TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGES
Agenda for the Fourth Session of 1931	1–7
Monday, the 30th November 1931.
New Members sworn	11
Nomination of Chairmen of Council	11
Governor General's Assent to Acts	12
Starred Questions and Answers	12–20, 25–44
Address by His Excellency the Governor to the Members of the Legislative Council	20–25
Announcement by the Honourable the President of a voluntary cut of ten per cent. in his salary	25
Unstarred Question and Answer	45
Announcement of a ten per cent. cut in Deputy President's salary ..	45
Bill—
Succession Duty Bill	45–81
Tuesday, the 1st December 1931.
New Member sworn	84
Starred Questions and Answers	84–121
Unstarred Questions and Answers	122–28
Bill—
Succession Duty Bill (contd.)	129–52
Supplementary Grant—
Works re Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind	153–71
Adjournment Motion on Retrenchment Committee's Report	171–73
Prorogation of Council	173
APPENDICES	174–90

AGENDA

enda for the Fourth Session of the Bombay Legislative Council, commencing at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Monday, the 30th November 1931, at 2 p.m.

OATH OR AFFIRMATION OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE CROWN.

NOMINATION OF FOUR CHAIRMEN BY THE PRESIDENT.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

GOVERNMENT BILL—

Bill No. XLV of 1931 (A Bill to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay)—First Reading.

Notices of amendments* have been received from—

(1) Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil, M.L.C.

(2) Mr. N. E. Navle, M.L.C.

(3) Dr. M. K. Dixit, M.L.C.

(4) The Honourable Sir Govindrao B. Pradhan, Kt., B.A., LL.B., M.L.C.

DEMANDS FOR SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS.

Vide Appendix to this Agenda.

G. S. RAJADHYAKSHA,
Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

Bombay,
30th November 1931.

APPENDIX.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Bill No. XLV of 1931 (A Bill to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay).

Clause	Amendment	Name of the mover
The whole Bill ..	Substitute the word "Judge" in place of the "Collector", wherever it occurs.	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 2 ..	Delete the words "extends to the whole of the Presidency" and insert in their place "shall be applicable only to the City of Bombay" and add the following words after the word "Bombay":— "and shall remain in force only for one year from passing thereof".	Mr. N. E. Navle.
" ..	Add the words "and operation" after the word "Extent" in the marginal note.	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	At the end of the clause add the following words:— "but it shall not apply to agricultural lands and other properties either movable or immovable owned by an agriculturist as defined by Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879."	Do.
" ..	Add clause 2A after clause 2:— "2A. It shall remain in force for one year."	Do.
" ..	"and shall remain in operation for a period of two years."	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 3 ..	Drop clauses (a) and (b) and insert in their place the following:— "Judge, means a subordinate judge of original civil jurisdiction, appointed under the Bombay Civil Courts Act."	Do.
" ..	Sub-clause (c).—Recast it as under:— "Property" means moveable or immoveable property or any interest in or arising from such property situated in the Bombay Presidency excluding Indian States.	Do.
" ..	Sub-clause (e).—Omit the words "including a Hindu widow.....and an annuity" appearing in sub-clause (e) of clause 3.	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 4 ..	In section 4, clause (1) after the words "where a person" add the words "who is not an agriculturist as defined in section 2 of the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act of 1879."	Mr. N. E. Navle.
" ..	Amendment to sub-clause 4 (1).—Omit the words "or survivorship" in sub-clause 4 (1).	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	Substitute the words "twenty-five" for the word "two" appearing in sub-clause 4 (1).	Do.

Clause	Amendment	Name of the mover
Clause 4 ..	Section 4 (1).—Omit "or survivorship" and "or to any moveable property without the Presidency of Bombay" and add after the word "on" and before the word "such" the following :— "the net market value, exclusive of all debts and liabilities of".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
" ..	Add the following words at the end of clause 4 :— "while calculating such duty the amount of any incumbrance on the aforesaid property shall be deducted from the valuation thereof."	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	In (b) of clause 4 substitute "one-fifth" for "one-half".	Do.
" ..	Section 4 (1) (b).—In the last line instead of "one-half" substitute "one-fifth".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
" ..	Section 4 (1) (c).—Recast as under :— "Where the property on which the duty is leviable is agricultural land, the duty leviable shall be wholly remitted."	Do.
" ..	In (c) of clause 4, substitute "one-tenth" for "one-fourth".	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	In (d) of clause 4, substitute "ten years" for "five years" and "ten years" for "one year" in "where the second death..... .....fifty per cent." and after this omit the rest of (d) of clause 4.	Do.
" ..	Section 4 (1) (d).—Replace the words "50 per cent.", "40 per cent.", "30 per cent.", "20 per cent.", and "10 per cent.", by "80 per cent.", "70 per cent.", "60 per cent.", "50 per cent.", and "40 per cent.", respectively.	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
" ..	Section 4 (1) (f).—Drop the words "Joint Hindu family" (wherever they occur) and replace "the same son.....from the family" by "any one member".	Do.
" ..	In (f) of clause 4 omit the words "within eighteen years.....from the family".	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	Substitute the following for (2) of clause 4 :— "Any property in the Presidency of Bombay transferred either by sale or gift after the commencement of this Act shall be exempt from the payment of succession duty and if the Collector is of opinion that such transfer by sale was not a transfer for valuable consideration the said duty shall be leviable as if such transfer had not taken place and shall be payable by the transferee of such property at the rate specified in schedule I if the value exceeds twenty-five thousand rupees."	Do.

Clause	Amendment	Name of the mover
Clause 4 ..	Section 4 (2).—Recast as under :— "If any transfer of property in Presidency of Bombay, by way of sale or gift made after the passing of this Act, within three months of the death of transferor, is found to be not a bona fide transaction, but only in order to avoid payment of duty, the said duty shall be payable as if such transfer had not taken place, provided the value of the property so transferred exceeds Rs. 2,000."	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
" ..	Section 4 (2).—In line 4 in place of the "Collector" substitute "Judicial officer of the rank of a first class sub-judge."	Do.
" ..	Section 4 (2).—And in line 8 after the first word "duty" add "the burden of proving which shall be on him."	Do.
Clause 5 ..	Section 5.—Delete the whole ..	Do.
" ..	For clause 5, the following shall be substituted, namely :—	The Hon'ble Sir Govindrao Pradhan.
	Cl. 16 & 17 Vict. c. 51, s. 20. Succession duty when payable. "5. The succession duty on property devolving under a will or by inheritance or succession shall be payable at the time when the person entitled thereto by such devolution becomes entitled in possession, and the succession duty on property devolving by survivorship shall be payable on the death of the deceased coparcener by the person entitled thereto. Provided that, if there be any prior charge or interest upon or in the property not created by such person himself by reason whereof he is not at once entitled to the full enjoyment or value thereof, the succession duty in respect of the increased value accruing upon the determination of such prior charge or interest, if not previously paid or compounded or commuted, shall be payable at the time of the aforesaid determination."
" ..	In (c) of clause 5 omit "or survivorship" ..	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	For the words in lines 4 and 5 "becomes entitled in possession", substitute the words "gets possession thereof". At the end add the words "vice versa".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 6 ..	Delete the whole section ..	Do.
" ..	Omit "or copartners" ..	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 7 ..	In (1) of clause 7, omit "or survivorship" ..	Do.
" ..	Section 7 (1).—Delete the words "or survivorship."	Dr. M. K. Dixit.

Clause	Amendment	Name of the mover
Clause 7 ..	Section 7 (2).—Line 7, in place of "Collector" put "Judicial Officer".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
,, ..	In line 8, after the word "satisfied" add "for reasons to be fully satisfied".	Do.
Clause 8 ..	In (1) of clause 8, omit "or survivorship" ..	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
,, ..	Section 8 (1).—Delete "or survivorship" ..	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
,, ..	Section 8 (2): Delete ..	Do.
,, ..	Section 8 (2).—Delete and substitute "No order must be passed to the prejudice of any person till he has been heard in his defence on a notice duly served on him."	Do.
,, ..	Section 8 (3) and the proviso: Delete both ..	Do.
,, ..	In (3) of clause 8 substitute "ninety days" for "thirty days" and in the proviso substitute "ninety days" for "thirty days" and omit "and that any....unreasonable".	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 9 ..	Delete the section	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 10 ..	Delete the words "or survivorship" wherever they occur.	Do.
,, ..	Omit "or survivorship" wherever this appears in clause 10.	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 12 ..	After the word "thereof" in the last line, add "within one month from the date of the officer being satisfied, and on refusal the person entitled to the refund should have right of appeal to the District Judge."	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 13 ..	Delete the words "the collector....etc." to the end; and substitute "the assessable value of such other property shall be computed and allowance made accordingly to the person relinquishing or who has been deprived."	Do.
Clause 16 ..	Section 16 (1).—Drop "or member of a Hindu joint family" and drop from "every person in whom....in possession" (last 4 lines).	Do.
,, ..	Amendment to (1) of clause 16.—Omit "or member of a joint Hindu family".	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 17 ..	Section 17 (1).—Delete the word "claims"; and in line 3 "or is accountable for such property".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
,, ..	In lines 6 to the end delete the words from "or if such property....for gain". Substitute "or to the judge having jurisdiction in the place in which he resides or carries on business or personally works for gain."	Do.
Clause 18 ..	Section 18 (2).—Substitute "and" for "or"..	Do.
,, ..	Section 18 (5).—Delete and substitute "The deciding officer shall give reasons in writing of his decision whatever it may be."	Do.

Clause	Amendment	Name of the mover
Clause 19 ..	Substitute "three months" for "one month"	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 20 ..	After the word "exceeding" and before the words "the amount" put "one-twenty-fifth".	Do.
" ..	Between the words "not exceeding" and "the amount" insert the words "one-fourth". At the end insert the words "but not actually paid".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 22 ..	Section 22 (1).—Drop the words "if such property is moveable property situated outside the Presidency of Bombay, then".	Do.
" ..	Also delete proviso to section 22 (1) ..	Do.
" ..	Amendment to (2) of clause 22. Substitute "ninety days" for "thirty days" and omit the words "and that any subsequent delay....unreasonable".	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
Clause 23 ..	Section 23 (1).—Drop the words "and issue notice to the Collector to that effect and".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
" ..	Section 23 (3).—At the end of the clause add "and shall give in writing reasons of his decision whatever it may be".	Do.
Clause 27 ..	Section 27 (1).—Delete "In the Presidency of Bombay" and "as amended by the Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act of 1931".	Do.
" ..	Instead of the words "such fee" substitute "any court fee".	Do.
" ..	Section 27 (1).—Delete the words in last two lines from "except" to "High Court".	Do.
" ..	Section 27 (2).—Delete the sub-clause ..	Do.
Clause 28 ..	Delete in lines 3 to 7 the words from "within .....to notice or order" and substitute the following:— "within two months of the date of service of notice upon him".	Do.
Clause 29 ..	Amendment to (1) of clause 29.—Substitute "six per cent." for "twenty-four per cent."	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
" ..	Instead of "twenty-four" substitute "nine".	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 31 ..	Delete the words "a person holding a power of attorney in this behalf" and substitute "a recognised agent as defined by the Civil Procedure Code."	Do.
Clause 34 ..	Delete the words "either by post or" ..	Do.
Clause 35 ..	Add at the end:— "if it has not been paid before."	Do.

Clause	Amendment	Name of the mover
Clause 36 ..	Delete ..	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Clause 37 ..	Amendment to (3) and (4) of clause 37.—In (3) of clause 37 add the following words at the end—"after they are sanctioned by the Bombay Legislative Council and that they shall not be liable to be rescinded or modified except by a vote of the said Council."	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
„ ..	Omit (4) of clause 37 ..	Do.
Schedule I ..	Amendment to Schedule I.—Substitute the following for Schedule (1) :— See Section 4 (1) Rates of Succession Duty When the aggregate amount or value of the property, income or interest in respect of which succession duty is payable exceeds twenty-five thousand rupees on the part of the amount or value in excess of twenty-five thousand rupees up to fifty thousand rupees.. .. One per centum. When such amount or value exceeds fifty thousand rupees, on the part of the amount or value in excess of fifty thousand up to one lakh of rupees.. ..Two per centum. When such amount or value exceeds one lakh of rupees, on the part of the amount or value in excess of one lakh of rupees .. Three per centum	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.
..	Schedule I.—Add— "Note.—The aggregate value shall be exclusive of all debts, charges, incumbrances and funeral expenses, which are exempted from duty payable for probate or letters of administration."	Dr. M. K. Dixit.
Schedule III ..	Amendment to (2) of Schedule III.—Substitute "ninety days" for "thirty days."	Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil.

Monday, the 30th November 1931.

The Council met at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Monday, the 30th November 1931, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ALLISON, Mr. F. W.
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BAKHALE, Mr. R. R.
BALOCH, Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHIKODI, Mr. P. R.
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COLLINS, Mr. G. F. S.
COOKE, Mr. G. H.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DESAI, Mr. S. B.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GARRETT, Mr. J. H.
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOKHALE, Mr. L. R.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JAM JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JAYAKAR, Mr. M. S.

JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KANGA, Sir JAMSHEDJI B.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KIRKE-SMITH, Mr. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
LELY, Mr. W. G.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
MAXWELL, Mr. R. M.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAMDEORAO BUDHAJIRAO, Mr.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable MOULVI
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SAHEBSINHJI JUVANSINHJI, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHAIKH YAKUB VAZIR MAHOMED, Khan Bahadur

SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WILES, Mr. G.

NEW MEMBERS SWORN.

The following members made the prescribed oath or affirmation of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor, and took their seats in the Council:

1. Mr. G. S. Gangoli,
2. Mr. R. R. Haddow,
3. Mr. E. W. Perry, C.I.E., I.C.S.
4. Mr. M. S. Jayakar,
5. Mr. C. M. Lane,
6. Mr. R. M. Maxwell, C.I.E., I.C.S.
7. Mr. F. W. Allison, I.C.S.
8. Mr. A. W. W. Mackie, I.C.S.
9. Mr. F. O. J. Roose,
10. Sir Jamshedji Behramji Kanga, Kt.
11. Mr. A. Kirke-Smith.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. It is, unfortunately, my first and painful duty to call a member to order. No sticks are allowed in the House.

[Khan Bahadur Shaikh Yakub Vazir Mahomed then removed his stick from the Council Chamber.]

NOMINATION OF CHAIRMEN OF COUNCIL.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I have now to announce the names of four Chairmen for the session. I appoint:

1. Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale,
2. Rao Bahadur R. S. Asavale,
3. Mr. M. M. Karbhari, and
4. Mr. Haji Ibrahim Jitekar.

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S ASSENT TO ACTS.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have now to announce the Acts which have received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General since the close of the last session :

1. An Act further to amend the Bombay Hereditary Offices Act, 1874.
2. An Act further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890.
3. An Act further to amend the Bombay Municipal Act, 1888.
4. An Act further to amend the Bombay Pleaders Act, 1920.
5. An Act to amend the Karachi Rent Restriction Act, 1929.
6. An Act further to amend the Bombay Prevention of Prostitution Act, 1923.
7. An Act further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, and the City of Bombay Improvement Trust Transfer Act, 1925.

Order, order. His Excellency is due to arrive here at 2-25 p.m., and there are quite fifteen minutes to that. Either the House adjourns and I proceed to receive His Excellency, or the House proceeds with a portion of the list of questions for to-day. I would leave it to the House.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : The questions might be taken up, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Very well ; we will go on with the questions for about ten minutes.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

COLLECTORATE OF SATARA : SCHEDULED POSTS ALLOTTED FOR REVENUE OFFICES.

*Mr. A. B. ACHREKAR (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of the scheduled posts allotted for the revenue offices under the Collectorate of Satara ;

(b) whether the different communities are properly represented in the holding of these scheduled posts ;

(c) the number of these posts held by persons belonging to the forward and backward communities respectively ;

(d) the percentage as regards the actual holding of these posts in relation to the numerical strength of these two classes ;

(e) whether there are two separate lists, one for the forwards and the other for the backwards, maintained by the Collector of Satara, so as to facilitate the desired recruitment from the backward communities so far as these posts are concerned ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) 26.

(b) and (c) The posts are held as follows:—

	Advanced classes.		Backward classes.
Brahmins	.. 14	Marathas	.. 4
Christian	.. 1	Mali	.. 1
Sonar	.. 1	Jain	.. 1
		Gujar	.. 1
		Nhavi	.. 1
		Mussalman	.. 2
	16		10

(d) The proportion of holders of scheduled posts to the male population of the two classes in the district is as shown below:—

Advanced classes .. ·075 per cent.
Backward classes .. ·002 per cent.

(e) Separate lists are maintained for recruitment to the subordinate revenue service but not for promotion to scheduled posts.

MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION OF KARACHI CITY.

*Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the articles appearing in the issues of the daily Alwahid, Karachi, dated the 18th, 19th and 21st December 1930, regarding the municipal administration of Karachi City;

(b) whether they have made inquiries into the matter, and, if so, with what result?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. Most of the allegations made in the articles of the Alwahid, Karachi, pertain to questions of grants of lands by the Karachi Municipality. Government do not think that any action is called for, as in every case of disposal of land the sanction of the Commissioner in Sind is required under section 40 of District Municipal Act and before giving such sanction he takes care to see that no injustice is done to any community. Allegation has also been made that in making appointments to posts in the municipal service favouritism is shown to Hindus. The allegations do not appear to be true. Appointments are made in accordance with the prescribed rules regarding qualifications. Preference is given to men who have previously worked in the Municipality. If such men are not available the President of the Karachi Municipality has issued instructions to the Municipal Executive Officers that if Muslims of the requisite qualifications are forthcoming, they should be given preference in future, as vacancies occur. Copies of the letters of the President of the Municipality dated December 23, 1930, and May 1, 1931, are laid on the table.

KARACHI MUNICIPALITY.

Municipal Office, McLeod Road,
Karachi, 23rd December 1930.

The Collector of Karachi, Karachi.

Sir,

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. CDC 1003, dated the 18th December 1930, and in reply beg to inform you that there is not an atom of truth in the statements made in these applications.

With the fullest sympathy to help and guide them I had tried my patience to the utmost extent and up to now I have not lost my patience with them. To me now it appears that these are all mere excuses to withdraw as they have possibly changed their minds. But they are giving out an appearance of a grievance and complaint in which there is not the slightest truth. The facts are as under :—

The Municipality resolved to leave aside a certain portion of land for the use of the Co-operative Housing Societies under their existing rules. The rules are very clear that applications should be invited and if there are more applicants than one for a plot lots should be taken out. Applications were invited by sending letters to each and every registered co-operative society and seven of them applied for plots. The total area applied for was 390,000 square yards more than the available land which was 290,000 only. I convened the meeting of the representatives of these housing societies and for at least three weeks tried to bring them round by amicable settlement. Whatever proposal I made to them did not find favour from one or another and had to be dropped. Each society wanted nearest plot for themselves. The claim of the Borah and Muslim Housing Societies was that as the other housing societies had got plots before them they should now be given preference. Whatever be my personal views in these matters, the rules were there and I could not go beyond them. It was impossible to accept such a request. I found from the very beginning that the matter was taking communal tension and I tried to avoid it as far as possible. When an amicable settlement ultimately failed there was no other alternative for me but to suggest that lots would be drawn but as the area applied for was much larger than the area of land to be given each society would be given 60 per cent. of the land applied for. Immediately I resolved to do so according to rules and according to the common-sense point of view. The Borah and Muslim Societies each in their applications have asked for extra lands in order to get more allotment than 60 per cent. Such applications were received after the original date of application and so I rejected them. A particular date was given to each society to apply and each society applied according to their requirements. If the allotments came to 60 per cent. I could not accept the applications for more land afterwards. You will thus see that I have acted absolutely impartially. If I had accepted the applications from the Borah and Muslim Societies I would have to accept from other societies also and there would be no end to it, if I had allowed it. Having fixed 60 per cent. for each society I decided upon a date on which allotment would be made by lots. I first called a meeting to decide upon the method of dividing by lots and it took two weeks again. Notwithstanding my earnest appeal and very patient letters to all of these societies they did not turn up. In fact they evaded receiving letters which could be easily seen from the records and files. These are facts which I can state with definiteness. I am not making a complaint of this. As I have written above I have been patiently waiting and I am still in the interest of the co-operative societies and Housing Development of the City of Karachi for which I am very anxious. Again I convened a meeting for drawing lots.

Two societies were not represented. I postponed the meeting to another two weeks. At last when I found that the representatives of these societies would not turn up I decided upon a particular date and drew lots. The system of drawing lots was as under :—

Seven slips were put in a revolving ballot box and each slip was taken out turn by turn with the name of each society and each was to get a privilege of selecting the plot by turn as the slip came out from the ballot box. The ballot turned out to be as under :—

First—the Shewani Housing Society.

Second—the Hyderabad Amil Housing Society.

Third—Upper Sind Housing Society.

Fourth—the Tata Amil Housing Society.

Fifth—the Muslim Housing Society.

Sixth—the Borah Housing Society.

Seventh—the Roman Catholic Housing Society.

I wrote letters appealing to them to come and select the plots. I suggested to them that each plot has advantages and disadvantages and therefore whatever plot was selected would have almost equal facilities and considering the several road connections which were being contemplated the plots would not be far too away as was thought. But to my appeals there was no effect.

Again having patiently waited for two weeks I convened a meeting of the representatives of the societies and the plots were allotted according to the lots. The Tata Amil Societies withdrew their selection. The Borah and Muslim Societies did not send representatives. I therefore allowed the other societies to select their plots according to their turn. It was pointed out to me that because the Borah and Muslim Societies had withdrawn definitely quota of other societies should be increased proportionately but again with a desire to have patience I did not do so and I allowed each society to select land up to the original quota, thus reserved a large area of land for the Borah and Muslim Societies if they cared to take it. You will thus see that in this matter utmost patience and sympathy has been shown and I am certain that if the files are gone through no fair-minded person will say that the Municipality has behaved unfairly to the slightest degree with these societies.

I do admit that the nearest land was not given to them as they wanted but this was not possible under the rules which have been passed by the Corporation and sanctioned by the Government. I also again repeat that the plots as divided are all in a favourable situation and there would have been hardly one or two minutes difference between one plot and another, if any one wanted to walk out the whole area. But where there is a particular sentiment I have no authority to go into the same as I have to be guided by rules laid down.

I have, etc,

(Signed) JAMSHED N. R. MEHTA,

President.

KARACHI MUNICIPALITY.

Reference No. G. 33/2/31.

MUNICIPAL OFFICE,

Karachi, 1st May 1931.

To

The Collector of Karachi, Karachi.

Subject.—Municipal Administration of Karachi City.

Sir,

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 8693-G, dated 12th ultimo, on the above subject, and in reply beg to inform you that the facts on the various allegations are briefly as under:—

(1) Maidan adjoining Idgah on Bunder Road.—This maidan is a very valuable property of the Municipality in the centre of the City. The general opinion of the Municipality has always been that as the Idgah or a portion of it is only used once in a year by Muslims for the purpose of prayers, on the Id day, they cannot afford to give away a property worth 4 lakhs for Idgah prayers.

(2) Plot in Alli Buddha lane.—The Municipality did not accept this proposal as there was a Musjid nearby.

(3) Plot in Nawabad.—This matter is still under the consideration of the Municipality and as soon as the alignment of the whole locality is fixed, the decision will be arrived at.

(4) Britto Road for Muslim Housing Society.—It is true that the Municipality has received an application for these plots from the Muslim Co-operative Housing Society but there are several similar applications received from the various housing societies for the same purpose and under the Municipal Rules governing the grant of land, a certain prescribed procedure has to be followed and thus the plots cannot be exclusively granted to only one housing society.

(5) Plot for Ladies' Association.—A large central plot has already been proposed for this association and this matter is under consideration as similar application has been received from such other association and other communities and I am trying to find out a way out of it. The matter is not yet closed.

(6) Plot for Physical Culture Society.—The Municipality did not accept this application but it had nothing to do with the Muslims as a community as it was a cosmopolitan society and it was intended to be used by all irrespective of caste and creed.

As regards appointments in the Municipal service and other matters in general, I have fully explained the whole matter in my previous letter No. 33/2/31, dated 23rd February 1931.

I have, etc.,

(Signed) JAMSHED N. R. MEHTA,
President,
Karachi Municipality.

WATER SUPPLY: EXPENDITURE.

*Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state the expenditure incurred by Government on water supply, drainage and boring works in Sind and the Presidency proper separately for the three years ending March 1930?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The accompanying statement giving the requisite information is placed on the Council table.

Statement showing the expenditure incurred on water supply, drainage and boring works during the three years ending March 1930.

Year	Water supply		Drainage		Boring works
	Presidency proper	Sind	Presidency proper	Sind	Presidency proper	Sind
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1927-28	8,08,043	24,332	4,41,690	7,520	2,17,098	962
1928-29	7,04,703	32,075	5,24,466	365	2,02,009	3,837
1929-30	7,53,661	72,487	4,91,676	144	1,53,592	2,006

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: With reference to the statement printed in answer to the question, will the Honourable the Minister be pleased to state why such a niggardly treatment has been meted out to Sind as compared with the Presidency proper as regards all the three items of water supply, drainage and boring works?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The difference between the amounts spent in the Presidency proper and those spent in Sind is due to the fact that the local bodies themselves have to finance all these development schemes and that Government only pay percentage charges which come to about 28 per cent. Why in Sind large amounts have not been spent on water supply and drainage schemes is because the local bodies in Sind have not asked for any schemes and so they have not been able to finance them. It is not because Government discriminate between Sind and the Presidency proper.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: Will Government be prepared to spend more money on drainage schemes in Sind if such schemes are put forward by the local bodies in Sind?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is hypothetical.

CIVIL HOSPITAL, KARACHI: MILK AND BUTTER SUPPLY.

*Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): (1) Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many tenders were received for milk and butter supply at the Civil Hospital, Karachi, for the current year;

(b) the names of the tenderers;

(c) the prices quoted by each of them;

(d) the name of the tenderer whose tender was accepted;

(e) the reason for accepting the highest or higher tender rather than the lowest;

(f) the amount of milk and butter used during the months of April and May;

(g) the amount paid or billed for the same;

(h) the amount that would have been saved during the two months and the year had the lowest tender been accepted?

(2) Is it a fact that the system followed in the previous years was to compel the contractor to milk his cows in the hospital compound under the supervision of hospital authorities?

(3) Is it a fact that this system is not observed with the present contractor?

(4) Is it a fact that the contractor boils his milk before he delivers it to the hospital; if so, have any arrangements been made to inspect the contractor's vessels and utensils?

(5) Is it a fact that the milk is reboiled at the time of serving and thus gets reduced in food value?

(6) Is it a fact that the contractor had utilised the services of the President of the Karachi European Association to secure the contract?

(7) Is it a fact that Government has made a cut of 21 per cent. in the budget for diet?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (1) (a) to (d)

(a)	(b)	(c)		(d)
		Butter per lb.	Milk per lb.
		Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
1	Y. Jaffarji & Sons ..	0 14 0	0 1 7
2	Haji Imamdin	1 0 0	0 1 6	English Dairy Farm Co.
3	Akbarali Hasanali ..	0 14 0	0 1 5
4	Gangji Khatao	0 14 0	0 1 2
5	Hiralal Gopal	1 0 0	0 1 6
6	Abdulwahid Abdulkadir ..	1 1 0	0 1 8
7	English Dairy Farm Co. ..	1 2 0	0 2 0
8	Pitambardas Karsandas ..	1 0 0	0 0 11½
9	Alimahomedkhan Nabidadkhan	0 15 0	0 1 5

(e) The tender was accepted because it secured the supply of pasteurised milk which has many advantages for hospital purposes and furthermore it relieved the hospital of the cost of boiling the milk.

(f) to (h)

Month	(f)		(g)	(h)
	Butter	Milk
	lbs.	lbs.	Rs.	Rs.
April ..	94/7	12,128/6	1,622	1,572 (saving during 2 months).
May ..	54	11,747	1,529	9,432 (saving during the year if the consumption continues at this rate).

(2) Yes.

(3) Yes: because he supplies pasteurised milk.

(4) The milk is pasteurised by the contractor except during a few days in the hot weather when the milk did not keep fresh during the night and the contractor had to deliver boiled milk. The hospital authorities inspect the apparatus for pasteurisation and the boiling cauldrons occasionally.

(5) No.

(6) No.

(7) A provisional cut of 20 per cent. was made in the grant for diets.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: I see from the printed answer that the lowest tender was 11½ pies per lb. of milk and annas fourteen per lb. of butter and yet the contract was given to a tenderer whose rates were considerably higher (i.e., 24 pies per lb. of milk and Rs. 1-2-0 per lb. of butter) with the result that there was an increase of about Rs. 10,000 in the cost of milk and butter supplied by the successful contractor. What explanation has the Honourable Minister to give of this?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The difference is due obviously to the quality of the milk which is supplied. As the honourable member will admit, the very best milk is always required for hospital consumption.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: I wish to ask whether the form of tender did not contain any condition that the very best pasteurised milk only should be supplied?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: One was for pasteurised milk and the others were for ordinary milk. Government have moreover to see that the party tendering is a responsible party which can be trusted to carry out the terms and the conditions of the contract, and therefore it does not mean always that the man who tenders the lowest should get the contract.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Was there any condition in the tender that a particular quality of milk was to be supplied?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: How does that arise?

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Were the tenders invited with different specifications with different rates for both pasteurised and ordinary milk?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I am not in a position to reply to that question offhand, but it makes no difference, because the English Dairy Farm Company offered to supply pasteurised milk whereas the others tendered only for ordinary milk.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: Will the Honourable Minister be pleased to give us an idea of how much it costs to pasteurise a pound of milk and to boil a pound of milk ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I myself am not an expert in dairying, but I can say that pasteurisation is not done by mere boiling but regular machinery has to be used for pasteurising milk, and it is more than I can say what difference there is in the costs of the two processes.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: The Honourable Minister has told us that the successful contractor supplies a good quality of milk. I wish to ask whether the other tenderers were not in a position to carry out the conditions, if any were laid down, as regards supplying pasteurised milk. Is this what the Honourable Minister wishes to convey ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I do not know what method was followed in issuing the tenders, but I do not think that Government issues different forms of tender to different people. Either the terms are advertised or published and anybody is free to tender.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: If Government wanted superior milk, why was not this fact made known to the other unsuccessful tenderers also ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I have replied to all points already.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: The Honourable Minister says that in giving the tenders the quality of milk was taken into consideration. Will he be pleased to state whether the milk supplied by the different people was analysed and in what way it differed from the milk tendered by the English Dairy Farm Company ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I said that I am not in a position to say what method was followed and if the honourable member wants an answer to that question, I shall be glad get the information if he will give me notice.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: That question arises out of the Honourable Minister's own reply.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The questions put to the Honourable Minister all bear on one point that there is a difference in the rates and the Honourable Minister justified the highest rate by saying that the milk was pasteurised milk. Honourable members are therefore justified in asking now as to the principle on which the other rates were accepted.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: Obviously the different samples of milk must be analysed and put to a test, because otherwise how can the party accepting the tender find that particular milk supplied by a particular firm is superior to the milk supplied by the other tenderers ?

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : I see that a reduction has been made in the expenditure on the food of patients. Was there no other head under which the reduction could have been made in preference to the patients' diets ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : The Surgeon General was instructed to reduce the diet grant by 10 per cent. on the whole and it was left to the Surgeon General's discretion to distribute it. Therefore, it may be 15 per cent. in one place and it may be 10 per cent. in the other.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I adjourn the House till His Excellency arrives.

(The House re-assembled at 2-25 p.m.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. His Excellency will be pleased to address the House.

ADDRESS BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR TO THE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Rising to address the Council, HIS EXCELLENCY said :—

Mr. President and Gentlemen, let me begin by saying how glad I am to be back again in Bombay after my enforced sick leave, and how grateful I am for the innumerable expressions I have received since my return of kindly welcome and good wishes. During my absence I regret to say that, in the financial sphere at any rate, things have moved fast, and unfortunately in the wrong direction. The financial crisis has developed with alarming rapidity since I addressed you last in February. As my Honourable Colleague, the Finance Member, is shortly to deliver before you a speech which will give you a full statement of the facts and figures of our position, I do not propose now to go into details. It will suffice for my purpose if I say that our financial situation, which even before was bad, has now become one of the greatest difficulty, which can only be set right by a strenuous effort on the part of us all to face the disagreeable necessities of the situation and unite in the stern determined struggle needed to win our way out of the financial morass. Let me assure you at once, however, that I see no ground for panic or excessive pessimism. The conditions are certainly very serious, but on the whole my impression is that England and India are probably rather less badly off than most other countries of the world.

It is customary for politicians of a certain school of thought to lay all the blame for any difficulties that beset the path of the Presidency on the broad shoulders of the Government. But I do not think that even our most determined critics, if they pause to think for a moment, can maintain that we are to blame for our present position. The catastrophic fall in prices has hit all countries alike. Even those who are accepted as financial experts find it difficult to give an adequate explanation of the world situation ; and the chief feature of their pronouncements appears to be the unanimity with which they differ from one another.

You have seen Australia compelled to adopt a policy of rigid economy and retrenchment which, in addition to being radically opposed to the ideas of the Labour Government which was in power, must have an effect that is temporarily paralysing to her progress. You have more recently seen England faced with an unparalleled financial crisis and compelled to abandon temporarily her Party system of Government in favour of a united national effort to save herself from collapse—an effort again accompanied by the adoption of a policy of the most rigid economy and crushing taxation, affecting all classes alike from the highest to the lowest. You can see Germany governed entirely by a series of emergency decrees involving a virtual suspension of the Constitution. Even so it would be a bold man who would say that the financial position of Germany is safe, or even safe enough to avoid serious political repercussions as the result of its probable future developments. The condition of Central Europe is such that it is likely to prove a seriously retarding factor in the progress of the rest of the world towards recovery. The United States of America is entering on its third year of depression, and her financial difficulties are still increasing. Under modern world conditions all countries are so closely linked together that, when difficulties of this magnitude have come upon so many other States, we cannot expect to be free from them in India. Here, moreover, our financial difficulties have been increased by the political troubles of the last year, and I need not point out to you how much the civil disobedience movement has cost us both in increased expenditure and reduced revenues.

Great, however, as are our difficulties, and due in part to world conditions rather than to any fault of our own, it is to our own efforts that we must look to overcome them. Such efforts are not beyond our capacity. I shall now endeavour to show how Government have made, and are making, their contribution, and how they look to you to support their efforts. Some of you may consider perhaps that our difficulties are temporary and could be met by raising a loan, but this is the very policy that has brought Australia and England to the brink of disaster and made necessary the tremendous efforts that they have had to make to pull themselves together and arrest their downward career. The impossibility of meeting our difficulties by raising further loans has been fully dealt with in the Review of the Financial Position of the Presidency prepared by the Finance Department. This point will be further dealt with by my Honourable Colleague in his speech to you, so I need not go into greater detail; but I would urge upon you that what we all want, I am sure, is an honest attempt to face the facts of the situation and to realise that a policy of drift may not only result in an indefinite prolongation of the depression, but in making our recovery so difficult as to be almost impossible. Others among you no doubt will feel that the remedy is to be sought in retrenchment, and in this I can say that within practical limits my Government entirely agree.

Although the Retrenchment Committee have now concluded their labours, we have not, until to-day, had the advantage of seeing their final report, but we have been able to keep in touch with their recommendations and have taken full advantage thereof to include from time to time in our own programme of retrenchment some items which they were able to indicate to us. Here I should like to express the thanks of myself and my Government to the Chairman and Members of this Committee for their arduous and devoted labours. I very much regret that we were unable to extend the period of their session as they wished us to do, but I am afraid that it has been found necessary to have their report in our hands by the end of this month in order to get the full benefit of their recommendations in time to be of use to us in framing our next Budget.

The difficulties of enforcing retrenchment on a scale adequate to our present troubles are especially great in view of the fact that we are not given a fair start in dealing with this crisis. We have, as you know, for several years past been constantly pruning and paring all excrescences on our expenditure, and the present necessity for retrenchment finds us with our superfluities cut off already, compelled now to attack not luxuries but necessities, and, indeed, frequently in danger of actually reducing the efficiency of our revenue-collecting departments if we go the least bit too far. In the Police and Jail Departments we have practically been precluded from making any serious economies by the additional strain that has been put upon these departments by the civil disobedience movement last year, and I regret to say that even now the political situation is so uncertain that we have found ourselves unable to contemplate any further reduction of the additional police which we raised to deal with the movement. All we have been able to do in these departments, therefore, is to order a cessation of all new projects and major works. That this has involved a very serious sacrifice will, I think, be obvious to any of you who have taken an interest in the Police Force of our Presidency, to which we owe so much, and who know how urgent is the need of improvement in various directions, such as housing, re-arming and training in modern scientific methods.

I greatly regret that the pruning knife has already had to be applied to Education. In last year's Budget, as honourable members will recollect, we found it necessary to reduce the Educational expenditure by 8 lakhs, with the result that grants to local authorities were subjected to a cut of 5 per cent. I am very glad to have this opportunity of acknowledging the efforts made both by the Educational Department and the local authorities in carrying on their work under these conditions with the least possible sacrifice of efficiency.

Another direction in which I particularly regret the necessity for economy is in the Medical Department. A 10 per cent. cut in grants for diet and medicine has had to be imposed. I am sorry to see that this decision of my Government has been widely misunderstood, and I am glad to have the opportunity of explaining that it does not mean that we have reduced the actual diets given to patients by 10 per cent. What has been done is to reduce the amount provided to each hospital for the supply of diet and medicine by 10 per cent. It was recognised, of course, that this might involve reducing the number of patients admitted, for no reduction in the actual amount provided to each patient was contemplated. But it was also felt that there was a certain wastage in the expenditure of these grants, and that a determined effort to avoid such waste in future would go some way to compensate for the amount of the cut. We are also, however, doing our best to see that the amount so retrenched is replaced by private contributions. Committees of officials and non-officials have been formed to collect funds for hospitals in mofussil towns, and I am glad to say that reports are being received that their efforts are meeting with considerable success. Bombay City has hitherto absorbed a share of our total expenditure on medical relief which it has been found too high to maintain under our present strained conditions. It has therefore become necessary to close down the Ellappa Balaram Pavilion at the Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy Hospital, the Prince of Wales Ward of 80 beds at the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, and the Surgical Extension Ward at the Cama and Albless Hospitals. In Bombay City, also, a committee has been appointed to collect funds to supplement the allotment for diets and other supplies in the hospitals in the City. I am sure that you will all agree with me that our best thanks are due to the members of these committees who have put their services at our disposal.

I would also commend to your notice in this connection that, through the good offices of the Western India Turf Club, it has been arranged to have an extra day's racing in Bombay this season and to devote the profits thereof to hospitals in Bombay and Poona. Government have agreed to credit the whole proceeds of the taxes collected on this day under the Entertainments Duty Act and the Totalisator and Betting Act to the same object.

In spite, however, of what has been done in the past in all departments, we have not shrunk from further effort, and my Government has already decided upon a programme of retrenchment to be introduced in the next Budget. It is not, of course, possible at this stage to give you definite figures, but I hope that the total savings may amount to approximately one crore of rupees. This includes both what we have done at the suggestion of the Retrenchment Committee and what we have adopted on our own initiative. One item that will, I imagine, arouse special interest is the abandonment of the move of Government to Mahableshwar. In the Government House budget I have agreed to retrenchments on a scale of 16 per cent. which I hope will save over 1½ lakhs. [Applause.] I hope these two items will provide an effective answer to the criticism frequently levelled against us that all retrenchments we adopt affect only the lowest grades of Government servants, and as a further answer to this criticism I may say that I am making a special examination of the possibility of reducing the size of the joint Council. This is a policy which has frequently been suggested before, and has been included by the Retrenchment Committee in their recommendations, but it may be noted that it has not been attempted in any other Presidency. I fear it would involve some sacrifice in efficiency, and it presents other difficulties that require and will receive the most careful examination.

Another suggestion that has been constantly pressed upon us and which we have now adopted is a general cut in salaries; but in this connection I feel that a word of warning is necessary. The great attraction of Government service has always been security of tenure and of emoluments. Government servants do not expect the substantial remuneration that falls to the lot of those in other professions in good times, but as a countervailing advantage they expect to be free from the danger of reduction when times are bad. The financial crisis that has overwhelmed us has been so severe that I feel sure the Services will loyally accept a departure from this principle on the present occasion, but if they are to do so they must be satisfied that they have been fairly treated, and that everybody else is bearing their share equally in the sacrifice required. Our services have always had a reputation for the conscientious and efficient discharge of the very onerous duties that fall upon them, and in particular our Police during the last two years have earned a world-wide reputation for staunchness in the face of great difficulties. The development of a Service to this pitch of efficiency can only be the result of the growth of tradition over a long period of time, but its morale can be quickly lowered by treatment which is even in the least degree unfair. I would ask you therefore, Gentlemen, to tread warily in this direction. I am sure that none of you would contemplate with equanimity any serious decline in the efficiency and morale of our Services such as would ensue if they got the idea that they were being sacrificed to political pressure.

I have myself accepted a 10 per cent. cut in salary on a voluntary basis [Cheers] and I take this opportunity of thanking the Members of the Executive Council and Ministers for having done the same.

The adoption of this policy of retrenchment has naturally involved the abandonment of all new works and all development. We have, however, felt bound to make one exception to this policy. The present unfortunate and helpless position of the depressed classes has appeared to us to call so insistently for some ameliorative effort on the part of my Government that we have made provision for the expenditure of a sum—lamentably small I am afraid—for this deserving object.

I have attempted to indicate to you the efforts which my Government on their part have made, and are continuing to make, to meet the financial crisis. Seeing that we have already decided on cuts which will amount to such a considerable proportion of our budgetted expenditure, I hope, Gentlemen, you will not consider my request unreasonable if I ask you to help in such directions as are in your power. As you know, you have been called together for this special session in order to have presented to you the Succession Duties Bill, and I ask you to give it your most careful consideration. All taxation is bound to be unpopular, and the principle of this Bill being new to India, will no doubt meet with specially severe criticism on that account. The principle, however, is one that has been approved by many economic thinkers both in India and elsewhere. A similar law has been in force in England for many years, and, although it met with considerable criticism at the start, and still meets with some opposition to its details and to the scale on which taxation is imposed under it, I think I may safely say that it is now accepted as a part of the normal taxation of the country and its abolition has never even been seriously suggested. I commend it to you particularly as a carefully considered effort to broaden the basis of our taxation, and, in addition to dealing with the present financial crisis, to provide in future a source of revenue which may reasonably be expected to develop pari passu with our general progress and to overcome the difficulty with which we have been faced in this Presidency even before the present economic crisis of stagnant revenues and growing calls upon our purse.

Gentlemen, I will end as I began. The international situation continues to be very obscure and there are serious difficulties which call for wise and resourceful statesmanship to overcome them. As to our own financial situation, I think few of you will dispute the contention that our position is difficult in the extreme and calls for united effort and a vigorous application of drastic remedies. I ask you to join with me and my colleagues in strenuous determination to set our financial house in order and to use your great influence with the people of this Presidency to induce them to accept the sacrifices which we know are severe, but which we feel equally convinced are necessary to avoid even worse troubles in future. The way may be long and arduous, but the goal can undoubtedly be reached if we agree to work together in a whole-hearted effort to win through. With your co-operation, Gentlemen, I have every hope that it is not beyond our power to force our way through the trough of depression and bring the finances of the Presidency back to a sound condition of prosperity which will enable us once more to resume our forward march of progress and development. [Applause.]

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE HONOURABLE THE PRESIDENT OF A VOLUNTARY CUT OF 10 PER CENT. IN HIS SALARY.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Before we proceed with the questions, I should like to make a statement. I have been paying my attention to a question for some time, which I have now decided, and which I should like to bring to the notice of this Honourable House. The moment, I think, is besides most opportune now, after the impressive address of His Excellency and the self-sacrifice he has shown himself. It is a fact which has to be acknowledged all round that India particularly, not going beyond it, and more so our own Presidency has been very hard hit in the matter of finance. Measures have had to be taken to meet the emergency and amongst them a serious programme of cut in salaries. Officials in high position who have accepted a cut or who have shown their willingness to accept a cut have done so with great self-sacrifice and the spirit has to be appreciated by the country. I would like now to add my quota to it. I announce a cut of 10 per cent. in my salary on the same conditions on which the Honourable the Leader of the House (Sir Ghulam Hussain) at the last session announced a voluntary cut of 10 per cent. on behalf of the Members of Council and Ministers. I also volunteer the cut to take effect on the same conditions.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS—(Resumed).

Manuscripts: Collection and Publication.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they are still carrying on their search, collection and publication of Sanskrit manuscripts?

(b) What steps have they taken for a similar search, collection and publication of Arabic and Persian manuscripts ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) The Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute, Poona, carries on the work, for which it receives a grant-in-aid from Government.

(b) The work was entrusted to Professor Shaikh Abdul Kadir Sarfraz of the Deccan College, Poona, and at a cost of Rs. 2,133-12-0 114 manuscripts were purchased for Government. The manuscripts are lodged in the Bombay University Library subject to the general control of the Educational Department.

Mr. A. J. Bangi asked a question which was inaudible.

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Yes ; the research work regarding the Persian manuscripts was only once done and the amount given in the reply was for the work only. Government, however, is alive to the importance of the work being done regularly and it is proposed to set apart some amount from the annual grant allotted to the Bhandarkar Oriental Institute for publication of works in oriental languages, for publication also of Persian and Arabic works.

SUB-JUDGES : APPOINTMENTS.

* Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many new appointments of sub-judges were made in the whole of the Presidency including Sind during the last three years ;

(b) how many Muhammadans applied for them and how many of them were appointed ;

(c) were there any candidates from the Southern Division ;

(d) if so, how many of them were appointed ;

(e) if none of them was appointed, what were the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : (a) 26.

(b) 40 and 5 respectively.

(c) It is assumed that the honourable member refers to Muhammadan candidates. If so, the answer is 3.

(d) None.

(e) Because they were not considered suitable.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH : May I know what was wanting in them to consider them as unsuitable ? Are there no LL.B.'s ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : LL.B. is not the only qualification.

INDUSTRIES DEPARTMENT : ADVISORY BOARD.

* Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether their attention has been drawn to the following paragraphs in the report of the Indian Industrial Commission, viz.—

Paragraph 308—regarding proposals for a Board of Industries.

Paragraph 309—regarding composition and strength of the Board ?

(b) Have Government taken any steps to carry out the recommendations made in those paragraphs ?

(c) If the reply to (b) is in the negative, what are the difficulties in the way of Government carrying out those recommendations ?

(d) Are Government aware that the other Provincial Governments, viz. Bengal, Madras, Central Provinces, Bihar and Orissa, United Provinces and Punjab have already established Advisory Boards of Industries to assist Government by giving advice and making suggestions in matters relating to the development of indigenous industries in their Provinces ?

(e) Was such an Advisory Board appointed by the Government in the year 1918 and did it continue in existence till 1924 ?

(f) Was it only due to the abolition of the post of Director of Industries that the Advisory Board was dissolved ?

(g) Do Government consider it desirable to re-establish an Advisory Board ?

(h) If the reply to (g) is in the negative, what are the difficulties in the way of re-establishment of such a Board ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Yes.
(b) Yes.
(c) Does not arise.
(d) Yes.
(e) Yes.
(f) Yes.
(g) No.
(h) There is no scope at present.

Small Cause Court Judges: Appointment of Sub-Judges.

* Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): (1) Is it a fact that though the appointments of the Presidency Small Cause Court Judges are open to sub-judges of not less than 5 years' standing, no such appointments have been made from amongst the sub-judges except one ?

(2) If so, will Government state the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) Yes.

(2) It is considered that members of the Bombay Bar are best fitted for the post which requires knowledge of the conditions obtaining in Bombay City and of the practice and procedure of the Bombay Small Cause Court.

Police in Sind: Europeans and Indians.

* Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the sanctioned strength of Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors and Sergeants in the Police service in Sind;

(b) the number of European Inspectors and Indian Inspectors and the proportion of Indian Inspectors to Indian Sub-Inspectors and European Inspectors to European Sergeants;

(c) if the proportion of European Inspectors to Sergeants is higher than the proportion of Indian Inspectors to Sub-Inspectors, the reasons for the difference;

(d) whether it is a fact that increased Indianisation of Police and other services has been considered necessary by various Commissions and higher authorities;

(e) if so, why subordinate Police service should contain more of the European element than Indians;

(f) whether it is a fact that Indian Inspectors are holding charges in Karachi and Shikarpur, and have proved themselves to be efficient;

(g) if so, why there are European Inspectors in the Railways, Hyderabad, Sukkur, Karachi City, Karachi Ranchore Lines where most of the population consists of Indians;

(h) whether it is a fact that Indians are not appointed in those Divisions because a few Europeans live in those places;

(i) whether European Inspectors are in receipt of European allowance in addition to compensatory allowance;

(j) if so, the reasons therefor;

(k) whether it is a fact that before the grant of compensatory allowance European Inspectors were in receipt of only local allowance, but on Government's sanctioning compensatory allowance for certain towns, the local allowance was not merged in the compensatory allowance but Europeans' compensatory allowance and European allowance was introduced?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS:

(a) 34 Inspectors.
190 Sub-Inspectors.
21 Sergeants.

(b) 9 European Inspectors.
25 Indian Inspectors.

Proportion of Indian Inspectors to Sub-Inspectors.—About 13 per cent.

Proportion of European Inspectors to Sergeants.—About 43 per cent.

(c) The number of Indian Inspectors does not depend on the number of Sub-Inspectors, nor does the number of European Inspectors depend on the number of Sergeants.

(d) Yes.

(e) The figures given in reply to clauses (a) and (b) above show that the reverse is the case.

(f) Yes.

(g) and (h) It has been the policy of Government to secure a due proportion of Europeans in the Police and this policy has been endorsed by the Indian Police Commission. The Commission recommended the employment of European Police officers on the railways and in large cities where the Police may have to deal with Europeans.

(i) Yes.

(j) The reasons are—

(1) that the ordinary cost of living is higher for European Officers than for Indian Officers;

(2) that the particular charges usually held by these officers are in large cities, important cantonments or at Railway centres where living is more expensive than elsewhere.

(k) When a compensatory local allowance was introduced it was given to European and Indian Police Officers alike. There is no Europeans' compensatory allowance in addition to European allowance.

POLICE INSPECTOR: TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE BILLS.

*Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that a Mahomedan Sub-Inspector of Railway Police was prosecuted in 1930 in the Court of Karachi Additional City Magistrate and that the same ended in a discharge?

(b) If so, is it a fact that allegations of cheating by preferring false Travelling Allowance Bills by the European Inspector who was responsible for bringing out that case, were brought to the notice of the authorities?

(c) If so, what action was taken in the matter against the European Inspector?

(d) If no action was taken, what were the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.

(b) Anonymous petitions only were received to this effect.

(c) and (d) No action was taken, as no evidence in support of the allegations was forthcoming in spite of a careful enquiry and examination of records.

GUJARAT COLLEGE: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PERSIAN.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): (a) Are Government aware that the newly-appointed Assistant Professor of Persian in the Gujarat College, Ahmedabad, is not qualified to teach Persian?

(b) How many candidates had applied for the post and how many of them were M.A.'s with Persian?

(c) What are the age, qualifications and past record of the new Assistant Professor?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) No.

(b) In all 36, of whom 20 were M.A.'s with Persian.

(c) 29 years.

(1) M.A. (Punjab) I Class First, in Arabic, 1925. Won three medals.

(2) Munshi Fazil (Punjab) with Honours in Persian.

He worked as Cataloguer of Persian and Arabic manuscripts in the Punjab University Library.

ASSISTANT MASTERS: INCREMENTS TO SALARY.

*Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether, as stated by them in part (e) of their reply to the Council question of Sardar G. N. Mujumdar (printed at page 380 of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, Vol. XXIX) all assistant masters have got their increments after completion of each year of their officiating service and, if not, the reasons therefor;

(b) whether some probationary assistant masters in whose case acting service was not taken into account in fixing their pay on 1st

March 1921, have now been allowed to count it, as stated in their reply to my question in this behalf (printed at pages 792-93, Vol. XXVI of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates) that "officiating service will be counted for increments all along;" and, if not, the reasons therefor;

(c) whether there are still any "anomalies" (referred to by Mr. L. M. Deshpande in part (h) of his question, printed at pages 901-02 of Vol. XXIII of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates) of some assistant masters getting pay according to their total length of service, and others not; and, if so, what steps Government have taken or intend to take to remove them;

(d) whether some part of their officiating service has been excluded from being counted for increments; and if so, what is the authority therefor, specifying the date on which it was published and the date from which effect was given to it?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) and (b) No. Officiating service rendered prior to 1st January 1922 on a pay less than the minimum of the time-scale of Rs. 70—5—120—efficiency bar—5—140—10—200 has not been counted towards increment, because it was found that this concession was not permissible under the Civil Service Regulations nor under the Fundamental Rules, nor under the Auditor General's ruling referred to by Sardar Muzumdar in his question.

(c) Yes. Government, however, do not consider that any action is called for in the matter.

(d) Yes, as explained above, officiating service rendered by the teachers on pay less than the minimum of the time-scale of Rs. 70—5—120—efficiency bar—5—140—10—200 has not been counted for increments on the authority of a ruling by the Accountant General that such service cannot be counted, as it was not admissible under the Civil Service Regulations on 1st March 1921: It was also neither admissible under the Fundamental Rules from 1st January 1922 nor under the Auditor General's ruling referred to. Orders of Government in accordance with the Accountant General's ruling were issued on 13th March 1931 and orders refixing the pay of the teachers concerned in accordance with these orders were issued by the Director of Public Instruction before 31st March 1931.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: With reference to (c), Government say that there are anomalies, but still they say that they need not take steps to remove them. May I know whether this will not create discontent among those Government servants who are also on the same footing as others?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: It is sufficiently clear that anomalies are bound to occur, because as it has been pointed out by the Accountant General there will be senior officers who will receive less pay than some junior officers owing to the reasons pointed out in the printed reply to (a) and (b).

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The assistant masters get pay according to their total length of service while others do not. The statement about 1921-22 is quite a different matter. But is this not a case where people who have put in the same total length of service suffer?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have spoken regarding the anomalies of which I am aware. I do not know what other anomalies there are to which the honourable member refers.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The question in (c) is whether there are not anomalies by which some assistant teachers get pay according to the total length of service, while others do not. Government admit the anomalies, but they say that they do not consider any action called for in the matter.

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: In that case, I have nothing more to add to my answer.

Building Regulations, Suburban District.

*Mr. M. M. KARBHARI (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they agreed to abolish the dual system of control of building regulations by revenue authorities in the Suburban District by accepting the resolution on the subject by Dewan Bahadur Harilal D. Desai in the Bombay Legislative Council in 1923?

(b) Why have they not abolished the system?

(c) Have they received representations in this matter from local bodies in the Suburban District? If so, from whom and when?

(d) What action do Government propose to take in the matter?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) and (b) Although Government accepted the principle contained in Dewan Bahadur Harilal Desai's resolution regarding withdrawal of control of revenue authorities over building operations in municipal districts, the Bombay Suburban District was exempted from its application in view of the special conditions obtaining in that district.

(c) Representations on the subject were made by the Vile Parle Municipality and the Notified Area Committee, Andheri, on the occasion of the visits of the Honourable Minister, Local Self-Government, in April last.

(d) None.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: Do Government mean that after accepting the principle contained in the resolution of Dewan Bahadur Harilal Desai, they have carried out the spirit of that resolution by exempting this area?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: There are exceptions to every rule.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: What are the special conditions prevailing in this district which necessitated its exemption?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: The honourable member is aware that special conditions exist in the fact that the areas referred to are the suburbs of one of the largest cities in the world.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: Is that the only special condition?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: That is one condition.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: Is this dual control going to be permanent?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Far be it from me to say that anything in this world is permanent.

Subordinate Judge's Court: Removal from Karmala to Madha.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received complaints from the people of Karmala Taluka in District Sholapur with regard to the removal of the Subordinate Judge's Court from Karmala to Madha;

(b) whether Government are aware of the inconvenience and hardships that the people of Karmala Taluka incur in attending the Subordinate Judge's Court at Madha;

(c) whether Government had or have a scheme to establish a Civil Court at Kurduwadi for both Karmala and Madha Talukas?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.

(b) All such changes cause inconvenience to some persons. Government are not aware that in these days of improved methods of communication any serious inconvenience or hardship is involved.

(c) There was a proposal to establish a court at Kurduwadi, but it was dropped mainly owing to the expense of building a court-house.

Mr. J. G. MORE: May I ask why the proposal to establish a Court at Kurduwadi was dropped?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: For reasons of economy.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Is it not a fact that Government asked the people of Karmala to contribute to the Karmala Court building expenses?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I must ask for notice. I am not aware of that.

Khan Bahadur ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN: Would Government be prepared to establish the Court if the building is provided by the people?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: That is hypothetical.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: It is hypothetical.

GAMBLING : COTTON FUTURES.

*Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL (East Khandesh District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(i) whether they are aware of the article, dealing with new methods of gambling, published in "Dinbandhoo" of Poona in its issue of 3rd July 1931;

(ii) if the answer to (i) be in the affirmative, what action they intend to take to put an end to the publication of American cotton futures rates in various daily papers?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (i) Yes.

(ii) Government see no reason to stop the publication of these rates.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: May I know the reasons which prompted Government to hold that there was no reason to stop the publication of these rates?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The habit of gambling is so ingrained in the people of India that the stoppage of the publication of these rates will not remove it.

SHERISTEDARS : CENTRAL DIVISION.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ (Central Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of sheristedars to District Judges in the Central Division and how many of them are Brahmins, non-Brahmins and Mahomedans;

(b) if no Mahomedan has been appointed to this post up to this time, what is the reason therefor;

(c) what steps they have taken up to this time to make up this deficiency;

(d) whether it is a fact that sheristedars are kept at one place practically during the whole period of their service;

(e) whether they are aware that by being practically permanent at one place their subordinates suffer a great deal?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) There are seven Sheristedars in District Courts in the Central Division. Of these six are Brahmins and one a non-Brahmin.

(b) No qualified Muhammadan clerks who had attained sufficient seniority were available.

(c) Qualified Muhammadans are now being recruited and will have a chance of being selected for these posts in future.

(d) Sheristedars are not usually transferred. It is however open to Government to order their transfer from one district to another under section 40-A of the Bombay Civil Courts Act.

(e) No.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ: What is the length of service that will be considered sufficient?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: A man with one year's service cannot supersede a man of fifteen or twenty years' standing.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ: But there are men with eight or nine years' service.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The principle is the same: I am not specifying the actual number of years.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ: Is there no rule by which preference should be given to backward classes?

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT, NASIK DISTRICT: MAHOMEDANS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ (Central Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many qualified clerks are in the Judicial Department in the Nasik district and how many of them are Brahmins, non-Brahmins and Mahomedans;

(b) how many of them have passed their departmental examination and in what year and how many of them have been promoted to higher grade as required by the recent Government Resolution, stating the number of Brahmins, non-Brahmins and Mahomedans separately;

(c) if no Mahomedan has been promoted, what is the reason therefor;

(d) how many vacancies have been filled in this department during the last four years and how many of them were given to Brahmins, non-Brahmins and Mahomedans;

(e) whether those vacancies were notified; if not, why not, and if they were notified how many applications from Mahomedans were received;

(f) what the reason is for not appointing Mahomedan qualified candidates during the last four years;

(g) what steps they have taken to give effect to the Government Resolution to appoint 50 per cent. of the backward class in this Department?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) There are 93 qualified clerks, of whom 52 are Brahmins, 37 non-Brahmins and 4 Muhammadans.

(b) The following table shows the number of qualified clerks who have passed the departmental examination:—

Year	Brahmins	Non-Brahmins	Muhammadans
1912	9	3	....
1913	8	2	....
1914	4	4	....
1917	4	2	....
1919	2	....	....
1921	1	2	....
1924	....	....	....
1925	1	1	....
1926	1	1	....
1931	....	....	1
	30	15	1

Of these 2 non-Brahmins and 2 Brahmins have been promoted to the higher grade.

(c) The only qualified Muhammadan clerk who has passed the departmental examination is still too junior for promotion.

(d) Out of 18 vacancies, 11 have been filled by non-Brahmins and 7 by Brahmins.

(e) The vacancies were not notified as there was a sufficient number of candidates of all communities on the waiting list.

(f) Five Muhammadan candidates were appointed in temporary vacancies in 1929, but their appointments terminated when the vacancies ceased to exist. Two more Muhammadan candidates have been selected and their turn will come in the order fixed by the Selection Committee.

(g) Government are giving effect to this Resolution whenever and wherever possible.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ: As regards (d) and (e), when there were 18 vacancies and there were Mahomedan candidates also, why at least one was not given to a Mahomedan?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Because there were not sufficiently well qualified Mahomedan candidates.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ: "The vacancies were not notified as there was a sufficient number of candidates of all communities on the waiting list." That is the reply. When there were Mahomedan candidates, why was it that not a single Mahomedan was selected when there were eighteen vacancies?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I am afraid it is the fault of Mahomedan candidates.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: There is no question of fault on the part of the Mahomedan candidates, because the vacancies were not notified.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The answer is there that the vacancies were not notified as there was a sufficient number of candidates of all communities on the waiting list.

REVENUE SERVICE, WEST KHANDESH: MUSLIMS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ (Central Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many posts there are in all in the Upper Division of the Subordinate Revenue Service in the West Khandesh District, carrying a pay of from Rs. 85 to Rs. 150 and how many of them are actually held by Muslims at present;

(b) how many clerks from the Lower Division were selected to fill scheduled posts with a view to permit them to appear for the qualifying examination and promote them to the Upper Division, during the last two years; and how many of them were from advanced classes, Muslims and other backward classes;

(c) whether there are no suitable Muslim candidates available for being promoted to the Upper Branch, and, if there are, why they have not been promoted;

(d) how many clerks from the Lower Division have been promoted to the grade of Rs. 85 to Rs. 115 during the last two years and how many of them were Muslims;

(e) whether suitable Muslim candidates for the grade mentioned in (d) were available, and, if so, why they were not promoted;

(f) whether instructions issued by Government in their resolutions Nos. 3840, Finance Department, dated 23rd July 1925; 5011, Finance Department, dated 26th September 1928, and 10121/24, Finance Department, dated 28th November 1930 are being observed in the West Khandesh District; if so, what action has been taken in pursuance of them?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) 13 of which 2 are held substantively by Muslims and 1 is vacant.

(b) 7 of whom 4 were from the advanced classes, 2 from the backward, and one was a Muslim.

(c) There are no suitable Muslim subordinates available for promotion to the Upper Division.

(d) 4, none of whom was a Muslim. Holders of non-scheduled posts in the grades of Rs. 85—5/2—100 and Rs. 115—5/2—150 are not ordinarily qualified for promotion to the Upper Division.

(e) No suitable Muslim candidate was available.

(f) Yes. Preference is being given to members of the backward classes and Muslims while recruiting candidates and making permanent and temporary appointments.

Cattle Lifting, Karachi District: Preventive Measures.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that cattle lifting exists in Karachi District in an acute form and to a certain extent in other districts of Sind;

(b) whether the measures suggested in the recommendations of the Cattle Theft Committee for the prevention of the crime have been enforced by Government in any district;

(c) if so, what measures have been adopted and in which parts of the province; if no steps have been taken, the reasons therefor;

(d) whether it is a fact that vigilance committees were proposed to be established as one of the preventive measures;

(e) whether it is a fact that vigilance committees as suggested in Government Resolution No. 8387-V of 16th September 1929 have not been established in any part of the province;

(f) if so, the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Cattle lifting is practised throughout Sind. It is not more acute in Karachi District than in other districts.

(b) and (c) A copy of Government Resolution in the Home Department, No. 8387-V, dated the 16th September 1929, is placed on the Council table.† The extent to which it has been found possible to give effect to the orders in this Resolution is as follows :—

Recommendation No. 1.—The creation of a special inter-district police force has been postponed in view of financial stringency.

Recommendations Nos. 2, 3 and 5.—The necessary orders have been issued.

Recommendation No. 6.—Vide replies to clauses (e) and (f) below.

Recommendation No. 7.—Materials for taking action against Patharidars under the Criminal Tribes Act are being collected by the Sind Criminal Investigation Department.

Recommendation No. 8.—A Bill to amend the Criminal Tribes Act, 1924, by including cattle theft in Schedule I was introduced by Government in the Legislative Council at the July 1930 session. In view of the opposition to the Bill in the Council, Government decided not to proceed with it.

Recommendation No. 9.—It has been decided to introduce the scheme of tattooing cattle as an experimental measure in the Tando and Sehwan Sub-divisions, but action has been postponed on financial grounds.

Recommendations Nos. 10 and 13.—The Commissioner in Sind has issued the necessary orders.

Recommendation No. 14.—The Judicial Commissioner of Sind has not considered it advisable to issue instructions as proposed in this recommendation.

Recommendations Nos. 15 and 16.—The necessary orders have been issued.

Recommendation No. 17.—Transfers of Resident Magistrates are avoided as far as possible.

Recommendation No. 18.—Financial stringency prevents the number of Resident Magistrates being increased. Except in a few large towns it is difficult to find suitable persons for appointment as Special First Class Magistrates.

Recommendation No. 19.—The police force in the districts of Sukkur, Larkana and the Upper Sind Frontier has been reorganised and increased from the 1st April 1931. A similar reorganisation of the police in the other districts in Sind is being considered.

Recommendation No. 21.—The attention of the District Superintendents of Police in Sind has been drawn to this recommendation.

Recommendation No. 23.—Financial stringency has precluded Government from giving effect to this recommendation.

Recommendation No. 28.—Orders have been issued that the police should invariably be consulted before a proposal to establish a new village is sanctioned.

† Kept in the Secretary's office.

Recommendation No. 9 in paragraph 8 of the Government Resolution.— The Commissioner in Sind has consulted local officers in the matter and does not consider that any change is called for.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) The proposal needs very careful consideration. A set of model rules for the constitution and working of these Committees is being framed by the Commissioner.

CONSERVATOR OF FORESTS, N. D.: STANDING ORDERS ISSUED BY

*Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Conservator of Forests, Northern Division, has issued any standing orders in connection with the enforcement of clause 3 of the Rules framed under section 41 of the Indian Forest Act;

(b) whether any objections were taken to the standing orders;

(c) whether any complaints that inconvenience, trouble or loss has been caused to the khatedars and other poor ryots, as a result of these standing orders in carrying from one place to another within the limits of the village itself articles which they could take from the jungle free of any charge, have been received by the Forest or Revenue Department;

(d) if the reply to (c) be in the affirmative, what steps have been taken by Government to remove the grievances?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) The only reference that was received by the Conservator, N. C., was from the Divisional Forest Officer, North Thana, who on 20th May 1931, reported that the standing order was interpreted to mean that no removals from one survey number to another of head-loads of firewood and tahal by privilege holders could be allowed without a pass. The Divisional Forest Officer, in reply, was referred to the proviso to rule 3 of the rules issued under section 41 of the Indian Forest Act, 1878 (VII of 1878), published in Government Notification, Revenue Department, No. 2546-D, dated 24th July 1922, according to which no pass is required for the removal of the material specified in the proviso under reference. It was also pointed out that the standing order in question relates to the material for which a pass is required and not to the material which is specially exempted by Government from the operation of rule 3. This standing order was issued to all Divisional Forest Officers in the Northern Circle, but it was misinterpreted in some parts of the Thana District only and the misapprehension was immediately removed by issue of the order as stated above.

(d) Does not arise, in view of the steps already taken by the Conservator of Forests, N. C., to remove the misapprehension.

MUNICIPAL VACCINATORS: EXPENDITURE IN CONNEXION WITH

*Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is one of the duties of a Municipality to make reasonable provision for public vaccination and for the supply of animal lymph;

(b) whether the municipal vaccinators and their menial staff are paid for by the local bodies concerned;

(c) whether the cost of animal lymph supplied to the municipal vaccinators is recovered from the local bodies concerned;

(d) whether the local bodies are required to meet all the contingent expenses on account of vaccination;

(e) whether the travelling allowance of vaccinators transferred from one town to another is recovered from the local bodies;

(f) whether the vaccinators are municipal or Government servants;

(g) who appoints them;

(h) who sanctions their privilege or casual leave;

(i) whether they are aware of the Government of India's directions that—

(i) vaccinators should not be enrolled as Government servants nor be employed as a provincial establishment; and

(ii) vaccinators of local bodies should be entirely under their administrative control;

(j) the action which has been taken by them with a view to enforce the above directions of the Government of India;

(k) whether they are aware that the Municipalities feel strongly the unfairness of being compelled to pay for the establishment over which they have not the least control?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) Municipalities do not bear the whole cost on account of the pay for their vaccinators. Government make a grant-in-aid towards their pay. Also no pension contribution is recovered by Government from the local bodies. The cost of menial staff is borne wholly by them.

(c) and (d) Yes.

(e) Travelling Allowance of a vaccinator who is transferred at the request of a local body is borne by the local body making the request, otherwise by Government.

(f) Vaccinators are Government servants lent to Municipalities for vaccination work.

(g) By the Director of Public Health.

(h) Casual leave only is sanctioned by the Assistant Directors; other kinds of leave is sanctioned by the Director of Public Health.

(i) (i), (ii) and (j) Originally the intention of the Government of India was that in future, vaccinators should not be enrolled as pensionable servants of Government, but should be employed by local bodies and should be under their control. Eventually the Government of India agreed with the Local Government that the new system should be tried in a few selected districts, viz.—

West Khandesh, Sholapur, Bijapur, Surat and Sukkur.

(k) Some local bodies have desired that the transfer of control of the vaccination staff should be made over to them. The whole question of the transfer of control on certain conditions is at present under the consideration of Government.

Liquor License: Race Course, Poona.

*Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): (1) Will the Honourable Minister of Excise kindly state the dates—

(a) when he received notices of the resolution regarding the non-renewal of temporary liquor license in the Poona Racecourse, which was discussed during the last session;

(b) when the license was given?

(2) Is it a fact that the Honourable Minister made the statement in the course of the debate, viz.—

"Moreover, I may inform the honourable member that the license has already been given" (Volume XXXI, page 1039 of the Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates) in spite of his having given the license after the receipt of the notice of the resolution recommending the non-renewal?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) (a) 25th June and 9th July 1931.

(b) The orders of Government sanctioning the grant of the license were issued on 24th July 1931.

(2) Yes.

Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): Has the Honourable Minister noticed the incongruity between the statement he has made in his speech and the fact disclosed by the dates mentioned in the answer?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: He has noticed nothing of the kind.

Municipalities in Sind.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table information on the following points in regard to each municipality in Sind—

(a) the total population of all municipal areas according to new census;

(b) the Hindu and Muslim population separately of the area;

(c) the number of Hindu and Muslim elected members;

(d) the number of Hindu and Muslim nominated members?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: A statement giving the required information is placed on the Council table.

Statement showing certain statistical information relating to Municipalities in Sind.

Name of Municipality.	Total population according to Census of 1931.	Hindu population according to Census of 1931.	Muslim population according to Census of 1931.	Elected members.		Nominated members.
				Hindus.	Muslims.	Hindus.	Muslims.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Karachi ..	2,47,058	1,11,035	110,689	21	16	1 1 Sikh	1
Tatta ..	9,635	4,381	5,184	10	10	2	1
Keti Bunder ..	1,654	825	829	6	6	1	1
Kotri ..	9,908	3,527	5,933	7	8	1	1
Manjhand ..	2,405	1,484	921	8	4	1	1
Hyderabad ..	90,021	67,644	27,116	28	12	2	2
Nasarpur ..	4,254	1,510	2,744	5	7	1	1
Hala ..	7,308	2,555	4,753	6	10	1	1
Matiari ..	6,074	1,172	4,794	6	10	1	1
Tando Allahyar ..	5,146	3,707	1,429	11	5	..	2
Tando Muhammad Khan ..	6,560	3,594	2,966	9	7	1	1
Sukkur ..	64,982	Not yet available		24	14	3	2
Shikarpur ..	61,977	Do.		21	12	2	3
Garhi Yasin ..	6,925	Do.		10	6	1	1
Rohri ..	13,715	Do.		12	8	2	2
Ghotki ..	4,638	Do.		7	5	1	1
Larkana ..	24,698	15,766	8,932	15	10	2	2
Kambar ..	9,359	3,479	5,880	6	10	1	2
Ratodero ..	7,285	4,702	2,583	9	7	1	1
Sehwan ..	4,107	1,739	2,368	6	6	1	1
Bubak ..	3,002	1,701	1,301	7	5	1	1
Tando Adam ..	12,859	10,115	2,709	15	5	1	2
Shahdadpur ..	7,572	5,689	1,883	8	4	1	1
Mirpurkhas ..	9,122	Not yet available		11	5	..	2
Umerkot ..	3,581	Do.		9	3	1	1
Jacobabad ..	15,818	7,914	7,832	10	10	2	2

Police in Sind.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many new police stations and police outposts, giving the name of each, have been opened during this year on account of the reorganisation scheme in the districts of Sukkur, Larkana and Upper Sind Frontier?

(b) How many new officers and men were recruited in each district, stating the religion of each of them?

(c) Do Government propose to increase the police force in the other districts of Sind, and, if so, when?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Five police stations and 20 outposts as shown below :—

Name of District	Name of Police Station	Name of Outpost
Sukkur ..	....	Mamro.
		Sarhad.
		Dad Laghari.
		Reti.
		Khanpur.
		Garhi Tegho.
		Nabi Shah Wagan.
		Drakhan.
Larkana ..	Bakrani ..	Khalid.
	Naundero ..	Lashkar Chandio.
	Sita Road ..	Sijawal.
	Phaka ..	Bhatti.
		Kakar.
		Pat.
		Pat Gul Md.
		Talti.
		Jhalo.
Upper Sind Frontier..	Mouladad ..	Sanjar Bhati.
		Rassaldar.
		Gublo.

(b) The following statement gives the required information :—

Name of District	No. of Officers enlisted		No. of men enlisted
	Hindus	Muslims	Hindus	Muslims	Sikhs
Sukkur	1	1	69	149	..
Larkana	1	..	46	120	8
Upper Sind Frontier ..	..	..	4	36	..

(c) Yes, as soon as financial conditions permit.

Agriculturists' Literacy.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state the proportion of literate to illiterate persons amongst the agricultural population of the Presidency ?

The Honourable Diwan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The attention of the honourable member is invited to Chapter VIII—Literacy—of the Census of India, 1921, Volume VIII, Part I. Government have no further information.

EAST INDIA COTTON ASSOCIATION: AGRICULTURISTS.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether there are representatives of agriculturists on the executive body of the East India Cotton Association or in the list of surveyors appointed by that body;

(b) whether there is any officer of the Agricultural Department on the Board of Directors of the East India Cotton Association?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (a) At present there are no representatives of agriculturists on the Board of Directors of the East India Cotton Association, Limited. Surveyors are not appointed by the Association, but every member thereof is entitled to appoint two persons as his nominated representatives who are eligible to act as surveyors in respect of disputes regarding quality of cotton.

(b) There is no officer of the Agricultural Department on the Board of Directors of the East India Cotton Association, Limited. The new constitution providing for the representation of agriculturists will come into force on the first of April next.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: In view of the fact that a large quantity of cotton is handled by this body and as the interest of growers is involved in the working of this Association, will Government be pleased to move this body to appoint representatives of agriculturists on its Board?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: "The new constitution providing for the representation of agriculturists will come into force on the first of April next." I have added that to the reply printed.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: May I know the number of representatives of agriculturists under the new constitution?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Two.

CIVIL COURTS, NASIK: TYPING FUNDS.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state the total amount of the typing funds lying in several Civil Courts in the Nasik District at the end of each year since the introduction of the system of supplying typed copies?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: There is no typing fund in any of the Civil Courts in the Nasik District.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION'S OFFICE: STAFF.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of gazetted officers in the Director of Public Instruction's office;

(b) how many of them are Brahmins, Hindu intermediate or backward communities and Mahomedans;

(c) the number of non-gazetted clerks in the office of the Director of Public Instruction and how many of them are Brahmins and Mahomedans and how many are from the backward Hindu communities ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Six, including the Director of Public Instruction.

(b)

Brahmin.	Intermediate Hindu Community.	Muhammadan.
1	1	1

(c) The honourable member is referred to the reply given in the last July-August session to a similar question by Mr. J. S. Kadri, printed at pages 549-550 of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, Volume XXXI, Part VIII.

Government Trees : Sale to Khatedars.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to give the names of the district in which and the year of their order by which their right to teak, blackwood and sandalwood trees standing in occupied lands was sold to khatedars ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : The appended note explains in what cases the right to teak, blackwood and sandalwood trees has been sold to khatedars.

Note referred to in the reply.

In the Bombay Suburban District, there was only one case at Trombay in 1925-26 in which the right to teak trees was sold to the Khatedar.

2. In Kaira and Broach districts there are no such reserved trees in occupied land. In the Panch Mahals no general orders have been passed by Government regarding the sale of their right to reserved trees in occupied lands, but the standing teak trees are sold to occupants if they want them and the right to after-growth is conceded to them. In the Surat District there are no general orders of Government regarding the sale of reserved trees to Khatedars (occupants), but if a khatedar applies for permission to cut such trees standing in his occupied land, he is permitted to do so on payment of Re. 1 per tree. In the Thana District Government have, as an act of grace and favour, waived the right to trees, whether reserved or unreserved, standing on occupied rice, garden or rabi lands. Occupants are therefore at liberty to cut down and dispose of all trees growing thereon in such manner as they may see fit. In Varkas lands the felling of teak, blackwood and sandalwood trees without the permission of the Collector is strictly forbidden. In such lands the right to reserved trees is reserved to Government.

3. In the East Khandesh District, sandalwood trees in occupied lands were handed over to the occupants without royalty in consequence of the orders issued in November 1903. In May 1886, blackwood and sandalwood trees in the Poona District were removed from the list of reserved trees. The right to other royalty trees in these two districts and to all the three kinds of trees in the remaining districts in the Central Division is reserved by Government and such trees are disposed of according to the procedure laid down in Articles 226 and 227 of the Bombay Forest Manual, Volume II.

4. There are no orders by which the Government right to teak, blackwood and sandalwood trees was sold to the Khatedars in any of the districts in the Southern Division. The practice in Kanara is to sell such trees, if not already removed by the Forest Department, to the Khatedars when applied for by them. In Ratnagiri, the right to reserved trees was given to all persons growing such trees outside Government or forest lands, by Mr. Dunlop's proclamation of 1st March 1824 and this concession was further extended to trees growing on Dhara land and on land held on khoti tenure, except those standing on waste or forest lands. In Kolaba, Government have as an act of grace waived their right over such trees in rice, rabi and garden lands and have allowed the occupants to dispose of them. In varkas lands, the trees have been reserved. The right to after-growth has been conceded to occupants in all occupied lands.

6. There are no teak, blackwood or sandalwood trees in Sind.

UNSTARRED QUESTION AND ANSWER.

CATTLE LIFTING, KARACHI DISTRICT: PREVENTIVE MEASURES.

Mr. GHULAM HYDER SHAH (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that cattle lifting exists in Karachi District in an acute form and to a certain extent in other districts of Sind;

(b) whether the measures suggested in the recommendations of the Cattle Theft Committee for the prevention of the crime have been enforced by Government in any district;

(c) if so, what measures have been adopted and in which parts of the province; if no steps have been taken, the reasons therefor;

(d) whether it is a fact that vigilance committees were proposed to be established as one of the preventive measures;

(e) whether it is a fact that vigilance committees as suggested in Government Resolution No. 8387-V of 16th September 1929, have not been established in any part of the province;

(f) if so, the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to a similar question put by Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid.*

ANNOUNCEMENT OF A 10 PER CENT. CUT IN DEPUTY PRESIDENT'S SALARY.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. A letter has been placed in my hands this moment by the honourable member the Deputy President, which is to this effect:

"Kindly announce on my behalf that I have also followed the noble example set by His Excellency and yourself and I am willing to accept a cut of 10 per cent....."

A voluntary cut, of course,

"....in the meagre emolument I get for holding the post of the Deputy President of this honourable House while during session."

Now we take up the Government Bill.

BILL No. XLV OF 1931 (A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR A SUCCESSION DUTY IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BOMBAY).

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I introduce Bill No. XLV of 1931 (a Bill to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay).†

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Bill No. XLV of 1931 (a Bill to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay) is introduced.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I beg to move that Bill No. XLV of 1931 (a Bill to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay) be read a first time.

First reading.

---

* Printed on page 36. † Appendix I.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

In moving this first reading, I have to make a few observations. I quite admit that no Government is justified in calling upon the taxpayers to pay any tax either for piling up its reserves or for incurring avoidable and unnecessary expenditure. I will try to satisfy this House that every honest effort is being made to retrench expenditure and yet there is a huge deficit in the revenues required to meet the current expenditure of Government. Honourable members are aware that owing to the world-wide depression every country is hit in the matter of its finances, and this Presidency has its share, a good deal aggravated by other extraneous circumstances over which Government have had no control. I do not wish to repeat the several arguments and facts which I brought to the notice of this honourable House in several of my budget speeches and replies, but I wish merely to touch the salient points in order to bring home to the members the necessity for this legislation. I have to request them to give the Government their whole-hearted support.

It is no good lamenting over past mistakes and the losses which this Presidency has suffered owing to such mistakes. It is more to the point if we consider how to meet these losses and how to tide over the difficult times through which we are passing.

When I presented the budget for 1930-31 in February 1930, I presented a balanced budget and hoped for a small surplus of one lakh of rupees. Unfortunately, the civil disobedience movement was started in that year and it was also accompanied by the world wide depression to which I have made a reference, with the result that while we budgeted for a revenue of Rs. 15·74 crores the actual revenue realised was only Rs. 13·83 crores. At the time of the presentation of the budget for 1931-32, it was estimated that the fall in the revenue in 1930-31 would be about Rs. 105 lakhs and an increase of expenditure debitable to revenue about 15 lakhs, so that instead of a surplus of 1 lakh, which was anticipated when the budget of 1930-31 was presented, it was estimated that there would be a deficit of 119 lakhs. The actual fall in the revenue, as the final accounts show, comes to Rs. 191 lakhs, the chief items which contributed to this fall being Land Revenue 38 lakhs, Excise 85 lakhs, Forests 26 lakhs, Stamps 15 lakhs, and Irrigation 35 lakhs. There was a reduction of expenditure to the tune of Rs. 35 lakhs under different heads which was counterbalanced by an increase in expenditure under the heads Police (14) and Jails (3) owing to the civil disobedience movement, and under Irrigation (5) and Famine Relief (2) owing to floods in Sind and other parts.

We entered the year 1930-31 with an opening balance of 245 lakhs. Of this balance, 104 lakhs were in the Famine Relief Fund and 75 lakhs were a carry over of loan funds. During the year expenditure from the Famine Fund reduced the total to the statutory minimum of 75 lakhs. Of the 75 lakhs, loan balances 38 lakhs were absorbed in capital expenditure leaving a balance of 37 lakhs at the end of the year. We have also in the balances certain other monies which are reserved, and these are the unexpended balance of the Road fund amounting to 22 lakhs and the Presses Depreciation Fund amounting to 2 lakhs. Now, the fall in revenue during the year 1930-31 was greater than we anticipated at the time of preparing the budget for the current year and amounted to 191 lakhs. Taking into account, therefore, the reduction in the total expenditure of some 11 lakhs the deficit on the year's working amounts to 179 lakhs with the result that what I may call the free balances are represented by a minus figure of 60 lakhs. We have been able to finance this overdraft temporarily by the use of the reserves to which I have referred, amounting to 24 lakhs together with the remaining loan money of 37 lakhs. But means have yet to be found to make good this amount of 60 lakhs.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT [Noticing that the Honourable Member was addressing the House with his back towards the Chair]: I am sorry to interrupt the Honourable Member, but the President would also like to follow the Honourable Member.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: If the Honourable Member proceeds a little more slowly, we will follow him better.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: All right. Coming to the current year, it is too early yet to make a definite statement of what the deficit is likely to be. Such estimates as we have been able to make up to date point to a reduction in revenue below the budget figure of some 93 lakhs. Reference has already been made to this in the Financial Review placed before the House at the last session. Since then it is necessary to record a further considerable fall in the estimates of the revenue expected in the latter half of the year under most of the principal heads of revenue, namely :—

Land Revenue	9 lakhs.
Excise	9 lakhs.
Stamps	13 lakhs.
Registration	2 lakhs.
Irrigation	20 lakhs.

On the other hand, the net reduction of expenditure is 24 lakhs, so that there is an addition of 69 lakhs to the anticipated deficit of 61 lakhs, making a total of 130 lakhs. In regard to the next year, I regret that it is not possible to be optimistic regarding any increase in the ordinary sources of revenue. We have no indication yet of any general forward movement in commodity prices, and so long as they remain at their present low figure, we have no reason to suppose that our main sources of revenue will show any betterment, though it seems likely that the recent improvement being shown in general trade conditions may assist the Stamp revenue. An additional burden which will fall upon the revenues next year is the replacement of the 16 lakhs borrowed in the current year from the Petrol Fund for the maintenance of roads. So the net estimated result of the working of the two years, viz. the last year and the current year, is that we have wiped out 64 lakhs as our free balance and incurred an additional liability of 190 lakhs. As I have said, a reduction in expenditure during the current year of 24 lakhs has already been effected. This includes the cut of 10 per cent. in pay for about three months.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

The first point on which it is necessary for me to insist is that there shall be in the next year a budget balanced without the help of borrowings.

The total expenditure charged to revenue in the current year's budget was 1,581 lakhs. Out of this Interest and Pension charges and other irreducible expenditure amount to 3,65 lakhs, leaving a balance of something over 12 crores from which to effect retrenchment. It is needless for me to dilate upon the immense difficulty of this task in a budget which, if one takes into consideration formal account changes, is already below the figure of 10 years ago, and which has only been attained by the constant application of the retrenchment axe. Even if the revenues remain as they are in the current year, which is not very probable—the chances are they may go down—the problem which lies before us is to reduce the expenditure next year by a crore and a half of rupees. The honourable House is aware that a cut in the salaries of Government servants is expected to save some 35 lakhs, and there still remains a gap of 110 to 115 lakhs to be made good. Government have long been engaged in the task of bringing about a reduction in expenditure and it is hoped that by the severest pruning they will be able to bring down expenditure by about a crore. It is not possible for Government to-day to make any definite announcement of the total saving which they hope to effect, but they have been exploring to the utmost for avenues of retrenchment and they have no intention of shrinking from the task. They wish to make a public acknowledgment at this first available opportunity of the help they have received already from the labours of the Retrenchment Committee. Their report has only been published to-day and Government as yet have not had an opportunity of considering it as a whole nor had they an opportunity of considering the lump cuts which have been suggested as a temporary measure by the majority of the Committee. Naturally several of the avenues for retrenchment suggested by the Committee will cover the same ground which has already been covered by Government and they have been kept in touch from time to time with their conclusions. It remains an incontrovertible fact that even if it were found practicable to put into force in full these very drastic recommendations, the necessity for fresh sources of revenue remains.

The honourable members have continuously been kept informed about the debt position of this Government. The Blue Book supplied to the members at the time of the budget contains two statements E and F which clearly explain the debt position. I have also more than once explained in my speeches and replies the exact debt position of this Government. In my opinion, and I am sure this will be shared by this honourable House, it is wrong to borrow for current expenditure thereby shifting the burden to future generations when it really ought to be borne by the present generation. The rate of interest for unproductive debt is also very high viz., 6¾ per cent. The review of the finances already before you, together with the brief report of the situation which I have put to you, prove that this Presidency is not in a position to borrow further for unproductive expenditure, and the very drastic curtailment of all Government activities which will be necessary in the next year cannot from the nature of things be continued permanently. Some of the cuts, such as those on repairs to buildings and communications must be made good, and it is impossible for us to expect that any reorganisation of the administration can bring us down to a total figure of expenditure less by at least 2 crores than the corresponding figure of 10 years ago. In addition we have to provide for the financing of the deficits of the past year and current year to which I have already referred. This then is the reason for the introduction of the Bill.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

I have to give a short history of this Succession Duty Bill. This Bill is ready since 1923 and for one reason or the other it has not been placed before this honourable House. The idea of taxing succession or inheritance is a very old one and, if we look to history, we find that even the Egyptians and the Romans had this form of taxation. It is a tax which is levied in all the civilised countries of Europe, America and Asia. It is a very fair tax as it falls on broad shoulders and it is not touching the poor man. It is easy to collect; it is not inequitable and will bring a good round sum to the coffers of Government. Professor K. T. Shah in his "Sixty Years of Indian Finance" (page 328) observes that—

"there could be no great objection to the Succession Duty if very small properties are exempted and if we set up a reasonably liberal system of refunds for excessive collections. With such safeguards the Succession Duty might, even in India, afford an easy, convenient and handsome source of public revenue."

The Taxation Enquiry Committee in their Volume I (pages 261–278) discuss this form of taxation and observe as follows:

"Duties on inheritance or succession are levied in most of the countries of Europe, in several countries of the New World, in most of the British Colonies and in Asia, Ceylon, Japan and Straits Settlements.

Such duties have got the support of great economists like Bentham and Mill who advocated drastic limitations upon the right of unconditional succession. As a form of taxation which falls pre-eminently upon accumulated wealth, they have found special favour with democratic thinkers."

The Taxation Committee have further discussed the possibility of levying this form of taxation on joint Hindu families, and also for removing the inequalities in the incidence of the existing probate duties and as a necessary measure of law reform. And they have suggested that in order that there should be uniformity in law the legislation should be undertaken by the Central Legislature.

Having said so much about the necessity of taxation and the form that such taxation should take, I will shortly deal with the Bill itself as it stands before the House.

The honourable House must have noticed that it has not taken the shape of an estate duty. Property in the air is not taxed. When it descends by succession, inheritance or survivorship, then that is made taxable. The tax is graduated according to consanguinity and near relationship. The nearer the heir the less he pays. Agricultural properties are sought to be taxed the minimum, though some letters have appeared in the press showing that there is no reason why large landowners who pay no income tax should pay a very small succession duty. That is a question which will be dealt with in the select committee. Small properties are not taxed. Properties worth up to Rs. 2,000 are exempt. No doubt the Taxation Committee suggested an exemption up to Rs. 5,000, but, as I have already observed, it is not property that is taxed, it is the share which any particular individual gets which is taxed and then there are several concessions also given. So if a person leaves property worth Rs. 8,000 and it is inherited by five sons in equal shares, they pay no tax because the share of each is less than Rs. 2,000. Now I may pause here and say that the scale is graduated in such a way that supposing there is a property worth Rs. 12,500 instead of Rs. 8,000, these descendants will each inherit Rs. 2,500 but they will not pay the full duty of Rs. 50 at the rate of 2 per cent., but they will pay one-tenth, i.e. Rs. 5 only. There is even one exemption for the first two thousand. That aspect of the Bill has got to be very carefully studied. It has been urged everywhere that the taxation is so crushing, that the Bill is so framed that it will actually throw a great burden upon the poor and that this burden will fall upon every one. Let me therefore emphasise that the tax is so graduated and that the Bill has been so diluted that there is hardly any duty worth being levied on such an estate. If it had been in the form of estate duty, the bulk of the property, as it makes a descent, would have been taxed. That is not the scheme of the present Bill. When an heir or legatee gets property which is more than Rs. 2,000, then that is taxed. Honourable members will further notice that if any property is given for charitable purposes, that is fully exempt from the tax.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

As regards any business or company not doing business under the Indian Companies Act, if there are successive deaths within a period of five years the duty is reduced, full duty not being levied. In a joint Hindu family, the share of a coparcener is liable to be reduced by a birth and augmented by a death. So, if there is no disruption in the family, it is not proposed to tax the coparceners if a death occurs which augments their shares, because every birth also diminishes their shares; and so the age limit for such taxation is put down at 18, that is, if a member of the joint Hindu family dies after he reaches 18 years, then his share which is taken by the survivors is sought to be taxed. The idea is that if he had claimed for a partition, he would have got a particular share as his own and that share goes to the other survivors; but if the survivor takes something which is less than Rs. 2,000, then again there is no tax. I emphasize this point particularly because it is not the bulk of the property which is taxed but only the share which an individual takes which is liable to tax. That will give relief to many families of all communities. Similarly, annuities and reversions are proposed to be taxed according to the benefit which accrues to the person taking the annuity or the reversioner. An appeal is allowed against the valuation and other decisions of the Collector to the District Judge in the mofussil and to the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes in the Island of Bombay. From some of the amendments of which notice has been given, I find that some honourable members desire that there should be an appeal allowed to Their Lordships in the High Court. That question I am prepared to consider in the select committee, and you may allow an appeal to the High Court or whatever you like.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Provision is made against any charging of double duties. If a person has paid duty on probate or letters of administration, he does not pay succession duty, or if he has paid the succession duty, to that extent he gets a refund out of the probate duties.

The present state of the law is that only certain communities pay any death duty; while Hindus, Mahomedans, Buddhists, Jains and Indian Christians are exempted. Only in cases where the Hindu Wills Act applies (viz., as regards wills made in Bombay and wills relating to property situated in Bombay) is a probate necessary.

Under section 19 (d) of the Court-fees Act, even if letters of administration are required for properties of a Hindu joint family, the decisions of the High Court are that they are to be given without stamp duty, while if a European or a Parsi applies for a probate or letters of administration, he has got to pay full stamp duty upon the whole property. It is true that it is not obligatory upon any person to take out probate or letters of administration, but if he goes to a Court of law and asks the aid of the Court, that aid in the shape of a decree is not given, unless probate is taken if there is a will, or letters of administration if there is no will.

The other two relevant acts are the Succession Certificate Act, which is now repealed and the provisions of which are incorporated in part X of the Indian Succession Act of 1925, and the Bombay Regulation of 1827 for obtaining an heirship certificate. But in the first case the duties are paid only for such properties as are to be covered by a succession certificate, and in order to remove all these anomalies and to bring all the communities upon an equal level this bill is sought to be introduced.

The Bill which was published in February 1931 contained two clauses dealing with certain sections of the Indian Succession Act. It is now thought better to dispose of this question in a separate Act, and it is intended to introduce a Bill for that in the Budget session. It is a formal measure for equalising all communities and to get over the interpretation of section 19 (d) of the Court-fees Act. This will be a separate measure by itself, and so it will be separately brought before this honourable House.

The schedule of duties shows that it is regulated according to the value of the property, the duty rising as the bulk of the property increases. The duty is regulated to the very minimum, so that impetus to saving will not be affected. If there are fraudulent transfers to avoid the duty, power is given to the Collector to look into them, if the transfers are within a few months of the man's death, but bona fide transfers are not touched. Moveable property situated outside the Presidency either in any part of British India or in a foreign state is sought to be taxed if the owner of the property has had his domicile in the Bombay Presidency. Immoveable property situated within the Presidency but belonging to a person domiciled outside the Presidency is also sought to be taxed.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

I have now explained, clearly I hope, the main provisions of the Bill. It will be admitted that an attempt has been made to keep the duty as low as possible and to distribute the incidence as equitably as possible, the more distant relations and strangers paying more than near relations.

