, the rural populace especially, I do not think it is very difficult to arrive at a satisfactory solution. Let it not be misunderstood that this is an indirect attempt to bring up the old question of the separation of the judicial from the executive. We are not considering the question from that point of view at all, because I have said that the officers of the Revenue Department may be allowed to exercise magisterial powers. But Government should make some sort of arrangement to redress the grievances of the poor people. How to do it and when to do it are questions which we are willing to leave to the discretion of Government. All that we ask is that Government should consider this matter very carefully from the point of view of the people living in rural areas.

I have very great pleasure in supporting the resolution of the Honourable Mr. Upasani. I do not attach weight to any particular wording in which this resolution may be passed; if there is any better wording to be suggested on the part of Government, we the members of this Council shall be only too glad to accept it. It is for us to state our grievances from our point of view to the Government and for Government to devise ways in which they are to be redressed.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—From the discussion which has taken place on this resolution, it is evident that there is a case for improving the existing arrangements. The Honourable Mr. Upasani referred to the Commission of 1879. It was recommended that each taluka should be provided with a separate court. That was done in some talukas. Then it was found to be extravagant, as the work was insufficient to occupy the full time of the subordinate judges and the money was, therefore, being wasted.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe stated the problem to be dealt with in a very fair way and he pointed out how we should approach the matter for its proper solution, having regard to the financial considerations, on the one hand, and the needs of the case on the other.

He referred to the fact that the Honourable Mr. Justice Hayward had recently been on tour and had taken up the question with regard to the jurisdiction of subordinate civil courts. Government have received from the High Court a letter on the subject matter of this resolution, pointing out that Mr. Hayward has returned and that proposals for revising the jurisdiction in individual cases are about to be made to Government.

With regard to the question of linked courts, the High Court inform us that the only representation which they have heard of in favour of such courts has been the one contained in the Honourable Mr. Upasani's resolution. The Honourable Mr. Justice Hayward has toured a very large part of the Presidency and has not received a single representation asking for the convenience of another linked court for a taluka which at present has no court of its own. On the contrary, he has received several objections against the system of linked courts. The system is inconvenient for this reason. The sub-judge sits at one court for one month and at another for the next month. Now, during the period he is at court A, all the work at court B is stopped. Nobody can get any work done there. And, when the month comes to an end, if the sub-judge happens to be in the middle of an important case, he has to stop it and proceed to court B. The case that was going on in court A has thus to be held up for a month. It seems to me that this is not a satisfactory arrangement, and, in order to meet the convenience of the ryots, some other way must be found.

I think honourable members will remember that in the budget for the current year two or three proposals have been made for establishing sub-judges' courts in fresh talukas. The principle which Government follow is the one stated by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe, which is to provide a court where there is sufficient work for a new court to deal with. It seems to me that some of the honourable members are pressing Government to be extravagant in the matter. They fail to realise, it strikes me, how great an expenditure is involved in having a sub-judge's court for each taluka. The Honourable Mr. Upasani, it is true, said "If necessary, have a linked court"; but I think linked courts should not be encouraged for the reason that I have already stated.

Now, to come back to the first alternative of having a court in every taluka. I am perfectly certain that, if honourable members look into the matter of the work that has to be done in several talukas, they will consider it very extravagant to have a court in each taluka. It is not only that a court involves a high recurring expenditure on Government, but also a very heavy expenditure on building. I do not know whether the Honourable Mr. Upasani or the Honourable Mr. Desai would think that the proposal for having a court in every taluka is worth the imposition of extra taxation. If the proposal is put to this test, I think it will be considered extravagant. To bring a school within the reach of every child is a justifiable policy, it seems to me, but not the one of having a court at the door of every ryot.

I do not think that Government can accept the resolution in the form in which it has been put by the Honourable Mr. Upasani. If it is held, and I think everyone who has studied the case will hold, that the linked court is not a system to be extended, then we come back to the first alternative that we should, whatever the circumstances are, provide one court for every taluka. That proposal Government cannot accept. What they are prepared to do is to take up the individual cases as they are recommended by the High Court after examination, and, as I said, the High Court are taking up the question with regard to providing a sufficient number of courts for the work to be done in this Presidency, and these proposals they state will be sent up for individual talukas. When these proposals are received, Government will give them sympathetic consideration. That is all that I, as representing Government, can undertake at present.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I am very thankful to my friends who so warmly supported my resolution. I think I should also thank Government for their sympathetic reply. At the outset I might clear the ground by stating that it was with a view to ascertain what was being done by Government that I postponed this resolution at the last sitting. It was then pointed out that the matter was under consideration of Government and was being gone into by the High Court Judge on tour. Nothing, however, appears to have been done in this matter and, therefore, I now propose that the policy adopted on the recommendation of the Government of India and introduced in the four Deccan districts, as regards the system of taluka courts and of linked courts, be now

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; the Vice-President.]

However, leaving that general question aside, I will point out that in this expropriation there is certainly a large amount of hardship and that is not entirely met by the amount of the compensation that is given to the expropriated villagers; and to the large number of people who have been attached to their soil for generations it is not enough to say they are getting 15 per cent. more than the market value of their land and that, therefore, they should not grumble. There are sentiments which cannot be put into the market and whose price cannot be adequately measured and, if one understands properly, one will feel that compensation, in the strict legal sense of the term, may be all right according to law but the people feel that they have not been getting the actual compensation. If the people are given land, in lieu of compensation, in some other places they might not complain. But Government undertakes no such responsibility of providing the people with land somewhere else. And, while we are talking in the Council, the higher officials of Government do not come to know these things at close quarters and there is a great deal of arbitrariness in the way in which the subordinate officials go about in their dealings with the people when they are acquiring lands for these schemes. Thus, for instance, we have often heard cases where, even before the notification under the act is published in the gazette, people belonging to the company go out to the land and begin their operations occasionally and, in one case at least that I know, although the notification has not even yet been issued, the company have commenced their operations and they are telling the people all sorts of things and I know also that some people wired to His Excellency the Governor and the Viceroy and others have sworn in the name of His Majesty the King-Emperor that they would not give up their land even if they are shot. I do not believe in all these things. But there is an impression of this kind among the people and, when we are going in an arbitrary manner and expropriating people who have been on this land for thousands of years, is it not very hard on the people? I put it to the Council whether it is in the interests of public or not to produce all this discontent.

When we are taking these steps, we ought to be as conciliatory to the general public as possible. If it was a question of a few individuals, it may not matter so much; but, in this case, the number of villages concerned and number of the people involved is so enormous that the question deserves the most serious consideration.

Again, in the case of these companies, they are merely commercial concerns. Well, I do not wish to go at present into the question of all the people who are interested in these companies, but, at any rate, all the capital does not come from the people of the country themselves. If one sees the manner in which recent company promotion and speculation has been going on, one will find that companies are started and the directors and their friends are supposed to have contributed most or all of the capital in the shape of shares, and shortly thereafter the shares are unloaded on the market at a premium and profits are made by these promoters in this manner. It is also complained that people whose lands are taken up are themselves not able to get shares in these companies. Occasionally they may get shares, but more often they are not able to get shares in connection with businesses which required the appropriation of their own lands. At any rate, they say this, "You are taking away our lands, all our ancestral property is going away; let us, at any rate, have some share, some small part, in the business that you are starting". I, therefore, propose that in this manner at least a small amount of local connection may be retained by allowing these people to get shares in the concerns in which the acquisition of their own property is involved.

In this connection, I might also point out that, to enable these poor people to take shares in these companies, the shares will, of course, have to be of small amounts. If they are, say, a thousand rupees worth and if people are to get a compensation of a hundred rupees or a few hundred rupees, they will not be able to take the shares. Some of the shares at least will have to be of comparatively small amounts. But, as I say, I do not wish to enter more deeply into this question and I hope to bring a more comprehensive resolution next time. But I hope the suggestion that I have now made will appeal to the Council and that I shall get their support.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—The Council will now adjourn till half past eleven to-morrow.

The Council then adjourned till 11-30 a.m. on Wednesday, the 17th March 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,

Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

EXTENSION OF TALUKA COURTS AND LINKED COURTS.

[16TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President.]

extended to all the districts in the Presidency so that the ryots may not have to go beyond the limits of their revenue talukas for their civil litigation. This system has been in operation in the four Deccan districts for the last 40 years and has been adopted in the case of some of the courts in the Ahmedabad, Kaira and Panch Mahals districts. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe very rightly observed that the ideal arrangement would be to have a court in each taluka where is sufficient civil work for one judge. If that is not possible, the next best compromise would be to have taluka courts for civil and criminal work together or linked courts, where necessary. The time lost in the case of linked courts is only a day or two required for the travelling from one court to the other, but it is more than made up by the saving in time made by the more expeditious disposal of the work under the system and for the ryots themselves it is better that the court is held at least every alternate month within the limits of their taluka than not at all and that they should have to go long distances outside their taluka for their civil litigation. The taluka court system has been found satisfactory and more convenient and less expensive for the ryots than the one under which the ryots have to go outside their talukas. I would be quite satisfied if any arrangements were made which would meet the needs of the case with the least expense. I do not mean that Government should take immediate action to appoint separate sub-judges for each and every taluka. The resolution does not bind the Government's hands in any way. It only urges that Government may be pleased to extend to all the districts in the Presidency the system already adopted by it in the four Deccan districts under orders of the Government of India and to arrange for separate or linked courts for each taluka, as may be necessary in each case, so as not to require the ryots to go outside the limits of their revenue taluka for their civil or criminal work.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I regret that the wording of the resolution would not permit of Government approving the policy. Their policy is that explained by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe. They cannot approve of an extension of the system of linked courts.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—If Government desire that the wording should be altered.....

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I am afraid I am not in a position to suggest any amendment.

I have endeavoured to explain to the honourable members the position of Government, what Government are going to do and what their policy is. It is not their policy to provide at all costs a court at each taluka town. One has to remember in the coming year, in fact next December, there will be demand on the one side for financial provision for the departments in charge of the ministers and, on the other, for the reserved subjects, such as law, justice and police; and I am afraid, if we were to say that one court for every taluka was required, the minister would then reply that it was unnecessary, that it was extravagant, that the money could have been better spent on schools, sanitation and medical relief.

The resolution was put to the vote and carried, 17 voting for and 16 against.

The Council divided as follows:—

Ayes.

The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Kashinath Ramchandra Godbole.
The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.
The Honourable Mr. Chunilal Vijbhukhandas Mehta, LL.B.

Noes.

The Honourable Sir George Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir Thomas J. Strangman, Kt.)
The Honourable Mr. Salebhoy Karimji Barodawalla.
The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [16TH MARCH 1920.]

Ayes.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shriniwas Naik.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.
The Honourable Mr. Gokuldas Kahandas Parekh, LL.B.
The Honourable Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit Bart.
The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas C.I.E., LL.B.

Noes.

The Honourable Mr. Mahomedbhoy Hajeebhoy.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 4. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye.

"This Council recommends that Government be pleased, when acquiring land for a new commercial concern under the Land Acquisition Act, to lay down a condition that the dispossessed owners be given the option of receiving the compensation for their lands in the form of fully paid up shares in that concern at par.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye: —Mr. President,—I have great pleasure in moving for the acceptance of this Council the resolution that has just been read by the Honourable the Vice-President to this Council.

I must say, in the first instance, that during the last year or two, in view of the increasing industrial activity which we welcome in general, a large number of hard cases have been occurring; and, in particular, a few schemes have been floated in recent years which require the acquisition of land on a scale almost unheard of previously. Formerly, the Land Acquisition Act was applied in cases where public utility was absolutely unquestionable. It was applied in the case of railways or where Government wanted land for some purpose or also in cases of commercial firms, but only on a very limited scale. But, in recent years, apparently the policy has been followed of acquiring land not as regards a few, 10 or 100 acres, but we are going in for acquiring land to the extent of thousands and tens of thousands of acres. Formerly, the question used to be of expropriating a few individuals and now it is a case of expropriating thousands of owners and a large number of villages. It may be all right occasionally when large irrigation schemes are in question. In that case, the utility of the work is not in question, and, as it is not a private speculation, people do not grumble very much. But in recent years there have been commercial concerns on a very large scale and the people intimately concerned with these acquisitions are beginning to look rather more carefully into the question of the actual public interest attaching to these concerns.

I am not, however, to-day going deeply into the question of this land acquisition in a more general manner and I intend, if possible, at the next meeting of the Council to offer constructive suggestions in the form of a resolution as to the manner in which land should be acquired or, at any rate, the cases in which land should be acquired. In the present case I am only referring to one small matter in connection with this land acquisition. The companies which have been floated in recent times, to which I referred, are several but I would mention, for example, three of these recent companies. One of them is the Belapur Syndicate which acquired several thousands of acres for the purpose of starting a big sugar concern. Another scheme of the same kind is the one in the Poona district, Nila Mula Scheme, as it is called, in which as many as 37 villages are to be expropriated. The number of villagers to be expropriated is something like 18,000 and perhaps also the Khopavali Land Company is also another which would require the acquisition of land on a very large scale. Now, these are companies for the purpose of making profits. But do they serve public interest? Of course, one can understand that anything that is done by any concerns in the country has more or less a remote reference to the interests of the public. But the question that we have got to consider is, whether the harm that is done and the outrage on the sentiments of the people are commensurate with the public interest which is subserved by these schemes.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

THURSDAY, 22ND APRIL 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay, assembled under the provisions of the Government of India Act, 1915 (5 and 6, Geo. V, Ch. 61).

The Council re-assembled at 11-30 a.m. on Wednesday the 17th March 1920, in the Council Hall, Secretariat, Bombay.

PRESENT:

The Honourable Sir G. CARMICHAEL, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. CURTIS, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir THOMAS J. STRANGMAN, Kt., Bar.-at-Law).
The Honourable Mr. DATTATRAYA VENKATESH BELVI, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. RUPCHAND BILARAM, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. H. BROOKE.
The Honourable Mr. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.
The Honourable Mr. F. CLAYTON.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. COVERNTON, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. PANDURANG ANANT DESAI, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Saheb HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. E. ENTHOVEN, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Major C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur SIDDHANATH DHONDDEV GARUD.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur KASHINATH RAMCHANDRA GODBOLE.
The Honourable Mr. MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.
The Honourable Shaikh GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, LL.B.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. P. J. Mead.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. J. D. JENKINS.
The Honourable Mr. BALKRISHNA SITARAM KAMAT.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur PIR BAKSH walad MIAN MAHMUD, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. MEAD, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. CHUNILAL VIJBHUKHANDAS MEHTA, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur VENKATESH SHRINIWAS NAIK.
The Honourable Mr. RAGHUNATH PURSHOTTAM PARANJPYE.
The Honourable Mr. GOKULDAS KAHANDAS PAREKH, LL.B.
The Honourable Sir DINSHAW MANOCKJEE PETIT, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI.
The Honourable Mr. L. ROBERTSON, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur GANESH KRISHNA SATHE, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. SEDDON, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. SHOUBRIDGE, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. SMITH, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. SHRIDHAR BALKRISHNA UPASANI.
The Honourable Mr. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E., LL.B.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Discussion of matters of general public interest. Further discussion of resolution No. 4.

The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead:—Mr. President,—If I may take the terms of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's resolution as affording a sign-board to the path along which he would naturally proceed to marshal his arguments, I think it must be admitted that perhaps the honourable member has travelled a little wide afield. That, I think, is not perhaps so unfortunate, in view of the fact that he has promised us a more interesting discussion later on.

To deal first with the case for expropriated ryots. I happen to have received a deputation lately from cultivators in the Poona district in the Mulshi peta, who are affected by what is known as the Nila-Mula scheme. There were several misconceptions which I was very glad to be able to remove, and I think it possible that those misconceptions may be shared by certain members of this Council. The only stage which has been reached so far in connection with the Nila-Mula acquisition is that the company are endeavouring to enter upon lands which are urgently required, but which have not yet been notified and the members of the deputation represented that it was illegal, high-handed and generally extremely unfortunate that the company should have endeavoured to get possession of the lands without any legal sanction. Mr. Hudson, the Collector of Poona, had already pointed out, and I reinforced his argument when the deputation came to see me, that, on the other hand, those few cultivators who were affected had the chance of their lives, and they were throwing away their chances on the bare chance of stopping the whole acquisition. It is true that the lands in question have not been notified. Therefore, the company had to pay precisely what the cultivators chose to ask for permission to enter on these lands, which was a matter of urgency. I think the deputation, when they left, understood the situation, and I hope that the cultivators will now allow the company to proceed with their works, and I also hope that they will make the company pay handsomely for the concession.

To come to the second stage of the acquisition, after notification, the deputation had already read, as many members of this Council may have read, the agreement in the Andhra Valley case. But the deputation misunderstood those conditions. The condition to which I refer is that, in the case of acquisition of lands for the Andhra Valley scheme, it is stipulated that twice the market value of the land shall be paid in addition to the 15 per cent. for compulsory acquisition. The expropriated ryots are to receive the market value plus 15 per cent., in accordance with the terms of the act. It is not the intention of Government, as was supposed by the deputation, to profit to the extent of 100 per cent. on the transaction. The 100 per cent. on the market value is to be reserved and funded purely and solely for the benefit of the expropriated ryots and the inhabitants of the tract generally. The proposals in the case of the Nila-Mula scheme have also come under the consideration of Government and Government, as at present advised, have proposed to vary the terms slightly. Roughly, it is proposed that such compensation is to be payable by the company as, on a full consideration of the losses to be incurred by the persons to be dispossessed and other persons affected by the acquisition of the land and the execution of the project, Government may judge to be fair and reasonable. But there is this distinction, which honourable members will note, that we propose to compensate, and compensate liberally, resettling, wherever possible, all expropriated ryots. We do not propose to make a fund for the general amelioration of the tract, and for this there are good reasons. Anybody who knows that tract of country will realise that there is only a limited amount of rice land, that that rice land necessarily is the first land to be submerged and that, therefore, if we are to arrange for the resettlement of such of the expropriated ryots as have no other means of subsistence except agriculture, it is almost essential that they should move to another part of the country. In discussion with the deputation, I suggested, and I think it is probable that enquiries may be made in that direction, that Government should possibly utilise the services of a member of the Agricultural Department to examine tracts of country where the expropriated ryots could be settled, if possible in small colonies, and I am hopeful that some such scheme may be practicable. I am not hopeful that the whole of the 8,000 cultivators will find as much land as is required, but, so far as it is humanly and reasonably possible, Government will use their endeavours to do so, and the company will pay the bill.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. P. J. Mead.]

I then come on to another case, the Belapur case. When I first went to the Ahmednagar district, famine was sore in the land. In the course of a tour through the arid eastern talukas, I came in due course to the northernmost taluka of Kopergaon. The Honourable Mr. Curtis will bear me out when I say that the change, as I reached Rahata, from the arid and stony wold of the Deccan to the broad, green fields of wheat, as far as the eye could see, was startling. Further, as the famine progressed and as the measures for famine protection increased, the value of this large tract of land under irrigation, its demands for labour and so forth, were extremely noticeable. In this tract I first met the Saswad mali, and this brings me to the beginning of my arguments on the subject of Deccan irrigation. The Saswad mali is an extremely capable market gardener. When the Deccan canals first came along, the Saswad mali forsook his figs and brinjals and turned his attention, amongst other things, to sugarcane. He applied his market gardening methods to sugarcane. But he swamped the land with water. He perhaps alone of the cultivators of the Deccan realised that, as in other industries, money breeds money and that, if we want big returns, we must spend large sums, and the Saswad mali was prepared to do so and his sowcar, who knew his reputation as a good cultivator, backed him up. The Saswad mali tried to get as much land as he could. He thus, when he had exhausted the possibilities of Poona, came on to this new land and he applied the same methods there. He had a certain measure of success and we are grateful to him. He taught the local Maratha how to spend his money and he taught us the value of the land. But several consequences ensued from his methods of cultivation. The soil in the Deccan is extremely bad. There are large tracts of murum. Water runs through a murum subsoil as water runs through a pipe. If you go to Java, which is the home of careful cultivation, where water is extremely valuable and all expenses are cut down to a minimum on commercial lines, you will be told that they water the cane with a teaspoon. The Saswad mali used a bucket, and the bucket leaked. Wherever the murum soil predominated, the water ran freely for miles. The Honourable Mr. Seddon will bear me out when I say that as this subsoil water ran freely on large tracts of country it occasionally banked up against a stratum of impervious black soil and rose producing waterlogging. Therefore, the Saswad mali, having raised, not as fine crops as he could have, but fine crops of cane, having shown us the value of manure, having shown us the value of the land and the ridiculously low pitch of irrigational rates which the local Maratha regarded as entirely prohibitive,—the Saswad mali paid gladly twice and even three times the irrigation rates for irrigating land which he was not strictly allowed to cultivate—did, as a consequence of his faulty methods, ruin a large amount of land in the vicinity. But he has clearly established two principles. The first is that you must plant your cane down in land which is suitable for cane, suitable not only in texture and depth of soil, but as regards available drainage channels in the vicinity, and the second is that you cannot send four or five cusecs swinging down so many miles of a canal to water a few acres of cane land scattered all along the length of the canal.

You must then ascertain which of your land is suitable for cane cultivation and you must have your cane, so far as possible, concentrated in suitable places. Now, it is not a very easy thing to do it. I will come later to the cost of Deccan irrigation, but . . . .

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. P. J. Mead; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—May I point out to the honourable member that the 15 minutes allowed to him has come to an end?

The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead:—Thank you, sir. I shall now close with a few words.

The prime need, then, was for a first class example of intensive cultivation under irrigation, not only intensive cultivation but, if possible, for an industrial adjunct to it, namely, a sugar-cane manufactory. Honourable members may at once ask, if it is granted that you must develop your canals, that you must have your cultivation in one place and that the water must be economically used, still, why not protect the expropriated cultivator? The answer is simple. The cultivator needs no protection at all. An industrial project of this kind depends entirely on the good-will of the cultivator. He must be kept contented, he must be given all facilities for cultivation; otherwise the whole industrial project falls through. But it was proposed from the beginning, in the case of the Belapur Syndicate, that shares should be made available for cultivators. As a matter of fact, 45 per cent. of the shares in the Belapur Syndicate are held by Indian gentlemen some of whom are residing in the district. Nearly half a lakh or 496 shares of Rs. 100 each have also been reserved for the expropriated cultivators who may wish to take them up with the money compensation paid to them.

Lastly, very briefly, honourable members, including the Honourable Mr. Purshotumdas, were extremely anxious that protective irrigation should be extended as rapidly as possible. Our ghat rainfall is a very valuable asset which we must develop by all means in our power, but it is a very expensive business. It is not such an easy proposition to build irrigation works wherever they are wanted. It costs money, and, as in the case of cane cultivation, you must secure high returns to meet the high costs of capital charges on such works. Therefore, in order to extend protective irrigation rapidly, Government must share in the enhanced value of land under command and the water thus made available must be used quickly to the best possible advantage.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—Much as I respect anything that falls from my friend the honourable mover of this resolution, I regret that his present proposal does not commend itself to my commonsense standpoint. Now, in the first place, there arises the question, a very obvious question, to which I thought the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye would vouchsafe an answer in his speech. But in the end I was disappointed. There was not only no answer, but there was not even a reference made to the question. The question was just now referred to in indirect terms by the Honourable Mr. Mead at the end of his speech. That question is, why cannot the dispossessed ryot or dispossessed proprietor of land, if he is so minded, invest his cash compensation in the shares of the company in the open market? Why go through this devious process which involves so many complications?

The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, I think, has omitted to take into consideration that giving effect to this resolution will involve some change in law, rather two laws. This question is connected with the law of acquisition of lands and the law of companies. The law of acquisition of lands governs the whole of India, which makes money as the only compensation and no other.

The Advocate General:—Also land in exchange.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—And land compensation as the Advocate General reminds me.

The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in his resolution simply suggests that the Government should make it a condition that an option should be given to dispossessed owners to take money compensation or compensation in the shape of shares. It is not enough to make a condition like that. To give effect to it, it will be necessary to introduce an amendment to the Land Acquisition Act. The question will then arise, whether for the sake of these dispossessed landowners it will be in the interests of the general public to make alterations in the act which operates for the whole of India. Again, the amendment will have to be so framed as would be applicable only to this kind of proprietors of land. If you were to consult the interests of the general public who would all be affected by this act, will they be inclined to favour such an amendment? So much about the law of land acquisition.

To come to the law of companies, which is the Indian Companies Act. The holding of shares in a company is governed by this act. I think, on the one hand, those who invest their money voluntarily in shares within the limited time have got equal rights with the rest of the public to get the shares, and limited liability companies which are registered

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.]

under the Indian Companies Act have no option to refuse any shares. On the other hand, the act would exact certain obligations from the shareholders. Now, does the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye propose that those obligations have also to be exacted from these landed proprietors? Would it be advisable, would it be fair, to interfere with the freedom of the companies? All these things have to be taken into consideration. Perhaps the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye would reply that as his resolution only aims at an option to the expropriated owners, if they choose they may not exercise their options in favour of shares. But that leaves out of account the interests of the general public.

Then, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye went far afield, quite outside the scope of the resolution, by running down the land acquisition officers and by dilating upon their iniquities. I do not see how this has got anything to do with the case. Does he mean to say that by this resolution all those iniquities will be removed? If the land acquisition officers are very hard upon the landowners now, how is that hardship to be mitigated by merely giving the option of compensation to the landed proprietors? Then, Mr. Paranjpye has referred to the business of the companies being of a speculative character. Quite so. In that case it would be unwise to drag these unsophisticated landowners into speculative business which would be the case. What appears to my mind to be the situation is this, if this resolution were accepted, that these expropriated landowners, about whom we have had some account from the Honourable Mr. Mead, do not seem to be altogether dissatisfied with the acquisition of their land under the new project. Of course, that may be a question that might be elaborated upon, and the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye might have something to say about it. But I would rather think that the proprietor of land in these parts of the country who has not been touched by the modern commercialism would have his sense of proprietorship more gratified by the chink of coin than by mere scrips of paper as represented by the shares.

Then again there is another difficulty. So far as the taking of shares in companies is concerned, we have it that part of the share money is advanced at the time of application and some more on allotment of shares, and so on. According to the resolution, the shares would be deemed to be fully paid up. How can this fit in with the Companies' Act, and how can it be accepted as a condition governing the case only of these expropriated landdowners only, whereas other shareholders would be governed by other conditions?

For all these reasons, sir, I think the proposition is entirely unworkable and is not calculated to serve the object which the honourable mover has in view. I am sorry I cannot support the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—One thing that struck me and which I noted with some pain in the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's remarks in moving the resolution was the undercurrent of regret with which he referred to the question of venture and enterprise in the direction of hydro-electric efforts in this Presidency. I should have thought, sir, that a person of the intelligence and of the broad view of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye would have hailed it with great joy and satisfaction. If that is not so, all that I can say is that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has prejudiced his case by moving the resolution in the way in which he has done. He referred to the utility of the purposes for which Government acquire land. He said that he had nothing to complain if Government acquired land for irrigation, protective or otherwise; but, when he came to the question of Government acquiring land for various hydro-electric schemes, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye appeared to me—and I speak open to correction—to rather regret that Government should have used the privilege of acquisition of land under the Land Acquisition Act for the purposes of certain industrial concerns, namely, the Hydro-Electric Company and the Khopoli Land Companies. I certainly think that the majority of this Council will have no sympathy with the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye. I would like to ask him if he thinks it possibe that any of these companies could possibly have been started if Government had not acquired land and given them that facility which was the mainspring of those enterprises. If the reply to this is " no " and if it is also conceded on the other side that these enterprises have been in the right direction conducing to the prosperity of Bombay, the only inference is that Government have taken the right course. The one evil is of temporarily inconveniencing the people whose lands have been taken up and the other evil is of leaving things as they are even though capable of improvement.

I do not think I need say anything more in showing that or in hoping that this Council will say to Government that they have taken up the only correct course and this has not been done a day too soon.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye named two companies, one the Belapur Syndicate and the other the Tata Company. As regards the Belapur Syndicate, I understand from the Honourable Mr. Lalubhai Samaldas, who is not here to-day, that he has offered the cultivators in that area shares at par so that, as far as that instance goes, it does not support the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's resolution. As regards the Tata Power Company, the Honourable the Chief Secretary has made a very lucid statement before the Council, but, before I proceed further, I should like to refer to one or two exaggerated statements that were made yesterday by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in connection with the Tata Power Company. He said that he would mention three companies. One of those was the Belapur Syndicate and the two others have reference to the Tata schemes. One of the latter had to acquire 31 villages with a population of 15,000 to be made homeless. Since I heard these figures in the Council yesterday I had a telephone message from the Secretary of the Tata Power Company and, as far as I could understand on the telephone, the position is that the total number of villages that will be expropriated for the Tata works is not 31 but 11 and the number of the people concerned therein per village is on an average (the secretary told me) 200; the total number of the people affected will be 2,200 and not 15,000.

The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye also told us that the people there were being treated in a very harsh manner by the acquisition officers concerned and how some of them had sworn by the Maruti and the King-Emperor that they would not leave their land or would not allow the company to take possession of their land. I understand from the Secretary that nothing of the sort has happened. More than 75 per cent. of the people whose lands were to be acquired allowed admission to the officers of the Tata Power Company and the officers concerned in the acquisition quite willingly. As a matter of fact, the Secretary said many of them welcomed them. However, it may be that only six or seven people resisted the officers of the company or the acquisition officers and the reason for that is that a few enterprising pleaders from Poona sent up their representatives to tell the people whose lands were affected that they should start a little agitation and that they should not allow the lands to be acquired easily. I understand that a telegram has been sent on to His Excellency the Viceroy and some sort of agitation is going on in the interval. Of course, nobody would mind pleaders in any part of the country standing by cultivators or holders of land and teaching them to safeguard their own interests. But I certainly feel that this Council will approve of no sort of agitation being made by anybody before seeing that things are not going on smoothly and having proof of the same.

As far as the Tata Power Company is concerned, the directors of that company are very anxious to see that the agriculturists there get the full value of the land and, in addition, 15 per cent., and, if any cultivator had expressed any desire to subscribe to the shares, the directors would have been willing to let them have all they wanted. So that, even in the case of this concern quoted as an illustration by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, the managers of the same are willing in every way to help the landholders.

Coming now to the general question raised by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, I understand, sir, that, in the case of the Khopoli Land Company, Government have not only not been satisfied with taking 15 per cent. in addition to the value of the land from the company, but an additional sum has been or is going to be taken from the company for the purpose of the amelioration of the Katkaris who are going to be expropriated from that land. Anybody who knows the way in which the Katkaris live will surely congratulate Government for their thought of taking some additional money from the company with the express object of improving the condition of the Katkaris who at present live in a very bad state.

As regards the various hardships of expropriation to which the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye referred, I may tell him that I happen to be a victim of this system of acquiring land for industrial purposes. A bungalow in Lanauli with nine acres of land, in which I am interested and which used to be my resort during the summer months, has had its compound very badly cut into two by a big leaky wall running through the compound and has also become a malarious place. But after all, when you consider the extent of the benefit to the industries concerned, some such inconvenience to a comparatively few persons has to be tolerated. I really wonder if sentiment is to be allowed to have complete sway in matters where industrial requirements are concerned. Therefore, when I speak about this, I certainly do not speak with a light heart, without experience or knowledge or from what I hear from others, but I myself have been a victim and I have the fullest sympathy with the people who are compelled to leave their homes.

Now, as regards the principle of acquisition, the honourable mover has nothing tangible to suggest as far as the needs of the class of people affected are concerned. He does not urge Government to give the people expropriated more than 15 per cent. He says

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna.]

"Give them the option of subscribing to the shares of the company at par." I must not overlook that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has promised to bring in a comprehensive resolution next session in this Council and I shall wait for that resolution, for, if he can put before the Council and Government something more businesslike and something that will tend more to the relief of such landholders who have to be expropriated, I can assure him that he will have my fullest sympathy. But in the meantime let us discuss what he has put before the Council. He says "Give the man the option of subscribing for the shares at par." He has told us that it is necessary that shares of a smaller denomination than Rs. 500 or Rs. 100, that is, shares of Rs. 10 or Rs. 5 should be issued to them. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye surely understands and is aware that these companies do not begin to pay interest till three or four years after their initiation. So, if this class of people are expected by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye to preserve the scraps of shares for, say, five years and to claim their dividends whenever they are declared at the end of five years or more, I am inclined to think that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye is overestimating their intelligence and interest in the share market. We have been told that the people in the districts who have subscribed to the various war loans do not know where to get the interest of their war loan bonds. I hope the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye will bring out in his comprehensive resolution next session something that is more sure to give relief to the expropriated landholder, and, in that case, he will command the fullest attention of this Council. But in my opinion the present remedy that he has suggested is no remedy at all. He takes it for granted that all such concerns will be sound and will give regular dividends. We all hope they may, but some of them may not. Some of these may go to the wall. What has the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye to say about the discontent that would arise among these people if anything like that happened?

Under these circumstances I submit, sir, that this resolution may be held over by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye until his promised comprehensive resolution comes before the Council, and I am quite sure that Government would also like to learn from him what better remedies he can suggest by which one industrial enterprise in this direction will not be handicapped, but will be left to go on developing and at the same time bringing better relief to the people about whose sentiments we have heard so much to-day.

With these words I am inclined to suggest that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye should have the resolution postponed until he brings in his full resolution on this subject.

The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna:—Mr. President,—We are accustomed to listen with respect to the views advanced by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in this Council on educational matters, but I am afraid we cannot with equal readiness endorse his views on matters commercial. I make bold to say that there is not a single businessman on this Council who will accept the arguments advanced by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in favour of his resolution. Speaking yesterday on the Honourable Mr. Belvi's resolution wanting the Educational Department to hold annual examinations in all subjects in all classes of secondary schools, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye is reported in this morning's papers to have criticised this resolution by saying that laymen like the Honourable Mr. Belvi in moving a resolution on the technical management of educational institutions were led by theoretical considerations rather than by what actually happened. I think, sir, I may level the same criticism at the head of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in regard to his own resolution. Mr. Paranjpye was very eloquent as to the hardships that the dispossessed landlords had to submit to. He protested so emphatically as to give one an idea that lands belonging to cultivators were confiscated, and they got no compensation for what was acquired by Government for industrial companies. He has not said whether these cultivators are compensated or not, but the Honourable Mr. Mead has explained that ample compensation is given, in fact, very much more than the market value of the land, to the cultivators who are dispossessed. If the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's point is that the hardship the cultivators have to put up with is a sentimental one, namely, that owners have to give up their lands where they and their families have lived perhaps for years and even for generations, then I quite agree with that view; but, if that be so, then the sacrifice on their part, it must be admitted, is in the general interest of the great majority.

Mr. President, if such a sacrifice has to be made, it is not made by the cultivator class alone. It also extends to towns like Bombay. I may give the instance of the Bombay Improvement Trust. The Bombay Improvement Trust, for the benefit of making Bombay more sanitary, is permitted to acquire lands. Many buildings have been in the occupation of the owners for decades of years, and it costs a great pang to have to surrender it and yet in the general interest this has to be done. We may as well say that the Improvement Trust should be turned into a limited company and should issue shares and the owners of acquired land should be compensated, in addition to the market value of their land, by issuing to them shares at par, and, owing to appreciation in land values in the city, such shares would naturally be at a high premium. I, therefore, contend, sir, that if there is any sacrifice, it is made in the general interest of the large majority. There is just now a wave of progress in industrial enterprise as well as in other directions in the country, and it behoves Government as well as the public to promote rather than retard it in the manner which I am surprised to find my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye advocates. Sir, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has questioned the wisdom of Government in recognising works such as the Tata Hydro-Electric Works and similar concerns as works of public utility. I need not dwell on that point, because my honourable friend Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas has already dealt with it at some length. Works like these are not only in the interests of the community generally, but they primarily benefit the villages from where these lands are acquired, inasmuch as they provide more lucrative employments, and the villagers, who are to-day men of slender means, by degrees become prosperous and add to the prosperity of the country at large.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna; The Advocate General.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

Then, sir, we have to consider if there really is such a great demand on the part of the villagers for shares in companies which start factories on their lands. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has told us that only a certain number of such villagers did ask for some shares in one company he named; how many they are, he has not said. I venture to submit, sir, that an ordinary villager, if left to himself, would never dream of investing in shares of companies. Of course, as education spreads and the villagers become literate, things may be different and they may in years to come invest in these shares, and let us hope that this will be so. But at the moment, if there is any demand whatsoever, it is absolutely limited. I doubt if it is even a fraction of 1 per cent.

I think the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's proposal is wrong both in theory and practice. The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai has pointed out some difficulties in regard to giving effect to this resolution. So has the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas. I will not, therefore, repeat them. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye says that these landholders should be given fully paid up shares which, as the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai pointed out, would create complications. But, sir, there is one other important point. Companies are promoted, as the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye knows, at what is believed to be the right time. By "right time" I mean when the money market is not stringent and there are other favourable circumstances. The honourable member proposes that a portion of the shares be kept in reserve for the landowners who have been dispossessed of their lands for a particular concern. It may be that when these shares are offered to these cultivators, conditions may have become so different that there may not be any demand for these shares and they may be had in the market at a discount. Will it be right to handicap the company in this way? There are many other reasons why the proposal is not feasible. I trust, therefore, that as it is both impracticable and unworkable, the honourable mover will accept my honourable friend Mr. Purshotamdas's advice and postpone this resolution till he can improve on it and include it in the more comprehensive one which he has told us he hopes to bring forward at the next session of the Council.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir T. J. Strangman):—Mr. President,—It is an extremely unfortunate thing that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in proposing this resolution yesterday should have thought fit to attack various companies and their officials and in so doing he created a considerable amount of wholly unnecessary prejudice and led to much wholly unnecessary discussion. Now, there can be no doubt whatever that, having regard to the interests of the country as a whole, it is in the highest degree important that works of the class to which the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye refers should be undertaken and, of course, encouraged. And, further, it is quite clear that without the aid of the Land Acquisition Act it would be absolutely impossible to carry these works through. Now, when you apply the Land Acquisition Act, you are bound to cause a certain amount of hardship to a few people. But, after all, in considering a matter of this kind, you have got to consider the welfare of the majority and, if it is to the welfare of the majority that the work should be carried through, the fact that a few people would be prejudiced or inconvenienced should not stand in the way of putting the act into force.

Well, now just to turn to the wording of the resolution for a moment, it runs in these terms:—

> "This Council recommends that Government be pleased, when acquiring land for a new commercial concern under the Land Acquisition Act, to lay down a

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [The Advocate General; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Sir D. M. Petit.] condition that the dispossessed owners be given the option of receiving the compensation for their lands in the form of fully paid-up shares in that concern at par."

Well, there is a technical objection to the resolution, and it is this, that under the Land Acquisition Act compensation can only be paid either in the form of money or in the form of land. But I take it that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's idea is really this, that the dispossessed cultivator should be given an opportunity, if he so desires, of not being paid in shares but of investing the compensation money that he gets from the Collector, in whole or in part, in shares of the company, and, if that is his idea, I would suggest an amendment to the resolution so that it would run in this way:—

"This Council recommends that Government be pleased when acquiring land for a new commercial concern under the Land Acquisition Act, to lay down a condition that the dispossessed owners be given an option of investing the compensation or any part of such compensation in fully paid-up shares in such concern at par."

If the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye accepts that amendment, I for one should be very pleased to support it.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—I accept that amendment.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir T. J. Strangman):—Well, I am glad that I have got the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's approval to the amendment. His idea, I understand, is that the expropriated proprietor should be given an opportunity of investing his compensation money in the shares of the company at par. Now, on that point the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai said that if the expropriated proprietor wished to purchase shares in the concern, there was nothing to prevent him from so doing in the market. The object of the resolution, however, is to let the expropriated owner in on the ground floor, and it appears to me that the man whose land is expropriated should be in that favoured position.

Well, now just another point. The Honourable Mr. Sethna suggested that a company requiring land would be prejudiced by such a resolution. But I venture to think that that would not be so at all. After all, the market value of the land under the land acquisition proceedings would bear but a very small proportion indeed to the capital of the company, and the company would be giving a very small concession indeed to the expropriated proprietor, a concession, however, which he himself might very much value. I do not think there can be any technical objection to the resolution in the form I have suggested. It is quite true that under the Land Acquisition Act there is nothing which provides that Government can lay down any conditions, beyond the execution of an agreement, before setting the act in motion for a company. But, on the other hand, there is nothing whatever in the act which says that Government must put the act in motion or shall not impose any condition, and I do not myself see any legal objection to Government imposing such a condition as this before it sets the act in motion.

The Honourable Sir D. M. Petit:—Mr. President,—I wish to oppose the proposition as it is amended by the amendment proposed by the Honourable the Advocate General. I entirely agree with the remarks that have been made by the other speakers who have opposed the proposition and, therefore, I do not wish to go over the same ground that has been laid by them before the Council. But, sir, there is a further objection which I wish to point out to this Council and it is this, that the operation of acquiring land does not begin till a company is formed and the license is granted by Government. All that process takes some months, and by the time the work of acquiring the land commences the shares are quoted in the stock exchange and then they are at a premium or at a discount. What would happen is this. If the shares are at a premium, the cultivator whose land has been acquired would take up the shares, but if they are at a discount, he would, in that case, want hard cash. This, sir, would be a one-sided arrangement altogether and I do not think that this Council should pass a resolution which would give such unfair treatment to the companies and would give such an advantage to the landholders over the companies. I must say, sir, that there is considerable force in the grievances that have been mentioned by my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye as to the manner in which the Land Acquisition Act is being worked at present. I myself know of several instances where great injustice has been done, but they are at present sub judice and therefore I do not wish to allude to them. But, sir, the remedy proposed by my honourable friend is absolutely unsuitable and impracticable and I therefore wish to oppose it. But, if at a later stage he brings a proposition which would ask Government to investigate the working of the Land Acquisition Act, I will be glad to support him. As it is, I regret I am unable to support the proposition and I trust the Council will reject it.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[Mr. C. V. Mehta; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Mr. President,—I entirely agree with the Honourable the Advocate General that the remarks that have been so far made in opposition to this proposition have really gone on the wider principle of the necessity for acquiring land for industrial purposes. I do not wish, sir, to address myself on that subject at all, firstly, because that does not arise on this resolution and, secondly, because the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye wishes to bring it is as a definite issue at the next meeting of this Council. The issue in this case, sir, is to my mind fairly simple. When land is acquired for industrial purposes, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye merely wishes that the compensation received for the land should be liable to be invested in the shares of that company. I take it, sir, that there cannot be any reasonable objection to give an option of this kind to expropriated owners. It has been pointed out, sir, that most of the companies do in fact give facilities to the owners whom they dispossess. That I know, sir, is a fact and, if that is so, I cannot possibly understand what objection there could be to lay down a condition before land acquisition proceedings take place that, if the cultivators so choose, or if the dispossessed expropriated landowners so choose, they may have a certain number of shares reserved in the concern for whom the acquisition is going to take place. I said, sir, that it is a fact that most companies reserve a portion of their capital for the expropriated landowners. That is borne out by a letter which Mr. Harrison, on behalf of the Belapur Company, Limited, has written to Government. I beg permission to read that letter not only because it bears out the point that I mention, but also because it disposes of the objection which the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai raised as to it being perfectly open to the cultivators to buy the shares afterwards in the open market like any other member of the public. Well, sir, it is in most cases impossible for them to do so. That is pointed out in this letter. He says:—

> "I would explain that when the company was floated the Directors decided to reserve Rs. 50,000 worth of shares for the cultivators whose land was acquired and they also decided to reserve 45 per cent. of the shares for Indians living in the district, but only 2,198 of these were applied for and have been allotted in full, though I understand there are several cultivators who still wish to purchase shares, but until they receive payment for their lands, they are not in a position to do so. We have however definitely reserved 496 shares for such investors and I think this is as much as they will be able to take up."

Well, sir, that shows that until the compensation is made available to the cultivators, they are not in a position to acquire any shares from the company. It also happens, sir, that for any concern that goes in for acquisition of land on an industrially large scale the cost of the land is really a very small part of the capital and it is perfectly easy to reserve, as in the case of the Belapur Company, a small number of shares.

As regards the point that the cultivators would have the advantage in both ways, whether the shares went up or whether the shares went down, I think, sir, that, even if such a contingency arose, those who are permanently dispossessed of the land should have the option of applying for these shares, even if they were quoted at a premium, as they are quoted in the case of the Belapur Company now; in fact, the shares are not available. And yet the directors deliberately reserve Rs. 50,000 worth of shares for the cultivators. I do not think it will create any hardship and I think that it is only fair.

Turning to the wording of the resolution, I am afraid it is somewhat defective, even though considerable improvement has been made in it by the amendment that the Honourable the Advocate General has suggested. You will see that the resolution says that Government be pleased, when acquiring land for a new commercial concern, to do certain things. In the first place, it limits the scope of this resolution to a new commercial concern only. I would, therefore, like to amend the resolution as follows:—

"This Council recommends that Government be pleased, when acquiring land for commercial concerns under the Land Acquisition Act, to lay down a condition that the dispossessed owners be given the option of investing the whole or a part of such compensation for their lands in fully paid up shares in that concern at par, either in the original issue of shares or in any subsequent issue of capital."

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—I accept both the amendments.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—I would like to ask the honourable member a question. Does not the amendment imply that if Government acquires land for the

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. C. V. Mehta; Mr. G. S. Curtis; the Vice-President; the Advocate-General; Mr. G. K. Parekh.]

Bank of Bombay, either at headquarters or anywhere else in the district, the landholders are entitled to demand the Bank of Bombay shares at Rs. 500 each?

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—We are discussing concerns where cultivators are being expropriated.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—I beg the honourable member's pardon. Does the honourable member imply that the holders of land are entitled to demand compensation, say, of Rs. 2,000, in the shape of four Bank of Bombay shares at Rs. 500 each?

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Replying to the question that the Honourable Mr. Curtis has raised, it seems to me that really the question does not arise at all. My object in amending this resolution was this, that a concern, let us take the case of the Bank of Bombay as suggested by the Honourable Mr. Curtis, goes in for the acquisition of land under the Land Acquisition Act. It is not issuing any capital, either fresh or subsequent. Therefore, in the case of the Bank of Bombay this resolution would not apply. The compensation would be paid in the shape of money. The dispossessed landowners will have no right to ask for the Bank of Bombay shares. ... ...

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I think in the subsequent issue of capital.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—That is, if, for the acquisition of that land, the Bank of Bombay is issuing fresh capital, then in that case the landowner shall have the right of investing his compensation in that fresh issue.

The Honourable the Advocate General (Sir T. J. Strangman):—In order to get over the difficulty, may I suggest the phrase "in any issue of capital for the purpose of such acquisition"?

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—I rise to a point of order. The question before the Council is the resolution in the amended form.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Perhaps the wording suggested by the Honourable the Advocate General would be an improvement. But, if objection is going to be taken to it by the Honourable Mr. Curtis, I think the present wording is good enough to carry out the wishes of this Council. The wording that is suggested by the Honourable the Advocate General may not include cases where capital may not be issued for just the acquisition of land. Therefore I think, sir, it is best to leave the amendment as it stands, particularly as the Honourable Mr. Curtis wishes to take objection to it. In supporting the amendment, I wish to say, sir, that, in the first place, the dispossessed landowners, whether cultivators or anybody else, are entitled to receive not only 15 per cent. in excess of the ruling value of the land under the Land Acquisition Act, but they should be given the option of taking up shares if they wish to do so; and, even if the shares are quoted at a premium, then I think the landowner, particularly if he is a cultivator, has got a sufficient claim to the shares in the company. The amendment will embrace old as well as new companies and will only operate where fresh issue of capital is being made. It will not hurt companies who may have acquired a reserve and are going in for the acquisition of land at a later date and do not require the issue of fresh capital for the purpose of extending their business. In such cases it would be obviously unfair to compel the companies to issue fresh capital merely to allow cultivators to invest their compensation in the shares of the companies. I hope, sir, the original proposition as now amended will commend itself to the Council. As I said, the issue is perfectly simple. We are not concerned with the equity of acquiring land for industrial expansion. I hope that will always be done in the interests of the country. But when such acquisition takes place, if the expropriated landowners wish to have a share in the new commercial enterprises, they ought to be given every opportunity of doing so. Under the rules as they stand at present, they are not in a position to take an interest in the new concerns, because they do not receive their money before the flotation takes place. It is pointed out that the company is formed and the shares are issued and given out to prospective shareholders before land acquisition proceedings take place. That, I think, is an additional reason why shares should be reserved for the expropriated landowners. I hope the resolution as amended will commend itself to the Council.

The Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh:—Mr. President,—I am opposed to the resolution both in its original and amended form. We have to deal with the conditions of things as they exist. It is no use treating the ignorant cultivators in the same way as the citizens of Bombay. We have to consider whether the amendment in reference to the option of shares will really work to the advantage of the people concerned. It is generally accepted that the agriculturists are very ignorant. I should consider that it would always be an advantage to them if some arrangement could be made for housing them and for providing them with lands for cultivation. I think this would be far more agreeable to them than any other arrangement. I really do not know why we should give these illiterate agriculturists the option of taking shares when they really do not understand anything about shares. The result will be that, in most cases, it will not be the agriculturists who will be likely to benefit but some speculators will take advantage of such a concession. Then, again, when the agriculturists want money for acquiring land, you do not give them money but you simply give them paper. That does not help them in any way. The result will be that a man who was at one time an independent landowner is likely to sink into a day labourer. The concession is not likely to do the slightest good to the persons who are dispossessed of their lands. I therefore oppose the amendment.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[Mr. G. K. Parekh; R. H. Brooke; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke:—Mr. President,—This resolution has been discussed at very great length and I therefore do not wish to say much. All that I want to state is that I am strongly opposed to the resolution both in its original form and as it now stands amended. I object to legislation which makes it imperative for a company to allot a certain number of shares to a person or a class of persons irrespective of whether that person or class of persons may be desirable or undesirable shareholders. I think I agree that, where possible, companies should be encouraged to give shares in the way suggested. But I strongly object to a condition being laid on companies that they should set apart a certain number of shares for a certain class of persons.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I have much pleasure in heartily supporting the resolution of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye in the form in which it has been amended. I am not a Bombay man but one from the country-side. I have the fullest sympathy with the plight of the people who have to lose their lands and homes in favour of a commercial concern. Some of the speakers have rather lost sight of the value of the word " option " in the resolution of the honourable mover. I do not agree with the Honourable Mr. Brooke or the Honourable Mr. Parekh that it would not suit the cultivators to have such an option. We are not enforcing any particular condition on the expropriated owners of land. We are simply providing an alternative which, if they choose, they may avail themselves of. The Land Acquisition Act provides ordinarily for money compensation and the compensation could also be in the shape of land. In some cases people prefer to have lands instead of money. Now, when people round about industrial centres are becoming acquainted with the value of shares in commercial concerns, they may like to have an option of receiving compensation in the form of shares. The object of the resolution is to request Government to give such a facility which they can give under the Land Acquisition Act, as it stands at present. The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai perhaps committed an oversight with reference to the provisions of the act. I agree with the Honourable the Advocate General in stating that there is nothing in the act to prevent Government from making such a condition. Section 39 of the act distinctly provides that the provisions of sections 6 to 37 shall not be put in force in order to acquire land for any company, unless with the previous consent of the local Government, or unless the company shall execute the agreements hereinafter mentioned. And section 41 of the Land Acquisition Act provides for such an agreement and the nature of it. The provisions of section 41 leave it open to Government to make such a condition on a company which wants land to be acquired for its purpose. At such a time they could very well impose it as a condition that the company shall reserve certain shares which may be given out to expropriated owners of land in case they desire to have them. I do not think there would be anything wrong in making such a condition.

The Honourable Mr. Sethna said that any person who is acquainted with business would not accept the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's resolution.

If anyone who differs from his view is not a business man, I certainly would not be sorry for not being in the category of the Honourable Mr. Sethna's definition. But I do feel that the Honourable Mr. Sethna takes rather a very narrow view when he says that a company ought to be at liberty to acquire lands of owners in the country-side and make money out of it in that concern and yet the owners, with whose money they are going to make money, ought not to have the option of saying that they ought to have some share in the profits. That I submit is a narrow view.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas gave the instance of having a part of his residence at Lanauli being taken up. Of course, he has several residences and if one of them goes away that would not much matter to him. But that is not the case with the country-side people and the villagers losing their own homes for a little sum of what compensation the land acquisition officer for the time being chooses to give them. For it is everything to them and they should be allowed under the act the choice of having land for land or of having shares for which the resolution pleads. I think there is nothing wrong in it when all round there is an industrial boom and when capitalists from Bombay think out large schemes for the benefit of the public and approach Government on the ground that such a scheme is for the benefit of the public and say to Government " Please therefore give us the benefit of the Land Acquisition Act " it would be open to Government to say " We will give you help but, at the same time, we will insist that those landowners whose lands you will take away, if they want any shares in your company, you will have to give them some shares ". I think that is all that is wanted and I do not see why there is a narrow objection raised by the capitalists in Bombay to such a reasonable demand on behalf of the people whose homes are taken away for a commercial concern.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. Rupchand Bilaram.]

The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram :—Mr. President,—I oppose this resolution as also the form in which it is framed on two grounds : (1) that it is opposed to the principle underlying the Land Acquisition Act, which is an Imperial act, and (2) that it is not practicable. I take the principle underlying the Land Acquisition Act to be that compensation is to be given to a landholder not according to the price that would be paid for it by a purchaser but he is to be given the fair market value of the land on the day on which the notification is issued. He is also to be given 15 per cent. over and above such market value as compensation for inconvenience and hardship, sentiment and all other things.

If that is the underlying principle of the act, which is an Imperial act, is there any reason why we should get over an Imperial act by asking Government to make it a condition that the compensation which is to be paid should not be the only compensation, which is the fair market value of the land plus 15 per cent, but that it shall vary according to the purse of the purchaser or according to the use to which the land is to be put? The resolution as worded, of course, does not convey that meaning, but let us see what it comes to. It only comes to this, that if there is a particular concern which is about to be started by men of light and learning, which is bound to be a success and the shares are likely to go to a premium, and the land is going to be put to good use, the compensation shall be not only the price of the land plus 15 per cent but to that should be added the premium of the shares in the concern; in other words, if the land is worth Rs. 500 the landholder will be entitled not only to Rs. 575 but he shall get something more, and, if the land is being acquired for a company like the Bank of Bombay, the landholder while getting the shares at par will get for Rs. 575 Rs. 2,000. It is quite contrary to the principle underlying the Land Acquisition Act, and I submit that there may be certain cases of hardship but, on account of these cases of hardship, we are not going to suggest to Government to go contrary to the principles of an Imperial act and to lay down conditions.

Then the next point I want to deal with is that, when a company is started, it is open to the promoters to reserve certain shares as fully paid up shares. But ordinarily a company cannot commence business unless it has allotted certain shares and has got the registrar's certificate to commence business. Now, the promoters do not know whether their shares will be taken up by the persons whose land they are acquiring. They reserve certain shares for allotment to the landowners. As the determination of compensation under the Land Acquisition Act sometimes takes two to three years, it may be that at the end of that period the shares will be at a discount and the landowner whose land has been acquired will want his compensation in cash, with the result that these shares will be sold by the company in the market at a discount, so that the company has not only to pay the price of the land plus 15 per cent, but it has also to be out of pocket to the extent of the difference in the depreciation of the shares. But if the shares have gone up, the company will have to pay, besides the price and 15 per cent compensation, the profit or the premium, as additional compensation.

The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye said that the ryot would like to have shares. But does the ryot really want shares, or the land in substitution? I can understand the poor cultivator saying that he wants some land in lieu of his own land which is being acquired. If the ryot is given the shares, such shares will not remain with him but will go into the hands of some rich landlord because what the ryot really wants is hard cash for the purchase of some other land immediately. Now, out of the landholders of these 25 or 30 villages, who have been referred to by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye as dispossessed, only one or two will probably invest their money in shares and try to make a bargain out of it.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.]

[Mr. Rupchand Bilaram; the Vice-President; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

The only reason, or rather one of the reasons, which the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye gave in introducing this resolution was that formerly lands were being acquired for public utility but that now they are acquired for the benefit of speculators or the promoters of companies who are speculators in shares. It may be that promoters are not philanthropists. They think out a scheme. They know that it will work and know that by floating the company and under-writing the shares they might be able to make the concern a success. If the shares go up, why should we grudge this little profit to those promoters and why should we call them speculators, especially at this time when there is a universal cry for the development of industries? Is it right that we should put a spoke in the wheel of promoters who start companies for the industrial welfare of India?

I submit, sir, that not only is it not competent for us to suggest any such measure but that it is not proper nor practicable and therefore I oppose it.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Does the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye accept the amendment moved by the Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta?.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—I accept the amendment moved by the Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—We have had an interesting discussion on this resolution. But the resolution as finally placed before this Council differs from the resolution which I thought I should have to meet with when the matter was taken up last evening. When I read the resolution in its original form I imagined that it was a peculiar form of claiming compensation.

When I came to the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's speech I heard for fifteen minutes a good deal of abuse of the policy of Government in applying the Land Acquisition Act and a good deal of abuse of the methods of company promoters in Bombay among them being the promoters of companies which bear the honoured name of Jamsetji Tata. This morning we heard other comments on the resolution and it appears, as I said, that the final form of the resolution is entirely different from what it was originally and I have, therefore, to speak on two general points.

First of all, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has threatened us with a revival of the discussion in August next. But I venture to remind this Council that there is a rule, No. 24, which forbids honourable members of this Council to bring up the same subject twice in twelve months. We have discussed this matter for two hours and a quarter and I must warn the honourable gentleman that if he does bring a resolution involving the same subject again in August next, I shall raise a strong objection to any further discussion on the general question.

Now the second point of general importance is, what are the principles that guide Government in applying the Land Acquisition Act for the acquisition of land for concerns industrial? They are all laid down in the report of the Industrial Commission which adopted the principles already applied in this Presidency.

The Industrial Commission in the chapter on land acquisition in relation to industries recommended—

"That a Local Government may acquire land compulsorily from private owners on behalf of an industrial concern when it is satisfied, (1) that the industry itself will, on reaching a certain stage of development, be in the interests of the general public; (2) that there are no reasonable prospects of the industry reaching such a stage of development without the acquisition proposed; (3) that the proposed acquisition entails as little inconvenience to private rights as possible consistently with meeting the needs of the industry."

These are the principles which have actuated Government in the acquisition of land in this Presidency.

As the Honourable Mr. Mead has told this Council, acquisition under this act is only effected after a great deal of discussion and experiment. The Honourable Mr. Mead himself has endeavoured as far as possible to acquire a proper site for the Belapur Company by negotiation and persuasion but, when he failed, we applied the sledge hammer of the act and the land in question was acquired under the machinery of the Land Acquisition Act.

Now, sir, as regards the immediate principle, I venture to think that on the grounds so ably put forward by so many speakers I cannot accept it, and this Council will not wish it to be accepted. It is quite clear that the original resolution, which covered new commercial concerns only, could easily be circumvented. It would be easy to start a new

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis; Mr. C. V. Mehta; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] factory or a new railway as an off-shoot of an old concern and then the resolution would not apply.

Then, the Honourable Mr. Mehta says "Oh yes, any company who acquires land shall pay compensation to such landholder in the form of shares in the original concern at par." Well, I still say my original objection holds good.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—My amendment is this:—

> "That this Council recommends that Government be pleased, when acquiring land for a commercial concern under the Land Acquisition Act, to lay down a condition that the dispossessed owners shall be given the option of investing the whole or a part of such compensation for their lands in fully paid up shares of the concern at par either in the original issue of shares or in any subsequent issue of capital."

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Well, what I mean is this. If Government acquired land under the Land Acquisition Act for the Bank of Bombay and the acquisition officer recommended that a landowner should receive Rs. 2,000, then under this resolution the owner would be entitled to claim that four Bank of Bombay shares at par be given to him and the Bank of Bombay would have to buy those four shares, no matter what price, and deliver them to the owner. To take another instance, if the Tatas want to extend their works and land is acquired under the Land Acquisition Act and if the dispossessed cultivator is entitled to Rs. 5,000 and demands five one thousand rupee shares, the Tatas have to purchase those shares, whether the price is Rs. 1,250 or Rs. 1,500, or whatever it may be, and give them to the cultivator. I think that shows that it is not a suitable procedure.

On general grounds it seems to me that the proposition is open to objection altogether. Everybody knows that we are dealing in this matter with a very ignorant class of people and, if Government gives them the option of taking shares, the ignorant cultivator will believe that there is some guarantee by Government behind the concern. Now I know a good many concerns where a guarantee could perhaps be given. I know of a concern in Poona district. Their shares stand at the present moment at Rs. 75. If Government had given the option of taking compensation money in the shape of shares at par and if the shares later on could be had at a discount, I do not think that would be doing the ryot a very good turn. Of course, Government, as a rule, are careful as to the character of the concern for whose benefit they put the powerful machinery of the Land Acquisition Act into motion, but, after all, Government cannot tell whether in three or four years' time the venture would make a profit or not. In any case, it is just possible that no dividend may be paid during that period and the ryot will be left without any return for his money. Further, sir, those who know the rural tracts can at once realise the state of affairs in such an event. The ryot would be very likely to be surrounded by a horde of sharks in the stock exchange of Bombay who would buy up the shares at a discount of 30, 40 or 50 per cent. I submit, sir, that in the ryot's own interests it is very much better that he should take his compensation money in cash in the ordinary way and, if he really wants to invest in the shares, he can go and negotiate with a broker in the share market.

The principal object of the whole acquisition proceedings is to avoid delay, avoid complexity and avoid misunderstanding. Once we introduce a system like the one proposed by the honourable mover and bring in the stock exchange, we shall introduce complications and delay in our acquisition proceedings and eventually do a great harm to the institutions themselves. We have on the whole a very simple and a very efficient method of land acquisition. I submit, sir, that we should keep to that method which has been working for some time and which we all know is based on principles of equity. I submit, sir, that to graft on that something which the various forms of the resolution suggest would be a very great mistake and would have a far-reaching effect. I ask this Council, therefore, to reject the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I think that the Council will agree that the resolution that I have proposed has led to a very interesting discussion and it has brought forward, I think, one point, that to a certain extent the interests of the Bombay business men are opposed to the interests of the people outside. The question is, how far these interests are to be reconciled. In any case, I do certainly wish to proceed with the further industrial development which is in the interests of the country as a whole, but the question is, how far the hardships caused to the people affected by acquisition of their lands can be mitigated if not altogether removed. In the resolution which I proposed and as now modified I have proposed a very small measure indeed, but the attitude taken up by some of the honourable members shows what are likely to be the future points of antagonism between the different sections of our reformed Councils. It only gives some idea of the very great conflicts that are in store for us, if even a small measure of this character is to be opposed by people whose one and single object is to make profits out of land and against the sentiments—unreasonable occasionally though they may be—of the people of the Presidency. Let me first of all meet the personal objection of my honourable friend Mr. Sethna. He charged me with being a layman in these matters and he considered it presumptuous on my part to bring forward a resolution of this kind and he appeared to think that it is only the concern of business men. I beg leave to tell my honourable friend and the Council that I have brought forward this resolution in the interests of the people whose lands are wrenched away from them and whose associations for thousands of years are to be broken up in this manner. Those people are certainly much more concerned in this matter than people who make profits out of the lands of these people and sit in Bombay and enjoy all the thousand and one luxuries which money provides. It is, therefore, not a question merely of a business man bent on making profits, but it is a larger question and every man to whom the ties of land are dear is fully entitled to take a keen interest in matters of this nature. I am not dealing at all with a technical matter of business—I should refuse to do so—but it is a question which affects the wider public and I therefore have thought it my duty to ventilate this question in the Council.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

Then, there was an objection on the part of the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas that all this agitation was engineered by pleaders, who seem to be a red rag to business men like my honourable friend Mr. Purshotamdas. I might tell him that the few pleaders who have taken part in these proceedings are not there as pleaders, but they are there as landowners and they find their lands are being taken away from them. I hope the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas does not believe that because a man has entered the profession of a pleader, he has to restrict himself to his profession and all his qualities as a man or as a landowner are to be immediately done away with, and I hope that his argument will not be introduced in a case like this and that unnecessary feeling will not be caused on that account.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:--I only stated what my information was from official sources.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—That is exactly so. That just proves my case. People sit in Bombay and get information from interested people. That is an underhand method of getting information. It is such unreliable people that supply the information, and you are to regard that information as gospel truth. We know exactly what the things are, and it is therefore that I am bringing forward this point.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—I strongly object to the word "underhand" used by the honourable member. I am a director of the Tata Power Company. I do not presume that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has actually been on the spot either.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—I only point out that the Honourable Mr. Mead himself admitted all the irregularities, and it does not lie with the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas to deny that some of these irregularities have actually occurred.

There were various arguments brought against my proposition, and one of those arguments was that the cultivator was an ignorant man and that he did not know his own interest. Several of my honourable friends have answered that objection. I am only offering to the ryots the option of receiving the shares in this manner. It is not a compulsion on them to receive these shares. If a landholder who has been dispossessed in this manner thinks that even in this attenuated form he wants to keep up his connection with the land by holding shares in a concern for which his land has been utilised, he ought, I think, to be given an opportunity to do so. The Honourable Mr. Sethna said that such acquisition will bring great prosperity to them. I would like to know how the acquisition of a man's land for a hydro-electric scheme brings prosperity to him. All his land is under water, and, as it is the land that he is interested in and as he wishes to live on it, I do not know how that gives him any satisfaction or prosperity. Of course, I have not so far heard of any invention which would permit of a man living under water.

There are various other points, but I am very glad that my honourable friend Mr. Chunilal Mehta has supported me in my general wish to get this suggestion accepted,

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. G. S. Curtis; the Vice-President.] and I am particularly pleased that the Honourable the Advocate General also has sympathised with my suggestion in this matter.

The difficulties that were pointed out by the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai and others about law, you will find, are already removed in the case of certain concerns. The very fact that the Belapur Company have already got a condition like that in their agreement shows that the suggestion is not impracticable, and I think that under the Land Acquisition Act itself Government, over and above the conditions laid down in the act, are given a pretty wide latitude in imposing any further conditions, before they agree to apply the act. The widest latitude is given to Government, and I only wish by my resolution that Government shall use these wide powers, before applying the act in the case of such concerns, for their convenience.

There was an objection by the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit about the shares being at a premium, in which case the landholder only will make use of this concession and not the others. I do really desire that the landholders should get favourable concessions of this nature; that is, in fact, the object of my proposal.

Another objection that was raised was that several times these concerns have got to lock up their capital for long periods of years before the concerns begin to show any dividends. But I believe that there is a clause in the Companies' Act under which certain companies pay dividends out of capital till the capital begins to earn. That may be one way in which the expropriated landholders may not be put into difficulty on account of their having to live without anything at all, until the shares begin to earn dividends. What I want to point out is that, if you really intend to conciliate the landholders and not to ride rough-shod over them, there are hundreds of ways in which you can meet them and in which you can foster the industrial progress of the country without making the owners of these lands suffer.

We have often been told that these expropriated labourers will find a great market for their labour. It is expected that these people, when they are expropriated, will stick to these places and remain there as labourers. I do not think that it is in the wider interest of the public that these people should remain hewers of wood and drawers of water. I want these people to get some interest in these commercial interests and not that they should end their life as labourers.

As I have said, in the beginning of my remarks, my resolution has given rise to an interesting discussion. I promised that I would bring forward some more constructive suggestions, but I was rather terrified by the prospect of a further resolution on this matter being possibly disallowed by Government. All that we have been considering here is only one small suggestion. If another resolution is brought forward by me, bearing on a different aspect of the matter, I think myself that some of us at any rate will consider it a very high-handed use of the rules of procedure in the Council, if, because one part of the act has been discussed in the Council, another suggestion bearing on another part of the act is disallowed on that account.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—May I ask the honourable member what part of the Land Acquisition Act has been discussed, in his view?

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Among the conditions that Government should impose upon the companies there should be this condition. Of course, it is in the hands of the Government and the President of this Council to use the rules of procedure in any way they like. Unfortunately, the Council cannot have very much to say about that, but I do hope that this bludgeon will not be used in burking further discussion on a different point altogether.

The discussion has given rise to the ventilation of certain grievances. The very fact that these questions have been brought before the Council will have very great effect upon the way in which some other parts of the act are actually worked. I hope, therefore, that the Council will agree that, so far as my immediate purpose is concerned, the discussion has served its purpose. I do not propose to divide the Council on this matter just now. Next time, I hope to get the considered opinion of the Council by votes. I therefore ask for permission to withdraw the resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—With regard to the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's remarks on the subject of a further resolution which he proposes to bring before this Council, if it is a resolution bearing on a different aspect of the matter and is otherwise in order, I have no doubt that it will be allowed by Government.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. C. V. Mehta.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

What the Honourable Mr. Curtis wished to bring out was that, in discussing this particular resolution dealing with a very small point, which may of course be of importance to a large number of people, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye has traversed the whole of the ground.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta :—On a point of order, Mr. President, I should like to know whether it is permissible for the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, when he has accepted my other amendment, to withdraw the resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Does the honourable member wish to have this resolution put to the vote?

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta :—Yes, sir,

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Before putting the resolution to the vote, I should like to say a few words with regard to the attitude of Government. I think honourable members will agree, after hearing what the Honourable Mr. Mead and the Honourable Mr. Curtis have said, that Government have taken every care that those who have been expropriated in the interest of these industrial concerns have received every possible consideration, and endeavours are being made to give them every possible help in starting their life anew in some other locality.

I may further mention, with regard to the Belapur case, that the first idea was that when water became available for the land, the whole of the land should be redistributed, allotting certain portions to the Company and certain portions to the cultivators, in proportion to their previous holding, and the proportion of the land which would have been left with the cultivators would have been more valuable with the water than their former holdings were without irrigation.

The doubt which we feel at present with regard to this method of compensating the cultivators is that, if such a condition is imposed by Government on the company for whom the land is to be acquired, the cultivator may regard it as a sort of guarantee that the company will certainly return the value of the money which he puts into it. Government cannot undertake to give a guarantee of this kind, nor can anyone else. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye said that there is a provision in the Companies' Act under which companies may pay out dividends before they begin to earn anything. That is perfectly true. Supposing a company is over-capitalised, they may be able to pay up for some time, but there may be nothing later on out of which to make any payments. For these reasons, Government are not inclined to insert a condition of this nature in the agreement which is made before the land is acquired.

The resolution as amended was put to the vote and lost, 13 members voting for and 21 against it. The Council divided as follows:—

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.	The Honourable Sir George Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. Sheriff Devji Canji.	The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Pandurang Anant Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.	The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Dewan Bahadur Kashinath Ramchandra Godbole.	The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.	The Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Chunilal Vijbhukhandas Mehta, LL.B.	The Honourable Mr. J. D. Jenkins.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shriniwas Naik.	The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.	The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I.C.S.
	The Honourable Mr. Gokuldas Kahandas Parekh, LL.B.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW COMMERCIAL CONCERNS—ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.]

AYES.	NOES.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Ganesh Krishna Sathe, C.I.E.	The Honourable Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasni.	The Honourable Mr. Munmohandass Ramji.
	The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
	The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
	The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, O.B.E.
	The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst.C.E.
	The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.
	The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.
	The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 7. The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council either to open Anglo-Vernacular schools in central places in the various sub-divisions in Sind, or to make provision for the teaching of English in the vernacular schools in important places."

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Mr. President,—The first part of my resolution relates to the opening of Anglo-Vernacular schools at some central places in each of the sub-divisions of Sind. I might say that there are 7 districts in the province of Sind and about 16 sub-divisions. These Anglo-vernacular schools I want to have in each of the sub-divisions to afford facilities for English education to the people of rural areas. Those who know Sind will bear me out when I say that the people of the rural areas have not yet taken advantage of English education, because English schools have not been provided within their easy reach. Yesterday my friend the Honourable Mr. Upasani asked for a civil court in each of the talukas in the Presidency on the ground of convenience to the ryots who have to cover long distances in connection with their ruinous litigation. Now, I ask for a school not for each of the talukas but for each sub-division of Sind. If this is feasible, I am sure these schools will improve and better the conditions of the people of the rural areas.

If the first part of my resolution is not found feasible for some consideration or other, I have an alternative proposal which seeks to make provision for the teaching of English in the existing vernacular schools, not in all the schools, I say, but in important places only. So the latter part of my resolution is a very moderate one, and I hope this Council will accept it.

The object of my resolution is to better the condition of the people of the rural areas who, owing to the great inconvenience and the large expenditure they have to incur, do not take advantage of English education. It is the people of the rural areas in Sind that contribute most largely to the coffers of the State. It is the people of the rural areas in Sind that are the backbone of the country, and I am sure Government will not be unmindful of the educational needs of the inarticulate and helpless lakhs and lakhs of people residing in the rural areas.

First, I should like to show this Council what Government has done in Sind in the matter of English education. They have up to now opened 4 high schools though there are 7 districts in Sind. That means not everyone of the districts has yet got a high school. And where are those 4 high schools located? They are in the big cities, far away from the rural areas. Besides these 4 high schools, recently Government have allowed the teaching of English up to the third standard in five of the existing vernacular schools. From the information that I have got from the educational inspector, I find that one of these 5 schools is not working because Government cannot get a teacher. I am very much surprised to learn this. If the teachers are well paid, I do not know why they cannot be

ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND.

[Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President; Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

had. Besides these 4 high schools and 5 schools where provision is made for the teaching of English, there are aided high schools. But those aided high schools are again in the big cities, far away from the rural areas. There are not only aided high schools in big cities but there are Anglo-vernacular schools also. I must admit, however, that there are some Anglo-vernacular schools in rural areas also. The people of the rural areas have realised the value of education and they are now taking to it in increasing numbers. But all that they want is greater facilities for schools. It might be said that it is the fault of the people residing in the rural areas not to take advantage of the existing high schools and the Anglo-vernacular schools that are in the big cities. But it is absurd, sir, to expect boys of tender age—and we all know that boys begin their English schooling from their 7th, or 8th or 9th year—to go long distances from the heart of the country to the big cities with the present inconveniences of railway communication in Sind, with the difficulty of procuring accommodation in the big cities, with the necessity of having a guardian to look after them and the large expenditure that they have to incur in going from their small villages to a big town. Therefore I submit that it is absolutely necessary that the people of the rural areas ought to be provided with more schools for the teaching of English.

In the alternative proposal, I have suggested that provision be made for this purpose in vernacular schools, because we know that in the vernacular schools the subjects that are taught in the higher classes are the same as are taught in the first three English standards. All that is required is a provision for the teaching of English in such vernacular schools, and that won't cost Government much.

Another very important point is, sir, that Government have accepted the principle of responsible government and given a very large representation to the rural areas. I know the conditions of my province. This large representation will not be of any good to them unless you give them schools where they can learn English, because the medium through which speeches will be made in this Council will be English, unless some language is evolved which would be common to the Sindhis, who speak Sindhi, the Gujaratis who speak Gujarati, and the people of the Central Division who speak Marathi. So the large representation given to rural areas will be of no avail unless they are provided with schools where English is taught. With these remarks I place my resolution before this Council.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I am glad to be able to heartily support this resolution. This is a matter which we have been pressing on Government for a long time, and we hope they will now take it up in earnest. I, however, think it would be better if the proposal, instead of being restricted to Sind, was also extended to the presidency of Bombay. I would, therefore, move an amendment that, in place of "Sind," the words "the Presidency" be substituted. With this reservation I heartily support the resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I must rule this amendment out of order. The resolution contains a specific proposal with regard to Sind.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—In that case, I heartily support the resolution as it stands.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The Council will now adjourn till 3 p.m.

The Council then adjourned for lunch.

After lunch.

The Council re-assembled at 3 p.m.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. Further consideration of resolution No. 7.

The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh:—Mr. President,—I heartily support the resolution moved by my honourable friend Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah before this Council, and I endorse every word that fell from him in support of the resolution. The need for English schools in Sind is a real one and the existing schools are in some places located at a great distance from one another, so much so that the persons of even moderate means and willing to give English education to their children cannot afford to send their boys to the schools.

I am thankful to Government that they have been pleased during the past three or four years to grant yearly a lakh of rupees for Mahomedan education and, though it is a real boon, it is not sufficient for the existing demands. Honourable members of this Council are well aware that the local boards in Sind are not able from the financial point of view to open classes for English teaching in vernacular schools and it is therefore very necessary that Government will consider this resolution favourably.

ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh; Mr. D. V. Belvi; Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

I know my honourable friends take keen interest in matters of education and I hope that they will now treat the province of Sind in the same manner as the Presidency proper.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—I wish to support this resolution heartily. I do not profess to know the local conditions which are prevalent in Sind. But my impression is that Sind is a large province, its population being about 38,00,000; of this population about 5,00,000 is urban, and the rest is rural. The area of Sind itself is about 48,000 square miles, and my impression is that Sind is educationally backward.

I shall tell my honourable colleagues something which may amuse them. When I entered this Council I had the pleasure of sitting by the side of an honourable member from Sind. I had not then the pleasure of knowing him personally. I was formally introduced to him by my honourable friend Mr. Bhurgri and when I met him the next day I wished him good-morning but the gentleman did not return the courtesy. I grew suspicious and I made inquiries of the Honourable Mr. Bhurgri. I was told that the real reason of his not returning the courtesy was that he could not understand English even to the extent of understanding me when I said "good-morning" to him. He was my honourable colleague for 18 months and I have no doubt that some of my friends in the Council did manage to explain to him the proceedings in Sindhi. This only shows that, even in the case of gentlemen who are returned to this Council from Sind, sometimes we find that there are gentlemen who do not happen to know English. I do not think this is a very desirable state of things. I do not mean that every gentleman who comes from Sind is ignorant of the English language. We know that there are members and members and at the present moment I find that all my honourable friends from Sind are eloquent speakers in English. It seems to me that in Sind English education has not made much progress.

It is our duty as honourable members of this Council to assist a province that shows an express desire to have as much English education as possible. I support this resolution on general grounds and I earnestly ask the Honourable Member in Charge to see that English education is spread in the province of Sind.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik:—Mr. President,—I have great sympathy with the resolution brought forward by the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah who asks Government in this resolution to open Anglo-vernacular schools in central places in Sind. When he speaks of sub-divisions I understand he means taluka places where there are municipalities. I should like to state my experience in my district with regard to this. In my own place we have started an Anglo-vernacular school and have been managing it on a self-supporting basis for about six or seven years. I am glad to say that it is not only self-supporting but it leaves something to the municipality for meeting expenses, such as equipment and other things. If the municipalities were to venture and start such schools, I am sure secondary education would be greatly spread on self-supporting lines. In my taluka school maintained by the municipality there are about 150 boys; with the fees, which are equal to Government fees, and with a grant from Government equal to one-third of the cost on the school during the previous year we are able to make our school self-supporting. I, therefore, should like to suggest that, if the municipalities were to undertake to open secondary schools, they should be self-supporting and Government should always be ready to give them the usual grant. I therefore suggest that, before asking Government to open these schools, the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein should rather move the municipalities in Sind to start such schools and, if they venture to do so, I am sure that they will be on a self-supporting basis.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I have also great pleasure in supporting this resolution. Under suggestions from various honourable members Government are at present working an experimental scheme for the teaching of English in full primary schools and the scheme has now, so far as I understand, been going on for a year and, although complete results cannot be got at present, at any rate some conclusions can be drawn from the way in which the scheme is at present working.

I myself no doubt thought the scheme will succeed and in a very few years we shall have this provision of English teaching not only in the experimental schools and not only in those few places in Sind to which my honourable friend refers in his resolution, but I hope that within the next five years we shall have this system working all over the Presidency in all places where there are big full primary schools.

ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. J. G. Covernton.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The resolution, referring, as it does, to Sind which is backward in point of education, deserves the utmost sympathy from Government and I do hope that Government will stretch a point, even before the actual experiment is proved to be a success, and extend the experiment at least in Sind.

As regards the experience of my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik of conducting Anglo-vernacular schools, it must be a very rare one indeed. He thinks that schools like these could be self-supporting and would leave a margin. But it must be a very exceptional state of things. I do not think that we can expect all these schools to be in the happy position of the school at Ranebennur. I do think that Government will have to spend something for the purpose of separate Anglo-vernacular schools, and, even for the purpose of introducing English in full primary schools, Government will have to go to the expense of something like Rs. 800 on each probably. But I think the expenditure, even to this extent, will not be of a very heavy nature, as I understand there are only sixteen sub-divisions of the districts in Sind and so, after all, it means an expenditure of Rs. 10,000; and, seeing that Government have already committed themselves to spend over a lakh for the purpose of encouraging education in Sind, the money will not be a matter of difficulty. I do hope, therefore, that Government will look at the resolution with sympathy and that the Council will accept it.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—Mr. President,—I rise in no spirit of hostility to this resolution but in order to put before the Council the actual facts as they stand with regard to the class of schools referred to. At present we have in Sind no less than 38 English teaching schools. Five of them are teaching up to standard VI, ten teaching up to standard V, thirteen up to standard IV and ten up to standard III. Now amongst these 38 schools I do not include the four Government high schools, nor the municipal high school at Sukkur, nor the aided high schools in Karachi, Hyderabad, Bhiria and Shikarpur, nor any girls' Anglo-vernacular school. I may mention for the information of the Council the places at which these smaller English schools exist. They are as follows:—

> Tharushah, Naushahro, Nawabshah, Mithi, Pithoro, Kotri, Tatta, Rohri, Sehwan, Kambar, Ratodero, Jacobabad, Hyderabad, Karachi, Nasarpur, Pad Idan, Bhelani, Mithiani, Kandirao, Tando Adam, Hallani, Sukkur, Garhiyasin, Larkana, Talti, Mehar, Dadu and Bungaldero.

In addition to these schools, there are the English classes which have been recently started in the vernacular primary schools. So I think that the Council will see that whatever may be the present demands of Sind, Sind has not been altogether left without resources in this connection and that even some quite small places have now got English schools.

I am not quite clear, I must confess, as to what the honourable mover of the resolution wants. He talks of Government opening Anglo-vernacular schools. I think he must be aware that hitherto, at any rate, the policy of Government has been, in the matter of secondary education, to encourage private enterprise and I think we have to consider whether, if Government is to open a large number of Anglo-vernacular institutions directly under its control, that would be exactly in accordance with the policy of encouraging private enterprise or effort in English education. At present a good many schools are run by private managers and, when I visited Sind last month, I saw a number of these managers and I discussed their difficulties with them. As far as I could understand them, they did not seem to be in favour of Government starting more schools; what they said was "Give us higher grants than we get at present and then we shall be able to carry on better"; so that I think it is a matter for consideration whether in opening a large number of Government schools you would not crush many aided managers.

As regards the other issue raised in the resolution, namely, that we should extend the experimental system of English classes attached to vernacular schools, there again I am by no means hostile to the suggestion, but I would ask the Council to consider whether it is not a little premature to consider this question now. That experiment has only been started less than a year ago and we have not had time to get anything like positive results. I propose, at the end of the first year of these classes, to call for reports on them from the inspectors and, if the reports show that the experiment has been successful, then we may be in a position to say whether we will extend the experiment. But I do not like to take it for granted that they will be extended until I have seen what the inspectors have to say as to the proficiency which the pupils in these classes

ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. J. G. Coverntor; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] attain. I think that the honourable member will agree with me that we have given some attention to the question in Sind by opening a few classes there and, if the report on the working of these classes in Sind proves favourable, I certainly for my own part see no reason why in favourable conditions we should not extend them. But I do not quite know whether that will be what the honourable member wants.

The honourable member talks of "central places" in the various sub-divisions in Sind, but he has not indicated in his speech which he considers central places. I should be glad if in his reply he can tell us something about the central places where the new classes might be opened or where such schools as he contemplates might be established. At present I must confess I am not quite clear on that particular point and I shall be very glad if he will enlighten both the Council and myself on it.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I have much pleasure in supporting the resolution proposed by my honourable friend Shaikh Ghulam Hussein. I am particularly interested in the question of the teaching of English in vernacular schools, and on that general ground I think that I should support this resolution. I am not inclined to agree with the opinion of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction that there is any necessity to wait for a report as to the results of the experiment which, under the orders of Government, is being tried in twenty villages of this Presidency. English was being taught in several vernacular schools several years ago and with very great success, and wherever it was taught the experiment has succeeded. It saves expense, it saves the time of the pupils, and the subjects which are taught in the vernacular are better taught in the Anglo-vernacular schools. Consequently, both from the standpoint of efficiency in the teaching of subjects which are taught in the vernacular and also from the point of view of the saving of time to the pupils and, further, also from the point of view that, if English is taught in the vernacular schools, there will be a saving of expense and, at the same time, larger opportunities for the spread of English education, I think we need not at all be apprehensive about the experiment proving successful, and we should go ahead and try it in a wider area. I have, therefore, much pleasure in supporting this resolution, so that the scheme may be undertaken in the province of Sind, in the first instance, and the other parts of the Presidency will, I am sure, follow suit.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—Government have the fullest sympathy with the efforts of the honourable mover to advance education in Sind. His Excellency has taken, as honourable members are probably aware, a keen interest in this matter. During the two visits which His Excellency paid to Sind he has looked into the condition of education in that part of the Presidency and he feels strongly that every effort should be made to promote the cause of education in Sind.

It is recognised that Sind has been very backward in point of education and efforts are in contemplation to remove as far as possible all the difficulties in the way of substantial progress in point of education in Sind. In this connection I may assure the honourable member that Government propose to translate their sympathy into action, as early as possible, and the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has been asked to make a comprehensive report suggesting what measures should be adopted to provide additional facilities for education in Sind. The only point for consideration is whether, in view of what I have pointed out, it is desirable that a resolution of this kind should be carried. In introducing the budget head of education, I explained what measures have already been decided upon in the case of Sind in regard to higher education. I have informed the Council that about two or three additional high schools are to be established in Sind in districts which have remained without Government high schools in the past. The honourable mover has himself referred to this. I have also indicated that Government are in close consultation with the heads of the departments in the matter of establishing an arts and agricultural college at Hyderabad and that, if there are difficulties in the way of such a joint college, an arts college will be established at Hyderabad; so that honourable members will see that Government have taken up the problem of affording further facilities for education in Sind very seriously.