It is not intended to take this Bill through all the three readings in this session. It is proposed to send it to a select committee. Admittedly, it is a difficult measure, and it is possible that several corrections in the drafting as well as in the main provisions may be required. A legal difficulty occurred in clause 5, after the Bill was published, about the words "entitled in possession." So, I have tabled an amendment in order to get over that difficulty, because perhaps it may be thought that this is an amendment of principle. There may be amendments in drafting which, not being amendments of principle, could be made in the select committee or in the second reading. If the honourable House is pleased to accept the first reading and to send the Bill to a select committee in its amended form, the second and third readings will be taken in the Budget session, so that it may become operative from 1st April 1932.

With these remarks, I commend this Bill for the acceptance of this honourable House. [Applause.]

Question proposed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Before the House proceeds to discuss the first reading of the Bill, I should like to consult the House in the matter of the procedure they would like to follow. There are several principles involved in this Bill, which could be said to be the principles of the Bill. But the main principle is whether a taxation in the form of a succession duty should be levied or not, and involved in that are the other principles which I may call the secondary principles, viz., whether it should be a permanent measure, whether it should apply to the whole of the Presidency; whether it should apply to all the sections of society including joint Hindu families. Now, honourable members have tabled a number of amendments on these points. The House may now choose to discuss the main principle, viz., the first one that I mentioned, whether the House is willing to accept the Bill in its chief principle of allowing a taxation of this kind, or, as is usual, they may take up an amendment, discuss it, and at the same time speak generally on the Bill; or they may adopt a third method, if both sides of the House agree, particularly the honourable mover of the Bill, that all these amendments, which are, as I said secondary but of principle, may be taken up in the select committee. To repeat, the main principle may be discussed here, and if the House agrees upon the main principle that a succession duty should be accepted in the first reading, all the other amendments may be taken up in the select committee, if both sides of the House agree.

[The President]

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I am quite agreeable to take all the amendments which are not amendments of principle to the select committee. I have myself tabled an amendment regarding the position of a coparcener as regards possession in a joint Hindu family. If you allow even that amendment to be considered in the select committee, I have not the least objection.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: We can proceed with the discussion, as regards the principle of taxation.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I accept the suggestion of the two honourable leaders that the main principle whether the House is ready to accept a taxation of this kind should be discussed now. I think the House may proceed with the discussion now on that main principle. The motion for the first reading is, therefore, now before the House.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Before we take up discussion of the Bill, I wish to make a request. The Retrenchment Committee's report is just placed in our hands. That is an important report which the House has to read and see what proposals they have made to make savings. Many honourable members desire that they should be given time to read the report and discuss it, before the Bill itself is discussed. Therefore, it would be better if the discussion of the Bill itself is postponed till to-morrow.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is asking too much. I know that the report has been placed in my hands just now and I have not even opened it. I would feel handicapped myself, if any honourable member refers to it. It is very reasonable that they should have time to read the report. If the Government had been able to place the report in their hands yesterday, it would have been much better, but to allow a separate discussion on the report itself will be going against the aim and purpose of this session. Honourable members will be justified in referring to the possible avenues of retrenchment in connection with this particular taxation. But the Retrenchment Committee's report itself is not before the House for discussion.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Even His Excellency has referred to it and I myself have mentioned in my speech that the report was placed in our hands only to-day. Government have not even considered the report. How is it possible to discuss it?

Dr. J. A. COLLACO: Sir, I wish to point out that this is putting the cart before the horse. We do not know whether extra money is necessary. Unless we go through the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee, we will not be able to decide it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I cannot allow the discussion of the Retrenchment Committee's Report by itself. I would allow half an hour to honourable members to read the report, if it suits them. [Honourable Members: "No, no".] Honourable members are speaking among themselves without helping me in the matter. If any honourable member has any proposal to make, let him stand and speak.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI: It is only fair that the House should be allowed to go through the report and make up their minds. The one point made by the Honourable the Finance Member is that the finances of the Presidency are in such a condition as to necessitate additional taxation. In order to arrive at a proper conclusion, the House must have some time to go through the report. It is, therefore, better that the House should adjourn now till to-morrow.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA: I admit that we must have a fair idea of the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee. But we have just now heard from the Honourable the Finance Member that the amount of retrenchment effected by the committee will by no means suffice to rehabilitate the financial position of this Presidency. In that case, I do not see any reason why the discussion of the Bill itself should be delayed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No speech is necessary. The honourable member makes a proposal that the House should adjourn till to-morrow. If half an hour is added to the tea interval, it will give them one hour. Would that do?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Let us proceed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Let the House proceed with the Bill.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: Let us adjourn for tea now. [None rose to speak.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: This is creating an awkward situation. If honourable members have decided that not one of them will speak on this Bill, I may put the question. If honourable members on this side of the House, on the other hand, expect any other member from the Government benches to speak after the Honourable the Finance Member, it is unfair. Some non-official member should speak before another member from the Government benches speaks.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The Honourable the Finance Member said that the Retrenchment Committee's Report as such has not been considered by Government. Still they want to proceed with the discussion of this Bill, even before their seeing whether the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee would dispense with the necessity for this taxation. If that is so, we should make no speeches.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: The pros and cons have been known to the people for several years.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If honourable members do not wish to make remarks, they cannot be compelled to do so. I have made the financial position very clear. I have shown them that in the working of the last year there was a minus balance of 60 lakhs. As has been pointed out by His Excellency, the retrenchment effected will amount to a crore of rupees. In order to balance our budget, we must have 150 lakhs——

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Is the Honourable Member entitled to make a speech ?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Because the honourable member referred to it, I am explaining it.

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: Sir, you are the custodian of the privileges and rights of this House. I appeal to you in all seriousness to protect us from the predicament in which we are placed. Here is a Retrenchment Committee's Report placed in our hands just now. Here is a Succession Duty Bill also placed in our hands just now. [Honourable members: "No, no".] Here is the Succession Duty Bill, the first reading of which has been moved just now.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is more correct.

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: This is a taxation measure. We are asked to give our consent to it on the ground that there is a deficit. I grant it for the sake of argument. But in February of last year we with the consent of Government appointed this Retrenchment Committee. That committee sat for several months and has made a report. Is it not our duty and right to read this report carefully and try carefully to find out whether the recommendations made by this committee are of such a character that they will cover the deficit so that there will be no need for this Bill ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What does the honourable member speak on ?

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: On the Bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: On the first reading ?

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: No.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If honourable members are desirous of speaking on the report——

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: We do not want to speak.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If they want that the House should be adjourned till to-morrow, I have no objection.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The Chair has ruled that we should proceed with the discussion.

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: There may be some members of this House who may accept the principle of the Bill as such apart from the financial policy of the Government of Bombay. But if Government are going to treat us in the manner in which they have been treating, so far as this Bill is concerned, I have no alternative but to oppose it. I was originally prepared to vote for its first reading. But if we are treated in this manner, I am helpless. I appeal to you as the custodian of our rights to protect us from this embarrassment.

[Mr. R. R. Bakhale]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I would willingly do so. I said that in the beginning. What the honourable member stated has appealed to the Government side and not to the non-official side. The majority of members on the non-official side do not wish that the House should be adjourned.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: But that is your privilege, Sir.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Instead of wasting time like this, the question may be put to the vote.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The question of adjourning till to-morrow?

An Honourable MEMBER: There is no such question before the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Does the honourable member Mr. Bakhale move that the consideration of the Bill be adjourned till to-morrow?

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: I make no motion, Sir.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Sir, I move that the House be adjourned till to-morrow for the consideration of and discussion on this Bill and for the consideration of the Retrenchment Committee's report.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I shall put it to the House.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: The motion is for the consideration of the Retrenchment Committee's report. Is that relevant to this Bill?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The motion is that the consideration of the Bill be adjourned till to-morrow, on the ground that that would give honourable members time to read the Retrenchment Committee's report.

Question put, and negatived.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That motion having been lost, the first reading of the Bill is before the House and any honourable members on this (non-official) side, if they choose to speak, may do so. We shall now adjourn for tea.

An Honourable MEMBER: It is not yet half-past-four.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The central table has to be brought in again and readjusted. The House will adjourn till quarter to five for tea.

(After recess.)

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Mr. President, when I was studying the agenda of this session, I came to the conclusion that the only duty which would fall upon me would be that of answering questions. I never expected that I should have to speak upon this Bill, seeing that

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

I cannot claim to be either a lawyer or a financial expert. I knew that there were many accomplished lawyers and perhaps even more financial experts in this House who would be much more competent than I could ever claim to be, to deal with a Bill of this nature; and, therefore, I practically imposed upon myself a vow of silence. But circumstances alter cases; and since apparently none of the accomplished lawyers or the financial experts whom I see in serried rows opposite to me is prepared to rise and discuss this very important question, I feel that I cannot let the matter go by default. And, therefore, although as I say I have no special knowledge of either of these subjects, yet I do claim the right as a member of this House and a citizen of Bombay to address a few words to the House on what appears to me to be a serious crisis in the history—not only the financial but the political history—of this Presidency.

After what has fallen from my honourable colleague, the Leader of the House, I do not think that I need emphasise the serious nature of the crisis; and I confess I am a little surprised at the apparent levity with which my honourable friends opposite appear to regard it. I use the words "apparent levity" because I am quite sure that in their hearts they realise what a serious stage has been reached, and that when they go home this evening and reflect upon the attitude they have taken up to-day, they will perhaps in their hearts wonder whether it was a wise and statesmanlike attitude. In the eloquent address that we heard from His Excellency this afternoon an appeal was made to this House to assist Government in finding a way out of the very serious impasse in which we now find ourselves. And what is the response? The response is that I understand that no member of the opposition is prepared to get up and discuss the merits of this question. Of course, if that meant that every honourable member was going to support with his vote this carefully thought-out measure, then there would be nothing more to say than that it is an excellent action on their part, because it would save us the inevitable expenditure of continuing this session. But I am afraid that it would be unduly optimistic of me if I anticipated that all my honourable friends opposite were going into the "Aye" lobby. From my experience of this House, I am afraid I must anticipate that they are going to adopt a very different course. But I would point out to them that, in doing so, they will have given the Government no assistance whatever in dealing with the serious financial crisis which is now upon us. They will not have told us what is their objection to this Bill. They will not have explained to us whether it is that they object to every taxation Bill as such and are not prepared to assist us in raising any more revenue of any kind, or whether it is that they object to this particular form of taxation, that is to say, a Succession Duty Bill or anything in the nature of a Succession Duty Bill. If some of my honourable friends had just got up and explained to us what are the grounds of their opposition, Government at any rate would have had some little assistance in finding alternatives. At the present moment, we are entirely in the dark as to whether the House is fully determined that they will not consent to any extra taxation being imposed or whether having considered this Bill, they think that it is an unfair way of raising revenue. I will put before the honourable House what I think a very just complaint on the part of this side of the House. If, as I understand, the suggestion is that without any remarks in opposition we are to go into the division lobby, I venture to suggest to this House that it is not a very statesmanlike attitude. I think I can say with pardonable pride as a Bombay citizen that for the past 10 or 12 years this House has generally taken a reasonable and statesmanlike attitude of its responsibilities and in many cases has been a good example to other legislatures. Now, what will be said by thinking men of the attitude of the representatives of the people who, when they are faced with the gravest crisis that has come upon us probably in the last 50 years and when a responsible Government comes forward with a carefully considered proposal, refuse even to give the matter a moment's consideration, at any rate in this House? It seems to me that it will be said that this House has abdicated its functions; and that is probably one of the gravest charges that can be brought against any popular assembly. What a contrast to the action of the House of Commons when it was faced, not so many weeks ago, with a similar—though probably a greater—crisis! All parties or practically all parties combined to support the Government in its determination to balance its budget at all costs, not only by means of retrenchment but also by means of increased taxation—and that at a time when the burden of taxation—you may take this from me—was far more crushing than it is at present in India. Well, comparisons are odious; and I have no wish to stress that point unduly. But I would have liked to feel that this House was prepared to imitate the good example of the Mother of Parliaments and maintain its reputation as a wise and sagacious body. As far as Government is concerned, we feel that we have done our duty. It is an unpleasant task proposing taxation. No Government, not even an irremovable Government, likes taxation. But we feel,—it is a point upon which we are indeed unanimous,—we feel that next year at all costs we must balance our budget. We cannot balance it this year. Circumstances have been too strong for us. But if we can get the House to pull with us, I feel sure that we can make a very good attempt towards balancing it next year. Honourable members opposite will say to us, "You can balance your budget by retrenchment." Well, Sir, I have not yet had the opportunity of studying the report of the Retrenchment Committee; but necessarily we have all been in touch, more or less, with the work of that Committee. And I may assure the House, with all possible emphasis and with a due sense of responsibility, that I am quite convinced that any retrenchment which is possible next year will not balance the budget, and when honourable members have studied the proposals of the Retrenchment Committee, I feel perfectly convinced that they will agree with me.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Mr. W. F. Hudson]

As to the complaint of an honourable member that it was unfair on our part to bring forward this Bill before honourable members had the report of the Retrenchment Committee in their hands, all I can say is that it was not the fault of the Government that the report was not in their hands. Every effort was made to place it in the hands of honourable members at least a week ago, but circumstances over which Government have no control made that impossible. Nevertheless, I maintain that it would make no difference to the point which I am urging at the moment, and that is that in addition to retrenchment we must have extra taxation.

I do not think it is necessary for me at this stage to repeat the arguments of my honourable friend the Finance Member about the impossibility of our continuing to live on borrowed money. I have frequently heard criticisms in this House—I think very well-placed criticisms—of the undesirability of increasing our loan commitments. Our unproductive debt now carries a very high rate of interest, and even if we thought it was a sound method of finance, the time must come—and I want to impress this upon the House—the time must come when we shall find that we shall not be able to borrow money, and that time I feel convinced is rapidly approaching. At any rate, no one will lend money, neither the Government of India nor the public, to any Government which has not clearly laid down a policy of balancing its budget as quickly as possible. That is an every day truism; unless the investors or the Government of India are convinced that we are prepared at all costs to balance our budget, they will cut off supplies. In private life, as honourable members know, if you do not balance your budget and continue on that downward course, you very soon find yourself in one place, namely, the bankruptcy court, and I am quite sure that although there is no bankruptcy court for Governments, nevertheless the results are precisely the same—we shall not be able to carry on with our administration.

Having laid down these general principles, I just want the House to bear with me for a moment while I consider what the result will be if we are not prepared to increase our revenues. I am the Revenue Member and it is my misfortune to try and collect a very large proportion of the revenues of this Government, and I daresay the House is aware that it becomes more and more difficult to carry out those duties owing to the general fall in commodity prices. Several resolutions have already been tabled, though I am afraid they will not come on this session, suggesting to Government that they should reduce the land revenue this year by 50 per cent. I am sure the House will be glad to hear from me that, as at present advised, Government have no intention of doing anything of the kind; but if they did, there would be nearly another two crores of rupees to be found, but I am afraid the House will refuse to find any other source of revenue, as it apparently intends to do to-day. As I have said, the two crores reduction is not likely to materialise, but honourable members will recollect that last year we had to give very large remissions of land revenue on account of the fall in prices, and although I am not at the present moment in a position to make any definite statement, I think it is becoming more and more clear that those remissions will have to be repeated and possibly extended. In his statement, my honourable friend the Finance Member did not take any account of the remissions which I fear it may be my duty in the course of the next month or two to propose to him. What I want to bring out in this connection is that the financial position on the first of April next year will in all probability be even worse than has been outlined to you to-day. That being so, it is obvious that something drastic has got to be done. It is no use whatever for honourable members to get up and say that we must have bigger cuts in salaries, because I am sure that there will be no more cuts in salaries coming at any rate during the next few years. The one we have had to make we have made with great reluctance, and I am afraid that it will hardly add to the contentment of the services. But even if we made more drastic cuts, still we should be very seriously in deficit in our budgets. It is no use talking about raising loans to tide over bad times because we have reached our limit. Now then, the only thing left to us to do (which we shall regret to do very much but which will be forced upon us) will be the drastic cutting down of nation-building services. We cannot possibly reduce those services which deal with Law and Order. They are already at an irreducible minimum, and those of us whose memory goes back eight or nine years will remember that the reduction in the police in Sind caused such serious consequences that Government could not possibly contemplate anything of the same nature generally all over the Presidency. When I was Commissioner in Sind, I never went into three or four districts without being besieged by panchayats imploring me to restore the police who had been retrenched under the directions of this House. We cannot reduce our revenue-producing establishments because if we do we shall fail to get our revenue. I am by no means satisfied with our revenue-collecting agency at present and I have not the smallest doubt that, owing to the fact that it is inadequate, a large and considerable proportion of the revenue slips through our fingers and the more we reduce the more will slip through our fingers. Very well, what is left to us? Nothing but the nation-building departments. Could this House contemplate with equanimity the cutting of say half a crore from the Education budget? I could not possibly contemplate it with anything but the gravest regret, and yet what else is left to us? This House has given us money in the past to maintain the rather high standards which we have attained in the Bombay Presidency. Very well then, unless we get more money now, those high standards cannot be maintained. That is all about it.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

I do not think that I need say anything more. I am not competent to discuss the merits of this Bill, but I am old enough to remember the time when a Bill of this nature was first introduced into England and I can well remember the outcry there was. It very nearly brought down the Government; everyone said and everyone I think honestly believed that it meant the ruination of property, the ruination of estates, that it was a great injustice to successors. I do not suppose any Chancellor of the Exchequer came in for so much abuse as the Chancellor of the Exchequer who introduced the succession duties. But there has been no Chancellor since then who has not thanked God that his predecessor had the courage to do that and no one would ever dream for one second of repealing or in any serious degree modifying the system under which the succession duty is imposed.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Of course, none of us like new ideas, and of course we all realise that there is a particular difficulty in this country owing to the Hindu joint family system. But difficulties are meant to be got over and there is no question whatever that this has been accepted as a sound principle of taxation in a very large number of the civilised countries of the world. India rightly claims to be one of those civilised countries. I do not wish to draw a distinction (as was done last session by one speaker) between India and the other civilised countries of the world, and I see no reason whatever why, if the succession duty has proved a success elsewhere, it should not be an equal success in India. Adjustments I know will have to be made. I do look forward to a thoroughly competent and energetic select committee putting this Bill into shape. I am sure that our draftsmen do not claim to be infallible and I am also quite sure that my honourable friend the Legal Remembrancer will be very glad to receive the assistance of the very able lawyers on the opposite side in putting this Bill into a shape as unobjectionable as possible. If, however, this Bill is thrown out without so much as a discussion, without a word of criticism, without any argument, it will throw Government back on its other resources, which are limited and may be extremely unpleasant. I therefore sincerely hope that we shall not be driven to make use of any of them. I would once again appeal to this House to try and take a statesmanlike view of the situation, to realise what we are seriously up against. Unpleasant as this taxation is, still more unpleasant will be the cutting off of those amenities of life which have made this Presidency, I think I may fairly say, well in advance of most of the rest of India; but I would impress upon the House that unless we can balance our budget next year, we shall have to take a definite step backwards. [Applause.]

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA (Bombay City, South): Sir, I feel that it is my duty to rise in order to urge that the principle of this Bill should be discussed on its merits, if for nothing else only to uphold the prestige, the dignity and the honour of this honourable House. I am very much pained and surprised to see that honourable members on this side of the House are not willing to pronounce even one word either for or against this Bill. I rise, Sir, to support the Bill that is now before this honourable House. It is obvious and clear that in normal times taxation, in whatever form it may be, is odious and annoying. But I beg to submit, Sir, that the times we are living in are far from normal. They are as abnormal as they for the present can be. Taking it for granted, therefore, that there is a serious abnormality existing just now in the matter of the finances of the Presidency, I feel it behoves this honourable House, either in justification or condemnation of the Bill, to enquire and determine, firstly, why the times are so abnormal and, secondly, on whom the responsibility of this pressing abnormality rests. Sir, there are to my mind three factors concerned in this enquiry; two of them objectively and one subjectively. The two factors concerned objectively are the Government that seeks to introduce this Bill for the purpose of government of the Presidency, and the citizens of this Presidency from whom it is sought to levy and collect the tax. The factor that is concerned subjectively is this honourable House, who are the judges and on whom falls the sacred and important duty of viewing the subject matter in all its aspects in order to decide whether this Bill should become law or whether it should not become law. Sir, I am sure the House would agree that there is no doubt that the present sad and abnormal circumstances by which the Government of this Presidency seems to be hemmed in, and as a result of which the Government are faced with a deficit, which we have just learnt from the Honourable the Finance Member is Rs. 1,91,00,000, can be definitely put down, in the main, to serious economic depression. The question, therefore, which this honourable House has got to ask itself at this important juncture is: who is responsible for this sad and deplorable condition in the state of affairs in this Presidency?

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

An Honourable MEMBER: Government.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA: Well, Sir, an honourable member said "Government". I hope to prove just now during the course of my arguments that Government are not wholly and in the main responsible for it. Sir, it cannot be denied that India, or if I may confine myself to a limited area, the Presidency, is just now passing through a silent revolution. The case of the Presidency is not that of a shot or a bullet of a normal revolution that puts an end to existence, without undue agony, and is then followed by regeneration and return to normality. But, Sir, the case of the Presidency is that of a silent revolution which is sapping the financial blood of the Presidency by means of processes we have read and heard of so often—satyagrahas and non-violent boycott. Sir, in this matter, I anticipate,—even though the anticipation may not be realised because certain sections of the House are not going to comment upon this Bill either this way or that way,—it may be said that the blame for this serious financial embarrassment can be laid at the door of Government, on account of their so-called three capital sins: the Back Bay Reclamation, the Sukkur Barrage and the top-heaviness of the Government of this province. As against this possible statement, which fortunately or unfortunately is not going to be made, I submit that I am not referring to the financial stringency and embarrassment of a few years back which resulted in the clipping of the activities of the Back Bay Reclamation and the Sukkur Barrage schemes, but I am referring to the present financial stringency which has been caused by acts and facts that have occurred more recently. Regarding the statement made in respect to the top-heaviness of the Government administration, I might say that the question about this never arose and would not have arisen if the non-violent methods I have referred to had not been resorted to. Sir, on the other hand, Government, who have brought the standard of efficiency and civilisation in this Presidency to a high pitch, are committed to provide for certain amenities, and these amenities must be in consonance with the standard of civilisation that has been attained in this Presidency. This honourable House has got to admit that education, medical relief, sanitation, public health, police measures, and other amenities of this kind have got to be provided by Government in a measure that becomes the standard of efficiency to which this Presidency has been raised. I therefore submit that any measure suggested by Government to reimburse themselves with funds to carry on these obligations has got to be viewed with a broad mind and without the least bit of taint of personal or communal interests.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Sir, dealing now with the Bill to provide for a duty on succession in the Presidency, I submit that there are two features about it which ought to render it straightway acceptable to the entire House. The first is that it seeks to tap sources that are full, and may in certain cases be considered to be windfalls. In addition to tapping sources that are full, as I shall presently indicate, only a very small moiety is taken from what comes to one by way of will, inheritance, succession or survivorship. The second feature that I would refer to is that after the stabilisation of this source of income—and I dare say that if this Bill is passed, Government and the Honourable House cannot expect the income to stabilise for a period of a year and a half or two years—one feels that the hands of Government will be eased for purposes of the collection of revenue in other directions. What I refer to is that, if this income of fifty lakhs to a crore is assured to Government for a period of a year or two, Government will certainly be enabled to take off their hands from other taxation which is pressing heavily upon the citizens of this Presidency. [Interruption.] The honourable member interrupting me wishes to say something. I have not heard what he has to say, otherwise I should have replied to him.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. The honourable member may proceed.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA: Another feature about this tax is its fairness and the equableness of incidence which it is sought to arrive at. Under existing conditions, with due deference to the Moslem and Hindu honourable members of this House, we know that the Hindus and Muhammadans are exempt from duties of this kind. Therefore, any tax which makes the incidence fair and equable, I think, ought to be accepted. I do not bring this fact out because I feel that some communities have to pay this tax while others do not have to pay it, but the fairness of the incidence is a feature which this Bill seeks to introduce.

The next point that I wish to dwell upon is the extent of the burden of taxation that will have to be borne as a result of this Bill becoming law. Possibly there is an impression that the pressure of this tax would be very great indeed. In fact it is so miserably small that I think the anticipated amount of fifty lakhs to a crore will not be realised ; I do not think it would yield even half of it. I make this statement after a certain amount of calculation. To give an instance, in the case of the nearest relation, when a husband dies and leaves to his wife by succession Rs. 10,000, the tax is one-tenth of 3 per cent., that is Rs. 30. Therefore, on an amount of Rs. 10,000 the tax that has to be paid is Rs. 30 only. This could not be considered as a heavy tax. [Interruption.] It is a statement which, I believe, is correct. Further, on Rs. 50,000, at 4 per cent., it is Rs. 2,000, and one-tenth of this is Rs. 200, and if we go on to a lakh of rupees, it is Rs. 500. Therefore, on the score of its being a burden and of its pressing heavily upon the citizens, I do not think it can be objected to. Passing on to the case of agricultural lands, the duty payable is one-fourth of the rate which would otherwise have been payable. Whereas in the case of the nearest lineal descendants or ascendants the duty payable is Rs. 300, in the case of agricultural land it is Rs. 75. Similarly, where the duty payable is Rs. 2,000, in the case of agricultural land the duty payable is Rs. 500, and so on. I do not think it can be considered that this taxation falls very heavily upon the parties that are going to be touched by it.

[Mr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Another point about this taxation is that it seeks to touch the rich and not the poor. There have been occasions when I have raised the point in other matters. There is no doubt that this is a tax which touches the rich. It does not touch the poor. Moneys left by will, inheritance, succession or survivorship up to Rs. 2,000 have been exempted from this tax. Dealing with the minimum limit, I would very much like that it should be raised to Rs. 3,000 or to Rs. 5,000. But this is a matter which can be easily adjusted and accommodated when the Bill, if this Honourable House chooses to do so, is sent to the select committee.

Now, Sir, in the text of the Bill there is no mention made as regards the time or the number of years this Bill is going to be on the statute book.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Permanently.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA : Even if it is intended to be permanent, I would support it if we could get a guarantee from Government that, if this Bill is put on the statute book permanently, there should be a promise made to us that there will be an easing or alleviation of the burden in the matter of other taxation in the Presidency, particularly that which presses on the citizens of Bombay and the trades they are plying. But this is again a matter which can be settled in the select committee.

Then, with regard to clause 4, I do not understand exactly what the clause means. It is stated in that clause :

"Where a person residing within the Presidency of Bombay becomes entitled under a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship to any property in the Presidency of Bombay or to any moveable property without the presidency....."

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Suppose that there is a Frenchman in Bombay who inherits some moveable property in Pondicherry, is he also liable under this Bill to pay the duty? I do not know whether this is the intention of the framers of the Bill. I take the view that it can only apply to British India and possibly the Indian States. This again is a matter which may be considered during the select committee stage of the Bill. I appeal to honourable members, for the reasons I have stated, to support the Bill and to help in discussing its pros and cons.

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Mr. President, as a Member of Government, I do not think it would be right for me to allow judgment to go by default, although two of the senior Members of Government have already spoken on this Bill. I may, however, point out with due respect to them that they belong to the irresponsible wing of the Government being irremovable by the vote of the House. I am responsible to the House and removable by its vote. [Honourable Members: "No, no".] I, therefore, think it my duty to take the House into confidence, [Interruption] and I have a right to be heard. [Some Honourable Members: "That is true".] I do not care to pursue the enquiry which has been suggested by the previous speaker as to what has brought us to this pass financially. I have no desire even to press you to pass the Bill, if you have decided to reject it. What I am concerned about is how to provide money for education. You have already heard my colleagues regarding cuts in education and I wish you to be serious about them. [An Honourable Member: "We are."]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Address the Chair please.

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Sir, I am addressing the Chair. How am I to conduct this department which is seriously threatened with further cuts? Last time a cut of 5 per cent. was imposed upon all the local authorities in connection with the primary education. Serious and frequent complaints are being made to me both orally and in the press with regard to that cut. Moreover, appeals are being made to me in the press, not to make any cuts in grants to aided colleges and secondary schools. Allow me to inform the House that if fresh sources of revenue are not found the grants to these colleges and secondary schools will be seriously cut down. I would like the House to suggest some other sources of revenue if this Bill is rejected. You know already that all nation-building departments are threatened with serious reductions. My honourable colleague the Revenue Member has said that there was no room for any reduction in his department. So also there was none in the Police and Jails Departments, so that cuts will have to be made principally in education. I have already protested on your behalf and I assure you that nobody would have made a stronger protest than I have with regard to any cut in education. [Honourable Members: "Hear, hear".]

[Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad]

Now, my honourable friend the member for the University and the champion of the advanced classes had put a question only to-day as to why Government do not allow the assistant teachers to receive their full share of promotion. I dare say he has other questions to ask regarding grants to the colleges and aided schools.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I was referring to equality of treatment for all.

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I am glad. That makes my position stronger. I am making this appeal to the classes that are backward in education. I ask how are special scholarships for these classes to be continued? [An Honourable Member: "They have stopped it".] Also how about special facilities to the depressed classes? Are they to be stopped? [An Honourable Member: "No, no".] I want to place this matter before the House for consideration. Pray let me know how am I to conduct the Educational Department efficiently, if sufficient money is not found for the purpose? I do not say that this Bill is the only source of revenue. There may be other sources in the minds of the honourable members opposite. If so, I want them to inform Government of the same. It is no use to observe silence. I know your tongues are full of denunciation, but your heads are also empty of suggestions. I am taking the House into confidence. [Interruption.] I am quite sure the House sympathises with me. I am quite sure that in the matter of education the House desires that more money should be found. I do not know by what means. Point out to Government how the money for education should be found. If this Bill is thrown out and no other means are suggested it will be a serious matter. I may say that the backward classes will suffer more in education than the advanced classes. The advanced classes have their own colleges and schools. They can conduct their schools and colleges even without the aid of Government. But the backward classes are dependent entirely on Government for higher education. [An Honourable Member: "Including Mahomedans?"] If Government imposed further cuts on the transferred departments, the result will be serious. I would like the House in conclusion to point out any course which will enable Government to tide over the present crisis. Mr. President, I have nothing more to add.

Mr. G. WILES: Sir, Government benches for once in a way find themselves in the rather curious position of being able to address this honourable House without any fear of contradiction. However, in spite of the absence of the usual fear of our pearls of wisdom being proved to be something else, I will try to put a few of them again before this honourable House. In the first instance, those honourable members who came hoping to be able to take part in a debate on the merits of this Bill have discovered that a section of the House has apparently come here determined not to listen to any argument. That section hopes, it would seem, to take advantage of other members who apparently find themselves under some sense of grievance at the course of events. Let me try to explain again, as the Honourable the Revenue Member has already done, that this concatenation of circumstances is in no way due to any action of Government. My honourable colleagues on the Retrenchment Committee will not mind my asserting that Government have from time to time in the course of the last two months made it clear that they realised the importance of their report being put before the House and the public at the earliest possible date. That was found impracticable, and as a member of the Retrenchment Committee I take my share of responsibility for the delay. That in no way alters the unfortunate result which we see here to-day.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

Another point, Sir. Government do realise that this Bill has perhaps been before the public in its present form only for a very short time. That is one of the reasons why we are most anxious that this House should commit it to a select committee wherein all the points at issue can be thoroughly fought out. It has never been pretended that a Bill of this importance could be drafted in such a shape that it was impossible of correction. In particular, there appear to me, if the Honourable the Finance Member will permit me to say so, to be several corrections possible in the financial aspect of it, which could be made in the select committee. For instance, it seems to me possible that it might meet some of the objections which I have seen recorded elsewhere if the limit of exemption were raised. That would, of course, involve raising also the percentage of the tax. But you will have seen from the public criticism that the incidence of the tax is so light that it has even brought upon us criticism that it is ridiculous. That criticism, I must admit, is not without some foundation. Government have in fact laid themselves open to this criticism in their effort to lighten the incidence of this very novel form of taxation at its first introduction.

As one who has spent—the House will pardon me for making this admission—many sleepless nights and laborious days in trying to find a way out of the impasse with which this Presidency is faced, I venture to make the plea that the House will permit this Bill to go to a select committee and be considered on its merits. Are we going to throw it out without any discussion even of the financial position which demands it, even without a reference to the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee, without any discussion of the merits of the Bill itself in its effect upon the social life of the people? I should imagine that to a stranger coming into this House it would be impossible to realise that the House is really cognisant of the seriousness of the position which faces this Presidency to-day. The Honourable the Finance Member has put before us in considerable detail the exact financial position that will face us next February and March. I am not going to apologise for saying over again a good deal of what has already been said, because I cannot help thinking that it has not reached home. The deficit which this Presidency was called upon to face last year in consequence of events which I need not enumerate in detail was 179 lakhs. A great part of that we were able, as the Honourable the Finance Member told you, to finance from sources which he has referred to. Some of those sources are earmarked for other purposes and the money has got to be given back. The sum which still requires to be made good is 60 lakhs. In the current year the deficit which started off at 61 lakhs when the budget left this House has risen, owing to a continued fall in our chief sources of revenue, by some 90 odd lakhs of rupees, so that, the total deficit which we may expect at the end of the year will amount to about 130 lakhs. Now, without retrenchment or further sources of revenue, there is no means of avoiding a repetition of this vast deficit. You have been told that Government hope to see their way to meet approximately a crore of that deficit by retrenchment. Now, how much of that retrenchment will it be possible to repeat? No retrenchment that it is possible to carry out as it were at a moment's notice, within a year, can possibly be such as can be permanently and definitely repeated. It must contain large sums which are cut temporarily from important services which cannot bear to be cut continually. You cannot cut money indefinitely from your repairs to buildings; you cannot cut money indefinitely from your repairs to communications; nor can the canals, particularly in Sind, bear the heavy cut which is put upon them more than one year in succession. I have found during the course of many years of retrenchment that my appetite for cutting departments grows with what it feeds on, and I suspect that my honourable colleagues on the Retrenchment Committee have suffered from the same—delusion, shall I call it? The amount in the retrenchment report which we have been able to recommend can be permanently repeated is comparatively small. If some of the members of the committee could persuade themselves to speak to-day, perhaps they will tell us something about it. May I try to put some words into their mouths? Perhaps it will induce some of them to speak. They may feel—undoubtedly they do feel—that there is considerable scope for permanent reduction of establishment charges. Well, we have talked about it and thought about it a good many months, and we have not come to a definite conclusion in a great many departments. I only mention that as an illustration of the great difficulties which are before Government as well as before the Retrenchment Committee. To-day they—shall I say we?—are therefore moved by force of circumstances to include in our recommendations a number of lump sum cuts which we realise cannot be repeated more than once. In these words, Sir, I think is contained in a nutshell the argument for putting this Bill through without delay. You cannot afford to delay giving remedies to the patient until he is in extremis, and if you have no remedy this patient is going to be in extremis very shortly.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

There is a sort of vague feeling among many of us that this Presidency is too costly in comparison with other parts of India. That is a complaint which I have heard repeated with great regularity, certainly during the course of the last nine years. It has been investigated and the results of the investigation have from time to time been put before the honourable House, I fear without being successful in removing some of the apprehensions. Now the reasons—(to a member) I am going to speak quite a long time yet—the reasons for this are many and they are well defined. One of the reasons for the excess in the cost of administration of this Presidency over our neighbours lies in the fact that we have a number of large industrial cities in which the cost of living is greater than in rural areas and naturally influences the cost of living in the areas from which a great part of the population is drawn.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

This honourable House, perfectly rightly in my opinion, has always set its face against any attempt to reduce in any way the emoluments of its lower paid servants. Now, if you compare the rates paid to our lower paid servants with the rates paid in most other provinces in India, you will find the reason for the higher cost of general administration.

In spite of all that has been said in the past on this point, again and again we see the old claim being made, namely, that this emergency being temporary, it must be met by temporary measures such as borrowing. Whenever that suggestion has been made I have protested against it because I realise, possibly more forcibly than most of the honourable members, the great danger involved in any such procedure. I have already told you how, willy-nilly, we have in the last two years been compelled to borrow to meet our day to day charges. And yet, in the Review which I prepared before the last session, I tried to make it perfectly clear that the Presidency had reached a stage when it could no longer afford to borrow anything more for its unproductive expenditure. And the time is coming,—I would like to add that full details are given in an appendix to the Review,—coming very shortly, when this Government will be called upon to make yet further contribution to the repayment of debt. That is because every government, every state, must progress or go back, and in the progress which, I need not tell you, has been somewhat faster than we could afford for the last 10 years, we have undertaken commitments which have not yet been met in full. There is still a considerable balance which will have to be met in the year 1935. It is absolutely impracticable, therefore, that this Presidency should mortgage its future revenues to meet expenditure from day to day. Those of us who are in close touch with the markets know that it is not a really practicable proposition to think seriously that Government can go into the market for further loans for unproductive expenditure.

This measure, Sir, not long ago was included by more than one committee in a list of the measures which they thought ought to be taken in the near future in order to set the revenues of this Presidency, which were rapidly falling owing to certain causes, upon their feet. What is it that has occurred so suddenly to render a measure which has been recommended by members of this House so unacceptable to it in spite of the crisis that has come upon us, a crisis unprecedented in its magnitude? This is an experiment, I would repeat, of the utmost importance to the financial future of India ; and I believe that all India is watching for the success of this experiment. A measure of this nature for the introduction of death duties is probably the one great change in the system of taxation in India which is bound to come. Its rejection to-day, as I hope I have been able to show, must involve the curtailment of many amenities of which this Presidency is justly proud. It would mean further retrenchment, further unemployment and be one more spoke in the wheel of the vicious circle, from which we are all trying to extricate ourselves.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE : I move the closure, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I would like to know how many honourable members from both sides wish to speak. [A few honourable members stood up.] I will call upon the honourable member Mr. Owen to speak.

Mr. A. C. OWEN (European, Presidency) : Mr. President, on behalf of the constituency which I represent, I strongly support the measure which is before the House. I think it is one of the least objectionable forms of raising revenue which any Government can introduce. It has been introduced in other countries, as we know, and especially in Great Britain, where the death duties are on a much higher scale than that which it is proposed to introduce in this Presidency. I think, therefore, that the principle of this Bill is quite unobjectionable and I am surprised at the attitude of the honourable members opposite. Government is faced with acute financial stringency and loss of revenue, and it is up to every one of us to support Government in its efforts to balance its budget.

The Honourable the Revenue Member has told us that in England, when Government were unable to balance their budget, they placed the position before the House of Commons and all parties combined to support the Government, and we know that now the position has considerably improved there. It is, therefore, up to every responsible party in this House to come to the help of Government. Government have told us that they have explored every avenue of income and have looked into every head of expenditure. We know that it was on the recommendation of this House that a Retrenchment Committee was appointed and that Committee has submitted its report, and we trust that Government will carry out their recommendations so far as is consistent with efficiency. It seems to me that Government have done all they can to reduce expenditure. Now they are trying to increase their income by legitimate means and come before this House and say that it is absolutely necessary to introduce succession duties in order to raise additional revenue. What does the House say ? The House practically says that it refuses to grant this request. How can you carry on the government if you refuse to grant supplies ? The Honourable Minister for Education has told us that it will be impossible for him to carry on the scheme of education unless he receives the full grant. We know that he will not receive this grant unless we pass this Bill and furnish Government with funds. I think that we are neglecting our duty in rejecting this Bill. We are all anxious to get responsible government; and yet when a measure of this kind comes up before us, we shelve our responsibility and throw it upon Government. I think I have said all that is to be said in favour of this Bill and resume my seat.

[Mr. A. C. Owen]

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Sir, ever since I have been in this House, I have been always hearing about taxation. It is not a new thing for honourable members to hear about reduced incomes and increased expenditure. This honourable House has in the past supported taxation proposals.

I would like to go into the merits of the present proposal. I look at it from one aspect, namely, whether the taxation which is going to be introduced will be detrimental to the masses in particular, and to the capitalists and rich people and would-be inheritors of large fortunes. As far as I can see, this Bill has been introduced with the object of tapping a source of revenue which has up to now not been touched. Just now I heard the Honourable Minister for Education say that he was helpless in regard to finding ways and means to meet the increasing demand for primary education. If there are any people who are hard hit by the increased taxation, and by all the ways and means thought about and put into practice by this honourable House, the masses remain where they were and where they are, notwithstanding any measures of amelioration which this honourable House might propose in their favour. Education has made no appreciable progress at all amongst the masses. The prohibition policy, which has been so rigidly and rightly pursued during the past few years, has resulted in a dwindling of the income from the Excise Department which used to contribute about 4½ crores of rupees to the revenues of this Government. There is now a reduction of about two crores in that department's revenue or it may even be more. That deficit also has to be made up. The money derived from the Excise Department was being utilized for spreading education and for other nation-building departments, although it was not quite proper on the part of Government to make use of that tainted money for nation-building departments, and although it was Government's duty to have resorted to other ways and means in order to help the nation-building departments. In the past, I have run down the policy of getting money from the policy of making people drink liquor, and to use that ill-gotten money for education among the poorer classes and backward classes,—the very classes from whom such tainted money came. Even now, I do strongly support the prohibition policy, which I do desire should be continued very rigidly hereafter. It is, of course, very easy for us to talk of all these things and always to urge reduction of expenditure. The Retrenchment Committee has been sitting for the past few months, and on that committee there are patriotic members of this House. My honourable friend Mr. Hoosenally Rahimtoola is there and also other members like Khan Bahadur Allahbaksh. All of them are striving for the welfare of the province. Although they tried their level best to tackle the subject and to deal with it adequately and fully they could not do so and were thus unable to come to a final conclusion and to suggest ways and means of effecting savings to the extent of 2 crores. With the greatest difficulty they have been able to suggest economies of about 30 to 35 lakhs only, in their interim report last July. It has been stated in the recent report of the committee that they have been able to cut down expenditure to the extent of about 1 crore. But from the statements which I have heard and which the honourable House has heard from the mouth of the Honourable the Finance Member, I understand that the deficit actually is 190 lakhs. So, there still remains a deficit of 90 lakhs which has to be made up. Therefore, what better measure could be devised than the present Bill for ensuring the betterment and the welfare of the masses and the poorer classes who are to be left untouched by this Bill, which only seeks to touch fortunes that go to successors who cannot rightly be said to have worked for or earned those fortunes, left to them by their deceased ancestors or relations? Only recently, in London, in private meetings, when Mr. Gandhi was heckled and asked by the public what he would do if the sole power was vested in him, he said, "I would sit tight upon the capitalists and the rich people. I would not allow my masses or my people, to whom my heart goes and to whom my kindness goes, to be in any way trampled down by the capitalist classes and by the rich people." Mahatmaji even went to the extent of saying that whenever a man got Rs. 100 he would force out or take out Rs. 50 from that hundred and hand it over to the masses. If this is the sentiment of the leader of the whole of India, what should be the sentiment of this House? As we see it to-day, it is not in agreement with Mr. Gandhi's views.

[Mr. P. G. Solanki]

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Gandhiji never said so.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: The newspapers said so; even the nationalist newspapers said so.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Gandhiji had in mind a National Government, not the present Government.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: I do not yield to interruptions, Sir. I admire the courage of Gandhiji, but I want my honourable friends in this House also to gather similar courage and come forward and speak out their minds, and not to sit with their mouths shut in the manner they are doing now. Why be dumb and mute, and put obstacles in the way of the Government? They know very well that this session was specially called to get this Bill through. That being so, if my honourable friends did not want to take any part in the discussion, they could very well have stayed at their homes and not put Government to the expense of paying their travelling and other expenses. How should we know their minds if they refuse to give expression to their views for or against the Bill——

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Does the honourable member suggest that only those members who vote with Government should draw the travelling allowances, and not the others?

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Proceeding with my remarks, Sir, I am convinced that this Bill is not going to affect or work hard on the people who may inherit property under Rs. 2,000. This limit of Rs. 2,000 appears to me to be quite susceptible of being increased to Rs. 10,000 at least, if not Rs. 15,000. At the same time, I would request the Government and the Honourable the Finance Member in particular, that they might consider the question of increasing the percentage on inheritances of those people who will get over and above Rs. 15,000, on a graduated scale and on a somewhat higher scale than the present percentage.

The nation-building departments have been suffering to such an extent that I know of cases where not only backward class students, but also Mahomedan students, who used to get scholarships, have been deprived of those scholarships on the plea of financial stringency. All the facts that are necessary for a correct appreciation of the present situation have been very ably placed before us by the Honourable the Finance Member and his able Secretary. We cannot refute those facts. Neither have any of us come forward with any constructive proposals indicating ways and means, although it is very necessary for the opposition benches to indicate such ways and means. This duty falls upon the opposition benches with greater force, because the Government benches have tried their level best and brought forward their own scheme before this House. It is now for this House, and up to all the honourable members, whether they are members of the Mahomedan, Non-Brahmin, Backward communities or Labour, to realise that if this Bill is thrown out, Government will have to seek other means to prevent a paralysis of the administration which is bound to follow in future if the necessary money is not forthcoming through this Bill becoming an Act. Government will neither be thwarted nor be rendered helpless. Government wield other powers, by the exercise of which they can get this Bill made into law or else Government will try to introduce other taxation proposals which the people will have to oppose or submit to. If, however, it is conceded that the principle of this Bill is good, then where is the harm in referring it to a select committee, so that we can get rid of the undesirable portions of it? The select committee may consist of a majority of honourable members representing all sides of this House who can go through each clause of the Bill and modify it. With the help of the impartial and able criticisms of the opposite benches on the committee, I believe that we shall be able to bring forward such a measure as will be acceptable to all sides and parties of this House. With these words, I accept the principle of the Bill and resume my seat.

Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN: I move the closure, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I am trying to see if any other non-official members on these right hand benches are anxious to speak. If there are, I will give them a chance, particularly when the majority of members on the non-official side are silent over the question. I see that the honourable members Reverend Modak and Mr. Syed Munawar wish to speak. Mr. Syed Munawar.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Sir, I am perhaps springing a surprise upon this House when I rise to speak on this so-called contentious Bill, but,

[Mr. Syed Munawar]

Sir, I must submit to this House that as a representative of labour I am convinced that I feel it my duty to give expression to my honest convictions in support of the principle underlying this measure. This Bill seeks to impose a nominal taxation on affluent people who can well afford to pay it. It does not affect the poor and labouring classes or the toiling masses in general. It seeks to impose taxation on those who inherit property by survivorship, or under a will or by inheritance or succession. That is to say, it does not directly tax those people who have acquired or earned any wealth by their own efforts. It seeks to impose a tax on those people who inherit wealth over Rs. 2,000 and this taxation is to go to the relief of the poor, viz., towards the maintenance of nation-building departments. There is a graduated scale, which will not work heavily upon those who can afford to pay the tax. There are concessions provided for widows and others and several clauses exempting certain other persons and bodies from payment of the tax.

Moreover, Sir, Government at the present moment is faced with financial stringency the like of which was never seen before and is inviting the House to come to its aid in right earnest. That being so, the House should at least be in a mood to consider the merits or demerits of this Bill. But I find that there is a regular impasse and that very few honourable members on the non-official side have attempted to speak. This makes it all the more imperative upon me to venture to speak a few words although at first I was not prepared to offer any remarks upon the subject.

I have gone through the Bill very carefully and I find that there are several clauses which serve as safeguards in favour of those who may inherit by succession or survivorship. The charitable and religious trusts will escape the imposition of a levy under this Bill. There are other saving clauses which diminish the rate of tax in respect of agricultural land and deaths occurring within specified periods.

A point was raised that there should be a right of appeal from the decisions of the Collector or District Judge as the case may be in regard to the imposition of this tax or the penalty for avoidance of this tax or failure to pay this tax. That point is certainly worthy of consideration. I trust the Honourable the Finance Member will be disposed to consider it very favourably when the Bill is taken to a select committee. With these words, I support the principle of the Bill.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Mr. President, unfortunately for me, I find myself placed in an exceedingly delicate and unenviable position as I rise to address the House on this important question. In the past, Sir, whenever I have endeavoured to speak on Government proposals for fresh taxation, I have very seldom seen eye to eye with them. When, however, once in a blue moon, I happen by accident to be in the happy position of agreeing with them, as is the case on the present occasion [Honourable Members: "Hear, hear"], my constituency does not unfortunately agree with me; and if I may say so without giving away a secret, I have even got a mandate from it not to support this measure. As I have always admitted and readily recognise such a claim on the part of constituencies and particularly those representing special interests as my constituency does, I consider it my duty to respect its desire. But, whilst doing so, I think at the same time, that it is my inherent right as a member of this House, to give expression to such views as I hold for what they are worth; and these I am now going to place before the honourable members present to-day, for their consideration.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Personally, Sir, I feel most strongly that a measure of this character ought to command the support of this honourable House. The moment we admit that a case has been made out by the Government for giving them additional help by raising extra revenue—and I do freely admit that such a case has been made out—then I think that it must be readily conceded that this measure is not only an exceedingly good and reasonable one, but is also such as is likely to be the least oppressive in its scope and extent, inasmuch as the incidence of its burden is designed to fall on shoulders fully capable of bearing it. In that sense, it may be characterised even as a bit of a socialistic legislation. That consideration need not, however, frighten the House, for such is the trend of the world, and the introduction of more legislation on similar lines is inevitable with the growth and progress in the country of the modern ideas of social reconstruction. If we accept the principle that, whenever we are in need of money for the purpose of carrying on the Government or for any other public purpose whatsoever, we should turn our attention first and foremost to those who are most capable of bearing the burden, then I venture to submit that this measure ought to have our whole-hearted support. When we think of the huge fortunes people are enabled to make and retain with the help and power of society at their back, and with the protection and security that the forces of law and order are able to extend to them; when we consider how it is thus made possible for them not only to enjoy and often even criminally waste them during their life time, but also to leave them after their death to their kith and kin, we cannot help acknowledging the weight and the justice of the principle underlying measures like the one under discussion, and being forced to the irresistible conclusion that the Government that give them facilities and protection for amassing, enjoying, bequeathing or inheriting such fortunes, are entitled to have a share out of it at the time of such distribution. It is as the result of such consideration that I feel most strongly that a measure of this character ought to command the unequivocal support of this honourable House, as representing the people of this Presidency. It has been argued that such legislation does not exist in any other part of the country; and that therefore we should wait till some other Provincial Government or at least the Government of India has moved in the matter. This, however, I submit, is hardly a reason why we, in this Presidency, who have always prided ourselves upon being progressive in most matters, should not adopt it, if we are convinced that it is fair and equitable.

So far as the Bill itself is concerned, I wish that the Honourable the Finance Member had made it more comprehensive and stringent, and not whittled it down in the manner that he has done, in order to make it acceptable to every section of this honourable House and to the members of the public outside. After all, when we come to consider in detail the different provisions of this Bill, what is it that we find therein ? We find that when people come into an inheritance, either by Will, or by Letters of Administration, or by Survivorship or otherwise, an endeavour has been made to take an infinitesimally small portion out of such inheritance for the purposes of the State. I find it difficult to imagine what possible objection there can be to the tapping of such sources for such purposes, even though the basis of such taxation may appear novel and may happen to be introduced for the first time in the country. It cannot, however, be denied, even by the most inveterate opponent of the measure, that the principle involved in it is both fair and sound ; and that if money is to be found for the State at all costs, it is more equitable to take it out of the exuberance of the rich and the idle than from the poverty of the poor and the indigent. But even here, the Honourable the Finance Member has made very substantial concessions where members of the family are concerned, and particularly so, in the case of lineal ascendants or descendants. But I am afraid that, in giving these concessions, he has gone a bit too far, as can be easily seen from the provision that when a lineal ascendant or descendant comes into possession of property or cash, he is to be charged only a tenth of the tax which would otherwise be payable under the Bill. When one remembers that the highest possible amount payable under the Bill, is only 5 per cent., it will not be difficult to realise to what extent the scope of the Bill has been circumscribed and its effect whittled down by the Honourable the Finance Member in his zeal to make this measure as free from objection as possible. This decision on his part, ought at least to give us an idea of the earnestness and sincerity of his purpose ; and ought to disarm all opposition to the Bill. But I do hope that, if as the result of the experience that may be gathered of the working of the measure, when enacted, it is found necessary in due course to make it more stringent and comprehensive, the earliest possible opportunity will be taken to do so. Whenever such a proposal is brought before the House, it will receive at least my whole-hearted support.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Owing to its very nature and the fact that such a piece of legislation is going to be placed on the Statute book for the first time, I grant that difficulties in the working of its provisions are bound to be experienced. But I feel equally certain that they can and will be successfully negotiated in the Select Committee, if the principle of the Bill is once accepted by this House. But apart from the important consideration, that the burden of this taxation is likely to fall on shoulders capable of bearing it,—a circumstance which has made a very profound impression on my mind in its favour,—there is another aspect of the Bill which has appealed to me very forcibly, and that is, that it seeks to bring within the purview of its provisions, the Hindu joint-families and the Mahomedan community, both of whom, as is well known under the existing practice in that behalf, almost invariably escape the payment of probate, administration or succession duties of any kind whatsoever. This unintentional but nevertheless wholesale exemption of both these communities from the payment of these duties has always been regarded as a matter of great injustice to members of the other communities who have continually paid in the past and are paying even to-day more than their fair and legitimate share in this shape to the coffers of the State. If for nothing else, at least for this reason, I do hope that this measure, which for the first time seeks to bring both these communities within the purview of after-death taxation, will command the sympathy and support of all fair-minded citizens. I know that a number of objections—many of which, I am sorry to say, appear to be extremely flimsy—have been urged against this point; and that even the mischievous cry of "Religion in danger" has been raised from several quarters. But I am perfectly certain that in the Select Committee a satisfactory solution will be found for all real difficulties. So far as the application of the tax is concerned, if it is to affect me as a Parsi, I do not see why other people should escape its payment, merely because they happen to be Hindus or Mahomedans. If members of these two communities can pay municipal and provincial levies, and can also bear all the impositions of the Central Government, including the income and super taxes, without thereby committing any breach of any of their religious tenets or infringing any of the beliefs, rules and regulations laid down in their sacred books, there is no reason why they should escape the payment of after-death duties. If for nothing else, at least for this very welcome aspect of the question, the Bill ought to command the support of a large section of this honourable House.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

I know that several very real defects have been detected in the details of this Bill and that——

Khan Bahadur A. E. PATEL: Are we to understand the honourable member to be supporting the Bill or opposing it? So far as we know, he has distinctly said that he has got a mandate from his constituency to oppose it. He himself is not supporting it, but he is recommending others to support it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: He has distinctly said that he is going to make a few remarks for what they are worth.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: There have been instances in the past, Sir, when, not only in this House but also in the Legislative Assembly, honourable members have given expression to their own personal views and at the same time carried out the mandates of their constituencies. I propose to do likewise.

Coming back to the Bill and speaking of some very real defects that appear to exist in its provisions, it seems to me, Sir, that the taxable minimum limit has been kept so low that it is likely to hit people who are not intended to be covered by the measure, and who, I fear, will not be quite capable of bearing this burden. I think the minimum should be substantially increased, if it is the intention of the Honourable the Finance Member, as I believe it is, not to add to the already very heavy load which is being borne by the middle classes. It is a matter for the select committee to determine and recommend whether, having regard to the considerations that I have urged, it is not desirable to raise this limit to a very much higher figure, in order that people who are really opulent and capable of paying this tax, should alone be made to do so, to the exclusion of the middle classes who are already paying more than their fair share.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Incidentally, there is an omission in the Bill, which appears to me to be somewhat important. It does not at all speak of settlements which may have been made in the past, and it is necessary to know how the beneficiaries of such settlements would fare under the provisions of the Bill. There is no mention whatever made of such settlements, but I take it that they will be exempted from the operation of this Bill, first, because they were made long before this measure; and, secondly, because they have already made their contribution to the coffers of the Government by the payment of the requisite stamp duty which such documents have to bear at the time of their execution. For this reason they are even now being exempted from the payment of probate duty, and I think that they are entitled to be similarly exempted from the provisions of this Act. There is another omission of a somewhat serious character, which ought also to be made good, if the measure is to be worked with the minimum amount of dissatisfaction and opprobrium. There should, if possible, be a provision in the Bill for enabling aggrieved parties to appeal to the High Court, at least in cases involving large amounts above a certain figure. Under the draft Bill before us, too much power appears to have been given to the Collectors and the District Judges, and I feel that there ought to be a provision for an appeal to the High Court; for in all cases of this character, the High Court necessarily commands greater respect and confidence than subordinate Courts, or in the City of Bombay, the Collector or the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes. These are all, however, matters of detail and can be discussed in the select committee, if one is appointed. There is one more aspect of this measure, to which I wish to draw the careful attention of this honourable House; and it is this. Considered as a whole, the Bill is indeed a very modest measure and really aims at having very little for the moment. This is specially borne out by the fact that this duty will in a majority of cases—or, at least in the case of Europeans, Parsis, Jews, Indian Christians, East Indians and Armenians—will be paid if at all, in substitution of the probate or administration duties and that therefore its burden, if any, will be very nominal; for, it is provided that a legatee has to pay either the one or the other, whichever is larger. It is only when those who are now escaping the payment altogether are concerned, that the rub really begins. But I put it to this honourable House in all seriousness whether it is not fair and equitable that such people should now be roped in and not allowed to go scotfree any longer as has been done all these years.

When we calmly consider the position in which the Government unfortunately find themselves placed to-day, we cannot—whatever our views and whatever party we may happen to belong to for the moment—deny their right to come to the House and ask for help. If we honestly feel that, in obedience to the wish of this House in that behalf, they have done their best to retrench in all possible directions—and I think we all now feel that they have done so and are doing so most seriously—then I am emphatically of opinion that they have made out a strong case for giving them further sources of revenue to carry on the administration with. We must, in fairness, also admit that if there is one source more than another which ought to readily commend itself to this House, it is the one embodied in the Bill,—look at it from whatever point of view you like. For all these reasons, I think this House would be well advised in accepting the principle of the Bill and in referring it to a Select Committee, although, as I have said before, so far as I am personally concerned, I shall unfortunately be unable to vote for it, for the reasons which I have already given.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Mr. J. HUMPHREY (Karachi Chamber of Commerce): Sir, I had not intended speaking on this subject as I was rather anticipating that, in view of the remarks made by the honourable member the Finance Secretary as regards the Retrenchment Report when he was speaking on the subject of this Bill, that some of the non-official members opposite who were on the Retrenchment Committee would have welcomed the opportunity of giving their views on the subject, and knowing as they do the state of the finances of this Presidency, would also have accorded their support to this Bill. But as no one of my colleagues of the Retrenchment Committee has risen I feel that I should say a few words regarding retrenchments, and endeavour to point how essential further revenue is. During the last eight months those of us who were on the Retrenchment Committee have had exceptional opportunities of studying the finances of this Presidency, and I think we must have all come to the conclusion that however much we may be able to reduce the expenditure of this Presidency by retrenchments further sources of revenue are absolutely essential to balance the Budget. A glance down the list of retrenchments which are proposed by the Retrenchment Committee will at once show that there are very few items that can be regarded as permanent retrenchments. This means therefore that retrenchments which may be accepted will only affect the next year's Budget, and will have very little, if any, effect on the subsequent Budgets. So that even if by retrenchments the next year's Budget is balanced the later Budgets must show very considerable deficit if no provision is made for further revenue. My honourable friend Mr. Petit said that he had no definite mandate from his constituency. Unlike my honourable friend I have a definite mandate from my constituency to support the Bill, and I intend to vote in favour of it. It seems to me that the measure is a very simple one, and will not inflict great hardship on any one, and one by which the burden of taxation will be distributed evenly and equitably. I should be sorry to see the Opposition voting against the Bill without putting forward some reasons and without at the same time giving this honourable House some idea as to how the money which is required by this Presidency can be found otherwise. I have always endeavoured to look at such matters from a business point of view, and looking at it from that point of view it seems obvious that if further revenue is not obtained then the only means of balancing the Budget is by borrowing. But with our finances in their present state would it be possible to borrow except at a rate which would be excessively high, and thus add a greater burden on the Presidency, for it must be remembered that by borrowing one is increasing for a very long time to come one's liabilities, and though the Budget may be balanced temporarily by borrowing, it will mean that a heavy item of interest will have to be provided for annually thereafter. We were told this afternoon that it required the help of everyone to put the finances of the Presidency in order and it seems to me that we should follow that advice in agreeing to a reasonable taxation like the one now before this honourable House. I hope all honourable members before they oppose or vote against the Bill will consider very carefully the financial position of this Presidency. If the finances of this Presidency are not based on a sound footing, it will mean that the position will get worse and worse, and the suffering for everyone will increase as the years go on. By accepting this Bill, which I consider will not inflict any great hardship on any one in this Presidency, it will enable this Presidency to recover its financial position to a certain extent. We have been told in the past that this Presidency is a "de luxe" Presidency and I think that if all the retrenchments that have been recommended be accepted, we shall have ceased to be regarded as a "de luxe" Presidency for we shall have reduced our expenditure in most Departments almost below a safe level, so that any further retrenchments that can be effected will prove to be of such a minor nature that they cannot possibly restore the finances of the Presidency. Further, my own feeling is that this Bill should be accepted and by accepting it we are helping ourselves and helping the Presidency for it will ultimately assist in reducing taxation and at the same time there will be better facilities for expenditure where it is really required. For instance, the Honourable Member for Education mentioned that money was required for the urgent needs of Education and he is wondering how the money would be forthcoming if this honourable House does not grant additional revenue. That revenue he was looking for as a result of this Bill being passed and if only from the point of view of finding money to assist the nation-building Departments I strongly urge the honourable members to give their support to this Bill.

[Mr. J. Humphrey]

Mr. A. GREVILLE BULLOCKE (Bombay Trades Association): Sir, it is difficult to understand the death-like silence of the occupants of the front benches on the opposite side, usually so very loquacious. But presumably they do not approve of the Bill now before the House, but have no arguments worth producing against it. If my deduction is correct (and one can but guess) I quite fail to understand what their objection is! One naturally wonders if these are the tactics they will adopt when they get self-government? The Bill is the most painless one, connected with additional taxation, that I have ever heard of.

[Mr. A. Greville Bullocke]

None of the honourable members present today will ever be asked to sign the necessary cheque for the tax when it falls due, they will not be here! During their lives they will have full enjoyment of their respective estates and the money, for which very possibly they have worked hard for the greater part of their span on this earth. Up to the end of that span they may continue to enjoy it, and no claim under this Bill is made. Their heirs or successors, who will be called upon to pay, have not had the enjoyment of possession, and therefore will feel, in a minor degree only, the pain of parting with a very small portion of it! Surely no more considerate method of collecting a tax can be thought of.

My chief objection, perhaps I may say my sole objection, to the Bill now before the House refers to the conditions set out in clause 4, sub-clause (c), which contains the words:

"where the property on which the duty is leviable is agricultural land, the duty shall be leviable at one-fourth the rate which would otherwise have been payable."

What I want to know is why this should be so. Apparently, the wording in the clause I refer to embraces not only the very small landowner, but also the very large landowner, who cultivates all, or some portion, of his land, or who rents it out to some poor ryot from whom the owner squeezes every anna of rent he possibly can. Some, many, of these landowners are reputed to be very wealthy and assume a great air of authority in the districts where their land lies and are looked up to as local rulers. But for the last fifty or sixty years, they have succeeded in persuading deluded governments into believing their land to be practically non-productive. But, under their pressing needs, surely Governments are more awake to-day, and, realising the enormous expenditure of the taxpayers' money, both in the Deccan and in Sind, made purposely to increase the productive properties of this land, must be aware that this fable convinces nobody to-day and that land, if properly and scientifically worked, can be, and is fully productive and profitable. Yet I believe the landowners, by well working this old and exploded theme, have avoided payment of income and other taxes, under some old Act of 1879 up to this year of grace.

If the Bill before the House had confined the concession I complain of to the small landowners possessing only a few acres from which they have to scratch a living for themselves and their families and provide enough profit to enable them to keep the local Bania at a respectful distance, the matter would have had my fullest sympathy. But I cannot reconcile myself to the apparent injustice that, while the estates of members of the various professions, merchants and others, should be liable to higher rates under the proposed succession duty, the wealthy classes I refer to should be able to continue to evade them.

If this Bill passes its first reading and is referred to a select committee, I sincerely trust the point I have raised will not be overlooked.

Mr. W. G. LELY: Sir, I want to address the House, but do not think I can finish my remarks within the three minutes left.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The House is now adjourned to 2 o'clock to-morrow, Tuesday, the 1st December 1931.

MO Hb 142—6

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Tuesday, the 1st December 1931

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Tuesday, the 1st December 1931, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ALLISON, Mr. F. W.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BAKHALE, Mr. R. R.
BALOCH, Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHURGRI, Mr. J. W.
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHIKODI, Mr. P. R.
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COLLINS, Mr. G. F. S.
COOKE, Mr. G. H.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DESAI, Mr. S. B.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GARRETT, Mr. J. H.
GHULAM HYDER SHAH, Mr.
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOKHALE, Mr. L. R.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JAM JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur

JAYAKAR, Mr. M. S.
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KANGA, Sir JAMSHEDJI B.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KIRKE-SMITH, Mr. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
LELY, Mr. W. G.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
MAXWELL, Mr. R. M.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAMDEORAO BUDHAJIRAO, Mr.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable MOULVI
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
SAHEBSINHJI JUVANSINHJI, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHAIKH YAKUB VAZIR MAHOMED, Khan Bahadur
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI

SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUHAMMAD KAMIL SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WADKE, Mr. B. P.
WILES, Mr. G.

NEW MEMBER SWORN.

Mr. H. C. B. MITCHELL made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor, and took his seat in the Council.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

POLICE OFFICER: REMARKS IN COURTS' JUDGMENTS.

*Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL for Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District): (1) Will Government be pleased to state whether Rao Saheb Kakeri, in the Police Department, has been recently raised from Inspectorship to the post of Deputy Superintendent of Police? If so, when and why?

(2) Are Government aware that very serious remarks suggesting communal bias have been made against him by the Honourable Mr. Justice Wild in the Satti Bribery case, and also by the Sessions Judge Mr. Ferrers?

(3) Was the promotion conferred upon him (Rao Saheb Kakeri) before the judgments in the Satti Bribery case or subsequent to them?

(4) If subsequent to them, do Government take notice of remarks made by responsible judges against an officer?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) He was appointed temporary Deputy Superintendent of Police in May 1929. He reverted as Inspector of Police in November 1929, and was reappointed temporary Deputy Superintendent of Police in April 1930, and continues to hold that appointment. The appointment was made because he was considered fit to hold it.

(2) Government are aware that they made some remarks about him.

(3) His first appointment was made after the Sessions Judge had referred the case to the High Court, and the second after the High Court Judges had delivered their judgments.

(4) Yes.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: As regards (2) the question is—

"Are Government aware that very serious remarks suggesting communal bias have been made against him by the Honourable Mr. Justice Wild in the Satti Bribery case, and also by the Sessions Judge, Mr. Ferrers ?"

The reply is:

"Government are aware that they made some remarks about him."

Were the remarks the same as referred to in the question ? Are Government aware that remarks about communal bias have been made by the District Judge ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The reply is: "Government are aware that they made some remarks about him." I have seen those remarks, and I do not regard them as serious.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: Did they refer to communal bias ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: It was suggested in the judgment that the Deputy Superintendent of Police belonged to the same community as certain of the witnesses. It was left to Government to draw any inference from it. Government did not draw any adverse inference from it.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: Did the Sessions Judge state that some steps should be taken against the officer ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: He did not.

CRIMINAL TRIBES SETTLEMENT OFFICER AND RAILWAY UNION.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that members of the Criminal Tribes Settlement at Hubli working at the M. S. M. Railway workshops were asked by the officer in charge of the Settlement to resign their membership of the M. S. M. Railway Employees' Union which is a registered Union under the Indian Trade Unions Act and recognised by the railway authorities and that they were prevented from attending the meetings of the Union of which they are members ?

(b) If so, under what authority did the Settlement Officer do it ?

(c) Have Government approved of his action ?

(d) If so, what are the reasons for their approval ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.

(b) Under the authority of the Criminal Tribes Act and the rules made thereunder.

(c) Yes.

(d) Government are not prepared to permit members of Criminal Tribes Settlements to become members of a Trade Union or to leave their work at its bidding.

TEXTILE WORKERS, SHOLAPUR MILLS: BAJRI ALLOWANCE.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that, owing to the fall in prices of agricultural commodities, the textile workers at Sholapur were losing financially under the arrangement under which bajri is given them by the mills?

(b) If so, since when were they losing and what was the extent of the average loss per month?

(c) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, did Government draw the attention of the Sholapur millowners to that fact and suggest to them to adopt suitable remedies to make up the workers' loss?

(d) If so, what was the millowners' response?

(e) If the answer to (c) is in the negative, what are the reasons therefor?

(f) What is the present position in respect of the arrangement of the Bajri allowance?

(g) Has the workers' loss been made up?

(h) If so, since when?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Government are not aware of any "bajri allowance" in Sholapur. They are, however, aware of a grain compensation allowance, whereby all workers who have not lost more than four days in a month are allowed to purchase ordinarily 18 seers of jowari and two seers of dal for a sum of Rs. 2, irrespective of the selling prices of these food-grains in the city. Government understand that the purchase of grain on these terms is optional and therefore there is no "loss" to the worker as he need not buy from the mill, when the market price is lower than the fixed rate given by the mill.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) The reply is in the negative.

(d) Does not arise.

(e) Government saw no reason to take such action.

(f) Government understand that since the beginning of August grain is being given at the cost price of the grain to the mills and not at the previous rate of ten seers to the rupee.

(g) and (h) See answer to (a) above.

TEXTILE WORKERS, SHOLAPUR MILLS: STRIKE.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: (a) Will Government be pleased to state what their general policy in respect of industrial disputes including strikes is? Is it one of absolute neutrality and impartiality as between the employers and the workers and does it extend in any way beyond the maintenance of law and order? If so, what is that extent and who determines it—Government or the officials in charge of law and order?

(b) If the attitude of Government is one of neutrality as between the parties concerned in the industrial disputes including the strikes, did they maintain it in the last strike of the textile workers at Sholapur ?

(c) Has their attention been drawn to the paragraphs on the need of conciliation in industrial disputes appearing on pages 347-48 of the Report of the Royal Commission on Labour in India ?

(d) If so, will they state whether they approve of the principle enunciated in those paragraphs ? If not, what are the reasons therefor ?

(e) If the answer to (c) and (d) is in the affirmative, what steps, if any, did they take in giving effect to those paragraphs during the last strike of the textile workers at Sholapur ?

(f) Are Government aware that during the continuance of the last textile workers' strike at Sholapur, the citizens of that place held a public meeting and appointed a citizens' Committee to bring about an amicable settlement of the strike and that they wrote to the Sholapur millowners offering their services in the direction of terminating the strike at an early date ?

(g) If so, did the Sholapur millowners acknowledge the letters of the citizens' Committee and accept their services ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) The general policy of Government in such matters is to observe neutrality, except in so far as they have to intervene in the interests of the preservation of law and order, unless action is taken under the Trades Disputes Act VII of 1929.

(b) and (c) Yes.

(d) Government have not yet arrived at any definite conclusions on the Report of the Commission.

(e) Government after consideration decided that no useful purpose would be served by either direct intervention by the Labour Office or of Government in the strike.

(f) and (g) Government are aware that a meeting was convened and a committee appointed. It is understood that this committee addressed some of the Mill authorities but it is not known with what result.

Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: With reference to parts (a) and (b), of the question, may I know whether the setting up of a Magistrate's court in the mill compound is an indication of Government's attitude of neutrality ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I was not aware that a magistrate's court was set up in the mill compound. I have no doubt that, if it was, there were very good reasons for it. I must ask for notice before I enquire into the facts.

PIER AT RATNAGIRI.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Will Government be pleased to state what they have decided to do regarding the construction of a pier at Ratnagiri ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: The question of locating a suitable site for the construction of a pier is still under the consideration of Government.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: How long will it take to come to a final decision?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I do not know. I do not think it matters very much, because even if it is decided we shall not have any money to build it. But I may tell the honourable member that the matter has been carefully investigated in the course of this last monsoon. I hope to inform him of the result in February.

Mr. V. A. SURVE (In Marathi): Are Government going to take twelve or fourteen years to come to a decision?

PRIMARY SCHOOL TEACHERS: INCREMENT IN PAY.

*Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that the scale of increment in pay in case of vernacular 3rd year trained teachers is rupee one every year;

(2) whether it is a fact that the abovementioned scale has been sanctioned by Government in the Code containing orders of Government regulating expenditure on education, paragraph 7;

(3) whether it is a fact that the same scale is sanctioned in Government Resolution No. 560, dated the 24th March 1924 (Educational Department);

(4) whether Government are aware that the Committee of management appointed by Government to administer affairs of the Surat municipality have acted contrary to the Government Resolution in question?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) Yes, only in the case of men employed by District Local Boards since June 30th, 1923.

(2) No.

(3) No.

(4) No.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES, POONA: RENTED PREMISES.

*Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table a statement showing the rents which they pay for the Government offices in Poona City, Cantonment and Suburbs and the places rented for the last five financial years ending with March 1931 and the offices for which the places were rented?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: A statement containing the requisite information is furnished.

Statement showing rents, etc. of private buildings rented for housing Government Offices in Poona City, Cantonment and Suburbs for the last five financial years ending 31st March 1931.

Serial No.	Situation of the buildings	Period of the lease	Rent per mensem	Name of office for which rented	Remarks
1	Bungalows Nos.7 to 9, B. J. Road, Poona.	15 years from 1st November 1931.	Rs. 2,500 up to 31st October 1931 and Rs. 1,500 from 1st November 1931.	(1) Commissioner, Central Division. (2) Executive Engineer, Public Health Works Division. (3) Assistant Registrar, Co-operative Societies, C. D. (4) Assistant Engineer, Deccan Electric Subdivision. (5) Divisional Forest Officer, Working Plans. (6) Assistant, Criminal Tribes Settlement, N. C. (7) Inspectress of Girls' Schools, C. D. (8) Senior Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector. (9) Deputy Educational Inspector for Mahomedan Education.
2	Bungalow No. 1, B. J. Road, Poona.	From 1st November 1924 to 31st October 1929.	Rs. 350 ..	Executive Engineer, Mutha Canals Division and originally for the office of the Superintendent, Government Printing and Stationery.	The bungalow was surrendered from 1st November 1929 to 28th February 1930.
	Do. do. ..	From 1st March 1930 to 29th February 1932.	Rs. 300 up to 31st March 1931 and Rs. 275 afterwards.	Surgeon General with the Government of Bombay.
3	Bungalow No. 7, Wellesley Road, Poona.	One year and 10 months from 1st June 1926.	Rs. 200 ..	(1) Superintending Engineer, Minor Irrigation Works.	These bungalows have been given up; the office having been abolished.
4	Bungalow No. 44, Sassoon Road, Poona.	From 1st April 1928 to 28th February 1930.	Rs. 225 ..	Do. do.

B. J. MEDICAL SCHOOL, POONA: INCONVENIENCES IN HOSTEL.

*Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): (1) Are Government aware that the students of the Byramjee Jijibhoy Medical School, Poona, residing in the hostel of the school have to suffer great inconveniences on account of want of lights in the water closets, and want of fittings of hinges and bolts to doors and such other similar inconveniences in the hostel and club mess rooms, and also from want of lights for sufficient time for reading at nights and in the early hours of the morning ?

(2) Are Government aware that such inconveniences were repeatedly brought to the notice of the proper authorities by the students of the B. J. Medical School and that no redress has been afforded to them ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL :

(1) (a) Light is not provided in the lavatories but Government do not consider that any serious inconvenience is caused thereby.

(b) The defects in fittings, doors, hinges, etc., are primarily due to wanton destruction of the fittings by the students.

(c) Lighting is purposely disallowed in the early hours of the morning except for 1½ months before the spring and autumn examinations when lights are put on at 5 a.m.

(2) No. Only two representations were made—one to the officiating Superintendent on 17th July 1931 and the other on the 29th July 1931 on the return of the permanent Superintendent who investigated the complaint at once. So far as funds permitted some matters were remedied.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : With reference to part (1) (a) of the reply, may I know whether Government have considered what the cost of providing light would be ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : The answer is very clear that Government do not think that a light is necessary there ; and, therefore, they have not taken the trouble to get an estimate as to how much it is going to cost.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Do Government know that within ten feet of the lavatory there are rooms fitted with electric lights. Is it not a matter of spending only five or ten rupees ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No reply ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : I do not know what reply he wants. He has not put any question.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Is it not a fact that within ten feet of the lavatory there are rooms lighted by electricity ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : I am not aware of that.

URDU SCHOOLS, NORTHERN DIVISION : DEPUTY EDUCATIONAL INSPECTOR.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division) : (a) Are Government aware that the post of the Deputy Educational Inspector for Urdu Schools, Northern Division, has been kept vacant during the absence of Mr. I. A. Ahmadi on four months' leave and that consequently the Urdu Schools of the Northern Division have remained uninspected for a long time ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether no man fit to hold the post was available or whether Government wanted to make a saving ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Yes ; but the schools under reference did not remain uninspected during the period.

(b) The post was kept vacant as a measure of retrenchment.

Mr. J. S. KADRI : With regard to (a), who inspected the schools during the deputy's absence ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : If the honourable member will give me notice, I will find it out.

TELANG HIGH SCHOOL, GODHRA : ADMISSION OF MUSSALMANS.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division) : (a) Are Government aware of the great dissatisfaction prevailing among the Mussalmans of Godhra on account of a large number of Muslim students being refused admission to the Telang High School, Godhra, every year ?

(b) Do Government propose to take any steps in the matter ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter is receiving attention.

Mr. J. S. KADRI : I hope it will receive attention soon.

URDU-KNOWING MISTRESSES : DEARTH.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division) : (a) With reference to the reply to my question on the above subject (vide my question 2, page 9, First List of Questions and Answers of the July-August 1931 Session), will Government be pleased to state what steps are being taken in regard to the serious paucity of qualified and trained Urdu mistresses ?

(b) Do Government intend to open special Urdu classes for girls in the existing Government Training Colleges for Women ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) A second year class, which was sanctioned last year, has been opened at the Urdu Training School for Women, Poona, since June last.

(b) Not at present.

Mr. J. S. KADRI : The reply is " A second year class, which was sanctioned last year, has been opened at the Urdu Training School for Women, Poona, since June last." How does it explain the extension facilities for educating mistresses ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : A higher class is opened : Would it not add to the existing facilities ?

Mr. J. S. KADRI : It is only a second year class for the same training.

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : No. It is a second year certificate class, that is to say, a higher class.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT, GUJARAT : MUHAMMADANS.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division) : Will Government be pleased to state the total number of Hindus and Muhammadans on the clerical establishment of the Revenue Department in the districts of Ahmedabad, Kaira, Panch Mahals, Broach and Surat ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON :

District.	Hindus (advanced and backward classes).	Muhammadans.
Ahmedabad	114	7
Kaira	124	17
Panch Mahals	84	4
Broach	61	17
Surat	118	7

Mr. J. S. KADRI : May I draw the attention of the Honourable the Revenue Member to the very meagre number of Mahomedans in the various districts ?

INJALI TREES ON GURCHARAN.

*Mr. M. M. KARBHARI (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : (a) Is it a fact that Government have been cutting the Injali trees from the gurcharan woodland plots from 1927 onwards especially in the Umbergaon and Dahanu talukas of the Thana District ?

(b) What is the extent in area of such plots in which the trees have been cut and the number of Injali trees cut ?

(c) What was the price realised in each case ?

(d) What was the system of sale followed ? Was necessary publicity given in the matter of sale so as to realise the real price ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state how many cartloads of charcoal from these trees were removed from these plots, and what price the merchants were able to realise therefrom ?

(f) Is it true that the prices realised by Government were abnormally low, though the current prices were higher ?

(g) Did Government take into consideration the rights and privileges of the woodland plot holders, and were they previously consulted in the matter ?

(h) Have the plot holders suffered thereby in the matter of rab supply ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) :—

Name of Taluka.	Year.	Area cleared.	Number of trees cut.	Price.
		Acres		Rs.
(1) Dahanu	1926-27 onwards.	4,649	46,587	28,393
(2) Umbergaon	Do.	970	20,407	7,586
Total ..	....	5,619	66,994	35,979

(d) The system of sale was open auction after wide publicity and after the upset price was fixed in consultation with the Forest Department.

(e) A statement furnishing the required information is appended.

(f) No. On the contrary full prices were realised as a result of keen competition. Bids below upset prices have never been accepted.

(g) Yes.

(h) No.

STATEMENT.

Year.	Taluka.	Estimated number of cartloads of charcoal removed from trees in woodland plots.	Estimated number of Railway Waggons.	Estimated price merchants were able to realise therefrom at average rate Rs. 350 per waggon at Station.	Remarks
				Rs.
1927-28 to 1930-31.	Dahanu and Umbergaon.	33,335	1,668	5,83,800	(1) Although there were no sales in Forest Mahals in 1929-30 and 1930-31 removals in some places took place in these years of materials from sales in previous years and from sales in Dahanu and Umbergaon talukas outside forest mahals in 1929-30 and 1930-31. (2) The rate of Rs. 350 per waggon given in column 5 is approximate. (3) It is estimated that on the average five trees (girth ranging from over 2' to 7') are required for the manufacture of one ton of charcoal. Many of the larger trees are hollow.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: In the larger interests of the revenues of the Presidency, will Government be pleased to accept my co-operation to find out that the information supplied to Government is incorrect and misleading?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I should be glad to have the co-operation of any honourable member in that or any other matter.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: If so, will they be pleased to call upon the lower subordinate officers to produce all the papers—several applications supposed to have been made by one Devji Mahomed on 24th April 1927 and the applications which are supposed to have been made by the plot-holders ? And if Government are prepared to do that, I shall certainly co-operate with them.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: If the honourable member writes a letter to me, I will certainly make investigations.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: Thank you.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS, POONA DISTRICT LOCAL BOARD: DATUM LINE OF EXPENDITURE.

*Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether the datum line of the expenditure allowable has been fixed by Government in the case of the District Local Board, Poona, to whom the primary schools in the district were transferred long ago;

(2) what steps, if any, Government propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) Yes, provisionally.

(2) Final figures are being worked out.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: In what year were the provisional datum line figures worked out ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I think very recently.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: I think the provisional figures were worked out and given five years ago. When will the final figures be given ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: As I said, they are being worked out. As soon as they are worked out, I shall be in a position to answer the honourable member's question.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: The probable date ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I cannot give the date offhand.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Are Government aware that the local authorities have suffered thereby and been groping in the dark ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: That cannot be helped.

DISTRICT JUDGE'S COURT, SHOLAPUR: SHIRASTEDAR.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) for how many years Mr. D. V. Deshmukh has been Shirastedar of the District Judge's Court at Sholapur;

(b) is it a fact that at Madha during the recent inspection tour of the District Judge Mr. Deshmukh had arranged to get foodstuffs and entertainment at the expense of the Madha Sub-Judge's Court staff;

(c) if so, what action do Government propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) For the last seven years.
(b) No.
(c) Does not arise.

Mr. J. G. MORE: With regard to (a), is it not advisable that the post of District Judge's shirastedar should be made transferable ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: It is transferable at present.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Then why has Mr. D. V. Deshmukh been kept there for the last seven years ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Because although the post is transferable, the transfers are only made in the interests of public convenience.

Mr. J. G. MORE: With regard to (b), is it not a fact that the Sub-Judge, Madha, made a report containing these allegations ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I do not know. I will find out if the honourable member gives notice.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: Is there not a High Court ruling that the head clerk to the District Judge should be transferred every three years ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: No.

WATANDAR KULKARNIS, KOLABA DISTRICT: REMUNERATION.

*Mr. N. N. PATIL (Kolaba District): (1) Will Government be pleased to state at what places in the Kolaba District Government is still collecting land revenue through the Watandar Kulkarnis ?

(2) What is the number of such Kulkarnis in the district ?

(3) What is the amount of remuneration paid to them individually per month ?

(4) Is that remuneration in accordance with the Wingate scale that has been prescribed for such Watandar Kulkarnis ?

(5) If not, what are the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (1), (2) and (3) There are 16 watandar kulkarnis in the Kolaba District who collect the land revenue of the following villages and get the remuneration mentioned against each :—

Name of village	Total annual remuneration
	Rs.
Nagaon	144
Awas	144
Varsoli	120
Thal	156
Chuel, S. D.	180
Koproli	124

Name of village	Total annual remuneration
	Rs.
Umbarde ..	125
Vadkhale ..	164
Kane ..	122
Vadhav ..	162
Borje ..	125
Washi ..	180
Shirki ..	144
Odhangi ..	144
Pen ..	104
Panwel ..	216

(4) No.

(5) The Wingate scale was intended for Deccan Collectorates and has not been extended to the Konkan.

Mr. N. N. PATIL: May I know what are the special reasons for not extending the Wingate scale to Watandar Kulkarnis of the districts under Konkan Collectorates ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I must ask for notice. It has never been extended to the Konkan. I do not know that it has ever been suggested even.

MAMLATDARS, CENTRAL DIVISION: MUSLIMS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ (Central Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many Muslim direct recruits for Mamlats were taken since 1924 in the Central Division ;

(b) how many of them up to this time have been appointed as Mamlatdars ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) 5.
(b) 1.

VILLAGE ESTABLISHMENT.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of posts of tapedars and supervising tapedars in each district in Sind ;

(b) the number of Hindus and Mahomedans respectively who held those posts on 1st January 1928 and 31st October 1930 ;

(c) the number of permanent vacancies of tapedars and supervising tapedars that occurred during the last three years, viz., 1st January 1928 to 31st October 1930 ;

(d) the number of Hindus and Mahomedans respectively who held the above vacancies;

(e) whether any steps were taken to give effect to the orders contained in Government Resolution No. L. 531, dated the 23rd June 1926, regarding the appointments and promotions of tapedars?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) and (b) Statement A which is placed on the Table contains the information for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930.

(c) and (d) Statements B and C which are placed on the Table show the number of vacancies which occurred in the years 1928, 1929 and 1930 and the number of Muslims appointed to them.

(e) Yes; but the orders referred to relate only to the recruitment of tapedars and not to their promotion.

STATEMENT A.

Statement showing the village establishment as it stood in 1928, 1929 and 1930.

District	1928			1929			1929
	Total strength	Supervising Tapedars		Total strength	Tapedars		Total strength	Supervising Tapedars
		Hindus	Muslims		Hindus	Muslims		Hindus	Muslims
Karachi ..	21	11	10	110	56	54	21	11	10
Hyderabad ..	29	16	13	114	56	58	29	16	13
Sukkur ..	31	17	14	122	65	56	31	16	15
Larkana ..	47	29	18	182	100	81	47	25	22
Nawabshah ..	30	19	11	116	76	40	30	20	10
Thar Parkar ..	48	37	11	149	97	52	48	38	10
Upper Sind Frontier.	23	13	10	75	37	38	23	14	9

District	1929			1930			1930
	Total strength	Tapedars		Total strength	Supervising Tapedars		Total strength	Tapedars
		Hindus	Muslims		Hindus	Muslims		Hindus	Muslims
Karachi ..	110	55	55	21	10	11	110	53	57
Hyderabad ..	114	53	61	29	15	14	113	58	55
Sukkur ..	122	65	56	31	16	15	122	63	58
Larkana ..	182	102	79	47	25	22	182	105	77
Nawabshah ..	116	72	44	30	19	11	116	72	44
Thar Parkar ..	149	97	52	49	37	11	149	98	51
Upper Sind Frontier.	75	37	38	23	13	10	75	38	37

Remarks.—In places where the total strength is more than the number of appointments held by Hindus and Muhammadans vacancies remained unfilled.

STATEMENT B.

Statement showing the number of vacancies which occurred among tapedars during 1928, 1929 and 1930 and the number given to Muslims.

District	1928		1929		1930		Remarks
	Total number of vacancies	Number given to Muslims	Total number of vacancies	Number given to Muslims	Total number of vacancies	Number given to Muslims
Karachi ..	2	2	2	1	6	3
Hyderabad ..	6	4	5	2	8	3
Sukkur ..	6	3	7	6	7	3
Larkana* ..	15	6	6	5	13	4	*The desired proportion has not been worked up to in this district. Until the correct proportion is reached, orders have been issued to fill the appointments in the ratio of two Mahomedans to one Hindu.
Nawabshah ..	2	2	..	..	2	1
Thar Parkar ..	5	3	4	2	1	..
Upper Sind Frontier.	3	2	2	..	6	3

STATEMENT C.

Statement showing the number of vacancies which occurred among supervising tapedars during 1928, 1929 and 1930 and the number given to Muslims.

District	1928		1929		1930		Remarks
	Total number of vacancies	Number given to Muslims	Total number of vacancies	Number given to Muslims	Total number of vacancies	Number given to Muslims
Karachi ..	2	1	..	..	2	1
Hyderabad ..	2	2	2	..	2	1
Sukkur ..	1	1	2	2	3	1
Larkana ..	3	2	7	4	1	..
Nawabshah ..	1	..	..	..	1	1
Thar Parkar ..	1	..	2	..	3	1
Upper Sind Frontier.	1	..	2	2	4	2

MULLA SCHOOLS : ALLOTMENT FOR ASSISTANT TEACHERS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amounts of allotments fixed annually by them for the assistant teachers for Mulla schools in each division in Sind ;

(b) the amounts of savings made during the last five years from this allotment in each division ;

(c) whether there is more demand for the appointments of the assistant teachers for Mulla schools ;

(d) the number of assistant teachers needed for the Mulla schools during the time when the savings referred to in clause (b) were effected ;

(e) the number of schools in each division for the last five years in which the number of students was so much as warranted the appointment of assistant teachers but no assistant was appointed therein ;

(f) the number and names of the Mulla schools which applied for getting assistant teachers during the years 1927-28, 1928-29 and 1929-30 ;

(g) the number of the above schools which were given assistant teachers ;

(h) the number of the above schools which were not given assistant teachers ;

(i) the dates of the applications from the above schools and the dates of Government's decision in each case mentioned in (g) and (h) ;

(j) the reasons for making savings from the sanctioned annual allotments ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD :

(a)

Name of Division.	Allotment.
	Rs.
Hyderabad	11,908
Sukkur	9,000
Larkana	8,000
Total ..	28,908

(b) Savings—

Name of Division	1925-26	1926-27	1927-28	1928-29	1929-30
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Hyderabad	908	444	989	788	1,327
Sukkur	152	66	6	41	214
Larkana	148	69	180	221	79

(c) Yes, in some districts.

(d) Number of additional assistant teachers who were needed for the Mulla schools—

Division	1925-26	1926-27	1927-28	1928-29	1929-30
Hyderabad	..	..	..	..	..
Sukkur	11	16	21	30	31
Larkana	31	27	21	35	34

The savings in Sukkur and Larkana Divisions were not sufficient to meet the cost involved.

(e) Number of schools which needed assistants, but where no assistant was given—

Division	1925-26	1926-27	1927-28	1928-29	1929-30
Hyderabad	..	..	..	..	..
Sukkur	11	16	21	30	31
Larkana	31	27	21	35	34

(f), (g) and (h) The numbers are as given below. The names referred to in clause (f) are given in the statement referred to in answer to clause (i):—

	1927-28	1928-29	1929-30
(f) Number of Mulla Schools which applied for assistant teachers.	26	25	25
(g) Number of Mulla Schools which were given assistant teachers.	20	12	15
(h) Number of Mulla Schools which were not given assistant teachers.	16	13	10

(i) The attached statement gives the required information as also the names required in clause (f).

(j) In the Hyderabad Division, savings were due to several posts lying vacant, and to the difficulty of finding men to serve in Lar area and Thar Parkar District.

In the Sukkur and Larkana Divisions, small savings were due to casual vacancies.

STATEMENT.

Name of Mulla Schools which applied for getting assistant teachers	Whether given assistant or not	Date of application	Date of decision in each case
	1927-28
Hyderabad Division
1. Navabad Abdullah ..	Yes	25th August 1927 ..	1st September 1927.
2. Zangi Gado ..	Yes	10th October 1927 ..	1st February 1928.
3. Sukhio Kanro ..	Yes	12th April 1927 ..	1st May 1927.
4. Jumo Khoso ..	Yes	8th September 1927.	15th October 1927.
5. Dad Jarwar ..	Yes	15th November 1927.	6th December 1927.
6. Hala New ..	Yes	14th April 1927 ..	1st May 1927.
7. Anjaman Islam Sadar Bazar, Hyderabad.	Yes	25th February 1927 .	4th May 1927.
8. Nasarpur ..	Yes	11th April 1927 ..	1st May 1927.
9. Ghulam Shah Bagrani.	Yes	22nd September 1927.	9th October 1927.

Name of Mulla Schools which applied for getting assistant teachers	Whether given assistant or not	Date of application	Date of decision in each case
	1927-28—contd.
Hyderabad Division—contd.
10. Matushah ..	Yes	5th February 1928 ..	20th February 1928.
11. Dito Daidano ..	Yes	28th February 1928.	15th March 1928.
12. Diplo ..	Yes	22nd October 1927 ..	1st November 1927.
13. Dur Malukshah ..	No	20th March 1928 ..	27th March 1928.
14. Golimar ..	No	10th April 1927 ..	14th April 1927.
15. Usman Abreja ..	No	12th April 1927 ..	19th April 1927.
16. Tikhur ..	No	16th April 1927 ..	20th April 1927.
17. Jinhan Soomro ..	No	25th April 1927 ..	28th April 1927.
18. Gamori Pali ..	No	8th April 1927 ..	16th April 1927.
Sukkur Division
19. Miani Haji Mir Bahar ..	Yes	4th April 1927 ..	6th May 1927.
20. Bhadurkhan Kalori ..	No	25th February 1927.	3rd April 1927.
Larkana Division
21. Kalandarbux Lohar ..	Yes	2nd April 1927 ..	5th June 1927.
22. Miani Tori ..	Yes	7th August 1927 ..	1st November 1927.
23. Vali Md. Burro ..	Yes	31st July 1927 ..	15th August 1927.
24. Kambar ..	Yes	5th May 1927 ..	6th June 1927.
25. Pat ..	Yes	20th April 1927 ..	1st May 1927.
26. Biro Gadahi ..	Yes	5th June 1927 ..	1st July 1927.
27. Sobho Khan Mangsi ..	Yes	15th April 1927 ..	18th June 1927.
28. Paryo Suhryani ..	No	6th June 1927 ..	21st September 1927.
29. Menokhan Khoso ..	No	4th April 1927 ..	17th May 1927.
30. Karampur ..	No	22nd September 1927	22nd December 1927.
31. Lashkri Chandio ..	No	10th July 1927 ..	14th December 1927.
32. Vasayo Jeho ..	No	10th August 1927 ..	20th August 1927.
33. Ghulam Hussain ..	No	11th May 1927 ..	10th February 1928.
34. Gulbang ..	No	16th August 1927 ..	1st January 1928.
35. Raza Md. Dero ..	No	19th July 1927 ..	19th November 1927.
36. Kain Gorar ..	No	15th August 1927 ..	11th September 1927.
	1928-29
Hyderabad Division
1. Navabad Abdullah ..	Yes	10th May 1928 ..	5th July 1928.
2. Ibrahim Hydri Ghulam Nabi.	Yes	20th June 1928 ..	1st July 1928.
3. Ibrahim Hydri Md. Shah.	Yes	15th July 1928 ..	1st August 1928.
4. Ramswami Garri Khata.	Yes	21st April 1928 ..	8th May 1928.
5. Hala New ..	Yes	1st November 1928..	16th November 1928.
6. Raza Md. Bhati ..	Yes	18th May 1928 ..	26th May 1928.
7. Jinhan Soomro ..	Yes	27th April 1928 ..	16th August 1928.
8. Doulat Dighari ..	Yes	20th November 1928.	1st December 1928.
9. Rawatsar ..	Yes	20th April 1928 ..	1st May 1928.
10. Mirokhan Mari ..	Yes	12th June 1928 ..	1st July 1928.
11. Bahera ..	No	17th April 1928 ..	25th April 1928.
12. Ghazi Birohi ..	No	9th May 1928 ..	14th May 1928.
13. Asu Hindu ..	No	1st July 1928 ..	10th July 1928.
14. Bareji ..	No	1st April 1928 ..	5th April 1928.
15. Sadar Bazar ..	No	8th April 1928 ..	14th April 1928.
Sukkur Division
16. Dado Naich ..	Yes	2nd October 1928 ..	8th October 1928.

Name of Mulla Schools which applied for getting assistant teachers	Whether given assistant or not	Date of application	Date of decision in each case 1928-29.—contd.
Larkana Division
17. Areja ..	Yes	5th May 1928 ..	1st June 1928.
18. Chana Machi ..	No	2nd May 1928 ..	20th August 1928.
19. Adam Panhar ..	No	5th July 1928 ..	27th July 1928.
20. Sono Godahi ..	No	6th September 1928.	2nd October 1928.
21. Nabibux Gabole ..	No	22nd November 1928.	30th November 1928.
22. Ismail Khoso ..	No	10th July 1928 ..	2nd August 1928.
23. Gul Bang ..	No	1st April 1928 ..	10th May 1928.
24. Dib Chandio ..	No	5th May 1928 ..	25th May 1928.
25. Vasayo Jeho ..	No	1st January 1929 ..	9th January 1929.
	1929-30
Hyderabad Division
1. Bhagdadi ..	Yes	5th December 1929..	1st January 1930.
2. Shahbeg Line Girls ..	Yes	7th April 1929 ..	1st May 1929.
3. New Kumbherwara ..	Yes	13th February 1930 .	15th February 1930.
4. Jumo Khoso ..	Yes	4th February 1930 ..	1st March 1930.
5. Usman Areja ..	Yes	20th April 1929 ..	1st May 1929.
6. Matiari ..	Yes	14th December 1929.	1st January 1930.
7. Tando Ghulam Ali ..	Yes	10th April 1929 ..	1st May 1929.
8. Chaleh ..	Yes	15th April 1929 ..	1st May 1929.
9. Dhani Parto Rajpur ..	Yes	20th April 1929 ..	1st May 1929.
10. Mubarak Jarwar ..	No	2nd March 1930 ..	22nd March 1930.
11. Mian Maluk ..	No	25th July 1929 ..	11th August 1929.
12. Ghulam Kadir Narejo .	No	18th October 1929 ..	21st October 1929.
Sukkur Division
13. Kando Indhar ..	Yes	8th February 1930 ..	18th March 1930.
14. Madressah Mahbub Islam.	Yes	2nd January 1930 ..	14th January 1930.
15. Bazi ..	Yes	3rd February 1929 ..	14th January 1930.
16. Perozshah Parsi ..	Yes	10th October 1927 ..	18th December 1927.
17. Khanpur ..	No	13th March 1930 ..	20th March 1930.
18. Dari ..	No	8th May 1929 ..	15th May 1929.
Larkana Division
19. Nasirabad ..	Yes	1st March 1929 ..	1st April 1929.
20. Yar Md. Kalhoro ..	Yes	1st April 1929 ..	1st May 1929.
21. Mubarak Kalhoro ..	No	23rd December 1929.	5th January 1930.
22. Kamalkhan ..	No	5th June 1929 ..	27th June 1929.
23. Kashmore ..	No	12th May 1929 ..	17th May 1929.
24. Dini Madressah ..	No	27th June 1929 ..	10th July 1929.
25. Pechuha ..	No	20th November 1929.	1st December 1929.

Note.—The Deputy Educational Inspector for Muhammadan Education states that the applications of other schools are not traceable and that presumably they have been returned to the Mullas in original as no funds were available.

FLOOD RELIEF.

*Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): (a) Will Government kindly state the circumstances which entitle the subjects, who have suffered damages in consequence of floods to receive relief—

(i) under the Famine Relief provisions, and

(ii) under any other provisions under which Government can or does give relief ?

(b) What is the nature of the relief granted under sub-heads (i) and (ii) mentioned above ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) The Famine Relief Fund is utilised to give gratuitous relief to persons who have been rendered destitute owing to widespread destruction of, or damage to, their property, cattle and crops. Loans and advances are also made through the Provincial Loan Account in suitable cases.

(b) Gratuitous relief is granted for food, clothing, cattle, seeds, reconstruction of houses and opening cheap grain shops. Loans and Advances are made under the Agriculturists' Loans Act and Land Improvement Loans Act for the purchase of seed, cattle and reconstruction or repairs of houses destroyed or damaged by the floods.

ADEN ADMINISTRATION : PROPOSED TRANSFER.

*Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a public meeting of the inhabitants of Aden was held to protest against its transfer from this Government to the Government of India ;

(b) whether Government have received any representation of protests from Aden inhabitants and, if so, whether they will place a copy of the same on the Council table ;

(c) whether Government have received a representation from the Indian Merchants' Chamber of Bombay against the transfer of Aden and from any other bodies and, if so, whether they will place a copy of the same on the Council table ;

(d) whether Government have been informed of the opinion of leading citizens of the City of Bombay that they are against the transfer as being retrograde from every point of view ;

(e) whether it is a fact that there have been protests made by the citizens of Aden against members of the Executive Committee of Aden voting for its transfer at the instance of its Chairman ;

(f) whether it is a fact that there is not even a single elective constituency to elect Port Trustees for Aden and that the Chairman of the Port Trust issued two notes to the members supporting the transfer, and if so, whether Government will be pleased to place copies of those notes on the Council table ;

(g) whether it is a fact that the Trustees of the Port Trust at Aden comprise Europeans, Indians and Arabs, and, if so, how each community have voted on the questions of the transfer ;

(h) whether some Trustees have put in notes of protests and, if so, whether Government will be pleased to place copies of them on the Council table ;

(i) what the opinion of the Aden Chamber of Commerce regarding the transfer of Aden is;

(j) whether it is a fact that the educational, medical and general administration of Aden is below the level of that existing in this Presidency, and, if so, why and since when;

(k) whether it is a fact that Aden Civil and Criminal Courts are under the supervision of the Bombay High Court;

(l) whether it is a fact that a large number of armed police is kept at Aden for political defence purpose and, if so, its cost?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (a) A public meeting was called in the month of August 1931. The actual attendance consisted mostly of Indians.

(b) One memorial dated 1st September 1931 of protest was received from the inhabitants of Aden, mainly Indian, who form only about 15 per cent. of the total population of Aden, addressed to the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy.

(c) Yes. Copies of the representations from the Indian Merchants' Chamber of Bombay and from other bodies are placed on the Council table.

(d) A representation has been received from the Imperial Indian Citizenship Association, Bombay, saying that the Association is opposed to the transfer. The Indian Merchants' Chamber, Bombay, the British Indian Colonial Merchants' Association and the Grain Merchants' Association, Bombay, are three other bodies in Bombay from whom representations have been received.

(e) A petition dated 27th August 1931 signed by 190 inhabitants, including 9 Arabs (none of whom are prominent members of the community), was received by the Resident and Commander-in-Chief protesting against the Resolution of the Executive Committee in favour of the transfer. This resolution was passed by the Executive Committee in response to the invitation of Government to various public bodies to offer their remarks on the proposed transfer. The proposer of the resolution was Mr. Salim M. Menahem Messa, the head of the Jewish community. The statement that the voting was influenced by the Chairman is not correct.

(f) None of the Trustees of the Port are elected; they are appointed by Government under section 7 of the Aden Port Trust Act of 1888. In the two notes which the Chairman circulated to the Trustees, he expressed his views in favour of the transfer.

(g) The Board of the Trustees of the Port of Aden comprises Europeans, Indians and an Arab. The European and Arab members voted in favour of the transfer; the two Indian members voted against it.

(h) Yes; a copy of the note of dissent recorded by Mr. Ahmedbhoy I. A. Laljee on behalf of himself and Mr. Framroz H. C. Dinshaw is placed on the Council table.

(i) The opinion of the Aden Chamber of Commerce is that the Civil Administration should be wholly undertaken by the Government of Bombay.

(j) Educational administration in Aden is below the level existing in the Presidency, mainly due to the facts that it is difficult to secure suitable Indian Officers for the higher posts there, and that for financial reasons the Government of Bombay are unable to meet the growing demands for further facilities. The Civil Hospital has recently been improved at the cost of the Government of India after a personal visit of inspection by the then Viceroy, Lord Irwin, who was not satisfied with its condition at the time of his visit. The hospital accommodation now provided at Aden is up to the standard prevailing in the Presidency. The general administration is suited to the conditions prevailing at Aden which differ from those of the Presidency.

(k) Yes, under the Aden Civil and Criminal Justice Act of 1864, as amended by Acts VI and XXIX of 1927.

(l) A temporary force of 100 armed police recruited in India is at present stationed at Aden pending the raising of a permanent force of 200 and is maintained at an annual cost of Rs. 1,03,294, which is wholly borne by His Majesty's Government. The cost of the permanent force, which is estimated at Rs. 1,49,000 will be shared between the Governments of India and Bombay, His Majesty's Government contributing a sum of £ 8,000 annually. The armed police exist for the internal security of Aden and not for "political defence purpose."

The Indian Merchants' Chamber.

Bombay, 22nd August 1931.

From

J. K. Mehta, Esquire, M.A., Secretary, Indian Merchants' Chamber;

To

The Secretary to the Government of Bombay, Political Department.

Sir,

I am directed to acknowledge receipt of your letter dated 12th August 1931, No. 5997-C, as also a copy of the memorandum on the administration of Aden sent on the 8th instant. A copy of the Press-Note giving a summary of the memorandum was received on the 18th July, and not a copy of the memorandum. I am directed to send hereby the views of the Committee of this Chamber regarding the question of the transfer of Aden to the Government of India.

My Committee were surprised at the reply given by the Honourable the General Member to an interpellation put recently in the Bombay Legislative Council to the effect that the administration of Aden would be transferred as soon as possible to the Government of India. A few years back there was a good deal of agitation against the proposal, as it was then made, of transferring Aden to the Colonial Office. Fortunately, this proposal was ultimately turned down, and though the military control was transferred to the War Office, the Civil Administration has continued with the Government of Bombay. There does not appear now to be any valid reason why this administration should be transferred to the Government of India. The memorandum prepared by the Government of Bombay attempts to make out that there will be probable loss of about Rs. 2 lakhs accruing to the Government of Bombay, if Aden continues under their jurisdiction. It is clear that Aden up to now has not been a cause of any monetary loss. It is observed, however, that certain items which are at present charged to the Government of India will be charged to the Government of Bombay, if the latter continue to administer that Port. My Committee trust that it is not suggested that any district, which threatens to be a source of financial loss, should for that reason alone be separated from the Presidency proper and transferred to the jurisdiction of either the Central Government or any other Provincial Government. If the items of expenditure which are at present legitimately debited to the Government of India, are to be transferred to the accounts of the Government of Bombay, as a result of their continued responsibility for Aden, it can be claimed that the income, which is at present being derived from the Salt pans by the Government of India, should go to the Government of Bombay, and this will serve to set off any loss that might occur.

My Committee are not aware if the Government of Bombay have in view any other factors which will justify the proposed transfer besides the financial factor. All the factors, so far as my Committee can judge, are rather in favour of continuing the administration of Aden under the Government of Bombay, and not transferring it to the Government of India. The population of Aden consists, to an appreciable extent, of people who have gone from Bombay and they are all interested in continuing under the jurisdiction of the Government of Bombay, and would not like the idea of Aden being transferred to such a distant Government as the Government of India. It is very likely that Bombay, in common with other Provinces, will be soon in enjoyment of complete Provincial autonomy, and when that time comes the people of Aden expect that they will derive much benefit regarding their education, medical service and the Police, if Aden is continued to develop on her lines under the Government of Bombay as a part of the Bombay Presidency with whom she has got cultural, trade and industrial relations on a very large extent.

Under these circumstances, my Committee beg to urge with all the emphasis at their command that the Government of Bombay will be pleased not to be a party to the transfer of Aden to the Government of India but to keep it under their jurisdiction.

I beg to remain,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

(Signed) J. K. MEHTA,
Secretary.

The Chamber of Commerce.

Aden, 25th August 1931.

The First Assistant Resident, Aden.

Sir,

With reference to your letter No. C-383, dated 24th July 1931, I have the honour to inform you that at the General Meeting of this Chamber held at Camp, Aden, yesterday the following resolution was passed unanimously :—

"The Memorandum on the subject of the Civil Administration "of Aden, forwarded to this Chamber under letter of the First "Assistant Resident dated 24th July 1931-C-383, has been carefully "considered, and this Chamber is unanimously of opinion that the "Civil Administration of Aden should be wholly undertaken by the "Government of Bombay, for the following reasons :—

"The administration of this Settlement has been carried out by "the Government of Bombay for the last 92 years, and during that "regime, the commercial position has grown to its present state in "the knowledge that the affairs of the Settlement have been under "the control of the Bombay Government. In this knowledge many "influential Bombay business Houses have established branches and "acquired property in Aden, and the Settlement has in consequence, "grown commercially to a position of considerable importance.

"From time to time, representations have been made by this "Chamber to Government with a view to obtaining representation "on the Bombay Council, and also to be given the right to elect "representatives to the Settlement Committee and Port Trust. It "is hoped under the contemplated legislation in India that the Bom-"bay Government will become autonomous, and that in consequence, "Aden will be allowed representation on the Bombay Council and "Assembly, also that the Settlement of Aden will be controlled by an "elected body."

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

(Signed) A. E. ADAMS,

Honorary Secretary,
Aden Chamber of Commerce.

The Buyers and Shippers Chamber.

Karachi, 2nd September 1931.

No. GC. 11/125.

To

The Secretary to the Government of Bombay,
Political Department,
Bombay.

Subject.—Administration of Aden.

Sir,

The Indian Merchants' Chamber, Bombay, have forwarded to this Chamber a copy of their representation No. 1677, dated 22nd August 1931 to your address on the subject cited above.

In this connection I am directed to say that in the opinion of my Committee the Indan Merchants' Chamber have made out a good case, and my Committee support their representation verbatim.

My Committee much regret that their views should not have been invited on an important question like this, and specially so, in view of the Port being nearer to Aden than Bombay, and being equally, if not more, interested in its administration.

It is requested that the Government of Bombay will be pleased to include this Chamber in the list of Chambers whose views are invited whenever commercial opinion is consulted.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
(Signed) HARIDAS LALJI,
Honorary Secretary.

The Grain Merchants' Association.

262, Masjid Bunder Road,
Mandvi Post No. 3.
Bombay, 26th October 1931.

The Secretary to the Government of Bombay,
Political Department,
Bombay.

Sir,

I am directed by my Managing Committee to address you on the subject of the proposed transfer of the Civil Administration of Aden to the Government of India.

As the Government are aware the connection of Aden with this Presidency is of 90 years standing. It is mostly the commercial communities from this Presidency that have made Aden the important commercial centre and they have made their homes there and possess landed and other properties and debts worth lacs of rupees. The residents of Aden in a public meeting held there and the Chamber of Commerce have manifested their desire that Aden should remain with this Presidency as it is at present. The Indian Merchants' Chamber, Bombay, and other important public associations have also sent representations to the same effect to the Government. But in spite of all this Bombay Government have not changed their mind and showed their willingness to the proposed transfer.

My Association strongly support the public opinion of keeping Aden with the Bombay Presidency and urge the Government of Bombay to respect the views of the general and the mercantile public in this respect and request the Government of India to drop the proposal of transfer.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
(Signed) UTTAMRAM,
Secretary

Indian Posts and Telegraphs Department.

O.....TG.....Bombay.....9.....194.

General Department, Poona.

Council of Imperial Indian Citizenship Association passed following Resolution in meeting nineteenth September which I submit for your favourable consideration. Quote. "Council has learnt with surprise that Government of Bombay have pressed Government of India to take over at once Civil Administration of Aden against expressed public opinion in the Presidency. Stop. Council unable to understand when responsible opinion in Presidency supported this proposal as stated by Honourable General Member Bombay Government in Legislative Council last month. Stop. On the contrary public opinion of Aden and also Chamber of Commerce as well as Indian Merchants Chamber Bombay and other Associations representing commercial interests have made representations to Government emphatically opposing the transfer. Stop. In view of these facts and view of general public opinion in Presidency Council of Association do prepare and send strong representation to the Government of Bombay and India against the proposed transfer as being detrimental to the best interests of people of Aden who have been united to the Presidency over hundred years by cultural and commercial ties and considerable portion of whom are citizens of this Presidency." Unquote. Representation will follow.

K. NATARAJAN,
Honorary Secretary.

Indian Posts and Telegraphs Department.

O....TG....Bombay....21.....179.

Bombay Local Poona.

The British Indian Colonial Merchants Association surprised at the proposal to transfer the civil administration of Aden from the Government of Bombay to the Government of India. Stop. The proposal for transfer whenever it was mooted in the past was strenuously opposed by all parties concerned including the Indian and Arab residents of Aden. Stop. The Association notes with regret that the assurance given to it on behalf of Government that such a step would not be taken before ascertaining the views of merchants and other interests concerned has not been kept up. Stop. It is matter for deep regret that Government after being fully aware of the very strong opposition to such a transfer should have thought it fit to flout the same and pursue the proposal. Stop. The Association urges that Government will now once for all abandon the idea of separating Aden from Bombay as the same is against the interests of the Presidency as also of the residents and merchants of Aden.

PURSHOTAMDAS THAKURDAS,
President.

Cowasjee Dinshaw and Bros.

Aden, Bombay, Zanzibar, Hodeidah, Djibouti, Benadir and Somali Coasts.

Aden, 29th August 1931.

From

FRAMROZE H. C. DINSHAW, Steamer Point, Aden.

To

The Secretary, General Department, Government of Bombay, Bombay.

Sir,

I had the honour to sending you a telegram on the 26th instant, as follows :—

"Public meeting of five hundred representative residents Indians, "Arabs place on record strong protest against proposed transfer of "Aden Administration from Bombay to Central Government. "Consider such transfer detrimental to their interest and welfare. "Request take immediate steps. Prevent transfer and appease public "mind. Framroze Dinshaw"

The memorandum on the Civil Administration of Aden was sent by the local authorities to the Chamber of Commerce here for their opinion and when the public came to know about this they applied that before discussing in the Chamber they should hold the meeting of Arabs and Indians to consider the pros and cons about the transfer of Aden to the Central Government.

Most of the Aden traders come from the Bombay Presidency and they have long connections with Aden trade, their head offices strongly object to the transfer of Aden to the Government of India.

The administration of Aden justice is under the supervision of the Bombay High Court and for any legal technicality when the cases are referred to the Bombay High Court the head offices in Bombay find it very convenient to attend to their solicitors and counsels when the cases come up for hearing in the High Court of Bombay.

The registration of documents for properties in Aden are permissible to be registered in Bombay, which is a very great convenience.

It is an easy matter for the head offices in Bombay to approach the Bombay Legislative councillors in case they have any grievances regarding the Aden administration.

The trade of Aden with India is chiefly from Bombay and Karachi.

(1) On considering the memorandum they are of opinion that the Armed Police Force is for the defence of Aden and that the expenditure on that account should be wholly borne by the Colonial or the Central Government.

(2) The Railway at Aden was first introduced as a War measure, to facilitate the transfer of troops and stores to the Military Frontier at Sheikh Othman and was since worked at a heavy loss and the public is of opinion that the heavy deficit on this account might have been included in the Central Government's Budget and they consider that the loss on that account should be borne by the Military. Moreover, it is no longer an item of recurring expense, as the railway is out of commission.

(3) The contribution from India towards the Military expense of Aden was £.250,000 for the first three years since 1927 and after that the expense would be curtailed to £.150,000 which will show considerable reduction on the debit side in the Central Government's Budget.

(4) The public of Aden are apprehensive that the transfer of Aden to the Central Government means a first step towards handing it over to the Colonial Government which would be detrimental to the interest of the Oriental races.

(5) According to the report of the Simon Commission the Bombay Province is to get an autonomy and the public of Aden are of opinion that in that case Aden should not be severed from Bombay, as they are looking forward to representation on the local bodies, as well as Provincial and Central Legislature.

I am sure you will agree with us that the above five points raised by us will meet with your approval and kind consideration, as we do not like to be in the same position as one of the non-regulation Provinces like the North Western Frontier or Baluchistan.

A memorial from the public of Aden ventilating their views on the above points is being drafted and addressed to the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy, Simla, which will be forwarded in due course.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

(Signed) FRAMROZ H. C. DINSHAW.

NOTE.

Provincial Autonomy being a foregone conclusion it is definitely to the advantage of all shades of inhabitants of Aden that Aden be kept under the autonomous Bombay Presidency because it will take time for the Central Government to assume a thoroughly popular form. Aden under the Central Government cannot and should not in any case expect a treatment better than that which is meted out to the non-Regulation Provinces of the type of North Western Frontier Provinces and Baluchistan. The fact that the people in these Provinces have few rights and privileges is too well known to need repetition.

The Arabs, Jews and the Somalis may be in preponderance, but the fact cannot be denied that the Indians were the pioneers who made Aden what it is to-day. Aden hinterland has by their efforts become the chief or the only market for Indian piecegoods and Indian grains, and as it was India with whose money the deficit balances in the past were met the Indians are entitled to demand that this trade with the hinterland may not suffer. But it shall suffer if Aden were to be transferred to the Government of India because with curtailment of freedom as in the non-Regulation Provinces, Aden will not be a very tempting place for Indian merchants to remain in.

Shipping trade and the great salt industry of Aden are in the hands of the Bombay people to a large extent, and their interests are interwoven with Bombay.

There are many parts of Bombay Presidency that are not self-supporting, but that is not a plea for snatching those portions away from the Bombay Government.

If the land revenue of the salt pans were to go to the Bombay Government, just as the revenue of the salt pans of Matunga, Ghatkopar, Bhandup and other places goes to it, then the little deficit that is being made so much of will disappear.

Therefore, I am of opinion that it is beneficial for all communities that the Bombay connection be retained.

(Signed) AHMEDBHOY I. A. LALJEE.

Aden, 29th August 1931.

CIVIL HOSPITAL, KARACHI: MILK AND BUTTER SUPPLY.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): (1) Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many tenders were received for milk and butter supply at the Civil Hospital, Karachi, for the current year;

(b) the names of the tenderers;

(c) the prices quoted by each of them;

(d) the name of the tenderer whose tender was accepted;

(e) the reasons for accepting the highest or higher tender rather than the lowest;

(f) the amount of milk and butter used during the months of April and May;

(g) the amount paid or billed for the same;

(h) the amount that would have been saved during the year had the lowest tender been accepted?

(2) Is it a fact that the system followed in the previous years was to make the contractor milk his cows in the hospital under the supervision of hospital authorities?

(3) Is it a fact that this system is not observed with the present contractor?

(4) Is it a fact that the contractor boils his milk before he delivers it to the hospital?

(5) If so, has any arrangement been made to inspect the contractor's vessels?

(6) Is it a fact that the milk is reboiled at the time of serving and thus gets reduced in food value?

(7) Is it a fact that the contractor has secured the contract through the recommendation of the President of the Karachi European Association?

(8) Is it a fact that Government has made a cut of 21 per cent. in the budget for diet?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply† given to a similar question put by the honourable member for Karachi City (Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch).

† Printed in the Debates of 30th November 1931.

CHITNISES AND HEAD CLERKS : CLASSIFICATION.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the total number of head clerks and the chitnises to the Collectors in the Presidency ?

(b) How many of them are Brahmins, non-Brahmins excluding Lingayats and Jains, Mahomedans, Parsis, Christians, Jews and Buddhists, respectively ?

(c) How many of them have been appointed during the last 10 years, and how many of those appointed during that period belong to each of the different communities mentioned in (b) above ?

(d) Is it a fact that the percentage of advanced Hindus and backward communities among head clerks and chitnises to the total number is extremely small, and if so, what are the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) 49.

(b) 16 Brahmins and 16 non-Brahmins exclusive of the communities mentioned in the question.

(c) The total number of persons appointed to the 49 posts from time to time during the last 10 years is 226, viz.,

Brahmins	101
Non-Brahmins	72
Lingayats	6
Jains	2
Mahomedans	18
Parsis	2
Christians	23
Jews	2
Buddhists	Nil.

(d) No.

COUNCIL RESOLUTIONS : GOVERNMENT ACTION.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) which of the resolutions passed by the Council at the February-March session 1931 have been given effect to ;

(b) to which of them effect is proposed to be given and when ;

(c) to which of them it is not intended to give effect and the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (a), (b) and (c) The only resolution passed by the Legislative Council at the February-March session 1931, was the one moved by the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. Kambli, regarding the necessity of maintaining the quality and reputation of the cotton grown in the Narbada-Mahi area and of preventing the importation of inferior variety of cotton grown in the adjoining areas. Effect to the resolution has been given by publishing a final notification declaring the Narbada-Mahi area a protected Zone under the Cotton Transport Act.

HONORARY PRESIDENCY MAGISTRATES' COURTS: FINES.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state the amount recovered by way of fines during each of the last three official years by the Honorary Presidency Magistrates' Courts in Bombay?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The amounts were Rs. 1,55,441, Rs. 1,84,150 and Rs. 1,60,444.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS, NASIK DISTRICT.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of villages in the Nasik District with a population of 500 and over which had no schools before the transfer of control of primary schools to the local authorities;

(b) what is the number of new schools opened in such villages since the transfer?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) 119.
(b) 18.

SECRETARIAT: APPOINTMENT OF SUPERINTENDENTS AND SENIOR ASSISTANTS.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of Superintendents and senior assistants in the various Departments of the Secretariat separately and the years of service they have put in;

(b) whether promotions in each Department are given separately;

(c) whether they intend to form one cadre for the whole Secretariat?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (a) The statement containing the information required is attached.

(b) Yes.

(c) No.

Statement showing the number of Superintendents and First Assistants in the several Departments of the Secretariat and the years of service they have put in.

Name of Department	Number of Superintendents	Years of service put in by each of the Superintendents shown in column 2	Number of First Assistants	Years of service put in by each of the First Assistants shown in column 4
1	2	3	4	5
Finance Department ..	8	24, 23, 21, 16, 16, 12, 11 and 9.	10	11, 11, 8, 7, 31, 10, 22, 12, 29 and 10.
General and Educational Departments.	7	20, 18, 17, 17, 15, 14 and 17.	8	14, 14, 30, 13, 13, 13, 13 and 11.
Home Department ..	8	32, 24, 20, 22, 22, 21, 20 and 17.	9	19, 22, 18, 18, 17, 15, 18, 7 and 7.
Legal Department ..	5	31, 24, 22, 20 and 18.	2	10 and 6.
Political Department ..	6*	30, 24, 20, 20, 19 and 17.	9*	22, 16, 28, 14, 13, 12, 25, 18 and 10.
Public Works Department	8	27, 27, 26, 19, 20, 21, 17 and 26.	8	17, 13, 12, 11, 11, 16, 30 and 25.
Revenue Department ..	8	33, 28, 25, 23, 23, 20, 18 and 18.	8	34, 20, 17, 14, 13, 13, 13 and 12.

*Includes one appointment in the Passport Branch.

LAND REVENUE COLLECTION, NASIK DISTRICT.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total amount of suspended land revenue during the land revenue year 1930-31, in the different talukas of the Nasik District;

(b) the total amount of land revenue remitted during that year on account of whole or partial failure of crops in the different talukas of the district;

(c) the total amount of land revenue recovered for the land revenue year as decided by Government, that one year's revenue only will be collected and all the suspended arrears throughout the Presidency proper shall be re-suspended;

(d) what is the total amount of re-suspension granted in each taluka of the district up to the year 1930-31;

(e) the total amount of remissions granted during the last three years in the different talukas of the district where there was failure of crops through want of rain or damage to crops by grasshoppers or locusts?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) Nil.

(b) A sum of Rs. 1,160 was remitted in Chandor Taluka.

(c) The total amount of land revenue recovered excluding re-suspended arrears was Rs. 21,07,991-5-5.

(d)

	Rs.	a.	p.
(1) Chandor	9,918	4	0
(2) Malegaon	8,878	6	0
(3) Yeola	1,485	0	0
	20,281	10	0

Year	Taluka	Amount	Reasons
(e) 1928-29		Nil.
1929-30	(1) Chandor ..	Rs. a. p. 1,302 10 8	Locusts.
	(2) Peint ..	626 8 9
	(3) Nasik ..	272 3 0
	(4) Malegaon	363 6 6
	(5) Dindori ..	22 14 9
		2,587 11 8
1930-31	(1) Chandor ..	1,160 0 0	Failure of crops.
	(2) Nasik ..	61 9 0	Locusts.
		1,221 9 0

PIER AT RATNAGIRI.

*Mr. B. P. WADKE (Bombay City, South): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether there was a committee appointed to consider the question of constructing piers on certain ports of the west coast of the Presidency?

(b) If so, what were their recommendations and how far have they been carried out?

(c) Was the port of Ratnagiri one of them, and if so, which is the site selected for the pier?

(d) Has the work been taken in hand, and if so, what progress has been made with regard to it?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a), (b) and (c) Government did not appoint any Committee to consider this question generally. They appointed one in 1927 only to consider the question of landing facilities in Ratnagiri. A copy of the Press Note issued in connection with the report of the Committee is placed on the Council Table.

(d) The question of locating a suitable site for the construction of a pier is still under the consideration of Government.

With the compliments of the Director of Information, Bombay. P-171/18th August 1928.

In June of last year the Government of Bombay appointed a Committee consisting of the following gentlemen, to investigate the feasibility of improving the landing facilities at Ratnagiri :—

Captain H. Morland, Deputy Director, R.I.M. (Chairman),

Mr. B. E. Vacha, Superintending Engineer, S. C.,

Mr. T. J. Walke, Superintendent of Lights, Bombay, and

Mr. B. R. Nanal, M.L.C.

The Committee were requested to consider and report on the following points :—

(1) whether from the engineering and nautical points of view the construction of a sufficiently sheltered pier is feasible; and

(2) if so, what the approximate cost of the project would be;

(3) if not, whether an alternative scheme for providing a boat jetty at which steamer passengers would be landed dry-shod is feasible.

After a preliminary investigation the Committee submitted an ad interim report in August 1927, and after locally testing the preliminary conclusions with the aid of the Executive Engineer in charge of Boring Works, Nasik, they have submitted their final report on the possibility of constructing a pier at Ratnagiri. The Committee consider that it is impossible to build a pier or make a landing place at Ratnagiri that would be serviceable or could be used all the year round, that the landing at Mirya (Kalbadevi Bay) is the only one that can be used in the South West monsoon, and that, as the passenger traffic is very small during that time, no special provision is necessary. On the other hand, the indentation called Killa Bay is considered unsuitable for a landing place during either monsoon, because of the fact that there is a lack of manœuvring space for steamers and also of its exposure, during the South West monsoon, to swell which comes round the point as a backwash. The exposure to the North West wind which prevails for most of the period of the North East monsoon renders the site unsafe. Lastly, there is also the difficulty and expense of constructing road communication with the principal part of the town and the distance therefrom. So the best site for either a steamer pier or boat pier is considered to be about 500 feet south west of the Tower, under the headline, to which there is absolutely no alternative. The Committee recommend that a pier or jetty should be built at this site at which steamers can go alongside at High Water springs or neaps, and at other times passengers will be able to embark from the pier into boats, and thus have a short boat passage, reaching the steamer dry-shod and vice versa when disembarking. The leading citizens of Ratnagiri who were consulted by the Committee agreed to this proposal, which was also concurred in by experienced Masters of coasting steamers, who agreed with the Chairman as to the feasibility of taking their vessels alongside when the tide serves.

The plans and estimates submitted by the Committee show that the depth of water at chainage 1,300 along the proposed line of the pier will be about 16 feet at mean tide or 12 feet at ordinary low tide. The usual passenger steamers plying to Ratnagiri draw about 10 feet of water and allowing 2 feet margin between the sea-bed and the bottom of the steamer, it is believed that steamers can touch this point at all stages of the tide except the lowest, when the depth would be only about 10 feet. As the lowest tides occur only for a very few days in the month and then only for a few hours on those days, it is not necessary to provide against this contingency. The proposed pier will be 1,300 feet long and 24 feet wide with a T. head at the outer end 300 feet × 30 feet alongside of which steamers can moor. Twenty-four feet width is considered sufficient to accommodate two lines of vehicular traffic crossing each other and also a number of pedestrians on the sides. At the T. head as loading and unloading is to be done and traffic has to turn round, a greater width is considered necessary and therefore 30 feet is provided. If the 300 feet T. head is found insufficient it can be extended later on.

There will be an approach road to the pier or jetty and the distance to the town by road will not be great. It is also anticipated that the pier or boat jetty can be utilised for the landing of cargo by country craft which would be more satisfactory than as at present proceeding over the Bar at Rajuda Creek, or it would, at any rate relieve that place of any congestion.

The estimated cost of the project amounts to nine lakhs of rupees roughly, including the cost of the approach road. If competitive tenders are invited and firms of repute requested to quote for their own detailed designs on the general lines of this design the Committee think that it is likely that the work could be constructed at a lower cost, especially as the rate of iron work, of which there is plenty in the proposed design, is going down.

The designs and estimates now submitted by the Committee are reported to be a great improvement on the several schemes prepared during the last half a century, which could not materialize for various reasons. The Committee have given due consideration to the needs and requirements of the people of the locality with due regard to the physical disabilities that have to be faced in constructing a suitable landing place in an exposed place like Ratnagiri. They hope the proposed pier will, to a great extent, meet the public demand. The Committee further observe that they have kept in view the difficulties in financing this harbour work project. The passenger as well as goods traffic is small. The paying capacity of the passengers as well as of the traders is limited. The scheme is so designed as to give the maximum benefit at a minimum cost.

Government have now under consideration the question of financing the scheme but in the meanwhile they take this opportunity of expressing their cordial appreciation of the services of the Chairman and Members of the Ratnagiri Pier Investigation Committee who have produced a valuable report.

Mr. B. P. WADKE: With regard to (d), the Honourable the Revenue Member has already replied to Rao Bahadur Bole's question that the work will be taken in hand this year.....

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I did not say anything of the kind. What I said was that the matter was under examination and that I shall be very glad to inform the honourable member Rao Bahadur Bole of the results of that examination as soon as they are ready. Undertaking the work is a very different matter.

HOSPITALS: LAY SECRETARY.

*Mr. B. P. WADKE (Bombay City, South): (1) Will Government kindly state when the Lay Secretary to J. J. and allied hospitals (Bombay) was appointed?

(2) What are his qualifications?

(3) What are his duties?

(4) Is the appointment permanent or temporary?

(5) Is it one of his duties to effect economies?

(6) What are the economies he has effected so far, together with the amounts thereof?

(7) What is his salary and what are his allowances, if any?

(8) Are his decisions binding in matters requiring medical knowledge, e.g., ordering a cheaper brand of medicines or disallowing extras to patients like oranges or eggs, etc., when the medical officer considers them necessary for the patient?

(9) Who places orders for drugs, serums, etc.?

(10) Is it a fact that cheap serums (anti-tetanus) are indented by him for use in the hospitals?

(11) Are such cheap serums of proved efficacy and approved of by the medical officers of the said hospitals?

(12) If not, have the medical officers stated their opinions on the use of such serums and cheap medicines ?

(13) If so, will Government place a copy of the opinions of the medical officers on the Council table ?

(14) Who performed the work now performed by the Lay Secretary before he was appointed ?

(15) Was that person paid a substantive salary or an allowance for it ?

(16) What was the amount of that salary or allowance ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : (1) The Lay Secretary was appointed on 8th October 1930.

(2) He is R.A.S.C. (Retired).

(3) The accompanying copy of the rules regulating the duties of the Lay Secretary indicates what his duties are.

(4) The appointment is temporary for two years.

(5) Yes.

(6) It is not possible to give a definite answer as the figures for a complete financial year are not yet available.

(7) His salary is Rs. 1,000 per mensem with house rent according to the rules of the House Allowance Scheme printed in the Bombay Civil Services Rules.

(8) The Lay Secretary has no authority in medical matters.

(9) The Superintendents of the Hospitals concerned.

(10) All purchases are of course made as cheaply as may be, consistently with good quality.

(11), (12) and (13) Do not arise.

(14) The Superintendents of the Hospitals concerned.

(15) and (16) The Superintendents of the J. J. Hospital and the B. J. Hospital for Children were given allowances of Rs. 150 per mensem and Rs. 50 per mensem respectively.

Copy of the rules regulating the duties of the Lay Secretary, J. J. Group of Hospitals, Bombay.

(1) The Secretary will work under the immediate control of the Surgeon General.

(2) All members of the Hospital Staff must treat requisitions or requests for information received from the Secretary in connection with the discharge of his duties as proceeding from the Surgeon General and comply with them accordingly.

(3) The Secretary will be in immediate charge of the hospital office, the Stores Department, and all the staff concerned, and will have the duties and responsibilities of an officer exercising such immediate charge. He will be generally responsible for the internal economy of the Hospitals. More specifically—

(4) He will see that the full amount of security is duly taken from the contractors and from the members of the office staff who are liable to give securities. He will also make proper arrangement for the safe custody of all securities deposited.

(5) He will examine all service books and see that they are kept in safe custody and are maintained up-to-date. He will deal with all cases of pension and gratuities and submit them with his remarks to the Surgeon General.

(6) He will pass all requisitions from the different wards and departments of the hospitals for all stores of which a stock is maintained, unless such requisitions are excessive in which case he will refer them to the Superintendents concerned for scrutiny and if not satisfied will refer to the Surgeon General for orders.

(7) He will on receipt of requisitions for replacements or repairs of articles of furniture and equipment of the hospital satisfy himself by enquiry that such replacements or repairs have not been necessitated by an act of negligence on anybody's part. If he is not so satisfied, he will make a special report to that effect to the Surgeon General.

(8) He will report to the Superintendent concerned and to the Surgeon General when the cost of diets exceeds the sanctioned scale.

(9) He will call for contracts, scrutinise tenders and examine the articles and stores supplied, both with regard to quality and quantity. He is however not empowered to accept contracts.

(10) He will see that the contractors keep to the terms and specifications of their respective contracts.

(11) He will examine the cash books and account books daily and will initial them in token of his having done so. He will verify the cash balance daily and will sign the cash book.

(12) He will see that all monies including paying patients' fees and confinement fees due to the hospitals are collected and credited to Government. He will grant and sign receipts for all payments.

(13) He will visit periodically the hospitals, kitchens, the stores and laundry house and keep himself in touch with all matters so far as they lie within the sphere of his duties.

(14) He will supervise the Trust funds and other Hospital funds and their accounts and see that the orders of the Surgeon General or the administrator of the funds concerned are carried out.

(15) He will closely scrutinise all expenditure and whenever the budget grants are likely to be exceeded he will bring the matter at once to the notice of the Surgeon General.

(16) He will bring to the notice of the Surgeon General all irregularities and all cases of wastage, loss, and misuse, also any abnormal and excessive expenditure which comes to his knowledge.

(17) He will visit portions of the Hospitals daily to satisfy himself as to the internal management of the wards and various departments. He will be in close touch with senior Resident Medical Officer in all matters that concern the strictly professional part of the Hospital—complaints, offences, etc., of the menial staff.

(18) He will consult the Superintendent concerned in all matters concerning Hospital management so far as they come within the sphere of his duties.

Mr. B. P. WADKE : With regard to (7), may I know the reason why the temporary man is paid the house rent allowance ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : That is according to rules.

Mr. B. P. WADKE : But can temporary men take advantage of the allowance allowed under the rule ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : I have replied, Sir.

Mr. B. P. WADKE : Has he got a telephone in his bungalow ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : I am not aware.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

EXCISE DEPARTMENT : INSPECTORS AND SUPERINTENDENTS.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many persons with University degrees are in service in the Excise Department as Inspectors of Excise ?

(b) Will Government place on the Council Table a list of such Inspectors showing their names, University qualifications, length of service and present salary ?

(c) How many posts of Superintendents of Excise have been filled by direct recruitment during the last ten years ?

(d) Will Government place on the Council Table a list of such directly recruited Superintendents showing their names, year of recruitment, University qualifications and present pay ?

(e) Under what rules or orders of Government are such direct recruitments made ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to place a copy of these rules or orders on the Council Table ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Eleven.

(b) A statement furnishing the necessary information is placed on the Council Table.

(c) Three.

(d) The following statement gives the required information :—

No.	Name of Officer	Year of recruitment	University qualifications	Present pay	Remarks
				Rs.
1.	Mr. Abdul Aziz Hakim.	1924	Passed the Intermediate Science Examination.	....	Services were dispensed with because he failed to pass the departmental examinations.
2.	Mr. Raghunath Narayan Samarth.	1927	B.A. (Bom. and Oxon.)	420 130 Travelling allowance. 19 Tentage allowance.
3	Mr. Jafar Ali Khan G. Agha.	1928	Passed the Intermediate Arts Examination.	340 130 Travelling allowance. 19 Tentage allowance.

(e) and (f) Copies of Government Resolution and Press Note No. 9693/24, dated 10th January 1928, are placed on the Council table.

Statement showing the names of Excise Inspectors with their University qualifications, length of service and present pay.

No.	Name	University qualifications	Length of service	Present salary
			Y. m. d.	Rs.
1	Mr. S. B. Wagle	B.A.	23 11 0	300
2	„ N. B. Desai	B.A.	23 11 0	300
3	„ K. N. Wadia	M.A., B.Sc.	18 5 0	300
4	Sheik Abdul Kadar Raja Saheb ..	B.A.	20 3 0	240
5	Mr. P. A. Reporter	M.A.	16 1 15	240
6	„ K. K. Desai	B.A.	15 5 17	210
7	„ M. S. Navalkar	M.A.	15 7 29	210
8	„ K. S. L. Iyangar	B.Sc.	15 5 8	200
9	„ B. C. Thakore	B.A.	15 4 16	200
10	„ C. G. Vyas	B.Ag.	15 10 0	160
11	„ R. A. Desai	B.A.	17 2 19	160

Appointments.

—of a probationer in the Bombay Excise Department.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Resolution No. 9693/24.

Bombay Castle, 10th January 1928.

Letter from the Commissioner of Excise No. 30-41/27 dated 12th September 1927 :—

"I have the honour to refer to paragraph 4 of Government Resolution No. 5048, Revenue Department, dated the 26th September 1923, directing that after the separation of the Salt and Excise Departments, 50 per cent. of the gazetted appointments in the Excise Department should be filled up by direct recruitment. The idea apparently was that if for instance there were four vacancies in the grade of Superintendents, two of these were to be filled up by direct recruits.

"2. After the separation the following three permanent vacancies occurred :—

(1) Vice Mr. C. H. Fletcher, transferred permanently to the Salt Department from the 25th April 1924;

(2) Vice Mr. J. D. Ghandy, retired from the 16th May 1925;

(3) Vice Mr. C. Clifford, retired from the 31st May 1927.

The first vacancy was filled up by the appointment of Mr. J. Dyas, who was previously acting in that vacancy owing to Mr. Fletcher's temporary deputation to the Salt Department. The second vacancy was filled up by the selection of Mr. C. H. W. Lake, an Inspector of the Salt Department, who had previously officiated for a long period on the gazetted cadre of the amalgamated departments. On the principle referred to above this vacancy should have been filled up by direct recruitment. Direct recruitment was not, however, possible because a probationer was not available, Mr. Hakim, the first probationer appointed by Government, not having completed his year of probation then. Then again on account of the failure of Mr. Hakim to make good during the period of his probation, the third vacancy had also to be filled up otherwise than by direct recruitment, Mr. G. Gidney, Excise Inspector, who was officiating as Superintenent for a considerable period, having been confirmed.

"3. In the near future there will normally be three permanent vacancies of Superintendents in consequence of the retirements (1) on proportionate pension of Mr. L. H. Barford some time in January next and (2), under the age rule, of Messrs. S. J. Taleyarkhan and R. Honner with effect from the 15th and the 28th August 1928, respectively. Mr. R. N. Samarth who was appointed by Government in April last to be Probationary Superintendent of Excise cannot be appointed to the vacancy which will be caused by the retirement of Mr. Barford, because he will not then have completed one year of his probationary period. This vacancy will therefore have to be filled up by the substantive promotion of one of the non-gazetted officers who is officiating on the gazetted cadre. Mr. Samarth will ordinarily be eligible to one of the other two vacancies in August next year, provided he passes the prescribed departmental examinations.

"4. This is the situation as it stands at present. I will now explain the practical difficulties in the way of direct recruitment under the present system.

"5. A probationer has to be appointed fully a year ahead in anticipation of a vacancy. It is not, however, always possible to forecast vacancies. Some officers suddenly decide to retire before the full period of their service. In that case if it be the turn of a direct recruit to fill a vacancy, the appointment will have to be kept unfilled for a year, whilst a probationer is being trained. If this is considered undesirable, then it must be given by promotion to existing subordinates, in which case the rule of alternate turn cannot be followed.

Again a probationer may be selected in time, but he may fail in his examination or found during the probation period to be unfit. In that case too another year might be wasted.

"6. In my opinion the only solution is to select a certain number of probationers in anticipation and after they have passed their examination and been partially trained, though given the rank of gazetted officers, they should be employed as Inspectors till vacancies occur. A year or two's work as Inspector might be an excellent training and be beneficial on the whole to the service.

"7. As stated above three permanent vacancies will occur within the next 12 months. As against this only 1 probationer, Mr. Samarth, is being trained. His year of probation expires on the 19th April 1928 and in case he passes his examination by then, he may get one of the vacancies. It seems, however, absolutely necessary to appoint another probationer immediately. In fact for reasons stated above and against emergencies I am in favour of appointing two probationers, the second one being warned that he should have to serve as Inspector on Rs. 250 till a vacancy occurs in the grade of Superintendents which has to be filled up by direct recruitment. It is desirable always to have one probationer in reserve. Even so Government will have to decide whether pending the training of these probationers, permanent vacancies, if any, are to be kept unfilled, they being filled as a temporary measure only by acting promotion from the subordinate staff.

"8. Lastly I would point out that there is no provision in the current year's budget to meet the expenditure on account of additional probationers, but if Government decide to appoint one or more probationers, it will be possible to meet the expenditure by reappropriation."

RESOLUTION.—In modification of the orders contained in paragraph 4 of Government Resolution No. 5048 dated 26th September 1923, the Government of Bombay are pleased to direct that henceforth only one out of every three vacancies in the cadre of Superintendents of Excise shall be filled up by direct appointment, the remaining two being filled up by promotion from the subordinate ranks. In these circumstances Government consider that there is no need for the immediate recruitment of two probationers as proposed by the Commissioner. The appointment of one probationer is accordingly sanctioned.

2. When the period of his probation has been completed and he is otherwise qualified, the probationer should be confirmed in the post of Superintendent of Excise as soon as there is a vacancy to which he can be appointed. Till such time he should be employed as an Inspector. If however an appointment becomes available before the completion of the probationary period, it should be temporarily filled by the grant of acting promotions to the subordinate staff.

3. The probationer should be granted a salary of Rs. 200 per mensem from the date of his employment until he is appointed to the post of Superintendent.

4. The requisite notification should be published in the Bombay Government Gazette and in the "Times of India," the "Bombay Chronicle," the "Indian Daily Mail," the "Daily Gazette," the "Sind Observer," the "Jam-e-Jamshed" and the "Akhbar-e-Islam." Copies of the notification should also be furnished to the Director of Public Instruction, the Principals of Arts Colleges in the Presidency and the Principals of the College of Engineering and the Agricultural College, Poona.

By order of the Government of Bombay
(Transferred Departments),

A. E. SERVAI,
Acting Under Secretary to Government.

To

The Commissioner in Sind,
The Commissioners of Divisions,
The Commissioner of Excise,
All Collectors, including the Deputy Commissioner, Upper Sind Frontier,
The Superintendent of Salt and Excise, Sind,
The Director of Public Instruction,
The Director of Agriculture,
The Director of Information,
The Accountant General,
The Principals of the Elphinstone, Deccan, Gujarat and Karnatak Colleges,
The Principal, Agricultural College, Poona,
The Principal, College of Engineering, Poona,
The Principals of the Wilson, St. Xavier's, Rajaram, Fergusson, New Poona, Baroda, Samaldas, Dayaram Jethmal (Sind), Willingdon, Bahauddin, M. T. B., H. P. T. and Sind National Colleges (by letter).

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 10th January 1928.

No. 9693/24.—It is hereby notified that the Government of Bombay (Transferred Departments) propose to select a candidate for appointment as a probationer in the Bombay Excise Department. Applications must reach the Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, on or before the 15th February 1928. Intending candidates, who must be above 21 and below 25 years of age on that date, should apply for particulars to the Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, Secretariat, Bombay.

By order of the Government of Bombay
(Transferred Departments),

J. W. SMYTH,
Secretary to Government.

PRESS NOTE.

The Government of Bombay (Transferred Departments) propose to select a candidate for appointment as a probationer in the Bombay Excise Department. The selection will be made from persons of high educational qualifications who are not already in Government service. Applications from intending candidates are accordingly invited and must reach the Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, on or before the 15th February 1928. No application received after that date will be considered.

Note.—Any attempt on the part of a candidate to enlist support for his application from persons of influence will disqualify him for appointment. The intending candidates are also warned that they should not attempt to see any Member or Minister of Government, or Secretary or Under Secretary to Government unless they are called for a personal interview.

2. A candidate must state his caste and produce evidence—

(i) that he is either a subject of His Majesty or a subject of a State in India in respect of whom the Governor General in Council has made a declaration under section 96-A of the Government of India Act, and has resided for not less than three years before the date of application within the limits of the Bombay Presidency, or of a State in political relations with the Government of Bombay;

(ii) that he will be above 21 and below 25 years of age on the date above mentioned and that the proofs of age and nationality required will be according to the rules specified in note (1);

(iii) as to his University degrees or other educational distinctions;

(iv) as to his proficiency and conduct by production of certificates from the heads of such educational institutions as he may have attended, provided that a candidate who has attended a University college must produce a certificate from the Principal of such College.

Note (1).—(a) In order to obtain a certificate, a candidate is required, if resident in British India, to prove the date and place of his birth before the Magistrate of the district in which his family resides, or, if resident in an Indian State, before the Political Officer of the State in which his family resides.

(b) The Magistrate or Political Officer will carefully examine the value of the evidence given, and forward a summary of it, with certified copies of all documents tendered and his comments and opinion, to the officer who forwarded the application to him for enquiry.

(c) The documentary evidence which a candidate may be expected to produce comprises—

(a) the horoscope;

(b) family books;

(c) tradesmen's account books showing entries relating to the birth;

(d) the record of admission in the registers of the school in which the candidate was educated, and the record of the candidate's age at various periodical school examinations;

(e) if the candidate is matriculated in the University of Bombay, a certified copy of his application to the Registrar.

Oral testimony of persons acquainted with the candidate's family, or otherwise able to give relevant evidence, will also be taken; and the candidate is required to comply, to the best of his power, with any requisition which the Magistrate or Political Officer, as the case may be, may make in order to clear up any doubt as to the purport of the documentary proof.

(d) Any declaration of age made after the application of these rules on the occasion of seeking admission to any University examination, educational institution, or Government office, or otherwise recorded in a formal and deliberate manner, will be taken as conclusive evidence in disproof of the subsequent assertion by the same person that he is of a different age from that so declared or recorded.

(e) Where the date and the place of birth have been formally registered in a register kept by any public officer in British India, an extract from the register, duly certified by the proper official, shall be accepted as sufficient proof of the date and place of birth.

(f) In addition to the particulars required by rule (a) a candidate not born in His Majesty's dominions must also prove that he is the son or grandson of a person born in those dominions.

3. (1) The certificate of age and nationality required by paragraph 2 (ii) shall be granted by a Secretary to Government, or by the Collector of the District or the highest Political Officer accredited to the State in which the candidate resides, on satisfactory proof being submitted of the facts to be certified. The nature of the evidence produced by the candidate must be stated in the certificate.

(2) The certificate shall be in one of the following forms, namely:—

(a) Where the candidate is a subject of His Majesty or a State in India and whose father and mother were born within His Majesty's dominions and allegiance or within such State:—

"I hereby certify that A.B., who is a candidate for appointment as a probationer in the Bombay Excise Department, has submitted the proofs of his birth detailed below,* and has satisfactorily shown that he was actually born on or about the date stated, viz. the day of 19 , at , a place within [His Majesty's dominions / the State of in India]. Neither his father nor his mother was born outside [His Majesty's dominions and allegiance / such State].

*(Here enter details.)

"I do also certify that the abovementioned candidate has resided for not less than three years before the date of application within the limits of the Bombay Presidency or of States in political relations with the Government of Bombay."

(b) Where the candidate is a subject of His Majesty or a State in India, but either he or his father or mother was not born within His Majesty's dominions and allegiance or within such State:—

"I hereby certify that A.B., who is a candidate for appointment as a probationer in the Bombay Excise Department, has submitted the proofs of his birth detailed below,† and has satisfactorily shown that he was actually born on or about the date stated viz. the day of 19 , and further having ascertained that [he / his father / his mother] was born at , a place without His Majesty's dominions and without the territories of the State of in India.

"I hereby certify that his father was at the time of the candidate's birth [a British subject / a subject of the State of in India] and that such father [still is a British subject / continued to be till his death / a subject of such State in India].

†(Here enter details.)

"I do also certify that the abovementioned candidate has resided for not less than three years before the date of application within the limits of the Bombay Presidency or of States in political relations with the Government of Bombay."

Note (2).—Applications for certificates of age and nationality referred to in clauses (i) and (ii) of paragraph 2 above should be submitted to the Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, or the Collector of the District or the highest Political Officer accredited to the Indian State, as the case may be, in accordance with the rules for the issue of certificates of age and nationality mentioned in note (1).

4. The selected candidate will be required to satisfy Government, after a special medical examination to be conducted by the Medical Board of the Presidency that he is in all respects physically fitted for the performance of the duties required of a Superintendent of Excise.

5. The probationer will be on probation for a period of one year. He will be required to go through a course of equitation and to obtain a certificate of proficiency, and to pass within one year the departmental examination in law prescribed for gazetted officers of the Excise Department, including an examination in the vernacular of the district to which he is posted, if it is not his mother tongue. After the completion of the probationary period and provided that he has passed the above examinations the probationer will ordinarily be appointed to one of three vacancies occurring in the cadre of Superintendents of Excise. During the probationary period he will receive a salary of Rs. 200 per mensem. Pending the occurrence of a vacancy he may be required to serve as Inspector of Excise on a fixed salary of Rs. 200 per mensem.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

No. 9693/24.

Bombay Castle, 10th January 1928.

Forwarded to—

The Commissioner in Sind,
The Commissioners of Divisions,
The Commissioner of Excise,
All Collectors, including the Deputy Commissioner, Upper Sind Frontier,
The Director of Public Instruction,
The Director of Agriculture,
The Director of Information,
The Private Secretary to His Excellency the Governor,
The Accountant General,
The Oriental Translator to Government,
All Departments of the Secretariat (except the Separate and Legal Departments),
The Principals of the Elphinstone, Deccan, Gujarat and Karnatak Colleges,
The Principal, Agricultural College, Poona,
The Principal, College of Engineering, Poona,
The Principals of the Wilson, St. Xavier's, Rajaram, Baroda, Fergusson, New Poona, Samaldas, Dayaram Jethmal (Sind), Willingdon and Bahauddin, M. T. B. Arts, H. P. T., and Sind National Colleges (by letter),
The Editors' Tables,
The Editors of Newspapers,
The Secretary to the Legislative Council (for the Reading Room for Members of the Legislative Council).

By order of the Government of Bombay
(Transferred Departments),

A. E. SERVAI,

Acting Under Secretary to Government.

EXAMINATIONS HELD IN HOT SEASON.

Khan Bahadur A. E. PATEL (Northern Division): (1) Are Government aware that there have occurred many instances in which School-boys and College students have fainted at the time of their preliminary and ordinary annual examinations, on account of the unbearable heat in March and April when the examinations are, of late, usually held?

(2) Have any reports been received from the heads of Schools and Colleges, in which such instances have occurred?

(3) If so, will Government be pleased to state the facts and figures of such reports in a tabular form?

(4) Do Government intend to arrange for the holding of examinations in a comparatively cool season ?

The Honourable MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (1) and (2) Yes, a few.

(3) The required information is given in the accompanying statement.

(4) The matter is primarily for the consideration of the University. It may, however, be added that the University has recently decided to hold, with effect from the year 1933, the Matriculation examination three weeks earlier than at present.

STATEMENT.

Serial No.	Name of reporting authority.	Number of cases of fainting reported to have occurred at examinations for 1930-31.	Name of Examination.	Causes.	Remarks.
1	The Principal, M. T. B. Arts College, Surat.	2	Matriculation ..	Not known.
2	The Principal, H. P. T. Arts College, Nasik.	2	Do. ..	Apparently due to heat.
3	The Principal, D. J. Sind College, Karachi.	*	Final ..	Other than heat ..	*The Principal reports that every year at the time of the final examination there are cases (one or two) of fainting.
4	The Principal, Fergusson College, Poona.	6	Chiefly Matriculation.	Not known.
5	The Principal, Willingdon College, Sangli.	†	Matriculation ..	Other than heat ..	†The Principal reports that a case or two of this description does occur every year and that these cases cannot all be ascribed to summer heat.
6	The Educational Inspector, Central Division, Poona.	‡	Annual ..		‡The Head Master, Garud High School, Dhulia, reports that there were a few cases of actual fainting in his school at the last annual examination. The Lady Superintendent, Training College for Women, Poona, reports that one or two girls fainted almost every year at the time of the examination on account of heat.
7	The Educational Inspector, Northern Division, Ahmedabad.	6§	Do. ..	Heat ..	§3 from the B. S. Daial High School, Broach, 2 from the Sorabji J. J. High School, Surat, and 1 from the High School for Indian Girls, Ahmedabad.
		2‖	Vernacular Final	Do.	‖At the Godhra Centre.

SUCCESSION DUTY BILL

Question again proposed :

"That Bill No. XLV of 1931 (Succession Duty Bill) be read a first time."

Mr. W. G. LELY (Bombay Chamber of Commerce): Sir, I rise to speak in support of this Bill. I think that perhaps that explanation is superfluous as, judging from the unanimity with which the speakers yesterday supported the Bill, it seems that there are no honourable members in this House who do not agree with it. Possibly that is not the correct explanation, and there may be another reason. I understand that there is important precedent for observing Monday as a day of silence. Perhaps that accounts for the silence observed yesterday by honourable members opposite. It may be that to-day that silence will be broken.

I think, Sir, that there were a good many speakers yesterday who were considerably surprised when they found themselves on their feet speaking on this Bill. I was one of them. I rose at 6-57 p.m. and I am not sure that you, Sir, did not misunderstand the purport of my remarks. I rather think that you may have understood me to say that I could not finish my remarks on the Bill within the space of three minutes. What I intended to convey to you, Sir, was that I did not know how I could manage to keep going for that length of time. However, Sir, I have since had a little time for preparation, and so I again find myself on my feet this afternoon.

But what I have said shows the sort of pass to which responsible members of this Council may be reduced by the tactics of honourable members opposite—I expect, Sir, you will not allow me to call them "questionable tactics", still less will you let me call them shady tactics—therefore I will not call them either shady or questionable—I will not even say unworthy,—I will merely call them unsuccessful. Anyhow, I hope that the flood of eloquence which was stemmed yesterday on the other side of the House will be let loose to-day, and that we shall hear the arguments which any honourable members may have to bring forward against the present Bill. I am afraid that continued silence can only mean that honourable members fear that their opposition, if the barrenness of their arguments is brought to the light of day, would convert people who are wavering to support of the Bill, instead of to opposition. Anyhow I feel quite confident that, if they address the House to-day, that will be the result.

I should like, Sir, if I may, to congratulate my honourable friend Mr. Petit, who I am sorry to see is not here to receive the bouquet which I wish to give him, on the independent and courageous attitude which he took yesterday in defiance of the mandate, as he called it, of his constituency. He spoke according to his own convictions. I think if more members of this honourable House would adopt the same line and would try to forget that they are sheep,—or, I should rather say, would try to remember that they are not sheep,— and if they would only speak and vote according to their own convictions, that this honourable House would gain both in dignity and in utility.

[Mr. W. G. Lely]

I will leave it to those who are better qualified than I am to speak for the Bill in detail. I see that Government have reinforced their benches with expert assistance, and the experts may be expected to give the House all the information they want on the technical issues. But I think I may say that this Bill is not a hurried or an ill-considered measure. I suppose it was first produced a year ago. It has been considered and reconsidered, and I think I am right in saying that it has twice been submitted to the Government of India for approval, and that the present Bill appears in the form sanctioned by that Government. We know that there have been good legal brains at work on the Bill both in this Presidency and also during its examination by the Legal Advisers of the Government of India. I think, therefore, it is safe to assume that it is a good Bill. By that I mean that it is a properly drafted Bill, and that it may be expected to do what it sets out to do. However, there will be plenty of opportunity for honourable members in select committee, if they agree to commit this Bill to a select committee, to check, to criticise and, if necessary, to amend it. All that the House has to do now is merely to accept the Government proposal that this measure should be examined. It is purely the principle of the Bill which is at stake at the present moment. In so far as the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, which, I, with my honourable friend Mr. Haddow, represent in this House, is concerned, we consider that that principle is a sound one. Without going into details, I will give the main reasons why we approve of the Bill. The first one is that we consider it inequitable to differentiate between different communities in this matter. There is already in existence probate duty which is for practical purposes compulsory in the case of certain communities. We consider it desirable that, either in the form of this Bill or in some other form, any tax levied on property passing on death should be made of universal application.

The second point is one on which I think that you, Sir, will agree with me. This honourable House on more than one occasion has been at great pains in urging upon Government the necessity for broadening the basis of taxation. When it is in need of funds, there is much to be said for the argument that Government should not follow the easy course of increasing existing taxation, but that they should seek to exploit every fresh source by which they can get revenue. I do not think that it is consistent with that attitude to suggest, when Government do produce a measure of this kind, that it should be resisted without receiving proper and adequate consideration. It is well known that the resources of the Local Government in the matter of taxation are severely restricted. Here is a channel by which this Local Government can raise revenue, and it is one of the very few which they have. If this House will not permit Government to pursue this proposal, there seems to be very real danger that a succession duty in one form or another will come in subsequently, and will be introduced by the Government of India. In that case, we shall have the pleasure of paying the duty, but we shall not have the privilege of spending the money which we have to pay.

[Mr. W. G. Lely]

One other reason why we support this Bill is that we consider it a more equitable and a more reasonable form of taxation than direct taxation of the living. And that is I think what my honourable friend Mr. Bullocke meant when he said yesterday that there is no reason why we should not regard with equanimity the misfortunes which the Bill may impose on our remaindermen. I recently saw it stated that inheritance of great wealth is even more demoralising to the recipient than a long enjoyment of the dole. I should not like to say that that is a universal truth, but I am bound to admit that I have known cases which lend colour to it.

The culminating argument, I think, in favour of this measure is the state of the provincial finances. We cannot disregard that. This House herad some very weighty words from His Excellency the Governor yesterday, and if one may judge from the frivolous attitude which the honourable members on the other side of the House are showing towards this Bill, those words might almost not have been spoken.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: It is not parliamentary to use the expression "frivolous attitude."

Mr. W. G. LELY: I willingly withdraw the epithet, but I cannot replace it, as I do not know what their attitude is. However, the point which I wish to make is that we must face facts; Government have to face the facts and this House ought to face the facts with them. There is a Scottish saying that "facts are chiels that winna ding," if you, Sir, will permit me this lapse into the vernacular. I find it rather difficult to translate those words into any less sophisticated language, but in its application to this particular case we might perhaps very freely render them as meaning that you cannot provide the funds for carrying on the duties of the State by performing Satyagraha. The fact is that Government must have money, and I say it is the duty of a responsible Council like this to assist in seeing that Government raise it by fair and equitable means, and not simply, when a reasonable proposal of this kind for expanding revenue is put before them, to say that they wash their hands of it and they will have nothing to do with it.

Sir JAMSHEDJI B. KANGA: Mr. President, in speaking in support of this Bill I say that to oppose it without assigning any reason is against all the accepted rules and principles of this honourable House and of legislative assemblies. [Honourable Members: "Hear, hear."] Sir, when I entered this Council I thought that there would be a great deal said by my lawyer friends on the other side in reference to this Bill. But, on further consideration, I have come to the conclusion that there is very little that has to be said against the principle of this Bill, and I believe my honourable friends have realised it that the principle of this Bill cannot be opposed in normal times, much less can it be opposed in abnormal times. Sir, I am prepared to justify my observation that this Bill is one which could not be opposed in normal times. I say that for this reason.

People amass wealth under the protection that they get from the State, and when during their life time that wealth passes to other persons or changes hands, duties have to be paid and are paid. If people buy immoveable properties, if they buy shares, if they make settlements and trust deeds, if they give leases or take leases, they pay stamp duties and they pay all sorts of duties. In all jurisprudence the world over, inheritance is a mode of acquiring wealth and when a person acquires wealth in this manner by reason of the death of another person, is it not fair, is it not just, that the State should be granted some part of it by way of duty? Succession duty was introduced in England in 1853, even before the Indian Succession Act was passed; eighty years have passed since then. Is there any reason why this Bill, which is based on justice, equity and fairplay, should not be accepted in principle? I say, Sir, that possibly there is much room for improving the Bill in the select committee. It is a difficult Bill by reason of the fact that there are various systems of law in this country—I mean mainly the Hindu and Mahomedan law. Therefore, in the select committee the Bill would be scrutinised in all its clauses, but is there any reason for opposing the principle of this Bill, which would be an equitable Bill at all times?

[Sir Jamshedji B. Kanga]

An Honourable MEMBER: Nobody has opposed it.

Sir JAMSHEDJI B. KANGA: Sir, we have heard various speeches—we heard them yesterday—about the necessity of the Bill. The Honourable the Finance Member has pointed out that revenue from other sources is declining. He has also given cogent reasons for saying that borrowing is out of the question. Borrowing at a high rate of interest for unproductive expenditure would add to the difficulties and would lead to further disaster. The money for the high rate of interest that has to be paid to the lender would have to be raised by taxation. Then, Sir, the only argument that could possibly be advanced, which has not been advanced as I anticipated, is that more money could be raised by the method of retrenchment. But, Sir, it must be remembered that retrenchment also has its limitations, and a point must be reached—and I say with confidence that the point has been reached—beyond which you cannot take a further lead under the method of retrenchment. One has to consider how the efficiency of the services has to be maintained, how the Government has to be properly carried on. The Report of the Retrenchment Committee is now in the hands of all honourable members, and, Sir, it can be seen that much has been done in that direction. The only alternative, therefore, which has been left is to accept the principle of this Bill. After all, Sir, what is the duty that is demanded by this Bill? It is an extremely small duty, and the Honourable the Finance Member was perfectly justified in saying that the Bill was diluted. Sir, a man who by inheritance, or will, or by succession gets R. 10,000 pays 2 per cent. on Rs. 8,000 to the State, which comes to Rs. 160, and if the person happens to be a son, or a daughter, or a wife, or husband, or a son-in-law, or a daughter-in-law, or mother, or father, ascendant or descendant, he pays 10 per cent. of that duty, so that on the wealth of Rs. 10,000 which he gets he pays Rs. 16. That, Sir, is a very small duty, and there seems to be—I speak, Sir, with some confidence—very little reason for opposing this Bill. The more money he inherits, the higher is the percentage of the tax which he has to pay. The scale is a graduated one, and, Sir, even in the graduated scale the members of the family—by members of the family I mean descendants, ascendants, and the wife or the husband, whoever they may be—have to pay a tenth of the duty; in the case of brothers and sisters the duty is only half. Agricultural and other estates are well protected; charity is absolutely exempted. All the proper safeguards have been taken. My honourable lawyer friends must have observed in the course of their career several estates left to descendants, large sums of money, which have disappeared in the course of a few years, and nothing paid to the State, not even the small percentage that is asked for in this Bill. In the case of Hindus, Sir, it very often happens that when a Hindu dies childless leaving a widow, the widow takes only a sort of life estate, which is called the widow's estate, and a reversioner—he may be twelfth or fifteenth degree removed—comes into possession of a very large portion; he has to pay not a single pie to the State. I say that several cases of this nature have arisen; and is it fair, is it equitable, when a man during his life time, when property passes hands pays taxes, that after his death the people who come into possession of his money should not pay a single farthing by way of tax? Sir, excepting the charging section which says that the duty is leviable, the rest of the Act is merely a machinery for recovering the duty. The duty is not to be paid until the man gets possession of the property or becomes entitled to possession. Only in case the man gets Rs. 10,000, which I have been using by way of illustration, will he be liable to pay the duty. There are some sections which are put into the Bill which are intended to avoid evasion of the duty, which I may shortly call sections prohibiting "death bed transfers." In order to avoid the duty, one may at the time of his death make over the property to his relatives by means of a transfer deed. The rest of the Act is merely, as I said, a machinery for recovering the duty.

[Sir Jamshedji B. Kanga]

It is stated in some quarters that there should be a reference to High Court or an appeal to the High Court. That point can be easily adjusted in the select committee. Under the Stamp Act, under the Indian Income Tax Act and in other statutes, a reference to the High Court on points of law is allowed. All these points are easy of adjustment in the select committee.

The first important legislation was in 1865 when the East Indians, the Parsis, Jews and other communities, excluding the Hindus and Mahomedans, were made to take out probate and letters of administration. If they went to a court of law over the estate of a deceased person the court would not recognise their rights and the first thing required of them would be probate or letters of administration to the estate of the deceased person. Since the Act of 1865, all the biggest estates in these communities have paid probate duties and duties for letters of administration in the High Court. In the case of the Hindu and Mahomedan communities, probate or letters of administration are not necessary. If there is a fight for succession, a suit is filed and a receiver is appointed and the receiver manages the whole estate and the State does not get a farthing. This was realised in 1870 when an Act was passed whereby the executors of Hindus who made wills having immoveable properties in the presidency towns were compelled to take out probate or letters of administration, whenever there was a litigation about the estate of the deceased, and several sections of the Succession Act which applied to the Parsis and other communities were made applicable to them. The Hindus and Mahomedans recognised that it was absolutely necessary that there should be an administrator to deal with large estates. Before 1881 the High Courts ruled that a Hindu executor or a Mahomedan executor was merely a manager and so the estate was not vested in him. After the Act of 1881 the property becomes vested in the administrator or executor of a Hindu or a Mahomedan. Nobody has contended that there is anything in the Hindu or Mahomedan law books against the imposition of this duty. I may point out that in the supreme court and in the High Court of Bombay, probate duty and duty on letters of administration have been paid in a large number of cases. In 1863 Sir Michael Westropp pointed this out, when the question arose whether the Hindus were empowered to make wills. When he examined the records of the court, he found that Hindus had made applications for probate and letters of administration in a large number of cases. If any honourable member wants further information on this point, there is the Administrator General here who will enlighten them on the question. Applications for probate and letters of administration from Hindus and Mahomedans have been numerous; so, it cannot be said that there is anything either in the Hindu law books or Mahomedan law books against the imposition of this duty. These communities have paid in the past without any demur for probate and letters of administration, whenever they have chosen to apply for probate or letters of administration.

[Sir Jamshedji B. Kanga]

Among the Hindus in this Presidency the Mitakshara law is followed and inheritance is distinctly spoken of therein as acquistion of property. Inheritance is just a method of acquiring property. If that is so, what is the objection to pay a percentage when property is acquired in that method ?

The only other point refers to the joint Hindu family. I can assure honourable members that the Honourable the Finance Member has taken the precaution to put in a section whereby an increment to the joint family by reason of the death of a newly born member is not to be taxed if the death occurs within 18 years from the date of his birth. In the case of Mahomedans, if a Mahomedan leaves property of the value of Rs. 10,000 and 5 sons, each son gets Rs. 2,000 and there will be no tax because the law is that each one on death gets Rs. 2,000. In the case of the other communities, the whole estate would be liable for probate duty or duty on letters of administration. All these safeguards have been provided and their personal law has not been encroached upon. Only one duty has to be paid and not as in England a separate estate duty, separate legacy duty and so on. Specific provision is made to the effect that if a person pays probate duty he need not pay succession duty, and if he pays succession duty, he need not pay probate duty. In my opinion all these concessions have gone too far and the Bill has been framed in such a manner as not to make it burdensome on any class of people.

[Sir Jamshedji B. Kanga]

It may be contended that a similar Bill has not been passed in other presidencies. The revenue derived from this source of taxation is for the presidency and it is for the presidency to take up this subject for increasing its own revenue; and I think it certain, Sir, that once this Bill is put on the statute book of this presidency, the other presidencies will see the fairness and the equity of the Bill and they will all come into one line. There is no reason to suppose why a measure of this sort, which as I say is equitable, should not be passed in this presidency because the sister presidencies have up to now not taken it up.

If any objection is taken by my honourable friends on the other side as regards the machinery of the Bill, as regards the powers of the Collector or the Commissioner or other things, always safeguards can be placed, always powers of appeal can be given to judicial officers or to the High Court.

Therefore, I say that nothing possibly can be said against the principle of this Bill. The question was asked yesterday whether this was going to be a permanent Bill or a temporary Bill. Well, the Bill states nothing. But I say that as a piece of social legislation this Bill can fairly be placed permanently on the statute book. There is no reason to make this a temporary one. When every exchange of property, as I said, is made to pay, why should not this form of exchange of property by reason of death be made to pay? After all, the man who receives a legacy does not earn it himself; when he gets into a fortune he pays the money. Therefore, I say, looked at from any point of view, this is a fair and equitable Bill and there is no reason to oppose it.

Sir, I have to anticipate some objections. I saw the other day some arguments to the effect that the Hindus have to provide for the maintenance of widows and sisters, and, therefore, the Hindus should not be made to pay the succession duty. But it must be remembered that amongst Hindus when there are sons the daughter gets no share and the widow gets nothing—the daughter has only to be maintained until she is married; the widow gets nothing, she has only to be maintained. In other systems of law, the Mahomedan for example, the widow, the daughter and every one gets a share. So also in other systems. So, there is no point in saying that Hindus have to maintain the daughters and widows, when the sons take all the property giving no share to daughters and widows.

My submission is that this small percentage of duty should be accepted, and I appeal to my honourable friends on the other side of the House to accept the principle of the Bill and to fight for the details in the select committee. I do not say that the drafting of the Bill, as it is at present, is perfect. I say that there is a great deal for improvement. But nothing can be said against the principle of this Bill. There is no reason why the principle of the Bill should not be accepted. [Cheers.]

[Sir Jamshedji B. Kanga]

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: Sir, if I venture to rise after the last honourable member, it is not with the intention of in any way replying to him, but it is because I take it that the very fact that he has been put forward to speak at this stage shows that our friends on the opposite side have come almost to the end of their tether, and it would now be unsportsmanlike on our side to put the debating powers of our official friends to test any further. Yesterday was a day of silence, because Monday is getting to be a day of silence in some quarters. To-day not being a Monday, we are not going to observe the same attitude.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I hope that silence will not be a precedent in this House. [Laughter.]

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: Now, Sir, coming to this question, I have not the slightest hesitation in offering my sincere congratulations to the Honourable the Finance Member for the great courage with which he has brought forward this Bill at the present juncture for the acceptance of the House, courage which is specially to be admired as he happens to be a Hindu. I do not also deny a certain share in those felicitations to his very capable and industrious Secretary, who, I am absolutely certain, must have collaborated with him in the production of this Bill. If the honourable member the Finance Secretary had at any time any fears that his great fame in connection with his work in the Finance Department would be dimmed but for this culminating piece of legislation, I can assure him that he need not have entertained those fears. We know what an industrious worker in the Finance Department he is. But this production coming from both of them at the present time, as I said, is one which, I must say, is extremely objectionable, at any rate to this side of the House. And it is but fair that we should state our objections in general to this measure although it has been brought forward after careful consideration by both these honourable members. Sir, as far as I can read the feelings of this part of the House, there are several objections to this Bill. But before I enter into the long list of those objections, it is necessary that I should, first of all, refer to another topic, namely, the manner in which His Excellency the Governor voluntarily came forward yesterday to impose upon himself a cut in his salary and also to effect certain other retrenchments in the Government House expenditure. We appreciate that voluntary effort at economy on the part of His Excellency. The lead in this matter, as we all know, was given by His Majesty the King and the Royal Family. It was followed by His Excellency the Viceroy, who, I understand, has imposed upon himself a cut of 20 per cent. His Executive Councillors also have imposed on themselves a cut of 15 per cent. Following upon these cuts, it was only in the fitness of things that the Bombay Government, including the head of that Government, should have followed suit to meet public opinion and the wishes of this House.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

Having said that much about this graceful act of self-denial, I think I shall have to refer to one more topic before I discuss the main question of the Succession Duty Bill. That is the reference which was made yesterday by several speakers to the delay which has occurred in respect of the submission of the report of the Retrenchment Committee to the honourable members of this House. The honourable member the Finance Secretary, while referring to this question, hinted that this was not entirely his fault. If that means that it was the fault of the non-official members of the Retrenchment Committee, surely I repudiate that the delay occurred due to any fault on the part of the non-official members. I do not wish to go into an adjustment of the different degrees in allocating the blame for the delay between the officials and the non-officials. But I wish to say briefly that it was due to two reasons: firstly, a good deal of time was lost when the Committee could not meet in order to suit the convenience of official members, and secondly because when the non-official members wanted to go into certain departments for which they wanted some extension of time, a prompt reply was not received from Government to the request. Those were the reasons for the failure to place the report in the hands of honourable members in good time. I need not go into other matters with reference to the Retrenchment Committee at this stage, because those are hardly matters with which I need deal at this moment.

Now, Sir, with reference to the Bill under discussion, while I offer my congratulations to the Honourable the Finance Member, I think it fair also to extend to him a certain amount of sympathy. I recognise, especially as a member of the Retrenchment Committee, that Government are in an extremely difficult position with reference to their finances. That fact cannot be denied, and hence I offer my sympathy. But I cannot subscribe to the other statement, which is very often heard either on the floor of this House or outside, voicing the official view, that the present position of the finances of Government is by no means the result of their own fault. I do not forget in this connection that the Honourable the Finance Member yesterday has thrown out a hint to members that we should not refer to past mistakes. I for one on the present occasion am not prepared to enter into a long discussion as to the past mistakes and the blame that could be attached to Government for bringing their finances finally to the present pass. But I cannot, however, at the same time resist the temptation of saying that undoubtedly there were mistakes and there is a certain amount of blame which could be laid at the door of Government, either the present Government or their predecessors. I say this standing as I do in the very close vicinity of the Back Bay and the Development chawls in Bombay. Government, we have no doubt, were not entirely faultless. Now, Sir, with these remarks I am going to deal only with the financial aspect of this Bill and with some general objections to it, leaving the legal aspect of the question to my honourable lawyer friends, if they choose to participate in the debate.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

[An Honourable Member: "Do not leave anything to us."] I say only if they choose to participate. Taking then the main question, first of all, I am not quite convinced, from the taxation point of view, that Government have really made any serious effort to convince this side of the House that all possible avenues of retrenchment have been exhausted. True, the Honourable the Finance Member yesterday gave us a long list of deficits, deficits of 1930-31, deficits of 1931-32, and probably even the deficits of the coming year. These deficits we find in the hands of the Government scaling up the ladder step by step. While in April last we of the Retrenchment Committee were told that the deficit was 61 lakhs, and we went to work on that basis, when we approached the month of September we were told, more or less semi-officially, that the deficit had jumped up from 61 lakhs to something like a crore of rupees. As we approached the termination of our task in November we were told that the deficit would amount to 1,30 lakhs, and I was surprised here to learn yesterday—and I dare say it was no less a surprise to my honourable colleagues—that the Honourable the Finance Member expected the deficit eventually to go up to 1,91 lakhs. The most elastic method of counting deficits, surely! On the other hand, on the expenditure side, Government last year protested that they could not effect drastic retrenchment without detriment to efficiency and a great deal of injustice to various departments. Now, we are told that in view of the present position the retrenchments which the Honourable Member with the help of his department would be able to effect would be in the neighbourhood of a crore of rupees! Here again, I fancy that just as the deficits are very elastic, the retrenchments which Government, if they will it, can effect can be equally elastic. That puts me on my guard, and that is perhaps the reason why I say that we are not quite convinced that all possible avenues of retrenchment have been exhausted; or, at any rate, this House has not been furnished with full information to that effect. The Honourable the Finance Member yesterday was good enough to place in our hands, or, rather to read, a long exposition of the present situation. Sir, without meaning the slightest disrespect to his exposition of the subject, I contend that it hardly carried conviction at least to this side of the House. The whole crux of the question was, if I may say so, to place before the House an estimate, howsoever rough it may be, of what the permanent retrenchment which Government would be able to effect would be and what the permanent gap may be. He avoided that task. If Government are discussing the question, firstly, whether taxation is or is not necessary, and secondly, that such taxation is necessary on a permanent footing, then I maintain, Sir, there is all the more need to show that the normal income is not able to overtake the expenditure; and if Government are in the process of effecting retrenchments, as they profess to do, well, then it is essential that they should take this part of the House into confidence and first announce what particular retrenchment proposals of a permanent nature are acceptable to them before they ask for permanent taxation.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

Now, Sir, I may quote what has been done elsewhere, I mean by the Honourable the Finance Member of the Government of India, in this respect. Sir George Schuster, if I may make comparisons, while bringing in taxation proposals before the Legislative Assembly, has followed an entirely different method of making out his case. He has shown, in the first place, how many of the retrenchment proposals submitted by the various retrenchment committees would be acceptable, roughly, to Government. In the present case, the Bombay Government are not prepared, it seems, to state to this honourable House what retrenchments are or are not acceptable to them out of the total retrenchments suggested by the Retrenchment Committee. It appears to me they are not prepared to give us a list of the total permanent retrenchments that they would accept. I am referring to permanent retrenchments for the simple reason that if at all Government claim from the legislature more taxation and new sources of revenue, then, surely, they must work out figures to show how they have reached the limit of retrenchment and prove that they cannot go beyond it. It is no use merely repeating to this House a mere truism that there are limits to retrenchments. That, after all, is a truism. It is, however, a dogmatic method of stating a simple truth. Those on this side who have a financial bent of mind will naturally go further and ask, what is the irreducible limit which Government want to put on themselves and how do they arrive at it? In the Retrenchment Committee's report, for instance, there is one statement which has been agreed to by both sides—official as well as non-official. There is a broad conclusion stated therein that there is considerable room for retrenchment in the cost of establishments, and a recommendation is made that a 10 per cent. cut in the cost of establishments should be aimed at. Now, I am only quoting an illustration here to show how in our view retrenchment of a permanent character is still possible. If the above fact is admitted by both sides, that is to say, by officials as well as non-officials in the committee, what is the amount of savings which will result? It is only necessary for me to mention the total amount of establishments to arrive at the total saving. The cost of non-gazatted establishment, according to the figures given to this House on a former occasion, comes, I think, to something like 3 crores of rupees. The cost on account of gazetted officers comes to about a crore of rupees. Both put together amount to about Rs. 4 crores. If you leave the gazetted part of the services and take only the non-gazetted part, that itself comes to 3 crores. Now Government members themselves admit that there is room for 10 per cent. reduction in establishments. Sir, I am not a good arithmetician and I cannot say what the 10 per cent. of 3 crores comes to, but somebody on these benches here whispers that it will be 30 lakhs. I accept that figure. Does this not show that Government can, if they mean it, secure a permanent saving of 30 lakhs? This is only one illustration to show that there is still room for retrenchment. Then, we know definitely that in the case of the Government House we can count on retrenchment to the extent of Rs. 1½ lakhs. Similarly if you total up several other permanent retrenchments which are not disputed, the total may mount up to 50 or 60 lakhs of rupees. I am not taking actual figures; I am only trying to show by hypothetical figures that if the Government had come forward and said that the total permanent retrenchments which it was possible for them to accept would be so much, then we would have been in a better position to understand what exactly would be the deficit, the gap which it would be necessary to meet by fresh taxation. What we are really concerned with to-day in discussing a taxation Bill is to find out what would be the normal income in coming years and what would be the normal expenditure, minus the retrenchments which Government agree to. And if Government themselves agree to a permanent retrenchment of, say, Rs. 60 lakhs and if we, on the oher hand, can show that your permanent income, barring these two exceptional and abnormal years, would probably rise again to its normal figure, then you get a permanent saving of 60 lakhs, which, if you total up and set aside for five years, would come to 3 crores. You can set this aside for paying any liabilities that you may have to incur or choose to incur. I am only trying to show that this is the method by which Government should have come before this House and convinced us that there was no other course left to them but taxation.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

I referred a moment ago to the method followed by the Finance Member of the Government of India. I need not take this House into details; but the contrast is perfectly visible if you read the Assembly debates. Sir George Schuster has not only taken the House into his confidence with regard to the amount of total retrenchments that would be acceptable to the Government of India, arising out of the Retrenchment Committees' reports, but he has placed all his cards on the table and has given a list of even military retrenchments which the Government of India are prepared to accept, also other economies in Posts and Telegraph Department, and so on. Having given these figures for two years, he has said that the deficit in the next year would be so much and for the subsequent year so much, and has from this argued that fresh taxation to such and such amount only would be necessary and that too for 18 months. In the case of this House, are we not entitled to know from the Honourable the Finance Member, with reference to the taxation proposals which are before us, what the total yield expected from the death duties is? If Sir George Schuster could take the Assembly into his confidence, is it not fair that the Honourable the Finance Member here should also take this House into his confidence and say what the yield from the so-called succession duties is estimated to be? Instead of that, a blank cheque is being placed in our hands and we are asked to sign that cheque, and yet some of the honourable members of the official side say that this is an equitable measure which we should blindly sign and hand over into the hands of Government! That is the contrast between the taxation proposals of the Government of India and those of the Government of Bombay.

Another factor is that the deficit of the Government of India is much larger than what we have here. And yet the new taxation proposals which that Government is proposing for the acceptance of the Assembly is to be in force, as I have said, definitely for 18 months. It is only an emergency taxation proposal. In the case of the Government of Bombay, what do they do? We are asked to give into the hands of Government a new engine of revenue, to be permanently handled by the officials, to be permanently handled particularly by the Revenue Department, in any manner they choose. Should we sign that blank cheque and pass the instrument? That is one of the grave reasons why we object to this Bill.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

There are other reasons as well; they are more or less of a constitutional character. We know we are on the eve of a new constitution. Indeed, if I am not wrong, the announcement from the Premier may come in to-morrow's papers—announcement as to what the new constitution is going to be, at any rate with reference to provinces. Now, my honourable friends may ask what that has to do with this Bill. My reply is that it has a great deal to do with it. Apart from the fact that we hope to have full provincial autonomy and, therefore, full control over the finances of this Presidency including our own methods of taxation, there are other factors also to be taken into consideration. I may point out to the honourable member the Finance Secretary that these factors have a great bearing on this question. The question, therefore, is whether on the eve of a new constitution it would be right for the members of this House blindly to subscribe to anything that is placed before them. One of the factors I had in mind is the question of financial relations which will be determined in the new constitution. We are expecting that these financial relations are likely to be changed, I hope to the benefit of the Bombay Presidency—for instance certain sources of revenue like the income-tax, and such other proposals submitted by Sir William Layton. These changes, I hope, are likely to improve our equilibrium. These changes are imminent and until we know where we are with reference to any new sources of finance, it would be absolutely unwise for the non-officials, at any rate, to give into the hands of Government this new source of taxation.

Again, there is one more reason why the Bill is objectionable. It is highly inopportune because of the extreme depression of trade and of prices, which, I do hope the Honourable the Finance Member, although he may not now be moving freely and constantly among the masses, knows very well at least by hearsay. Prices have gone down abnormally and thereby the poor classes have been hit hard. If it is necessary to prove it by evidence, the very fact that the Honourable the Revenue Member yesterday told us that remissions of revenue would have to be given in the next few months is enough. That fact itself shows that the Government, with all the machinery at their command, are unable to recover even the normal taxes. If that is a fact admitted by the Honourable the Revenue Member, I ask how, during the next 18 months, you can collect the death duties imposed by this new Bill, in the name of fairness to which the honourable member the Advocate General just now referred.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

Sir, there are other objections as well, one of which has been indirectly hinted at by the honourable member the Advocate General, namely, the machinery that has been provided in this Bill for collection of duties. He referred to this subject as if there is no danger to the tax-payer if this Bill is passed. I certainly think that either he does not know the conditions in the mofussil or that probably he minimises the danger in his enthusiasm for supporting this Bill. He referred to the analogy of the English duties for legacy, or estate duty or succession duty. We have not in this country, if I may tell him, the Board of Inland Commissioners which they have in England, a body far more responsible than probably the Collectors' staff into whose hands, into whose dreadful hands, from the point of view of the taxpayer, the collection of death duties will be placed; and what makes matters still worse is that not only the immoveable property will be valued by the kulkarnis or the talatis or the Collector's other assistants, but even the chattels and the moveables also will come in for valuation at their hands. I will ask my non-official friends to imagine what the state of things would be if that is the machinery to deal with such valuation to which reference has been made. If a man dies in a village or even in a taluka town, if he has to submit a return—he often does not submit a return out of ignorance (this happens even in England, or it happened at least during the period from 1853 to 1890, as I can show from records)—I ask, what will happen? The kulkarni or talati will enter the house and count the ornaments, the chattels, the pots and the pans and everything else that belongs to the poor man, and then he will make an inventory for submission to the Collector, who will accept the return prepared by the kulkarni or the talati. That is the kind of a measure which the Advocate General is commending for our acceptance. I need not describe the dangers much further.

The honourable member the Advocate General went on to fortify his arguments and in that process referred to one or two other facts. He referred to the fact that these duties are so common in other countries that they therefore should be an acceptable measure of revenue for this country. Sir, I should have greater faith in the knowledge of taxation matters if it comes from economists rather than from bureaucrats of the Finance Department. Taxation is an exceedingly technical subject, it is not a matter on which everybody can pronounce judgment. In the case of death duties the Taxation Committee, which went into this question very, very thoroughly, has come to the conclusion that a succession duty, as such, is not a practicable proposition in India. They have differentiated between a succession duty and the probate duty. In the summary of their Report they say that a succession duty is impracticable in India but a duty on the lines of the English Estate Duty, which initially took the form of transfer or mutation duty on death, is more practicable. In view of that opinion of the Taxation Committee, I would certainly like to know, without the slightest disrespect to the honourable member the Advocate General or to the opinions which he has just now expressed, why a succession duty is preferable for a country like ours. Again, there are other directions in which the Government of Bombay are determined, it seems to me, to disregard the views and the recommendations of the Taxation Committee. The Taxation Committee, while discussing this subject, has pointed out, while discussing another cognate subject perhaps, that the limit of examption here should not be Rs. 2,000 but perhaps Rs. 5,000. I do not know why, if Government are really following the recommendations and the suggestions of the Taxation Committee, they are lowering the limit of exemption from Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 2,000.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I have given my reasons in my speech.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: Yes, the slogan of more income?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Not a bit of it. It is not an estate duty that we are levying. It is a succession duty upon the share. I have given my reasons for it.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: Then, Sir, there is a third direction in which the Bombay Government are disregarding or disrespecting the views of the Taxation Committee and that is with reference to the legislature where a subject of this character should be discussed and which legislature should enact this measure. The succession duty or death duty is not in their opinion a subject for provincial legislation. It has now been definitely laid down, not only by the Taxation Committee but, I believe, even in the report of the Simon Commission, over which the country has spent something like 20 lakhs of rupees, where Mr. Layton also I think has pointed it out, that this should be a central legislation. Yet, in view of these two weighty and pronounced opinions, that this subject should not be handled so lightly by a provincial legislature, I ask why Government is rushing this Bill through the local legislature.

Sir JAMSHEDJI B. KANGA: I draw the honourable member's attention to page 126 of the Council Manual, Scheduled Taxes Rules, paragraph 5, Schedule I, item 2, "A tax on succession or on acquisition by survivorship in a joint family."

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: The question is not whether this House is or is not competent to pass such legislation, but whether it is desirable or undesirable from the taxation point of view that a Provincial Government should have this tax collected.

Coming to the issue whether, as a question of taxation policy, this kind of legislation should necessarily be central legislation, I would point out that in England there is no such thing as central legislation and provincial legislation, and there that question does not arise, but in this country it does arise and therefore the Local Government has to take extremely good care in handling a subject which is really a central subject.

Sir, there are other reasons also against the Bill into which I need not enter, since they have been very briefly adumbrated by the honourable member the Advocate General himself. I am not a lawyer to refer to the legal aspect of this measure and so I shall leave the questions of the Hindu Law and of the Hindu sentiment to be dealt with by my honourable friends, but as a Hindu, unfortunately liable to this death duty, I might say that whatever technical difficulties may have been solved by the legal talents in the Legal Department of Government, so far as Hindu sentiment at any rate is concerned—that is not a matter for technical opinion—the whole country will, I am sure, resent any interference with the customary habits or traditions of the people which this measure will introduce in the countryside.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

The honourable member the Advocate General went on to refer to certain concessions. He pointed out that charitable trusts and other trusts would be exempt. He also indicated that the graduated scale provided in the Bill would weigh so lightly on certain classes that after all it would be a fleabite, and he also pointed out other concessions and safeguards which were also pointed out yesterday by the Honourable the Finance Member. Sir, talking about these concessions, I am reminded of an English saying, namely, "If you have to pluck a goose, pluck it with as little squealing as possible." If that is the motto which the honourable member the Advocate General has in his mind, surely I object to plucking the goose at all, even with the least amount of squealing; we do not want to pluck the goose with or without squealing; in other words I do not care for the concessions, we object to the Bill in toto.