The question really raised by the honourable mover is as regards Anglo-vernacular schools and vernacular schools in villages. The Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has explained the existing state of things, and the demand for giving grants up to the full amount according to the code will be very carefully examined. I may assure the Council that efforts will be made to give all possible encouragement to private enterprise in the matter of providing additional facilities for education, in addition to the new Government high schools.

ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Mr. J. G. Covernton.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

As regards English teaching classes in vernacular schools, I would merely point out that it was at the instance of the Legislative Council that the experiment was undertaken, and the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye and the Honourable Mr. Upasani, who have taken a great deal of interest in this question, were satisfied that the first experiment should be made with twenty schools. That experiment is being made and Government has called upon the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction to submit a report at the end of one year. If the report is favourable, it is the Government intention gradually to extend the experiment further. Out of the twenty schools selected for experiment, as the honourable mover has himself admitted, five have been opened in Sind. If the experiment is extended and a larger number of vernacular schools are provided with facilities for teaching English, I need hardly assure the honourable mover that Sind will get its due share.

There is only one point on which I wish to criticise in some way the remarks which the honourable mover made, and that is his great anxiety to have higher English education provided in rural areas.

There are obvious difficulties in the way, the question of expenditure being not the least of them. We have got to begin principally with district towns and important places, where you can secure a sufficient number of students for your secondary education. Rural areas will have, I am afraid, to be content with the English classes which we have already established in the higher vernacular schools and to which reference has already been made. The rural population will have thereby facilities within easy reach for the first three standards of English. For higher secondary education, I am afraid the students will have to go to the principal centres in the districts and talukas in order to prosecute their studies. However, that is a big question and I do not wish to dilate upon it on the present occasion. I would ask the honourable mover, in view of the assurance I have given, whether he will not withdraw his resolution. He deals with two aspects of the question, while I have told him what Government have decided in the matter of additional Government high schools, an additional college, and in regard to schools in villages. In view of the assurance I have given in regard to the substantial steps which Government propose to take in the direction of promoting education—primary, secondary and collegiate—in Sind. I would ask the honourable member whether he would not be satisfied with it and withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Mr. President,—The first point against my resolution was made by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik. I must tell him that the conditions of his division are different from those of Sind. We have not got any large municipalities in the rural areas. However, I have never heard that even a big municipality like the Hyderabad municipality was able to start an Anglo-vernacular school which could be self-supporting. But the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik says that in Ranebennur the school is not only self-supporting, but that it is a source of income. I wish we had such municipalities as are to be found in the division of my friend the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik.

Now, coming to the arguments that are advanced by the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction against my resolution, he first stated that there are 38 schools. Most of them are aided. The figure is very fascinating at the outset, but honourable members will be convinced from what I have to say that most of these 38 schools are in the big cities, where there may already be high schools. In the Karachi district, besides the Government high schools, there is the Sind Madrassah, the Church Mission Society's school, and .....

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—I carefully excluded from the 38, the aided high schools of Karachi and Hyderabad.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—If I leave the Sind Madrassah, then comes the Hindu Academy. I really cannot understand the definition of big schools.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—I am sorry I have not made myself clear. The figures are as follows. There are 38 schools. Of these 5 teach up to the VI standard, 10 up to the V standard, 13 up to standard IV, and 10 up to standard III. That makes 38 in all, and I gave the names of the places in which they were situated.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—The number of aided schools that I find on looking at the list in the Karachi district is only 2: one at Kotri,

ANGLO-VERNACULAR SCHOOLS IN SIND—RULES UNDER THE REFORMS ACT.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Mr. J. G. Covernton; the Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] and another at the other extremity, Tatta. Now, can anybody expect nearly 7 lakhs of people of the district of Karachi, out of which about 4½ lakhs belong to the rural areas, residing in different parts of the district, to attend these two municipal schools?

Again, coming to Hyderabad, we have one small school at Narsapur in the whole of the district. Coming to Thar and Parkar, we have got only two schools, one at Mithi in the desert and another at Pithoro. In Upper Sind, there is only 1 school at Jacobabad, and similarly in other districts.

Therefore, I submit that there is a necessity for a larger number of schools in each of the districts in Sind. The Honourable the Director of Public Instruction then refers to the policy of Government to help private schools by means of grants-in-aid. But I am talking of opening schools in the rural areas. People residing there do not know much of the value of education. First we have to teach them the value of education and then they will come forward to open private schools in rural areas. The next agency is the district local board. My honourable friend Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh will bear me out when I say that we have only crippled resources. We cannot look after our roads properly. How are we going, in addition, to look after primary education and to open new secondary schools?

Then the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction referred to the experiment which has been made in Sind. Nearly a year is over since the experiment started. I have always been complaining that Sind is treated as a step-child and I repeat it. There are only five schools opened, and for one of them the educational authorities cannot get even a teacher.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—It is only an attempt that we have made. Out of the five schools opened, four are going on quite well and we hope to get a teacher as soon as possible for the fifth.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—That is a vernacular school. Can the educational authorities not get even a teacher to teach English in that centre? Is it still to be an experiment, even if twelve months have passed away?

I am very thankful to His Excellency for taking a keen interest in education and am thankful to the Honourable Member in Charge of the portfolio for opening two or three high schools in those districts where there are no schools. The Honourable Member in Charge of the portfolio said that the question of secondary education was a very difficult one. Now, my resolution relates to opening Anglo-vernacular schools at central places. If Government cannot find money for that, I simply ask for arrangements to be made for the teaching of English in the existing vernacular schools. For that we require only one teacher, because all the subjects that are taught in the higher standards of the vernacular schools are the same as those which are taught in the first three standards of the English schools. Therefore, the cost of one teacher for the school will not be very much. At the most it will be about Rs. 500 to Rs. 600 a year. I do not think Government should have any difficulty in opening such schools.

As regards the places where they ought to be opened, I do not want to take up the time of the Council, but, if the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction wishes, I am ready to supply him with a list of the places where they should be opened. They may be in such places as Tando Mahomed Khan, Shahbunder, etc. There are several other places in each district, and I will provide the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction with a list.

However, in view of the assurance that has been given by the Honourable Member in Charge, I withdraw my resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 11. The Honourable Mr. Bhurgri.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the draft rules and regulations to be framed under the Reforms Act be referred for opinion to a committee of non-official members of this Council before Government forwards its own recommendations in regard to them."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—As the Honourable Mr. Bhurgri is not here, may I ask that I may be allowed to move my resolution on the subject?

RULES UNDER THE REFORMS ACT—PRIMARY SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

[The Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I think it would be more convenient if the honourable member would take it when his turn comes. The honourable member's resolution, No. 17, is practically identical with the Honourable Mr. Bhurgri's resolution. I think he had better wait.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Very well, sir.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 12. The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the present procedure relating to the official approval of the plans and estimates for buildings for primary schools is unnecessarily cumbrous and deserves to be revised so as to facilitate the speedy construction of such buildings."

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—This resolution, on the face of it, is of a non-contentious character. Those of the members of this Council who are in touch with the administration of local boards are aware that the procedure relating to the approval of plans and estimates for buildings for primary schools is very cumbrous and, on that account, the local boards are not able to avail themselves of Government grants which are placed at their disposal and the construction of school buildings is delayed unnecessarily. The present rules, I submit, for going through certain preliminaries before a school building is constructed are very inconvenient for their speedy construction. The liberal grants from Government are not fully taken advantage of in consequence of the rigidity of this procedure and I will indicate my meaning by giving an illustration of how matters stand.

A local fund overseer ordinarily prepares a plan and an estimate for a school building. It goes up to the president of the taluka local board, and he sends it on to the president of the district local board. The latter sends it to the executive engineer, and he in his turn has to send the plans and estimates to the superintending engineer. After he sanctions it, it comes back to the executive engineer, and he once more sends it back to the sanitary engineer. Then it is returned again to the executive engineer. Then it is sent on to the sanitary commissioner and eventually, after its return from that officer, it is sent on to the educational inspector and, through him, to the Director of Public Instruction.

All this procedure involves a lot of time and, if anyone finds any difficulty, then much more time is taken up. In the meantime the rates go up and the estimates have to be revised. Under these circumstances, the work of putting up buildings for primary schools is put back, and, if I were to give instances as to how these things are going on, the Council would be surprised to find that at least in the Ahmedabad district local board in one case the plans and estimates were prepared for a primary school building in June 1918. We are now in the year 1920 and still the estimates and plans have not been returned because, in the first instance, they were sent by the executive engineer to the sanitary engineer. He made certain suggestions. On the basis of those suggestions they had to be corrected. The plans and estimates were then sent to the sanitary commissioner. He made some alterations and the whole thing had to be changed. Then arose the question of the site and the whole matter had to be put back again by the Director of Public Instruction. Next came the question of waiting on account of the educational inspector having no money. So we waited for two years and, eventually, when the matter was taken up, it was found that the rates had gone high and the estimates had to be revised. The revised estimates were then submitted and they have not been returned as yet. I can quote several instances of this type and I think honourable members who are connected with local board administration will bear me out. I submit that the plans and estimates for buildings for primary schools hardly deserve so much scrutiny when there are already standard plans laid down. If only the executive engineer finally approves the plans and estimates according to the rules laid down by the Educational Department and Sanitary Department, the work could be carried out with much expedition. The resolution only seeks the revision of the present procedure which is unnecessarily cumbrous for obtaining official approval to the plans and estimates for buildings for primary schools. I hope the members of this Council will support this resolution and that the Honourable Member in Charge will be in a position to accept my suggestion.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I am very glad that this resolution has been placed before the Council by the Honourable Rao Saheb

PRIMARY SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.]

Harilal Desai. He has brought forward a point in connection with the local board administration which requires careful attention on the part of Government, so as to expedite the construction of school buildings which are badly needed in several districts. It very often happens that the proposal for the construction of schools goes backwards and forwards as was pointed out by my friend the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai. The correspondence goes on for years together. In one case of my district, I find that the correspondence has been going on for 7 years. It was started first on the question of a site. The site was selected and submitted to the revenue authorities for approval: it then came to the district local board. The whole question went afterwards to the sanitary commissioner who took certain objections. In this way the selection of the site took up nearly two years. Then the executive engineer objected that the foundations were not suitable. So the site was shifted again. Thus by the time the plans and estimates were ready, seven years had elapsed. The school was afterwards constructed according to the plans and estimates, and two months after the completion of the building, came an application from the Educational Department that the building provided was quite insufficient to meet the then wants of the school. The Council will thus see what cumbrous processes have to be gone through before plans and estimates are finally approved and buildings constructed for rural schools. In my opinion, the number of the authorities that have to be consulted at present might be reduced. In the case of the district local board schools, regular plans and estimates should be prepared by the executive engineer after the site has been approved by the deputy sanitary commissioner and educational and district local board authorities. The sanitary engineer and the sanitary commissioner need not come in at all. The site should be selected by the taluka or district local board and, if there is any difficulty, reference should be made to the deputy sanitary commissioner.

Then as regards the standard plans, there is some uncertainty. Some time ago, I made a reference as regards the standard plans to be adopted and the reply was that the question was "under consideration." The executive engineer in my district has prepared a plan himself, and it seems to me that that plan is quite suitable and it will facilitate matters very much if the dimensions with regard to school rooms, the space to be allowed to each child and other details were definitely settled and there was no element of uncertainty about the details. I think that when the local board determine to construct a school they should get it built within 2 years from the inception of the project. The existing rules should be revised in such a way as to render this practicable.

I might mention another instance of the dilatory process that has to be gone through at present. In the case of an outlying school in my district, I found that the plans and estimates had been sanctioned. I went to the spot and found out that the site was not at all suitable and had to be changed. The sanctioned plans and estimates had to be altered. The alteration has taken about two years and the altered plans and estimates are now awaiting the countersignature of the Director of Public Instruction, which I am afraid is going to take two or three months more. Under these circumstances I suggest that the present cumbrous procedure should be modified and that the number of authorities to be consulted in connection with the plans and estimates for buildings for primary schools should be diminished so as to expedite matters and enable schools to be constructed within two years at the outside from the starting of the scheme. I hope, therefore, that the Council will accept the resolution which has been placed before it by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai. I strongly support the resolution.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Mr. President,—I do not think I need take up much time of this Council by any lengthy remarks of mine. I endorse every word of the previous speakers. I should like to inform the Council that, so far as my province is concerned, we generally find large balances on the educational side. Enquiries are often made as to why this money is not spent. But the money is meant for educational buildings. Because these plans and estimates take a very long time, the balances go on collecting. If the plans and estimates are sanctioned without delay, as suggested by the mover of the resolution, I am sure there will not be large balances on the educational side. With these remarks I support the resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—Mr. President,—As connected with the administration of local boards, I think I ought to say a few words in support of this resolution. All that need be said on the question has been very eloquently placed before this Council by the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai and the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole. I only want to emphasise the fact that the delay is, if I may be permitted to use the expression, oftentimes irritating. The districts of Ahmedabad and Poona do not stand alone in this complaint, but I have about 8 instances in my district (for which I was not responsible, because they took place before I became the president of the district local board). In 1913 the idea of having new schools was started and up to now we are not even within sight of getting either the plans and estimates finally sanctioned by Government, much less of a grant from Government for building the same. The procedure is, as described, no doubt very cumbrous. Much of this delay could be avoided if the officers concerned would, instead of putting their views in writing and carrying on correspondence with one another, make it convenient to meet on the spot and, in a couple of days, dispose of the matter which, as we now find, takes years.

PRIMARY SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; Mr. G. S. Curtis.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The site has to be chosen by the Collector and the revenue authorities from a different point of view, namely, where the school houses would be in the centre of the village and where the villagers would find it convenient to send their boys. It is to be approved of by the sanitary authorities from a different standpoint and it is to be approved of by the executive engineer's department after taking trial pits. So, instead of leaving all these things to be carried on by correspondence, it would be much better if there is a mutual agreement between these officers arrived at by a meeting on the spot. That is one remedy which I would suggest. The evil is so great and patent that I do not think that any further remarks on this point are necessary.

I may only mention one instance which is quite in point and that is this, that in the case of one primary school at Madha, Government finally passed the plans and estimates and the money was sanctioned. The Collector of the district, however, thought that it would be much better to locate the school on the ground of the fort after demolishing the fort. Now, when a Collector starts a correspondence on such a subject, it is very difficult for other officers to oppose it: at least they have to convince him that his view may not be accurate or correct. Now, in this case, it so happened that two years had passed since Government had sanctioned the plans and estimates and the amount. The correspondence was again started by the Collector, it came to Government, Government sanctioned the site and, consequently, there was some change in the plans and estimates. By the time we received back these plans and estimates the executive engineer had found another difficulty, namely, whether he could do the work within the sum allotted, as a large amount would be required to demolish the old fort and to take away the materials. I will not be surprised if this takes another two years before the matter is finally settled between the executive engineer's department and the Educational Department and before the plans and estimates are finally sanctioned by Government. I speak to emphasise this evil which has been put forward in the resolution and I would request Government to find out a machinery by which this evil would be minimised and that schoolhouses could be made available for district local boards within a short space of time.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—I think that the discussion on this resolution has shown that some attention on the part of Government is necessary in order to expedite the procedure usually followed when carrying out school projects.

I think that at the present moment the most practical suggestion is that made by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe, namely, that a meeting between the officers concerned at a place like Poona or Ahmedabad should be arranged. Poona is a place to which the honourable members who have just pointed out the delay and the various officers concerned can travel without difficulty.

It seems to me almost impossible to dispense with the procedure of the reference to the sanitary authorities or to the executive engineer's department. But possibly it may be convenient for the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Desai, who are presidents of district local boards, to arrange a meeting either at Ahmedabad or Poona with the Collectors concerned for the discussion of plans and estimates of these school buildings and, in that way, I think a good deal of delay will be avoided.

The position of the district of Sholapur is not so easy, but even there it would be possible for the president of the district local board and the educational inspector to arrange to run to Poona and have a conference to consider the plans and estimates.

As regards individual cases, some of them have not been quite so lucid, when examined, as some of the speakers made out. I notice that, in the case of the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai, the cause of the delay of three years was that there were no funds available. Of course, that is not the fault of the procedure laid down. Nor, again, is the procedure responsible for the fact that owing to war the prices were doubled. That is the effect in all the branches of buildings. In the other case referred to by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole the district local board did not foresee the extent of the accommodation necessary and the result was that the accommodation was found too small. That, again, is not the fault of the procedure.

PRIMARY SCHOOL BUILDINGS—CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. G. S. Curtis; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

But Government will see that, as far as possible, matters are expedited and, if possible, type plans and estimates are drawn up for each district and that the officers will be urged to arrange meetings so that knotty points may be discussed at those meetings and solved without undue waste of time and correspondence.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I am thankful to Government for the acceptance of this resolution.

The resolution was then put to the vote and carried.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 17. The Honourable Mr. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to appoint a Committee of Inquiry to investigate the social and economic conditions of mill and factory labour in the Presidency and to report on measures necessary for the prevention and handling of labour strikes, and the improvement of labour conditions in general."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—It is with a certain amount of diffidence that I venture to move this resolution in this Council, regarding a subject which is chiefly concerned with industrial conditions in Bombay and certain other centres of the Presidency. I am sure some honourable members of this Council connected with capitalism would rather consider it a presumption on my part; honourable members, for instance, like my friend the Honourable Mr. Sethna and the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, who is not here, would consider it rather a presumption on my part to dabble with this subject. My reason for dealing with this matter is that it is not only a question which affects certain capitalists in this city, but I believe the problem concerns the welfare of the community at large, particularly of a large section of the labouring population of this Presidency. I need not recount the various facts in connection with the industrial unrest and the resulting strikes either during the last year or at the beginning of this year.

Honourable members of this Council are aware that in the early part of 1919, soon after the arrival of His Excellency in this country, the Presidency had to deal, or rather His Excellency had to deal, with a strike on a large scale in Bombay and also in Ahmedabad. This year also Bombay had a strike of great magnitude continuing for a great length of time and, recently, we have had in the Deccan, at Sholapur, a strike which resulted unfortunately in the loss of life.

Now these conditions, every one will admit, are not desirable; also I believe it will be recognized that this is not a passing phase of industrial unrest in this country. I am afraid these conditions have come to stay and it behoves us, the general public as well as Government, to find out, first, the causes underlying the unrest and, secondly, the remedies to deal with the resulting strikes.

I have asked, sir, in my resolution that a committee be appointed who should go both into the economic and social causes of such an unrest; because I consider, from such knowledge of the subject that I have and from such facts that I have gathered during the recent few weeks here, that if a committee is appointed it will be necessary for the committee to see the causes of this unrest not only from the economic direction but also the actual social conditions of the mill-hands and mill operatives in this Presidency.

So far as I can gather—and let me add here at this stage that in placing this matter before the Council and Government I hold no brief either for the mill operatives or the millowners, but I shall endeavour, to the best of my ability, to place before the Council the facts from the point of view of a disinterested observer and one who is neither prejudiced nor is in favour of one or against the other—so far then as I have been able to gather the facts the causes seem to be that, while, on the one hand, the prices of foodstuffs are rising or have risen as compared with the pre-war level of prices, on the other hand, the millowners have been giving a certain rise in the wages to their mill operatives. I do not think it is necessary for my purpose, neither is it germane to the topic, to quote the various figures of prices as they stood in 1913-14 and as they stand at the present moment. I have got them with me but I shall not read them to the Council, neither shall I weary the Council by quoting the various developments in the wages as granted by the millowners to their operatives. But the fact remains that one of the causes of the unrest of this description is based on the relation of prices as they stand at the present day and the rise in the wages by the millowners. The second cause for the unrest seems to be the principle of getting bonuses from profits which mill operatives have realised. Thirdly, I believe the causes are that the mill operatives think that they are entitled to get from the employers a certain minimum standard of amenities, such as, good housing and medical treatment, either in the case of sickness or in case of accident, so that either they or their relatives should not suffer owing to the conditions of their labour and employment; and, fourthly, they are also beginning to think that they are entitled to other considerations, such as schools for their children and other comforts of life.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat; the Vice-President.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

On the other hand, now speaking on behalf of millowners, it has been said that most of the millowners are considerate and have sufficient regard for the welfare of the operatives who are committed to their care. But, whatever the state of things may be, as long as we have on either side allegations which are at variance with one another, I think it is the duty of Government at this stage, after the various experiences we have had recently, both in Bombay as well as in other parts of the Presidency, to investigate the different causes of this unrest. Labour conditions here are generally on practically the same lines as in other countries, and, in justification for a demand for a committee, I think I shall trouble this Council regarding a few facts as to what happened exactly on the same lines in other countries. So far as industrial relations between labour and capitalists in England are concerned, I believe they had a Conciliation Act so far back as 1896. At that time the Conciliation Act of England made conciliation boards entirely on a voluntary basis, without making them compulsory; in fact, in the settlement of disputes conciliation boards were appointed purely on a voluntary basis.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—May I ask the honourable member from what period trade unions in England existed?

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I believe they date back to something like 25 or 26 years ago, in modern forms.

That was the first stage. In 1912 or 1913 there came a second stage and a commission was appointed to probe the matter, in the same manner as I suggest should be done here, under the presidentship of Sir George Askwith. Then followed the appointment of a Trades or Wages Board; this board was to advise and fix reasonable wages, hours of work, etc., taking into consideration all the circumstances and all the different conditions of labour in the different trades. Well, in other countries than England also, in the colonies, for instance, this question was similarly dealt with. In Canada, in 1907, a similar move was made and an act for the settlement of industrial disputes was passed, which was subsequently copied in other countries also. In 1913 a commission was appointed in America for the settlement of industrial disputes. It presented a report, on which legislative action was taken in that country for the settlement of disputes between the employer and the employee. Or even recently, in the early part of 1917, there was that famous Whitley report making various useful suggestions. I need not go further into these details. The fact is that other countries also had to find out the causes of unrest and seek remedies by legislative or executive orders. And, now that we are experiencing a state of industrial unrest, as I am afraid these conditions have come to stay, it behoves Government as well as the general public to find out, first, the causes underlying the unrest and, secondly, the remedies necessary to deal with the strikes. Now regarding the remedies, I believe it has been said that labour unions are the principal plank on which the whole of this question was based in other countries. Unfortunately, in this country there are no labour unions as such. In Bombay, I know there are two or three organizations which might be characterised as labour unions, but there are no systematic organizations, much less federations of unions or industrial councils, such as are recommended by the Whitley Commission. The point is whether it is advisable and necessary and also feasible here to organize labour in a manner so as to establish labour unions as well as federations of unions for all the mill-hands in the different parts of this Presidency; because, sir, if there were any circumstances particularly noticeable during the recent strikes, it was the fact that the mill-hands could not, in the first place, formulate their grievances and, if at all they could formulate them, there was no agency or machinery through which they could voice them to their employers or to the Millowners' Association or to Government or to any settlement committee, private or public. The first consideration, therefore, for the committee, if appointed, would be how to start labour organizations. The history of conciliation boards in England is perhaps well-known to many members here and I need not go into the same. It is necessary, with special reference to Indian conditions, to find out whether conciliation or rather arbitration boards are desirable and, if so, what powers should be given to them and whether they should be on a voluntary basis or a compulsory basis before any action is taken. These are the different lines on which it is necessary for this committee to make enquiries. I have said in my resolution that this committee should also go into the matter of strikes if unfortunately they recur. It has been observed that the present method of settling strikes is rather not a very practical one. In the first place, the attitude of the millowners in Bombay is a very cold one. Replies given to any private agency like a labour settlement committee are very curt and they do not recognise the utility of labour settlement committees at all. In the second place, the result is of no practical character and every time His Excellency the Governor has to intervene and settle the dispute. I say this is not a very satisfactory manner of handling a strike. The Governor of the Presidency cannot be present always either in Bombay or Sholapur or Ahmedabad, and it is not a very practicable matter to seek the advice and the influence of the Governor of the Presidency every time an industrial dispute has to be settled. Then, again, in the districts the police method of handling strikes is not very satisfactory. We know, for instance, in Sholapur the handling of the recent strike left a good deal of heart-burning and dissatisfaction regarding the manner in which the authorities dealt with the strike. There must be found a method, when a strike comes, by which it can be settled in the most peaceable manner. Therefore, I think the terms of reference to such a committee, if one is appointed, should be not only to go into the conditions of labour but also to suggest methods as to how to handle strikes with the utmost patience possible. It is not desirable always to hold the operatives at the point of the bayonet or to call the military and to keep them in check when they are, owing to their illiteracy, unable to put forward their grievances in a proper manner. The calling of military in Bombay or at other stations is not a desirable way of settling the disputes.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; the Vice-President.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Does the honourable member mean to say that Government should not maintain law and order with their own police, with the assistance of the military if necessary? Does he mean to say that Government should not call the military to aid the police in maintaining law and order? If so, I should like the honourable member to say so definitely to the Council.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—What I meant to say was not that Government should not maintain law and order—in fact, that is one of their most important and primary duties—but that there should be some sort of machinery provided so that the necessity for calling in the military could be avoided as far as possible. Of course, if it is absolutely inevitable, I do admit that the calling in of the military is justifiable, as a matter of last resort.

And, lastly, I think that this committee should also be entrusted with the other task which is contained in the latter portion of my resolution, namely, to suggest certain measures for the improvement of the labour conditions in general in the Presidency. We have been told, especially by those who have taken some interest in the social welfare of these workers, that what they chiefly feel is perhaps a sort of cold treatment and lack of sympathy from their employers, and if they, instead of getting the present sort of treatment, get an entirely different sort of treatment, it will go a great way to bring about better relations and a repetition of the strikes would not occur. A committee can find out, therefore, whether there is lacking in the present conditions of labour something of the human touch, something of the human sympathy. It is also necessary that the committee should make recommendations as to how to bring about a closer association between the employers and the employees with a view to bring about better relations between the two. A joint board, for instance, of representatives of the employers and the employees might be established which could go into various questions, such as establishing a provident fund or gratuities or something of that nature. I, therefore, think that, if a committee were appointed, they can go into all these things. The question is one of great magnitude and importance to this Presidency, as it not only affects the harmonious progress of the textile industry but it affects the social and other well-being of the community as a whole. I would therefore strongly urge, with all the emphasis that I have, that Government should be pleased to look into the matter and appoint a committee to go into this subject fully.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[Sir D. M. Petit; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Sir D. M. Petit:—Mr. President,—Perhaps the Council would like to know what is the attitude of the Bombay Millowners' Association with regard to this proposition which has been proposed by my honourable friend Mr. Kamat, and I might tell them that the Bombay Millowners' Association have no objection whatever to such a committee being appointed by Government. My personal view, however, sir, is that this matter might stand over for some time as His Excellency the Governor himself takes a very keen and personal interest in this matter and I understand that the whole subject is under his own personal consideration. It might, therefore, be well left in his hands for some time and we will see what are the suggestions with which he comes forward.

There are one or two remarks made by my honourable friend Mr. Kamat which require contradiction at my hands. One thing he said was that the attitude of the mill-owners was very cold when they were approached by bodies of social workers on behalf of the mill labourers. The Honourable Mr. Kamat himself said that the mill labourers were not organised, and the Government and others were in a difficult position to ascertain from them what their views were. They were not able to put forward their own demands. If that was the case, how could social workers ascertain the demands of the mill labourers? The millowners themselves tried their best to know from the labourers what they wanted. But there was no organisation which would speak on behalf, not only of the whole body, but on behalf of even a good proportion of them. They were all at variance with one another. Several of them seemed to go on strike because of low pay, some for other reasons, and some because they were asked to go on strike. It was for this reason, sir, that the millowners could not negotiate with other bodies who had nothing to do with the industry. If they were the accredited agents of the mill labourers, or of those people who had any grievance, the Millowners' Association would have been very glad and pleased to negotiate with them. But here there were different bodies putting forward different demands, and it was impossible for the Millowners' Association to negotiate with them without knowing whether they were the accredited agents of the body of people on whose behalf they claimed to speak.

The other remark that the Honourable Mr. Kamat made was that he has ascertained that, if the mill labourers had different treatment from what they are getting now at the hands of their masters, they would not be discontented. I am sorry, sir, he made this general remark without particularising as to any of the ways in which the mill labourers are badly treated by the masters. I do not know what he meant by saying that they received indifferent treatment. If he means the question of pay and other facilities .....

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—What I wanted was closer association between the wage earners and the millowners.

The Honourable Sir D. M. Petit:—He says he wants closer association between the labourers and the millowners. I do not understand that. The real masters, for the matter of that, are the shareholders. Does he mean close association between the shareholders and the workers? (Laughter). Next come the agents; does he mean close association between the agents and the labourers? Next to the agents come the mill managers and the superintendents, and they are the real masters in the matter of giving orders and the treatment, and they do come into contact with the labourers every day. What difference does it make to my mill-hand whether he comes into contact with me or whether he comes into contact with a man whom I have appointed to look after him and to superintend the mills. I do not see any difference at all. Here is a man who is responsible to me, and I am in turn responsible to the shareholders. I do not see any difference in it at all. Why should the agent himself come into contact with the labourers? And I do not know how it is to be done. Does the Honourable Mr. Kamat suggest that I should go to the mills and spend five or six hours a day, to come in contact with the ten thousand labourers that I employ? That is not possible. The best possible thing is that each mill should have a separate manager, and he comes into touch with the three or four thousand men that are working under him. He is there all the time that the mill is working, and I do not understand how the Honourable Mr. Kamat could suggest that the owner should come in contact with the labourers. If that is what he means by saying that the treatment should be different, I have given him a complete answer, and I trust he is satisfied with the explanation that I have given him in this connection.

I have got no other remarks to make. I say that the matter was discussed at the Millowners' Association, and the Association have nothing to hide from the public or from any committee that the Government may appoint and, therefore, they have no objection to it. My personal view is that the matter might be deferred till we hear further from His Excellency the Governor, who is taking a keen interest in this matter and who, I believe, has got this question in hand.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir D. M. Petit; Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.]

The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji :—Mr. President,—I have great pleasure in supporting the resolution brought forward by the Honourable Mr. Kamat on the ground that this enquiry will bring to light several things about which there is apprehension in the minds of several people, especially in the minds of the public. Of course, I support the resolution on the understanding that a committee will be appointed which consists of representatives of the millowners and the workmen themselves, and not the people who take interest in social and other matters and who do not know the real state of affairs. A committee, with these social workers on it, if appointed at all, will not do any good. But a committee appointed consisting of representatives of the millowners and the workmen themselves and with an unbiassed official or a gentleman who can do justice to everything that is brought before him will be the best.

Now, as to certain of the allegations that the Honourable Mr. Kamat has made, the previous speaker, the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit, has made several points clear. If there is any enquiry to be made about the question of wages and bonus, the mill operatives are not the only persons about whose earnings the public ought to be keenly interested. To thresh that question out, the enquiry should include other classes of labourers. There are the dock labourers, Government servants, municipal labourers, and the committee, if at all appointed, will have to go into the question of the wages of all these people.

Then, of course, about the bonus, I do not think any enquiry is necessary, because it is a question of time, circumstances and good conduct and good regard from the masters as well as from the workmen. All these facts determine when the bonus is to be paid and how much is to be paid.

Then he referred to the reply of the Millowners' Association and said that it was a cold reply to the labour settlement committee. I should like to say that the existence of this committee was not known to the labourers themselves. Of course, there exists another committee of workmen, and the business was conducted by one of the leaders. This labour settlement committee charitably went to the workmen, called meetings at the centres, and ascertained their demands. When the strike came on, we were in the dark why the workmen had struck work. Our managers asked them what their demands were and why they had struck work, but they could not say anything. They never said that they wanted more wages, or this thing or that thing. It was nothing of the sort. When we enquired after four days what they wanted, they did not know. Most of them only said that they were prohibited from going to work. By whom? By the mob. Consisting of whom? Perhaps the men of the streets. Very well. What was to be done? All along the first reply that the millowners gave was that they must resume work and that their demands, when formulated, would receive favourable consideration at the hands of the millowners. Then came the demands, and you know the result of it, how considerate the millowners were in accepting their reasonable demands. Very well.

The honourable mover of the resolution referred to the school arrangements. It is the duty of every municipality to give primary education to the population under their charge. Now, it is proposed that the millowners should educate the children of their labourers. The boys are half-time workers generally and it is difficult to start schools and give them education. But, irrespective of that, attempts have been made by the millowners to open schools in each individual mill, and the result was that one or two or three boys only attended. The others evaded, simply because they wanted to go home and play in the streets, or they wanted to go to other mills, work there, and earn more wages. These were the practical difficulties. I myself know that ultimately almost all these mills had to close down the schools. There was a committee appointed consisting of the millowners and the municipality, and in that committee it was suggested that, instead of trying to open schools in the mills, localities should be selected where the mills were situated and schools should be opened there by the municipality and it should be seen whether the boys went to school there. I do not know whether an effort was made by the municipality to do that. It was about three or four years ago that this suggestion was made.

The Honourable Mr. Kamat wants that the millowners should be in close association with these workmen. As the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit has pointed out, the manager is all the time there, moving about with these workmen, and, as far as I know, the relations between the manager and his men are always friendly. I do not think that they have any cause of grievance about the treatment. The present position of labour is such that the manager has to tremble before them, because if any of the workmen are treated in a bad way, the next moment he receives stones, or there is a strike the next morning. That is the treatment that the manager will get if he treated his subordinates in any harsh manner. He has to be friendly with them, to work the whole thing smoothly, and therefore I say that the complaint is groundless on that point.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[Mr. Munmohundass Ramji; Rao Saheb H. D Desai; Mr. C. V. Mehta.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

As for the social, economic and other questions, these are very large matters which will have to be considered liberally from all points of view, and should not be dealt with entirely by the millowners.

With these few remarks, I have great pleasure in supporting the resolution and I would like to see the result of the committee.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—Coming as I do from Ahmedabad, I am interested in the social and economic conditions of factory labour and I am also in favour of the improvement of labour conditions in general. I feel that there would be no harm in appointing a committee of enquiry to investigate into the causes which led to the strikes both here and in Ahmedabad. I am not connected with any mill or any labour organisation and, consequently, when I say that there would be no harm in appointing a committee of enquiry, I do not give that ironical support which the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass gave to this resolution. I, however, feel inclined to say that, in the matter of the strikes that came about both here as well as in Ahmedabad, the masters, in the first instance, were at fault. For a long time they did not look into the question whether the wages which the labourers got required revision in these times of high prices, and perhaps they overstepped the limits of human patience in dealing with the matter. Some gentlemen who were real friends of labour and who were actuated by a genuine desire for social service took the side of labour—at least in Ahmedabad, so far as I know, that is what happened—and a revision came about. But thereafter conditions have changed. Though here as well as in Ahmedabad the grievances had been removed, yet some people who were looking out for a following and wanted to take advantage of the situation placed themselves in the forefront as friends of labour and several difficulties arose in Bombay. We apprehended something in Ahmedabad also, but our apprehensions there have not been serious for the present.

With the widening of the franchise, I am afraid very likely there will be several gentlemen who will put themselves forward as friends of labour and will perhaps bring about deadlocks in their own interests rather than in the interests of labour. That is my apprehension. Of course, I am always for the labourer getting his due from the capitalist. He should always get it, and, where he does not get it, I will be only too glad to tell the employer that he is miserly and stinting himself too much. But, at the same time, I do feel inclined to say that at least in Ahmedabad the labourer has been trying to find out who is his real friend and where his interest lies, and it may be that the labourer in Bombay also will not wait long to do likewise. I, therefore, submit that the committee of enquiry will help to expose the weak points of either the agitator, who puts himself forward as a false friend of labour, or of the employers who stint beyond the point they ought to.

The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji:—The millowner or every other employer?

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I thank the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass for drawing my attention to the fact that the resolution is restricted to mill and factory labour. I have no objection to go far afield and to say that if an employer, whether it be Government or whether it be railway or whether it be any private concern, does not pay the employees properly, then certainly let the committee enquire into all these cases. I should be very glad to have a committee of such enquiry, because it would expose the faults of both sides and, at the same time, bring before the public the names of people who have been putting themselves forward as friends of labour but who really are out for their own selfish ends.

I therefore have much pleasure in supporting this resolution, and my object is that the truth should be out. If the truth is out, the labourer would certainly not have to wait long and to receive his due.

The Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta:—Mr. President,—The Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit, speaking on behalf of the Millowners' Association, pointed out that after considering this resolution the association were of opinion that they had no objection to it. There was also, Mr. President, a further consideration as to whether, even after this committee

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. C. V. Mehta; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Sir D. M. Petit; the Vice-President; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.] of enquiry had sat, it was not right and proper that the conditions of factory labour should be investigated all over the country or whether they should be restricted to this Presidency only, and as to whether it would not be fair in the interests of labour and industry in general that any legislation to be undertaken, in pursuance of the recommendations of the committee, should be of an all-India character. The resolution refers not merely to mills but to various other factories as, for instance, gins, presses and so on. When a few years ago the question of labour in the mills came before the public at the instance of the Times of India, it was found necessary to have all-India legislation. It is obvious, Mr. Chairman, that neither the honourable mover nor any other member who wishes to have a committee of enquiry desires that this Presidency in particular should be placed at a disadvantage when reforms are being suggested. We all desire to have reforms. I do not know, when the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit referred to the scheme that His Excellency the Governor hopes to bring forward, whether one of the points in that scheme is that the conditions of labour all over the country should not be examined. I submit, sir, that, if this committee is appointed, there should be adequate representation both of the employers as well as the work-people, for this reason that I believe there has been considerable awakening of the social conscience in the past few years and that there is a more general desire on the part of employers to make arrangements for the housing of their work-people, for their education and various other matters which were perhaps neglected in the past. It is necessary to enlist the sympathies of everybody concerned if we wish to undertake reforms on a large scale. If there is an adequate representation of both the employers and employees on the committee, I think, sir, it would serve a very useful purpose. I submit also, as I have already stated, that if any legislation, as a result of this enquiry, were to be undertaken, the conditions of other presidencies also ought to be taken into account.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,— I was glad to find that the Millowners' Association and millowners like the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass welcome the committee of enquiry. But the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass appeared to suggest that it should only be a committee of the millowners and the mill workers. That appears to me like a committee of cats and rats. (Laughter.) If, sir, we are going to have a committee at all, let us have a strong and impartial committee whose decision might influence the millowners as well as labour. It is no use placing the mill labourers at the mercy of the millowners. We know that the mill industry practically derives all its profits out of the sweat of its labourers, and, therefore, we must provide for the social and economic amelioration of the lot of the labourer. Take, for instance, the economic condition of the labourer. Has any attempt been made (at any rate I am not aware of any such attempt being made) by the Millowners' Association to get rice at controlled prices for the mill operatives?

The Honourable Sir D. M. Petit:—Oh, yes!

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—I am not aware whether it has been done by the Millowners' Association as such.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—That is done by the Millowners' Association.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—I mention the Millowners' Association for this reason that, taken generally, the price of every material without exception has gone high and, although benevolent millowners like my honourable friends Sir Dinshaw and Mr. Munmohundass Ramji may have bought rice for their mills, this may not have been done by all the millowners. I submit it should be a matter of general interest and it should be done without exception. There are several other directions in which help can be given.

Then, again, the social conditions of the mill operatives are at present not satisfactory at all. An intelligent and an influential body like the Millowners' Association should be in the forefront of all schemes for the social amelioration of the lot of the labouring population. All these questions will be examined by the committee, if appointed, and, if that committee is strong enough, the decisions of that committee will certainly be accepted by all the parties concerned.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—Mr. President,—Coming as I do from one of the places where there is an amount of mill industry, I think, I should make a few observations in support of this resolution. When I do so, I do not intend even to attempt to allocate the responsibility of these strikes either to the mill-hands or to the millowners. I take a commonsense point of view, and that is this, that during the last twelve months we have had a repetition of strikes in various places. That clearly indicates that the mill-hands and the labourers are not satisfied with their present lot and that some improvement is not only desired by them but that it is found to be necessary even by individual millowners.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; Mr. F. Clayton; Mr. B. S. Kamat; the Vice-President.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

It is not in the interests of the general public, residing in the local area where these strikes take place, that so many hands should remain unemployed and so many minds should be unoccupied. It is not in the interests of the general public that there should be dissatisfaction amongst the labour class. It is our duty to find out means to meet the situation.

Speaking for myself and having some experience from the recent strikes in Sholapur, I may say this, that the mill-hands who, or a majority of them, are illiterate, have no organization of their own. They cannot approach the millowners in a constitutional manner and place before them their grievances. The effect of that was that the strike continued for many weeks and perhaps it would have ended sooner if such a union was formed; as my honourable friend Mr. Kamat suggests in his resolution, such unions would be a good solution.

As regards the appointment of a committee, I am in favour of it because these questions will only be solved in a committee. Whether it is constituted in the way in which my honourable friend Mr. Chunilal Mehta has suggested or whether in the way in which the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has suggested is a matter of detail, but, at any rate, it is absolutely true that a representative committee of the millowners, on the one hand, and the mill labourers, on the other, would be a satisfactory constitution. There should also be independent minds associated with this committee, who will bring to bear upon the whole question the general aspect of the case and who will act as an intermediary between the millowners and the labourers.

With these few words, I have great pleasure in supporting this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton: –Mr. President,—I have a considerable amount of sympathy with this resolution, for I think it must be appreciated by everyone present that labour to-day intends to demand and receive a greater and fairer portion of the results of their industry, and I consider therefore, from that point of view, it would be advisable to take such steps as would bring the employers of labour and the labourers together.

The chief object, however, I suggest for the committee should be to discover what can be done to avoid strikes. My difficulty, however, in this matter is rather the wording of the resolution. In some parts it appeals to me as being very narrow, while in some parts too wide altogether. I do not like, for instance, the inclusion of words such as "handling of labour strikes, etc." No one can appreciate what conditions might arise as the result of excitement and generally of circumstances brought about by a number of men not properly led and quite uncontrolled and serious conditions might arise necessitating a completely free hand in dealing with the same. I think it would not be advisable for any committee to decide on any limitation of necessary action. The chief object of such a committee should be to prevent strikes occurring. If the Honourable Mr. Kamat will allow me to suggest a different wording to this resolution I would do so. Of course, I do not know whether he would approve of my wording.

I suggest the following amendment to this resolution:—

> "This Council recommends that Government may be pleased to appoint a Committee of Inquiry to investigate the causes, the effects of and the measures necessary for the removal of labour unrest, and the prevention and settlement of labour troubles and strikes by conciliatory boards and the desirability of appointing such boards."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I am sorry I cannot accept the amendment as it preassumes the question.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The Honourable Mr. Clayton has moved an amendment to the original resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Kamat and we will take the resolution and the amendment together.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton:—Mr. President,—My reason for suggesting this amendment is that I consider the words just referred to by me should be eliminated in that they are objectionable, and another reason is that I want to make the scope of the inquiry wider. I suggest that we require a much wider range on which to base any investigations.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. F. Clayton; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; the Vice-President; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Mr. B. S. Kamat; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

It appears to me, sir, that what we want to inquire about now is, what steps should be taken to prevent labour troubles generally? This could be done by a committee of reasonable men, men who would look at the matter from the point of view of both the employers and the employed, and we could get that result if such a committee is appointed.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—I would rather propose an amendment myself in order to widen the scope of the enquiry suggested by striking out the words "mill and factory" and making the enquiry applicable to all kinds of labour.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I think that amendment would be out of order. It extends the whole scope of the enquiry.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Might I point out, Mr. President, that the amendment which I am suggesting is on practically the same lines as that of my honourable friend Mr. Clayton, which has been allowed. That amendment also does extend the scope of the enquiry.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I quite realise that it is so. It is true I allowed the Honourable Mr. Clayton's amendment, but I did so inadvertently. I overlooked the fact that it also extends the scope of enquiry. I do not wish to allow any further extension.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—The first observation that I have to offer on the resolution under discussion is whether by "enquiry into the conditions of mill and factory labour" the Honourable Mr. Kamat includes labourers working in all the factories which come under the Factories Act?

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Yes.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—If that is the case, I wish to submit that there is no case made out for an enquiry into the conditions of labour employed in cotton ginning and pressing factories, for the simplest of all reasons that we have never yet heard of any strikes there. If a committee is to be appointed hereafter, I submit that it is both unnecessary and fruitless as far as labour in ginning and pressing factories is concerned. The reason why I say it would be fruitless is this, that labour in these factories is not stationary; it is picked up every season off and on, and the scale of their wages therefore depends on the supply and demand. These factory labourers work only for a period of six months at the utmost, and very likely the same men will not return to work in each season, and up to now we have never heard of unrest there. Factory owners there have already considered the conditions brought about by the rise in prices and have allowed suitable increases of wages with which the labourers appear to be satisfied. If therefore, the labour employed in ginning and pressing factories is included in the scope of the enquiry proposed, it would be simply time and energy lost.

I fully sympathise with the view that an enquiry like this, as far as major factories, such as cotton mills, are concerned, should be of an all-India nature, for, after all, competition is keen and there is no reason why there should be strict legislation in one Presidency and mild legislation in another. I have nothing else to add, except that no case has been made out to include labour employed in ginning and pressing factories. I would further point out that the last portion of the resolution, namely, "the improvement of labour conditions in general", is very vague and too general to be handled by any committee, at this stage at any rate.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—I hope the honourable mover realises how extremely difficult the problem is which he has raised. As the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit has pointed out, His Excellency the Governor is taking a very keen interest in the whole problem and the usual panacea of a committee has not escaped the attention of Government. But there are so many difficulties, some of which I will explain a little later on, that the matter is still under the consideration of Government as to what is the best means to be adopted to meet this problem. It may be in the nature of a committee or some other method. If a committee is decided upon, a very serious difficulty arises as to how that committee is to be constituted, who are to be the members of such a committee, and it is not such a simple question as may be imagined on the surface. Then, we have to consider whether an arbitration court should be established, or whether a conciliatory board may be appointed, and so on. These are various problems in regard to which His Excellency and his Government are giving the most careful consideration. I therefore hope that the Council will not, by passing this resolution, force the hands of Government in this direction. There is another reason which has made Government hesitate to reach a decision on this question, and that is, whether this is an opportune time to re-open an enquiry into a difficulty which has been recently settled, at all events temporarily. It may be that any premature action on the part of Government in this direction may have undesirable results. I wish it to be clearly understood that Government are most sympathetic in this matter and they desire to do something which will promote the cause which honourable members who have spoken on the subject have at heart. Therefore, so far as some action in the direction indicated is called for to meet the general unrest which has prevailed and which may still be said to be prevailing amongst the labourers, the same is receiving the most careful and the most anxious consideration at the hands of Government. The Council can realise, sir, that when these strikes come on, Government have to pass through most anxious times, that the pressure of anxiety upon His Excellency and his Government is overwhelming, that anything untoward may happen at any moment; so that if any means could be found by which strikes could be prevented, honourable members may be quite convinced that Government will not hesitate a moment to adopt that course. But when we are talking of the prevention of strikes, may I ask honourable members to realise whether it can possibly be regarded as a practical measure? Have not the labour difficulties in England gone on for years? In England the conditions are different; the labourers are all literate in their vernacular, which is English; they are organized; they have trade unions; and yet, in spite of all that, have labour strikes ended in England? I can assure the Council that if any panacea is found for this evil of strikes, no one will welcome it more cordially than the Government and the whole public. These are some of the difficulties which I wish to bring to the notice of honourable members and I would ask them whether they would wish to pass a resolution asking Government to appoint a committee on this question at once, before the problem, which, as I have told you, His Excellency and his Government have at heart, has been carefully examined in all its aspects and a decision is reached.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The next question dealt with in the resolution is that of the handling of labour strikes. Now, sir, I may tell the Council how carefully and skilfully His Excellency has handled the two strikes that have occurred during the last year and this. It is not a simple matter, as the Council will realise, when you have got to deal with such a large mass of people. At the former strike especially, there was a very serious deterioration in public health. These are all problems which cannot to my mind be dealt with hastily. They have got to be very carefully thought out. Therefore, the question of handling these strikes is a matter of the utmost difficulty, especially in view of the fact that labour is unorganized. Now I may tell you what happened on the occasion of the previous strike. His Excellency took the matter in hand with a view to making an effort to bring about a settlement between the millowners and the labourers. Well, the millowners are organized, they have got their association, and His Excellency sent for the representatives of their committee. At the interview His Excellency pointed out the desirability of millowners coming forward to meet the demands of the mill-hands to a reasonable extent. In these negotiations the millowners agreed to certain proposals which His Excellency the Governor thought were reasonable under the circumstances. Then, the difficulty was to get hold of the mill-hands and make them see the reasonableness of the proposals. Well, Government decided to ask about 100 or 125 mill-hands, consisting of one, two or three from each mill, who were supposed to be the leaders of the strikers, to meet them. His Excellency had them here in the Secretariat in this very room. His Excellency appealed to them pointing out the reasonableness of the proposals, but the result was not satisfactory. Certain other methods had then to be undertaken. Notices had to be posted on the mill premises intimating the concessions which the millowners were willing to make, and that strike eventually ended. On the present occasion the same difficulty arose. Certain people rightly claimed to represent the mill labourers, but the difficulty is that the labourers will not follow anybody. It must be obvious to honourable members that when labourers make a demand of this kind, or whenever there is any dispute between the employers and the employed, there is always a compromise. Now there must be some authority to make that compromise binding on both the parties. On the part of the millowners there is an established authority; on the part of the mill-hands there is none. I would ask the honourable members whether a committee, constituted I do not know how, will organize labour and organize trade unions so that organization will be a matter of possibility under present conditions. I take it that that is not a work which a committee of the nature proposed can accomplish, but that is a work which the social workers, educated men with a desire to do service to labour, should undertake. The committee cannot tell you how these two hundred and fifty thousand men employed in about 85 mills are to be organized. Real organization means—I want honourable members to realise—that the whole body will accept the decisions arrived at by their elected leaders. In the present state of illiteracy which is prevailing, and from what little insight Government have had in the views and sentiments of a large body of mill-hands during these two strikes, it appears to us extremely difficult, though eminently desirable, that there should be established some representative body whom the labourers as a body would follow.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibarhim Rahimtoola.]

If you think that that is a matter of practical politics, I would appeal to representative men to take the matter in their hands and to bring about this organisation. No one will be better pleased than Government, if they had, on such occasions, two representative bodies to be brought together, and thus bring about a solution of impending trouble. When we are dealing with the question, I want you to realise that Government are quite keen on doing something—what that something is is still a matter under consideration—in order to prevent a recurrence of such strikes which lead to not only heavy economic loss all round, but which endangers public health.

The Honourable Mr. Kamat wants the question of their social and economic conditions to be examined. I do not know whether he is aware of it, but I remember to have read some months ago that the Servants of India Society had deputed some representatives to carry on an enquiry into the social and economic condition of the mill labourers, that they made a report, and that they have pointed out that in most cases the labourers remain in a condition of chronic indebtedness. Now, any amount of social work could be done by public-spirited men in the direction of improving the conditions of labour. I had asked the Chief Secretary to Government to let me have a statement of the figures showing the excess excise revenue which we have now received under the new system and his figures are that while the total revenue from the whole of the Presidency amounts to Rs. 53 lakhs, Bombay gives Rs. 6½ lakhs out of it. That is, with a population of about 10 lakhs out of 2 crores, we have about 12 per cent. of excess excise revenue recovered from Bombay alone. Here is a direction in which a great deal of good can be done by public-spirited efforts in the matter of ameliorating the condition and making the position of the labourers better.

Then, as regards certain other measures which have been mentioned, I wish honourable members to realise that in an attempt to undertake the work of the amelioration of the condition of labour in the city there must be some definite co-operation between non-official and official agency. Now, Government have realised that the housing of the poorer classes in the city of Bombay is in a very bad condition, and their proposals have nearly matured, with a view to putting forward a very comprehensive scheme for the purpose of the better housing of the poorer classes in this city.

As regards medical treatment, I may tell the honourable members that in addition to what Government are doing in maintaining their hospitals, the municipality is also maintaining a large number of free dispensaries. One of the conditions of the recent strike settlement was that the millowners shall provide on the spot medical treatment for their employees. Those who fall victims to accidents will not only receive immediate medical treatment but will also be entitled to allowances.

Then as regards schools, honourable members are aware that Government, only last year, sanctioned a substantial grant to the Bombay municipality, for the purpose of the extension of primary education, with the object of making it in the immediate future free and compulsory for all people. I have taken a keen interest in the question of primary education in this Presidency, and I know that we have had several meetings at which representatives of the millowners were present, and they showed their readiness to, do everything in their power to contribute towards the establishment of schools and maintaining them. But the difficulty was—and a reference was made to it by the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass—to induce these children to attend the schools on a voluntary basis. It was seriously suggested at one time that Re. 1 or Rs. 2 a month should be paid to the boys who would attend the schools throughout the month. These inducements were suggested by a leading millowner of Bombay. The municipality are, I understand, willing to provide facilities for primary education provided a reasonably adequate number of pupils are willing to attend. It appears to me that the problem will only be solved effectively, when the Bombay corporation is able to make primary education free and compulsory throughout the city of Bombay. All the measures that can be taken in the meantime are being taken, and I am mentioning these things in order to show that, if this problem is to be effectively solved, it has got to be solved by a genuine and sincere co-operation between the official and non-official agencies. So far as the official agency is concerned, I have already told the Council what we have done. I have hinted at what the Bombay corporation is doing and I am prepared to give honourable members and, through them, to the general public an assurance that Government are prepared to do everything in their power to co-operate and help, and I trust that the responsible non-official element will come forward also to co-operate in this useful and beneficent work. We will thus progress along the path which all of us desire to tread.

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS: MILL STRIKES.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. F. Clayton; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

Having said that, I will ask the honourable mover of the resolution and of the amendment, whether they would press them. I give the Council an assurance that all these alternatives are under the very serious consideration of His Excellency personally. What shape the action will take is still undecided, and I have pointed out to the Council where the difficulties lie, and it is not easy to meet those difficulties. At the same time, it is worth while considering whether, when the strike in Sholapur has practically ended within the last few days, at a time like this, any move of this description will not have a contrary effect to what every honourable member seems to desire. In view of all that I have said, I would ask honourable members to trust His Excellency to do the best he can under the circumstances and not to press this resolution to-day. The Government attitude in the matter is that they are not going to oppose it. But I trust that the honourable member will see, in view of what I have said, that the best interests of the public will be promoted if he accepts my suggestion, contents himself with the discussion and the assurance I have given, and withdraws the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton:—Mr. President.—In view of the remarks of the Honourable Member in Charge, I will, with your permission, withdraw my amendment, especially in view of the very definite assurance of Government's feeling on this subject.

The amendment was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—I have only one or two remarks to make regarding what has fallen from some of the previous speakers, as to the attitude of the Millowners' Association and the constitution of the settlement committee to which I have referred.

With regard to the remarks of the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit, I thank him for the statement he made on behalf of the Millowners' Association, that they welcome such a committee. The Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit said, with reference to the closer association between the employers and the employees, that the managers and superintendents are responsible for that. But I beg to differ from him in that view; I do not regard it as the correct view to take. It would not be right, for instance, if His Excellency were to say "Here are the men, my Collectors and Commissioners, who have been appointed to carry on the administration; it is their business and not mine to be in close touch with the people." Similarly, I think that it is right that the directors ought to be in personal touch with the employees. That is my view.

With regard to what fell from the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji, I believe he referred to the formation of the recent labour settlement committee and their status. I believe it was not entirely in good form on his part to refer to that committee as if it were a committee consisting of men in the street. The committee wanted to negotiate between the millowners and the mill-hands out of a spirit of co-operation, to which the Honourable Sir Ibrahim has referred. If that sort of co-operation from men like Sir Narayan Chandavarkar and men from the Social Service Leage is not appreciated by the millowners, I say it is a regrettable thing indeed.

With regard to what he objected to in the matter of bonus, I believe it is now recognised throughout all countries that, when there are large profits made by any industry, it is due to the workers that they should participate in the profits in the shape of a bonus. I think that that sort of principle should be recognised both by the millowners and by Government, if they appoint a committee later on.

There are only one or two other remarks that I want to make regarding what fell from the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas. He said that there was no necessity whatever to look into the conditions of factory labour. As I have said at the end of my resolution, I desire the improvement of labour conditions in general. It is not only the conditions of the mill labourers in Bombay that we have to improve. An enquiry is needed as to the conditions of the labourers employed in ginning factories as well. Why should the factory labourers not participate in the measures of improvement which we want to devise?

CONDITION OF MILL AND FACTORY LABOURERS; MILL STRIKES—CIVIL JUSTICE; EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; the Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

Now, I come to what fell from the Honourable Sir Ibrahim. I perfectly well agree that this is a complex proposition. It is not at all a simple proposition to enquire into so many complex questions. I also realise and frankly appreciate the efforts which His Excellency and his Government and the Honourable Sir Ibrahim are making in the solution of this acute problem. But I do not share his view regarding certain difficulties which he mentioned, namely, the difficulty about the constitution of a committee which I suggest. If we are inclined to appoint one, I do not think there will be any serious difficulty as regards its constitution.

As regards the point whether it is an opportune time or not, I agree that the atmosphere is too much ruffled since the Sholapur affair, and we are too near in distance from the recent strikes to be able to take a dispassionate view of the state of things; therefore, if this enquiry were adjourned or postponed a few months hence, I for one would not object at all if Government thinks that this is not a very favourable or opportune moment for enquiry. It is only a matter of detail whether the appointment should be immediate or six months hence.

So far as the permanent ending of strikes either in this country or anywhere else in the world is concerned, I think there can be no end to strikes so long as human nature is human nature. Even in England there are strikes to the present day, but they have enquired into the matter and devised machinery to be able to settle the matter whenever these untoward things do happen. Therefore, we should also look into the question and be ready with the machinery, whenever there are occasions for the settlement of strikes.

I perfectly endorse whatever the Honourable Sir Ibrahim has said, so far as the co-operation between non-official and official persons in this connection is concerned. Although I do not entirely belong to Bombay—I only partly belong to it—I for one can assure him that there are institutions here like the Social Service League and persons working in that league, who would be too cheerful and too glad if any methods could be devised for non-officials to co-operate with Government and also with the millowners. They have shown the spirit of co-operation already and they would be still more willing to offer their co-operation whenever it is wanted.

We are also glad that His Excellency is personally tackling the question of housing. I hope along with that there will also be considered one or two other questions, for instance, the question of drink amongst the work-people, and the question of the education of their children, and so on. However, I do not want to prolong the debate. Let me thank the Honourable Member in Charge for the assurance that he has given that very close and anxious attention is being given by Government and by His Excellency personally to this question; after the assurance which he has given, particularly after the statement he made that he is not going to oppose this resolution, I think the only course open to me is to withdraw the resolution and thank Government for the attitude which they have shown and the efforts which they are going to make.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 24. The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a committee be appointed to recommend what steps should be taken to make the administration of civil justice more expeditious and efficient in this Presidency."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I do not think I need say much to convince this Council that the administration of civil justice in this Presidency is not at present as expeditious and efficient as it should be. In the statement of objects and reasons for the amendment to the Land Revenue Code, Government admit that "at present recovery is possible only through the agency of the civil courts and this method has been proved to be so dilatory that the need for an amendment of the law is recognised." From this statement it will appear that the simple question of recoveries of money is very frequently difficult and sometimes impossible and Government have, therefore, come to the rescue of co-operative societies by making this amendment in the act and taking away the jurisdiction of civil courts. The Privy Council too have frequently criticised the delays in civil litigation. We frequently find that the sub-judges' courts and District Judges' courts begin the year with files which everyone knows they cannot go through during the year and then fresh cases come in, with the result that the files keep increasing. In some cases relief is given by sending up an additional hand, but that relief is not adequate and, therefore, cases which do not engage the attention of the courts for more than 5 minutes, when they actually come up for hearing, are kept pending for 3 or 4, and sometimes even more, years. That is how simple cases that could be disposed of in a few minutes or days are kept pending for months and months, and sometimes years.

CIVIL JUSTICE: EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

I shall now refer to the report of the administration of criminal and civil justice for the year 1918 to show what time the contested cases, which, in this particular year, amounted to about 54 per cent., took in each instance.

"The average duration of contested suits rose from 200 to 211 days, and that of uncontested suits from 88 to 101 in the year under report." "In the district courts the average duration was 333 days for contested and 180 for uncontested suits as against 401 and 137 days respectively in the preceding year. In the mofussil sub-courts the average duration was 229 days for contested and 113 days for uncontested suits as against 222 and 102 days respectively in the previous year. In the superior courts the average duration was 326 days for contested and 407 days for uncontested suits as against 335 and 364 respectively in the preceding year."

Practically a regular suit for a small amount of claim has to take so many days in the first court, so many days in the second court, and so many days in the final superior court. The sub-court somehow gets through the suit within less time than the district court, and the superior court takes, it appears, a longer time than the district court. The delays are frequently so annoying to the litigating public, and the pressure of the impending litigation is kept hanging for such a long time that there is a saying in our vernacular that a man must be a lunatic to go to the civil court. Government have at the back of their mind the very same idea. They want to discourage litigiousness. In other words, the revenue which should legitimately come into the coffers of Government is really being kept out, because we do not try to find out what should be done to improve the administration of civil justice in the Bombay Presidency. I submit, sir, these delays can very easily be avoided and I, therefore, suggest that a committee be appointed. I leave it to Government to decide what kind of a committee to appoint. I would suggest that a committee consisting of some judges, some practising pleaders and some of the non-official public, who will represent the litigating public might be appointed to consider what facilities should be provided to expedite the administration of civil justice and to make it more efficient. I am not criticising the procedure which is laid down by the Government of India Act and which is followed in the civil courts. I have no quarrel with the procedure or the personnel. But there are other things that lead to unnecessary delay and infructuousness in civil litigation. It will be seen that 54 per cent. of the civil work is disposed of without contest, so that practically many of the litigating parties, after waiting for an unduly long time, drop away on account of sheer exhaustion in some cases; other people take their place and these suits are disposed of by compromise without any contest at all.

Then take the execution proceedings. A man has got a decree from a competent court which has been confirmed by the superior court and which entitles him to a certain claim. He comes to the court again and the same procedure is to be gone through. There is so much delay in the first court, so much delay in the second court, and so much delay in the third court, until at last the decree becomes ripe for execution. The work of execution goes on and what is the result? Everybody knows that it is frequently infructuous. You will find, sir, from the figures given in this report that "out of the total number of applications for execution disposed of, 700 were disposed of by transfer. In 28,008 satisfaction was obtained in full and in 28,611 in part, while 70,325 proved wholly infructuous." So that the delay which takes place from the lodging of the suit until the realisation of the decree is so very great in practice that in a very large number of cases the proceeding is infructuous. And then the cost. The cost which is recovered from the unsuccessful party is exceedingly small compared to the amount actually spent on the litigation itself.

Now, sir, as I have said, in actual practice all these cases take a very few minutes of the court's time to dispose of, but then the huge files which keep on increasing really cause the great delays that we so often see. There are several remedies that can be suggested. One of them is to appoint practising lawyers from other districts as temporary judges to dispose of the files. This would not only expedite matters but would bring in additional revenue.

Now I shall read some of the figures which show the comparative litigiousness of the several districts. In some parts of East Khandesh, where the services of these civil courts are not available, there is one case for 110 inhabitants. In Bijapur the proportion is 1 to 331, while in Bombay it is 1 to 35. Is it intended to imply by these figures that the men in Bijapur are very well behaved and that the people in Bombay are quarrelsome? I submit, sir, that the reason is that the facilities which should be given to the people of Bijapur are not being given them. If they were provided, I am sure there will be one case for every 35 citizens or less. The question of facilities for litigants is never considered at all. I have never seen a court where a litigant's conveniences are at all considered. There is no convenience provided for him in the court house. He keeps loafing in the corridor, and everyone appears to feel that the man ought not to be there at all. Everyone appears to feel that he is like the man who goes to a grog shop where he ought not to go at all and all manner of inconveniences are invented for him apparently to discourage the feeling of litigiousness which is foremost in him. That is hardly the way of dealing with the poor people who come to seek justice. Justice ought to be cheap and justice ought to be quick and efficient. We ought not to encourage the feeling that it is better not to dispute one's claim and to give it up rather than undergo all the trouble to realise it. We ought to provide proper facilities to litigants and see that their reasonable claims are settled within a reasonable time.

CIVIL JUSTICE: EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the Vice-President; Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Government have practically taken away most of their civil work from the jurisdiction of civil courts and there are several other . . . .

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I must ask the honourable member to confine himself to the subject of the resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I bow to the ruling. But I think the reason why Government found it necessary to enact the Revenue Jurisdiction Act and the Land Revenue Code and similar other acts was to get their claims decided in an expeditious manner.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The question of the civil and revenue jurisdiction is entirely outside the scope of this resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—I merely intend to show, sir, that Government recognise the delays and . . . .

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—I must ask the honourable member to obey my ruling in this matter.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—In the matter of criminal justice the cases are disposed of expeditiously and within a reasonable time. A man is found thieving and within 24 hours he is placed before a magistrate and his case is decided in a day or two and, even if there are delays, they are so reasonable and practical that there is almost no unnecessary loss of time. It is nothing very unusual to find civil cases of no importance being kept pending for three or four years and I submit it leads to serious loss both to Government and to the public.

I therefore submit that a committee of the type that I suggest, or any other committee that Government might think necessary, be appointed and steps be taken to remedy these defects in our civil administration.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—Mr. President,—I move that this Council should be adjourned till to-morrow. There must be some limit to our work and I do not think it is fair to ask us to sit any longer. We cannot attend to the discussions that are going on at such a late hour. I therefore move the Council to adjourn till to-morrow.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I do not think that the honourable member is entitled to move for an adjournment of the meeting. He may move an adjournment of the business on the agenda but he cannot move an adjournment of the meeting. Having regard to the amount of the business on the agenda I think it desirable that we should try to finish this evening as much as we can, because some honourable members are very busy men and it is not desirable to detain them here longer than necessary.

The Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi:—I move, sir, my motion for adjournment of the discussion on this resolution till to-morrow as a substantive resolution. Some of us do wish to speak on this resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, as it is an important resolution and I request you, sir, to place my motion for adjournment of the discussion before the Council. If that is not done, the only course open to me will be to leave the Council Hall and go home. I must say this frankly.

The motion for adjournment of discussion on the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud's resolution was then put to the vote and lost.

CIVIL JUSTICE: EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe :—Mr. President,—I wish to offer a few remarks on the resolution moved by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. By this resolution he asks for a committee to be appointed and he asks that the committee should recommend what steps should be taken to make the administration of civil justice more erpeditious and efficient in this Presidency. I do not really understand what is behind the back of my honourable friend's mind when he puts forward a resolution of this kind. We know it is a fact, from the administration report of criminal and civil justice, that there is some amount of delay, which is not really desirable, in the disposal of original suits and appeals. But is this the way to get over that difficulty?

Supposing a committee is appointed, I consider it as absolutely impracticable for that committee to suggest what steps should be taken to dispose of cases early. And as regards efficiency, I do not really understand how this committee can make any recommendations. When the candidates are selected for these posts they are selected because of their efficiency. On the question of speedy disposal of cases it will never do for any committee to lay down a particular rule. Disposal of a case depends upon various circumstances, e.g., bulk of evidence, intricacies of law, competency of the bench and the bar, etc. It will always be a matter of personal equation.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud has also suggested that attention is not being properly given to the requirements of the litigants. I do not pretend to say that I really understand what he wanted to convey by this remark. The greater the attention to the litigants the greater the tendency to fight and it is not in the interests of the people generally that we should adopt any measures which would encourage litigation. I am not aware of cases where litigants are badly treated. The speedy disposal or otherwise of cases is a matter for which not only the courts alone are responsible but for which the general public is also responsible. My honourable friend is a pleader of some standing and he will appreciate the force of my remarks when I say that the litigating populace, being generally not very intelligent, do not render any help to their legal advisers and it is on account partly of that that the delay is caused.

The remedy, sir, is in the hands of both, I should say in the hands of three parties. The remedy lies with the officers presiding over the courts, with the lawyers and with the litigants who come into the courts.

As regards the excessive delay in the disposal of suits and appeals, I have to make one more remark. I do it with the greatest reluctance but I will be failing in my duty if I do not do it, and that remark is that it is a matter of great doubt to me whether the officers who are now engaged in the disposal of this work give an adequate return for the money which they receive. It may be considered as a very serious allegation—far from that I do not intend to make any—but the present administrative machinery is such that they cannot give such time to the disposal of real judicial work as they ought to do. In order to mitigate an evil of this kind a new system is proposed to be introduced, and has been introduced in some districts, of appointing personal assistants to the District Judges. That might in a way give relief to the District and Sessions Judges and they will be able to do more work than they have been doing hitherto. Similarly, as I am dealing with this point, I may make one suggestion to Government for their consideration and it is this; that in cases of small amounts and in matters which are purely formal and ministerial the time of subordinate judges is wasted. Instead of that, if Government, in consultation with the Judges of the High Court, were to appoint a responsible officer on a pay better than what the clerk of the court or nazir gets in taluka courts to do such ministerial work and other work which really need not come before the Judges, it will give a great relief to the subordinate judges, and will reduce the delays of which we have always been complaining. In any event, the appointment of a committee to my mind seems an impracticable proposition and it will be no use asking Government to appoint a committee to investigate the causes of delays and also to recommend what steps should be taken to avoid the delays and how to improve the efficiency.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud referred to certain statistics. Those statistics, sir, I am not inclined to believe to a very great extent, because a contested case means even a money suit in which the defendant comes and asks for instalments. Even such cases are included in the contested head. Therefore, the delay which really appears in the reports published by Government is much less than what really happens in the case of really contested cases. There I go much further than the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, that the delays in really contested cases are much more than what is represented to be in the statistics, which are based on the method which I have now indicated. Similarly, I have to make one other observation and it is this, that yesterday's resolution of the

CIVIL JUSTICE: EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe, Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; the Vice-President; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Honourable Mr. Upasani has cleared away much of the ground covered by this resolution. Government has already started that inquiry as to the redistribution of jurisdiction of the subordinate courts and the necessity of starting new courts. When efforts in that direction are being made, I do not see really the utility of a committee which is proposed by the resolution of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud. I therefore am not inclined to support him in the appointment of this committee.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Mr. President,—I am afraid I have to repeat my objection to the appointment of committees that I made yesterday to the committee proposed by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik and again to risk the indignant outburst of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, the mover of this resolution. My reason for opposing this committee is that it is absolutely unnecessary. Now it cannot be denied that the grievance with regard to the delay in the administration of justice pointed out by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud does exist. But he forgets that this is not a new grievance at all. It is at least as old as Shakespeare, if not older, as witness law's delay being included in the woes of the world by Hamlet in his soliloquy. Besides " the law's delay " is an evil which exists in all countries, including those of Europe. If the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud is right in saying that a litigant is very badly treated—although I have no knowledge of this—I believe this ill-treatment is meted out to discourage litigation. If so, discouraging litigation is a very desirable thing. I remember a Viceroy saying that people who resorted to litigation, " had lost their senses ". I quite agree with the remark made by some previous speaker that it is an act of lunacy to go to law. But we cannot on that account close down our law courts, for the simple reason that people who have got their just claims to enforce must have courts to resort to; otherwise it will give an opportunity to dishonest debtors to refuse to pay the first claims of their creditors. But the remedy for this evil, which exists to a very large degree not only in the parts of the country to which the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud refers or from which he comes, but I say all over India, is not the one suggested by the honourable mover. I am a Sindhi, belonging to the province of Sind, between which and the province of Punjab, on account of their propinquity, a good deal of inter-litigation goes on. We know what the state of things is in the Punjab. There no date is fixed for the hearing of some cases for three years. Whilst this state of things is really deplorable—and nobody will say from one end of this Council hall to the other that this law's delay should be permitted—my opposition is based upon the fact that a committee cannot be of any practical use. One remedy which might suggest itself as a simple one is that a judge should cut down much of the cross-examination and some of the evidence tendered. But would an eminent lawyer of such standing as the honourable mover recommend such a remedy? Another obvious remedy is the increase of judicial staffs. That means money. That means some provision in the budget, and it is in the hands of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud as a member of this Council to make a suggestion to the Finance Committee to make such provision in the budget. Everybody will agree that proper methods and procedure ought to be observed and, at the same time, justice should be done as expeditiously as possible. I know of courts in cities and towns where justice is done expeditiously, but the reason is that they have got enough judges. For instance, in the city of Hyderabad, justice is administered expeditiously, because there is no subordinate judge, one joint judge and one District Judge, and probably also litigation there is not excessive. So, Mr. President, I submit that, whilst the evil is recognised, the methods by which delays of litigation could be avoided can be easily conceived by the man in the street. And no committee is required for the purpose. I would, therefore, ask the Council not to pass the resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I do not think that I need say very much after the reply to the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud which has been given by the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe and the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas. As the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe pointed out, a large part of the honourable mover's speech traverses the ground which we went over yesterday in connection with the Honourable Mr. Upasani's resolution.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—May I enquire whether Government are going to accept that resolution? It was only passed by this Council by a majority of votes.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—A large part of the matter dealt with in the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud's speech covers the same ground as we covered yesterday and the opinion of this Council was expressed upon it yesterday on the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Upasani. What action Government are going to take on that matter is not germane to the subject under discussion just now. I believe it is the case that a great part of the delay arises from the ignorance of the litigants themselves and, I may also add, indolence. They will not take the trouble to bring their evidence and have it ready at the proper time. When the lawyer tells them that they must do a certain thing, they fail to do it, and, when the case comes up before the court, the matter is not ready and a postponement has to be asked for. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe and the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai made it quite clear that there may be delays in the disposal of cases, but the remedies are not to be found by the appointment of a committee. Just as in the matter of the proposal made by the Honourable Mr. Kamat for a committee regarding labour unrest Government consider that no useful purpose would be served by such a committee, in the same way in this case also Government consider that the appointment of a committee would not do any real good. The matter has to be approached in another way. You have the High Court at the top of the scheme of the civil administration of justice. Then you have the intermediary stage of the District Judge. Now the procedure for litigation has been laid down in the Civil Procedure Code and it is the duty of the High Court to see that the provisions of that code are strictly enforced by the judges. If the superior courts insist that in each lower court these provisions are strictly carried out and that the subordinate courts dispose of their work as promptly as possible, if they exercise constant supervision in these matters, then things will improve. But I do not think it is very likely that we shall get other suggestions for improvement by the appointment of a committee. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe has made one or two suggestions with regard to the disposal of routine matters in, I understand, the courts of the subordinate judges. His proposal was that, as in the district court, the appointment has been made of a personal assistant to the District Judge, who will relieve the District Judge of routine matters on which orders have to be given by a judicial officer, so also in the subordinate judges' courts similar arrangements might be provided and the subordinate judge thereby relieved of a large amount of work of a routine description to enable him to devote a larger portion of his time to the disposal of important cases. That suggestion, I will undertake on behalf of Government, will be closely examined. I may assure the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud that, if Government are unable to accept this resolution, it is not because Government are not in sympathy with the object of his resolution, namely, a speedier administration of justice, but because they do not think that Government will be able to obtain any help by the appointment of a committee.

CIVIL JUSTICE: EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION.

[The Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—I was very glad to get an assurance from you that Government were anxious to do all they could to serve the object of this resolution, and, whether they do so by the appointment of a committee, or whether Government constitute themselves into a sort of committee and consider this subject seriously, it would, I think, serve the same object. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe appeared to concede that some steps to remedy the existing state of things were necessary but he appeared to be against the appointment of a committee. I say, sir, that a committee would have examined the whole situation and made recommendations which would have been readily accepted by Government as the considered opinion of a responsible body. Now, in this case, I make some suggestions; my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Sathe makes some suggestions; the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai makes some suggestions. All this practically amounts to making suggestions to examine the whole question. Take, for instance, the question of the adjournments. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Sathe said that they were, in many cases, needed on account of the ignorance of the litigants. I submit, sir, that it was not those adjournments to which I was referring. He appeared to think that I wanted to unduly cut down the adjournments. I submit, sir, that if the circumstances require a day's adjournment the Court gives two months, because its file will not admit of a shorter adjournment. The court should be able to give an adjournment that is reasonable and needed in the circumstances. Adjournments are granted for the convenience of this party or that party, which should not take more than a day and the case is thus prolonged over a period of more than three years. As a matter of fact, the actual time of the court taken up in cross-examination, or in the framing of issues, or in the reading of the written statements of the defendant is much less than a day. What should be finished in a day, and with reasonable adjournments would be finished in a week, is prolonged and protracted for years and years. It is nothing unusual to see a case pending for three, four and five years, and a really contested suit pending for 12 and 13 years. The matter appears to have no end at all. Every contested point brings an adjournment of two or three months. I submit that these things can be remedied.

CIVIL JUSTICE: EXPEDITIOUS ADMINISTRATION— LEPROSY AND ITS SPREAD.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; the Vice-President; Major C. Fernandes.]

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe said that the subordinate and District Judges do not work as much as they should work. I strongly object to that statement. They work not only as much as they should work, but as much as they should not work. What can be expected of a District Judge? He writes his judgments in the morning, hears the cases and appeals in the afternoon and reads the papers at night. I am afraid he has very little time to spend upon himself. We know what is the proper amount of work that should be done by a District Judge. If the proper amount of work has been done, there is no need to find fault with the District Judge. But when he begins a year with a file which will take him all his labour for three years to go through, can we blame the District Judge? These subordinate judges are doing the very same work. They prepare the judgments, read the papers at home and listen to the eloquent arguments of pleaders like my friend the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe in court. (Laughter.) They have to come to a decision, and I suppose they do it in their leisure moments in the evening. I suppose that is quite enough work for a man. The remedy is not to expedite the work and merely reduce the quality of the work, but to give them fresh hands when they are needed. In the beginning of the year, if the court finds that there is a file which will take three years to decide, the best way is to appoint temporary judges for two or three months. It can be very easily done. If the parties will not appoint arbitrators, the court can do so, and bring the suit to a close. Instead of that, the whole file is kept pending till it can be finished. I submit that it is very hard on the judge. This was the particular thing which I was complaining about, and this is what really needs investigation. The second thing that I suggest is that the district judges can be relieved of much of their minor work if it is handed over to persons who are qualified to do it, for instance, sheristedars and nazirs. This is certainly one of the remedies that should be tried, and I am thankful that an assurance has been given that it will be considered. But I submit that this is only one of the remedies and does not cover the whole ground. Until the whole situation is examined, until financial proposals can be definitely made, I do not think the whole difficulty will be solved.

The demand for a committee seems to act like a hypnotic suggestion on the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai, and he said that he could not support it. There is nothing alarming in it. I do not want a big committee of 60 or 70 members. A small committee consisting of a couple of members will serve my purpose.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai seemed to think that I wanted that cross-examinations should be cut down. That is not what I want. I made a reservation in my opening remarks, and I say that I do not wish to interfere. . . . .

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Visindas:—May I offer a personal explanation, Mr. President? I did not say that the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud wanted to cut down cross-examination. What I meant to say was that he would not approve of it.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—I thank the honourable member for his explanation. There are certainly twenty other ways in which the time of the court can be saved and the work can be lessened. The essential work of deciding the case need not be cut down at all. The essential work of deciding the case, as I said and as I say now, takes a very little part of the time of the court. It takes 5 minutes in the district court, about 5 minutes in the superior court, and about a day in the lower court. That is perhaps the usual work that has to be done in any case which is not very much contested.

I am very glad, sir, that you have given an assurance on behalf of Government that the question will be considered. I take this assurance and beg to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 28. The Honourable Major C. Fernandes.

"This Council recommends that Government be pleased to move the Government of India to amend the Lepers Act, 1898, in the light of the present day knowledge of the disease of leprosy and the manner of its spread."

The Honourable Major C. Fernandes:—Sir, in view of the fact that the Government of India have recently introduced a bill in the Imperial Council to amend the present Leper Act, I beg leave to withdraw my resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[The Vice-President; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 5. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye.

"That Government be pleased to consider the advisability and practicability of appointing honorary visitors to factories in the various industrial centres in the Presidency to assist the regular factory inspectors in their work of seeing that the regulations are being regularly followed in all factories."

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Mr. President,—I have very great pleasure in moving the resolution that you have been good enough to read. I do not think that it needs many words from me to commend a resolution like this to the Council. At present there are several official inspectors of factories, and their number is about five; but one of them is apparently on leave, and this will leave only four; of course, another man may be appointed temporarily in his place. The number of factories is very considerable, I think something like 1,000. I have not got the exact figures, as I expected that this resolution will come up to-morrow for discussion, but I am only placing before the Council my general impression about them and I hope that honourable members will excuse me if the figures that I mention are not quite accurate.

As I said, there are, at present, spread all over the Presidency, about 1,000 factories, a large number of them in Bombay city and a considerable number in Ahmedabad. Of course, there are a few important centres, Bombay, Ahmedabad, Sholapur, Karachi and, to some extent, Poona. These are some of the most important places in which there are factories. But these factories are spread over the whole of the Presidency, and the only inspecting staff that we have is 4 or 5 inspectors of factories. Now, it will be easily seen that if the inspection of these factories is to be carried out properly, the number of visits that these inspectors should make to these factories should be fairly considerable. In the report on the administration of the Factories Act, statistics are given about the number of factories visited once, twice, three times, more than three times, and factories not visited at all. Consequently, the inspecting staff is, to my mind, comparatively small and the department very much undermanned. Of course, I may be asked why I do not propose the appointment of more official factory inspectors. In the first place, that would be very expensive and, in the second place, the appointment of more official factory inspectors would not quite do the work that I would like the honorary inspectors to do. Now, an examination of these reports on the working of the Factories Act shows us that there are several defects which are common in the factories. They are not definitely mentioned in plain straightforward terms, but, reading between the lines, one finds that there are a large number of things which the factory inspectors suspect but for which the facts and figures are not actually forthcoming. Thus, for instance, there is the question of the employment of children. I may say, before I go on, that I shall be again called upon to explain why I am interposing in a subject like this. But I have taken particular interest in the administration of the Factories Act, and I have made a considerable amount of enquiry about it.

But let me come back to the point of the employment of children. The law requires that no children under the age of 9 should be employed in factories and that children up to the age, I think, of 12 should be only employed at the utmost for half the time. Now, in the reports themselves you find certain hints that these regulations are not quite adequately observed. In fact, from other non-official sources we find hints given that in several places, which are not the actual residences of the inspectors, children under 9 are occasionally employed. But the question of half-timers is rather more important. These reports acknowledge that, although theoretically a large number of children are supposed to be employed for half the time, still these children often work the whole time. There are several methods in which this is done. Sometimes, the factory owners connive at a wrong description of the age of the children. Another way is that one child may work for half the time in one factory, and the other half in another factory. That, I am told, is a fairly common practice in some centres. It is very difficult actually to get facts and figures about these and for this purpose one has, to a great extent, to depend upon general impressions. But there is no doubt at all that certain of these abuses are prevalent in some places to a very great extent, in others probably comparatively to a small extent. But there is no doubt that some of these evils are prevalent.

Then there is the question of the employment of women. There are regulations that women are not to be employed beyond certain hours. They have got to work only about 11 hours during the day. I have heard complaints from people interested in these matters that this law is more or less evaded in several places. It is very difficult to provide facts.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[17TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

and figures. The only staff at the disposal of Government is these five factory inspectors, and it is very difficult for them to go into all the details concerning every one of these factories.

All that they can do is to make a general supervision, and there are various ways in which the honorary agencies that I am proposing might be of very great use. Of course, I do not wish to cast any aspersions upon the regular factory inspectors. But it is quite reasonable to feel that when an official inspector goes to a factory, of which the factory owners very often get previous notice, he is likely to find things kept spick and span and he may not be able to see any defects or evasions of factory laws. Moreover, when you put a certain number of people into positions in which there is an opportunity of temptation,—I do not say that people succumb to that temptation, but at any rate there is the opportunity of temptation,—one has got to see that some method is found whereby these temptations can be avoided.

Now, the number of inspectors is small. You cannot increase it indefinitely. First of all, the cost will be very great and, secondly, the day to day work may not be enough for all these inspectors. What I would propose is that honorary visitors for these factories may be appointed in several centres. I leave it to Government to choose these honorary visitors in order that they might visit factories without previous notice and find out whether the complaints that they are likely to hear in an indefinite manner are justifiable or not, whether the lot of the workmen is or is not as it should be. Therefore if these honorary inspectors are appointed, I think they will be able to do a great deal of useful work. I leave the appointment of these inspectors entirely to Government, so that they may choose the proper persons after seeing that their character is proper, that they are not likely to interfere needlessly with the factory owners, and that they do take a keen interest in the welfare of the work-people. It is not a case of various visitors going to educational institutions and putting a few remarks in the visitors' books. But here is a case of honorary inspectors who would be able to give an amount of help to the ordinary inspectors, so that any evasions of factory laws may lead to prosecutions.

I do not want to dogmatise upon the exact or detailed functions of these honorary inspectors, whether they can enter into prosecutions by themselves or not, or whether they can bring forward cases of evasions of the rules and regulations of the Factories Act before the regular inspectors. These honorary inspectors are not such a new thing as it might be supposed. There are various laws for the execution of which honorary agencies are made use of, even at present. For instance, there is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and there is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The courts, to a certain extent, recognise the status of these honorary agencies and entertain the cases which are brought forward by them. If we make use of honorary agencies in this manner, we shall be able to do away with the evasions of factory laws. If complaints are made, Government and the factory owners will know precisely whether the complaints are groundless or not. The kind of personnel that I have in view in connection with this resolution is responsible officers of associations for social welfare. In Bombay, for instance, there is the Social Service League, some members of which might be given the permission and status of honorary workers if they assure Government that they have a fair amount of spare time to devote to this purpose, so that they may go to the various factories and ascertain the state of things there, and not be told by the factory owners that they have got no business to enter their premises.