Coming to one other speech made yesterday by my honourable friend the Revenue Member, he referred in very, very passing terms no doubt, without stressing the point, to the level of taxation in England which he said is very high and thereby he indirectly suggested that the present taxation should be acceptable in India, as the level of taxation in this country is comparatively lower. I think this is a well-worn subject and I need not go into it at length. Our English friends say, "Oh, we English people have to pay five shillings in the pound in England; why should not India suffer a little more in taxation?" Is it five shillings?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Yes, five shillings in the pound.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: They ask, if an Englishman pays five shillings in the pound in England, why not have a little rise in taxation in India?

Sir JAMSHEDJI B. KANGA: That refers to income tax, not to death duties.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: This comparative level of taxes is an old, old argument not worth while replying to, but, as I say, as it is repeated not only on the floor of this House but outside it, I venture very briefly to refer to it. Sir, people would talk of the pitch of the incidence of taxation in England without showing the per capita income of the population and thus they compare the most incomparable things imaginable. It has been authoritatively computed that the per capita average income of an Indian is only Rs. 107 per annum, as against a sate per capita income of an Englishman in England of £100 per annum, which at the present rate of exchange comes to something like Rs. 1,350—more than

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

Rs. 100, as against Rs. 9 which is the Indian's income per month. How much you can squeeze out of that Rs. 9 of bare subsistence is a matter which my English friends on the opposite benches might well decide. The two things are so incomparable that it is not worth while going deeper into this subject. However, just to elucidate the same point a little further and to show what the disparity between the two countries is, I will quote a few figures showing the income-tax payers for a year soon after the war. The following are the figures :—

"There are no less than 8,000 people in England whose income ranges between £10,000 to £50,000 and there are about 14,000 people whose annual income is £5,000 to £10,000."

Now £5,000 is something like Rs. 65,000. The people who are getting that income in England are about 14,000. In this Presidency which has nearly half the population of England or a little less, I should like to ask my honourable friends on the other side if they can produce 7,000 people in the Presidency whose annual incomes are between Rs. 65,000 and Rs. 1,30,000. I see only three or four of my honourable friends opposite whose annual income is something like Rs. 65,000. The rest required to make up 7,000 must be searched for all over the Presidency.

These are some of the points on which we have every right to submit our objections to this Bill. Lastly, I would only ask the Honourable the Finance Member to reconsider, if at all he has a deficit, whether he cannot think of other methods of searching for avenues of taxation. We shall be asked, how are Government to tide over ? That is no doubt a pertinent question. Now, Sir, the answer to that is not to select death duties. If at all you want taxation and if you prove the need for taxation, there are other sources of taxation which I venture to think might be acceptable to the people. You have not produced any other proposals except your death duties. You had framed this Bill long before the Retrenchment Committee made out their report; if instead the Honourable the Finance Member had come before this House asking us whether we were prepared to cut down social services, namely, the nation-building departments, or whether we could suggest any other sources of taxation, surely we could have racked our brains in order to find out less objectionable avenues even for fresh taxation. But, Sir, nothing of this kind has been done. Sir, for all these reasons I maintain the Bill should be thrown out.

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Sir, I think it my duty to ventilate the views of Mahomedans whom I represent in this honourable House. The case of this side has been well expounded by my honourable friend Mr. Kamat and, I think, I need say only a few words in regard to this Bill, on behalf of the Mahomedans. Mahomedans would not object to the principle of this Bill in general. [Interruption.] But they do not see the necessity for introducing it at this hour. The time for the introduction of the Bill is most inopportune, and the reason is [Interruption.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member may express his individual opinion.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: The time, I say, is most inopportune and the reason is that the burden of taxation is already heavy, and the masses are groaning under the crushing taxation. The world-wide depression has very seriously affected the Bombay Presidency, I think, more seriously than the other Presidencies of India. The economic resources of the people are crippled to such an extent that it is not proper to impose this piece of legislation on the country at present.

As regards means of meeting the deficit and the ways of balancing the budget, fresh taxation is not the only efficacious remedy which can cure the evil. The deficit has been increasing month by month and year by year, and the Retrenchment Committee which was entrusted with the duty of suggesting retrenchment in the administration in order to balance the budget has, no doubt, done yeoman's service in pointing out ways and means to cover the deficit by recommending cuts of the total amount of Rs. 121 lakhs, which is more than what was wanted, and I think the Committee is still of opinion that more retrenchment is possible and the various Departments have yet to be tackled in this connection. From my own point of view, it seems highly desirable that the various Departments should be handled individually by experts and their finances should be minutely examined with a view to find out more savings. The top-heavy Departments still admit of a reduction very materially. Taking the Education Department, into which I have the privilege to have an insight, I say that there is room for retrenchment even in that Department, but not in the directions which have been pointed out by the Retrenchment Committee. There are ways and ways of effecting retrenchment without affecting the vital interests and material parts of the administration, and I have in my replies to the questionnaire, issued by the Retrenchment Committee, pointed out various ways in which the Educational Department can be brought in for a little pruning, without in any way damaging the efficiency of the Department or affecting the primary, secondary and collegiate branches thereof. I criticised the interim report of the Committee last time, by remarking that their suggestion for doing away with scholarships and stipends was most inadvisable. At the same time, I said that a cut in the grants for secondary education was not proper and expedient. I wish to point out that there are other directions in which cuts can be made without affecting the healthy activities of the Department at all. For example, the Bombay Division, which was created in 1921 out of necessity to meet extra work does not justify its existence now, because the circumstances which brought about its establishment have mostly changed, and I think this Division can now be safely merged in the existing Revenue divisions (Northern, Central and Southern), which can absorb the various districts comprising this Division, the educational work whereof can very well go on with necessary readjustment, without any impairment of efficiency. As for Personal Assistants to Educational Inspectors, I hold very strongly that when the Revenue Department has been able to dispense with Personal Assistants to Collectors, the Personal Assistants to Educational Inspectors also must go.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Is the honourable member entitled to discuss the Retrenchment Committee's report now ?

Mr. J. S. KADRI: I want to prove that there is room for retrenchment in various Departments, and I am only citing some concrete instances of superfluous posts which can be retrenched to effect savings, in order to obviate the necessity of forcing this Bill on the public at the present juncture. What I want to drive at is that the deficit in the budget can still be made up by further retrenchment and economy, as a result of a further minute examination of the various departments of the administration and their staff. The basis on which I have taken my stand is that so long as all measures of economy and retrenchment in Government expenditure are not exhausted, there can be no excuse for further taxation in the shape of succession duties. Government should therefore consider further ways of retrenching expenditure and effecting economy in the bloated departments, and I am sure this House will co-operate with the Government whole-heartedly, in their efforts to effect permanent retrenchment and economies in the various departments. As the report of the Retrenchment Committee shows, the members have not been able to deal with many important subjects and to go into details of the various departments. They should therefore be given a further opportunity to complete their task and point out ways of fresh retrenchment and reduction. With these words I oppose the Bill.

Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN: Sir, I move the closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I accept the closure.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, at any rate I am thankful to the honourable member Mr. Kamat and the honourable member Mr. Kadri for ventilating some of their views, from which we could have some inkling as to the reasons why they seem to be against the present measure, which has been advisedly brought by Government. The honourable member Mr. Kamat began by saying that the deficits of the Bombay Government have got a curious way of swelling up and going up. On the contrary, I would submit that the Bombay Government was more optimistic. When I presented the budget for 1931-32 we estimated that the deficit would be Rs. 105 lakhs; but the completed accounts of 1930-31 show that the actual deficit is Rs. 191 lakhs. So, the actual deficit went up. We were optimistic in putting it down that the fall in the revenues would be Rs. 105 lakhs. We have got the completed accounts in our hands, and from these completed accounts we see that the actual deficit is Rs. 191 lakhs, and it has been counter-balanced by a reduction in the expenditure, and the actual state of the finances is that not only have we wiped out Rs. 64 lakhs free balance, but we have got minus 60 lakhs as the balance, and in order to finance this we have utilised Rs. 37 lakhs out of borrowed money which was carried over and Rs. 22 lakhs of the Petrol Fund and Rs. 2,00,000 of the Presses Depreciation Fund. What are we stating ? We are stating nothing but facts. What is the good of saying that the deficit of the Bombay Government seems to have a curious way of rising ?

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Then my honourable friend Mr. Kamat said that they were told that the deficit in 1931-32 would be Rs. 61 lakhs. Certainly, that was what I expected at the time I presented the budget. But we have the six-monthly accounts, and these six-monthly accounts show the trend of the revenue and how we are getting on. We have got accounts month after month, and from the six-monthly accounts which we have got in our hands, we are able to see that the revenue is not according to our expectations, and the deficit is going to be increased. My honourable friend Mr. Kamat said that he was not quite convinced that the condition of the finances was so very bad. I gave this House nothing but absolute facts about the state of the finances. The total working of the two years 1930-31 and 1931-32 has wiped out clean the free balance of Rs. 64 lakhs, and we are now on the wrong side by Rs. 1,90,00,000. Is that a state of things which we can contemplate with equanimity? I further stated that events show that even the revenue for the next year will be a dwindling factor. I have got in my hands the figures from 1922-23 and the year 1931-32, and I find that two or three main heads of revenue, viz., Land Revenue and Excise are falling year after year. There has been a very large drop in the Excise revenue; leave aside this particular year, but there is a permanent drop of nearly Rs. 60 lakhs. Similarly, year after year, Land Revenue is dwindling and the revenue from irrigation is also diminishing. The Honourable the Revenue Member told this honourable House yesterday that large remissions were given last year, and remissions will have to be given next year too. How are these remissions to be made up? Whence is the money to come? It is to meet these expenses that Government have brought forward this measure, which is not pressing upon the poor, which is not touching the poor. It has been argued that there are persons whose income is about Rs. 50 to Rs. 70 a year. If so, they cannot leave a single farthing for their children. Is it expected that they will leave large properties from which succession duty will have to be paid? As I pointed out yesterday, if I take it that there will be 3 or 4 heirs of a person who leaves property worth Rs. 10,000, it is only his children and heirs that are going to be taxed. How can you say that they ought not to pay a single farthing to the State? The duty is one-five-hundredth part of the property. What is the tax on the ascendants and the descendants?

An Honourable MEMBER: We know that.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: But I have got to emphasize it. Unfortunately, I have got to emphasize it and repeat it. Two per cent. means one-fiftieth and one-tenth of that means one-five-hundredth. Though that is in the Bill and it is known to honourable members, I have got to emphasize it and repeat it. The honourable member the Advocate General was perfectly right when he said that the Bill has been so diluted, the tax has been so diluted, in several cases it is made so low that it is not worth the gathering. Therefore, Sir, I submit that it is not right to put forward the complaint that the poor men are going to be taxed, that there is depression and that this is the most inopportune time for this taxation and this is not the right way of taxation May I ask my honourable friend Mr. Kamat whether I did not bring forward the Court-fees and Stamp Bills at the Budget session ? Were they not forms of taxation which need not be paid by one unless one chose to go to court or enter into a transaction ? But those Bills were summarily rejected At the same time, I do not know what other forms of taxation he has suggested He said that they were ready to suggest new sources of taxation to Government But this is a source of taxation suggested by the Kay Committee, by the Taxation Enquiry Committee, this is a source of taxation which has been suggested by several jurists and by several other persons.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Then the honourable member Mr Kamat had another grievance against me, at which I was rather surprised ; I was in fact taken aback at it. He says, " Look at Sir George Schuster's statement of retrenchments and look at this Finance Member's statement in the same direction " He said that Sir George Schuster had effected retrenchment of five crores in X Department and ten crores in Y Department and he compared them with the Retrenchment Committee's proposals But may I ask him if the Report of the Retrenchment Committee was in my hands at the time when this Bill was prepared or my speech was prepared ? This report was printed yesterday and I got it at 12 o'clock. [Interruption] Whose fault it was I am not going to state The fact remains that I got the report only yesterday. [Interruption] I will reply to it The session was fixed and one month's notice was given. First a date in October was fixed for the submission of the report, then the last day for the submission of the report was fixed for 23rd November. The honourable member Mr Kamat will corroborate me They did not choose to submit the report on 23rd November If the report comes on the 30th November and if I am not able to tell the House what the Retrenchment Committee's recommendations are and how we have dealt with them, I am not to blame, if I am not able to state specifically such as that the Retrenchment Committee recommended a cut of 10 lakhs in the Public Works Department and I accepted a cut of 2 lakhs. In the Revenue Department, they recommended a cut of 20 lakhs and I accepted 5 lakhs His Excellency said in his speech and I also stated in my speech that Government by a united effort have been able to retrench to the tune of a crore I even went to the length of saying that we are not shirking our responsibility of retrenchment His Excellency pointed out in his speech and I also pointed out in my speech that the Government are trying their level best for pruning and paring What we have done during the last two years I have stated in my speech [Interruption] The report of the Retrenchment Committee was not in my hands and so it is not possible to say out of this figure how much will be permanent retrenchment [An Honourable Member " Then the taxation proposal is premature "] So, I submit that I am not in a position to state, as Sir George Schuster has stated, the retrenchment according to the Retrenchment Committee's recommendations.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Then, the honourable member asked me to give an idea as to the approximate income from this taxation This is an absolutely new taxation. One honourable member from the opposite benches even replied to it. I have given so many concessions that it is difficult to say what the approximate income will be. We cannot expect more than 10 or 15 lakhs from this source Even that expectation may not be realised [An Honourable Member. "Is it worth while to have a Bill for 10 or 15 lakhs?"] In these hard times anything that comes is welcome. But you are not prepared to shoulder even the burden of this meagre taxation. That is what surprises me

Then, the honourable member stated that we ought to follow the recommendation of the Taxation Enquiry Committee. I have more than once stated that this Bill is not in the shape of an estate duty It is not the bulk of the property which is taxed, but it is the individual share which a person inherits In the case of probate duty or duty on letters of administration, in the case of the Parsi and European communities, the duty is charged on the whole property This Bill is not framed on that line, though I think it fair to do so. If you are prepared to accept, I will raise the exemption limit to Rs 5,000 or even to Rs 10,000 I am making a fair offer If you are prepared to accept a taxation as other communities have done, I am prepared to raise the maximum limit of exemption to Rs 5,000 or even to Rs 10,000 The duty that is levied on the agricultual class is one-fourth of the ordinary duty If they are willing to raise it to half, I will raise the maximum to Rs 10,000 We proceed on the assumption that ordinarily there will be 3 or 4 shares If the maximum is raised to Rs 5,000, and the duty is raised from one-fourth to half, then the man whose property is worth Rs 20,000 will escape the duty. Do you call a man having property worth Rs 20,000 a poor man? [An Honourable Member "What are his debts?"] The honourable member knows that under the Indian Succession Act, the property which is subject to taxation is the net property minus the debts, funeral charges and so on. [An Honourable Member "In the Bill there is no such provision"] It is the ordinary ABC of the law It is so laid down in the Indian Succession Act If my property is worth Rs 20,000 and I have a debt of Rs 10,000, the property is taken to be worth Rs 10,000 Even the funeral charges have to be deducted So, I submit that is the reason why the limit of exemption is reduced to Rs 2,000

Then, the second question asked by the honourable member is, why we have taken the responsibility for this taxation, when the Taxation Enquiry Committee recommend that it should be a central subject We wrote to the Government of India about it They said that we should do it ourselves The other Governments have prepared their draft Bills, though they have not placed them before the Council The Government of India said that this was a provincial revenue and that they would recommend the Provincial Governments to raise it. Is it right that we should also sit with folded hands disregarding the Sir Joseph Kay Committee's Report and the Taxation Enquiry Committee's Report when there is so much financial stringency? Is it right policy?

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Then, the honourable member stated that there is a permanent retrenchment to the tune of 60 lakhs and in five years it will come to 3 crores It is all right as a mathematical calculation But what is the underlying assumption ? The underlying assumption is that the income would remain the same Our experience has shown that the income is steadily going down and permanently it has gone down by a crore if not more The income is not only not rising but steadily falling. It is falling in Land Revenue, Excise and Forests [Interruption] Unless we get fresh sources of revenue, we cannot make up for the steady fall in Land Revenue and Excise The revenue from Excise has dropped from 4,24 lakhs to 3,03 lakhs I have repeatedly pointed out that it is not possible to meet these deficits by borrowing for unproductive purposes and particularly borrowing at a high rate of interest. As a matter of fact, two years back we expected that the rate of interest would go down, but on the contrary it has gone up. Honourable members have been complaining year after year about the borrowing policy of this Government They say that the Government have mortgaged the revenues of this Presidency by so many borrowings and that it is absurd to go on borrowing. If you do not want to borrow for productive purposes, much less can you borrow for unproductive purposes Then, it is absolutely necessary to balance the budget; and we want 1½ crores for that. We have already made a retrenchment to the tune of one crore and it is not possible to effect any further retrenchment. So, a fresh source of income must be found out . This Bill is equitable and fair and it falls upon broad shoulders If you think the machinery set up is wrong and if you think that a reference to the High Court or an appeal to it is necessary, we shall make the necessary amendments. As I said in my speech, this is a difficult measure. There are mistakes in drafting We never claim infallibility : There are sitting opposite legal luminaries, men with experience, but they are sitting mum When we seek their co-operation, they refuse it. Point out the mistakes and we shall correct them I am prepared to overhaul the measure in the select committee I am glad to find that the honourable member Dr. Dixit has tabled so many amendments which shows that he has studied the Bill in its minutest detail Such persons would be the best to guide our deliberations in the select committee. But in the open House they do not say anything. If you are against the Bill, vote against it, but offer constructive criticism and try to correct us So, I submit that the House will be well advised in sending the Bill to the select committee, remodel it and put it into proper shape With these remarks I leave the Bill in the hands of the House.

Question, "That the Bill be read a first time," put

The House divided : Ayes, 35. Noes, 69

Division No 1

Ayes

Allison, Mr. F W	Bullocke, Mr A Greville
Bell, Mr R. D.	Clayton, Mr. H. B
Bowers, Mr P L.	Collins, Mr G F S

Ayes– contd.

Cooke, Mr. G. H.
D'Souza, Dr J Alban
Garrett, Mr J H
Haddow, Mr R R
Hudson, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
Humphrey, Mr. John
Jam Jan Mahomed Khan, Khan Bahadur
Jayakar, Mr M. S
Jones, Major W. Ellis
Kambli, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T.
Kanga, Sir Jamshedji B
Kirke-Smith, Mr A.
Lane, Mr C. M
Lely, Mr. W. G
Mackie, Mr A W W.
Maxwell, Mr R M.
Mitchell, Mr H C B
Modak, Rev R S
Owen, Mr A. C
Perry, Mr E W
Pradhan, the Honourable Sir Govindrao
Prater, Mr S H
Rafiuddin Ahmad, the Honourable Moulvi
Shaikh Yakub Vazir Mahomed, Khan Bahadur
Solanki, Dr P G
Thomas, the Honourable Mr G A
Turner, Mr C W. A
Vakil, the Honourabe Sirdar Sir Rustom Jehangir
Wiles, Mr G

Tellers for the Ayes Mr A C Owen and Mr S H Prater

Noes

Abdul Latif Haji Hajrat Khan, Khan Bahadur
Achrekar, Mr A B
Allahbaksh, Khan Bahadur
Asavale, Rao Bahadur R S
Bakhale, Mr. R. R.
Baloch, Mr Haji Mir Mahomed
Bangi, Mr A K J
Bhurgri, Mr J. W
Bijarani, Khan Bahadur 'Sher Muhammad Khan
Bole, Rao Bahadur S K.
Chikodi, Mr. P R
Chitale, Rao Bahadur G K
Collaco, Dr. J A
Cooper, Khan Bahadur D B
Dhalumal Lilaram, Mr.
Desai, Rao Saheb B G
Desai, Mr H R
Desai, Mr S B
Dixit, Dr. M. K.
Gangoli, Mr. G S
Ghulam Hyder Shah, Mr.
Ghulam Nabi Shah, Khan Bahadur
Gilder, Dr M D
Gokhale, Mr L. R
Gover Rora, Mr
Jan Mahomed Khan, Khan Bahadur
Jittekar, Mr Haji Ibrahim
Jog, Mr V N
Kadri, Mr J. S
Kalbhor, Mr G. M
Kale, Rao Bahadur R R
Kamat, Mr B S
Karbhari, Mr M M.
Khuhro, Khan Bahadur M A
Kulkarni, Rao Saheb P D
Matcheswalla, Mr G E
Mehebbaksh, Mr S
Mehta, Mr M H
More, Mr. J. G.
Naik, Rao Bahadur B R
Namdeorao Budhajirao, Mr
Navle, Mr. N E
Parulekar, Rao Bahadur L V.
Patel Khan Bahadur A E
Patel, Mr C N
Patil, Rao Bahadur D R
Patil, Mr. N N
Patil, Mr V N
Patil, Rao Saheb V S
Pradhan, Rao Bahadur G V
Rahimtoola, Mr Hoosenally M
Resaldar, Mr. A K
Sahebsinhji Juvasinhji, Mr
Shaikh Abdul Aziz, Mr
Shaikh Abdul Majid, Mr
Shankarrao Jayaramrao Zunzarrao, Mr
Shinde, Mr. R B
Sindha, Mr Madhavsang Jorbhai
Surve, Mr A N
Surve, Mr. V. A
Syed Miran Mahomed Shah
Syed Muhammad Kamil Shah
Talpur, Mir Bandeh Ali Khan
Thakor of Kerwada, Sardar Bhasaheb Raisinhji
Tolani, Mr S S
Vaishampayan, Dr V G
Vakil, Mr Pestanshah N
Vandekar, Rao Saheb R V
Wadke, Mr B P

Tellers for the Noes Mr. R. R Bakhale and Mr J G More

The Honourable the PRESIDENT Order, order There is a supplementary grant to be taken up. That is the remaining item on the agenda. If the House agrees, I will adjourn the House for tea.

(After recess.)

SUPPLEMENTARY GRANT.

The Honourable Mr W. F HUDSON: Sir, in the regretted absence of my honourable colleague, Sir Ghulam Hussain, it falls to me to make a demand for a supplementary token grant of Rs. 10 under "55-Construction of Irrigation Works—Reserved, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction."

A very long and clear note* has been placed in the hands of honourable members, I think, yesterday, and I will do them the compliment of supposing that they have all read it, and as speech-making appears somewhat at a discount in this session, I do not propose to transgress with any lengthy oration on this point.

I think the case is quite clearly put We found, as the result of experience of the last few years, that certain areas which are to be commanded by the new canals are in serious danger from hill floods; and it is now proposed to provide the absolutely necessary protection against those floods If such protection is not afforded, we estimate an ever-increasing loss of revenue Honourable members will find the precise figures at the top of page 4 of the note. The expenditure on the scheme will be Rs 39·11 lakhs of which in the present financial year we shall spend Rs. 6 11 lakhs This scheme of about Rs. 40 lakhs will not involve any excess over the total expenditure sanctioned by this House and it will not require any special provision this year, since the sum of Rs 6 11 lakhs can be found from the current year's voted grant under this head That being so, I feel sure that the House will sanction this demand. I move.

Question proposed.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) (Addressed the House in Urdu): Mr. President, I rise to oppose the supplementary grant This scheme was submitted to the Government of India along with the Lloyd Barrage Scheme in 1920. The Government of India thought that the Flood Protective Bund Scheme required further consideration and withheld it when they sent the Barrage Scheme to the Secretary of State for sanction The scheme as put before us is estimated to cost Rs. 84·83 lakhs. From our experience of such estimates, we may expect that this cost will mount up to over a crore of rupees This is altogether a new scheme. I suppose the Government think that the members of this House will pass it without any opposition Government say in their long note, which has been placed in our hands, that owing to financial stringency, the whole scheme will not be taken in hand and that they will complete only the important portion of it What is the use of working such schemes piecemeal? The amount that we spend now will be wasted if the scheme is not completed. It is, therefore, the duty of responsible councillors to think twice before agreeing to this demand. The full estimate with complete maps and plans showing the length, breadth, width and height and the rates should be given It should also be stated whether the work would be done by contract or departmentally In the case of the Sukkur Barrage the estimate was 16 crores, then 18 crores and ultimately increased to 20 crores, but I think it may still be increased further Similarly, now they may ask for 40 lakhs then they will ask for 45 lakhs and after two years they might demand 20 lakhs more And we shall be asked to sanction that They will say that, if we do not sanction that, then the work already done and the existing canals will be damaged on a large scale. Because the entire work will cost 84 lakhs, i e., above 50 lakhs, they will have to go to the Government of India for sanction, and to avoid such a reference, they ask for an estimate lower than that limit. But if the full scheme goes beyond a crore or to a crore, then the sanction of the Secretary of State will have to be obtained To get over all this difficulty, they have resorted to this ruse of making a lower estimate, an estimate not exceeding 50 lakhs The Sukkur Barrage Scheme was estimated to cost 12 crores originally. The President of the Enquiry Committee consisting of Expert Engineers set up by the Secretary of State has said in their report in so many words that not one of the Bombay Government Engineers is able to carry out a project like that of the Sukkur Barrage My honourable friends will no doubt agree with me that when in 1923 the Sukkur Barrage Scheme was placed before this Council, those who prepared the estimates pushed us into a danger zone They promised considerable savings but ended in increasing the estimates No amount of opposition on our part was of any avail and the views of the honourable members were simply brushed aside unceremoniously That shows whether our wishes are respected at all or not in such matters If enquiries are made in letters or newspapers, no notice is taken of them This partially accounts for our silence yesterday Because Government do not listen to us, we think it best to keep our own counsel as we do not wish to give advice or to make suggestions which are considered unnecessary or which are evidently unwelcome to the recipients Why should we thrust our unwanted views on the unwilling minds of the Government benches ? When Sir Cowasji Jehangir was the General Member, I asked for the appointment of a committee to go into the foundations of the Sukkur Barrage which are five or six feet less than the sanctioned plans He wanted me to give proof of my allegation, and although I agreed to do so, he did not consent to the appointment of a committee. The Honourable Sir Ghulam Hussain also said that he would not allow evidence to be given of this fact alleged by me I sent a telegram stating that cement arches were being plastered white simply because the pillars and parapet walls were of white stone and that arches were of black cement It is now being plastered with white cement for the sake of beauty at a lakh of rupees expenditure Why should you now ask us to pass the Succession Duty Bill ? Why should this amount be placed in your hands, only to be wasted away as the money is being scattered to the winds on the Sukkur Barrage Scheme ? The original estimates are prepared by the lower officers, such as Executive Engineers, then they go up to the Superintending Engineer, who sends them with his initials to the Chief Engineer, who in his turn sends the whole thing to the Government in the Public Works Department. The Secretary of the Public Works Department usually never says "No", but places it for final approval before the Honourable Minister in charge of that Department or the Honourable Member in charge of the Irrigation Department. That way the whole thing gets through without much scrutiny or any scrutiny worth the name. What is the idea in having so many dittoing machines? It all looks like a tamasha, nothing more or less Lakhs and lakhs are being spent on buildings, estimates are doubled and trebled I have a report now showing that 1¼ lakhs are being spent on buildings in Sukkur on both sides and contractors have been given 30 per cent more because everything is to be got ready before His Excellency the Viceroy pays his visit

*Appendix 2

[Mr Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT That is outside the subject under discussion

Mr HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH Very well, Sir, I will come back to the subject immediately under discussion What I urge is that, before we can be asked to give our sanction to any such scheme as has been placed before us, we should be furnished with full plans and full estimates, together with maps and relevant plans, so that we may have a proper idea of the total cost that would be involved in the scheme to which our sanction is invited I further say that just because Government want to avoid a reference to the Government of India or to the Secretary of State for India, they should not keep the estimate under 50 lakhs knowing full well that the estimate is bound to exceed that limit I submit that Government should not split a complete scheme into two or three parts only to get round the limit of 50 lakhs and that, even if the scheme were to cost more than a crore, they must acquaint us with all the facts of the case

The present grant, Sir, has been asked as a supplementary grant. I submit that that cannot rightly be called a supplementary grant, because the work provided for is not a new service not contemplated in the sanctioned budget for the current year The bund is to be constructed over a length of 156 miles The Honourable Member in charge of the Public Works Department will say that the estimate is for machine work and so on, that hand labour will cost Rs 8 to Rs 9 for levelling or ramming etc, etc What is the estimate for this? It is much in excess of what it should be. Contractors are ready, there is considerable unemployment among the labouring classes Labour is, therefore, cheap and, as my honourable friend Khan Bahadur Allahbaksh will tell you, this work ought not to cost more than Rs. 5 to Rs 6, especially in these days when plenty of cheap labour is ready at hand.

The Government accounts are audited by men who have no connection with the officers We do not want the certificate to be signed by the engineers who prepared this scheme. Let the scheme be scrutinised by the Government of India engineers. Let it not be split up into two or three parts, as that splitting up is likely to mislead the public. If the scheme is really a good one, then even if it should exceed 50 lakhs, it should be put up in that form and submitted to the Government of India for sanction before coming to this Council with it If there is not the Government of India's sanction, then it should be thrown out altogether.

[Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch]

Rao Bahadur G K CHITALE (Ahmednagar District) Sir, it is a matter for regret that the present grant should be put before this House by way of a token grant I do not mean to say that it may not be legal, but I do mean to protest that to ask this Council consisting of laymen by way of a token grant to sanction this large scheme, which is sprung upon us rather suddenly and which gives us only a couple of days for consideration, is a procedure which cannot be acceptable to this House. The subject is highly technical and I must say that in my speech I may commit mistakes, but for those mistakes I do not wish to plead guilty because only two days are given to us to consider this vast scheme

I find that in Volume XIII, Sukkur Barrage Canals Project, 1919-20, there is a scheme prepared called Manchar Drainage and Flood Protective Project. I find amongst other things that that project was estimated to cost Rs. 2,25,19,000, vide summary given at page 55 in part XVII. I will first draw the attention of the House to the remarks made in the Review by the Accountant General on page 313 of the Appropriation Accounts for the year 1929-30 and the Report of the Accountant General thereon. It is to the following effect :—

"The Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Project was sanctioned by the Secretary of State in 1923-24 at an estimated cost of Rs 1,835 47 lakhs A second revised recapitulation statement, which amounts, in effect, to a revision of the estimate of the project, puts the estimated cost of the project at Rs 2,003 52 lakhs This was submitted to Government in February 1928 and has been under their consideration since then. As a result of certain comments by Government, the figures under various heads have since been modified to some extent within the estimated cost of Rs 2,003 52 lakhs and the final modified figures have been reported to Government by the Chief Engineer in August 1930 Their approval is still awaited At present, the only authoritative sanction against which audit can be and is being carried on is the first revised recapitulation statement approved in 1925."

Then again at page 317, paragraph 10 —

"Future direct liabilities on account of works expenditure according to the latest authorised estimates (i e the first Revised Recapitulation Statement) are set out in the following statement —

1 ...
2 .... .
3 .. .
4 .. .
5 Manchar Drainage and Regulators Amount of estimate is Rs. 62,21,145. Expenditure to the end of 1929-30 is Rs 8,00,885 Balance available at the end of 1929-30 is Rs. 54,20,260 "

I fail to see, Sir, why the first estimate of Rs 225 lakhs sanctioned by the Secretary of State has been given the go-by There was a revised estimate which the Accountant General puts at Rs 62,21,145 I have not been able to get hold of that estimate nor have I been able to find any papers on which the present scheme is based except for this note, which appears to me rather too sketchy to be of any practical use to us.

[Rao Bahadur G K. Chitale]

Not only that, but I find that in the original estimate—here also I may be wrong—provision was made for a bank of about 90 miles. It appears from the note that that mileage is now extended to 120. It is stated in the note

" .. a project was also prepared to protect a very large area of land commanded by the Right Bank Canals system which, in the absence of the protective bund scheme would be flooded by hill torrents from the Khirtar range of hills from the west and the north of the area and from the overflow of the Manchar Lake The scheme consisted of —

(a) the Manchar Drain and Regulator Scheme, and

(b) the Flood Protective Bund Scheme "

As I read it the words used there are "flood protective scheme and Manchar drainage scheme". I believe, therefore, that the estimates stand at the figure which I have quoted, namely, Rs 2,25,00,000, and they have not been sanctioned, because the Accountant General would not otherwise have been found to put it at Rs. 62,00,000. It is possible—I speak subject to correction—that that may be the figure at which it has been sanctioned, or it might be, as the recapitulation statement shows, that the Government of India have sanctioned the project up to Rs. 62,00,000. No doubt it is stated. and this project shows that the loss of revenue to the kharif and rabi crop was about Rs 1,25,000, speaking from memory. It is now shown, and it is just possible that when the whole Canal system takes shape, naturally there might be other irrigation possible. In the note it is stated .

" Further, if the Flood Protective Bund scheme is not carried out, no appreciable development can occur in an area measuring over 1,000 square miles commanded by the Right Bank canals."

Now, Sir, I cannot help saying that we are too hopeful in all our financial projects, so far and so long as they are financed from loan funds Nowhere so far, even on the smaller schemes in the Deccan Irrigation Canal systems and the lakes, have we yet been able to realise our dream of a fair return The general taxpayer is asked to foot the bill of several lakhs; and, as the Honourable the Finance Member has stated, our irrigation revenue has been going down and shows a minus figure of Rs 35,00,000, as he put it yesterday. It is just possible that, when the canal system commanded by the Lloyd Barrage takes shape and, as stated by the Honourable the Revenue Member, when all the land is wholly occupied by people, that is, when it is really worked up to the estimate, then perhaps that loss may not occur. But that is a long step yet The Barrage will be completed soon A large acreage of land will be available, and who knows that the whole of the acreage which would be commanded by that large scheme will be taken up by the people and will be taken up so swiftly as to give us a return as early as possible ? Here I am reminded of the report of the two experts who were sent out by the Government of India to look into the question of the separation of Sind from the Presidency, and the effect of their report on my mind is that this scheme is not likely to bring in any revenue, but is likely to be a very great burden on the finances of the Presidency. No doubt, they have also uttered a word of warning, that if Sind wants to be separated, all the rules and cannons of separation insist upon this condition that the moment they get themselves separated from the Presidency, Sind alone will have to bear this financial burden, and for several years Sind will be a deficit province, and it will require about Rs 125 lakhs every year to cover the deficit; and if I remember rightly again, they estimate that after about 20 or 30 years perhaps this white elephant may give about Rs. 25 lakhs a year, almost a drop in the ocean, while we have spent Rs. 20 crores and over and for 20 years we will be paying interest at about a crore a year, and the sum will go on increasing From my point of view, this is not the proper way of taking this Council into confidence and asking us to sanction, as if it were by a stroke of the pen, a grant of about Rs 80 lakhs. It is stated in the note that the floods in the past have not caused very great losses. If so, why not expect that the losses will not be so heavy in the future?

[Rao Bahadur G K. Chitale]

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Because there was nothing to lose in the past

Rao Bahadur G K. CHITALE: There was nothing to lose, and therefore we spent about a crore of rupees, on which we lose Rs. 6,25,000 every year by way of interest, and heaven knows what the return is going to be, because the country affected by it is not at present so heavily settled The point is that the Honourable the Revenue Member assumes that, as soon as this project takes shape, the country would be heavily settled What guarantee is there for hoping that this will happen? If there is no guarantee that the country will be heavily settled, where is the necessity of spending such a large amount from our slender resources? Then, it is stated in the note that the country will be heavily settled in a few years when settled irrigation is provided. That is a hope which, to my mind, will not materialise for a good many years. The note says further:

"But similar floods coming in the future might be not only distressing, as they were in the past, but really disastrous owing to the damage and loss which they could cause in the absence of the Flood Protective Bund."

I do not know whether the scheme is within the amount sanctioned, viz, Rs. 62 lakhs If it is, I will not and I cannot take any objection, but it appears to me that this supplementary scheme is costing more and it is a more ambitious scheme, to which I object. Proceeding further, the note says:

"A project for the Flood Protective Bund scheme has therefore been prepared and it amounts to Rs 84 83 lakhs including direct and indirect charges"

May I know, if that project has been prepared, whether it has been sanctioned by the Government of India and, for the matter of that, by the Secretary of State? It appears from this note that it is only prepared, the note nowhere says that it has been sanctioned, and I know, as a member of the Public Accounts Committee, that there are ways of getting round the rule of sanction by the Government of India and the Secretary of State. The rule lays down that all estimates over Rs 50 lakhs must get the sanction of the Secretary of State. They get over this rule by splitting up the project into two or three parts and saying

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

"so much for this, so much for that, and so much for the rest", thus bringing the estimate within Rs. 50 lakhs, and then they say that that estimate is put before this Council, its sanction is obtained, and therefore the Government are authorised to spend the money by asking for a token grant.

The note goes on to say :

"Of this amount, Rs 70 42 lakhs is the cost of I—Works only The project comprises chiefly the following items

(i) the construction of a continuous Flood Protective Bund, 156 miles long, commencing from the Manchar Lake and running along the western irrigation boundary of the Right Bank Canals Area. The right banks of the Johi and the Khirtar branches will form a common bank with this bund in its length from miles 10 to 39. and 122 to 156 respectively,

(ii) the widening of the main Nara valley drain ;

(iii) the diversion of the Gaj Nai"

Now, this diversion of the Gaj Nai is item No. 8 on page 55 of Volume XIII of the Lloyd Barrage estimates, and the cost of it has been put down at Rs. 2,00,000 in the original estimate As I said, therefore, I am perfectly right in seeking for further detailed information, so far as is available, on the several points which have been referred to in this note. Then the note goes on to say :

"The hill torrents affecting the command of the North-Western canal will strike this Bund at various points in its length, from mile 156 to 101 and will then pass into a low natural depression north of Mirzokhan (mile 69 of the Flood Protective Bund)"

Then the note says :

"..... the probable loss in cultivation and revenue will, on a conservative basis, be as shown below :—"

In 1932-33 the loss is expected to be Rs 2,25,000, rising up in 1941-42 to Rs. 6,97,500. But the note further says :

"In addition to this loss much damage would be caused to the canals already constructed and this would be to the extent of some Rs 70 lakhs"

Therefore, they say that the scheme is very necessary, and if it is not done now, there will be that much loss to the exchequer. The note goes on and tells us :

"Government are convinced of the necessity of the construction of the Flood Protection Bund scheme in the interests of the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction works..."

My honourable friends from Sind will speak on this part ; they know the local conditions better, but in order to get over any objections that might be raised, the note says.

".... as the scheme is directly concerned with the cultivation of the area commanded by the Right Bank Canals."

It is argued that it comes into a scheme for which general sanction has already been obtained, and therefore this amount which they now ask for is perfectly within the limit. But I do not agree with that opinion. I should think that more information should be given, and unless that is done, this House will be well advised in not sanctioning this token grant and giving them a blank cheque up to Rs. 40,00,000. The note further says :

"The extra expenditure of Rs 39 11 lakhs will not, it is anticipated, lead to any excess over the figure of Rs. 20·03 crores sanctioned for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction scheme"

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

As I have already said, the original estimate of Rs 18 crores has now gone up to Rs. 20 crores, and there is only this expectation which is expressed in the note, for which there is no guarantee. Under the circumstances, I should think this House would be well advised in throwing out this demand for a token grant, unless and until the whole project by way of detailed estimates is put before the House This could be done at the time of the Budget session in February next, and till that is done the House should not pass such a large amount rather in a hurry and repent at leisure.

Mr G. WILES Sir, the Finance Department are responsible for this supplementary demand coming before the House. I would therefore ask permission to explain why we considered it desirable to bring it before the House My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Chitale has an engaging habit of making speeches of considerable length, setting up imaginary difficulties, taking the House into confidence, explaining that his remarks may be full of mistakes, and stating that if they are not full of mistakes, then the House should throw out the demand. I am afraid that I cannot agree that his remarks are not full of mistakes

Perhaps it will simplify matters if I give as briefly as possible the inner history of this demand and the reason why it comes up in the form of a token demand. As this note explains, at the time of the passing of the original Barrage Scheme, two other projects closely connected with it were submitted to the Secretary of State One of them was included in the Barrage Scheme and one of them was not. The Manchar Drainage Scheme was included in the scheme sanctioned. As regards the other scheme, the Government of India thought that the information at their disposal was insufficient for sanctioning it and said that it could wait. Last year or two years ago, this second scheme was developed by the engineers and the full scheme was put up which is referred to on the second page of this note. A complete project for the flood protective bund scheme was prepared. My honourable friend takes exception to the fact that no mention of sanction is made there. Of course, it has not been sanctioned. If it had been sanctioned, it would have been placed before you. But it has not been sanctioned and it may never be. That scheme was submitted to the Finance Department, but for reasons on the lines advanced by the honourable member, a recommendation to reject it was made by the Finance Department, who thought in the particular circumstances of to-day Government should not increase their borrowings for these works in Sind to the extent of the demand, but should be prepared to take a certain risk. This scheme is not part of the Manchar Drainage Scheme. I am not sure whether the honourable member is not confusing the Manchar Lake Drainage Scheme, which is referred to in the Accountant General's report, with this further scheme. It is not part of the Manchar Drainage Scheme, though one intimately connected with it. The Manchar Drainage Scheme is in operation. This s heme is not. It is a supplementary scheme which will divert the drainage water into the Manchar lake. But it is distinctly a separate scheme.

[Mr. G Wiles]

Thereafter a second scheme came up before the Finance Department on a much reduced scale That is the scheme for which demand is made now The Finance Department has satisfied itself that it is in essence a part of the Barrage Scheme It has been proved to my satisfaction that, without these protective bunds, not only the area which may come under development in the future but actually the works which are there already will come into danger It is therefore absolutely essential to agree to these works being carried on

A further reason for carrying on the work immediately is that, while the Canal works are in progress, it is much cheaper for the same staff to deal with this work. If we had refused to sanction it and asked them to bring this up later on, the whole staff, the dragline excavators and labour would have to be brought at great cost to this part That is the reason why this demand has been made now As the watch dogs, sometimes much abused watch dogs, of the privileges of this Council, the Finance Department has brought this demand in the form in which it is placed before you It is true that it is an economical and essential scheme, but it is a big addition to the Barrage Scheme, which was not contemplated in detail in the original estimates Therefore, we thought it fair in your own interests that the Public Works Department should bring this scheme before you now.

This is not really "a new scheme," as the member for Karachi says. It is really a part of the Barrage scheme which is essential for the protection of the works In the Barrage Scheme there is already a lump sum sanctioned by the Secretary of State for "protective works" and this is being debited to that sub-head. The question therefore of sanction by the Secretary of State or the Government of India does not arise at all

Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): Sir, the note which is placed in our hands is lacking in information on several points Some of them have already been mentioned by previous speakers. I am now trying to refer to the way in which supplementary grants are presented to this House. To begin with, this is a token grant for an entirely new project as it is described in this note If we, without proper scrutiny, sanction this small amount of Rs. 10 which we are likely to sanction, then for several succeeding years this item will be brought before us annually and we will be compelled to vote it, because we shall have committed ourselves to this new undertaking In the first place we are practically in despair over the financial condition of our Presidency and still we are sanctioning grants which are to recur for several years to come ; and that too in the form of a token grant and not at the time of budget or after supplying full information to us

The second fact is that this money is to come out of the money we have already sanctioned last February. Is this then not an example of bad budgetting ? The amount is not a small one. This large sum of 6 lakhs which was not required during the year was asked for and sanction was got in respect of that sum in the last budget session. It is a serious question because it is an example of bad budgeting. When we say that our budgets are not properly framed, the opposite benches will not admit the justice of what we say Here is a striking example which proves the charge we lay at the Government, that they make large demands of money which are not really required.

[Mr A N. Surve]

The next point which I would like to touch upon is on page 3. At the top of page 3, of the note in our hands we are given an imposing array of figures running into three columns and each figure running to seven digits. This array of figures does neither impress nor convince us. In it we are given the probable loss of cultivation in acres and also the probable loss of revenue in rupees. I ask Government: "Have you any guarantee to say that these figures which are hypothetically placed before us are likely to come true or are they ever likely to be realised?" The Barrage project itself is going to bring under cultivation several lakhs of acres and on the top of that new land to be brought under cultivation, you have placed before us this table of figures to induce us to sanction this grant. Where are you going to get the cultivators from? Where is the money to bring all this land under cultivation? I therefore say that this array of figures is placed before us in order to induce us to give our meek submission or consent to the demand placed before us.

Again, look to the date on which this note is prepared. This note was prepared as late as 28th November 1931 and we are asked to sit in judgment upon it on 1st December The note as a matter of fact came into our hands only yesterday It is how Government rush through such items, without giving us time to scrutinise the demands that are placed before us. If you place these demands in such a way, I must say that we give our not intelligent assent but only assent which is in its nature ex parte or without applying our mind to the matter upon which our assent is sought.

The only other point to which I wish to draw your attention is this. In this note on page 1 there are two items of work, viz.—(a) and (b). The Government of India admitted the necessity of (a) but they did not admit the necessity of (b). They kept it pending for further consideration. The Government of India so far as we know have not yet given their definite sanction to (b). Here we are told that the Bombay Government acting on the advice of their engineers consider that these two projects (a) and (b) as one and inter-dependent. I only place before honourable members opposite whether the engineers of the Government of India are less competent than the engineers of the Bombay Government. Please look to the fact that the Barrage is to be inaugurated after 3 or 4 weeks What strikes a man of ordinary commonsense is this: There is a likelihood of several engineers being thrown out of work. Shall I be wrong if I venture to suggest that this project is an after-thought in order to engage those engineers?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I entirely repudiate that insinuation. The honourable member has no right to make it.

Mr A. N. SURVE: I am glad that that suggestion is repudiated,

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : I am sorry that the honourable member ever made it.

Mr. A. N. SURVE : Yes, Sir. I am glad because the repudiation confirms me in my view. The fact remains, as was very aptly said by one of the honourable members, that the Bombay Presidency is in the grip of engineers. That fact cannot be gainsaid In the Bombay Presidency we have brought into existence several buildings on which we have spent lakhs and lakhs of rupees and which are to-day lying locked up and without being used If this statement is challenged, I request the honourable members sitting on the opposite benches to come to the compound of the J. J. Hospital——

Mr. G. WILES : Is the honourable member keeping to the point ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The objection raised is correct. The honourable member should confine himself to the subject matter before the House.

Mr. A. N. SURVE : Yes, Sir , hard facts are always very unpalatable and I must not tread on tender toes ; therefore I shall not refer any further to that matter. But the fact remains that unless we get a specific statement from Government that the Government of India have given sanction to the project to which our consent is asked to-day, I for one will not give my consent to the demand under discussion.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO (Larkana District) Sir, the complaint of the honourable members from this side of the House is certainly genuine when they say that Government do not treat us fairly when such schemes are brought before the honourable House All the materials and all the particulars which are relevant to these schemes are not placed in the hands of the honourable members of this House. The complaint is all the more genuine in the present case as the scheme is brought before the House in a haphazard manner. The sum of Rs. 39 lakhs, for the expenditure of which permission is sought, is not a small sum, and in the present financial stringency the House realises the extent of that expenditure Ever since the beginning of the Barrage works up to this day there was no talk of this scheme at all This honourable House was not aware of the necessity of this scheme all these days, and just at the end, when the Barrage works are nearing completion, this new scheme is being brought for sanction of the House.

The other complaint that was made by my honourable friend on my right (Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch) was that the scheme is being split up into smaller units and demands are made at different stages, and therefore the impression is gaining ground that that is done to avoid the sanction of the Government of India, because if the expenditure exceeds 50 lakhs of rupees Government of India's sanction is essential. Sir, in the present case we have doubts whether what has been stated in this note is really the fact. I understood the honourable member the Finance Secretary to say in the course of his speech that the construction of this bund has nothing in common with the Manchar Drainage Scheme, whereas the note indicates that both the schemes are inter-dependent.

Mr. G. WILES. Sir, I said they were very intimately connected. I said they were distinct schemes, that one scheme was not included in the other scheme, a very distinct matter I did not say they were not intimately connected of course, they are

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: The note very clearly says that the one scheme cannot do without the other scheme. On the very first page of the note honourable members will find that it is stated "As a result of further investigation, it has been found that the Manchar Drainage scheme and the Flood Protective Bund scheme are interdependent, as one scheme is useless without the other" Not only that, but the provision of 39·11 lakhs includes a sum of 13 lakhs for the Manchar Drainage scheme—item (d) "the widening of the Main Drain from the point where it cuts the Western Nara Bank" I beg your pardon It is (c) "The strengthening and maintenance of the right bank of the Western Nara from this point up to mile 72 of the Western Nara (head of Manchar)"

Now, Sir, about three years ago Government put up a bund to stop the waters that rush from the hills which are called hill torrents but those bunds were washed away as the torrents were very forceful. Those bunds cost three or four lakhs and all that amount was wasted. Now, all this expenditure for which sanction is now asked by Government is being justified mainly on the consideration that some hill tracts in the Khirtar range, which are in Baluchistan outside Sind, and some parts of the Johi taluka will be brought under cultivation. The hill tracts are outside Bombay presidency, and I do not think this vast expenditure is justified on the ground that a part of Johi taluka will get a water supply. Moreover, the hill tracts of the Khirtar range are now cultivated by rain water, they are called barani lands, and Government only charge a nominal assessment, because those tracts do not yield any large amount of produce

There is also another complaint, and that is from the people of Johi taluka. They say that because of the diversion of the Gaj Nai much of the lands which were getting water from the hill torrents are being deprived of water Two years ago these lands used to be cultivated with wheat and juari, but last year and in the current year, they have been rendered uncultivable Government must now pay compensation to those people whose lands are being rendered useless by the putting up of these bunds If this question has not yet been settled, Government will sooner or later have to decide it. Adequate compensation should be given to those who are going to suffer in the event of these bunds being put up on the border of Johi taluka

Regarding the Barrage scheme, I need not go into the details because that is very different from the present case. But one remark that was made by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale was really justified—I refer to what he said about the Sind Financial Enquiry Committee's report. They have—I would say rightly—disillusioned the Government of Bombay as to the financial expectations of the scheme. They say that the Barrage scheme is going to be a millstone round the neck of the presidency, that it is not going to pay for the next thirty years, and that it ought to have been called a protective and not a productive scheme That in a nutshell is the result of their investigation, the investigation of two gentlemen, one of whom is the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India and who has got considerable experience

[Khan Bahadur M A. Khuhro]

I submit, Sir, that in their present financial position—to make use of an expression contained in the note and used by the honourable member the Finance Secretary—Government ought to have taken the risk and avoided the expenditure Government could have waited for some time to see whether there was really a strong case to justify the incurring of this expenditure. The Barrage is going to supply water from next April; this bund cannot be put up immediately, all this 39 lakhs cannot possibly be spent within the course of the next two or three months The results of the working of the Barrage are likely to manifest themselves in 1932, and Government will be able to see whether there is any justification for the incurring of this expenditure. Just as the Government of Bombay have decided to delay the scheme of drainage which was considered to be very important—and nothing very important has been done so far in that direction—they should wait and see whether this scheme too is really necessary. I do not think any useful purpose will be served by rushing it through at present. With these few remarks, I resume my seat.

Mr. C. M. LANE : Sir, I will answer the few technical points which have been raised in this debate. I do not think many of them can be said to be technical points. The honourable member Mr Baloch made a typical speech. He does not accept the figure of 84 lakhs, he thinks it is bound to go up to a crore of rupees I do not think anything need be said on that We are not now discussing 84 lakhs, but we are discussing 39 11 lakhs—the actual demand. He further said that we are providing bunds irregularly under the head "protective and drainage works". Well, the description of "protective and drainage works" under head IV includes bunds. If you refer to the Irrigation Act you will see that a bund is actually a canal. So, we are not making any provision under wrong heads at all. it is a legitimate provision He argued that technical details should invariably be put before the House before their vote is asked for. He is known to have considerable engineering knowledge, but not many honourable members of this House will have similar knowledge, and I do not think that the labour involved in producing the numerous copies of plans and estimates would be justified.

As regards the question of the sanction of the Secretary of State, that question has been fully examined. It has been accepted by the Financial Adviser of the Project and by the Finance Department of the Bombay Government that this is an integral part of the Barrage project, and it has been treated as such in this demand, not requiring further reference to the Government of India or the Secretary of State.

[Mr C M. Lane]

Somewhat extraneous to this subject is the complaint that we are spending something in the neighbourhood of a lakh of rupees for beautifying the Barrage by plastering the arches. We are doing nothing of the sort The arches are of reinforced concrete and on removal of the centres and falsework the facework is being rendered in the ordinary way. Nothing further is being done to beautify the arches.

The honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale said that the original estimate for these schemes as submitted to the Government of India in 1920 was Rs. 2,25,00,000. But this was the preliminary Project Report and the actual sanctioned estimate for the Manchar Drainage Scheme to which he specifically referred is Rs. 35 lakhs.

The honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale further complained that the explanatory note to this demand is too short. I think that note is rather longer and fuller than is usually provided. I fear a longer explanatory note would not be read and assimilated.

The honourable member Mr. Surve complained about bad budgeting which has resulted in a saving of Rs. 6 lakhs being available for expenditure on this scheme. I do not agree, Sir. I think it is evidence of the extraordinary economy and the close supervision of works expenditure on the part of the Chief Engineer (Mr Harrison) that we were able to find this money The honourable member further queried the figures on page 4 of the note and said that he must be assured that they were reliable Well, these figures are based on what information we could get from the records of damage by floods in these areas.

The honourable member Mr. Surve further said that the scheme was kept pending by the Government of India on the ground that it required further consideration. But actually it was not so. The Government of India demanded that the scheme should be given further consideration. It has been given very full further consideration during the last 6 years and we have now arrived at the decision which this demand represents. The original figures given by Mr Musto in 1920 have been greatly reduced, and we have now Rs. 35 lakhs for the Manchar Drainage Scheme, and, if we go through the whole programme, we may possibly have to embark eventually on the expenditure of Rs. 84 8 lakhs referred to in the Note. That is a total of 120 lakhs, a figure very far short of the Rs 225 lakhs originally given to the Government of India

The honourable member Khan Bahadur Khuhro said that the present proposal is an afterthought and has been sprung on him and the honourable House : Let me tell him that this scheme was contemplated from the first . He further stated that he had information that we tried to put a bund across the Gaj Nai and we wasted some lakhs on it as it was immediately destroyed. I can assure him that his information is absolutely and entirely wrong. I also understood the honourable member as saying that this work is situated in Baluchistan. I can assure him that he is again wrong.

[Mr C. M Lane]

I do not think there are any other points which require explanation. This work is essential and we have a provision for Protective and Dramage works of Rs. 59 lakhs. We hope to meet the expenditure largely from that provision. If we cannot meet it entirely from that provision, we will meet the balance from savings effected in provisions for main canals, branches and distributaries

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH (Sukkur District): Sir, I would like to give a short history of this scheme In the year 1927 Government appointed a committee to visit the Barrage It consisted of the honourable members Sir Shah Nawaz Bhutto, Dewan Bahadur Kambh, Mr. Lalji Naranji and myself and a few others At that time I raised this question of constructing bunds. I thought that it was absolutely necessary to construct these bunds in order to prevent damage by hill torrents. Government at that time had no money, and we are thankful to God that there has been saving out of the provision for the Barrage. Therefore Government have come forward with this scheme and asked this House to sanction a supplementary grant

I cannot understand why Government are not constructing the whole line of the bund It has been explained in the note and the honourable member the Finance Secretary said in his speech that we are taking a risk. I do not know why they should take a risk at all. They must construct the whole line of the bund. It is no use exposing the canals and crops to the floods.

I feel, Sir, that it is necessary that we should construct this bund. One question about this scheme is whether it is an integral part of the Barrage scheme. The Government of India did not accept the statement that it was an integral part of the scheme when the original project was submitted to them for sanction. It is true that a certain portion of the Baluchistan area comes under the protection of these bunds That area also requires protection. But, as the honourable member Mr. Lane pointed out, the items for which the present grant is asked are to be so constructed as to protect Sind and not Baluchistan territory. But once this House accepts the principle that this scheme is an integral part of the Barrage scheme, then the Government of India cannot be asked to pay a proportionate share exclusively for that area in Baluchistan which the bund protects. If however that principle is not accepted, but we accept the principle that the bund is for the protection of the area that would otherwise be exposed to hill torrents they will have to pay not on an acreage basis of the entire scheme but on an acreage basis of the area protected and the entire cost of that portion of the bund which will be constructed to protect Baluchistan territory. If we accept the principle that this bund is an integral part of the original Barrage scheme, then it would be necessary that we get on an acreage basis for the entire scheme, the amount from the Government of India towards the construction of the bund within the Baluchistan territory. This point requires some elucidation on the part of the honourable the Revenue Member.

[Khan Bahadur Allahbaksh]

I hope he will make a statement as to what agreement has been arrived at between the Bombay Government and the Governmet of India in this matter.

Now, looking to the merits of the case, as I said, it is absolutely necessary that we should construct a bund. My honourable friend Khan Bahadur Khuhro pointed out that the cost of the bund will be out of proportion to the loss of revenue That is true so far as the question of revenue is concerned But we should also take into consideration the loss suffered by zamindars and agriculturists. Moreover, I remember two years ago hill torrents caused damage and destroyed about half a mile of the Khirthar Branch, and if there had been crops in this area, they would have been destroyed.

I have nothing else to say, except that it is not the fault of the zamindars that this scheme has been divided into two parts so that the amount does not exceed Rs. 40 lakhs and the sanction of the Government of India is not necessary The blame lies on the Government. It is no use penalising the zamindars by not sanctioning the amount. With these remarks, I support the demand.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE. I move the closure, Sir.

Rao Bahadur R R. KALE (Bombay University): I have got a legal point, Sir I do not want to be a party and must enter a protest because I do not think I am satisfied on this legal point, namely, whether the sanction of the Secretary of State for this scheme is necessary The facts that have been stated are that the general project of the Lloyd Barrage was submitted to the Government of India in 1920 and along with it these two projects (a) and (b) were submitted. While submitting the Lloyd Barrage Scheme to the Secretary of State—I am stating the facts as they are given—the Government of India submitted only scheme (a) and withheld scheme (b) on the ground that it required further consideration. While admitting that both schemes would be necessary to safeguard the Right Bank Canals area against the floods, they provided for only scheme (a) in the estimates This scheme (b) may be necessary, I do not deny that What I say is that the engineers now say that the two schemes (a) and (b) are interdependent. I grant it. They have found it now, it was not clear in the beginning, but as the result of further investigations it has been found that the two schemes are interdependent Therefore they proceed to argue that because it is interdependent, therefore it is a part and parcel of the scheme already submitted That is all very well as it is. But my point is that as a lawyer I do think that this matter is a matter which ought to be submitted for the opinion of the Law Officers of Government. I want to know whether it was submitted for such opinion It is no use having merely the opinion of the engineering experts because they themselves, after considerable amount of time and thought, have come to the conclusion that the two parts (a) and (b) are interdependent. Very well, if that is so, is it not necessary that this part (b), which was at the time considered to be separate but which is now found to be interdependent, should now be submitted to the Secretary of State for sanction because the Secretary of State sanctioned the project without this (b) scheme and because this is a scheme which costs according to them more than 50 lakhs and so requires the Secretary of State's sanction? Of course, the sanction was given to the construction of the Lloyd Barrage at a cost of 20 crores, but my point is that this (b) scheme was then considered to be a separate scheme and it is only now sought to be made a part of the original scheme, and therefore I do not agree with the argument that this (b) scheme must be considered to have been included in the original sanction just because now the two parts (a) and (b) are considered to be interdependent. To say now that the two parts are interdependent is a line of argument which does not appeal to me at least and I am not satisfied that it is a point free from doubt Therefore, the whole thing will be illegal for want of the sanction of the Secretary of State. I do submit, therefore, that unless and until we are satisfied, at least I am satisfied, about the legality of this action, I would not be a party to vote in favour of this demand.

[Rao Bahadur R R. Kale]

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Sir, I feel I have conferred rather a boon on this House by bringing this supplementary demand as it has enabled those floodgates of eloquence, so reluctantly closed yesterday, to be opened today with the result that those honourable members who enjoy the sound of their own voices will have the satisfaction of knowing that they did not come to this session in vain. But, Sir, I do not think that the reception that has been given to this token grant will encourage Government in future cases of doubt to bring matters before this House, in fact I suspect that our watchdogs will be somewhat less watchful and will not encourage us to bring doubtful matters before this House. Nevertheless, I should like to explain here and now that there is no attempt on Government's part whatsoever to work a ramp as against the Government of India. Of course, I cannot help being amused at the anxiety of this House to maintain on this occasion the authority of the Secretary of State and of the Government of India, when I know that many of my honourable friends opposite are looking forward to the day, now probably a very few months ahead, when provincial autonomy will be established and when I know perfectly well that every one of them is strongly in favour of that form of Government——

Rao Bahadur R R. KALE: Work the constitution as it is.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I cannot help being amused at this meticulous anxiety to preserve the authority of the Secretary of State and I have no doubt that it will be very gratifying to him to know that he has such stalwart champions in this House——

Rao Bahadur R R. KALE: I mean to say——

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON. I am not going to give way, Sir. What I am trying to persuade the House to take it from me is that there was no intention on the part of this Government to evade the rules, nor do we consider that we have evaded the rules. It is perfectly true that there has been prepared a scheme for 84 lakhs, and I understand that my honourable friend Khan Bahadur Allahbakh would like us to go ahead with that scheme straightway. I do not know whether the House desires us to do that. The honourable member wants a whole line of bunds to be created and I have no doubt that he is correct, that is to say, that he is not prepared to take any risks Had we got plenty of money, we should certainly have taken the scheme of 84 lakhs to the Government of India for sanction, but in view of the financial circumstances we thought that we should have the House with us in this matter and we decided to take some risk. Everybody does that in life, everybody takes some risk, and it is only a question just how much you will take, and our expert advisers have told us that on the whole they are prepared to take the risk of a scheme which involves the expenditure of 39 lakhs. For that purpose we do not in my opinion require the sanction of the Government of India. But I would remind the House that carefully watching the Barrage Administration day by day is an officer of the Government of India, an expert audit officer, who is in no way subordinate to us and whose business it is to pull us up if anything goes wrong I understand that that officer has already agreed to this project being part of the Barrage scheme, and I think, therefore, that there is no reason whatever why this House should fear that it is exceeding its powers. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale said that this is a legal question It does not appear to me to be a legal question at all; it is an audit question pure and simple, and if, as I say, the audit officer of the Government of India does not think that any mistake is being made, surely we may very well accept his opinion. One reason why I personally object to putting the scheme before the Government of India at this moment is that it means inevitable delay. I have not the smallest doubt whatever that the Government of India and the Secretary of State would sanction this scheme, in fact they must, on the report of our expert advisers, a report which is founded on the result of our experience of the last few years These floods come down Very few of the honourable members here have seen them, but I can assure them that these floods do come down, and when they do come down, they do cause irreparable havoc not only to those lands which my honourable friends say are not going to be cultivated but, what is perhaps even more important, to our canals This is just the point I want to put to the House. We have spent a lot of money on these canals. Are we prepared to run a very grave risk of their being spoiled and of our having to spend vast sums on repairs? We are expecting a considerably increased area to come under cultivation. I admit, of course, that we cannot say definitely that there will be so many thousand acres, but that is true of all projects, all estimates are approximate, but there is no doubt whatever and you may take this from me that there is no doubt whatever that there is going to be a very considerable and rapid increase of cultivation. Are we going to leave the zamindars to the mercy of these floods? I understand that my honourable friend Khan Bahadur Khuhro is quite prepared, from the security of his lands, to leave them to that risk. I do not know whether the separation of Dadu from the Larkana district has made him somewhat careless of the well being of the Johi zamindars.....

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

An Honourable MEMBER. He stays at Shahdadkot.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I do not think myself he will be very popular in that area if the people there hear what he has said today. The honourable member Khan Bahadur Khuhro may be prepared to take that risk, but Government are not prepared to take that risk. We do not think it is fair to sell lands to zamindars and then at the same time leave them to what we consider a very serious risk of having their lands ruined. That is the policy which, the House should know, we have always followed. When, unfortunately, two years ago we found that our bund system was not as good or as watertight as we hoped it was, we decided with the consent of this Council to make it as watertight as we could. The same thing applies to this area which is being dealt with by these bunds, and I do hope that the House will overlook any little irregularity if it can be called an irregularity I can assure honourable members that it has not been our intention to be disrespectful to the House. This scheme took a long time to prepare and as a matter of fact it is very fortunate that this session has come on or else I should have had to put up this demand much later—probably my honourable colleague Sir Ghulam Hussain would have had to put up this demand in the next session; he would doubtless have put it up much better than I have been able to do today. At the same time I do assure this House that there was no intention of disregarding their views in the matter, but this is a serious matter for some people, it is a matter of life and death, and even if any honourable member honestly believes that there is going to be no extension of cultivation in this area in the course of the next year or two—although I am quite sure he is wrong in that—nevertheless I would ask the House to remember that they have a very valuable property in these canals and it is up to us to do everything possible to prevent serious damage to them.

Sir, I move.

Question put, and agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT MOTION.

Rao Bahadur R. R KALE Sir, before we rise, I wish to bring to your notice that I have handed over to you a motion which no doubt will have to be disposed of tomorrow because it is a motion for adjournment and it relates to some matters which appear in the report of the Retrenchment Committee. The report was placed in our hands, as you, Sir, are aware, only yesterday and so I could not go through it and make up my mind I was not therefore able to hand over my motion to you this morning, but I did so later and therefore in the ordinary course of things it will come before you tomorrow morning. I do hope, therefore, that the Council will not be prorogued today but that we shall sit tomorrow, and if the necessary permission is granted, it will be placed before the House tomorrow and then it will go through its usual routine.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has admitted that, according to the Standing Orders and the Rules, the motion that he has placed in my hands ought to have been placed in my hands before I entered this hall this morning He placed it in my hands during the tea interval just before the Council sat again So, the procedure has not been complied with. That is one thing.

The second point is that I may inform the honourable member that I brought the question to the notice of the Honourable the Leader of the House, so that if Government were anxious or if they wanted to get the opinion, of the representatives of the country in this House, on the report of the Retrenchment Committee, placed in their hands yesterday, they (the Government) might take advantage of this session and request His Excellency to allow the Council to go on tomorrow. But I was informed in reply that that was not possible. Again, before the reply could be had from the Honourable the Leader of the House, I had the commission of His Excellency in my hands directing me to prorogue the Council It is therefore beyond my powers, when I have the commission of His Excellency in my hands to prorogue the Council today, to do anything else.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Sir, this is a matter that was not known either to us or to the other side until yesterday and even His Excellency the Governor, I take it, has not been informed of our desire. If it is so, and if His Excellency was not in possession of this desire of ours to have a discussion, it is evident that His Excellency thought that the business of this Council would in the ordinary course of things come to an end this evening and naturally he must have sent the message to which you, Sir, have referred, directing you to prorogue the Council. My point is that His Excellency might be informed of the change in the circumstances, and the difficulty might be met by appealing to His Excellency and getting His Excellency to reconsider the matter of the prorogation of the session today.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: His Excellency did not allot any day for private work.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE. That is another question. We are not claiming any day for private business at all. My motion is not to consider the report of the Retrenchment Committee, but it is a motion for the adjournment of the House to consider a particular point, namely, the note which is appended to the report by three members of the Retrenchment Committee, giving an opinion that the Educational Department, which was excluded from the cuts, should not be excluded but should be included in the cuts. That is the particular portion in the report which I want to take exception to, as I am afraid that Government do not yet know the opinion of this side of the House on the matter.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT. Order, order. I am concerned only with the motion which has been placed in my hands The honourable member must understand that until the Honourable the Leader of the House and Members representing Government here come to his help, I as President cannot help him at all, in the face of the prorogation order that I have in my hands. The legal question, whether an adjournment motion is part of private business, or it should be moved on any day when Government business is going on, is another point. When it is reached, it would be my business to decide it. If the Honourable the Leader of the House is not amenable to the request of the honourable member for Satara, I cannot help him

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I am not the member for Satara, but I am the member for the University.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Sorry.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: As I am the member for the University and because the question relates to education, I wanted an opportunity to discuss it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT The honourable member's request cannot be brought within the four corners of the Standing Orders. I must now proceed with the next step.

PROROGATION OF THE COUNCIL.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT. I have now to intimate to the House that I have received a Commission from His Excellency directing me to announce that he is pleased to order that the present session of the Legislative Council should be prorogued. Accordingly, by virtue of this Commission of His Excellency, I declare the Council prorogued until the date of which due notice shall be given This Council is now prorogued.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

APPENDIX 1.

BILL No. XLV OF 1931.

A Bill to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay.

(As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 7th November 1931.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for a succession duty in the Presidency of Bombay, And Whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by sub-section (3) of section 80A of the Government of India Act and the previous sanction of the Governor required by section 80C of the said Act have been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows :— 5 & 6 Geo V, c 61.

1 Short title.—This Act may be called the Bombay Succession Duty Act, 1931.

2. Extent.—This Act extends to the whole of the Presidency of Bombay.

3. Interpretation.—In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context—

(a) "Collector" includes any person appointed by the Governor in Council to exercise the powers and to perform the duties of a Collector under this Act;

(b) "Commissioner" includes any person appointed by the Governor in Council to exercise the powers and to perform the duties of a Commissioner under this Act;

(c) "District Judge"—

(i) in any place other than the City of Bombay includes a Joint Judge and an Assistant Judge exercising the full appellate powers of a District Judge, and

(ii) in the City of Bombay means the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay,

(d) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act, and

(e) "property" means immoveable property within the Presidency of Bombay, moveable property within or without the Presidency of Bombay, any interest in or income arising from such property as aforesaid (including a Hindu widow's interest under the Hindu Law), and an annuity.

4 Succession duty.—(1) Where a person residing within the Presidency of Bombay becomes entitled under a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship to any property in the Presidency of Bombay or to any moveable property without the Presidency of Bombay exceeding two thousand rupees in value, a duty called succession duty shall be leviable from such person on such property at the rate specified in Schedule I:

[Appendix 1—contd.]

Provided that

(a) where the person from whom the duty is leviable is a wife or husband of the deceased or a lineal ancestor or descendant of the deceased, or a wife or husband of such ancestor or descendant, the duty shall be leviable at one-tenth of such rate;

(b) where the person from whom the duty is leviable is a brother or sister of the deceased or a descendant of such brother or sister or a wife or husband of such brother or sister or a descendant of such brother or sister the duty shall be leviable at one-half of such rate,

(c) where the property on which the duty is leviable is agricultural land, the duty shall be leviable at one-fourth of the rate which would otherwise have been payable;

Cf. The Finance Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. V, c. 10, s. 15).

(d) where succession duty has been paid on land or a business (not being a business carried on by a company registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1913) or on any interest in or income from such land or business, and subsequently within five years of the first death succession duty again becomes payable on such land or business or interest or income, the amount of succession duty payable on the second death shall be reduced as follows — VII of 1913 where the second death occurs within one year of the first death, by fifty per cent, where the second death occurs after the expiry of one year but within two years of the first death, by forty per cent.,

where the second death occurs after the expiry of two years but within three years of the first death, by thirty per cent, where the second death occurs after the expiry of three years but within four years of the first death, by twenty per cent.,

and where the second death occurs after the expiry of four years but within five years of the first death, by ten per cent., and

(e) succession duty shall not be leviable on any property given upon trust or other legal obligation wholly for a religious or charitable purpose, and, in the case of property so given in part only for such a purpose, shall be leviable only on the part of the property not so given;

Explanation.—In this clause, "charitable purpose", includes relief of the poor, education, medical relief, and the advancement of any object of general public utility.

(f) if by reason of the birth of a son within a joint Hindu family the interests of any members thereof in the joint family property have been diminished after the passing of this Act, the said members shall not become liable for the payment of succession duty in consequence of any increase that may accrue to their interests in the said property by reason of the death of the same son within eighteen years of his birth and before the said members have separated from the family.

[Appendix I—contd.]

(2) If any property in the Presidency of Bombay has been transferred by sale or gift after the commencement of this Act and within six months of the death of the transferor, and the Collector is of opinion that such transfer was not a bona fide transfer for good and sufficient monetary consideration but was made in order to avoid the payment of succession duty, the said duty shall be leviable as if such transfer had not taken place and shall be payable by the transferee of such property at the rate specified in schedule I, if the value exceeds two thousand rupees.

5. Duty to be paid on the person becoming entitled in possession, but in the case of outstanding interests on the determination thereof.—The succession duty payable on property devolving under a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship shall be paid at the time when the person entitled thereto by such devolution becomes entitled in possession provided that, if there be any prior charge or interest upon or in the property not created by such person himself by reason whereof he is not at once entitled to the full enjoyment or value thereof, the succession duty in respect of the increased value accruing upon the determination of such prior charge or interest, if not previously paid or compounded or commuted, shall be paid at the time of the aforesaid determination. Cl. 16 & 17 Vict., c. 51, s. 20

6. Payment of succession duty by joint tenants.—Where after the commencement of this Act any persons become jointly entitled as joint tenants or coparceners to any property chargeable with succession duty, they shall pay the duty in proportion to their respective interests therein. Cl. 15 & 17 Vict., c. 51, s. 3

7. Non-residence.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 4, where any person residing without the Presidency of Bombay becomes entitled under a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship to property within the Presidency of Bombay, such property shall be liable to succession duty.

(2) Where any person ordinarily residing or carrying on business or personally working for gain in any place within the Presidency of Bombay becomes so entitled to any moveable property situated without the Presidency of Bombay which if situated in the Presidency of Bombay would be chargeable with succession duty, and if the Collector is satisfied that the said property was acquired in the Presidency of Bombay and was removed to a place outside the said Presidency for the purpose of evading the payment of the duty, succession duty shall be leviable from such person as if the property were situated within the Presidency of Bombay.

8. Disposition of property made for evading duty.—(1) Where any disposition of property purports to be a transfer of the property inter vivos but does not in fact transfer the beneficial ownership of the property owing to the operation of an engagement or arrangement or secret trust, Cl. 16 & 17 Vict., c. 51, s. 8.

[Appendix 1—contd]

capable of being enforced in a court of law, by which the property shall in fact devolve upon a certain person only upon the occurrence of a death or at some period ascertainable only by reference to a death, then such person shall be deemed to become entitled to the property as if under a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship, as the case may be, and not by a transfer inter vivos

(2) In any case falling under sub-section (1) of this section or under sub-section (2) of section 4 it shall be lawful for the Collector to pass such order as he may think just with reference to the time at which and the extent to which the property in question shall be deemed to have devolved.

(3) Any person affected by an order passed under sub-section (2) may appeal against such order to the District Judge at any time within thirty days from the date thereof:

Provided that the District Judge may take into consideration an appeal presented after the said period of thirty days if he is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not presenting it within the said period and that any subsequent delay has not been unreasonable

Cf 16 & 17 Vict, c 51, s 14

9 One duty only on transmitted property—Where the interest of any person in any property passes by reason of his death to any other person or persons before he becomes entitled thereto in possession, then one duty only shall be leviable in respect of such interest, and shall be due from the person who first becomes entitled thereto in possession but such duty shall be leviable at the highest rate at which it would have been payable by any one of the persons mentioned in this section if every one of them had been liable to pay it

Illustration—A is entitled to a reversion on the death of B, and C is entitled to a reversion in the same property on the death of A. If A dies before B, no duty is payable on A's death If B is himself a reversioner not yet entitled in possession at the time of A's death, duty will be paid by B or C (according to which first becomes entitled in possession) on the death of B's predecessor.

Ibid s 15

10 Duty if property alienated—If any property becomes vested in any person after the commencement of this Act by any title other than one derived from a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship before another person entitled thereto under a will or by inheritance or succession or survivorship becomes entitled in possession, then the succession duty payable in respect thereof shall be paid at the same rate and at the same time as it would have been payable if such other person had become entitled thereto in possession

Illustration.—If A is entitled to a reversion on the death of B and sells that reversion in the life-time of B, the purchaser is liable to pay the succession duty on the death of B which otherwise A would have had to pay.

[Appendix 1—contd].

11. Exemption of interest surrendered or extinguished.—No person shall be charged with succession duty under this Act in respect of any interest surrendered by him or extinguished. Cl. 16 & 17 Vict., c. 51, s. 18.

12. Return of duty paid by mistake.—If a person by whom succession duty is payable has obtained a part only of the property liable to the payment of duty at the time when the duty becomes payable, he shall be required to pay duty only on the value of the property from time to time obtained by him; and whenever duty has been paid and it is afterwards proved to the satisfaction of the Collector that the duty or a part thereof was paid by mistake, or that the person paying the duty has been unable to obtain the property in question or has been evicted therefrom or deprived thereof by superior title, or that for other good cause the duty or a part thereof ought to be refunded, then the Collector shall refund the said duty or part thereof to the person entitled to receive it. Ibid s. 37.

13. Allowance in respect of relinquished property.—When the taking of any property chargeable with succession duty involves the relinquishment or deprivation of any other property, the Collector shall compute the assessable value of such other property and shall make such allowance in respect thereof as may be just. Ibid s. 38.

14. Power of Collector to compound succession duty.—When the Collector is of opinion that the value of any property chargeable with succession duty cannot be ascertained with reasonable accuracy, or that for other good reason it is desirable that the duty payable thereon should be compounded, it shall be lawful for him to compound the duty upon such terms as he may think fit and to give a discharge to the person liable upon payment of the duty according to such composition; and it shall further be lawful for him in any special case to enlarge the time for payment of the duty. Ibid s. 39.

15. Duty to be a first charge on property.—Succession duty shall be a first charge on the property chargeable therewith and a debt due to Government from the person entitled to such property, and shall have priority over all charges and interests created by him upon or in such property; but it shall not charge or affect any other property. Ibid s. 42.

16. Trustees, etc., personally accountable for succession duty.—(1) Besides the person becoming entitled to any property chargeable with succession duty under this Act, the following persons shall be personally accountable to Government for the duty payable in respect of such property, but to the extent only of the property actually received or disposed of by them after the commencement of this Act; that is to say, every executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, committee, or member of a Hindu joint family in whom such property or the management of such property is vested, and every person in whom such property has already vested by alienation or other derivative title at the time of the property becoming an interest in possession. Ibid s. 44.

(2) All such persons shall be authorised to compound or pay in advance or commute any duty and to retain out of the property the amount of the duty so compounded or paid in advance or commuted or to raise such amount and the expenses incidental thereto at interest on the security of the property, with power to give effectual discharges therefor to the transferee (if any), and such security shall have priority over any charge or incumbrance created by the person entitled to such property

[Appendix 1—contd]

(3) In the event of non-payment of the duty every person hereby made accountable shall be a debtor to Government in the amount unpaid in proportion to his accountability.

17. Person becoming liable to succession duty to report—(1) Every person who claims or receives or takes possession of property liable to succession duty or is accountable for such duty shall report the fact within three months of such property becoming so liable to the Collector of the district in which the said property or any part thereof is situated, or, if such property is moveable property situated in any place outside the Presidency of Bombay, then to the Collector of the district in which he ordinarily resides or carries on business or personally works for gain.

(2) The report shall be in the form contained in Schedule II and shall be verified in the manner prescribed in that form

Cf s 23 of XI of 1922.

18. Determination of a sum payable as succession duty—(1) If the Collector is satisfied that a report made under section 17 is correct and complete, he shall determine the sum payable as succession duty and the person liable therefor on the basis of the report.

(2) If the Collector has reason to believe that a report made under section 17 is incorrect or incomplete, he shall serve on the person who made the report a notice requiring him, on a date to be therein specified, either to attend at his office or to furnish evidence in support of his report.

(3) On the day specified in the notice issued under sub-section (2) or as soon afterwards as may be, the Collector shall hear the evidence and by an order in writing determine the sum payable as succession duty and the person by whom it shall be paid

(4) If any person fails to comply with all the terms of a notice issued under sub-section (2), the Collector shall determine to the best of his judgment the sum payable and the person by whom it shall be paid

(5) Notwithstanding anything herein contained, if the Collector is of opinion that difficult questions of law are involved in the determination of any particular case, he may refer the case for determination to the District Judge instead of determining it himself and thereupon the provisions of section 23 shall apply.

Cf s 27 ibid

19 Re-determination of sum payable on cause shown—If within one month from the service of a notice of demand issued as hereinafter provided, a person satisfies the Collector that he did not receive a notice issued under sub-section (2) of section 18 or that he was prevented by sufficient cause from complying with the terms of the notice, the Collector shall re-determine the question in accordance with the provisions of section 18.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

20. Penalty for omission to report, etc.—If the Collector is satisfied that a person liable to pay succession duty has omitted to report or has wilfully undervalued the property on which succession duty is payable, he may order that such person shall pay by way of penalty a sum not exceeding the amount of succession duty payable by him: Cf. s. 28 of XI of 1922.

Provided that no such order shall be made unless such person has been heard or has been given a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

21. Notice of demand.—(1) When the Collector has determined the sum payable by a person as succession duty under section 18 or section 19, or when an order has been passed under section 20 for the payment by a person of a penalty, the Collector shall serve on such person a notice of demand in the form prescribed in Schedule III, specifying the sum payable. Cf. s. 29 ibid.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), if there is a dispute as to the succession and the parties to the dispute satisfy the Collector that they have submitted or intend forthwith to submit the dispute to the decision of a civil court the Collector shall have power to permit the payment of the sum determined by him (together with interest thereon at six per cent. from the date of the said determination) to await the decision of the civil court.

22. Appeal.—(1) Any person objecting to the sum determined under section 18 or denying his liability to pay succession duty or objecting to a refusal of the Collector to re-determine the sum payable under section 19 or to any order made against him under section 20 may apply in that behalf to the District Judge of the district in which the property liable to succession duty or any part thereof is situated, or, if such property is moveable property situated outside the Presidency of Bombay then to the District Judge of the district in which such person ordinarily resides or carries on business or personally works for gain: Cf. s. 30 ibid.

Provided that no application shall lie in respect of a determination made under sub-section (4) of section 18 or under that sub-section read with section 19.

(2) The application shall ordinarily be presented within a period of thirty days from the date of receipt of the notice of demand relating to the determination or penalty objected to or from the date of the refusal to re-determine the sum payable under section 19, as the case may be; but the District Judge may admit an application after the expiration of the said period if he is satisfied that the applicant had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period and that any subsequent delay has not been unreasonable.

23. Hearing of application.—(1) The District Judge shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the application and issue notice to the Collector to that effect and may from time to time adjourn the hearing. Cf. s. 31 ibid.

(2) Before disposing of any application the District Judge may make such further inquiry as he thinks fit or may cause further inquiry to be made by the Collector.

[Appendix 1—contd]

(3) In disposing of an application the District Judge, in the case of a determination of a sum payable as succession duty, may—

(a) confirm or annul the determination or reduce the sum determined as payable, or

(b) set aside the determination and direct the Collector to make a fresh determination after such inquiry as the Collector thinks fit or the District Judge may direct, or, in the case of an order under section 20, may confirm, cancel or vary such order, or, in the case of a determination of the person liable to pay succession duty, may confirm or vary such order of determination.

(4) If the District Judge confirms the determination of the Collector, he shall direct that interest on the sum determined by the Collector be paid by the applicant at the rate of six per cent from the date given for payment in the notice of demand.

24. Decision of Collector or District Judge final.—(1) Except as provided in sections 22 and 23 the decision of the Collector shall be final and conclusive as regards the determination of the sum payable as succession duty or of the person by whom it shall be paid.

(2) Any decision given by the District Judge under section 23 shall be final and conclusive.

(3) The sum so finally determined as payable by any person shall be the sum payable as succession duty by such person.

Cf. s 34 of XI of 1922

25 Procedure where sum payable escapes determination.—If there has been no determination of the sum payable as succession duty in respect of any property or part thereof by any person liable to pay such duty owing to inadvertence or mistake or to the failure of such person to make a report under section 17, the Collector, at any time within two years from the date on which such person became prima facie liable to pay duty, may serve on him a notice requiring him to make a report of the nature described in section 17 within such period (not being less than thirty days) as may be prescribed in the notice, and shall then proceed to determine or re-determine the sum payable and the person by whom it shall be paid; and the provisions of this Act shall, as far as may be, apply accordingly

Cf. s 40 ibid

26 Minors, lunatics and idiots.—If the person liable to pay succession duty is a minor or a lunatic or an idiot, the duty shall be levied upon and recoverable from his guardian in like manner as it would be leviable upon and recoverable from such minor or lunatic or idiot if he were of full age or sound mind; and all the provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly.

27 Saving of double payments.—(1) No person shall be liable to pay succession duty on any property in respect of which he has paid in the Presidency of Bombay a fee at the rate shown in column 3 of Article 11 of Schedule I to the Court-fees Act, 1870, as amended by the Court-fees (Bombay Amendment) Act, 1931, for a probate of a will or letters of administration; nor shall he be liable to pay such fee in respect of any property on which he has paid succession duty, except in so far as such fee is payable in the High Court.

VII of 1870 Bom. I of 1931.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

(2) If any person has paid succession duty on account of any property and is afterwards required to pay court-fee in the High Court of Bombay for the probate of a will or letters of administration in respect of the same property, the Collector, on application made by him in this behalf, shall refund to him the succession duty paid by him or an amount equal to the amount of court-fee paid by him, whichever is the less.

28. Succession duty when payable.—Any sum specified as payable in a notice of demand under section 21 or an order under section 23 shall be paid within the time and at the place and to the person mentioned in the notice or order, or, if no time is mentioned, then on or before the first day of the second month following the date of the service of such notice or order; and any person served with such notice or order who fails so to pay shall be deemed to be in default provided that, when an application has been made to the District Judge under section 22, the Collector shall treat the applicant as not being in default so long as the application is undecided Cl. s. 45 of XI of 1922

29. Mode of recovery.—(1) When any person is in default the Collector may in his discretion direct that in addition to the sum in default, interest at a rate not exceeding twenty-four per cent. from the date of the default shall be recovered from him by way of penalty. Cl. s. 46 ibid.

(2) The Collector may recover from any person any sum payable under section 28 or sub-section (1) either as an arrear of land revenue or through a civil court

30. Powers of Collector and District Judge.—(1) For the purposes of this Act the Collector and the District Judge shall have and may exercise the following powers, that is to say:—

V of 1908. (i) such powers as are vested in a court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, when trying a suit, in respect of the following matters, namely,—

(a) enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath or affirmation;

(b) compelling the production of documents;

(c) issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses,

(ii) to require any person to furnish a return giving details of the property to which he has become entitled after the commencement of this Act, with such other information relating to such property as the Collector or the District Judge may require;

(iii) to inspect any books of accounts or other documents in the possession of any person and to take copies thereof or extracts therefrom; and

(iv) to require any person whom he has reason to believe to be a trustee or guardian to furnish a return of the names of the persons for or of whom he is trustee or guardian and of their addresses.

[Appendix I—contd.]

(2) The District Judge shall also have power to direct by whom the whole or any part of the costs of any inquiry into an application under section 22 shall be paid. Such costs shall be recoverable as if they had been awarded in a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. V of 1908

Cf s 61 of XI of 1922

31 Appearance by authorised representative—Any person entitled or required to attend before the Collector or District Judge in connection with any proceedings under this Act may attend in person or by a duly qualified legal practitioner or by a person holding a power of attorney in this behalf.

Cf 16 & 17 Vict, c 51, s 52

32. Protection to bona fide purchasers—Every receipt purporting to be in discharge of the whole duty payable for the time being in respect of any property or part thereof shall exonerate from any liability to pay duty on that property or part thereof a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration and without notice, notwithstanding any suppression or misstatement in the account upon the footing whereof the duty may have been assessed, or any insufficiency of such assessment, and no bona fide purchaser of property for valuable consideration under a title not appearing to transfer property chargeable with succession duty shall be subject to any duty with which such property may in fact be chargeable under the provisions of this Act by reason of extrinsic circumstances if at the time of his purchase he did not have notice of the said circumstances

Cf s. 62 of XI of 1922

33 Receipts to be given—A receipt shall be given for any money paid or recovered under this Act

Cf s 63 of XI of 1922

34 Service of notices—A notice or requisition under this Act may be served on the person therein named either by post or as if it were a summons issued by a court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. V of 1908

Cf 16 & 17 Vict, c 51, s 53

35. Court in suits for administration of property to provide for payment of succession duty—When any suit is pending in any court for the administration of property chargeable with duty under this Act, the court shall provide for the payment of succession duty to the Collector out of any property which may be in the possession or under the control of the court

Cf s 67 of XI of 1922

36. Bar of suits in civil courts—No suit shall be brought in any civil court to set aside or modify any determination or re-determination of a sum made payable under this Act or any order imposing a penalty, and no prosecution or suit or other proceeding shall lie against any Government officer for anything in good faith done or intended to be done under this Act.

Cf s. 59 of XI of 1922

37. Power to make rules—(1) The Governor in Council may make rules consistent with this Act for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and such rules may be made for the whole of the Presidency of Bombay or for such part thereof as may be specified

[Appendix I—contd.]

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) prescribe the nature of interests in property in respect of which succession duty is to be paid,

(b) prescribe the method of valuing property and interests therein for succession duty;

(c) regulate the composition, commutation, and refund of succession duty;

(d) provide for the delegation of all or any of the Collector's powers and duties under this Act, and

(e) provide for any other matter relating to the assessment, collection, and recovery of succession duty for which no provision is made in this Act and for which in the opinion of the Governor in Council provision is necessary

(3) Such rules shall be published in the Bombay Government Gazette

(4) Such rules shall be laid on the table of the Bombay Legislative Council for one month before the next session thereof and shall be liable to be rescinded or modified by a vote of the said Council If any rule is modified the Governor in Council may either accept the modification and reissue the rules accordingly or rescind the rule.

SCHEDULE I.

[See section 4 (1).]

Rates of Succession Duty.

When the aggregate amount or value of the property, income or interest in respect of which succession duty is payable exceeds two thousand rupees, on the part of the amount or value in excess of two thousand rupees, up to ten thousand rupees	.. Two per centum.
When such amount or value exceeds ten thousand rupees, on the part of the amount or value in excess of ten thousand rupees, up to fifty thousand rupees	. Three per centum.
When such amount or value exceeds fifty thousand rupees on the part of the amount or value in excess of fifty thousand rupees, up to one lakh of rupees	.. Four per centum.
When such amount or value exceeds one lakh of rupees, on the part of the amount or value in excess of one lakh of rupees	.. Five per centum.

[Appendix 1—contd]

SCHEDULE II.

[See section 17]

FORM OF REPORT TO BE MADE TO THE COLLECTOR

To .

The Collector of . . . . . , .

I. . . . . A B . . . . residing at . . . . . in . . . . . .hereby make this report as required by section 17 of the Bombay Succession Duty Act, 193 , that I $\frac{\text{*claim to be entitled to}}{\text{have received}}$ / $\frac{}{\text{have taken possession of}}$ the $\frac{\text{*moveable}}{\text{immoveable}}$ property described below.

2. The property is situated at . . within the . . . . . and $\frac{\text{*is in the possession of}}{\text{has come into my possession}}$ . . residing at. . . . . from the . . . . . day of 193

3. The total amount or value of the abovementioned property is approximately Rs . . . . . $\frac{\text{moveable Rs.}}{\text{immoveable Rs.}}$

†4. Out of the property mentioned above, I have paid court-fee of Rs . . for $\frac{\text{a probate of the will of . . .}}{\text{letters of administration}}$ in respect of the following —

(Here describe the property in question)

†5 I hereto attach a certificate from the Court of . in proof of the payment of the abovementioned court-fee

(Sd.) A B

I hereby solemnly affirm that what is stated in paragraphs of the above report is true to the best of my information and that the statement in paragraphs. . . thereof is true to the best of my knowledge and belief

Solemnly affirmed at . . this . . . . day of. . . . . .

(Sd.) A. B.

‡(Description of the property)

---

*Portions which are unnecessary should be struck off.

†Omit paragraphs 4 and 5 where unnecessary.

‡Moveable and immoveable property should be separately described in full so as to admit of identification of the same (1) in the case of moveable property by stating its amount or value, and (2) in the case of immoveable property by reference to its survey numbers, area, boundaries and assessment where possible.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

SCHEDULE III.

[See section 21 (1).]

FORM OF NOTICE OF DEMAND.

To

A. B. residing at .....

Take notice that I ..... hereby demand from ..... the sum of Rs ..... due from ..... as succession duty determined as payable under section 18/19* and *Rs ..... by way of penalty under section 20, in respect of (Here describe the property in respect of which the succession duty or penalty is demanded).

2 If you have any objection to urge against the sum determined is payable by you under section 18 or if you deny your liability to pay the succession duty or have any objection to urge against the refusal of the Collector to re-determine the sum payable under section 19 or to any order made against you under section 20, you may apply to the District Judge of ..... within 30 days from the date of receipt of this notice

3 If however no such application is made within the period aforesaid or the sum demanded is not paid within ..... at the office of ..... you will be liable to pay in addition to the above sum of Rs ..... interest on the same at the rate of ..... per cent from the date of default by way of penalty and the whole amount will be liable to be recovered from you either as an arrear of land revenue or through the civil court.

Date.

(Sd.) .....

Collector.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to provide for a succession duty on certain classes of property devolving by inheritance or succession or survivorship or under a will The property chargeable includes all immoveable property within the Presidency, all moveable property within or without the Presidency, any interest or income arising from such property, and annuities The Bill affects all classes, including the Hindu joint family, but provides for certain exemptions or concessions to close relatives or in the case of agricultural land or trust property, and the first two thousand rupees of the value of the property are exempted from the duty. When court-fee for probate or letters of administration has been paid, the property will be pro tanto exempt from duty. Similarly

* Portions which are unnecessary should be struck off.

[Appendix 1—concld.]

court-fee will not be payable if succession duty has been paid Details as regards the method of collection and the determination of the sum to be paid (together with the procedure for appeals) are provided for in the Bill or are left to be supplemented by rules which will be subject to the approval of the Legislative Council

(Signed) G B PRADHAN.

APPENDIX 2.

Statement of demand for a supplementary grant.

RESERVED No 1. The Honourable Mr W F HUDSON

Construction of works in connection with the Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind

When the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Project was submitted to the Government of India in 1920, a project was also prepared to protect a very large area of land commanded by the Right Bank Canals system, which in the absence of the Protective Bund Scheme would be flooded by hill torrents from the Khirtar Range of hills from the west and the north of the area and from the overflow of the Manchar Lake The scheme consisted of —

(a) the Manchar Drain and Regulator Scheme, and

(b) the Flood Protective Bund Scheme.