We have just recently been talking about organisations of workmen also. If these organisations come into existence, it may also be considered whether some responsible officers of these organisations may not be given facilities to visit factories in order to find out whether the factory rules and regulations, which are made in the interests of the work-people, are properly carried out. I hope that Government and the Council will see that I am not going to cause needless interference with the factory owners. If the factory owner is really following in all details the rules and regulations laid down, he has got no reason to fear these honorary agencies. An inspection of the kind that I propose will only be a terror to people who infringe factory laws, but will have no terror for those who act according to them. I have used very humble phraseology in framing this resolution. I have not made any cut and dried suggestions in my resolution. I am only asking Government to consider the practicability and desirability of the scheme. Whether they accept it or not is another matter. But I do want Government to consider the question in the light that I have represented. I hope that the Council and Government will be pleased to consider it.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[The Vice-President.] [17TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The Council will now adjourn till 11-30 o'clock to-morrow.

The Council then adjourned till 11-30 o'clock on Thursday, 18th March 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay, assembled under the provisions of the Government of India Act, 1915.

The Council re-assembled at 11-30 on Thursday, the 18th March 1920, at the Council Hall, Secretariat, Bombay.

PRESENT:

His Excellency Sir GEORGE AMBROSE LLOYD, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., Governor of Bombay, President.

The Honourable Sir G. CARMICHAEL, K.C.S.I., I. C. S., Vice-President.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. CURTIS, C.S.I., I. C. S.

The Honourable Sir IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA, KT., C.I.E.

The Honourable the ADVOCATE GENERAL (Sir THOMAS J. STRANGMAN, Kt.).

The Honourable Mr. DATTATRAYA VENKATESH BELVI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. GHULAM MUHAMMAD walad Khan Bahadur WALI MUHAMMAD BHURGRI, Bar.-at-Law.

The Honourable Mr. RUPCHAND BILARAM, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. H. BROOKE.

The Honourable Mr. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.

The Honourable Mr. F. CLAYTON.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. COVERNTON, C.I.E.

The Honourable Rao Saheb HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. R. E. ENTHOVEN, C.I.E., I. C. S.

The Honourable Major C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I. M. S.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur SIDDHANATH DHONDDEV GARUD.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur KASHINATH RAMCHANDRA GODBOLE.

The Honourable Mr. MAHOMEDBHOY HAJEEBHOY.

The Honourable Shaikh GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, LL.B.

The Honourable Mr. J. D. JENKINS.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[The Vice-President ; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas ; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. BALKRISHNA SITARAM KAMAT.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur PIR BAKSH walad MIAN MAHMUD, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. MEAD, C.I.E., I. C. S.
The Honourable Mr. CHUNILAL VIJBHUKHANDAS MEHTA, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur VENKATESH SHRINIWAS NAIK.
The Honourable Mr. RAGHUNATH PURSHOTTAM PARANJPYE.
The Honourable Mr. GOKULDAS KAHANDAS PAREKH, LL.B.
The Honourable Sir DINSHAW MANOCKJEE PETIT, Bart.
The Honourable Mr. MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI.
The Honourable Mr. L. ROBERTSON, C.S.I., I. C. S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur GANESH KRISHNA SATHE, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. SEDDON, I. C. S.
The Honourable Mr. PHIROZE C. SETHNA, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. SHOUBRIDGE, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. SMITH, C.B., I. M. S.
The Honourable Mr. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. SHRIDHAR BALKRISHNA UPASANI.
The Honourable Mr. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E., LL.B.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. Further discussion of resolution No. 5.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—I rise to oppose this resolution. This resolution is the second one of its nature which is moved by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye at this session in which the commercial and industrial community of the Presidency is concerned. I am not one of those who would in the slightest degree object to any honourable member of this Council bringing up a resolution on any subject concerning the administration of this Presidency if he thinks himself qualified to do so. But, at the same time, I venture to submit that such a member should be the last person to get exasperated at any remarks from other members who may be in practical touch with the particular subject of the resolution that is moved and who may differ from him.

The remarks made by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, in the course of his reply on the first resolution that he moved in this Council, call for a few words on this subject which I am sure will be considered quite pertinent. In the course of his reply on the said resolutions the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye raised the question, or rather motioned the question of Capital versus Labour. I have no objection to his running down capitalists.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—The honourable member is referring to some speech of yesterday and I rise to a point of order whether he is in order in doing so.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—The honourable member is in order.

The Honourable Mr. Purshotamas Thakurdas:—Mr. President,—I was referring to what the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye said in his closing remarks yesterday. I was going to say, sir, that in the course of his reply the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye tried to create a sort of feeling against capitalists, a class whom it may get fashionable to abuse. I do not wish to include myself in that class but, if I have the honour to be put in that class, I shall not be sorry for it. I submit that this Council will agree with me when I say that the interest of capitalists deserves as much attention as the interest of any other section of the population of this Presidency. And, whilst nobody claims special attention for capitalists, I certainly think that the interest of the capitalists should not be overlooked. The Honourable Mr. Paranjpye also in passing referred to what may happen in the reformed councils if certain sections took up a certain attitude. Might I ask him what would happen if certain honourable members of Council move resolutions and get impatient at the opposition of other honourable members as was done in the course of his reply by my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye yesterday. So much then for the general aspect of the question which he himself raised in the course of the debate in the first resolution.

Coming to the resolution now before the Council, the honourable mover recommends Government to consider the advisability of appointing honorary visitors to factories in the Presidency. I am afraid I am at a disadvantage in speaking on this resolution, for I have not had the pleasure of listening to the remarks made by the honourable mover while placing his resolution before the Council. I wonder if the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye proved that the inspection of factories in the mofussil, or of factories generally, as it is carried out at present was incomplete or was not sufficient. If that was so, I think the right course is to recommend Government that more inspectors may be appointed and more facilities given to them to visit factories. I am not one of those who believe very much in honorary work, especially where business is concerned or where factories and industries are concerned. I do believe in honorary work in matters philanthropic and charitable, but, when it comes to Government being asked to supplement what their regular staff is doing, it may be too much to expect a citizen to go round factories and do honorary inspection. I do not know if the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye can point out many capable persons in the district and in the city of Bombay who have leisure to undertake this honorary duty and who can go into factories and point to various items which would require attention. I submit that a considerable training is necessary for the purpose of carrying out the duties of an inspector of factories without any interference with the rest of the work or staff of the factories. If the honourable mover has in view such a trained staff of honorary visitors being available, I should certainly like to know that from him. But my own experience, as far as factories in the mofussil are concerned, has been, as my firm has been controlling about 20 factories, that any such interference in the factories is most unwelcome to the owners, managers or proprietors of such factories. In many cases certain people moving in areas in which the factories are situated have some sort of grievance or other against such factories. There may be a leading zamindar or a sawkar who may consider a factory to be a nuisance and like it to be removed. And the would-be honorary factory visitors are likely to be men who have some sort of standing in a locality and who command a financial status in addition. What would happen in case of such honorary visitors going to factories? I beg to submit that in more cases than not the result of their visit may be a continued source of annoyance to those who are in charge of factories and of endless correspondence with Government as to the various complaints that factory managers may be making.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas; Sir D. M. Petit.]

Then again, sir, what would be the responsibilities of these honorary visitors to Government? I submit that honorary visitors, when called upon by Government to render any explanation, may urge that, not having technical knowledge, they can do no better. If an additional staff is required for the purpose of the inspection of factories, I submit that it is up to Government to engage more trained staff, but it will not do to go in for honorary visitors. In some places there may be petty jealousies amongst various and influential men in a district and the less we have of honorary work to put in their way, the better. I know that under the Factories Act inspectors are restricted to inquiries under certain sections only.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe has very kindly pointed out to me that they are restricted to sections 22, 23 and 24. These are sections which deal particularly with the employment of children and of women. I understand that the honourable mover also wanted these honorary visitors to look into the sanitary arrangements concerned with factories and I certainly think that those who have to run such factories will be absolutely justified in saying that the staff that may be so employed should be one that will know their business and have a sense of responsibility and should not be an honorary staff which can walk in and out at pleasure and not be conversant with their duties.

I feel that the resolution is one which should not be accepted by this Council for the reasons I have stated and hence I beg to oppose this resolution.

The Honourable Sir D. M. Petit:—Mr. President,—I wish to oppose this proposition with all the emphasis that I can command, for I cannot conceive of a proposition which would be more mischievous than the one brought forward by my Honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye. While discussing the proposition about the strikes which was proposed by the Honourable Mr. Kamat, the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai pointed out how he saw that there was a likelihood of political agitation bringing about disaffection amongst the labourers and would be responsible to a considerable extent for the strikes. And, sir, if this proposition is carried, it would open the door to undesirable people to manœuvre their aims through factory labourers and bring undesirable influence to bear on them. People living in various centres would require, when the reforms are brought into force, to be in the good graces of several of the employees on account of the votes which they will wish to obtain, and, sir, in order to get into their good graces, there is no knowing what they will not do to incur their pleasure. I am at the same disadvantage as was the previous speaker in not having been able to be present at the time when the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye moved his proposition and in not having heard the arguments brought forward by him, but, if he has made out a case that inspection of factories at present is insufficient, it is open to Government to strengthen the staff of factory inspectors and, in that case, Government may very well get the extra expenditure out of the factory owners by charging heavier fees. But I cannot agree to any outsider interfering in the management of factories as I am sure it will be most mischievous in its results, and therefore I oppose this proposition and I trust the Council will reject it.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[Sir D. M. Petit; Mr. G. K. Parekh; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh:—Mr. President,—Though I do sympathise with the object of my honourable friend, still I oppose the resolution which has been brought forward by him. I should consider this proposition to be considerably in advance of the conditions which exist. I can very well understand volunteers coming forward for the helping of the spread of education; for helping in giving medical relief; and coming forward for the purpose of improving sanitation. These are all things for which you can expect respectable people to come forward; but, so far as the work which my honourable friend Mr. Paranjpye expects to be done by volunteers—a sort of police or detective work—I am sure you will not find really reliable men who can come forward to do that work. As the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas has pointed out, various sorts of persons with various kinds of interests may come in if such an arrangement is sanctioned by Government or the legislature. Any person may come in, whatever may be his motives, and it is certainly most difficult to know whether a man comes from an improper motive or for the purpose of assisting the law. I am afraid there will be considerable differences arising between the executive organizations working under the Factories Act and the voluntary inspectors. There will also be a considerable amount of opposition from the managers of factories and I should think, instead of doing any good, an arrangement of this kind must lead to a considerable amount of difficulty and friction. I therefore think that this resolution ought not to be accepted by the Council.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—The resolution requests Government to consider the advisability and practicability of appointing honorary visitors. I think that when a resolution is of this limited character and gives the Government a free hand in the matter, there is no reason why the Council and Government should not approach the question from a favourable standpoint. I can say from my information that there are indeed several evasions of the factory law committed in centres where there are mills and factories, and it is in the interests of labour as well as capital and the general public also that evasions of factory law ought not to occur. The officers appointed by Government—I mean the factory inspectors—are at present not enough to cope with the work and they cannot fairly be expected to be in a position to do so. Consequently, some arrangement is necessary to minimise the evasions of the law that appear to be occurring. The question is, how that could be done. The resolution wants honorary visitors to assist the regular factory inspectors. Now it is not clear to me whether the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye wishes these honorary visitors to work along with, and in the presence and company of, the factory inspectors or independently of them. If they are expected to work with the factory inspectors I think, sir, that there will not be much improvement, because, if the factory inspector in any given centre is not able to cope with the work, then certainly providing a companion to him would not improve the situation. If they are to work independently of the inspectors by giving surprise visits, then, sir, the question becomes important as to how far Government would be in a position to find men who would not take undue advantage of their position as honorary visitors. Taking the case of Ahmedabad, I may say that a gentleman and a social worker like Mr. Gandhi may be above all suspicion, but, if we go to find other men of his type, it may be rather difficult to find them. At other centres also there may be very few men of that type who would not allow their zeal to outrun their discretion. Under these circumstances, of course, if the honorary visitors are meant to work independently, there would be some difficulty in finding men. But, as the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye wants the support of this Council to request Government to consider the advisability and practicability of appointing honorary visitors, I think there is no harm in requesting Government to consider this question, if necessary, after consulting the Millowners' Association and other parties concerned, inviting their opinions, and then considering the whole question from a practical standpoint. What will be the result of that consideration I cannot say at once, but I think that we do not lose anything by considering the question because it is in the interests of the public, of labour, as well as of capital that evasions of factory law ought not to take place, and it cannot be denied that at present they do take place and some remedy is necessary. I would therefore leave the resolution for the favourable consideration of Government and this Council.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna; Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe.]

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—From the remarks which fell from the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas and the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit, it seems to me that they have a peculiar suspicion regarding non-official visitors. Now, what does the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye want these honorary visitors to do? He has clearly stated it in his resolution in these terms: "to assist the regular factory inspectors in their work of seeing that the regulations are being regularly followed in all factories". Now, do the factory owners want the regulations to be regularly followed or not? If they want them to be strictly followed, then why should they object to inspection by non-official visitors? If they are really afraid of non-official supervision or inspection, it means that they are not keen on the regulations being strictly followed. I therefore think that purely on the ground of principle there should be no objection whatsoever to allow any responsible non-official men to come and visit a factory to see if the regulations under the factory law are put into force. The same practice in the case of jails, for instance, has been accepted by Government. There are non-official visitors even in the case of jails, and I do not see why non-officials of a responsible class should not be allowed to go into factories only to see that the regulations framed by Government are followed. The honorary visitors will point out that regulation number so and so is not strictly adhered to either by the factory owner or by somebody else, as the case may be. Therefore, limited as their powers would be to merely drawing attention to any non-observance of the factory regulations, I do not see why non-official honorary visitors should not be appointed.

I am really extremely sorry to find that men belonging to the capitalist class should show a sort of suspicion as regards the work of non-official visitors instead of inviting their co-operation in seeing that the factory law is strictly observed, and I am really surprised to find that honourable members like the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit should think or say that political agitators are at the bottom of industrial or labour strikes, as if there is no political agitation connected with any other subject. Probably every one of us in this Council is an agitator from one point of view or another, and I do not think the remarks of the Honourable Sir Dinshaw Petit were justified.

The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna:—Mr. President,—I rise to oppose this resolution, for I believe, sir, it will create unnecessary interference. Like some of the previous speakers I too labour under the disadvantage of not having heard the honourable mover's remarks on his resolution yesterday, but I cannot possibly conceive what other arguments he could have advanced for the acceptance of this Council beyond what I have heard from the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai and the Honourable Mr. Kamat who have spoken to-day in favour of the resolution. Honorary visitors to factories will in most cases be merchants themselves, perhaps business rivals. The honourable mover of the resolution suggested they should be men of status. I do not know whether in the course of his speech he desired that they should be lawyers or members of the Education Department. I think, sir, that this resolution, if passed, will unnecessarily interfere with the business of factory owners. The visitors may be men of substance and status, but does the honourable member desire that they should know the business secrets of other firms? A reference was made to the case of jails where also there are honorary visitors. The analogy will not hold good, for honorary visitors to jails cannot set up rival shops as honorary visitors to factories can. At this rate we may propose honorary visitors to assist the income tax collector in the levying of that tax and with the same reasoning as is perhaps advanced in favour of this resolution. Surely, sir, this resolution ought to be thrown out.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—Mr. President,—I wish to support this resolution, but, before I do so, I want to move an amendment and with your permission, sir, I shall move it at the end of my speech.

Taking into account the remarks of the last speaker, I think he is labouring under a great misapprehension when he says that these honorary visitors will be business men or rivals in business. If he were only to turn over to the definition of the word "inspector" as given in the act, he would find that it has been laid down that:—

"No person shall be appointed to be an inspector under sub-section (1), or, having been so appointed, shall continue to hold the office of inspector, who is or becomes directly or indirectly interested in a factory or in any process or business carried on therein or in any patent or machinery connected therewith."

If that is the care which legislation has taken in defining the word, does my honourable friend apprehend that Government, in nominating these honorary visitors, would override this provision of the law and nominate men whom we would style as business rivals, or men interested in knowing the secrets of other people's business?

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; the Vice-President.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

The second point which I want to make out is that there are certain matters in the working of factories, which are of a technical character, and I do not for a moment believe that honorary visitors would be of any use in helping the paid inspectors in matters which are technical. From that point of view, the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's resolution is rather wide. What is really wanted by the honourable mover of the resolution, if I have rightly understood him, is that as the factory inspectors are very few, as they cannot cope with the work, and as their visits are often on previous intimation, the defects are not noticeable there when the inspectors go and visit the factories. In order to get over this difficulty, it seems to me that the honourable member has brought forward this resolution. I would suggest to him that, if he accepts the amendment which I wish to move, the fears of the Honourable Mr. Sethna, who spoke about business rivals trying to know secrets and other things, will vanish. I therefore propose the following amendment:—

"Drop the words after the word 'Presidency' and add the following:—

'for the purposes of sections 9 to 14 and 23 to 27 of the Factories Act as Government may assign to them'."

The resolution, as amended, will read as follows:—

"That Government be pleased to consider the advisability and practicability of appointing honorary visitors to factories in the various industrial centres in the Presidency, for the purposes of sections 9 to 14 and 23 to 37 of the Factories Act as Government may assign to them."

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I think the wording is somewhat ambiguous. Government cannot assign the purposes. I do not quite know what Government are to assign.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—I have taken the wording from the act itself. I think mahalkaris and mamlatdars are appointed as inspectors; they are not given all the powers but only certain powers. I refer to the notification of 4th August 1914.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I will admit the amendment of the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe, but I find that it is somewhat difficult to undertake the task of putting it in proper form. I think the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe might dispense with the proposal to move an amendment because, after all, what I think the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe desires is to secure that Government should consider the advisability of appointing these honorary visitors for the performance of certain specified duties. I think the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe's proposal is all included in the proposal of the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye, and, for the purpose of saving the time of this Council, it would be better if he allowed the resolution to stand as it is.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe:—Mr. President,—My object in placing this amendment before this Council is that I do not want these honorary visitors to go and inspect the technical details of the working of the factory. I want honorary visitors for the purpose of going and inspecting the factories, so far as the sanitary arrangements are concerned, also as regards the employment of women and children, and seeing as to whether the women and children are employed for a greater number of hours than those specified by the Factories Act. That was my view when I proposed my amendment. I wish to state for the information of the members of this Council that, in the case of factories where there are a large number of people working, the law lays down certain standards and certain rules and it is desirable that surprise visits should be given by some honorary visitors to these factories, in order to find out whether these rules or these provisions are being properly observed or not. There is no room, it appears to me, for the apprehension which was suggested by the Honourable Mr. Parekh that these volunteers might go at any time and do anything. I was not able to understand what my honourable friend Mr. Parekh meant by volunteer. This resolution does not intend to give any man in the city or local area the power to go and inspect the factory. The demand made by the resolution is that Government should consider the practicability or advisability of appointing honorary visitors, and one can certainly rely upon the good sense of the officers who are to recommend honorary visitors, and I think, on that ground, there should be no apprehension of the kind which was indicated by the Honourable Mr. Parekh.

The word "visitor" need not frighten us, because Government would always take care to choose visitors of a class, the interests of which did not conflict with the interests of factory owners or those who manage factories, and to me it appears that it is but right that such places should be accessible to men who are chosen by Government and who are appointed to find out if particular clauses are properly attended to.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur G. K. Sathe; Mr. R. H. Brooke; Mr. Rupchand Bilaram; Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.]

In this case the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye's demand is extremely modest. He does not intend to pin down Government to any line of action. He has only brought to notice certain conditions under which factories are being worked at present, and he uses the words "advisability" and "practicability" of appointing honorary visitors. If Government, even after accepting this resolution, comes to the conclusion after enquiry that it is not advisable to appoint such visitors, this resolution does not bind them to take any particular action. It only wishes that Government's attention should be called to this question and that Government should consider this question in the light of the discussion that we have had in this Council. With these few words, I beg to support the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye.

The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke :—Mr. President,—I am not in favour of honorary visitors to factories in any shape or form whatever. I think they will be no good and may prove troublesome to the factory managers and to the work going on in the factories. A regular factory inspector, if he is properly qualified, can make his inspection without very much interference with the work going on in the factories. He knows what books to inspect, what questions to ask, and so on. Some of these honorary inspectors may of course be competent and able to do the work, but I should fancy the majority will prove very troublesome by asking innumerable questions and by inspecting all sorts of things which do not need inspection and will interfere very seriously with the routine work in the factories. If factory inspection is not carried out efficiently or if it is not carried out frequently enough, I submit the remedy lies in getting better trained factory inspectors or in increasing their numbers and not in soliciting the help of amateurs.

The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram :—Mr. President,—Coming as I do from Sind where there are no factories, I am not interested in speaking in favour of the factory owners or of the workmen. My point in opposing this resolution is just this. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe said there could be no objection to appointing honorary visitors who were not interested directly or indirectly in a factory or in any process or business carried on in it, and he quoted section 4 of the Factories Act defining an inspector. But the resolution refers to honorary visitors; it does away with the word "inspectors" altogether. Now, the visitors who may be appointed may be interested. Therefore reference to section 4 of the Factories Act will not meet the point raised by the honourable members opposing the resolution. If the meaning of the resolution is that honorary inspectors are to be appointed, the resolution is unnecessary, because I find in section 4, sub-section (1), of the Factories Act that:—

"The Local Government may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be inspectors of factories within such local limits as it may assign to them respectively."

That is, any person can be appointed as an inspector. It does not matter whether he is paid or he works honorarily. So it comes to this that if the complaint is that the inspectors who are appointed are not sufficient, it follows that more inspectors are required. If that is so, I submit there is no reason whatsoever for moving this resolution, for Government can appoint more paid inspectors to cope with the work and, as has been pointed out by the honourable member who preceded me, it will not be right to have two agencies.

(His Excellency the President at this stage occupied the chair.)

Your Excellency,—For these reasons I oppose this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji :—May it please your Excellency,—I also rise to oppose the resolution on the ground that the mover of the resolution has not made out a sufficient case before this Council to accept his resolution. He started with the fear that there were 800 and odd factories and that the number of official inspectors was too small to inspect all these factories. If we look to the administration report of the factory department, we see that in all there are 868 factories in this Presidency out of which 550 are working periodically—gins, presses and other factories work for seasons only, and for about 7 or 8 months they are closed. I do not think the mover of the resolution had an idea of bringing within the purview of this resolution all these factories. We have now to deal with 318 factories only which are working throughout the year. To inspect these 318 factories we have got a chief inspector and 6 other inspectors. Two of these are allocated to Bombay up to Nasik, one is allocated to Ahmedabad. Then there are other acting inspectors. Now, to prove his case, he ought to have stated that, if the number of inspectors was inadequate, still the number of prosecutions that they bring to light should be very great, besides undetected crimes. There too we find there were only 16 prosecutions during the last year, and, although the reasons have not been given, the majority of them were for protecting machinery. If we take out these from the whole list, there remain very few prosecutions in regard to this point. The honourable mover tried to make out that the number of undetected crimes was a large one in the shape of engaging children, who ought not to work there, or of employing women for longer hours than prescribed by law. With so many inspectors that we have and with so few prosecutions, I do not know how the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye can make out a case for asking Government to consider the advisability of appointing honorary inspectors. The previous speakers have pointed out the impracticability and inadvisability of appointing such honorary workers. And, even if Government accept this resolution, what will be the result? There are certain bodies going round in Bombay who will very likely succeed in getting some favour from the officer appointed to nominate such honorary visitors and we can expect nothing but mischief all along. I say that if the honourable mover had made out a case that the inspecting staff at present is inadequate, he ought to have suggested an increase in the staff in order to have the work done more efficiently.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[Mr. Munmohundass Ramji; the President; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

But he has not done that and simply what he wants is that certain people should go and have the pleasure of visiting factories and have the satisfaction of getting somebody hauled up who is supposed by them to have committed a breach of the act. He points out, in the first place, that there is the wrong description of children which is resorted to. I cannot understand what he means by that. All children before they are employed have to get a certificate from a surgeon that they have got themselves examined and when the children are at work they have to carry the certificate with them in order that they may be able to produce it whenever required by the inspector to see and find out whether they are under age or over age and whether they are half-time workers or whole-time workers.

His Excellency the President:—Order, order. The honourable member must not go into the close details. This is a general resolution and the honourable member is not entitled to go into small matters of detail on this general resolution.

The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji:—There would be a great objection in appointing honorary visitors to factories as proposed. With these remarks I strongly oppose the resolution.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Your Excellency,—The honourable mover wishes the Council to recommend to Government to consider the advisability and practicability of appointing honorary visitors to factories in the various industrial centres in the Presidency and I may inform him that Government have given the matter their careful consideration and have come to the conclusion that it is not advisable to give effect to the suggestion which he has made in his resolution. If the object of the honourable mover is that Government should consider these points, then his object is gained as I have already informed him that Government have considered the matter and they do not consider it either advisable or practical to appoint honorary visitors for the inspection of factories.

Amongst the many reasons which the honourable mover gave he laid emphasis on the point that there is room for temptation in the case of men who are employed to carry out inspection duty. I quite recognise that in all such matters where executive action is required there is room for temptation, but I should like to ask the honourable mover to consider whether, in the case of officers drawing substantial salaries and entitled to pension on retirement, there is not some safeguard against submission to such temptation while in the case of honorary visitors who would be equally open to these temptations there are no such safeguards. So that, even while accepting the point that the honourable mover made, that these matters are open to temptation, the lesser of the two evils appears to be to have responsible officers with a substantial stake to do the work rather than associate honorary visitors whose risk is comparatively much smaller.

Then, sir, I should like to draw the attention of honourable members to the various sections to which the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe drew the attention of the Council. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe referred to sections 9 to 14. These sections deal with the sanitary provisions, provisions as to ventilation, lighting, purity of water, use of latrines and urinals, etc. Now, I do not think that these are matters which need any non-official visitors. These are not matters which very frequently vary. These are permanent measures for the sanitation of the factories and the medical officers of Government are quite competent to pay official visits to see that these sanitary measures are adequately attended to. Sections 23 to 27 deal with the employment of women and children. Now, I want honourable members to realise what the law has done with regard to both these classes of employees. As regards children, it is distinctly provided that a child shall not be employed in any factory without a certificate granted and signed by a doctor. Sections 7 and 8 lay down that the child ought not to be less than nine years of age and ought to be fit for employment. While at work the child has to carry the certificate with him.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

Under section 7 it is provided that—

"(1) A certifying surgeon shall, at the request of any person desirous of being employed in a factory situated within the local limits for which he is appointed or of the parent or guardian of such person or of the manager of the factory in which such person desires to be employed, examine such person and grant him a certificate in the prescribed form, stating his age, as nearly as it can be ascertained from such examination, and whether he is fit for employment in a factory.

(2) Where a certifying surgeon refuses to certify that a person is fit for employment in a factory, he shall, if required by such person, or his parent or guardian, or the manager of the factory in which such person desires to be employed, state in writing his reasons for such refusal."

So that the mill management have under this section to satisfy themselves before employing the child who holds the certificate and it is provided that he shall carry the certificate as taken on his body when he is in service.

As regards employment of women, section 24 provides that no woman shall be employed in any factory before half past five o'clock in the morning or after seven o'clock in the evening; that no woman shall be employed in any factory for more than eleven hours in any one day.

Section 25 provides that no person shall employ, or permit to be employed, in any factory any woman or child whom he knows, or has reason to believe, to have already been employed on the same day in any factory.

It will thus be observed from the provisions of the act which I have read out to the Council that adequate measures have been provided by legislation to safeguard the interests of children and women labourers. As a matter of fact, honourable members very probably know that a few years ago the "Times of India" started a strong agitation against the sweating of child labour and legislation has since been undertaken to protect them.

Now it has been alleged, and I think to a large extent the view is held by the public, that there are evasions of the act under these two heads, the employment of children and the employment of women. But I ask honourable members to state in what manner they can efficiently be controlled. The only thing in which complaint has been made is that children who can only be employed for only six hours manage to get employed in other factories during the remainder of the day. That is an evil to which attention has been drawn and Government have taken every action to see that this is not done. But they will very gladly welcome any evidence that can be brought to show that any particular factory or factories are indulging in a breach of this law. As a matter of fact the point has not escaped the attention of Government and Government, in co-operation with the municipal corporation of Bombay, considered the question of establishing in mill areas primary schools for the purpose of these children who may have served one shift in one factory and during the rest of the day attend the primary schools. But at the same time it must be pointed out that Government cannot take action in regard to these allegations unless there are people who are prepared to obtain direct evidence to show that the law is evaded in this respect.

Then, sir, there is one point to which I should like to draw attention. It is reported to Government, and I think it will be accepted by the Council, that these inspectors require to have considerable technical knowledge to carry out their duties. It is obvious that these honorary visitors cannot have such technical knowledge and the question is whether the men appointed in the manner suggested would be any good at all. Government are informed that in no country, as far as they are aware, honorary visitors are appointed for this purpose. I ask the honourable mover whether, under these circumstances, he would press his suggestion.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe drew attention to section 4 which deals with the point that no inspectors shall be directly or indirectly interested in the factory. It will be a very difficult problem for Government to find out, before honorary visitors are appointed, whether they hold one or more shares in the companies in whose factories they would have to carry on the work of inspection.

In view of the explanation given, I hope the Council will recognize that the conclusion to which Government have come is a sound one, namely, that the suggestion is neither advisable nor practical. Government will therefore oppose the resolution.

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye :—Your Excellency,—I was rather surprised at some of the arguments that have been used by the honourable members in opposing the motion. Take, for instance, the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji and several other honourable members who said that it would cause needless interference in the work of the factory managers. If one can enter into the hearts of these capitalists and millowners and managers, I believe they consider that the regular factory inspectors themselves are a nuisance, and, if they only could get rid of them, I should consider they would regard it a great relief. The question is not whether it is a nuisance to them or not. The question is whether we require these safeguards in order to see that the regulations that we consider necessary are really followed or not. It is not a question of what the owners of these factories would like so far as they are concerned.

Then there is the argument brought forward by my honourable friend Mr. Purshotamdas about philanthropic work of this nature. We have all very great respect for the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas for the very great philanthropic work that he has done during the recent famines, but, if we were to consult some of the people engaged in the fodder trade or the corn trade as to what they think of my honourable friend's philanthropic work, I am sure they will all say "This man is a great nuisance, he has created unnecessary interference with our business". Well, here is a business question. There are a large number of people who are already regularly doing this work of inspection, but we feel that, in certain respects, philanthropic agency of this nature would be sometimes useful and it is from this point of view that I have brought forward my resolution.

Take, again, the argument brought forward by the Honourable Member in Charge. He asked me to bring all the evidence that I have to produce in support of the alleged evasions of the law. The very proposal of appointing honorary visitors which I have brought forward would be just the means of getting evidence if there are any such evasions of the law. The popular opinion is that there are a good many evasions. By appointing honorary visitors you would be able to get evidence of any evasions of law that may be taking place, and, when you say that this is not practicable because you have no evidence, you stop the way of actually getting the evidence. Well, I think the points that I have mentioned will show that all the three arguments, about the nuisance to the managers, about philanthropic work being impossible in these matters, and about evidence, have really no weight. I am sorry that several of my capitalist friends were not able to hear the points that I made in my opening speech.

There is just one more point that I may mention. The Honourable Mr. Munmohundass referred to certain statistics given in the factory report and he said that there were only about sixteen prosecutions during the last year and that most of these sixteen prosecutions were for protecting machinery, and that prosecutions for other evasions of the law were very few. That is exactly my point. Permanent evasions, e.g. about the fencing of machinery, I think, can be seen easily by the factory inspectors. But temporary evasions, such as temporary employment of women and children, can be stopped when regular inspectors are coming, and it is very easy to throw a blind in the eyes of the regular factory inspectors. My object in asking for honorary visitors is that they will be able to pay surprise visits to factories and detect any evasions of the law, and when my honourable friends bring forward arguments of this nature, all that I can say is that they are not prepared even to see whether the public impression in this matter of the evasion of factory laws is justified or not. It may be wrong, as I say, but there is no question that there is a public feeling that some of the clauses about the conditions of factory labour are evaded and that it is to the interests of factory owners to evade them. I want to get at the real facts about the situation. I want to see surprise inspections made by people who are reliable and whom Government consider responsible people, and from these people I want definite conclusions either for or against these evasions, and when my honourable friends come forward and assume an entirely non-possumus attitude about these matters, I think people can draw their own conclusions. I do not know whether the suggestion is practicable, but it is a suggestion that I made to some gentlemen who are connected with social work in connection with these factories. When I told them that this was one way in which factory law evasions may be properly examined by responsible people, they said they would welcome it. And, again, about the personnel of the honorary visitors I say that I do not want any people who are engaged in business, but there are in the city of Bombay and Ahmedabad people of the most unexceptional character. My honourable friend Rao Saheb Desai mentioned the name of Mr. Gandhi. There are several other gentlemen in Bombay who could undertake this work. There is an institution, for instance, known as the Social Service League, some of the members of which are absolutely above reproach and in close contact with conditions of the labouring classes. When you hear of complaints that the law is evaded

HONORARY VISITORS TO FACTORIES—ACCOMMODATION FOR NON-OFFICIAL MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; the President; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; Sir G. Carmichael.] and that the regular factory inspectors are unable to detect the evasions, if some of these people are appointed honorary visitors, they may be able to probe these matters to the bottom and the public would have a decent assurance in the matter. But I believe my honourable friends interested in factories do not wish to have any such inspection; and, if so, people will draw their own conclusions.

I think my resolution has led to an interesting discussion and I am perfectly content with having ventilated the question in this manner. It is no argument to say that because this thing is not done in other countries therefore we need not do it in our country. If a reasonable suggestion is brought before Government, I do not see why it should not be considered on its merits whether it is acted upon in other countries or not. In other countries labour is organized and there the labour organizations may be able to see that the factory laws are strictly observed. In this country, as you know, labour is not properly organized and the only resource they have is the very dangerous weapon of strikes. Still, some small mitigation of their conditions might be taken up before the situation assumes a very critical position and my propositions show perhaps how that something might be done. But I am afraid my honourable friends of the capitalist class are not inclined to do anything. However, I do not wish to press my resolution to the vote and I would beg leave to withdraw it.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 8. The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to make due provision for the lodging of the non-official members of the Legislative Council, during the sitting of the Council, either by the reservation of accommodation in the hotels or by the construction of residential quarters."

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—May it please your Excellency,—For the last few days we have been confining our discussion to the convenience of others. My present resolution relates to the convenience of the members of this Council, especially those who come from the mofussil. Honourable members need not be surprised at my bringing forward this resolution, for members of the Imperial Legislative Council at Delhi, where there is not sufficient hotel accommodation, have actually residential quarters. I am going to show that there is not sufficient hotel accommodation. Ordinarily we have four meetings, two at Poona and two in Bombay. In Poona I think my honourable friends from the mofussil will bear me out when I say that we cannot get accommodation in any of the decent hotels; in fact, we have to live on the hospitality of our friends. But, in view of the enlarged reformed Councils, the number of members will be over 100 and we shall have to sit much longer than at present and I do not think it fair for us to live on the hospitality of friends. Now coming to Bombay, sir, there is great dearth of hotel accommodation, and even Government have consented to the use of the Royal Institute of Science as a temporary hostel because of this shortage of hotel accommodation. And, as Government is going to build a new Council Hall for the reformed Council, I think a few residential quarters may also be constructed for outside members. With these remarks I place this resolution before the Council for their acceptance.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—May it please your Excellency,—We all know there has been difficulty as regards hotel accommodation in Bombay and in Poona, and Government have given the matter very close attention. They have made temporary arrangements in Bombay in order to ease the difficulty and they have used their influence to secure that a certain hotel which would have been closed down otherwise should be continued for the purpose of a hotel. But these arrangements are only temporary. The great difficulty can be solved only by the provision of additional permanent hotel accommodation. That, I think every one will agree, is a matter for private enterprise and not for Government. Government will give such facilities as they can for private enterprise to carry out hotel schemes both in Bombay and in Poona; they are always ready to do so. But, if Government themselves were to undertake to build or run a hotel, it seems to me that they would be charged with encroaching on the sphere of private enterprise.

The honourable member has referred to what the Government of India have done for the honourable members of His Excellency the Viceroy's Council at Delhi and Simla. There the position is not the same as in Bombay. I think at Delhi, at any rate, the Council meets for a longer period, a more continuous period than in Bombay. Anyway

ACCOMMODATION FOR NON-OFFICIAL MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL—LOCAL BOARDS; OFFICIAL YEAR.

[Sir G. Carmichael; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah; the President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

I think we must here consider what is required to be done with reference to our own particular problems. The honourable member has suggested that, when the new reformed Councils come into being, the demand for accommodation will be still greater and that there may then be stronger ground for Government undertaking to provide accommodation. The Councils will be larger and the meetings more continuous. But it seems to me that it is a question whether Government, if they undertook to make special provision for hotel accommodation for members of this Council, would not be charged with being extravagant. At present the periods for which Council meets are extremely short and members requiring hotel accommodation are comparatively few, and some require accommodation of one kind, others of another. Therefore, it seems to me that the new Council should be left to consider whether for their own purposes money should be spent in this direction. It is a matter, I think, for them to undertake. I may be charged in saying this that this will simply delay the execution of the removal of the difficulty so far as honourable members are concerned. But the delay will not be very long. The new Councils will come into being by the end of this year; it will be a matter of nine months or so.

The resolution recommends that Government, as an alternative to constructing residential quarters, should take steps to reserve accommodation in hotels. It seems to me that it is very difficult for Government to undertake agency work of this kind. I have heard that there is an association of non-official members of this Council. If it is still in existence, I think that that organisation would be the proper one to use, in order to obtain accommodation for honourable members as they require it. They will be able to intimate to the honorary secretary of the organisation when they are coming. Ample notice is given of the meeting of the Council; so there is time to make arrangements with the hotels according to the wishes of the various members. There is one thing that Government might do, and that is that if honourable members so desire—I have not consulted my honourable colleagues on the subject—I think Government would be prepared to write to the different hotels and ask them to give some form of priority to the honourable members of this Council, when it is in session. Further than that I do not think it would be right for Government to go.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—In view of what fell from the Honourable Member in Charge, that he would consider the desirability of writing to the hotels to give precedence to the non-official members of this Council when it is in session, I withdraw this resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 13. The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the revenue year (from August to July) should be adopted as the official year for local boards instead of the financial year (from April to March) as at present."

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—May it please your Excellency,—The official year for local boards at present is from April to March next, that is the financial year. This was fixed as long ago as 1884, when the local boards were constituted. The accounts of local boards were amalgamated with provincial accounts, and for this reason it appears that the official year of the local boards was coterminous with the provincial account year. In practice and in actual working, this year is found to be very inconvenient. Section 54 of the Local Boards Act directs that every local board shall prepare a budget for the next official year on or before the 15th of November. For this purpose, the Collector of the district has to supply figures of estimated revenue for the next official year on 1st October, and I will illustrate this by a concrete case. A district local board has to prepare a budget for the year from 1st April 1920 to the 31st March 1921. For this purpose, the Collector has to supply the figures on the 1st of October 1919. On 1st October 1919 the Collector cannot know the character of the following monsoon, that is from June to September 1920, and yet he has to supply the figures of the probable revenue to be realised from January to March 31st, 1921. This estimate can never be even approximately true, especially when the seasons are as we find them since 1900.

I will give an illustration of the difficulty that was felt last year. The budget for the year 1918-19 was prepared on the figures supplied by the Collector on the 1st of October 1917. The Collector supplied the figures on the normal basis, the budget was prepared and it was officially sanctioned in February 1918. The works were commenced in the usual course. The monsoon of 1918 failed, and no revenue could be collected in 1918-19. Still, the amount budgetted for education and taluka works had to be given, with the result that several district local boards had to work with a minus balance. Secondly, the season for collection is from January to April. Some portion of the estimated revenue is sure to be collected in the next year.

LOCAL BOARDS; OFFICIAL YEAR.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the President; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

Budgets prepared on such estimates are not true budgets, and the practice at present is that greater importance is given to supplementary budgets than to the main budget, because the supplementary budgets can be prepared upon a more reliable basis, because the board is in a position to know on the 31st of March what would be the actual balance, and the supplementary budgets, I may say, are ordinarily prepared in the monsoon.

Secondly, sir, with regard to the execution of works also, the official year, which is at present the financial year, is inconvenient. In practice, the budget for the official year is sanctioned about the closing of the financial year. After the budget is passed by the district local board and the figures are communicated to the taluka boards, there remain only two months of the fair-season to work. Most of this time is spent, in practice, in making enquiries and collecting materials. The monsoon then sets in and all works, except works of road repairs, have to be stopped. In most parts of the districts, the works cannot be undertaken before the end of November, when the roads become suitable for transport facilities. Then there are only four months left for actual work. Overseers do not desire to keep the works incomplete at the end of the official year, and, consequently, they make all possible haste, with the result that the quality of the work suffers and the quantity of the work turned out is also not sufficient.

Now, instead of this, if the proposal that I make in favour of the official year for local boards being the revenue year were adopted, there would be every convenience. Local board accounts are kept separate from provincial accounts, and monthly balances are being communicated to the Accountant General, and classifications and cash accounts are being prepared and kept in the district local board office. As regards the budget, the revenue year would be very suitable. In the first instance, it would be possible to prepare the budgets on figures of actual realisations of income, with the result that the budgets would gain the importance which at present the supplementary budgets enjoy. The collections of land revenue are almost completed in April or May. On receipt of the final figures for the month . . . . .

His Excellency the President:—I would like to tell the honourable member that his eloquence is well known in this Council. I asked honourable members not to read their speeches, and I would like to invite the honourable member's attention to rule No. 14.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I was saying that if the figures were obtained after the actual collections and if the budgets for the next revenue year were framed in June, they then would be framed upon a reliable basis and there would not be the difficulty which is ordinarily felt when a monsoon fails.

Then, sir, the time available for the execution of works will also be 8 months instead of 4 months as at present and the labour collected will not have to be disbanded, as it has to be done now, and there will not be work taken up piecemeal, as it is done now.

I, therefore, submit, sir, that, if the official year for local boards were taken to be not the financial year from April to March but from August to July following, there will be every convenience in the administration of the district local boards and the work in quantity as well as in quality would be better turned out. I have felt the difficulty in connection with the local board administration on this account and therefore I thought that, even before the amendment of the Local Boards Act is taken in hand, it should be possible for Government to consider this question and to adopt the revenue year as the official year for the local boards.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—May it please your Excellency,—Government will be prepared to accept the resolution if the Honourable Rao Saheb Desai will agree to amend it in the following form:—

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to consider the desirability of adopting the revenue year (from August to July) as the official year for local boards instead of the financial year (from April to March) as at present."

LOCAL BOARDS; OFFICIAL YEAR—RULES UNDER THE REFORMS ACT.

[18TH MARCH 1920.]

[Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; the President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai :—I am prepared to accept the amendment proposed by the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola :—In that case Government are prepared to accept the resolution.

The resolution as amended was put to the vote and carried.

His Excellency the President :—Resolution No. 18. The Honourable Mr. Kamat.

"This Council recommends that an advisory committee of the non-official members of this Council be formed to advise Government on the rules framed under the Government of India Act, 1919, and on other cognate matters arising out of the recommendations of the Joint Select Committee, with special reference to the Bombay Presidency, the Committee to remain standing until the rules are finally approved by Parliament."

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat :—May it please your Excellency,—I have asked for an advisory committee of non-official members of this Council to consider the draft rules under the Reforms Act. Since I sent in my resolution, I hear that a committee has already been appointed by Government, and the committee is drawing up the draft rules. So, so far as that is concerned, I have very little to say.

I wish, however, to make one or two observations regarding certain points which I think it is necessary to bring to the notice of Government. The first point is about a little wider publicity for the draft rules framed. The second point is about the subject-matter of the rules as framed in the various clauses of the Government of India Act, 1919.

Regarding wider publicity, I think almost all the deputations which went to England in connection with the reforms were assured by the Secretary of State that every opportunity would be given to them and to the country at large to see the draft rules when they were framed, because most of the important matters which would be concerned with the working of the future councils will be regulated by the rules to be framed under the act. In other words, the rules are as important, if not more so, than the provisions of the Government of India Act itself. In view of this, I wish, sir, that not only the members of the advisory committee but each and every non-official member of this Council, and so also the different political bodies who have given thought to this matter, should be given an opportunity to see the draft rules as framed by Government. I understand that the draft rules are not yet circulated to each and every member of the Council. I take it that they are not circulated to the various political bodies also. I think it is in the interests of Government and the public if an early opportunity is given at the present moment to all these to see the rules, because I read in the papers that, in answer to an interpellation put to the Government of India, it was pointed out that it is intended to forward to the Secretary of State the rules as well as the opinions of the different non-official bodies before the end of April or about the beginning of May, so that the time at the disposal of the non-official members as well as political bodies is short indeed, and it would conduce to the convenience of the people if an opportunity is now given to them to send up their suggestions in time. So far as regards the publicity of the rules.

On the second point, namely, the subject-matter of these rules, I understand that the non-official advisory committee is now concerned only with certain rules which have been framed under section 7 regarding franchise, electoral rolls, constituencies, methods of election, polling stations and so on. As far as I can gather, it was intended that not only these but various other matters were to be thrown open to discussion, for instance, rules concerning the business procedure of the Governor's Legislative Council to be framed under section 11 and its various sub-sections of the Government of India Act. I need not detain the Council by going into the various subjects, but it is of importance to point that such matters as the annual expenditure in the budget statement, rules about the discussion of general resolutions, interpellations, reserved and transferred subjects and various other matters will have to be discussed under the new rules. All these are vital matters in connection with the working of the future councils, and, if the Government of India have ruled that these rules should be thrown open to public discussion, then I think it is high time that this was done. If the Government of India do not wish that these rules should be thrown open to public discussion, then I think it would be the wish of this Council to request the Government of Bombay, who will in turn request the Government of India, to show us the proposed rules in order that we might have an opportunity of discussing them. I believe there is a very strong feeling in the country that all the rules to be framed under the Government of India Act should be thrown open to public discussion for this reason, that under section 44 of the act, once these rules are framed by the Government of India and approved by the Secretary of State and finally approved by Parliament, the local legislature will have no power to alter them. Thus the only opportunity which we have in shaping the rules is before they are sent up to Parliament. I hope Government will make the whole situation clear, first, by throwing the rules open to public discussion and, secondly, by inviting suggestions and forwarding them to the Government of India for submission to Parliament.

RULES UNDER THE REFORMS ACT.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Sir G. Carmichael.]

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—May it please your Excellency,—I have only a few words to say. I endorse all that the Honourable Mr. Kamat has said, and, in order to illustrate his last remarks with regard to the necessity and importance of these rules and regulations, I might inform the Council that when the Morley-Minto reforms were first announced to the public and newspapers, they were hailed with great joy. But when the rules under the reforms were published, there was great discontent among the public, because the public had not been consulted and the rules were found retrograde in important particulars. Consequently most of the welcome which had at first been accorded to the reforms had to be cancelled. I think, therefore, the advice of the Honourable Mr. Kamat is very valuable. It will save a lot of discontent, and I think it is due to the public to have an opportunity of discussing these matters before they are finally settled. It is not the Government of India Act upon which depends the reality of responsible government that is being promised to the people so much as upon the rules and regulations to be framed under the act. I have, therefore, great pleasure in supporting the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Kamat.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—May it please your Excellency,—I have great pleasure in supporting the resolution. If an advisory committee has already been appointed, I would like it to be noted that all matters pertaining to the rules should be open to its recommendations, and it ought not to be said about a particular subject that the Government of Bombay or the Government of India have made up their minds and that it is not open to discussion. The rules alone would either make or mar the reforms. Therefore, while giving my support to the resolution of the Honourable Mr. Kamat, I distinctly wish it to be noted that all matters pertaining to the rules should be open to the recommendations of the committee and also be open for the reconsideration of Government, even though they may have come to any provisional conclusions upon any particular subjects. That is all I have to say.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—May it please your Excellency,—As the Honourable Mr. Kamat has said, an advisory committee has been appointed consisting of elected members of this Council.

With regard to the first of the two points he raised, namely, informing the public and honourable members of this Council as to the draft rules that are being prepared, I wish to say that the Reforms Commissioner, the Honourable Mr. Seddon, has instructions to place the draft rules on the editor's table. If honourable members wish to be supplied with copies of these rules, I am perfectly willing to give instructions accordingly.

On the second question, namely, the restriction of the scope of the advisory committee, the Honourable Mr. Kamat seems to be labouring under some misapprehension. It is not the intention of Government to restrict the scope of the committee in any way. It is open to the committee to consider any matter connected with the subject and to make their recommendations. It is, of course, to be remembered that the work has to be completed in a very short time, and some of the subjects have already been discussed very fully not only in this country but in England. Very little advantage would, therefore, be gained by re-opening the discussions that have already taken place. The point I wish to bring out is this. The points connected with the draft rules are numerous and intricate and have to be settled in a comparatively short time, so that the proposals which the Government of India have to make to Parliament may be sent home without great delay. I hope the advisory committee will address themselves to this task with expedition so as to facilitate all the recommendations being sent up from Bombay as early as possible to the Government of India.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—May it please your Excellency,—There is only one point more that I wish to make. It is true that when the franchise committee came here, matters relating to franchise were thoroughly discussed. But there still remain very many other points about the actual rules that are to be discussed. Now, for instance, the new budget procedure is going to be according to the parliamentary procedure. I do not think that this has been considered before. Therefore, it is necessary to have an opportunity to do so. Similarly about Standing Orders that will be framed. The Standing Orders of the House of Commons are a complicated affair. Those who have studied them will recognise that it is very necessary that the subject should be very carefully studied, and I hope a fresh opportunity to discuss these new aspects of the question will be allowed to the members of this non-official committee.

RULES UNDER THE REFORMS ACT—DISPENSARIES AT TALUKA AND PETA HEADQUARTERS.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat; Sir G. Carmichael; the President; the Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—An outline of the scheme with regard to the Standing Orders will be placed before the advisory committee if that has not been done already.

His Excellency the President:—The honourable member is informed that what he desires Government to do has already been effected and, therefore, the best thing would be that he should withdraw the resolution.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—I withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—The Council will now adjourn till 2-30 p.m.

The Council then adjourned for lunch.

After lunch.

The Council re-assembled at 2-30 p.m.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. Further discussion of matters of general public interest. Resolution No. 19. The Honourable Mr. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that provision be made for opening dispensaries at taluka and peta headquarter stations which are at present without dispensaries."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—By this resolution I move Government to open dispensaries at the taluka and peta headquarter stations which have yet not been provided with them. In March last I asked a question as to which of the taluka and peta stations were without dispensaries. Government were pleased to give the information and it showed that there were 48 of such taluka and peta stations without dispensaries. It was further stated that, in the case of four of these stations, dispensaries had been sanctioned and that in the case of two more proposals were under consideration. As regards one more, it was stated that there was a public works dispensary at the station and, in the case of another, that there was a travelling dispensary. As regards three more, it was further stated that there were railway dispensaries at those stations. These three stations were Bhusawal, Karjat and Igatpuri. As regards Bhusawal, I may tell the Council that it is a large town with a population of 18,000 people and the railway dispensary cannot meet the convenience of the people of the town as it has to attend to a large number of railway employees from the railway workshop and the railway staff. The same may be said of Igatpuri also. As regards Karjat in the Nagar district, I do not know how that town can be served by a railway dispensary when it is removed from the railway. Therefore, what I say is that there is a real need for dispensaries in these taluka and peta stations as also for the others which are without any provision. And, therefore, early action may be taken by Government to meet this inconvenience.

We find from the last annual report on civil hospitals and dispensaries that the total number of hospitals and dispensaries in the Presidency stands at 740 and of these not less than 300 are maintained by local boards and municipalities and 51 by railways, 17 are privately aided and 295 private non-aided. The number of state hospitals and dispensaries is very small, being only 77 out of 740.

Now, Mr. President, the Council will realise that the resources of local boards and municipalities are far too limited to allow them to meet the public need in this respect. We find that the municipalities are doing their best and are spending a considerably large proportion of their income on meeting the needs of the urban population as regards public health and convenience. Thus we find that in 1916-17 out of a total income of 92⅓ lakhs not less than 53½ lakhs were spent by the municipalities on this head. In 1917-18 out of 106⅓ lakhs income over 55 lakhs were spent for this purpose. When the municipalities are thus spending more than half their income on this head it is not possible for them to bear any larger expenditure in this connection. As regards the local boards, their hands are too much tied up for expenditure required on education and public works. We find in the report for 1917-18 that out of a total income of Rs. 87,35,000 not less than 38,07,000 were spent on education and Rs. 33,41,000 on civil works whereas on medical only Rs. 6,26,000 were spent. So that shows that local boards are also not able to spend more on this account and the municipalities are already spending more than their means would allow. Therefore, so far as these stations which need dispensaries are concerned, needful action will have to be taken by Government itself. As a matter of fact there has been very little increase in the number of dispensaries since 1913-14. As regards the state, public and Government dispensaries, there has been an increase of only about 3 or 4. In the case of local boards and municipal dispensaries the increase has been 21 whereas, in the case of unaided dispensaries, there has been a decrease of 23. On the other hand, during this period the mortality has risen like anything. In 1913, the total mortality in the Presidency stood at 521,539 and in 1917 it rose to 798,000.

DISPENSARIES AT TALUKA AND PETA HEADQUARTERS.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. G. S. Curtis; Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.]

Under these conditions I think it is necessary, in the interests of public health, that needful action should be taken by Government to provide these dispensaries and this could easily be done in view of the large increase in our revenue during these years. The grants that we receive from the Government of India for sanitation should be earmarked and a certain portion of the provincial revenue also should be set apart to meet this inconvenience.

So far back as 1911 Government had prepared a scheme for opening not less than 88 dispensaries. I do not know how many of them have been started since then but, so far as I am aware, I think these must be very few except those opened by the municipalities and local boards to which I have already referred. From the figures given by Government in the resolution issued in 1911 it would appear that more than Rs. 30,000 were then required to start a small dispensary providing only four beds for males and two for females. That estimate would now be far too low considering the rise in cost of labour and material and under present circumstances, I am afraid, it would be beyond the capacity of municipalities and local boards to provide new dispensaries at the headquarters of the talukas and petas which are still without them.

With these few words I beg to place this resolution before the Council.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—Mr. President,—I think I can dispose of this resolution in a few remarks.

I make that remark because of the answer given to the honourable member's interpellation a year ago. He asked Government what talukas and what peta stations had no dispensaries. In reply he was given a long list. If reference is made to that list, it will be found that it stated there that there is no dispensary in Haweli taluka. That is correct. But one must remember that Haweli taluka contains Poona, the headquarters of the district, where there are a dozen hospitals. Another case is Chorasi which contains the headquarter station, namely, Surat. The third case is Salsette where there are dispensaries at Thana, Bandra, Kurla and also one lately sanctioned for Bhynder. The fourth instance is Daskroi which contains Ahmedabad where there is a civil hospital and three or four dispensaries. The list refers to some talukas in Poona district.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—In the Poona district every peta and taluka has a dispensary.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—I thank the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Godbole for correcting me.

A very little acquaintance with the geography of the Presidency would show that the list of 48 stations quoted by the honourable member is an exaggeration. At the present moment there are six or eight places only where there are no dispensaries.

As regards Sind, I do not know whether the number is very much greater. Anyhow for years past Government have endeavoured to make it their policy to provide dispensaries at taluka and peta headquarters and during the last two or three years the number has been increased. If the honourable member will turn to the recent reports he will see that one new dispensary has been established in Bhynder and another at Bilgi peta in Bijapur district.

As a matter of fact we know that the Finance Committee has raised the grant for the establishment of dispensaries from Rs. 30,000 to Rs. 60,000. It is the duty of every municipality and local board to make adequate provision for establishing and maintaining public hospitals and dispensaries and providing public medical relief. With a view to helping these local bodies to discharge their liabilities in the matter of the provision of medical relief, Government are prepared to give a grant-in-aid equal to half the cost of building a dispensary to any local body for the construction of a suitable building and they will further give a loan equal to the other half on easy terms. Those being the conditions I think there will be no difficulty for any local body to find the necessary funds for starting these institutions in the very few places where there are no dispensaries.

DISPENSARIES AT TALUKA AND PETA HEADQUARTERS.

[Mr. G. S. Curtis; Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

In several cases the local bodies find it impossible to start a dispensary. There are one or two such places in the Kaira district. In that case Government would be prepared to increase the grant above the normal one. I think there is no question that the number of medical institutions has increased in the Presidency and that it is not a fact that the matter is absolutely receiving no attention. Of course, it is no use giving these grants in places where the local bodies are unable to carry on such institutions. But there is no doubt that the institutions are increasing in number and that we are spending a large sum of money in improving their efficiency.

With this expression of Government's views I hope the honourable member will withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—The question which I put to Government, to which I received the answer, was in these specific words:—

"Will Government be pleased to state how many taluka and peta stations are without dispensaries and how many new dispensaries are proposed to be opened in the coming year?"

I specifically wanted information as to the particular taluka and peta stations which were still without dispensaries and as to how many new dispensaries were proposed to be opened in the coming year. The information which Government were pleased to place on the table in answer to my question was to be taken to be absolutely correct. No honourable member had a right to question its correctness under the standing rules of the Council, and if Government chose to give information which was not fully correct.....

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis:—I beg the honourable member's pardon; the information is absolutely correct, but it requires reading with intelligence.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—I have not been quite able to follow what the Honourable Member in Charge said, but I do not see how it can be read otherwise than I have done; even excluding the talukas and petas with reference to which he made remarks by way of explanation, there still remain at least 30 to 40 taluka and peta stations which are admittedly without dispensaries or any provision for medical aid, and as regards.....

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Order, order. It is not correct to say that there is no provision made. As the Honourable Mr. Curtis has pointed out, there is provision made every year for additional new dispensaries.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—May I know, Mr. President, for what talukas provision is made?

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—The honourable member's resolution asks that provision be made for opening dispensaries. I take it that this refers to budget provision. Budget provision is made, and every year the Surgeon-General, in consultation with the local bodies concerned, submits proposals to Government and every year a certain number of dispensaries are taken up. The additional provision that is added every year used to be Rs. 30,000; it is now Rs. 60,000. Out of that Rs. 60,000 a part is for non-recurring expenditure and a part of it is added every year to the recurring expenditure for the maintenance of the dispensaries—it is called the maintenance grant. But every year there is a provision, and has been in the past for several years, for the increase and improvement of the dispensaries.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I did not mean to say that no provision is made in the budget from year to year. I know it is made; but with all that provision it has not been yet possible to provide dispensaries even in all the taluka stations, and my prayer is that those taluka and peta stations which are still without any dispensaries be provided with them. I do not question the fact of the annual provision usually made, but that annual provision is inadequate and has not been sufficient to meet the demand for dispensaries for even all the taluka and peta stations for so many years, and it is high time, considering the increased high mortality all over the Presidency, that no taluka or peta headquarter station should be left without a dispensary. That is what I mean. I am extremely surprised at the opposition of the Honourable Member in Charge. My resolution is moved in the interest of public health and, in a matter which so vitally concerns public health, his opposition has come with painful surprise. Money spent on public health is not wasted. Public health should be the first concern of Government, and, if there is any item for which Government is bound to make provision, it is public health; and, considering the high mortality in recent years, I do not think it is too much for us to ask that taluka and peta headquarter stations, where there is a large population including Government servants, should at any rate not be left without a provision of a dispensary. It is a very modest request and I think Government should be prepared to meet the public needs in this respect. I do not wish to take up the time of the Council by any further remarks and would leave the resolution in their hands.

DISPENSARIES AT TALUKA AND PETA HEADQUARTERS—REVISION OF PAY OF SUBORDINATE SERVICES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Does the honourable member withdraw his resolution?

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—No.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Before putting the resolution to the vote, I wish to point out that the honourable member's recommendation is that the Governor in Council should make a provision for the opening of new dispensaries. The honourable mover referred to the Honourable Mr. Curtis as opposing the resolution. He did not oppose it. What he said was that what the resolution recommends Government to do Government is already doing. If the honourable Mr. Upasani had moved a resolution to the effect that this Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that additional provision should be made, then one could have understood his position. But, as the Honourable Mr. Curtis has pointed out, Government have followed the advice of the Finance Committee and made larger provision out of increasing revenues for this particular object, and the resolution as moved by the honourable member recommends merely that Government should make a provision which Government are already making. I think that the fact that Government are making this provision should enable the honourable member to see his way to withdraw the resolution, because it contains a recommendation for doing something which Government is already doing. If the honourable member thinks that he cannot withdraw the resolution, I shall put it to the Council.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Mr. President,—I shall be very thankful to Government if your assurance is meant to assure me that all the taluka and peta headquarter stations which are still without dispensaries will be provided with dispensaries in a very short time. If that is so, I would consider the withdrawing of my resolution.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—That is the policy that Government are pursuing. Every year they provide for so many additional dispensaries, so that ultimately every taluka and peta will be provided with one dispensary. That is the policy which Government are following and to which they are agreeable.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Then, with your assurance, I beg leave to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 25. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed to consider the proposals submitted by Heads of Offices and to make recommendations about the revision of pay of the Subordinate Services."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Mr. President,—When, as a result of the war, the prices of all articles went up, Government showed their anxiety for the subordinate services by giving them war allowances and there was a proposal to make these allowances permanent by increments of pay. At one time Government proposed to appoint a special officer to investigate the whole question and to make definite recommendations about the revision of pay. But I understand Government subsequently abandoned that idea and that now they are merely asking the heads of offices to send up proposals to them. I submit that it is due to the subordinate services that what they have to say may be heard and that what Government have to say may also be heard by an impartial body which will be able to make recommendations about this revision. Government are, it will not be denied, interested in the revision of pay and the subordinate services, which are also interested in the revision of their pay, would rather like to have their proposals gone into by a body whose recommendations they will be able to respect. I therefore submit, sir, that a committee may be appointed to consider the proposals which will be received from the heads of offices and to consider what the subordi-

REVISION OF PAY OF SUBORDINATE SERVICES.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; the Vice-President; Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

nate services themselves have to say in the matter, and make definite recommendations as to what should be done.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I think I shall be able to place the position before this Council in a way that will obviate the need of discussing the matter at great length. With regard to certain remarks which fell from the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud, it seems to me that it is difficult for Government to accept his proposal if it means, as it could be taken to mean from what he said, that this committee should be a sort of arbitration board between Government and their servants. That, of course, is a position which Government could not possibly accept. He is quite correct in stating that we have called for reports from the heads of departments with regard to the revision of pay of subordinate establishments. Government also are very anxious to meet the needs of the case very quickly. They are urgent needs; that is recognised. The Government of India have obtained from the Secretary of State a certain amount of freedom in the matter of the disposal of these cases—larger financial freedom—in order that such proposals may be passed quickly. The Government of Bombay have, as I said, called for reports from the heads of the different departments, but they have also under consideration a method of dealing with the case on broad lines and I think it would be very useful if, in deciding on the principles which should be followed and the method which should be applied in granting the aid that is needed, we have the advice of a committee. It seems to me that the proper body to advise would be the Finance Committee of this Council which is appointed, as you are aware, not merely for the purposes of the budget, and Government are quite ready to lay the whole case before the Finance Committee. It is, I think, due to this Council that the Finance Committee should see what the proposals are and to consider their effect, involving as they will involve, a very heavy burden on the provincial finances—much higher than was anticipated when the budget was prepared. The method which Government have in view is a comparatively speedy method. I hope that it will be convenient for the members of the Finance Committee to give their assistance in this matter. I should prefer, in accepting the resolution, to amend it slightly as follows:—

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a committee be appointed to consider proposals and to make recommendations about the revision of pay of the subordinate services."

I have omitted the words "submitted by heads of offices", because in most cases proposals have not been received from the heads of the various departments, and we want to tackle the question even before such proposals are received. Government would be quite ready to place before the Finance Committee all the reports which they receive. Will the Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud agree to the omission of the words?

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—I accept the amendment.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I think I may now put the proposal to the Council, unless there is any other honourable member who wishes to make any remarks.

The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat:—Mr. President,—I wish to make one observation only in this connection, as I was connected with a recent conference held by some subordinates of the Revenue Department, and I happen to know the feeling of people in the matter. I am glad that Government have recognised the need for giving increases in the pay; I am also glad that Government is going to place the matter before the Finance Committee. But, while, on the one hand, the opinions of the heads of offices are being called for, I really wish that the Finance Committee could also call for the views of certain deputations or recognised leaders of the subordinates of each department, so that it might know the details and feeling among the subordinates.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—I am afraid that what the Honourable Mr. Kamat suggests in regard to this matter would be in the nature of an arbitration court. As I have said, Government are not prepared to accept that position. I think the Finance Committee is sufficient to judge whether the increases proposed are sufficient to obtain the men necessary for the service required.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Sir,—I am quite satisfied with the committee to whom Government proposes to give this work, and I thank Government for accepting the resolution.

The resolution was put to the vote and carried.

LOCAL BOARDS: TAX ON VEHICLES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael):—Resolution No. 14. The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.

"This Council recommends that His Excellency the Governor in Council may be pleased to take early steps to get the Local Boards Act amended so that the local boards may be authorized to levy a tax on vehicles including motors."

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—I have been constrained to move this resolution on account of the increasing traffic on local board roads of motors, both for traction and for passenger traffic. On that account, the roads are being cut up, and while, on the one hand, the local boards suffer and have to spend so much more, they do not get anything frpm the owners of these vehicles, who are making enormous profits from the use of these vehicles on local board roads. The policy of Government of late has been against the levy of tolls, and all the tolls that were being levied under Bombay Act III of 1875 have been discontinued, and Government have been compensating the local boards for the discontinuance of the levy of tolls. But within a short time this new difficulty has arisen and the roads of the local boards are being cut up without any compensation being obtained from the people who are making large earnings in their trade.

Members of this Council are aware that at present the powers of the local boards are very limited with reference to their income. Their main sources of income are the net proceeds out of the local fund, the net proceeds of public ferries, and the penalties levied under the act, the net proceeds of tolls (which are to be discontinued), the compensation that we get out of the fines and penalties levied under the act of 1866, and the income on the removal of sand and kanker. This is all, and now, looking to the increasing demands on behalf of the public on the resources of the local boards in every direction, it is very difficult to make both ends meet and, therefore, local boards have to approach Government and to beg for doles.

Of course, all that will have to be considered when the amendment of the Local Boards Act is undertaken, but, unfortunately, it has been delayed, and, while people are making money through their motors which are being utilised for the use of the public, the local boards are suffering and it is for this reason, therefore, that I have moved this resolution, with a view to bring the matter to the notice of Government, so that they might make adequate provision in the new act, of which the draft will be before the Council after the new Councils come into existence. I have no objection to amend this resolution, if it is necessary, and suggest as an alternative that Government should take steps either to get the Local Boards Act amended, or to make some arrangements for a subsidy being levied for the use of the roads, when issuing licenses to motors.

Now, under the Public Conveyances Act licenses are given to public conveyances, and under the Motor Act also licenses are given. At least, so far as I know, they do not levy any tax on the vehicles, but while issuing licenses they make conditions with reference to the axle load and such other matters. So far as Ahmedabad is concerned, I know that they make no conditions for the levy of a subsidy for the use of the roads, and, in these circumstances, the local boards whose roads are cut up are in a very awkward plight, and I believe that even in the areas belonging to the other local boards such conditions exist, and they also have the same complaint.

I therefore leave this resolution for the favourable consideration of the Council and of Government.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah:—Mr. President,—As the resolution stands, it wants to levy a tax on vehicles, including motors. That means that not only shall motors have to be taxed in the rural areas, but bullock carts and tongas also. I have no objection to taxing the motors. I am not very familiar with the conditions of the Presidency proper, but, so far as my part of the country is concerned, I do not think there are many motors running on the district local board roads. As regards the other vehicles, namely, bullock carts and tongas, they are generally the property of the poorer people. I think, if they are taxed, the tax will be unpopular. We know that the district local boards extend over large areas. Consequently, the cost of the agency for collecting the tax and the cost of supervision will be very heavy. Therefore, I am afraid, looking to the extensive area of each of the district local boards, the expenditure might be more than the income.

I would, therefore, suggest to my honourable friend that, if he has a grievance against the motors, he might modify his resolution to permit of the levy of a tax only on motors. Then I would be prepared to support him.

LOCAL BOARDS: TAX ON VEHICLES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.]

[Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai.]

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole:—Mr. President,—I accord my support to the resolution which has been placed before the Council by the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desai and I will give one or two concrete instances from the district of Poona, which will show the necessity of the proposed taxation.

We have a local board road in the Poona district, running from Talegaon to Chakan. It forms part of the road between Talegaon to Junnar. At present there are three motor companies running their motors on this road; 12 miles of the length of the road belongs to the local board and the rest to Government. I am not concerned with the condition of the road in the Government length, but I wish to point out that the local board length of it gets so dreadfully cut up that at present we are required to spend from Rs. 800 to Rs. 1,000 per mile, for the purpose of repairs of this length. Before the motor traffic started the cost of repairs used to be Rs. 300 to Rs. 400 per mile. An extra expenditure of nearly Rs. 600 per mile has been thrown upon the district local board, and this expenditure ought to be recouped from the gains of the motor companies. These companies are getting large profits, but they are cutting up the roads, and some means must be found to make them pay for the damage that they are inflicting on the roads. The roads are meant for carrying ordinary wheeled traffic only and not motor lorries.

Then there is another instance which I will place before this Council, which requires consideration. In connection with the Tata hydro-electric Andhra Valley scheme, certain contractors secured a contract for the supply of sand for the preparation of mortar, and this sand was carted on a small road which belongs to the local board. This road ordinarily carries about eight or ten carts per day, but, on account of the contract for the supply of sand, for nearly eight months there were daily about 150 carts working on this road backwards and forwards, making three to four trips per day. The road got so dreadfully cut up on this account that we had to spend something like Rs. 300 per mile on the road in place of the normal expenditure of Rs. 100 per mile. When special cart traffic comes in occasionally in this way, and when the parties concerned are making heaps of money, the local board ought to have the means of recouping the extra expenditure that they incur on the maintenance of roads in such special cases. Under these circumstances the proposal put forward in this resolution seems fair, and I strongly support it.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Mr. President,—Honourable members are aware that His Excellency communicated to the Council in Poona Government's decision that legislation in regard to district municipalities and district local boards will be taken in hand after the ministers are appointed. I believe honourable members acquiesced in that view and recognised the desirability of the ministers taking charge of the matter. When Government intended to introduce legislation on these subjects, they had to examine various directions in which both these acts required amendment, and a large amount of literature has been accumulated and draft sections have already been put in form by the Legal Department. All that work has already been done, and it will be placed before the ministers who will decide the policy on which legislation will be based. I, therefore, think that it is no use dealing with these matters on the present occasion, and that honourable members should wait till the ministers introduce into the new Councils a comprehensive measure dealing with local self-government in district towns and district boards. I am sure this debate, which will be reported in the proceedings, will be examined and the various suggestions put forward will be taken into consideration by the ministers. There is, I know, some difference of opinion as to whether these taxes should be levied on all vehicles or whether only on motors. But that is a point which will be debated and decided when legislation is brought forward. I believe the Council will agree that it is hardly possible, in view of the decision of Government to which I have referred, to deal with legislation piecemeal. I, therefore, trust that the honourable mover will be satisfied that the point will receive attention at the proper time and that he will not press his resolution.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Mr. President,—As regards the point raised by the Honourable Mr. Hidayatallah, I may say, that if he could have any objection, he could have it only with reference to levying a conveyance tax on vehicles belonging to agriculturists. But, as regards other people, namely, those who follow the carrying traffic and others who use local board roads, there could be no objection if such a tax were levied on them, and I would not like to have it restricted to motors only but to include all other vehicles not belonging to agriculturists.

I am thankful to the Honourable Member in Charge for the statement that he has made. My only object in bringing this resolution was to put this matter for the consideration of Government. I therefore beg leave to withdraw it.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

MARATHI SCHOOLS IN THE KANARA DISTRICT.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [The Vice-President; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 20. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that adequate provision be made for opening a sufficient number of Marathi schools for the Marathi speaking children in the Kanara district having regard to the proportion of the Marathi speaking population of that district."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Mr. President,—I do not think this resolution requires many words from me. Last September I had asked a question as to the proportion of the Marathi speaking population and the number of schools for Marathi speaking boys and girls in the Kanara district. In answer to that, it was stated that the total population of the district was 430,543 and that out of the same the Marathi speaking population was 165,171, that is, about 38 per cent. I was also told that the number of lower primary schools for Marathi speaking boys was only 7, and that the number of pupils in them was 186 boys and 99 girls; also that there were 8 upper primary schools for Marathi speaking children with an attendance of 45 boys and 592 girls. On reference to the last report of the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction I find that there are in the district about 308 vernacular primary schools with an attendance of over 16,000 pupils.

Now, considering the proportion of the Marathi speaking population to the total population, it will be apparent that the number of schools provided for Marathi speaking children is altogether inadequate. We know that at home they speak Marathi. Their accounts are kept in Marathi. All their transactions are conducted in Marathi, and correspondence also conducted in that language. So it is desirable and necessary that there should be a sufficient number of schools provided for these children. At a previous meeting Government were pleased to say that provision would be made for a Marathi knowing teacher in the high school at Karwar and I am glad that the same has been made. I hope along with this provision will also be made for holding the vernacular final examination and the middle school examinations in Marathi. The result of the existing state of things is that the boys who want to learn Marathi have not got the facilities for it and so they have to attend the existing local Kanarese schools up to the 4th standard and then to go over to the English schools; that is, they are not able to learn either the vernacular of the district sufficiently nor their own mother tongue. It is, therefore, in the interests of the Marathi speaking population of the district that there should be a sufficient number of Marathi schools opened there.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola :—Mr. President,—In regard to the point which the honourable mover has made, I wish to draw the attention of the Council that Government have specifically provided for such a state of things when framing rules for the Compulsory Primary Education Act. I will read to the honourable members the rule that deals with this subject:—

> "Teaching through and in Marathi, Gujarati, Kanarese, Sindhi or Urdu, according as any one of these languages is the general vernacular of the municipality concerned; where, however, any other of these vernaculars is spoken in any municipality, suitable arrangements shall be made for teaching through and in it, provided that the average attendance of any school opened for this purpose shall not fall short of 25."

Honourable members will, therefore, see that Government recognise the desirability of providing schools for vernaculars other than the local vernacular, so that the minority may not be deprived of the benefits of primary education through their own vernacular. When that view has been adopted by Government in connection with compulsory primary education, I need hardly assure the Council that, in areas which will remain under the voluntary basis, similar provision will be made, provided that there is adequate demand for it. There are cases in which people having schools for the teaching of their own vernacular prefer to send children to schools where the local vernacular is taught. It will be recognised that in such cases there can be no compulsion. If the Marathi speaking people in the Kanara district prefer to attend Kanarese schools, they must be free to do so. But, if the guardians and parents desire that their children should be taught in Marathi, adequate provision will be made, provided, as I have already pointed out, that there is adequate demand, i. e., that there are at least 25 students willing to attend each such school. Such being the policy of Government, I need hardly assure the honourable mover that his object will be attained if he represents to the Department of Education that there is in a given local area an adequate demand for Marathi schools. I trust the honourable mover will be satisfied with what I have told him and withdraw his resolution. There is no intention whatsoever of forcing the majority to adopt the vernacular of the minority or of coercing the minority into accepting the vernacular of the majority. Government will deal fairly with both, the majority as well as the minority, in different areas. I trust the explanation I have given will be considered satisfactory, and the honourable mover will withdraw his resolution.

MARATHI SCHOOLS IN THE KANARA DISTRICT—MEDICAL BULLETINS IN VILLAGES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.]

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. S. B. Upasani; the Vice-President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Mr. President,—I am thankful to the Honourable Member in Charge for what he has said, but I do not quite understand whether he means to assure us that provision for Marathi schools will be made in all places in the district wherever there may be 25 students wanting such schools.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola :—Every effort will be made by Government to meet the demand wherever it exists.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Mr. President,—What I meant to say was that there was real need of such schools even in places where compulsory education could not be introduced. However, with the assurance that Government have given, I will withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Resolution No. 26. The Honourable Rao Bahadur Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the medical department of the Government of Bombay be directed to issue and widely circulate bulletins recommending simple treatments for the cure of diseases for the benefit of the village populations.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—Mr. President,—I do not think that in rural areas there are very many facilities for obtaining medical relief and treatment and therefore it is necessary in the interests of rural areas to devise some remedies however inadequate they may be to help the rural population to face disease when it appears.

During the last influenza epidemic the Government of India, through its Sanitary Department, recommended some simple preventive measures. But the recommendations did not go further and the rural population was therefore, when it was actually attacked, left without any remedy.

I submit, sir, that a great deal can be done to relieve disease in rural areas by recommending and widely circulating simple treatments for diseases. Take, for instance, the case of fever. I know a very simple remedy which very effectively relieves a patient from fever. (Laughter.) I am merely giving this not as a tip to the Council but to let the Council see how even small remedies can be very effective. Take, for instance, the case of, as I said, fever. In order to reduce the temperature the first thing to be done is to give frequently copious draughts of water to the patient. The second thing is to sponge the whole body.

The Honourable the Vice-President (Sir G. Carmichael) :—Order, order. The honourable member ought to keep to the resolution and not go into details of medical treatment.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—I was only going to say the third thing is to put a wet compress on the head. Now, such a treatment coming with the sanction of the Medical Department of the Government of Bombay will be highly valued and will no doubt effectively give great relief.

(His Excellency the President at this stage resumed the chair.)

Your Excellency,—I was just mentioning a simple treatment which would effectively reduce temperature in all fever cases. And, if treatments on some such lines were recommended or came with the approval of the Medical Department of the Government of Bombay, they would be a great help in the relief of disease in rural areas. There are several such simple remedies which have already been recommended and all we need is that these treatments may be examined, systematised and approved by the Medical Department of the Government of Bombay and widely circulated by them in rural areas for the benefit of the rural population.

I submit, your Excellency, the other departments of the Government of Bombay have been doing similar service for the agricultural classes. The Sanitary Department also has to a certain extent been doing that service for the rural population of the Presidency and it is but right that the Medical Department should also realise its responsibilities and should also undertake work of this nature.

MEDICAL BULLETINS IN VILLAGES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Colonel J. B. Smith; Mr. G. S. Curtis.]

With these words, sir, I commend this resolution to the Council.

The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith :—Your Excellency,—The intention underlying the honourable mover's resolution is one which must appeal to the sympathies of all the members of the Council. We all feel that the benefits of treatment by the methods of Western or, as I prefer to call it, modern medicine should be extended to every village and rural area in this Presidency. Any scheme which aims at bringing about this result should therefore receive the most careful consideration.

I much regret, therefore, that I am unable to support the resolution. The honourable mover has not taken into account the difficulties which attend his proposal. Before we can treat any disease correctly it is essential we should know what that disease is. Correct treatment requires accurate diagnosis. This is the rock on which the proposal splits.

Many of the honourable members of this Council are familiar with Moore's "Family Medicine and Hygiene for India", written many years ago by Sir William Moore, a former Surgeon-General, and issued by Government to district officers to enable them, when far from medical aid, to treat themselves, their families and servants. A great part of the book is taken up with diagnosis with an endeavour to enable non-medical but educated readers to ascertain the nature of the diseases they need to treat. This book shows to what a size the bulletins proposed by the honourable mover would run if they were to be of the least use. With uneducated people like ryots it would be still more difficult to give clear descriptions of how to recognise diseases and, without this, treatment is impossible.

The honourable mover suggests that remedies, though inadequate, might give some help. The use of inert remedies will do no good and only bring modern medicine into disrepute, which is much to be deprecated. Moreover, many of the drugs used in medicine are poisonous and must be used with care, if dangerous results are not to follow.

For these reasons the treatment of ordinary diseases by bulletin or leaflet is not to be recommended. The case of epidemic and widespread endemic disease is somewhat different. Here the question of diagnosis is easy. In an epidemic every one learns what are the prominent features of the disease. The villager can recognise cholera as well almost as a medical man. Similarly a ryot living in a malarious district can fairly well judge when he has got malarial fever.

In epidemic and widespread endemic disease, therefore, leaflets giving methods of treatment are of use and have been widely used in the United Kingdom and in India also. For instance, for many years Government has issued remedies for cholera and these are accompanied by instructions for use. Similarly "treatments" for malaria are issued and with each "treatment" is given a leaflet of directions.

The honourable mover has contrasted the action of the Medical as compared with the Sanitary Department. The cases are not similar. It is easy to issue a leaflet giving simple directions for prevention; to issue bulletins giving treatment is impossible except in the case of widespread and easily recognised diseases. But honourable members must not suppose that all this time Government are doing nothing. The number of dispensaries is being increased year by year and it is to be hoped that it will not be long until no place will be very far from a dispensary. Government have also instituted touring medical officers who go from village to village carrying medical aid to outlying areas.

For the reasons I have given I regret therefore, your Excellency, that I am unable to support this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis :—Your Excellency,—I have very little to add to the remarks of the Honourable the Surgeon-General. One practical suggestion, however, I have to make. No one who was present here in 1918 will forget the interesting lecture given by the honourable mover on the subject of water cure. Well, sir, what I would suggest is that the honourable mover should himself print his lecture in the form of a pamphlet and circulate it to the public. If that pamphlet becomes popular, then Government might consider whether they should follow the experiment. But until that time I think the honourable mover should make the experiment himself. Government cannot embark upon it at this stage. I would ask the Council to reject the resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud :—I beg to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES; POWER TO GRANT LICENSES FOR FACTORIES, WORKSHOPS, ETC.

[The President; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

His Excellency the President :—Resolution No. 15. The Honourable Rao Saheb Desai.

"This Council recommends that His Excellency the Governer in Council may be pleased to take early steps for the amendment of the Bombay District Municipal Act III of 1901 so as to empower a Municipality constituted under the said Act to prescribe the conditions on, or subject to which, and the circumstances in which, and the areas and localities in respect of which licenses may be granted, refused, suspended or withdrawn for the use of any place not belonging to the Municipality as—

(a) a factory, workshop, work-place, baking house, or as a business place in which steam, water, or other mechanical power is employed, and

(b) a hotel, eating house, tea or coffee shop, restaurant, dining saloon, refreshment room and the like."

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai :—May it please your Excellency,—The first part of this resolution, (a), seeks to have powers for control over factories and their location.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—I rise to a point of order. Your Excellency's colleague just now intimated to the Council on another resolution that all these changes in the Municipal Act will be held over for consideration until the Reformed Councils come into being. Of course, if he adheres to that in this case, then there will be no necessity to discuss this resolution. It would be a waste of time if it is eventually withdrawn.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—This is a very urgent matter and cannot afford to wait until the reforms come, the ministers come, and a new act is taken in hand for the revision of the District Municipal Act. I am therefore not going to withdraw this resolution. In places like Ahmedabad, Poona and elsewhere there is a great complaint about overcrowding and congestion. Most of the municipalities in municipal towns are extending and expanding at a very great pace, and the city municipalities, I submit, are of course expanding at a very much greater pace. There is congestion all round and I may say there is extension without regulation; in fact, there is no ordered development, and I submit that uncontrolled non-agricultural use of land in extra-mural areas is a difficulty which we in Ahmedabad as well as people in other city municipalities are feeling very greatly. All this, I submit, is a danger to public health, and the sooner the amendment of the District Municipal Act is undertaken, the better in public interests. When in a small matter like a complaint from the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay that he was unable to find time to collect arrears for district municipalities a bill was introduced in Council and this Council debated over the question and the matter went up to the select committee and we had to pass legislation on such a small matter as that, which could have waited, this is a matter which, I submit, is of far greater importance and one which we can very well undertake for amendment at the next meeting of the present Council. To give an instance, in Ahmedabad there are about 78 factories. Under section 96 of the District Municipal Act, municipalities have certain powers of control over buildings but has no power to prohibit the construction of a mill or a factory or to withhold permission. Supposing a municipality thinks that a particular part must be reserved for residential areas and an application is made for permission to erect a factory the municipality has no right to refuse it and no powers to prohibit the erection of a factory in a particular area. There are serveral more factories in construction in a city like Ahmedabad and also in other larger cities and on account of the conduct of their business, on account of the noise, smoke, gas, vapour, etc., there is an amount of nuisance all round and, consequently, in addition to the suffering due to congestion there is also this additional nuisance with which the public have to put up, and there is no power under the act to prohibit the erection of factories at any particular places where the municipal authorities may think that they should not be erected. The Collector under the Land Revenue Code has certain powers, which the municipalities have not, and some of the Collectors have been exercising that power, but that happens where there is co-operation, and yet, in spite of co-operation, the policy of one Collector may not be followed by another and the policy of one municipal board may not be followed by a succeeding board. Consequently, it is absolutely necessary that municipalities should be invested with certain powers so that there may be an ordered policy all round in this matter. Even as regards the power of the Collector,

DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES; POWER TO GRANT LICENSES FOR FACTORIES, WORKSHOPS, ETC.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

the fact is that he can only regulate, under sections 65, 66 and 67 of the Land Revenue Code, non-agricultural use with reference to unalienated lands, but with reference to alienated lands—what are generally known as inam lands,—he has no power. He is powerless with respect to those lands. I may submit that the Bombay city municipality has powers under sections 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396 and 397 with reference to the regulation of factories.

With reference to part (b) of this resolution, only the police have got certain powers but in matters of health I think it is the public health department which ought to have the powers and not the police. The police cannot, with any effect, exercise any power with reference to food and drink in the same way as a public health officer would do, and I therefore submit that this is a resolution of great public importance which requires an amendment of the District Municipal Act to be taken early in hand, and it is not in the public interest that we should wait until the new District Municipal Act is taken in hand under the regime of ministers.