While submitting the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Project to the Secretary of State, the Government of India, while admitting that both schemes (a) and (b) above would be necessary to safeguard the Right Bank Canals area against floods before the development of cultivation that was expected could be secured provided for only scheme (a) in the estimates for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Project as they considered it to be immediately necessary. The Government of India stated at the same time that scheme (b) required further consideration and that they anticipated that it would be effected later on as a separate project

As a result of further investigations, it has been found that the Manchar Drainage Scheme and the Flood Protective Bund Scheme are interdependent, as one scheme is useless without the other Further, if the Flood Protective Bund Scheme is not carried out, no appreciable development can occur in an area measuring over 1,000 square miles commanded by the Right Bank Canals The Right Bank area is exposed to risks from floods which are disastrous in the absence of the Flood Protective Bund. The floods in the past have not caused very great losses because the country affected by them is not at present so heavily settled as it is hoped that it will be in a few years when settled irrigation is provided. But similar floods coming in the future might be not only distressing, as they were in the past, but really disastrous owing to the damage and loss which they could cause in the absence of the Flood Protective Bund.

[Appendix 2—contd]

A project for the Flood Protective Bund Scheme has therefore been prepared and it amounts to Rs 84 83 lakhs including direct and indirect charges Of this amount, Rs. 70·42 lakhs is the cost of I-Works only. The project comprises chiefly the following items·

(i) the construction of a continuous Flood Protective Bund, 156 miles long, commencing from the Manchar Lake and running along the western irrigation boundary of the Right Bank Canals area. The right banks of the Johi and the Khirtar branches will form a common bank with this bund in its length from miles 10 to 39, and 122 to 156 respectively

(ii) the widening of the main Nara valley drain.

(iii) the diversion of the Gaj Nai

The hill torrents affecting the command of the North-Western Canal will strike this Bund at various points in its length, from mile 156 to 101 and will then pass into a low natural depression north of Mirzokhan (mile 69 of the Flood Protective Bund). The hill torrents affecting the command of the Rice Canal and the Dadu Canal systems will strike the Flood Protective Bund at different points in its length from mile 69 to 0 and they will be diverted to the Manchar Lake outside the bund

In view, however, of the present financial stringency, the full scheme has become impracticable to finance and accordingly the essential items detailed below have been selected for immediate completion as they are absolutely necessary in the interests of the main project, viz., the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Project. These are·—

Description of works	Approximate cost for I-Works (In lakhs of Rs)
(a) The completion of the Flood Protective Bund from the Manchar Containing Bank to the point where it leaves the Johi Branch (mile 40 of the bund) . .	12·00
(b) A continuation of the bund from the latter point up to the Western Nara Bank along the right bank of the Johi branch	0·50
(c) The strengthening and maintenance of the right bank of the Western Nara from this point up to mile 72 of the Western Nara (head of Mahashar Wah)
(d) The widening of the main drain from the point where it cuts the Western Nara Bank (mile 45 5 of the drain down to the Manchar) ..	13 00

[Appendix 2—contd.]

Description of works	Approximate cost for I-Works. (In lakhs of Rs.)
(e) The strengthening of the Nawab Gaibi Khan's Bund which is to be used for the complete Flood Protective Bund Scheme eventually (i.e mile 89 6 to mile 96 6)
(f) The construction of the Flood Protective Bund from mile 96 9 to 155 8	8·11
(g) The construction of the sluice at mile 100·8 where the Behram Hathion Valley Drain will pass through the Flood Protective Bund .
(h) The diversion of the Gaj Nai	5·50
Total ..	39 11 lakhs.

If the works (a) to (h) mentioned above are not carried out, the probable loss in cultivation and revenue will, on a conservative basis, be as shown below —

Year.	Probable loss of cultivation in Acres	Probable loss of revenue in Rs.
1932-33 ..	50,000	2,25,000
1933-34 .	66,000	2,97,000
1934-35	91,000	4,09,500
1935-36	107,000	4,81,500
1936-37	118,000	5,31,000
1937-38	129,000	5,80,000
1938-39 ..	137,000	6,16,500
1939-40 .. .	145,000	6,52,500
1940-41 . .	150,000	6,75,000
1941-42 . .	155,000	6,97,500

In addition to this loss, much damage would be caused to the canals already constructed and this would be to the extent of some Rs 70 lakhs. The Johi Branch ex the Dadu Canal cannot work without the Flood Protective Bund Scheme and as about 40 per cent of the discharge of the Dadu Canal will be utilised by the Johi Branch, it means that the construction of the whole of the Dadu Canal system might well have been omitted in the absence of this scheme.

The construction of the remaining length of the Flood Protective Bund, i e., from miles 40 to 89 6 as also the construction of the main drain from miles 45½ to its head will be postponed for the present The losses that will be caused by the floods in this area will not be unimportant but it is necessary to take the risk for this minor area in view of the prevailing financial stringency.

Government are convinced of the necessity of the construction of the Flood Protective Bund Scheme in the interests of the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction works, as the scheme is directly concerned with the cultivation of the area commanded by the Right Bank Canals The Flood Protective Bund Scheme has therefore been combined with the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Scheme and has been treated as a part of the latter scheme. As such, the Flood Protective Bund Scheme is a legitimate charge on the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Project under the head "Protective and Drainage Works". The extra expenditure of Rs 39·11 lakhs will not, it is anticipated, lead to any excess over the figure of Rs. 20·03 crores sanctioned for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Scheme

[Appendix 2—concld]

The amount required for expenditure in the current financial year is Rs 6·11 lakhs and it will be met from the current year's voted grant for I-Works for the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Project. As, however, the work has not been specifically provided for in the sanctioned project, the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the demand for a grant of a token sum of Rs 10

Demand voted and now increased.

55-Construction of Irrigation Works—Reserved—Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction.

Rs. 2,65,31,010 + Rs. 10.

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 28th November 1931.

MO Hb 144—2

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

INDEX

A

PAGES

Achrekar, Mr. A B.—
Questions 12

Acts—
Acts assented to by Governor General, List of, ... 12
Adjournment Motion on Retrenchment Committee's Report (not allowed) 171–73
Agenda for the fourth session of 1931 1–7

Allahbaksh, Khan Bahadur—
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re 167 68

Allison, Mr. F. W.—
Oath of office 11

Angadi, Rao Bahadur S. N.—
Questions 84
Appendices 174–90

Asavale, Rao Bahadur R. S.—
Chairman of Council, nominated a, ... 11

B

Bakhale, Mr. R. R.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 55–56
Questions 85–87

Baloch, Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed—
Questions 13–20
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re 153–60

Bangi, Mr. A. J.—
Questions 25–26

Bills—
Succession Duty Bill (No XLV of 1931)—
First reading (rejected) 45–61, 129–52

Bole, Rao Bahadur S. K.—
Questions 87

Bullocke, Mr. A. Greville—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 80–81

C

Chairmen of Council, nomination of 11

Chikodi, Mr. P. R.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 54

C—contd.

PAGES

Chitale, Rao Bahadur G. K.—
Chairman of Council, nominated a, ... 11
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re . 156–60

Collaco, Dr. J. A.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 53

Cooper, Khan Bahadur D. B.—
Questions 26-27, 122

D

Deputy President, the—
Cut in salary of, announcement re 45

D'Souza, Dr. J. Alban—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 54, 61–65

Division on—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill (first reading) . . 151-52

Dixit, Dr. M. K.—
Questions 88

G

Gangoli, Mr. G. S.—
Oath of office 11

Ghulam Hyder Shah, Mr.—
Questions 45

Gokhale, Mr. L. R.—
Questions 27, 88–90

Gover Rora, Mr.—
Questions 27–29

Governor, H. E. the, address of, to the Council . . 20–25

H

Haddow, Mr. R. R.—
Oath of office 11

Hudson, the Hon. Mr. W. F.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 56–61
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re 153, 158, 162, 163, 169–71

Humphrey, Mr. J —
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 79–80

J

Jayakar, Mr. M. S.—
Oath of office 11

Jitekar, Mr. Haji Ibrahim—
Chairman of Council, nominated a, ... 11

K

PAGES

Kadri, Mr. J. S.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 145-47
Questions 29, 90-92

Kale, Rao Bahadur R. R.—
Adjournment motion on Retrenchment Committee's Report .. 171-72, 173
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 54
Questions 29
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re 168-69

Kamat, Mr. B. S —
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 136-145

Kanga, Sir Jamshedji B.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 131-36, 143
Oath of office 11

Karbhari, Mr. M. M —
Chairman of Council, nominated a, . . 11
Questions . . 31, 92-94

Khuhro, Khan Bahadur M. A.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 53
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re .. 163-65

Kirke-Smith, Mr. A.—
Oath of office 11

Kulkarni, Rao Saheb P. D.—
Questions 94

L

Lane, Mr. C. M.—
Oath of office 11
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re 165-67

Lely, Mr. W. G.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 129-31

M

Mackie, Mr. A. W. W.—
Oath of office 11

Maxwell, Mr. R. M.—
Oath of office 11

Mitchell, Mr. H. C. B.—
Oath of office 84

More, Mr. J. G.—
Questions 32, 94

O

Owen, Mr. A. C.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 70-71

P.

PAGES

Patel, Khan Bahadur A. E.—
Questions . 127

Patil, Rao Bahadur D. R.—
Questions 33

Patil, Mr. N. N.—
Questions . . 95

Perry, Mr. E. W.—
Oath of office 11

Petit, Mr. J. B —
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 74–79

Pradhan, the Hon. Sir Govindrao—
Adjournment motion on Retrenchment Committee's Report . 172
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill . 45–52, 53, 54 55, 143, 147–51

President, the Honourable the—
Cut in salary of, announcement re . . 25
Rulings of—
Prorogation—
When once the Commission from H. E directing the prorogation of the Council is in the hands of the President, he cannot adjourn the House to the next day for considering any other business . 172-73
Unparliamentary expressions—
The expression "frivolous attitude" is unparliamentary . 131

Prorogation of Council 173

Q

Question regarding—
Aden Administration . Proposed transfer 103
Agricultural population of Presidency, proportion of literates to illiterates 42
American cotton futures' rates, publication in newspapers, stoppage by Government, to prevent gambling 33
Arabic and Persian manuscripts, collection and publication 25
Assistant masters, increments of salary 29
B J Medical School, Poona, representation by students re inconvenience in hostel 89
Board of Industries, formation of, Indian Industrial Commission's recommendation regarding, Government action on 26
Bombay—
Hon. Presidency Magistrate's Courts, fines recovered by, 115
Hospitals, Lay Secretary, qualifications, pay, work etc., of, 119
Suburban District, building regulations, abolition of dual control of, 31
Central Division—
Muslim mamlatdars 96
Sheristedars to District Judges, number of Brahmins, non-Brahmins, and Mahomedans 33
Chitnises and Head Clerks, number of Brahmins and of non-Brahmins, excluding certain communities 114
Conservator of Forests, Northern Division, standing orders regarding enforcement of clause 3 of rules under section 41 of Forest Act 38
Council resolutions during February-March 1931 session, Government action on, 114
Criminal Tribes Settlement, inmates employed on railway, compulsory resignations from railway union 85
Director of Public Instruction's Office staff, gazetted and non-gazetted, castes of, ... 43

PAGES

Question regarding—contd
East India Cotton Association, number of agriculturists' representatives on executive body of, 43
Examinations, annual, of schools and colleges in hot season, inconvenience to students 127
Excise inspectors with university qualifications, number of 122
Excise superintendents, number recruited direct during 1920–30, qualifications, pay, etc , of, 122
Flood relief, circumstances which entitle subjects to, 102
Godhra, Telang High School, admission of Musalmans 91
Government—
Offices, Poona, rented premises for, expenditure on, 88
Trees in malki lands, sale of rights to khatedars names of districts and year of Government orders 44
Gujarat—
College, Assistant Professor of Persian, qualifications of, 20
Revenue Department, Indians in 92
Head clerks and chitnises, number of Brahmins and of non Brahmins excluding certain communities .. 114
Kakeri, Rao Saheb, Deputy Superintendent of Police, remarks against, by Sessions Judge and High Court in Satta Bribery case, Government action on, 84
Karachi—
City municipal administration, articles in Al Wahid, enquiries by Government, result of 13
Civil hospital, milk and butter supply 17, 113
District, cattle lifting, preventive measures 36, 45
Karmala subordinate judge's court, removal to Madha 32
Kolaba District, watandar kulkarnis, remuneration according to Wingate scale, reasons for non grant of, 95
Larkana district, police stations and outposts newly opened, and number and religion of recruits 41
M. & S. M. Railway Union, compulsory resignation of members of criminal tribes settlement from, 85
Mulla schools, allotment for assistant teachers 99
Municipal vaccinators, expenditure on, and administrative control of, 39
Nasik—
Civil courts, typing funds, total amounts of, 43
District, Judicial Department, number of Brahmins, non-Brahmins and Mahomedans .. 34
District, land revenue collections and remissions during 1930-31 116
District, primary schools, number of, opened since transfer of control in villages with population of 500 and over 115
Northern Division, Deputy Educational Inspector for Urdu schools' post, reasons for keeping vacant for 4 months 90
Persian and Arabic manuscripts, collection and publication 25
Poona—
District Local Board, primary schools, datum line of expenditure 94
Government offices, rented premises, expenditure for, .. 88
Race Course, renewal of temporary liquor license 40
Primary school teachers, vernacular third year trained, increment of pay .. 88
Railway police inspector (European), cheating by preferring false travelling allowance bills in 1930, Government action regarding 20
Ratnagiri, pier at, construction of, steps regarding .. 87, 117
Satara Collectorate, scheduled posts, castes of holders of, 12
Secretariat appointment of superintendents and senior assistants, formation of one cadre for all departments .. 115
Sholapur—
District Judge's Court, shirastedar, transfer of, 94
Mills, bajri allowance to textile workers 86
Mills, strike of textile workers 86
Sind—
Municipalities: total population, Hindu and Mahomedan population and Hindu and Mahomedan elected and nominated members .. 40

Q—concld.

PAGES

Question regarding—concld
Sind—contd
Police inspectors, sub-inspectors and sergeants; number of Indians and Europeans . . . 27
Railway police inspector (European), cheating by preferring false travelling allowance bills in 1930, Government action on, . 29
Small Cause Court Judges' posts, non-appointment of sub-judges, reasons for, . 27
Sub-judges' appointments in 1928–30, number of Mahomedans .. 26
Sukkur district, police stations and outposts newly opened, number and religions of recruits . . 41
Thana District: Injali trees on Gurcharan woodland plots, cutting of, ... 92
Upper Sind Frontier District, police stations newly opened, number and religion of recruits . . 41
Urdu knowing mistresses, dearth of, .. . 91
Village establishment, Hindu and Mahomedan . . 96
Water-supply, drainage and boring expenditure during 1928–30 in Presidency proper and Sind, statistics re 16
West Khandesh District, Revenue Department, number of Muslims . 35

R

Rafiuddin Ahmad, the Honourable Moulvi—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 65-66

Retrenchment Committee's Report—
Proposed adjournment motion 171–73

Roose, Mr. F. O. J.—
Oath of office 11

S

Shaikh Abdul Aziz, Mr.—
Questions 33–36, 96

Shaikh Abdul Majid, Mr.—
Questions 36–38, 96–102

Shankarrao Jayaramrao Zunzarrao, Mr.—
Questions 38–40

Solanki, Dr. P. G.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 56, 71–73

Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re . . 153–71

Surve, Mr. A. N.—
Questions 40, 102–12
Supplementary Grant—
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re 161–63

Swearing in of new members 11, 84

Syed Munawar, Mr.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill 73-74

T

Tolani, Mr. S. S.—
Questions 40–42, 113

V

PAGES

Vandekar, Rao Saheb R V.—
Questions 42–44, 114–17

W

Wadke, Mr. B. P.—
Questions 117–21

Wiles, Mr. G.—
Bills—
Succession Duty Bill
Supplementary Grant— .. 66–70
Flood Protective Bund Scheme in Sind, works re .. 160-61, 164

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGES
Agenda for the First Session of 1932	1–10
[See also pages 1670–72]
Wednesday, the 17th February 1932.
New Members sworn	13
Nomination of Chairmen of Council	13
Governor General's assent to Acts	13
Reference from the Chair to the death of Wadero Wahidbaksh Illahibaksh Bhutto	13
Questions and Answers	14–46
Address by His Excellency the Governor to the Members of the Legislative Council	47–52
Presentation of the Budget	52–60
Thursday, the 18th February 1932.
New Member sworn	63
Questions and Answers	63–91
General Discussion on the Budget	91–141
Friday, the 19th February 1932.
Questions and Answers	144–160
Statement by the Honourable the President re: an incorrect report in certain newspapers alleging disallowance of a resolution	160–170, 220
General Discussion on the Budget (contd.)	170–219
Saturday, the 20th February 1932.
General Discussion on the Budget (contd.)	223–268
Monday, the 22nd February 1932.
Questions and Answers	271–299
Adjournment motion to discuss lathi charge at Ahmednagar	299, 310–320
Petition from the East India Cotton Association against certain provisions of the Finance Bill	299
Bills—
Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Bill (No. IX of 1931) (Withdrawn)	299
Bombay Finance Bill	300–310, 320–343
Tuesday, the 23rd February 1932.
Questions and Answers	346–368
Bombay Finance Bill (contd.)	368–418
Wednesday, the 24th February 1932.
Questions and Answers	422–460
Bombay Finance Bill (contd.)	461–505
Business of the House	505–507
Thursday, the 25th February 1932.
New Member sworn	510
Questions and Answers	510–514
Supplementary Grants—
Payment to Mr. Chaudhari, Probationer, Bombay Forest Service, for training at the University of Edinburgh	514–519

PAGES

Supplementary Grants—contd.
Repairs to a bridge over the Krishna river 519
Providing a thicker apron of boulders for the rubble mound of the sea wall at Marine Lines 519
Grant of Timber to Reay Industrial Museum 520
Write-back of revenue expenditure and adjustment of municipal taxes re : 42, Development Scheme 520
Continuance of the establishment entertained for the 11th High Court Judge 520
Remuneration to the Secretary, Western India Turf Club, for collecting revenue from book-makers 520–521
Superannuation Allowances and Pensions 521
Expenditure in connection with the Sugarcane Research Scheme for the Bombay Deccan 521–528
Grant-in-aid for the scheme of Investigation of the virus diseases of plants 528
Excess expenditure under V-Land Revenue : Refunds 528
Excess under the head "60, Civil Works" 528
Loan to Improvement Trust 528–538
Inspection of Motor Vehicles 538
Overtime allowance to staff of Posts and Telegraphs in Sind .. 538
Election of representatives for Railway Advisory Committees .. 538–539

Friday, the 26th February 1932.

Election of representatives for Railway Advisory Committees (contd.) .. 542–543
Demands for Grants—
Loans and Advances by Provincial Government 543–560
Payments of commuted value of pensions 560
Capital Outlay for Civil Works (P. W. D.) 560
Capital Outlay on Improvements of Public Health 561
Construction of Irrigation Works, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction 561–562
Construction of Irrigation Works except Lloyd Barrage 563
Expenditure in England, Secretary of State—Reserved and Transferred : High Commissioner—Reserved and Transferred 563
Miscellaneous—Transferred 563–565
Miscellaneous—Reserved 565–570
Stationery and Printing—Partly Reserved and Partly Transferred .. 571–572
Commutation of Pensions financed from Ordinary Revenues .. 572
Superannuation Allowances and Pensions 572
Bombay Development Scheme 572
Election of representatives for Railway Advisory Committees (contd.) .. 573, 593–594
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Civil Works, partly Reserved and partly Transferred 573–593
Provisional Reorganisation of Sind Establishment (under 41, Civil Works) 573–593

Saturday, the 27th February 1932.

New Member sworn 596
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Civil Works, partly Reserved and partly Transferred (contd.) .. 597–640
Provisional Reorganisation of Sind Establishment (under 41, Civil Works) 597–625
Superintending Engineer, Irrigation Development and Research Circle 626–640

Monday, the 29th February 1932.

New Member sworn 643
Questions and Answers 643–660
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Civil Works, partly Reserved and partly Transferred (contd.) .. 660–695
Civil Works : Grants-in-aid 660–675
Civil Works : Other expenditure 676–695
Civil Works—Reserved 695

	PAGES
Miscellaneous Departments (Transferred)	695
Miscellaneous Departments (Reserved)	695
Industries	695–712
Expenditure re : Committee of Direction for Industrial and Technical Schools	696–704
Tuesday, the 1st March 1932.
New Member sworn	715
Questions and Answers	715–723
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Industries (contd.)	723–751
Agriculture	751–779
Additional special auditor and clerks in the Co-operative Department	751–760
Veterinary Charges	760–768
Deputy Registrar and Assistant Registrars, Co-operative Department.	769–771
Auditors, Co-operative Department	771–778
Wednesday, the 2nd March 1932.
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Agriculture (contd.)	782–815
Thursday, the 3rd March 1932.
New Member sworn	818
Bombay Finance Bill (contd.)—
Motion for extension of time for the select committee's report	818
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Agriculture (contd.)	818–826
Public Health	826–861
Medical (Transferred)	861–876
St. George's Hospital	862–876
Friday, the 4th March 1932.
New Member sworn	879
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Medical (Transferred) (contd.)	879–917
St. George's Hospital (contd.)	879–900
Medical (Reserved)	917
Education (Reserved)	918–928
Education (Transferred)	928–929
Grants to Universities	928–929
Monday, the 7th March 1932.
New Member sworn	932
Questions and Answers	932–951
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Education (Transferred) (contd.)	952–1002
Arts Colleges	952–965
Training College for Secondary Teachers	965–981
Secondary Education	981–998
Primary Education	998–1002
Tuesday, the 8th March 1932.
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Education (Transferred) (contd.)	1005–1057
Primary Education (contd.)	1005–1057
Scientific Departments	1058
Ports and Pilotage	1058
Police	1058

PAGES

Wednesday, the 9th March 1932.

Questions and Answers 1061–1076
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Police (contd.) 1076–1112
Special Emergency Police 1076–1092
Jails and Convict Settlements 1112
Administration of Justice 1112
General Administration—except Heads of Provinces—Ministers (Reserved) 1112–1124
Legislative Bodies—Provincial Legislative Councils 1112–1120
Pay and Allowances to District and Village officers 1120–1124

Thursday, the 10th March 1932.

New Member sworn 1127
Demands for Grants (contd.)—
General Administration—except Heads of Provinces—Ministers (Reserved) (contd.) 1127–1164
Pay and Allowances to District and Village Officers (contd.) .. 1127–1138
General Administration—Heads of Provinces—Ministers (Transferred) .. 1164–1169
Pay of Ministers 1164–1169
Interest on Ordinary Debt 1169
'XIII—Deduct—Working Expenses', '15—Other revenue expenditure financed from ordinary revenues', and 'Refunds of revenue', under the the heads 'XIII' and 'XIV' 1169–1170
Scheduled Taxes 1170
Registration 1170
Forest Capital Outlay Charged to Revenue 1170
Forest 1170
Stamps 1171
Excise 1171
Land Revenue 1171–1173

Friday, the 11th March 1932.

Demands for Grants (contd.)—
Land Revenue (contd.) 1176–1206

Saturday, the 12th March 1932.

Questions and Answers 1210–1224
Motion to present an Address to H. E. the Governor re: the political situation 1224–1270

Monday, the 14th March 1932.

New Member sworn 1273
Motion to present an address to H. E. the Governor re: the political situation (contd.) 1273–1303
Private Bills—
Municipal Boroughs Act Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil)—First reading postponed to the next session 1304
City of Bombay Municipal Act, section 39 (1) Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur S. K. Bole)—First reading not moved 1304
City of Bombay Municipal Act (Schedule B) Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur S. K. Bole)—First reading not moved 1304
Municipal Boroughs Act Amendment Bill (Mr. L. R. Gokhale)—First reading not moved 1304
City Municipalities Act Amendment Bill (Mr. J. G. More)—First reading not moved 1304
Hereditary Offices Act Amendment Bill (Mr. H. R. Desai)—First reading not moved 1304
A Bill to regulate the keeping of accounts of certain transactions (Mr. Syed Munawar)—First reading not moved 1304
Provincial Small Cause Courts Act Amendment Bill (Mr. L. R. Gokhale)—First reading not moved 1304
Land Revenue Code Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil) .. 1305–1309
Sind Incumbered Estates Act Amendment Bill (Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro)—First reading not moved 1309

PAGES

Private Bills—contd.

Public Conveyances Act Amendment Bill (Mr. A. K. Resaldar)—First reading not moved 1309
Bombay Primary Education Act Amendment Bill (Mr. R. R. Bakhale)—First reading not moved 1309
City of Bombay Primary Education Act Amendment Bill (Mr. R. R. Bakhale)—First reading not moved 1309
Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act Amendment Bill (Mr. L. R. Gokhale)—Motion for leave to introduce 1309
City of Bombay Municipal Act (Section 16) Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur S. K. Bole)—Motion for leave to introduce 1309
Bombay University Act Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale)—Motion for leave to introduce 1309-1310
Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale)—Motion for leave to introduce 1310
Village Police Act Amendment Bill (Mr. A. N. Surve)—Motion for leave to introduce 1310
Prevention of Gambling Act Amendment Bill (Mr. L. R. Gokhale)—Motion for leave to introduce 1310
City Municipalities Act Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil)—Motion for leave to introduce 1311
Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act Amendment Bill (Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni)—Motion for leave to introduce 1311
City of Bombay Municipal Act Amendment Bill (Mr. A. N. Surve)—Motion for leave to introduce 1312

Resolutions regarding—

Representation of rural areas on local Legislative Council and lowering of rural franchise 1312-1325
Transfer of Aden to the Government of India 1325

Tuesday, the 15th March 1932.

Resolution regarding—

Transfer of Aden to the Government of India (contd.) 1328-1370

Private Bills—

Land Revenue Code Amendment Bill (contd.) 1371
City of Bombay Municipal Act Amendment Bill (Rao Bahadur S. K. Bole)—Withdrawn 1371

Resolution regarding—

Lottery for Hospital Funds 1372-1380
School Board Administrative Officers' rights 1380-1381

Wednesday, the 16th March 1932.

Questions and Answers 1384-1391
Bombay Finance Bill (contd.) 1391-1439

Thursday, the 17th March 1932.

Bills—

Bombay Finance Bill (contd.) 1442-1488
Succession Act Amendment Bill 1488-1500

Friday, the 18th March 1932.

Questions and Answers 1503-1531

Bills—

Succession Act Amendment Bill (contd.) 1531-1543
Bombay Finance Bill (contd.) 1543-1547
Tobacco Duty Act Amendment Bill 1547-1581

Prorogation 1581

APPENDICES 1582-1675

AGENDA.

Agenda for the First Session of the Bombay Legislative Council commencing at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Wednesday, the 17th February 1932.

I. OATH OR AFFIRMATION OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE CROWN

II NOMINATION OF FOUR CHAIRMEN BY THE PRESIDENT

III. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

IV INTRODUCTION OF BUDGET FOR THE YEAR 1932-33

V. GENERAL DISCUSSION OF THE BUDGET.

VI DEMANDS FOR GRANTS AND MOTIONS TO REDUCE OR OMIT BUDGET GRANTS.

VII. DEMANDS FOR SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS.

VIII. GOVERNMENT BILLS—

(1) Bill No IX of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, in its application to the Presidency of Bombay)—First Reading.

(2) Bill No. I of 1932 (A Bill to provide for the levy of a duty on consumption of electrical energy in the Presidency of Bombay and to amend the Court-fees Act, 1870, and the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, in their application to the said Presidency)—First Reading.

Notice of amendments has been received from Mr. G. S. Gangoli, M.L.C.

(3) Bill No II of 1932 (A Bill to extend certain provisions relating to intestate and testamentary succession of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, in its application to the Presidency of Bombay, to certain communities)—First Reading.

Notices of amendments have been received from—

(i) Mr. G. S Gangoli, M L C
(ii) Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik, M L C.

IX. GOVERNMENT MOTION—

By the Honourable Mr. W. F. Hudson, C.I.E., I.C.S.

"That this House proceed to elect a representative to serve on each of the Local Advisory Committees for the various railways for one year from 2nd March 1932, the appointments of the members at present sitting on the respective Committees expiring on 1st March 1932

Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway—From 2nd March 1932 to 14th February 1933 on the present Advisory Committee and from 15th February 1933 to 1st March 1933 on the new Advisory Committee

Great Indian Peninsula Railway—From 2nd March 1932 to 31st May 1932 on the present Advisory Committee and from 1st June 1932 to 1st March 1933 on the new Advisory Committee

Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway—From 2nd March 1932 to 31st March 1932 on the present Advisory Committee and from 1st April 1932 to 1st March 1933 on the new Advisory Committee

North Western Railway—From 2nd March 1932 to 1st March 1933 "

X. STATUTORY MOTION—

Under Standing Order VIII-A of the Standing Orders of the Bombay Legislative Council, notice has been received of the following amendment to the amendment to rule 30 of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Rules, 1927, published in Government Notification in the Revenue Department, No. 3818/24, dated the 8th January 1932, which is laid on the Council table :—

From Mr. V. N. Jog, M.L.C.

" This Council resolves that the rule made by Government that the figure '$\frac{6}{8}$' shall be substituted for the figure '$\frac{1}{2}$' in the second line of rule 30 of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Rules, 1927, published in Government Notification in the Revenue Department, No. 5979/24, dated the 11th August 1927, shall be rescinded and the original rule 30 be retained."

XI NON-OFFICIAL BILLS—

(1) Bill No XII of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, 1925)—First Reading—Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil, M L C.

(2) Bill No XXIV of 1931 [A Bill further to amend (section 39 (1) of) the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888]—First Reading—Rao Bahadur S K Bole, M L C

(3) Bill No. XXV of 1931 [A Bill further to amend (Schedule B of) the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888]—First Reading—Rao Bahadur S K. Bole, M L C

(4) Bill No. XXVII of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, 1925)—First Reading—Mr L R Gokhale, M.L C

(5) Bill No. XXVIII of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay City Municipalities Act, 1925)—First Reading—Mr. J. G. More, M.L.C.

(6) Bill No XXXVII of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Hereditary Offices Act, 1874)—First Reading—Mr. H R. Desai, M.L C.

(7) Bill No XXXVIII of 1931 (A Bill to regulate the keeping of accounts of certain transactions)—First Reading—Mr. Syed Munawar, M L.C.

(8) Bill No XXXIX of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Provincial Small Causes Courts Act, 1887, in its application to the Presidency of Bombay)—First Reading—Mr L. R. Gokhale, M L C.

(9) Bill No. XL of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879)—First Reading—Rao Bahadur D. R Patil, M L C.

(10) Bill No XLI of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Sind Incumbered Estates Act, 1896)—First Reading—Khan Bahadur M A Khuhro, M L C.

(11) Bill No. XLII of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Public Conveyances Act, 1920)—First Reading—Mr. A K Resaldar, M L.C

(12) Bill No. XLIII of 1931 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923)—First Reading—Mr R R. Bakhale, M L C

(13) Bill No. XLIV of 1931 (A Bill to amend the City of Bombay Primary Education Act, 1920)—First Reading—Mr R R. Bakhale, M L C.

(14) A Bill further to amend the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Mr. L R Gokhale, M L.C.

(15) A Bill further to amend (section 16 of) the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Rao Bahadur S. K. Bole, M L.C.

(16) A Bill further to amend the Bombay University Act, 1928—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale, M.L C.

(17) A Bill further to amend the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale, M L C.

(18) A Bill further to amend the Bombay Village Police Act, 1876—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Mr. A. N. Surve, M.L.C.

(19) A Bill further to amend the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act, 1887—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Mr. L. R. Gokhale, M.L.C.

(20) A Bill further to amend the Bombay City Municipalities Act, being Bombay Act No. XVIII of 1925—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil, M.L.C.

(21) A Bill further to amend the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni, M.L.C.

(22) A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888—Motion for leave to introduce the Bill—Mr. A. N. Surve, M.L.C.

XII. MOTION UNDER STANDING ORDER XII, 6 TO PRESENT AN ADDRESS TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR—

By Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale, M.L.C.

"That the following humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor of Bombay :—

May it please Your Excellency,

We, the Members of the Bombay Legislative Council, respectfully pray that in view of the present political situation, Your Excellency will be pleased to convene a Conference of leaders of various parties in the Province in order to find the means of establishing a peaceful and calm atmosphere and secure the co-operation of all parties in facilitating the work of the several Committees set up to help the framing of the New Constitution."

XIII. DISCUSSION* OF MATTERS OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST—

Resolution by Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil, M L C. (adjourned at the meeting held on 5th October 1931).

1 "This Council recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that he be pleased to convey to the Secretary of State for India and His Majesty's Government in England through His Excellency the Governor General in Council that it is the emphatic opinion of the Bombay Legislative Council that in the contemplated revision of the Government of India Act by the British Parliament after the deliberations of the Round Table Conference are over, due provision be made for adequate representation of the rural areas on the Local Legislature of the Province of Bombay and that the rural franchise be so lowered and the number of seats for the constituencies be so increased as to carry out the aforesaid objects."

Resolution by Rao Bahadur G K. Chitale, M.L.C.

1 "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the civil administration of Aden should not be transferred to the Government of India"

Resolutions by Mr A. N Surve, M L C

1 "This Council recommends to Government to take steps to institute a Government Hospital Lottery or to license a private lottery for the purpose of supplementing the funds required for re-opening the beds in the hospitals which are closed for financial reasons."

2. "This Council recommends to Government that they should not accept any surrender of remuneration by Government servants whose salary allowances, perquisites or wages fall below the limit prescribed for exemption in the Government Resolution on the subject of retrenchment, as they did in the case of certain patels mentioned in the Director of

* Resolutions are arranged according to the order of priority as determined by ballot.

Information's Press Note No. 26, dated the 19th January 1932, who surrendered half of their remuneration."

3. "This Council recommends to Government that they should make provision for the continuance of the work done under the Deputy Director of Agriculture, Konkan, Ratnagiri, in the Budget for the year 1932-33 "

4. "This Council recommends to Government that they should not use as jails or prisons those places which are infested with reptiles or vermin."

5. "This Council recommends to Government that they should take steps to stop the exportation of gold through the ports of this Presidency."

6. "This Council recommends to Government that they should make provision in the budget for the year 1932-33 for the continuance of the temporary post of additional Judge in the High Court of Bombay."

7. "This Council recommends to Government that they should take immediate steps to establish in the city of Bombay a special court for the trial of cases under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act "

Resolution by Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid, M.L C.

1 "This Council recommends to Government that they be pleased to so amend the Primary Education Rules as to maintain all the rights and privileges in Government service of those Government officers of the Education Department whose services were lent to Local Authorities on the transfer of control and who are acting as Administrative Officers of various School Boards, unless the services of such officers are permanently taken over by the Local Authorities concerned on conditions settled between the said officers and their employers."

Resolutions by Rao Bahadur R R Kale, M.L.C.

1. (As No 1 of Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale.)

2. "This Council recommends to Government to give immediate effect to the recommendations made by the Committee appointed by them to consider the state of the secondary and primary education in this Presidency "

Resolution by Mr. V A. Surve, M.L.C

1. "This Council recommends to Government that a committee of five Council members with a non-official majority be appointed to enquire into and report about the extent of the damage caused by the recent floods in the Ratnagiri District."

Resolution by Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah, M L C.

1. (As No. 1 of Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid.)

Resolutions by Mr G. M. Kalbhor, M L C

1. "This Council recommends to Government that they should not on any account dispense with the services of any Non-Brahmin Government servant before his superannuation and that they should ask the heads of departments to withdraw the notices which may have been already given to Non-Brahmin Government servants"

2. "This Council recommends to Government that they should provide sufficient funds for making grants to the district local bodies in the Presidency to enable them to undertake immediately the schemes embodied in the Compulsory Primary Education Act for compulsory primary education in their respective districts."

3 "This Council recommends to Government that they should immediately stop recruitment of candidates from the forward communities to services until the ratio of 50 per cent of Non-Brahmin servants is reached in all the departments."

4. "This Council recommends to Government to publish authorised reports of cattle slaughtered every year throughout the Presidency along with the yearly report of the Agricultural Department."

5. "This Council recommends to Government that they should frame a Bill that will at once effectively check the progress of disease-carrying herds into and through the Presidency and compel the herdsmen to get their cattle inoculated with preventive serum"

Resolutions by Rao Bahadur S K. Bole, M.L C

1. "This Council recommends to the Government of Bombay to convey to the Government of India and His Majesty's Government, for such action as they may deem fit, the considered opinion of this Council that, pending the final completion of All-India Federation, full responsible Government should be immediately introduced into the Provinces with necessary changes in the Central Government of British India."

2 "This Council recommends to Government to introduce legislation for the abolition of the khoti system in the Ratnagiri and Kolaba districts"

3. "This Council recommends to Government to do away with the cumbersome procedure and the dual system according to which a firm of solicitors and two counsel are required to be engaged by a litigant in the Bombay High Court and to adopt a simpler and cheaper system as is adopted by a litigant in the Madras High Court."

4 "This Council recommends to Government to appoint a committee consisting of officials and non-officials to inquire into the condition of the cottage industries in the Presidency and to suggest measures for their development"

5 "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council (a) to instruct the Labour Office to prepare a programme under which such of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Labour as lie within the competence of the Bombay Government and the statutory and other bodies within the Bombay Presidency to give effect to, will be carried out within a period of three years; and (b) to announce the said programme before the next session of the Council"

Resolution by Rao Saheb V. S. Patil, M.L.C.

1 "This Council recommends to Government that the increased land assessment wherever existing be dropped or, in the alternative, the present land assessment be reduced by half, so long as the present state of world depression continues and till normal conditions reappear."

Resolutions by Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik, M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government that they should be pleased to grant to the agriculturists at least 20 per cent remissions of land revenue payable in the year 1931-32"

2 (As No. 1 of Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale)

Resolution by Khan Bahadur D. B. Cooper, M.L.C.

1. (As No. 1 of Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale)

Resolution by Mr. C. N. Patel, M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government to appoint either as subordinate judges or in other posts having equally good pay and prospects such servants in the Judicial Department who being B.A., LL.B.'s joined the Judicial Department under the old rules and were given to understand that they would be made subordinate judges in due course."

Resolution by Mr. S. S. Tolani M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government that the posts of the Joint Chief Engineer in Sind and two of the five Superintending Engineers of the Sind Public Works Department should be abolished and that the headquarters of one of the Superintending Engineers should be at Sukkur."

Resolution by Mr. M. M. Karbhari, M.L.C.

1. (As No. 1 of Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale)

Resolution by Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil, M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government to appoint a Committee consisting of official and non-official members of this Council to inquire into the present working of the crop anna valuation system and suggest ways and means of improving the said system."

Resolution by Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch, M.L.C.

1. (As No. 1 of Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid)

Resolution by Mr. B. P. Wadke M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government that they be pleased to introduce at the next session of the Council a Bill to reduce by 25 per cent. the rents charged at present for residential buildings in Bombay and Karachi."

Resolution by Mr. N. E. Navle, M.L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government to grant to the agriculturists, where necessary, remissions of land revenue, tagai loans and similar other reliefs on a liberal scale."

Resolution by Mr Ghulam Hyder Shah, M.L.C

1 (As No. 1 of Mr Shaikh Abdul Majid)

Resolutions by Mr J S Kadri, M.L.C

1. "This Council recommends to Government to appoint a committee consisting of officials and non-officials, to enquire into and report on the present condition of Mussalman religious and charitable wakfs in the Northern Division of the Bombay Presidency, to ascertain the drawbacks and difficulties experienced in the practical working and application of the Mussalman Wakf Act in the districts, and to suggest measures for the efficient administration, supervision and control of the wakfs"

2. "This Council recommends to Government that an advisory board, consisting of the four elected members of the Bombay Legislative Council representing Muhammadan Urban and Rural constituencies of the Northern Division, and of 3 additional members co-opted by the said elected members of the Council, be formed to recommend to the heads of various Government departments suitable Mahomedan candidates for appointment in service."

3. "This Council recommends to Government that the duration of training for the First Year's Certificate Examination in the Urdu Training Schools at Ahmedabad and Poona should be of two years."

4. "This Council recommends to Government that the post of the Director of Public Health be abolished and that the duties attached to that post be entrusted to the Surgeon General with the Government of Bombay"

5. "This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the civil administration of Aden should not be transferred to the Government of India."

6 "This Council recommends to Government that two more elected Muslim members of this Council may be added to the Provincial Franchise Committee of the Bombay Presidency to safeguard the interests of the Mussalmans of the Presidency."

Resolutions by Rao Bahadur R. S. Asavale, M L.C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government to appoint at an early date a committee of official and non-official members of this Council to report at an early date regarding the measures which may be necessary to protect agricultural land and agricultural produce from sale on account of debts which have become onerous and oppressive owing to the fall in the value of such land and such produce"

2. (As No 1 of Rao Bahadur G K. Chitale)

Resolutions by Mr G S Gangoli, M.L C.

1. "This Council recommends to Government—

(a) that a remission in land revenue of not less than 50 per cent be granted to the agriculturists of this Presidency;

(b) that recovery of suspended land revenue, tagavi loans and of other dues recoverable as arrears of land revenue be postponed for one year;

(c) that penalties and other fees be not levied in addition to land revenue for the recovery of the same;

(d) that a liberal policy be pursued in the recovery of land revenue dues."

2. "This Council recommends to Government that the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee of 1931 be brought into effect immediately"

3. "This Council recommends to Government that a committee of not less than 7 members including officials, with a non-official President, be appointed further to explore the avenues of probable retrenchment in the various departments of Government"

Resolution by Syed Miran Mahomed Shah, M.L C.

1 (As No 1 of Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid)

Resolution by Mr J. B Petit, M L C.

1. (As No 1 of Rao Bahadur G K. Chitale)

Resolutions by Rao Saheb P D. Kulkarni, M.L C.

1 "This Council recommends to Government that in arriving at the Anewari of crops in each taluka the opinion of the village panchayat wherever it exists and at other places of the local panchayat of each village specially elected by the taluka boards should be called for and be taken into consideration."

2. "This Council recommends to Government that the dates fixed for the payments of instalments of land revenue payable in respect of lands assessed for purposes of agriculture only be changed to 1st March for the first instalment and 1st April for the second instalmentin the case of villages placed under class I and to 1st April and 1st May respectively in the case of II and III class villages"

3 "This Council recommends to Government that the post of Superintending Engineer, Irrigation Development and Research Circle, be abolished, the duties attached to that post being entrusted to the Superintending Engineer, Deccan Irrigation Circle"

XIV. PAPERS* PRESENTED TO THE COUNCIL—

(i) The following Election Rules etc are placed on the Council Table in accordance with section 221 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, 1925:—

(1) Revised Election Rules of the Surat Municipality;

(2) Rule No 37 of the Election Rules of the Surat Municipality.

(ii) Government Notification in the Home Department, No. 6130/2-II, dated the 30th October 1931, regarding certain amendments to the Dharwar Borstal School Rules, 1930 (Placed on the Council Table in accordance with section 19 (3) of the Bombay Borstal Schools Act, 1929.)

(iii) Government Notification in the Home Department, No 8013/2, dated the 1st December 1931, regarding the entertainment of additional police at Parola, district East Khandesh. (Placed on the Council Table in accordance with proviso to sub-section (2) of section 25 of Bombay District Police Act, 1890)

(iv) Government Notification in the General Department, No. 7679, dated the 11th December 1931, containing Rules for the audit of accounts of the local authorities whose accounts are declared to be subject to audit under the Bombay Local Fund Audit Act, 1930. (Placed on the Council Table in accordance with section 15 (3) of Bombay Act No. XXV of 1930.)

(v) Government Notification in the Revenue Department, No. 3818-24, dated the 8th January 1932, regarding the amendment of Co-operative Societies Rules (Placed on the Council Table in accordance with section 71 (5) of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act, 1925)

(vi) A copy of the agenda and proceedings of the meeting of the Finance Committee held on 1st December 1931.

Bombay, 17th February 1932.

G. S. RAJADHYAKSHA,

Secretary to the Legislative Council
of the Governor of Bombay.

* Kept in Secretary's office.

Wednesday, the 17th February 1932

The Council met at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Wednesday, the 17th February 1932, at 2 p m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt , Bar-at-Law, presiding

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R S
BAKHALE, Mr. R. R
BANGI, Mr A. K. J.
BELL, Mr R. D.
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr A. GREVILLE
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr J. A.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D 'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr M. D.
GOKHALE, Mr L R.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr R R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W F.
JITEKAR, Mr HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr V N.
JONES, Major W ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R
KAMAT, Mr. B S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M
KIRKE-SMITH, Mr. A.

KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P D.
LANE, Mr. C M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G E
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S
MEHTA, Mr M H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C B
MODAK, Rev R. S
MONTEATH, Mr J.
MORE, Mr J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B R
NAVLE, Mr N. E
OWEN, Mr. A C.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A E
PATIL, Mr N. N
PATIL, Mr V N
PATIL, Rao Saheb V S
PERRY, Mr E. W.
PETIT, Mr J B
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G V.
PRATER, Mr S H
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M
RESALDAR, Mr A K
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr
SHINDE, Mr R B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P G
SPENCER, Mr A. B
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr V A
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr G. A.
TOLANI, Mr S. S
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr V. G
VAKIL, Mr PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WADKE, Mr. B. P.
WILES, Mr. G
WINTERBOTHAM, Mr. G. L.

NEW MEMBERS SWORN.

The following members made the prescribed oath or affirmation of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor, and took their seats in the Council :

1. Mr. G L Winterbotham,
2. Mr G Davis, I C S..
3. Mr. C. G Freke, I.C S,
4. Mr J Monteath, I C S,
5. Mr. G. W McElhinny, I C S,
6. Mr. A. B Spencer,
7. Mr. A. Kirke-Smith,
8. Mr. F. O J. Roose,
9. Mr. J. P Brander, I C.S

NOMINATION OF CHAIRMEN OF COUNCIL.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have now to announce the panel of Chairmen for the session. I appoint the honourable members—

1. Sir Shah Nawaz Bhutto,
2. Mr. L. R Gokhale
3. Mr. G L Winterbotham, and
4. Sardar Davar Temuras Kawasji Modi.

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S ASSENT TO ACTS.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The following Acts have received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General since the close of the last session .

1. An Act further to amend the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1923
2. An Act further to amend the Bombay District Municipal Act, 1901, the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1923, and the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, 1925
3. An Act further to amend the City of Bombay Improvement Trust Transfer Act, 1925
4. An Act further to amend the Bombay Village Sanitation Act, 1889.

DEATH OF WADERO WAHIDBAKSH ILLAHIBAKSH BHUTTO.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have now to refer to a very sad event, and that is the untimely death of one of our young members of this Council—I mean Wadero Wahidbaksh Illahibaksh Bhutto. The House will signify its sympathy by rising in its place

[All the honourable members rose in their places accordingly]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Now I propose the programme for the day to be that, as His Excellency arrives here at 25 minutes after 2 and addresses the House at half-past 2, we will proceed with the question list And, after His Excellency's address, the Honourable the Finance Member will present the budget After his speech, if this question list is not finished just now, we might go on with the rest of it and adjourn the House for the day

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

ABDUR TAKIO BUND BREACH : RELIEF MEASURES.

*Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH (Sukkur District) (1) Will Government be pleased to state the total amount spent on relief to the people who suffered from the breach of Abdur Takio Bund in the Sukkur District, showing separately (i) the amount spent on (a) people of the towns, (b) people of the mofussil and (ii) the total amount spent on (a) railway fares, (b) cloth to sufferers, (c) boats, (d) distribution of free seed, (e) construction of houses in villages ?

(2) What amount of tagavi was advanced in the affected area ?

(3) What amount was spent on the supply of seed at reduced cost, and what was the reduction in the cost ?

(4) Of the total amount spent on relief of the flood stricken

(a) how much was collected from private donations, (b) what was the balance of the last year with the Chairman, Relief Committee, (c) what was received from the trustees, (d) what amount was contributed by Government showing separately (i) from the Famine Relief Fund, (ii) from the Reserve Fund and (iii) balance, if any, with Government ?

(5) What amount was requisitioned by the Collector of Sukkur for relief and what amount was given to him ? If an amount less than requisitioned was given, was it because the demand was in excess or because the Government could not do so owing to financial stringency ?

(6) How much money was needed to give full relief ?

(7) What is the minimum balance prescribed for the famine insurance fund, and what amount is available with Government now ?

(8) What is the rule when Government has the minimum balance in hand and the famine relief work becomes imperative, is the relief to be denied when only the minimum balance is available ?

(9) How much money was spent in Gujarat for giving relief during the calamities caused by the rains in 1927 ?

(10) What was the estimated damage done or loss caused in Gujarat at that time ?

(11) What was the amount of balance in the famine relief fund when relief was given to Gujarat ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (1) Rs. 1,38,101-8-9.

(i) (a) and (b) Separate figures are not available.

(ii) (a) Nil.
(b) Rs. 6,227-0-0.
(c) Rs. 8,803-8-0.
(d) Rs. 7,479-13-0.
(e) Rs. 76,111-0-0.

(2) Rs. 1,68,765.

(3) As free seed was distributed in necessitous cases, no seed was supplied at reduced rates.

(4) (a) Rs. 16,695-2-4.

(b) Rs. 47,500.

(c) It is not clear what Trustees the Honourable Member refers to.

(d) (i) An amount of Rs. 1 lakh was made available to the District Relief Committee, Sukkur, out of the grant of Rs. 2 lakhs sanctioned by Government for gratuitous relief from the Famine Relief Fund. In addition, the Commissioner placed at the disposal of the Committee a sum of Rs 43,842 from the Commissioner's Flood Relief Fund This latter amount included a sum of Rs. 21,406-6-5 received from the Sukkur Famine Relief Fund.

(ii) and (iii) No further contribution was made by Government beyond that stated in sub-clause (i)

(5) and (6) The Collector's preliminary estimate of requirements was roughly Rs. 1,55,500. He had with him an amount of Rs. 46,500 which was comprised of a sum of Rs. 43,210 in the Sukkur Famine Fund and contributions received by him from the public direct. He, therefore, applied to the Commissioner for a sum of Rs. 1,09,000 The latter allotted an amount of Rs. 1 lakh from the grant of Rs 2 lakhs sanctioned by Government and the balance from the Commissioner's Flood Relief Fund. The Collector did not, however, find it necessary to spend the entire amount at his disposal from the Sukkur Famine Fund but only a sum of Rs 21,406. This was because a sum of Rs 7,695 was received by him from the Sind Flood Relief Fund of 1929 and from public contributions in his district.

(7) The minimum balance for the Famine Relief Fund prescribed for this Presidency is Rs. 75 lakhs. The opening balance on 1st April 1931 was Rs. 75,33,199.

(8) When the accumulated balance amounts to Rs 75,00,000 no further annual assignment is to be made. The minimum balance can be utilised for relief of famine.

(9) and (10) The Honourable Member is referred to the report on the floods in Gujarat and Sind in the year 1927 for the necessary information, a copy of which is in the Council Library.

(11) The balance in the Famine Relief Fund on 31st March 1927 was Rs 2,42,26,577.

TEXTILE WORKERS, SHOLAPUR MILLS. DOUBLE KHADA.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that the system of "double khada", i.e. the system of deducting two days' wages for one day's absence or sending the worker back home on the second day for his first day's absence, exists in Sholapur Mills?

(b) If so, since when has it been in existence?

(c) Have Government drawn the attention of the Sholapur millowners to the system and suggested to them its discontinuance?

(d) If so, what was the response?

(e) If the answer to (c) is in the negative, what are reasons therefor ?

(f) Will Government state whether the system is prevailing still ?

(g) If not prevailing, since when was it stopped ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Government are aware that the system of " double-khada " whereby two days' wages are deducted for each day's absence was in existence in the year 1926 in three mills in Sholapur City for which information is available. Two of these mills stated that in the case of operatives in important occupations, such as Jobbers, Tenters, Oilmen, etc., the " double-khada " rule operated only for the first day's absence. Government have no information regarding the existence of the system in Sholapur Mills of sending the worker back home on the second day for his first day's absence.

(b), (f) and (g) Government have no information.

(c) and (e) No. But Government have expressed themselves in favour of the abolition of the system. In this connection the Honourable Member is referred to page 150 of the Government of Bombay memorandum to the Royal Commission on Indian Labour.

(d) Does not arise.

TEXTILE WORKERS, SHOLAPUR MILLS : UNCLAIMED WAGES.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that there prevailed in the Sholapur Mills a practice of refusing to pay the unclaimed wages of the workers after a certain period ?

(b) If so, what was the length of such period in each mill ?

(c) Have the Sholapur millowners now made any change in that practice ?

(d) If so, what is it and since when was it made ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) and (b) Government understand that there was a rule to the effect that wages unclaimed for six months would not be paid, but the rule was not always enforced.

(c) Yes.

(d) It is understood that the owners propose to pay unclaimed wages at any time on proof of identity. It is not known when the rule was brought into operation.

INSCRIPTIONS : PUBLICATION.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of inscriptions in the Presidency including Sind connected with the history of Hindus and inscribed in the languages of Hindus and the number of those connected with the history of Mahomedans and inscribed in Persian and Arabic ?

(b) What steps, if any, do Government intend to take to publish those of the latter which have not hitherto been published ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) and (b) The matter is not within the cognizance of the local Government.

EXCISE SUPERINTENDENTS : MAHOMEDANS.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether any Mahomedan Excise Inspector has been promoted to the post of Superintendent of Excise, since the establishment of the Excise Department in 1878 ?

(b) Was there no subordinate who could have been given the post, all these years ?

(c) Do Government intend making such an appointment in the near future ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) The reply is in the negative except for an acting appointment for six months in 1914.

(b) Presumably not

(c) When a vacancy occurs the claims of officers under reference will be duly considered.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT : DEMONSTRATIONS.

*Khan Bahadur D. B COOPER (Satara District) With reference to recommendation No. 14 on paragraph 136 of the Report of the Royal Commission on Agriculture in India, at page 166, reading as follows :—

> "The two systems of carrying out demonstrations (with improved implements) on the cultivators' own fields, that under which a plot is hired and the cultivation is carried on throughout by the departmental staff and that under which the land is cultivated by the cultivator himself under departmental supervision, should be adopted in all provinces, and the results compared",

will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how far this recommendation is being put into effect by the Agricultural Department of the Bombay Presidency ;

(b) at how many centres this work is being carried out ;

(c) how many improved implements are being used by the Department for this work ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (a) The recommendation of the Royal Commission on Agriculture refers to improved methods of farming or to other agricultural improvements like improved varieties of crops. It does not refer to the demonstration of implements except in so far as they may be incidental to management. The method of demonstrating improved implements is to show them at work in the presence of a large audience such as gathers at shows and organized demonstrations. In Sind implement demonstrations with improved implements are carried on by the District propaganda staff.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to the Annual Report of the Department of Agriculture for the year 1929-30 for the necessary information.

(c) Exact information so far as the Presidency proper is concerned is not readily available. As regards Sind about one hundred improved agricultural implements, including iron ploughs, drills, clod crushers, ridgers, levellers and Cambridge rollers are being used for this work.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS : SPARE PARTS.

*Khan Bahadur D B. COOPER (Satara District) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what action has been taken by the Department of Agriculture regarding the recommendation made by Mr. Jenkins in paragraph 10 of his Note on page 58 of the proceedings and approved by the Bombay Provincial Board of Agriculture at their meeting held in Poona on the 25th and 26th August 1925, regarding the necessity for an enquiry to find out to what extent the extension of improved agricultural implements is being restricted by the lack of, or an inferior service of, spare parts etc. ?

(b) If any such enquiry has been made, was the result of the enquiry published by the Department of Agriculture ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T. KAMBLI : (a) and (b) No special complaints have reached the Director of Agriculture in recent years about the lack of spare parts of agricultural implements except in the case of expensive machinery like tractors. The local agricultural officers are being asked to make an enquiry as suggested by Mr Jenkins.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEER . ROTATION AND ECONOMICAL TILLAGE.

*Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what action has been taken on the following recommendation of the Royal Commission on Agriculture in India, page 107, paragraph 104 of their report : " Thus the botanist will often be in a position to make useful suggestions when a system of rotation is being studied and the Agricultural Engineer when it is a question of devising the most efficient and economical way of carrying out a new method of tillage " ?

(b) To what extent have the services of the Agricultural Engineer of this province been utilised in giving expert advice on improved tillage and improved economical tillage implements ?

(c) Are Government satisfied that the fullest use has been made of the services of the Agricultural Engineer in the matter of advice on improved tillage implements ?

(d) If the reply to (c) is in the negative, what were the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (a) The Agricultural Department is taking suitable action wherever necessary, particularly in the case of sugarcane. In Sind, the previous work has been overhauled and expanded and special attention is being devoted to research on rotations and methods of tillage suited to post-Barrage conditions. It is proposed to prepare leaflets in Sindhi based on the results achieved and to issue them before the advent of the Barrage canal water.

(b) The Agricultural Engineer is called upon to advise on improved methods of tillage with tractor ploughs and other tractor implements. His help is also sought in connection with the tractor ploughing experiments conducted by the Department of Agriculture in the Khandesh and Sholapur districts with two different makes of tractors.

He conducts experiments with other implements such as reapers, groundnut raiser, cotton stalk puller, harrows, hoes etc. and advises agriculturists in their use.

(c) Yes.

(d) Does not arise.

AGRICUTLURAL IMPLEMENTS · CAPACITY OF BULLOCKS.

*Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state what action has been taken on the following recommendation of the Royal Commission on Agriculture in India, page 110, paragraph 107 of their report:—

"A fundamental problem which has still to be taken up is the relation of the capacity of the cultivator's bullocks to the implements they are required to draw"?

(b) If no action has been taken, what are the difficulties standing in the way of the work being taken up by the engineering section of the Department?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) and (b) The matter has been well kept in view by the Agricultural Engineer when designing new implements All approved new implements devised by him conform to the test of being within the capacity of one or more pairs of bullocks.

FOREIGN LIQUOR SHOP, ANAND: LAND ACQUISITION.

*Rao Saheb B. G DESAI (Kaira District): (1) Is it a fact that it was not possible for the foreign liquor shop contractor to secure a suitable shop at Anand Town on annual rent on a lease of sufficient duration?

(2) Did the foreign liquor shop contractor at Anand request the Government in April 1930 to secure a portion measuring 45 feet by 45 feet of the land of survey No. 2903 at Anand for building his shop thereon?

(3) In whom does that plot of land vest and how is the same being used at present?

(4) Did Government try to help the said foreign liquor contractor in acquiring that plot of land as required by him?

(5) If so, what were the results thereof?

(6) Will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the correspondence on the subject on the Council table?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) No.

(2) Yes.

(3) It is an air-space for the public assigned to the Municipality.

(4) No.

(5) Does not arise.

(6) No.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS AND BIAS CLASSES

*Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) Will Government be pleased to state at what places Agricultural Schools were opened in the past in this Presidency ?

(2) Which of the various Agricultural Schools in the Presidency have been closed ?

(3) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons for closing these schools ?

(4) How many Agricultural Schools were opened in the Northern Division and how many of them have been closed ?

(5) What are the special reasons for closing the Agricultural School at Godhra ?

(6) Is it a fact that primary school teachers were sent to the Godhra Agricultural School for training ?

(7) If so, how many teachers were trained in all in the Agricultural School at Godhra ?

(8) How many agricultural bias classes were opened in the Presidency ?

(9) Are the agricultural bias classes under the control of the Agricultural Department or of the Educational Department ?

(10) Does the Agricultural Department defray the expenditure on account of the maintenance and working of these agricultural bias classes ?

(11) If so, what is the total annual expenditure incurred on this account and to what sub-head under the main head "agriculture" the same is debited ?

(12) How many inspectors are maintained by the Agricultural Department for the supervision and inspection of these bias classes and schools ?

(13) How many posts of inspectors for the inspection of the agricultural schools and bias classes were maintained in the years 1929 and 1930 and how many of them are maintained and filled up at present ?

(14) How many schools or bias classes each of these inspectors have to inspect now and what are their duties in particular ?

(15) Are bias classes examined by those special inspectors or by the District Agricultural Inspectors ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (1) to (5) Seven vernacular agricultural schools were opened at the following places:—

Northern Division.

Godhra, Panch Mahals District
Surat, Surat District.
Jambul, Thana District.

Central Division.

Dhulia, West Khandesh District.
Loni, Poona District.

Southern Division

Devihosur, Dharwar District.

Sind.

Mirpurkhas, Thar Parkar District.

The Mirpurkhas school was closed in 1922 The schools at Godhra, Surat and Jambul were closed from the current year and the Loni School will be closed from the next session.

(6) Yes.

(7) Twenty.

(8) Seventy-nine.

(9) In view of the transfer of control of Primary Education to local authorities, the agricultural bias classes (except in the case of the Ahmedabad and Kaira districts) are under the control of the local authorities concerned The agricultural bias classes in the Kaira and Ahmedabad districts continue to be under the control of the Educational Department.

(10) No.

(11) Does not arise

(12) One.

(13) One.

(14) As regards the 79 agricultural bias classes the Inspector of Vernacular Agricultural Schools helps the Educational Authorities in an advisory capacity, while in the case of the remaining three vernacular agricultural schools he has the following duties :—

(1) to inspect the schools and suggest and initiate alterations in curricula and methods;

(2) to arrange for and to supervise the training of teachers for these schools;

(3) to report to the Deputy Directors of Agriculture on the working of the schools in their charge, and to work with them for their improvement; and

(4) to advise the Director of Agriculture on questions regarding vernacular agricultural education.

(15) The School Boards arrange for the examination of agricultural bias classes through their supervisors in collaboration with the Inspector of Vernacular Agricultural Schools The Agricultural Department assists them by lending the services of District Agricultural Overseers to conduct the examinations.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: It appears from the reply to part (5) of the question that one agricultural school is allowed to remain in the Central Division, and one in the Southern Division, while all the three schools in the Northern Division are abolished. May I know from the Honourable Minister the reasons for this?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T. KAMBLI: The Royal Commission on Agriculture in India recommended that agricultural bias classes should be encouraged in primary schools and that these agricultural schools should be abolished; also, Government have adopted the policy of retrenchment. These are the reasons why these agricultural schools have been abolished

Mr. M. H. MEHTA: Is it not necessary that the examiners of these agricultural bias classes should have a knowledge of agriculture?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is asking for an opinion. What is the question ?

Mr M. H. MEHTA: The question is this Is it not necessary that most of the examiners of these classes should have a knowledge of agriculture ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: This is also asking for an opinion.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI It appears from the replies that are given by the Honourable Minister that there are 79 agricultural bias classes, that all of them are under the control of the Educational Department and financed by that department, and also examined by the educational authorities, except the two schools Therefore, it appears that the post of Inspector of Agricultural Schools is superfluous

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T. KAMBLI. It is not superfluous It is absolutely necessary

VILLAGE PANCHAYATS: ELECTION BY BALLOT

*Rao Saheb B G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) Have Government received any complaints concerning the present system of election by show of hands from any village panchayats in the Northern Division stating that it has been found to be rather cumbrous, inconvenient and inefficacious in various cases and has conduced more or less to defeat the object and spirit of genuine election and failed to secure real popular and free election in various cases, and requesting Government to replace it by the system of election by ballot as early as possible ?

(2) Do Government intend to introduce the system of election by ballot for the election of members on the village panchayats as early as possible ?

(3) Was any special committee appointed by Government to make suggestions and recommendations for the amendment of the Village Panchayat Act ?

(4) If so, has the committee submitted its final report, and if so, on what date ?

(5) (i) Do Government intend to introduce any bill for the amendment of the Village Panchayat Act during the lifetime of the present Council ;

(ii) if not, what are the reasons for postponing the measure for such a long time ?

(6) (i) What recommendations have been made by the said committee with regard to the system of election to be adopted in the election of members to the Village Panchayat ;

(ii) have the said recommendations been made unanimously by the committee ?

(7) Is there any special objection to putting the recommendation of the said committee with regard to the holding of elections for the village panchayats immediately, pending the introduction of the bill to amend the Village Panchayat Act as a whole at some convenient time hereafter ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: (1), (2) and (3) Yes.

(4) Yes, in 1926.

(5) (i) Not in the present Session, but they will do so at the earliest opportunity.

(ii) The matter requires very careful consideration.

(6) The recommendation of the Committee is that provision should be made in the election rules to allow either of the two methods of election (viz., by show of hand and by ballot) to be allowed at the Collector's discretion. This recommendation is unanimous.

(7) The suggestion is being considered.

Rao Saheb B G. DESAI: From the replies of the Honourable Minister it appears that the report of the Committee to suggest amendments in the Village Panchayats Act was submitted in the year 1926. In reply to the question, what are the reasons for postponing the measure for such a long time, the reply is that the matter requires very careful consideration. Five years have already elapsed. May I know how many more years will elapse before that careful consideration is reached by Government?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: As the honourable member may be aware, the Village Panchayats Act is proposed to be amended, and I said in the last Council session at Poona that the new Bill would be introduced next year So, I do not think there is any cause for anxiety on the part of the honourable member as regards any further delay

SCHOOL MISTRESSES: MISSION TRAINING COLLEGES.

*Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Director of Public Instruction, Poona, has issued orders to local self-governing bodies, e.g., district and taluka local boards, municipalities, etc., not to employ any Indian Christian school mistress who has been educated at the Mission Girls' Training Colleges of Borsad and Godhra without obtaining the permission of the Principals of the two Mission colleges;

(b) whether these circulars were issued by the Director of Public Instruction, Poona, at the instance of the missionaries or by the Director of Public Instruction himself;

(c) what is the ultimate object sought to be achieved by these circulars?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD. (a) No.

(b) and (c) Do not arise.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT, SIND: MUSLIMS.

*Khan Bahadur GHULAM NABI SHAH (Thar Parkar District): (i) Will Government be pleased to state the number of Muslims and Non-Muslims, holding the following posts in the Public Works Department in Sind:

(1) Executive Engineers; (2) Assistant Engineers—(a) Permanent, (b) Temporary, (3) Sub-divisional Officers—(a) Permanent, (b) Temporary; (4) Overseers—(a) Permanent, (b) Temporary; (5) Canal Assistants; (6) Abdars, (7) Darogas; (8) Head clerks of (a) Chief Engineer in Sind, (b) Superintending Engineers, (c) Executive Engineers; (9) Accountants (Divisional); (10) other clerical establishment?

(ii) Is it a fact that on the amalgamation of the Barrage Canals and the Sind Canals, only permanent hands will be retained in service?

(iii) If so, have Government taken any steps to give effect to their policy of giving 50 per cent. of appointments to Muslims?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (i) The required information is given in the attached statement.

(ii) No.

(iii) Does not arise.

Statement showing the number of Muslims and Non-Muslims holding certain posts in Sind Public Works Department

Serial No.	Name of post	Muslims	Non-Muslims	Total	Remarks
1	Executive Engineers (Permanent and Temporary)	1	30	31
2	Assistant Engineers—
	(a) Permanent	5	60	65
	(b) Temporary	6	45	51
3	Sub-divisional Officers—
	(a) Permanent	5	72	77	*Sub-divisional charges are held by Assistant Executive Engineers, Assistant Engineers, Supervisors and Overseers Such of the Assistant Engineers and Overseers as are holding Sub-divisional charges are therefore included here as well as in items 2 and 4.
	(b) Temporary	5	56	61
4	Overseers—
	(a) Permanent	4	89	93
	(b) Temporary	44	233	277
5	Canal Assistants (Temporary)	4	6	10
6	Abdars (Temporary)	16	51	67
7	Darogas (Temporary)	86	135	221
8	Head Clerks (Permanent and Temporary)—
	(a) Chief Engineer in Sind	..	1	1
	(b) Superintending Engineers	..	7	7
	(c) Executive Engineers	3	28	31
9	Accountants (Divisional) (Permanent and Temporary)	..	40	40
10	Other clerical establishment (Permanent and temporary)	144	478	622

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: What is the policy of Government? To promote temporary assistant engineers to permanent places, after the amalgamation of the Barrage canals with the Sind canals?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: There will be the permanent men, but some temporary engineers also will be made permanent.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: Will all the temporary engineers be made permanent?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Some of them.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: What will be the percentage?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I cannot say what percentage. It all depends on their qualifications and the reports on their work received from their superior officers.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Is it a fact that only eleven persons have been recommended to be brought on the permanent cadre?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I would ask for notice of the question, to enable me to give the exact figures.

FLOODS, RATNAGIRI DISTRICT: RELIEF.

*Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): (1) Will Government be pleased to state the exact amount of the Famine Relief Fund which is with the Government of Bombay at present?

(2) Do Government contemplate utilising any part of it towards the relief of those who have suffered by the recent floods in the Ratnagiri District?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (1) The opening balance on 1st April 1931 was Rs. 75,33,199.

(2) Yes. Government have sanctioned a grant of Rs. 6,000 for gratuitous relief in the Ratnagiri District from the Fund.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Has any amount been actually spent out of this amount of Rs. 6,000?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I shall want notice of that; but I believe it has all been spent. If not, it will probably be spent in the course of the next month or so.

WATER-SUPPLY, KARMALA.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the scarcity of water at Karmala, a taluka place in the district of Sholapur;

(b) whether they have any scheme under contemplation for water supply there;

(c) whether they have received any proposal for a scheme from the Municipality of Karmala in the matter?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) A scheme was drawn up in 1917. Owing to fall in prices in 1923, the estimates of the scheme were reviewed and the net cost was reduced to Rs. 1,80,000 approximately. In 1927 the Collector reported that the Municipality was willing to finance the scheme but desired that the estimates should be reviewed again. Accordingly the estimates were again revised in 1927. The revised net and gross cost of the scheme was respectively Rs 1,97,000 and Rs. 2,53,000. The Collector then intimated that it was impossible for the Municipality to contemplate a scheme costing nearly 2 lakhs of rupees and enquired if the cost of the scheme could be further reduced to Rs. 1 lakh The scheme has been recently again revised. The net cost (exclusive of centage charges) now amounts to Rs 1,60,000 The final proposals of the Municipality are awaited.

LIQUOR SHOPS : SHOLAPUR DISTRICT.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have under consideration a proposal to increase the number of licensed liquor shops in the district of Sholapur,

(b) if so, whether it is in consonance with the policy laid down by Government ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

JAMALPUR TOWN PLANNING SCHEME, AHMEDABAD

*Mr. A. K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the arbitrator in the Jamalpur Town Planning Scheme, Ahmedabad No 1, was not in favour of promulgating the scheme;

(b) whether he had expressed his view in the following words in his reasons of award, dated 5th July 1923:

> "The absence of even a single building on the existing roads cannot be explained otherwise than the fact that this area is not held much in favour of the Ahmedabad public. Had I been consulted before the local authority declared its intention to prepare this town planning scheme, I should certainly have advised them to leave this scheme, etc.";

(c) whether it is a fact that the Ahmedabad Municipality, i e. the Local Authority, had stated in its address to His Excellency the Governor of Bombay in December 1929 that the Jamalpur Town Planning Scheme had not proved attractive to the residential population;

(d) whether it is a fact that after a period of six years since the 1st September 1925, on which date the final sanction to the scheme was given, about two dwelling houses only have been constructed in the area covered by the scheme;

(e) whether it is a fact that the municipality in its Administration Report of the year 1930-31 has stated in section 9, paragraph 6, that the Jamalpur Town Planning Scheme has however proved a failure as anticipated ;

(f) if replies to (a) to (e) be in the affirmative, whether they contemplate taking any action in the matter so as to relieve the difficulties and anxieties of the owners of the plots who have to pay high contributions for which they do not get any return ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM J VAKIL : (a) No such opinion was received from the Arbitrator when the declaration of intention of the Ahmedabad Municipality under section 9 (2) and the draft scheme under section 14 (2) were published in the Bombay Government Gazette and the press. But the Arbitrator appears to have expressed an opinion before the final scheme was sanctioned (b) Yes, in his award dated the 22nd September 1923, and not 5th July 1923 as stated by the Honourable Member.

(c) and (e) Yes.

(d) No. Since 1st September 1925, seventeen houses have been constructed.

(f) No.

Mr. A K RESALDAR : The replies to almost all parts of the question are in the affirmative. That being so, will the Honourable Minister be pleased to tell us why Government do not like to remove the difficulties and grievances of the owners of the plots in the town planning scheme ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL. It is very clear from the reply that the first time Government came to know of the opinion of the arbitrator was after the scheme was complete, and it was a matter entirely between the municipality and the owners of the plots to settle the differences if any existed Moreover, it is not at all clear as to what kind of relief the honourable member contemplates. The municipality has already given a concession by agreeing to take the price by instalments, and to charge the very low rate of 4½ per cent. interest. I have already said in reply to part (f) that it is not possible for Government now to think of any further relief

URDU TRAINING SCHOOL, AHMEDABAD.

*Mr A K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to give the following information in connection with the 1st year examination of the Urdu Training School, Ahmedabad, held in April 1931 .—

(i) the number of students who appeared for the examination ;

(ii) the number of students who passed in all subjects ;

(iii) the number of students who passed with grace marks ;

(iv) the number of students who were allowed to pass as a special case by the Director of Public Instruction ;

(v) the number of students who failed in the practical teaching test alone ; and

(vi) the names of the examiners in practical teaching and whether all of them knew Urdu ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (i) to (v) The following statement contains the required information :—

(i)	(ii)	(iii)	(iv)	(v)
21	5	5	2	7

(vi) Messrs. K. G. Gidwani and I A. Ahmadi Yes.

URDU TRAINING SCHOOL AND URDU PRACTISING SCHOOL

*Mr. A. K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that the post of the First Assistant of the Urdu Training School and the post of the Head Master of the Urdu Practising School at Ahmedabad have been kept vacant for long ; if so, whether they intend to fill up these posts soon ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Yes, for some time, but they have since been filled up

FLOODS, MALVAN TALUKA : GOVERNMENT INFORMATION.

*Mr. A. N SURVE (Bombay City, North): Will Government kindly state—

(a) the date or dates on which floods occurred and caused damage in the Malvan Taluka of the Ratnagiri District,

(b) the date on which the first information of it was received from—

(i) the District Officer, and

(ii) any other source or sources, specifying it or them,

(c) if Government received information from any other source before they received the same from the District Officer, have they inquired why they were not apprised of the occurrence by the District Officer ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) 24th and 25th July 1931.

(b) On 28th July 1931 the Collector of Ratnagiri reported the general heavy rainfall throughout the Ratnagiri District which caused the floods and he gave further information about the floods in the Malwan Taluka in the weekly season telegram dated 3rd August 1931 Similar information was received by Government from the Honourable Member, Mr. A. N. Surve, on the same date.

(c) Does not arise.

LARKANA MUNICIPALITY : ELECTED AND NOMINATED MEMBERS.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that they have refused to sanction the proposal of the Larkana Municipality to re-constitute its board ?

(b) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, what are the reasons therefor ?

(c) What were the recommendations of the Collector of Larkana and the Commissioner in Sind with regard to the elected representation on the Board in accordance with the latest census figures and reduction of nominated members ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to place the papers, relating to the subject, on the Council table ?

(e) How many times has the Municipality of Larkana protested through their yearly administration reports, resolutions or otherwise against the present number of the nominated members on their Board ?

(f) What have been the reasons in each case for disagreeing with the Municipality ?

(g) Is it a fact that they have appointed six nominated members on the Larkana Municipal Board from the very start in the year 1918, when the Municipality was for the first time changed into an elected one ?

(h) In what other Municipal Boroughs in the whole of the Presidency including Sind is the nominated element the maximum (i.e. one-fifth of the whole strength of the members) like in the Larkana Municipal Borough ?

(i) Do Government propose to reduce the nominated element and fix the number of elected members according to the latest census figures ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) Pending the final publication of the census figures of 1931, it was considered not desirable to disturb the present constitution.

(c) Government are not prepared to disclose the recommendations of their officers.

(d) They place on the Council table copies of the Municipal President's letter of 19th May 1931 and of Government memorandum dated 24th June 1931

(e) Three times by resolutions passed by the Municipality at their meetings held on 3rd May 1927, 13th January 1928, 12th May 1931 and twice in the administration reports for the years 1927-28 and 1928-29

(f) As a safeguard, the local communal situation being somewhat difficult.

(g) Yes.

(h) Ahmedabad, Broach, Surat, Dhulia, Poona Suburban, Lonavla, Satara City, Sholapur, Pandharpur, Belgaum Bijapur, Dharwar, Hubli, Gadag-Betgeri and Kurla.

(i) No, not at present.

No. 126 of 1931-32.

MUNICIPAL OFFICE

Larkana, 19th May 1931.

From—K B Haji Ameerali Lahori, President, Larkana Municipality,

To—The Commissioner in Sind, Karachi.

Sir,

I have the honour to forward in triplicate the resolution passed by the Larkana Municipality at their special meeting of the General Board held on 12th May 1931 and request you to move the Government to make, at a very early date, necessary amendments in the Election Rules of the Larkana Municipality under section 10 (c) of Act XVIII of 1925, sanctioned by Government in their resolution No. 7030, dated 28th November 1927, as the term of the present Board expires on 31st August 1931 and the general elections will take place on or about the middle of August 1931. If the matter is delayed, the old order will prevail, with the result that the resolutions passed by the Board will remain a nullity till the next general elections are held, i.e., till 1934 and the object of the resolutions will be frustrated.

In all the local bodies, the principle hitherto followed has been to allow representation to the Muhammadan and Non-Muhammadan communities on the population basis.

Following the same principle in the present instance, I have the honour to request that the Government will be pleased to sanction the said amendments as early as possible, so that the amendments may be put into effect in the ensuing general elections.

In 1921, according to the census figures, the population of Non-Muhammadans was 10,726 and the population of Muhammadans was 6,923. On this basis, the number of non-Muhammadan members was 14 and that of Muhammadans was 10, when the total strength of the Board was 30, six being nominated by Government. The Board, in the year 1927 considered this, as not in keeping with the population basis and therefore they passed a resolution on 3rd May 1927, that the number of non-Muhammadan members should, on the population basis, be 15 and that of Muhammadans 9 and moved the Government to adopt that ratio. The Government, on receiving this recommendation, changed the number of non-Muhammadans from 14 into 15, but retained the number of Muhammadans at the original figure 10, thereby increasing the total strength of the Board from 30 to 31—vide Government Resolution No. 7030, dated 28th November 1927.

As regards the reduction of nominated element, it may not be out of place to point out that in the Larkana Municipality, the number of nominated members has been six from the very start that is from the year 1918, when the Municipality was, for the first time, changed into an elected one. The present City Municipalities Act admits of the Municipal Board being entirely elected and in other municipalities in Sind as well as in the Presidency, the usual practice has been to fix the nominated element at 1/9th of the total strength of the Board and it is only in this municipality that the Government have been pleased to fix it at 1/5th of the total strength. It is an anomaly. The sooner it is done away with, the better for all concerned. This Board had, on a previous occasion too, in their Resolution No. 1, dated 13th January 1928, recommended that the nominated element should be reduced from 6 to 3 and the Commissioner in Sind had, while forwarding the said resolution, recommended that it should be reduced from 6 to 4, but the Government, in spite of that, retained the same number of 6. The Board has now passed the present resolution that the number should be four instead of six, which should in all fairness meet with the approval of Government.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
(Signed)..... for President,
Larkana Municipality.

Larkana, 15th May 1931.

Respectfully submitted through the Collector of Larkana.

No. S. 90 (147) A.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 24th June 1931.

SUBJECT—Election Rules.—Larkana Municipality.
Amendment of rule 3 of — Memorandum.

The undersigned presents compliments to the Commissioner in Sind, and with reference to his memorandum No. 11674-G, dated the 15th June 1931, regarding the proposed amendment of rule 3, schedule A of the election rules of the Larkana Municipality, is directed to state that Government agree with him that the existing constitution of the board of the Municipality should not be disturbed pending the final publication of the census figures. The Commissioner is requested to inform the Municipality that their proposal cannot be sanctioned.

By order of the Government of Bombay
(Transferred Departments),

(Sd.) J. B. FERNANDES,

Under Secretary to the Government of Bombay,
General Department.

To

The Commissioner in Sind.

Mr S. S. TOLANI: As regards part (c), may I know what objection Government have for disclosing the recommendations of the Collector of Larkana and the Commissioner in Sind to this House?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: There are no concrete proposals made; it was only correspondence, which Government do not think it is desirable in the interest of the public to make public

GAIRAN, NANDGAON TALUKA.

*Rao Saheb R. V VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state the number of villages in the Nandgaon Taluka of the Nasik District which have not got Gairan for the village cattle according to the scale of 2 heads of cattle per acre?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: 34 villages.

BORING MACHINES, LOCAL BOARDS.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they intend to give their boring machines to the different District Local Boards who have asked for them for use in their respective districts;

(b) whether they consulted the different Local Boards asking them whether the boards required boring machines before they finally disposed of them?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T. KAMBLI: (a) and (b) The Director of Agriculture has been authorised to sell such of the machines as are not now required by his Department. The machines have been valued, with or without repairs, and their prices fixed. A list of these machines will be furnished by the Agricultural Department to public bodies interested in boring machinery and District Local Boards in due course. It will then be open to the District Local Boards to purchase the machines which they require.

Rao Saheb R V. VANDEKAR Were there any consultations with any of the local boards as regards the disposal of the boring machines?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T KAMBLI: So far as my memory goes, there were some representations from some of the local boards.

Rao Saheb R V. VANDEKAR. Did Government agree to the suggestions of the local boards?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T KAMBLI: No.

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR. Why?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S T KAMBLI Because it was not found feasible to do so.

CROPS, NASIK DISTRICT: AVERAGE OUTTURN.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what is the normal outturn per acre of the chief crops of the Nasik District, which are taken into consideration for the purpose of annual crop annewari;

(b) the normal outturn for each taluka of the Nasik District?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) and (b) A statement giving the information required is laid on the Council table.

Nasik (normal outturn per acre).

Crop.	Nasik.	Sinnar.	Igatpuri.	Dindori.	Niphad.	Chandor.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.
Rice Clean—Unirrigated ..	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080
Wheat—Irrigated ..	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320
Unirrigated ..	490	490	440	490	550	430
Spelt	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500
Jowari—Kharif	520	520	520	520	520	520
Rabi	1,450	1,450	..	..	1,450	1,450
Bajri—Unirrigated ..	400	400	300	300	350	400
Ragi—Irrigated	1,400	1,400	1,400	1,400	1,400	1,400
Unirrigated ..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Gram—Irrigated ..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Unirrigated ..	370	370	350	350	370	350
Linseed—Dry	360	360	360	360	360	360
Sesame—Dry	400	400	400	400	400	400
Sugarcane—Irrigated ..	7,000	7,000	7,000	7,000	7,000	7,000
Cotton Cleaned—Dry ..	..	..	..	..	..	100
Rape and Mustard—Dry ..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Kodra—Dry	..	..	..	..	..	..
Groundnut—Irrigated ..	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500
Dry ..	..	..	..	..	..	..

Crop.	Yeola.	Nandgaon.	Malegaon.	Baglan.	Kalwan.	Peint.	District average.
1	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.	Lbs.
Rice Clean—Unirrigated ..	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080	1,080
Wheat—Irrigated ..	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320	1,320
Unirrigated ..	490	440	440	440	440	380	460
Spelt	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500	1,500
Jowari—Kharif	520	520	520	520	520	520	520
Rabi	1,450	1,330	1,450	1,330	1,220	..	1,400
Bajri—Unirrigated ..	350	400	400	350	350	..	360
Ragi—Irrigated	1,400	1,400	1,400	1,400	1,400	..	1,400
Unirrigated ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Gram—Irrigated ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Unirrigated ..	370	350	350	350	350	290	350
Linseed—Dry	360	360	360	360	360	..	360
Sesame—Dry	400	400	400	400	400	400	400
Sugarcane—Irrigated ..	7,000	7,000	7,000	7,000	7,000	..	7,000
Cotton Cleaned—Dry ..	100	100	100	100	..	..	100
Rape and Mustard—Dry ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Kodra—Dry	..	..	..	..	..	..	..
Groundnut—Irrigated ..	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500	2,500
Dry ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..

IRRIGATION SCHEMES, NASIK DISTRICT.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any irrigation survey has been made or any irrigation schemes prepared in connection with any of the rivers Godavari, Kadava, Mosam and Girna in the Nasik District;

(b) whether they are aware that scarcity of water and famines are of frequent occurrence in some parts of the Satana, Malegaon, Yeola and Nandgaon talukas;

(c) whether they have any schemes in contemplation for the alleviation of this condition?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN. (a) Yes, surveys have been made in connection with the Godavari, Kadwa, Mosam and Girna rivers. A project for a dam across the Godavari at Gangapur for supplementing the supply to the Godavari Canals has also been prepared.

(b) and (c) Yes.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

LLOYD BARRAGE CIRCLE: IDLE MACHINERY.

Mr HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the cost of all the machinery in the Lloyd Barrage Circle with details or description such as quarry plant, dressing machinery, rolling stock etc lying idle;

(b) what price would be realised thereon if sold;

(c) whether Government propose to sell them, and, if so, how they are to be sold?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) A statement showing the cost of all kinds of machinery that is lying idle or is likely to lie idle in the Lloyd Barrage Circle is placed on the Council table.

(b) The salvage value of the machinery is estimated at Rs. 61·44 lakhs.

(c) Yes. Advertisements have been issued drawing the attention of all public bodies and likely users to the plant and inviting inquiries. It is hoped to sell much of the plant in this way. Plant not thus sold will be eventually disposed of by auction or to machinery dealers.

Statement showing all kinds of machinery that is lying idle or is likely to lie idle in the Lloyd Barrage Circle.

Items	Cost Rs	Items	Cost Rs
Pile Driving Plant	10,95,949	Electric Power Plant ..	14,07,335
Railway Narrow Gauge .	5,33,124	Steel Sheet Piling ..	23,02,373
Railway Broad Gauge	20,43,761	Miscellaneous Plant .	4,17,571
Pumping Plant ..	2,35,019	Fleet ..	55,73,054
Air Compressors and Tools ..	48,760	Cranes ..	5,75,616
Diving Gear .	15,528	Block Moulds ..	1,00,154
Workshop Plant ..	1,72,484	Mortar Mills ..	2,19,635
Water Supply Plant ..	1,48,836	Quarry Plant ..	4,57,130
Stone Crushers and Concrete mixers.	1,41,835	Stone Dressing Plant ..	2,98,580
		Block Yard Plant ..	1,62,012

LLOYD BARRAGE AND CANALS CONSTRUCTION: ROHRI CANAL AND Mr. S. C. MOULD

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): With reference to the reply to my question, printed at pages 89-91 of Volume XXXI of the Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, will Government be pleased to state—

(1) why discharge for discharge, the mileage of channels on a perennial canal should be at least five times that on a non-perennial canal, when water in both cases is delivered through the same process, i e main canals, branches, distributaries, minors and field channels;

(2) why Mr. Mould was given a promotion from Rs. 1,475 to Rs. 2,487 when there were so many senior to him in the Department?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (1) The reason why discharge for discharge the mileage of channels on a perennial canal should be at least five times that on a non-perennial canal is (a) that in Sind the "duty" of crops grown on perennial canals is about five times that of rice.

(b) that the intensity, i.e the percentage of the area irrigated to the area irrigable, is generally much higher on a non-perennial canal than it is on a perennial canal.

(2) The increase in pay due to the promotion was much less than that mentioned in the question. He was promoted because he was specially selected, in view of his qualifications and experience on irrigation construction works, for one of the temporary posts of Superintending Engineers on the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction project The pay of a Superintending Engineer on this project being Rs. 1,750—100—2,150 plus Overseas pay Rs. 177 and special Barrage pay Rs. 160, the total emoluments which Mr Mould drew on his appointment amounted to Rs 2,087

DISTRICT COURT EMPLOYEES, LARKANA: MEDICAL CERTIFICATES

Mr. DHALUMAL LILARAM (Eastern Sind). Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether the District Judge, Larkana, has been compelling his non-gazetted Hindu subordinates to produce medical certificates of the Civil Surgeon,

(2) whether the note to Article 674, Bombay Civil Service Rules Manual, provides that certificates from registered medical practitioners should be accepted except for very special reasons;

(3) whether such certificates when received are returned to the applicants for counter-signature by the Civil Surgeon or a new certificate from the Civil Surgeon is asked for?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) No. He asks for the Civil Surgeon's certificate in doubtful cases only.

(2) A copy of the Manual is in the Council Library.

(3) Only five applicants out of 17 who produced such certificates were asked to produce certificates from the Civil Surgeon.

DISTRICT COURT, LARKANA: PROMOTION OF MR NASIRDIN

Mr. DHALUMAL LILARAM (Eastern Sind): (a) Was Mr. Nasirdin promoted to the grade of Rs 85—5/2—100 by the present District Judge, Larkana, inspite of his being Sindhi knowing?

(b) Has any report been made to Government by the former District Judges from 1924 and onwards not to promote these Sindhi knowing clerks to higher grades?

(c) Has Mr. Nasirdin been working as Nazir and Sheristedar for the last 21 years?

(d) (1) Was he at any time during his whole service transferred to District Court and (2) if not what were the reasons therefor? (3) Are there any such examples from among the English knowing clerks?

(e) Has the District Judge, Larkana, disqualified other Sindhi knowing clerks from promotion to the higher grade?

(f) Were any representations of protest made on the promotion of Mr. Nasirdin and whether any remarks were made on such representations?

(g) What are the qualifications of Mr. Nasirdin?

The Honourable Mr. G A. THOMAS (a) Yes. He knows some English.

(b) Yes, once in 1924

(c) No.

(d) (1) No.

(2) The matter is within the discretion of the District Judge

(3) No.

(e) Yes

(f) No.

(g) He has passed the Third Grade Public Service and Departmental Examinations.

DISTRICT JUDGE, LARKANA. RETIREMENT OF CLERKS.

Mr DHALUMAL LILARAM (Eastern Sind): (a) Is the present District Judge, Larkana, compelling clerks to retire from service?

(b) Have any men actually retired?

(c) Is it in accordance with the policy of Government?

(d) How many retired (1) during the tenure of the present District Judge, and (2) how many within five years before him?

(e) Is it a fact that he has been transferring seniors to work on less important posts without any fault having been committed by such seniors?

The Honourable Mr. G A. THOMAS. (a) No.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) (1) Three.

(2) Two.

(e) No.

REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT PAY.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to a leaflet attached to the "Bombay Registration Quarterly" for October 1931 regarding the injustice done to the Registration Department in 1921;

(b) if so, whether the facts stated therein are correct;

(c) whether it is a fact that the starting pay and future prospects of Sub-Registrars in the Bombay Presidency are lower than those obtaining in all other provinces of India,

(d) whether the nature of work of Sub-Registrars under the Registration Act is nearly the same in all the provinces of India;

(e) if the reply to (b) to (d) is in the affirmative, why there is such a wide difference between the rates of pay in Bombay Presidency and all other provinces?—and

SUB-REGISTRARS REVISION OF PAY

Dr. M K DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether increase on pre-war rates of pay in consequence of the economic conditions of the Great War was given to the subordinates in all the departments of Government in 1921 or thereabout,

(b) whether the percentage of increase ordered to be given on pre-war pay was given on purely economic grounds due to the war,

(c) if the reply to (b) is in the affirmative, whether the same economic conditions applied to the members of the Registration Department,

(d) if the reply to (c) is in the affirmative, whether it is a fact that an increase of 25 per cent. only instead of that of 75 per cent admissible under the general orders of Government in Finance Department 438 of 1920 was given to the pre-war starting pay of Sub-Registrars;

(e) if so, the special grounds for giving a differential treatment to the Registration Department;

(f) whether the head of the Registration Department had proposed a revision or drafted proposals for a revision in pay on departmental grounds before Government issued orders for a general revision, and if so, what were his proposals;

(g) whether any other department had been given such a low increase on pre-war pay in spite of the general orders in Finance Department 438;

(h) whether it is a fact that many Sub-Registrars had to wait and are still waiting at the maximum of the third and fourth grades for a number of years for want of vacancies in upper grades and whether Government were obliged to grant those waiting at Rs. 80 a personal pay after three years,

(i) whether the limit of three years has now been raised to five years;

(j) whether executive officers in any other department are required to halt at Rs 80 for more than a year ;

(k) if not, why the Sub-Registrars are made to halt at Rs 80 and denied regular increments as in other departments ?—and

SUB-REGISTRARS . POSTS IN UPPER GRADES.

DR M K DIXIT (Surat District) Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the percentage of the number of posts in the first two grades of Sub-Registrars is lower than that in the corresponding pre-war grades and whether in consequence of this percentage many Sub-Registrars have been denied regular increments above Rs. 80 and Rs 120 for a number of years and some have already retired on the same pay ,

(b) whether the pre-war percentage of posts in upper grades was deemed unsatisfactory by the late Sir George Curtis who desired to fix the starting pay at Rs 50 in 1907 ;

(c) if the reply to (b) is in the affirmative, why the percentage of posts in upper grades was not fixed in 1921 as desired by him ;

(d) whether the Sub-Registrars have asked for increasing the number of posts in upper grades failing a wholesale revision to allow them continuous increments up to a certain limit ,

(e) if so, whether their request has been granted, and, if not, the reasons therefor ?—and

SUB-REGISTRARS' PAY PRINCIPLE APPLIED.

Dr. M K. DIXIT (Surat District) · Will Government be pleased to state whether they have applied the principle of " supply and demand " in fixing the revision of pay of Sub-Registrars, and, if so, whether the same was applied to all other departments including Mamlatdars for whom a special selection was recently created ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD .—Most of the clauses in these questions have been answered in one form or another in the Legislative Council at various times since 1921 and they are now of no practical interest. Government are also satisfied that the emoluments of Sub-Registrars are adequate at the present time. In these circumstances they regret that no useful purpose will be served by repeating those replies

PRIMARY SCHOOL TEACHERS : DUTY ALLOWANCE.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District) : (a) Have Government received any memorial from the 3rd year trained teachers of the primary schools of the Surat Local Authority, deploring the discontinuance of the duty allowance ?

(b) If so, are Government aware that the teachers who will be retiring on pension within the next three or more years will be hard hit in regard to the amount of their pension ?

(c) If so, will Government state the action they propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) A representation was received from the teachers but was found to be irregular and immediately returned to them.

(b) and (c) Do not arise

SECOND CLASS SUBORDINATE JUDGE, SURAT RETRENCHMENT.

Dr M. K. DIXIT (Surat District) : Have Government accepted the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee to reduce the Court of the extra joint 2nd class subordinate judge, Surat, and to dispense with his establishment by the 1st March 1932 ?

The Honourable Mr. G A. THOMAS : No such recommendation was made by the Retrenchment Committee.

B. J. MEDICAL SCHOOL, POONA : HOSTEL.

Mr. L. R GOKHALE (Poona City) : (1) Are Government aware that the students of the Byramjee Jeejibhoy Medical School, living in the hostel of the school and the Superintendent of the hostel have not been pulling on amicably during the last three years ?

(2) Are Government aware that the Hostel Superintendent has given a deaf ear to the various grievances of the students during the same period ?

(3) Are Government aware that there is a great inconvenience caused to the students on account of the accommodation of mess rooms being quite insufficient for two clubs ?

(4) Are Government aware that the hostel mess rooms and cook houses are not provided with store houses ?

(5) Are Government aware that the club buildings built for the Christian and Mahomedan mess have been closed for the last five years, as there are not sufficient Christian and Mahomedan students to run messes ?