The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas:—Your Excellency,—I have very great pleasure in supporting this resolution, because I entirely endorse all the remarks that have been made by the honourable mover. The reason why I interrupted the mover by rising to a point of order was that, even after this resolution was discussed, if Government took the same attitude now as with the previous resolution of the honourable mover, that they considered it inopportune to pass any legislation until the new Council came into being, the time taken up in this debate would be wasted. But, as the honourable mover has been permitted to proceed with the discussion in spite of my objection, I may state that the Karachi municipality also have felt the want of such powers. In Karachi there are places of business which are called grinding mills. They are driven by camels. They are a cause of great nuisance and annoyance to the public, and sometimes municipalities feel themselves incompetent to regulate these mills in the absence of any of the powers which are proposed in this resolution. It is necessary in the interests of sanitation that the Karachi municipality should have power to regulate these mills. I would therefore have them added to the list contained in the resolution moved.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Your Excellency,—I have to draw the honourable member's attention to what I stated on the previous resolution and, in addition, to inform him that Government have considered these amendments and they are all on the list of the proposed legislation to be introduced by the ministers. The honourable member complained that in regard to relieving the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay of the duties imposed upon him under the District Municipal Act Government carried through legislation in this Council. I wish to point out in reply that he clearly omitted to notice that the bill was introduced before the announcement of Government policy by your Excellency. Now I ask honourable members to consider whether, even if this resolution is carried and the Council is of opinion that, in spite of the policy announced piecemeal amendment of the District Municipal Act should be taken in hand, there is any time within which it can be carried out. Supposing the resolution is passed to-day, the bill can only be introduced at the next meeting of the Council. If the first reading is passed, it will have to be referred to a select committee and by the time the report of the select committee is out, and the second and third reading stages are reached, the new Council will have come into existence and all this labour will have been wasted. In the new Council the ministers will decide for themselves what they will do. I recognise that the further powers asked for in the resolution are necessary, and should be conceded to the municipalities. That ought to satisfy the honourable mover.

There is another point to which I should like to draw the attention of honourable members. Government are at present considering whether they should have one uniform act for all district municipalities, as is the case at present, or whether they should have separate acts for Karachi, Ahmedabad and Poona, or whether they should have two acts, one dealing with city municipalities, and the other dealing with the remaining ones. We might give a separate act to Karachi or to one or two other places, and then have one act for city municipalities and another for town and other municipalities. All these points are under consideration, and to a certain extent the views of the present Government have been formulated upon it. But I am sure the Council will recognise that the views of the ministers in regard to all these points will have to be first ascertained, as they will be responsible for the future legislation on the subject. Under the circumstances, I hope honourable members will accept the view which I have put before them, namely, that it is undesirable at this time to introduce piecemeal legislation in regard to these acts, and, even if they want to do so, there is no time within which to carry it through.

DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES: POWER TO GRANT LICENSES FOR FACTORIES, WORKSHOPS, ETC.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Rao Saheb H. D. Desai; the President.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

For these reasons, I trust that the honourable mover will be content with the information which I have given him, namely, that Government, as at present constituted, are agreeable to these amendments being enacted, and that they will be taken up at the first opportunity by the responsible ministers. I hope the honourable mover, as he was satisfied with the attitude of Government on his previous resolution, will also accept this assurance and be content to withdraw it. I hope the Council will realise that it is hardly right to pass a resolution of this character under the conditions and circumstances which I have explained.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—Your Excellency,—I am not at all satisfied with what has been said, and I think that.....

His Excellency the President:—I would like to tell the honourable member that he is supposed to address the chair, which he never does.

The Honourable Rao Saheb H. D. Desai:—I am not satisfied with the explanation and I am not prepared to withdraw this resolution. I think that it is absolutely necessary that the amendment of the District Municipal Act should be undertaken as early as possible for this purpose. It is said that there is no time. Of course, the July, the September and the December meetings are yet to come. If there is important work, we could work at any time and meet at any time, and I am not satisfied with the explanation that there is no time. We can do the work, and we ought to do it. If Government are considering several matters, it may take an amount of time, but this matter is very important with reference to the large municipalities, and I am not inclined to let this matter wait any longer. I think that Government should undertake an early amendment of the District Municipal Act for this purpose. Therefore, I am not inclined to withdraw my resolution, but I would like to have the matter put to the vote.

His Excellency the President:—I may tell honourable members that the passing or rejection of this resolution will not in the least affect, even by an hour's time, the actual process which is going on with regard to these acts; that is to say, Government's policy will be just the same whether this resolution is passed or not. But both I and my honourable colleague still feel that it would be improper to pass this resolution in the circumstances in which we are placed; neither is it a matter of practical politics—it may be a matter of practical politics with the honourable mover of the resolution but it is certainly not a matter of practical politics for Government—to accept the resolution when we know, in all honesty, that we cannot give practical effect to it before the Reformed Council comes into existence, and, even if we could, it would be improper to do so. I therefore hope that the general sense of this Council will be to reject this resolution.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost, 1 member voting for and 24 against it. The Council divided as follows:—

Ayes.

The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Noes.

His Excellency Sir George Ambrose Lloyd, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., Governor of Bombay, President.
The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. R. E. Enthoven, C.I.E., I.C.S.
The Honourable Major C. Fernandes, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.
The Honourable Mr. Mahomedbhoy Hajeebhoy.

DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES: POWER TO GRANT LICENSES FOR FACTORIES, WORKSHOPS, ETC.—HEAD-MASTERS OF TALUKA SCHOOLS.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [The President; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Ayes.

Noes.

The Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. J. D. Jenkins.
The Honourable Mr. Balkrishna Sitaram Kamat.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Venkatesh Shriniwas Naik.
The Honourable Mr. Raghunath Purshottam Paranjpye.
The Honourable Mr. Gokuldas Kahandas Parekh, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 21. The Honourable Mr. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that head-masters of taluka schools be relieved of the work which they have at present to do in connection with the vernacular schools in the taluka or be given an extra hand for the same."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—May it please your Excellency,—In this resolution I simply move that the head-masters of taluka schools, who are at present required to do a considerable amount of work for the vernacular schools in the taluka and have to spend daily more than two hours for it, be relieved of that work and that, if at all the work is to be retained with them, they be given extra hands to enable them to do it outside their school hours.

Your Excellency, these head-masters are the most highly paid teachers in the primary schools and they are specially trained for their work and it is necessary and desirable that they should devote all their time and attention to the teaching work in the schools. As a matter of fact, however, the most senior man in the taluka school, I mean the head-master, is not able to devote all his time to the work of his school, but he has to devote three or four hours a day to this extra work. He has to receive the monthly returns submitted by the several schools in the taluka, to check them, and also to consolidate them. He has to draw the pay of all the teachers, to disburse it, and prepare the acquittance rolls. There are many such items of work he has to do as medium of communication between the village schools and the deputy educational inspector. I have got the various returns and it will be seen how complicated and elaborate they are.

I am sure it will not be denied that it is necessary to relieve these head-masters, and I hope that the department will see its way to find some means for the purpose.

The Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye:—Your Excellency,—I have great pleasure in supporting this resolution, which my honourable friend Mr. Upasani has brought forward. I am in touch with a very great number of school-masters in all parts of the Presidency, and it is one of their very great grievances that the taluka head-master has got to do a very great deal of this kind of extra work, that he has got to spend two hours every day in doing work which really is not his. He has got a great deal of responsibility as he has to distribute the pay of all the teachers in the taluka, and he is also responsible for a large number of returns which the department requires him to send. I think, therefore, that the grievance of the taluka head-masters is very real and I think it will add to the efficiency of the department if they are, to a certain extent, relieved of this work.

HEAD-MASTERS OF TALUKA SCHOOLS—DISTRICT LOCAL BOARDS: NON-OFFICIAL PRESIDENTS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. J. G. Covernton; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; Mr. S. B. Upasani; the President; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

I should very much prefer the second alternative, because after all some returns will have to be made through these masters, and perhaps the taluka head-master might be the official through whom these returns might go. At any rate, he ought to be given a special assistant for this work. In any case, whatever the method is, I wish to point out to Government that this is a very real grievance, the removal of which will add greatly to the efficiency of the Educational Department.

The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton:—Your Excellency,—I have a very few remarks to make on this subject. The department, so far as I am concerned, is in great sympathy with the general object which the Honourable Mr. Upasani has in view. We considered the matter at a conference held in the course of this year, when the position of taluka head-masters was gone into. The recommendations of the conference were that the taluka masters should be given an allowance in consideration of the additional work, and, where the work is really heavy, such as in particularly large areas, or areas with many schools, or in municipalities, that an assistant should be given to the taluka master, and he thereby be enabled to carry out his ordinary duties better. We have, since then, been calling for detailed statements from the inspectors and I hope to be able to put before Government concrete recommendations on the subject in a short time. I may point out that the real grievance, I think, with the majority of the men is that they have to do this work in addition to their ordinary work without any allowance, and I must say that I think it is a genuine grievance, and that is why the conference which we held recommended that an allowance should be given to them.

Where the head-master has a considerable amount of work to do in his own school, it is very desirable that we should be able to give him also an assistant, and in that way enable him to have the taluka and school work done properly. At the same time I should add that we cannot dispense with the present system. It would not be easy to get the pay distributed so speedily and economically as on the whole it is now. If we adopted a different system like that suggested by the honourable member we should have to create new posts for these special duties, and I think, in view of the large expansion of education which Government are contemplating and which will entail so many charges, it would not be wise to insist upon the system which the honourable member proposes. I hope the Council will agree with me that the matter has not been neglected, and that we are prepared to do what we can for the men in question.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Your Excellency,—I have nothing to add to what the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has said and I trust that the honourable mover of the resolution is satisfied. In his resolution he wishes to lay down that the head-masters of taluka schools should either be relieved of the work which they are required to do at present or be given an extra hand for the same. That means that he desires a uniform system for the future, namely, that either the head-masters should be relieved of the work or that assistants must be given to them. There is a third alternative to which the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction has drawn attention and it is this. Where the work involved is not heavy and can be done without impairing their efficiency, extra allowances will be paid to these head-masters if they are willing to undertake it. In case the work is too heavy, extra assistance will be provided. I think this alternative meets the whole point which the honourable mover wishes to bring to the notice of Government. I trust he will now be satisfied. Where some extra work can be done by the head-masters without impairing the efficient discharge of their ordinary duties a special allowance will be paid. I do not think the honourable mover wishes to stand in the way of such an arrangement being carried out. The grievance is recognised and the remedy will be applied on the lines indicated. I hope the honourable mover will be satisfied and withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—In view of the explanation given by the Honourable Member in Charge of the Department of Education, I beg leave to withdraw my resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 27. Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that non-official presidents be appointed for District Local Boards in the remaining districts of the Central Division."

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—Your Excellency,—At the last meeting of the Council I brought a resolution to request your Excellency's Government

DISTRICT LOCAL BOARDS: NON-OFFICIAL PRESIDENTS—AKOLA RIOT CASE: REMISSION OF SENTENCES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola; the President; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] to give some district local boards the privilege of electing non-official presidents, but I was told that there was no provision for it under the District Local Boards' Act. Government have been cautiously experimenting with non-official presidents for some time past, and, now that these non-official presidents have been working satisfactorily in district local boards, I am sure Government will be pleased to extend the privilege to the remaining district local boards where their services are available. I wish to restrict myself to the Central Division which I have the honour to represent in this Council. There are only two districts, East and West Khandesh, in this division which have not yet obtained this privilege. I do not know why this is so, but I hope Government will now be pleased to extend the privilege to both of them.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—Your Excellency,—So far as the principle underlying this resolution is concerned, Government have repeatedly announced their intention of giving effect to it. I am not sure whether it is quite correct to move such a resolution in regard to one division of the Presidency only. The problem is one affecting the whole Presidency, and the question has been discussed in the past on these lines.

There are, as honourable members are aware, 27 district local boards in the Presidency, and, in my budget speech dealing with sanitation, I pointed out that 12 out of those are under non-official presidents. The policy of Government is to extend the principle to all the district local boards as far as possible. Out of the 27, if I remember rightly, there were 6 non-official presidents of district local boards when the honourable mover moved his resolution in Poona. There are now 12, and the number will be steadily increased.

There is, however, one point to which I wish to draw the attention of honourable members, and that is that Government find it rather difficult to find suitable men in the districts, qualified and willing to take up these responsible duties. There must be many qualified men, but there appears to be considerable hesitation on their part to undertake the work. It may be that their other engagements do not permit them to accept these positions. Whatever the case may be, I would ask honourable members, not only those representing the Central Division, but all those interested in the subject, to submit names, either to the Commissioner or to Government, of men who they think are qualified and willing to undertake the duties. If these names are submitted, I am sure Government will take them into their very careful consideration and try to extend the principle of non-official presidents to the remaining district local boards as far as can reasonably be managed.

I believe the assurance which I have given will be considered satisfactory as dealing with the problem affecting the whole Presidency, and, in view of the policy announced, viz., to extend as far as possible the principle of non-official presidents for district local boards, provided suitable men come forward to undertake the duties, I trust the honourable mover will withdraw his resolution.

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—May it please your Excellency,—I restricted the scope of my resolution to the Central Division, because I did not know the particular circumstances which prevented Government from extending the principle to all district local boards. Now, the position has been made clear by the Honourable Member in Charge of this portfolio. I am thankful to him for his assurance that if proper men are pointed out, the privilege will be immediately conceded.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola:—I said "as far as possible".

The Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud:—I am glad to have this pronouncement on behalf of Government. I only wished to get this matter cleared up. I hope the principle will be soon extended to all district local boards and beg to withdraw the resolution.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President:—Resolution No. 22. The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that he may be graciously pleased to consider the cases of the prisoners sentenced in the Akola riot case for remission of their sentences in view of the Royal Proclamation recommending amnesty in the case of persons sentenced under the Indian Defence Act."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—May it please your Excellency,—I beg to move this resolution on behalf of those who were sentenced in connection with the

AKOLA RIOT CASE: REMISSION OF SENTENCES.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani; Sir G. Carmichael; the President.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

Akola riot case. They were tried under the Indian Defence Act by a Commission, and, for that reason, they had not the benefit of an appeal to a higher tribunal. This is one ground on which I beg that your Excellency may be graciously pleased to consider their case. The second is that under the Royal Proclamation amnesty is meant to be vouchsafed to all those who have been tried and convicted under the Defence of India Act.

There are also other circumstances which show that the cases of these poor people deserve consideration. In the first place it will be noticed that the persons actually concerned in the riot were mainly of the Koli class. The riot took place on the 10th of August. In a press note issued on the 19th of August it was stated that :—

> "The riot arose out of an incident which occurred in the course of recruiting operations in which the late Mr. Pirzada was engaged. A recently recruited Bhil was taking a Thakar to the recruiting depôt when a crowd, apparently under the impression that the Thakar was being forcibly recruited, intervened and roughly handled the Bhil, who was taken by the havildar of the recruiting party to the mamlatdar's house. The latter, accompanied by a sub-inspector of police, was about to leave the house, when a large crowd, consisting mainly of Kolis, was seen to be advancing. The mamlatdar and police officer re-entered the house and closed the door, which was assailed by the crowd. Being unable to break it in, they brought kerosine oil and set fire to the house."

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—What press note is the honourable member reading from ?

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—I read press note No. 5510, dated 19th August 1918. The press note was issued nine days after the riot took place and after making a thorough inquiry to ascertain the actual facts. The information that was at the disposal of Government after an investigation for nine days showed that the parties mainly concerned in the riot were the Kolis. And there is nothing in this press note to show that according to the information that Government had during the nine days the individuals who were subsequently proceeded against and convicted were concerned in the riot.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—Your Excellency,—I rise to a point of order. It seems that the honourable member is discussing the findings of the tribunal which disposed of this case and not the resolution which he has moved.

His Excellency the President:—The honourable member is only entitled to discuss the question of amnesty and not the case itself. He can discuss the question whether any case for mercy is made out but not the findings of the tribunal.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I am appealing to Government for mercy on behalf of these people and am urging some of the grounds for mercy which will show that the case of these poor people deserves to be considered. So until the 19th these people were not proceeded against or taken to be concerned in the riot.

His Excellency the President:—Order, order. The honourable member really is still going on discussing the findings of the court. That is not the scope of the resolution. I am quite willing to listen to any case for amnesty but I cannot allow the findings of the court on the case which was decided some years ago to be discussed in the debate on this resolution.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I do not question the findings of the court but only wish to bring to your Excellency's notice the circumstances under which these people were proceeded against and the fact that they had not the benefit of appeal to a higher tribunal renders it necessary to state some of the circumstances under which these people were charged. The officers who suffered in this riot have been proved to have taken oppressive measures for recruiting which were not justified. In fact the mamlatdar is proved to have gone to extremes and there is proof to show that these people had no private motives for the offence. There is also proof of other extenuating circumstances which led these people to commit these excesses. These men were not actuated by any political motives against Government. Under these circumstances, I pray that their case may be kindly considered by Government.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael:—Your Excellency,—The Honourable Mr. Upasani began by describing that the charge on which the persons for whom he is pleading for mercy were convicted was one of rioting. The case against them was much more serious than this. They were charged with having murdered under very brutal circumstances a mamlatdar and a havildar of a recruiting party of the Indian army and of having caused mischief by fire as well as of rioting. They were tried by a tribunal consisting of two District Judges—Mr. Clements and Mr. Mehta—and the Honourable Rao Bahadur Sathe. The tribunal considered the whole case with very great care. The accused in the case, when they were on trial, were ably defended. The Honourable Mr. Upasani says that account should be taken of the fact that the people in the Akola taluka were labouring under the sense of grievance against the mamlatdar on account of certain action he had taken and certain conduct of his in connection with his recruiting work. These considerations were given due weight by the tribunal when they disposed of the case. Cases of this kind, where a very brutal murder is committed, have been specifically excluded from the terms of His Majesty's Royal Proclamation. I will read to honourable members the relevant portion of that Proclamation. It says :—

AKOLA RIOT CASE: REMISSION OF SENTENCES.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir G. Carmichael; Mr. S. B. Upasani; the President.]

> "A new era is opening. Let it begin with a common determination among My people and My officers to work together for a common purpose. I therefore direct My Viceroy to exercise in My name and on My behalf My Royal clemency to political offenders in the fullest measure which in his judgment is compatible with the public safety. I desire him to extend it on this condition to persons who for offences against the State or under any special or emergency legislation are suffering imprisonment or restrictions upon their liberty."

I think it is quite clear that a case of the description of this Akola case, where a brutal murder was committed, does not come within the terms of His Majesty's Proclamation. At the same time, I wish to make known to this Council that as far back as September last year, before His Majesty's Royal Proclamation was received in this country, Government decided that this particular case should be reviewed on the expiry of three years, so that further consideration may be given to the question whether any clemency should be extended to these convicts or not. To that decision Government, of course, still adhere.

With these few remarks, sir, I hope that this Council will not accept the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Upasani.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—May it please your Excellency,—As these people were tried under the Defence of India Act their case will come under that act. Your Excellency has thought their case worth considering after a certain time. There are circumstances in this case which will show that before the mob committed these excesses they were fired upon by the mamlatdar causing several casualties and, besides that, there were several other extenuating circumstances.

The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael :—Your Excellency,—I rise to a point of order. It seems to me that the honourable member is again questioning the correctness of the decision of the tribunal.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—Your Excellency,—I am sorry I am placed in a hard position. The Honourable Sir George Carmichael has himself stated the facts against the accused and the circumstances which might tell against them and I should certainly be allowed to state briefly, at any rate, some of the facts which are in their favour. I do not question the validity of the judgment. But there are circumstances which militate against it. The commission themselves have in their judgment stated that these people were not undeserving of sympathy. The commission themselves felt that the action was instantaneous. That being the case, it is just the case which deserves to be taken into consideration for showing clemency. Out of the 52 persons placed before the commission, only 18 have been convicted by the tribunal and in case of one of these accused the Honourable Mr. Sathe, who was one of the commissioners, has held that there was no sufficient evidence against him. As against the others also the incriminating evidence was of the approvers and that evidence was held to be unreliable as against the accused who were acquitted.

Under these circumstances, I hope the Council will accept this resolution. I have already stated that they were proceeded against under the Defence of India Act and, therefore, their case deserves to be considered under the Royal Proclamation.

His Excellency the President :—I am a little bit surprised that the honourable member should still advocate this resolution. Honourable members of this Council, I am sure, realise themselves that not only the Government but they themselves are the proper stewards of justice, of law and order. Here is really essentially a very simple case. It is a case of a foul and brutal murder. There is no room for sentimentality. It is only a question of justice. I will not describe to you the horrible nature of the crime itself because all honourable members are aware of it. It was singularly brutal. It has been suggested, and it is perfectly true, that there was some degree of provocation, but that is constantly the case when murders are committed. People have to be taught that they must not commit murder whether provoked or not. It is also true that it has been suggested that some of the men are not entirely undeserving of sympathy. It is for that

AKOLA RIOT CASE; REMISSION OF SENTENCES—TEACHING OF ENGLISH IN UPPER VERNACULAR MUNICIPAL SCHOOLS.

[The President; Mr. S. B. Upasani; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

very reason why I myself minuted on the case some months ago that the case should be brought up for further consideration in three years' time. That will show to honourable members that this case will not go by default but will be carefully watched by Government. Honourable members will agree with me that this is not a case which comes within the purview of His Majesty's gracious royal message of amnesty and clemency. It was not for this class of offences that amnesty was extended. And I am sure the honourable member will be wise in leaving matters as they are in view of what my honourable colleague has just told the Council. I do not know what the Honourable Mr. Upasani desires to do. Government cannot accept this resolution and I think it would be very undesirable that anything on the lines suggested in the resolution should take place.

The Honourable Mr. Upasani :—It is a matter for your Excellency's mercy and I will, therefore, leave the matter to your Excellency and the Honourable Member in Charge.

The resolution was by leave withdrawn.

His Excellency the President :—Resolution No. 23. The Honourable Mr. Upasani.

"This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Municipalities and Local Boards be allowed to introduce the teaching of the first three English standards in their upper vernacular schools if there be more than 25 students available to attend the English classes."

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani :—May it please your Excellency,—In this resolution I beg to move that Government be pleased to allow municipalities and local boards to introduce the teaching of the first three English standards in their upper vernacular schools if more than 25 students are available to attend the English classes. Government has already kindly introduced that experiment in a few schools as recommended in one of my resolutions. That resolution was first moved so long ago as 1915, and a very long time passed before any action was taken. Year after year questions were asked in Council and provision has only now been made for starting the experiment. In the meantime the necessity for making this provision has been more pressing than when I moved my first resolution on this subject. The main reason is that the difficulty of keeping boys at a distant place at a young age for learning English has increased. That being the case, nothing will be lost by allowing municipalities and local boards to introduce this measure experimentally in schools where they think more than 30 boys will be available to attend the classes. That there are a number of schools where this number will be available, will, I think, be admitted. In fact, in answer to a question which I asked some time back as to the number of schools which taught the higher vernacular standards, between the 5th and 7th, and of those of them in which there were more than 30 boys available for learning English, I was told that there were 504 such schools, that 36,889 boys were learning in these higher standards and that in 122 schools more than 30 boys were available. I believe that it will not be possible to open these classes in all these schools, but there are at least seven or eight districts where the experiment can easily be made. Already the resources of the municipalities and local boards are limited and Government have to help these bodies in this matter. It is in deference to the very great demand of the public that I have moved this resolution and it is also in deference to the wishes of some of the municipalities and local boards that I have ventured to move this resolution before the Council. It will not cost very much to Government if organised bodies like the municipalities are allowed to introduce these classes, because they have to bear a part of the expenditure. The same is more or less the case with local boards. In my own district there are municipalities which are ready to start such classes in their schools, but they are not allowed to do so, and I asked a question in Council whether municipalities would be allowed to introduce these classes and I was told that they would not be. If only permission is given to these bodies which are well constituted when they are themselves willing to start the classes and the education is given under the supervision of Government officers of the Educational Department there will be no objection to allow the experiment to be tried in these schools. This will meet public convenience. I, therefore, pray that the resolution will be kindly accepted by Government.

The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola :—Your Excellency,—The history of introducing English teaching classes in higher vernacular schools is well known to honourable members. It is perfectly true that the Honourable Mr. Upasani moved a resolution on the subject some years ago, but nothing was done for some considerable time. It was recently that the Honourable Mr. Paranjpye brought forward the subject again and Government accepted a resolution on condition that the scheme should be discussed with him. The Secretary to Government in the Educational Department, the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction and I myself met the honourable member and we discussed and formulated a scheme, and Government have put it into force as an experimental measure in twenty village schools. The orders which were issued by Government were as follows :—

TEACHING OF ENGLISH IN UPPER VERNACULAR MUNICIPAL SCHOOLS.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola.]

> " The Director should be requested to review the arrangement now approved after the completion of the third year of experiment and to submit to Government a report on the working of the scheme."

The intention was that the experiment should be carried on for three years before it was decided whether it should be extended or not. I have already informed the Council that Government have since asked the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction to send in an ad interim report after only one year's trial instead of three, with a view to see whether there was justification for extending the experiment. That is the present position in regard to this question. I understand that honourable members approve of the experiment being carried out on these lines. The Honourable Mr. Upasani now brings forward a resolution on the same subject which is open to objection on several grounds. The question as to whether this experiment has proved a success or a failure has to be determined before any extension of it can be considered. I am sure honourable members will appreciate the action of Government in calling upon the Honourable the Director of Public Instruction to send in an ad interim report at the end of one year and this should convince them that they are taking the question into their serious consideration. Now, let us see what the honourable member wants? He asks that municipalities and local boards should be allowed to introduce the teaching of the first three English standards in their upper vernacular schools. This means that local bodies should be allowed to incur expenditure on this measure without waiting for the result of the experiment. This can hardly be regarded as reasonable.

There is one aspect of this question to which I should like to draw the attention of honourable members. If municipalities and local boards had enough resources to meet their obligatory duties under their acts and were collecting revenue in excess of their requirements, and then desired to spend such excess on these duties which are discretionary, there would be no objection. But, as honourable members are aware, the statistics which the Honourable Rao Bahadur Naik has taken such great pains to collect show that most of the municipalities in this Presidency have not got enough money to discharge their obligatory duties. Honourable members must remember that primary education is an obligatory duty, while English education is discretionary. I should like to ask whether municipalities and district local boards have in the past done their duty adequately in the direction of primary education. I am sure it will be recognised that when they are unable to discharge their obligatory duties, their first duty must be to collect adequate funds to enable them to meet these obligations and then, if there are surplus funds, to extend their efforts towards carrying out discretionary duties. I ask whether everything has been done for the cause of primary education in municipalities and district local boards. Honourable members are aware that Government are contributing 50 per cent. towards the educational expenditure of municipalities, while in the case of district local boards the figure is, I understand, something like 80 per cent. to 85 per cent. Now to talk about district local boards, who are being assisted by grants to the extent of 80 to 85 per cent. on primary education, being allowed to spend money on English teaching in higher vernacular schools is obviously unreasonable. I ask, therefore, what advantage the honourable mover is going to get by his present proposal. If he can induce municipalities to levy sufficient taxes in order to collect adequate revenues to meet the many obligations imposed upon them under the act and to have money to spare, Government will welcome their spending it on English education. As a matter of fact, it is a question for serious consideration whether those municipalities which are at present spending some portion of their revenue on English education are justified in doing so and whether they should be allowed to do so. The obligation at present of providing facilities for English education has been undertaken by Government. In any event, the obligation has not been imposed upon local bodies. Therefore, if they want to provide these facilities, the recommendation should be that municipalities should be allowed to levy special taxation for the purpose. If honourable members representing local bodies wish this done, Government will be very glad to consider it. But is it right to raise these issues in Council when the result must be that practically the whole burden will fall upon Government? It is hardly right to try to get round the decision of restricting this experiment to only twenty village schools. The Government resolution on the subject shows that the non-recurring expenditure per school is estimated at Rs. 700 and the recurring cost at about Rs. 50 per mensem. If the number of students comes up to 25, the figure mentioned in the honourable mover's resolution, and all of them are willing to pay a fee of Re. 1, the income will come to Rs. 25 per month. According to these figures English teaching in village schools cannot be self-supporting.

TEACHING OF ENGLISH IN UPPER VERNACULAR MUNICIPAL SCHOOLS.

[Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola ; Mr. S. B. Upasani.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

In any case I should like to ask honourable members to consider whether it is right that municipalities and district local boards in their present financial condition should be allowed to undertake this additional duty as it can only mean that it will be discharged at the expense of obligatory duties imposed under the act. For these reasons, I hope honourable members will not accept this resolution. They know that an experiment is being tried, that several months have passed, and that an ad interim report has been called for at the end of the first year. In these circumstances, I hope they will allow Government sufficient time to consider the report when received and to decide whether any expansion is called for and, if so, to what extent. So far as the promotion of English education is concerned, I hope honourable members will recognise that Government have been trying their best to meet the popular demand.

The Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani:—Your Excellency,—I think the Honourable Member in Charge might have been a little more fair to the municipalities than he apparently was, so far as the discharge of their compulsory duties is concerned. Municipalities have been endeavouring to educate more than 50 per cent. of the boys of school-going age within their areas. In addition to that, they have undertaken the responsibility of giving education to boys who wish to learn English. I think this is an additional responsibility which they have undertaken. On the other hand, what provision has Government made for this purpose? They have only opened one high school in each district town, and a few middle schools. The municipalities are more alive than Government to the actual needs of the towns and have saddled themselves with this charge for optional duties and Government are leaving it to private bodies to set up these schools. Then, when we ask for permission to introduce this experiment in places where there will be no additional burden upon Government, and when the people are themselves offering to bear the cost, I do not know why permission should not be granted. Government do not make provision and do not allow these bodies also to do the needful, with the result that facilities are not afforded to the poor students to learn English. Is this a solution which the Honourable Member in Charge puts before us and expects us to be satisfied with? I humbly suggest that this is a demand which has been pressed upon Government from time to time from all quarters and, therefore, it should be attended to with all sympathy. There was a conference of the Directors of Public Instruction of all the provinces at Simla, and they have approved of this machinery. It was on the strength of that recommendation that I brought forward my resolution. I think the assurances of honourable members, like the honourable Mr. Paranjpye, who support my resolution will show that there is no danger of the municipalities or the local boards abusing the privilege of opening these classes in places where they are needed and can be opened, with or without a contribution from them. If this business is left to private bodies or individuals it is not possible for them to meet the initial difficulties of starting private schools, and these difficulties are becoming yearly more onerous than before. The municipalities themselves will be able to open these classes in their existing schools. They will only have to make provision for an additional teacher for teaching and will be able to utilise the existing school buildings for these classes. There will not be any additional cost either to Government or to these bodies themselves. If that is possible, then I do not know why this public convenience should be denied. Properly speaking, the control of primary education in rural areas ought to be with the local boards and in the urban area it should be with the municipalities. The local boards, instead of having any control, have practically no voice in it and, even where the people are ready to open such schools and are prepared to pay, the local boards cannot have the permission from Government. Several of the local boards and municipalities have already started separate Anglo-vernacular schools within their areas. If they are allowed to introduce this experiment, it will not add to the expenditure but reduce at least part of the expenditure which they are already incurring. It is not a new experiment. It is in their own interest to reduce the expenditure, because Government are not prepared to pay them more either for primary education or for this education. If Government had undertaken this responsibility and taken upon itself the task of opening all these middle schools, we should have been too glad, but Government do not do it. Let them, therefore, allow the municipalities and local boards to try the experiment and, if Government finds that the experiment is not successful, then there will be time to put a stop to it. Nowadays it is becoming more and more difficult to send children outside, there is no accommodation for them, and the cost of maintenance has risen too far.

TEACHING OF ENGLISH IN UPPER VERNACULAR MUNICIPAL SCHOOLS.

[18TH MARCH 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasni; the President.]

With these few words I hope that the Council will accept this resolution.

The resolution was put to the vote and lost, 5 members voting for and 17 against it. The Council divided as follows:—

Ayes.

The Honourable Mr. Dattatraya Venkatesh Belvi, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.
The Honourable Rao Bahadur Siddhanath Dhonddev Garud.
The Honourable Mr. Shridhar Balkrishna Upasani.
The Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.

Noes.

His Excellency Sir George Ambrose Lloyd, G.C.I.E., D.S.O., President.
The Honourable Sir G. Carmichael, K.C.S.I., I.C.S., Vice-President.
The Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Rupchand Bilaram, LL.B.
The Honourable Mr. R. H. Brooke.
The Honourable Mr. F. Clayton.
The Honourable Mr. J. G. Covernton, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. Mahomedbhoy Hajeebhoy.
The Honourable Khan Bahadur Pir Baksh walad Mian Mahmud, C.I.E.
The Honourable Mr. P. J. Mead, C.I.E., I. C. S.
The Honourable Mr. L. Robertson, C.S.I., I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. C. N. Seddon, I.C.S.
The Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, O.B.E.
The Honourable Mr. H. O. B. Shoubridge, M.Inst.C.E.
The Honourable Colonel J. B. Smith, C.B., I.M.S.
The Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E.

His Excellency the President:—Before adjourning this Council, as our business is now concluded, it may be to the convenience of the Council if I refer to two matters, the one is as regards our next meeting, and the other as regards the future place of our meetings.

In view of the impending election, which we expect to take place in the autumn, it will probably not be to the convenience of honourable members that we should have two meetings as usual during the Poona season, and, unless there is any urgent business, I propose to call only one further meeting of this Council, that is to say, rather later than the first meeting, probably towards the end of July. Otherwise, it will probably interfere with the activities which certain honourable members may have in areas remote from Poona, and on which their future career in the Council may depend.

The other point is as regards our future meeting place for the new Council. At Poona, we are well equipped with a Council Hall of a size quite adequate to accommodate the larger Councils, which will come into being out of the next election. But that is not the case in Bombay, and honourable members may have seen in the budget that Government propose to spend a sum of Rs. 3,00,000 upon the erection of a temporary building, in order to house the new Council for a period of something between 7 and 8 years, until new buildings can be set up. Now, I have seen, since my return this morning, a considerable amount of press criticism with regard to our proposal and, therefore, it may be interesting to the Council to hear the situation with regard to the matter. The position is just this, that there are, as I think honourable members are aware, practically no available halls, of which the acoustic properties are sufficiently good to make it possible for the members of the Council to be heard by Government, or for Government to make themselves heard by the members of the Council. With a view to try and solve this difficulty, I asked the Council to meet a little time ago in the University Hall which I thought was, from an architectural point of view and capacity, eminently suitable to house the Council during the intervening period. Honourable members know the result, and I think those gentlemen whose duty it is to take down the speeches in Council also know what the result was, and most urgent representations, both from honourable members and the press, were made never to meet there again. That was the result of that attempt. Outside of that hall there remain only two others, so far as I know, which could be considered possible. One is the Town Hall and the other is the Cowasji Jehangir Hall. Government were naturally anxious not to spend Rs. 3,00,000 on any building, if it could be avoided, and therefore examined the possibilities of other buildings very carefully. The Cowasji Jehangir Hall has bad acoustics. It is a difficult place to speak in. If the doors are open to traffic, it is dusty and noisy; if they are shut, it is extraordinarily unpleasant and hot. It is, for these reasons, unsuitable as a meeting place for the Council. Similarly, with regard to the Town Hall, the hall itself is not entirely unsuitable and it also is noisy. But it seems rather difficult for the Council to use for a period of, as I think it must be, 7 or 8, or possibly 10, years a Town Hall without any committee room, without any convenience of any kind for honourable members' refreshments, or reading room, and so on, which, as the future Councils will no doubt sit for several weeks at a time, will be almost essential to honourable members, if they are to carry out their duties properly.

[The President.] [18TH MARCH 1920.]

Government has no desire whatever to encroach upon the open spaces of this town. It is perfectly true that, when the reclamation schemes that we have in view are carried out, there will be space there for a new Council Hall, or there will be a place on the open spaces adjacent, which may not then be required, as we shall have plenty of reclaimed area. But it will take at least four or five years for us to complete these schemes, on the most optimistic basis, and the new Council Hall must, as honourable members will agree with me, be a considerable building, worthy of this Presidency and of the new Council. Then the hall itself must take some three or four years in itself to build. I do not really see how the Council can carry on in an improvised manner in the Town Hall for another eight or nine years, and, if that is not to be the case, some of those gentlemen who criticise our proposals should offer us an alternative proposal as to where the Council is to be held during the eight or nine years. I thought it was perhaps fair to tell the Council the difficulties with which we are faced. We naturally desire that the new Council should, at any rate, be adequately housed before His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales visits us next winter, and it seems to us that the only possible alternative to really house the Council is to set up such a temporary building. However I have no doubt the matter will be fairly and fully discussed in public. It is, from Government's point of view, a matter of very small concern as to whether Council sit in one place or another provided they are suitably housed. It is a matter for the public of Bombay and for the honourable members of the Council; and I think, when the matter is discussed, they will see that it is not quite so easy to carry on in a temporary ad hoc manner as is sometimes suggested by those who very naturally desire that none of the open spaces in the city should be unnecessarily used up. I place the matter before the Council, and they will see why it is that we arrived at the conclusions we have arrived at, and they will doubtless be able to judge for themselves.

Gentlemen, this Council will now adjourn.

The Council then adjourned sine die.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

SATURDAY, 8TH MAY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi and Gujarati, and the translations to be published in the " Bombay Government Gazette ". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bill No. IV of 1920.

A Bill to provide for the extension of primary education in the City of Bombay.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the extension of primary education in the City of Bombay ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the City of Bombay Primary Education Act, 192 .

Short title, extent and construction.

(2) It extends only to the City of Bombay.

(3) It shall be construed as part of and supplementary to the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, hereinafter called " the principal Act."

III of

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context—

Definitions.

(1) to " attend " a recognized primary school means to be present for instruction at such school on such days and at such time or times on each day as may be required by the Schools' Committee with the approval of the prescribed educational authority ;

(2) " child " means a child whose age is not less than six and not more than eleven years ;

(3) " parent " includes a guardian and any person who has the actual custody of a child ;

(4) " prescribed " means prescribed by rules made by the Governor in Council under this Act ;

(5) "primary education" means such education as is for the time being recognized as such by the Governor in Council;

(6) "recognized primary school" means a school (or a department of a school) in which instruction in primary education is given and which is for the time being recognized by the prescribed educational authority;

(7) "Schools' Committee" means a committee appointed under section 39 of the principal Act.

Issue of notification making primary education compulsory.

3. (1) The Corporation may with the previous sanction of the Governor in Council declare by notification that the primary education of boys or of girls or of children of both sexes shall be compulsory in the City of Bombay or in any ward or part of a ward thereof from a date to be mentioned in the notification; provided that, where a notification has been issued under this section with reference to children of one sex only, the Corporation may with the like sanction issue a subsequent notification with reference to children of the other sex.

(2) A notification under this section shall be published in the Bombay Government Gazette and shall be posted at the municipal office and at such other places, if any, as the Corporation shall deem necessary.

Corporation to make provision for primary education.

4. A notification shall not be issued under section 3 unless the Corporation satisfy the Governor in Council that they are in a position to make and will make adequate provision in municipal or other recognized schools for free and compulsory primary education.

Resolution to be passed before issue of notification.

5. A notification shall not be issued under section 3 unless the Corporation have so determined by resolution passed at a general meeting specially called in this behalf, and unless such resolution has been supported by at least two-thirds of the councillors present at the meeting and by at least one-half of the whole number of councillors.

Duty of Schools' Committee.

6. Where a notification has been issued under section 3 for any ward or part of a ward, it shall be the duty of the Schools' Committee, subject to the provisions of this Act and the principal Act, to enforce the provisions of this Act respecting the attendance of children at school and the employment of children.

Duty of parents to cause children to attend school.

7. Where a notification under section 3 is in force in any ward or part of a ward, the parent of every child to which such notification applies shall, in the absence of a reasonable excuse as hereinafter provided, and if such parent and child ordinarily reside in such ward or part of a ward, cause such child to attend a recognized primary school therein.

Meaning of reasonable excuse.

8. A parent shall be deemed to have a reasonable excuse for failure to cause a child to attend a recognized primary school in any of the following cases:—

(a) where the child is prevented from attending school by sickness, infirmity or other unavoidable cause;

(b) where the child is receiving, otherwise than in a recognized primary school, instruction which in the opinion of the Schools' Committee is efficient, or has already completed his primary education;

(c) where there is no recognized primary school within one mile, measured according to the nearest road, from the residence of the child.

Issue of attendance order.

9. Where the Schools' Committee is satisfied that the parent of any child who is bound under the provisions of section 7 to cause such child to attend a recognized primary school, has failed to do so, the Schools' Committee, after giving the parent an opportunity of being heard and after such enquiry as it considers necessary, may pass an order directing the parent to cause such child to attend a recognized primary school on and from a date which shall be specified in the order.

Penalty for failure to cause child to attend school.

10. (1) Any parent against whom an order with reference to a child has been passed under section 9 and who fails to comply with the provisions of section 7 with respect to such child on and after the date specified in such order, shall, on conviction before a magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding five rupees.

(2) No court shall take cognizance of an offence under this section except on the complaint of the Schools' Committee.

Penalty for employing child liable for compulsory education.

11. (1) Whoever knowingly takes into his employment, either on his own behalf or on behalf of any other person, any child in respect of whom the provisions of section 7 apply, so as to interfere with the efficient instruction of such child, shall, on conviction before a magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees.

(2) No court shall take cognizance of an offence under this section except on the complaint of the Schools' Committee, and before making any complaint under this section against any person, the Schools' Committee shall, unless such person has previously been convicted under this section in respect of the same child, cause a warning to be given to such person.

Schools' Committee may authorize person to appear.

12. A complaint to a magistrate under section 10 or section 11 may be made on behalf of the Schools' Committee by such person as may be authorized by the committee in this behalf.

Taxation for the purposes of this Act.

13. For the purposes of this Act the Corporation may, under the provisions of the principal Act, impose any fresh tax or increase any tax which is already levied in the municipal district.

Remission of fees.

14. Where a notification under section 3 is in force in any ward or part of a ward, no fee shall be charged in any municipal school in respect of the primary education of any child of the sex specified in such notification whose age does not exceed eleven years.

Power to exempt particular classes or communities.

15. The Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette exempt any particular class or community from the operation of this Act.

Withdrawal of notification on default.

16. If in the opinion of the Governor in Council, the Corporation have made default in any of the requirements of this Act, after giving the Corporation an opportunity of furnishing an explanation the Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette cancel any notification which has been issued under section 3.

Fines to be credited to Corporation.

17. All fines levied by any magistrate in respect of any offence against the provisions of this Act shall be credited to the municipal fund.

Rules.

18. (1) The Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette make rules for the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, such rules may be made—

(a) prescribing the educational authority by whom the duties imposed by section 2, sub-sections (1) and (6), shall be performed;

(b) prescribing the manner in which application may be made for sanction to issue a notification under section 3;

(c) determining generally what shall be considered to be adequate provision for free and compulsory primary education under section 4;

(d) requiring the Corporation to prepare and publish a register of children liable for compulsory primary education in the municipal district; and

(e) when the local Government determine to share the cost of providing free and compulsory primary education, specifying the extent to which the cost thereof shall be borne by the local Government.

Amendment of section 39 (1) of the principal Act.

19. In sub-section (1) of section 39 of the principal Act

(a) for the word "twelve" the word "sixteen" shall be substituted; and

(b) the following words shall be added to the sub-section:—

"Of these sixteen members twelve shall be elected by the corporation from among the councillors and the remaining four, of whom two shall be ladies, shall be selected by the corporation."

Repeal of section 62 B of the principal Act.

20. Section 62 B of the principal Act is hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to enable the Municipal Corporation of the City of Bombay to introduce free and compulsory primary education for boys or girls or for both in the whole city simultaneously or by wards or parts of wards. It follows the lines of Bombay Act I of 1918 which was enacted with the same object in respect of the district municipalities. Section 62 B of the principal Act is repealed as no longer applicable in view of the intention of Government to make a more liberal grant and section 39 is amended to provide for the strengthening of the Schools' Committee by the inclusion of four educationists from outside the corporation.

27th January 1920. (Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,

Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 28th April 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

SATURDAY, 15TH MAY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi and Gujarati, and the translations to be published in the " Bombay Government Gazette ". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bill No. V of 1920.

A Bill to amend the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1 of 1915, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This act may be called the Bombay Town Planning (Amendment) Act, 192 . Short title.

2. In sub-section (1) of section 15 of the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915, hereinafter called the said act:— Amendment of section 15 of Bom. I of 1915.

(a) in clause (a) after the word "work," the words "or remove, pull down, or alter any building or part of a building or remove any earth, stone or material" shall be inserted;

(b) the following clause shall be added:—

"(e) Any diminution in the value of an original plot occasioned by any contravention of clause (a) or clause (b) shall, notwithstanding anything contained in sections 16, 17 or 19, be taken into account in fixing the market value of such plot."

3. For the first paragraph of section 17 of the said act, the following shall be substituted:— Amendment of section 17 of Bom. I of 1915.

"For the purposes of this Act the increment shall be deemed to be the amount by which at the date of the declaration of intention to make a scheme the market value of a plot included in the final scheme estimated on the assumption that the scheme has been completed would exceed at the same date the market value of the same plot estimated without reference to improvements contemplated in the scheme:"

4. In section 19 of the said act:— Amendment of section 19 of Bom. I of 1915.

(a) after the word "and" occurring for the third time, the words "with or" shall be inserted;

(b) after the word "boundaries," the following shall be inserted:—

"in accordance with rules framed under clause (gg) of sub-section (2) of section 52 of this act."

5. In sub-section (2) of section 52 of the said act:— Amendment of section 52 of Bom. I of 1915.

(a) after clause (g) the following clause shall be inserted:—

"(gg) the manner in which the estimate shall be made under section 19;"

(b) in clause (l), for the words "local authority" the words "Governor in Council" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of the present amendments is to remedy certain defects in the Act which have become apparent in its actual application to town planning schemes. The following notes on clauses explain the reasons for the principal amendments.

Notes on clauses.

Clause 2.—For the purposes of section 19 the market value of a plot has to be taken as at the date of declaration of intention to make a scheme. It has been represented to Government that cases have actually occurred in which owners of certain plots, who were either bought out or given a different plot in the final allotment sold the right to excavate earth from their original plots and so depreciated the value of their holdings. The final owner would thus be given the plot as valued at a date prior to such depreciation. The object of the amendment is to enable allowance to be made for such depreciation.

Clause 3.—The amendment proposed is purely verbal and is intended to remove certain doubts that have arisen as to the interpretation of the section.

Clause 4.—As it has been found to be inequitable in certain cases to omit from consideration improvements contemplated by the scheme, other than improvements due to alteration of boundaries and as it is not possible to provide in the Act for every contingency that may arise, it is proposed to regulate by rule the manner in which estimates under this section should be made.

Clause 5 (a).—This amendment is consequential.

(b) The publication referred to in section 40 (1) is to be made by the Governor in Council.

23rd January 1920. (Signed) G. S. CURTIS.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS.
Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 5th May 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS

The
Bombay Government Gazette
PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

THURSDAY, 27TH MAY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay :—

BILL No. VI of 1920.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to pleaders in the presidency of Bombay.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to pleaders in the presidency of Bombay; and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by section 79, sub-section (2), of the Government of India Act, 5 & 6, Geo. V., c. 61. 1915, has been obtained for the passing of this Act; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bombay Pleaders Act, 192 . Short title and extent.

(2) It extends to the whole of the presidency of Bombay except Sind and Aden.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,— Definitions.

(1) "the High Court" means the High Court of Judicature at Bombay;

(2) "court subordinate to the High Court" means any court, tribunal, or person whose decree, order, decision or award is, or may hereafter be, subject to the appellate or revisional jurisdiction of the High Court;

(3) "pleader" means a pleader admitted under this or any previous Act, and includes an attorney of the High Court in so far as, and in respect of the courts in which, such attorney is entitled to practise in accordance with any enactment for the time being in force or any rule made by the High Court in this behalf;

(4) "district" means the local limits of the jurisdiction of a principal civil court of original jurisdiction other than the High Court;

(5) "the Letters Patent" means the Letters Patent of the High Court of Judicature for the presidency of Bombay, dated the 28th December 1865;

(6) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act.

Letters Patent, ss. 9 & 10; Bom. Reg. I of 1827, s. 48.

3. Pleaders admitted by the High Court under this Act shall be of two classes, namely, vakils of the High Court and district pleaders.

Classes of pleaders.

4. (1) The High Court shall issue to every pleader on his admission a sanad in form A or form B in Schedule II, as the case may be, or in such other form as the High Court may prescribe.

Sanads.

(2) In the case of the sanad of a district pleader, the name of the district for which the sanad is available shall be specified therein.

5. (1) No district pleader shall hold a sanad in respect of more than one district at the same time.

Extent and transfer of sanads.

(2) On the application of a district pleader holding a sanad which is available for any one district the High Court may from time to time, by endorsement on such sanad, render the same available for any other district.

Bom. Reg. of 1827, s. 48; I of 1846, s. 4.

6. (1) Any person who is duly qualified and is of unexceptionable character shall be entitled to be admitted as a pleader.

Conditions of admission.

(2) The number of pleaders shall not be limited.

7. Subject to the provisions of any law for the time being in force and, with respect to the right of vakils of the High Court to practise in the High Court, subject to any rules for the time being in force under section 10 of the Letters Patent, a vakil of the High Court shall be entitled to practise—

Where vakils of High Court are entitled to practise.

Letters Patent, s. 9.

(a) in the High Court;

(b) in any court subordinate to the High Court; Cf. XVIII of 1879, s. 4.

(c) before the tribunal of appeal constituted under the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898; and Bom. IV of 1898.

(d) in or before any other court, tribunal or person in or before which or whom vakils of the High Court are or may hereafter be entitled by law to practise.

8. Subject to the provisions of any law for the time being in force, a district pleader shall, within the district in respect of which he holds a sanad, be entitled to practise—

Where district pleaders are entitled to practise.

(a) in any criminal court; Cf. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 47; and I of 1846, s. 4.

(b) in such civil court or courts as the District Judge may assign to him; and Cf. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 49.

(c) in or before any other court, tribunal or person in or before which or whom district pleaders are or may hereafter be entitled by law to practise.

9. No person shall appear, plead or act for any party in any civil suit, appeal or proceeding, unless he is a pleader as defined in this Act and is entitled and duly empowered to appear, plead and act for such party in such suit, appeal or proceedings: Cf. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 47; V of 1908, sch. I, O. 3, r. 1; Letters Patent, s. 10.

Appearance in civil court by unauthorized person forbidden.

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply—

(a) to any party appearing, pleading or acting on his own behalf, or appearing or acting by his recognized agent, or

(b) to any advocate of the High Court.

10. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section, no pleader shall appear, plead or act for a party in any civil or criminal case until he has obtained from such party and filed in court a vakalatnama in form C in Schedule II, or in such other form as the High Court may prescribe. Cf. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 50.

Cases in which vakalatnama is required.

(2) It shall not be necessary for the following persons to obtain a vakalatnama for the purpose of appearing, pleading and acting in the capacities respectively mentioned hereunder:—

(a) a pleader appointed by a court to defend a person accused of a criminal offence, who has not sufficient means to enable him to employ a pleader;

(b) a pleader appointed by a court as amicus curiæ;

Bom. Reg. I of 1827, s. 47 (4). V of 1898, s. 493 and 495.

(c) a government pleader;

of 1898.

(d) a public prosecutor, or a person permitted or empowered, under section 495 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, to conduct a prosecution.

(3) Where a pleader has filed a vakalatnama at the original hearing of a case, it shall not be necessary for him to obtain a fresh vakalatnama for the purpose of an application for review of judgment, or of an application under section 152 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or under order XLV in the First Schedule to the said Code, or for the purpose of an appeal under the Letters Patent.

f 1908.

(4) Where a pleader has filed a vakalatnama in a case, he may with the permission of the court transfer his brief to another pleader, and it shall not be necessary for such other pleader to obtain a vakalatnama.

Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 50 (1).

11. (1) A party engaging a pleader shall pay him a retaining fee of an amount not less than eight annas.

Retaining fee.

(2) Where a party fails so to do, the pleader shall demand such fee and shall not perform any services for such party until the fee has been paid.

(3) Every pleader receiving such fee shall give a receipt in writing for the same, specifying the date of receipt.

Bom. Reg. II of 1827, ss. 50 and 53

12. No pleader after accepting a retaining fee shall,

Pleader not to act for party adverse to his client, and not to refuse to act for his client.

(a) appear, plead or act, or agree so to do, on behalf of any other party whose interest in the case is adverse to that of his client, or

(b) without the permission of the court, refuse or omit to appear, plead or act for his client.

13. Every pleader receiving a document of any kind from his client shall— Cf. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 5 (2).

Receipt to be given for documents.

(a) give a receipt in writing for such document at the time when he receives it, and

(b) if his client requires the return of such document and gives a receipt in writing for it, return it to his client.

14. (1) A pleader shall be bound to attend in court on any day which, by notice duly given or in accordance with the practice of the court, is fixed for the hearing of a case in which he is employed. Cf. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 54, and XX of 1853, s. 2.

Pleaders bound to attend on day fixed for case except in certain cases.

(2) Where a pleader employed in any such case is, from indisposition or any other necessary cause, unable to attend on such day or at the time when the case is called on, he shall notify the same to the court and thereupon the case shall be stayed for such time as the court may deem reasonable:

Provided that in cases in which a party is represented by more than one pleader and one of such pleaders is present, the court may proceed with the case.

(3) In any case where a pleader ceases, temporarily or permanently, to act for his client, because he has accepted an official appointment, or has been permitted to withdraw from the case, or has been suspended or dismissed, or has died, or for any other reason, the case shall be stayed for such time as the court may deem reasonable.

15. No pleader shall tender, give, retain or consent to retain any gratification for procuring or having procured the employment of himself or of any other pleader in any legal business. Cf. XVIII of 1879, s. 13 (c) and (d).

Pleaders not to give or take commission.

16. No pleader shall— Cf. XVIII of 1879, s. 13 (a).

Pleaders not to take instructions except from client or authorized agent.

(a) take instructions in any case except from the party on whose behalf he is retained or from some person who is, within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the recognized agent of such party, or from a servant, relative or V of 1908.

friend authorized by such party to give such instructions, or

f. XVIII of 1879, s. 13 (c).

(b) accept any employment in any legal business through a person who has been proclaimed as a tout.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 52 (3), and I of 1846, s. 7.

17. Any party employing a pleader may settle with him by private agreement the terms of his engagement and the fee to be paid to him for his professional services.

Fee may be settled by private agreement.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 52, and I of 1846, s. 7.

18. (1) Where costs are awarded to a party in any suit, appeal, application, reference or proceeding, the amount of the pleader's fee to be taxed in the bill of costs as recoverable by such party, if represented by a pleader, from his adversary, shall be computed in accordance with the rules in Schedule III.

Computation of taxed fee.

(2) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) of this section or in section 20 shall apply to fees payable to pleaders in the Court of Small Causes of Bombay.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 52 (3).

19. (1) Each pleader employed by any party shall be entitled to receive from him the fee, if any, settled under section 17:

Amount payable by client to pleader.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 52 (4).

Provided that where costs are awarded to such party and the pleader's fee taxed is greater in amount than the fee settled under section 17, the pleader shall be entitled to the excess when recovered.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 52 (1).

(2) Where no fee has been settled under section 17, the pleader shall be entitled to receive from his client a fee computed in accordance with the rules in Schedule III.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 52 (1).

(3) The fee which a pleader is entitled to receive from his client under sub-section (2), and except when otherwise agreed between the pleader and the client, the fee which a pleader is entitled to receive under sub-section (1), is payable in respect of the pleader's services until the final decree or order in the suit, appeal, application, reference or proceeding is passed.

f. Bom. Reg. II of 1827, s. 53.

20. (1) Where a party has, before the first hearing of a case, engaged more than one pleader, the fees of two pleaders may be taxed in the bill of costs in the following cases:—

When fees of two pleaders may be taxed.

(a) in any original suit, of which the amount or value of the subject matter exceeds Rs. 5,000, in any court subordinate to the High Court;

(b) in any contested proceeding under the Indian Succession Act, 1865, the Probate and Administration Act, 1881, or the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, of which the amount or value of the subject matter exceeds Rs. 5,000, in any court subordinate to the High Court; X of 1865 V of 1881. I of 1894.

(c) in any appeal to the High Court from a decree deciding on the merits any suit or any contested proceeding of the kind referred to in clause (a) or clause (b);

(d) in any suit of which the amount or value of the subject matter is less than Rs. 5,000, where the court certifies by order in writing that the fees of two pleaders may be taxed:

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect suits or appeals by paupers, or suits or appeals governed by the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879. XVII of 187

(2) Except in the cases specified in this section, a party employing more than one pleader shall not be entitled to recover from his adversary more than one set of pleader's fees.

21. (1) Where there are more plaintiffs, appellants or applicants than one, having the same cause of action, they shall not be entitled to recover more than one set of pleader's fees.

Cases where there are more plaintiffs, and where there are more defendants, than one.

(2) Where there are more defendants, respondents or opponents than one, and where such defendants, respondents or opponents have been represented by different pleaders, the court, if it is of opinion that their grounds of defence are substantially distinct, may in its discretion award more than one set of pleader's fees.

22. In any civil appeal or application to the High Court from the decree or order of a court subordinate to the Taxation of costs in appeals to High Court.

High Court, if costs between party and party are awarded by the High Court, such costs shall be taxed by an officer of the High Court and included in the bill of costs in the prescribed manner.

Taxation of costs in mufassal courts.

23. In any court subordinate to the High Court situate elsewhere than in the City of Bombay, the amount of the pleader's fee to be taxed in the bill of costs shall not be in excess of the amount computed in accordance with the rules in Schedule III:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to bills of costs framed under the provisions of the Indian Companies Act, 1913.

VII of 1913.

Cf. Bom.Reg. II of 1827, s. 56.

Suspension or removal of pleader by High Court on accusation of criminal offence.

24. The High Court may suspend or remove from practice a pleader who has been convicted by any criminal court in British India of a criminal offence implying a defect in his character which in the opinion of the High Court renders him unfit to be a pleader.

Cf. Bom.Reg. II of 1827, s. 56.

Punishment of pleader by High Court for improper conduct.

25. On the application of the Government Pleader in the High Court, or on a report from a District Court or Court of Session, or from the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes of Bombay, or from the Chief Presidency Magistrate for Bombay, or otherwise, the High Court may suspend or remove from practice, or may fine or reprimand, a pleader who has been guilty of neglect of duty or of a violation of any of the provisions of this Act or of any other improper conduct, whether in his professional character or otherwise.

Cf. Bom.Reg. II of 1827, ss. 50 (3) and (4), 51 and 54, and I of 1846, ss. 10-12.

Powers of District Court or Court of Session in respect of improper conduct of pleader.

26. (1) Where it appears to a District Court or Court of Session or to the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes of Bombay, or to the Chief Presidency Magistrate for Bombay, that a pleader has been guilty of neglect of duty or of a violation of any of the provisions of this Act or of any other improper conduct (whether in his professional character or otherwise), with reference to any case coming before such court or before a court subordinate to such court, such court may hold an enquiry into such matter and may take evidence thereof and in rebuttal thereof, in the presence of such pleader.

(2) Where the court holds such matter to be proved it may fine or reprimand such pleader:

Provided that the court, after holding such enquiry, may, if it deems fit, instead of taking any action itself, report the matter to the High Court.

Conduct of case in High Court against pleader.

27. (1) Where any case under section 24, section 25 or section 26 is heard by the High Court, the Advocate General or such counsel or pleader as may appear for the Crown shall argue the case against the pleader against whom the allegation is made, and such pleader may appear in person or by counsel or pleader.

(2) In any such case the High Court may make such order as to costs as it thinks fit.

Cf. Bom. II of 1 s. 56.

Legal proceedings against pleaders not affected.

28. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to preclude any party from taking any legal proceedings in respect of any loss or injury sustained by him in consequence of such pleader's act or omission.

Cf. I of 1 s. 8.

Agreement for fee enforceable by civil suit.

29. An agreement between a pleader and his client respecting the remuneration payable to such pleader for his professional services may be enforced by suit in a civil court of competent jurisdiction and not otherwise.

Cf. Le Patent 10, XVIII 1879, and 27.

Rules.

30. (1) The High Court may make rules consistent with the provisions of this Act—

(a) prescribing the qualifications and mode of admission of pleaders and the fees payable for admission;

(b) prescribing the fees payable in respect of examinations (if any) held for the office of pleader;

(c) regulating, and providing for the recognition of, district bar associations and for granting sanction to the rules of such associations;

(d) requiring that a pleader shall be a member of, and submit to the rules of, the bar association of the district in which he practises;

(e) requiring that a pleader shall be a member of, and subscribe to, the law library in the district in which he practises;

(f) providing for the taxation of costs between party and party and between pleader and client;

(g) prescribing, in lieu of the forms in Schedule II, the form of sanad to be given to pleaders and the form of vakalatnamas;

(h) prescribing, in lieu of or in addition to the rules in Schedule III, the manner in which the pleader's fee shall be computed, and the amount of the pleader's fee, and determining the amount or value of the subject matter in particular classes of cases or in cases generally, for the purpose of calculating the pleader's fee;

(i) prescribing the manner in which costs in appeals or applications to the High Court from decrees or orders of courts subordinate to the High Court shall be taxed, in cases where costs between party and party are awarded by the High Court;

(j) fixing the scale of costs which may be awarded in cases under sub-section (2) of section 27;

(k) generally, to give effect to such provisions of this Act as may require to be provided for by rules.

(2) Where the High Court prescribes any new forms in lieu of the forms in Schedule II, or makes any new rules in lieu of or in addition to the rules in Schedule III, such new forms or rules respectively shall on publication be deemed to be enacted in such Schedule in lieu of or in addition to the forms or rules now therein enacted.

(3) All rules made under this Act shall be published in the Bombay Government Gazette and shall thereupon have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Savings.

31. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to limit or otherwise affect the powers conferred upon the High Court by sections 106 and 107 of the Government of India Act, 1915, or by sections 9 and 10 of the Letters Patent or by any law for the time being in force. 5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61.

Pending cases.

32. Nothing in this Act regarding the appointment, appearance or remuneration of pleaders or the taxation of costs shall apply in respect of any civil suit, appeal, application, reference or proceeding pending in any court at the commencement of this Act, and all such cases, until their final disposal by the court in which they are pending, shall be governed, in respect of the said matters, by the law and rules in force immediately before the commencement of this Act.

Repeal.

33. The enactments mentioned in Schedule I are hereby repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

SCHEDULE I.

(See section 33.)

No. and date of enactment.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
Bombay Regulation II of 1827.	A Regulation for defining the constitution of the Courts of Civil Justice and the Powers and Duties of the Judges and Officers thereof.	So much as has not already been repealed, excepting the part of section 21 which prohibits interference of the civil courts in caste questions.
Act I of 1846 ...	An Act for amending the law regarding the appointment and remuneration of Pleaders in the Courts of the East India Company.	The whole, excepting section 5.
Act XX of 1853 ...	An Act to amend the law relating to Pleaders in the Courts of the East India Company.	Section 2.

SCHEDULE II.

FORM A.

Sanad for a Vakil of the High Court.

(Section 10 of the Amended Letters Patent and section 4 of the Bombay Pleaders Act, 192 .)

IN HIS MAJESTY'S HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE,
APPELLATE SIDE, BOMBAY.

Bombay, 19 .

To

In conformity with the Rules made under the provisions of section 10 of the Letters Patent constituting the High Court of Judicature at Bombay and published under the date and in conformity with the provisions of the Bombay Pleaders Act, 192, you are hereby approved, admitted and enrolled as a Vakil of the said High Court, and you will not be liable to be removed or suspended from practice, except for reasonable cause.

By order of His Majesty's High Court
of Judicature at Bombay,

Seal of the High Court.

Deputy Registrar.

Sealer.

The day of 19 .

N.B.—Reasonable cause will include participation in any disloyal movement.

FORM B.

Sanad for a District Pleader.

(Section 4 of the Bombay Pleaders Act, 192 .)

IN HIS MAJESTY'S HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE,
APPELLATE SIDE, BOMBAY.

Bombay 19 .

To

In conformity with the provisions of the Bombay Pleaders Act, 192 , you are hereby appointed to the office of District Pleader in the district of .

You will not be liable to be removed from your office during your good behaviour while you discharge your duty with zeal and integrity under the rules contained in the Laws which now are or hereafter may be in force.

By order of His Majesty's High Court
of Judicature at Bombay,

Seal of the High Court.

Deputy Registrar.

Sealer.

The day of 19 .

N.B.—It will be considered a breach of the condition of good behaviour if the holder of this sanad takes part in any disloyal movement.

FORM C.

Vakalatnama.

(Section 10 of the Bombay Pleaders Act, 192 .)

(In any case, civil or criminal.)

In the Court of_____ (Here specify nature of the case and names of parties or of complainant or accused or prisoner, as the case may be.)

I_____the aforesaid Plaintiff, or Appellant, etc., or Defendant or Respondent, or Complainant or Accused, etc. (as the case may be) do hereby appoint Mr._____(name of the Pleader) to appear, plead and act for me as Pleader in the abovementioned case.

Dated this_____day of_____19 .

(Signature or mark of the client.)

Accepted.

(Signature of the Pleader.)

SCHEDULE III.

(See section 18.)

Rules for computing the pleader's fee.

I.—(a) In suits which decide on the merits the real dispute between the parties,

(b) in appeals from decrees (including preliminary decrees) other than appeals from execution proceedings, which decide on the merits the real dispute between the parties,

(c) in applications or proceedings under the

(i) Probate and Administration Act, 1881,

(ii) Indian Succession Act, 1865,

(iii) Land Acquisition Act, 1894, the amount of the pleader's fee shall be computed on the amount or value of the subject matter in dispute in the suit, appeal, application or proceeding at the rates specified below:—

If the amount or value of the subject matter in dispute does not exceed Rs. 2,000 at 5 per cent.

If such amount or value exceeds Rs. 2,000 but does not exceed Rs. 5,000, on Rs. 2,000 as above and on the remainder at 3 per cent.

If such amount or value exceeds Rs. 5,000 but does not exceed Rs. 10,000, on Rs. 5,000 as above and on the remainder at 2 per cent.

If such amount or value exceeds Rs. 10,000 but does not exceed Rs. 20,000, on Rs. 10,000 as above and on the remainder at 1 per cent.

If such amount or value exceeds Rs. 20,000, on Rs. 20,000 as above and on the remainder at ½ per cent.

II.—(a) In appeals from orders,

(b) in civil applications or proceedings other than applications and proceedings necessary for the progress of a suit or appeal and other than applications, proceedings or appeals falling under rules I, IV and V, and

(c) in all other cases not otherwise provided for, the amount of the pleader's fee to be allowed shall be one-fourth of that payable according to the rates specified in rule I.

III.—The fee prescribed in rules I and II shall be taken to be the remuneration for the pleader's services until the final decree or order in the suit, appeal, application, reference or proceeding, is passed.

IV.—In execution proceedings the pleader's fee to be allowed shall be one-fourth of the fee calculated at the rates specified in rule I on the amount or value of the relief or money claimed in the application to execute the decree.

V.—(a) In any reference made to the High Court under section 113 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908,

(b) in any application to the High Court under section 115 of the said Code,

(c) in any application to the High Court under section 25 of the Provincial Small Causes Courts Act, 1887,

(d) in any application for the exercise of the High Court's Extraordinary Jurisdiction in civil matters,

(e) in all applications or appeals under

(i) the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890,

(ii) the Succession Certificate Act, 1889,

(iii) the Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841,

(iv) the Indian Trusts Act, 1882,

(v) the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1907,

(vi) any other special or local Act,

a sum of Rs. 30 shall be allowed as the pleader's fee.

VI.—In no case, whether specifically provided for in this Schedule or otherwise shall the pleader's fee payable in any civil suit, appeal, application or proceeding be less than

(a) Rs. 30 in the High Court,

(b) Rs. 15 in the District Court or in the Court of a Subordinate Judge,

(c) Rs. 5 in any Court in suits of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, or in the Court of a Jagirdar or Inamdar exercising jurisdiction under Bombay Regulation XIII of 1830 and Act XV of 1840, or in the Court of a Mamlatdar under the Mamlatdars' Courts Act, 1906.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The law relating to pleaders in the Bombay presidency is at present contained in the unrepealed portions of Bombay Regulation II of 1827, Act I of 1846, and Act XX of 1853; in sections 9 and 10 of the amended Letters Patent of the High Court; and in those portions, namely sections 1, 2, 3, part of section 4, sections 13 (e), 34, 36 and section 40 of Act XVIII of 1879 which are in force in the presidency. It would be convenient if these scattered provisions were consolidated in a single Act. The Honourable the Chief Justice and Judges of the High Court have also brought to the notice of Government the need for amending the existing law in certain particulars so as to bring it into accord with the requirements of the present time. Their recommendations, which were made after ascertaining the views of representative associations of the legal profession and of the District Judges, form the basis of the present bill.

2. The provisions of the present law bearing upon particular clauses of the bill are mentioned in the marginal notes to the bill. Such comments on clauses as appear to be necessary are contained in the following notes:—

Notes on Clauses.

Clause 2 (3).—The definition of the word "pleader" includes also attorneys, who under section 4 of Act XX of 1853 are permitted to practise in any court subordinate to the High Court (XX of 1853, section 4).

Clause 3.—The existing distinction between vakils of the High Court and district pleaders is preserved. The former are appointed under sections 9 and 10 of the Letters Patent and the latter under section 48 of Bombay Regulation II of 1827.

Clause 5.—Sanads are not at present issued for more than one district at a time, and sub-clause (1) of this clause gives legal sanction to the existing practice. Transfers will however be easily effected as the High Court will have power to substitute one district for another in the sanad by a mere endorsement without additional charge.

Clause 7 (c).—This provision is in accordance with the established practice.

Clause 10 (2) (a) and (b).—These provisions are in accordance with the rules now in force.

Clauses 15 and 16.—These provisions are based upon section 13, clauses (a), (c), (d) and (e) of the Legal Practitioners' Act, 1879. As only clause (e) of that section is at present in force in the Bombay presidency, clause 15 and sub-clause (a) of clause 16 of the bill will be new law.

Clause 18 and Schedule III.—The Schedule contains revised rules for computing pleaders' fees. The principle that, in regular suits and appeals which decide on the merits the real dispute between the parties, the pleader's fee shall be a percentage on the amount or value of the subject matter in dispute (Bom. Reg. II of 1827, section 52) has been retained, but as the present rate or percentage was fixed nearly a century ago it has been revised in the bill. The same principle has been extended also to those kinds of application which are specified in head I (c) of the Schedule. Secondly, the principle that quarter fees shall be allowed in "other cases" (I of 1846, section 7) has been preserved in respect of the applications and execution and other proceedings mentioned in heads II and IV of the Schedule. Thirdly, fixed fees are prescribed for the cases specified in head V, and a minimum fee has been laid down in head VI. In addition to revising the scale of fees as above, the bill (clause 30 (i) (h)) gives power to the High Court to revise the Schedule from time to time as occasion may require.

Clause 20.—This provision enables fees for two pleaders to be taxed in certain cases where the engagement of more than one pleader may be necessary: this is prohibited by the law now in force (Bom. Reg. II of 1827, section 53 (2)).

Clause 21.—This is a new clause but is in accordance with the practice and rules at present observed.

Clauses 22 and 23.—The provisions are in accordance with the existing practice.

Clause 24.—This embodies the provision now contained in section 56 of Bombay Regulation II of 1827 which enacts that "a pleader accused of a criminal offence . . . shall be liable to be suspended or dismissed"; but "convicted" has been substituted for accused and "criminal offence" has been limited in the bill by the qualification "implying a defect in his character . . . "; the latter wording is taken from XVIII of 1879, section 12. The words "by any criminal court" are not contained in, but appear to be implied in, section 56 of the regulation cited above.

Clause 25.—By this clause the High Court is invested with the power of suspending, removing, fining or reprimanding a pleader who has been guilty of neglect of duty, contravention of any provision of the bill or improper conduct whether in his professional character or otherwise, which renders him unfit to be a pleader. The provision includes the powers given by section 56 of Bombay Regulation II of 1827 and is within the powers possessed by the High Court in its disciplinary jurisdiction (Government Pleader, Bombay, v. Annaji Narayan, I. L. R. 37 Bom. 354).

Clause 26.—In cases where a pleader appears to have been guilty of any such neglect, contravention or improper conduct as has been referred to under the preceding clause, clause 26 empowers the District Court, the Court of Session, the Chief Judge of the Bombay Small Cause Court and the Chief Presidency Magistrate to enquire into the case and, either to fine or reprimand the pleader, or to report the matter to the High Court. This clause therefore, while somewhat enlarging the scope of the disciplinary powers of the courts mentioned above, withdraws from the subordinate civil and criminal courts (except those mentioned above) the power to inflict fines on pleaders conferred upon them by sections 50 (3) and (4), 51 and 54 of Bombay Regulation II of 1827 and sections 10 to 12 of Act I of 1846, in the cases of misconduct referred to therein. These powers are rarely used and it is considered unnecessary to continue them. In addition to the powers vested in the High Court, clause 26 empowers the District and Sessions Courts to deal with cases occurring in courts subordinate to them.

Clause 27.—This provision has been inserted to ensure that the case against the pleader shall be properly presented to the court.

Clause 30 (1).—By paragraph (d) rules may be made requiring pleaders to be members of a bar association. The utility of bar associations in promoting the organization of local bars cannot be questioned and the development of such associations will be greatly facilitated by making membership compulsory. Paragraph (e), by requiring pleaders to subscribe to the local law library, will provide the support for these necessary institutions that they sometimes fail to receive at present.

(Signed) G. CARMICHAEL.

6th April 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 18th May 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

TUESDAY, 22ND JUNE 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi and Gujarati, and the translations to be published in the " Bombay Government Gazette ". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BILL No. VII of 1920.

(A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898, and the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888.)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898, and the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

IV of 98.
III of 88.

1. This Act may be called the City of Bombay Improvement and Municipal (Amendment) Act, 1920.

Short title.

2. In sub-section (1) of section 32G of the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898, for the words and figures " of 28 years " the words and figures " not exceeding 50 years as may be agreed upon by the Board and the employer " shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 32G of Bom. IV of 1898.

Bom. IV of 1898.

3. After section 195 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, the following sections shall be inserted, namely :—

New sections 195A and 195B of Bom. III of 1888.

Bom. III of 1888.

" 195A. (1) In addition to the town duties referred to in section 192 and Levy of town duty on raw cotton.

notwithstanding the provisions of section 128 a town duty shall be levied on raw cotton imported into the city, by sea or land, from any part of India, at the rate of one rupee for every bale weighing approximately $3\frac{1}{2}$ cwts.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 194A and 195 no such raw cotton intended for immediate exportation shall be exempted from the levy of such duty nor shall such duty be refunded on its export.

Payment of 4/7ths of gross revenue to Government.

195B. On the tenth day of each month the Commissioner shall pay to Government or to an officer designated by Government for this purpose 4/7ths of the gross revenue derived from such duty during the preceding calendar month after deducting the cost of collection of such proportion of such revenue."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In view of the serious shortage of housing accommodation in the City of Bombay and surrounding neighbourhood, it is proposed to appoint a Development Authority which will co-ordinate the work of and assist the local and public authorities in regard to all matters affecting the development of Bombay and the adjoining areas. In order to provide revenue for the scheme it is proposed by clause 3 of this Bill to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, by the insertion of new sections which will empower the Corporation to levy a town duty on raw cotton imported into the City of Bombay. It is intended that the Corporation should retain a fixed proportion of the duty thus levied and should hand over the balance to Government.

The object of the amendment of the City of Bombay Improvement Act made by clause 2 of this Bill is to encourage employers who wish to construct chawls for their work-people to do so by allowing them to repay the sum expended on such construction in 50 instead of in 28 years.

(Signed) G. S. CURTIS.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 21st June 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

SATURDAY, 26TH JUNE 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi and Gujarati, and the translations to be published in the "Bombay Government Gazette". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BILL No. VIII of 1920.

A Bill further to amend the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Bom. I of 1915.

1. This Act may be called the Bombay Town Planning (Amendment) Act, 192 .

Short title.

2. After section 45 of the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915, the following section shall be inserted :—

Bom. I of 1915.

New section 45A.

"45A. When any local authority ceases to exist or ceases to have jurisdiction over any area included in a town planning scheme the property and rights vested in such local authority under this Act shall, subject to all charges and liabilities affecting the same, vest in such other local authority or authorities as the Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette direct and such local authority or each one of such local authorities shall have all the powers under this Act in respect of such scheme or such part of a scheme as comes within its jurisdiction which the local authority ceasing to exist or ceasing to have jurisdiction had."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of the amendment made by this Bill is to enable a local authority or authorities to take over a town planning scheme or part of a town planning scheme initiated by another local authority which has ceased to exist or has ceased to have jurisdiction over any area included in such a scheme.

3rd March 1920. (Signed) G. S. CURTIS.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council of the Bombay, 25th June 1920. Governor of Bombay.

BOMBAY: PRINTD AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

MONDAY, 19TH JULY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi, Gujarati and Kanarese, and the translations to be published in the "Bombay Government Gazette". To be translated also into Sindhi and the translation to be published in the "Sind Official Gazette". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

Bill No. IX of 1920.

A Bill to amend the Bombay Smoke-nuisances Act, 1912.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay Smoke-nuisances Act, 1912, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— Bom. VII of 1912.

1. This Act may be called the Bombay Smoke-nuisances (Amendment) Act, 192 . Short title.

2. Clause (iii) of the proviso to sub-section (1) of section 3 of the Bombay Smoke-nuisances Act, 1912, hereinafter called the said Act, shall be repealed. Amendment of section 3 of Bom. VII of 1912. Bom. VII 1912.

3. In section 11 of the said Act,

(a) in sub-section (1), the words "with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, and",

and

(b) in sub-section (2), clause (g), shall be repealed. Amendment of section 11 of Bom. VII of 1912.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The objects of the Bill [which is based on similar legislation in Bengal (cf. Bengal Act I of 1916)] are explained in the following notes on clauses:—

Clauses 2 and 3 (b).—Under the existing law—proviso (iii) to section 3 (1) of the Act and rule 25 of the rules under the Act—no restriction is placed upon the times for which ocean-going steamers may emit smoke exceeding a certain density during the period of 2 hours prior to leaving port or to moving from one part of the port to another. Experience has shown that this concession is not necessary and that it is possible to regulate by rule the times during which smoke exceeding a certain density may be emitted on such occasions. The rule which it is proposed to issue is as follows:—

> "The furnaces of the main boilers of ocean-going steamers when raising steam prior to leaving port or to moving from one part to another thereof shall be allowed, for half-an-hour before moving and for one hour after moving, twice the times prescribed in the table in rule 23. Tugs while actually towing or assisting in the transportation of ocean-going steamers within the limits of the port shall also be allowed twice the times prescribed in the said table."

Clause 3 (a).—It is considered that the rule making power may be vested in the Local Government.

26th March 1920. (Signed) IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 19th July 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

THURSDAY, 22ND JULY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

(To be translated into Marathi, Gujarati and Kanarese, and the translations to be published in the "Bombay Government Gazette". To be translated also into Sindhi and the translation to be published in the "Sind Official Gazette". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

BILL No. X of 1920.

A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Bom. IV of 1890.

1. This Act may be called the Bombay District Police (Amendment) Act, 192 . Short title.

2. In clause (a) of section 3 of the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, hereinafter called the said Act, after the words "District Superintendent" the words "Additional Superintendent" and after the words "District Superintendent of Police" the words "an Additional Superintendent of Police" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 3 of Bom. IV of 1890. Bom. IV of 1890.

3. In section 6 of the said Act, (a) after the word "Superintendent" the words Amendment of section 6 of Bom. IV of 1890.

"an Additional Superintendent" shall be inserted; and (b) the following paragraph shall be added, namely:—

"An additional Superintendent of Police may, by a general or special order of Government, be empowered to exercise and perform in the district for which he is appointed or in any part thereof, all or any of the powers and duties under this Act of a Superintendent of Police."

4. After clause (s) of section 61 of the said Act, the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

Amendment of section 61 of Bom. IV of 1890.

"(t) smokes or spits in any building belonging to Government or appropriated to public purposes in contravention of a notice affixed to such building by order of the Magistrate of the District;"

Smoking or spitting in public buildings.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Clauses 2 and 3.—Under sections 3 (d) and 6 only one Superintendent of Police can be appointed in each district. The rapid growth of certain mofussil cities necessitates the separate appointment of Superintendents for such areas for the adequate supervision of police administration and the amendments allow of the appointment of Additional Superintendents who may perform the duties of Superintendents in such areas.

Clause 4.—The object of this amendment is to prevent smoking and spitting in public buildings. As the law stands at present there are no means of enforcing an order prohibiting these nuisances.

(Signed) GEORGE CARMICHAEL.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 22nd July 1920.

(To be translated into Marathi and Gujarati and the translations to be published in the "Bombay Government Gazette". To be translated also into Sindhi and the translation to be published in the "Sind Official Gazette". The dates of publication to be reported.)

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay :—

BILL No. XI of 1920.

A Bill further to amend the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions) Act, 1918, and to amend the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions, No. 2) Act, 1918.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions) Act, 1918, and to amend the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions, No. 2) Act, 1918, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Bom. II of 1918.

Bom. VII of 1918.

1. This Act may be called the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions) Amendment Act, 192 .

Short title.

2. After section 10 of the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions) Act, 1918, the following section shall be inserted:—

Bom. II of 1918.

New section 10A of Bom. II of 1918.

"10A. When any order for the recovery of possession of any premises has been made under sub-section (2) of section 9 on the ground that the premises are reasonably and bona fide required by the landlord either for the erection of buildings or for his own occupation or for the occupation of any person for whose benefit the premises are held and the premises are not used for the erection of buildings or occupied by the aforesaid persons within six months of the order or are relet within the same period to any person other than the original tenant, the court by which the Consequences of non-user or non-occupation of premises of which possession has been restored to landlord.

order was made may on the application of the original tenant place him in occupation of the premises on the original terms and conditions and direct payment to him by the landlord of such compensation as the court may think fit."

Amendment of section 16 of Bom. VII of 1918.

3. In section 16 of the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions, No. 2) Act, 1918, Bom. VII of 1918. hereinafter called the said act, for the words "swear or affirm whether the standard rent has or has not been fixed under this act and, if he swears or affirms that the standard rent has been so fixed, unless he produces a copy of an order in that behalf in force whether under any rule made under section 2 of the Defence of India (Criminal Law Amendment) Act, 1915, or under this act." IV of 1915. the following words shall be substituted :—

"produce a copy of an order in force, whether under any rule made under section 2 of the Defence of India (Criminal Law Amendment) IV of 1915. Act, 1915, or under this act, determining that the premises are not small premises or fixing their standard rent."

Amendment of sub-section (1) of section 17 of Bom. VII of 1918.

4. In sub-section (1) of section 17 of the said act for the words "state in the plaint whether the standard rent has or has not been fixed under this act, and if he states that it has been so fixed he shall annex to the plaint a copy of the order in that behalf in force whether under any rule made under section 2 of the Defence of India (Criminal Law Amendment) IV of 191. Act, 1915, or under this act." the following words shall be substituted :—

"annex to the plaint a copy of an order in force, whether under any rule made under section 2 of the Defence of India (Criminal Law IV of 191 Amendment) Act, 1915, or under this act, determining that the premises are not small premises or fixing their standard rent."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of the amendment made by clause 2 of this Bill is to prevent a landlord from recovering possession of any premises on the false plea that the premises are reasonably and bona fide required for the erection of buildings or for his own occupation or the occupation of any person for whose benefit the premises are held.

2. The object of the amendments made by clauses 3 and 4 is to provide that no distress warrant shall be issued in the case of premises of which the monthly rent does not exceed Rs. 30 and that no suit shall be entertained in the case of any premises unless the applicant or the plaintiff, as the case may be, produces an order which will show their standard rent or that they are not small premises.

(Signed) G. S. CURTIS.

3rd April 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 22nd July 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The
Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FRIDAY, 23RD JULY 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following Bill is published under rule 28 (5) of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay :—

Bill No. XII of 1920.

A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Bom. VI of 1879.

1. This Act may be called the Bombay Port Trust (Amendment) Act, 192 .

Short title.

2. In the proviso to section 21 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, hereinafter called the said Act—

Amendment of section 21.

Bom. VI of 1879.

(a) in clause (a) the word " and " shall be repealed; and

(b) after clause (a) the following clause shall be inserted, namely :—

"(aa) persons employed in any building constructed by the Board under the authority contained in section 68 (7A); and"

3. After sub-section (7) of section 68 of the said Act, the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely :—

Amendment of section 68.

"(7A) The construction upon the property vested in the Board and the equipment, maintenance and management of such buildings, including hotels, as may, in the opinion of the Board, add to or improve the facilities of the port."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of these amendments is to empower the Trustees of the Port of Bombay to erect and manage hotels for the convenience of ocean-going travellers, thus increasing the facilities of the Port.

(Signed) G. S. CURTIS.

12th July 1920.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor,

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 23rd July 1920.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

The

Bombay Government Gazette

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

TUESDAY, 24TH AUGUST 1920.

Separate paging is given to this Part in order that it may be filed as a separate compilation.

PART V.

Proceedings of the Council of the Governor of Bombay.

The following papers which were placed on the Council Table at the meeting of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay held on the 2nd August 1920 are published for general information :—

LIST OF BUSINESS TO BE BROUGHT FORWARD AT A MEETING OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY TO BE HELD IN THE COUNCIL HALL, POONA, ON MONDAY, THE 2ND AUGUST 1920, AT 12 NOON.

I.—NEW MEMBERS—

Before taking his seat a newly elected or nominated Additional Member is required to make an oath or affirmation of allegiance to the Crown.

II.—QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS—

(The list of Questions and Answers will be printed and laid on the Council Table.)

III.—PRESENTATION OF THE BUDGET OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY FOR THE YEAR 1920-21 AND DISCUSSION THEREON.