(6) Are Government aware that the senior students of the medical Schools have to leave the hostel as the examination approaches owing to the inconveniences in the hostel ?

(7) Are Government aware that a large number of the resident students have submitted their grievances to the Hostel Superintendent, the Superintendent of the School, and the Surgeon General, and that no steps have yet been taken to remove these grievances ?

(8) Are Government aware that the number of the resident students in the hostel has been decreasing for the last two years ?

(9) Are Government aware that the Superintendent has announced the terms of quarters to begin from the 1st of July to the 31st of December and from 1st of January to 30th of June ; and that because new admissions are made from the 15th of November and 15th of June the students who join the hostel are not able to get the use of the hostel for a month and a half ?

(10) Are Government aware that this causes great inconvenience to the students ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: (1) Most of the students pull on well with the Hostel Superintendent The grievances of those who do not can only be remedied if more funds are placed by Government at the disposal of the school authorities.

(2) No.

(3) No

(4) Yes, but the old residential quarters which were offered, more than once, for this purpose were refused These quarters, though not ideal, would serve the purpose till the financial situation improves.

(5) The Christian mess has been closed for three years. The Mahomedan mess has never been used But these messes must be kept available for Christians and Mahomedans in case they are required.

(6) No

(7) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to my reply to his other question on the subject printed at pages 89-90 of Part II of Volume XXXIII of the Legislative Council Debates, 1931.

(8) The number of resident students began to decrease only after November 1930. This is due to the increase in the hostel rent

(9)-(10) The terms have been announced as stated. At the request of the students a change as suggested by them is being tried this year in the winter term. The overlap of 15 days in the summer term is necessary in any case to provide for the registration, etc. of the new students, starting of classes, etc. This amount of inconvenience to new students is, therefore, unavoidable The old students suffer no inconvenience as they are not turned out of their quarters before the end of term.

N. J. HIGH SCHOOL, KARACHI PRIMARY TEACHERS

Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City). With reference to their reply given to part (e) of the question put by Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid, M L C, in Council Session of July 1931, regarding primary teachers in the N. J. High School, Karachi (vide page 112 of Volume XXXI of the Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates), will Government be pleased to state the names of the two teachers whose work was not satisfactory ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: No, Sir.

HINDU AND MAHOMEDAN VACCINATORS IN GUJARAT REGISTRATION DISTRICT

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of Hindu and Mahomedan vaccinators in the Gujarat Registration District,

(b) the number of Hindus and Mahomedans who were enlisted as candidate vaccinators in this district during the last two years;

(c) the number of Hindu and Mahomedan candidates and vaccinators who left service of their own accord or who were dismissed or discharged from service during the last two years with reasons for the same ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL. (a) There are 52 Hindu and 9 Muhammadan Vaccinators including those in Indian States in the Gujarat Registration District.

(b) Seven Hindus and 1 Muhammadan were appointed as candidate vaccinators and 9 Hindus and 14 Muhammadans were admitted for training during the last two years ending 31st March 1931

(c) Two Hindu and six Muhammadan vaccinators under training left service of their own accord. No vaccinator or candidate vaccinator was dismissed or discharged from service during the period.

RETRENCHMENT COMMITTEE · EXPENDITURE.

Mr J. S KADRI (Northern Division). Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of meetings held by the Retrenchment Committee appointed by Government;

(b) the daily allowance granted to the members of the Committee,

(c) the total expenditure incurred by Government on account of the Committee?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN. (a) and (c) The honourable member is referred to the information contained in the report itself.

(b) A subsistence allowance of Rs 12 has been allowed to the non-official members in addition to the Rs 8 daily allowance drawable under the Regulations.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES · RETRENCHMENT.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District). Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the offices from which hands were discharged on account of retrenchment from January 1930;

(b) the number of hands discharged, their castes, designation, pay and period of service to their credit at the time of discharge,

(c) the number of hands employed in such offices, their caste, designation, pay and period of service?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Government consider that it would serve no useful purpose to gather the information, which would involve a great deal of time and labour.

PUBLIC PROSECUTORS. BACKWARD CLASSES.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of public prosecutors, assistant public prosecutors and honorary assistants to Government pleaders in the Poona, Satara and Ahmednagar districts and their names, castes and the period for which each has practised at the Bar;

(b) whether any applications were received for appointment to the same from candidates belonging to the backward communities since December 1930 and their results ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS. (a) A statement containing the requisite information is laid on the Council table.

(b) Yes. Since December 1930 there were five vacancies. Two of them were given to candidates belonging to backward classes and one to a candidate belonging to an advanced class It has been decided not to fill the other two vacancies

List of District Government Pleaders and Public Prosecutors, Assistant Government Pleaders and Assistant Public Prosecutors and Honorary Assistants in the Ahmednagar, Poona and Satara Districts.

Serial No	Name	Designation	Caste.	Number of years practice at the Bar
		Ahmednagar District.
1	Rao Bahadur N B Deshmukh	District Government Pleader and Public Prosecutor	Brahmin	38
2	Mr. J. V Saraf	Assistant Public Prosecutor	Do .	31
3	Mr. P K Bhapkar	Honorary Assistant..	Belongs to a backward class.	3
		Poona District.
4	Khan Saheb J P Messman	District Government Pleader and Public Prosecutor	Parsi	15
5	Mr G V Gupte	Assistant Government Pleader and Assistant Public Prosecutor	Kayastha Prabhu	17
6	Mr A A, Khan	2nd. Assistant Public Prosecutor.	Mahomedan	10
7	Mr V D Jeste	Honorary Assistant.	Brahmin .	5
8	Mr. Stan D'Costa	Honorary Assistant .	Indian Christian.	2
		Satara District
9	Mr. D. N Nabar	District Government Pleader and Public Prosecutor.	Brahmin Saraswat.	20
10	Mr. K. D Sathaye	1st Assistant Public Prosecutor	Brahmin ..	18
11	Mr. K. G. Kale	2nd Assistant Public Prosecutor.	Do. ..	16
12	Mr A. B. Vagyani	Honorary Assistant	Jain .	2

BORAH WAKFS, BOMBAY · EXEMPTION.

Mr GULAMHUSSEN EBRAHIM MATCHESWALLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the widespread agitation and numerous demonstrations carried on by the Dawoodi Borah community against the application of the Mussalman Wakf Act to the community;

(b) whether they have considered the position in view of the continued agitation of the community?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (a) and (b) Yes; but Government are equally aware that there is a considerable inarticulate public opinion among the Bohras in support of its application, which is becoming more vocal and voluminous as light regarding the real nature of the Act is gradually permeating the masses

ERODED LANDS, GUJARAT.

Sardar Davar T. K. MODI (Surat City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that since 1918 in riparian villages in Gujarat, whenever any portion or the whole of a survey number has been washed away or eroded by the action of a river, the area eroded is written off the accounts and added to the heading "River Kharaba",

(2) if the reply to (1) be in the affirmative, the law under which such action is taken by the Revenue authorities,

(3) whether Government intend to cancel the general order of the Commissioner, Northern Division, in regard thereto?

The Honourable Mr W. F HUDSON: (1) This practice existed till June 1931 when Government issued orders that land lost by diluvion should be treated as pot kharab

(2) and (3) Do not arise.

POLICE SUB-INSPECTORS. TRAINED AND UNTRAINED

Mr N E NAVLE (Ahmednagar District). (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many Sub-Inspectors of Police there are in this Presidency who were promoted to the posts from the lower ranks and who have had no training at the Police Training School, Nasik?

(b) How many of them have been confirmed and how many of them are acting?

(c) Is it a fact that many of them have been kept acting for the last 5 or 6 years without being confirmed?

(d) Are there any, and if so, what, special reasons for keeping these men acting for such a long time without confirming them?

(e) Is it a fact that there is a feeling of dissatisfaction among these acting officers owing to their not being confirmed for a fairly long time?

(f) Is it a fact that the Police Training School men are confirmed after 1½ years of service?

(g) Are there any, and if so, what, reasons for such a difference in the period for confirmation in the two sets of officers ?

The Honourable Mr G. A THOMAS : (a) 236 in the Presidency excluding Sind and Bombay City.

(b) 105 have been confirmed

131 are acting

(c) Yes

(d) and (g) Only 25 per cent of the Sub-Inspectors' cadre is filled by Head Constables who have not been trained in the Police Training School, but untrained men frequently hold acting appointments in excess of this percentage when trained men are not available

(e) Government are not aware of any dissatisfaction.

(f) Yes.

GOVERNMENT RESOLUTION, FINANCE DEPARTMENT, REGARDING RETRENCHMENT

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Government of Bombay have passed a resolution directing the Heads of Departments to retrench the members of the backward communities in the same proportion in which they stand to the members of the advanced classes in each department,

(b) whether they are aware that the heads of some Government Departments do not follow the orders contained in the said Government Resolution ?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : (a) Government have laid down for the guidance of their officers, that retrenchment should be so carried out in each office or department that the ratio between the backward and advanced communities represented by their present numbers in each category of Government servants is maintained to the nearest practicable figure

(b) No

BETTING TAX, POONA.

Mr HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) the amount realised as betting tax from (a) Bookmakers, (b) the totalisator, during the last Poona racing season ;

(2) the amount realised as tax last year in Poona from the totalisator ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (1) (a) Rs. 1,07,267.

(b) Rs. 2,07,148.

(2) Rs. 2,06,245.

CANAL WATER, KARACHI DISTRICT: INSUFFICIENT SUPPLY.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District) Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Local Officials have assured the Zamindars of Karachi District from time to time in reply to their representations that the supply of water in the district even after the opening of the Barrage will always be adequate and in time for cultivation purposes if the minimum gauge reading at Kotri was ten feet;

(b) if the reply to (a) is in the affirmative, whether it is a fact that although the gauge reading at Kotri was more than ten feet in the latter half of the month of June 1931, the supply of water for cultivation was not enough and not in time;

(c) if the reply to (b) is in the affirmative, whether Government consider this to be a serious situation calling for an immediate enquiry and necessary action;

(d) if the reply to (c) is in the affirmative, whether Government propose to take any, and if so what, action in the matter?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) No such assurance has been given.

(b), (c) and (d) Do not arise.

BARRAGE CANALS: LOSS TO ZAMINDARS IN KARACHI DISTRICT.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the water level in canals in Karachi District cannot be maintained as at present after the opening of the Barrage Canals;

(b) whether it is a fact that the zamindars of the Karachi District in general and of the Shah Bunder Division in particular will be seriously affected after the opening of the Barrage Canals;

(c) whether it is a fact that Government have assured the zamindars to be so affected that their case will receive most sympathetic consideration;

(d) if the reply to (a), (b) and (c) is in the affirmative, what is the nature of the compensation they propose to give to the zamindars of the district?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) This is not a fact but a doubtful hypothesis.

(b) Not necessarily.

(c) The zamindars have been informed that systematic improvements to canals in Lower Sind would be undertaken and they have been assured that should cases ultimately arise in which they suffer owing to shortage of water due to the Lloyd Barrage, those cases would receive the most sympathetic consideration from Government upon their individual merits.

(d) Does not arise at present—vide replies to (a) to (c) above.

CANALS BEDS : PROTEST AGAINST RAISING LEVELS.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received any protest from the Karachi District Zamindars and Jagirdars' Association against the system of rotations and against raising the original beds of canals while executing improvements schemes;

(b) if so, what action they have taken in the matter?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN (a) It is presumed that the honourable member refers to the resolutions passed by the Karachi District Zamindars and Jagirdars' Association on 8th July 1931 protesting against rotations on the Nari Chach and improvements to the Kalri canal. If so, the reply is in the affirmative.

(b) The river was abnormally low in the early part of the season this year and had it not been for rotations, practically the whole crop would have failed. The result of improvements has been satisfactory. No action is therefore necessary.

ABKARI INSPECTOR T. H. SIPAHIMALANI.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH (Hyderabad District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware, that in the procedure leading to the dismissal from Government service of Mr Tarachand Hirdaram Sipahimalani, Abkari Inspector of Sind Excise Department, the rules laid down by Government were ignored?

(b) Whether the dismissal has been made contrary to the recommendations of his immediate superior and of the enquiry officer the then Assistant Commissioner of Excise?

(c) Whether it is a fact that in Government Resolution No. 7170 of 16th October 1883, Judicial Department, it is laid down that in dismissing Government servants, the dismissing Authority had to consider the question of the duration of service, advanced age, consequent reduction to poverty and beggary and also of the future maintenance of the family of the officer sought to be dismissed?

(d) Whether they are aware that Mr. Tarachand has got a large family to maintain and that his children, sons and daughters are being educated in College and Schools?

(e) Whether they are aware that the combined duration of Mr. Tarachand's service in the Revenue, Police and Excise Departments was not less than 20 years and that he was entitled to 1/3rd pension at the time of dismissal and that he has been debarred from getting it?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD. (a) No.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Government understand that he had a large family at the time of his dismissal in 1920 but have no information regarding their education.

(e) Yes.

BOMBAY VICTORIAWALLAS: SENTENCES UNDER PUBLIC CONVEYANCES ACT.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of cases of victoriawallas that were fined in the official years 1928-29, 1929-30 and 1930-31 for driving victorias without passengers;

(b) the total amount of fines imposed in such cases during the same years;

(c) the cases which were punished with imprisonment in lieu of fine during the same years for the same offence;

(d) the reasons why victoriawallas seen driving empty carriages to their respective stands after the alighting of the passengers are deemed to have committed an offence;

(e) the total number of victorias and the number of stands for them in Bombay city during the above three years;

(f) whether the decrease in the number of victoria stands from year to year is due to the fact that some of the victoria stands have been converted into motor stands?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a), (b) and (c) Government consider that the labour and time involved in collecting information to answer these clauses of the question would be out of proportion to the value of the information.

(d) This is not a fact.

(e) and (f). Year.	Total No. of Hack Victorias.	Total No. of Hack Victoria Stands.
1929	1930	119
1930	1898	121
1931	1914	126

OFFENCES BY TAXI AND VICTORIA DRIVERS, BOMBAY CITY.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of taxi and victoria drivers fined respectively for offences against the Acts governing them during the years 1928-29, 1929-30 and 1930-31;

(b) the number of cases of taxi and victoria drivers which ended in conviction;

(c) the nature of offences for which they were convicted during the same period?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a), (b) and (c) Government consider that the labour and time involved in collecting information to answer the question would be out of proportion to the value of the information.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I now adjourn the House till His Excellency arrives.

(The House re-assembled at 2-30 p.m.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. His Excellency will be pleased to address the House.

ADDRESS BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR TO THE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Rising to address the Council, HIS EXCELLENCY said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen,

Since I last had the honour of addressing you, this Presidency has passed through another period of storm and stress, and though we may reasonably hope that the worst dangers are now behind us, even the most confirmed optimist would hardly venture to assert that our troubles are at an end. The ship of State is passing through dangerous waters: there are breakers on all sides, and only by constant vigilance can those at the helm hope to pilot her into the calmer seas which, we hope and trust, lie ahead of us. For this reason, I am laying before you with the utmost frankness the whole position, and I appeal to you, the elected representatives of the people of this Presidency, to co-operate with us in grappling with perils which would, if left unchecked, establish a stranglehold upon our whole commercial and political existence.

On the circumstances which precipitated the crisis so dramatically at the end of last year it is unnecessary for me to dwell here. They are well known to you all, and His Excellency the Viceroy, in his address to the Legislative Assembly at Delhi, has made it abundantly clear that the Congress, or rather that section of it which has latterly so disastrously usurped the management of its affairs, deliberately brought about a rupture in the United Provinces by starting a no-rent campaign at the very time when the Local Government were discussing the agrarian problems with the Congress representatives. That Congress had made up its mind to renew the struggle at the earliest possible moment is evident from the utterances of its leaders, who had made desperate efforts to keep alive the war-mentality. Warnings, repeatedly given, that the people must be prepared to face not lathis but bullets, and that a million lives if necessary must be sacrificed admit, after all, of only one interpretation. In short, Congress was not prepared to adhere to constitutional methods. They demanded, under the threat of an immediate renewal of Civil Disobedience, an unconditional surrender on the part of Government to their demands. I think you must see that, under these circumstances, Government was left with no alternative between accepting the challenge or abdicating.

We decided that the only course open to us was to close immediately with this menace. Procrastination under the circumstances was fatal. The quarrel was forced upon us, and of the justice of our cause I venture to think no unbiassed student of affairs can remain for a moment in doubt.

I now come to the subject which I know must be uppermost in the minds of many of you. I refer to the promulgation of the Ordinances. All of us must of course regret the necessity to adopt government by ordinances rather than by ordinary law, but in this connection I must remind you that emergency legislation of this kind is by no means unknown in other countries. In England the Defence of the Realm Act is a case in point, but perhaps the most striking instance is the recent introduction of the Public Safety Act in Ireland. This Act has been introduced by a National Government and is of a nature sufficiently drastic to make the provisions of the Ordinances recently introduced in Bombay appear comparatively mild. The point I want to make is that there must always come times in national history when the Executive must assume special powers for the preservation of the State. That such a state of affairs threatened us last December is self-evident. When we look back at the history of this Presidency for the last ten years, when we remember the tragedies of Malegaon, Viramgam and Ahmedabad, or more recently, the deplorable campaign of arson and murder carried out by the agents of Congress in Sholapur, or the time when large areas of Bombay were given over to mob rule, for days together, to the entire dislocation of business and traffic, can anyone question the wisdom of Government in taking prompt action to save peaceful citizens from again being exposed to this reign of terror? Congress may pay lip-service to non-violence, but the events I have referred to amply prove the futility of trying to direct into peaceful channels the passions of the mob when deliberately excited by appeals to racial hatred. The Government which allows this sort of thing to go on unchecked is failing in its most elementary duty, the protection of the liberties of the subject.

But as I have already said, the ordinances are emergency measures, to be repealed as soon as the emergency passes. The authors of the Civil Disobedience campaign are responsible for their enactment, and can secure their repeal by abandoning the course of action which brought them into existence. Let me add here that my Government has no quarrel with any political party as such, however widely their views may differ from our own, provided that they endeavour to give them effect through the regular constitutional channels. But we will not permit coercion. We will enter into no treaties with law-breakers. And let me warn those who resort to these methods, that they must be prepared to suffer the full legal penalties which they have deliberately provoked by embarking on this line of action.

I now come to the financial situation. Though there are distinct signs of improvement ahead of us, and India is in many respects in an unusually favourable position to take advantage of the return of more prosperous times when they dawn, I should be failing in my duty were I to conceal the fact that it is still causing me and my advisers grave anxiety. History teaches us that one of the economic consequences of a great war is a temporary boom followed by a more or less prolonged reaction. This is precisely what happened in Bombay in 1865, when, after a short but feverish period of commercial prosperity, the dramatic collapse of the Southern States of America precipitated a crisis in many respects quite as severe as the present one. That crisis was eventually surmounted, as this will be. But the present situation contains elements of danger which were absent in 1865. The first essential for a trade revival is the restoration of law and order, and the presence of a feeling of security. For this reason I am sure you will agree with me in condemning the unpatriotic and suicidal action of a certain section of the mercantile community, who actively support and encourage a movement which may very well bring ruin to themselves and their city. Business must go on, and if it is driven out of Bombay it may well migrate to some other commercial centre never to return. There are signs that this is happening even now, and when the tide turns, as it must turn, there is the danger that we shall find Bombay, which has so often claimed to be the first City in India, passed by in the returning flood of prosperity, if this warning goes unheeded.

The continued closing of the markets adds to the feeling of insecurity which it is surely the aim of all men of goodwill to disperse as soon as possible. It is preventing the despatch of goods to Bombay by up-country merchants and agriculturists; and while it may be perhaps regarded as only a temporary inconvenience by some merchant princes, it may well prove the death of the small and struggling trader. I appreciate some of the difficulties of our merchants such as the strength of social pressure, which are more prevalent here than elsewhere in India. Nevertheless sanity lies in keeping politics and business apart, and with all the emphasis that I can command I call the attention of the merchants of Bombay to the risk they run to themselves, their city and the whole Presidency, in thus encouraging the forces of disorder, and still more in supplying them with the funds without which these subversive activities could not continue.

Fortunately we have indications that a large and growing body of opinion regards with disfavour this perversion of commercial organisation for the ends of political agitation. And my Government is prepared to do everything in its power to assist the growth of this spirit, and prevent the molestation of those who wish to trade freely without interference from self-constituted and ignorant dictators.

I now come to the problem which immediately faces you in this Session—the budget for the ensuing year. I need not go into great detail, for my Honourable Colleague, the Finance Member, is about to address you and to put before you the proposals of my Government for dealing with an unprecedented situation; and I will not anticipate what he will say. But I desire to lay emphasis on two factors in the situation. Only extreme financial pressure has induced my Government to put forward proposals for additional taxation in the conditions that exist to-day. The clamant financial need of the hour is to make the budget balance, and failing that possibility, to reduce the deficit by all means in our power. We believe the task to be threefold: immediate retrenchment, drastic reorganization and steps to the better utilization of resources for progressive development. We claim to have done a great deal in the matter of immediate retrenchment, so much so that any further progress in this direction must involve the risk of paralysing the normal functions of Government, and I trust that the details which the Finance Member will put before you will convince you of the efforts that have been made. But we are not remaining content with what has been done. Some of the retrenchments are obviously of an emergent character, and must as such before long be replaced. I have for some time past been engaged, as you are aware, in reviewing the various departments of the administration, and the time has now come for action.

As I foreshadowed in my last address to you, my Government has decided to take steps to follow up the work of the Retrenchment Committee and is now arranging to secure expert advice on reorganisation of the whole administrative machine. This will not only secure the further examination of such recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee as have not yet been adopted, but will also ensure a broad survey and a detailed examination of the organization of the most important departments. A great deal of material has already been collected and I trust that this enquiry will not take long and will result in the submission of proposals which, it is hoped, may speedily effect a substantial reduction in the cost of the administration. Meanwhile we must all together work to speed up the recovery, which must certainly be approaching.

I may say that I had hoped that my Honourable Colleague would have been in a position definitely to announce the composition of the Expert Enquiry to-day, but this will be done as soon as possible. I have no doubt, Gentlemen, you will also be glad to have an opportunity to make a contribution of your own towards retrenchment, and this we propose to give you by asking you to forgo the October session of the Legislative Council this year. As far as can be foreseen at present, this can be done without sacrifice of any urgent business, but if any sufficiently urgent business subsequently arises, we shall of course arrange to cancel this decision and hold the October session as usual. One possible avenue of retrenchment I indicated in my last speech to you—a reduction in the size of the Cabinet. We have pressed on with the examination of this possibility and now have a complete scheme worked out in detail for a reduction of the Cabinet to four portfolios—two Members and two Ministers. [Applause.] I am inclined to doubt, however, whether it is advisable to bring it into force at the moment, for I do not think that we can contemplate with equanimity the dislocation which such a change would involve at a time when it may be followed so soon by another readjustment when the coming constitutional Reforms are introduced. Meanwhile our scheme is ready in its final form and we are in a position to proceed with it at short notice. I may state in this connection that some time ago I received from all my colleagues a promise of co-operation in any steps which we might have to take. [Applause.]

I have dealt at length at the commencement of my speech with the measures that we are taking to deal with the civil disobedience movement, not because I regard them as the most important point of our policy at the moment. I certainly do not. They have been adopted to ensure peace, not merely as an end in itself but as a means to secure the two ends we have adopted as our policy: the building of a new constitution and the improvement of the economic position of the Presidency. We have promised India a constitution under which she will, in the words of His Excellency the Viceroy, become in due course an absolutely equal partner with the other Dominions under the Crown. It is sometimes complained that the utterances of Government are of a somewhat cryptic character, but nothing, I think, could be more explicit than this. Our committees, consisting of the foremost public men, Indian and English, are working night and day to frame the details of the new constitution. This is not a constitution for a vague and distant future, but something which will be brought into being at the earliest possible moment. It will give to this Council, the elected representatives of the people, full responsibility for the Government of this Presidency, subject to certain safeguards such as are to be found in all constitutions and are particularly necessary in India where minority problems are especially acute, and of which, in view of the present disturbed situation, I do not think anyone can reasonably question the wisdom and necessity. At the same time, there are indications that we have reached the bottom of the trough of financial depression and may reasonably hope that the return of better days is in sight. The main obstacle in the way is the continuance of sporadic outbreaks of disorder, which cannot possibly achieve any useful end and may delay the fulfilment of our hopes. I call upon all patriotic citizens to rally to the side of Government in their campaign, and actively assist us in repressing forces which are militating against the return of prosperity to this great and historic City and to the Presidency as a whole. It is not enough merely to refrain from assisting in these subversive movements. We ask all reasonable men to have the moral courage to work openly on our side. The true nationalist is he who comes to the support of his country in its hour of need and this is why we appeal to you for your co-operation. Do this, and I confidently look forward, before the time comes for me to hand over the reins of office, to seeing Bombay once more occupying her proud position as a great commercial port of India, and this Presidency once more prosperous and contented, and enjoying to the full the blessings of responsible Government. [Applause.]

PRESENTATION OF THE BUDGET.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Mr. President, I rise to present the budget for the ensuing year. In view of the fact that the financial position of the Presidency had been placed before the House in some detail at the recent session of the Council, it only remains for me to bring up to date the facts and figures which were then placed before you and to explain what steps Government have taken and intend to take to meet the situation. Since we met in November last, further revised estimates of the revenue and expenditure of the current year have been prepared, and I regret to say that the position is even worse than then appeared. I will therefore put before you once again a brief review of the financial progress of the year. As you remember, in the final issue of the current year's budget we expected that the closing balance of the previous year 1930-31 would amount to 113 lakhs. In fact the suspensions and remissions of Land revenue and irrigation dues imposed upon us by the economic condition of the agriculturist which followed on the great fall in commodity prices amounted to some 48 lakhs. There was also a fall of 8 lakhs under Excise revenue, and of 5 lakhs under Forests; and though a net reduction in expenditure (debited to revenue) was effected of 19 lakhs, the net result on our balances was a reduction of 36 lakhs, so that we actually entered the current year with a balance of 77 lakhs only, of which 75 lakhs were in the Famine Relief Fund.

2. The budget estimates for this year were left with an excess of expenditure over revenue of 61 lakhs, and the efforts which have been made in the course of the year towards the reduction of this deficit have resulted in savings amounting to 43 lakhs. The revised estimates which have been supplied to you will show the heads in which saving has been effected. I will refer here only to the larger reductions which are:—

General Administration	..	..	9 lakhs.
Police	..	..	4 „
Civil Works	..	..	9 „

On the other hand there have been unexpected increases in interest charges and superannuation allowances amounting in all to 16 lakhs, and it was found necessary during the year to ask for a supplementary grant of 4 lakhs under 5, Land Revenue, though a saving of one lakh has been obtained out of this sum. These additions together with the total of 1 lakh under other heads have reduced the savings to 23 lakhs net.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

3. Coming to the revenue side, the same causes which operated last year have again been responsible for a large fall in land revenue and irrigation dues. Suspensions and remissions of land revenue amount to 19 lakhs, and the fall in irrigation receipts due to suspensions and reduction in the water rates is expected to be no less than 35 lakhs. The continued trade depression is resulting in a further fall in the stamp revenue which is expected to amount to 10 lakhs, and the same reason accounts for a reduction of 12 lakhs in the estimate of revenue from forests. The other minor heads together account for a fall of some 8 lakhs. On the other hand, receipts under various minor heads have increased by 8 lakhs, and the extension of the Betting Tax to the bookmakers has given us a net increase under the head Scheduled Taxes of 3 lakhs. The net worsening of our revenues will therefore amount to 73 lakhs, and the total estimated deficit in the current year will be 111 lakhs. It will be necessary to borrow the whole of this sum, and provision has accordingly been made in the next year's budget.

4. I come now to the estimates for next year. We have provided for a revenue of 14,35 lakhs, which is 13 lakhs less than the revised estimates of the current year. That the fall is not greater is due chiefly to the inclusion of two new items, namely, a larger sum on account of land sales in Sind, earmarked for the payment of interest on the Barrage debt, and a sum of some 16 lakhs, owing to the transfer to the provincial accounts of the gross revenue from the Nasik Distillery. Budgeted expenditure debitable to revenue amounts to 15,08 lakhs. This is 54 lakhs less than the total expenditure incurred in the last year for which we have complete accounts, namely, 1930-31. Lest it should be thought that this represents the sum total of retrenchments effected, I will proceed at once to explain exactly what reduction in expenditure has been carried out, for I know this is a matter to which the House quite rightly attaches the utmost importance. I do not intend now to deal with the detailed recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee: a detailed statement of the action taken by Government on those recommendations is being placed before the House showing the financial effect so far as this can be calculated at present. The Retrenchment Committee recommended retrenchments amounting in all to 36 lakhs, and the Majority Report raised this figure by suggested emergency retrenchments to 121 lakhs. Of this, 8 lakhs on account of stoppage of increments of pay was conditional on the possibility of carrying out the recommendation in all services. The Act of Parliament which provided for the emergency cut of 10 per cent. did not cover such a proposal, and it was obviously impracticable to obtain sanction to this further reduction of emoluments. The condition could not therefore be fulfilled even had Government approved of this further attack on the emoluments of its servants. Again, the 17 lakhs by which the Committee proposed to reduce the Police budget was also dependent upon the restoration of normal political conditions. The current year's budget estimate has indeed been reduced by some 7 lakhs. But it seems highly probable that the re-opening of the Civil Disobedience Movement may necessitate restoration of part at any rate of this sum. The emergency recommendations of the Committee are thus reduced to a figure of about 97 lakhs. The expenditure budgeted for next year has been arrived at after a reduction of the budget demand of 1931-32 by no less than 136 lakhs, and 116 lakhs less than the actual expenditure of last year.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

5. The reason why this reduction in expenditure is not immediately apparent from a comparison of the total figures is the inclusion in next year's estimates of a number of unavoidable items which have not hitherto appeared in the provincial budget, either because they are new items of expenditure or because they appear for the first time on the expenditure side of the budget, and are counterbalanced by similar provision on the revenue side. A list of these items has been given in the Finance Secretary's Introductory Note to the Blue Book, and I will not weary you by repeating them now. I am sure that the plain statement of the facts given therein will be sufficient to convince the House and enable them to trace for themselves the actual extent of the retrenchments which have been carried out.

6. I will refer briefly to some of the main heads in which reductions have been made. I refer to the budget grants for 1931-32 :

Excise	5
Forests	2
15, Irrigation	16
41, Civil Works	31
General Administration	19
Justice	9
Jails	1
Police	7
Education	27
Medical	3
Agriculture	4
Bombay Development	11
Stationery and Printing	2
Total ..	137

7. Now it will be obvious from a candid review of the manner in which retrenchment has been effected that many of these emergency retrenchments are such as cannot be continued or repeated in future, and a rough estimate of the items which will have to be replaced in the budget in the course of the next year or two amounts to about 50 lakhs. It is clear, if we assumed that the maximum retrenchment possible as a permanent measure has already been carried out, that there would be no hope left of this Presidency ever again balancing its budget until a new settlement adds to its resources. Government have, however, no intention of abandoning hope in this manner and they therefore have decided to obtain the best expert advice in investigating the general system of administration, with a view to ascertaining whether it is possible by reorganisation to reduce our general expenditure to a figure more consonant with our resources. It is hoped to secure the services of Sir Frederic Gauntlett, late Auditor General in India. His intimate acquaintance with the administration of all the Provinces will give great authority to his recommendations.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

8. I think it desirable at this stage of my speech that I should acquaint the House with the conclusions which the very detailed review to which our finances have lately been subjected, compels us to arrive at, in regard to the future financial position of this Presidency.

I may first refer to a very common comparison which is made between the per capita cost of the administration in this Presidency with that in other provinces. The reason for the high comparative cost has often been debated in this House and it is true no very satisfactory explanation has ever been arrived at. The scale of salaries applicable to all the superior services, both Provincial and All-India, is the same in all provinces. And it has often been pointed out that the scale of pay of the subordinate services, which is determined by the standard of living of this Presidency, could not possibly be reduced to that of our neighbours. We have, moreover, although our population is only half that of Madras and Bengal, to administer an area very nearly equal to that of Madras and considerably greater than that of Bengal; and it must be remembered that the rayatwari system of land tenure adds greatly to the cost of the Land Revenue Department. The extent to which these factors are responsible for the heavier cost of the administration will no doubt be subjected to scrutiny in the proposed expert investigation.

9. I wish now to draw attention to the fact that, for reasons that I will explain, the comparative excess in the figures which are commonly quoted is unduly exaggerated. There are contained in the gross figures of expenditure of this Presidency two large items which have no analogy in the other provinces: one is the sum received and paid on account of the charges of the large loans taken by the corporations in Bombay City, which amounts to nearly a crore and a half. There is secondly an item of nearly 1 crore contained in the budget as expenditure on General Administration on account of inam lands from which we receive no land revenue. The great bulk of this is not expenditure in the sense in which that term is commonly understood, namely, payment for services rendered to Government to-day, whatever may be the historical reasons for the grant. If then we exclude these two items from the cost of the administration, the comparative per capita cost of the chief provinces will be as follows:—

	1929-30
Madras	3·8
Bombay	6·3
Bengal	2·3
U. P.	2·6
Punjab	4·8
Burma	7·6

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

I have also prepared two other tables which I think may be of interest to honourable members. In the following table I have excluded from the comparative cost the charges of the unproductive debt which has been sunk in the development of Bombay. However much we may regret the existence of this debt, it is a burden from which we cannot escape and one which is peculiar to this Presidency. From the point of view, therefore, of comparing the actual day to day cost of the administration it would be fair to exclude this item also from consideration. The per capita cost then works out as follows :—

	1929-30
Madras	3·8
Bombay	6·0
Bengal	2·3
U. P.	2·6
Punjab	4·8
Burma	7·6

We might go further, from the point of view solely of comparing expenditure which is subject to possible retrenchment, and exclude the cost in all provinces of the charges of the existing debt and of pensions. If we do this the comparative cost would work out as follows :—

	1929-30	1931-32 (Budget)
Madras	3·4	3·5
Bombay	4·9	4·5
Bengal	2·1	2·1
U. P.	2·1	2·0
Punjab	4·0	3·8
Burma	7·1	6·8

10. A study of the tables which have been given in the beginning of the Blue Book, Nos. I and II, reveals very clearly the course of our expenditure and revenue since the Reforms. This study will be in itself sufficient to refute the too easy accusation of "the rake's progress" which is so often brought against the Bombay Government. The steady downward trend of the curve of revenue will account for the exhaustion of the balances that were built up in the war years. It was only the use of these balances and the constant periodical efforts at retrenchment, coupled with the remission of the contribution to the Central Government, and the reduction of the excessive assignment from ordinary revenues to the Famine Fund which enabled the Government to carry on until the disastrous year 1930-31.

11. These considerations make it extremely difficult to calculate the course of events in say the next 5 years. We have probably not yet reached the peak of the cost of the existing scales of pay and pensions and the saving effected by the recently introduced revised scales can probably not do more than counterbalance this steady increase. I have already referred to the necessity of replacing some of the emergent cuts which have been made by way of retrenchment, and if account be taken of a reasonable growth in the cost of the administration owing to increase in population and a normal rate of progress, it becomes evident that even if we assume the restoration of more normal conditions in the course of this period of 5 years, there must inevitably be a series of increasing deficits, unless in the revised provincial settlement some relief can be given to provincial finances. Steps have already been taken to put before the Federal Finance Committee a frank statement of the position.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

12. An outstanding event of the current year has been the opening by His Excellency the Viceroy of the Lloyd Barrage. The financial future of this project has, as the House is well aware, been gravely affected by the world-wide fall in commodity prices. While there is no ground for being pessimistic regarding the ultimate ability of Sind to meet the cost of this great work, the new conditions have compelled Government to revise their forecast: and until some more definite indication is revealed of the future course of prices it has been deemed inexpedient to base any forecast on the unduly depressed conditions of to-day. It seems indeed probable that it will be found desirable, as suggested by the Sind Finance Committee, to recast the settlement system at present applicable to Sind. This would be one of the first tasks to be undertaken by a separated Sind. In the meantime the first items debitable to revenue on account of the Lloyd Barrage appear in the Estimates in the shape of 13 lakhs included in the Working Expenses under the head "XIII" on account of those canals which have now been thrown open to irrigation. Whether any, and if any, how much, additional revenue will accrue to the budget of the next year from this source cannot, at present, be ascertained with certainty. An item of 15 lakhs has also been included under the head "Extraordinary Revenue" as the estimate of receipts from land sales, and this sum has been earmarked under the head "14 Interest" towards the interest charges on the Barrage debt.

13. I may perhaps say a word about the separation of Sind here although we are yet somewhat in the dark as to what is to happen. As the House is aware, the Sub-Committee of the Round Table Conference came to the conclusion that the principle of separation should be accepted, and that an expert investigation should be made of the probable revenue and expenditure of a separated Sind. The report of the expert committee has been published. In his speech of December the 1st, the Prime Minister stated that the British Government while accepting the principle of separation intended to ask the Government of India to arrange for a conference with the representatives of Sind for the purpose of trying to overcome the difficulties disclosed by this expert financial investigation. That conference has not yet taken place. The expert financial committee estimated that the expenditure of which the Presidency would be relieved by the separation of Sind would be 98 lakhs. Retrenchment has since reduced this figure which, though it has not yet been possible to work out an accurate estimate, may now be put at something over 80 lakhs. While it is true, therefore, that the immediate separation of Sind would enable us temporarily to balance our budget, we cannot count on an early decision in this matter; and it is clear that even if the separation proves practicable, the replacement of the emergency retrenchments will still leave us with a considerable deficit.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

14. In the meanwhile it behoves us to do our best with the means at our disposal to set our house in order pending the revision of the Provincial Settlement which must come with the introduction of the new constitution. I therefore return now to a consideration of the estimates.

As one method of reducing the deficit of the year we have obtained the sanction of the Government of India to postpone by one year the annual instalment of repayment of principal on account of our debt to the Provincial Loan Fund. The justification of this is that it saves us incurring fresh debt, in the shape of a deficit, to meet these very instalments. The benefit to the revenue budget amounts to some 12 lakhs, and the postponement of the last instalment of the pre-reform debt will set free a sum of nearly 16 lakhs to assist in the financing of our Provincial Loan Account. The reduction in the cost of our general Administration has been effected by a general reduction of establishments of 10 per cent. throughout the Presidency. This has perforce taken the shape in part of a lump deduction, the detailed application of which is still being worked out. In public works we have taken a considerable risk in cutting down not only the grants for the repair of buildings, but the grants for the maintenance of roads and of canals. The success of this policy can only be judged by results, and we can only hope that this emergency retrenchment will not involve us in too great an expenditure in the future on reconstruction. It is a matter for the greatest regret that the axe has had to fall with such severity on the educational budget, and that in this most important nation-building activity we have had to call a halt. But there can be no doubt that in this particular activity, as well as in others, we can only progress as fast as our finances will permit us.

15. The sanction of the Government of India was received during the year to our proposal to utilise 16 lakhs of the receipts from the Petrol Fund to assist us in the maintenance of our roads. The subsidy has been treated as a loan to be repaid as soon as the Presidency's finances permit. We have thought it inadvisable under these conditions to make any further inroad upon this fund in the next year, and I am afraid, therefore, that the grants for the maintenance of roads will have to suffer severely in common with other branches of the administration. But the reconstruction of roads to meet modern traffic conditions, and the extension of first class communications will continue according to the sanctioned programme to the full extent of the funds from this source held in our balances.

16. On the whole it may be said that the harvest of the current year has been good, and there are indications of a rise in the prices of some of the chief export crops: and, in spite of the suspensions of land revenue given in some parts in general the collection of land revenue has been good. We have budgeted next year for receipts from land revenue and irrigation on the assumption that similar conditions will be repeated. An aspect of the agrarian situation to which I wish to draw particular attention is the effect on our Provincial Loans Account of the difficult times through which the agriculturist is passing. Suspensions of land revenue automatically involve suspension of tagavi loans, and repayment of the huge sums given out in Sind and Gujarat in the years 1927 to 1929 as flood relief has been much slower than was expected.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

17. To sum up, it may be said that, without being excessively optimistic, it will be impossible to increase the estimates of any head of revenue above the figure which we have given. We are therefore left with a gap of 73 lakhs to be covered. For the sake of the credit of this Presidency, which is of the utmost importance, this gap should be reduced, and it is under the pressure of this urgent necessity that Government have proposed the measures of taxation which have already been put before you. It is hoped by this means to reduce the deficit to 45 lakhs. This balance, except to the extent to which the recommendations of the expert advisers may enable us to reduce it, must be borrowed and provision has accordingly been made in our loan programme for this sum. The total loans to which we have now been committed to meet deficits in the annual budgets amount to 198 lakhs, and the annual burden on the revenues of the loan charges calculated on a 30-year basis will amount to approximately 15 lakhs.

18. It will not be irrelevant if at this stage I recall to the House some of the conditions which were understood at the time of its introduction to underlie the Excise policy of Government, as it was based on the report of the Excise Committee. In their resolution of the 12th of February 1925 Government stated that they had no doubt that the Legislative Council and the public would willingly assent to any increased taxation that would be necessary to meet the twofold drain on their resources which the policy involved, and they wished it to be clearly understood that a continuance of the policy would only be possible on such assistance being forthcoming. And in the debate which took place in the Legislative Council in February 1925 the honourable members of this House as it was then constituted made it perfectly clear that the House well understood the additional burden which the introduction of the policy could not fail to impose upon our finances. I venture to recall these facts now because our financial condition to-day makes it abundantly clear that the Presidency is far less able to bear, without further taxation, the loss of its Excise revenue than at any other period of its history.

19. The House will have observed with some interest that the financial proposals have been incorporated for the first time in a single Finance Bill. In doing this we have followed the procedure of the Legislative Assembly and of the British Parliament. It is an obvious convenience to the Legislative Council and to Government that the financial measures needed to meet the proposed expenditure of the year should be incorporated in a single Act, and the procedure will enable the House and the Select Committee—to which I trust the House will refer the measure for detailed consideration—to consider as a whole the general effect and incidence of the proposed taxation. Excepting Part V, which repeals and replaces what is already permanent law, it is intended that the Bill shall remain in force for one year, so that the necessity of retaining all or any of its measures will again come before the House in the Finance

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Bill of next year. I will not anticipate at this stage the more detailed explanations which I will give when I introduce the Bill. I will only say now that in the measures which we have incorporated in the Bill we have endeavoured to restrict our demand to such measures as will, within the limited scope allowed to Provincial Governments, weigh least heavily on the people in general and on its industries in particular, and at the same time spread the incidence as evenly as possible. So far as it is possible to make any estimate at all in the unfortunate conditions which prevail today, we believe that the sum total which these measures will bring in may amount to some 25 to 30 lakhs. I repeat that it is only the extreme pressure of the need of attaining budget equilibrium that has induced Government to propose additional measures of taxation, and I trust that I have been able to convince this honourable House that we have done all in our power to attempt to reduce expenditure to the level of our existing resources. With revenues approximately 2 crores less than they were 10 years ago the task has proved impossible. There is, therefore, nothing left for me but to appeal to the House to realise the grave financial position in which we stand and to assist me in maintaining the credit of this great Presidency.

20. We are passing through times so difficult that many of us are inclined to think that there is no precedent for the extreme state of depression to which we have been reduced. Fortunately for us, history gives the lie to the pessimist and encourages us to hope. One hundred years ago a great Englishman wrote in a time of similar trial:—"The present moment is one of great distress. But how small will that distress appear when we think over the history of the last 40 years;—a war, compared with which all other wars sink into insignificance; taxation such as the most heavily taxed people of former times could not have conceived; a debt larger than all the public debts that ever existed in the world added together."

He went on to point out how progress had inevitably continued, in spite of the pessimists, in spite of occasional stoppages and retrogressions, and exclaimed: "On what principle is it that when we see nothing but improvement behind us, we are to expect nothing but deterioration before us?"

Let us then look ahead with confidence. We may have to reduce our standards of living and administrative efficiency, but if Government can count on the co-operation and support of this House, there is no reason why Bombay should not retain its proud position in the new constitution as the first Province in India. [Applause.]

I may tell this honourable House that, according to the usual practice, as last year we began the demands for grants from the top, this year they will be begun from the bottom.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Is this decision final, or is it open to this side to make any suggestion?

The Honourable Sr GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: It is final.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The House is now adjourned to 2 o'clock to-morrow, Thursday, the 18th February 1932.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Thursday, the 18th February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Thursday, the 18th February 1932, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BAKHALE, Mr. R. R.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.

KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KIRKE-SMITH, Mr. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRA
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JOBBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCE, Sir REGINALD
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.

Wadke, Mr. B. P.
Wiles, Mr. G.
Winterbotham, Mr. G. L.

NEW MEMBER SWORN.

Sir Reginald Spence, Kt., made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor, and took his seat in the Council.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Fishing Rights, Bandra.

*Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Mamlatdar of South Salsette issued notices of auction of the fishing rights in Bandra this year;

(b) whether it is a fact that in connection with that notice, one Anthone Francis applied to the Collector of the Bombay Suburban District to hold the auction;

(c) whether it is a fact that the auction was cancelled by the Collector in spite of the notices issued by the Mamlatdar;

(d) the reasons why the auction was not held?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes.
(b) Yes.
(c) No auction was held.
(d) The current lease was extended for one year.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: The reply to (c) is that no auction was held. The reply to (a) is that notices of auction were issued. May I know whether the auction was not held, because the order of the Collector cancelled the notices issued by the mamlatdar?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Yes, that is so.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: What is the name of the present lessee?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: One Rama.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: What is his father's name?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Next question.

Inam Villages: Starred and Unstarred.

*Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni for Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): Will Government be pleased to give a list of starred and unstarred Inam villages?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: A list of starred and unstarred inam villages (Personal Inams) is placed on the table.†

Agricultural, Forest and Co-operative Departments: Backward Classes.

*Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District): (1) Will Government be pleased to state how many persons were taken up as fresh recruits in the (i) Agricultural, (ii) Forest, and (iii) Co-operative Societies' Departments in the years 1929-30-31; and how many of them were from the backward classes?

†Kept in the Secretary's office.

(2) (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many posts of (i) Auditors in the Co-operative Department and (ii) agricultural overseers in the Agricultural Department were given to persons from backward classes disregarding the question of seniority during the past three years as per resolutions passed by Government from time to time?

(b) How many temporary vacancies in the above posts were given to suitably qualified persons from the backward classes during the year 1930-31 in pursuance of such Government Resolutions?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (1) The requisite information is furnished below:—

Year	Agricultural Department		Co-operative Department		Forest Department
	Number of recruits	Number from backward classes	Number of recruits	Number from backward classes	Number of recruits	Number from backward classes
1929 ..	22	10	13	6	188	152
1930 ..	34	22	9	5	256	211
1931 ..	43	22	4	2	121	107

(2) (a) (i) None.

(ii) One.

(b) 3 in the Agricultural Department.
8 in the Co-operative Department.

BACKWARD CLASS BOARD.

*Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) why they have not yet appointed a Backward Class Board as recommended in the Report of the Depressed Classes Committee of 1930;

(b) whether it is a fact (1) that such a Board is a part of the scheme recommended by the Committee; (2) that the Backward Class Officer is supposed to work with such a Board;

(c) when they intend to appoint a Board?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) The Backward Class Board referred to has already been appointed.

(b) Yes.

(c) Does not arise.

NON-AGRICULTURAL ASSESSMENT, SUBURBAN DISTRICT.

*Mr. M. M. KARBHARI (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of cases in which the revenue authorities in the Suburban District in exercise of their control of building regulations issued notices levying full non-agricultural assessment and fine, stating the amount in each case, in the years 1928-29, 1929-30, and 1930-31 ?

(b) In how many cases were these cancelled or modified by the Collector or the Commissioner in appeal ?

(c) What was the total income of Government from this source during these years ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) The number of notices issued was as follows:—

Year	Number
1928-29 ..	50
1929-30 ..	17
1930-31 ..	102

A statement showing the amount involved in each case is placed on the Council table.†

(b) The number of cases in which the orders were modified by the Collector was as under:—

Year	Number of Cases.
1928-29 ..	4
1929-30 ..	3
1930-31 ..	21

In no case were the orders modified by the Commissioner.

(c) The total recoveries made were as under:—

Year	Amount
	Rs.	a.	p.
1928-29 ..	2,226	10	0
1929-30 ..	1,471	3	0
1930-31 ..	10,776	10	6

PRIMARY EDUCATION: POONA DISTRICT LOCAL BOARD SCHEME: REFUSAL OF SANCTION.

*Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that the District Local Board, Poona, had forwarded a practically no expenditure scheme for introducing compulsory primary education in forty-four villages of their district;

(2) whether it is a fact that Government refused to accord their sanction to the said no-expenditure scheme, which did not involve the State in any extra expenditure on that account;

(3) the reasons for such refusal;

†Kept in the Secretary's office.

(4) whether the promises given at the time of the passing of the present Primary Education Act contemplated such refusal?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) No.

(2), (3) and (4) Do not arise.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Has the Honourable Minister inquired in the office of the Director of Public Instruction or in the office of the Poona District Local Board whether they have forwarded such a scheme?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have not made any enquiries.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Will the Honourable Minister enquire in the Director's office about the scheme? As a member of the district local board of that district, I know that they have forwarded a scheme, but no sanction could be obtained.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: If the honourable member will give me further notice, I will do so.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Will this oral notice not be sufficient?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: No, Sir.

CAUSEWAY OVER BHIMA RIVER: ACCIDENTS.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the dangerous accidents that occur on the causeway over the Bhima river at Pandharpur;

(b) whether they intend to take any steps in the matter?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes. Some accidents have occurred in the past to carts and people passing over this causeway.

(b) Yes. Railings are to be provided for the causeway when funds permit.

PRIMARY SCHOOL, VALSANG.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the primary school at Valsang, taluka Sholapur, was closed by the Collector during the supersession period of the District Local Board;

(b) if so, when it was closed;

(c) how many students were attending the school before it was closed;

(d) what were the reasons for closing the school;

(e) whether any correspondence took place between Government and the Collector regarding it;

(f) if so, whether Government will be pleased to place a copy of the correspondence on the Council table;

(g) whether the school is still closed?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Yes.

(b) On 27th May 1930.

(c) 292.

(d) Indiscipline among the boys owing to civil disobedience.

(e) No.

(f) This does not arise.

(g) No.

Mr. J. G. MORE: With regard to (d), will Government be pleased to let this House know the nature of the indiscipline among the students there?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: It was owing to the Civil Disobedience movement which is hydra-headed; and I can't put my fingure on its particular head.

Mr. J. G. MORE: May I know whether Government have made enquiries regarding the indiscipline among the students there and the nature of it?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: They would not have closed the school without making good enquiries.

Mr. J. G. MORE: May I know whether as a Minister, responsible to the people, he has made any enquiry about the indiscipline?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: The Minister himself does not make enquiries, but the departmental agents do, and they are satisfied that the enquiry was thorough.

Mr. J. G. MORE: May I know whether the closing of the school was known to the Honourable Minister before the question was raised in this House?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I do not think so.

Rao Bahadur R. S. ASAVALE: How old were these boys?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I do not carry their ages in my head.

Mr. J. G. MORE: When was the school re-opened?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I will let the honourable member know the exact date later on, if he wants it.

Rao Bahadur R. S. ASAVALE: Did Government enquire as to who instigated these boys to take part in the Civil Disobedience movement?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have already informed the House that full enquiry was made in all respects.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: The Honourable Minister said something about the hypothetical nature of the movement. May I know what he said?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I did not say anything about its hypothetical nature. I said hydra-headed Civil Disobedience movement.

Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN: Is it a fact that the parents of these boys had taken part in the Civil Disobedience movement, and that is why the school was closed?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I am not aware of that, but if the honourable member will give me further notice, I will make further enquiries.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Next question.

DREDGER "SIR GEORGE LLOYD".

*Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have sold the dredger "Sir George Lloyd";

(b) if so, when and for what price;

(c) its cost price;

(d) the cost incurred on its (i) repairs, (ii) maintenance;

(e) the cost of (i) establishment for and (ii) working the dredger;

(f) the quantity of filling done by the dredger;

(g) the cost of such filling;

(h) the cost that would have been incurred if the same amount of filling had been done by (i) other dredgers in the possession of Government, (ii) dry filling;

(i) the amount of interest incurred on it from the date of purchase to the day of realisation of sale price;

(j) the net loss to Government?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) Yes.

(b) The dredger was sold by the High Commissioner for India in March 1930. The sale price was £17,000.

(c) The cost price of the vessel, excluding insurance, inspection fees, navigation charges to Bombay, etc., was Rs. 33,84,827.

(d) The information is not available.

(e) As the dredger "Sir George Lloyd" was working in conjunction with the I. P. S. "Colaba" it is not possible to work out separate figures for the former.

(f) 53,79,533 cubic yards unconsolidated.

(g) Rs. 26,90,444.

(h) (i) Rs. 36,64,800 and (ii) Rs. 49,76,000 approximately.

(i) Rs. 18,00,000 approximately.

(j) It is difficult to say what the real loss to Government, if any, was. In view of the paucity of demand for vessels of this class as working propositions, their intrinsic value, when they are no longer required for the specific purpose for which they were purchased, is the same as the break-up value. In the case of the dredger "Sir George Lloyd" the break-up value was estimated at Rs. 25,000. The price realised for it was, therefore, much above its estimated break-up value.

SUPERIOR GOVERNMENT OFFICERS: TRANSFERS.

*Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) the number of superior officers in the various departments of Government who are transferred or are under orders of transfer since 1st June 1931 from one place to another;

(2) the causes of such transfers;

(3) the period for which the officer has served at the station prior to his transfer;

(4) the cost incurred by Government on such transfers?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (1) and (3) The information required is obtainable from the Bombay Government Gazette.

(2) Officers are transferred on account of administrative convenience or necessity.

(4) Government consider that the time and labour involved in collecting the information will not be justified.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES, BOMBAY AND POONA: VACANCIES.

*Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) the number of vacancies that took place in Government departments in the cities of Bombay and Poona since 1st June 1931;

(2) the number of cases in which the vacancies were filled;

(3) the number of cases in which the vacant posts were filled on the minimum pay of the—

(a) old scale,

(b) new scale;

(4) the number of cases in which vacancies have been filled not on the minimum pay and the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Government have issued orders that whenever practicable temporary vacancies due to leave up to a maximum period of three months should not be filled, while permanent vacancies due to retirement, etc., should be kept open as long as administratively possible and all new appointments made after 4th August 1931 should be officiating only. The intention is that all new appointments to services and establishments under their control shall be on revised scales of pay and subject to revised pension and leave rules. Pending settlement of the revised scales of pay temporary scales, which are 12½ per cent. lower than the current sanctioned scales, have been brought into operation.

2. The time and trouble involved in collecting the information required by the Honourable Member are incommensurate with its public interest and Government regret that they do not see their way to undertake its compilation.

FLOODS: ACTION BY DISTRICT OFFICERS.

*Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): (a) Will Government kindly state the machinery by which it receives information of damage caused by floods?

(b) Is it compulsory or optional for the Collector to inform Government of the damage caused by floods in his district ?

(c) If compulsory, how soon after the event must he inform the Government about it ?

(d) If he fails to do so, what provision have Government made to obtain it in any other way ?

(e) Have Government framed any rules to regulate the conduct of district officers in such occurrences ?

(f) If so, will Government kindly place a copy of them on the Council table ?

(g) If such rules have not been framed, is it their intention to frame them for the guidance of the district officers ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) to (g) The Collector is required to take action as laid down in section 7 of the Famine Relief Code, a copy of which is in the Council Library.

Mr. A. N. SURVE : Section 7 of the Famine Relief Code, to which I am referring, in clause (d) says as follows :

" To organise, as far as possible, in his district, a permanent charitable famine relief fund, to be devoted to the gratuitous relief of those who need it, to the supply of clothing, and to the provision of fodder for cattle in times of scarcity or famine."

In pursuance of this provision, was any immediate relief of supply of clothing given by Government to the sufferers ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : What sufferers, Sir ?

Mr. A. N. SURVE : Is there any permanent fund of this nature in the Ratnagiri District ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : I must ask for notice of that.

Mr. A. N. SURVE : With reference to sub-section (e) which reads as follows :

" to make proposals for the relief of distress affecting men and cattle when in his opinion the necessity arises in bringing such proposals care must be taken to make temporary recommendations for the suspension or remission of land revenue ", have any recommendations for suspension or remission of land revenue been made ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : If the honourable member means Ratnagiri district, the answer is in the affirmative.

SUKKUR RIOT.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind) : (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the speech reproduced in the " Sind Observer," dated 27th May 1930 of the President of a meeting of the Nawabs, Sirdars and Zamindars of Upper Sind held at Sukkur on 22nd May 1930 where he is alleged to have said that the Satyagrahi Volunteers should be beaten with shoes if they go to villages in the mofussil ?

(b) If so, did Government approve of such a pronouncement or did they take any action to counteract the effect of it ?

(c) If the utterance referred to above was not as alleged, will Government be pleased to state what the pronouncement was ?

(d) Are Government aware that the result of this meeting and such speeches of Nawabs, Sirdars and Zamindars was a serious communal-riot accompanied by loot and murders which took place at Sukkur in the month of August 1930 ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state how many Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors and Constables of Police were in service and how many on duty in the days of the riot in Sukkur, how many of them were Mahomedans, how many Hindus and of the other nationalities respectively ?

(f) Is it a fact that many Hindus of Shikarpur City had migrated to Sukkur owing to the fear of floods ?

(g) Did Government provide any additional police for safeguarding the person and property of these emigrants in Sukkur ?

(h) If so, what was the number of police so engaged and if none were engaged, what were the reasons therefor ?

(i) Will Government be pleased to state the number of Shikarpuries in Sukkur in the days of the riot ? How many Shikarpuries were killed and injured during the riot and to what extent were their properties looted ?

(j) What was the number of Hindus and Mahomedans respectively killed and injured during the riot in Sukkur and what was the total value of property, belonging to Hindus, looted in the town of Sukkur ?

(k) Will Government be pleased to state what action has been taken by Government against the Police in regard to their conduct at Sukkur ?

(l) Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table full particulars of the lawlessness that prevailed in Rohri, Ubauro, Sukkur and Shikarpur Divisions, showing how long it continued, how many murders, dacoities and gang robberies were committed by Mahomedan dacoits ; how much property was looted and how much was recovered from the dacoits and returned to the proper owners ; and in how many cases the honour to Hindu women was violated by the dacoits and which Government Officers were able to reach the areas and when and what help they gave ?

(m) Are Government aware that the Commissioner in Sind, the Head of the province, had when encamped at Sukkur during the riot days made observations on the 6th August 1930 blaming the Hindu leaders of Sukkur in the presence of those of Mahomedans ?

(n) Is it a fact that soon after the 6th August 1930 reports spread in the villages to the effect that Government sought the help of the Mahomedans to put down Hindus ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : Government consider that the labour and time required for answering a question of such a length after so long a lapse of time since the events to which it relates are out of all proportion to the value of the information asked for.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: I gave notice of this question in February last. I am getting the answer after a lapse of one year without anything in it. What is the cause of so much delay?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The length of the question.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Is it not a fact that the Commissioner in Sind, regarding whom the information mentioned in the question was required, is the same person who is working as Home Member to the Government of Bombay now?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I must ask for notice of that question.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Mr. President, I complain to you as custodian of our rights with regard to this question. I gave notice of this question first in November or December, and when I found in February last that the office did not receive any notice of the question, I again gave notice of the same question. After a lapse of one year, I am getting an answer which is practically nil. The matter affects the whole of Sind and the Government are not prepared to give an answer.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Can the Honourable Member give any information as to why such inordinate delay has occurred?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I understand that the honourable member was referring to delay in the Honourable the President's office.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I shall find out where the delay took place.

EDUCATIONAL APPOINTMENTS: SIND.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): With reference to question of Mr. S. S. Tolani published on page 887 of Vol. XXXI of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates—

(a) will Government be pleased to give in a tabular form the following information regarding appointments to the posts of the three Mulla Deputies now called Deputy Educational Inspectors for Mahomedan Education and the Headmasterships of Naushahro Madressah and Mirpurkhas from time to time from the introduction of these appointments or bringing them under the Government:—

(1) names of the officers appointed from time to time;
(2) their qualifications;
(3) particulars of their service when they were appointed;
(4) the number of persons they superseded;
(5) the reasons for their supersession;

(b) if no non-Muslim has ever been appointed to these posts, why have they allowed this state of things to continue?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) and (b) Government regret that they are unable to supply the information as the labour and time involved in its collection would be incommensurate with its utility.

SHOLAPUR MUNICIPALITY: RESULT OF BY-ELECTION.

*Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN (Sholapur City): (1) Are Government aware that the Collector of Sholapur has refused to publish in the Bombay Government Gazette the name of Dr. K. B. Antrolikar, who has been duly elected in the by-election held by the Sholapur Municipality in the month of August 1931?

(2) Has the Collector reported his action to Government?

(3) Are Government aware that the Collector has taken this action on his own initiative?

(4) Do Government still adhere to Gandhi-Irwin pact?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: This question is an old question and therefore requires a different reply so far as 3 and 4 are concerned. The reply to No. 1 and No. 2 is in the affirmative.

The reply to No. 3 and No. 4 is as follows:

The Collector refused to publish the name of Dr. Antrolikar as an elected member, because his election was illegal. He has been sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment and this period had not expired at that time. The Law Officers of Government opined that the release of a person on account of any arrangement does not necessarily or automatically remove the disqualification and therefore the Collector was justified in not publishing his name in the Government Gazette.

The reply to the last question is in the negative instead of in the affirmative.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Do we take it that this gentleman has not been taken as an elected member of the corporation?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: He was elected, but his election was not legal for the reason I have stated now. He applied to Government for his disqualification to be removed and the said disqualification was immediately removed.

VILLAGE PANCHAYATS, NASIK: GRANTS.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state what grants were made to each village panchayat in the Nasik District by Government and the District Local Board, Nasik?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: The District Local Board, Nasik, annually make a grant of Rs. 150 to each of the 10 Village Panchayats in the Nasik District. No grants were paid to the Village Panchayats by Government.

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR: It is stated in the answer that a grant of Rs. 150 is paid to ten village panchayats. Is there any basis on which these grants are made?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The honourable member can get this information from the district local board. It is entirely left to the district local board to make the grants to the village panchayats.

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR: Are Government aware whether these grants are made on any basis?

LEMON GROWING INDUSTRY, NASIK.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that lemons are grown in some of the talukas of the Nasik District, but that there are no facilities for marketing them to the best advantage of the growers;

(b) if so, whether the Agricultural Department has ever suggested means and measures for preserving and marketing lemon juice or investigated the possibility of improving and developing the cultivation of lemons in those talukas;

(c) whether the Department has ever investigated the properties or economic possibilities of the juice of lemons grown in those talukas, and, if so, what have been the results of such investigations?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes. The facilities for marketing lemons in the Nasik District are the same as in other parts of the Presidency.

(b) and (c) The lemon industry has already engaged the attention of the Agricultural Department which has published a bulletin on the subject entitled "A preliminary note on the possibilities of the development of the lemon industry in Western India", a copy of which is placed on the Council table†. The Horticulturist to Government has also been conducting investigations into the problem of preservation of lime juice and its economic value.

EXCISE INCOME, NASIK DISTRICT.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state the income derived from the different excise auctions, as regards shops situated in the town of Nasik and in the various talukas of the Nasik District respectively during each of the last five years?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Statements furnishing the information are placed on the Council table.†

CONSULTING ARCHITECT: BUILDING PROGRAMME.

*Mr. B. P. WADKE (Bombay City, South): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the total number of proposals for new buildings during the next official year and the buildings under construction on 1st September 1931 under the supervision of the Consulting Architect?

(b) What is the monthly expenditure in respect of the Architect's Department including the quantity surveyors' section of the Public Works Department?

†Kept in the Secretary's office.

(c) What necessity is there for continuing such heavy expenditure in view of the present financial stringency and suspension of work ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (a) It cannot be said at present what projects will be provided for in the next year's budget. A list of contemplated works generally approved by Government is appended. Detailed plans and estimates for some of these are under preparation in the Consulting Architect's office. No works are carried out under the supervision of the Consulting Architect to Government.

(b) Rs. 7,385.

(c) Large reductions have already been made in the Consulting Architect's establishment and in view of the pressing need for economy, the question of further retrenchment is already under the consideration of Government.

List of Projects generally approved by Government

	Names of Projects.	Approximate cost.
	Local Government.
		Rs.
1.	Civil Hospital, Thana	4,00,000
2.	New Administrative Offices next to Council Hall, Poona	5,09,816
3.	Extension to the Central Offices, Poona	6,20,000
4.	Central Offices, Ahmedabad	5,66,870
5.	Store and Office Buildings, Lloyd Barrage, Sukkur, Sind	1,35,200
6.	Bungalow for a High Court Judge at Cumballa Hill, Bombay	86,000
7.	Extension and alterations to the High Court Buildings, Bombay	1,50,000
8.	Agricultural College, Poona, Expansion	7,38,000
9.	Civil Hospital at Nawabshah	1,00,000
10.	District Court Buildings, Sholapur	2,18,000
11.	District Court Buildings, Jalgaon	2,13,000
12.	District Court Buildings, Larkana	2,03,500
13.	Hostel for 51 Lady students in Grant Medical College, Bombay	1,09,000
14.	Hostel for 81 Male Students in Grant Medical College, Bombay	1,56,700
15.	Tubercular Ward, J. J. Hospital, Bombay	75,625
16.	Extension to G. T. Hospital, Bombay	12,10,000
17.	Extension to Civil Hospital at Karachi	11,66,000
18.	Extension to Lady Dufferin Fund Hospital at Karachi	3,17,000
19.	Collector's Katcheri at Dadu, Sind	1,70,000
20.	Type Design for 2nd class Sub-Judge's Court in the Presidency Proper	48,000
	Sind	37,500
21.	Type Design for Police Quarters in the Presidency Proper—Revision.
	Central Government.
22.	Additional Blocks of Quarters for three Inspectors and six married Preventive Officers at Matunga	1,67,200
23.	New Building for the Mercantile Marine Department, Bombay	5,00,000
24.	New Post Office at Matunga	34,527
25.	New Post Office at Byculla	89,500
26.	Post and Telegraph Office at Belgaum	3,02,000
27.	New Bicycle House at the Central Telegraph Office Building at Bombay	22,500

Contribution Works.

28.	Anglo-Urdu High School Scheme, Poona	22,59,000
29.	Ismail College, Andheri :—
	Professors Quarters	2,67,000
	Students' Hostel
	Dining Room, etc.
	Mosque

Mr. J. B. PETIT: Why has the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee not been accepted by Government?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: In what respect?

Mr. J. B. PETIT: For the abolition of the department.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: I do not think they recommended the abolition of the whole department; there were various proposals by different members.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: What is then the recommendation of the Committee?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: If the honourable member gives fresh notice, I will find it out, or else the honourable member will be pleased to find it out himself easily from the papers in his hands.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: In answer to (c) it is stated that large reductions have already been made in the Consulting Architect's establishment. I should like to know the exact extent of the reduction made.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The reduction now decided upon will reduce the monthly expenditure to Rs. 3,152.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: The total expenditure is Rs. 7,385. Do I then understand the Government to say that the difference between this amount and Rs. 3,152, is the extent of the reduction that has been made?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The monthly expenditure was Rs. 7,385 and now it has been reduced to Rs. 3,152.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: So, there is a reduction of over Rs. 4,200.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: I think the honourable member is almost correct in his calculation.

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA: When do Government expect to find funds for the projects that have been enumerated here?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: I will require notice of the question.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: What is the good of giving this long list of works, including some items costing as much as 22 lakhs, unless the Government expect within a reasonable length of time to give effect at least to some of them?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: It all depends upon the availability of funds.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: Then, what is the use of referring to this long list, as an excuse for continuing this department?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: We pass on to the next business.

Regarding the question of the honourable member from Sukkur (Mr. S. S. Tolani), it was received in the office of the Legislative Council on the 16th of March 1931 and was despatched to Government on the 18th. The reply to it was received after eight months on the 26th of November. Then it was sent to the Press, and before it was received from the Press the special session was prorogued and it was published in this list. Therefore, the delay was in the Home Department.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: No, Sir. I sent the question to the Secretary first in December 1930, and the office denied having received the same, and then again I gave fresh notice on 16th of March 1931.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

GOVERNMENT MIDDLE SCHOOLS: PROVISION FOR HINDUS AND MUSLIMS.

Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to give the number of (1) Anglo-Urdu, (2) Anglo-Gujarati, (3) Anglo-Marathi and (4) Anglo-Kanarese Government Middle Schools, both for boys and girls, in each of the three Divisions of the Bombay Presidency, separately, together with figures of Hindu and Muhammadan population in each division?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: The information required in the first part of the question is given in the following statement:—

	Government Anglo-Vernacular Middle Schools.
	For Boys.			For Girls.
	N. D.	C. D.	S. D.	N. D.	C. D.	S. D.
Anglo-Urdu	..	2	..	..	1	..
Anglo-Marathi	..	..	..	1	2	..
Anglo-Gujarati	2	..	..	..	..	..
Anglo-Kanarese	..	..	..	..	..	2

As regards the latter part of the question, the figures of population according to the Census of 1921 are as follows:—

	N. D.	C. D.	S. D.
Hindus	3,176,893	5,606,279	4,349,680
Muhammadans	349,337	379,852	455,291

PRIMARY EDUCATION: WORKING.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara): Will Government be pleased to put on the Council Table a statement showing the names of the different local authorities who have taken over control of the working of Primary Education, under the Act, showing in the statement—

(a) The name of the Local Authority.
(b) The date of taking over control.
(c) The name of the Administrative Officer, and his qualifications.
(d) The present salary of the Administrative Officer.
(e) Whether he is an old servant of Government or newly appointed by the respective Local Authority ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: The accompanying statement containing the information asked for by the honourable member is placed on the Council Table. Columns 4–7 of the statement give information regarding the position as it stood on 1st July 1931.

No.	Name of the Local Authority.	Date of taking over control.	Name of the Administrative Officer and his qualifications.	Present salary of the Administrative Officer.	Whether he is an old servant of Government or newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	DISTRICT LOCAL BOARD LOCAL AUTHORITIES.			Rs.
	Bombay Division.
1	Thana ..	1st July 1925.	Mr. V. L. Gatne, B.A.	275	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
2	Bombay Suburban District.	1st Sept. 1925.	Mr. N. R. Bagwe, P.E., S.T.C.	150 plus 50 P.A.	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Retired Administrative Officer, District School Board, Ratnagiri.
3	Ratnagiri ..	1st June 1926.	Mr. P. S. Khadilkar, B.A., S.T.C.D.	200 plus 30 D.A.	Old servant of Government.	Officiating.
4	Nasik ..	1st Oct. 1925	Mr. K. S. Dikshit, B.A.	570	Do. ..	On leave.
			Mr. N. G. Pingale, B.A.	230	Do. ..	Officiating.
5	Kolaba ..	1st April 1927.	Mr. H. K. Gokhale, B.A., S.T.C.D.	680	Do.
	Central Division.
6	Poona ..	1st Sept. 1926.	Mr. R. S. Dikshit, B.A., S.T.C.	740	Do.
			Mr. G. V. Joshi.	270 plus 10 P.A.
7	Satara ..	1st June 1925.	Mr. R. S. Chunekar, B.A., S.T.C.D.	310	Old servant of Government.
8	Sholapur ..	1st Aug. 1925.	Mr. V. V. Sathaye, B.A., S.T.C.	740	Do.
9	Ahmednagar ..	1st June 1925.	Mr. V. D. Ghate, M.A., B.T., T.D. (Lond.).	200	Do.
10	East Khandesh .	1st July 1925.	Mr. S. S. Shirke, B.A.	330	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
11	West Khandesh .	1st Dec. 1925	Mr. D. D. Taskar, B.A., S.T.C.D.	280	Old servant of Government.

No.	Name of the Local Authority.	Date of taking over control.	Name of the Administrative Officer and his qualifications.	Present salary of the Administrative Officer.	Whether he is an old servant of Government or newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	DISTRICT LOCAL BOARD LOCAL AUTHORITIES—contd.			Rs.
	Northern Division.
12	Panch Mahals ..	1st April 1926.	Mr. J. R. Desai, B.A., S.T.C.D.	180 plus 30 D.A.	Old servant of Government.	Pay as Administrative Officer has not been fixed as yet. He is drawing pay of supervisor.
13	Broach ..	1st May 1930.	Mr. N. A. Kadri, B.A., S.T.C.D.	230	Do.
14	Surat ..	1st Sept. 1929.	Mr. G. R. Desai, B.A., S.T.C.D.	290	Do.
15	Ahmedabad ..	Control not yet taken over.
16	Kaira ..	Control not yet taken over.
	Southern Division.
17	Dharwar ..	1st March 1926.	Mr. R. K. Naik, B.A., S.T.C.D.	250	Old servant of Government.
18	Belgaum ..	1st Feb. 1926.	Mr. M. Ramchandran, B.A., B.T.	250	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
19	Bijapur ..	1st Jan. 1927.	Mr. N. T. Jagtap, B.A.	295	Old servant of Government.
20	Kanara ..	1st March 1926.	Mr. V. D. Navalgund, B.A., S.T.C., S.T.C.D.	350	Do.
	Sind.
21	Karachi ..	1st April 1926.	Mr. S. A. Haq, Matric.	680 plus 65 Comp. A.	Old servant of Government.
22	Hyderabad ..	1st Sept. 1926.	Mr. M. S. Memon, B.A., S.T.C.	390	Do.
23	Thar Parkar ..	1st May 1929.	Mr. A. W. Musavi, M.A., B.T.	275	Do.
24	Nawabshah ..	1st Nov. 1926.	Mr. Jan Md. Kazi, Matric.	200	Do.
25	Sukkur ..	1st July 1926.	Mr. Md. Ibrahim Md. Kasim Soomro, B.A., S.T.C.D.	570 plus 80 P.A.	Do.
26	Upper Sind Frontier.	1st April 1926.	Mr. A. G. Kazi, S.T.C.D.	370	Do.
27	Larkana ..	1st March 1926.	Mr. G. N. Kazi, B.A.	510 plus 100 P.A.	Do.
	LOCAL AUTHORITY MUNICIPALITIES.
	Bombay Division.
1	Thana ..	1st May 1925.	Mr. S. V. Samant, B.A.	80	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
2	Bandra ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. K. N. Karandikar, B.A., S.T.C.	180	Old servant of Government.

No.	Name of the Local Authority.	Date of taking over control.	Name of the Administrative Officer and his qualifications.	Present salary of the Administrative Officer.	Whether he is an old servant of Government or newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Remarks.
1	2	3.	4	5	6	7
	LOCAL AUTHORITY MUNICIPALITIES—contd.			Rs.
	Bombay Division—contd.
3	Malegaon ..	1st April 1927.	Mr. K. D. Saokar, III year trained and P.E.	86	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
4	Nasik City ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. G. K. Pardeshi, III year trained and S.L.C.	175	Do.
5	Kalyan ..	1st April 1927.	Mr. D. N. Hajare, B.A.(Hons.).	105 plus 10 C.A.	Do.
6	Vengurla ..	1st August 1927.	Mr. P. S. Mahajan, Matric.	60	Do.
7	Chiplun ..	1st Sept. 1929.	....	....	....	Appointment is yet to be made.
	Central Division.
8	Poona City ..	1st July 1925.	Mr. G. B. Wable, B.A., L.T.	260	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
9	Poona Suburban.	1st May 1927.	Mr. V. B. Bhaskar, B.A.	100	Do.
10	Lonavla ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. B. N. Kumthekar, B.A., B.T.	80	Do.
11	Baramati ..	1st Sept. 1926.	Mr. G. G. Shahane, III year trained; Matriculate.	80	Do.
12	Satara City ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. P. S. Badve, III year trained. Sufficient knowledge of English.	110	Do.
13	Sholapur ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. B. G. Karadkar, III year trained.	130	Do.	Officiating.
14	Pandharpur ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. M. G. Keskar, B.A.	88	Do.
15	Barsi ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. S. L. Vipat, III year trained and Matriculate.	80	Do.
16	Ahmednagar ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. M. G. Modak, M.A., S.T.C.D.	230	Old servant of Government.
17	Sangamner ..	1st Sept. 1925.	Mr. B. K. Kulkarni, III year trained; Matriculate.	80	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
18	Jalgaon ..	1st June 1925.	Mr. S. S. Teni, III year trained.	100	Do.	Officiating.
19	Amalner ..	1st January 1926.	Mr. D. S. Kulkarni, III year trained; Matriculate.	72	Do.
20	Dhulia ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. H. R. Teli, III year trained; Matriculate.	150	Old servant of Government.
21	Nandurbar ..	1st May 1927.	Vacant from 1st April 1931.

No.	Name of the Local Authority.	Date of taking over control.	Name of the Administrative Officer and his qualifications.	Present salary of the Administrative Officer.	Whether he is an old servant of Government or newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	LOCAL AUTHORITY MUNICIPALITIES—contd.			Rs.
	Northern Division.
22	Bulsar ..	1st Oct. 1925.	Mr. Nanganlal J. Desai, B.A., S.T.C.	110 plus 7 Cycle Allce.	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
23	Nadiad ..	1st May 1926.	Mr. M. S. Shah, B.A., B.T.	105	Do.
24	Ahmedabad ..	1st Apr. 1925.	Mr. P. K. Desai, B.A., S.T.C.D.	400	Do.
25	Rander ..	1st Oct. 1925.	Mr. R. K. Patel, III year trained; Matriculate.	88	Do.
26	Dohad ..	1st Nov. 1926.	Mr. A. A. Wazifdar, B.A.	85	Do.
27	Surat ..	1st June 1925.	Mr. G. J. Bhatt, B.A., S.T.C.D. (Hons.).	230	Old servant of Government.
28	Godhra ..	1st Dec. 1926.	Mr. P. B. Acharya, Matriculate.	88	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
29	Anand ..	1st April 1929.	....	..	....	Appointment not yet made.
30	Broach ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. M. M. Dave, III year trained; Matriculate, Hope Medalist.	150 plus 25 C. A.	Old servant of Government.
31	Viramgam ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. C. M. Tripathi, III year trained. 1st grade Drawing and Agricultural Examinations. Knows English.	85	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
	Southern Division.
32	Dharwar ..	1st May 1926.	Mr. D. S. Sirsangi, B.A., S.T.C.	100	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
33	Hubli ..	1st Aug. 1925.	Mr. S. B. Goankar, B.A., III year trained.	160	Do.
34	Gadag ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. P. M. Umadi, B.A., B.T.	130	Do.
35	Bagalkot ..	1st April 1927.	Mr. K. S. Dovur, B.Sc.	81	Do.
36	Bijapur ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. S. A. Shaikh, P. E., V. F., 1st Aid to the Injured.	160	Old servant of Government.
37	Nipani ..	1st Nov. 1927.	Mr. M. Y. Kadolkar, Inter Arts.	65	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.

No.	Name of the Local Authority.	Date of taking over control.	Name of the Administrative Officer and his qualifications.	Present salary of the Administrative Officer.	Whether he is an old servant of Government or newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Remarks.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	LOCAL AUTHORITY MUNICIPALITIES—contd.			Rs.
	Sind.
38	Karachi ..	1st April 1925.	Mr. A. T. Gidwani, M.A. (Oxford).	480 plus 120 Motor Allce.	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
39	Hyderabad ..	1st July 1925.	Mr. A. H. Advani, B.A.	330 plus 50 C.A.	Do.
40	Tando Md. Khan.	1st Dec. 1929.	Mr. U. M. Ismail, Md. Hashim, Inter Arts.	Allowance. 15	Do. ..	Officiating.
41	Mirpurkhas ..	1st June 1930.	....	..	....	Appointment not yet made.
4	Umerkot ..	Control not yet taken over.
43	Tando Adam ..	1st Oct. 1926.	Mr. Chalria Choitram, Matric, S.T.C.	115	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.	Joint Administrative Officer.
44	Shahdadpur ..	1st Oct. 1927.
45	Sukkur ..	1st Dec. 1925.	Mr. S. T. Tawermalani, M.A., S.T. C.D.	180 plus 30 C.A.	Do.
46	Rohri ..	1st Nov. 1925.	....	..	....	Appointment not yet made.
47	Garhiyasin ..	1st Sept. 1926.	Mr. G. N. Nathani, B.A., B.T. (I Class).	140 plus 60 C.A.	Old servant of Government.	Joint Administrative Officer.
48	Shikarpur ..	1st Mar. 1927.
49	Jacobabad ..	1st May 1927.	Mr. A. G. Kazi, B.A., S.T.C.D.	370	Do. ..	Joint Officer for District School Board, Upper Sind Frontier and Jacobabad Municipality.
50	Ratodero ..	1st Feb. 1926.	Mr. H. A. Chhugani, F.A.	140	Newly appointed by the Local Authority.
51	Larkana ..	1st Sept. 1926.	Mr. N. J. Bhambhani, B.A.	105 plus 10 C.A.	Do.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT: PERIPATETIC DEMONSTRATIONS.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District): With reference to recommendation No. 16 on paragraph 138 of the Report of the Royal Commission on Agriculture in India, at page 166, reading as follows:—

"Peripatetic demonstrations of the use of improved implements should be given", will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many implement depôts for demonstration purposes are being maintained by the Agricultural Department;

(b) where these depôts are situated;

(c) what improved implements are demonstrated at these depôts?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) 127 implement depôts for demonstration purposes are maintained by the Agricultural Department, by the Taluka Development Associations and by the Co-operative Implement Societies in the Presidency as shown below:—

North Central Division	41
South Central Division	24
Southern Division	32
Gujarat	8
Konkan	22
	127

As regards Sind no implement depôts are maintained by the Agricultural Department except the Central Agricultural Depôt, Mirpurkhas, where a stock of improved implements is maintained for demonstration and sale to cultivators.

(b) and (c) The requisite information is contained in the statements which are placed on the Council Table.

LIST OF IMPLEMENT DEPOTS MAINTAINED BY THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT AND LOCAL BODIES FOR DEMONSTRATION PURPOSES.

Konkan Division.

The depôts are situated at the headquarters of the Agricultural Overseers and Farm Superintendents and Taluka Development Associations.

Name.	Headquarters.
Agricultural Overseer, North Thana	.. Palghar.
Agricultural Overseer, South Thana	.. Kalyan.
Agricultural Overseer, North Kolaba	.. Karjat.
Agricultural Overseer, South Kolaba	.. Mahad.
Agricultural Overseer, North Ratnagiri	.. Chiplun.
Agricultural Overseer, South Ratnagiri	.. Hatkhamba.
Agricultural Overseer, Kanara	.. Kumta.
Betta Overseer, Kanara ..	.. Sirsi.
Superintendent, Ratnagiri Farm	.. Shirgaon.
Superintendent, Kumta Farm	.. Kumta.
Rice Specialist, Karjat Farm	.. Karjat.
Taluka Development Association	.. Umbergaon, district Thana.
Taluka Development Association	.. Dahanu, Gholwad, district Thana.
Taluka Development Association	.. Palghar, district Thana.
Taluka Development Association	.. Kalyan, district Thana.
Taluka Development Association	.. Roha, district Kolaba.
Taluka Development Association	.. Dapoli, district Ratnagiri.
Taluka Development Association	.. Ratnagiri, district Ratnagiri.
Taluka Development Association	.. Rajapur, district Ratnagiri.
Taluka Development Association	.. Malwan, district Ratnagiri.
Taluka Development Association	.. Sirsi, district Kanara.
Taluka Development Association	.. Karwar, district Kanara.

Gujarat Division.

Eight regular Depôts are maintained at the following places with either a Kamgar, a non-graduate assistant or a graduate assistant in charge, who gives implements on hire as well as for demonstration purposes:—

(1) Bulsar, (2) Broach, (3) Godhra, (4) Garbada, (5) Limdi, (6) Prantij, (7) Asalali and (8) Dholka.

Southern Division.

The depôts of the District Agricultural Overseers are located at the following places:—

(1) Dharwar.
(2) Haveri.
(3) Gadag.
(4) Belgaum.
(5) Chikodi.
(6) Bailhongal.
(7) Bijapur.
(8) Bagalkot.
(9) Mundgod.

The depôts of the Taluka Development Associations are at the following places:—

(1) Dharwar.
(2) Haveri.
(3) Gadag.
(4) Hangal.
(5) Hirekerur.
(6) Ron.
(7) Mundargi.
(8) Athni.
(9) Chikodi.
(10) Gokak.
(11) Murgod.
(12) Bijapur.
(13) Bagalkot.

The depôts of the Co-operative Implement Societies are at the following places:—

Dharwar District.

1. Betigeri Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Hulkoti, Gadag Taluka.

2. Hesrur Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Hesrur, Mundargi Petha.

3. Hosritti Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Hosritti, Karajgi Taluka.

4. Kotumachigi Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Kotumachigi, Gadag Taluka.

5. Mulgund Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Mulgund, Gadag Taluka.

6. Navalgund Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Navalgund, Navalgund Taluka.

7. Panigatti Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Panigatti, Bankapur Taluka.

8. Saswihalli Group Seed and Implement Co-operative Society Limited, Saswihalli, Navalgund Taluka.

Bijapur District.

1. Sulibhavi Implément Supply Society Limited, Sulibhavi, Hungund Taluka.

The Bijapur Anti-Famine Institute has its depôts in all talukas of the district.

Serial No.	Name of Depôt.	Taluka.	District.
	SOUTH CENTRAL DIVISION.
	(Deccan Canals Area.)
1	Implement Depôt at Bawada	.. Indapur	.. Poona.
2	Implement Depôt at Hanthurna	.. Do.	.. Do.
3	Implement Depôt at Sangvi	.. Bhimthadi	.. Do.
4	Implement Depôt at Baramati	.. Do.	.. Do.

Serial No.	Name of Depôt	Taluka	District
	SOUTH CENTRAL DIVISION—contd.
	(Deccan Canals Area)—contd.
5	Implement Depôt at Manjur	.. Kopargaon	.. Ahmednagar.
6	Implement Depôt at Kopargaon	.. Do.	.. Do.
7	Implement Depôt at Karanji	.. Do.	.. Do.
8	Implement Depôt at Belapur	.. Rahuri	.. Do.
9	Implement Depôt at Songaon	.. Do.	.. Do.
10	Implement Depôt at Wadala Mahadeo.	Newasa	.. Do.
11	Implement Depôt at Dharampur	.. Malsiras	.. Sholapur.
12	Implement Depôt at Malsiras	.. Do.	.. Do.
	Poona District.
13	Implement Depôt at Bhigwan	.. Indapur	.. Poona.
14	Implement Depôt at Talegaon (Dhamdhere).	Sirur	.. Do.
15	Implement Depôt at Saswad	.. Purandhar	.. Do.
16	Implement Depôt at Khed (Shiwapur).	Haveli	.. Do.
	Satara District.
17	Depôt at Tasgaon	.. Tasgaon	.. Satara.
18	Office and Store-room and Depôt, Karad Karad.		.. Do.
	Sholapur District.
19	Office of the Inspector of Agriculture, Sholapur, and Store-room and depôt.	Sholapur	.. Sholapur.
20	Office of the District Agricultural Overseer, Barsi, and Depôt.	Barsi	.. Do.
21	Implement Depôt at Tembhurni	.. Karmala	.. Do.
	Ahmednagar District.
22	Store-room and Office of the District Agricultural Overseer, Ahmednagar, and Depôt.	Nagar	.. Ahmednagar.
23	Implement Depôt at Sangamner	.. Sangamner	.. Do.
24	Implement Depôt at Pimpalgaon Pisa.	Shrigonda.	.. Do.

NORTH CENTRAL DIVISION.

Depôts maintained by the Agricultural Department and the Taluka Development Associations.

	Place.	Taluka.	District.
1	Sinnar	.. Sinnar	.. Nasik ..	Maintained by the Agricultural Department.
2	Nasik	.. Nasik	.. Do. ..
3	Dabhodi	.. Malegaon	.. Do. ..
4	Chandor	.. Chandor	.. Do. ..
5	Nandgaon	.. Nandgaon	.. Do. ..
6	Kalwan	.. Kalwan	.. Do. ..
7	Jamner	.. Jamner	.. East Khandesh
8	Parola	.. Parola	.. Do. ..	Maintained by the Taluka Development Associations.
9	Jalgaon	.. Jalgaon	.. Do. ..
10	Mhasvad	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
11	Nashirabad	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
12	Bhusaval	.. Bhusaval	.. Do. ..
13	Bodwad	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
14	Raver	.. Raver	.. Do. ..

NORTH CENTRAL DIVISION—contd.

	Place.	Taluka.	District.
15	Yawal	.. Yawal	.. East Khandesh ..	Maintained by the Taluka Development Associations.
16	Faizpur	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
17	Edlabad	.. Edlabad	.. Do. ..
18	Pachora	.. Pachora	.. Do. ..
19	Bhadgaon	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
20	Chalisgaon	.. Chalisgaon	.. Do. ..
21	Mehunbare	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
22	Erandol	.. Erandol	.. Do. ..
23	Dharangaon	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
24	Chopda	.. Chopda	.. Do. ..
25	Amalner	.. Amalner	.. Do. ..
26	Dhulia	.. Dhulia	.. West Khandesh .
27	Nyahalod	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
28	Sakri	.. Sakri	.. Do. ..
29	Pimpalner	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
30	Nizampur	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
31	Sindkheda	.. Sindkheda	.. Do. ..
32	Shahada	.. Shahada	.. Do. ..
33	Prakasha	.. Do.	.. Do. ..
34	Taloda	.. Taloda	.. Do. ..
35	Nandurbar	.. Nandurbar	.. Do. ..
36	Shirpur	.. Shirpur	.. Do. ..
37	Satana	.. Baglan	.. Nasik. ..
38	Malegaon	.. Malegaon	.. Do. ..
39	Yeola	.. Yeola	.. Do. ..
40	Ozar-Tambat	.. Niphad	.. Do. ..
41	Nasik	.. Nasik	.. Do. ..

LIST OF IMPROVED IMPLEMENTS DEMONSTRATED AT THE VARIOUS IMPLEMENT DEPÔTS.

Konkan Division.

1. Meston plough.
2. Konkan plough.
3. Sabul plough.
4. Deccan harrow.
5. Planet Junior hand hoes.
6. Nor-crosses.
7. Auto sprayers.
8. Peerless dust guns.
9. Bulsar Rahat.
10. Kison crusher.
11. Chatanooga crusher.
12. Levellers.

Gujarat Division.

C. T. 2 plough,
Malwa plough,
Middle-buster,
B. T. 2 plough,
McCormick Cultivator,
Middle-breaker,
Iron Leveller.

Southern Division.

Various kinds of iron ploughs (two-bullock, four-bullock, six-bullock and eight-bullock ploughs), wheat thresher, Disc harrow, Stone roller, sugarcane mill, iron scraper and chaff cutter are demonstrated.

South Central Division.

Ploughs, levellers, seed-drills, chaff-cutters, bullock-hoes, hand hoes, sieves for seed grading, sulphur dusting machines, sprayers, etc.

North Central Division.

Iron ploughs, Iron levellers, Chaff cutters, Spray pumps, Hand hoes, Stone-roller for threshing jowar, Power chaff cutter, tractor plough and winnowers.

PLOUGH TRIALS, JALGAON FARM: RESULTS.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that as a result of trials carried out at Jalgaon Farm, an increase of 60 per cent. above normal in crops was obtained as a result of the adoption of improved ploughs in place of the indigenous ones—vide page 51 of the Proceedings of the Bombay Provincial Board of Agriculture meeting held at Poona on 25th and 26th August 1925;

(b) what steps Government intend to take or have taken in making this information generally known to the agriculturist where improved implements are not in use?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes.

(b) The usefulness of iron inverting ploughs has been brought to the notice of the Divisional Boards of Agriculture and Taluka Development Associations. Almost all the Taluka Development Associations now stock these ploughs and let them out on hire at cheap rates to cultivators. Some Associations have issued leaflets on the subject. Implement depôts have been opened by the Agricultural Department in areas where these ploughs were not well known, and they are demonstrated there and are given on hire on easy terms to cultivators. The use of these ploughs is now well known to cultivators and many private agencies for their sale have been started in important centres. In the year 1929-30 the Agricultural Department organised 65 implement demonstrations in the North Central Division. With a view to making information regarding improved ploughs generally known the following leaflets have been issued:—

No. 6 of 1926.—List of Implements recommended by the Agricultural Department for the Deccan and Karnatak districts.

No. 1 of 1927.—List of Implements recommended by the Agricultural Department for Gujarat.

No. 2 of 1927.—List of Implements recommended by the Agricultural Department for the Konkan Division.

No. 8 of 1927.—Agricultural Machinery and Agricultural Engineering.

Copies of these leaflets are placed on the Council table.*

MANGO TREES: REMOVAL OF FOREIGN GROWTH.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District):—(1) Are Government aware that a foreign growth called "वांधा" on mango trees is appearing in the Surat and other districts in an increasing degree?

(2) What steps have Government taken to remove and prevent the growth of such foreign growths on mango trees?

(3) (i) Was the Director of Agriculture consulted and has he made any investigation in the matter?

(ii) if so, what are the results thereof?

(4) (i) Has any special officer been appointed for the purpose?

* Kept in the Secretary's office.

(ii) if so, what is his salary and designation and where are his headquarters located ?

(5) When was the appointment made and what was the salary of the incumbent before his appointment to this special post ?

(6) What are the activities of this special officer and what is the measure of success achieved by the special exertion of this officer ?

(7) What opinion or observations have been recorded by the Director of Agriculture with regard to the results achieved by this measure ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (1) Yes. The foreign growth is understood to be Loranthus which is a common parasite on mango and other trees.

(2) Mango growers are advised by the Agricultural Department to cut down the growth of the parasite whenever noticed. The methods advocated are fully explained in a leaflet and a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture, copies of which are placed on the Council table.

(3) (i) and (ii) The subject lies within the sphere of duties of the Horticulturist to Government. No special investigation was necessary.

(4) (i) No.

(ii) Does not arise.

(5), (6) and (7) Do not arise.

CANAL WATER, KARACHI DISTRICT : INSUFFICIENT SUPPLY.

Mr. GHULAM HYDER SHAH (Karachi District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Local Officials have assured the zamindars of Karachi District from time to time in reply to their representations that the supply of water in the District even after the opening of the Barrage will always be adequate and in time for cultivation purposes if the minimum gauge reading at Kotri was ten feet ;

(b) if the reply to (a) is in the affirmative, whether it is a fact that although the gauge reading at Kotri was more than ten feet in the later half of the month of June 1931, the supply of water for cultivation was not enough and not in time ;

(c) if the reply to (b) is in the affirmative, whether Government consider this to be a serious situation calling for an immediate enquiry and necessary action ;

(d) if the reply to (c) is in the affirmative, whether Government propose to take any and if so, what action in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) to (d) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to a similar question put by Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid.*

BARRAGE CANALS : LOSS TO ZAMINDARS IN KARACHI DISTRICT.

Mr. GHULAM HYDER SHAH (Karachi District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the water level in canals in Karachi District cannot be maintained as at present after the opening of the Barrage canals ;

* Printed in the Debates of 17th February 1932.

(b) whether it is a fact that the Zamindars of the Karachi District in general and of the Shah Bunder Division in particular will be seriously affected after the opening of the Barrage canals;

(c) whether it is a fact that Government have assured the Zamindars to be so affected that their case will receive most sympathetic consideration;

(d) if the reply to (a), (b) and (c) is in the affirmative, what is the nature of the compensation they propose to give to the Zamindars of the district?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) to (d) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to a similar question put by Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid.

FIRST AND SECOND CLASS TANKS: DHARWAR DISTRICT.

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) The number of first and second class tanks in each of the talukas of the Dharwar District in the charge of the Irrigation Department?

(2) The total amount of water cess recovered in respect of such tanks during the last ten years?

(3) Whether the whole amount recovered on water cess has been spent on those tanks?

(4) If not what amount has been spent on those tanks?

(5) Whether the unspent amount, if any, is kept separately and shown to the credit of the tanks in each taluka or district?

(6) Whether any applications from the cultivators have been received during the last three years to repair the tanks, dams and catchment areas of such tanks? If so, how many and with what result?

(7) Whether it is a fact that the cultivators of Tadas in the Shiggaon Taluka of the Dharwar District applied for the repair of the tanks and canals of that village being effected last year? If so, with what result?

(8) Whether it is a fact that a considerable amount is paid every year in that village as water cess?

(9) The amount if any spent on the repairs to the tank and canals in that village during the last twenty-five years?

(10) Whether it is a fact that the unspent amount collected as water cess in one district is spent in the other districts?

(11) Whether it is the practice in the Irrigation Department to inspect each tank every year and keep notes about its condition?

(12) Whether it is a fact that the water in the Honnapur tank in the Shiggaon Taluka of the Dharwar District flows to a nala, as the outlet of the said tank is not in a proper condition?

(13) Whether it is a fact that the overflow water of the said tank is meant to flow into other tanks?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (1) The following statement gives the information required:—

Taluka.	No. of first class irrigation works.	No. of second class tanks.
Kod	1	578
Kalghatgi	....	315
Hangal	1	428
Ranebennur	2	9
Karajgi	....	41
Gadag	1	6
Dharwar	....	83
Bankapur	....	137
Hubli	....	38
	5	1,635

The second class irrigation tanks mentioned above are all in charge of the Revenue Department and the Public Works Department is concerned only with the execution of repairs when required.

(2) The total amount of water rate collections in respect to first class tanks was Rs. 72,343-1-6 during the decennium ending 31st March 1930 and the Irrigation share realised on 2nd class tanks was Rs. 24,70,078 during the last ten years ending 31st July 1930.

(3) and (4) Rs. 86,629 have been spent on first class tanks and Rs. 3,38,997 on second class tanks during the last ten years. The latter figure does not include establishment and tools and plant charges, the accounts of which have not been kept separately for the Dharwar District.

(5) No such accounts are maintained.

(6) It is not possible to give the exact number of applications but several have been received and they have been attended to as far as practicable.

(7) Yes. The tanks in question have been surveyed and the projects are under preparation.

(8) Water cess amounting to Rs. 3,042-15-4 is annually levied from irrigators in the village of Tadas.

(9) Rs. 11,855.

(10) It is not possible to give the information required as no such accounts are maintained.

(11) Yes, in the case of first class tanks. In the case of second class tanks which are as many as 1,635 in number it is not possible to inspect all the tanks every year.

(12) Yes. The necessary steps are being taken in the matter.

(13) Yes.

LAND GRANT FOR ANGLO-URDU HIGH SCHOOL, HUBLI.

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the present hired building for the Anglo-Urdu High School at Hubli has been found to be incommodious and inconvenient;

(b) whether a large number of students are refused admission to the school every year in consequence of shortage of accommodation;

(c) whether the Anjuman-i-Islam of Hubli offered to erect a suitable building for the High School, provided they are given a suitable site for the building by Government;

(d) whether it is a fact that Government intend to favourably consider the request of the Anjuman for the grant of a plot of land from the vast compound of the Government Travellers' Bungalow, which is now rarely used by travellers?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) No.

ELPHINSTONE COLLEGE: LECTURER IN PHILOSOPHY.

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the age, qualifications, service and pay on 31st March 1931 of Mr. J. C. P. D'Andrade, Lecturer in Philosophy in the Elphinstone College, Bombay;

(b) the date from which he was promoted to the selection grade;

(c) the special grounds on which he was granted the selection grade;

(d) whether there were any other professors and lecturers in Government Arts Colleges, senior to him in service and pay, and if so, why their right to the selection grade was overlooked in favour of Mr. D'Andrade?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) 43 years; M.A., LL.B.; total service 18 years; pay Rs. 550 per mensem.

(b) 1st April 1931.

(c) Work in Philosophy of a very high order.

(d) Yes, there were some officers senior to him in service but not superior in capacity.

GENERAL DISCUSSION ON THE BUDGET

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Sir, I propose to offer a few observations on the budget presented to this Council in my own humble way. I am not an expert economist, nor do I claim to be a skilful politician, but I am a plain man with plain common sense [Laughter]—delighted to work in the fields, and desiring to express here the homely views which an experienced agriculturist like myself can be expected to arrive at, after a due study of the budget and of the general financial situation of this Presidency.

Sir, in a crisis of the character with which we are faced at the present moment, it is undoubtedly difficult to resist the temptation of dealing in severe criticism and even attack of Government. But I do not believe that it is at all necessary, now that Government has fully awakened from the long sleep or stupor which seemed to have overtaken it. I therefore apply myself to the task of making my own constructive suggestions, passing only such criticisms by the way as are necessary or helpful to my theme.

[Mr. M. M. Karbhari]

Before proceeding to this discussion, however, I cannot but frankly express the nervousness I have always felt at handling the bulky volumes of the budgetary statements, in which one almost feels lost without seeing any light for a considerable time. For common men like me—

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I am sorry to interrupt the honourable member. I notice that he is reading a speech.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: These are my notes, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I might point out to honourable members that, as usual, twenty minutes will be the time limit for each speech. When I ring the bell at the end of that time, even though an honourable member is in the middle of his argument, he must stop. And as we go on, the time limit will have to be reduced.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: For common men like me, who have not acquired the acumen of our very able Finance Secretary, the form in which the budget is put and presented is a great puzzle, and the very first reform that I would urge in this connection is that the budgets in future should be so outlined and presented that they would acquire a lucidity and intelligibility, and can be understood without much effort. A small committee may be appointed, if necessary, to suggest less clumsy and more lucid methods of presentation, but in any case I do feel that some reform in this direction is urgently called for.

Sir, with a more and more careful study of the budget, the conviction is growing on me that the very fundamental basis of Governmental finance in this Presidency requires to be overhauled. The most outstanding fact regarding our taxation and expenditure is that the agriculturist in the rural areas is keenly sought by Government for revenue purposes, while his own needs and requirements are subordinated to those of mercantile classes, especially in large cities like Bombay, where trade and industry are concentrated. Schemes like the Bombay Development have been undertaken at the expense of what has proved to be unproductive capital, on which the interest has now to be paid by the poor agriculturist who had little interest in that development and had no say at all in the policy. The Government of Bombay receives little revenue from commercial and industrial development, of which the main benefit goes to the Central Government in the form of income-tax and other taxes, and yet it has been considered a desirable policy for the Government of Bombay to undertake developments for the commercial and industrial classes, of which, as experience has shown the ultimate burden falls on the agricultural classes. They pay the piper, but the commercial community calls the tune.

One telling instance will explain how this happens. In a city like Bombay, industrial disputes often occur, and from time to time the police have to be employed in quelling disturbances. At whose cost is this extra expenditure made possible? Is the cost of the police met from any special levy on the Bombay millowner? No: it is met from the revenues collected from the agriculturists. I do not really see why the millowners should not be made subject to special taxation, say at the rate of one rupee per workman in the mills, for the employment of the police in such emergencies. The point I want to make is that the centre of gravity in the provincial expenditure must stay with the agriculturist in so far as he is the main contributor to the provincial revenue.

[Mr. M. M. Karbhari]

Another point that naturally strikes a student of recent Bombay budgets is the heavy increase in expenditure since the inauguration of the Montford reforms. Not only have portfolios been increased from three to seven, but there has also been great increase in establishments attached to each of these portfolios. It is true that Government have now realised the situation, as is evident from His Excellency's address to this Council. But, alas, it is only a promise to be fulfilled in future, if at all it escapes the proverbial slip between the cup and the lip. If expenditure on such avoidable establishment had not been undertaken, would we have been driven today to retrench such a large sum as 27 lakhs as proposed by the Finance Member in the educational grants which, in a progressive State like ours, should go on expanding?

I have promised, Sir, to devote more time in my speech to constructive suggestions than to criticism, and this I now proceed to do. I begin with the Sind Barrage which is a scheme of vast dimensions and which has entirely been financed by the Bombay Government. Though it is true that, to all appearances, this scheme was undertaken in the interest of agriculturists, it is no less true that it will serve the trading classes as much, if not more. The agricultural depression has further curtailed the prospects of the scheme so far as the agriculturists are concerned, and to that extent the increase in revenue to the Government of Bombay from this scheme will only be nominal. On the other hand, the Central Government is bound to be benefited by reason of the heavy increase in trade, the increase in railway traffic and the increase in the profits of the traders. For this reason, a substantial portion of the capital burden must, in equity, be taken up by the Government of India, as has been very ably and cogently pointed out by Sir M. Visvesvaraya in his report on the scheme.

I would, therefore, suggest to the Government of Bombay that they should approach the Government of India with a representation in this connection, and let them add another important reason which I suggest. I hold, after a very careful study of the topography of the Sind Barrage scheme, that it has a military importance of its own which the Government of India may well be asked to accept. Let me make clear what I mean. It is an admitted fact that the North-Western Frontier is the principal direction from where foreign attacks on India are to be expected as in the past. The frontier open to attack is a large one, from Karachi further up to Kashmir. But if ever such an invasion takes place, this long frontier can be shortened to a few hundred miles, if only with the assistance of the Barrage scheme in full operation the whole of Central Sind is inundated. This, Sir, is an aspect of the question which I am afraid has struck none as yet, but is undeniably an important one, and I would ask the Government of Bombay to urge it in their representation to the Government of India who, from military considerations at least, ought to recognise their liability in regard to the scheme.

[Mr. M. M. Karbhari]

I come next to the discussion of land revenue. It is very regrettable that this revenue has suffered a steady fall during recent years, but I do not desire to waste my time in discussing the reasons of that fall. There is one thing, however, to which I would draw the pointed attention of Government. It appears to me to be a very strange thing that land revenue assessment is charged by Government on the acreage of land and not according to the income of the landholders from the land. Thus the burden falls equally on the petty landholder who is quite unable to bear it and on the big zamindar to whom it is a light one. On the principle of equity, there should be a gradation scale of assessment on the lines on which income tax is levied, and this would not only take the burden away from the wrong place to the right one, i.e., from the shoulders incapable of bearing it to shoulders which can well afford to bear it, but this is bound to bring steadily increasing revenue to the coffers of Government and relieve them of much of their anxiety regarding the question.

Another method which I would suggest for a steady revenue from land is the scheme of insurance. Government should insure the whole of their land revenue with a respectable insurance company——

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I am sorry to interrupt the honourable member, but will he suggest the names of one or two such insurance companies? [Laughter.]

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI:—or companies paying the premiums thereon from the Famine Relief Fund, and the condition should be that if in any year, owing to failure of rain or for any other reason, the ryots are unable to pay their full assessment, the insurance company must make good the deficit. This would also facilitate the remissions of revenue, as Government, not being themselves the losers thereof, would take an impartial view. The insurance company, if necessary, may be required to deposit a certain amount with Government for the privilege, on which again some interest would accrue to Government.

The excise revenue has also dwindled to a considerable extent, but for this I do not hold the rationing policy of Government responsible, as is done in some quarters. The two evils from which the revenue has suffered in recent years are in my opinion (1) the bad and injurious quality of the liquor supplied, and (2) the system of auctioning. Since the distillation has been centred in Nasik as a Government concern, the distilled spirit is diluted and then supplied to the consumers, whereas in previous years private distilleries distilled liquor to such degrees as suited the taste of the consumers. Thus the consumers have no real taste for the liquor supplied, and for this reason a vast amount of illicit distillation and importation is going on in the country with its adverse effect on Government revenue. Similarly, the auction system has taken the rates beyond Government's control and consumers are thereby affected. Its effect on revenue is also clear, for though the licensing duties show increase, the large decrease in still-head duty has more than offset it.

[Mr. M. M. Karbhari]

It should not be thought that because I have mentioned here the means of increasing the revenue, I am necessarily against prohibition as such. But I believe that the goal will be better served by carrying out a temperance campaign throughout the Presidency, as is now being done in Madras, and I would suggest to Government that they should devote at least 5 lakhs of rupees to this propaganda during the next year.

Land and Excise are the two most important sources of our revenue in this Presidency. Other sources I do not now desire to discuss. I am tempted, however, to make one important suggestion about local self-government. At present the major portion of the revenues of the self-governing local bodies like local boards comes from the Government treasury. This is due to the fact that what is known as local self-government in India descends from above downwards, and does not rise from below upwards, as it ought to do if it were a natural development. The whole system now deserves to be overhauled, and local self-government should start from the village panchayat, which should make its contributions to the taluka local board after meeting its own expenditure, the taluka local board in turn making its contribution to the district local board. Thus the funds of Government treasury will be relieved of the burden and can be utilised for other purposes, especially rural reconstruction. There would also be no need thereafter to maintain an expensive establishment in the Local Board Department.

There is one other matter regarding which I should like to make a suggestion, and then I shall close. We are naturally very much disturbed on the question of debts, on which large amounts have to be paid annually in the form of interest. This heavy burden has now become unbearable and is an astounding source of nervousness to every Finance Member. Now, I would like to suggest to Government that they should approach the Government of India asking them to issue paper currency to the aggregate amount of the principal loans standing against our Presidency, making that currency a legal tender throughout India. Agreement should also be entered into by both the Governments, that every year the Bombay Government should make good a substantial instalment, say Rs. 50 lakhs, to enable the Government of India to scrap the note currency by that amount by substituting silver currency and thus gradually to wipe it off. A measure of this character would save to this Presidency the large amounts that are now being paid as interest charges and will thereby help it to recoup its finances.

Sir, I have done. It is true that there is much to be said on the question of new taxation proposed by Government. But the Bills in that connection will soon come up for discussion in this Council. All that I would say on the present occasion is that except for the increase in the electricity charges, the new taxation will fall mainly on the agricultural classes. Apart from this, there is a very real case for the levy of some special taxation on the mill industry and commercial concerns in Bombay, say one rupee on each workman and servant employed therein, to be paid by the employers. I would also suggest the possibilities of a tax on marriage and marriage expenses, on which I had recently published a small pamphlet, a copy of which I had sent to the Finance Member. I wish more serious attention was given to it by the Government, for I have no doubt whatsoever that it will prove a fruitful source of revenue to Government without imposing heavy burdens on the public concerned.

[Mr. M. M. Karbhari]

In conclusion, let me make my apology to my esteemed friend the Finance Member for not dealing at length with the particular facts and figures of the budget he has presented. I consider that in a serious crisis like the present, the mere hand-to-mouth criticisms are of no avail. What we really want is a discussion of the fundamental aspects of the question and this I have attempted in my speech.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE (Ahmednagar District): Mr. President, our Presidency is known for its sanity, but as far as the financial aspect and the handling of the Presidency's finances are concerned, I am bound to say that there is not very much indication of that factor. The Honourable the Finance Member, who once was adorning this side of the House, is now in charge of the financial strings, and it is really tragic that an honourable member of his nationalistic tendencies should produce such a disappointing budget. But that is perhaps due to circumstances over which he has no control.

I think that it is necessary to put before this House certain factors before we approach the task of reconstruction. Going back to the year 1917 or 1918, the revenue of our province stood at 8 crores and odd—Rs. 8,12,00,000 to be exact—with an expenditure of Rs. 7,54,00,000; in 1918 the figure of revenue was almost the same, Rs. 8,53,00,000, with an expenditure of Rs. 7,88,00,000. Ever since the Reforms we shall find that the revenues stand at a little less than double the figure. They range somewhere from thirteen to fifteen crores, but the expenditure has advanced in such an uncontrollable manner that we now find that the finances of the Bombay Presidency are between the devil and the deep sea. The devil is the Government's habit of extravagance, engendered by the pampered way in which it has been the protege of the Government of India and the way in which the Government of India have dealt with this province in years gone by.

The Honourable the Finance Member has, in his lucid address, given certain reasons and has tried to justify that the expenditure of our Presidency is, after all, not so high as it looks. The main reasons he has given are the size of the administrative area, the ryotwari system of land revenue, and others, but I believe he himself does not believe in any one of them. In my opinion, our extravagance and our extravagance alone is responsible, and as to how it is so I will presently demonstrate. Government established by law is represented by the whole array of Government servants, and it is common knowledge to this House that the salary bill of this whole established Government, which stood in the past between two to three crores, now stands between five and six crores. Now, that is one factor which is rather disturbing; but another factor which I am now going to state will take the House by storm, and it is a factor to my mind which is absolutely such as cannot be justified. I find, Sir, from the criticism of no less a personage than the Accountant General that, out of the amount that this Presidency has collected, say, in the last twelve years, to be on the safer side, no less than Rs. 15,82,00,000 are sunk in residential buildings which are provided for Government servants. Is it not an astounding fact that not only the salaries have gone on increasing, but such a large amount as Rs. 15,82,00,000 should be sunk in providing amenities for Government servants as a whole? I see the honourable member the Finance Secretary nods his head, but I am quoting it from page 9 of the Report of the Accountant General on the Appropriation Accounts of this Government for the year 1929-30. The Accountant General says there, first, that about Rs. 40 crores have been so invested in irrigational and other matters. As against this, he says that the book value of the Irrigation and Navigation estate of Government was Rs. 28 crores, and that on residential and other buildings Rs. 15,82,00,000 have been spent. Therefore, unless the figure is wrong, which I think it is not, my criticism is justified, that the Government, as at present situated, as at present managed, has abused its trust, and if it were possible even at this stage to put in an insolvency petition for adjudication, I have no doubt the Government would be adjudicated insolvent, and that would have been still better. In contravention of the justification admitted by the Honourable the Finance Member, the view that I would wish this House to remember is this. The figures which I am going to quote will show the extravagance. Taking no account of the fact as to whether we had the necessary cash balance or not, we have gone on spending. For instance, Bombay is the province, in the whole of the machinery of the Government of India, out of the nine provinces, which at present has a dead weight of such a big debt as Rs. 71 crores. As compared with this, Bengal has a debt of Rs. 2,68,00,000; Punjab, Rs. 9,00,00,000; United Provinces only about Rs. 10,00,00,000; Madras, none; the Central Provinces, Rs. 2,31,00,000; Burma, Rs. 2,49,00,000; and Bihar and Orissa, Rs. 35,00,000. That shows what a big load of debt we have got compared with other provinces, and, as the House knows, unlike them the larger portion of it is sunk in such a manner that it would almost be a miracle if it were possible to get anything out of it, not even enough to meet the interest charges. Then there is another set of figures which I would quote, with regard to all the provinces which I have mentioned, viz., Bengal, Punjab, Madras, the United Provinces, the Central Provinces, Burma, and Bihar and Orissa. The percentage increase in revenue as against the expenditure, which must matter for any business or governmental concern, is as follows: In Bengal the percentage increase in revenue was 14·9 and the percentage increase in expenditure was only 5; in the Punjab the increase in revenue was 18·20 as against an increase in expenditure of 22·36 per cent.; in the United Provinces the increase in revenue was 2·8 per cent., and in expenditure 5·30 per cent.; in the Central Provinces the increase in revenue was 4·9 per cent., and the increase in expenditure was 7·3 per cent.; in Burma the increase in revenue was 2·48 per cent., and the increase in expenditure was 10·73 per cent.; in Bihar and Orissa the increase in revenue was 31·3 per cent., while there was an increase of 30·1 per cent. in expenditure. Taking our revenue and expenditure, the House will find that the figures I have given are correct. We have got a debt load of about Rs. 71 crores. We have swept away the whole of our balances, and then too, as a matter of fact, we have violated one of the first principles on which the finances of this Presidency were built up. I find it stated in the earlier presentation of annual budgets by the Honourable Members in charge that Government very rightly and consistently held to the orthodox doctrine of finance, of preserving a cash balance sufficiently high to finance their needs and to provide a margin of safety. But here, if my figures are correct, we find that in all these financial principles, our Government, for the last 10 years has almost forgotten. They have not paid attention to it, and their presentation of the budgets—either plus or minus side of it—has been such that it has not been possible to scrutinise it, and certainly it is very difficult to be scrutinised by a layman. The point that I was making is this, that so far as the Bombay Presidency is concerned, we again find that there is a large amount of debt to be carried, a debt which has been contracted at a high rate of interest. We find that our interest varies somewhere between 6 and 6½ per cent. Now, we must be thankful to the Finance Secretary for his booklet "Review of the financial position of Bombay" in which he has no doubt handled these several figures in a masterly way, masterly in the sense that though there is a debt load of Rs. 71 crores, which means an annual expenditure of at least Rs. 4 crores by way of interest at the rate at which the debt has been contracted, he combats that view and holds that it is not such a large amount that we shall have to pay by way of interest, but that it is much less. He states that our interest charges would come to about Rs. 2 crores. But even accepting his figures as correct, there is no doubt that owing to the transgression of the first financial doctrine of not meeting the expenditure on these big works from loan funds alone but from revenue also, we have this serious result. As the House is aware, prior to the Reforms, the Government of India had a share in all the sources of revenue, and, as a matter of fact, also dictated the policy. Naturally, therefore, the Government of India had a good deal to do with the financial strings, and the Government of Bombay was under its control. That control was relaxed, with this particular result that, though the revenues have increased since the Reforms, we still find that our financial strength has not at all improved. It will be for me further to point out how as a matter of fact the revenues obtained by extra taxations to the extent of about a crore of rupees have been bartered away in the last ten years. When we began, there were certain commitments which have been mentioned by the Accountant General himself and which are commitments over which we have no control. They are mentioned on page 20 of the Appropriation of Accounts Report. As my time is limited, I do not wish to go into the details, but I would only make this much reference. You will find there that he mentions that a total amount of 398·26 are the statutory recurring commitments. He mentions that between 1929 and 1930 Government have undertaken recurring liabilities to the extent of Rs. 8,08,58,269 and non-recurring liability to the extent of Rs. 1,36,00,000. That is to say, notwithstanding the financial stringency, we have gone on increasing our commitments—notwithstanding the fact that the expenditure under pensions and commutation of pensions will go on increasing. The Honourable the Finance Member has stated that there is an increase of nine lakhs, which will go on increasing further. In view of these facts, I must strike a note of warning.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

We do not still know the fate of the big Sukkur Barrage. We know what has happened with regard to development loans which we have sunk in the deep sea! A large amount also has been sunk in the Indus. Still the financial aspect of it is being differed from year to year, in the hope that greater prospects would come to Government and an opportunity will come to it to balance the figures. I must say that that hopeful outlook does not appeal to us; and in these days of hopelessness I do subscribe to the view that it would be absolutely venturesome to say that our investment even on that project will pay.

One point more I would like to make. The Government of Bombay have all along been thinking of a repayment of the loan in 30 years. But I should think that if they have the least concern about the finances of this Presidency, no less than a moratorium of 60 years will be required for the repayment of the debt, so that this generation may know what we have done should be shared by the generation that comes after us. With these words I take leave.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District): Mr. President, I wish I had been able to congratulate the Honourable the Finance Member, but I find that there is nothing in the budget for which to congratulate him. The surprise is not that it is a deficit budget, because it was known long ago that it was going to be a deficit budget. I do not hold the present Finance Member responsible for it, because this is our past legacy. For some time past our finances have been in a great muddle. And yet I venture to say that of all the budgets ever presented to this House, I call this the most disappointing budget. I call it so, not because it has been a deficit budget, but because it has been a budget which is disappointing in more than one sense. It has been pointed out that Government have carried out retrenchment to a large extent, to the extent of Rs. 1,20,00,000. I do not consider this as a great surprise, for if Government had not done so, as has been pointed out by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale, they would have been compelled to go to a bankrupt court casting their servants on the streets. So, I say it is not a great surprise that Government have carried out retrenchments.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

But the question very important to consider is how that retrenchment has been carried out. It is from that standpoint that I am going to dissect the budget. Is that a retrenchment of the right sort? Is that the retrenchment we wanted the Government to carry out, or is it the retrenchment that Government want to carry out? If the budget is discussed from that standpoint, I am constrained to say never before we had such a disappointing budget, a budget which takes away a lump sum of 27 lakhs, or even more when compared with previous budgets,—50 lakhs—from the education budget. Such a budget I can never call satisfactory, when particularly the Finance Member is an Indian who should have been the last man to be a party to it. It is because of this, I call this an extremely disappointing budget. I know there has been retrenchment in the collegiate and secondary education. But what pains me most is the starvation of the education of the masses. It is a very painful feature of the budget and it is on that account that it deserves the greatest possible condemnation. I could not conceive that, when we are on the eve of provincial autonomy, Government could be so reckless and so senseless as to starve the education of the masses. It is for that reason I condemn it with all the emphasis I can command. I wonder how our Honourable Minister for Education, whose zeal for fight we all admire, has been quietly a party to this kind of retrenchment. I must tell him that the destiny of this Presidency is linked with the solution of the question of education of the masses. One or two professors more for the Andheri College will not solve that question at all. [Honourable Members: Hear, hear!] So, dissecting the budget in that light, I say that this budget cannot be condemned too much. Sir, I take it that it is the duty and the business of every Government to provide means for the education of the common people; if they do not do it, we would rather have no Government at all. So, I say I would not have minded even the college education going phut and the secondary education going phut, but I do mind that the education of the masses should not have been starved under any circumstances. I would not have minded if the Government had borrowed money to run this budget. I know, of course, they are doing it and they will do it, in spite of ourselves, and notwithstanding the fact that we have voted taxation in the past—probably we may be required to vote for it even now. I do contend that the Government have blundered very miserably in starving mass education. They should not have starved, they should not have touched, education at all. That they have done this, pains me very much.

Then, Sir, when we suggested that there should be some measures of retrenchment and we agreed to a cut in the salaries, whether 10 per cent., 20 per cent., or 30 per cent., we did not mean that the salaries of the clerks and menials should be cut down. If we look at the retrenchment that has been made, we find that the poor clerks and peons have been cut out. I seriously ask the House whether this is the sort of retrenchment we wanted. We wanted an absolutely different kind of retrenchment. We wanted retrenchment from the top and not from the bottom. When we have been asking for this kind of reduction in expenditure, we have been offered an absolutely different kind of retrenchment,—a retrenchment which has killed mass education, which has cut out clerks and peons. This retrenchment the House did not want. Though Government have shown that they have retrenched a large part of their expenditure, I do not think that either the Honourable the Finance Member or the Honourable Minister for Education deserves our congratulations therefor.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

Then, again, Sir, there are various other reasons why it is not possible to characterise this budget as a satisfactory budget, and this is the most important of them. I do not want to go into the details thereof. I only desire to touch upon the financial position of the Bombay Government, as it stands to-day. The more we study it, the more sad we feel and we do not know when we are going to set the financial position of this Presidency in order. I have pointed out that for some time past we have been voting fresh taxation and that there has been relief to a considerable extent to the exchequer of the Bombay Government in the shape of the remission of 56 lakhs which used to be paid to the Central Government; and also I think they have been assigning a much smaller amount to the Famine Relief Fund than they were doing before. Coupled with these we also have had fresh taxation in the neighbourhood of one crore and more. Government have already got that revenue. Now, we are faced with fresh taxation proposals. I think the principal cause of all this muddle is the recklessness with which the Government of Bombay have incurred debts. As was pointed out by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Chitale, it is somewhere about 70 crores. Of course, I know it is not quite a correct figure, because some loans have been advanced to some corporations in the Presidency which have got to be deducted. In spite of that I venture to say that our net debt comes to 55 or 56 crores. If that is so, we shall see what our revenue budget is. It is somewhere in the neighbourhood of 14 crores and 50 lakhs. If a Presidency like ours with such a small revenue as that runs into debts three or four times its revenue, it is not a business proposition at all. Let us consider the case of a man who has an income of Rs. 400 and who runs into a debt of Rs. 1,600. How will he be able to provide for his domestic budget and set aside a sufficient portion to liquidate his debt? That is exactly the position the Bombay Government finds itself in to-day. No doubt, it has been pointed out that a great relief will come when Sind is separated—relief to the extent of 80 lakhs. This has been pointed out by the Honourable the Finance Member. I hope it will soon be separated, because, after all, it is no good being tacked on to a partner who is eating all the cream of the revenue of the Presidency, when we are practically left with very little to meet our urgent needs. Now, it has been pointed out by the Honourable the Finance Member that Government want to enter into some settlement with the Government of India—the Federal Finance Committee is sitting and they are trying their level best to represent Bombay's case properly before them. It may be so, but I am at a loss to know what kind of proposals they are going to put before that committee. The only proposal, according to me, is to ask the Government of India to wipe out our debts. There is no other way. I do not see that any compromise is possible. Unless the Government of Bombay take an uncompromising attitude in this respect, there is no way out of the impasse. If we are to carry this deadweight of sixty crores, I do not know how we are going to provide in the near future for the education of the masses. It is not only education that has been starved in this budget, but many other nation-building departments also have been starved. I do understand the needs of law and order; we do want law and order. With all that, I do wish that Government had not starved our nation-building departments. The only way that remains now is to see whether it is possible to make a request of that kind to the Government of India. Otherwise, I do not see how we can place the finances of this Presidency in proper order.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

I do not wish to blame the present Finance Member for our present position. I wish to make it clear that the present Finance Member is not the person responsible for it. After all, he has only inherited a legacy of the past. During the last eleven years, we have had an aggregate deficit of 7,35 lakhs, and it is only natural that we now find ourselves on the horns of a dilemma. Seven crores and thirty-five lakhs in eleven years! I have included the next year's deficit of 70 lakhs in this figure. That is the deficit, whatever you may have done to cover it,—whether you borrowed or took from the Provincial Loan Fund. There is no other way of settling the matter than the one suggested by me. I happened to read the other day in a newspaper of a Polish professor who finds in the earth more gold than is supposed to be there. The Government of Bombay may requisition the services of such a man. [An Honourable Member: "Gold diviner?"] I am not speaking of the water-diviner. We do want a gold-diviner, and that is another possible way of making our budget balance.

I do not know if the House is going to sanction the fresh taxation proposed; but, if it sanctions it, it must be on the condition that the entire grant for primary education must be restored to its original figure. With these words, I resume my seat.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Mr. President, I do not think, Sir, that I can preface my remarks on the budget, better than by offering my heartfelt sympathy to the Honourable the Finance Member in the very serious predicament in which he finds himself placed, owing as much to the unfortunate legacy which he has inherited from past years, as to the numerous difficulties, generated by the world-wide depression from which our Province, in common with the rest of the country, is still suffering. It is exceedingly sad and depressing, Sir, to have to face deficit budgets year after year; and it must be particularly depressing for the Honourable the Finance Member, when, in spite of adverse conditions, he has, at the same time, to go far and wide in search of new sources of revenue, to balance the two sides of his annual financial statements. In spite of the fact that retrenchment has already been carried out in various important directions, and the further fact that there are slight increases here and there under certain heads, it is unfortunate that the House has again this year been confronted with a huge nett deficit of about Rs. 73 lakhs. This deficit has, as we have already been told, been very largely brought about by a heavy drop in some of the major heads on the income side, such as Land Revenue, Irrigation, Excise and Forests, owing principally to the world-depression and the consequent economic distress in the country, resulting in the depreciation of the purchasing-power of the rupee and the unprecedented commercial and industrial dislocation of recent years. It cannot be denied at the same time that the wide-spread agrarian discontent and political unrest, now sweeping the country, has also very largely militated against all prospects of an increase of revenue even on the normal scale and very seriously accentuated this unfortunate result. Had it not been for the free and timely application of the pruning knife in every possible direction, there is no doubt that the deficit would have been much heavier and more difficult to bear. In order to fill this huge gap of about Rs. 73 lakhs, the Honourable the Finance Member proposes the four new sources of revenue, embodied in the consolidated Finance Bill, which he has placed before the House, and which, if accepted, will yield about Rs. 23 lakhs, and thus reduce the deficit to be met from Loans, to somewhere about Rs. 50 lakhs. When we come to consider the Finance Bill, we shall all go into the details of the different measures contained therein, and either sanction or reject or even modify them in the light of such facts as may be placed before the House. But in the meanwhile, it is necessary, Sir, to enquire why the Government,—in spite of the fact that they are faced with such a desperate and extraordinary situation,—have not thought fit to give fuller effect to the very careful and well thought-out recommendations made by the Retrenchment Committee of their own appointment. I admit, Sir, at once, that some of the recommendations of this Committee are such, as from their very nature, are most difficult, if not impossible to accept. There are probably also others, which, the Government, in the light of their experience and intimate knowledge of the administration, cannot accept without further examination. But, in spite of all these facts and probabilities, which I readily concede, the impression is still left in the minds of members, that the recommendations of that Committee could have been accepted to a much larger extent than they have been at the present moment, with the result that, in that case, the Government would not have been, as now, compelled to come to this House either for additional sources of revenue or for authority to raise loans to meet the balance of the deficit. I know that the Government have, of their own accord, already effected retrenchment in many other important directions, not tackled by the report, and that the grand total of the entire retrenchment effected already, is larger even than the figure recommended by the Committee. That is all to the good and the Government deserve the best thanks of this House for the same. But, there are still certain important retrenchments recommended by the Committee, which the Government have either ignored or turned down. I hope, therefore, that the Honourable the Finance Member will in the course of his reply to this debate, tell us, if possible, why the Government have not given effect to all these valuable recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee more extensively than they have done. Unfortunately for us, Sir, we were given only yesterday, copies of the statement embodying the Government's decision on the Retrenchment Committee's Report and we have not yet had enough time to study it in all its details. In spite of this fact, from what we have been able to see of it, it appears to me that there are important directions in which the Government could have gone much further than they have done, and the gap that is now to be bridged by us, might have been proportionately narrowed down. I think the Government would do well to let us know why all the various recommendations that have been made, have not been given effect to. In the reply given by the Honourable the Minister for Agriculture (Dewan Bahadur Kambli) to one of the questions to-day, there was a big list of civil and other works, going into lakhs, which there is not the slightest chance of being given effect to, at least for some years to come. It was on the basis of the probability of these works not being undertaken, that the Retrenchment Committee, I understand, had made a recommendation for a substantial reduction—almost the abolition—of the department concerned. In spite of that fact, the department has not been reduced beyond a certain limit, although it appears to me, that not one of these schemes has even the ghost of a chance of being given effect to, either immediately or even in the distant future, in view of our very severe financial stringency. This is only one typical instance to which I wish to make a pointed reference. There may be many others; I know that there are a good many; and I think that the Government should explain why some of these major recommendations have not been accepted.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Mr. G. WILES: Will the honourable member state what recommendations he is referring to?

Mr. J. B. PETIT: I have already referred to one—a really typical instance.

Mr. G. WILES: In the one he referred to, Government have given effect to the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: I know that Government have given effect to only about 50 per cent. of the recommendations and not to the whole of it The monthly expenditure of the department which was Rs. 7,385 has now been reduced by Rs. 4,000.

Mr. G. WILES: Will the honourable member read the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee? He is speaking without having read the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: My honourable friend has no right to make such a remark. I have very carefully studied the recommendations of the Committee; but have not had the time to read with equal care the details of the action taken by the Government thereon, for the simple reason that the same were distributed among the members only a few hours ago. If members are not able in such a short time to study the numerous details that were placed before them only yesterday, the Government cannot blame them. They have only to thank themselves for this position.

Mr. G. WILES: The report was published three months ago.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: That is true; and I am sure every member has carefully read and studied it. At least I have done so. But my complaint is, that the details of the action taken by the Government on the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee, were placed in our hands only yesterday. I do not think it is fair for the Government to take three long months to consider the Report and to arrive at decisions thereon; and then to expect the members of this House to go through the long list of items, contained in the Government's statement in the course of a few hours, consisting only of the brief interval between 4 p.m. yesterday and 2 p.m., to-day. If, therefore, members are not in possession of all the facts contained in the statement distributed among them so late in the day, assuming for argument's sake that my honourable friend the Finance Secretary (Mr. Wiles) is correct, he must blame the Government and not the members of this House for this result. As I have said before, I do not want to criticise merely for the sake of criticising; but it appears to me that this is one of the points which requires elucidation, and I hope that the Government will give us further explanation on this and similar other points that may be raised in the House during the progress of the general discussion on the budget. I regret, however, that in their zeal to effect retrenchment, they have thought fit to attack two of the most important and yet most famished needs of the people, by cutting down education and medical relief to a very serious extent, whilst they have neglected even to touch some of the most useless excrescences of the fabric of the administration. I entirely agree with the honourable member who preceded me, that it is very unfortunate that the axe should have been applied so ruthlessly to the tender and none-too-strong shrub of education. It may be argued that every department must in fairness be expected to bear its proportionate share of the reduction. But, if we examine the list which the Honourable the Finance Member placed before us in his speech yesterday, we find that, when judged even from this standpoint, education has been cut down a bit too ruthlessly, without any regard having been paid to the fact that it is an important nation-building department and that it was already being unduly famished. I shall go a bit further and say that I regard the reduction of Rs. 27 lakhs in this department as a most unwise and unfortunate step, particularly when we bear in mind the fact that education is already on a very low level in this Presidency as in the rest of the country, and that the requirements of this branch of national activity are very important and urgent, in view of the far-reaching Reforms which are going to be introduced at a very early date. It is a truism which no one will seriously dispute that the more wide-spread the education, the greater will be the responsibility of the people to the new constitution and the more successful will be the consequent working of the same. It is, therefore, necessary that the Government should help this department to the utmost of their ability rather than cut it down so ruthlessly. The reduction that has been made under the heading of "Medical Treatment" is equally unfortunate and stands very much on the same footing. We know the sad plight to which many of the public hospitals in the urban areas have already been reduced. We also realise with very profound regret and shame that effective medical treatment in the rural areas is absolutely conspicuous by its absence. I do most earnestly hope, therefore, that in this direction also, the Government will be sympathetic enough to revise their decision and restore their cuts, if, for no other reason, at least for the sake of suffering humanity.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

It is very gratifying, Sir, to note that the Government have not uttered the last word on this subject of retrenchment, that they are going to pursue the matter further by the appointment of an expert committee to which reference was made yesterday by the Honourable the Finance Member, and that on receipt of the report of that committee, they propose to overhaul the entire machinery of the administration and to reconstitute the same on cheaper and, if not more, at least equally efficient lines. I am sure, every member of this honourable House will agree with me when I say that our best and most cordial wishes go with the Committee in its very arduous and onerous task. Whilst wishing it every success in its work, we hope that it will go deep into the details of every department of the Government, without being needlessly afraid of treading upon the toes of people, if it is desirable in the public interest to do so, and will ruthlessly cut down all unnecessary expenditure wherever it might happen to exist, and make courageous and business-like recommendations, which may place the Government of the Presidency securely on its legs again, without at the same time impairing the efficiency of the structure. Besides the representatives of the Government and the Services, I hope that at least two public men of distinction, having some kind of administrative experience, will be associated with the Committee, so that they may be able to bring to bear a broader and more independent outlook on the consideration of the entire question, in addition to the merely official and Government points of view. This is all the more necessary if the deliberations of the Committee are to carry this House with them and to command the confidence of the public at large. If other Presidencies, similarly situated as our Province is, are able to meet their requirements satisfactorily and carry on their administrations much cheaper than and as efficiently as we do, there is no reason why we should not be able to do so. It is perfectly true that we in this Presidency have always very justly and properly prided ourselves upon our important position as the greatest manufacturing centre of the country; with our capital, occupying the no less proud position of the Gateway of India. I am ready to admit that this position perforce carries with it heavy responsibilities and the necessity of adjusting our expenditure to the requirements and dignity of this place of pride and supremacy. That we in this Presidency, have invariably done so and endeavoured to rise to the full height of our responsibility, even the bitterest enemy of Bombay dare not deny. But at the same time, we, in this House, must take an introspective view of ourselves and sorrowfully admit, that owing to all these reasons, the Government of this Presidency have, unfortunately for us, got into the habit of always thinking imperially and spending on the lavish all-India scale. I do hope, therefore, that this Committee will also go into that point of view and draw a big thick line somewhere; and not merely follow the old and trodden path of the present administration. What is most urgently wanted at the present juncture, is constructive statesmanship coupled with a compelling sense of proportion. Our position is so desperate, that unless we overhaul the whole system and reshape the entire constitution of the Government from top to bottom, I am afraid that there is no hope for this Presidency. Of course, the one essential point which must be constantly borne in mind, should be the efficiency of the machine, and the attainment of the maximum amount of good with the minimum amount of expenditure.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

So far as the Finance Bill is concerned, I wish in all earnestness to put it to the Honourable the Finance Member, whether some other way cannot be found, by which the necessity of this additional taxation can possibly be avoided. Paradoxical though it may seem side by side with my admission that the Government are retrenching and have retrenched in numerous important directions, I shall never be tired of repeating, as I have done in the past, that the taxable capacity of the people of this province, has now been practically reached and that to heap any fresh burden upon the already overladen shoulders of the large bulk of the people, would be sheer cruelty, to say nothing of their inability to bear any further weight, which, if persisted in, may, I am afraid, prove to be the proverbial last straw.

As I have said before, we all sincerely sympathise with the Honourable the Finance Member in his unprecedented difficulties and readily recognise the value of the desperate efforts he is making to solve them. But there is a limit to which even our co-operation and sympathies can go; and, if some method other than that of additional taxation, can possibly be found to help him in his present difficulties, I think he should apply his mind to the consideration and development of it at the earliest possible moment. There is one small direction which occurs to me, in which I think the House can possibly help him to some extent in the attainment of this object. He proposes in one part of the Finance

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Bill, to levy a small surcharge on the consumption of electricity in the Presidency. I am sorry I have not much personal experience of this subject so far as the mofussil is concerned. But, speaking of the City of Bombay, there is a way by which he can get the required revenue without burdening the citizens in the slightest degree. As we all know, all electric supply companies in the country derive their authority from the licences issued to them under the provisions of the Indian Electricity Act. One of the clauses of such licences provides for the appointment by the Government at their option after the lapse of seven years from the date of the licence, of a small advisory committee, upon the recommendation of which it is open to the Government to revise the rates and reduce them if they in their absolute discretion think it necessary to do so in the public interest. I venture to think that, so far as Bombay City is concerned, such an occasion has arisen and there is a clear case for a substantial reduction in the rates charged to the public by the supply company. The Bombay Electric Supply Tramways Co., Ltd., is making large profits and distributing handsome dividends every year. They are buying their supply ready-made for them by the Tata Hydro-Electric and the Andhra Valley Companies; and are thus saved the cost and labour of its production. They are a public utility corporation, enjoying numerous valuable concessions and privileges, denied to ordinary business concerns and industrial companies. They are monopolists in the line and have no competition to fear. If the Government had been properly approached by the public for a substantial reduction in the rates, under the provision to which I have already referred, I have no doubt in my mind that, having regard to all the reasons I have adduced, the Honourable the Finance Member could have been successfully induced to agree to a suitable reduction in favour of the public consumer. Let us suppose that such reduction had been equivalent to the surcharge that the Government now propose to impose on the public under one of the measures embodied in the Finance Bill. My submission is, that instead of giving this well-deserved and overdue relief to the public, the Government should ask the company to pay it direct to them, thus obviating the necessity of reducing the rate and collecting the impost from the public. I think it would be quite proper and in the fitness of things for the Government now to take advantage of this right and say to the company, "Had the public approached us, we would have given them a reduction to the extent at least of the proposed impost. We won't do it now; but, instead, ask you to pay us the said surcharge on the electricity that is being supplied by you to the public." The company can have no reason to grumble and will willingly pay the revenue that the Honourable the Finance Member wants to raise from this source, as it would practically be recovering it from the public, and would at the same time be saving itself the bother and cost of this additional collection. It is quite a simple matter. The company would set apart an amount equivalent to this surcharge, and hand it over regularly to the Government every month. I think it would be a perfectly legitimate and proper method of realising the required revenue; and the Government should, if practicable, put it into effect at once. This is one of the methods by which the Honourable the Finance Member may recoup himself without burdening the public. There may be other methods by which the Finance Member can similarly reimburse himself, if not by retrenchment, at least by raising revenue in some such way. These methods have at least this merit about them, that whilst they give much-needed relief to the Government, they do not impose an unnecessary burden upon the public.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

Before I conclude, Sir, I would like to allude, in passing, if I may, to the political situation that is now prevalent in the Presidency.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Only two minutes left.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: I will not take very long, Sir; and I shall try my best to compress my remarks within the few minutes still at my disposal. I desire, Sir, to invite the most careful and earnest attention of the Government to the present political situation in the Presidency; and particularly to the fact that the intense feelings of indignation, of irritation, of intranquillity, of insecurity, of distrust, and last though not least, of uncertainty, which it has generated in the public mind, are not conducive to those conditions which are so essential to the smooth flow of the daily life of the people, and above all, to the normal working of our trade and industries, which are the very foundations of our prosperity. It is deplorable in the extreme that the authorities are doing nothing to bring about a restoration of normal conditions, with the result that this dislocation of the life and occupation of the Province, continues to exercise a very prejudicial effect upon the finances of the Government. I think it was a huge mistake on the part of the Government to have launched upon a crusade against the Congress and declared their determination to crush it out of existence. Unless History is a record of lies, I am emphatically of opinion that the Government cannot crush a country-wide organisation like the Congress. They will only succeed in driving it underground, there to grow and flourish in an atmosphere of distrust and secrecy like the revolutionary movements existing in all countries. This is what a policy of repression did in Ireland years ago, and this is what it has done only very recently in Egypt. I wish to warn the Government, in all sincerity, that India is not going to be an exception to this universal law of action and reaction. The dangerous and subversive aspects of the Congress could most easily and effectively have been dealt with by the ordinary laws of the land, of which there are plenty in the armoury of the Government. For this reason, I am strongly of opinion that the promulgation of the Ordinances by the Government of India and their application to our Presidency by the Government of Bombay, constitute a blunder of the first magnitude. In this connection, I wish to say at once, Sir, that on principle, I am absolutely against the practice of carrying on the administration by Ordinances, except of course in very rare and extraordinary emergencies. Such a case, I make bold to assert, has not been made out by the public statements either of the Government of India or of the Government of Bombay. I want the Government to note that the manner, in which the extraordinary and unusual powers conferred on the authorities by these Ordinances is being exercised, has caused very wide-spread dissatisfaction in the public mind, and evoked a feeling of very intense bitterness and resentment which is very seriously militating against the best interests of the Presidency, and, if I may add, is also having a very harmful effect even upon the intentions of the Government. Whatever justification there might have been at one time from the Government's point of view, for the application of these extraordinary measures to our Province,—which, however, I deny,—I fail to see what excuse the Government still have for continuing them, when, according to their own reports, "the congress has been crushed and all is quiet on the Western front!" After all, Sir, no Government, however powerful, can expect to carry on the administration by Ordinances for an indefinite length of time, in the teeth of public opposition, without seriously undermining their own reputation, and completely forfeiting the respect and confidence of the people.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

One word more, Sir; and I have done. As everyone knows, I am not a congress-man. I am neither a follower nor an admirer of its present dictator. I say this deliberately, as I want the Government to take my warning as that of an independent observer, and not as the interested opinion of a partisan. I also hope and trust that the Government will not misunderstand my remarks, but will accept them in the spirit of help and co-operation, in which they are meant and offered.

My most sincere, my most earnest, my most pressing advice to the authorities, if I may accordingly venture to offer it, is, to withdraw this lawless law at the earliest possible moment, as much in the interest of the public as of the Government themselves; and thus help to restore in the Presidency, an atmosphere of peace and goodwill that is so necessary for the success of the great reforms which are on the anvil now, and which, if given a fair chance, are going to herald the dawn of a new era in the relations existing between the two countries.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM (Bombay Chamber of Commerce): Sir, I would like to say at the start that I propose to confine my remarks to broad issues only and make only general comments, as I must confess that I have not been able to devote the time for the detailed study of the Budget that it deserves.

I think we are all familiar with the battle cry raised at a certain stage of England's political development, "Peace, Retrenchment and Reform." It seems to me that this is a singularly appropriate text for commenting on the situation as it exists in the Presidency of Bombay to-day. The crying needs of the hour are, "Peace, retrenchment and reform" or, if you like, "reforms"; and I propose to divide such comments as I have to make under these heads, passing very briefly over the question of peace, because, though I hold that the restoration of peace is vitally necessary for the finances of the Bombay Presidency,

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

I do not consider this is the right time to discuss the question how peace should be restored. On this subject I absolutely and entirely disagree with the remarks of the last speaker (Mr. Petit). I would like to congratulate him on his astonishing optimism. He wishes Government to discover new sources of revenue without imposing new taxation and to do away with the particular method necessary to deal with a certain situation before that situation has disappeared. Now, on the subject of reform, I believe one thing stands out in considering Bombay's finances. I do not believe they will ever be on a sound footing even when all available avenues of retrenchment have been explored and all possible retrenchment has been given effect to, so long as our main sources of revenue remain as they are. I believe that the main, the root cause of the deplorable financial position of the Presidency to-day is the iniquitous financial settlement under which the Presidency has been groaning ever since the inception of the Montagu-Chelmsford Reforms. Under this Settlement, in an era of progress—who will deny that it has been an era of progress?—the sources of revenue of this province have been confined to certain heads incapable of expansion; and, in fact, owing to the conditions through which we have passed, they have actually dwindled. Here then is a question on which the House can surely speak with a united voice. His Excellency in his speech yesterday referred to the establishment of provincial autonomy in the not distant future. I am one of those who believe that the sooner the responsibility of running the administration of the country devolves upon the elected representatives of the people, the better. But, Sir, I can imagine nothing more disastrous than that provincial autonomy should come to this province before we have obtained a new financial settlement with the Central Government, which will give the new system an auspicious start and a chance to function successfully. I understand that the Finance Secretary goes to Delhi very shortly to put Bombay's claim before the Federal Finance Committee. If I might say so, we could not want a better negotiator. [Honourable Members: Hear, hear.] But let us make it plain to all the world that in this matter Bombay does speak with a united voice, and so provide the Finance Secretary with that backing which he will surely need if Bombay's case is to prevail.

So much for reforms. At the same time as pressing our claim for a more just financial settlement, we must make it clear to the world that we have done and are doing what we can, by way of retrenchment and fresh taxation, to help ourselves. To my certain knowledge, retrenchment has been going on in this Presidency for a considerable number of years. I remember distinctly the first time that I attended a budget session that the then Governor stated that it was a matter for consideration whether retrenchment had already not gone too far. That was certainly six years ago. I think we shall probably all agree that there is a limit beyond which retrenchment cannot go without leading to inefficiency, and some of us, myself included, believe that under the proposals contained in the coming year's budget that dangerous limit may have been reached. I regard it as no small achievement on the part of Government to have reduced the expenditure in the coming year's budget by Rs. 116 lakhs as compared with the actual expenditure in 1930-31. But it has been made clear that much of the reduction is of a temporary nature, and many of us are therefore convinced that it is now re-organisation and reconstruction which should be taken in hand.

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

For this reason, Sir, we welcome the announcement of Government's intention to set on foot an expert enquiry with a view to the re-organisation of the whole administrative machine. I congratulate Government, if I may, on their choice of Sir Frederic Gauntlett. I do not believe that a better choice could have been made, not even if the choice had been left to the honourable members of this House! I hope, when the names of those who are going to be associated with Sir Frederic Gauntlett are published, they will be those of men with wide experience, who will command the confidence of all sections of the House. In connection with this expert enquiry, I would stress two points, firstly, that the committee should start work and report without delay, and secondly, with regard to education. This is a matter which, I know, exercises the minds of a great many members of the House. I hope that the expert committee will devote special attention to the question of education. We none of us like to see this important nation-building department cut drastically, as has been necessary in the coming year. But we cannot spend more than we can afford, and the real point seems to me to be to ensure that the available funds to be spent on education are spent in such a way as to give the best results. I and my friends are not satisfied that the best results are being given for the expenditure now being undertaken, and we would urge Government that a particular branch of this enquiry should be the Education Department.

I should like to give my own views, if I may, very briefly, on the question of the per capita expenditure in the various provinces on which the Honourable the Finance Member dwelt in his speech. I myself would pay no attention whatever to such comparisons, however unfavourable to Bombay, provided we could afford the expenditure and were getting good value for money. On that lies the value of the comparisons which have been put before us. If we can afford it, which of course at the moment we cannot, and if we are getting good value for money, which I doubt, I myself should actually take a pride in the per capita expenses of the administration being higher in my province than in others, because I see no reason at all for a comparison of the most progressive province being made with the figures of the most backward.

There is one point, Sir, and here I tread delicately, on which my constituency feel strongly, and on which I must touch. His Excellency the Governor received an immediate appreciative response from this House yesterday, when he referred to plans having been perfected for the reduction of the Cabinet, and it was remarkable to notice how the House also appreciated His Excellency's next statement that the Members of the Cabinet themselves had promised their wholehearted co-operation in whatever steps were taken. I believe, Sir, that it is in the best interests of all concerned that the Cabinet should be immediately reduced, and that this matter should not be delayed pending considerations of provincial autonomy which will be coming in the not distant future. I believe that though there will be a good deal of disorganisation in the Secretariat, it can nevertheless be overcome, and that decentralization is the means to overcome it. With so many Members in the Cabinet, the tendency must be to centralise, and we believe that, for the present and also for the future, the right course should be decentralisation.

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

Then, Sir, under retrenchment comes the cognate question of taxation. I must point out to honourable members that it is not sufficient to say that we are opposed to any form of new taxation, that it cannot be justified by present conditions, and that the maximum taxable capacity of the people has been reached. In theory, I too unreservedly condemn all proposals for new taxation, but in practice, in all countries all over the world, people have been submitting to extra taxation, at the same time as tightening their belts, in order to balance their budgets; and I do not think it is open to the House to claim that Bombay should be an exception, if it is proved beyond reasonable argument that the position cannot be met without some help from taxation of a temporary and emergent nature. We have before us the figures of the deficit in the budget for the coming year, and I am bound to say that I myself can see no hope of the recommendations of the expert committee being such as to cover the total deficit of Rs. 73 lakhs. Government's proposals for taxation must be considered on their merits at the proper time. I am only concerned to point out here and now that the question for honourable members to decide next week will not be so much whether the proposals are desirable in themselves as whether the present circumstances demand further taxation, and if so, whether the Government's proposals are the least objectionable in the circumstances. [Applause.]

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Sir, when a Government has to resort to a moratorium, it is needless for anybody to say that the budget is most disappointing. So, on that score, I cannot congratulate the Honourable the Finance Member, but I certainly do so for his courageous presentation of a very bad case. Sir, the Honourable the Finance Member in his speech says that, on account of the depression in the country and in the Presidency, there is a deficit of Rs. 111 lakhs in the current year, and there is likely to be a deficit of Rs. 73 lakhs in the ensuing year, and among the reasons which he has assigned is the fall in the land revenue, in excise and in some other heads. Now, Sir, I am not prepared to admit his contention that there is any fall in the land revenue of this Presidency. I will give his own figures from page viii of the Blue Book, Statement I. Taking the figures of land revenue collections of this Presidency for the last 10 years, the average will come to Rs. 493 lakhs, while the revised estimate of the collections in the current year is Rs. 486 lakhs and the budget amount for the ensuing year is Rs. 488 lakhs. So, it will be seen that there is not any appreciable difference in the average of the last ten years in the land revenue collections of this Presidency. Land revenue, Sir, depends on the vagaries of the seasons, and it is usual that in some bad seasons Government have to postpone their collections and grant suspensions and remissions. But suspensions and remissions of land revenue have got nothing to do with the depression in trade. Is the Honourable the Finance Member prepared to say that these remissions and suspensions have been given on account of the depression in trade? No, Sir, he cannot. Whenever the season was not normal, according to the annewari some portion of the land revenue was suspended. So, I say that the complaint of the general masses is that when there is a trade depression and the prices of commodities, as the Honourable the Finance Member himself admits, have gone down very considerably, no relief has been given to them—no reduction has taken place in the land revenue. Therefore, it is not correct to say that, on account of trade depression, the land revenue of the Presidency has gone down. As I say, looking to the average of the last ten years, land revenue has not gone down at all. Then again, in his budget speech he says that in the last ten years the revenue of the Presidency has gone down by 2 crores. That also is not supported by the facts. He says:

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

"With revenues approximately 2 crores less than they were 10 years ago the task has proved impossible."

You cannot take the revenue of a particular year. You have to take the average of 10 years, and if you do that, you will find that the calculation of 2 crores less revenue during the current year, is not at all correct. The figures are there, and I have worked them out; it will be about a crore less. If you work out the average revenue of the last 10 years and the present year's revenue, it would be about a crore less, not 2 crores, as has been said by the Honourable the Finance Member in his speech. Now, Sir, the Honourable the Finance Member has no doubt tried to give the figures of retrenchment on page 3 and he says that it has gone up to one crore and thirty-seven lakhs. That is a grand figure. I should like to ask the Finance Member whether he has made this retrenchment judiciously and equitably and whether he has applied his mind to the figures and worked out the percentage. The expenditure on General Administration is two crores and twenty-five lakhs which is a little over 15 per cent. of the total revenue of this Presidency and the cut there is nineteen lakhs which comes to about 8½ per cent. of that head. On the other hand the expenditure on education is about 199 lakhs which is about a little less than 14 per cent. of the total revenue of this Presidency and it is cut down by 27 lakhs which comes to about 14 (fourteen) per cent. of that head. I ask the Indian Finance Member whether he has judiciously applied the pruning knife to the cuts. This side of the House is entitled to tell the honourable members sitting on the opposite benches that this head ought not to have received a cut at all. Has any reduction been made in the taxation of the agriculturists who represent 70 per cent. of the population of this Presidency? If that were so, Government were entitled to cut down the expenditure on primary education. So, I ask the Government to inform whether this cut has been made judiciously and whether it cannot be restored.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

The Honourable the Finance Member then again gives the figures of expenditure per capita of this Presidency. This is a large presidency in point of view of area and also standard of life is high and therefore in comparison with the other presidencies, the expenditure per capita is bound to be higher. He further says that Bombay Presidency, having a ryotwari land tenure has to spend more on Land Revenue Head than Bengal or Madras. May I inform the Honourable Member that Madras has also a ryotwari land tenure!

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: There are big Zamindari estates like Bengal.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: However, it is mainly ryotwari.

When you say that per capita expenditure is 6·3, is it not a fact that you are getting revenue per capita 7·4? Why should then there be a deficit when your revenue per capita is 7·4 and the expenditure per capita is 6·3? There is no reason for deficit at all. The fact is this. Government have spent large sums of money on unproductive works such as Bombay Development schemes and others and they have to pay interest on the capital of those unproductive works, which have been undertaken against the strong opposition of this side of the House. They have also spent large amounts of money on irrigation works in some parts of the presidency. The growing interest on those debts comes in the way of the budget. It has been stated on pages 17 that 1½ crores of interest is due from the local bodies such as Port Trust and the Corporation. In spite of their precarious condition, if you see the Blue Book of last year and this year also, they are spending large amounts of money on irrigation works. If they have got no funds, they should have cried a halt. Without funds they go and start these works and spend from the ordinary revenue when they have no funds to meet the ordinary expenditure. Thus they are undertaking new costly works and spending money from the ordinary revenues. Now, the Honourable Finance Member says that the retrenchment has been made to the extreme and there is no more room left. Moreover, I agree with him when he says that about 50 lakhs of the retrenchment will have to be restored, as otherwise our capital expenditure on roads and buildings will be wasted. Therefore, the retrenchment of a permanent nature will be only to the tune of 87 lakhs.

I wish to ask the Honourable the Finance Member how much of the total revenue of 14 crores is being absorbed as establishment charges or travelling and all other allowances and contingencies? Five hundred and thirty lakhs you are giving as emoluments and 240 lakhs as travelling allowaces and other allowances making a total of 777 lakhs, which is more than 55 (fifty-five) per cent. of the total revenue of this presidency. Could you not have thought fit and taken the courage in both hands to cut down a couple of crores from this huge sum in order to meet your deficit? I think if Government had taken up this question seriously they could have easily met this deficit.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

As the time is very short, I want to touch one more point. I agree with the honourable member representing the Bombay Chamber of Commerce that the Government of Bombay and this whole House should insist on the Central Government to help this presidency in liquidating their debts. This presidency is mainly an industrial presidency and the Central Government takes away 5 crores in the shape of income tax alone. It is but right and just that this Government and this Council should heavily press upon the Central Government that at a time of distress and crisis like this they—the Central Government—should come to the aid of this Government in wiping out the debts which this Government have incurred, if not the whole, at least half of it. Even after five years, you will not be able to balance your budget. May I remind the Honourable the Finance Member that the present revenue will not stand? I say that the time is coming when you shall have to reduce the land revenue. Whether this Council reduces it or the next Council I do not know but I do know that on account of the general depression in trade and the fall in prices of agricultural commodities, the Council will have to reduce the existing land revenue. That means you will have an additional deficit. So, we must insist upon the Central Government for a substantial share in the income tax revenue of this presidency. Unless that is done, I do not think your emergency measures for increasing your revenue by imposing surcharge on the electricity consumption or increasing the stamp and court fees duties or extending a probate duty to all communities will give permanent relief.

With your permission, Sir, I touch another subject very briefly. His Excellency asked for the co-operation of this side of the House—the elected members—to assist Government in this financial crisis. I also admit when there is a crisis, every one should put his shoulder and help Government. We are prepared to help Government. But when our co-operation is called for, is it not right on our part that we should expect the same amount of co-operation from the other side? Co-operation from one side will not do any good. If you want co-operation from us we are equally entitled to expect co-operation from the Government benches. I do not want at present to touch upon the present political situation in the country. We are just as sincere as honourable members sitting on the Treasury Benches to see that law and order are maintained in the country. If there are law-breakers, they can be punished. I do not dispute that. But I should like to bring to the notice of the Honourable the Home Member that those from whom you want co-operation and the innocent general public should not be unnecessarily harassed and humiliated. The ordinances may have been promulgated as an emergency measure. But everything is not smooth with the working of these ordinances in the mofussil. It has been announced by Government that it is not their desire or intention that any institution of an educational or a social character should be interfered with, if it had no connection with the civil disobedience movement. But, Sir, I know of an educational and boarding institution which is not connected at all with the civil disobedience movement but has been closed and children driven out from it and the buildings taken over by Government. Instances like these no doubt alienate the sympathies of those who are with Government. I may inform the Honourable the Home Member that though his intention is good and he wants to keep friends, the subordinate officers do not want to keep those friends. It appears to me that your intention may be good, but I must say that your subordinate officers are administering the ordinances in such a way that they will not leave any friend to the Government of this country. I am a co-operator and I am not an admirer of the civil disobedience movement. I know every inch of the district I come from. I can give you several instances to show that everything is not smooth there. I shall give an instance relating to my honourable colleague Dr. Dixit. If you come to know the instance, you will be surprised. You know that Dr. Dixit is a member of this Council and that he has not taken part at present in the civil disobedience movement. There was a cultured man, an ex-civil surgeon of Baroda, who was released on parole from the Surat jail and was ordered to go to Jalalpur 20 miles off from Surat. He has no house in Surat and he is a resident of Ahmedabad. He happened to meet Dr. Dixit, who has got his own house in Surat. Dr. Dixit being a near relation of Dr. Sumant, took him to his house and gave him meals that night and the following morning also. What was the fate of Dr. Dixit? Two police sub-inspectors went to his house and asked him to go to the police chowky with them. Dr. Dixit was seated in the police car between the two sub-inspectors and taken to the police station. He was made to wait there for three hours till the Deputy Superintendent of Police arrived, and was only released after some assurance was taken from him. I do not think that anybody in this House will like such an incident. I say that we are ready to co-operate with Government, we are prepared to help them, in keeping law and order provided they are administered properly and with due discretion. Let me tell you that we are as much if not more interested in law and order than honourable members on the opposite side; we have got our interests and we want to see that they are properly safeguarded. At the same time we want to see also that innocent persons, respectable persons, are not ill-treated and humiliated.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

I fear, Sir, that I have taken up much time. Now, as far as the budget is concerned, the Honourable the Finance Member expressed a pious hope, an encouraging hope, that better times will come when we will get more money. Those who have got to spend money always hope for better times and say that better times are ahead. But we on this side of the House, representatives of those who have to give the money, are very pessimistic as to the future of our finances.

Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): Sir, the budget that is placed before us is a very disappointing document. The prospect before us is not very inspiring, but whether it is inspiring or depressing, it is our business to find out how we can best meet the situation.

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

First of all, I would refer to the remark of the Finance Member that the Sukkur Barrage is the most outstanding event of this year. This Sukkur Barrage reminds me of a person who, although not in need of a horse, purchases one. He incurs some liability towards its cost; when the horse is bought he finds that he must have a stable; then he has to meet the charges for its feeding and other charges like payment for syce and so on. Similarly, when the Sukkur Barrage scheme was placed before us, rosy prospects of large returns were held before our eyes. Whether that expectation will ever be realised or not, future will decide, but at the present moment we are faced with two facts. The expenditure incurred on that scheme is somewhere in the neighbourhood of 17 crores, and most of that amount is borrowed money. That means we are paying interest charges on that. Now that we have opened these new canals, an additional burden of 13 lakhs in the shape of working expenses of new canals is being placed upon us. In the first place, so far as our presidency is concerned—even including Sind—we did not require the Sukkur Barrage, and yet our Government have built it and incurred this huge liability of 17 crores, and every year in the future there will be an additional call upon our revenues, to meet the growing working expenses, just as we have a call of 13 lakhs this year. Next year we do not know where we will be. As against these 13 lakhs, there is a prospect, it is stated, of our selling land for 15 lakhs. As for that, owing to the world wide depression in commodity prices we find that our cultivators have not got any return for the expenditure they incurred in cultivating their land,—in such a state of things, is it not over-sanguine to expect that we will be able to realise 15 lakhs of rupees by land sales? But granting that that expectation materialises, and those 15 lakhs come to our revenues, they are going out and out to defray the interest charges. So, you will see that this most outstanding event alluded to in our budget only makes us still more depressed and does not allow of any hopes being built on that item for the near future at any rate.

Then, Sir, the second thing that strikes one in this budget is the attitude of Government towards the law of diminishing returns. The margin of diminishing returns has been reached and yet we go on increasing our taxation. The result is that our expectations are never realised. The moment you increase taxation, people try to see that that money does not go into the public exchequer. Depression in trade, agitation in the country,—with these facts before us, we are trying to increase our stamp duty. It is not sound policy to frame a budget in disregard of the law of diminishing returns.

Then, Sir, the third thing I would like to touch upon is the action taken by Government on the report of the Retrenchment Committee. Now, Sir, the majority of the committee recommended retrenchments of 121 lakhs. Out of those Government have accepted only 58 lakhs. In addition they have effected other retrenchments on their own initiative amounting to 37 lakhs. That gives a total of 95 lakhs, as against 121 lakhs. According to the White Book (Statement of Retrenchments) that is placed in our hands, Government have succeeded in making retrenchment to the extent of 95 lakhs. The retrenchments mentioned in that statement may be grouped under several categories.

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

The first are the retrenchments accepted by Government either in part or in whole. Under the second category come retrenchments considered and dropped—that means total rejection. The third are retrenchments still under consideration. The fourth are recommendations which cannot be accepted without undertaking new legislation. Then there is the further category—that the question will be referred to an expert enquiry. Then there is also another category and that is that the question will be referred to the Government of India. In this way, several recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee have still to be given effect to. Therefore, I ask why undergo the trouble of setting up a committee to work if in the end Government do not want to accept the suggestions made by it.

Then, the next point that I come to is additional sources of taxation. In this connection, we have first of all to take into account several factors. The first that I would like to take is the disclosure made by the Honourable the Finance Member in his speech yesterday that this Presidency is rendering free service to inamdars to the tune of one crore of rupees. Am I right? (The Honourable Sir Govindrao Pradhan indicated dissent.) I am referring to the Honourable the Finance Member's statement on page 4 of his speech, namely, "There is secondly an item of nearly 1 crore contained in the budget as expenditure on General Administration on account of inam lands from which we receive no land revenue", etc. Consider this thing, that the taxpayers are to pay this one crore and the benefit is to go to a few inamdars. The Honourable the Finance Member has made some very insufficient remark alluding to historical reasons which are not stated. But may I ask him why this matter is not taken to a final issue with the Government of India? Is our presidency so very rich that it can penalise its own people and render free service to these inamdars? I do not know if our Government have pursued that point. If we succeed there will be no necessity of taxing this presidency further. Therefore, I would most humbly request our Finance Member to take this matter up to the Government of India and see that those men who have received this free gift shall in future be made to bear its cost.

Then, Sir, the other thing to which the Honourable the Finance Member has drawn our attention is the excise revenue. Now, Sir, that is a very touchy point. The Honourable the Finance Member has reminded us of our debates in 1925. He states that the Government have adopted this policy on the clear understanding that there will be a double raid upon the resources of the State, double raid in the sense that the revenue will be wiped out by the policy of prohibition and expenditure will be increased in carrying out that policy. In this connection, may I just refer the Honourable the Finance Member to the figures given in the Blue Book? In 1921 the figure was somewhere on the border of Rs. 3,42,00,000 and in 1932 according to the budget it is only Rs. 3,30,00,000. Where is the loss of revenue? The loss of revenue, if it is considered as such, is only 12 lakhs. Again, the expenditure in 1921 was 28 lakhs. This year it is 45 lakhs. But certain items which were not shown in 1921 have been shown now, e.g., distillery expenses, etc. In this connection what the Government meant to convey to honourable members on this side of the House was that they would make prohibition quite effective and for that purpose increase the staff. We find that there is no increase in staff; on the other hand there is a reduction. I will give the figures relating to the staff. Under "Superintendence—Presidency establishments and district establishments" the expenditure for 1930-31 was 20·78 lakhs and in the Budget for 1932-33 it is only 18 lakhs. That means that the expenditure has not increased but decreased. So the condition we had in mind, in 1925, viz., that if Government carried out prohibition, the tax-payers would cheerfully submit to further taxation, has not been fulfilled.

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

I next come to provincial settlements. The time is fast approaching when we must exert ourselves to the utmost in getting redress for the injustice which we have suffered during the past 12 years. The Honourable the Finance Member has been good enough to say that he is fighting our case, but he has not given any indication as to the direction in which it is being fought. I may here state that the attitude of the Government of India towards our Presidency is very step-motherly, and the policy of the Government of Bombay is also very halting. I will refer to the incidents which took place in 1925. In that year the Government of Bombay placed before the Council several taxation Bills. In the same year other provinces got remission from the Government of India in respect of provincial contributions. Bombay was neglected, and in virtuous indignation, Government withdrew the finance Bills. The effect was magical. The Government of India made some small concessions to this Presidency, and I am happy to say that the provincial contribution also was subsequently remitted. Unless we plead our inability, unless we show to what agony we are subjecting ourselves,——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member's time is up. One minute left.

Mr. A. N. SURVE:——unless we place our case very strongly before the Government of India, I do not think we are going to get anything from that Government. I will just draw the attention of the Honourable the Finance Member to two concessions which we have obtained from the Government of India: the postponement of the payment of instalments out of the loan fund and also the instalment of pre-reform debts. We must show what our real need is. If we subject ourselves to additional taxation, I do not think anybody is going to come to our rescue. One word about the finance Bill. The selection of time for this Bill is very unlucky, its subject matter unsuitable and there is great danger of fraud to which I shall refer when the Bill comes before the House for discussion.

(After recess.)

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District): Sir, I congratulate the Honourable the Finance Member for his great efforts with which he framed the budget. But it has been presented to us at this odd time. Really speaking, the soil on which the structure of the budget has been erected is in itself not fit for the foundation of that heavy building. The blame for this bad choice does not lie solely with the present Finance Member. That is the legacy left by his predecessors to him by their own achievements. Shri Shankaracharya when examining the doctrine of Buddha, in his शारीरक, passed some remarks on the efforts of that great Teacher. Those are as follows :—

[Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni]

"यथा यथाऽयं सौगतसमयः उपपत्तिमत्त्वाय परीक्ष्यते तथा तथाऽयं सिकताकूपवद् सर्वतः विदार्यत एव" (शारीरके, तर्कपादः).

It means, as more and more efforts are made to examine the doctrine of "Sougata" to see how far it stands to reason, all such efforts prove more and more futile just like the efforts of digging a well in sand the edges of which being very brittle come down from each and every side unexpectedly. The same remarks are very suitably applicable here to the present efforts of the Finance Member in trying to balance his budget. The sound foundation for the budget is said to be popular goodwill and full co-operation of the representatives of the people. In my support I quote the economists of great name and fame like Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Buck who state in unmistakable terms :

"Popular goodwill is the only safe foundation for budget. There is no human phenomenon more depressing, no political condition more fraught with peril to society, than a government unsupported by the goodwill of the people, a condition which, unabated, causes increasing distrust and social unrest, leading, when long continued, to popular despondency or acts of violence." (Page 3.)

When we look to the deficit budgets of this type, the inference is naturally drawn even in the present case that there is lack of popular support to the present policy of the Government; otherwise this state of things would have never happened. The income of the Government is successively decreasing and on the other hand the expenditure side is taking strides too high.

With regard to the state of income, the Government publication "Bombay, 1929-30" tells us that—

"An examination of the revenue receipts for the last five years disclosed the fact that the budget revenue had never been realised to the full. On the contrary there had been large deficits which had averaged 66 lakhs a year." (A review of the Administration of the Presidency.)

One of the evident reasons for this mishap is obviously the unrest among the people, caused by the present ways of conducting administration of the country. In my support I shall now quote the honourable member the Finance Secretary :

"The catastrophic fall in prices during the year, combined with the civil disobedience movement, led to a fall in revenue which is at present estimated at Rs. 1,95 lakhs." (Review of the Financial Position of Bombay 1921–31).

So this fall is attributed by the Finance Secretary to the civil disobedience movement, which is the outcome of the discontent among the people. I shall now show from the figures given in budget estimates of the last three years that the actual revenue is decreasing year after year. In 1928-29 the account figure for Land Revenue was Rs. 4,84,67,776.

[Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni]

It went down in 1929-30 to Rs. 4,79,62,982, and further decrease is seen on the same head in 1930-31 which is Rs. 4,74,45,139. These figures clearly show that the collections of land revenue are constantly decreasing year by year. From the figures of income from forest of the last three years it will be seen that the income from that head is also suffering adversely, and though there may be some other reasons for the non-payment of taxes, forest satyagraha must be one of the reasons for this decrease in income. The root of the discontent among the people is in the present policy of the bureaucracy. In 1928-29 Rs. 73,43,035 were realised from the forests; in 1929-30 Rs. 79,74,964 were realised, but in 1930-31, when the real beginning of the no-tax-payment movement was made, the income decreased to Rs. 52,23,753. This decrease of about Rs. 27 lakhs clearly shows how it has become difficult to frame a balanced budget. The reason for this is admittedly told in the Administration Reports of Land Revenue and Forests. The Land Revenue Administration Report says:

"The administration of land revenue proved exceptionally difficult on account of the civil disobedience movement and Revenue officers had to work under conditions of altogether exceptional strain." (1929-30.).

This shows that Revenue officers had very strenuous work, and it was very difficult for them to make the recovery of the dues. Why was this so? Is it due to the fall in prices of materials and the general depression only? It cannot be said that on that account only people are not so very willing to pay their dues to Government. There must be another reason for that, which I have given more than once. Now to corroborate my statement, I quote a passage from the Forest Administration Report for the same year. It is stated there:

"The depression still continues and is accentuated by the present civil disobedience movement." (Chapter VIII—Page 59.)

From these statements the conclusion can safely be drawn that the people of the country are not satisfied with the way of administration and that goes to bring about the fall in the income. This has made the task of the Honourable the Finance Member—to meet the two ends of the budget—very difficult.

Now, this discontent—which has partly resulted in civil disobedience or no-tax-payment movement—has thrown extra burden on the resources of the Government for providing the extra expenditure on the Departments of the Police and Jails. The income of Government is decreasing and, at the same time, ground is created for marked increase in the expenditure of the Departments such as Police and Jails etc. This policy of the Government has made the task of balancing the budget more difficult. I am showing the progress in the expenditure side.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has taken nearly fifteen minutes in quoting from various books.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Sir, after the expiry of my time, if I do not finish, I shall resume my seat then and there. What can I do under the circumstances? Without sufficient time at my disposal I cannot finish my arguments. I think I shall not be able to convince the House if I make jumps in my speech.

[Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni]

The expenditure of the Police Department has grown enormously big. In 1928-29 it was Rs. 1,69,73,282; in 1929-30 it amounted to Rs. 1,75,98,883; but in 1930-31 it has gone up to Rs. 1,91,63,381; that means an increase by Rs. 21,90,099 within the short period of two years. This extra burden was thrown on the exchequer because of the extra work involved in putting down the movement of the discontented people for their freedom.

The same progress is made in the Jails expenditure also. The predecessor of the present Home Member has already admitted in his last budget speech that the jails were overcrowded. He said:

"Another point was the very unpleasant overcrowding which certainly did exist in some of the jails. Last year there were at times perhaps 150 persons to look after suddenly in places where there was only accommodation for a dozen, and it was inevitable that discomfort should be caused." (Page 837 Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates.)

Why all this botheration? Because the discontented people break the dictates of Ordinances. They do not co-operate with Government authorities. Eventually Government have to deal with them and thereby extra expenditure is to be incurred on their account. Says thus the Finance Secretary:

"There was additional expenditure particularly under 'Police' and 'Jails' necessitated by the Civil Disobedience Movement." (Review of the Financial Position of Bombay.)

This state of things caused by public discontent has brought the Government in a difficult position in which they cannot present a balanced budget. This is one of the reasons why a balanced budget has become an impossibility. Now, new sources of income, which would cover all these deficits, when asked by the Government are ruthlessly thrown out by the representatives of the people, which leaves no hope of recoupment. New taxation Bills were brought in, but they were rejected only for the reason that the voters, who have elected the members, have made it clear by their action that unless the evil of the people's disappointment is cured and they are given their reasonable demands, no new taxation should be sanctioned. That is the message of the voters to their representatives in Council. In its absence Government might have taken the support of trade and commerce. But, also, they have been also hampered by the civil disobedience movement and the no-tax-payment campaign! There is no hope of their immediate improvement in the near future.

In "A Review of the Administration of the Presidency of Bombay" this has been told in plain terms:

"The civil disobedience campaign was launched in the Bombay Presidency in the early part of 1930 with disastrous effects on the industrial and commercial activities of the city and the Presidency. Under such conditions it was hardly to be expected that Bombay's commerce in the past year should show any indication of recovery." (Page VI.)

[Rao Saheb P. D. Kulkarni]

Under these circumstances, His Excellency the Governor yesterday asked us to give co-operation. The words are fresh in the memory of all honourable members of this House who attended the session. Co-operation is also asked for by the Honourable the Finance Member. But when the representatives of the people choose and recommend some remedies to secure the cure of the disease of the present discontent, they are rejected by the Government in toto. More than 15 honourable members of this House have sent a resolution to take steps to restore freedom of the persons arrested under ordinances in order to create a calm atmosphere, and then to be able to represent to Government the sense of the voters as to what should be the means to meet the demands of the discontented. The voters now are not in a calm frame of mind. They are in opposition to Government. Therefore, in order to create a calm atmosphere, we have requested you to do certain things in a loyal and constitutional way. But all these resolutions were disallowed by His Excellency by a stroke of the pen. The following is the letter which one of the honourable members has received in this connection :

"I have the honour to inform you that your resolutions Nos. 1 and 2 (copies attached) have been disallowed by H. E. the Governor under Rule 22 of the Bombay Legislative Council Rules, the former on the ground that it cannot be moved without detriment to the public interest, and the latter on the ground that it relates to a matter which is not primarily the concern of the Local Government."

I think, unless the root cause of the evil is removed once for all, these preventive measures will be of no use. Let the atmosphere be calm. Let us have a chance of creating good-will and good opinion about the actions of the Government; and we shall then be able to accord our sanction to new taxation if necessary, and we shall be then willing to enable Government to balance the budget. The extra expenditure under Jails and Police will then be curtailed, and the deficit in land revenue will also be recouped, as the people will be willing to give land revenue at any cost. They will do so because their fields and lands are dearer to them even than their own lives. They know that if they do not pay the land revenue their lands will be confiscated. But they are agitated by this bad atmosphere. In order to calm that storm it was requested by many honourable members that certain remedies should be adopted for the good of the Government and people. But unfortunately, as our advice is discarded, at present we have become helpless. We are not in a position to take advice from our voters. Now there is the difficult task before us, of giving sanction to fresh taxation. But, mind well, we are not prepared for the task. The responsibility wholly lies on the shoulders of the Government, that is, the Honourable the Finance Member. I therefore hope that His Excellency the Governor will take into consideration our request for the creation of a calm atmosphere listening to the advice of the representatives of the people; we will then be able to take advice from our voters and, if at all inevitable, can give sanction to the imposition of new taxation proposed by Government to balance the budget after the necessary adjustments are made by them on the lines suggested.

Mr. C. N. PATEL (Kaira District): Sir, the Honourable the Finance Member has placed in our hands the budget for the coming year, but I do not think he has taken any lesson from the experience he has met with during the last year. Last year's also was a deficit budget, and he had requested the House to meet the deficit by further taxation. He knows full well that this House was dead opposed to giving any help in the form of new taxes. This year again he has come forward with the same offer, and I am sure this House will give him the same response, or the same sort of response that was given to him last year. Last year we refused to pass any measures for further taxation. This year also I hope the House will reject the new taxation Bills.

It has been said by some of the honourable members who preceded me that what we want is peace, retrenchment and Reforms. As regards peace, Sir, the civil disobedience movement is so much and so badly talked of. I am not here to advocate the cause of the civil disobedience movement, but really we ought to see both sides of the question. I am not here on the merits or demerits of the civil disobedience movement. But whether the methods adopted, viz., the ordinances and the working of the ordinances to cope with the civil disobedience movement are properly carried out, and whether the people are given the sort of treatment which justifies the heavy expenditure that is being incurred in these days, will have to be looked at in order to arrive at a proper understanding and proper decision as regards the merits of this budget. The honourable member Rao Bahadur Naik gave us an instance of how an honourable member of this House was dealt with, indicating the way in which these ordinances are worked. I have some unpleasant reminiscences to put forward about the events that have happened in my own district. It has appeared in the papers—the incident of Gana has appeared in the papers. So far as I know, the Revenue and Police authorities have not been in a position to deny them. If the story is true, really it ought to shock the decency and morality of every living human being. If the story is false, then it must be given a denial. At any rate, as the facts have come to my ears, the matter is serious enough to require a thorough investigation, an investigation which will command the respect of law-abiding persons. As regards the doings of the police in other places, I would mention the instance of the acts of the Sub-Inspector and Head Constable of Virsad at Sunav. Especially the action of the head constable there in treating even women is most reprehensible. As the story has been told, if the action of the police at that place is also investigated, even the Government benches will have to admit that all is not well with the administration of the ordinances. In Ahmedabad, for having a white cap, one is given a strike on his head or his body, whether he is a millowner, or a millionaire or a beggar in the street. Every one with a white cap was given a lathi blow one day from the station right up to Bhadra. [The Honourable Mr. G. A. Thomas: Did you get one?] I did not get one. If you think that I should get one, I would not shirk it. I would not discard the white cap for the sake of it. If Government think that the white cap should be banned, they can promulgate an ordinance. What I want is that Members of

[Mr. C. N. Patel]

Government should know that the ordinance is being carried out in utter disregard of the intentions of the Government by their officers. Persons are arrested for alleged offences. They are, however, not put up to take their trial; but what happens is that they are arrested, beaten and then released. As a pleader, however humble my knowledge may be, I say that a person may be arrested, but it is illegal to beat the man after he is arrested. The names of the persons who were arrested and beaten and let off have already appeared in papers. Even in Nadiad, I know of arrested persons who instead of being placed before a court and tried for alleged offences were given a beating. They are given punishment by the police officers. If this is the spirit in which the ordinances are to be worked, we had better not have these ordinances. If we want the Government to have a sane administration, I would request Government to withdraw these ordinances. If they want to keep these ordinances, they ought in fairness to themselves and critics like myself institute an enquiry with some non-officials in it to investigate into the truth or otherwise of these allegations. These allegations are serious enough. But I shall add one more. There are public meetings held. Usually a warning is to be given to the persons to disperse. Without any warning to disperse and closing them on all sides, lathi charges are made even on innocent passers-by. I know of one case where even a Government doctor was beaten as a result of which he was disabled in both the legs. People of 80 years and children between 5 and 12, and even innocent men and women are given lathi blows. People who have taken no part in the meetings have been victims of the lathi charge. This instance I am referring to as having happened in Nadiad. What I submit to Government is that they should make an enquiry into all these allegations. Of course, it is useless to ask questions, because if questions are asked, replies may be given after several months, as it has happened in the case of my honourable friend to my left (Mr. S. S. Tolani). If you really want to take this side of the House into your confidence, if you want to satisfy this side of the House that the ordinances are worked in a good spirit, you ought in fairness to institute an enquiry into the working of the ordinances in the mofussil and see that something is done to alleviate the unnecessary hardship on innocent people.

Then, again, Government are responsible for the various huge expenses that are being made. Various suggestions have been made to Government from time to time for reducing their expenses, but they are putting off doing the right thing under one pretext or another. As regards primary education I would ask Government to hand it over to the local bodies. But the dispute arises with regard to the datum line. The local bodies would not have these primary schools unless a particular amount is given. As a matter of fact more money is spent by the Government. Government would not take that into consideration and they keep a particular limit which they call the datum line. They say that if you are prepared to take these schools on that basis we will give you. The local bodies are afraid of the so-called datum line. As a result of this Government are starving the primary schools for fear of having to pay more sums to the local bodies, who are in their turn afraid of taking over charge of these schools.

[Mr. C. N. Patel]

Then, again, the Public Works Department could be done away with and the staff dispensed with. These works can be handed over to the local boards. The rates of the Public Works Department are proverbially high and the same work can be done at a much cheaper rate and more economically by the local bodies. The present engineers and the staff will be absorbed by the local bodies. If 75 or 50 per cent. of the present expenditure of Government is handed over to the local bodies the same amount of work will be done by them. Just to cite one instance, so far as I know of the working of this department, officers are practically idling away their time. A few days back two labourers were required at the Nadiad court house to remove the grass in the compound. Two labourers were engaged on 8 annas a day. There were the assistant engineer, one supervisor and one mistry to look after this work for three days. I should think that perhaps the bhatta of these officers could have been spared and several more labourers engaged to do the work. Even for the planting of trees on roads, I have known of engineers coming from Kaira and residing in Nadiad for three months for supervising the work. Any Mali engaged on Rs. 15 or Rs. 20 a month will be able to do this work even better. Instances like this can be multiplied. This is a waste of public money which has been going on. It is up to the Finance Department and the various other departments to see that this wastage is stopped, if they really mean business. If they accept this suggestion, I am quite sure that they can save money not only to meet the deficit, but spare more money for reducing the debt.

Something more also can be done. The Revenue Department and the Magisterial Department are at present combined. What happens is that the Revenue Officer is generally minding his revenue work. He fixes the hearing of a case in a certain out of the way place. The litigants have to go there. More often the cases are taken up not before 5 o'clock in the evening. People who come from long distances have to go back. The places where the hearings are fixed are such that no one else but the revenue officer will be provided for. Just look at the hardship the people have to suffer. There may be some excuse for combining these two functions in one man. Perhaps, the revenue officer gets a sort of sanctity over the people. If that is the excuse, then the mere fact that it is so is sufficient condemnation of the system. As a result of the separation we will require a less number of mamlatdars and deputy collectors and Collectors, and the same magisterial work can be easily done by honorary magistrates or by magistrates who are paid Rs. 50 or Rs. 100 a month. In certain centres second class magistrates may be appointed to do most of this work; and the administration of criminal justice would be more quick than at present. The returns of criminal cases that are pending for more than three months sent to Government will tell their own tale. Litigation is being dragged on and very few cases are disposed of within three months, as they ought to be.

[Mr. C. N. Patel]

I oppose more taxation on this ground. People—especially the masses—have very little to live upon. The agriculturists have not realised sufficient from their lands to meet the cost of cultivation and the cost of labour. This year they have not got sufficient to pay their revenue to Government out of their profit. Most of them are indebted and they have to pay their creditors. If they pay the Government and the creditor, how are they to feed their family and cattle? Land cannot yield anything until the next season. They have either to go on starving or borrow to feed their family. If nobody lends, they have to commit theft. In these times it is not proper that we should increase the burden on the people. One reason for the proposed increase in the court-fees is stated to be that the value of the money has gone low. What I submit is that if the money has gone down in value, also the claim itself has gone down in value. If two years back the value of a claim was Rs. 1,000 it has gone down in value and the court-fee also must be reduced. This tax will eventually fall on the back of the poor agriculturists. If Government care to know the condition of the people in the mofussil, they can take statistics. Although the average agriculturist in Gujarat owns about 10 to 20 bighas of land, yet 75 per cent. of Gujarat agriculturists are in indebted circumstances. Any proposal for increasing taxation which will add to their debts stands condemned. Now the proposal to extend the probate duties to those classes who are now exempt from them will reduce them to greater poverty and indebtedness. The stamp duty is also sought to be raised; the new rates are out of all proportion to the ability of the people to pay. I warn Government that the law of diminishing returns will come into play. The poor man's postcard that was originally priced one pice is now charged three pice. What is the result? We find that people have cut short their letter writing to one-third or even one-fourth of what they were used to. The increase in price does not put more money into the coffers of Government. If you go on increasing court-fees and stamp duties, it will not always bring more money; it will be the other way. People will refrain from going to courts of law and will find means to settle their differences privately. I am sure that the money that will go into the pockets of Government will be less than what they expect it to be. In this connection one thing that I would submit is that we should not use the court-fees as a means of earning revenue. I know that the courts are not working at a loss. We should not make court-fees a source of income.

[No one rose to speak.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If no one is willing to speak, I will call upon the Honourable the Finance Member for a reply.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: There are three days allotted for general discussion.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: There are three days allotted, but if nobody is going to get up, I will certainly get up and give a reply.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Sir, some criticisms have been made against the Home Department just now by two honourable members on this side. I wish to know if any Government member is going to give a reply to those criticisms before any other non-official member speaks. If any honourable non-official member speaks, he will only repeat the grievances more or less. I should like to see if any reply is going to be given to the criticisms already made. We can, of course, prolong the discussion: there is no danger of discussion stopping.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Sir, I can only speak once. I do not, therefore, wish to reply as soon as one honourable member has made a few observations. If any statement is required by honourable members on the policy pursued by Government, the proper occasion would seem to be when the honourable member (Rao Bahadur Kale) moves the address he has tabled. I do not want to speak twice on the subject.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: In order to create an atmosphere favourable to the grant of new taxation, it is necessary, I think, that the reply should be given just now. It is from that point of view that I think that this is the proper time. I know my address may be coming later on.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: This is a matter for honourable members on the Government benches to decide. They should know which is the best time.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Sir, I am only entitled to speak once. Now only one honourable member has made an attack. If any other honourable member were to speak on the subject after I have once spoken, I should be debarred from giving a reply to him.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If it were a matter of the Standing Orders or the Rules, I would have called upon honourable members from the Government benches to speak. As that is not the case, the best course for the non-official side of the House is to follow their own inclinations in the matter of speaking. If they do not take this opportunity, then the opportunity is being lost, because I will certainly call upon the Honourable the Finance Member for a reply.

Mr. PESTANSHAH N. VAKIL: There is another course open to the President which I may be permitted to suggest. It is that the House may be adjourned, because members evidently want time to study the figures supplied. There is likely to be a plethora of speakers to-morrow.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, the Honourable the Home Member is correct, because he has only one chance to reply. If we exhaust our right of reply now, we cannot reply to the other members who may speak hereafter.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University): Sir, in that case—I had really no intention to speak at this stage, because I was engaged elsewhere and intended to speak to-morrow after collecting my thoughts so as to concentrate on certain specific questions of policy.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Is the honourable member speaking?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I am speaking, Sir. I am speaking although I had no intention to speak to-day. The Honourable the Finance Member in his last year's speech had referred to the atmosphere that prevailed at that time. In paragraph 3 of this year's speech also he says:

"Coming to the revenue side, the same causes which operated last year have again been responsible for a large fall in land revenue and irrigation dues."

He has not made specific mention of the political cause, but I take it that he does refer to it. As has been stated by one of the honourable members, an atmosphere of goodwill and calmness is necessary. I know a good deal has been said about the administration of the ordinances. It may be replied that the ordinances have been promulgated by the Viceroy and the Governor General, and that the local Government has to carry them out. But I submit that a certain amount of discretion is left to the local Government even under the ordinances. It was left to the local Government to decide whether the ordinances should in the first instance be applied to particular areas only or simultaneously to the whole Presidency. They were given discretion to choose particular areas at particular times which in their opinion were in a disturbed condition and which required the operation of the ordinances immediately. It cannot be said that each and every place, even villages situated remote in rural areas, required the whole operation of each and every ordinance. The ordinances have been applied to areas where they are not required. That is my first grievance. My second grievance relates to the carrying out of the provisions of the ordinances by the subordinates of Government. It is the duty of Government to see that the ordinances are administered in such manner as not to imperil the safety and liberty of all law-abiding persons. That is another discretion vested in Government: it is for Government to make enquiries and take steps to satisfy the people that the ordinances are being worked in a spirit of humanity and, as far as possible, without causing humiliation to persons. There have been instances, I think, in all parts—I do not say that there are not good reasons for them. At the same time, I feel that before a person is arrested or served with a notice, which is humiliating to him, an opportunity should be given to him to refute the accusations against him. To arrest a man without giving him an opportunity of explaining his action and make him sit for two hours in a police station, as I am told an honourable member of this House (Dr. Dixit) was made to, shows lack of caution. The honourable member told me yesterday the story of his own detention. Is that not humiliating, and is it not necessary to make enquiry into such cases? We are all opposed to civil disobedience: at least I must say that nobody in this House likes the stunt of civil disobedience.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Has Dr. Dixit complained to the Government?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Dr. Dixit went to the District Magistrate, but he was not there. Because he gave shelter to a friend, to say that he screened him is nothing less than humiliation. I cannot think of a milder term than that to apply to such a kind of action. If they wanted him, he should have been sent for. But two police officers were sent, he was made to sit between them in the police car and taken to the thana and made to sit there two or three hours before the police officer chose to go there. This could have been avoided. Is it not possible to avoid recurrence of such things in order to create an atmosphere of peace and goodwill? We know the difficulties of Government. When there is this movement, which has to be stopped, they are bound to put it down. I do not deny that. But such incidents as this must be avoided. After all, the subordinate police are human beings, and when excessive powers are left with them, a certain amount of caution is necessary in order to avoid abuse of such powers by them. That being so, the question before this House is this. The income of Government is going down owing to the spread of the civil disobedience movement. There is this grievance: I do not say that there are no other grievances. The civil disobedience movement may be the result of the grievances of the people, and the very principle "no supply without redress of grievances" justifies honourable members of this House in criticising the taxation proposals.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

His Excellency the Governor was pleased to announce that he is going to appoint an expert committee to reorganise the administration. Well and good. I submit that this should have been done long ago. In fact, from the very beginning of the reforms we have been asking for the overhauling of the whole administrative machinery and concentration of powers in certain hands in order to avoid reduplication of work. The Secretariat is said to be overstaffed. If all this unnecessary expenditure had then come under the scrutiny of an expert committee at the very beginning, we should not have arrived at a point at which we are bankrupt. But, as the late Mr. Gokhale once said, the words "too late" are writ large on every work of Government in the history of this Presidency, and I think that it is this belatedness in doing things, in accepting the advice of the public, that has brought us to our present condition.