IV.—BILLS—

1. A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898, and the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888 (Bill No. VII of 1920).—First Reading.

2. A Bill to amend the law relating to the duty payable on tobacco and to the import, transport, retail sale and warehousing thereof in the City of Bombay (Bill No. IV of 1919).—Second Reading. (For amendments, see head V below.)

3. A Bill to provide for the constitution of Village Panchayats (Bill No. XI of 1919).—Second Reading. (For amendments, see head V below.)

Notice has been received of the following motion from the Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada :—

"That the consideration of the Village Panchayat Bill be postponed till the meeting of the Reformed Council."

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

4. A Bill to provide for the extension of primary education in the City of Bombay (Bill No. IV of 1920).—First Reading.

5. A Bill to amend the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915 (Bill No. V of 1920).—First Reading.

6. A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to pleaders in the Presidency of Bombay (Bill No. VI of 1920).—First Reading.

7. A Bill further to amend the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915 (Bill No. VIII of 1920).—First Reading.

8. A Bill to amend the Bombay Smoke-nuisances Act, 1912 (Bill No. IX of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings.

9. A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890 (Bill No. X of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings.

10. A Bill further to amend the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions) Act, 1918, and to amend the Bombay Rent (War Restrictions, No. 2) Act, 1918 (Bill No. XI of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings.

11. A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879 (Bill No. XII of 1920).—First, Second and Third Readings. (For amendments, see head V below.)

V.—AMENDMENTS TO BILLS—

Notice has been received of the following :—

1. Bill No. IV of 1919 (A Bill to amend the law relating to the duty payable on tobacco and to the import, transport, retail sale and warehousing thereof in the City of Bombay) as amended by the Select Committee.

From the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

1. Clause 3.—In lines 5, 6 and 7, omit the words "the rate of seven rupees and eight annas a maund" and substitute the following for them, viz., "at such rate not exceeding 10 per cent. ad valorem as may be fixed by the Governor in Council from time to time."

2. Clause 3.—In lines 12, 13 and 14, restore the words "and any rate so fixed shall be notified in the Bombay Government Gazette."

3. Clause 18 (b).—In the last line, omit the words "arrest him" and substitute for them the following, viz., "seize it and take proceedings against him."

4. Clause 21.—Omit.

2. Bill No. XI of 1919 (a Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats) as amended by the Select Committee.

Clause 1.—

(1) From the Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.

To sub-clause 2 the following words shall be added, namely :—

"but not to any village therein in which one-half or more of the land is held on Talukdari, Inami or Khoti tenure."

(2) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

At the end of sub-clause 2, substitute a comma for the full stop and add the following :—

"but it does not apply to alienated villages or to villages held on Talukdari or Khoti tenures."

Clause 2 (a).—

(3) From the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

After the word "area" in line two add "with a population exceeding one thousand which is not constituted a municipal or notified area and any local area with a population of less than one thousand which may be".

Clause 5.—

(4) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Substitute the following for the present clause :—

"The Panchayat shall be wholly elected."

(5) From the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

Omit paragraphs 1 and 2 and the words "save as aforesaid" at the beginning of paragraph 3.

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

(6) From the Honourable Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.

Between the first and second paragraphs the following proviso shall be inserted, namely :—

"provided that in any village in which one-half or more of the land is held on Talukdari, Inami or Khoti tenure, the senior Talukdar, senior Inamdar, or the Managing Khot, as the case may be, or a person resident in any such village and nominated for the purpose by any such Talukdar, Inamdar or Khot as his deputy shall be ex-officio a member of the panchayat in place of the patel."

Clause 6.—

(7) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Omit sub-clause (a) and re-letter the other sub-clauses.

(8) From the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

Omit sub-clause (a).

(9) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

(1) Drop the 5th line "(a) is a female or "

and substitute for the letters (b), (c) and (d) at the commencement of subsequent sub-clauses, (a), (b) and (c) respectively.

(2) Drop sub-clause (e) and substitute for the letters (f), (g) and (h) at the commencement of subsequent sub-clauses, letters (d), (e) and (f) respectively.

Clause 7.—

(10) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

From line 6, delete the word "male".

(11) From the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

Omit the word "male" in line 6.

(12) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Insert the following words after the word "residents" in the clause :—

"and by every adult female resident who either holds immovable property in her own right or has passed the vernacular fourth standard."

Clause 12 (1).—

(13) From the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

After the words "one of themselves" insert the words "excepting the ex-officio member."

Clause 15.—

(14) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Omit the following words in lines 11 and 12 :—

"unless he be an ex-officio member of the panchayat".

Clause 18 (1) (c).—

(15) From the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

In the third line omit the words "and bridges"; also in line 7, omit the words "or bridge".

Make the consequential change by inserting "and" after the word "roads" in line 2.

Clause 18 (1) (f).—

(16) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

In sub-clause (1) (f) add before the words "grazing lands" the word "village".

Clause 20.—

(17) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

In sub-clause (d), omit the word "administrative" occurring before the word "duties" and add the words "and functions" after the word "duties".

Clause 21.—

(18) From the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.

In sub-clause (1), the following words shall be deleted :—

(a) "the Governor in Council or"
(b) "Government or"
(c) "respectively".

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Clause 23.—

(19) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

In line 10 add the words "a written" before the word "order".

Clause 25 (h).—

(20) From the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

Add the following at the commencement of the sub-clause:

"one anna in the rupee of the land revenue of the Panchayat village, and".

(21) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

(a) Add the following as sub-clause (i):—

"(i) The proceeds of such incomes as may be assigned to the village fund by any general or special order of the Governor in Council."

(b) Add the following as sub-clause (j):—

"(j) the incomes of any property vesting in the panchayat under clause 21".

Clause 26.—

(22) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Add the following words at the end of the clause:—

"unless the Governor in Council directs otherwise."

(23) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

(1) Between the figure "26" and the word "In" add the figure "(1)".

(2) After clause 26, sub-clause (1) add the following:—

"(2) In alienated villages or villages held on Talukdari or Khoti tenures in which the holder of the village owns the houses, the house-tax shall be leviable from the occupiers thereof and not the owners."

Clause 27.—

(24) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

(1) After the word "village" in the 8th line add the following:—

"But in alienated villages or villages held on Talukdari or Khoti tenures in which the holder of the village himself owns houses and lands of the village as landlord, the tax on houses or lands shall be leviable from the occupiers of the same."

(2) The second sub-clause be deleted.

Clause 34.—

(25) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

At the end of sub-clause (1) add the following:—

"But the District Local Boards shall not direct the panchayats to pay any sum larger than is available to the panchayats at the time of the order either as cash or deposit in the treasury in which the funds of the panchayats are lodged or both taken together."

Clause 36 (1).—

(26) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

Insert the following between the words "Government Gazette" and "supersede" in line 10, viz.—

"in the first instance dissolve the panchayat and order a re-election thereof, and if the panchayat so re-elected is found equally remiss or refractory may".

Clause 36 (2).—

(27) From the Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai, LL.B.

(a) Insert the words "dissolved or" before the word "superseded" in sub-clause 2 of the clause.

(b) Insert the words "dissolution or" before the word "supersession" in line 21 of sub-clause 2 (b) of the clause.

Clause 40.—

(28) From the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

In line 7 substitute for the words "a third class" the word "any".

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Clause 44.—

(29) From the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, Kt., C.I.E.

The proviso shall be deleted.

3. Bill No. XII of 1920 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879).

From the Honourable Mr. G. S. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S.

1. For clause 2 substitute the following:—

2. In the proviso to section 21 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, hereinafter called the said Act, after the word "labourers" where it occurs for the second time, the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"and any persons employed in any capacity in any hotel constructed by the Board under the authority contained in section 68 (7*A*)".

VI.—DISCUSSION OF MATTERS OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST—

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.

1. "This Council recommends that Government be pleased to open a new Medical College at Poona in June 1921."

2. "This Council recommends that the new revenue settlement of the Erandol Táluka as recommended by the settlement officer be not sanctioned."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, LL.B.

3. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to take such steps, legislative or otherwise, as will prevent the slaughter of agricultural and milch cattle beyond a prescribed minimum in the Presidency of Bombay including the Province of Sind."

4. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to direct that at least 15 per cent. of the scholarships available in each Government educational institution be reserved for pupils from the untouchable classes in the Bombay Presidency."

5. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to be pleased to direct that at least 5 per cent. of posts carrying a monthly salary of not more than Rs. 400 in each department of civil administration in the Presidency of Bombay including Sind be reserved for qualified candidates from the untouchable classes."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh, LL.B.

6. "This Council recommends that the Governor in Council be pleased to remit the collection from the Bania and Patidar inhabitants of Nadiad of the cost of the additional Police stationed at Nadiad between August 1919 and February 1920, and the damages sustained by the B. B. & C. I. Railway by the removal of the rails and the cutting of the telegraph wires on the night of the 11th of April 1919."

Resolutions by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur K. R. Godbole.

7. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that legislation should be adopted in this Presidency towards checking the excessive subdivision of agricultural lands that is taking place."

8. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that in granting concessions for new Hydro-electric Schemes in this Presidency in future, involving the acquisition by Government of 1,000 acres and above of agricultural lands, the following conditions should be made:—

(a) that all excess profits after paying 10 per cent. dividends to shareholders, should be divided between the Company using the concession and Government, half and half.

(b) that one-fourth of the power generated should be reserved for the production of nitrate fertilisers from the atmosphere or driving agricultural machinery, if such use of the power is financially practicable according to expert advice received by Government."

9. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that when land has to be acquired for commercial companies in future for cultivation purposes, it should, as far as practicable, be leased from landholders and not acquired outright."

LIST OF BUSINESS.

2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., LL.B.

10. "That this Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council, that a department be created, whose duty will be to see to the maintenance, renewal and repairs of old and construction of new roads and communications, in both urban and rural areas of the Presidency including Sind, the expenditure of such works to be met from the resources of authorities respectively responsible for the same."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, O.B.E.

11. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to suggest to the Government of India that in the next Census returns in the Table known as 'Occupation or Means of living (unproductive)' beggars be shown separately and not be included as at present under the heading 'Beggars, prostitutes, receivers of stolen goods, cattle poisoners'."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. C. V. Mehta, LL.B.

12. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the transfer of the Bombay Improvement Trust to the Bombay Municipal Corporation be completed without delay."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.

13. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to take steps to prohibit the slaughter of young and useful milch and agricultural cattle in the Presidency with a view to save a useful economic and agricultural asset of the Presidency."

14. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council to move the Government of India to take necessary steps for the prohibition of the export of useful milch and agricultural cattle."

Resolution by the Honourable Mr. Phiroze C. Sethna, O.B.E.

15. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council the desirability (a) of amending Bombay Act II of 1918 and Bombay Act VII of 1918 in the light of the experience gained by the working of the said Acts so far, or (b) of appointing a Committee to recommend to Government what amendments should be made in these Acts."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani.

16. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that appointments to Mamlatdars' posts be made by direct recruitment from graduates and not from members of the subordinate revenue service."

17. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the appointments of Mamlatdars and their promotions be made by Government and not by the Commissioners."

18. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the fees at present charged to law class students be reduced by one-half."

19. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that Government be pleased to share two-thirds of the expenditure incurred by Municipalities on education."

Resolutions by the Honourable Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.

20. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed to consider the question of the revision of pre-war pensions of the retired members of the provincial and subordinate services."

21. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the pay of vernacular teachers be revised on the lines adopted by Government for the revision of pay of the clerical establishments in other departments."

22. "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed to consider the question of readjusting the existing division of Khandesh for revenue and judicial purposes."

Resolutions by the Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.

23. "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that in the interest of temperance reform, Government may be pleased (a) to try as an experimental measure

LIST OF BUSINESS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

in a suitable area, preferably in Bombay City, a system of State management for the sale of country liquor, (b) to constitute a Board of Liquor Control composed of officials and non-officials in the selected area, (c) to control the sale price of liquor, and (d) to improve the internal arrangements in public houses by providing on the premises counter-attractions such as non-alcoholic refreshments."

24. "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that Government may be pleased to direct—

(a) that all pupils belonging to the Depressed Classes studying in Local Board Primary Schools up to the vernacular fourth standard be supplied free with school books, slates and pencils, and

(b) that all pupils belonging to the Depressed Classes studying in Secondary schools or colleges, whether Government or Aided, be exempted from fees."

25. "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that Government may be pleased to take steps, (a) to provide for the benefit of Primary School Teachers a Provident Fund, (b) to fix a scale of contributions thereto, and (c) to allow the teachers an option, either to avail themselves of the Provident Fund or the existing pension system."

26. "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that Government may be pleased to direct that the boys of Primary School Teachers studying in Municipal or Local Board Primary Schools, so also boys and girls of these teachers studying in Secondary Schools and Colleges, whether Government or Aided, be exempted from the payment of fees."

27. "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that Government may be pleased to direct that all country liquor shops be closed on Sundays."

VII.—PAPERS PRESENTED TO THE COUNCIL—

1. Letters from the Government of India, Legislative Department, Nos. 1573 and 1586, dated 10th, 1591, dated 11th, 1619 and 1621, dated 12th, 1643 and 1667, dated 13th May 1920—Returning with the assent of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General signified thereon the authentic copies of the following Acts:—

1. The Bombay Land Revenue Code (Amendment) Law, 1920.
2. The Bombay District Municipal (Amendment) Law, 1920.
3. The Bombay Cotton Contracts Control (War Provisions) Amendment Law 1920.
4. The Bombay Disqualification of Aliens (Amendment) Law, 1920.
5. The Bombay Municipal (Amendment) Law, 1920.
6. The Bombay Public Conveyances Law, 1920.
7. The City of Bombay Police (Amendment) Law, 1920.

2. Petition dated 16th May 1920, from Mr. Bapoojee C. Mody, Inamdar of Ralej, district Kaira, in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats).

3. Memorial, dated 26th June 1920, from Chudasama Takhatsangji Narsangji and 18 other Talukdars of Moze Tagdi, taluka Dhandhuka, district Ahmedabad, in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats).

4. Memorial dated 22nd July 1920 from the Honorary Secretaries, Belgaum Bar Association, in connection with Bill No. VI of 1920 (A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to pleaders in the Presidency of Bombay).

5. Memorandum No. 5824 dated 27th July 1920 from the Political Department forwarding a copy of the correspondence between the Government of India and the Secretary of State in connection with the Resolutions passed by the Bombay Legislative Council on the subject of the Royal Proclamation of the 23rd December 1919.

6. Letter dated 20th July 1920 from the Honorary Secretary, Pleaders Association of Western India, in connection with Bill No. VI of 1920 (A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to pleaders in the presidency of Bombay).

Note.—The following petition in connection with Bill No. XI of 1919 (A Bill to provide for the constitution of village panchayats) as amended by the Select Committee was not considered of sufficient importance to print, but the original has been placed upon the Council Table and is available to the Honourable Members :—

Letter from Sardar J. V. Pathakji, Inamdar of Mota Varacha, district Surat, dated 14th May 1920.

G. DAVIS,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay, 31st July 1920.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL, 2nd August 1920.

LIST OF QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

THE HONOURABLE MR. D. V. BELVI.

Questions.

Answers.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the considerations which have weighed with them in allowing previous services to count towards the rates of pay under the incremental system of salaries in the clerical establishment in the Forest and Police Departments while disallowing the same concession to the Sanitary Department?

Sanitary Department: Salaries.

1. (a) The question of extending to the Sanitary Department the concession referred to by the Honourable Member is at present under the consideration of Government.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the names of all the Departments to which the concession is extended and to which it is denied at present?

(b) The concession has also been allowed in the case of the clerks of the Medical Department, it has not been extended to other Departments.

(c) Will Government be pleased to place on the table copies of Government Resolutions or Orders on the point in force at present in the case of each Department?

(c) Government regret that they are unable to comply with the request of the Honourable Member.

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when an ad interim reply was given.]

2. (a) Will Government be pleased to state in the case of each District in the Presidency of Bombay except the Province of Sind the names of the villages in which "Jagir-lands not under the General Regulations" within the meaning of section 6 of Bombay Act No. III of 1869 are exempted from the payment of local cess of one anna on every rupee of Land Revenue or Sayar Revenue?

Jagir lands: exemptions from local cess.

(b) What will be the total amount of money leviable each year in the absence of such exemption?

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when an ad interim reply was given.]

2.

District and Taluka.	Village.	Amount of cess leviable in absence of exemption.
		Rs. a. p.
Surat—
Chorasi ...	Athwa	9 15 0
	Katargam
Poona—
Purandhar ...	Not included in any village but classed as "Extra Territorial."	403 14 6
Haveli ...		15 15 6
Sholapur—
Karmala ...	Chikalthan	2 4 0
Satara—
Karad ...	Shiravde	16 13 3
Koregaon ...	Kinhai	122 11 4
Belgaum—
Athni ...	Ganeshwadi	53 8 0
	Dukarwadi	3 8 6
	Honkal	3 3 3
	Kawale	1 12 0
	Malwad	5 6 6
	Mudewadi	0 15 0
	Nagurde	1 1 0
Khanapur ...	Asoge	3 5 0

3. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if there are any scholarships or free studentships exclusively reserved for pupils from 'the untouchable classes' in Government secondary schools or Government colleges in the Bombay

Government Educational institutions: Scholarships for "untouchables".

3. (a) and (b) Four scholarships are reserved for students of the depressed classes which include 'untouchables', born or domiciled in the Bombay Presidency, including the Province of Sind, in the Colleges of Medicine, Engineering and Commerce affiliated to the Bombay University (vide Government Notifica-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
Presidency including the Province of Sind; (b) If so, how many and in which institutions?	tion, Educational Department, No. 149 of 13th January 1920). These colleges are all Government institutions. Also one Middle School scholarship is reserved for boys of the depressed classes in each district of the Presidency proper: these scholarships are not restricted to Government secondary schools. There are no scholarships or free studentships reserved for 'untouchables' only.
4. What is the total number of pupils from "the untouchable classes" at present studying in the Presidency in Government and aided (a) secondary schools, (b) professional colleges, (c) arts colleges, (d) medical schools, arts schools and technical and industrial schools? Government educational institutions: attendance of "untouchables".	4. The accompanying statement* gives the information required by the Honourable Member. * Vide Appendix A.
5. (a) Is it a fact that both the Civil and the Criminal Circular Orders of the High Court of Bombay have been out of print for some years? Criminal and Civil High Court Circulars, Bombay.	5. (a) The sale of copies of the Manual of the High Court Civil Circulars was stopped on the 12th November 1915 owing to shortness of stock. The printing of a fresh edition was postponed for the sake of economy during the war. The Manual of the High Court Criminal Circulars is still on sale to the public.
(b) If so, when may the public expect to have a new and revised edition of them?	(b) It is proposed to reprint a revised edition of the Manual of the High Court Civil Circulars during the current year.
6. Will Government be pleased to state— (a) the total number of students of the Bombay Veterinary College who volunteered to go on military duty and who went overseas during the last great war and who have since entered the Civil Veterinary Department; Bombay Veterinary College Students and War service.	6. (a) The total number of students who volunteered and went on military duty as veterinary dressers was 12. Of these, two joined the Civil Veterinary Department.
(b) the total number of such students as were specially rewarded for their services in war?	(b) No student was specially rewarded.
7. (a) Is it a fact that the Commissioner, Southern Division, has recently issued a circular to the Collectors in the Division, about an admixture of castes among candiates for Mamlat? Appointment to Mamlat: Southern Division.	7. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the circular on the Council table?	(b) A copy† is laid on the table. † Vide Appendix B.
(c) Is it true that a copy of the said circular has been sent to Rao Bahadur R. C. Artal, a retired Deputy Collector, with a request to recommend Lingayat candidates for Mamlat?	(c) A copy was sent to Rao Bahadur R. C. Artal as the principal member of the Lingayat Association residing in Belgaum in accordance with Government Resolution, General Department, No. 625 of 23rd January 1914, a copy‡ of which is laid on the table. ‡ Vide Appendix C.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

(d) Have any appointments of Mamlatdars been made recently by the Commissoner, Southern Division, in the Belgaum District in accordance with the principle of the aforesaid circular superseding the claims of several duly qualified and competent senior candidates for Mamlat?

(e) Was the circular issued by the Commissioner, Southern Division, with the approval of Government?

8. (a) Will Government be pleased to state what amounts of Wharfage fees, at one anna per passenger, have been realised till now at each of the ports touched by the Killick Nixon Company's Steamers sailing from Bombay to Mangalore?

Wharfage fees and convenience of passengers, Bombay—Mangalore.

(b) Are there any schemes under the consideration of Government for the convenience of passengers?

(c) If so, when are they likely to be materialised?

9. (a) Will Government be pleased to place on the table a statement in a tabular form, giving the cultivated area, the anna valuation of crops, the amount of remission and suspension of revenue, the total amount of annual assessment, the number of cattle, and the general agricultural condition of the Haliyal Taluka of the Kanara Collectorate, for each year from 1916 to date?

Taluka Haliyal, district Kanara.

10. Is there any reserved forest consisting of Casurina trees in the Karwar town?

Reserved forest, Karwar town.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

Answers.

(d) Appointments of Mamlatdars are made by selection in consideration of merit, seniority and public expediency, and acting appointments have been made in pursuance of the policy underlying this circular.

(e) Government approve of the circular.

8. (a) Statement A* showing separately the collections from passengers by (i) steamers of the Bombay Steam Navigation Company and of the Indian Co-operative Navigation and Trading Company and (ii) country craft in respect of each port between Bombay and Bhatkal including the ports across the Bombay harbour for the years 1917-18 and 1918-19 is appended. Separate figures of collections for each port for 1919-20 are not available at present, but the total realisations from April 1919 to February 1920 amounted to Rs. 76,228.

* Vide Appendix D.

(b) and (c) In addition to the works carried out in 1918-19 (Statement B†) and those for the year 1919-20 (Statement C†), it is proposed to connect the more important coastal ports with the telegraph system, but the requirements of the army on the Frontier and other more urgent construction have prevented the Telegraph Department from taking the work up at present.

Plans and estimates of a landing place at Dabhol are ready and those for one at Jaigad Bandar under preparation.

The invested balance of the fund is not yet enough for any large works to be taken in hand.

† Vide Appendices E and F.

9. (a) A statement‡ giving the information asked for is appended.

‡ Vide Appendix G.

10. Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

11. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if their attention has been drawn to a letter from Moulvi Abdul Khalik, Secretary, Khilafat Committee, Jacobabad, published in the issue of the "Bharatvasi" newspaper dated the 15th May 1920?

A letter in the "Bharatvasi" newspaper dated the 15th May 1920.

(b) If so, has any enquiry been instituted into the allegations made in the letter?

(c) Are the allegations made true?

(d) If not, what are the real facts of the case?

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Answers.

11. (a) The attention of Government was drawn to a similar letter published in the "Al Wahid" newspaper dated the 13th May.

(b) Yes.

(c) and (d) Rasul Bakhsh Wagho had created a disturbance in connection with the construction of a sluice and had threatened the Public Works Department officials with violence if they carried on the work. The Executive Engineer asked for assistance. Rasul Bakhsh was called upon to give security under section 20 of the Sind Frontier Regulations of 1892. Immediately sureties came forward he was released from custody.

Khuda Bakhsh is a petition writer and has long been known as a man of bad character. Action was taken against him under Chapter VIII of the Criminal Procedure Code. An order for taking security was passed on the evidence of bad character. Mahomed Hayat Khan Rind, a small land holder but not, as stated in the letter, a Sardar, was summoned to see the District Magistrate in view of his statement that he wished to sever connection with Government. He told the Deputy Commissioner in an insolent manner that he intended to have nothing more to do with the British Government. The Deputy Commissioner ordered him to leave the room. As he did not do so the Deputy Commissioner took up a hunting crop and gave Mahomed Hayat two or three light cuts to make him leave the room. The District Superintendent of Police was present at the time. It is entirely untrue that Mahomed Hayat Khan was assaulted by the peons or that any police were sent after him. Government have informed the Deputy Commissioner of their disapproval of his action in striking Mahomed Hayat Khan Rind. Government do not propose to take any further action in the matter.

12. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) if their attention has been drawn to a letter over the signature of Mr. Jagannath Vishveshvar Karve under the heading "War Bonds and Government Servants" published on page 7 of the "Kesari" in its issue of the 8th June 1920?

A letter in the "Kesari" dated 8th June 1920.

12. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.

(b) if so, are the allegations made in the letter true?

(c) if not, what are the real facts of the case?

13. Will Government be pleased (a) (i) to state if their attention has been drawn to a letter from Mr. R. M. Sane of Barsi under the heading "Government Servants and Ryots' money" published on page 2 of the "Kesari" newspaper in its issue of the 15th June 1920?

A letter in the "Kesari" dated 15th June 1920.

(ii) if so, are the allegations made in the letter correct?

(iii) if not, what are the real facts of the case?

(b) to lay on the Council table copies of the orders issued by Mr. Simcox to the mamlatdars in the Sholapur district about the collection of funds for the erection of dharmashalas at Pandharpur?

(c) (i) to state what is the total amount collected and what is the exact amount of money now lying in the office of

Answers.

(b) Not entirely.

(c) Mr. Jaggannath Vishvehvar Karve purchased two war bonds as stated and alleged that he could not meet his land revenue dues. He asked that his 50 Rs. bond should be accepted in lieu of the payment of Rs. 56 still outstanding. He finally sold two bullocks and paid his dues as his request was refused. Mr. Karve is a man of substance who does not cultivate himself and possessed inter alia Rs. 77-8-0 in Cash Certificates which he could have cashed at any time at the nearest Post Office.

13. (a) (i) Yes.

(a) (ii) and (iii). The facts of the case are that Mr. Simcox, then Collector of Sholapur, framed a scheme to build serais for pilgrims at Pandharpur at an estimated cost of about Rs. 20 lakhs, to which Government accorded their general administrative approval in December 1919. At the same time Government directed that no advertisement should be issued by the Collector or by any Government official in the matter, and that the money required should be raised by a Committee of non-official gentlemen, though Government had no objection to the Collector using his personal influence both in forming such a Committee from amongst the worshippers of Vithoba, and in persuading others to contribute to it. Government further directed that there should be no mention of the Collector in any advertisement issued by the Committee. Owing to a misunderstanding Mr. Simcox issued, in anticipation of these orders, an advertisement in the vernaculars under his own signature in response to which some promises were received and some money was collected. The action taken by Mr. Simcox was, however, rectified when the orders referred to above were issued by Government.

(b), (c) The information required is being obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
each mamlatdar in the Sholapur district? (ii) if receipts have been regularly and officially passed to subscribers to the fund? (iii) if duplicate copies of the receipts are available at present? (iv) what is intended to be done with the money? (v) if any interest is running on the money now lying in Government Treasuries?
14. (a) When is the Training School for primary teachers likely to be established at Belgaum? Primary teachers' training school.	14. (a) The date has not yet been decided.
(b) What is the comparative percentage of trained teachers in Marathi and Kanarese schools in the Belgaum District with reference to the total number of pupils taught in the two languages? (c) Is it a fact that some of the teachers in the Marathi primary schools in the Belgaum District were refused admission into the Training Colleges in the Central Division during the last two years for want of room? (d) If so, is it intended to open a combined training school for both Marathi and Kanarese teachers at Belgaum?	(b) to (d) Inquiries are being made.
15. Will Government be pleased to state (a) the total number of slaughter houses in the Presidency of Bombay including the Province of Sind? Cattle in Bombay Presidency.	15. (a), (b) The information is being obtained.
(b) the total number of cattle slaughtered in them during each of the last five years? (c) the total number of farms now maintained out of public funds for breeding cattle?	(c) and (d) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the annual reports of the Department of Agricultural and the Civil Veterinary Department which contain the information required.
(d) the special privileges and concessions, if any, given by Government to private owners of cattle for promoting cattle breeding during each of the last five years?
16. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if many Shanbhogs in the Kanara District have applied to them for enhancing their salaries? Shanbhogs, district Kanara.	16. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, have any orders been passed by Government in the matter?	(b) The question of revision of pay of the talatis, including the Shanbhogs, is under the consideration of Government.
17. Will Government be pleased to state (a) if their attention has been drawn to a complaint over the signature of "A poor teacher" A complaint in the "Kanara Leader" dated 8th June 1920.	17. (a), (b), (c) and (d) Government have seen the article referred to but not the resolutions. Enquiries as regards both matters are being made of the Director of Public Instruction.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
published on page 6 of the issue of "the Kanara Leader" newspaper dated the 8th June 1920? (b) if so, are the allegations made true? (c) if not, what are the real facts of the case? (d) if Government have received a copy of the resolutions passed in the District Conference of Primary School Masters of the Kanara District on the 26th, 27th and 28th April 1920?
18. Will Government be pleased to state— (a) the probable date on which a Subordinate Judge's Court at Hukeri may be expected to be opened? (b) whether Government intend to expedite the establishment of the said Civil Court? (c) whether the attention of Government has been drawn to the leading article in "the Belgaum Samachar" in its issue of the 14th June 1920 detailing the inconvenience to which suitors and witnesses are put in the rains owing to the dilatoriness in opening the said Court? Subordinate Judge's Court, Hukeri.	18. (a), (b) and (c). The creation of the new Court has already been notified (vide Government Notification, Judicial Department, No. 7016, dated the 28th July 1920), and the Court will commence working as soon as the necessary postings can be made.
19. (a) Is it a fact that a leaflet persuading voters to vote in favour of candidates holding particular political opinions at the ensuing elections under the Government of India Act, 1919, has been issued through the Mamlatdars in the Kolaba and other Districts in this Presidency? (b) Where was the leaflet printed and published? (c) Was the leaflet issued under the orders of the Government? An election leaflet.	19. (a), (b) and (c) No.
20. Has Government issued any instructions to its subordinates in all Departments not to meddle in any way in the ensuing Council elections but to maintain an absolutely neutral attitude? Government servants and the elections.	20. Under standing orders Government servants are forbidden to interfere or use their influence in any way in an election to a legislative council.
21. (a) Is it a fact that Vernacular Schoolmasters in the Southern Division have recently been prohibited by the Educational Department from subscribing to a Magazine in Kanarese called "Prathamik Shikshaka"? (b) If so, what are the grounds of such prohibition? A Kanarese Magazine.	21. Enquiries are being made.
22. Will Government be graciously pleased to furnish information on the following points with reference to the electoral rolls for the ensuing Council The Electorate of the Bombay Provincial Council.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
elections in the case of each District of the Northern, Central and Southern Divisions of the Bombay Presidency :—
(a) The total number of voters for the Bombay Provincial Council and for the Indian Legislative Assembly, respectively;	22. (a) Information will be available after the final publication of the rolls in October.
(b) The percentage of Brahmin voters to non-Brahmin voters in the case of the Provincial Council and also in the case of the Indian Legislative Assembly;	(b) Castes are not shown in the Electoral rolls and the information cannot be given.
(c) The total number of Mahomedan voters for the Bombay Provincial Council and the Indian Legislative Assembly?	(c) See answer to (a).
23. (a) Are there any scholarships or prizes reserved for pupils belonging to the untouchable classes in any educational institutions maintained out of public funds in the Bombay Presidency? Scholarships or prizes for untouchables.	23. (a), (b) and (c) Enquiries are being made.
(b) If so, what is the total number of such scholarships and prizes and in which educational institutions are they available?
(c) What is the total amount of money spent annually out of the public exchequer on scholarships and prizes in educational institutions in the Presidency including Sind?
24. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the serious allegations concerning persecution of Khilafat workers made against the administration in Sind under the heading "Striking on the stomach" published in the issue of "Young India" dated 23rd June 1920? Khilafat workers in Sind.	24. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, are the allegations true?	(b) and (c) The pension of Mr. Ghulam Nabi has been suspended. Moulvi Abdul Ghafur was called on by the Deputy Commissioner to explain his conduct in organising and taking part in a conference at which violent and inflammatory speeches were made. After due consideration it was held that his explanation was not satisfactory, and his pension was cancelled on the ground of serious misconduct. Jan Mahomed Junejo at a public meeting on 3rd May 1920, took an oath before the meeting that he would not pay a single pie of his land assessment in future. In consequence of this, it was thought necessary to take certain precautionary measures. Jan Mahomed, however, paid up all the amount of land revenue due by him immediately it was demanded and it was not necessary to take further action on this account. The ordinary water supply is being received by his land.
(c) If not, what are the real facts of each of the cases specifically referred to therein?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(d) Has any inquiry been instituted into the allegations?	(d) and (e) Mr. Ghulam Nabi was given an opportunity of explaining his conduct. His explanation that he was over-persuaded into presiding at the meeting and that he was not in sympathy or agreement with the violent tone of the speeches delivered thereat was not regarded as satisfactory and his pension was suspended.
(e) If so, what is the result of the inquiry?
(f) Was the alleged notification issued by Mr. P. R. Cadell, Commissioner of Sind, issued by him with the sanction of Government?	(f) The orders were passed by Government.
25. (a) Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that Rs. 200 contributed by the villagers of Temmenahalli in Ranebennur Taluka as their contribution to the Local Board for building a well in their village has been invested in the Byadgi housing association by the Mamlatdar of the Taluka and the Byadgi housing association is now refusing to return the money to either the Local Board or the villagers on the score that one of the bonds is in the personal name of the then Mamlatdar who is now transferred elsewhere and that they require his permission to pay back the money? Well at Timmenahalli, Ranebennur, Dharwar.	25. (a) and (b) Enquiry is being made.
(b) Will Government be pleased to state why the Mamlatdar has purchased the bonds in his own name?
26. Will Government be pleased to state—	26. (a) and (b) It is presumed that the Honourable Member means Karwar. The information will be obtained.
(a) the average annual revenue per acre of the Casurina plantations in Kanara, basing the average on the period necessary for the full growth of the trees? Casurina plantations, Kanara.
(b) what is the land revenue per acre of garden land situated adjacent to or in the vicinity of the Casurina plantation?
27. Will Government be pleased to state—	27. (a) The Honourable Member is referred to the Forest Administration Report.
(a) The average annual yield per acre of forest land? Yield of Forest Land.
(b) Whether Government is charging the usual occupancy price on assessed fallow lands which have been afforested by the Forest Department, and whether the Forest Department is charged the usual annual assessment with regard to such lands?	(b) No.
(c) Whether the Forest Department charges the Revenue Department in respect of any supplies of Forest produce which it makes to that Department?	(c) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
28. Will Government be pleased to state what is the total of the pound-fees levied in the Kanara District from owners of cattle in the years 1917-18 and 1918-19 for infringing the grazing rules, and what is the total compensation levied by the Forest Department in respect of Forest offences in each of those two years? (Forest fines and compensation.)	28. Information regarding the amount of pound-fees collected during the two years will be called for, but the numbers of cattle impounded are available and are given below:— 1917-18 ... ... 4,164 1918-19 ... ... 3,793 The amount of compensation recovered in forest offences in Kanara was Rs. 9,749 in 1917-18 and Rs. 4,998 in 1918-19.
29. Will Government be pleased to state— (Promotion of school-mistresses.) (a) The total number of school-mistresses who obtained a Second Year's Certificate in the Training College for Women at Dharwar before the year 1913 and who are still in service in the Educational Department; (b) the curricula of studies for the said certificate before the year 1913 and the Third Year's Certificate after the year 1913; (c) if it is true that many of the school-mistresses trained before 1913 were teachers of those that obtained their Third Year's Certificate after 1913; (d) if so, is it true that the present salaries and prospects of promotion of those mistresses that obtained a Third Year's Certificate after the year 1913 are much better than those of their former mistresses that taught them; (e) if so, what are the grounds for such differential treatment?	29. (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) Enquiries are being made.
30. (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to a leading article in the issue of the Kolaba Samachar dated 26th June 1920 under the heading "Government and Council Elections"? (An article in the Kolaba Samachar, dated 26th June 1920.)	30. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, are the allegations contained in the article true?	(b) No.
(c) If not, what are the real facts? (d) Will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the leaflet referred to in question 6 above on the Council table?	(c) and (d). A Marathi version of a pamphlet issued by the Department of Information was distributed in Kolaba and elsewhere. A copy* is placed upon the table. * Vide Appendix BB.
31. Will Government be pleased (i) to state whether a Conference of the Conservator of Forests, S. C., the Collector of Kanara and the Divisional Forest Officer, E. D., Kanara, was held at Yellapur in May 1919? (Forest Conference: Kanara.)	31. (i) and (ii) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

(ii) whether any report has been submitted by those three officers embodying their discussions and recommendations?

(iii) if so, to place on the Council table a copy of the said report, if any?

(iv) to state what action has Government taken on the report?

(v) if no action has already been taken, whether Government intends to take any action?

32. Will Government be pleased to state—

Pay: Gazetted and non-Gazetted officers.

(a) Whether it is a fact that the pay of Subordinate Judges and District Deputy Collectors in the Presidency has recently been raised permanently with effect from 1st December 1919 while that of the subordinate establishments in the Revenue and Judicial Departments has been only provisionally raised with effect from 1st March 1920?

(b) And, if so, to state the reasons for the differential treatment of Gazetted and non-Gazetted officers both as regards the nature of the increase and the retrospective effect, to be given effect to it?

33. Will Government be pleased to state—

Indian Forest Act, 1878: Dharwar.

(a) if the attention of Government has been drawn to stray note No. 4 published on page 3 of the issue of the Raja-Hansa newspaper dated the 19th July 1920 complaining against oppressive prosecutions under the Indian Forest Act, 1878, against whole villages in the Mundgod Mahal and the Kalghatgi Taluka of the Dharwar District?

(b) whether the allegations made in the said newspaper are true and accurate?

(c) if not, what are the real facts?

(d) how many men and women in the Dharwar District were prosecuted under the said Act during the year ending with the 30th June 1920 and how many of them were convicted?

Answers.

(iii), (iv) and (v) The report is under consideration of Government. A Press Note is being issued and a Settlement Officer will be appointed in the cold weather to formulate detailed proposals in furtherance of the policy there adumbrated.

32. (a) Yes.

(b) The pay of the Gazetted officers was revised under orders of the Secretary of State on the recommendations of the Public Services Commission. For the non-Gazetted services it was imperative, in view of a possible future fall in prices not to burden Provincial Revenues with a permanent scale of pay that might in future be found excessive. The same regard for Provincial Revenues rendered it impossible to give retrospective effect beyond 1st April 1920, and the great majority of non-gazettted officers have been drawing temporary and provisional allowances since 1st January 1920 and war allowance before that—concessions not enjoyed by Gazetted Officers.

33. (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) The attention of Government has not been drawn to the article referred to, but they will make inquiries in the matter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. D. V. Belvi.]

Questions.	Answers.
(e) what was the total amount of fines imposed on the accused persons that were convicted under the said Act during the aforesaid period of time in the Dharwar District?
(f) the total number of persons that have yet to be put on their trial under the said Act in the said District?
34. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the total number of Sub-Registrars' Offices in the Southern Division and the number of such offices as have a peon or peons attached to them and as have more than one clerk in them? Sub-Registrars' Offices: Southern Division.	34. (a) The number of offices is 63; the number which have a peon or peons is 14: the number having more than one clerk is 5.
(b) Will Government be pleased to state the average time taken to provide applicants with certified copies of documents in the Sub-Registrars' Offices in the Southern Division?	(b) The rule of the Department is that copies must be given within 15 days from the date of application at the most. This limit is very rarely exceeded. To give the average exact time would, however, involve a very great deal of calculation, because certified copies of documents are prepared simultaneously with the general copying of documents into the Registers and no separate statistics of the time taken are maintained. If in any case it is alleged that undue time has been taken a complaint to the local District Registrar is the most effective remedy.
(c) What was the income from the Sub-Registrars' Offices and what was the expenditure on them during each of the last five years in the Southern Division?	(c) The income and expenditure by years is as follows:—

Year.	Income.	Expenditure.
	Rs.	Rs.
1915 ...	1,44,174	63,245
1916 ...	1,53,359	61,488
1917 ...	1,55,221	61,342
1918 ...	1,71,722	64,462
1919 ...	2,16,304	82,935

(d) What is the maximum and minimum allowed to a Sub-Registrar's Office as contingency every month in the Southern Division?	(d) The minimum is annas 8 a month, the maximum is Rs. 1-8-0. Allotments naturally vary according to the size of the office.
35. Will Government be pleased—	35. (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), (v), (vi) and (vii). Information will be called for.
(i) to state how many persons in the Ranebennur Taluka of the Dharwar District have made applications to the Commissioner, S. D., the Collector of Dharwar, the Prant Officer in charge of the II Division, Dharwar, and the Mamlatdar of Ranebennur respectively since the close of the second Indian War Loan complaining that they did not get War Bonds in return for the money they had paid to the Revenue authorities for the purchase of War Bonds and enquiring as to what had become of their money? War Bonds: Ranebennur, Dharwar.
(ii) to say what has been the result of these applications?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. D. V. Belvi.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

Answers.

(iii) to lay on the Council Table the report of the Deputy Collector, II Division of the Dharwar District, to the Collector of the District who for the last nine months has been making inquiries to atrce to where the amounts contributed by the ryots of the Ranebennur Taluka have been invested?

(iv) to say whether it is a fact that the District Deputy Collector in charge of II Division has ordered the Co-operative Credit Societies in the Ranebennur Taluka, in whose names the bonds were applied for by the Mamlatdar and were issued either by the Postal authorities or by the Public Debts Office, to pay back the money to the ryots?

(v) to say whether it is a fact that during the investigation of these war loan affairs the District Deputy Collector repaid monies to certain contributors after recovering the same from certain village officers?

(vi) If the reply to the above question be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the reasons why this money remained unaccounted for and to state if they have taken any steps against those who were responsible for retaining the ryots' contribution?

(vii) Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that the District Deputy Collector in his inquiries has found out that in the case of one contributor War Bonds to the extent of Rs. 1,000 more than the amount he contributed were issued and this excess amount was recovered by the Taluka authorities without crediting the same in the Taluka War Loan accounts?

36. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Divisional Forest Officer in the Supa Mahal of the Kanara District is ex-officio Assistant Collector for that area?

Supa Mahal, district Kanara.

36. (a) Yes.

(b) if so, (i) what previous training the said officer has had to do the revenue work efficiently;

(b) (i) and (ii). The revenue work in Supa Mahal is light and of a simple nature, easily within the competence of an officer of the standing of a Divisional Forest Officer. Though the forest duties of the Division are heavy their proper discharge is not impeded but on the contrary facilitated by the Divisional Forest Officer's holding revenue charge of the Supa Mahal.

(ii) whether his forest duties are sufficiently light to allow him any leisure to attend to the revenue duties, and

(iii) how many villages out of the 115 villages of the Mahal were visited by him last year in his revenue capacity?

(iii) A Forest Officer holding revenue charge in addition to his own duties necessarily exercises both forest and revenue functions when on tour.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

(c) whether it is a fact that the services of the Circle Inspectors and Village Officers of the Supa Mahal were requisitioned for Forest duties, and whether in consequence of this, the last jamabandi was delayed by some months?

37. Will Government be pleased to state with reference to the reply given in my Question No. 34 put at the March Sessions of the Legislative Council regarding the "Toungya" system— Toungya system, Kanara.

(a) the terms on which the Kumri lands are assigned to the cultivators, and

(b) whether the terms are such as permanently to associate the cultivators with such lands?

38. Will Government be pleased (a) to state if their consideration of the question of revising the present salaries and allowance of Mamlatdars in the Presidency is completed? Mamlatdars: Pay and allowances.

(b) And if so, the probable date when final orders may be expected by the public?

(c) If the question be still under consideration, the stage that has been reached and the authority with whom the matter actually lies at present?

THE HONOURABLE MR. SHERIFF DEVJI CANJI.

1. Will Government be pleased to state whether teachers of the Mahi Kantha Agency are allowed any war allowance, etc.? If paid, how much? If not why not? School teachers, Mahi Kantha Agency.

2. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) What is the total number of schools in the Mahi Kantha Agency? Schools, Mahi Kantha Agency.

(i) Number of boys and girls in each school.

(ii) Number of teachers in each school and the qualifications of each teacher.

(iii) Salaries paid to each of the members of the teaching staff in each school.

(b) When was the present scale of salaries fixed and whether the scale was revised in each case?

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March, 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

[Mr. D. V. Belvi; Mr. Sheriff Devji Canji.]

Answers.

(c) The co-operation of the Revenue and Village staff in certain branches of forest work is not infrequently required. From the report for the last completed revenue year it appears that the jamabandi of Supa Mahal was completed within the due date.

37. (a) Information has been called for.

(b) The answer is in the negative.

38. (a), (b) and (c). The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to question No. 7 put by the Honourable Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik at this meeting.

1. War allowance at Rs. 2 per mensem to Head Masters drawing Rs. 20 and under and Re. 1 per mensem to Assistant Masters irrespective of pay has been sanctioned in the Thana Circles and Managed Estates.

2. A tabular statement* is put up.

Vide* Appendix H.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. P. A. Desai.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

Answers.

THE HONOURABLE MR. P. A. DESAI, LL.B.

1. Will Government be pleased to state how many first and second appeals were disposed of by the first Bench of the High Court of Bombay from June to December 1919 and how many from June to December 1918?

Appeals: High Court, Bombay.

1. 1919: 305 first appeals and 953 second appeals. 1918: 96 first appeals and 196 second appeals in addition to other work.

2. (a) Is it a fact that there is a dearth of hands in the Shirestedar's office on the Appellate Side of the High Court and is the work of supplying certified copies of the orders of the Court delayed for over months together?

Shirestedar's Office: High Court, Bombay.

2. (a) Owing to the speedy disposal of appeals by the Court since June 1919 the existing clerical staff in the Shirestedar's office was unable to cope with the work of issuing decrees and orders of the Court. Since the 8th October 1919, three additional hands have been employed. There is, however great difficulty in getting work done, quickly by inexperienced hands.

A large amount of office work has to be done before copies of the orders of the Court can be issued to parties. The Judgments must be copied fair, and approved by Their Lordships. The decrees and orders must be drawn up, settled, and approved by the pleaders and officers of the Court. The bills of costs must be prepared, translations must be made, and finally copies must first be issued to the lower courts. The originals are then available for the preparation of copies for parties. As a rule certified copies are supplied within ten days from the time the originals are available, and the delay has seldom, if ever, exceeded twenty days. Additional hands are employed for the purpose.

(b) Is it a fact that the whole of the working establishment of the Shirestedar's office on the Appellate Side of the High Court is huddled up in one room and does this not cause serious inconvenience both to the office and the pleaders practising on the Appellate Side?

(b) Yes. Government are considering the question of providing further accommodation.

3. Is the rule that the certified copies should be supplied to the applicants within ten days, strictly followed on the Appellate Side in recent times in the High Court, Bombay?

High Court, Bombay: Supply of certified copies.

3. It is not always possible to follow the rule now, but it is usually followed. The period of ten days must be counted from the time when the originals are ready for copy, and not from the date of the application, which is generally made immediately on the disposal of the case.

4. Will Government be pleased to state whether the railway station at Bijapur is to be removed to another site to prevent damage to the Gol Gumaz from its vicinity; if so, what site has been selected for building the railway station?

Removal of railway station, Bijapur.

4. It is not proposed to move the Bijapur railway station.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. P. A. Desai.]

Questions.

5. Is there any truth in the complaint made by the Kanara News of Kumta in the Kanara Collectorate in its issue of the 19th February, that certain restrictions on the fishing rights of the local fishermen in the Aghanashini river, have been placed by Mr. Walke, the Superintendent of Fisheries in the Southern Division.

Fishing rights: Kumta, District Kanara.

6. Will Government be pleased to state what was the expenditure for the district local board clerical staff under official presidents and what is it now under non-official presidents?

Clerical staff, district local boards.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

7. Will Government be pleased to state in a detailed statement how many non-Mohamedan and Mohamedan voters there are in each district of the Bombay Presidency including Sind?

Mohamedan and non-Mohamedan voters.

8. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what is the number of seats assigned to each district of the Bombay Presidency and what are the reasons for assignments of different number of seats for each district?

Reformed Council: District representation.

(b) whether Government intends to increase the total number of seats above 111 as has been done in Madras?

Answers.

5. The complaint has reference to the measures for protection of the natural oyster beds at the mouth of the Tadri Creek in the Kanara District. At the request of the Director of Industries, the Collector of Kanara has issued an order forbidding removal of cockle and oyster shells from this particular area. This prohibition is to help the oyster beds to recover from the depletion from which they have suffered at the hands of the local inhabitants and unless this protection is given for a time the beds will shortly cease to exist.

6. The following statement gives the information required.

Name of District Local Board.	Expenditure for the clerical staff under official president.	Expenditure for the clerical staff under non-official president.
Northern Division.
	Rs.	Rs.
Ahmedabad ...	3,613	5,247
Broach ...	2,604	2,532
Thana ...	5,149	9,375
Central Divison.
Ahmednagar ...	2,175	3,180
Nasik ...	3,240	3,240
Poona ...	2,820	3,180
Satara ...	4,215	3,369
Sholapur ...	2,400	2,880
Southern Division.
Belgaum ...	2,230	2,580
Dharwar ...	2,340	3,924
Kolaba ...	1,800	2,644
Sind.
Hyderabad ...	3,650	5,184

7. This information will not be available until the final publication of the Electoral rolls in October.

8. (a) Schedule I to the Bombay Electoral Rules published in the Bombay Government Gazette (Extraordinary) of 14th June gives the number of seats required. The number allotted to each Constituency was decided after consideration of the population and the estimated number of voters.

(b) No.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. P. A. Desai.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

9. Will Government be pleased to state—

Special Tribunals: Ahmedabad.

(a) How many cases were tried by each Tribunal presided over by Messrs. Vernon and Elliot? How many accused were tried and how many of them were convicted?

(b) What was the total amount of fines inflicted in all cases tried by each Tribunal and what was the total value of the property forfeited in all the cases tried by each Tribunal?

(c) What was the total expenditure incurred by Government on account of each Tribunal including the salaries of the Judges serving on both the Tribunals.

10. Will Government be pleased to state—

Karjat and Malshiras.

(a) What is the present population of the towns of Karjat in the Kolaba District and of Malshiras in the Sholapur District?

(b) If the populations of both the towns be less than 2,000 why the Notified Areas in these towns have not been cancelled like that of Santa-Cruz near Bandra?

11. Will Government be pleased to state

Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act.

why the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act is not amended as yet in accordance with the recommendations of the Commission appointed by Government several years ago? When does Government intend to amend the Act?

12. Is Government aware that Executions

Civil Court decrees: Execution by Court.

of Civil Court decrees sent to Collectors for execution are delayed for several years? What steps does Government intend to take to remove this evil?

13. Will Government be pleased to state

Fodder reserves.

how far the scheme of fodder reserves to meet the immediate require-

Answers.

9. The information asked for is being obtained.

10. (a) The population of Karjat and Malshiras is 1,781 and 2,400 respectively.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to section 187 (3) of the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, which sets forth the condition required to be fulfilled for the constitution of any area as a Notified Area. In the case of Santa Cruz it was proposed to abolish the Notified Area not because its population was less than 2,000 but because it was considered desirable in the public interest to include it within the Bandra Municipal limits. This proposal has, however, been postponed.

11. The Commission recently appointed to consider certain points in connection with the amendment of the Deccan Agriculturists Relief Act have submitted their recommendations to Government, who are now considering them.

12. No complaints have been received by Government. The Divisional Commissioners scrutinize the state of the Collectors' files with a view to checking any tendency towards delay. Government also take a view of the progress made annually.

13. The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to Question No. 4 by the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakordas.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. P. A. Desai; Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai.]

Questions.

Answers.

ments of early months of any year of fodder scarcity, has advanced?

And what steps have actually been taken in that respect?

14. Will Government be pleased to state how the auction system of disposal of shops for the retail vend of country spirit, toddy and opium, has been working since its introduction?

Toddy and Opium shops: auction system.

14. The Honourable Member is referred to paragraph 3 of the Resolution of Government issued on the Reports on the Administration of the Excise Department for the year 1918-19.

15. Will Government be pleased to state what steps have been taken by Government to give effect to the recommendations of the Industrial Commission as far as this Presidency is concerned?

Industrial Commission recommendations.

15. The Honourable Member is referred to the annual reports of the Department of Industries.

16. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government is aware of the grievance of the teachers of the Municipal schools of Pen in Kolaba District as to their having been forcibly used by the Municipality for other purposes than those for which they are engaged?

Municipal School Teachers: Kolaba.

(b) whether these teachers have approached the Government for redress?

(c) whether the Municipality has stopped the pay of the teachers for the last 10 months?

(d) what steps, if any, have Government taken in this matter?

16. (a), (b), (c) and (d) Government have received a petition from the teachers and enquiries are being made in the matter.

THE HONOURABLE RAO SAHEB HARILAL DESAIBHAI DESAI, LL.B.

1. Will Government be pleased to state whether arrangements have been made to introduce time scale salaries to teachers of primary schools in Agencies and to grant them War Allowances?

Salaries of teachers in Agencies.

Kathiawar.

1. Time scale salaries are not given to teachers in primary schools, but war allowance is being given to all the educational employés in the service of the Educational Department with the exception of those serving in the schools of 3rd and 4th class States of Jhalawad, Halar and Gohilwad Prants.

Mahi Kantha.

For want of sufficient funds the system of time scale of pay has not been introduced. Substantial increase has, however, been made in the pay of all teachers as far as the finances could permit.

The grant of war allowance @ Rs. 2 per mensem to Head Masters drawing Rs. 20 and under, and Re. 1 per mensem

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai.]

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
	to assistants irrespective of their pay, was sanctioned in Thana Circles and Managed Estates with effect from the 1st November 1919. The scale of war allowance for Head Masters has since been raised to 20 per cent. of pay with maximum of Rs. 5.
	Palanpur.
	A time scale of pay for the teachers of the Primary Schools in Thana Circles and the petty States could not be introduced for financial reasons, but a war allowance at 20 per cent. of pay, subject to a minimum of Rs. 3 per mensem, was sanctioned with effect from the 1st January 1919. Arrangements have, however, been made to introduce the time scale salaries to trained teachers of the Deesa Cantonment School. They are not in receipt of war allowance as cantonment servants have not been drawing it.
	Rewa Kantha.
	War allowance is given to the teachers in the two Mewases (Sankheda and Pandu) only.
2. Will Government be pleased to give the following information :— Appeals : High Court, Bombay.	2.
(a) The number of pending Appeals, Civil and Criminal, as well as revisional applications, Civil and Criminal, before His Majesty's High Court at Bombay on 1st June 1919, excluding those pending for admission only.	(a) 1,862 Civil Appeals. 90 Civil Revisional Applications. 51 Criminal Appeals. 50 Criminal Revisional Applications.
(b) The number of Appeals and Applications, Civil and Criminal, decided by the First and Second Divisional Benches on the Appellate Side of the High Court between 1st June 1919 and 31st December 1919.	(b) Benches — 1st. — 2nd. — 3rd. Civil Appeals ... 1,308 — 282 — 47 Civil Revisional Applications ... 221 — 47 — 11 Criminal Appeals ... ... — 544 — ... Criminal Revisional Applications ... ... — 320 — ...
(c) A statement of the following :—	(c)
(1) The number of Appeals and Applications, Civil as well as Criminal, pending for admission only on the reopening of the High Court after the summer vacation of 1918 and 1919.	(1) 1918. — 1919. Civil Appeals ... 176 — 278 Civil Revisional Applications ... 44 — 66 Criminal Appeals ... 34 — 30 Criminal Revisional Applications ... 11 — 52
(2) The number of Appeals and Applications, Civil and Criminal, filed between the reopening of the Courts after summer vacation of 1918 and 31st December 1918 and between the reopening of the summer vacation of 1919 and 31st December 1919.	(2) Civil Appeals ... 915 — 911 Civil Revisional Applications ... 167 — 175 Criminal Appeals ... 394 — 524 Criminal Revisional Applications ... 289 — 321

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai.]

Questions.

Answers.

(d) The number of Apeals and Applications, Civil and Criminal, similarly disposed of between the periods referred to in item 2 above?

(d)

Civil Appeals	...	805	1,637
Civil Revisional Applications	...	153	278
Criminal Appeals	...	345	434
Criminal Revisional Applications	...	291	308

3. Will Government be pleased to state whether any special concessions of free places and scholarships are being given to the backward population of Dharalas in Gujarat for study in Middle Schools and High Schools?

Scholarships for Dharalas.

3. The answer is in the negative.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

4. Will Government be pleased to give the following information, viz.:—

Village Acher, North Daskroi, Ahmedabad.

4.

(a) the total area of the village of Acher in the North Daskroi taluka of the Ahmedabad district;

(a) The Honourable Member is referred to No. CCXIV—new series—of the Selections from the Records of the Bombay Government relating to revision survey settlement of Daskroi taluka.

(b) the area proposed to be acquired from the village of Acher for a Leper Asylum and a Lunatic Asylum;

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to Government Notification No. 1677, dated 4th June 1920, printed at page 1494 of Part I of the Bombay Government Gazette, dated 10th June 1920.

(c) the area of the Government grass land (Bid) near by?

(c) Information will be called for.

5. Will Government be pleased to state for 1918-19 (a) the net income to the Government from the Kharaghoda Salt Works exclusive of duty;

Income: Kharaghoda Salt Works.

5. (a) Government made no profit apart from the duty on salt.

(b) the amount of duty;

(b) Rs. 47,82,622.

(c) the amount of salt produced and the number of Agarias engaged in producing the same;

(d) the total wages paid to the Agarias employed?

(c) and (d) The Honourable Member is referred to paragraph 15 of the Report on the Administration of the Salt Department of the Bombay Presidency for the year 1918-19.

6. Will Government be pleased to state whether any increase has been given to the Agarias in wages owing to the abnormal rise in the cost of living?

Wages of Agarias: Kharaghoda Salt Works.

6. The Agarias' wages were raised from anna 1 pies 9 to annas 2 per maund with effect from the manufacturing season of 1917-18. A special monthly allowance of Rs. 2 to each of the three shareholders of each pan, i.e., Rs. 6 per pan, throughout the works was paid to the Agarias for the seven months of the working season of 1918-19.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
7. Will Government be pleased to give the following information in the form of a statement as regards the villages of the Bombay Presidency including Sind, viz.— (a) the number of villages per district in which the offices of Police and Revenue Patels are combined in one person and those in which they are held separately; (b) the number of villages per district in which a single family hereditarily holds the offices of Police and Revenue Patels? Offices of village patels.	7. (a) and (b) The information required cannot be obtained except at the expenditure of an amount of labour which in the opinion of Government is not justified.
8. Will Government be pleased to give information about the embezzlements in the office of the Talukdari Settlement Officer, Ahmedabad, asked for in question No. 1 of the September Session of 1919; and be also pleased to place on the table the audit note of the Accountant General's auditors and the judgment of the Sessions Judges, Ahmedabad? Embezzlements: Talukdari Settlement Office, Ahmedabad.	8. The matter is still under investigation. A copy of the judgment* is laid on the table. * Vide Appendix W.
9. Will Government be pleased to state whether the assessment on lands of Talukdari tenure in the Ahmedabad district is higher in most places than that on similar lands in the adjoining khalsa villages? Unequal assessment: talukdari and khalsa villages.	9. The Honourable Member is referred to the settlement reports of the Ahmedabad district.
10. Will Government be pleased to state (a) whether they are aware that there is no Anglo-Vernacular School or class in the town of Koth of the Talukdari estate of Sanand in the Ahmedabad district? Anglo-Vernacular Schools: Koth, Sanand.	10. (a) Yes.
(b) whether people of Koth petitioned to Government to have such a school or class opened through the Talukdari Settlement Officer?	(b) Yes.
(c) what action has been taken thereon?	(c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given at the November meeting in 1918 to a question on the subject put by the Honourable Mr. G. K. Parekh at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 23rd September 1918.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[The Honourable Rao Saheb Harilal Desaibhai Desai.]

Questions.

Answers.

11. Will Government be pleased to state (a) the number of persons convicted by the Special Tribunals at Ahmedabad in connection with the disturbances in April 1919?

Convicts: Ahmedabad Special Tribunals.

11. (a) 123.

(b) The number of persons released under the Amnesty granted by His Gracious Majesty?

(b) 72.

(c) The names of persons in whose case the benefit on the Amnesty was withheld and special reasons for doing so in each case?

(c) 33 persons were held to be not entitled to the benefit of the Amnesty. Their names are given in the appendix* to this question.

Vide* Appendix X.

12. Will Government be pleased to state (a) whether the Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors are given any conveyance allowance?

Educational officers: Conveyance allowance.

12. Enquiries are being made.

(b) whether Government is aware that the teachers in charge of primary schools have in Gujarat to arrange for the conveyance of the inspecting staff and in some cases to bear the cost?

13. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any orders have been passed by the Educational Department or by them or whether any are in contemplation to transfer the power of giving promotions to school masters and teachers in primary schools under municipalities and any other similar powers to the Educational Inspector?

Municipal school masters: promotion.

13. (a) and (b) Government have had no such proposals under consideration; enquiries are being made of the Director of Public Instruction.

(b) if so, the exact scope of such proposals?

14. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) when it is proposed to separate the Judicial District of Kaira and Panch Mahals from the Ahmedabad Judicial District?

Judicial administration: Kaira.

14. (a) The question of the separation of the Judicial District of Kaira and Panch Mahals from the Ahmedabad Judicial District is at present under the consideration of Government and Government are not in a position to state when a decision on the question will be arrived at.

(b) whether it is in contemplation to locate at present the District Court of Kaira at Kaira and the First Class Subordinate Judge's Court at Nadiad?

(b) It is at present contemplated to locate the District Court and the First Class Subordinate Judge's Court at Nadiad.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Sardar Sayad Ali El Edroos; Major C. Fernandes; Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

THE HONOURABLE SARDAR SAYAD ALI EL EDROOS.

Questions.	Answers.
1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that some American Companies have come to purchase cows in this Presidency for exporting them out of India? Export of cows.	1. (a) Reply already given.
(b) If so, is it true that they have purchased and exported nearly 60,000 cows in this year?	(b) No. Attention is invited to Press Note No. 15086 dated 23rd December 1919.
(c) Will Government be pleased to inquire how many cows have been exported by these American Companies from each district of Ahmedabad, Broach and Kathiawar?	(c) Kathiawar ... ... 55 Broach ... ... 45 Ahmedabad— Total export by rail was 1,265 but it cannot be stated how many of these were for export to outside India and how many to other parts of India.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when an ad interim reply was given.]

THE HONOURABLE MAJOR C. FERNANDES, M.D., F.C.P.S., I.M.S.

1. Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that a market built at the public expense at Santa Cruz in the Salsette Taluka of the Thana District has, under the orders of Government, been restricted to the sale of vegetables only? Santa Cruz Market.	1. Yes.

THE HONOURABLE RAO BAHADUR S. D. GARUD.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the total number and names of villages in the Nagar district which have no wells? Ahmednagar, Wells.	1. (a) and (b). There are wells either for drinking or irrigation purposes in all the villages in the Ahmednagar district except the following:—
(b) Were any steps taken during the last famine to encourage the ryots of those villages to dig wells? If so, what?

Taluka.	Village.	Reasons.
Akola ...	1. Chandsuraj ... 2. Kumshet ... 3. Phopsandi ... 4. Esarshav ...	The villagers make use of adjoining river water. Sub-soil water is not available owing to the nature of the strata. The villages are very sparsely inhabited.
Nevasa ...	1. Khalalpimpri. 2. Madki ...	These villages are situated on the bank of Pravara river and the villagers use the water of the river for drinking purposes. The villagers do not desire to have their lands irrigated by well water. They were advised to ask for tagai for digging wells during the last famine but they refused to do so.

2. Will Government be pleased to state— Influenza Epidemic, Orphans. (a) how many orphans are being maintained?	2. (a) 430.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.]

Questions.	Answers.
Inspectors provided for the advancement of Mahomedan education in each division of the Presidency for the furtherance of the end in view?
4. Will Government be pleased to furnish statistics relating to the experimental English classes attached to vernacular schools in general, and to Urdu schools in particular, in each division of the Presidency? (Vernacular Schools: English classes.)	4. It is not clear what statistics the Honourable Member desires to have. If, as is presumed, his intention is to obtain statistics showing the result of the experiment after one year's working, it may be pointed out that the report of the Director of Public Instruction in this connection is awaited.
5. Will Government be pleased to state what steps, if any, have been taken to explain "local option" in regard to the medium of instruction and what is the method, if any, adopted for arriving at decisions in that respect in the three divisions of the Presidency? (Education: Local Option.)	5. Enquiries are being made.
6. Will Government be pleased to state if uniformity was observed in the introduction of the new alternative sets of standards in February 1919 in the three divisions of the Presidency? (Education: Alternative standards.)	6. Enquiries are being made.
7. Will Government be pleased to state whether the Central Urdu Schools meant for turning out qualified Urdu teachers are using the medium of instruction suitable for the purpose; and, if so, whether it will be so declared? (Urdu teachers.)	7. The Central Urdu Schools, the opening of which was recommended by the Presidency Mahammadan Education Committee, have not yet been started.
8. Will Government be pleased to state—	8. (a) and (b) Enquiries are being made.
(a) whether the Central Urdu School at Tankaria is intended for the benefit of the Mahomedans of the whole Northern Division, or only for the benefit of the Mahomedans of the Broach District? (Urdu School: Tankaria, Broach.)
(b) if it is a fact that Urdu was the medium of instruction at the Central School, Tankaria, before "local option" was given?
9. Will Government be pleased to state—	9. (a) Yes.
(a) whether the orders of the Secretary of State on the recommedations of the Public Service Commission in regard to the Provincial Revenue and Police services have been received? (Public Service Commission.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

(b) if so, what are those orders; and when are they to be carried into effect; and if any retrospective effect is to be given to them; and, if so, from what date?

10. Will Government be pleased to state—

Police Services: Indian Appointments.

(a) if it is a fact that, under a Press Communiqué of the Government of India, only two appointments in the Imperial Police Service have been given to Indians in the Bombay Presidency for the years 1919 and 1920, and only one appointment in the Provincial Police Service has been given to departmental officers.

(b) if it is a fact that a much larger number of such appointments has been given in other Provinces.

(c) if the reply to (a) and (b) be in the affirmative, the reason why the Bombay Presidency has received such a meagre share.

11. Will Government be pleased to state when the sub-divisional system in the Police Department recommended by the Honourable Mr. Robertson is likely to come into force?

Police Department: Sub-divisional system.

12. Will Government be pleased to state when the construction of provincial roads will be undertaken in Sind?

Sind: Provincial road construction.

Answers.

(b) A copy of Government Notification* No. E.—21, dated 22nd June 1920, is placed on the table.

* Vide Appendix Y.

10. (a) Two such appointments were allotted to Indians for the years 1919 and 1920 of which one was filled by the promotion of a Deputy Superintendent of Police.

(b) The figures are:—

	1919	1920.
Madras ...	2	1
Bombay ...	1	1
Bengal ...	2	1
United Provinces ...	3	2
Punjab ...	2	2
Burma ...	2	1
Bihar and Orissa ...	1	1
Central Provinces ...	1	1
Assam ...	1	0

(c) The number of appointments was limited by the number of existing vacancies in the cadre.

11. The sub-divisional scheme submitted by the present Inspector General of Police is still under the consideration of Government.

12. It has been decided to provincialise the following 16 roads and orders will issue shortly:—

1. Sukkur-Shikarpur.
2. Jungshahi-Tatta (Tatta-Baghar).
3. Hyderabad-Hala (via Matiari).
4. Hala-Shahdadpur.
5. Naushahro-Pad Idan.
6. Udero Lal-Tando Adam.
7. Radhan-Mehar.
8. Shikarpur-Jacobabad.
9. Badrah-Nasirabad.
10. Chhor-Umarkot.
11. Rohri-Kandiaro.
12. Kandiaro-Kandiaro Road Station.
13. Karachi-Kotri,
14. Remaining portion of through road between Hala and Kandiaro.
15. Hyderabad-Mirpurkhas (Mirpurkhas-Umarkot).
16. Hyderabad-Badin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) in what institutions?	(b) 10 under the care of Missionaries at Gadag. 4 in the Mission at Mundalwar in the Akrani. 6 under the care of the St. John's Mission School at Poona. 4 under the care of the Convent High School, Poona. 4 under the care of the Christian Mission Society, Poona. 19 under the care of the Reverend Hiwale of Sirur Mission. 5 under the care of the Society for the Protection of Children, Poona. 30 in the Local Zenana Bible and Medical Mission at Sholapur. 6 in the Victoria Orphanage, Dhulia. 34 in the Bijapur Orphanage. 34 in the Mahipatram Rupram's Anath Ashram at Ahmedabad. 8 in private institutions at Viramgam and Patri. 16 in the Mission Orphanage, Nadiad. 12 in the Anath Ashram, Nadiad. 35 in the Methodist Episcopal Mission, Godhra. 56 in the Hindu Orphanage, Surat. 147 under the care of private persons.
(c) at what cost to Government as the result of their Resolution after the last influenza epidemic?	(c) Rs. 1,745-4-0 per annum.
[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]
3. (a) Is Government aware that the Honourable Mr. Gebbie gave certain assurances about the increase of pay to a deputation from the Bombay Upper Subordinates' Association in December 1919? (Assurances to the Bombay Upper Subordinates' Association.)	3. (a) and (b) Government are aware that the Honourable Mr. Gebbie assured the deputation of the Bombay and Sind Upper Subordinates' Associations that certain proposals, which were explained to the deputation, had been placed before the Government of India for favourable consideration. There is nothing on record to show that any further assurances were given.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state, (i) what those assurances were, (ii) what steps have been taken to fulfil them, (iii) whether provision has been made in the Budget for 1920-21 to give effect to them, (iv) what amount has been provided for that purpose, and (v) whether it is intended to give retrospective effect to the promised increase of pay as assured by the Honourable Mr. Gebbie?
4. Will Government be pleased to state— (Revised pay to secondary teachers.) (a) when the new time scale for secondary teachers is to come into force and	4. (a) It has been directed that the time scale should be brought into force with effect from the 14th March 1920.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) what provision is made for the under-graduates holding S. T. C. Diplomas who have put in more than twenty years' service to get the maximum pay provided for them in the teaching line?	(b) Under the revised scale, non-graduate teachers at present serving in the Department will be allowed to earn their annual increments (provided their service is approved) till they rise to Rs. 100. Thereafter they will not be eligible for any increment except in special cases.
5. Will Government be pleased to state (a) the total number of (1) newspapers and (2) printing presses in the Presidency against whom action was taken under the Press Act, (b) the number to whom the Royal Amnesty was extended, (c) the number whose cases are under consideration, and (d) the number to whom it was refused? Newspapers and Presses.	5. (a), (b) and (d) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the answer given on the 18th September 1919 to the question No. 2 put by the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., and to the answer given on the 13th March 1920 to the question No. 36 put by the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi, LL.B. Since the latter answer was given the security deposited by one more printing press, viz., the Anglo-Vernacular Printing Press, Ahmedabad, has been returned. (c) Two cases are under consideration.
6. Will Government be pleased to state the number of Local Board and Municipal Vernacular Schools for which applications have been made for permission to introduce the teaching of the first three English standards? English and Vernacular Schools.	6. In view of the reply given to part (a) of a question on the subject put by the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani at the meeting of the Legislative Council held in December last, Government consider that no useful purpose will be served by calling for the information required by the Honourable Member.
7. (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they have received any petitions from pensioners praying for increase of their pensions to meet the present high cost of living? Government servants: increased pension.	7. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to lay them on the Table and to state what action has been or is proposed to be taken to meet their prayer?	(b) A memorial from the Civil Pensioners in Bombay addressed to the Government of India has been forwarded to that Government for consideration and orders. Pending receipt of Government of India's orders the memorials cannot be laid on the table.
8. Will Government be pleased to lay on the Table a copy of the Government Resolution issued in 1906 about the division of the Khandesh District into East and West Khandesh and a copy of the petition dated the 8th of October 1906 submitted by the citizens of Dhulia stating their objections to the division? Division of Khandesh District.	8. The Government Resolution in question contains correspondence with the Government of India and cannot be laid on the table. A copy* of the petition is placed on the Council Table. Vide* Appendix V.
9. Will Government be pleased to give the details of the schemes of revision for which lump provisions are made in the Budget for 1920-21 in items Nos. 1, 422, 444 and 470? Budget Items 1, 422, 444 and 470: 1920-21.	9. The revision of pay of establishments in all Departments is under the consideration of Government and details are not at present available.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud.]

Questions.

10. Will Government be pleased to state :—

Arunavati bridge, Shirpur, West Khandesh.

(a) Whether the people of Shirpur in West Khandesh have raised and deposited in the Government Treasury popular contribution for the building of the Arunavati bridge ?

(b) Whether the same was raised on account of official assurances that adequate help will be given by Government and that work will be immediately taken up ?

(c) What is the amount of the popular contribution ?

(d) When it was collected ?

(e) Why the work was so long delayed ?

11. Will Government be pleased to lay on the Table the following information regarding East and West Khandesh districts respectively for the years 1908-09 and 1918-19, viz. :—

Information regarding Khandesh District.

(a) the total income from (i) land revenue, (ii) excise revenue and (iii) income tax revenue ;

(b) total revenue from all other heads ;

(c) total mileage of (i) local board, (ii) provincial, (iii) forest roads ;

(d) total income of District Local Boards ;

Answers.

10. (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) Inquiry is being made.

11. (a) The Honourable member is referred to the annual administration reports on the subjects in question for the respective years, which contain the requisite information. As income tax revenue figures by districts are not available from the year 1918-19, information regarding them will be called for.

(b) It is not clear what definite heads are meant by the Honourable Member. They should be clearly specified.

(ii) (c) Information under all the three heads specified for the year 1908-09 and under the third head for the year 1918-19 will be called for. Information under the first two heads for the year 1918-19 is as follows :—

	Provincial	Local Board.
	Mls. fur.	Ft. m. f.
East Khandesh district.	138 7	220 325 2
West Khandesh district.	233 4	0 117 4

Information regarding Local Fund roads relates to those repaired by the Public Works Department. No information is available regarding mileage repaired by District Local Boards themselves.

(d) For information regarding the year 1908-09 the Honourable Member is referred to the tabular statements appended to the Report of the admin-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Bahadur S. D. Garud; Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
	istration of Local Boards for that year. The income of the two District Local Boards for the year 1918-19 was as follows:—
	Rs.
	East Khandesh ... 7,72,530
	West Khandesh ... 2,98,003
(e) total area under cultivation;	(e) The Honourable Member is referred to the Land Revenue Administration Reports for the respective years, which contain the required information.
(f) total number of primary and secondary schools;	(f) The Honourable Member is referred to the supplement to the Annual Reports of the Director of Public Instruction for the respective years, which give the required information.
(g) total provincial grants received by each District for educational and other purposes during the period 1907-08 to 1918-19?	(g) So far as educational purposes are concerned, the Honourable Member is referred to the reply to clause (f). It is not clear what other purposes are referred to in this clause. They should be clearly specified.
THE HONOURABLE SHAIKH GHULAM HUSSEIN HIDAYATALLAH, B.A., LL.B.
1. Will Government be pleased to state—
(a) if all the recommendations of the Sind Mahomedan Education Committee. Sind Mahomedan Education Committee appointed by Government have been, or are proposed to be, carried into effect;	1. (a) and (b) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the extracts from paragraphs 4 to 49 of Government Resolution No. 1762 dated the 12th July 1918, forming an accompaniment to Press Note No. 2227 dated the 30th August 1918. The further progress made in carrying into effect the recommendations of the Committee is indicated in the accompanying statement.*
(b) if not, what recommendations have not been, or are not proposed to be, carried into effect; and for what reasons?
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919 when an ad interim reply was given.]
	* Vide Appendix I.
2. Will Government be pleased to state Gift to education: Sind. what has been done about one lakh of rupees that has been given by Khan Bahadur Mir Ghulam Mahomed Khan, O.B.E., of Tando Bago, for education in Sind?	2. The money has been deposited in a bank, and it has been decided to start an Anglo-Vernacular School at Tando Mahomed Khan for which a site has been selected and plans and estimates are being prepared.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920 when an ad interim reply was given.]
3. Will Government be pleased to Mahomedan Education. state what powers and facilities, if any, have been given to the special Mahomedan Deputy Educational	3. Enquiries are being made.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[The Honourable Sardar Gulam Jilani; The Honourable Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

Questions.

Answers.

1. Will Government be pleased to state—

Mahomedan Deputy Educational Inspector.

(a) Whether it is a fact that no Mahomedan is holding the post of Deputy Educational Inspector of Schools in the Northern and Central Divisions?

1. (a) No. In addition to the Special Urdu Deputies for these Divisions, there is a Mahomedan Deputy at Thana in the Northern Division.

(b) Whether it was not decided that at least one Mahomedan will be appointed to serve as a District Deputy?

(b) Government are not aware of any such decision.

2. Will Government be pleased to state

Mahomedan students in training classes.

(a) how many Mahomedan students have been admitted in all the newly started training classes and schools in the different Districts of this Presidency?

2. (a) and (b) Enquiries are being made.

(b) Whether it is a fact that since the establishment of the Urdu training classes in Poona many Mahomedan students have been discouraged or refused admission from joining the District training classes on the plea of an existing institution especially meant for Mahomedan teachers?

3. Will Government be pleased to state

Mahomedan Head Masters.

how many Mahomedans have been appointed as Head Masters of High Schools in this Presidency?

3. One.

4. Will Government be pleased to state

Anglo-Urdu Schools.

how many Anglo-Urdu Schools there are in the Central and Northern Divisions?

4. The information is being obtained.

5. Will Government be pleased to state

Mahomedan professors.

how many Mahomedan lecturers and professors have been raised to the Indian Educational Service?

5. There is no Mahomedan amongst the four members of the Provincial Educational Service who have been promoted to the Indian Educational Service. The question of further promotions to that service is under the consideration of Government.

THE HONOURABLE Mr. B. S. KAMAT.

1. (a) With reference to the general

Pay of clerical establishments.

revision of pay of clerical establishments proposed by Government this year (vide Circular No. 8311, Financial Department, of 6th December last), will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table a statement showing with reference to the Revenue Department the number of clerical and other subordinate appointments affected, the rates of pay in force at present, and the total annual costs for the establishments for all the districts?

1. (a) Already answered.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

(b) Will Government also give figures of the total outlay on account of war allowance for the above?

Answers.

(b) The total expenditure during the year 1919-20 on account of war allowance to the clerical and other subordinate establishments in the Revenue Department amounted to Rs. 11,29,490, viz., Rs. 9,08,654 for the Presidency proper and Rs. 2,20,836 for Sind.

2. With reference to the Hydro-electric scheme by the Tata Power Company in the Poona District, will Government be pleased to furnish the following information:—

Hydro-electric scheme, Tata Power Company.

What is the number of villages likely to be submerged by the dam, the number of landholders, and the total population likely to be affected?

2. The number of villages likely to be submerged is 39. About 2,594 landholders and a total population of 7,888 persons are likely to be affected.

3. Will Government be pleased to say—

Country liquor shops.

(a) How many shops for the vend of country liquor in the Presidency had to be re-auctioned last year owing to the licensees having failed to carry out their contracts, and what was the loss or gain to Government by the re-auctioning?

3. (a) The information required is given in the following table:—

District.	Number of shops re-auctioned.	Gain on re-sale.	Loss on resale.
		Rs.	Rs.
Kaira ...	1	...	3,400
Surat ...	1	15	...
Thana ...	8	286	37,613
Kánara ...	4	143	..
Belgáum ...	4	137	48
Bijápur ...	2	...	2,006
Sátára ...	1	63	...
Násik ...	26	...	2,28,287*
West Khándesh ...	5	...	16,668
East do. ..	2	...	975
Total ...	54	644	2,83,997

* Orders for the recovery of Rs. 1,07,375 from the defaulting licensees have been issued, but it cannot be stated at present how much of it will be recovered.

(b) Is the auction system to be continued after the 1st of April next?

(c) Is the number of country liquor shops in the Presidency proposed to be generally kept the same for next year?

(b) and (c) Reply already given.

4. (a) Are Government aware of a universal feeling prevailing amongst the inhabitants of Poona City that the health of the town has been adversely affected owing to the defects in the Poona City drainage works?

Health statistics of Poona City.

(b) Will Government be pleased to say if the Sanitary Commissioner to Government has looked into the comparative statistics of the health and mortality of city in the pre-drainage days and since the construction of the drainage system?

4. (a) The assertion is often made that the institution of a sewerage system in Poona has adversely affected the public health of that City; but such assertions are usually made in the beginning in respect of all towns which adopt modern methods of sanitation.

(b) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

Questions.	Answers.
(c) If the answer is in the affirmative will Government please say if he has arrived at a conclusion justifying the prevalent belief?	(c) No.
(d) If the answer is in the negative, will Government be pleased to furnish comparative figures bearing on the mortality and the disease in Poona City, say during three years prior to the commencement of the drainage as well as since the construction of the drainage?	(d) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the accompanying table* of vital statistics of Poona City and the foot-note to it. * Vide Appendix J.
[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]
5. Will Government be pleased to say—	5. (a) and (b) The pay of the vaccinators was last revised in April 1919. Applications for revision of pay have since been received and are being considered departmentally in consultation with the local bodies who bear the charges. No special scheme of revision has been called for.
(a) if they have received any representations from the vaccinators in the Central Division, either direct or through the Head of the Department praying for a revision of pay; if so, how have they been dealt with? (The pay of vaccinators.)
(b) Whether Government have called for a scheme of revision of pay for the Vaccinators from the Sanitary Commissioner, in the same way as in the case of Subordinate establishments in other Departments; if so, whether a scheme has been received by Government and is under consideration? When was the vaccinators' pay revised last?
(c) Whether pending a revision of pay, if any, vaccinators are receiving temporary and provisional allowances in lieu of the war allowance sanctioned for Government servants in certain Departments under Government Resolution, No. 210 of 1920, Financial Department?	(c) Yes.
6. Have Government noticed in the columns of the Kesari of Poona, dated the 15th and 22nd June, statements to the effect that Mr. Simcox, while the Collector of Sholapur, raised funds from the public for a proposed Dharamshala for pilgrims at Pandharpur? If so, will Government be pleased to state the facts of the case and the steps, if any, taken by Government in the matter? (Proposed Dharamshala in Pandharpur.)	6. The Honourable Member is referred to the answer given to question No. 13 put by the Honourable Mr. D. V. Belvi.
7. (i) Are Government aware of great inconvenience being caused to the public for want of a bridge over the Nala at Agadi, Taluka Karajgi, District Dharwar, especially during the rains? (Nala bridge at Agadi, Taluka Karajgi, Dharwar.)	7. (i) Government have not received any complaints regarding the inconvenience.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(ii) Is it a fact that when the Nala is inundated in the rains, mails to six different Post Offices serving a large number of villages around the tract are undelivered for days together?	(ii) No. When the nala is in floods the mail runners take a somewhat circuitous route and reach their destination only a few hours late.
(iii) Is it a fact that this subject has been brought to the notice of Government many times through the district durbars held at Dharwar?	(iii) No. The matter was brought to the notice of the Collector in the District Durbar held at Dharwar, in October 1915. The Collector then referred it to the local Public Works Department officers. The preparation of a project for the work was, however, held over owing to the financial stringency caused by the war.
8. Will Government be pleased to state, with reference to the answers to my question No. 7 at the March meeting of the Council, regarding Distillery Contractors, Messrs. Carew and Company— Messrs. Carew & Co., Distillery Contract.	8. (a) and (b) Government are awaiting the report of the Commissioner of Customs, Salt and Excise on the result of the examination of the Company's audited accounts.
(a) if Government have now examined the accounts of this Company;
(b) what has been the total loss to Government owing to the fault of the Company in carrying out their contract;
(c) the amount of cash advance that was made by Government to help them; and	(c) Advances aggregating Rs. 1,99,000 have been made to the Company.
(d) the amount of remission, if any, Government were pleased to grant them?	(d) The matter will be considered on receipt of the report referred to above.
9. Will Government be pleased to state, with reference to the new contracts for the supply of country spirit, proposed to be given from the 1st of August 1920 for the town and island of Bombay and surrounding districts, if tenders have been called for from distillers; if so, will Government be pleased to give the names of the tendering firms? Distillers: new contracts.	9. Tenders were called for but none were received.
10. Will Government be pleased to state—	10. (a), (b) and (c) Inquiry will be made.
(a) if it is a fact that since April last, certain liquor shops in Thana and Kolaba districts had to remain closed for certain days owing to irregular supply; Liquor shops: Thana, Kolaba.
(b) if any loss has been caused to Government on this account;
(c) if so, how much?
11. Will Government be pleased to state when the Deolali Distillery is expected to be ready, and what area of supply it is designed to serve? Deolali Distillery.	11. It is not yet possible to say when the distillery will be ready, nor what areas it will be able to serve.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada.]

Questions.

Answers.

THE HONOURABLE SARDAR DULABAWA RAISINGJI, THAKOR OF KERWADA.

1. Is it a fact that talukdars holding 91 Dokdas' Bhag or Bhunkoda applied for releasing their estates from the management of the Talukdari Settlement Officer?

Talukdari Estate of Bhunkoda.

1. No.

2. Is it a fact that the estate of Makhiawa was taken under the management under section 28 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act as per Government Order No. 2117, dated 6th March 1914, only for one year, and although the period of one year expired five years ago and in spite of the protest of the widows of the late Thakor, the management is still continued?

Talukdari estates of Makhiawa.

2. The estate was originally taken under management as stated. In 1915 it was mortgaged with possession to Government as security for a Government loan. This loan has now been repaid and the estate has been returned to the talukdar.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

3.* (a) Is it a fact that certain talukdars filed a suit No. 59 of 1917 in the District Court at Ahmedabad against the Talukdari Settlement Officer?

Civil suit by certain talukdars.

3. (a) Yes.

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the decision of the suit by the District Court and whether any injunction was issued by that Court.

(b) The suit is still under decision; an ex parte temporary injunction was issued and subsequently withdrawn.

4. Will Government be pleased (a) to place on the Council Table the report of Mr. Kent on the subject of provincialising roads in Gujarat?

Provincialising local roads.

4. (a) Mr. Kent did not make any report on the subject of provincializing roads in Gujarat.

(b) to say how many roads have been provincialised this year?

(b) Twenty-three roads in the Northern Division as shown in the accompanying statement† were provincialized with effect from 1st April 1920.

†Vide Appendix Z.

5. Will Government be pleased to state with reference to my question No. 5 at the last Council meeting whether in all these Talukdari villages police patels are paid by the Talukdars?

Talukdari villages in Ahmedabad District.

5. Yes.

* This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920. The answer to it was not then ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Sardar Dulabawa Raisingji, Thakor of Kerwada; Mr. C. V. Mehta.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
6. Will Government be pleased to state (a) how many estates have been released from the management of the Talukdari Settlement Officer, Ahmedabad, this year? Management of Talukdari estate.	6. (a) and (b) Information will be called for.
(b) how many Talukdari estates have been under the management for more than 30 years?
THE HONOURABLE MR. C. V. MEHTA, LL.B.
1. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the names of the contractors to whom the lime kunkur fields in the island of Salsette have been farmed out for the last 15 years? Salsette lime contract.	1. (a) The following are the names of the contractors :— Ali Mahomed Kassum & Co. Haji Umer Haji Adam. Haji Ibrahim Aba & Co. Appaji Sadashive Dongre. Ali Saheb Haji Miya Faki. Ali Mahomed Haji Kasam & Co. Haji Tarmahomed Haji Ibrahim Patel. Abdul Rahiman Issa. Kasam Aba Juma. Miya Ahmed Haji Alli. Miya Ahmed Ismail & Co. Haji Usman Haji Ismail. Suleman Tayab. Ali Mahomed Haji Vali Mahomed. Mahommed Aba Juma. Dada Abba Jumma. Haji Suleman Haji Jusab. Suleman Aba Mahommed. Haji Ismail Haji Mahomed. Haji Jusab Haji Vali. Haji Mahomed Haji Vali Mahomed. Haji Ibrahim Mahommed. Ismail Haji Ali. Names of Contractors for the years 1908-09 and 1910-11 and 1911-12 have not been included as the records for these years have been destroyed.
(b) Will Government be pleased to state the terms and conditions of the contract?	(b) A copy of the memorandum of the conditions prescribed for the farm of the years 1905-06 to 1907-08 is appended.* In the case of the farm for the years 1908-09 to 1910-11 the following was added at the beginning of condition No. 10 :— "The right to remove lime stone under the contract will extend over the bed of the sea and the land lying within the port limits of all the sea-coast villages within the area of the farm. The contractor shall however bind himself in writing to cause no injury to the port."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. B. S. Kamat.]

Questions.

12. Will Government be pleased to state the number of existing distilleries in the Presidency, their location, the names of the contractors working the same, and the periods when their contracts terminate?

Existing distilleries and contracts.

Answers.

12. The information is furnished in the following statement:—

Name and locality of the distillery.	Names of supply contractors.	Date of expiry of contract.
Godhra distillery in the Panch Mahals district.	Messrs. Dalal, Vakil and Company.	31st March 1922.
Surat distillery in the Surat district.	Messrs. Boyce D. Cowasji and Company.	Do.
Mundhwa distillery in the Poona district.	Messrs. Nowroji Padamji and Company.	Do.
Dhulia distillery in the West Khandesh district.	Messrs. Sorabji and Kawasji Dadabhoy Dubash.	Do.
Khanapur distillery in the Belgaum district.	The Khanapur Distillery Company.	31st March 1921.
Wadia* distillery in the Sankheda Mewas.	Mr. Jamshedji Nusserwanji Ginwalla and Sons.	31st March 1923.
Dabhoda distillery in the Mahi Kantha.

*Temporary.

13. Will Government be pleased to say if they contemplate any material change in the auction system of the disposal of the privilege of vend of country liquor after the termination of the present term, namely, after the 31st of March 1921?

Vend of country liquor.

13. No.

14. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many years Mr. S. D. Smith, Deputy Commissioner of Salt and Excise, C. D., has been serving in Bombay without a transfer since his service in the Excise Department;

Deputy Commissioner, Salt and Excise, C. D.

(b) if any other officer in that Department has had before him an equally long service in Bombay?

14. (a) Thirteen years.

(b) Yes.

15. Will Government be pleased to furnish comparative figures from typical districts showing whether since the auction system of the disposal of country liquor-shops as against the fixed fee system, cases of corruption detected in the inspecting staff of the Excise Department have been increasing or decreasing?

Excise Inspecting Staff.

15. No such figures are available.

16. Will Government be pleased to state if Government have received from the talatis of the Northern Division representations praying for a revision of their pay?

Representations by Talatis.

16. Yes.

17. Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state, with reference to malaria at Lonavla and Khandala, if it is a fact that a Committee, appointed by Government with the Sanitary Commissioner and Sanitary Engineer as Malaria: Lonavla, Khandala.

17. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
members, has found after investigation that the cause of the malaria is leakage from the Lakes of the Tata Hydro-electric Power Company, and the swamps due to the leakage?
(b) to say in this connection (i) if, with a view to prevention of malaria this Committee has recommended that cane and rice cultivation in certain areas near Lonavla and Khandala should be prohibited by the acquisition of those areas for the Tata Company; (ii) if the Tata Hydro-electric Company has carried out so far all the schemes for the draining of those swamps as recommended by the Committee; (iii) if, amongst these, a proposal to drain swamps near the Khandala Convalescent Home has been carried out; (iv) if any such schemes have not yet been carried out, what steps Government are taking to ask the Tata Hydro-electric Company to expedite the work in the interest of the health of a large number of residents of Lonavla and Khandala whose properties are affected injuriously by the leakage swamps?	(b) (i) Yes. (ii) The Company has carried out certain schemes in part and it is hoped that they will be completed without undue delay. (iii) and (iv) The Collector of Poona has been asked to ascertain and report whether the Company agrees to construct as drain so as to carry off the water from all flat areas including the one near the Khandala Convalescent Home.
18. Will Government be pleased to say, with reference to the increased rates of pay, recently sanctioned by Government for clerical establishments in the mofussil? (Clerical establishments—revised pay.)	18. (a) Yes.
(a) if they have received complaints from clerks who have already put in a length of service under the old rates of pay that they will suffer a hardship in the matter of their revised pay in comparison with men junior to them who may be recently promoted or who may be newly recruited under the revised scale?
(b) if Government have received petitions in this connection praying that in calculating the pay to be drawn according to the new revision by such clerks with a length of service, their total length of service should be counted for purposes of advanced increments and not only the service on their present pay?	(b) Yes.
(c) if such requests are receiving the sympathetic consideration of Government or whether Government have arrived at any decision in the matter?	(c) Government have decided to adhere to their original proposals which alone allow calculation of cost and prompt orders.
(d) whether in the case of the revision of pay of subordinate establishments in Bombay,—Government intend to be pleased to make the time-scale applicable to men who are in service for a number of years according to the length of their service?	(d) No, for the reasons given in (c).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. C. V. Mehta.]

Questions.

Answers.

In the year 1911-12 the conditions were altered. A copy of the conditions prescribed for the farms for the years 1911-12, and 1912-13 to 1918-19 is also appended.* While granting the farm for the years 1919-20 to 1921-22 the following amendments were made :—

(1) Old condition No. 10 was added to condition No. 1 with the addition of the words "inter alia" between "will" and "extend" in the first sentence thereof.

(2) The following addition was made at the end of old condition No. 2 :—

"The contractor is not to sublet the farm or take in partners except with the express permission of the Collector."

* Vide Appendices K and L.

(3) The following was added as a new condition :—

"The Collector is not bound to accept the highest or any other bid."

2. (i) Will Government be pleased to say with regard to presidents and vice-presidents of taluka local boards in the Presidency Proper and Sind.

Local Boards: Non-official Presidents.

2. (i) (a) The portion of the question relating to presidents has already been answered. As regards vice-presidents, the following table will furnish the information required by the Honourable Member :—

Division.	No. of taluka local boards having non-official vice-presidents.	No. of taluka local boards having official vice-presidents.
N. D. ...	36	5
C. D. ...	51	14
S. D. ...	50(out of 51)*	Nil
Sind ...	53	6

* The remaining board is the Ranebennur Taluka Local Board, which has not elected a vice-president as its president is not a salaried servant of Government.

(a) How many boards in each Division have official presidents and vice-presidents, and how many non-officials holding the offices ?

(b) If any attempt has been made in Sind to substitute official presidents and vice-presidents by non-official ones ?

(b) An attempt has been made ; and in 53 out of 59 taluka local boards non-officials have been appointed to be vice-presidents. No non-official presidents have been appointed, as those who would be acceptable to the rural population of the talukas seldom reside at taluka headquarters, have very little literary education, and no experience of administration.

(ii) Will Government be pleased to say what District Local Boards in Sind have non-official presidents and vice-presidents ?

(ii) This has already been answered.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. C. V. Mehta.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

Answers.

3. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the names of Kalambandi villages of Matar taluka, Kaira district, with the extent of land under cultivation and irrigation in each?

Kalambandi villages, taluka Matar, district Kaira.

(b) * * *

(c) (i) Was water from Khari river regularly supplied to such lands during the last five years?

(ii) If not, will the Government be pleased to state why and in which years it was not so done?

(iii) Was any remission granted for the years in which water could not be supplied?

(iv) If so, what is the area for which remission was granted and the amount so remitted?

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when an ad interim reply was given.]

3. (a) and (c) A statement† giving the required information is placed on the Council Table.

† Vide Appendix M.

*4. (a) Are Government aware that several fatalities have occurred at the bathing sands at Versova and Juhu?

Drowning accidents: Bathing sands at Versova and Juhu.

(b) Will Government please state the number of such accidents during the last five years?

4. (a) Yes. There is a spot (on the Juhu-Versova sands) where cross currents and quick sands make bathing dangerous; but much depends upon the state of the tide.

(b) The following are the number of bathing fatalities during the last five years—

	Versova.	Juhu.
1915	...	1
1916	...	...
1917	1	1
1918	...	1
1919	1	...
	2 +	3=5

(c) Is it proposed to take any action?

(c) The question of a notice board, for the information of those who do not know the locality, is under consideration.

5. Will Government be pleased to state:—

(a) the principles on which and the officers by whom the efficiency bar is applied in the Police Service?

Police Service: efficiency bar.

(b) the principles on which the list of superintendents of Police considered fit to hold charge of a first class district, contained in Government Resolution No. 6773, dated 14th August 1919 was prepared?

(c) How many officers appealed against the list?

5. (a) The efficiency bar in the junior scale is applied to an officer who is not considered fit for a superior appointment and in the senior scale to an officer who is not considered fit to be put in charge of a first class district. The decision rests with Government.

(b) The lists were prepared on a consideration of the records of the officers concerned.

(c) Three.

*This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920. Answer to it was not ready.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Mr. C. V. Mehta: Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.]

Questions.

Answers.

(d) Whether the officers against whom the bar is applied are told the reasons for same and whether they have any opportunity to get the bar removed by future efficiency in their work?

(d) Government are prepared to inform any individual officer of the reasons for applying the efficiency bar. If an officer to whom the bar has been applied subsequently gives proof of his efficiency to the satisfaction of Government the bar will be removed.

6. Will Government be pleased to state—

Land for tennis courts.

(a) On what authority has the disposal of the plot of ground to the North of the Marine Lines Station on the B. B. & C. I. Railway been made?

6. (a) Under the authority of the Bombay City Land Revenue Act.

(b) By whom is it now occupied?

(b) By the Girls' Guides Association in India.

(c) Is it available for Tennis Courts for any of the neighbouring Gymkhanas who are now badly in need of land?

(c) No.

THE HONOURABLE RAO BAHADUR V. S. NAIK.

1. Will Government be pleased to say how many of the graduates in each division who entered service in the Revenue Department before 1904 have still remained without getting Mamlat or offices equal in rank to Mamlat?

Graduates and Mamlat.

1. 3 in the Northern Division;
2 in the Central Division;
9 in the Southern Division.

Six of those in the Southern Division are at present acting as Mamlatdars.

2. (a) Are Government aware that recently large stocks of grass stored by rayots as fodder on their farms near the railway lines and many Gavali huts who have settled for a very long time, some even prior to the introduction of railway, towards the west of Dhárwár, took fire and were completely destroyed causing damage to the extent of thousands of rupees as the result of engine drivers of the M. & S. M. Railway carelessly and wantonly blowing sparks in the air?

Fire caused by engine drivers.

2. (a) and (b) The following damage is reported to have been caused by fire during the last 5 years:—

District.	Táluka.	Locality.	Nature of Material.	Amount of damage.
				Rs.
Belgaum	Khánápur ...	Kodagai ...	Straw and husked rice.	100
		Machali ...	Huts, straw, corn, etc.	1,300
		Shedegali ...	Rice straw ...	30
Bijápur	No damage reported.
Dhárwár.	Dhárwár ...	Kelgeri ...	Grass ...	300
Kánara...	Supa Petha ...	Tinai ...	Grass ...	15
			Total ...	1,745

(b) Will Government be pleased to make enquiries whether similar damages were caused to the rayots almost every year and collect information for the last 5 years as to on how many occasions the grass stored took fire along the railway lines as the result of sparks being blown from the railway engines and the extent of damage caused on each occasion by such fires and lay the same on the Council Table?

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
3. Will Government be pleased to furnish the following information, separately for each of the marginally noted services in respect of all officers named in the service lists published in the latest edition of the Bombay Civil List? Cost and number of certain appointments. List of services. 1. I. C. S. 2. P. W. D. 3. I. Forest S. 4. I. Police S. 5. I. Edcl. S. 6. I. M. S. (i) What is (a) the number and (b) the aggregate cost per month in pay and allowances of appointments (whether within or without the Presidency, and whether directly under Government or not) carrying higher remuneration than the maximum attainable under the ordinary time-scale by any officer not stopped by the efficiency bar? (ii) What is (a) the number and (b) the aggregate cost per month, over and above the pay admissible to the holders under the ordinary time-scale, of appointments (whether within or without the Presidency and whether directly under Government or not) carrying (i) special rates of pay, but within the normal time-scale maximum; or (ii) special allowances, other than conveyance, travelling, local and sumptuary allowances?	3. The Honourable Member is referred to the Civil List for July 1920—to be shortly issued—which will contain information regarding pay of officers according to the new time-scales.
4. Will Government be pleased to name the appointments referred to in sub-sections (i) and (ii) of question 1 above which are held by members of the I. C. S.? Appointments held by the Indian Civil Service.	4. The Honourable Member is referred to the Civil List for July 1920—to be shortly issued—which will contain information regarding pay of officers according to the new time-scales.
5. Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that graduates directly recruited in the Southern Division under rules of 1910 have been recently appointed to Mamlat in preference to the graduates fully qualified for Mamlats under the old rules? Appointments to Mamlat: Southern Division.	5. Enquiry will be made.
6. Will Government be pleased to say— (a) how many graduates directly recruited under rules of 1910 have been appointed as Mamlatdars or to offices equal to or higher in rank than Mamlats during the last three years in preference to those that entered service under old rules and were fully qualified to hold mamlats? Appointments to Mamlat: New rules.	6. Information will be called for.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) if there are still any graduates who have entered service under 1885 rules and who have not yet got mamlats although they are fully qualified to hold such posts?
(c) if there are any such graduates, for what reason these graduates have been held back from being made Mamlatdars?
7. Will Government be pleased to say whether they have proposed to Government of India a revision in the grades and pay of the Mamlatdars? (Grades and pay of Mamlatdars.)	7. The Government of India are being addressed.
8. (a) Will Government be pleased to say whether the Honourable Justice Hayward has made any proposals to Government in connection with the revision of the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judicial Courts in the Dharwar District, location of additional Sub-Judges and opening of new courts in certain talukas of the Dharwar District? (Subordinate Courts: District Dharwar.)	8. (a) The High Court have made certain proposals for the revision of the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Courts in Dharwar District and for the creation of a new Court at Ranebennur.
(b) If so, what action they have taken to give effect to the Honourable Justice Hayward's suggestions as far as Dharwar District is concerned as announced by Government in reply to the discussion on the Honourable Mr. Upasani's resolution No. 3 about the extension of the Taluka Courts at the March sessions of the Legislative Council?	(b) These proposals are still under the consideration of Government.
9. Will Government be pleased to say—
(a) Whether it is a fact that they have recently formed a standing Provincial Agricultural Board consisting of officials and non-officials to advise Government in the matter of development of agricultural activities in this Presidency? (Agricultural Advisory Board.)	9. (a) Government have sanctioned a Provincial Board of Agriculture for the purposes indicated.
(b) If so, whether any non-official gentleman from the Southern Division has been nominated upon the Board?	(b) Three non-official gentlemen from the Southern Division were nominated for the session of June 1920.
10. Will Government be pleased to say—
(a) whether it is a fact that the theatrical companies when they are on tour are required to obtain under the Dramatic Performances Act, at each and every place, permission from the local authorities to play even standard dramas which have been printed, have not been proscribed by Government and are being performed for years together? (Theatrical touring companies.)	10. (a) and (c) Rules* framed under the Dramatic Performances Act, XIX of 1876, and section 39-A of the District Police Act, and the instructions to Magistrates as to the working of the same are placed upon the table.

Vide Appendix AA.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Rao Bahadur V. S. Naik; Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) whether Government are aware that the granting of such permission being entirely upon the discretion of local authorities, it is refused in some places in respect of some dramas although permission to perform the same dramas is given by the authorities at other places and thus causes a great inconvenience and hardship to these theatrical companies in the mofussil?	(b) Government have no information that these rules are so worked as to cause inconvenience or hardship.
(c) whether Government have laid down any principles for granting or refusing permission to perform these dramas.
11. Will Government be pleased to say whether it is a fact that the Dharwar Municipality had exempted certain merchants, some of whom were Municipal councillors, from payment of octroi on goods imported by them into the municipal areas?	11. Government have no information on the subject. Inquiry is being made.

Dharwar Municipality: Octroi dues.

THE HONOURABLE MR. R. P. PARANJPYE.

1. (1) Did the strike of mill-hands of Sholapur begin on 26th January 1920?	1. (1) Yes.
(2) Is it true that Messrs. Manikchand, Strutton, Khan Saheb Imam, retired police officer, C.I.D., and others formed themselves into a committee to intervene between the mill-hands and the mill-owners at the instance of the Collector?	(2) Mr. Strutton volunteered to do his best to arrange a settlement by meeting the strikers. The District Magistrate suggested his taking with him one Hindu and one Musalman gentleman who had no connection with the mills. Accordingly he took K. S. Imam and Mr. Manikchand, after consultation with the District Magistrate and others.
(3) Is it not true that the second committee consisting of Messrs. V. N. Sathaye, retired Deputy Collector and honorary first class Magistrate, and others along with strikers' representatives of the mill-hands from each mill, was formed to supersede the first committee in the morning of 28th January?	(3) A second committee was formed on 28th January 1920, of which Mr. Sathaye became Chairman. It did supersede the first, but Government is not aware that it was formed with that intention.
(4) Is it true that Messrs. Manikchand, Samant, Strutton, Laxmi Narayan and Dhumina met at the bungalow of Mr. V. N. Sathaye in the afternoon of 28th January 1920 to confer with the representatives of the mill-hands?	(4) Yes. This is believed to be the case.
(5) Is it true that during the progress of this meeting at Mr. V. N. Sathaye's bungalow, Mr. Strutton got a letter from the Collector and that the former	(5) Mr. Strutton left the meeting, not in consequence of any letter from the District Magistrate, but because he was not satisfied with the demand framed

Strike of mill-hands: Sholapur.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Questions.	Answers.
left the meeting stating that he did not wish to work on the committee?	by the new committee. The District Magistrate himself requested Mr. Strutton to remain on any committee that was formed, in order to moderate the demands if possible.
(6) Is it true that Mr. Manikchand followed Mr. Strutton?	(6) Yes.
(7) Is it true that Messrs. Manikchand and Strutton saw the Collector in this connection that evening?	(7) Yes.
(8) Was Mr. V. N. Sathaye sent for by the Collector on 28th January 1920?	(8) Yes.
(9) Did not Mr. Sathaye visit the Collector late in the evening along with two other gentlemen?	(9) Yes.
(10) Did not the Collector insult Mr. Sathaye at this interview and threaten him that if he intervened, he would hold Mr. Sathaye responsible for any breach or bloodshed?	(10) The answer to the first part of the question is in the negative; as regards the latter part, the District Magistrate told Mr. Sathaye that he was not justified as a Magistrate in forming any committee at that juncture without consulting him (the District Magistrate). He also warned him that if rioting ensued Mr. Sathaye and the committee would be in no small measure responsible for it.
(11) Were the mill-hands holding large meetings on Hom Maidan up to and inclusive of 15th February 1920?	(11) Yes.
(12) Is it true that police officers were present at such meetings?	(12) Yes.
(13) Is it true that in reply to the petition from the strikers the Collector insisted on Mr. Strutton being elected as one of the representatives?	(13) Yes, as a representative of the Criminal Tribes Settlement.
(14) Was there any indication of disturbance of peace on the part of mill-hands up to 16th February 1920?	(14) On the 26th January the strikers from the old mill attacked the Vishnu Mill, and their violence brought the hands out. Stones were thrown and at least one Police Officer was injured. As to the men's attitude of the 28th, there was danger of violence. There was organised obstruction to hands returning to work almost daily. On the 14th February 1920, when Mr. Strutton was endeavouring to reason with the meeting, he was hooted and had stones thrown at him. On 15th February 1920, the meeting showed distinct signs of intending violence, though no actual outbreak occurred.
(15) Did the strikers walk through the city without creating any disturbance in the morning of the 16th February 1920?	(15) The strikers left the Maidan at about 11 a.m. and endeavoured to get to the Old Mill en masse. They were diverted with great difficulty on the promise of a pronouncement as to their pay in the afternoon. They proceeded home about 12 noon mostly through the City. On the way they stole a few trifles from shops, which caused the shopkeepers to close their shops.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(16) Is it true that the mill-hands in the meeting on Hom Maidan swore Hindus by cow, and Muhammedans by Kuran not to cause any disturbance or riot or to damage any property?	(16) Some vows are said to have been put to the strikers but it is not known how they were put, or whether they were accepted.
(17) What is the distance of the place of tragedy of the 16th of February 1920 from the entrance to the Sholapur Mill and what from that to the Narsingirji Mill?	(17) The distance of the shot when firing first took place is about 400 yards N. E. of the Sholapur Mill, and about 50 yards S. W., on the same road, of the Narsingirji Mill.
(18) Do buildings exist between this place and the Narsingirji Mill? If so, what is the distance covered by the intervening buildings?	(18) The Narsingirji Mill lies along the road facing S. E. Opposite it are rows of low chals separated by door and alley ways. Firing first took place on the road without any hits. Afterwards the mob was driven through the chals, and when more violent stoning took place beyond them some casualties occurred. The chals vary in depth, and are placed irregularly.
(19) Did the strikers near the Narsingirji mill throw any stones at the mill on the 16th February 1920?	(19) No.
(20) Was any damage done to the mill buildings?	(20) No.
(21) Did not the strikers near the Sholapur mill compound remain completely peaceful and fully carry out the instructions of Mr. Ellis, the District Superintendent of Police?	(21) No. They did not obey the orders of Mr. Ellis.
(22) Is it not true that no firing was done there?	(22) No firing was done there.
(23) When did Mr. Ellis go to the place of firing?
(24) Was any firing done subsequently?
(25) Is it true that the crowd near the Sholapur Mill dispersed quietly after Mr. Ellis left for the tragic place?	(25) The District Superintendent of Police did not go to the scene of fire at all.
(26) Is it true that it was about dark when the last firing was done?	(26) It was twilight, but by no means dark.
(27) Is it true that Government telegraph office refused to accept telegrams about firing for some time? If so, how long and under whose orders?	(27) No. No district officer gave any orders to the telegraph department.
(28) Is it true that the District Magistrate and the District Superintendent of Police have made separate reports about the events of 16th February 1920?	(28) Yes.
(29) If so, would Government be pleased to publish them?	(29) Copies of the reports are attached.
(30) Is it true that those who were killed and wounded on the evening of 16th February 1920, received wounds about the waist and some in the back?	(30) The killed were not wounded in the back except for 'exit wounds'. One was hit through the chest, two through the neck and one through the

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Questions.	Answers.
	forehead. Two seriously wounded men were hit in the arm and chest and arm respectively. Other wounds reported are flesh wounds.
(31) Is it true that Honorary First Class Magistrate Mr. V. N. Sathaye was present at the inquests held on the dead bodies in the City dispensary on 17th February 1920?	(31) Yes.
(32) Is it true that in the case of one dead body the Magistrate and the Panch suspected that the wound near the neck was by a sharp instrument and not of bullets?	(32) Yes
(33) Is it true that this dead body was recommended by the Magistrate and the Panch for being sent to the Civil Surgeon for post mortem examination?	(33) Yes.
(34) Was any post mortem examination made in this case? If so, what opinion the Civil Surgeon gave?	(34) The Civil Surgeon was busy with other cases and before he was able to attend the post mortem the relatives had taken the body away.
(35) Were all those who died on account of the injuries received on 16th February 1920 in the evening buried?	(35) Yes. By their friends on 17th.
(36) Is it true that Mr. V. N. Sathaye is a Magistrate of over 25 years' standing?	(36) Yes.
(37) Is it true that the acting City Magistrate who took charge on 17th February 1920 called for all cases pending in the Court of Mr. Sathaye, either on 18th or 19th February 1920?	(37) Yes.
(38) Did the acting City Magistrate give any reasons for this order of his? Is it untrue that he took his action at the instance of the Collector and District Magistrate?	(38) No. He acted on the instructions of the District Magistrate.
(39) Is it true that the District Magistrate has recommended for the withdrawal of Mr. Sathaye's powers? Has the District Magistrate given any reasons for such recommendation for withdrawal? If so, what are they?	(39) Mr. Sathaye tendered his resignation. The District Magistrate recommended that the resignation be accepted.
(40) Has Government noticed the account given in the Bombay Chronicle of 26th February 1920 in the matter of mill strike and tragedy at Sholapur?	(40) Yes.
(41) Has Government verified the same by independent inquiry? If so, will Government be pleased to publish it?	(41) No. Government consider that the reports already received give a sufficient account of the occurrences connected with the strike.
(42) Does Government intend to make an independent inquiry in the matter?
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when an ad interim reply was given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
2. Will Government be pleased to state—	2. In continuation of the ad interim reply given to parts (a), (b) and (d) to (g) at the December meeting, the following information is furnished:—
(a) When Nature study and Sloyd were introduced into Primary Schools? Nature study and Sloyd system.	(a) Nature study is being gradually introduced into primary schools during the current school year, while Sloyd has been taught in a few schools in the Central and Northern Divisions since the year 1918.
(b) What provision, if any, is made for the inspection of the work in these subjects?	(b) No special provision is made for the inspection of the work in these subjects: in the Central Division, Sloyd classes are inspected by officers who have been trained at the Dharwar Sloyd class. Assistant Deputies and Deputies have been instructed to inspect the work in the subjects in question at the time of the annual inspection.
(c) * * * * *	(c) * * * * *
(d) Whether there is any regular Sloyd syllabus for Primary and Secondary Schools?	(d) No special Sloyd syllabus has been prescribed for primary and secondary schools. Instruction is given in primary schools on the lines of the course adopted at the Vernacular Training Colleges and in secondary schools on the lines of the course taught in 1915 in the Dharwar Sloyd class. A copy of the three years' course in Sloyd for primary schools which is under experiment in the Central Division is appended.*
	* Vide Appendix S.
(e) What is the number of teachers trained in Sloyd work in the Dharwar class?	(e) Nineteen.
(f) What provision is made for keeping up their supply?	(f) At present there is no special source of supply. The special Sloyd class at Dharwar had to be closed late in 1915 owing to financial stringency. Students at the Vernacular Training Colleges, however, can take up Sloyd while under training.
(g) What are the High Schools where (i) paper Sloyd and (ii) wood Sloyd are taught?	(g) Paper Sloyd is taught in the High Schools at Dhulia, Satara, Sholapur, Dharwar, Belgaum and Bijapur, and wood Sloyd in those at Dharwar, Belgaum and Bijapur.
3. Will Government be pleased to state what arrangements have been made in Local Board and Municipal Schools for teaching Science lessons in the regular vernacular readers and what apparatus is generally supplied to them? Science teaching in Schools.	3. No special arrangements exist in Local Board and Municipal Schools for teaching Science lessons in the vernacular readers. The lessons are, however, taught by trained teachers during school hours with the aid of such apparatus as is usually supplied to schools, and where no apparatus is available, the lessons are explained by them by means of sketches on the blackboards and with the aid of pictures.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Questions.	Answers.
	The accompanying list* shows the apparatus generally supplied to Local Board and Municipal schools in the Presidency proper. In Sind no apparatus, except an Orrery in a few Local Board schools in each district, is supplied. In all Divisions teachers are encouraged to supply themselves and their classes with such simple specimens for nature study, etc., as can be collected easily and at little or no expense. * Vide Appendix T.
4. Will Government be pleased to say if they have taken any steps to bring into operation the resolution passed by the Legislative Council last year about allowing Government pensioners to receive their pensions by postal money orders? (Payment of pensions by postal orders.)	4. The proposal is under the consideration of higher authorities.
5. (a) Will Government be pleased to state when the Rasai Committee was appointed? (Sind Rasai Committee.)	5. (a) The Committee was appointed on 26th March 1918 and began its deliberations from 3rd April 1918.
(b) When did it submit its report to the Commissioner in Sind?	(b) The report reached the Commissioner in Sind in its final form in the middle of November 1918.
(c) Has Government received the report in question?	(c) Yes.
(d) Has Government passed any orders on the report?	(d) Government have not yet passed orders on the report.
(e) Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council Table— (i) a copy of the report, (ii) evidence taken by the Committee, (iii) report of the Commissioner thereon. (iv) orders passed by Government (if any)?	(e) (i, ii and iii).† Copies are laid on the table. † Vide memorandum from the Commissioner in Sind, No, Rev.—350, dated 26th March 1920, printed in Volume I, Diary and Report of the Committee.
6. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if the Committee, appointed by Government in pursuance of the resolution moved by the Honourable Mr. Bhurgri about the chair system in Sind, has submitted its report? (Sind Chair Committee.)	6. Government have not yet received the report.
(b) If so, will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the report on the Council table together with any orders that Government may have passed thereon?
7. (a) Has the attention of Government been called to a letter appearing in the daily Dnan Prakash newspaper of 13th May last, complaining of the serious inconvenience caused to the general public by the stoppage of all (Regulation of road traffic.)	7. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
cart traffic on roads over which His Excellency the Governor is to pass, several hours before the time of his passing over those roads?
(b) Have any definite orders been given to the police about the proper way of regulating the traffic in such cases, and if so, will Government be pleased to lay these orders on the Council table?	(b) In order to avoid any public inconvenience orders have been issued that in future no motor, horse or pony traffic should be stopped on the Poona-Mahableshwar Road on account of His Excellency's passage. Fresh orders are being drafted to reduce the stoppage of bullock carts to a minimum. Copies* of the instructions issued by the District Superintendents of Police, Poona and Satara are placed on the Council Table. * Vide Appendix U.
8. (a) Is it a fact that one of the bungalows for professors at the Deccan College is at present unoccupied? (Professor's bungalow: Deccan College.)	8. (a) Out of the three bungalows intended for the Principal and two professors of the Deccan College, Poona, the Principal's bungalow only is unoccupied at present.
(b) Have two Indian members of the College Staff who are in the Imperial Service expressed their willingness to occupy it?	(b) Yes.
(c) Have Government issued any orders about allowing one of these professors to occupy the bungalow, and if so, when will these orders be carried into effect?	(c) Orders have been issued that the Principal's bungalow should be occupied by the Principal, whether substantive or acting, and the remaining two bungalows by the Resident European Professor and by the Resident Indian Professor. These orders will be carried into effect as soon as certain repairs to the Principal's bungalow, which are necessary, have been completed.
9. Will Government be pleased to state whether Mahomedan candidates applying for admission to the District Training Schools are not admitted therein even though they are qualified for admission by passing the Vernacular Final Examination, but are told to join the Urdu Training classes either at Poona or Ahmedabad? (Mahomedan students: training schools.)	9. The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given at the present meeting to a question on the subject put by the Honourable Sardar Gulam Jilani.
10. Will Government be pleased to state how far the acquisition of land for the building for the Training College for Women in Poona has proceeded and whether the building is to be commenced in the course of the current year? (Training College for Women: Poona.)	10. It has been decided to postpone the acquisition of the land in question till the financial situation improves. It cannot be definitely stated when the building will be started.
11. Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that petitions have been received by Government against the acquisition of land between the Fergusson College and (Land acquisition: Poona.)	11. One petition was received. As the land in question is only at present proposed for reservation under the Poona Town Planning Scheme and the Town Planning Act gives ample facilities for disposal of all such objections the

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.]

Questions.	Answers.
Government House at Ganeshkhind for the housing of Government officials stating that the sites were purchased by private gentlemen for residential purposes and that the annual Chaturshringi fair attracts crowds of people by that way for ten days every year?	petitioners have been instructed to put their case before the Town Planning Authority.
If so, what answer has been returned to the petitioners?
12. Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council Table detailed statement showing the names of the European and Indian Members of the Indian Educational Service showing their salaries, (inclusive of allowances) before and after the recent revision of salaries, and their years of service? (Indian Educational Service.)	12. Information is being collected.
13. Will Government be pleased to say whether the scale of salaries of primary teachers has been raised in view of the substantial rise in the scale of all subordinate establishments? If so, will Government be pleased to say when the orders will be published? (Primary school teachers: Enhanced salaries.)	13. The question of the further revision of the salaries of primary school teachers has recently been raised and is still under consideration.
14. Will Government be pleased to say what action has been taken to remedy the grievances of the taluka masters about which the Council passed a resolution at the last session? (Grievances of taluka school masters.)	14. No resolution on the subject was passed at the last meeting of the Council but one was moved by the Honourable Mr. S. B. Upasani and withdrawn by him on an assurance being given by Government that the matter was receiving their attention. Detailed proposals are awaited from the Director of Public Instruction.
15. (a) Will Government be pleased to say if any extra allowance is paid to District Deputy Collectors who do settlement work; and if so, what is the amount of this allowance? (Settlement work: allowance.)	15. (a) Yes; Rs. 50 per mensem.
(b) If an extra allowance of the nature indicated in the above part is paid to District Deputy Collectors, is a similar allowance paid to Talaties, who do the same kind of work?	(b) No.
16. Will Government be pleased to state—	16. The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given at the present meeting to a question on the subject put by the Honourable Mr. P. A. Desai.
(a) whether it is true that the Primary schools in the town of Pen in the district of Kolaba were closed on account of plague from September 1919? (Municipal teachers: Pen, Kolaba.)
(b) whether it is true that the President of Pen Municipality asked the vernacular teachers to do work other than that of teaching during the time the schools were closed?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. R. P. Paranjpye; Mr. G. K. Parekh.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(c) whether it is true that for non-compliance with this order of the President one of the teachers was suspended and eight others were fined three months' pay?
(d) if the teachers have submitted an application against this order of the President? If so, has the Director disposed of this application; and, if so, with what result?
(e) whether it is a fact that the teachers submitted a similar application to His Excellency the Governor in Council, and, if so, will Government be pleased to state what orders have been passed on this application?
17. Will Government be pleased to state whether there are any departmental orders or orders issued by Government in the matter of employment of teachers on other work during the time their schools are closed during epidemics? If so, will Government be pleased to lay them on the Council table? Employment of School teachers in epidemics.	17. Enquiries are being made.

THE HONOURABLE MR. G. K. PAREKH.

1. Will Government be pleased to say:— (a) How many cows, bulls, and young of cows were sold for export to foreign countries from farms under the management of the Agricultural Department of Government, and (b) whether many of the animals sold were fine representatives of the Kankrej and other high caste breeds? (c) to what countries were these animals exported? Exportation of cattle.	1. (a), (b) and (c) The acompanying* statement gives the information required. Vide* Appendix N.
(g) Whether any of the officers of Government took part or gave assistance in the purchase of animals on behalf of foreign exporters?	(g) No other assistance was given by Government officers than that ordinarily given to any customer at the farms.
[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when an ad interim reply was given.]
2. With reference to the Bombay City Improvement Trust Scheme No. 54 will Government be pleased to say— Bombay City Improvement Trust Scheme.	2. The Honourable Member is referred to the published scheme.
(a) Is it a fact that in the scheme as sanctioned by Government the houses fronting the Princess Street and the Girgaum Road are included?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] Mr. G. K. Parekh.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) Is it a fact that in the case of six of the houses fronting the above Street and Road the Improvement Trust has consented to continue them in the possession of their present owners on their agreeing to pay to the Trust such sums as the Trust fixed?
3. Will Government be pleased to say—
(a) What number of students who had qualified themselves for admission to the Grant Medical College by passing the examination held at the end of the first year's college course, had applied for admission into that College this year?	3. (a) The total number of applicants for admission into the college in the first year was 620, of whom 320 were candidates from the Bombay University, and 300 candidates from other Universities.
(b) How many of these were admitted and how many were refused admission?	(b) 150 were admitted and 470 refused admission.
(c) What were the tests applied by the Grant Medical College authorities for giving or refusing admission?	(c) Selection after a personal interview with the Dean of the College.
(d) Is it true that some of the students were refused admission because their parents or guardians were comparatively poor and not well-to-do.	(d) Yes; when it was improbable that students could pay their bills in the college and hostel preference was given to others who could.
4. Will Government be pleased to say—	4. The information will be called for.
(a) Whether in the village of Karamsad in the Anand Taluka in consequence of bad seasons, portions of the Government land revenue demands of 1917-18 and 1918-19 had remained uncollected?
(b) Is it true that in 1919-20, the rice, tobacco, tuver, cotton and math crops suffered from frost, unseasonable rains and other causes?
(c) Is it true that in respect of the land revenue demands of Government, sub-sharers' quota of the demands were not recovered from them as usual but orders were issued for the recovery of the entire demands from the registered holders?
(d) What was the annual Government land revenue demand from Karamsad for 1919-20?
(e) What was the amount of penalty imposed on the Karamsad landholders for default in the punctual payment of the land revenue demands for 1919-20?
(f) What is the total amount of penalty imposed on the landholders of the Anand Taluka for having not punctually paid their Government demands for 1919-20?

Admissions to Grant Medical College.

Karamsad, Taluka Anand.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. G. K. Parekh.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
5. (1) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the issue of the Hindustan newspaper of the 11th June last giving a statement of murders, robberies, dacoities and other offences of violence that occurred in the Talukas of Kapadvanj, Thasra, Anand and Nadiad of the Kaira District during the last two years? Dacoities : District Kaira.	5. (1) Yes.
(2) In how many cases have the offenders been arrested, prosecuted and punished, and in how many have they been acquitted, and in how many cases have the offenders not been found out?	(2), (3) and (4) Information will be obtained.
(3) Will Government be pleased to say what are the causes of the increase of crimes of violence in these Talukas of the Kaira District during the last two years?
(4) Will Government be pleased to say what measures have been taken by them to prevent offences of violence in these Talukas, to arrest offenders and to bring them to Justice?
6. Will Government be pleased to say (a) whether the Committee appointed for proposing the grading of the Talatis and the revision of their salaries has submitted its report to Government? Grading of Talatis' Committee.	6. (a), (b), (c) and (d) No Committee was appointed but the Commissioners have submitted proposals which are now under consideration.
(b) what are the Committee's recommendations?
(c) whether they have met with the approval of Government?
(d) from what date they will come into force?
7. Will Government be pleased to say—	7. The information will be called for.
(a) What was the number of students who had passed the First Year's course Examination at their respective Colleges and presented themselves for admission into the College of Commerce? College of Commerce : Admission of students.
(b) Were these students required to submit to an examination at the College of Commerce before their admission?
(c) What were the subjects in which they were examined?
(d) What percentage of marks obtained qualified them for admission?
(e) How many of these students were admitted and how many refused admission?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.]

Questions. Answers.

THE HONOURABLE MR. A. F. I. PATHAN.

School Inspections.

1. (a) Is it a fact that each district has been divided into several beats, each beat being assigned to each Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector attached to the district?

(b) If so, how many times in the least during a year is each inspecting officer expected to inspect or visit each and every school within his beat to ensure satisfactory supervision?

(c) And if so, is it a fact that the one Mahomedan Assistant Deputy Inspector attached to each district is required not only to inspect and visit Urdu and non-Urdu schools within his beat but also to inspect and visit Urdu schools scattered over his district and beyond his beat?

(d) Can one Mahomedan Assistant pay the same number of visits and exercise the same amount of supervision over each Urdu school in the district as other assistants can do in respect of non-Urdu schools?

[This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when an ad interim reply was given.]

1. (a) Yes, with the exception of the Upper Sind Frontier where the District Deputy Educational Inspector has only one Assistant and is himself in charge of one of the two beats of the district.

(b) Each Assistant Deputy is expected to inspect each primary school once a year and to pay additional visits to as many as possible.

*(c) Yes, but he is usually given a smaller beat in view of the work he has to do outside his own beat.

*(d) The Mahomedan Assistant Deputy is probably not able to exercise as much supervision over Urdu schools outside his beat as is exercised by an ordinary Assistant Deputy Inspector (whether Mahomedan or non-Mahomedan) over the schools within his own beat. While, however, the Urdu schools within the Mahomedan Assistant's own beat receive as much supervision as any other schools, the Urdu schools outside the Mahomedan Assistant's beat receive more supervision than the non-Urdu schools inasmuch as they are regularly visited and supervised by the ordinary Assistant Deputy Inspector of the beat as well as by the Mahomedan Assistant. A considerable number of Urdu schools both within and without the Mahomedan Assistants's beat also receive visits from special officers such as the Divisional Deputy Inspector for Urdu Schools and the Inspectress of Urdu Girls' Schools.

* Parts (c) and (d) of the question do not concern Sind.

Improved pay to educationalists.

2. Will Government be pleased (a) to state when they expect to introduce the time-scale pay of secondary teachers?

(b) To state if it is a fact that the graduates of the Educational Department have memorialised the Government for bettering their prospects?

(c) To lay a copy of the memorial on the Council table?

2. (a) This part of the question has already been answered.

(b) and (c) A copy† of the memorial is laid on the table.

† Vide Appendix P.

Village Schoolmaster and Village post offices.

3. (a) Is it not a fact that village branch post offices are entrusted to the charge of such village schoolmasters as are recommended to the postal authorities by the Educational Inspector or the Deputy Educational Inspectors and that these schoolmasters get an allowance for the postal work that they do?

3. (a) This has already been replied to.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) If so, what is the maximum and minimum monthly allowance that is given to such schoolmasters for postal work and the net income of each of the branch offices in the charge of schoolmasters?	(b) The monthly allowances paid to schoolmasters in charge of branch post offices in the Bombay circle vary from a minimum of Rs. 4-8-0 to a maximum of Rs. 10. Each of them gets a war allowance of Rs. 2 in addition at present. These allowances are increased in individual cases, where the nature and importance of the work justify such a step. The information asked for in the latter part of the question cannot be obtained without an undue expenditure of time and labour.
(c) Will Government be pleased to place on the table a statement for the Presidency proper, showing the villages in each district where postal work has been entrusted to schoolmasters, and the religion and qualifications, period of service and pay of each of such schoolmasters as are getting postal allowance and the amount of postal allowance each gets?	(c) This part of the question has already been answered.
4. (a) Is it true that intermediate class passengers are provided with seats only in the mail train on the M. S. M. Railway, and if so, what is the total number of intermediate seats provided in the mail train?	4. (a) The total number of intermediate seats provided on each mail train between Bangalore and Poona and vice versa is 20.
Grievances of railway passengers; intermediate class.
(b) What is the average number of intermediate passengers travelling from Bangalore and intermediate stations to Poona every day?	(b) The average number of passengers booked daily by these mail trains are between Bangalore and Poona ... 49 „ Poona and Bangalore ... 39 The major portion of this traffic is short distance traffic. From stations in the neighbourhood of Belgaum the sale of 3rd class tickets by mail trains is restricted and passengers who would have otherwise travelled third class travel intermediate class for short distances from these stations.
(c) Is it true that the number of intermediate passengers far exceeds the number of seats provided for them, and if so, does the Railway Company propose to increased the accommodation for such passengers in the mail train or to provide seats for them in the passenger trains?	(c) It is not admitted that the number of intermediate passengers travelling in these trains at one time regularly exceeds the number of seats provided for them. In exceptional cases it may do so for short distances. The Railway Company has received no complaint of overcrowding in these trains.
(d) Is it true that the intermediate passengers are obliged to purchase their tickets at the third class booking window and have consequently to put up with the same inconvenience and trouble as the third class passengers in big stations, despite the fact that they pay double the third class fare? And if so, does Government propose to take any steps to redress this grievance of the intermediate passengers?	(d) Intermediate and third class tickets are sold at the same booking window just as first and second class tickets are sold. It is not possible to provide separate windows for intermediate class passengers at all stations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. A. F. I. Pathan.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
5. (a) Is it a fact that the Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors are required to be on tour throughout the year within their beats and that they have had no headquarter station except the district town where they are consequently obliged to keep their families ? (Assistant Deputy Educational Inspectors.)	5. (a) The answer to the first part of the question is in the negative and the latter part in the affirmative.
(b) If so, what are the facilities or concessions given to them for leaving their beats for the district town off and on to have a look into their family affairs ?	(b) No special facilities or concessions are given to Assistant Deputy Inspectors to enable them to visit the district towns for their private affairs. They are, however, required to come to the district towns on duty and usually remain there for some months in the year. In Sind they pass nearly 4½ months at the district headquarters.
[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]
6. Will Government be pleased (a) to state if it is a fact that the Director of Public Instruction has submitted to Government fresh proposals for improving the prospects of Secondary teachers in the Educational Department giving them a time-scale pay from Rs. 75 to Rs. 350 ? (Secondary school teachers.)	6. (a) and (b) The Director of Public Instruction has not yet submitted any such proposals.
(b) If so, to place on the Council Table a copy of the proposed scheme ?
7. Will Government be pleased to say, (a) now that Mr. Miller has returned to India, how far the scheme of introducing the Scout System in the Government schools of this Presidency has progressed ; (Boy Scout System.)	7. (a), (b) and (c) It has not been possible to formulate any scheme as the decision of the Government of India on the whole question has not yet been communicated to Government.
(b) when it is likely to be introduced into them ;
(c) to place a copy of the proposed scheme on the Council Table ?
8. Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that though they have renewed the excursion grants to High Schools, the Railway authorities are yet withholding their concessions to the students ? (Railways : Concessions to students.)	8. Enquiry will be made.
9. Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that the M. and S. M. Railway Company did not provide additional accommodation to the pilgrims going to the Yemanur Urs at Yemnur and the Arudha fair at Hubli and yet allowed the carriages to be overcrowded very largely in excess of the scheduled number of passengers in the 3rd class compartments on the last occasions ? (Pilgrims : Overcrowding in railways.)	9. Enquiry will be made.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Mr. A. F. I. Pathan; Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.]

Questions.

Answers.

10. Will Government be pleased to state if it is not a fact that the Government have from time to time declared their policy in favour of admixture of castes in the Revenue and other departments in the matter of appointments?

A question of policy.

10. Yes.

11. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of Mamlatdars' posts in the Southern Division;

Mamlatdars' posts: Southern Division.

11. (a) 65, excluding 7 Head Clerks who now graded with Mamlatdars.

(b) the total number of Lingayat population and that of the Mahomedan population in the Southern Division and their proportions to the entire population of the Division;

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to the Census Reports.

(c) the number of Brahmin, Lingayat and Mahomedan Mamlatdars in the Division;

(c) 51 Brahmins.
1 Mahomedan.
3 Lingayats.

(d) the number of Mahomedans in the Revenue service in the Division, that have passed the qualifying test for Mamlat and periods of their service?

(d) Information will be called for.

12. Will Government be pleased to state the present number of Urdu schools in each district of the Presidency proper and the number of pupils attending them?

Urdu schools.

12. The information is being obtained.

13. Will Government be pleased to state (a) whether it is a fact that it has been recently decided to keep the one Mahomedan Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector attached to each district solely and exclusively in charge of the Urdu schools in his district?

Mahomedan Assistant Educational Inspectors.

13. The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given at the present meeting to parts (c) and (d) of a question on the subject put by him at the meeting of the Legislative Council held in December last. Proposals to relieve the Mahomedan Assistant Deputy of the work of inspecting non-Urdu schools in the district are awaited.

(b) If so, whether it is possible for him to go over the whole district and pay as many extra visits to each and every Urdu school in the district as each non-Urdu Assistant is expected to pay to each school within his beat extending over a taluka or two, and further whether the Mahomedan Assistant is to have the same amount of contingent grant as the non-Urdu Assistant or a bigger amount in view of his extensive touring?

THE HONOURABLE MR. MUNMOHUNDASS RAMJI.

1. With reference to my question No. 1 and to the reply of Government thereto at the meeting held on the 18th September 1919 that "a decision of the question was postponed during the war,

Civil suit costs.

1. The question raised by the Honourable Member has been found to necessitate the compilation of complicated statistics, which are not readily available. The matter is receiving the attention of Government.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. Munmohundass Ramji.]

Questions.	Answers.
but Government have now taken up the consideration of the matter", will Government be pleased to report as to what progress has been made in this matter?
2. Will Government be pleased to give information as to: (a) who is appointed as Personal Assistant to the Director of Industries in the Presidency? (Appointment of Personal Assistant to the Director of Industries.)	2. (a) Mr. F. Carr Davies.
(b) What are the qualifications of this gentleman?	(b) Education at Sheffield Technical College, six years with British Westinghouse Company, over four years commercial engineering experience.
(c) Were any applications invited for the post?	(c) The Bombay Re-settlement Committee was asked to secure applications for the post.
(d) If so, how many applications were received and by whom was the final decision taken?	(d) and (e) The appointment was sanctioned by the Government of India on this Government's recommendation and Mr. Davies' salary is paid by the Government of India for duties performed by Mr. Davies as Assistant to the Director of Industries in his capacity as Controller of Munitions.
(e) If such applications were not invited by whom was the appointment made?
3. Will Government be pleased to say— (a) what was the total number of applications for admission in the Grant Medical College this year at the opening of the June term? (Admission to the Grant Medical College.)	3. (a) The total number of applicants for admission into the college in the first year was 620 of which 320 were candidates from the Bombay University and 300 candidates from the other universities.
(b) what was the total number admitted?	(b) 150.
(c) what was the number of applications from students who had passed the Preliminary Scientific Examination for admission in the Grant Medical College?	(c) 139.
(d) what was the number admitted?	(d) 139.
4. Will Government be pleased to say— (1) what was the number of applications for admission in the Hostel of the Grant Medical College? (Admission to the College Hostel.)	4. (1) Over 700.
(2) what was the number admitted?	(2) The number admitted was 225, which is the full accommodation available.
5. Will Government be pleased to state— (a) how many slaughter houses there are in the Bombay Presidency and where they are located? (Slaughter houses.)	5. (a) and (b) The information is being obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Mr. Munmohandas Ramji; Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.]

Questions.	Answers.
(b) how many are :— (i) managed by the Municipalities ? (ii) managed by the Private Agencies ? (iii) managed by Government ?
(c) whether there are any restrictions in any of the slaughter houses regarding the killing of calves, young milch cows and buffaloes and useful bullocks ?	(c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the answer to question No. 4* put by the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas, C.I.E., M.B.E., at the meeting of March last. * Printed as question No. 2 in this list.
(d) how many calves, buffaloes and bullocks were slaughtered during the last quinquennium in the Bombay Presidency in different slaughter houses ?	(d) The information is being obtained.

THE HONOURABLE MR. PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS, C.I.E., M.B.E.

1. (a) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing the number of dairies in Gujarat and the whole of the Northern Division ? Gujarat Dairy : Industry.	1. (a) There are 28 dairies in Gujarat, including two military dairies and one Government Dairy, distributed in the several districts, as shown below :— Surat ... ... 5 Broach ... ... 2 Kaira ... ... 3 Ahmedabad ... . 18 In addition to these there are 60 creameries in the Kaira district while the dairies in the Thana district are only milk-producing concerns which supply milk to the Bombay Island for local consumption.
(b) Is it a fact that the largest part of the outturn of these dairies goes out of the district concerned ?	(b) Yes.
(c) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing approximately how much of the outturn of the dairies in this part of the Presidency is being exported out of India ? [This question was asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when an ad interim reply was given.]	(c) Total figures of outturn of the dairies cannot be accurately ascertained but the following are the main figures for butter reported by the Collectors :—

District.	Annual outturn.	Annual exports.
Ahmedabad...	Private ... 19,38,600 Military ... 11,73,582	..... Military ... 3,360
Kaira ...	Private ... 9,60,000 Military ... 18,00,585	Private ... 8,76,000 Military ... 3,23,160 in addition lbs. 1,08,000 of milk powder were exported from Kaira.

2. (a) Is it a fact that in slaughter houses in the Presidency there are no restrictions against the slaughter of young milch-cattle of useful breed ? Slaughter of cattle.	2. (a) Yes, but the absence of restrictions is due to the fact that such animals are practically never brought to the slaughter houses.
(b) Will Government be pleased to put on the table a statement showing the average age of the milch-cattle slaughtered at big slaughter houses such as Bombay, Bandra, Poona, Ahmedabad and Belgaum during the last two years ?	(b) No record is kept of the age of the cattle slaughtered at the places mentioned ; the required statement cannot therefore be supplied.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.]

Questions.

Answers.

3. (a) Is it a fact that the following dacoities occurred in the Surat District during the current year?

Dacoities: district Surat.

(1) About the beginning of February in táluka Olpad, village Mandroi, the house of a Bania named Nemchand was attacked after dark by dacoits. The said Bania was shot dead and a Musalman neighbour of his was similarly shot dead on his interfering.

(2) About the beginning of January last at táluka Olpad, village Obhla, a Brahmin's house was attempted to be looted and the Brahmin, the village Patel and the latter's son were severely wounded.

(3) In the táluka Chorasi, village Bhedvad, about 5 in the afternoon in the beginning of February 1920, kanbis from village Vanz were looted on the high way and all the property that was in the carts was carried away.

3. (a) (1) to (3). There were two dacoities since the beginning of the year, one on the Bhedvad road on the 23rd January and the other at Mandroi on 2nd February. The former took place at 6 o'clock in the evening. The dacoity at Obhla occurred on 2nd December 1919.

In the Mandroi case a Bania and a Musalman were shot dead. In the Bhedvad case, only the property which was found on the persons of the five travellers who were attacked was taken away by the dacoits. In the Obhla case a Brahmin, the Patel of the village and his son were severely wounded.

(b) If the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to say if the culprits in all the three above cases have been traced, and if so, will Government be pleased to state how many days after each crime the culprits were traced?

(b) The accused in the Obhla case were arrested on the day after the offence occurred and have been convicted and sentenced by the Court of Session. The cases at Bhedvad and Mandroi are still under investigation and no arrests have been made.

(c) If the reply to (a) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state what precautions they have taken to prevent similar raids by dacoits hereafter and to inspire confidence in the villagers in these parts of Surat District?

(c) Eight armed Police have been detailed for duty at 8 villages in the north and north east of Olpad Táluka one Policeman at each village and a special road patrol has been instituted on the Bhedvad road. A number of arms licenses have been issued to villagers who applied for them.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 13th March 1920, when ad interim replies were given.]

4. Will Government be pleased—

(a) to lay on the Council table a statement showing how much fodder has been stored by them on the lines indicated in Press Note dated 11th February 1920, No. 449?

Storage of fodder.

4. (a) At Chinchpada 12½ lakhs lbs. and at Khandbara 6 lakhs lbs. of hydraulic pressed grass have been stored. A large quantity of grass collected at Khandbara and that at Navapur had to be rejected as unfit for storage as it had been damaged by the exceptional late rain.

(b) to say if they intend continuing their operations in this matter and to state the approximate cost of the fodder stored during the last year (1919-1920)?

(b) Yes. Arrangements are being made for storage in future also at Navapur, Palghar, Godhra and of Mandwa grass at Manmad. Kadbi operations at Karajgi have been hindered by difficulties in procuring machinery. The cost of the grass stored at Chinchpada and Khandbara in 1919-20 was Rs. 23,678-12-0.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Purshotamdas Thákurdas.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

5. Will Government be pleased to state—

Survey for fodder irrigation.

(a) what progress has been made regarding a survey of river-beds and nullahs in the Presidency suitable for growing fodder by irrigation or by pumping water in a year of scanty rainfall?

(b) whether Government is in a position to begin operations on these lines in case of emergency hereafter and if so, what places have been approved of by them for this purpose?

(c) if the reply to the above be in the negative, when they will be in a position to decide this question?

6. Will Government be pleased, in continuation of my question No. 11 at the Council Meeting of 13th March 1920—

Dacoities in Northern Division.

(a) to lay on the Council table a statement showing the total number of dacoities in the Northern Division since 1st January 1620 giving a short statement of the fate of culprits in important cases?

(b) to state what precautions they propose to take to prevent a repetition of such dacoities hereafter?

7. Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table a statement showing the total number of railway waggons that were used between 1st January 1920 and 30th May 1920 to carry Kapas to stations between Panoli and Navsari (in the district growing Surat and Navsari cotton), giving the station of export of such waggons?

Export of cotton.

8. Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state if they have taken notice of the Report dated December 1915, by the Committee appointed to consider Milk supply in large cities.

Answers.

5. A copy of Government Order No. *720, dated 1st March 1920, issued on the subject, is placed on the Council Table. The result of the inquiry will be published as soon as reports are received by Government.

* Vide Appendix Q.

6. Information will be obtained.

7. The number of railway waggons are as shown below:—

Total No. of waggons.	Station of export.		Station of receipt.
4	Ankleshwar	(2) ...	Maroli.
	Palej	(2) ...
40	Samlaya	(15) ...	Sachin.
	Baroda	(10) ...
	Chamargam	(8) ...
	Chandod	(5) ...
	Palej	(2) ...
1	Palej	...	Utran.
1	Chamargam	...	Sayan.
2	Baroda	(1) ...	Kim.
	Palej	(1) ...
3	Palej	...	Kosamba.
9	Chamargam	(4) ...	Panoli.
	Palej	(3) ...
	Samlaya	(1) ...
	Baroda	(1) ...
Total ... 60

There were no receipts at Navsari, Surat and Udhna stations.

8. (a) Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas.]

Questions.	Answers.
measures for the improvement of the milk supply in large cities in the Bombay Presidency? (b) if the reply to the above be in the affirmative, to lay the papers relating thereto on the Council table? (c) if the reply be in the negative, to say if they propose to move in the matter at all, and if so, when?	(b) A copy of Government Resolution* No. 3239, dated 23rd March 1916, issued on the report, is placed on the Council table. * Vide Appendix R.
9. Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table a statement showing— Slaughter-houses. (a) the total number of slaughter-houses in the Bombay Presidency, (b) the total number of animals slaughtered in each during the years 1917-18 and 1918-19, (c) the varieties of animals killed in each, e.g., cows, buffaloes, bullocks, goats, sheep, etc.?	9. The information is being obtained.
10. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if any restrictions exist on slaughter-houses in the Presidency regarding useful, agricultural and/or milch cattle not being slaughtered? Restrictions on slaughter. (b) If the reply to the above be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state generally— (1) the nature of such restrictions; (2) measures for the enforcement of such restrictions?	10. The Honourable Member is referred to the answer to clause (a) of question No. 8*, put by him at the last meeting of the Council. * Printed as question No. 2 in this list.
11. Will Government be pleased— (a) to place on the Table a statement showing the total number of candidates that could not be admitted to the Sydenham College of Commerce owing to want of accommodation this term? Sydenham College of Commerce.	11. (a) The information will be called for.
(b) to say what use is being made of the building lately occupied by the Freeman Thomas Hospital?	(b) Except some portions of the building which have been occupied by certain public bodies as a temporary measure, the building is being utilised for the object for which it was constructed; these bodies are being called upon to vacate the premises by 15th October at latest.
(c) to state when they expect to commence the work of a permanent building for the Sydenham College of Commerce and how long it is estimated to take to be completed after commencement of building operation?	(c) The building operations will be started as soon as funds are available. The time for completion would, under existing conditions, be 2½ years from the time the work is commenced; if conditions improve it may be reduced a little.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. S. B. Upasani:] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

THE HONOURABLE MR. S. B. UPASANI.

Questions.

1. Will Government be pleased to state if it is true that an executive circular has been issued to subordinate magistrates in the Central Division not to entertain complaints for assault under section 323 of the Indian Penal Code unless a medical certificate is filed with it in proof of the injuries received by the assault and are such complaints refused to be entertained if the required certificate is not produced?

Assault cases.

Answers.

1. In East Khandesh the District Magistrate issued instructions to the local magistrates in 1905 to the effect that persons bringing complaints of hurt under section 323, Indian Penal Code, should be directed to produce a doctor's certificate and if they failed to comply, that the complainants should be referred to the Subdivisional Magistrates. These instructions were withdrawn by the District Magistrate in December 1919 and there are no instructions by the nature indicated in the question now in force in the district.

In West Khandesh the same instructions of 1905 were in force up to 1907, when they were withdrawn by the District Magistrate and there are no instructions of the nature indicated in the question now in force in the district.

In Nasik the District Magistrate issued instructions to the local magistrates in 1911 to the effect that persons bringing complaints under section 323, Indian Penal Code, should be referred to the police patils unless the complaint was supported by a medical certificate. These instructions were withdrawn by the District Magistrate in 1916.

In Ahmednagar the District Magistrate issued instructions in 1912 to the effect that complaints under section 323, Indian Penal Code, should be admitted by magistrates of the third class only when a medical certificate was produced or when there were open and tangible signs of violence. A copy* of these instructions is appended.

* Vide Appendix O.

In Poona the District Magistrate issued similar instructions in 1912, but the instructions were withdrawn in the following year and there are no instructions of the nature indicated in the question now in force in the district.

In Sholapur the District Magistrate issued instructions to the local magistrates in 1913 to the effect that complaints under section 323 should not be accepted unless they were supported by a medical certificate. These instructions were amended in 1914, when magistrates were instructed to exercise their discretion in requiring persons bringing complaints under section 323, Indian Penal Code, to produce a medical certificate.

In Satara the District Magistrate issued in 1914 a circular, in which the following sentence occurs:—

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upāsani.]

Questions.

Answers.

"A good many cases of alleged hurt, where there is no medical certificate and no sign of appreciable injury, can be referred to police patils for trial."

If so, will Government be pleased to state by what authority and under what provision of the law is the order issued and will a copy of the same be laid on the table?

The legality of these orders is a matter for the decision of the Courts concerned.

2. Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the names of the talukas in the several Districts, which have a civil court within their area and of those which have not got any and the area and population of the respective talukas and the number of villages included in their area?

Taluka Civil Courts.

In the case of the talukas which have not got a civil court in their area will the name of the court within the jurisdiction of which it is included be shown in the remark column against that taluka?

2. The accompanying statements* give the information required.

* Vide Appendices CC and DD.

3. Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing—

Boring operations.

(a) The date when the boring operations under the supervision of the Sanitary Engineer were commenced in this Presidency?

3. (a) The boring operations under the supervision of the Sanitary Engineer to Government were commenced in the beginning of the year 1911.

(b) The yearly expenditure on account of the appointment of the Executive Engineer in charge of boring operations including his own salary and that of his establishment and tools and plant purchased for these operations up to the end of 1918-19?

(b) The required information is contained in the statement† attached.

† Vide Appendix EE.

(c) The amount of work done by these operations in connection with the water supply in Gujrath and other parts of the Presidency?

(c) The required information is contained in the statement B‡ attached.

‡ Vide Appendix FF.

(d) The terms on which the present Engineer is appointed and whether he is allowed to do any private practice and if so what were his gains from that practice during the last 12 months and were they credited to the state or retained by him as his own property?

(d) The original terms on which Mr. W. C. Dooris, Executive Engineer, in charge Boring Works, was appointed will be found in his agreement, copy§ attached. Those regarding his retention for a further period are still under the consideration of Government. Mr. Dooris is occasionally allowed by Government to give expert advice to the native states in Gujarat, Kathiawar, and elsewhere on a fee of Rs. 100 per diem in addition to the travelling allowance admissible under the Civil Service Regulations to an Executive Engineer. He is permitted to retain this fee and his ordinary pay for the days of his absence credited to Government. His total gains from the States during 1918-19 are given in statement C.¶

§ Vide Appendix GG.
¶ Vide Appendix HH.

[These questions were asked at the meeting held on the 10th December 1919, when ad interim replies were given.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.]

[Mr. S. B. Upasani.]

Questions.

Answers.

4. Will Government be pleased—

(a) to lay on the table a statement showing the total number of the voters who will be entitled to vote for election to the Bombay Provincial Legislative Council to represent each of the constituencies referred to in the rules published in Part I of the Bombay Government Gazette of the 14th June 1920, under Government Notification No. 1117-R. dated the 11th June 1920?

Voters: Reformed Council.

(b) To give the number of voters in each District who will be entitled to vote for election to the Legislative Assembly to represent this Presidency as also the number of voters in each District who will be entitled to vote for election to the Council of State to represent this Presidency?

4. The total number of voters will not be available till the final publication of the rolls in October next.

5. (a) Has Government's attention been drawn to the complaints made as regards rice control in the letter published in the Bombay Chronicle of the 24th February 1920, 3rd March 1920 and in the discussion in the Bombay Municipal Corporation reported in the issue of the 27th February 1920 of the same paper and in the resolutions passed at a public meeting of the mill workers of Bombay published in the said paper in its issue of the 14th April 1920?

Rice control.

5. (a) The complaints referred to regarding rice control have come to the notice of Government.

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state if any inquiry has been made into the complaints and with what result?

(b) No special inquiry was made, close touch was maintained with the conditions prevailing in the rice market and the arrangements and machinery of control were adjusted to suit the varying conditions as they arise.

6. Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) if memorials have been received from the Mamlatdars in the Presidency praying for temporary allowances until the revision of their pay is sanctioned?

Mamlatdars: Revised scale of pay.

6. (a) Yes.

(b) whether temporary allowances have been withheld on the ground that orders as regards revision in their case will be issued soon?

(b) No.

7. Will Government be pleased to state the number of graduates and non-graduates who Graduates and non-graduates.

7. Information will be called for.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. S. B. Upasani.]

Questions.	Answers.
have passed the Higher Standard Examination in the several Divisions of the Presidency but have not yet been appointed to Mamlatdar's posts?
8. Will Government be pleased to state how many of the Collector's Head Clerks who have recently been graded as Mamlatdars have passed the Higher Standard Examination and how many of them are graduates and how many non-graduates? (Collector's Head Clerks.)	8. Information will be called for.
9. Will Government be pleased to state how many of the Deputy Collectors have been appointed by direct recruitment to Deputy Collectors' posts and how many promoted from the Mamlatdars' services? (Appointment of Deputy Collectors.)	9. 22 directly recruited and 66 promoted from Mamlatdars.
10. Will Government be pleased to state— Whether it is a fact that the Municipality of Lonavla has passed a resolution to appoint a chief officer on Rs. 300—400 and if so if it is within the power of a town Municipality with a population of less than fifteen thousand to appoint a chief officer under the District Municipal Act? (Lonavla Municipality Chief Officer.)	10. Government have no information on the subject, but it is being obtained. The reply to the latter part of the Honourable Member's question is in the negative.
11. Will Government be pleased to state if sanction of the Government of India has been received to the proposal made by me in a resolution moved at the Council Meeting in July 1919, which was accepted by Government, suggesting that the entire service of vernacular teachers be regarded as pensionable though part of it be on a salary of less than Rs. 10? (Vernacular teachers: Pensionable service.)	11. The matter is still under correspondence with the Government of India.
12. Will Government be pleased to state how many students were admitted this year— (Admissions to Colleges.)	12. (a) The number of students admitted to the college in the first year is 150 while that of those refused admission is 470.
(a) to the Bombay Grant Medical College,
(b) to the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute,	(b) and (c) Enquiry is being made.
(c) to the Poona Engineering College, and how many refused admission?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.	Answers.
THE HONOURABLE MR. HARCHANDRAI VISHINDAS, C.I.E.
1. (a) Is it a fact that first and second class passengers arriving by steamer from Bombay to Karachi are not allowed to land until after the Police have boarded the steamer and checked the names of passengers? Restrictions upon steamer passengers.	1. (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) Enquiries will be made.
(b) If so, is it a fact that if steamers arrive at midnight the passengers are prevented from landing until the arrival of the Police at 8 a. m. the next morning?
(c) Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that no similar restriction is observed in respect of arrivals in the Bombay Harbour from Karachi or the Persian Gulf?
(d) If so, will Government be pleased to state why it is necessary to impose the restriction in one port and not in the other?
(e) Is it true that even in Karachi the rule does not apply to deck passengers?
(f) If so, will Government be pleased to state what useful purpose is served by only the first and second class passengers being subjected to a restriction from which passengers of an inferior class are exempt?
2. Will Government be pleased to state why the office of the Sindhi Translator in Sind is held by the Assistant Commissioner in Sind who has been invariably a European Civilian while the much more important post of the Oriental Translator to the Government of Bombay is held by an Indian? Sindhi Translator in Sind.	2. Because the post of Sindhi Translator is not a full-time appointment, and there is no other officer to whom the duties can conveniently be assigned.
3. (a) Will Government be pleased to state if the word Mofussil in Government Circular No. 438, dated 25th June 1920, includes Karachi? Increases in pay: permanent and provisional.	3. (a) Yes.
(b) If so, have Government taken into account that the cost of living and other like considerations which induce Government to provide more liberal terms for their servants in Bombay, apply in no less degree to Karachi, and that acting on this principle, Government sanctioned local allowances for their Karachi employees in the pre-war times?	(b) Yes, the point is under consideration.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[2ND AUGUST 1920.] [Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.]

Questions.

Answers.

4. Will Government be pleased to state whether they have received any proposals from the Commissioner in Sind regarding the grant of house-rent and local allowances to employees in Karachi and if so, whether any decision has been reached in respect thereof?

Karachi: House-rent and local allowances.

4. Proposals for Karachi allowances on revised pay of clerks are under consideration of Government.

5. (a) Will Government be pleased to state the reason for the discrepancy between the annual increments of the clerical establishments of the Telegraph Department sanctioned by the Government of India, viz., Rs. 6 for lower and Rs. 10 for Upper Divisions and those sanctioned by this Government, viz., annual and biennial increments of Rs. 5?

Telegraph Department: discrepancies in pay.

5. (a) and (b) Government have no official information of the rates of pay and increment sanctioned by the Government of India for the clerical establishment of the Telegraph Department. An exact coincidence between the rates sanctioned by the Government of India for the Telegraph Department and by the Government of Bombay for their clerical establishment could not be expected in view of the difference in many of the factors which govern the decision in each case.

(b) If Government is aware that whilst Government of India have sanctioned increments for the Telegraph Department on the basis of the length of service this Government has done so on the pay of the post?

(c) If Govetnment is aware that in the latter case a vast majority will be unable to attain the maximum pay?

(c) If the Honourable Member will indicate in what sense he is using the phrase "maximum pay" the information asked for will be given.

6. Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that Government have recently sanctioned a house-rent allowance at Karachi for Head Clerks in the Revenue Department who are on the grade of Mukhtiarkars? If so, will Government be pleased to state whether they propose to give rent allowance to non-ministerial members of other departments such as Excise, Customs, Income Tax, etc., who are not provided with free quarters?

Certain house-allowances: Karachi.

6. Yes. The question of an allowance to compensate for high cost of living and house-rent in Karachi, is under consideration of Government.

7. Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact (a) that a scheme for the revision of the preventive branch was submitted to Government in November last;

Revision of pay: Preventive branch, Customs.

7. (a) Yes.

(b) that no such scheme for the revision of the pay of other branches of the Customs Service has yet been submitted?

(b) No.

8. Will Government be pleased to state whether the above quoted Circular No. 438 of 25th June 1920 is applicable to Imperial departments such as Customs?

Circular No. 438, 25th June 1920.

8. Yes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas.] [2ND AUGUST 1920.]

Questions.

9. Will Government be pleased to state—

Preventive officers: Karachi.

(a) The number of permanent and temporary preventive officers in the Karachi Customs and how many of these are Indians and how many non-Indians ?

(b) if it is a fact that Mr. Younghusband, a former Commissioner in Sind, appointed 2 Indians as preventive officers ?

(c) if it is a fact that when one of these was transferred later, his post was filled up by a non-Indian ?

(d) how many posts of permanent and temporary preventive officers have fallen vacant since 1912 and how many of these have been conferred on Indians and how many on non-Indians ?

(e) if it is a fact that whenever there is a vacancy of a preventive officer, Indian Wharfingers and tally clerks already working in the Preventive Department are passed over and non-Indians from different parts of India imported ?

(f) if it is a fact that Indians in the preventive service of about 20 years' service are drawing Rs. 60 to Rs. 70 plus war allowance, while non-Indians in the preventive service are getting at least Rs. 200 pay plus free-quarters plus overtime fees after the same period of service ?

Answers.

9. (a) to (f). Information will be called for.

APPENDIX A.

	Total No. of pupils from "the untouchable classes" at present studying in Government schools and colleges.	Aided schools and colleges.
(a) Secondary schools	23	115
(b) Professional colleges	.....	.....
(c) Arts colleges	1	.....
(d) Medical schools, Art schools and Technical and Industrial schools	.....	42
Total ...	24	157

APPENDIX B.

No. E.S.T.—86.

Camp Kumta, 5/9th February 1920.

From

L. J. MOUNTFORD, Esquire, C.B.E., I.C.S., Commissioner, Southern Division;

To

The Collector of (all in Southern Division) except Kanara.

Sir,

I have the honour to request that you will endeavour to obtain Lingayat candidates for Mamlat and will therefore pay special attention to Lingayat karkuns in your office and in those under you.

2. Out of 132 candidates for Mamlat practically all are Brahmins: there are only 4 Lingayats and 1 Maratha. Due care has not apparently been paid in the past to admixture of caste.

* The remarks apply with equal force to Marathas.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

(Signed) L. J. MOUNTFORD,
Commissioner, S. D.

* For Kolaba and Ratnagiri only.

APPENDIX C.

Public Service—

Regarding the employment of Lingayats in Government service.

No. 625.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 23rd January 1914.

RESOLUTION OF GOVERNMENT.

On the occasion of his recent visit to Dharwar an address of welcome was presented to his Excellency the Governor by the members of the Lingayat Education Association of that place. In the address reference was made to the disproportionately small representation of the community in the several Departments of the public service. In reply His Excellency gave the members of the Association an assurance of cordial encouragement in their praiseworthy endeavours and asked them to rely on the determination of Government to deal absolutely fairly with the Lingayat community, as with all others, in the matter of appointments of duly qualified men in the various Departments.

2. The Honorary Secretary of the Lingayat Education Association, Dharwar, should be requested to send from time to time the names of qualified candidates to the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Governor in the case of gazetted appointments and to the heads of offices and Departments concerned in the case of non-gazetted appointments. The Association should be informed that names so submitted will be considered with others when occasion arises.

J. L. RIEU,
Secretary to Government.

To

All Departments of the Secretariat,
All Heads of Offices under the several Departments of the Secretariat,
The Private Secretary to His Excellency the Governor,
The Prothonotary and Registrar of His Majesty's High Court of Judicature, Original Side, Bombay,
The Registrar of His Majesty's High Court of Judicature, Appellate Side, Bombay,
The Honorary Secretary, Lingayat Education Association, Dharwar (by letter No. 627 dated the 23rd January 1914).

No. of 1914.

Copy forwarded for information and guidance to

APPENDIX D.

Statement showing the account of collections of Landing and Wharfage fees by ports.

Name of the port.	1916-17.		1917-18.		1918-19.		Total.		Grand Total.
	Collections from the passengers by		Collections from the passengers by		Collections from the passengers by		Collections from the passengers by		Collections together.
	Steamers.	Machwas.	Steamers.	Machwas.	Steamers.	Machwas.	Steamers.	Machwas.
	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
y	.....	.....	6,318 1 6	234 6 0	5,780 14 6	136 15 9	12,099 0 0	371 5 9	12,470 5 9
... ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	2 14 0	.....	2 14 0	2 14 0
ay	.....	.....	.....	2 11 0	.....	1 10 6	.....	4 5 6	4 5 6
(including) Belapur. Napwa.	.....	.....	2,119 0 6	474 10 9	2,173 4 6	420 0 0	4,291 5 0	894 10 9	5,185 15 9
... ...	.....	.....	2,754 9 3	1,622 6 0	3,008 5 0	1,526 15 0	5,762 14 3	3,149 5 0	8,912 3 3
a (including) Rewas. wa Dharamtar.	.....	.....	8,492 0 6	1,955 12 0	10,112 2 0	1,620 12 0	18,604 2 6	3,576 8 0	22,180 10 6
... ...	.....	.....	.....	96 0 0	.....	144 0 0	.....	240 0 0	240 0 0
... ...	.....	.....	1,381 11 6	.....	1,753 3 0	.....	3,134 14 6	.....	3,134 14 6
da	.....	.....	2,751 13 0	30 3 3	3,411 7 6	48 0 0	6,193 4 6	78 3 3	6,271 7 9
... ...	.....	.....	.....	4 3 0	.....	6 14 0	.....	11 1 0	11 1 0
... ...	.....	.....	4,473 3 0	.....	5,453 7 6	.....	9,926 10 6	.....	9,926 10 6
... ...	.....	.....	5,774 10 0	12 14 0	7,005 9 0	13 2 6	12,780 3 0	26 0 6	12,806 3 6
... ...	.....	.....	833 13 6	.....	823 14 0	.....	1,656 11 6	.....	1,656 11 6
... ...	.....	.....	4,883 13 0	.....	6,537 5 6	2 9 6	11,421 2 6	2 9 6	11,423 12 0
a (Tiwri)	.....	.....	561 11 6	.....	758 8 0	.....	1,320 3 6	.....	1,320 3 6
iri	.....	.....	5,049 10 0	5 15 9	6,525 5 0	0 6 6	11,574 15 0	6 6 3	11,581 5 3
ar	.....	.....	3,007 0 0	4 1 0	4,003 2 0	6 0 3	7,010 2 0	19 1 3	7,029 3 3
arg	.....	.....	2,977 13 6	.....	4,008 9 0	.....	6,986 6 6	.....	6,986 6 6
l	.....	.....	2,930 15 6	.....	3,762 13 6	.....	6,693 13 0	.....	6,693 13 0
... ...	.....	.....	352 9 0	.....	423 2 6	.....	775 11 6	.....	775 11 6
a	.....	.....	4,236 7 6	7 10 9	5,596 13 0	4 15 6	9,833 4 6	12 10 3	9,845 14 9
ia	.....	.....	4,852 12 0	3 14 3	6,023 12 6	3 7 2	10,876 8 6	7 5 6	10,883 14 0
... ...	.....	.....	353 3 6	2 10 0	543 9 6	1 8 0	896 13 0	4 2 0	900 15 0
... ...	.....	2 12 9	84 3 6	5 14 0	601 4 6	1 14 0	685 8 0	10 8 9	696 0 9
... ...	.....	.....	121 7 6	.....	186 5 6	.....	307 13 0	.....	307 13 0
ar	.....	.....	53 13 6	3 7 9	91 7 6	2 10 6	145 5 0	6 1 6	151 6 6
il	.....	.....	154 4 6	.....	226 6 0	.....	380 10 6	.....	380 10 6
OTHER PORTS.
Janjira State.
... ...	.....	.....	2,405 10 0	.....	3,130 8 6	.....	5,536 2 6	.....	5,536 2 6
vardhan ...	.....	.....	1,031 7 0	.....	1,201 13 0	.....	2,233 4 0	.....	2,233 4 0
iwar	.....	.....	2,993 2 0	.....	3,760 5 0	.....	6,753 7 0	.....	6,753 7 0
Total ...	.....	2 12 9	76,977 14 3	4,456 10 9	86,902 5 6	3,944 11 3	1,57,880 3 9	8,414 2 9	1,66,294 6 6

APPENDIX E.

Statement showing figures of actual expenditure on account of "landing and wharfage fees fund" during the year 1918-19 tabulated as per instructions in item 3 (2) of the proceedings of the meeting of the Committee.

Name of District.	Name of Taluka.	Name of Port. Main Port.	Name of Port. Sub or Creek Port.	Details of works.	Amount sanctioned. In the Budget.	Amount sanctioned. In the supplementary list of works as per Government Order, Revenue Department, No. 1988, dated 25th February 1919.	Actual expenditure. By Civil Agency.	Actual expenditure. By Public Works Agency.	Actual expenditure. Total.	Excess.	Savings.	Remarks.
					Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
Ratnagiri ...	Bankote ...	Bankote ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of Dharmasala at Bankote.	.....	.....	30 0 0	f		.....	.....	a=Met from the provision of Rs. 4,000 for "Unforeseen Minor Works and Repairs" under Public Works by Civil Agency in the budget.
				Special repairs to the wharf at Bankote ...	.....	.....	90 9 0	b		.....	.....
				Repairs to the railings and side steps of the wharf at Bankote.	.....	.....	50 0 0	f		.....	.....	b=Met from the provision of Rs. 675 for work No. II in the budget under Part I (b) Appendix II.
				Wooden ladder for the wharf at Bankote ...	.....	.....	134 6 5	b		.....	.....
				Privies at Bankote ...	.....	200 0 0	230 8 5	.....		30 8 5	a	c=Met from the provision of Rs. 2,480 for "Uniforseen Minor Works and Repairs" under Public Works by Public Works Agency in the budget (vide please Government Order, Public Works Department No. A-10549, dated the 29th October 1918).
				Light at the Dharmasala at the Bankote wharf.	24 0 0	.....	20 0 0	.....		.....	4 0 0
				Receipt Stamps ...	.....	.....	0 8 0	f		.....	.....	d=Met from the provision of Rs 220 for work No. 10 in the budget under Part I (b) Appendix II.
									555 10 10
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Bag-Mandla.	Waiting shed at Bag Mandla ...	.....	225 0 0	225 0 0	.....		.....	.....	e=Met from the provision of Rs. 760 for work No. 8 in the budget under Part I (b) Appendix II.
				Erecting a light at Bag Mandla ...	.....	.....	20 0 0	a		.....	.....	f=Met from the provision of Rs. 2,056 for works at No. I Part I (a) and for those at Nos. 14 at 20 Part I (b) Appendix II (vide please Deputy Commissioner, Southern Division's C. R. No. 458, dated 19th February 1918).
									245 0 0
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Mahpral ...	Repairs to the wharf at Mahpral ...	300 0 0	.....	299 14 6	.....		.....	0 1 6
				Erecting a light at Mahpral ...	200 0 0	.....	230 0 0	.....		30 0 0	d
				Maintenance of the Dharmasala at Mahpral.	.....	.....	32 0 0	f		.....	.....
									561 14 6

Ratnagiri ...	Bankote ...	.....	Anjarla ...	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala at Anjarla.	.....	.....	20 5 2	f		.....	.....
				Repairs to the wharf at Anjarla ...	.....	.....	10 0 0	f		.....	.....
									30 5 2
Do. ...	Do. ...	Harnai ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala at Harnai.	.....	.....	37 3 3	f		.....	*
				Road from the bandar to the Public Works Department road at Harnai.	1,001 0 0	.....	1,564 0 0	.....		563 0 0	a
			*	Maintenance of Kitson light at Harnai ...	.....	.....	285 2 6	f		.....	.....
									1,886 5 9
Do. ...	Dabhol ...	Dabhol ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala and light at Dabhol.	.....	.....	259 6 10	f		.....	.....
				Receipt stamps ...	.....	.....	0 2 0	f		.....	.....
			*	Erection of a new Kitson light at Dabhol ...	.....	.....	465 0 0	e		.....	.....		* Indicates expenditure incurred on Kitson lights.
				Privies and urinal at Dabhol ...	534 0 0	.....	635 3 2	.....		101 3 2	a
									1,359 12 0
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Karbone ...	Jetty at Karbone ...	.....	200 0 0	200 0 0	.....	200 0 0	.....	.....
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Chiveli ...	Jetty at Chiveli ...	.....	200 0 0	200 0 0	.....	200 0 0	.....	.....
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Karool ...	Jetty at Karool ...	.....	200 0 0	244 0 0	.....		44 0 0	d
				Dharmasala at Karool ...	.....	500 0 0	602 11 7	.....		102 11 7	d
									346 11 7
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Gowalkote .	Waiting shed at Gowalkote ...	.....	460 0 0	559 13 10	.....	559 13 10	99 13 10	a
Do. ...	Do. ...	Borya ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of a light and Dharmasala at Borya.	.....	.....	40 4 10	f		.....	.....
				Surveying and preparing plans and estimate for the landing place at Borya.	.....	.....	.....	192 0 0	c	.....	.....
				Dharmasala at Borya ...	1,530 0 0	.....	1,499 14 0	.....		.....	30 2 0
									1,732 2 10
				Carried forward ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....

Name of District.	Name of Taluka.	Name of Port.		Details of works.	Amount sanctioned.		Actual expenditure.			Excess.	Savings.	Remarks.
		Main Port.	Sub or Creek Port.		In the Budget.	In the supplementary list of works as per Government Order, Revenue Department, No. 1988, dated 25th February 1919.	By Civil Agency.	By Public Works Agency.	Total.
					Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
				Brought over ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Ratnagiri ...	Ratnagiri ...	Jaigad ...	.....	Maintenance of a kitson light at Jaigad ...	.....	.....	287 0 0	f		.....	.....
				Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala and light at Jaigad.	.....	.....	55 5 0	f		.....	.....
				Receipt stamp ...	.....	.....	0 1 0	f		.....	.....
				Water supply at Jaigad ...	.....	.....	40 0 0	a		.....	.....
				Repairs to the landing pier at Jaigad ...	.....	.....	140 0 0	f		.....	.....
									522 6 0
Do. ...	Do. ...	Varvda (Tiwri).	.....	Repairs to the branch road from pier to the bandar at Tiwri.	.....	.....	15 0 0	.....		.....	.....	Met from the provision of Rs. 540 for work No. 4 in the budget under Part I (a) Appendix II.
				Repairs to the landing place at Tiwri bandar.	.....	.....	15 0 0	b		.....	.....
				Surveying and preparing plans and estimates for the landing place at Tiwri.	.....	.....	.....	210 0 0	c	.....	.....
				Covering the well near the ticket office at Tiwri.	.....	.....	15 0 0	f		.....	.....
				Mandap for the passengers at Tiwri ...	.....	.....	15 0 0	f		.....	.....
				Erection and maintenance of the bandar light at Tiwri.	.....	.....	7 7 6	f		.....	.....
									277 7 6
Do. ...	Jaitapur ...	Jaitapur ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala at Jaitapur.	.....	.....	36 7 6	f		.....	.....
				Maintenance of the wharf light at Jaitapur .	.....	.....	20 15 0	f		.....	.....
				Surveying and preparing plans and estimates for the landing place at Jaitapur.	.....	.....	.....	150 0 0	c	.....	.....

				Special repairs to the side room of the Dharmasala at Jaitapur.	.....	.....	100 0 0	.....		.....	.....	Met from the provision of Rs. 100 for work No. 8 sanctioned in the supplementary list of works.
				Extending the landing place at Jaitapur ...	215 0 0	.....	240 0 0	.....		25 0 0	a
									556 6 6
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Rumipur ...	Dharmasala at Rumipur ...	.....	726 0 0	726 0 0	.....	726 0 0	.....	.....
Do. ...	Do. ...	Vizaidurg ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala at Vizaidurg.	.....	.....	28 11 0	f		.....	.....
				Erection of a new Kitson light at Vizaidurg...	275 0 0	.....	530 0 0	.....		255 0 0	e
				Fixing guard stones along the road at Vizaidurg bandar.	100 0 0	.....	100 0 0	.....		.....	.....
				Strengthening the foot of the approach road at Vizaidurg.	275 0 0	.....	275 0 0	.....		.....	.....
				Special repairs to the road leading to the Dharmasala at Vizaidurg.	.....	175 0 0	175 0 0	.....		.....	.....
				Parapet wall round the well at Vizaidurg ...	.....	30 0 0	30 0 0	.....		.....	.....
				Repairs to the gutters across the road at Vizaidurg.	.....	25 0 0	25 0 0	.....		.....	.....
				Special repairs to the landing place at Vizaidurg.	200 0 0	.....	200 0 0	.....		.....	.....
									1,363 11 0
Do. ...	Do. ...	.....	Waghoton	Special repairs to the pier at Waghotan ...	.....	.....	.....	1,090 0 0	c 1,090 0 0	.....	.....
Do. ...	Malwan ...	Deogad ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala at Deogad.	.....	.....	54 15 3	f		.....	.....
				Repairs to the road from the old to the new Custom House at Deogad.	.....	.....	30 0 0	f		.....	.....
				Repairs to the approach road at Deogad bandar.	.....	.....	75 0 0	f		.....	.....
				Fixing guard stones along the approach road at Deogad.	.....	105 0 0	104 8 0	.....		.....	0 8 0
				Erection of a new Kitson light at Deogad ...	275 0 0	.....	519 13 0	.....		233 13 0	.....	Rs. 205 met from the provision for work No. 6 in the budget under Part I (b) and Rs. 33-13-0 from the provision of Rs. 540 for work No. 4 under Part I (a), Appendix II.
				Surveying and preparing plans and estimates for the landing place at Deogad.	.....	.....	.....	159 0 0	c	.....	.....
									937 4 3
				Carried forward ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....

Name of District.	Name of Taluka.	Name of Port.		Details of works.	Amount sanctioned.		Actual expenditure.			Excess.	Savings.	Remarks.
		Main Port.	Sub or Creek Port.		In the Budget.	In the supplementary list of works as per Government Order, Revenue Department, No. 1988, dated 25th February 1918.	By Civil Agency.	By Public Works Agency.	Total.
					Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
				Brought over ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Ratnagiri ...	Malwan ...	Achra ...	.....	Surveying and preparing plans and estimates for the landing place at Achra.	.....	.....	.....	159 0 0	c	.....	.....
				Repairs to the road from Achra port to the village.	.....	.....	100 0 0	f		.....	.....
				Construction of a Dharmasala at Achra ...	546 0 0	.....	1,020 0 0	.....		474 0 0	a
									1,279 0 0	.....	.....
Do. ...	Do. ...	Malwan ...	.....	Repairs and maintenance of the Dharmasala at Malwan.	.....	.....	52 2 8	f		.....	.....
				Stone wall to enclose three sides of the Dharmasala at Malwan.	.....	400 0 0	399 14 9	.....		.....	0 1 3
				Erection of a new Kitson light at Malwan ...	800 0 0	.....	670 3 2	.....		.....	129 12 10
				Surveying and preparing plans and estimates for the landing place at Malwan.	.....	.....	.....	159 0 0	c	.....	.....
				Receipt stamps ...	.....	.....	0 8 0	f		.....	.....
									1,281 7 7	.....	.....
Do. ...	Vengurla ...	Vengurla ...	.....	Maintenance of a light at Vengurla bandar ...	.....	.....	86 6 0	f		.....	.....
				Privies with six seats at the Vengurla head bandar.	.....	750 0 0	825 0 0	.....		75 0 0	a
				Receipt stamp ...	.....	.....	0 1 0	f		.....	.....
									911 7 0	.....	.....
				Total Ratnagiri District ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	17,122 14 4	.....	.....
North Kanara.	Karwar ...	Karwar ...	.....	Special repairs to the screw pile pier at Karwar.	.....	.....	.....	2,493 0	a	.....	.....	Vide please Government Order, Revenue Department, No. 1988, dated 25th February 1919.
				Receipt stamp ...	.....	.....	0 1 0	a		.....	.....
									2,493 1 0

Do.	...	Sanikatta...	Tadri ...	.....	Surveying and preparing plans and estimates for constructing a road from Belekhan to Tadri.	.....	.....	.....	42 0 0		.....	.....
					Receipt stamp ...	.....	.....	0 1 0	.....		.....	.....
										42 1 0
Do.	...	Honawar ...	Murdeshwar.	.....	Road at Murdeshwar ...	300 0 0	.....	300 0 0	.....		.....	.....
					Receipt stamp ...	.....	.....	0 1 0	a		.....	.....
										300 1 0
					Total North Kanara District ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	2,835 3 0
					Grand Total ...	.....	.....	15,295 1 4	4,663 0 0	19,958 1 4

APPENDIX F.

APPENDIX IV.

Landing and Wharfage Fees Fund Budget, 1919-20.

List of Works by Ports.

	Name of Work.	Estimated cost.	Class.
		Rs.
1. Ulwa	... (1) Sakav (wooden bridges) Nos. 1 & 2	113	II b (C. A.)
	(2) Dharamshala, keeper and water-bearer	234	Do.
2. Mora	... Water-bearer	30	Do.
3. Karanja	... Dharamshala and keeper	65	Do.
4. Kandwa	... Do. do. and water-bearer	107	Do.
5. Rewas	... (1) Dharamshala, keeper and water-bearer	250	Do.
	(2) Repairs to the pier	690	II (P. W. D.
6. Nawkhar	... Dharamshala	29	II b (C. A.)
7. Dharamtar	... (1) 3 Dharamshalas, keepers, water-bearer and sweeper ...	766	Do.
	(2) Latrines	40	Do.
	(3) 2 Dharamshalas (on Pen side), keeper and water-bearer.	298	Do.
8. Sambri	... Dharamshala	18	Do.
9. Sakrai	... Do. and keeper	76	Do.
10. Nidi	... Do. do.	74	Do.
11. Nagothna	... Dharamshala (rent for 5 months), keeper, water-bearer and cart allowance	143	Do.
12. Alibag	... Construction of a waiting room	2,000	I b (C. A.)
13. Rewdanda	... (1) Metalled road from booking office to place of embarkation	350	Do.
	(2) Latrines	34	II b (C. A.)
	(3) A well	10	Do.
	(4) 2 Dharamshalas, keeper, water-bearer and sweeper ...	282	Do.
14. Korlai	... Dharamshala and keeper	43	Do.
15. Dasgaon	... (1) 2 Dharamshalas and keeper	266	Do.
	(2) Stable	30	Do.
	(3) Jetty	24	Do.
16. Gotha	... Dharamshala and keeper	37	Do.
17. Bankote	... (1) Wharf	50	Do.
	(2) Dharamshala	32	Do.
18. Bagmandha	... (1) Mandap	80	Do.
	(2) Light	30	Do.
19. Mahapral	... Dharamshala	32	Do.
20. Karnai	... (1) Kitson light	220	Do.
	(2) Dharamshala	32	Do.
	(3) Light in Dharamshala	30	Do.
	(4) Repairs to the approach road	20	II a (C. A.)
	(5) Water-supply	120	II b.
21. Dabhol	... (1) Lights at bandar and Dharamshala	284	Do.
	(2) Dharamshala	40	Do.
	(3) Privies	10	Do.
	(4) Kitson light	300	Do.
22. Chiveli	... (1) Jetty	5	Do.
	(2) Dharamshala	20	Do.
23. Karul	... (1) Jetty	5	Do.
	(2) Dharamshala	20	Do.
24. Karbavane	... (1) Jetty	5	Do.
	(2) Dharamshala	20	Do.
	(3) A well	3	Do.
25. Govalkote	... Shed	20	Do.
26. Adur (Borya)	... (1) Dharamshala	30	Do.
	(2) Lamp	30	Do.
	(3) Landing place	1,613	I b (P. W. D.)
27. Jaigad	... (1) 2 blocks of privies	403	Do.
	(2) Extension of and repairs to the pier ...	1,613	II b (P. W. D.)
	(3) Landing place	140	II b (C. A.)
	(4) Kitson light	300	Do.
	(5) Dharamshala with light	90	Do.
	(6) Well and water-supply	190	Do.
	(7) Privies	40	Do.
28. Dhamankhol	... (1) Waiting shed	300	I b (C. A.)
	(2) Landing place	250	II b (C. A.)
29. Tiwri	... (1) Light	280	I b (C. A.)
	(2) Landing place	75	II b (C. A.)
	(3) Well near the ticket office	15	Do.
	(4) Mandap near do.	15	Do.
	(5) Repairs to approach road to bandar	40	II a (C. A.)
	(6) Approach road from bandar to Custom House ...	806	I a (P. W. D.)
	(7) Landing place	1,613	I b Do.

	Name of Work.	Estimated cost.	Class.
		Rs.
20. Jaitapur ...	(1) A light at Dharamshala	410	I-b (P. W. D.)
	(2) Special repairs to road from landing place to the Custom House and from landing place to the well vid Dharamshala	500	II a (C. A.)
	(3) Repairs to the road from the landing place to the Custom House at Jaitapur	20	Do.
	(4) Repairs to the road from the landing place to the Dharamshala and the well.	20	Do.
	(5) Landing place	20	II b (C. A.)
	(6) Light on wharf	30	Do.
	(7) Dharamshala	66	Do.
	(8) 2 wells and 1 tank	15	Do.
	(9) Special repairs to the well of tank	200	Do.
31. Musakaji (for Jaitapur).	Landing place	1,613	I b (P. W. D.)
32. Viziadurg ...	(1) Dharamshala	49	II b.
	(2) A well near Dharamshala	5	Do.
	(3) Kitson light	300	Do.
33. Deogad ...	(1) Dharamshala	66	Do.
	(2) A well near Dharamshala	5	Do.
	(3) Kitson light	300	Do.
	(4) Landing place	1,613	I b (P. W. D.)
34. Achra ...	(1) Light at Dharamshala	45	I b (C. A.)
	(2) Dharamshala (ground rent for the site)	57	II b (C. A.)
	(3) Landing place	1,613	I b (P. W. D.)
35. Malvan ...	(1) Privies with 4 seats	760	I b (C. A.)
	(2) Dharamshala	58	II b (C. A.)
	(3) Well near Dharamshala	1	Do.
	(4) Kitson light	300	Do.
36. Vengurla ...	(1) Lights at Head bandar	100	Do.
	(2) Privies	60	Do.
27. Tadri ...	Temporary shed for passengers at Mahashivratri fair ...	100	I b (C. A.)
	Total ...	23,556
		Rs.
	Unforeseen Works by Civil Agency	4,480
	Do. do. Public Works Agency	6,993
	Grand Total ...	35,029

APPENDIX G.

Statement showing information regarding cultivated area, etc., in the Haliyal Taluka of the Kanara District for the years 1915-16 to 1919-20.

Year.	Cultivated area.	Annavaluation of Crops.	Remission.	Suspension.	Total amount of annual assessment.	Number of Cattle.	General agricultural condition.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	A. g.		Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
1915-16 ...	30,168 16	10	...	.....	74,538 15 0	29,141	Good	The figures shown in column 7 are as per census of cattle taken in 1915-16 and 1919-20.
1916-17 ...	30,628 12	6	...	.....	76,826 9 4	...	Not good owing to failure of rains.
1917-18 ...	27,660 23	6	569 2 6	.....	76,543 7 7	...
1918-19 ...	27,153 20	4	...	(a) 68,773 10 9	76,302 4 7	...	Very poor due to failure of rains and influenza.
1919-20 ...	30,115 27	12*	63 3 6	(b) 11,944 14 1	76,263 14 8	26,352	Fair; 5,158 acres of rice land (i.e., more than one-third of the total rice area—14,526 acres) prepared for cultivation could not be sown owing to unseasonable monsoon.	*The crops where sown were good; but unseasonable rain prevented the sowing of a considerable area.
				(c) 32,521 6 6

(a) This is the amount suspended out of the consolidated land revenue of the year 1918-19.
(b) Do. do. do. for the year 1919-20.
(c) This is further suspended out of (a).

APPENDIX H.

Statement showing the strength of each school excluding pupil teachers in the Mahi Kantha Agency with t name of each Head Master and the increase received by him during the last 10 years from 1910—1920.

No.	Name of School.	Grade of School in 1910.	Number of boys or girls on roll.	Standards taught.	Name of Head Master.	Designation.	Qualification.	Pay in 1910.	Pay in 1918.	Pay after revision October 1918.	Total increase.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	Bawishi Thana.							Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1	Dabhoda boys' ...	23	102	6	Maganlal Bechardas.	Head Master ... 1st Assistant ... 2nd do. ...	3rd year 1897 . V. F. E. ... Do. ...	20 8 5	30 12 7	50 13 12	30 5 7
2	Do. girls' ...	10	42	4	Sankli Raghunath .	Head Mistress ... Assistant ...	1st year 1917... Rule 4 St. IV .	10 2	11 2	20 12	10 10
3	Vadodra ...	21	60	6	Javansing Rajaji ...	Head Master ... Assistant ...	1st year 1914... St. VI ...	8 7	14 7	20 12	12 5	Trained by M Kantha Sch ship.
4	Mahisa boys' ...	23	82	6	Prabhashankar Khushal.	Head Master ... 1st Assistant ... 2nd do. ...	3rd year 1894 . V. F. E. ... Do. ...	20 6 5	23 7 7	35 13 12	15 6 7	Transferred Idar State.
5	Do. girls' ...	8	30	5	Itchha Havji ...	Head Mistress ... Assistant ...	St. V ... St. IV ...	8 2	11 3	15 12	7 10
6	Kaprupur ...	11	33	3	Pitambar Ujamshi.	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	11	13	15	4
7	Kadjodra ...	11	40	5	Bapulal Sawal ...	Do. ... Assistant ...	St. VI ... V. F. E. ...	7 2	11 7	15 12	8 10
8	Khanpur ...	13	42	5	Jechand Harjivan .	Head Master ... Assistant ...	P. S. C. ... V. F. C. ...	10 2	11 7	15 12	5 10
9	Rakhial ...	12	43	6	Punjalal Bajaram .	Head Master ... Assistant ...	2nd year 1919 . St. VI ...	... 4	7 7	20 12	13 8	Trained by Kantha Sch ship for 2 ye
10	Anguthla ...	12	35	4	Bhogilal Parbhudas.	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	10	11	15	5
11	Harsoli ...	16	52	6	Amratlal Ghelabhai.	Head Master ... Assistant ...	P. S. C. ... Do. ...	10 7	12 7	20 12	10 5
12	Harakhjirna Muada.	16	71	6	Chaturdas Parbhudas.	Head Master ... Assistant ...	Do. ... V. F. C. ...	12 5	15 7	20 12	8 7
13	Palundra ...	10	29	4	Nanalal Jethalal ...	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	7	11	15	8
14	Barmuada ...	10	38	4	Lalloo Chhagan ...	Do. ...	St. V ...	10	11	15	5
15	Kothi ...	7	25	4	Sakharam Ramchandra.	Do. ...	P. S. C. ...	12	13	15	3
16	Lihoda ...	7	34	4	Chhaganlal Jethalal.	Do. ...	Do. ...	12	14	15	3
17	Samatri ...	...	25	3	Seth Lagarus Chohan.	Do. ...	Do. ...	...	11	15	4
18	Doma ...	...	14	3	Davabhai Mayabhai.	Do. ...	Do. ...	8	11	15	7
	Katosan Thana (2).
19	Santhal ...	12	89	6	Kalidas Divchand .	Head Master ... Assistant ...	3rd year 1898 . V. F. C. ...	21 7	25 7	35 12	14 5
20	Katosan ...	12	70	5	Dalsookh, Maganlal.	Head Master ... 1st Assistant ... 2nd do. ...	3rd year 1917 . St. VI ... St. V ...	7 6 ...	20 9 7	25 12 12	18 6 12	Trained by Scholorship 3 years.
21	Maguna ...	10	70	5	Shivlal Shankarlal.	Head Master ... Assistant ...	P. S. C. ... V. F. C. ...	11 3	12 7	15 12	4 9
22	Palaj ...	10	16	3	Umedmia Jamiatmia.	Head Master ...	1st year 1919...	...	11	15	4	Trained by Scholarshi
23	Deloli ...	...	48	3	Natalal Maganlal...	Do. ...	1st year 1917...	...	11	15	4	Do.
	Vatrak Kantha (3).
24	Nirmali ...	16	65	6	Ganpatram Kohyaram.	Head Master ... 1st Assistant ... 2nd do. ...	3rd year 1899 . St. VI ... Do. ...	25 7 ...	30 9 9	30 12 12	5 5 12	Transferred Idar State,
25	Jher ...	16	92	6	Bechardas Baichand.	Head Master ... 1st Assistant ... 2nd do. ...	3rd year 1899 . P S. C. ... 1st year 1918...	32 6 5	32 9 9	40 12 12	8 6 7	Trained by Scholarshi
26	Narsipur ...	...	35	3	ChunilalRanchhod.	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	11	15	4
	Gadhwada Thana (4).
27	Satlasna ...	12	107	6	Karimbhai Suleman.	Head Master ... 1st Assistant ... 2nd do. ...	3rd year 1897 . St. VII ... Do. ...	23 5 ...	25 7 7	40 12 12	17 7 12
28	Bhaluspa ...	10	40	4	Lallooram Umedram.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1919 .	...	11	20	9	Trained by Scholarshi
29	Umri ...	10	32	4	Jamnadas Madhoji.	Do. ...	1st year 1917 .	7	12	15	8
30	Kothasna ...	...	35	3	Mansing Kanji ...	Do. ...	Rule 4 VI ...	5	11	15	10
	Saber Kantha Thana (5).
31	Dedhrota ...	11	10	3	Liladhar Laxmiram.	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	12	15	15	3
32	Derol ...	10	25	4	Trikamlal Sankleshwar.	Do. ...	Do. ...	11	11	15	4
33	Tajpuri ...	10	32	4	Baldew Parbhooram.	Do. ...	Do. ...	11	13	15	4
34	Vaktapur ...	11	50	5	Govindlal Mohanlal.	Do. ... Assistant ...	2nd year 1896 . St. V ...	13 5	25 7	30 12	17 7
35	Prempur ...	11	28	4	Khusal Vastaram	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	10	12	15	5
36	Kadoli ...	10	37	3	Samal Lilachand ...	Do. ...	St. VI ...	7	11	15	8

No.	Name of School.	Grade of School in 1910.	Number of boys or girls on roll.	Standards taught.	Name of Head Master.	Designation.	Qualification.	Pay in 1910.	Pay in 1918.	Pay after revision October 1918.	Total increase.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
								Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
	Sadra Bazar (6).
37	Sadra Boys ...	40	162	5	Bhaichand Punjidas.	Head Master ...	3rd year 1896 .	40	40	45	5	Permanent at Dabhoda on Rs. 50. Trained by M. K. Scholarship. Now on deputation to Training College for 2nd year. *Trained by M. K. Scholarship.
						1st Assistant ...	1st year 1918...	12	13	15	3
						2nd* do. ...	1st year 1919...	10	11	13	3
						3rd do. ...	St. VI ...	7	7	12	5
						4th do. ...	V. F. C. ...	5	7	12	7
						5th do. ...	Do. ...	5	7	12	7
						6th do. ...	Do. ...	...	7	12	12
38	Sadra Girls ...	35	104	5	Kirpa Ramdas ...	Head Mistress ...	3rd year 1884 .	35	35	40	5
						1st Assistant ...	1st year 1896 .	10	13	15	5
						2nd do. ...	IV ...	7	9	12	5
						3rd do. ...	IV. ...	4	7	12	8
39	Sadra A. V. School.	20	55	4	Gunvankai Acharya.	Head Master ...	Matric ...	...	...	25-2 30	...
						1st Assistant ...	English St. V. F. C. VII.	15	20	20	5
						2nd do. ...	English St. IV.	...	15	15	15
						3rd do. ...	V. F. C. ...	...	12	12	12
	Managed States, Polo State (7).
40	Ghodadar ...	...	60	5	Gulabram Rajaram.	Head Master ...	1st year 1888...	16	20	25	9
						Assistant ...	Standard IV .	...	11	11	11
	Varsoda Taluka (8).
41	Varsoda Boys' School.	17	94	6	Himatram Mulji ...	Head Master ...	1st year 1892...	15	15	25	19
						1st Assistant ...	V. N. G. ...	7	7	9	2
						2nd do. ...	St. VI ...	5	5	9	4
42	Varsoda Girls' School.	...	45	4	Foolba Mangolji ...	Head Mistress ...	St. V ...	...	11	13	2
43	Badpura ...	8	30	4	Narayad Ranidat...	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	9	11	13	4
	Khadel Taluka (9)
44	Khadol Boys' ...	20	70	6	Keshavlal Bapudas.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1898 .	12	20	25	13
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	5	7	10	5
						2nd do. ...	VI ...	2	7	9	7
45	Khadol Girls ...	...	35	4	Ichha Maganlal ...	Head Mistress ...	V ...	10	11	15	5
						Assistant ...	V ...	...	7	9	7
	Ghodasar Taluka (10).
46	Ghodasar ...	23	127	6	Dayaram Govindram.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1899 .	15	20	30	15
						1st Assistaht ...	P. S. C. ...	7	7	9	2
						2nd do. ...	Do. ...	5	7	9	4
47	Haldarvas Boys ...	29	120	7	Dharamchand Harjivan.	Head Master	1st year 1887...	17	20	25	8
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	7	12	13	6
						2nd do. ...	VII ...	5	7	9	4
						3rd do. ...	VII ...	...	7	9	9
48	Do. Girls ...	3	40	3	Chanahal Harilal...	Head Mistress ...	IV ...	...	11	13	2
	Rupal Taluka (11).
49	Rupal ...	12	98	6	Mahidhar Narsiram.	Head Master ...	1st year 1917 Rule IV.	14	20	20	6
						Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	6	7	12	7
	Magodi Taluka (12).
50	Magodi ...	6	20	3	Maganlal Motiram.	Head Master ...	V. F. C. ...	5	11	15	10
	Vadagam Taluka (13).
51	Vadagam ...	11	60	6	Vanmali Nathji ...	Head Master ...	1st year 1911 .	10	20	20	10	Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship.
						Assistant ...	VI ...	3	7	9	6
	Dabha Taluka (14).
53	Bhudasan ...	...	25	4	Gavrishankar Rewashankar.	Head Master	V. F. C. ...	...	11	13	2
	JURISDICTIONAL CHIEFS.
	Malpur Taluka (15).
53	Malpur ...	17	145	7	Manishanker Mulji.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1898 .	13	20	30	17
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	6	9	10	4
						2nd do. ...	St. VII ...	...	7	9	9
						3rd do. ...	Do. ...	...	5	9	9
54	Sateda ...	8	35	5	Manscokhram Nanalal,	Head Master ...	1st year 1915 .	7	12	15	8	Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship.
55	Ubhram ...	7	27	4	Choonilal Ranchhod.	Do. ...	St. VII ...	7	11	13	6
56	Anior ...	7	25	4	Ramshankar Manchharam.	Do. ...	St. VI ...	...	8	13	5

No.	Name of School.	Grade of school in 1910.	Number of boys or girls on roll.	Standards taught.	Name of Head Master.	Designation.	Qualification.	Pay in 1910.	Pay in 1918.	Pay after revision October 1918.	Total increase.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	JURISDICTIONAL CHIEFS—contd.							Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
	Mansa Taluka (16).
57	Mansa Boys' ...	83	400	7	Keshavlal Dharamchand.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1892 .	20	25	32	12
						1st Assistant ...	P. S. C. ...	15	15	15	...
						2nd do. ...	St. VI ...	6	8	8	2
						3rd do. ...	V. F. C. ...	6	7	7	1
						4th do. ...	St. V ...	5	6	6	1
						5th do. ...	Do. ...	4	4	4	...
						6th do. ...	Do. ...	3	4	4	1
						7th do. ...	Do. ...	2	3	3	1
58	Mansa Girls ...	17	112	6	Gangabai Banushanker.	Head Mistress ...	1st year 1896 .	17	18	18	1
						1st Assistant ...	St. VI ...	7	7	7	...
						2nd Assistant ...	St. IV ...	2	2	2	...
						Seamstress ...	.....	3	3	2	...
59	Mansa Girls A. V. ..	20	48	4	Kevaldas Jathabhai.	Head Master ...	Mastric ...	20	20	20	...
						Assistant ...	P. S. C. ...	10	10	10	...
60	Itadra ...	11	80	6	Maganlal Amiram .	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	...	11	11
						Assistant ...	St. V ...	2	5	5	3
61	Parbatpura ...	10	31	4	Vithal Lalloo ...	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	10	10	10
						Assistant ...	St. III ...	3	3	3	...
62	Dholakuwa ...	10	35	4	Motising Sardarsing.	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	5	5	10	5
	Mohanpur Taluka (17).
63	Mohanpur ...	20	53	6	Dalsukhram Shivram..	Head Master ...	1st year 1892...	14	20	20	6
						1st Assistant ...	St. VI ...	5	7	9	4
						2nd do. ...	Do. ...	...	7	9	9
64	Sardoi B ys ...	15	105	6	Dalsukhram Pranshanker.	Head Master ...	P. S. C.	13	15	20	7
						1st Assistant ...	St. VI ...	5	8	9	4
						2nd do. ...	Do. ...	...	7	9	9
65	Sardoi Girls ...	...	45	4	Sarda Dalocchand .	Head Mistress ...	St. V ...	...	11	13	2
66	Bakrol ...	12	45	6	Dabyashkar Liladhar.	Head Master ...	V. F. C. ...	11	11	13	2
						Assistant ...	St V ...	3	7	9	6
67	Adpodra ...	12	52	4	Keshavlal Damodar.	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	11	13	2
	Pethapur Taluka (18).
68	Pethapur Boys ...	25	155	6	Lakhorbai Sadabhai.	Head Master ...	1st year 1868...	16	20	30	14
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	8	12	12	4
						2nd do. ...	St. VI ...	4	10	10	6
						3rd do. ...	Do. ...	3	7	9	6
						4th do. ...	Do. ...	2	7	9	7
						5th do. ...	St. V ...	...	7	9	9
69	Do. Girls ...	12	70	5	Divali Samaldas ...	Head Mistress ...	3rd year 1912 .	12	17	23	11	Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship for 3 years.
						Assistant ...	St. IV ...	5	7	7	2
	Banasan Taluka (19).
70	Banasen ...	13	60	5	Hargovind Shivram.	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	12	15	15	3
						Assistant ...	St. VI ...	5	7	10	5
	Punadra Taluka (20).
71	Punadra ...	14	25	5	Bhikhalal Kadar...	Head Master ...	V. F. C. ...	...	11	14	3
						Assistant ...	St. V. ...	5	7	9	4
72	Kevadia ...	...	16	3	Punjalal Mogha ...	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	...	11	...
73	Telnal ...	...	32	4	Chhotalal Bhaichand.	Do. ...	P. S. C. ...	11	11	15	4
	Katosan Taluka (21).
74	Jhotana ...	20	155	7	Keshavlal Becherdas.	Head Master ...	3rd year 1905 .	20	25	35	15	Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship.
						1st Assistant ...	St. VII ...	7	8	9	2
						2nd do. ...	St. V ...	5	5	9	4
	Ilol Taluka (22).
75	Ilol Boys ...	20	110	7	Dalsukhram Punjiram.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1887 .	20	27	35	15
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	7	8	10	3
						2nd do. ...	Do. ...	5	7	9	4
76	Ilol Girls ...	10	40	5	Rama Manchha ...	Head Mistress ...	3rd year 1896 .	...	17	23	6	Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship.
						Assistant ...	St. VI. ...	4	6	6	2
	Amliara Taluka (23).
77	Amliara Boys ...	20	60	6	Jethalal Purshotam.	Head Master ...	1st year 1890 .	14	20	25	11
						1st Assistant ...	St. V ...	8	10	10	2
						2nd do. ...	Do. ...	2	5	9	7
78	Amliara Girls ...	...	30	4	Ruxamani Gangaram.	Head Mistress ...	St. V. ...	...	11	12	1	On deputation to Female Training College by Mahi Kantha Scholarship.
79	Limb ...	12	25	3	Gulab Piru ...	Head Master ...	Do. ...	...	7	12	5
80	Tompur ...	10	30	4	Mohanlal Harchand.	Do. ...	P. S. C. ...	8	11	13	5

No.	Name of School.	Grade of School in 1910.	Number of boys or girls on roll.	Standards taught.	Name of Head Master.	Designation.	Qualification.	Pay in 1910.	Pay in 1918.	Pay after revision October 1918.	Total increase.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	13	14
	JURISDICTIONAL CHIEFS—contd.							Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
	Valasna Taluka (21).
81	Valasna ...	11	15	3	Jivabhai Gadbhai .	Head Master ...	P. S. C. ...	...	11	11	...
82	Finchod ...	10	20	4	Mulsing Umedsing.	Do. ...	St. VI ...	...	11	11	...
	Vasna Taluna (25).
83	Vasna ...	16	104	6	Gordhan Bapuji ...	Head Master ...	1st year 1907...	11	14	14
						1st Assistant ...	Rule IV ...
						2nd do. ...	St. V ...	7	7	9	2
							Do. ...	4	5	7	3
	Khedawada Taluka (26).
84	Khedawada ...	...	25	4	Maganlal Kishor ...	Head Master ...	1st year 1917...	6	12	15	9	Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship.
	Sudasna Taluka (27).
85	Sudasna Boys ...	12	75	6	Budhisagar Malukchand.	Head Master ..	2nd year 1919.	...	13	20	7	Do.
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	...	9	11	11
						2nd do. ...	St. V ...	...	5	9	9
86	Sudasna Girls ...	...	35	3	Mani Ambalal ...	Head Master ...	Do. ...	...	...	13	13
	Dadhalia Taluka (28).
87	Dadhalia ...	11	50	4	Umiahankar Samal.	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	11	12	1
						Assistant ...	St, IV ...	4	6	9	5
	Sathamba Taluka (29).
88	Sathamba ...	13	100	6	Madhavlal Gulabram.	Head Master ...	2nd year 1913.	10	15	22	*12	* Trained by Mahi Kantha Scholarship for 2 years. † On deputation to Training College.
						1st Assistant ...	V. F. C. ...	7	9	9	†2
89	Hathipura ...	...	47	4	Maganlal Khusal ...	Head Master ...	Do. ...	...	11	13	2
	Ramas Taluka (30).
90	Ramas ...	...	30	4	Chunilal Pranshanker.	Head Master ...	St. VI ...	...	11	13	...

Expenditure incurred on account of revision of 1918 Rs. 7,600.

(Signed) M. P. KOREISHI,
Deputy Educational Inspector, Mahi Kantha.

Sadra, March 1920.

APPENDIX I.

Statement referred to in the reply to question No. 1 put by the Honourable Shaikh Ghulam Hussein Hidayatallah at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 10th December 1919.

Extract paragraph of Government Resolution no. 1762 dated the 12th July 1918.	Action Taken.
6	The proposals of the Director of Public Instuction for opening three additional Training Classes for Mullas in Sind, which have since been received, have been sanctioned, the net extra cost involved being Rs. 5,027 recurring and Rs. 5,100 non-recurring.
7	The Director of Public Instruction has since recommended that an additional amount of Rs. 26,148 should be sanctioned for providing qualified assistants in Mulla schools. This recommendation has been provisionally approved on the understanding that the revised rate of Rs. 16 per mensem (which includes war allowance) proposed for grants for the assistants will be treated as a temporary addition to the normal rate of Rs. 10 per mensem. The necessary provision has been made in the current year's budget.
9	(a) On the recommendation of the Director of Public Instruction a non-recurring grant of Rs. 5,000 was sanctioned in the past financial year for the equipment of Mulla Schools in Upper Sind. The proposal of the Director that an amount of Rs. 10,000 recurring (Rs. 6,000 for improving accommodation Rs. 4,000 for equipment) for Mulla Schools should be provided has also been provisionally approved and the requisite provision entered in the current year's budget. (b) As proposed by the Director of Public Instruction a provision of Rs. 1,000 recurring has been made in this year's budget on account of the grant of lungis and other rewards to Mullas for good work. (c) The report regarding modifications in the Departmental Readers has been received from the Director of Public Instruction and is under the consideration of Government*. (d) An amount of Rs. 4,000 recurring has been provided in the current year for the purpose of circulating libraries, as recommended by the Director of Public Instruction. (e) A provision of Rs. 5,000 recurring as proposed by the Director has been made in this year's budget to meet the expenditure in connection with the distribution of books and writing materials. (f) In accordance with the recommendation of the Director of Public Instruction an amount of Rs. 3,000 recurring has been provided in the budget for prizes for good attendance and progress.
11	It has since been reported that there are about 70 Mullas in Local Board Schools on allowances varying from Rs. 3 to Rs. 6 per mensem. Oders increasing the maximum allowance of Rs. 6 per mensem to Rs. 10 per mensem are also being issued.
13	It is reported that there are 66 Mahomedans to 116 Hindus at the Training College for Men, Hyderabad. In the Shikarpur Training School, the numbers are equal, in that at Naushahro they are almost equal and in the Karachi Training School the numbers are 33 Hindus to 15 Mahomedans.
14	The recommendation regarding the grant of a higher maximum pay than Rs. 10 per mensem to Mullas employed as masters in Local Board schools has been fully carried out as the minium pay of a Local Board teacher is now fixed at Rs. 12 per mensem.
15	Since the orders in this paragraph were issued, Government have re-examined the question of free-studentships in primary schools and have promulgated the rulings contained in Press Note No. 291, dated

* Papers R. I. No. 795, being dealt with.

Extract paragraph of Government Resolution no. 1762 dated the 12th July 1918.	Action Taken.
	the 24th January 1919. The Director of Public Instruction has also reported that the sanctioned percentage of free-studentships is generally considerably increased by the Taluka Local Boards, that the local conditions, viz., poverty and backwardness in education of any particular place, are given full consideration and that no Mahomedan pupil has to go without education on the score of inability to pay fees. In the circumstances, no further action has been taken on the recommendation regarding the exemption of Mahomedan pupils from the payment of fees.
16	The Director of Public Instruction has since submitted proposals, involving an additional expenditure of Rs. 11,460 for increasing the number of three-rupees scholarships and instituting two-rupees scholarships for Mahomedans in primary schools in Sind. The proposals have been provisionally approved and the necessary amount provided in the current year's budget. The number of scholarships for each district has been fixed in accordance with the requirements of the Mahomedans as reported by the Deputy Inspector of the district concerned.
18	As regards the encouragement of the study of Persian by the award of allowances to masters the Director of Public Instruction, has since proposed (i) that ten schools in each district may be selected and arrangements made for the teaching of Persian out of school hours by at least a second year trained hand giving him Rs. 3 per mensem as duty allowance, provided there are not less than five pupils to learn language, (ii) that the cost of these allowances may be met from the Educational Local Funds of the districts concerned and (iii) that the boys may be exempted from the payment of the extra fee of two annas per pupil with a view to popularizing the study of Persian. These proposals have been approved by Government. With reference to the recognition of Persian as an alternative to Native Accounts in the Vernacular Final Examination it is reported that the study of the latter subject is an absolute necessity for a Sindi Musalman who has generally to deal with a village bania. It has accordingly been recommended that (i) Persian may be allowed as an optional subject at the examination but that failure in it should not affect the passing of a candidate and (ii) that when a boy passes in the subject the fact may be shown in his Vernacular Final Certificate. These recommendations have also been approved by Government.
19	The further report called for from the Director of Public Instruction has been received and is being considered by Government.
24	The final orders of the Government of India on the subject of the establishment of a provident fund for teachers in non-pensionable service have since been received and detailed proposals for the establisment of such a fund in the Bombay Presidency on the lines indicated by that Government have been called for from the Director of Public Instruction.
25	The proposals awaited from the Director of Public Instruction have been received and it has been directed that the percentage of free-studentships allotted to Mahomedans in Government Secondary schools in Sind should be raised to 10. It is reported that free grants of books have been made in the Naushahro Madressah and have been proposed for the one at Pithoro. The Director of Public Instruction has since reported that there is already a separate kitchen and dining room for Mahomedan boarders at the Shikarpur High School. Steps are being taken for the provision of this facility at the Hyderabad High School hostel also.
31	It has since been reported that the Board of the Dayaram Jethmal Sind College are unwilling to provide for the proposed Mahomedan hostel and mosque from the general funds of the College. A Mahomedan gentleman of Sind has, however, offered to meet the cost in this connection and Government are awaiting a further report from the Commissioner in Sind regarding the offer and the decision of the College Board thereon.

Extract paragraph of Government Resolution no. 1762 dated the 12th July 1918.	Action Taken.
32	Rules for the grant of special scholarships to Mahomedans in the Colleges of Medicine, Engineering and Commerce have since been published (vide Government Notification No. 5602, dated the 8th December 1919). Orders sanctioning the necessary expenditure in this connection have also issued. As regards Forestry, no special scholarships have been awarded as candidates nominated for training in the Provincial and Rangers' courses are already granted stipends. It has, however, been directed that 25 per cent. of Ranger studentships should be reserved for Mahomedan candidates, provided their education and other qulifications allow so much preference to be given and that special consideration should be shown to those prepared to serve in Sind.
34	The Dayaram Jethmal Sind College Board have since decided to establish five free-studentships for poor and deserving students of the educationally backward classes, including Mahomedans.
35	The College Board have resolved to take all Mahomedan students seeking admission during the first two days of each term.
36	The College Board have decided that the question whether a Mahomedan should be appointed as Professor of Persian should be considered whenever there is a vacancy to be filled up.
38	The general question of the reorganisation and improvement of technical education is at present engaging the attention of Government.
39	The final orders of the Government of India on the subject of female education have since been received and the Director of Public Instruction has been asked to submit a full report in the matter.

APPENDIX J.

Statement of Vital Statistics of Poona City for three pre-drainage years (1912, 13 and 14) and for three years (1916, 17 and 19) when drainage system was in operation.

Population 117,256.

Year.	Births.	Birth rate.	Number of deaths by Causes.										Ratios per 1,000 of population.
			Cholera.	Small-pox.	Plague.	Fever.	Dysentery and Diarrhœa.	Respiratory diseases.	Injuries.	Other causes.	Total. All causes.	Total. All causes excluding Plague.	Cholera.	Small-pox.	Plague.	Fever.	Dysentery and Diarrhœa.	Respiratory diseases.	Injuries.	Other causes.	Total. All causes.	Total. All causes excluding Plague.
3 pre-drainage years.
1912 ...	1,810	15·43	899	51	474	2,181	1,738	652	28	714	6,237	5,763	3·40	·43	4·04	18·60	14·82	5·56	·24	6·09	53·19	49·15
1913 ...	1,604	13·68	9	552	1,745	1,530	1,228	402	26	551	6,103	4,418	·08	4·71	14·88	13·05	10·47	4·20	·22	4·65	52·56	37·68
1914 ...	1,219	10·33	311	40	400	1,228	1,218	742	24	885	4,848	4,448	2·65	·34	3·41	10·47	10·39	6·33	·20	7·55	41·34	37·93
Total ...	4,626	39·44	719	643	2,619	4,939	4,184	1,886	78	2,150	17,348	14,629	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
Average ...	1,542	13·15	239	214	873	1,646	1,395	629	26	727	5,749	4,876	2·04	1·83	7·44	14·04	11·89	5·36	·22	6·20	49 03	41·59
Drainage in operation.
1916 ...	876	6·94	80	241	8,636	524	712	1,867	38	1,461	8,035	4,899	·31	2·05	31·01	4·47	6·07	11·66	·32	16 63	68·52	37·51
1917 ...	1,365	11·64	29	114	925	1,108	577	1,857	34	1,378	6,067	5,142	·25	·97	7·90	9·87	4·92	15·84	·29	11·71	51·74	43·85
1919 ...	2,537	21·63	127	216	16	1,760	640	2,732	30	1,537	7,057	5,021	1·08	1·84	·13	15·01	5·53	23·29	·25	13·11	60·27	60·14
Total ...	4,778	40·24	192	571	4,577	3,442	1,933	5,956	102	4,391	21,159	16,592	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
Average ...	1,593	13·41	64	190	1,526	1,147	645	1,985	34	1,464	7,056	5,531	·55	1·62	13·01	9·78	5·50	16·94	·29	12·48	60·18	47·17

Note.—The above Table is computed from the figures collected and submitted by Municipal Agency. Drainage is stated to have been working in part during 1915. 1918 also is excluded as Influenza mortality obscures all deductions. The high death-rate in 1919 is attributable to Influenza.

Statement of Vital Statistics of Poona City during the years 1915 and 1918.

1915 ...	1,224	10·44	9	51	255	1,199	660	742	19	945	3,880	3,625	·08	·43	2·17	10·23	5·63	6·33	·16	8 05	33·00	30·91
1918 ...	1,664	14·19	56	194	932	1,972	449	5,102	21	1,139	9,865	8,933	·48	1·65	7·95	16·82	3·83	43·51	·18	9·71	84·13	76·18

APPENDIX K.

Thana Lime Stone Farm.

Taluka Salsette.

1 Wesawe, 2 Ambivli, 3 Daravli, Yerangal, 4 Akshe-Marwe-Malavni, 5 Manori, 6 Gorai-Utan.

Taluka Mahim.

7 Pamtembhi-Kelwa, Usarni, Shirgaon Mathane, Khare-Kuran.

Peta Umbergaon.

8 Kalgaon.

Memorandum of conditions of the sale of the right to remove lime stone from Government lands in the marginally noted villages of the Thana District for the period from 1st September 1905 to 31st July 1908.

1. The successful tenderer shall, before 1st July 1905, execute at his own cost on a duly stamped paper an agreement, and present a security bond for the due performance of his contract according to these conditions, before the Mamlatdar of the Taluka concerned.

2. The Contractor shall, on or before 1st July 1905, pay into the Huzur Treasury at Thana $\frac{1}{12}$th of the contract price as deposit to be returned to the contractor after the expiry of the period of the contract, if the contract has been duly fulfilled but to be at the disposal of the Collector in case of a breach of the contract.

3. The contractor shall on 1st September 1905 take over from the Mamlatdar all stock and plant (kilns, lime stone, chunam, charcoal, houses, sheds, pipes, etc.), the property of Government on the waste lands covered by his contract, and pay to the Mamlatdar therefor the price fixed at fair valuation by the Executive Engineer, Thana.

4. $\frac{1}{12}$th of the contract price shall be paid by the contractor on each of the following dates :—

1st December	1st April
1st February	1st July.

5. In default of payment of an instalment on its due date, 10 days' notice from such date will be given and if the overdue instalment is not paid the contractor shall be liable at the Collector's discretion to a penalty not exceeding one-fourth amount overdue to be recovered as an arrear of land revenue. The cost of issuing notices shall be leviable in the shape of a fixed fee of 4 annas for each notice if the amount of arrears does not exceed rupees 5 and of 8 annas in any other case.

6. If any instalment becomes overdue by more than one month Collector may evict the contractor and all his representatives or servants and retain possession till the instalment is paid, and if an instalment becomes overdue by more than three months Collector may resume the farm and dispose of it as he pleases, the contractor nevertheless remaining liable for the whole unpaid balance of the three years' contract money.

7. The contractor shall be at liberty to excavate lime stones till the period of his contract expires but all rights to stones or other natural products remaining on or in the lands after the expiry of the period of the contract shall vest solely in Government.

8. The contractor is to take out stones only from the lands leased to him. He is not to take them out from the adjoining Government or Malki lands without the Collector's or Mamlatdar's written permission.

9. The contractor shall present to the Mamlatdar with every application he makes for permission to quarry in any occupied survey number a plan of the whole survey Number with the plot to be quarried marked on it. If the plot required does not consist of a whole survey, pot or falni number it shall ordinarily be rectangular in shape and its length and breadth shall be noted on the plan. For the purpose of levying fees a fraction of a guntha shall be considered as a whole guntha. The contractor shall demarcate the plot applied for by boundary stones of four sides.

10. The contractor shall prevent the formation of natural salts in the holes from which lime stone is removed and in default shall be liable at the Collector's discretion to suspension or cancellation of his contract.

11. The contractor shall, at the option of the Collector within 15 days of notice issued by the Collector in this behalf, after the expiry of the term of the contract either remove all his property from the waste land covered by his contract or sell it to the Collector at his (the Collector's) valuation, as the Collector may direct. In default of such removal or sale within the 15 days' period the said property shall vest absolutely in Government.

APPENDIX L.

Form of contract for lime stone farms in the Thana District.

1. The contractor is given the sole right of removing lime stones from certain Government lands free of charge. He may also after previously obtaining the Collector's permission in writing exercise the same right in respect of other Government lands and all occupied lands within the villages mentioned, but in the case of occupied lands he will have to pay the fees prescribed in the margin and will also have to make his own terms with the owners of the lands. No permission will be given to any one else but the contractor, but it is to be understood that the occupant has under Land Revenue Code rule 50 the right to remove lime stone for his own private use and not for sale.

Number of Farm	Fee per guntha.
1	20
2	15
3	15
4	25
4	25
6, 7, 8, 9	10

2. This contract will begin from the 1st of September 1911 and shall last upto the 31st July 1912. The amount of the contract money is Rs. per year.

3. The contractor having deposited in the Huzur Treasury $\frac{1}{12}$th of the price of this contract namely Rs. it is hereby agreed that this sum shall be returned to him at the expiry of the period of the contract if none of the conditions have been broken, but that it shall be liable to be forfeited by the Collector in the event of the non-fulfilment of any of the conditions, in addition to any other penalty which may be imposed under this agreement.

4. The contractor shall pay the amount of the contract money for each year in four equal instalments on the following dates, viz., 1st December, 1st February, 1st April and 1st July. If any instalment is not paid on the due date interest at 12 per cent. per annum will be charged on it. If any instalment becomes overdue by more than one month the Collector may evict the contractor and all his representatives or servants and retain possession till the instalment is paid and if an instalment becomes overdue by more than three months, the Collector may resume the farm and dispose of it as he pleases, the contractor, nevertheless, remaining liable for the whole unpaid balance of the contract money.

5. Any sum due from the contractor or his surety shall be recoverable as an arrear of Land Revenue.

6. The contractor shall on 1st September take over from the Mamlatdar all stock and plant (kilns, lime stone, chunam, fuel, houses, sheds, etc.), the property of Government within the area covered by this contract and shall pay to the Mamlatdar the price thereof to be fixed at a fair valuation by the Executive Engineer, Thana.

7. The contractor shall maintain and work during the fair season from November 1st to May 31st to the satisfaction of the Collector at least one kiln at all the places on Government land within the limits of the area covered by this contract where there are kilns and shall not close or cease to work it without the previous written permission of the Collector.

8. At any place within the limits of the area covered by the contract where there is in the opinion of the Collector, a reasonable demand for lime and sufficient workable lime stone the contractor shall be bound within a date to be fixed by the Collector to open a kiln for the manufacture and sale of lime and to manufacture it and to keep it for sale at a rate of speed and in quantities sufficient, in the opinion of the Collector to meet the local demand.

9. The Collector shall have power to fix the maximum price per Khandi at which the contractor may sell lime at any kiln within the limits of the area covered by this contract where in his opinion the price charged by the contractor is unreasonably high, but before doing so, he shall give the contractor an opportunity of being heard and shall ascertain and take into consideration the market price in Bombay and the cost of the conveyance thither. The contractor shall then be bound to sell at a price not exceeding the price so fixed.

10. The right to remove limes stone under the contract will extend over the bed of the sea and the land lying within the port limits of all the sea coast villages within the area of the farm. The contractor shall, however, cause no injury to the port and then prevent the formation of natural salt in the holes from which lime stone is removed.

11. In the event of his breaking any of the conditions of this contract the Collector shall have power to forfeit the deposit money and to cancel the contract and to give it out anew, and to recover from the contractor any loss caused thereby to local funds.

12. At the expiry of the period of the contract, the contractor shall at the option of the Collector, either remove within 15 days all his property from the Government lands covered by his contract or sell it to the Collector at his (the contractor's valuation). In default of such removal or sale within 15 days from the date of the expiry of the contract, the said property shall vest absolutely in Government.

APPENDIX M.

Question No. 4 (a), latter portion.			Question No. 4 (c).
			(i)	(ii)	(iii)	(iv) If so, what is the area for which remission was granted and the amount so remitted.
The names of Kalambandi villages.	Extent of land under cultivation in each of the villages.	Extent of irrigation in each of the villages.	Was water from Khari river regularly supplied to such lands during the last five years?	If not, will the Government be pleased to state why and in which years it was not so done?	Was any remission granted for the years in which water could not be supplied.	The year for which remission was granted.	The area for which remission was given.	The amount of remission given.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	A. g.	A. g.					Acres.	Rs.
Dhathal ...	684 30	418 32	All the water available from the Khari river was supplied to the Kalambandi villages except in flood or except the time when it was wasted at Chalindra when not required by the people.	It would not be done in the following years for the reasons stated against each entry:— In the year 1915-16 it being a famine year. In the year 1916-17 there being scarcity of rainfall. In the year 1918-19 being a scarcity year.	Yes ...	1915-16 ...	419	2,092
						1916-17 ...	419	1,926
						1918-19 ...	419	2,081
Bherai ...	687 28	438 34				1915-16 ...	479	2,133
						1916-17 ...	479	2,141
						1918-19 ...	479	2,354
Naika ...	3,881 37	1,224 10				1915-16 ...	1,234	5,598
						1916-17 ...	1,228	4,523
						1918-19 ...	1,224	5,405
Chalindra ...	1,251 9	882 25				1915-16 ...	882	2,510
						1916-17 ...	882	1,849
						1918-19 ...	882	2,679
Kathwada ...	1,256 11	468 20				1915-16 ...	471	2,574
						1916-17 ...	471	1,539
						1918-19 ...	468	2,902
Nawagam ...	1,227 3	665 30				1915-16 ...	672	5,157
						1916-17 ...	672	4,089
						1918-19 ...	666	5,713
Ringlaj ...	586 28	423 35				1915-16 ...	429	2,165
						1916-17 ...	429	1,254
						1918-19 ...	424	2,261
Kanara ...	946 20	503 39				1915-16 ...	547	2,604
						1916-17 ...	537	2,315
						1918-19 ...	504	836
Malárpura ...	635 0	317 28				1915-16 ...	317	1,260
						1916-17 ...	318	1,451
						1918-19 ...	318	1,165
Pansoli ...	551 30	367 9				1915-16 ...	370	2,095
						1916-17 ...	368	1,972
						1918-19 ...	367	2,049
Govindpura (Inam).	776 12	360 26				No remissions were given in Govindpura during the last five years as the Inamdar did not claim any.

APPENDIX N.

Statement showing the cattle sold to Agents of Foreign Countries for export from Farms under the management of the Agricultural Department.

Year.	Name of the Agent to whom sold.	Country to which exported.	Cattle sold. No.	Cattle sold. Kind.	Value realised.	Remarks.
	From the Surat Farm Dairy in Gujarat Division.				Rs.
1914 ...	Government of Trinidad.	Trinidad ...	1	Bull 4 years old	500	The Trinidad Government wanted the bull for museum of cattle.
1919 ...	Dr. Kuntz ...	Java Government.	15	Bulls ...	4,000
1919 ...	Mr. Antonino Neves, Representative of the Brazilian Agricultural Society.	Brazil ...	20	7 Cows ...	3,150	The cows were sorted out for sale to the Nandod State, but only one cow being purchased by that State the rest were sold to Mr. Neves. The highest offer from the public for the whole lot was only Rs. 450.
				4 Bulls ...
				4 Heifers ...
				5 Calves ...
	From the Northcote Cattle Farm, Chharodi.
	Mr. Antonino Neves .	Brazil ...	7	Cows ...	1,750	The animals sold were not of any true type of cattle. They were a mixture of Hansi, Malvi and Kankrej. The cows were irregular breeders and not fit to keep in the Farm. The young animals were badly stunted and of bad type.
			26	Young Male Stock	4,550
			6	Young Female Stock	900
	Imperial Agriculturist, Pusa.	Jamaica ...	6	Young Bulls ...	1,500
	From the Agricultural College Dairy.
	Mr. Antonino Neves .	Brazil ...	2	Heifers ...	1,125	These animals were all Sindhis except the bull calf which was of Gir breed and were such as would in the ordinary course have been sold.
			3	Bulls ...
			1	Calf ...

APPENDIX O.

No. J.—1015 of 1912.

Ahmednagar, 15th May 1912.

Circular.

The District Magistrate hereby withdraws Magisterial Circular No. 4 of 1911.

2. Every Police Patel has power under section 14 of the Village Police Act to try cases of petty assault and abuse committed in his village, if complaint is made to him within 8 days, and he has power to inflict the punishment of imprisonment in the village chawdi up to 24 hours.

3. Third Class Magistrates, therefore, are not to take cognizance of all complaints under sections 323 and 504, Indian Penal Code, that are presented to them. The vast majority of these complaints are entirely trivial and refer to precisely the class of cases that should be disposed of by the Police Patels.

4. Third Class Magistrates should entertain complaints under section 323 only when a medical certificate is produced or there are open and tangible signs of violence. They should entertain complaints under section 504 only when the parties belong to the respectable and middle classes.

5. They should dismiss all other complaints under these two sections as showing no sufficient grounds for proceeding, and refer the complaints to their respective Police Patels.

(Signed) A. F. MACONOCHIE,
District Magistrate.

APPENDIX P.

To

His Excellency the Honourable Sir George Ambrose Lloyd, G.C.I.E., D.S.O.,
Governor and President-in-Council, Bombay.

The humble memorial of Kadadi Kallo Balkrishna, Assistant Master, Sardars' High School, Belgaum.

Respectfully Sheweth—

That your memorialist is a graduate of the Bombay University and is serving as an Assistant Master in Sardars' High School, Belgaum, of the Southern Division of the Bombay Presidency having put in two months' service under Government.

2. That, as is admitted on all hands, the duties which an Assistant Master or an Assistant Deputy has to discharge are of a very responsible and arduous nature. An Assistant Master has to mould the character and develop the powers of his pupils, while an Assistant Deputy has to guide and control the vernacular masters in their very delicate duties and to enlighten and influence public opinion in the mofussil, so as to popularise and expand education where it is badly needed. This work is the more delicate and difficult in these days of many movements, when the impressionable minds of the young are exposed to serious dangers of being led astray. For this work, therefore, it is necessary to attract men of high character and intellectual attainments imbued with a keen sense of duty and responsibility.

Further, while the work of a School Master involves a severe mental strain calculated to shorten life, the Assistant Deputy has to lead a very hard life, as he has to tour for nine months of the year in all kinds of weather to the great detriment of his health, the neglect of his family and the sacrifice of the proper education of his children, being very often denied even the ordinary amenities of life.

3. That in view of these circumstances, the emoluments at present offered to an Assistant throughout his career are very meagre and quite inadequate to satisfy the barest wants of life. A graduate starts at present as an Assistant Master on Rs. 50—less than a living wage—and he takes on an average 18 years to reach the grade of Rs. 150. In the time scale under consideration of Government the start is fixed at Rs. 60 for Sind and Rs. 50 for the Presidency and the grade of Rs. 150 is to be attained in 13 years' time. But it may kindly be noted that owing to the abnormal increase in prices ranging from 100 to 200 per cent., the rise in the standard of living and the increase in the cost of bringing up and educating children, the proposed time scale will not give anything like just relief, nor make it possible for a subordinate to live decently, much less leave him a margin to fall back upon in case of dire necessity. It is, therefore, respectfully submitted that the initial pay may be fixed at Rs. 100.

4. That the chances of promotion of a subordinate to the post of Head Master or Deputy Educational Inspector are very limited. There are only 51 appointments of Head Masters and Deputy Educational Inspectors open to 585 Assistants. Considering that a subordinate rises to the post of a Head Master or of a Deputy Educational Inspector after about 20 years' service, he can serve at most for ten years only in the higher appointment before he retires. Thus in the course of 30 years, only 153 subordinates, i. e., just 26 per cent. of them, can ever hope to become Head Masters or Deputy Educational Inspectors, while the rest must retire from the subordinate ranks. Considering the facts, it appears very necessary that the maximum pay of the subordinates should be sufficiently high to make them live in some comfort, respectability and to retire on a decent pension. Government have already thought of fixing the maximum at Rs. 150 with selection grades of Rs. 175 and Rs. 200. But for reasons given above your memorialist humbly suggests that the contemplated scale would be utterly inadequate and that it may be fixed at Rs. 100—10—250 with a selection grade of 275—25—300.

To compensate an Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector for the comparatively harder life, the Director of Public Instruction has proposed to give a start of one year to an Assistant Deputy over a teacher of the same standing in the scheme pending before Government. This provision does not strike one as at all adequate and the memorialist's submission is that instead a special allowance of Rs. 30 be attached to every such appointment. This would simplify administration and provide for cases in which an Assistant Deputy may have to revert to the teaching line on account of special and unavoidable circumstances. It is further submitted that in view of the comparatively small number of appointments of the Assistant Deputies the percentage of selection grades in that line may be fixed at 30 of the total cadre as against 15 per cent. proposed in the contemplated time scale, the lower percentage being retained for the teaching line.

5. That in the humble opinion of your memorialist, the direct recruitment for class II, proposed in the time scale before your Government, even if carried out on a small scale, would be at once undesirable and inexpedient. In the first place, in order that a Head Master or a Deputy Educational Inspector may discharge his duties with perfect efficiency it is very necessary that he should have previous training as an Assistant Master or an Assistant Deputy and a thorough acquaintance with the working of the line of which he is appointed as the head. In the second place, the direct recruitment of Head Masters will press very hard on Assistant Masters, for the majority of whom there is already hardly any chance for rise to Head Master's post. For, at present there are 18 posts of Head Masters open to 455 Assistant Masters, i. e., in the course of 30 years, only 54 men—about 12 per cent. of the total number— could rise to be Head Masters. As a concrete illustration of the extremely limited scope for such promotion, it may be mentioned that in Sind an opportunity of appointment to the Head Master's post occurred only recently after a long interval of 18 years, and that too not in the ordinary course by the death or retirement of a permanent incumbent, but by the creation of a new High School. But with the direct recruitment the chances of promotion of Assistant Masters to Head Masters' posts will dwindle to about 5 per cent. or be practically nil.

On the contrary your memorialist would respectfully beg to suggest that the time has arrived when even those posts of Head Masters in class I which are now reserved and filled by direct recruitment may reasonably be thrown open to selected graduates in the subordinate service because more graduates are being now taken into the Educational Department and improved prospects will further attract to this line a greater number of men of superior calibre.

6. That the posts of Vice-Principals of Training Colleges for Men which have hitherto been included in the Subordinate Service may fitly be raised in status and included in class II. This will increase to a small extent the number of higher appointments open to subordinates. It is further prayed that the posts of the Assistants to the Director of Public Instruction may be thrown open to the members of service in all the four divisions of the Presidency.

7. That the status at present enjoyed by the members of the Subordinate Service is not one of which they can feel proud. At present at official public functions such as Durbars, etc., the graduate Assistants in the Educational Department are altogether ignored, though by virtue of their being graduates they are classified as third class Sirdars in the official list of precedence. The cause of education will indirectly gain if an Assistant in the Educational Department is raised in the estimation of the public and this can, to an extent, be ensured by assigning to him a higher rank in the order of precedence in consonance with his academic qualifications, the importance of his duties and the serious character of his responsibilities.

8. In conclusion, Your Excellency's humble memorialist respectfully prays that this memorial may receive favourable and early consideration at the hands of Your Government.

And for this act of kindness, your humble memorialist will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

KADADI KALLO BALKRISHNA,

Belgaum, 12th February 1920. Assistant Master, Sardars' High School, Belgaum.

[Respectfully submitted through the Head Master, Sardars' High School, Belgaum, the Educational Inspector of the Southern Division and the Director of Public Instruction.]

APPENDIX Q.

Famine.

Investigation of sites suitable for the production of fodder by pump irrigation in the Presidency proper.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Order No. 720.

Bombay Castle, 1st March 1920.

ORDER OF GOVERNMENT.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council held in July 1919 the Honourable Mr. Purshotamdas Thakurdas asked for a list of places suitable for raising fodder crops by pump irrigation, with the approximate area which could be irrigated at each place. Government replied that enquiry would be made. A resolution which was moved by the same Honourable Member in the meeting of the Legislative Council held in September 1919 to the effect that Government should undertake a survey of suitable sites for the purpose stated above was, in view of the proposed enquiry, postponed. The Governor in Council is now pleased to direct that all officers of the Land Revenue, Irrigation and Agricultural Departments in the Presidency proper, while on tour, should be instructed to make notes of any sites they may find where there are

(a) perennial supply of water, preferably from a pool in the bed of a river,

(b) moderately low river banks, and

(c) 150 acres or more of fairly level culturable land close to the source of supply;

and to forward their reports on the sites so discovered to the Collector concerned at the end of the touring season. The Collector should forward a combined report for his district to the Director of Agriculture, who should submit his report to Government after the proposals have been examined by the Agricultural Engineer.

2. In the event of pumping being resorted to on an extensive scale in future famines, it has been suggested to Government that the Public Works Department might be in a position to order portable pumping sets, for use on their works, of a size suitable to the needs of the Agricultural Department and that such sets could be made available for issue on loan or hire in a famine year. The Director of Agriculture should be asked to favour Government with his opinion on this suggestion.

H. F. KNIGHT,
Under Secretary to Government.

To

The Commissioner, N. D.,
The Commissioner, C. D.,
The Commissioner, S. D.,
All Collectors and Executive Engineers in the Presidency proper,
All Superintending Engineers in the Presidency proper,
The Director of Agriculture,
The Settlement Commissioner and Director of Land Records,
The Mechanical Engineer to Government,
The Accountant General,
The Public Works Department,
The Political Department,
The Financial Department.

APPENDIX R.

Dairies.

Report of the Committee appointed to consider measures for the improvement of the milk supply in large cities in the Bombay Presidency.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Resolution No. 3239.

Bombay Castle, 23rd March 1916.

Letter from the Director of Agriculture No. A.—11833 dated 23rd December 1915:—

"In accordance with the orders issued in Government Resolution No. 8263 dated 2nd August 1915, I have the honour to state that the Committee appointed to enquire into the milk supply of large towns met in Poona in the month of September and sat for two days. It then adjourned for a month to facilitate the collection of further information and met in the month of October, when it sat for three days, when it adjourned till November 22nd to admit of the drafting of the report.

"In addition to the members nominated by Government the following gentlemen attended the meetings and gave us the benefit of their valuable advice, viz.:—

Major W. G. Liston, Director, Bombay Bacteriological Laboratory.

Mr. G. H. Frost, Assistant Director, Military Dairy Farms, Southern Circle.

Evidence was heard, the most important witnesses being Major F. H. G. Hutchinson, Sanitary Commissioner to the Government of Bombay.

Mr. B. M. Desai ...
Rao Saheb M. L. Kulkarni ...
Mr. D. H. Tagare ... } of the Agricultural Department.
Mr. M. G. Athalye ...
Mr. K. V. Joshi ...

Notes submitted by members of the Committee and others interested in the subject were considered and recorded. The sittings of the Committee were advertised in the Press as open to the public, and a certain number of gentlemen attended and made suggestions from time to time.

"The report of the Committee is attached herewith."

RESOLUTION.—The thanks of Government are due to the Committee for the thorough manner in which they have discharged the task assigned to them and for their lucid and careful report.

2. Having regard to the existing financial stringency and to the necessity of subjecting the report to public criticism, Government do not propose to pass any general orders on the Committee's recommendations. They will be glad, however, if the Director of Agriculture can arrange for an experiment in the organization of the collection of milk from cultivators and its transport to urban areas on the lines indicated in paragraph 41 of the report. Possibly Poona would be a suitable site for the experiment.

(Signed) J. A. POPE,
Under Secretary to Government.

APPENDIX S.

A THREE YEARS' COURSE IN SLOYD FOR PRIMARY SCHOOLS.

(The course may be introduced from Standard IV or V.)

For first year.

Name of model.	Dimensions.
1 Envelope	6″×6″.
2 Wall pocket	Do.
3 Picture frame	Do.
4 Pin-wheel	Do.
5 Scissors case	Do.
6 Tray	4″×4″.
7 Book-mark	2″×4″.
8 Basket	6″×6″.
9 Pencil box	4″×9″.

For second year.

1 Luggage label	2″×3½″.
2 Stamp book	3″×4½″.
3 Book cover	6″×8″ (or suitable for a diary).
4 Pencil sharpener	3½″×3½″ (two inches circle).
5 Stamp book (as obtainable in the post office).	Accordingly.
6 Box (with lid attached)	9½″×5½″.
7 Thread winder	2″×2″.
8 Envelope	7″×10½″.
9 Comb holder	3½″×9″.
10 Picture frame (with central cut square)	5″×10″ (or suitable).
11 An oblong box (to hold note-paper and envelopes)	Suitable.
12 Measure	1″×6″.
13 Box (lid separate) for soap, etc.	4″×6″ (or suitable).

For third year.

1 Enovelope (oblong)	Suitable.
2 Postal card holder (or wall pocket)	6″×14½″ (or suitable).
3 Ink-stand holder	Suitable.
4 Hexagonal tray	6″×6″.
5 Calender (an easy type)	Suitable.
6 Picture frame (circular)	5″×5″ (or suitable).
7 Fan (capable of being opened and closed)	Suitable.
8 Sliding box	From a match box.
9 Building	Suitable.
10 Lamp shade	4½″×4½″ (or suitable).
11 Blotting pad—
Back	5″×7½″.
Corners	2½″×5″.
12 Postal card case	From a postal card.
13 A big box (thick card board)	Suitable.

Supplementary models.

1 Picture frame (central cut diamond-shaped).
2 Different kinds of envelopes.
3 Round shaped box.
4 Spectacles case.
5 A note book.
6 A protractor.
7 Pen tray with divisions for ink.
8 Box for bottle.
9 Tulsi plant holder.
10 Double photograph frame.
11 Various kinds of boxes.
12 Reflection trough.

NOTE.—Consecutive models should have different colour in paper.

APPENDIX T.

List referred to in question no. 11 put by the Hon'ble Mr. R. P. Paranjpye.

(1) Apparatus to illustrate the expansion of solids, liquids and gases.
Thermometer.
Barometer.
Apparatus to illustrate some of the properties of matter.
Apparatus to illustrate the pressure of liquids and gases.
Models of various pumps.

(2) Various chemicals, salts, acids, alkalis.
Litmus paper.
Glass tubes, earthenware retorts, bulbs, etc.
Methylated spirit and spirit lamp.
Test-tubes.

(3) Apparatus to show reflection and refraction.
Prism.
Newton's Disc.

(4) Apparatus for producing frictional electricity.
A small chemical battery.
Model of a telegraph instrument.

(5) Model of a Phonograph.

(6) Terrestrial globe.
Orrery.

(7) Miscellaneous articles such as charts, pictures, Primary and Secondary colours, syphons, metal and earthen pots, funnels, stores, mirror, pieces of wire, rubber tubing, sets Mechanical Powers, sponges, bottles, flasks, syringe, rain-gauge, water-level, etc., etc.

APPENDIX U.

District Poona.

1. The Satara Road between Sowar's Gate and the point where it crosses the Satara district boundary (28 miles roughly) will be divided into 4 sections as under :—

	From	To
Section No. I	... Sowar's Gate	... Katraj.
Section No. II	... Katraj	... Khed Shiwapur.
Section No. III	... Khed Shiwapur	... Kamthadi.
Section No. IV	... Kamthadi	... Kikvi i.e., up to the point where it crosses the Satara district boundary.

2. When His Excellency travels on this road each section will be in charge of either an Inspector, Sub-Inspector or Head Constable. These officers must have watches correctly set to Station time.

3. Horse or mule vehicles should not be interfered with but the driver should be warned that His Excellency's car is on the road proceeding towards.....and that they must be careful to keep to the left hand side of the road. His Excellency's car can be recognized (1) by the coronet instead of a number plate and (2) by the flag attached by day on the right hand side of the body of the car near the driver's seat or by the red lamp by night in the same position.

4. Section officers should be present at the point on their section which is nearest His Excellency's starting point.

5. Bullock carts should be stopped at these points at the time as shown in the attached schedules before His Excellency is expected to arrive there.

6. The working of this scheme can be seen from the specimen schedules "A" and "B" attached. The scheme does not include the portion from Kirkee Railway Station or Government House to the Sowar's Gate as police arrangements along this route are made under the personal supervision of the Cantonment and City Police Inspectors.

APPENDIX U—continued.

Scheme "A," i. e., at the time His Excellency travels from Poona to Mahableshwar leaving at 8 a. m.

Section.	Time of His Excellency's arrival.	Bullock carts to be stopped from.	Section officer will be stationed at.
1	8-15 a. m.	6-15 a. m.	Sowar's Gate.
2	8-25 a. m.	5-0 a. m.	Katraj.
3	8-40 a. m.	5-15 a. m.	Khed Shivapur.
4	8-50 a. m.	5-30 a. m.	Kamthadi.

Scheme "B," i. e., at the time His Excellency travels from Poona to Mahableshwar leaving at 4 p. m.

Section.	Time of His Excellency's arrival.	Bullock carts to be stopped from.	Section officer will be stationed at.
1	4-15 p. m.	2-15 p. m.	Sowar's Gate.
2	4-25 p. m.	1-0 p. m.	Katraj.
3	4-40 p. m.	1-15 p. m.	Khed Shivapur.
4	4-50 p. m.	1-30 p. m.	Kamthadi.

Scheme "A," when His Excellency travels from Mahableshwar to Poona leaving at 8 a. m.

Section.	Time of His Excellency's arrival.	Bullock carts to be stopped from.	Section officer will be stationed at.
1	10-32 a. m.	8-35 a. m.	Katraj.
2	10-20 a. m.	8-0 a. m.	Khed Shivapur.
3	10-5 a. m.	7-5 a. m.	Kamthadi.
4	9-50 a. m.	6-50 a. m.	Satara boundary.

Scheme "B," i. e., when His Excellency travels from Mahableshwar to Poona leaving at 4 p. m.

Section.	Time of Excellency's arrival.	Bullock carts to be stopped from.	Section officer will be stationed at.
1	6-32 p. m.	4-35 p. m.	Katraj.
2	6-20 p. m.	4-0 p. m.	Khed Shivapur.
3	6-5 p. m.	3-5 p. m.	Kamthadi.
4	5-50 p. m.	2-50 p. m.	Satara boundary

District Satara.

The road between the Poona District boundary and Mahableshwar will be divided as usual into four sections as under.

1. Its length in the limits of the S. I., Khandala.
   Do. S. I., Bhuinj.
   Do. S. I., Wai.
   Do. S. I., Mahableshwar.

Each section will be in charge of the local Sub-Inspector. These officers must carry watches correctly set to Post Office time.

2. Horse or mule vehicles should not be interfered with but the drivers should be warned that His Excellency's car is on the road proceeding towards . . . . . and that they must be careful to keep to the left hand side of the road. His Excellency's car can be recognized (1) by the coronet instead of a number plate and (2) by the flag attached by day on the right hand side of the body of the car near the driver's seat or by the red lamp by night in the same position.

3. Section officers should constantly patrol their sections after their men are posted. The S. I., Wai, however, will arrange to be at Wai when His Excellency the Governor arrives, as His Excellency generally stops there.

4. There are three distinct types of road between Shirwal and Mahableshwar viz.—

(1) Flat roads running through a country-side where carts can be unyoked off the side at a very short notice.

(2) Flat roads running through a rugged country where the number of "bays" off the road in which carts can be collected is few.

(3) Purely ghaut roads.

Under the first heading comes the stretch of road from Shirwal to Khandala and that from Vele to Wai. Under the second is the Panchgani-Mahableshwar stretch. Under the third is the stretch from Khandala to Vele and from Wai to Dandeghar.

5.-A.—Between Shirwal and Khandala and between Vele and Wai the police posted along the road shall unyoke all carts off the road two hours before His Excellency's expected arrival on their stretch of road.

B.—Between Dandeghar and Mahableshwar, the police posted along the road shall hurry any carts found on the road less than three hours before His Excellency's expected arrival to the nearest "bay" where they will be unyoked. No cart should be permitted to pass any "bay" after three hours before His Excellency's arrival.

C.—Under the third heading are the Khambatki and Wai Ghauts. All bullock carts travelling towards the Khambatki ghaut should be detained at Khandala and Vele four hours before His Excellency's expected arrival.

Carts proceeding up the Wai Ghaut should be detained at Wai five hours before His Excellency's arrival, and those proceeding down this ghaut at Dandeghar four hours before His Excellency's arrival.

It will be the duty of road police stationed on these ghauts to hurry the carts along to the end of the ghaut or to the nearest "bay".

It is clearly to be understood that no carts should be found on the road either yoked or unyoked at the time when His Excellency the Governor's car passes, and it is equally clearly to be understood that the sub-inspectors in charge of sections will be held personally responsible for any remissness or lack of smartness on the part of their men.

APPENDIX V.

From

GANESH GOVIND GARUD,
President of the Public Meeting, Dhulia;

To

THE CHIEF SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,
Bombay.

Sir,

I am desired to submit herewith a Memorial adopted by the Citizens of Dhulia in a Public Meeting held on the 13th of September 1906, to His Excellency the Governor of Bombay in Council. I beg to request you to be kind enough to place this Memorial before His Excellency for favourable consideration.

I beg to remain,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

GANESH GOVIND GARUD,
President of the Public Meeting.

Dhulia, 8th October 1906.

To—His Excellency the Right Honourable Charles Wallace Alexander Napier Cochrane-Baillie, Lord Lamington, G.C.M.G., G.C.I.E., B.A. (Oxon.), Governor and President in Council, Bombay.

The humble memorial of the citizens of Dhulia in Public meeting assembled

Most Respectfully Sheweth,

1. That your memorialists were much concerned to read, in the newspapers of the 6th August 1906, an announcement which set forth the details of the partition of the Khandesh District into two districts called East Khandesh and West Khandesh.

2. Your memorialists confess to a feeling of keen disappointment in not be consulted on a measure, vitally affecting their vested interests and effecting great economic changes by unfavourably influencing the value of immoveable property. They beg to submit that the reasons, for which this partition was proposed and the expenditure which it was expected to necessitate were never placed before the public and that this proceeding is grave departure from approved constitutional precedents.

3. Your memorialists beg to be permitted to state that they deem the partition of Khandesh into the two districts as unnecessary and they regard the reasons urged in favour of the partition as inadequate to warrant an initial expenditure of Rs. 3,14,829 and a recurring annual charge of Rs. 80,875 in which figures they recognize merely the beginning of a far larger outlay in the near future. This expenditure would have directly benefitted the people if it had been devoted to purposes of primary education and the like, the claims of which are far more weighty.

4. The Government of India in their despatch to the Secretary of State for India, observe, "The industrial and economic development of the country, the changes effected in the excise system, the introduction of the system of record of rights and other measures connected with the agricultural department, etc., are gradually adding to the Collector's work and responsibility. It is explained that the personal influence of the Collector is of particular importance in the Khandesh District, which includes an unusually large proportion of aboriginal tribes". But your memorialists beg to point out that the industrial and economic development of the country has always formed an important part of a Collector's duty which every Collector in his time has successfully discharged, and there is to their knowledge no new project before the local authorities which is likely to increase the work of that Officer. It will be observed that the only change effected in the Excise System is the introduction of the Madras sale system in place of the old Bombay system. This change does not involve any increase in the Collector's work as the auction sales in connection with this system are conducted by the Prant Officers and the Collector is aided by an Abkari Assistant Collector who looks after this work of the Abkari Department, and this system too is already well introduced. Your memorialists do not anticipate any increase in the Collector's work in connection with the introduction of the system of record of rights. It will be noticed that the work of record of rights is done in the first instance by village officers under the direct control of Circle Inspectors and Taluka Officers and that it is finally examined by Sub-Divisional Officers. In the supervision of this work of Sub-Divisional Officers apart from the help of a Dafterdar, the Collector is aided by a special Officer of a Mamlatdar's grade, provided by the agricultural department. In nearly all the talukas this work is now complete. It will appear that the work of the Collector in the agricultural department is materially lightened by the creation of special appointments of the Director of Agriculture and his subordinates. Your memorialists beg to submit that the settlement of aboriginal tribes is already satisfactorily accomplished by giving them free lands and tagai advances. A considerable population of these tribes was handed over to the Collectorate of Surat by the transfer of the Dang territory to that district. The services of Bhil Agents, who were formerly appointed to look after the settlement of these tribes, were discontinued as they were thought to be no more needed. The personal influence of the Collector is not now as important as it was in more troublous times when the settlement of these tribes was but partially accomplished and the personal attendance of the Collector at their Darbars and other ceremonials is no longer left to be necessary. These reasons therefore do not appear to your memorialists to justify the division of the old district into the two districts.

5. Your memorialists fail to realize why a district, which in pre-railway times was administered by one Collector, should now be regarded as so heavy a charge for that Officer as to necessiate the heavy outlay, which Your Excellency's Government propose to incur in connection with the partition when it is remembered that the survey settlement of the district, the settement of Inams and watans, the registers of Pragana watandars and such other important parts of revenue administration are already well systematized and there are no questions either of revenue or general administration calculated to engross the attention of the district officers as there are in certain other districts like Ratnagiri and Koloba; the district is already reduced by the transfer of the talukas of Malegaon, Kalvan, Baglan and Nandgaon and the Dang territory to the collectorates of Nasik and Surat respectively; the Dhulia-Chalisgaon, the Tapti Valley and the G. I. P. Railways pass through nearly all the talukas of the district; the remotest parts of the district are brought in close touch with headquarters by the extension of the telegraph system; and the efficiency of the subordinate service, which now includes a larger number of graduates and trained kulkarnis, is materially enhanced.

6. Your memorialists take exception to the fundamentum divisions adopted by Your Excellency's Government in distributing the talukas into the two districts. They beg leave to point out that the districts are unequally divided in point of revenue and population and that though West Khandesh is slightly superior to the other in point of area it has a very large proportion of reserved forests and one taluka is mostly taken up by the six Mowas Estates. It will be noticed that the proposed distribution whilst it includes in the West Khandesh District all the talukas notorious for their bad climate, a comparatively poor, ignorant and unadvanced population and a small revenue paying area, gives to the other district all the talukas with a good salubrious climate, a rich and progressive population, and a cultivated area which yields nearly twice the revenue.

7. Your memorialists beg to invite Your Excellency's attention to the fact that the present arrangement, by allotting to the Local Board of West Khandesh a larger area, imposes upon it a greater responsibility of providing funds for works of public utility but gives it very inadequate means to meet it by leaving this Board with a little more than half the income of the other Board.

8. Your memorialists beg to urge on the consideration of Your Excellency's Government the special claims of Dhulia, the Headquarter of the old district and consequently the seat of many public institutions, created by the united efforts of the whole district. The reduction of Dhulia under the present scheme to the position of the headquarter of a comparatively poor, unadvanced and unimportant district, would be disastrous to the prosperity of the town and entail a heavy loss to many vested interests both public and private. It will be remembered that the Municipality of Dhulia has undertaken a heavy responsibility by incurring a large expenditure for water-works and other improvements in anticipation of the growing prosperity of the town.

9. Your memorialists humbly pray that if Your Excellency's Government feel unable to recall their proposal and regard the partition as a settled fact the distributions of the talukas into the two districts may at least be reconsidered. They beg leave to suggest that in order to ensure a fairer division of the district it is necessary to add three other suitable talukas to the West Khandesh District. This arrangement, though increasing the area of this district would bring it nearer to the other district in point of revenue and population and at least minimise the injury done to the old district.

10. And for this act of kindness your memorialists will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

We beg to remain,

Your Excellency's most obedient servants,

(Sd.) GANESH GOVIND GARUD,

President of the Public Meeting, and others.

Dhulia,
13th September 1906.

APPENDIX W.

Ex.

SESSIONS CASE No. 75 OF 1919.

Imperator versus Jalaludin Saiyad Mahomad.

Judgment with its finding and order.

The accused in this case stands committed to the Court of Sessions by the District Magistrate of Ahmedabad to take his trial on a charge under section 409, Indian Penal Code, in that he being entrusted with public money in his capacity as a public servant and clerk in the office of the Talukdari Settlement Officer at Ahmedabad, he misappropriated dishonestly and converted to his own use between the dates 13th May 1918 and 11th October 1918, sums amounting in all to Rs. 4,700, and thereby committed the offence of criminal breach of trust with regard to the same.

The accused was a barnishi clerk in the Talukdari Settlement Office and worked in the accounts branch of that office under the direct supervision of one Popatlal Chunilal, who combined in himself the duties of account officer and Debt Settlement Officer. It was the duty of the accused to write out the Day Book and other account books and to draft all orders for payment or drawing of money. These latter were initialled in token of their correctness by either Popatlal or the Sheristedar, who also obtained the signature of the Talukdari Settlement Officer upon them. In the year 1915 a new system of accounts was introduced in the office by Mr. Gordon, the then Talukdari Settlement Officer, at the initiation of Popatlal and from that year onwards the entire account work of the office lay in the hands of Popatlal and the accused.

In September 1918 Popatlal having been appointed Sheristedar in addition to his other duties, went on tour with the Talukdari Settlement Officer. Early in October the accused took ill with influenza and absented himself from office. On the 17th October he was granted privilege leave and one Amratlal was appointed to act in his place. Sometime in November or December Amratlal discovered a mistake in the accounts with regard to an item of Rs. 1,575. It was a remittance sent to the Daskroi treasury on the 24th July 1918, which never reached the treasury at all. On Amratlal questioning the accused he is said to have resorted to various shifts and devices to show that it was a bonâ fide mistake on the part of the Daskroi treasury, but when concealment became no longer possible, the accused is said to have made good the amount in two items of Rs. 1,425 and Rs. 150 on the 16th and 18th January respectively and Amratlal paid the money into treasury by a chalan under his own signature. The suspicions of Amratlal had, meanwhile, been excited. He communicated them to Popatlal who, in his turn, reported the whole matter to Mr. Gordon, the Talukdari Settlement Officer. On the 21st January Mr. Gordon suspended the accused, took a bond of Rs. 1,000 from him and ordered an enquiry in the accounts of the last four years to be made by the Karkun Keshavlal under the supervision of the Head Clerk Harilal. On the 22nd January he returned to the districts on famine duty taking with him Popatlal and Amratlal. The examination of accounts by Harilal and Keshavlal disclosed many discrepancies and differences. They made lists of these for the years 1915-16, 1916-17 and 1917-18. They sent copies of these lists to the Talukdari Settlement Officer in the district. But as the current year's Day Book, i.e., for the year 1918-19, was in the district with the Talukdari Settlement Officer the accounts of that year could not be examined.

The Talukdari Settlement Officer on a perusal of the lists suspected that peculation on a large scale had been going on in the office. He came to Ahmedabad suddenly on the 10th February. He sent Popatlal ahead to make arrangements about the kit. Popatlal arrived about 5 p.m. and went to the office accompanied by Harilal and Keshavlal. He questioned them about the progress of the enquiry. Keshavlal opened his desk and showed Popatlal the list of discrepancies which he had drawn up. The Day Books for the years 1915-16, 1916-17 and 1917-18 were lying in the desk along with the list. After showing the list to Popatlal Keshavlal put it back with the books in his desk and locked it. Next morning when the Talukdari Settlement Officer came to the office Popatlal reported to him that Keshavlal's desk had been opened and the list and the books had disappeared.

The Talukdari Settlement Officer took immediate steps for the safe custody of the remaining books; the house of the accused was searched by the Police for the missing books but they were not found. The Talukdari Settlement Officer requisitioned the services of R. B. Bulakhidas, Personal Assistant to the Collector, for continuing the enquiry. The accounts of the year 1918-19 were examined. The list of differences for that year was made up, and as a result of that enquiry Popatlal was suspended on the 14th February and Amratlal on the 19th February. A complaint was lodged against Popatlal and the accused on the 26th February and on the 27th they were arrested.

The enquiry before the District Magistrate opened on the 31st March. During the progress of the enquiry the Ahmedabad riots took place. On the 11th April the Collector's office was burnt down by the mob and the entire record of the case along with the most of the documentary evidence was destroyed. The District Magistrate reheard the case, which had to be reconstructed from secondary evidence of the documents destroyed by fire, and on the 17th July 1919 discharged Popatlal and committed the accused to the Court of Sessions on a charge of criminal breach of trust.

The charge relates to 8 items with regard to which the accused is alleged to have committed criminal breach of trust during a period of five months—the 1st on 13th May 1918, the last on the 11th October 1918. The list is as follows:—

1st.—Rs. 250 drawn from the North Daskroi office on 13th May but not accounted for.

2nd.—Rs. 1,000 drawn from the same on 17th July, unaccounted for.

3rd.—Rs. 1,575 remitted to the same on 24th July but not received.

4th.—Rs. 200 drawn from the same on 17th August but not accounted for.

5th.—Rs. 350 drawn from the same on 12th September, short-credited by Rs. 50.

6th.—Rs. 500 drawn from the same on 26th September, not credited.

7th.—Rs. 225 drawn from the same on 3rd October, short-credited by Rs. 125.

8th.—Rs. 1,000 drawn from the same on 11th October but not credited.

The total of the sums misappropriated under these 8 items is Rs. 4,700, out of which Rs. 1,575 was subsequently refunded.

It must be stated at the outset that the prosecution in this case labours under extraordinary difficulties. The original account books and documents which alone can furnish a reliable guide in such cases have either been abstracted or destroyed. The case has had to be reconstructed out of rough and uncertified copies, admissible no doubt as secondary evidence, but entirely unsatisfactory as neither the Judge nor the assessors have an opportunity to examine, inspect and scrutinize the originals, nor the accused's counsel to base his cross-examination upon them. All the records were burnt before the cross-examination of the witnesses and the accused can justly complain that all evidence in favour of the defence in the originals is lost.

If the prosecution were unhappy in the fate of the materials collected by them, they were even more unhappy in the methods employed in collecting those materials. There was reason to suspect that systematic peculation on a large scale had been going on in the office for a series of years. It is estimated that approximately Rs. 17,000 was embezzled during those years. The Head of the Account Branch, Popatlal Chunilal, was eventually suspected of being a party to these peculations and put on his trial, though ultimately discharged by the Committing Magistrate. And yet we find that the preliminary investigation was entrusted to persons one of whom, Keshavlal, was Popatlal's underling and the other, Harilal, was in dread of the commanding influence of Popatlal with the Talukdari Settlement Officer. What more natural and plausible than that the defence should complain that Popatlal was all along pulling the strings during Keshavlal's enquiry suppressing the evidence so far as it went against him, going to the length of abstracting the account books from Keshavlal's desk, throwing dust into the eyes of the Talukdari Settlement Officer so as to make him believe that if there was any defalcation the accused, his subordinate, was responsible for it and was willing to make reimbursement and thus put the Talukdari Settlment Officer on an entirely wrong scent?

I have said that the prosecution are unhappy in the materials they have collected; they are even more unfortunate in the materials they were omitted to place before the Court. In the course of the trial I pointed out that both with regard to the withdrawals and remittances the tumars on the strength of which they were made would furnish the most convincing evidence as to how the monies were disposed of. They would have shown whether the creditors had actually been paid and, if not, how their claims were disposed of. With this in view I called upon the Public Prosecutor to produce as many of the tumars as were available, but with the exception of an wholly irrelevant one none were produced, the explanation being that one of them was with the Audit Officer deputed by the Accountant General, and as regards the others, it was stated that no tumars were forthcoming as they were withdrawals for office use.

Perhaps the most signal misfortune that has befallen the prosecution is the discharge by the learned District Magistrate of Popatlal in the preliminary enquiry. The District Magistrate has in his careful committal order given elaborate reasons for his view that there was not even a primâ facie case made out against Popatlal. I am not concerned to express an opinion on the question whether Popatlal has been rightly discharged; Popatlal has not had an opportunity to be heard in his defence in this Court. But his discharge by the Committing Magistrate has undoubtedly placed the prosecution in a very difficult position.

It has made it easy for the defence to contend that the prosecution case comes up discredited to the Court of Sessions as the Committing Magistrate himself has weighed the evidence in the balance and found it wanting so far as it implicated Popatlal and that in any case if there were systematic frauds perpetrated in the office for a number of years, Popatlal, the originator of the account system and the trusted head of his department, must have directed that system and the accused may well have been his innocent tool. And that is precisely the line of defence adopted by the accused in this Court.

The net result of the evidence produced by the prosecution, stated generally, is that all withdrawals of money from the treasury are regarded as defalcations if the amounts withdrawn are not credited in the Day Book and the accused is charged with responsibility for the same on the ground that he was the writer of the withdrawal orders, that he was also the writer of the accounts, that he received the daily balance sheet and that he did not get the accounts audited. I shall deal seriatim with each of these heads in their order.

It is true that the withdrawal orders were written by the accused but he had simply to draft them according to instructions given by Popatlal. These drafts were mere waste paper unless they were initialled by Popatlal or the Sheristedar and signed by the Talukdari Settlement Officer and the signature of the Talukdari Settlement Officer was never obtained by the accused, but either by Popatlal or by the Sheristedar. The practice of initialling was not uniform. Initials were not insisted upon if withdrawal orders were produced for the signature of the Talukdari Settlement Officer in person by the Account Officer or by the Sheristedar. Assuming, therefore, that the signature of the Talukdari Settlement Officer is genuine, it is clear that though it was the hand of the accused which drafted the withdrawal orders, the head that dictated them was that of Popatlal. But it was said that some of the withdrawal orders, namely those relating to items Nos. 2, 4, 6 and 8, were forged, and this suggestion is made on the statement of Mr. Gordon, the Talukdari Settlement Officer, that he considered that his signatures were shaky and probably not his, though he would not swear that they were not his. It was argued that with regard to these withdrawal orders the responsibility was entirely the accused's and of none other as they are in his handwriting. But if there was a forgery it is impossible to believe that the accused alone could carry it through. It was essential that he should take the other clerks into his confidence. The withdrawal orders were as a rule registered in the barnishi book. The first three columns of the "Manjuri" book contained entries of all the details of withdrawal orders and were filled in before they were despatched from the office to the treasury. With regard to the items Nos. 6 and 8 the three columns of the Manjuri book were written up by Amratlal. It is idle to suggest that there could have been a conspiracy between the accused, the barnishi clerk and Amratlal to carry out a forgery of this description for a long period without Popatlal being aware of it. That is the view of Mr. Gordon, who was Talukdari Settlement Officer for five years and is thoroughly conversant with the personnel of the office and bears testimony to the commanding influence exercised by Popatlal therein. If therefore forgery was resorted to, the accused could only have been employed as a tool. Whether he could have been an innocent tool will be discussed later.

But then it was said that as the withdrawal orders were written by the accused and the Day Book was also written by him, the fact that the items were not credited in the Day Book is a conclusive evidence that he embezzled them. It is, however, clear from the record that the Day Book did not embody all the transactions of the day. Thus there is an item of Rs. 415 admittedly paid to R. B. Ramanbhai which is not credited in the Day Book and yet there is no doubt that the amount was withdrawn and paid. It was a miscellaneous rojmel maintained according to the system introduced by Popatlal and under his directions. Monies would be disbursed by Popatlal in his capacity as Debt Settlement Officer and not brought to account. The Day Book was kept under the direction of Popatlal, who initialled every day's transactions and obtained the signature of the Talukdari Settlement Officer on it. The Talukdari Settlement Officer states that whenever he questioned Popatlal he seemed to be thoroughly conversant with the contents of the Day Book. In these circumstances it would be rash to presume that the mere non-credit of an item in the Day Book incriminates the accused as the person who embezzled the money. There may have been no embezzlement at all or if there was, the accused may have had nothing to do with it.

The mode in which the Day Book was kept was extremely lose and was not such as would necessarily implicate the accused. It was not written from day to day.

Sometimes memos. kept on Hathia books or slips of paper were incorporated in the Day Book some days later. Ledgers were apparently prepared from these Day Books, but not one of them has been produced.

As regards the Daily Sheets and the absence of audit, I am unable to see how they bear on the guilt of the accused : the daily sheets were no doubt received in the account office, but it was Popatlal who used to initial them till upto the date of the first defalcation. Mr. Gordon states that Popatlal had told him that it was he who compared the daily sheets with the Day Book. And Popatlal now says that the object of the Daily Sheets was not comparison but the preparation of the Manjuri books. As regards the absence of audit, there is no doubt that careful audit would have disclosed the defalcation, but it is nowhere stated that it was the business of the accused to produce these accounts before the audit officer. It was admittedly the duty of Popatlal and Popatlal was deputed twice and Amratlal once to assist the auditor but the accused was never so deputed.

I shall now turn to the individual items and examine the evidence to see how far it implicates the accused.

The first is an item of Rs. 250 which was misappropriated on 13th May 1918. On that day an order (of which exhibit 12 is a correct copy) was drafted by the accused for drawing Rs. 250 from the North Daskroi treasury for payment to R. B. Ramanbhai, being the surplus from the income of the Anioli estate of which he was the mortgagee. The order was initialled by the Sheristedar Mr. Lakhia and signed by R. B. Bulakhidas who was then acting as Talukdari Settlement Officer. The amount was actually issued by cheque from the North Daskroi office and paid by the Bank of Bombay to the peon Ganpat (exhibit 76) who states that he paid it to the accused in the presence of Popatlal. The amount was, however, not paid to R. B. Ramanbhai, whose clerk Balabhai Hirachand (exhibit 71) deposes that the accused told him between the 15th May and 20th May that the money had been received and he would obtain it and pay it. But it was not till the month of November that the money was paid to Balabhai on R. B. Ramanbhai's account by Amratlal, and that by a second withdrawal order (exhibit 14), the fact that it already had been drawn in May being totally overlooked.

The suggestion of the prosecution is that the money could not have been misappropriated except by the accused as the withdrawal order was in his hand, it is not brought to account in the Day Book which also is in his hand and Popatlal was absent from head-quarters on the day the money was drawn. But there is more than one link in the chain of evidence if the guilt is to be necessarily fastened on the accused. Why is the tumar not produced on the strength of which the first withdrawal order was drawn? On what authority did Amratlal draw the second withdrawal order and that in the absence of Popatlal? How was the tumar disposed of after payment of the money? Were there any receipts taken on the sthalprat? These are material documents which were available to the prosecution and which should have been produced in evidence. No attempt has been made to answer any of these questions. The prosecution merely rely on the fact of non-credit as establishing the guilt of the accused. But as I have above shown, no such conclusion necessarily follows. As for the evidence of Bhalabhai I attach very little value to it because it is difficult to believe his statement that though the accused had told him that the money had been received months before he did not care to demand it till after the accused went on leave. Bhalabhai is a caste fellow of Popatlal and in close touch with him. His evidence was given before the Committing Magistrate when Popatlal was under his trial and with a view to exonerate Popatlal and he has to adhere to that evidence in this Court, although Popatlal has since been discharged.

The second is an item of Rs. 1,000 drawn on the 17th July on the strength of a withdrawal order (exhibit 15) in the handwriting of the accused. The amount purports to have been drawn for sending to Sanand. The withdrawal order does not bear anybody's initials and Mr. Gordon states that his signature upon it was doubtful. The amount was paid by the Bank of Bombay to the peon Rustomkhan (exhibit 75) who deposes that he paid the money to Popatlal. It was never credited in the Day Book and has bodily disappeared.

The elements in the evidence made out against the accused are again the fact that the withdrawal order is in his hand, the fact of no credit being given in the Day Book and the probability that the signature of Mr. Gordon on the withdrawal order being in all likelihood a forgery, the forgery could have been committed by the accused alone. But in the preliminary discussion of the general aspects of the evidence I have given my reasons for holding that none of these elements singly or cumulatively establish the guilt of the accused.

The third item is an item of Rs. 1,575 remitted to the Daskroi treasury on the 24th July 1918, but was never received in the Daskori office. The item consists of two payments of Rs. 1,250 and Rs. 325 which are actually debited to the personal deposit account and to the Deputy Manager's account in the Talukdari Settlement Officer's Day Book, but the amounts simply disappeared thereafter. The defalcation of this amount was brought to the notice by a tumar regarding Rs. 325 not having been paid to the Sanand Deputy Manager in the later part of October 1918. Exhibit 34 was the tumar which eventually led to the discovery of the wholesale embezzlements that had been going on in the office. And the frantic efforts made by the office of the Talukdari Settlement Officer to show that the non-payment was due to a mere clerical mistake so as to throw dust into the eyes of the Talukdari Settlement Officer show how wide the conspirators had spread their net and how astutely they succeeded in making the accused their scapegoat.

I shall not here narrate the successive steps in the campaign of deception to which the Talukdari Settlement Officer's office resorted. I shall content myself by a reference to the lucid summary in the committal order recorded by the learned District Magistrate. What I shall endeavour to show is that the attempt made by the office to throw the entire blame upon the accused was as cynical as it was wicked.

The first step taken in the office was to falsify the balance sheet of North Daskroi about the Molvi's khata by altering it from Re-1-4-0 to Rs. 1,576-4-0. Amratlal (Exhibit 34) states that the alteration was in the accused's hand and that he knew it to be so when it was shown to him and yet Amratlal blandly asserts that in spite of the manifest forgery he thought it was a mere clerical mistake. Then an attempt was made to cover their traces by sending an order for transferring the sum from Molvi's khata to the personal deposit account to the Talukdari Settlement Officer for his signature. Popatlal obtained the signature on the 9th December 1918 and the order was sent to North Daskroi. It is alleged that this order was in the handwriting of the accused. But we have only the word of Amratlal to prove this. It is, however, significant that the original order disappeared before the first enquiry was started.

Then we have the story of how Amratlal to make up the deficiency remitted to North Daskroi Rs. 1,425 on the 17th of January 1919 and Rs. 150 on the 20th of January 1919. The chalan was signed, not by the Talukdari Settlement Officer as it ought to have been, but by Amratlal. How was it that the order so given was accepted at the treasury? It is not difficult to detect the hand of someone, wielding far greater influence than the accused, pulling the strings from behind the scenes! But what is the evidence that these payments were made by the accused? Nothing beyond the bare word of Amratlal. Why is Hariprasad, who is said to have witnessed the first payment, not examined? As for the second payment, Ganpat before whom it purports to have been made simply denies it. And what was the conduct of Popatlal while this conspiracy was being unmasked? Although Amratlal had informed him about the altered balance sheet before Christmas and the balance sheets and the account books were also shown to him it was not till the 20th of January that he breathed a word of suspicion in the ears of the Talukdari Settlement Officer. Till then he lulled the Talukdari Settlement Officer with the assurance that it was a case of mere late payment and he advised that as the money had been paid no prosecution should be launched. But the Talukdari Settlement Officer was at last disillusioned. He ordered a thorough enquiry but unfortunately the enquiry was entrusted to persons under the thumb of Popatlal. The result was that Popatlal had opportunities to manipulate the evidence as he pleased. The abstraction of the account books from Keshavlal's desk could not have taken place without his connivance. The preservation of the account books for the current year is scarcely an indication of good faith. If they too had been lost then his complicity would have been a matter not of suspicion but of certainty.

This was the view taken by the Talukdari Settlement Officer when he suspended Popatlal on the 14th February. This, however, is not the view that commended itself to the learned District Magistrate who in his committal order has entered into a laboured apologia for Popatlal. The observations that I have made should not be construed as indicating my considered opinion about Popatlal's guilt. He appears in this Court merely as a witness. Although a pleader put in his appearance to watch the case on his behalf he was not in a position to exercise any influence on the conduct of the proceedings. The line of defence adopted by the accused was that Popatlal was the protagonist in the conspiracy and he himself an innocent tool in his hands. The observations I have made against Popatlal in examining this line of defence are necessarily ex parte. They must be viewed as embodying my opinion on the probabilities of the case so far as the guilt of the accused is concerned. They cannot possibly amount to a judicial expression of opinion as to Popatlal's guilt.

I shall now briefly discuss the remaining items.

The 4th item is a sum of Rs. 200 drawn on the 17th August for office use. The withdrawal order (Exhibits 18 and 19) bear no initials and Mr. Gordon doubted the genuineness of his signature upon it. The only evidence of misappropriation by the accused is that it is not credited in the day's accounts. But the accused at the very first opportunity stated on seeing the rojmel of that day that it was not in his hand (Exhibit 39). Assuming it was in his hand I would refer to my observations in the earlier portion of my judgment to show that in my opinion the mere non-credit of the amount in the rojmel does not necessarily show that the accused had misappropriated it.

Turning to item No. 5, it is an item of Rs. 350 drawn from the North Daskroi office for office use on the 12th September. But in the rojmel Rs. 300 only was entered. Thus Rs. 50 remained unaccounted for. There is a marginal note on the withdrawal order (Exhibits 20 and 21) in Popatlal's hand showing that the money was required for payment to the creditor of Dekkawada estate. It appears that on the 14th September a sum of Rs. 277 odd was paid to the Dekkawada creditor and a debit entry of Rs. 300 was made on that day. Considering that Popatlal was the Debt Settlement Officer and the accused had nothing to do with the Debt Settlement it is impossible to attribute the defalcation for this item to the accused. alone. On the other hand, it is possible to exonerate the accused from all bad faith considering the position which he held with respect to Popatlal.

Item No. 6 is a sum of Rs. 500 drawn on 26th September for office use which is not brought to account. The withdrawal order is not initialled by Popatlal. Mr. Gordon's signature upon it is said to be doubtful. It is unnecessary to repeat the observations that I have previously made regarding the insufficiency of this evidence to incriminate the accused.

The 7th is an item of Rs. 225 drawn for office use on the 3rd October, the withdrawal order being dated the 30th of September. It was credited in the Day Book as Rs. 100 only under date October 2nd. Thus there is a short credit of Rs. 125.

Apart from his general line of defence the accused in this case advances a special plea that he cannot possibly be held liable as from the morning of the 3rd October before the receipt of the money he had gone on leave. Unfortunately his leave application for a copy of which he applied has not been produced. But I mention this circumstance as re-inforcing the general line of defence which the accused has adopted.

The last item No. 8 is a sum of Rs. 1,000 drawn on the 11th October under the withdrawal order (Exhibits 26 and 27) which bear no initials and upon which Mr. Gordon's signature is said to be doubtful.

On the 10th October the accused was admittedly on leave suffering from a severe attack of influenza and to support their case the prosecution have been driven to the theory of a laboured forgery carried out by the accused in conjunction with the peon Rustom at his home while he was in the grip of an attack of influenza. The bare statement of this theory furnishes its best refutation.

I have now discussed in detail all the items alleged by the prosecution to have been misappropriated by the accused. I have prefaced my examination by a general discussion of the system of work prevailing in the office, the relations of the accused to the other members of the establishment and particularly to Popatlal, and have given my reasons for conclusion that it was impossible for the accused alone to commit the defalcations without the active complicity of the Head of his branch. It is not impossible that these defalcations could have been committed by the Head of the branch without his knowledge. The evidence taken as a whole leaves room for a reasonable doubt whether the accused may not have been after all an innocent tool in the hands of his more designing superiors.

This is also the view taken by both the assessors. If so, the accused is entitled to claim an acquittal by urging in the last resort that the benefit of the doubt should be given to him.

(Signed) F. X. DESOUZA,
Sessions Judge.

16th July 1920.

ORDER.—The Court concurring with both the assessors finds the accused not guilty of the offence charged or of any offence and directs that he be acquitted and discharged and that his bail bond be cancelled.

(Signed) F. X. DESOUZA,
Sessions Judge.

16th July 1920.

True copy.

M. M. JOSHI,
Clerk of the Court,
Sessions Court, Ahmedabad.

APPENDIX X.

1. Chand Abdulla.
2. Keshavlal Dayabhai.
3. Keshavlal Popatlal.
4. Meghsing Madhavsing.
5. Kanji Jalamsing.
6. Gokal Bhailal.
7. Mahashankar Narsi.
8. Manibhai Haribhai.
9. Jiva Bhika.
10. Bhupta Umed.
11. Iftekharhusain Sardarhusain.
12. Baban Alarkh.
13. Kassam Rahman.
14. Manilal Dalsukh.
15. Haji Miabhai.
16. Bhogilal Virchand.
17. Himat Rasul.
18. Malek Kutubji.
19. Mohan Ladha.
20. Husen Kalu.
21. Rasul Abram.
22. Daval Isab.
23. Baldev Dayalji.
24. Jivaji Anrupji.
25. Devshi Trikam.
26. Bapuji Amir.
27. Popat Laxman.
28. Moti Shankar.
29. Bhailal Kalidas.
30. Kalidas Desaibhai.
31. Dadabhai Mundas.
32. Dalsukh Jivan.
33. Aju Talshi.

APPENDIX Y.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 22nd June 1920.

No. E.-21.—Under the authority delegated to him by the Secretary of State for India His Excellency the Governor in Council has ordered that the following incremental scales of pay shall be substituted with effect from December 1st, 1919, for the graded service heretofore in force in the case of Deputy Collectors and Subordinate Judges in the Bombay Presidency.

BOMBAY CIVIL SERVICE (BOMBAY PRESIDENCY).

Executive Branch.

Grade.	No. of appointments.	Salary of each appointment.
Selection grade ...	3	1 on Rs. 1,100 1 on Rs. 1,000 1 on Rs. 900
1 ...	15	700—50—850 Efficiency bar.
2 ...	28	$550—\frac{50}{2}—650$ Efficiency bar.
3 ...	42	$300—\frac{50}{2}—500$

BOMBAY CIVIL SERVICE (PRESIDENCY PROPER).

Judicial Branch.

No. of appointments.
	Special line*—
6	Assistant Judges	... 650—70—1,000
	General line—
3	Judges, Court of Small Causes, Poona, Ahmedabad and Surat.	1,000
	Sub-Judges—
3	Selection posts	... 1,000
21	Sub-Judges, First Class	... 700—50—850
116	Sub-Judges, Second Class	... 300 (for two years). $350—\frac{50}{3}—600$†
13	Leave Reserve	... Do.

BOMBAY CIVIL SERVICE (SIND).

Judicial Branch.

No. of appointments.	Grade.	Salary of each appointment.
	Special line*—
1	Assistant Judge	... 650—70—1,000
	General line—
	Sub-Judges	... .
1	Selection post	... 1,000
3	Sub-Judge's First Class	... 700—50—850
19	Sub-Judges, Second Class	... 300 (for two years). $350\text{—}\frac{50}{3}\text{—}600$†
2	Leave Reserve	... Do.

* With prospects of promotion to District Judgeships. † Efficiency bar at 500.

By order of His Excellency the Honourable the Governor in Council,

P. J. MEAD,
Chief Secretary to Government.

APPENDIX Z.

Statement of Local Board roads to be provincialized in the Northern Division.

Serial No.	Name of road.	Name of District.	Length of road.
1	Kaira-Barejdi Road (viâ Vasna, Naika, Navagaum, Bareja.)	Kaira ...	22⅞
2	Dakor-Pali Road	Do. ...	14⅜
3	Nadiad-Anand Road	Do. ...	13
4	Anand to Borsad	Do. ...	12½
5	Nadiad to Kapadvanj	Do. ...	27
6	Nadiad, Matar and Wasna Road ...	Do. ...	18¼
7	Ahmedabad to Bareja	Ahmedabad ...	11⅛
8	Ahmedabad to Viramgam (viâ Sanand) ...	Do. ...	35
9	Ahmedabad to Barvala (viâ Bhavla and Dhandhuka.)	Do. ...	63
10	Dholera to Dhandhuka	Do. ...	17
11	Viramgam to Mandal	Do. ...	15
12	Timba to Godhra	Panch Mahals ...	17
13	Godhra to Dohad (British portion) ...	Do. ...	22
14	Godhra to Baroda limits	Do. ...	21
15	Dohad to Kundanpur	Do. ...	13⅓
16	Limkheda to Jhalod	Do. ...	14⅓
17	Vapi to Chikhli (viâ Bagvada, Pardi and Bulsar).	Surat ...	31·6
18	Chikhli to Navsari (viâ Matwad) ...	Do. ...	18⅓
19	Sachin to Surat, Olpad and Sahol ...	Do. ...	21·57
20	Sahol to Borebhata (viâ Hansot and Ankleshwar).	Do. ...	27
21	Vadoli to Mandvi	Do. ...	33⅓
22	Madhi to Buhari	Do. ...	17½
23	Broach to Jambusar.	Broach ...	28·87
24	Kalyan Shil	Thana ...	9

APPENDIX AA.

Dramatic Performances Act. 1876.

Orders under section 10 of the — in regard to the licensing of dramatic performances in certain areas in the Bombay Presidency.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

Resolution No. 3042.

Bombay Castle, 5th May 1916.

Notification No. 3041.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 10 of the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876 (XIX of 1876), and in modification of Government Notifications in the Judicial Department, No. 6183, dated the 27th October 1910, No. 3974, dated the 10th July 1911, No. 1718, dated the 10th March 1915, and No. 8444, dated the 16th December 1915, the Governor in Council is pleased to order that no dramatic performance shall take place in any place of public entertainment within the limits of the areas hereinafter mentioned except under a license from the District Magistrate or the City Magistrate when the performance is to be held in a Cantonment; and from the District Magistrate or the Mamlatdar or Mahalkari when it is to be held elsewhere in the district.

2. The areas hereinbefore referred to are the districts of Ahmedabad, Kaira, Panch Mahals, Broach, Surat and Thana, the towns of Pachora and Chalisgaon in the Pachora and Chalisgaon talukas of the East Khandesh district, the villages of Harchiri and Chindraoli in the Ratnagiri taluka of the Ratnagiri district, and the limits of the following municipalities :—

West Khandesh District.

Dhulia, Betavad, Sindkheda, Shirpur, Nandurkar, Taloda, Shahada.

East Khandesh District.

Jalgaon, Amalner, Parola, Erandol, Dharangaon, Bhadgaon, Chopda, Savda, Yaval, Bhusaval, Faizpur, Raver.

Nasik District.

Nasik City, Yeola, Malegaon, Sinnar, Igatpuri, Trimbak.

Ahmednagar District.

Ahmednagar, Bhingar, Sangamner, Vambori, Kharda.

Poona District.

Poona City, Poona Suburban, Sasvad, Jejuri, Baramati, Indapur, Sirur, Talegaon Dabhade, Lonavla, Khed, Alandi, Junnar.

Satara District.

Satara City, Satara Suburban, Karad, Rahimatpur, Wai, Mhasvad, Islampur, Vita, Tasgaon, Ashta, Malcompeth.

Sholapur District.

Sholapur, Barsi, Karmala, Pandharpur, Sangola.

Kolaba District.

Alibag, Pen, Roha-Ashtami, Mahad, Panvel, Uran, Matheran.

Ratnagiri District.

Ratnagiri, Vengurla, Rajapur, Chiplun.

Bijapur District.

Bijapur, Bagalkot, Ilakal, Guledgud.

Belgaum District.

Belgaum, Nipani, Athni, Gokak, Saundatti-Yellamma, Yemkanmardi.

Dharwar District.

Dharwar, Hubli, Gadag-Bettigeri, Navalgund, Yemnur, Nargund, Ranebennur, Guddguddapur, Byadgi, Haveri.

RESOLUTION.—Copies of the foregoing notification should be forwarded to the officers concerned for information and guidance, with reference to Government Resolutions No. 6184, dated the 27th October 1910, and No. 8445, dated the 18th December 1915, which are hereby cancelled.

2. Each District Magistrate concerned should forthwith arrange to serve under section 10 of the Act a copy of the notification on the keeper of each place of public entertainment within the specified districts in which dramatic performances ordinarily take place or are likely to take place.

3. The officers empowered to grant licenses are requested to observe the following instructions :—

(i) A license should not be granted until a copy, printed or manuscript, of the piece to be acted is produced for perusal; or, if the play is in pantomine, then a sufficient account of its purport.

(ii) When the copy is produced the play should be carefully examined without delay. A license should be refused if the play be found—

(a) to be indecent or of a scurrilous character;

(b) to contain offensive personalities;

(c) to be likely to wound the religious feelings of any class of individuals;

(d) to be seditious or to be likely to excite political discontent;

(e) to promote hostile feelings between different classes;

(f) to be calculated to cause a breach of the peace.

In such cases the licensing officer should specify in his order of refusal upon which of the above grounds the license is refused. If the play be found to be unobjectionable a license should be granted at once in the form attached to this Resolution.

(iii) No fee is to be charged on either the application for, or the issue of, a license.

(iv) No avoidable delay is to be permitted to occur in disposing of applications for licenses, it being essential that the restriction should be made as little irksome and inconvenient as possible to performers of unobjectionable plays.

(v) A performance licensed under the Dramatic Performances Act may subsequently be prohibited, if necessary, by the licensing officer for performances appointed by the rules uuder section 39-A of the District Police Act (see rule 42 of the rules accompanying Government Resolution No. 4397, Judicial Department, dated the 22nd June 1915).

(vi) Mamlatdars and Mahalkaris have been included among the officers empowered to grant licenses, in order to minimise the inconvenience to performers in remote towns; they should be specially cautioned to exercise the power with care and discretion.

4. Should the Commissioners of the Central and Southern Divisions consider that the prohibition to hold dramatic performances except under a license should be extended to areas in their divisions not covered by the notification, they should submit proposals for the consideration of Government.

5. The Manager of the Yeravda Prison Press should be requested to print the license from referred to in paragraph 3 (ii) above as a standard form, and to supply copies thereof to officers on indent.

(Signed) A. F. KINDERSLEY,
Under Secretary to Government.

Accompaniment to Government Resolution No. 3042, dated the 5th May 1916.

LICENSE.

Pursuant to section 10 of the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, license is hereby granted to* of to produce the dramatic performance known as† at any place of public entertainment within the being an area to which the provisions of section 10 of the said Act have been duly applied. This license is granted subject to the conditions printed on the reverse, and will expire on the‡

Dated §

* Name of person or persons producing the play.
† Name of play.
‡ Date of expiry.
§ Name and designation of licensing authority.

Conditions.

1. No person engaged in the performance shall—
   (a) make use of language which is profane or improper;
   (b) commit any indecency of dress, dance or gesture;
   (c) make any offensive personation or representation of an individual;
   (d) do anything calculated to excite feelings of sedition or political discontent;
   (e) do anything calculated to cause riot or breach of the peace or hostile feelings between classes or to wound the religious feelings of any individual or class;
   (f) engage in any dangerous acts or representations.

2. The performance shall be conducted in all respects in the manner stated to the licensing authority when this license was applied for, and no material variation whether in the words of otherwise shall be introduced.

3. If at any time it appears to a police officer not below the rank of a Sub-Inspector that the performance is or is about to become objectionable the licensee shall stop the performance on the request of such police officer pending the decision of the licensing authority on the point.

I hereby agree to the above conditions and agree that the licensing authority may cancel this license in the event of any default being made in the observance of the same, whether by me or by any person engaged in the performance.

Dated

* Signature of licensee.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

Resolution No. 5942.

Bombay Castle, 6th September 1916.

Notification No. 5941.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 10 of the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876 (XIX of 1876), and in modification of Government Notification in the Judicial Department, No. 3041, dated the 5th May 1916, in so far as it relates to the districts of West Khandesh, East Khandesh, Nasik, Ahmednagar, Poona, Kolaba, Ratnagiri, Bijapur and Belgaum, the Governer in Council is pleased to order that no dramatic performance shall take place in any place of public entertainment within the areas hereinafter mentioned except under a license from the District Magistrate or the City Magistrate when the performance is to be held in the head-quarter town of the District; from the District or the Cantoment Magistrate when it is to be held in a cantonment, and from the District Magistrate or the Mamlatdar or Mahalkari when it is to be held elsewhere in the district.

2. The areas hereinbefore referred to are the towns of Sakri and Pimpalner in the Sakri taluka of the West Khandesh district and the town of Nawapur in the Nawapur petha of that district; the town of Bhadgaon in the East Khandesh district, the cantonment of Deolali in the Nasik district; the cantonment of Ahmednagar in the Ahmednagar district; the cantonments of Poona and Kirkee in the Poona district; the district of Kolaba; the towns of Malvan and Dapoli in the Ratnagiri district; the towns and villages of Indi, Sindgi, Bijapur, Bagevadi, Muddebihal, Bagalgot, Hungund, Badami, Bilgi, Chadchan, Horti, Almel, Devarhippargi, Algur, Ilkal, Amingad (including Sulibhavi), Guledgudd, Kerur, Batkurki, Golgeri, Talikot, Sangam and Banshankri in the Bijapur District; the towns of Chikodi and Bail Hongal, the cantonment of Belgaum and the village of Sankeshwar in the Belgaum district; the limits of the following municipalities:—

West Khandesh district.

Dhulia, Betavad, Sindkheda, Shirpur, Nandurbar, Taloda, Shahada.

East Khandesh district.

Jalgaon, Amalner, Parola, Erandol, Dharangaon, Chopda. Savda, Yaval, Bhusaval, Faizpur, Raver.

Nasik district.

Nasik City, Yeola, Malegaon, Sinnar, Igatpuri, Trimbak.

Ahmednagar district.

Ahmednagar, Bhingar, Sangamner, Vambori, Kharda.

Poona district.

Poona City, Poona Suburban, Sasvad, Jejuri, Baramati, Indapur, Sirur, Talegaon Dabhade, Lonavla, Khed, Alandi, Junnar.

Ratnagiri district.

Ratnagiri, Vengurla, Rajapur, Chiplun.

Belgaum district.

Belgaum, Nipani, Athni, Gokak, Saundatti-Yellama, Yamkanmardi.

RESOLUTION.—Copies of the foregoing notification should be forwarded to the officers concerned for information and guidance, with reference to Government Resolution No. 3042, dated the 5th May 1916, and with a request that the instructions contained in paragraphs 2 and 3 of that Resolution may be carefully observed.

(Signed) A. F. KINDERSLEY,
Under Secretary to Government.

Rules 33—46 of the Rules under section 39-A of the District Police Act for licensing and controlling theatres and other places of public amusement.

[PERFORMANCE LICENSE.]

33. No performance license shall be required under these rules in any district for a dramatic performance for which there is a license in force in any part of that district under the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876: but such performance may be prohibited by the licensing officer for performances for any of the reasons mentioned in sub-rule (1) of rule 42, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2) of rule 42. Any persons holding or assisting in a performance so prohibited shall be punishable as for a breach of these rules.

34. The manager of any body of persons giving a dramatic performance for which under the last foregoing rule no license under these rules is required shall on demand made by the licensing officer or by any police officer of or above the rank of Sub-Inspector, who is authorised by general or special orders to demand it, such demand being made on any day upon which a performance is being or is intended to be given, produce for inspection the license in force for the play under the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, and a copy of the play endorsed by the officer by whom the license was granted.

35. Subject to the provisions of rule 33, no person shall hold on such premises any public performance of a stage-play or of dancing, singing or music or any other public exhibition or any diversion or game to which the public are admitted on payment of money, unless and until he has obtained a performance license, nor shall any person who has obtained a performance license hold such public performance or public exhibition in any premises which have not been licensed. A performance license shall be in the form of Schedule B hereto attached, with any necessary alterations or additions.

36. (1) The licensing officer for performances shall be, in any Municipality in which there is a City Magistrate, the City Magistrate, and elsewhere the Mamlatdar or the Mahalkari, as the case may be.

(2) The licensing officer for performances shall in every case be subject to the control of the District Magistrate, who shall himself have all the powers of a licensing officer for performances.

37. In case of the inability of any licensing officer, through illness, absence from the area for which he is empowered or other necessary or reasonable cause, to exercise his powers or perform his duties, the powers and duties of licensing officer may be xercised by such Magistrate as the District Magistrate may, by special or general order, appoint in this behalf.

38. When a performance or exhibition of any stage play, dancing, singing, music or any diversion or game or the means of carrying on the same is intended to be provided by a body of individuals in any premises, a performance license shall be applied for on behalf of such body by some person acting as the constituted manager of such body, and such manager shall be responsible for any breach or violation of these rules committed on such premises by any member of such body as if such breach or violation was committed by himself.

39. The performance license shall state (1) the title of each item on the programme, and (2) the general description of such item, as for instance "drama", "song", "cinematograph film".

40. A performance license may, in the discretion of the licensing officer, be granted either for a performance at a single place of amusement or for all or any places within the area for which he is the licensing officer.

41. Every person applying for a performance license under these rules shall, unless specially relieved by the licensing officer from liability to this rule, submit a copy of every stage-play intended for production or exhibition to the licensing officer at least three days previous to the intended time of such production or exhibition. Nothing in this rule shall affect the provisions of rule 23.

42. (1) The licensing officer may refuse, or after granting may withdraw, a license to perform or exhibit any or all of the plays, films or exhibitions mentioned in the application if he considers them—

(a) to be indecent or of a scurrilous character;

(b) to contain offensive personalities;

(c) to be likely to wound the religious feelings of any class of individuals;

(d) to be seditious or to be likely to excite political discontent;

(e) to promote hostile feelings between different classes;

(f) to be calculated to cause a breach of the peace; or

(g) to be objectionable on any ground other than those specified in (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f).

(2) The licensing officer shall specify in his order of refusal or withdrawal upon which of the above grounds such order is passed and, in the case of an order passed on ground (g), shall state in such order the reasons which lead him to consider the play objectionable.

43. A performance license may be granted for any period not extending beyond the 31st day of December in the year for which it is issued.

44. No person holding a performance license under these rules shall, during any performance or exhibition, permit on the stage—

(a) any profanity or impropriety of language;

(b) any indecency of dress, dance or gesture;

(c) any offensive personation or representation of any individual;

(d) anything calculated to excite feelings of sedition or political discontent;

(e) anything calculated to produce riot or breach of the peace or to promote hostile feelings between different classes or to wound the religious feelings of any individual or class of individuals;

(f) any dangerous exhibition of, or performance with, wild beasts; or

(g) any performance involving risk, damage or danger to the public.

45. If at any time it appears to a police officer not below the rank of a Sub-Inspector that any performance in licensed premises is, or is about to become, objectionable, the licensee shall stop or alter the performance on the representation of such police officer, pending the decision of the licensing officer on the point.

46. No person who has obtained a performance license shall continue any performance after 1-30 a.m. without the special permission of the licensing officer.

APPENDIX BB.

INDIAN CONSTITUTIONAL REFORMS.

हिंदुस्थानच्या राज्यकारभारासंबंधी सुधारणा.

हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांची स्थिति सुधारावी व आपल्या देशाचा राज्यकारभार स्वतःच योग्य रीतीनें व न्यायीपणानें चालवितां येण्याची लायकी त्यांच्या आंगीं येतांच त्या कामीं त्यांना सर्व मार्गांनीं मदत करावी हाच हिंदुस्थानांतील ब्रिटिश राज्यपद्धतीचा नेहमींचा व अगदीं प्रथमपासूनचा हेतु आहे.

१२० वर्षांपूर्वी देखील सर टॉमस मनरो यांनीं असें लिहिलें आहे :—

"लोकांच्या चारित्र्यावर आपल्या व्यवस्थेचा अखेरीस कोणता परिणाम होणार आहे? त्यांच्या चारित्र्याची उन्नति किंवा अवनति होणार? केवळ आपला अधिकार बिनधोक ठेवून लोकांचें संरक्षण झालें म्हणजे आपण कृतकृत्य झालों असें समजावयाचें किंवा त्यांच्या चारित्र्याची उन्नति करण्यासाठीं व आपल्या देशाच्या कारभारांत उच्च दर्जाच्या जागांचें काम करण्यासाठीं व आपला देश सुधारण्याच्या कामीं नवीन योजना शोधून काढण्यासाठीं त्यांना लायक करण्याकरितां आपण प्रयत्न करावयाचा?.....हिंदुस्थान हें आपणांस कांहीं काळापुरतेंच मिळालेलें आहे असें न समजतां हिंदी लोक आपल्या स्वतःकरितां योग्य राज्यकारभाराची एक पद्धति तयार करून तो कारभार चालविण्याइतके व कायम ठेवण्याइतके सुशिक्षित होईतोंपर्यंत तें आपण आपल्याकडे ठेवावयाचें आहे असें आपण समजलें पाहिजे."

यावरून असें दिसून येईल कीं, १०० वर्षांपेक्षांही अधिक वर्षांपर्वी, हळू हळू आपला राज्यकारभार आपण स्वतः पाहूं लागण्याइतकी हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांची सुधारणा करण्याचें ध्येय इंग्लिश लोकांनीं नेहमीं आपल्यापुढें ठेविलें होतें. हिंदुस्थानांत सर्वत्र जें शिक्षण ब्रिटिश लोकांनीं सुरू केलें आहे त्याचा उद्देशही हाच आहे. वेळोवेळीं, जेव्हां जेव्हां अनुकूल परिस्थिति प्राप्त झाली तेव्हां तेव्हां हिंदुस्थानांतील लोकांच्या सुरक्षिततेकडे नजर देऊन नियमितपणें पुढें पाऊल टाकण्यांत आलें आहे. आतां तर आपण पूर्वीपेक्षांही अधिक पुढें पाऊल टाकण्याच्या बेतांत आहों, व तें पाऊल म्हटलें म्हणजे आलीजा नामदार व्हाइसराय व स्टेट सेक्रेटरी मि. मांटेग्यू यांच्या सन १९१८ च्या रिपोर्टींत त्यांनीं शिफारस केलेल्या हिंदुस्थानच्या राज्यकारभारासंबंधी सुधारणा ह्यांच्या द्वारें होय.

तारीख २० माहे आगस्ट सन १९१७ रोजीं हिंदुस्थानचे स्टेट सेक्रेटरी यांनीं कॉमन्स सभेंत एक फार महत्वाची गोष्ट जाहिर केली व असें करतांना ते खालीं लिहिल्याप्रमाणें म्हणाले :—

"मलिक माआझम यांच्या सरकारचें जें धोरण हिंदुस्थान सरकारास पूर्ण संमत आहे तें धोरण म्हटलें म्हणजे राज्यकारभाराच्या प्रत्येक शाखेंत हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांचा जास्त शिरकाव करूं देणें व हिंदुस्थान हा ब्रिटिश साम्राज्याचा संपूर्ण घटक या नात्यानें त्यांत जबाबदार राज्यपद्धतीला उत्तरोत्तर मूर्तस्वरूप देण्याच्या हेतूनें स्वायत्त संस्थांची हळू हळू वाढ करणें हें होय. या दिशेनें शक्य तितक्या लौकर महत्वाचे उपाय योजण्यांत यावे असें आणि हे उपाय कोणते असावे याचा विचार करण्यापूर्वी विलायतेंतील अधिकारी व हिंदुस्थानांतील अधिकारी यांनीं मोकळ्या मनानें आपलीं मतें एकमेकांस कळविणें अत्यंत महत्वाचें आहे असें मलिक माआझम यांच्या सरकारानें ठरविलें आहे.....या धोरणांत क्रमाक्रमानेंच प्रगति होणें शक्य आहे असें मी सांगतों. ज्यांच्यावर हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांचें कल्याण व सुधारणा करण्याची जबाबदारी आहे त्या ब्रिटिश सरकारनें व हिंदुस्थान सरकारनें प्रत्येक सुधारणा करण्याची वेळ व उपाय ठरविले पाहिजेत, आणि ज्यांना देशसेवा करण्याची नवी संधि याप्रमाणें देण्यांत येईल त्यांच्याकडून मिळणाऱ्या मदतीवरून आणि त्यांच्या जबाबदारीच्या जाणीवेवर विश्वास ठेवतां येण्याजोगा आहे असें दिसून येईल त्यामानानें त्या सरकारनीं अशी वेळ व उपाय ठरविले पाहिजेत."

या विधानासंबंधानें व्हाइसराय व सेक्रेटरी ऑफ स्टेट यांनीं हिंदुस्थानांतील राज्यकारभारासंबंधी सुधारणांच्या आपल्या रिपोर्टींत खालीलप्रमाणें लिहिलें आहे :—

"हिंदुस्थानच्या दीर्घकालिक इतिहासांत आजपर्यंत केव्हांही काढण्यांत आलेल्या उद्गारापेक्षां हे उद्गार महत्वाचे आहेत असें आम्हीं समजतों. त्यांवरून तीस कोटी लोकांसाठीं एक नवें धोरण

योजण्यासंबंधानें अगदीं स्पष्ट भाषेंत ब्रिटिश सरकार वचन देत आहे. हें धोरण पाश्चिमात्य लोकांच्या दृष्टीनें जुनें असून कसास उतरलेलें आहे. इंग्लिश लोक जर कोणतीही उत्तम राज्यपद्धति असेल तर ती जबाबदार राज्यपद्धति होय असें समजतात; आणि आतां हिंदुस्थानच्या विनंतीवरून ही पद्धति जाहीरनाम्यांत सांगितलेल्या अटींवर हिंदुस्थानास देखील लागू करण्याचें त्यांनीं अभिवचन दिलें आहे."

हिंदुस्थानाच्या राज्यकारभारांत व राज्यपद्धतींत करावयाच्या योजलेल्या या सुधारणा आतां ब्रिटिश पार्लमेंटनें अखेरच्या पसंत केल्या आहेत व त्यांस बादशहांची मंजुरी मिळाली असून कायद्याचें स्वरूप प्राप्त झालें आहे.

हिंदुस्थानच्या इतिहासांत अत्यंत महत्वाची प्रगति करणाऱ्या म्हणून ज्यांना योग्य रीतीनें म्हटलें आहे अशा या राज्यकारभारासंबंधी व्यापक सुधारणांविषयीं सविस्तर माहिती होण्यासाठीं व्हाइसराय व सेक्रेटरी ऑफ स्टेट यांच्या हिंदुस्थानांतील राज्यकारभारासंबंधी सुधारणांचा रिपोर्ट व हिंदुस्थान सरकाराबाबत आक्टाच्या ज्या मसुद्यानें या सुधारणा कायद्याच्या रूपांत संघटित करण्यांत आल्या आहेत त्या आक्टाच्या मसुद्याचें नीट काळजीपूर्वक मनन करणें, आवश्यक आहे. (हीं दोन्ही पुस्तकें ब्यूरो आफ धी गव्हर्नमेंट ऑफ बॉंबे डिरेक्टरेट ऑफ इन्फर्मेशन, सेक्रेटेरिएट-पूर्वीचें फ्रीमन-टॉमस हॉस्पिटल, एस्प्लानेडरोड, मुंबई, येथें पाहाण्यास मिळतील किंवा तीं थोडक्या किंमतींत विकत मिळतील). अगदीं थोडक्यांत सांगावयाचें म्हटलें म्हणजे या सुधारणांमुळें हिंदुस्थानांत पार्लमेंटची राज्यपद्धति सुरू होऊन जबाबदार राज्यपद्धतीचा पहिला महत्वाचा उपक्रम चालू होणार आहे असें म्हणतां येईल. या सुधारणांमुळें सर्व स्थानिक सरकारांच्या जबाबदाऱ्या व कार्यक्षेत्र हीं एकदम वाढतील व त्यांच्याद्वारें प्रत्येक इलाख्यांतील व प्रांतांतील दरेक नागरिकाची जबाबदारी फार वाढेल.

अशा रीतीनें मुंबई इलाख्यासाठीं १११ सभासद असलेलें एक कायदेकौन्सिल असेल, व त्यांपैकीं निदान शेंकडा ७० सभासद लोकांकडून निवडण्यांत येतील व शेंकडा २० पेक्षां जास्त नाहीं, इतके अधिकारीवर्गांतील सभासद असतील. कायदे कौन्सिलच्या निवडलेल्या सभासदांमधून दिवाणांची नेमणूक करण्यांत येईल, व त्यांच्याकडे निरनिराळीं खातीं देण्यांत येतील.

त्याचप्रमाणें हिंदुस्थान सरकारसंबंधानें ६० सभासदांपेक्षां जास्त नाहींत इतके सभासद असलेलें एक कौन्सिल ऑफ स्टेट असेल व त्यांपैकीं २० पेक्षां जास्त नाहींत इतके अधिकारीवर्गांतील सभासद असतील; आणि १४० सभासद असलेली एक कायदे करणारी मंडळी असेल व तींतील १०० सभासद लोकांकडून निवडण्यांत येतील.

सुरवातीसच अजमासें पन्नास लक्ष मतदार असतील, व त्यांच्यावर हिंदुस्तानच्या सुधारलेल्या राज्यपद्धतीअन्वयें स्थापावयाच्या राज्यकारभारासाठीं पार्लमेंटच्या नमुन्याच्या या पहिल्या संस्थेसाठीं प्रतिनिधि निवडण्याची जबाबदारी राहील, व ही संख्या पुढें वाढेल.

राज्यकारभारांत एकदम व फार मोठे असे फेरफार केल्यानें नेहमीं धोका असतो. म्हणून, आणि हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांचें धोका व भीति यांपासून संरक्षण करण्यासाठीं इंग्लंडच्या पार्लमेंटनें, व्हाइसराय व स्टेट सेक्रेटरी यांच्या मतानें असें ठरविलें आहे कीं, हिंदुस्थानच्या राज्यकारभारांत हे मोठे व प्रागतिक फेरफार क्रमाक्रमानें करण्यांत यावे. हें अतिशय महत्त्वाचें असून त्यामुळें दिवाण, कायदे कौन्सिलांचे सभासद व त्यांना निवडणारे मतदार यांना जसजशी त्यांची प्रगति होईल तसतसा अनुभव मिळेल व त्यांच्या हातून विशेष अपायकारक अशा चुका होणार नाहींत. यासाठीं मुंबई इलाख्यांत आणि दुसऱ्या इलाख्यांत व प्रांतांत कित्येक बाबी "राखून ठेवलेल्या" म्हणून असतील व गव्हर्नर इन् कौन्सिल त्यांचा विचार करतील, आणि दुसऱ्या बाबी सोंपवून दिलेल्या म्हणून असतील व त्या दिवाणांच्या ताब्यांत राहातील. हे दिवाण कायदे कौन्सिलाच्या निवडलेल्या सभासदांपैकीं असतील म्हणजे ते लोकांचे खरेखुरे प्रतिनिधि असतील, कारण कायदे कौन्सिलांतील शेंकडा २० पेक्षां जास्त सभासद सरकारी अमलदार नसल्यामुळें तें लोकनियुक्त असेल. जसजसा दिवाणांना व लोकांना अनुभव येत जाईल तसतशी सोंपून दिलेल्या बाबींची संख्या वाढविण्यांत येईल.

तारीख १६ माहे फेब्रुवारी रोजीं रायपूर येथील जिल्हा कौन्सिलनें व रायपूर शहरच्या म्युनिसिपल कमिटीनें दिलेल्या मानपत्रास उत्तर देतांना मध्यप्रांताचे चीफ कमिशनर सर फ्रँक स्लाय हे म्हणाले :—

"सर्वांत विशेष गोष्ट सांगावयाची म्हणजे राज्यपद्धतीची सुधारलेली नवी योजना तुमच्या जिल्ह्याच्या सुधारण्याच्या कामीं फार महत्वाची गोष्ट होईल अशी मला आशा वाटत आहे. त्या योजनेवर माझा विश्वास असण्याचें कारण हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांवर असलेला माझा विश्वास होय. हिंदुस्थानांतील लोकांचें अंतःकरण व मन उदात्त असल्यामुळें सदरहू योजना यशस्वी रीतीनें सिद्धीस जाईल असें मला वाटतें. बादशहांच्या जाहिरनाम्याच्या शब्दांत सांगावयाचें म्हटलें म्हणजे "हा मार्ग सोपा नाहीं." या जाहिरनाम्याच्या एका भागासंबंधानें तुम्ही आपल्या मानपत्रांत उल्लेख केलेला आहे, व तो माझ्या मतें फार महत्वाचा आहे. तो भाग म्हटला म्हणजे मलिक माआझम सार्वभौम बादशहा यांनीं सहकारितेसंबंधानें कळकळीनें सांगितलेल्या मुद्यासंबंधाचा आहे. ही सहकारिता एकोप्यानें व सौजन्यानें झाली पाहिजे आणि अशी ही सहकारिता लोकांकडून व सरकारकडून भरपूर कां मिळूं नये हें मला समजत नाहीं, कारण ही सहकारिता एक सर्व सामान्य हेतु साध्य करण्यासाठींच पाहिजे आहे.

माझें पहिल्यानेंच हातीं घेण्याचें काम म्हटलें म्हणजे या सुधारलेल्या राज्यपद्धतीच्या घटनेची सामुग्री तयार करणें हें होय. हें काम आम्ही अगदीं मनापासून करणार आहों आणि पुढच्या नोव्हेंबर महिन्याच्या सुमारास पहिल्या सामान्य निवडणुकीचे वेळीं हें काम पुरें होईल अशी आम्हांस आशा आहे. तुम्हांस सध्यां मुख्यत्वेंकरून कराव्यायाचें काम म्हटलें म्हणजे मतदाराला शिक्षण देणें, जबाबदार राज्यपद्धति म्हणजे काय, तसेंच निवडणूक करणारास काय हक्क आहेत व तसेंच त्यानें करावयाचीं कामें ह्यांविषयीं त्यास नीट समजावून सांगणें, आणि जी जबाबदारी त्याचेवर आहे त्या जबाबदारीकडे योग्य लक्ष्य देऊन आपलें मत त्यानें द्यावयाचें आहे असें त्यास समजावून सांगणें हें होय.

माझी अशी खात्री आहे कीं, पुष्कळ मतदारांना व सुशिक्षित वर्गापैकीं बऱ्याचजणांना देखील या योजनेअन्वयें आपणास कोणता मोठा अधिकार मिळाला आहे हें अद्यापि नीटसें कळलेलें नाहीं. गतकाळांतल्याप्रमाणें आपल्या इच्छा काय आहेत हें कळविण्यासाठीं व देशाचें कल्याण व भरभराट यांची जबाबदारी घेण्यासाठीं बहुतेक मतदारांना यापुढें सरकारावर विसंबून चालायचें नाहीं. भविष्यकाळीं त्यांनीं बहुतेक अंशीं स्वतःवरच विसंबून राहिलें पाहिजे आणि सभासद निवडण्यासाठीं त्यांच्यावर असलेली जबाबदारी व सर्व "सोंपून दिलेल्या" बाबींतील सरकारच्या धोरणाबद्दल सभासदांवर असणारी जबाबदारी त्यांनीं ओळखली पाहिजे. म्हणून मतदाराला आपल्या जबाबदारीसंबंधानें शिक्षण देण्यासाठीं जोरानें प्रयत्न करण्यांत यावा अशी माझी इच्छा आहे. आपणास अमुक मनुष्य आवडतो म्हणून केवळ त्या मनुष्यासाठीं आपण मत द्यावयाचें आहे असें नव्हे, तर भविष्यकाळीं ज्या प्रकारचें धोरण असावयास पाहिजे असें आपणास वाटतें त्या धोरणासाठीं आपणास मत द्यावयाचें आहे, अशाविषयीं मतदाराला पूर्ण समजावून सांगण्यांत यावें. उदाहरणार्थ, सक्तीचें शिक्षण तुम्हांस पाहिजे आहे काय? तुमच्या गांवांत सुधारलेल्या प्रमाणावर आरोग्यरक्षणाचे उपाय असावेत अशी तुमची इच्छा आहे काय? या गोष्टीसाठीं लागणारा खर्च भागण्याकरितां आवश्यक असा कर देण्यास तुम्ही तयार आहांत काय? कारण या व इतर दिशेनें सुधारणा करावयाच्या म्हटल्या म्हणजे खर्च फार वाढणार व तो कराची आकारणी वाढवून भरून काढला पाहिजे.

या गोष्टी तुम्हांस पाहिजे असतील तर त्यांस अनुकूळ असणाऱ्या सभासदांसाठीं तुम्ही मत द्या. जो मनुष्य तुमच्या इच्छांप्रमाणें घडवून आणील असें तुम्हांस खात्रीनें वाटेल त्या मनुष्यास तुमचा सभासद निवडा, पण जीं मोठमोठालीं अभिवचनें पाळणें पुष्कळ अंशीं अशक्य आहे असें तुम्हा स्वतःस तसेंच प्रत्येकास माहीत आहे अशीं अभिवचनें देणाऱ्या मनुष्यास तुम्ही निवडूं नका. परंतु विशेष महत्त्वाची गोष्ट ही कीं, जे लोक ही योजना यशस्वी रीतीनें पार पाडण्यांत मदत करतील व मनापासून काम करतील त्या लोकांस तुमचे सभासद म्हणून निवडा असें तुम्हांस माझें सांगणें आहे. असें करण्यांत मलिक माआझम सार्वभौम बादशहा यांच्या इच्छेप्रमाणें, तुम्ही चाल-ल्यासारखें होईल व तुमच्या स्वतःच्या देशाचें तुम्ही कल्याण कराल. सार्वभौम बादशहांच्या

शब्दांत सांगावयाचें म्हटलें म्हणजे, "हिंदुस्थानची उत्तरोत्तर भरभराट व्हावी व त्यांतील लोकांस अधिकाधिक संतोष व्हावा व त्यांस पूर्ण राजकीय स्वातंत्र्य मिळावें म्हणून स्वतंत्र संस्थांकडे व्यवस्थित रीतीनें प्रगति करण्यासाठीं" जे लोक काम करतील त्यांना निवडा."

लोकांनीं आपलीं मतें शहाणपणानें व काळजीनें द्यावींत हें निःसंशय अत्यंत महत्वाचें आहे. पाल्हाळिक भाषणानें त्यांनीं कधींही भुलून जाऊं नये, परंतु निवडणुकीसाठींचा कोणताही उमेदवार जीं तत्त्वें व जीं धोरणें त्यांच्या पुढें मांडील त्या तत्त्वांचा व धोरणांचा स्वतःच त्यांनीं नीट काळजीपूर्वक विचार करावा आणि त्याला मत देण्यापूर्वी त्याच्या थोर व निःसीम देशभक्तिपूर्ण स्वभावाची व उद्देशांची त्यांनीं खात्री करून घ्यावी. मत देण्यास जे लायक आहेत त्या सर्वांनीं आपलीं नांवें निवडणुकीसाठींच्या यादींत शक्य तितक्या लौकर नोंदवावीं. संबंध असलेल्या प्रत्येक नागरिकानें याकडे ताबडतोब लक्ष्य देणें अत्यंत जरूरीचें आहे. प्रत्येक प्रौढ वयाच्या पुरुषास व स्त्रीस मत देतां येईल असा एक दिवस येईल. हा दिवस फार वर्षांनीं म्हणजे जेव्हां पुष्कळ लोक सुशिक्षित होतील, आणि वाढत्या प्रमाणावर निवडणुकीसाठींच्या याद्या तयार होतील तेव्हां येईल. प्रथमतः देशांत ज्यांच्याजवळ मालकीची थोडीशी जमीन असेल अथवा म्युनिसिपल क्षेत्रांतील घरांत जे राहत असतील ते लोक मतदार असतील.

हिंदुस्थानास पूर्ण स्वराज्य प्राप्त होण्यास लागणारा अवधि हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांना आपल्या मताचा उपयोग कसा करावा हें शिकण्यास, आणि ज्या प्रतिनिधींना ते निवडतील त्यांना नेमस्त व जबाबदार राजकीय जीवनाचें कार्य शिकण्यास जितका वेळ लागेल त्यावर अवलंबून असेल. चळवळ व तंटेबखेडे यांमुळें ह्या कामास विलंब मात्र लागेल. मनःपूर्वक केलेला अभ्यास व दीर्घ परिश्रम, हिंदुस्थानच्या हितसंबंधासाठीं एकनिष्ठपणें केलेली नोकरी आणि सर्व जाती व पक्ष यांच्या दरम्यानची एकनिष्ठ सहकारिता ह्यांच्यायोगें आपणांस आपल्या ध्येयाकडे अधिक लौकर जातां येईल.

अशा रीतीनें एका राष्ट्रानें दुसऱ्या राष्ट्रास क्वचितच दिलेल्या हक्कांची व संधींची उदार देणगी ब्रिटिश लोकांनीं हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांस दिली आहे. सुधारणा असें म्हटलेल्या या हक्कांचा व संधींचा खरोखर अर्थ असा आहे कीं :—हिंदुस्थानची राज्यपद्धति अशा रीतीनें बदलली व सुधारली जात आहे कीं त्यामुळें हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांना त्यांच्या ब्रिटिश अधिकारी व अमलदार यांच्या बरोबर हातांत हात घालून संपूर्ण व जबाबदार स्वराज्याच्या अंतिम ध्येयाकडे निश्चयानें जातां येईल. म्हणून या मार्गांत कांहींही अडथळे न आणतां, ब्रिटिश लोक हिंदुस्थानच्या सर्व लोकांस न्याय मिळेल व कोणचेंही नुकसान होणार नाहीं अशा रीतीनें शक्य तितक्या लौकर हिंदुस्थानचे लोक स्वराज्याच्या ध्येयाकडे जाऊन पोंहचतील असें करण्यासाठीं हरेक प्रयत्न करीत आहेत व यापुढें करतील.

म्हणूनच ब्रिटिशांनीं या सुधारणा सुरू केल्या आहेत, व या सुधारणांचा हाच मुख्य हेतु आहे. हिंदुस्थानास या इष्ट ध्येयाकडे जाऊन पोंहचण्यास किती अवधि लागेल हें खुद्द हिंदुस्थानच्या लोकांवर व या महत्त्वाच्या सुधारणा अमलांत आणण्याच्या कामीं मदत करण्यासाठीं त्यांनीं दाखवावयाच्या उत्साहावर, कळकळीवर, प्रामाणिकपणावर व एकनिष्ठेवर अवलंबून आहे. हिंदी पुढारी व राजकारणी पुरुष हे, देशभक्त नागरिकांनीं जसें करावयास पाहिजे त्याप्रमाणें चांगला विचार करितील, चांगले झटून एकसारखे परिश्रम करतील व एकनिष्ठेनें मदत करतील, तर, आणि हिंदुस्थानांतील लोक या सर्व गोष्टींचा, त्यांच्यापुढें त्या जशा मांडण्यांत आल्या आहेत तशा दृष्टीनें, नीट विचार करतील आणि खरें व खोटें, खोटे पुढारी व खरे पुढारी, खरी गोष्ट व चळवळ्यांनीं पसरविलेल्या पाल्हाळिक खोट्या गोष्टी, यांमधील भेद ओळखण्याइतके ते स्वतः लायक होतील, तर या सुधारणांमुळें शेवटीं प्राप्त होणाऱ्या पूर्ण स्वराज्याकडे निश्चयानें व यशस्वी रीतीनें हिंदुस्थानची प्रगति होईल. चळवळीमुळें व पक्षापक्षांतील दुहीमुळें प्रगतीस निःसंशय विलंब लागेल. यापेक्षां अधिक व्यापक अधिकार ताबडतोब मिळण्यासाठीं नुसत्या बडबडीनें, भाषणानें व वेडगळ वटवटीनें कांहींही चांगलें निष्पन्न व्हावयाचें नाहीं, पण देशाच्या प्रगतीस मात्र अडथळा होईल. प्रामाणिकपणानें अभ्यास करणें, झटून परिश्रम करणें, एकसारखें ज्ञान संपादन करणें आणि सर्व पक्षांनीं व सर्व जातींनीं मिळून मिसळून एकनिष्ठपणें काम करणें: असें केल्यानेंच मात्र सार्वभौम बादशाहांस व ब्रिटिश लोकांस सुधारणा जशा सफल झाल्या पाहिजेत असें वाटतें तशा रीतीनें त्या सफळ होतील व अशा रीतीनें जबाबदार राज्यपद्धतीचें जें ध्येय इंग्लंडनें हिंदुस्थानापुढें ठेवलें आहे त्या ध्येयाकडे हिंदुस्थानास जाण्यास वेळ फार कमी लागेल.

सरकाराविरुद्ध द्वेषबुद्धि उत्पन्न करण्याचा किंवा लोकांच्या निरनिराळ्या जातींत तंटेबखेडे माजविण्याचा प्रयत्न करणाऱ्या जहाल वक्त्यांना व लेखकांना त्यांच्या नुकसानकारक प्रवृत्तीसंबंधानें यत्किंचितही सबब आतां राहणार नाहीं. पूर्वी या चळवळ्यांनीं आपण स्वदेशभक्तीनें प्रेरित होऊन असें करीत आहों असें सांगितलें आहे. आतां मात्र अशी सबब सांगतां यावयाची नाहीं. यापुढें चळवळ करणें हें अगदीं अप्रासंगिक होईल आणि सरकारची निंदा करणें म्हणजे आज हिंदुस्थानाची प्रगति करणाऱ्या शक्तीचा दुरुपयोग करणें होईल. जो कोणी मनुष्य या प्रगतीस कोणत्याही रीतीनें अडथळा करील तो खरा हिंदी देशभक्त असणें शक्य नाहीं. उलट पक्षीं तो स्वराज्याकडे हिंदुस्थानच्या प्रगतीस मुद्दाम स्वार्थासाठीं विलंब करणारा व तींत अडचणी आणणारा असा एक इसम होईल. खऱ्या हिंदी पुढाऱ्यास व खऱ्या हिंदी देशभक्तास हें समजलें आहे, आणि सगळे किरकोळ लढे व तंटे बाजूस ठेऊन ते सरकारास एकनिष्ठपणें साहाय्य करीत आहेत. सहकारितेमुळेंच ह्या सुधारणा अमलांत आणतां येतील व सार्वभौम बादशहांच्या आपल्या हिंदी प्रजेबद्दलच्या सदिच्छा पूर्ण होतील.

APPENDIX CC.

Statement showing the talukas in Judicial Districts having Civil Courts within their area, the population and the number of villages of each such taluka.

Name of taluka.	Area of each taluka in square miles.	Population of each taluka.	Number of villages in each taluka.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5
NORTHERN DIVISION.
Ahmedabad District.
Viramgam ...	675	117,415	157
Dholka ...	690	87,195	124
Dhandhuka and Gogo ...	1,107 and 224	95,446 and 30,056	152 and 65
Daskroi (North and South) ...	345	367,490	140
Kaira District.
Anand	244	143,468	84*	* The Subordinate Judge's Court is at Umreth : Twelve of these villages are under the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Nadiad ; 28 under that at Borsad ; 44 under that at Umreth.
Borsad ...	205	14,094	91
Kapadvanj ...	279	76,730	90
Matar ...	207	58,705	82
Nadiad ...	224	133,467	95†	The Subordinate Judge's Court is at Kaira. † Three of these villages are under the Subordinate Judge's Court at Umreth.
Panch Mahals District.
Dohad and Jhalod ...	607	77,524	122
		49,893	99
Kalol ...	415	43,865	68
Halol ...		46,947	166
Godhra ...	584	117,466	238
Broach District.
Broach ...	291¾	154,833	105
Ankleshwar ...	153	441,618	57
Jambusar ...	388	60,644	83
Wagra ...	348	30,992	70
Surat District.
Chorasi ...	116	170,191	77
Olpad	312	53,394	139
Bulsar ...	203·5	89,404	95
Thana District.
Bhiwandi ...	265	78,654	205
Murbad ...	352	64,397	173
Bassein ...	208½	79,979	90
Salsette (Thana) including Bandra Peta.	241	Salsette— 75,025 Bandra— 78,828	149
Kalyan ...	275	82,243	256*	* 48 of these are under the Murbad Court and 28 of these are under the Thana Court.
Dahanu ...	485	84,673	134
Kolaba District.
Panvel (including Uran Peta)...	271	108,015	279†	† 241 Panvel. 38 Uran Peta. 279
Mahal ...	459	118,514	251
Roha ...	203	46,327	152
Pen ...	293	70,016	266
Alibag ...	189	80,862	205
CENTRAL DIVISION.
Ahmednagar District.
Nagar ...	635	129,109	130	The Courts at Rahuri and Kopargaon, Shevgaon and Newasa and Karjat and Jamkhed are linked Courts.

Name of taluka.	Area of each taluka in square miles.	Population of each Taluka.	Number of villages in each taluka.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5
CENTRAL DIVISION—contd.
Ahmednagar District—contd.
Rahuri ...	493	78,357	116
Sangamner ...	695	95,451	152
Kopargaon ...	520	91,490	141
Nevasa ...	581	84,189	140
Shevgaon ...	474	77,336	149
Jamkhed Mahal ...	353	57,936	59	Five villages from Jamkhed are included in the jurisdiction of the Nagar Court.
Karjat ...	571	45,127	82
Parner ...	733	82,342	117
Khandesh District.
Dhulia ...	760	129,147	185+2*	* These are the number of villages included in forest.
Shirpur ...	597	57,642	199+43*
Nandurbar ...	528	71,681	155+8*
Chalisgaon ...	521	99,235	143
Jalgaon ...	319	94,041	111
Bhusawal ...	321	86,787	130†	† Of these 7 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Jalgaon.
Yawal ...	368	85,269	111
Amalner ...	326	85,844	188
Erandol ...	376	117,183	186
Nasik District.
Nasik ...	319	114,817	137
Niphad ...	407	93,029	121
Sinnar ...	518	71,628	104
Yeola ...	410	63,157	120
Malegaon ...	934	110,532	153
Satana ...	613	69,056	162
Poona District.
Haveli ...	823	338,123	248
Maval ...	385	68,960	167
Junnar ...	592	114,871	165
Khed ...	877	158,648	244
Sirur ...	560	76,681	103
Purandhar ...	470	81,065	92
Bhimthadi ...	1,036	155,105	99
Satara District.
Satara ...	339	114,637	152
Wai (including the Khandala Peta).	390·45	85,919	124
Karad ...	301	132,531	100
Patan ...	438	114,601	205
Koregaon ...	346	78,156	74
Man ...	629	64,501	78
Tasgaon ...	323	81,405	49
Khanapur ...	502	83,921	90
Walva (including the Shirala Peta).	545	168,090	175
Sholapur District.
Sholapur ...	848	189,616	152
Barsi ...	597	132,925	123
Madha ...	619	101,096	89
Karmala ...	772	93,746	123
Sangola ...	668	82,016	77
Malsiras ...	574	67,747	69
Pandharpur ...	478	101,284	86
SOUTHERN DIVISION.
Belgaum.
Belgaum including Chandgod Mahal.	644	136,877	200
Chikodi ...	494	157,853	98
Athni ...	779	123,337	82
Gokak ...	671	128,225	114
Bail-Hongal ...	409	117,966	124

Name of Taluka.	Area of each taluka in square miles.	Population of each taluka.	Number of villages in each taluka.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5
SOUTHERN DIVISION—contd.
Bijapur District.
Bijapur ...	869	122,630	102
Bagalkot (including the Mahal of Bilgi).	683	127,434	174
Muddebihal ...	564	89,487	154
Dharwar District.
Dharwar ...	431	106,456	172
Hubli ...	311	122,795	93
Gadag (including Mundargi Petha).	699	95,356 35,384	106
Kargagi (Haveri) ...	44	95,898	136
Kanara District.
Karwar ...	281	59,663	61
Kumta ...	226	64,476	126
Honavar ...	292	61,962	129*	*One of these villages named Mallanpur is transferred under the jurisdiction of the Kumta Court.
Sirsi ...	511	47,833	263
Ratnagiri District.
Ratnagiri ...	415	149,867	159*	*These include inam villages.
Dapoli ...	330·75	114,326	156*
Chiplum ...	428·6	123,105	136*
Sangmeshwar ...	563·9	134,937	205*
Rajapur ...	620	155,227	210*
Deogad ...	525·5	148,497	135*
Malwan ...	238	111,257	64*
Vengurla ...	64·75	45,443	11*

APPENDIX DD.

Statement showing the talukas in Judicial Districts having no Civil Courts within their area, together with the area, the population and the number of villages of each such taluka.

Name of Taluka.	Area of each Taluka in Square miles.	Population of each Taluka.	Number of villages.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5
NORTHERN DIVISION.
Ahmedabad District.
Prantij including Modasa Petha.	447	67,516	171*	* 92 of these villages are within the jurisdiction of the First Class Subordinate Judge's Court, Ahmedabad, 79 villages including 5 villages of Modasa Petha are within the jurisdiction of the Kapadvanj Subordinate Judge's Court.
Sanand ...	360	42,762	86†	† 35 villages are within the jurisdiction of the First Class Subordinate Judge's Court at Ahmedabad. 36 villages of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Dholka. 15 villages of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Viramgam.
Kaira District.
Mehmedabad ...	151	67,672	62†	† 3 villages at Nadiad. 59 villages at Kaira.
Thasra ...	257	71,588	111	68 villages at Umreth. 43 villages af Kapadvanj.
Broach District.
Mahal Hansot ...	154	23,848	47†	† These are within the jurisdiction of the Civil Court at Ankleshwar.
Amod ...	176	35,020	53†	† These are within the jurisdiction of the Civil Court at Wagra.
Surat District.
Bardoli Petha, Mahal Valod.	222	86,349	138†	† These are within the jurisdiction of the Second Class Subordinate Court, Surat.
Mandvi ...	241·43	53,027	169†	† Do. do.
Pardi ...	163	63,606	80†	† These are within the jurisdiction of the Second Class Subordinate Court, Bulsar.
Jalalpur ...	136	75,252	94†	† Do. do.
Chikhli ...	167	62,774	65†	† Do. do.
Kolaba District.
Mangaon ...	358	84,208	231*	* Out of these 54 are under the Mahad Court and the rest under the Roha Court.
Karjat ...	359	86,224	288
Thana District.
Shahapur ...	610	86,196	203
Karjat ...	144	61,350	164
Mahim ...	432	92,958	193†	† Out of these 171 are within the jurisdiction of the Dahanu Court and 22 within that of the Bassein Court.
Umbargaon Peta ...	324	80,142	79
Mokhada Peta ...	205	34,543	69*	* Out of these 25 villages are within the jurisdiction of the Dahanu Court and 44 villages are within the jurisdiction of the Kalyan Court.
CENTRAL DIVISION.
Ahmednagar District.
Akola ...	581	75,949	157*	* All these villages are included within the jurisdiction of the Sangamner Taluka Court.
Pathardi ...	369	62,292	70‡	‡ All these villages are included within the jurisdiction of the Shevgaon Taluka Court.
Shrigonda ...	620	65,727	87§	§ 16 villages are within the jurisdiction of the Nagar Court. 23 villages are within the jurisdiction of the Karjat Court. 48 villages are within the jurisdiction of the Parner Court. — 87
Khandesh District.
Sindkheda ...	505	89,154	166†	† These are included in the jurisdiction of the First Class Subordinate Judge's Court at Dhulia.

Name of Taluka.	Area of each Taluka in square miles.	Population of each Taluka.	Number of Villages.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5
CENTRAL DIVISION—continued.
Khandesh District—contd.
Shahada ...	480	63,409	163+ 22†	† These figures show the number of villages included in forest.
Taloda ...	1,183	47,835	123+166†
Nawapur ...	627	52,332	139+ 8†	All these villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Nandurbar.
Sakri ...	759	64,523	142+ 2†
Raver ...	361	80,298	(a) 129	(a) 94 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Yawal. 35 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Bhusawal.
Chipada ...	369	82,693	(b) 133½	(b) 51 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Yawal. 79 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Shirpur.
Parola ...	306	44,937	(c) 141	(c) 108 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Amalner. 33 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Erandol.
Pachora ...	317	75,944	(d) 151	(d) All villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Chalisgaon.
Jamner ...	525	98,323	(e) 197	(e) 190 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Jalgaon. 7 villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Bhusawal.
Edlabad (Peta) ...	249	39,833	(f) 114	(f) All villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Bhusawal.
Bhadgaon ...	187	44,504	(g) 68	(g) All villages are included in the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court, Chalisgaon.
Nasik District.
Chandor ...	370	56,604	109†	† Within the jurisdiction of the Pimpalgaon and Yeola Courts.
Dindori ...	593	75,098	(h) 128	(h) Within the jurisdiction of the Pimpalgaon and Nasik Courts.
Igatpuri ...	456	78,814	(a) 130	(a) Within the jurisdiction of the Nasik and Sinnar Courts.
Kalwan ...	522	65,646	(b) 193	(b) Within the jurisdiction of the Nasik and Satana Courts.
Nandgaon ...	446	44,916	(c) 93	(c) Do. Malegaon Court.
Peint ...	436	61,733	(d) 245	(d) Do. Nasik Court
Poona District.
Indapur ...	567	78,059	(e) 89	(e) Do. Baramati Court.
Satara District.
Javli (Medha) neluding the Malcolmpeth Peta).	170	31,000	143	Part of the Javli Taluka is within the jurisdiction of the First Class Subordinate Judge's Court, Satara, and part within the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Wai.
	157·83	24,82	109
Khatao ...	501·71	69,221	87	The Khatav Taluka is partly under the Rahimatpur and partly under the Dahiwadi Courts in the Koregaon and Man talukas, respectively.
SOUTHERN DIVISION.
Belgaum District.
Khanapur ...	633	72,301	219	Included within the jurisdiction of Subordinate Judge's Court at Belgaum.
Hukeri ...	343	110,061	116	Included within the jurisdiction of Subordinate Judge's Court at Gokak. It is proposed to open a new court at Hukeri shortly.
Saundatti ...	640	102,197	121	Included within the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Gokak.

Name of Taluka.	Area of each Taluka in Square Miles.	Population of each Taluka.	Number of Villages.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5
SOUTHERN DIVISION —continued.
Bijapur District.
Indi ...	871	98,829	122	Within the jurisdiction of the Bijapur Court.
Sindgi ...	612	96,084	150	Do. do.
Badami ...	676	108,202	182	Do. Bagalkot Court.
Hungund ...	518	110,581	169	Do. do.
Bagewadi ...	764	109,726	121	Do. Muddebihal Court.
Dharwar District.
Navalgund (including Nargund Petha).	565	62,821 25,995	95	Within the jurisdiction of the Dharwar Court.
Kalghatgi ...	276	46,454	131	Do. do.
Halyal (including Supa Petha, Kanara District).	1,056	28,356 18,611	64	Do. do.
Bankapur ...	344	77,111	163	Do. Hubli Court.
Ron ...	433	93,067	59	Do. Gadag Court.
Hangal ...	300	70,882	176	Do. Haveri Court.
Ranebennur ...	405	96,441	132	Do. do.
Kod ...	400	96,345	189	Do. do.
Kanara District.
Ankola ...	355	39,000	87*	* 56 are under the jurisdiction of the Karwar Civil Court and the rest under the jurisdiction of the Kumta Court.
Bhatkal ...	135	33,458	70†	† These do. do. Honavar Court.
Siddapur ...	332	37,479	193‡	‡ 31 do. do. do. 162 do. do. Sirsi Court.
Yellapur ...	502	20,314	(a) 135	(a) 114 do. do. do. 4 do. do. Kumta Court. 17 do. do. Karwar Court.
Mundgod Petha ...	258	14,396	(b) 111	(b) These do. do. Sirsi Court.
Haliyal ...	428	28,356	(c) 154	(c) These do. do. Dharwar First Class Civil Court.
Supa (Petha) ...	630	18,611	(d) 121	(d) These do. do. Karwar First Class Civil Court. 16 other villages of this Petha are under the jurisdiction of the Civil Court at Dharwar.
Ratnagiri District.
Khed ...	391·9	101,529	(a) 151*	* These include inam villages. (a) Half of these villages are within the jurisdiction of the Dapoli Court. Half do. Chiplun Court.
Mandangad Peta ...	169	45,420	(b) 98†	(b) These are within the jurisdiction of the Dapoli Court.
Guhagar Peta ...	242	74,030	(c) 81‡	(c) 65 do. do. Chiplun Court. 10 do. do. Deorukh Court. 6 do. do. Ratnagiri First Class Court.

APPENDIX EE.

Statement of expenditure incurred on Boring operations under the Sanitary Engineer to Government from 1911-12 to 1918-19.

Year.	Pay and travelling allowance of the Executive Engineer, Boring Works, and his office Establishment.	Tools and plant including machinery and piping purchased in India and England.	Total.	Remarks.
	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
1911-12	17,419 1 6	1,03,785 14 4	1,21,275 15 10
1912-13	13,317 11 5	1,297 7 0	14,615 2 5
1913-14	23,836 7 11	53,244 13 1	77,081 5 0
1914-15	18,632 2 1	6,367 1 11	24,999 4 0
1915-16	29,493 3 0	1,17,974 0 0	1,47,467 3 0
1916-17	19,668 0 6	41,137 0 0	60,805 0 6
1917-18	17,249 14 8	12,198 0 0	29,447 14 8
1918-19	21,546 5 8	18,342 0 0	39,888 5 8
Grand Total ...	1,61,233 14 9	3,54,346 4 4	5,15,580 3 1

NOTE.—Piping costing Rs. 55,069 is on hand on stock account at the end of 1919.

APPENDIX FF.

STATEMENT B.

Statement of bores taken during the years 1911 to 1919.

Number. 1	Name of works. 2	Depth reached in feet. 3	Quantity of water per minute. 4	Expenditure exclusive of cost of piping used. 5	Remarks. 6
	Successful.
1	Sabarmati Jail boring ...	176′	50 gallons by pumping.	Not available ...	The water is in use for drinking purposes by the jail population.
2	Boring work at Viramgam.	383′	50 gallons ...	9,647	The water is not found sufficient in quantity and better in quality and the second bore was undertaken.
3	Kharaghoda New Agar bore.	210′	500 „ ...	4,911	The water was stopped due to the water being found saltish.
4	Making second bore at Viramgam.	776′	225 „ ...	5,576	The artesian supply was met and the scheme of water-supply for Viramgam town is based on this water. The scheme is under preparation by the Executive Engineer, Northern Sanitary District.
5	Third bore at Kharaghoda.	320′	400 „ ...	6,780	The water is used for drinking purposes and for irrigation by the Salt Department.
6	Making a bore at Udoo ...	273′	230 „ ...	6,353	The water is used for drinking purposes by the Udoo people.
7	Making 7″ bore in the well at Sabarmati.	185′	12 „ ...	1,641	This is used for drinking purposes and the present scheme for water-supply for jail is based on this supply.
8	Making a bore for Nadiad High School at Nadiad.	920′	75 gallons by pumping.	8,979	This is used for outdoor purposes by the Hostel people.
	Statement of unsuccessful bores during 1909 to 1919.
9	Making second bore at Udoo.	550′	Nil ...	5,296	This is abandoned due to the 8″ pipe being damaged.
10	Boring at Kelva Mahim ...	220′	25 gallons by pumping.	Not available ...	The supply of water was early exhausted.
11	Boring at Kharaghoda ...	220′	250 gallons ...	4,911	This was abandoned due to the pipe being choked up by the flowing sand in the bore hole.
12	Boring at Broach ...	1,583′	Nil ...	₹3,665	This is abandoned as the pipe could not be driven further and the strata of sea water were met.
13	Boring work at Dholera ...	610′	Nil ...	9,560	This is abandoned as the pipe could not be driven further by F-1 plant.
14	Making second bore at Dholera.	550′	Nil ...	8,723	This is abandoned due to the pipe being damaged owing to unforeseen difficulties.
15	Boring work at Gogho ...	430′	Nil ...	4,681	This is abandoned as the pipe could not be driven further by G. O. Hand Machine.
16	Making a bore at Saragwalla.	Nil	Nil ...	Nil	The work is not undertaken at the suggestion of the Commissioner, Northern Division, but the pipe charged is being used at Bavla boring which is in progress.
17	Making bore in the well of Vaccine Institution at Belgaum.	100′	Nil ...	(b) 655	Yielded no supply of water due to trap rock being met.
18	Making bore at Ranebennur.	328′	Nil ...	(b) 10,037	This is abandoned pending receipt of heavier tools.
19	Making bore in the well at Khandala, District Satara.	100′	Nil ...	(b) 618	Yielded no supply of water due to the trap rock being met.
20	Boring at Wadgam near Ahmednagar.	200′	Nil ...	(b) 2,172	Do. do.
21	Boring at Kaira ...	368′	Nil ...	4,333	This is abandoned due to the pipe being damaged.

(b) Being in rock piping was not used.

Number.	Name of works.	Depth reached in feet.	Quantity of water per minute.	Expenditure exclusive of cost of piping used.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	7
	Statement of bores taken for testing the water conditions.
22	Borings at Mahabaleshwar.	123′	.....	866 (a) ...	Yielded the information required.
23	Making three borings at Dakor.	20′ each bore.	.....	500 (a) ...	Do. do.
24	Making test bores in the Mesri at Godhra.	571′ 28 (in all).	...	678 (a) ...	Do, do.
25	Making borings at Mugutkhan Hubli.	279′ (4 Nos.)	.....	See foot-note* ...	Do, do.
26	Making boring at Ranebennur.	.....	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
27	Making borings at Mora...	39′ (1 No.)	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
28	Making borings at Natambi.	.....	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
29	Making borings at Vir ...	.....	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
30	Making borings at Kapadvanj.	105′ (4 Nos.)	.....	Do ...	Do. do.
31	Making borings at Parola.	237′ (8 Nos.)	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
32	Making borings for Bombay Back-Bay reclamation.	378′ (22 Nos.)	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
33	Making borings at Shikarpur, Sind.	.....	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
34	Making borings at Jalgaon.	66′ (1 No.)	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
35	Making borings at Pandharpur.	.....	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
36	Making borigns at Sholapur.	.....	.....	Do. ...	Do. do.
37	Making borings at Lonavla.	.....	.....	Do. ...	Eighty bores were taken on the Walwan Dam to grout cement and stopped the leakage from the dam.
	Statement of boares in progress and depth reached to end of November 1919.
38	Making third bore at Dholera.	885′	342 gallons.	14,042	The water is not good in taste; it is proposed to go 1,200 feet deep with a view to obtain better quality of water.
39	Making third bore at Gogho.	459′	.....	4,190	The work stopped temporarily pending the completion of Dholera third bore.
40	Making second bore at Kaira.	991′	.....	18,893	The work is in progress.
41	Making bore at Bavla ...	604′-6″	.....	9,790	Do.
42	Boring work at Nadiad ...	365′	.....	5,654	Do.
43	Making trial bores at Jalgaon.	58′ (4)	.....	336 (b)	Do.

* The expenditure on these items was not incurred from the funds at the disposal of the Sanitary Engineer's office, for working boring plant.

(a) Cost of piping has not been entered in the register of works separately, the work being a minor work. The cost is roughly estimated and excluded out of the total charge.

(b) Being in rock piping was not used.

APPENDIX GG.