With regard to education, complaints have been made by honourable members against the cut in the grants. I would be willing to accept a cut in education if other departments also are made to sacrifice a proportionate share. But here again it is a question of policy. What kind of expenditure are you going to cut? The greater cut will fall on poor institutions, such as primary and secondary schools or aided high schools or colleges. There has been a cut of 15 per cent. under primary education and 5 per cent. under secondary education. I have been repeatedly urging that the expenditure on education in Government institutions is far out of proportion to the expenditure incurred by privately managed institutions. Why not apply the knife there? Has the Government done anything in this matter? So far as I know, an attempt in this direction was made by the first Minister of Education when he abolished the Poona High School. I want to know whether any such attempt has been made in later years, and, if not, I want to demand an explanation as to whether there is any change of policy so far as this matter is concerned. So far as I know, you are increasing the expenditure on Government colleges. It was suggested that Government want more money for starting scientific classes in the Andheri College. This college was started as an arts college. Why should you come forward for more money in these times of stringency for starting the Inter Science classes? Why should you apply to the University for affiliation of the College for that purpose? This is an item of expenditure under Education which requires looking into.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

There is also another matter. I understand that in the matter of technical schools there is a committee of direction. In all other provinces I find that technical education is managed by the Director of Industries. In this province for some time there was no Director of Industries. But now a Director of Industries has been appointed. Why not hand over charge of technical education to the Director of Industries?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Technical schools are in his charge now.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I find that provision has been made for the secretary's pay, etc. There is no need to incur all this expenditure on the committee of direction. The establishment and other charges according to the budget come to Rs. 15,000. If technical education has been handed over to the Director of Industries, why should this expense be necessary? So far as I know, the inspection of the technical schools is carried out by one inspector and in addition by the Secretary who charges Rs. 50 for the inspection of each school. He inspects five or six schools in one day, taking about 15 minutes for each inspection. In addition to the inspection fee, he is paid travelling allowance for touring in a motor car at the rate of six annas per mile, or whatever is allowed under the rules. My point is: if you want to reduce the expenditure on education, by all means do so, but you must curtail all this unnecessary expenditure first. If you cut down the grants of institutions which are supplying the needs of the people, where are they to go for funds? Resolutions after resolutions have been passed by Government that as soon as private agencies capable of taking charge of secondary and higher education are found, Government should stop the costly management of their own educational institutions, whether secondary, higher or collegiate.

These are matters which require to be explained. Again, unless and until we have a statement of policy with regard to salaries of Government servants, we cannot agree to additional taxation. The Honourable the Finance Member said that they have volunteered a cut of 10 per cent. That is not a correct view. The 10 per cent. cut was the result of the general policy of His Majesty's Government at Home. But what about the whole question of salaries ? They must be determined by a reference to the income per capita of the people of this country. I made that point clear in my speech last year and also at Poona. The question of salaries must have relation to the standards adopted as the basis in other countries. One honourable member said that Bombay is a very rich province and therefore the amenities of life must be greater. But my point is that the average per capita expenditure must have relation to the average per capita income of the people. Take the case of other countries. Base your salaries on that basis. What proportion do salaries of public servants in other countries bear to the income per capita of the people in those countries ? You must find out some such scheme. I know you cannot deprive of their income, the people who are now in service and whose salaries have been fixed. But I say you must have a policy. We must be convinced that Government is really seriously tackling the problem in the proper manner and then we may be disposed to give you more money if your coffers are empty. It is no use merely tinkering with this problem in a slipshod manner—cutting down salaries by some rough and haphazard method and other minor retrenchments. We are tired of that. You abolish a post in order to save money. In my own district a court has been abolished. The people of that place (Tasgaon) made representations against the abolition. It is a commercially important town and even if you find a saving now, in due course you will suffer loss on account of the abolition of that court. Government has paid no heed to public protests. We will not be satisfied with this sort of retrenchment—abolition of a post here, retrenchment of establishment there, etc. It is something to know that reorganisation is going to take place through the appointment of an expert committee. There must be some such attempt on the part of Government before the Honourable the Finance Member can expect this side of the House to comply with his request for more taxation.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Sir, it was my intention to speak some time to-morrow, but as the discussion is about to come to an end unceremoniously for want of speakers, I take my chance to-day. I do not want to enter into the technicalities of the discussion. I want to draw the attention of the honourable House to the remarks that fell from the lips of my honourable colleague Rao Bahadur Angadi, that with the separation of Sind, the finances of the Presidency will improve considerably. I believe he has taken the most correct view of the whole situation. The Financial Enquiry Committee appointed by the Government of India in pursuance of the resolution of the Round Table Conference to investigate into the future finances of Sind has, in its report, stated that there is likely to be a deficit of Rs. 1,10,00,000 in the budget of Sind on the basis of its present income and expenditure. If that is so, the easiest method of balancing the budget of the Bombay Government is to separate Sind immediately. By doing so they will be meeting the demand of the Muslim community also. Leave us to our fate and we will know how to balance our budget and meet the deficit.

[Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid]

As regards the other points which have been mentioned by some of the honourable members, I agree with them generally in the demand that the nation-building departments should not suffer by reason of any retrenchment effected by Government. I have nothing else to say with regard to the points raised by honourable members.

I avail myself of the opportunity to draw the attention of Government to the grievances of the people in my constituency. The Karachi district, from which I come, is faced at present with three problems which are going to make or mar its future and which require sympathetic handling at the hands of the Government. One of these problems is the question of water supply of Malir Tapa of Karachi taluka. For the last 30 years the Karachi Municipality has been robbing the khatedars of the Malir tract of Karachi taluka of their legitimate supply of water by constructing underground galleries which have obstructed the natural flow of water towards their lands and brought about misery and sufferings among the khatedars. In the Malir tract, formerly if a well was dug a few feet deep, enough water could be procured, but after the municipality began to construct the underground galleries in order to provide the municipal area and other areas which depend for their water supply on the water works of the Karachi Municipality, the khatedars of the Malir tract can get water after digging their wells 40 or 50 feet deep, and that also for a very short time. Government revenue also is suffering by the action of the Karachi Municipality, and I think it is high time that Government should come to the rescue of the illiterate khatedars, who feel shy of resorting to legal measures, and Government should call upon the Karachi Municipality not to extend this underground gallery any further, as it proposes to do, and also give due compensation to the khatedars, who have been suffering for the last 30 years. That is one point towards which I want to draw the attention of the Government.

Another point is the condition of the Ochto river in Keti Bunder and Mahal Keti Bunder. This Ochto river used to flow quite satisfactorily two years ago, but since the last year it has dried up to a very large extent, and the water from the sea has rushed in the Ochto, and thus the water has become brackish, and neither the people nor the cattle can use it, with the result that not only cultivation has suffered in the two talukas of the Karachi district, but thousands of people have migrated from Gorabari taluka along with their cattle. The situation that has been created is very delicate and requires the immediate attention and the sympathetic attention of the Government. That is another problem that faces my constituency.

The third problem which requires solution at an early date is the effect of the Barrage over the cultivation of Lower Sind. For the last 10 years, the dangers to Lower Sind have been brought to the notice of the Government, and now we have reached a stage when the canals within the Barrage zone will begin to operate immediately, and with that prospect in view the dangers and anxieties of the zamindars in Lower Sind have been increased considerably. The whole optimism of Government with regard to the supply of water to Lower Sind, even after the opening of the Barrage, depends on the theory, which I think has exploded itself, that the river bed at Kotri was steadily rising, and any losses in the supply of water that the zamindars in Karachi district may suffer will be more than counterbalanced by the rise of the level of the river at Kotri. But, looking to the level of the river at Kotri for the last 10 years, we see that the river bed at Kotri is rather losing than gaining; it is deepening rather than rising, and all the calculations based upon the theory of the rise of the river bed at Kotri have proved to be untrue. When, in a recent interview with the present Chief Engineer in Sind, a deputation of the Karachi district brought this point to the notice of the Chief Engineer in Sind, that all the assurances given to the zamindars in the Karachi district were based upon the theory of the rise of the bed of the river at Kotri, and that observations for the last 10 years demonstrated that that theory cannot be depended upon, he had no answer to give. Rather, when a pertinent question was put to him whether, after the working of the canals within the Barrage zone, the canals in the Karachi district would maintain their present level, his reply was that it depends upon the monsoon rainfall and the catchment area of the Indus. Sir, that is the third problem, and a very serious problem, which threatens the whole of the district, rather, the whole of Lower Sind including a part of Hyderabad district with devastation. I am not going to accuse anybody now for making wrong calculations about the rise of the river bed at Kotri, but Mr. A. Musto in his well known booklet "The Barrage and the future of Sind" has mentioned that theory, and has put so much faith in it that he has made calculations for fifty years hence as to what would be the rise of the bed of the river at Kotri after every 10 years. Sir, far be it from me to cast any aspersions against, or attribute any motives to, the then Chief Engineer in Sind, that is in 1923, or those Members of the Government who put their implicit faith in those theories. We are now threatened with a sure deficiency of water, and that means that there will be no kharif cultivation in Karachi district.

[Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid]

Under these circumstances, while requesting Government to consider the problems of Karachi district sympathetically, I may mention that people are not in a mood to consider any proposals for fresh taxation.

As regards the retrenchment that has been effected, I may inform this honourable House that there have been complaints in the Muslim press of my province that the axe of retrenchment has fallen upon the Mussalmans, on the plea that they were new entrants and have not yet been made permanent, and therefore their services should be dispensed with. Formerly, we used to hear that Government could not employ more Mussalmans because they were not qualified; and now when qualified Mussalmans are available, their services are to be dispensed with. Notices have been served upon them to leave Government service on a certain date, because Government want to effect retrenchment. I think that is not fair. The advanced classes have taken sufficient advantage of Government appointments for the last 100 years. Now that Government have been provided with an opportunity to raise those who are behind, it is unfair that, with the smallest representation in the services that the Mussalmans have, they should be asked to be prepared to leave the service no sooner they have entered it. Even the figures that have been supplied by the Honourable the General Member, in answer to a question put by my honourable friend Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah, tell their own tale. In the Public Works Department there is only one Muslim Executive Engineer, while there are 30 non-Mussalmans; there are only 5 Muslim Assistant Engineers on the permanent cadre when there are 60 non-Mussalmans, and there are only 5 Muslim temporary sub-divisional officers, when there are 56 non-Muslims, and so on. Such is the condition of the representation in the services of the Muslim community; and there is an agitation in the Hindu press in Sind that Government have been always treating the Mussalmans very favourably and partially when compared with the other communities. But these figures tell their own tale. What I want to press is——

[Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member's time is up.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: Only one word. What I want to bring to the notice of Government is this. Qualified Muslims at least, should not be driven out of Government service on the flimsy pretext of the so-called retrenchment. There is enough room otherwise for retrenchment if Government were serious enough. We are now told that an expert committee is being constituted. The retrenchment has been brought about as a result of the general depression and the extremely costly machinery of Government. If Government had taken up this work five years before, the earth would not have gone asunder nor would the heavens have fallen.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Mr. President, as usual a great deal of fire from the opposite benches has been directed against the departments under my charge. Sir, I am prepared to face the music. In the first place I will deal with the remarks made by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale. He accuses me of not having a policy. I think that accusation would not stand. I am following the traditional policy and a very wise and sane policy it is. He said that one of my honourable predecessors Dr. Paranjpye had by one stroke of the pen closed the Poona Government high school. Well, I am not prepared to abolish any school by one stroke of the pen. The policy of reducing the Government colleges and Government high schools and devoting money thus saved to aided schools and colleges has its supporters. But then there are difficulties in the way. My honourable friend knows very well the fate of the motion which he had the pleasure to support at the senate regarding the fate of the Elphinstone College—that that college should be entirely reserved for research work and should be closed as an arts college. One of the staunchest and oldest members of the senate, Sir Jivanji Modi, strongly opposed the motion and gave very good reasons for the continuance of the Elphinstone College as an Arts college. I am told that motion was very badly defeated.

[Sir Rafiuddin Ahmad]

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : No, no ; it was carried over.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : It was carried over, but all the speeches in the senate were, I think, against the motion.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : No, no. There were speeches in support as well as against.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : I think the honourable member is a great supporter of that motion. But I have reasons to believe that the motion will not be carried. It is only my honourable friend who is speaking the feelings of a microscopic minority. A large number of the people of the backward classes, the Mahomedans and the Lingayats—[An Honourable Member : Do they want the Elphinstone College ?] If the honourable member only waits for some time, he will see that I am talking about another matter. They want that the colleges should be continued, because they say that some of the aided colleges that have been established by the advanced classes are not suitable for them.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : The Andheri College——

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : If the honourable member removes from his brain the Andheri College for a moment, it would be better for all concerned. In Bombay there are two Government colleges. My point is that all these classes have been appealing to us for maintaining these schools and colleges, and not for abolishing them. There are also other good reasons to maintain them.

Some time ago delegates from the Secondary Teachers' Association and others waited upon me to tell me that retrenchment axe should not fall very heavily upon aided secondary schools and colleges. Recently they came and thanked me for what was done by Government regarding the aided schools.

One honourable member opposite, Rao Bahadur Angadi, remarked that I have been a good fighter when I was on the opposition benches. He is not well informed when he said that I did not fight for reducing the cut in education in the Cabinet. I did fight against the cut. There must, however, be a limit to fighting. When it is decided that all the departments must give their quota, the departments under my charge have to follow suit. Therefore, quite against my will I had to yield. I did, however, my best to save the aided colleges and the higher education. The cut is only 5 per cent. regarding secondary schools. With regard to the cut in primary education an attack has been made by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Angadi that that was a wrong thing to do. If University and higher education was not to be touched primary education was bound to suffer heavily. Compulsory education or mass education was only adopted as a policy if certain number of taxes were to be levied for it. I may remind the House that there is not a single additional tax has been levied for the purpose. [An Honourable Member: The Entertainment Tax.] The money from that tax is not merely for education. [An Honourable Member: If you read the speeches——] Even if it be so, the income from that tax is hardly 10 lakhs of rupees. So, some source had to be found for raising the necessary amount. In November last, my honourable colleague the Revenue Member had already informed the House that if the House would not consent to any further taxation the Educational department would suffer. I think it is fresh in the memory of honourable members I am very sorry to say that nothing has been done since. [An Honourable Member: They are ready.] You cannot have it both ways—you cannot eat and keep your cake at the same time. I cannot support an unreasonable demand.

[Sir Rafiuddin Ahmad]

Then, with regard to the Andheri College, my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale said that a new class was being added in Science. That is not so. A full scheme has been sanctioned by this House which included the Science Class. [Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale: I said that on account of the financial stringency it can be postponed.] It is a wrong contention. The Legislative Council passed the whole scheme. But for two years the Intermediate Science was not required. Therefore, we saved that money. A promise had been given to the parents that this class would be opened after two years. We were obliged to do it, and moreover it is self-supporting.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The students could have attended the science classes in the existing colleges in Bombay.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: May I remind the honourable member that he has himself said in the Finance Committee that whatever money is sanctioned for education should not be grudged. [Dr. V. G. Vaishampayan: I opposed this particular grant in the Finance Committee.] I only remarked that Rao Bahadur Kale had made these remarks. I think the whole House would agree with me that it should not be opposed because it goes to benefit a particular community——

Honourable MEMBERS: No, no.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have done something constructive even in these critical times. We have had a scheme for re-organising the secondary training college for the sake of training teachers which was hanging fire. I am glad that I got the money to put it into actual practice. You will soon see the result. In these days of stringency, we have also started the depressed class board and we have allotted Rs. 12,000 for that. [Dr. P. G. Solanki: That is a big amount.] I am sorry to say that it is a small amount. I would double it, if funds were available. I hope the honourable member would be thankful also for smaller gifts. [Dr. P. G. Solanki: I shall have my say later on.] We have done what we can. I am also following moderately the policy of abolishing schools. I have abolished 14 classes in the Elphinstone High School, Bombay. If circumstances permit and all the other boys are absorbed by other schools without causing any inconvenience, the whole school might be abolished some day. So, we are following that policy.

[Sir Rafiuddin Ahmad]

With regard to the other departments under me that of Excise is of a very controversial nature. My honourable friend Mr. Karbhari from Thana complained, if I understood him right, from very long notes that he wanted strong liquors. [Mr. M. M. Karbhari: That is not what I said.] I tried my best to follow him. His eyes were so fixed upon his notes that I could not catch them. I think he complained——

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: About diluting liquor at Nasik.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I do not know whether the inference from this was that he wanted the strength of liquors to be increased. If his constituency ought to have it——

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: I request the Honourable Minister to go through the transcript of the official reporter——

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: But I have to answer now without that benefit. If that is not his demand, then I have nothing to add. I am doing my best to conduct this department with the advice which the House has always given me, but the times are so bad that it becomes extremely difficult to follow the lines to the letter. I shall be always very glad to receive any suggestions. Up to this time I have not received any new suggestions.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: You had promised several times to call me, but never called me.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Call you for what?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: To discuss educational matters.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I want certainly to invite my honourable friend to dinner for social amity but that is a different thing, and I will keep my promise. But with regard to other matters——

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: You promised to discuss with me the question of the reduction of Government educational institutions.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: With regard to more controversial matters the time has not yet come for useful discussion. The committee to which the honourable member referred need not be appointed now. We have appointed a committee to overhaul the administration, and this is not the time for smaller committees. Otherwise, there is a standing invitation to the Honourable Member to my house at all times.

Mr. C. M. LANE: Sir, if I may, I would like to make a few remarks on the speech of the honourable member from Karachi (Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid). I would like first to say that up to this time I have heard no criticism of the Public Works Department: I believe that shows that our astonishing retrenchment is generally appreciated. As regards the speech of the honourable member from Karachi (Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid), he said that his constituents have three main grievances. The first is in connection with the Malir tract. It is scarcely an irrigation case with which I am directly concerned, but four years ago, as Superintending Engineer, Karachi, I investigated it. The fact is that in that tract there are a few gardens and a few scattered patches of cultivation. These last have been affected by the Karachi Municipal water-supply extension. An expert enquiry was held on this complaint four years ago. I understand that this question is being referred to arbitration. It is a matter with which as Secretary for Irrigation I am not concerned at all. However, it is a matter which is receiving attention.

[Mr. C. M. Lane]

Now, as regards the two other points on which the honourable member said his constituency had grievances. The first was with regard to the sea water entering through the mouth of the Ochito river. The mouth of that river got silted up some eighteen months ago. Some expenditure was incurred on its clearance last year, and it was not entirely effective, and considerable expenditure is being incurred on its clearance this year. The principal importance of this river is not to supply water for irrigation but to supply drinking water for the town of Keti Bunder and for villages and cattle in this portion of Ghorabari taluka.

My honourable friend's third point was about the effect of the Barrage withdrawals on Lower Sind canals. Unfortunately, the honourable member was not here to receive the answers to his questions which would have been given by the Honourable the General Member yesterday. If he had received those answers, it would have taken the wind out of his sails and his present complaint would not have been made. He now says, however, that although the engineers say that the bed of the river at Kotri is rising, he himself has seen the bed of the river at Kotri and does not think it is rising. I myself have looked at the bed of the river at Kotri and I would not commit myself to say from the evidence of my own eyes that the river bed is rising. But our observations are taken with instruments of precision, and I think they must be more reliable than the honourable member's visual evidence. It is an established fact that it must be so. The Indus is a deltaic river. The delta is pushing out to the sea. A natural bar is formed and the whole bed of the river is slowly but surely rising. If it had not been for the fact that the bed of the river is rising, the Indus would not have been at a higher level than the general ground level of the land. The river runs through Sind and it is this physical feature that enables it to irrigate the land by its overflow water. The honourable member said that Lower Sind is threatened with deprivation of water supply and no kharif crop. I can assure the honourable member that there is no room for such serious apprehension. Government are committed to see that Lower Sind is not adversely affected by withdrawals by Barrage canals. Works are already in progress for remodelling the Kalri and Narichach. We will take up the other similar works as the Finance Department allows us. The Barrage, I may say, is already in operation. The full Barrage pond level has been held up since the 11th of this month at Sukkur, and still nearly a thousand cusecs are entering the Fuleli. This compares favourably with the average discharge. I do not, therefore, think that there is any reason to anticipate very serious effects on Lower Sind from Barrage withdrawals.

[Mr. C. M. Lane]

I do not think, Sir, any other points with which I am directly concerned, have been raised in this debate. As I said, I am very grateful for the absence of criticism of my department so far.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is now adjourned to 2 o'clock to-morrow, Friday, the 19th February 1932.

MO Hb 181—6

BOMBAY : PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Friday, the 19th February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Friday, the 19th February 1932, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present:

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BAKHALE, Mr. R. R.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOKHALE, Mr. L. R.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.

KIRKE-SMITH, Mr. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCE, Sir REGINALD
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR.
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WILES, Mr. G.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

RECRUITMENT OF BACKWARD CLASSES IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE IN SATARA DISTRICT.

*Mr. A. B. ACHREKAR (Satara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total population of the district of Satara;

(b) the percentage of the proportional strength of (i) Forward, (ii) Intermediate and Backward, (iii) Depressed and (iv) Muhammadan communities comprising the whole population of the district;

(c) the percentage of persons employed from amongst these four classes of communities in the Revenue and Judicial services of the district;

(d) whether the proportionate recruitment in the Government service from backward communities as expressed in Government Resolutions is properly worked out in this district by the district officers?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) 1,026,259 according to the Census of 1921.

(b) Advanced	4·4
Intermediate and backward	76·5
Depressed	15·7
Mahomedans	3·4
(c)	Revenue.
Advanced	61·8
Intermediate and backward	28·8
Depressed	0·5
Mahomedans	8·9

As regards the judicial service the Honourable Member is referred to the Honourable Member in charge of the Home Department.

(d) Yes.

MAGISTRATES, KURLA: ATTENDANCE AT MILLS.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Resident First Class Magistrate of Kurla was attending the mill gates of the Swadeshi Mills, Kurla; if so, since when did he begin his attendance, and when did he end it;

(b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether his services were requisitioned by the management of the Swadeshi Mills, Kurla, or he went there of his own accord; if the latter, what are the grounds on which he took his decision to go;

(c) who were the other magistrates who were going to the Swadeshi Mills, Kurla, during the strike of its workers, and whether they were going every day or off and on?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) He visited the Swadeshi Mills, Kurla, on various occasions between the 26th October and the 18th December 1931.

(b) He went there of his own accord and at the request of the police as there was a possibility of a disturbance.

(c) The District Magistrate visited the mills once and the Sub-Divisional Magistrate several times.

POLICE PROTECTION FOR HEAD JOBBER, SWADESHI MILLS.

*Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that special police protection had been given to a head jobber of the Swadeshi Mills, Kurla, in the months of September, October and November 1931?

(b) If so, what was the number of the constables—armed and unarmed—and head constables who were so given and what was the duration of such protection?

(c) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, was this protection given whenever necessary, or was it given all the twenty-four hours during the period of its continuance?

(d) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, was this protection sought by the Swadeshi Mill authorities or by the head jobber concerned?

(e) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, was this protection given with the knowledge, previous consent and permission of the District Superintendent of Police, Bombay Suburban District?

(f) If not, who was the authority who gave that protection and was he entitled to do so?

(g) When did the District Superintendent of Police come to know of this protection, and what were the orders he issued?

(h) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, was any charge levied on those who sought this protection, and, if so, what was the amount of such charge?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) No.

(b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) Do not arise.

ARTILLERY MAIDAN WORKS: CONTRACTS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the work of constructing roads, footpaths, table drains and storm water drains in the Artillery Maidan was given to Messrs. Ferro Concrete Construction Company in 1929-30;

(b) whether they were permitted by Government to give the work to petty sub-contractors;

(c) whether Government are aware that the contractors gave the work to about 8 or 9 petty sub-contractors at 25 per cent. net profit;

(d) whether Government are aware that some of the petty sub-contractors have gone to court for settlement of their claims against the Ferro Concrete Construction Company;

(e) if the rates of the company were so high as to enable them to make 25 per cent. net profit through petty sub-contractors agency, why Government did not do the same departmentally through the same agency?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) The work of constructing roads and footpaths only on the Artillery Maidan at Karachi was given to this firm in 1929-30.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) Government are aware of only an instance of a petty piece-worker suing this firm.

(e) Vide reply to (c) above. The practice in vogue in Sind is to get all works done by contract as that agency is considered to be on the whole more economical.

GRAZING IN SIND.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that cattle discovered grazing in the close areas are sent to the cattle pound;

(2) if the reply to (1) be in the affirmative, whether the owners are challaned in court even after the pound fees and penalty are paid by them;

(3) if the reply to (2) be in the affirmative, the number of cattle owners challaned for the last three years in Sind;

(4) whether it is a fact that there is a system of rewarding the subordinates for their bringing more cattle to the cattle pound;

(5) whether it is a fact that only nine months in the year is the grazing season;

(6) if the reply to (5) be in the affirmative, what are the reasons for charging grazing fees for the full period of one year;

(7) whether it is a fact that the hilly tract people and people residing outside of forest areas bring their cattle for grazing purposes only for two or three months in the year;

(8) if the reply to (7) be in the affirmative, why they are charged grazing fees for the full year;

(9) whether Government have received any complaints against this system;

(10) if the reply to (9) be in the affirmative, whether Government propose to take any, and, if so, what action in the matter?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (1) Yes, unless the owners are willing to compound the offence.

(2) No.

(3) Does not arise.

(4) No.

(5) No.

(6) Does not arise.

(7) Yes, a few do in certain districts only, on account of the pod crop, and stay from two to six months.

(8) Because the grazing fee is very low and the minimum period has been fixed as one year.

(9) None.

(10) Does not arise.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: With regard to (9), is it not a fact that written complaints have been sent to the Conservator of Forests and that in interviews granted to the representatives of the Maldars' Conference these grievances have been brought to his notice? Has the attention of Government not been drawn to these grievances?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Government are not aware of any such complaints made to them as such.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: Does not the Conservator of Forests form part and parcel of Government and how is it that you distinguish the Conservator of Forests from Government?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: That is a different question altogether.

POLICE SUB-INSPECTOR'S HEAD CLERK, SAKRAND.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) (a) the total period of service rendered by the present head clerk Mr. Rijumal of the Sub-Inspector, Sakrand;

(b) and the period he has been in the Sakrand office since his appointment there?

(2) Have Government officers received complaints that he manages to send to high officers anonymous applications against some well-to-do people with the intention of harassing them and squeezing out money?

(3) If the reply to (2) is in the affirmative, what action have Government taken against him?

(4) Will Government be pleased to give reasons for keeping him there for the most part of his service?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) (a) Fifteen years.

(b) Two years and three months.

(2) No.

(3) and (4) Do not arise

SUKKUR RIOTS, AUGUST 1930: ARRESTS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) How many Muhammadans and how many Hindus were arrested in connection with the Sukkur riots of August 1930 in the town of Sukkur between the 3rd and the 6th of August 1930? Out of these how many were found to be actually committing offences and for what were the rest arrested?

(2) How many of these were people of Sukkur Town against whom nothing was alleged? How many of them were Muslims and how many of them were Hindus?

(3) After how many days were those referred to in (2) above released from jail custody?

(4) Under whose orders were those persons arrested and kept in custody?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) 151 Muhammadans and 49 Hindus. 44, of whom 33 were Muhammadans and 11 were Hindus, were arrested while actually committing offences. The others were arrested as a preventive measure either because they were found carrying lathis and other weapons or because they were bad characters suspected of causing trouble.

(2), (3) and (4) The question is not understood.

FOREST GRIEVANCES ENQUIRY COMMITTEE : SIND FORESTS.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that the Forest Grievances Enquiry Committee was appointed six years ago to enquire into forest grievances and to make recommendations ;

(2) whether it is a fact that the Committee visited Sind ;

(3) what recommendations were made by the Forest Grievances Enquiry Committee in respect of Sind forests, and how far have those recommendations been given effect to ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (1) Yes.

(2) No ; the scope of the enquiry was confined to the Presidency proper.

(3) Does not arise.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID : May I know whether the Government think that there is no necessity of appointing a similar committee for Sind since there are many complaints against the Forest Department ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : This question does not arise out of the question at all ; it introduces a new matter altogether.

POLICE ENQUIRY : MEHRABPUR TALUKA.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether they are aware that on some application police made enquiries of one Changalshah of Mehrabpur ;

(2) if so, will Government please give the name of the applicant ;

(3) was any statement of the applicant taken before making further enquiries in this case ;

(4) if the reply to (3) be in the negative, what were the grounds for making an enquiry in this case ;

(5) is it a fact that this man was much harassed by the police and was let off after payment by him of some money ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : (1) No such application was made.

(2) and (3) Do not arise.

(4) Changalshah has been associating with bad characters.

(5) No.

POLICE SUB-INSPECTOR, TATTA.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID for Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether Mr. Khushaldas, Sub-Inspector of Police, has remained at Tatta for more than three years ;

(2) the reasons for keeping him there for this period ;

(3) whether it is a fact that the number of undetected crimes have increased during his time ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : (1) Yes.
(2) His work has been satisfactory.
(3) No.

VERNACULAR READERS : PREPARATION.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amount spent in the preparation of the Marathi Readers, the Gujarati Readers, the Kanarese Readers and the Urdu Readers, separately ;

(b) the time devoted to the preparation of each of the series ;

(c) the number of persons employed in the preparation of each of them ;

(d) whether the persons thus employed were especially deputed for the preparation of the Readers or were doing this work in addition to their other official duties ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Rs. 93,000 for the preparation of Marathi, Gujarati, Kanarese and also Sindhi Readers. Separate information for each of these is not available. Expenditure incurred on the Translation Board of Urdu Text Books was Rs. 40,711-7-0.

(b) About 2 years and 2½ months for the Urdu Text Books and about a year and 5 months for the rest.

(c) Including the Chairman and Secretary, the Urdu Text Books Translation Board consisted of 10 members. The number of persons employed in the preparation of the Marathi, Gujarati, Kanarese and Sindhi Readers was 8, including 2 persons attached to the Committee for temporary periods. Separate information for each Reader is not available.

(d) The persons employed in the preparation of the Vernacular Readers in Marathi, Gujarati, Kanarese and Sindhi were on deputation. In the case of the Urdu Text Books Translation Board none of the members, except the Secretary, was specially deputed to serve on the Board.

ENGINEERING SERVICES : COMMUNAL INEQUALITIES.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many Brahmins, non-Brahmins, Muhammadans and others have been taken—

(i) in the Bombay Engineering Service,

(ii) in the Bombay Subordinate Engineering Service since 1925 ;

(b) how many of these are from the Karnatak and how many Lingayats ;

(c) how Government intend to make good the communal inequalities ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) The following numbers have been appointed since 1925:—

(i)	Brahmins ..	30
	Non-Brahmins ..	32
	Muhammadans ..	5
	Others ..	2
(ii)	Brahmins ..	40
	Non-Brahmins ..	27
	Muhammadans ..	3
	Others ..	4

(b) Nine from the Karnatak and one Lingayat.

(c) Every endeavour is being made to achieve proper admixture of all classes and communities in the services under the control of this Government.

POLICE STATION: MUGATKHAN.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): (a) Is it a fact that Government intend to abolish the police station at Mugatkhan Hubli and transfer it to Kittur in the Sampgaon Taluka of the Belgaum District?

(b) When was this station established at Mugatkhan Hubli?

(c) What are the reasons for its proposed abolition and transfer to Kittur?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) The Police Station has already been transferred from Mugatkhan Hubli to Kittur.

(b) In November 1928.

(c) The increase of crime at Kittur made the transfer necessary.

LOCAL BOARD, RATNAGIRI: CLERKS.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of clerks in the service of the Ratnagiri District Board and of the School Board, respectively;

(b) how many of them are Brahmins and how many are non-Brahmins belonging to the backward classes?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM J. VAKIL: The information given below is as it stood in November 1931. The word "Brahmin" is used to include members of other advanced castes:

(a) and (b) School Board, District Local Board, Ratnagiri—

10 Clerks—

9 Brahmins.

1 Non-Brahmin.

District Local Board, Ratnagiri—

8 Clerks—

4 Brahmins.

4 Non-Brahmins.

Taluka Local Boards, Ratnagiri District—

9 Clerks—

6 Brahmins.

3 Non-Brahmins.

School of Industry under the control of the District Local Board—

1 Clerk—a Non-Brahmin.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS: HOUSE RENT OF ASSISTANT MANAGER.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: With reference to the answer to the question regarding house rent of the Assistant Manager, Government Central Press, reported at page 95 of Volume XXXI of the Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, will the Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Accountant General of his own accord passed the highest amount of rent admissible to Mr. Joshi when the certificate attached to the establishment bills in support of Mr. Joshi's house rent did not vouch that he lived within a mile of the Press;

(b) whether it was stated in the house rent bills submitted by Mr. Joshi that he was living within a mile of the Press;

(c) if so, how many times such bills were repeated and what was the amount drawn by Mr. Joshi as house-rent allowance?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) The Accountant General accepted the certificate given by the Manager of the Press and passed the establishment bills.

(b) No.

(c) The house rent was drawn on monthly establishment bills for the period from 11th May 1925 to 22nd March 1926 and it amounted to Rs. 1,038-12-0.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: With regard to (b), when Mr. Joshi stated that he was not living within a mile of the Press, why was the extra allowance that was allowed in the case of those who were living within a mile of the Press allowed to him?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I have several times replied to the honourable member that the Manager, who is the head of the department, certified the allowance.

Rao Bahadur R. S. ASAVALE: Was that allowance allowable under the rules?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Under the rules, the Manager has the discretion and he allowed it.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Was the fact brought to the notice of the Accountant General when the bills were submitted to him?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The Accountant General accepted the certificate given by the Manager and passed the establishment bills.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Does it not amount to giving a false certificate in this case?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: It is a true certificate. The head of the department certifies. It is in his discretion and he granted the rent allowance.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Was that admissible under the rules?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: He has the discretion under the rules.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE : Though the person was not living within one mile from the Press ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I cannot answer the question better than I have done.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESSES : RESIGNATION OF CLERKS.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE : Referring to the questions and answers on pages 95–99 of Volume XXXI of the Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the names of clerks who had served more than ten years at the Yeravda Prison Press and then resigned ;

(b) whether it is a fact that they were forced to resign by Mr. Joshi ;

(c) whether the so-called resignations were not accepted when the actual facts were mentioned and that they were coerced into giving fictitious reasons ;

(d) whether it is a fact that some of the clerks who were forced to resign after long service had petitioned to Government bringing to their notice the maltreatment meted out to them ; if so, whether they will be pleased to state the names of such clerks and the replies given to them by Government ;

(e) whether it is a fact that Government refused to interfere in the matter ;

(f) what is the number of clerks in the Yeravda Prison Press ;

(g) whether the petition from Mr. H. C. Bhave, a clerk who had tendered his resignation from the Yeravda Prison Press, was received by them bringing to their notice the intolerable hardships to which he was put by Mr. Joshi ;

(h) whether that clerk also had left service to better his prospects ;

(i) whether it is a fact that the present head clerk, Government Central Press, while at the Yeravda Prison Press, had tendered his resignation several times ; if so, under what circumstances the resignations were tendered and the reasons why they were subsequently withdrawn ;

(j) whether these resignations were also tendered for bettering the prospects ;

(k) whether they are aware that some of the clerks who were forced to resign from the Yeravda Prison Press by Mr. Joshi were prevented from taking further steps against him (Mr. Joshi) ;

(l) whether Mr. S. K. Daftardar, ex-head clerk of the Government Central Press, while doing duty as head clerk was ordered to serve as head binder at the Government Central Press, in addition to his own duties ;

(m) whether this was done at the instance of Mr. Joshi ;

(n) whether any other head clerk previous to Mr. Daftardar or after him had been so entrusted with the head binder's duty, in addition to his own ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Messrs. B. A. Gupte, H. C. Bhave and M. W. Deshmukh.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) and (e) Only one clerk who resigned after long service, Mr. Bhave, petitioned Government for an appointment under Government or reinstatement in the press department with quarters, or some pension or gratuity. Government replied that they could not comply with any of his requests. As regards his grievance that he was granted leave without pay for the period by which he overstayed the leave granted to him, Government directed that he should be treated as on privilege leave and granted pay for that period. Mr. Bhave submitted another petition to Government in May last, for another post in the Printing Department. That petition was forwarded to the Superintendent, Government Printing and Stationery, for disposal.

(f) 18 (including the Head Clerk).

(g) The petition received from Mr. Bhave stated his personal hardships as regards non-provision of quarters on the premises of the Press, and he made very vague allegations of "untoward attitude of the authorities" towards the clerks, without reference to any individual.

(h) No.

(i) The present head clerk, Government Central Press, submitted his resignation once as he did not agree with certain orders issued by the then Manager, Yeravda Prison Press. The resignation was forwarded by the Manager to the then Superintendent, Government Printing and Stationery, under whose advice it was withdrawn.

(j) No.

(k) No.

(l) No. Mr. Daftardar was relieved of his duties and deputed to the bindery, not to do any mechanical work, but to improve and set right the outturn account of that section.

(m) Mr. Joshi reported the unsatisfactory condition of the outturn account of the bindery section in consequence of which the above arrangement was made by the Manager, Government Central Press.

(n) No.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Do the Government intend to make enquiry into the causes that led nearly 100 clerks to tender their resignations during a period of 10 years, and even the present head clerk had to submit his resignation but it was withdrawn at the request of the Superintendent?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Where does the honourable member get the 100 clerks from?

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Last time I asked a question, and that number was given in the reply.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Will the honourable member read out that reply?

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Unfortunately, I have not got that reply with me now.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Then I am sorry I can give no reply to the question.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: If I refer to it next time, will the Government give a reply?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The whole force of the question is gone now. Next question.

MAMLATDAR'S NOTICE TO MAHARS, INDAPUR.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the notice served by the Mamlatdar of Indapur, district Poona, on Sakharam Bapoojee Kamble and others belonging to the Mahar community residing at the village Bawade, a copy of which appeared in the issue of 3rd August 1931 of a Marathi weekly "Janata";

(b) if so, do Government approve of the contents of the notice and the steps taken by the Mamlatdar?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) Yes.

(b) Although the notice was not suitably worded, Government are satisfied that it was issued in the interests of the peace of the village.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER, DISTRICT SCHOOL BOARD, NASIK.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received a copy of the resolutions passed by the District School Board, Nasik, at their meeting held on 12th July 1931, and whether and when the Minister of Education, the Director of Public Instruction, and the Educational Inspector, Bombay Division, received each a copy of the said resolutions;

(b) whether the Local Authority, Nasik, has forwarded to Government a copy of the resolutions passed by them in connection with the resolutions of the School Board referred to in (a);

(c) whether Government have sent any communication to the District Local Board, Nasik, after the 12th July 1931, regarding the services of Mr. K. S. Dixit as the Administrative Officer of the District School Board, Nasik;

(d) whether while writing to the District Local Board, Nasik, regarding the services of Mr. K. S. Dixit Government took into consideration the resolutions of the District School Board referred to in (a) and the resolutions of the District Local Board referred to in (b)?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Government understand that a copy of the resolution referred to was received by the Educational Inspector, Bombay Division, on 1st August 1931. No copies were received by the other officers mentioned.

(b) Government have no information on the subject.

(c) and (d) No communication was sent by Government. But there was one sent by the Director of Public Instruction after due consideration of the resolution of the Local Authority.

CIVIL COURT, LARKANA.

*Mr. DHALUMAL LILARAM (Eastern Sind): (a) Has the attention of Government been invited to the questions addressed to the authorities in the "Hindu" of Hyderabad, Sind, dated 29th July 1931, in connection with the Civil Court of Larkana?

(b) Has the attention of the District Judge and the Judicial Commissioner been invited to the above?

(c) If so, has any enquiry been made in the matter, and if so, with what result?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Not until the receipt of this question.

(b) The article in the "Hindu" was seen by the District Judge but not by the Judicial Commissioner of Sind.

(c) Enquiries were made, but no action was found necessary.

SURAT MUNICIPALITY: LOAN PROPOSED BY COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

*Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Committee of Management appointed to administer the affairs of the Surat Municipality consists of members nominated by Government only;

(b) whether it is a fact that the life of this body is shortly coming to an end;

(c) whether it is a fact that its Chairman is now corresponding with Government to raise a loan;

(d) whether it is fact that he has been doing this without consulting the public;

(e) whether it is a fact that some of the members were opposed to this proposal of loan and that the Chairman rushed through the business;

(f) whether it is a fact that the Committee of Management as a body has been kept in the dark by the Chairman, regarding the purpose, the amount and the rate of interest of the proposed loan?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) The members of the Committee were appointed by the Commissioner in accordance with section 219 (2) (b) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, 1925.

(b) The term has already come to an end.

(c) The application has not yet reached Government.

(d) The public will have an opportunity of expressing views on the matter when the application is published for public objection in due course.

(e) Only one member out of 13 was opposed to it; the reply to the latter part is in the negative.

(f) No.

EXCISE APPOINTMENTS.

*Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) in a statistical and tabular form the number of—

(i) Gujarati speaking Indian Christians holding Sub-Inspectors' posts in the Excise Department of the Bombay Presidency;

(ii) Gujarati speaking Indian Christians holding head clerks' and clerks' posts in the Northern Division of the Presidency;

(b) whether it is a fact that a certain Indian Christian lad who was an undergraduate and strongly recommended by Principal Hamill for the Sub-Inspector's post was appointed as a Sub-Inspector in an officiating vacancy in the Ahmedabad District in 1928;

(c) whether it is a fact that in spite of his appointment orders duly passed by the Excise Commissioner he was not allowed to join his duties by the Superintendent of Excise of Ahmedabad Sub-Division;

(d) whether it is a fact that he was not allowed to join at the instance of a certain missionary of the I. P. Mission of Ahmedabad;

(e) the circumstances under which this lad was refused admission to the Ahmedabad Distillery;

(f) the reasons why the Sub-Inspector of Bhuwaldi of taluka South Daskroi was prevailed upon by the Superintendent of Excise, Ahmedabad, to get his two months' leave already granted to him cancelled;

(g) whether it is a fact that the leave was cancelled after the new appointments were already ordered by the head of the Department?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) (i) Nil.

(ii) One.

(b) Yes; on the recommendation of the Superintendent of Excise, Ahmedabad Division.

(c) No.

(d) No.

(e) Mr. W. Hunter, the Sub-Inspector in question, was ordered to undergo a course of training in gauging and testing of liquor at the Liquor Warehouse, Ahmedabad, before joining his appointment, but as the Sub-Inspector in whose leave vacancy Mr. Hunter was appointed cancelled his leave, there was no need for the latter to undergo training at the warehouse.

(f) The Sub-Inspector, Bhuwaldi, was not prevailed upon by the Superintendent of Excise, Ahmedabad, to get the two months' leave cancelled.

(g) Yes.

PETIT HIGH SCHOOL, SANGAMNER: GRANT.

*Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): (a) Is it a fact that the "Petit High School" of Sangamner was getting a grant from Government and that the grant was discontinued without any reason being given?

(b) Are Government aware of the fact that Mr. Devidas Bhaskar Lele, B.A., was the head master of that High School for more than 20 years and was instrumental in building up the said High School from an Anglo-Vernacular school ?

(c) Is it a fact that Government refused to revive the grant to the Sangamner Municipality unless Mr. Lele was removed from the office and his services were dispensed with ?

(d) Is it a fact that even the gratuity due to him was refused by the Sangamner Municipality ?

(e) Is it a fact that Mr. Lele was not given an opportunity to state his case before he was removed ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table all the papers relating to the suspension of the grant to the Sangamner Municipality and also papers in connection with the services and removal of Mr. Lele from the post of the head mastership of the Petit High School ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Yes. The conditions on which Government were prepared to re-register the school and restore the annual grant-in-aid have since been communicated to the school authorities. They accepted the conditions and the grant-in-aid has been restored.

(b) The reply to the first part of the question is in the affirmative ; Government have no accurate information regarding the latter part.

(c), (d) and (e) Yes.

(f) No, Sir.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : I would like to know why no reasons were assigned for the discontinuance of the grant.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : It was confidential ; the reasons were confidential. Later on, as the honourable member will find, they were given certain conditions, which were accepted and the grant was restored.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Will the Honourable Minister state the conditions upon which the grant was renewed ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The conditions are given.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : They are not given here. I would like to know the conditions.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : I think in reply to a subsequent question the conditions are given. If the honourable member will wait till question by the honourable member Mr. Navle is reached, the conditions would be explained there.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Why was not Mr. Lele given an opportunity to explain his case ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : There was no need for it. We had sufficient evidence.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Was he ever heard ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Not by the Department. But we had enough evidence—confidential—before us.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: My point is, why was not Mr. Lele allowed to state his case either to the authorities or to the Government?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Because we had received confidential reports about him from reliable sources which admitted of no contradiction.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Are we to understand that by a confidential report is meant not to give an opportunity to the person who is to be condemned, to explain himself?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: What do you mean by a confidential report?

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: The report may be there; but is not the man who is to be condemned, to be given an opportunity to say what he has to say on the allegations made against him?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I think I have given my reply and I have nothing more to add.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: That is not the reply.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: That is my reply.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: That is not the reply.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is his reply.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: But that is not the reply to my question.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Whatever that be, that is the only reply he gives.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Is this House to be treated in that manner? If you, Sir, think that it is a proper reply, I have nothing to say; but is that the way to treat the House on a point of information like this?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The reply is to be understood. The question was, why when there was a confidential report about the man, he was not given an opportunity to state his own case. The reply repeated several times, is that there was sufficient evidence for the purpose of Government to take the action they did take. So, the reply is there. No opportunity was given to the man.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: My question was whether that was the proper procedure for condemning a man.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is a matter of opinion.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: It is not a matter of opinion; it is a matter of right.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: Is it not probable that the confidential report may be one-sided and misleading?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Government examined the confidential report, and they had reasons to believe that it was satisfactory.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: I think Government examined the report confidentially also, because I have reason to believe that the report was one-sided and unfounded in fact.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is the question?

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: The question is, was Mr. Lele asked to state what he had to say about certain allegations made in the report?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: Did not Government think it desirable to let Mr. Lele have some opportunity to have his say on the point at issue?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have repeatedly answered the question about three or four times.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Next question.

DEVASTHAN VILLAGES: CLASS III.

*Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): (a) Are Government aware that lands or villages, wholly or partially, exempt from land revenue adjudicated under Act XI of 1852, so continuable according to the terms of the original sanads so long as lineal male descendant of the original grantee is alive and not continuable in perpetuity or permanently, have been classed "Devasthan Class III" when the alienation registers were prepared in 1886?

(b) If so, will Government place on the Council table a list of such villages?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) Yes.

(b) The requisite list is given below:—

Name of village.
Akurdi	District Poona.
Jambe
Sashte
Urali Dewachi
Ambi †Hinjavdi.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Are Government aware that there have been certain alienations of these properties during the last 30 years and they have not been objected to by Government?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: No, Sir; I am not aware of it. But I will make enquiries if the honourable member wishes. I think he had better put down a question on the subject, so that I can give him full information.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: I will do it. Was the classification of the last village subsequently changed by Government from Devasthan to personal inam as a special case, or was there any reason for the change?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I am afraid I do not know the history of these cases from the year 1886, but if the honourable member wants more information about that village, I will endeavour to supply it to him in due course.

† The classification of this village was subsequently changed by Government from "Devasthan" to "Personal Inam".

ASSISTANT DEPUTY EDUCATIONAL INSPECTOR, KAIRA DISTRICT.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the qualifications, present pay, and total service of Mr. M. K. Patel, who is now serving as an Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector in Kaira District;

(b) whether it is a fact that he was appointed a Supervisor and Acting Administrative Officer by the Nadiad Municipality against the orders of Government;

(c) whether his present pay has been fixed in excess of the pay due to him under the rules on misrepresentation of facts about his service;

(d) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, what steps are proposed to be taken to readjust his pay in accordance with the Civil Service Regulations?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Mr. M. K. Patel is a 3rd year trained Primary teacher. His present pay provisionally fixed, is Rs. 80 per mensem. His total service on 1st September 1931 was 24 years 8 months and 28 days.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) Does not arise.

GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL, NASIK: IV STANDARD.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): (a) Are Government aware that the progress and strength of the Fourth Standard Class for Urdu-knowing Muhammadan students at Nasik have been greatly handicapped by the class being attached to the Government High School there?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: No; but the Educational Inspector, Bombay Division, however, is of opinion that it should be attached to the Anglo-Urdu Middle School, where it would have full scope for development.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: May I know when this opinion of the Educational Inspector, Bombay Division, will be put into force?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Well, I think that opinion would be sent to the Director of Public Instruction, and as soon as his opinion is obtained, that may be put into force.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT: MUHAMMADANS.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of clerks on permanent and temporary establishments of the Public Works Department, in the Bombay Presidency proper;

(b) the number of Muhammadans among them;

(c) the total number of clerks retrenched or likely to be retrenched from the temporary staff of the Public Works Department;

(d) the number of Muhammadans among those retrenched or to be retrenched ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a)

	Clerks on permanent establishment.	Clerks on temporary establishment.
	265	458
(b)	15	20

(c) Since April 1929, 123 clerks have been retrenched. The further number likely to be retrenched in the near future is 6.

(d) Number of Muhammadans among those retrenched .. 5

Number of Muhammadans among those likely to be retrenched .. .. Nil.

GOVERNMENT COLLEGES : RETRENCHMENT.

*Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University) : (a) Is it a fact that in the name of retrenchment the Vernaculars are treated callously while other subjects are unduly encouraged in colleges ?

(b) What is the total saving to Government as a result of reducing the pay of the Vernacular posts to a uniform rate of Rs. 150 a month ?

(c) What was the actual pay that the Gujarati Lecturers (pensioners) at Bombay and Ahmedabad had been drawing until recently, i.e. just before the uniform rate of Rs. 150 a month was fixed ?

(d) Did Government sanction any premature selection grades recently to incumbents in colleges ?

(e) If so, will they furnish a list of names of the persons who got the selection grade recently with the details of salary they were drawing at the time they got the selection grade and the salary they were entitled to after they got the selection grade ?

(f) What is the total liability to Government under this item ?

(g) How is such a step consistent with the policy of retrenchment ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) No.

(b) The saving is Rs. 725 per mensem.

(c) Rs. 200 and Rs. 150 respectively.

(d) No.

(e), (f) and (g) Do not arise.

PETIT HIGH SCHOOL : REMOVAL OF HEAD MASTER.

*Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : (a) Is it a fact that Government asked the Sangamner Municipality to remove the late long-standing head-master of the Petit High School, Mr. D. M. Lele, B.A., without stating any reasons therefor ?

(b) Is it a fact that Mr. Lele was not given an opportunity to explain his own case in answer to any charge or charges that might have been levelled against him behind his back ?

(c) Is it a fact that the removal of Mr. Lele was made by Government a condition precedent to revive the educational grant of the Petit High School which they had stopped without giving any reasons ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table all the correspondence regarding the removal of Mr. Lele and temporarily stopping the grant of the Petit High School ?

(e) Are Government aware that the 'removal' of Mr. Lele instead of being considered as at the most a 'discharge' is interpreted to be a 'dismissal' by the Sangamner Municipality, according to law ?

(f) Is it a fact that the legal interpretation put on the matter by the Sangamner Municipality has become the cause of that body refusing to grant Mr. Lele the full sum of gratuity to which he would ordinarily be entitled ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) and (c) The removal of the Head Master was made by Government a condition for the restoration of the grant to the school.

(b) Yes.

(d) No, Sir.

(e) and (f) No.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : With regard to (e), are Government aware that the Sangamner Municipality are treating the discharge as a dismissal and depriving Mr. Lele of his gratuity and the provident fund to which he is legally entitled ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : My reply is in the negative.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Part (e) of the question is : "Are Government aware that the 'removal' of Mr. Lele instead of being considered as at the most a 'discharge' is interpreted to be a 'dismissal' by the Sangamner Municipality ?" The answer is, No.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Government are not so aware.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : I want to ask whether Government have treated it as a discharge or a dismissal.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Is it not hypothetical ?

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Does the Government yet know that Mr. Lele is treated as a dismissed servant by the municipality ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : If the honourable member would put me a separate question on the subject, I will find it out.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Did Mr. Lele apply to the Government to enquire into his case ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : If the honourable member will give me notice, I will find it out.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Does the Honourable Minister know that there were some enquiries made by him recently in the Department, and that Mr. Lele was not given any hearing or reply ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : I am not so aware.

COLLECTOR OF BOMBAY: ESTABLISHMENT.

*Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Collector of Bombay has entertained an unqualified and over-aged typist belonging to the advanced classes; if so, whether he obtained the previous permission of Government before doing so;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Collector of Bombay some time back dispensed with the services of some qualified acting clerks who were taken on the approved list of candidates and among whom there was a backward class candidate who was a graduate and who had acted for about two years;

(c) whether the Collector had advertised the post as required by the Government orders before entertaining the unqualified typist referred to in (a) above; if not, why not;

(d) whether there are any clerks on the permanent staff of the Collector who know typewriting, and, if so, why one of them was not employed as a typist in preference to the unqualified man?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) (i) Yes.

(ii) No.

(b) Yes.

(c) No. The list of eligible candidates was sufficiently large.

(d) No.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: With regard to (a) the answer is that the Collector of Bombay has entertained an unqualified and over-aged typist belonging to the advanced classes. With regard to (b) the reply is that a graduate clerk belonging to the backward classes was dispensed with after putting in two years of service. Is it fair and is that the sort of encouragement given to the backward classes?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: There are particular circumstances. The reasons are as follows: The unqualified typist was working in the office since 1925 temporarily. He was discharged at one time when the temporary post was abolished. He is an expert typist and he is doing typing work. The qualified clerk referred to by the honourable the Deputy President is not an expert typist. It is essential that a certain portion of the staff in an office should be able to type with skill. Consequently, the unqualified man who does typing work with skill was reinstated to the benefit of public service. I admit that this is not strictly in accordance with the rules, but there are circumstances in which exceptions have to be made. I am satisfied that this is one of them.

INSPECTRESS OF GIRLS' SCHOOLS, SIND.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Miss Mahomedali, B.A. (Punjab University), was Assistant Lady Superintendent (Vice-Principal) of the Training College for Women, Hyderabad, Sind, from 1925–1927?

(b) Is it a fact that Mrs. Judd was Lady Superintendent (Principal) during that period?

(c) Is it a fact that Mrs. Judd was transferred to the post of Inspectress of Girls' Schools in Sind owing to the transfer to some other place of Miss Twells—the then Inspectress of Girls' Schools in Sind ?

(d) Is it a fact that Miss Mahomedali was given by the Bombay Government two years' leave on full average pay to prosecute her studies abroad with a view to obtain a diploma or certificate in teachers training in England ?

(e) Is it a fact that Miss Lachhi Jagumal, B.A. (Calcutta University), Graduate Teachers' Training College (Glasgow) was appointed as Assistant Lady Superintendent in place of Miss Mahomedali ?

(f) Is it a fact that owing to the transfer of Mrs. Judd, Miss Jagumal was appointed Lady Superintendent ?

(g) Is it a fact that Mrs. Judd retired in December 1930 and her place was filled by Miss Jagumal as Inspectress of Girls' Schools in Sind ?

(h) Is it a fact that Miss Mahomedali failed in her examinations thrice in 1929, 1930 and 1931 and returned without getting a certificate or a Diploma for teaching from England ?

(i) Is it a fact that Miss Mahomedali has joined service and has been put straightway as Inspectress of Girls' Schools in Sind without acting as Lady Superintendent, replacing Miss Jagumal who has reverted as Lady Superintendent ?

(j) Will Government be pleased to state why Miss Mahomedali was given this preferential treatment ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) Miss Mahomedali was Assistant Lady Superintendent and also officiating Lady Superintendent during the period.

(b) She was both Lady Superintendent and Inspectress of Girls' Schools in Sind during the period.

(c) Yes.

(d) She was granted study leave for two years on average pay.

(e) Yes, the appointment was only officiating.

(f) Yes, she was appointed to officiate as Lady Superintendent.

(g) Mrs. Judd left India on leave preparatory to retirement in December 1930. Miss Jagumal was appointed to officiate in her place in April 1931 temporarily until Miss Mahomedali's return.

(h) It is a fact that Miss Mahomedali returned without any academic degree from England.

(i) Yes.

(j) No preferential treatment was given to Miss Mahomedali. She was senior to Miss Jagumal, and also the Educational Inspector in Sind was of opinion that she was more competent for the post than Miss Jagumal.

PROSECUTION OF MR. HARVEY : REFUSAL OF GOVERNMENT SANCTION.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Mr. C. N. Kanuga, Counsel for the Complainants Messrs. K. F. Nariman and S. M. Surveyor in the case against Mr. T. Harvey (Back Bay Engineer) and others applied to them for sanction to prosecute Mr. Harvey for cheating and abetment, misappropriation and criminal breach of trust of public funds in connection with Chawl Contracts at Worli ?

(b) Is it a fact that they have refused to grant the necessary sanction ?

(c) If the reply to (b) is in the affirmative, will the Government give reasons for such refusal ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Government are satisfied that there is no case for a prosecution.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI : With regard to (c), may I know what was the basis of their decision for not sanctioning the prosecution ? Was it because of lack of evidence or any other legal hitch that no prosecution was launched ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Neither in fact nor in law.

SECONDARY TEACHERS : REVISED SCALE OF PAY.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if the scale of salaries of the Secondary teachers in the Bombay Presidency was revised in 1921 and a new scale framed ?

(b) Is it a fact that the Accountant General had ruled and Government had approved that such of the teachers and the Inspecting officers who had preferred to remain in the old scale till they reached Rs. 140 and then took to the new time scale, should be given the benefit of Fundamental Rules 22 and 23 whereby they had to get the next higher stage of the new scale ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Director of Public Instruction in his letter no. S. 84 (b)-B, dated 19th February 1929, had called for the names of all the assistant masters and Inspecting officers who had preferred to remain in the old scale of 50—5—80—10—150 sanctioned in Government Resolution, Educational Department, No. 1666 of 15th April 1920 till they reached the grade of Rs. 140 and then come on to the new scale of 70—5—140—10—200 ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state if the Director of Public Instruction has given the benefit of Fundamental Rules 22 and 23 to the teachers and Inspecting officers whose names were reported to him from various schools and Inspectoral staff in the Presidency including Sind ?

(e) If the answer to (d) be in the negative will Government be pleased to state why the matter has been delayed so inordinately ?

(f) Is it a fact that the cases of those masters who come under the anomalies referred to in paragraph 8 (2) of the circular are also under the consideration of the Director of Public Instruction ?

(g) Is it a fact that the delay caused in the disposal of the cases of the former class of teachers is due to the joint consideration of the latter class of masters referred to in paragraph 8 (2) of the circular ?

(h) If so, do Government intend to treat the cases of both the classes separately ?

(i) If not, what are the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Yes.

(b) Government accepted the Accountant General's view that two particular assistant masters were entitled to the concessions allowed by Fundamental Rules 22 and 23. The Government orders in question had reference only to these two individual cases.

(c) Yes.

(d) and (e) Before action was taken on other cases Fundamental Rule 22 (a) was amended by the Secretary of State. Under the revised Fundamental Rule 22 (a) Government servants are not entitled to the additional increment. It was accordingly decided by Government orders issued in June last not to give the additional increment to those Government servants whose pay had not been fixed under the old rule.

(f) and (g) No. The anomalies referred to in the Director of Public Instruction's letter would have arisen only if the concession under the old Fundamental Rule 22 (a) had been granted. It was not possible to consider the grant of the concession without at the same time considering the anomalies which the grant would have involved.

(h) and (i) These questions do not arise now in view of the answer given to clauses (d) and (e) above.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

MALARIA IN SIND.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH (Sukkur District): (a) Is it a fact that malaria becomes generally prevalent in Sind at the end of each Abkalani season?

(b) Is it a fact that malaria is likely to be more prevalent after the Lloyd Barrage Canals come into full operation?

(c) Does the Lloyd Barrage Scheme contemplate the introduction of perennial cultivation in Sind?

(d) Are Government aware that the periodic prevalence of malaria in Sind will operate against the success of perennial cultivation?

(e) If so, what steps do Government intend to take to combat the periodic prevalence of malaria in Sind?

(f) Has a special fund been created for the purpose, and, if not, do they intend to create such a fund?

(g) Have any steps been taken for overhauling the Public Health machinery in Sind, and, if not, are any such steps under contemplation?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) Government are informed that expert opinion holds that canal irrigation does not appreciably increase the incidence of malaria except where waterlogging occurs.

(c) Yes.

(d) This is a matter of opinion and Government are not prepared to reply.

(e) The question does not arise.

(f) No.

(g) No. The responsibility for appointing competent Health Officers rests in the District Local Boards. But so far no District Local Board in Sind except the Larkana Board has appointed a Health Officer although the Director of Public Health has been pressing them to do so.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS, BOMBAY: DUTY ALLOWANCE.

Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM JITEKAR (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the duty allowance of Rs. 15 per mensem to clerks in the Government Central Press is being continued;

(b) whether the bonus of 10 per cent. allowed last year to technical men including readers and copyholders getting less than Rs. 100 per mensem has been reduced to 5 per cent. as a rule in every case this year;

(c) when the bonus has been cut down by 50 per cent. why the duty allowance to men getting above Rs. 100 is being continued;

(d) whether the duty allowance is paid in the Yeravda and Karachi Presses to men performing the same duties;

(e) whether it is a fact that two ex-convicts, Sharma and Kulkarni, with no minimum qualifications are working as clerks in the Government Central Press;

(f) whether Government are aware that clerk Kalsekar with 5 years' service has been ordered, without the Manager's knowledge, to work as a machine-room clerk simply because he is a backward class Hindu and not liked by the Head Clerk and that Mr. Kalsekar is asked to attend office at 9-30 a.m. though other clerks attend at 10-30?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) The dearness allowance has been reduced by half in view of the fall in prices. Duty allowance is paid to men doing work of extra responsibility.

(d) No.

(e) Yes.

(f) Under orders of the Manager, Government Central Press, Bombay, clerks are being shifted from place to place with a view to train them for the different kinds of work in the Press and so qualify them for promotion as opportunity arises. Mr. Kalsekar and one other clerk are at present having their turn in the machine room and they have to keep to the machine-room time of attendance.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS, BOMBAY: COMPOSITORS.

Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM JITEKAR (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that out of about 880 compositors in the Government Central Press only six are Muslims;

(b) whether it is a fact that Mr. D. D. Rege, Head Clerk in the Stationery Office, and Mr. B. J. Rege, Head Clerk of the Press, are cousins and work in close contact with a view to keep the Press entirely closed for Muslims;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Head Clerk of the Press has been holding out threats to Muslim compositors to close down the Urdu section;

(d) the number of years during which the Urdu section has been in existence;

(e) whether Government propose to close down the Urdu section?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) The total number of compositors at the Government Central Press in December 1931 was 219 of whom 7 are Muslims.

(b) Messrs. D. D. Rege and B. J. Rege are remote cousins and live separate, but neither of them has any control over the recruitment of the staff. Appointments at the Press are made either by the Superintendent, Government Printing and Stationery, or by the Manager, Government Central Press, in accordance with powers delegated to them by rules 77 and 78 in Appendix E to the Bombay Civil Services Recruitment Rules.

(c) No.

(d) Since about 1880.

(e) The closure of the Urdu section is not contemplated, but the reduction of its number by transfer of hands to the piecework establishment is under the consideration of the Superintendent.

CANTONMENT BOARD, HYDERABAD.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH (Hyderabad District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state when the Cantonment Board at Hyderabad, Sind, was constituted under the Cantonment Act of 1924?

(b) How many members were then elected to represent Hindus and Mahomedans separately?

(c) How many elected members now represent the two communities?

(d) What was the number of electors when the first elections took place?

(e) Has the number of electors since been increased?

(f) If the reply to (e) be in the affirmative, what were the reasons which led Government to reduce the number of the members of the Board?

(g) Is it a fact that the Cantonment Board objected to the reduction of the strength of representatives?

(h) Are Government aware that several meetings of the Board or of the sub-committees have not come off for want of quorum?

(i) How many military officers are permanently attached to the Hyderabad Station?

(j) Is it a fact that there is one elected member for the general constituency?

(k) What is the number of electors on that roll and their nationality?

(l) Do Government intend to increase the number of representatives of Hindus and Mahomedans on the Board?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) In September 1924.

(b) Three Hindus and three Mahomedans.

(c) One for each community.

(d)

Hindus	485
Mahomedans	330
Miscellaneous	92
	907

(e) No. The present number of electors is as under :—

Hindus	368
Mahomedans	376
Miscellaneous	57
	801

(f) The reason for the reduction of the number of members of the Board was the inability of the Officer Commanding the Station to find sufficient number of Military Officers for nomination on the Board as required by clause (e) read with clause (f) of section 14 (1) of the Cantonments Act. The Inspecting Officer (now Director) of Military Lands and Cantonments in his Inspection Notes of 1926 remarked that the constitution of the Board appeared to be unnecessarily large for the size and importance of the Hyderabad Cantonment.

(g) Yes.

(h) The new Board, i.e. after the reduction in the number of members to 7, was reconstituted in February 1931. From February to end of October 1931, 12 meetings were held of which 3 were adjourned for want of quorum. Meetings used to be adjourned for want of quorum before the new Board was reconstituted, i.e. when the Board consisted of 15 members. For instance, during the period from April 1930 to January 1931, 15 meetings (two of them being special) were held of which 4 were adjourned for want of quorum.

(i) The number of Military Officers attached to the units in Hyderabad Cantonment when at their full strength is about 20, but owing to constant changes in troops the average number of officers present at the station at any one time does not exceed 12.

(j) Yes.

(k) The number of electors on the roll is 57. The nationality of the electors is not shown in the roll.

(l) No.

STATEMENT BY THE HONOURABLE THE PRESIDENT RE : AN INCORRECT REPORT IN NEWSPAPERS.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Before we proceed to the next business, I should like to mention a matter which has been brought to my notice. I find that two of our leading papers in Bombay—the Indian Daily Mail and the Bombay Chronicle—refer to a matter which they think was before me. They state that Rao Bahadur Kale had tabled a resolution on the present political situation which has been disallowed by the President. I am reading from the Daily Mail which has been repeated in the Bombay Chronicle. There are newspaper reporters who run about everywhere, get hold of some members, find out some piece of information which they think reliable and rush to the press. This is very objectionable. They should be warned against such a thing. I am sure none of the honourable members could have given the information, and particularly Rao Bahadur Kale. He knows the facts as well as I do. No resolution was placed in my hands on the present political situation by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale which was disallowed by me.

[The President]

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : So far as I am concerned, perhaps——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No motion was submitted to the President by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale on the present political situation which has been disallowed by him. Whatever any other circumstances may be, it matters little. The papers are wrong in the statement they have made.

ADJOURNMENT MOTION.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE : May I request you to permit me for leave to move the adjournment motion ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is the honourable member asking for leave ?

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE : It may be postponed to Monday.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If the honourable member asks for leave to-day, necessarily the discussion must take place at 4 o'clock to-day.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : Can he do it on Monday ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : He can get up on Monday. He is not asking for leave now ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : No.

GENERAL DISCUSSION ON BUDGET—resumed.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City) : Sir, the Honourable the Finance Minister has again introduced a deficit budget for the ensuing year 1932-33. As was pointed out yesterday, generally the notice the honourable members get of this budget is insufficient. This year the budget was in the hands of the members on the 7th or the 8th. No doubt, this is the period which is allowed by the order. Hardly we get ten days. Is it possible for the Government to try to put these budgets in the hands of honourable members 15 or 20 days before the introduction of the budget ? The fact is that the time at present allowed to honourable members is insufficient and this fact was illustrated yesterday by the difficulty of certain honourable members not being ready to discuss the budget generally.

This year our total revenue is Rs. 12,13,00,000, and the deficit we are told is about 61 lakhs. As you look into the budget, you find that we are almost on the verge of bankruptcy. We have possibly no source of income left. We have been told that there is no way to limit the expenditure any further. If that is so, I believe we are really in a very delicate position financially. The remedy is that such a condition ought to be set right by the members of this House, whether they belong to the Government benches or to the popular side. But before these remedies are sought, I believe it is essential that a full discussion should take place and a full expression of views should be given by the elected members of this House as to what they have to suggest about this budget or about the additional taxation. Looking to the revised estimate, it is very difficult at this stage to say whether we are likely to have any increased revenue. If as time goes we are likely to get better revenue, perhaps we may have no reason for any increased taxation. We may be better off by about 30 lakhs at the time of the revised estimate. If that is so, then I do not see any necessity for us to have any new taxes at least this year. But that depends of course on the revised estimates, the seasons and the state of the trade depression and so on.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

The causes that have led to this bankruptcy are, I believe, many. I will only narrate some of them. From my point of view, the first and foremost cause is the reckless expense that was incurred by this top-heavy system of Government during the war and perhaps also during the post-war times. I believe that that is the primary cause of our bankruptcy. If we consider the increase in the pay of establishment, the increase in the numbers of the different cadres, and the increase in the allowances, we will find sufficient justification for my statement. At the time these increases were made, hardly any thought was given to the question whether those prosperous times, those apparently prosperous times, would continue and, if so, for what period. No idea of that kind appears to have entered the minds of those who were responsible for those budgets, and the natural result has been that we have now a top-heavy administration which we are now unable to maintain. The attempt made by the Honourable the Finance Member to explain the unusually heavy charges of this presidency will not, I think, satisfy at any rate some of us. It is not understood why Bombay should spend four times more than what the other presidencies spend in some matters. Bombay is said to be an industrial province. It is. But is not Bengal also an industrial province? Why should then there be such a disproportion between the expenses of Bengal and those of Bombay? The other reason assigned was that Bombay was thinly populated. Perhaps it is. But are there not other provinces in this dominion of India where the population is equally thin? In fact, this thinness is no argument, from my point of view, for the costliness of the administrative system of this province. If the population is thin, the charges to maintain that population should also be thin: the number of officers and the arrangements made to maintain the population should be equally thin, as it is in other provinces. That is why I say that the thinness of population cannot be the reason for this extra cost. I am asked what it is due to. My simple answer is, it is due to the tendency of those in authority to reckless expansion of the expenses of the various departments. I cannot see any other reason. I hope that when those who are in the know rise to speak they will try to tell us exactly how far this statement of mine is not accurate. My conviction is that that is the only explanation of this unusually costly administration.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

Then, Sir, there is another reason why we have reached this state of bankruptcy. My idea is that it is due to the gigantic schemes that we undertook in the boom times. We are paying about two crores of rupees by way of interest. I would put it to any householder, if out of his income two annas or more than two annas in the rupee is to go to liquidate the interest on his loans, what would be his position? Are we not in that condition? Those two big schemes, the Development scheme and the Barrage scheme, have cost us a good deal during the last twelve years. We have wiped out not only the balances which we had with us—about seven crores of rupees—but we have also spent a loan of about 17 crores of rupees after these schemes. Were we justified in doing so? Supposing I get a loan in a boom time, am I to be reckless and not to think of the future? Is it justifiable under the circumstances to borrow and spend the money without regard to the result? We have seen that these schemes have not up to now been paying. God alone knows whether they will ever pay, and, if so, when. At any rate, it is certain that we will have to meet the interest charges on the loans spent on these schemes for some time to come.

Another reason that I find is the inequitable financial settlement this province gets from the Government of India. I believe that we are the best paymasters, as regards income-tax and customs, of the Government of India, and our proportionate share is not adequately paid to us. I hope the case of this presidency was not allowed to go by default with the Government of India. If our case was properly represented, I am sure we would have received a better and a more equitable financial settlement, considering the contributions that we are making to the Imperial Government. That is one of the chief reasons why we are in difficulties.

No doubt we have been told that the trade depression and the political situation are also responsible. To my mind, Sir, the trade depression cannot be an important factor. It is common to all the presidencies in India. So also the political situation, which is almost the same throughout the country. We are not specially hit by any of these two conditions. As regards the political situation, my idea is that Government are as much responsible for it as any other people or party. If Government were so minded they could have succeeded in avoiding this situation. In the first place, putting aside controversial matters, it is not possible to get quiet times and a politically sound condition with a people who are dissatisfied with the existing conditions. It is very difficult, as our rulers do know, to rule satisfactorily a people who are discontented from the top to the bottom. Perhaps the reasons for this discontent may not be appreciated by those who are not of the ruled, but those who are the rulers can certainly see what they are. If all the people, whether they be Liberals, Nationalists, Mahomedans, Hindus, Europeans or depressed classes, really feel that they have a grievance, is it not certain that a grievance exists? Is it all imaginary? Is it not something that ought to be enquired into? If that attitude is taken by the rulers, a good deal of this political dissatisfaction and economic situation of the presidency will be avoided. I do not want to say that it was done with purpose; I do not want to suggest that it was done under any particular advice; but I do want to state that Government have not shown sufficient statesmanship in tackling the present question. If they had shown that, I am sure a good deal of the present difficulty could have been avoided. That is the reason why I draw the attention of the honourable House to the present situation which has financially involved us into difficulties.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

As regards trade depression, I believe I have said that it is common to all parts of India and I do not think we have suffered more than any other industrial town in India. So these two causes cannot be the causes of our financial difficulties. They may partially be the causes, it is not that they are entirely not, but they are a very minor factor in the present situation. For instance, as regards land revenue. Agitation about the revision of land revenue policy has been going on for the last 20 years. Rightly or wrongly, people have been saying that the taxation under land revenue is rather heavy and that the people are not in a position to pay the same. This is not a new agitation.

So also as regards the excise question. This presidency, I presume, has now accepted prohibition as a policy. It is a settled fact. When settling our differences, we have have to remember the fact that prohibition is the goal which has been declared by this House, and considering that fact, we must try to arrange our expenses. I know some of us do not like this idea. I know the argument has been advanced that on account of prohibition or on account of the attempts to curtail the number of shops illicit distillation has been going on and that therefore there is no case for prohibition. To that argument my reply is: the case is there, but the remedy is not there. In order to make prohibition successful the Government must come forward to help. Government, we know, has its arms long and strong, as we find to our great sorrow. If that is the case, I suggest that the strength should be utilised in the cause of prohibition.

I come next to the question of debts and suggest that the Government of India should be approached for the remission of these debts which amount to 17 crores of rupees. I think we all know that the Government of India was the final authority which sanctioned these loans. It was they whom we had to approach for the sanction of the schemes for which we borrowed. They approved of the schemes, and after having approved of them, allowed us to spend the money. If we have misspent the money, we have done it with the authority of the Government of India. Therefore it behoves the Government of India to come and help us in this period of financial stringency. Can we not ask them to remit, if not the whole, at least 50 per cent. of these loans? And if the Government of India says that they would do it, we shall save at least a crore of rupees in interest charges annually. That is my suggestion so far as the loan account is concerned. It may be said that the Government of India would not agree to this remission. I ask: is not the Government of India morally responsible for this debt? The Government of India has, I am told, better experts than the provincial Government. The experts at Simla must have examined our schemes. When the schemes have failed, are they not equally responsible for their failure? Of course if our Government suffers, it will not suffer alone. The Government of India will also suffer. Therefore I suggest that a proper representation should be made to them and the loan account should be wiped out as soon as possible.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

In the short time at my disposal, I will suggest a few remedies. As regards new taxation, I submit that no popular representative can safely say to his people "You contribute something more to the exchequer" in the present difficult times, especially when the Government has not set its own house in order. I believe I am not wrong in saying that even those who do not agree with the views expressed by Indian politicians think that Government should not claim fresh taxation until they have readjusted their administration. I will only read a few lines——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: From what?

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: From my own notes, Sir.

"We say without hesitation that the Government of Bombay have no right to ask the public to bear extra taxes until they set their house in order. They have no moral justification for saddling the taxpayers with an additional burden until they can show that their whole administrative machinery is being thoroughly overhauled."

I adopt this reasoning which has been put forth from Hornby Road. I believe this powerful voice from Hornby Road is sufficiently attractive to many of us. Therefore my suggestion is that no taxation should be agreed to by this House until Government has overhauled its machinery.

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North): Sir, during the general discussion on the Budget in 1926 an honourable member said:

"What I find, Sir, is that year after year deficit budgets are being presented to this Council. Why? Because before the reforms there was a rule that no deficit budget could be presented to any Council, and no extra expenditure could be shown unless it was of an exceptional character and of a non-recurring nature. The moment the control of the Government of India was removed we find that year after year deficit budgets—so-called deficit budgets—are being presented, and a case is tried to be made out that fresh taxation must be levied and that otherwise the two ends cannot be made to meet."

Further on, he says:

"The second achievement of the reformed Council, as soon as full control was given to it, is that they passed two Acts, the Court-fees Act and the Stamp Act, and also saddled the subjects with additional taxation. Then there came the Entertainments Duty Act and the Totalisator Betting Tax Act. When is the Government justified in levying a tax? In the first place I wish to impress on the Government that the taxable capacity of the people of this province has been reached."

Thus spake the honourable member Mr. Govind Pradhan representing the constituency of Thana. [Laughter.]

We have had several further taxation bills since then. The price of agricultural produce has gone to the lowest within living memory. Trade and commerce are at a standstill. And the Honourable Sir Govindrao Pradhan comes forward with—not two but four—taxation bills.

[Dr. M. D. Gilder]

In 1924 the Honourable the Finance Member—he was then on this side of the House—said:

"Then we are told that the administration is being worked as economically as it was possible to do. Last year there was a cut of 60 lakhs and it looks as if Government are proceeding with a vengeance. I have noticed that the expenditure on general administration in 1919 was 73 lakhs 8 thousand and in 1924-25 it is shown as 2 crores and 34 lakhs, that is a rise of 300 per cent. So my submission to this House is that this budget which has been presented as a very sound budget and in which the Honourable the Finance Member not only takes pride to himself but also to all his subordinates, shows that it is based upon prodigality and not upon economy."

We cannot distinguish between expenses under general administration and land revenue at present, as there have been changes in the system of keeping accounts. Taking the two together, when the Honourable the Finance Member called the budget a prodigal budget, the expenses were Rs. 2 crores 81 lakhs and the income was Rs. 14,18,00,000. To-day for an income of Rs. 12,60,00,000 the expenditure is Rs. 2,76,00,000; and still, Sir, he objects to his budget being called a rake's progress! I daresay he remembers that when we were students studying political economy in the B.A. class, in one of the text books of political economy they used to give a petition from the candle-makers of Paris to the king of France asking him that for the sake of the candle-making industry he should order that all doors and windows of houses should be closed between sunrise and sunset. We are having a tax on electricity. Would not that be a good suggestion for the Honourable the Finance Member to follow? He would derive much greater revenue from it.

I will now take you to another question. If you turn to page 65 of the Blue Book under paragraph "Mental Hospitals" you will find the remark:

"The reduction in the estimate for next year as compared with the budget and the revised estimate for the current year is accounted for.....by the abolition of the post of full-time Superintendent of the N. M. Mental Hospital, Naupada, Thana, the supervision of the institution being entrusted to the Civil Surgeon, Thana, in addition to his own duties with a special pay of Rs. 150 per mensem."

Sir, some years ago I drew the attention of this House to the fact,—and I remember that it considerably excited the risible faculty of the Honourable Minister the Moulvi Saheb—that according to the Government Indian industries could not provide beds for Indian lunatics, and they brought beds from America for the Yeravda hospital where nearly one quarter of the patients are classified as Europeans and Anglo-Indians. And now, Sir, the Government cannot even afford a specialist for Naupada where the patients are all Indians. Look at the saving that Government are making. The doctor is getting a pay of Rs. 850. He is a specialist and has confined his whole attention to mental diseases. When he is retrenched he will have to have a pension. At the Naupada hospital the average attendance of patients is 335. At Ratnagiri and Dharwar where the average number of patients is about 170, they have a part time superintendent and two sub-assistant surgeons. So at Thana where at present they have only one sub-assistant surgeon another will have to be appointed. Considering all this, the actual saving effected by this measure is a little over Rs. 3,000 per annum. And, Sir, compared with that, what do we find on page 5 of the Proceedings of the Finance Committee? Under "Medical" item 28:

[Dr. M. D. Gilder]

"Providing plugs for hot water bags in the wards at St. George's Hospital, Bombay.....Rs. 5,791."

So the expense approved for plugs for hot water bottles for a European Hospital is Rs. 5,791; and the average daily number of patients in the St. George's according to the latest report is 113. Therefore, for providing plugs for hot water bags the expense is Rs. 51 per occupied bed! Sir, let us look at it from another point of view. The total number of in-patients in the Thana Civil hospital is 24 per day. The total number of patients treated in a year including out-patients is 7,933. There is a dispensary at Bandra called the C. J. Dispensary. The average number of resident patients in this dispensary is 22 per day, and the total including out-patients 15,723 per annum. The B. M. S. man at the Bandra gets a pay of Rs. 380. The Civil Surgeon at Thana gets about Rs. 2,000 and another Rs. 150 is to be added for looking after the Mental Hospital. Might I not suggest that the Civil Surgeon had better be retrenched, and that mental patients be allowed the help of a specialist from the saving thus effected? But the Honourable Minister's reply will be, "Yes, but the Civil Surgeon is recruited by the Secretary of State, and I have no power to touch him." Therefore, for the interest of the sacrosanct services our mental patients will have to do without specialist treatment; they will have to go year after year and live in the lunatic asylum without any specialist help! These are the things that make us wonder at times whether our friends who have been deprived of their liberties were not right in asking for safeguards in the interests of India and of India alone.

Sir, we are here, and all of us are here, to co-operate. His Excellency made a strong appeal for co-operation. But, Sir, I ask, does the Government co-operate with us? Look at the way we were treated yesterday at question time.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: And to-day.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: The Honourable the Home Member wanted notice to tell the House whether he was himself Commissioner in Sind on a certain date. The Honourable Member objected to the length of a question. Surely, Sir, it is for you to decide, according to the Standing Orders, whether a question is too long or not, not for the Government. Sir, the press is gagged, the platform does not exist and this House is the only place where, under considerable restraint, and with a full sense of our responsibility we can bring to the notice of the Government what we see and what we know. But what do we see here? Yesterday, when the honourable member for Kaira was speaking about police excesses, the Honourable Member in charge of the department got up in his place, and after a ceremonious obeisance to the Chair, with pontifical dignity and decorum and gubernatorial stateliness and slowness walked out of the Chamber. May be I am misjudging him, may be he had an urgent call; but these are times when such things are liable to be misconstrued and the honourable member who was sitting by my side will confirm the statement that the thought then passed through my mind whether, at the back of my vaunted and boasted respect for law and order there is not in my mind a background of cowardice! Sir, we know from our experience of a building in the Mayo Road that, though a steel frame may give strength, yet when it is mixed with fiery material like lime or chunam, it brings an edifice into greater danger, and in a shorter space of time than good old timber, or even country devdar.

[Dr. M. D. Gilder]

Sir, I have access to houses of people, rich and poor, and can get to them when they are not on their guard. Let me warn the Government that this movement has spread far and wide, and that the sentiment of Indian nationalism is there now, no longer to be effaced. Government may be right from their point of view in the action which they are taking. I do not wish to sit in judgment on them, I only wish to warn them that their policy seems to me like that of the ostrich which buries its head in the sand and then imagines there is no danger in the desert.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, I am not in a position to congratulate the Honourable the Finance Member on the budget he has presented, especially from one point of view, and that is that he has brought with the presentation of the budget proposals for adding burdens to the taxpayers of this presidency, particularly because the measures of taxation which he has brought forward are going to affect the agriculturists of this presidency. As I represent the Deccan agriculturists, it is my duty to tell him—and I think Government well knows it—that the taxable capacity of the peasants has reached its maximum, and if you are going to add to the burdens of the peasants any more, I think you are landing in dangerous waters.

Sir, the plight of the ryot is very hard. Agricultural commodities have gone down in price, and, instead of coming to the help of the agriculturists, particularly in these deplorable times, Government are going to add to their burdens. I think Government would not be well advised in bringing these taxation measures forward at this time. Sir, if we look to the revenue of this presidency, we can easily see that the major portion of the revenue of the Government of Bombay comes from the pockets of the ryots, the agriculturists and the labouring classes. The land revenue is Rs. 5 crores and odd, and this comes from the agriculturists; so also the excise revenue is mainly contributed by the agricultural community and the labouring classes; so also court fees and general stamps and the forest grazing fees. So, the major portion of the income of the Government of Bombay comes from the pockets of the agriculturists and the labouring classes. If that is so, may I ask Government what is the return the Government of Bombay is giving to these peasants particularly? The only amenity at present being provided for these peasants is the village school. Government appoint magistrates, mamlatdars and deputy collectors, but that is for their own purposes, and not for the peasant. They want to collect revenue, and they appoint the mamlatdar; and for the trial of offences they appoint magistrates. The only direct amenity that is provided for the peasant in return for the major portion of the revenue which he contributes is, as I just now said, a village school, and the Government grant that comes out of their treasury is given to the local boards, because the local boards control these village schools. And what is the plight of education?

[Mr. N. E. Navle]

Education has been retrenched by Rs. 27,00,000. There is a cut of Rs. 27,00,000 in the budget for primary education. I am so pained to see that. That should never have been the case. The Honourable the Education Minister yesterday said that he fought out his case very vehemently in the Cabinet. I am sure he must have done it. I do not want to discredit that fact. He must have put in a strong fight; but, Sir, what about the criticism levelled by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale, namely, that he might have applied the scissors somewhere else in the department? He should not have cut down the grant for primary education. There was secondary education, University education—I mean the colleges. Why carry on the luxury now of maintaining the Deccan College at Poona and the Elphinstone College in Bombay? The reason the Honourable Minister yesterday gave was that the backward classes wanted these Government colleges and High schools. But the backward classes have now started their own Education Societies. They are in a good position now. There is in Poona the Shri Shivaji Maratha Education Society, and the Deccan College may be handed over to that body. I am a member of the society, and I am willing to take over the Deccan College to-morrow. We have got youths who were trained in England, who are well educated, who have got University degrees in M.A. and B.A. with high classes. We can take the college over to-morrow. We say, give that college in our charge. But that is not done. When you carry out retrenchment all through, I do not say that the Education Department should not bear its quota of retrenchment. Every department is having its quota, and the Education Department will have to take its quota of retrenchment. But where to apply the scissors is the question. I am really surprised that Rs. 27,00,000 should have been cut out of the primary education grant. Again, I wish to ask the Honourable Minister in charge whether this cut of Rs. 27,00,000 is inclusive of the 10 per cent. in the grant for primary education to local bodies, or whether it is exclusive of the 10 per cent. cut. As a member who has something to do with these local board schools—I am chairman of the local board schools in my own district—I know that there were Government orders ordering a 10 per cent. cut in the grants for these local board schools; and there is this additional cut of Rs. 27,00,000 in the grant for primary education. I should like to know whether this is in addition to the 10 per cent. cut that has been ordered, or whether this is inclusive of it.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: It is in addition.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: If it is in addition, it would be a great hardship indeed. Then we would have to close a large number of schools. This is the only amenity which Government are providing for these villagers at present, and if even these schools are going to be closed——

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: It is inclusive and not exclusive of the 10 per cent. cut.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I am glad to hear that. To that extent I must thank the Honourable Minister for Education.

Coming to another point, Government say that they have carried out retrenchment. No doubt they have carried out retrenchment to the extent of a crore and some lakhs of rupees. But I ask seriously whether there is no room for further retrenchment. Sir, if we see the list that is placed in our hands of the retrenchment proposals that were put forward by the Retrenchment Committee and the effect given to the proposals of the Retrenchment Committee, as has been well pointed out, with regard to certain proposals of the Committee Government say, "We are referring to the Government of India; we are thinking over it; we are asking for information" and so on. These things, Sir, are taken so lightly as that, and if they are delayed in the manner in which they are being delayed, then there is no hope of real retrenchment. I think there is really room for further retrenchment to the extent to which there is a deficit in the present budget. If Government seriously mean business, they can really see that the budget is balanced by retrenchment. I myself do not think that Government are really at a loss to find out the real means, if they really mean to carry out retrenchment. But, Sir, instead of that, we have got these measures of additional taxation, which are linked up with the balancing of the budget. And, as a representative of the agriculturists, I must enter my strong protest against the way in which the proposals are brought before this House.

Then a word about the present movement. I do not wish to discuss at length the political situation and the causes which led to it. Still, I must enter my emphatic protest at the way in which the ordinances are being worked. I can only speak for my own district, though I can speak for other districts too, but I have intimate knowledge of my own district. I think the district of Ahmednagar is comparatively a very peaceful one. The people are very docile, and still there was a lathi charge thrice in the last month, which was unwarranted and uncalled for. Sir, the people, peacefully of course, were disobeying the law and the ordinance rules, and they were prepared to take the consequences. As I say, there was no necessity to resort to a lathi charge thrice during one month. That really creates an unpleasant situation.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Were you there?

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I was away at Delhi. I got the information on my return. It was unmerited. From the account given to me, and from my enquiries about these lathi charges, I say that innocent people who merely gathered there to witness the whole show were belaboured for nothing. The people who really take part in the civil disobedience movement, if they receive a lathi or two, they are prepared for it. But if you are going to carry it further and beat the spectators who are there merely to witness the fun, then you are carrying things too far.

[Mr. N. E. Navle]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable the Deputy President should speak a little louder, so that I may hear him.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I have got sore throat, Sir; but I will try to speak as loudly as I can. Then about my own resolution. I had tabled a resolution about the release of Mahatma Gandhi and the rest of the Congressmen which, Sir, you were pleased to allow. My resolution suggested the release of the prisoners with a view to bring about a peaceful atmosphere.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member is entering into the merits of a disallowed resolution.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I am so sorry to say that the opportunity which would have been afforded to put forward our views about the present political situation indirectly——

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Was it disallowed by you, Sir, or by His Excellency?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: It was disallowed by His Excellency. The Honourable the Deputy President cannot criticise the order of His Excellency the Governor.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I have not the least intention to criticise His Excellency's action, but, as I said, Sir, we would have had an opportunity of ventilating our views indirectly on the situation as it obtains.

As I said, I am really sorry that this is a deficit budget. Government have squandered money on luxurious schemes and they are now in difficulties to meet the expenses. But if the deficit is going to be met by additional taxation and not by further retrenchment, then, I for one would oppose all measures of taxation which Government are going to table before the House in this session.

With these words, Sir, I resume my seat.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat District): Sir, in the first place, I sympathise with the Honourable the Finance Member for the precarious condition of the finances. I do not want to blame him. It is an inherited legacy and I thought he would try his best to see that the finances of the Presidency would be put on a proper basis. I am afraid he has failed in doing so and, therefore, I cannot congratulate him. We have noticed that for the last six years since 1925-26, except for one year, deficit budgets have been presented to the House; and the total of these deficits will roughly come to Rs. 6,85,00,000. Next year he has estimated a revenue less by 13 lakhs as compared with the amounts shown in the revised figures of 1931-32 and the expenditure figures of the next year as compared with those of the revised estimates of 1931-32 show that the budgetted amount is short by 50 lakhs. He has shown us a deficit of 73 lakhs for the ensuing year. May I ask him whether he has really made serious efforts to see that the budget was well balanced without leaving any deficit? I expect a reply from him in the affirmative. But it is very difficult to swallow that reply. I am sure if he had made strenuous efforts to balance the budget without deficit, he could easily have done so. He has got before the House four taxation Bills. One would not be surprised that when there are taxation Bills to be presented to and got passed by the House, the budget is shown as a deficit one and the revenue side is shown as thin as possible. I feel that he could easily have shown on the revenue side figures much larger than what he has shown, not merely figures on paper, but with full hopes of realising the amount. For instance, the figure under Land Revenue on the revenue side is shown as Rs. 4,88,00,000. We find that money is flowing more quickly than was anticipated from certain districts. I know from my own district—it has been announced in local papers officially—that so many lakhs have been recovered from this taluka and that taluka, and that money is flowing at the rate of Rs. 50,000 a day. Some people have paid already in advance before the kist is due. Under those circumstances, putting up the revenue side under Land Revenue by 15 lakhs would not be an overestimate. Take the other head—the Excise. The budgetted amount is Rs. 3,30,00,000. This figure can easily be put up by 15 lakhs. There is evidence to show that Bombay proper alone has given 7 lakhs more than last year. In Ahmedabad the Excise revenue has increased by 5 to 10 per cent. I find in to-day's papers that in the Surat District certain shops have brought 100 per cent. more than the rates of last year and on an average there is an increase from 40 to 50 per cent. over last year's figures. On the strength of newspaper reports, though they may not be quite accurate, Government is bound to have a substantial increase in the Excise income. It is quite reasonable to put up this figure by 15 lakhs.

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

A third thing is the increase of revenue which is expected under the Administration of Justice. The civil disobedience movement is bringing in a lot of revenue. Thousands of rupees have been collected as fines. Over and above the terms of imprisonment for six months, seven months and so on, persons concerned are sentenced to various amounts of fines. In certain cases the fines have run to thousands. I know that in the case of Dr. Kanuga he was sentenced to a fine of Rs. 1,000. Some other gentleman was sentenced to a fine of Rs. 2,500. These are not nominal fines on paper, but cash was really recovered. Properties are being attached. I am sure a fairly large income can be made from that source. It would not be an exaggeration if I put that figure at 10 lakhs, as fines recovered on account of civil disobedience movement. [Laughter.] It is not a question for laughing. These are actual facts which exist. Then Government have confiscated Congress funds and property. I do not know the exact value of the property confiscated. I have tabled a question on that subject. A sum of Rs. 78,000 from a firm of rice merchants has been attached, because it is suspected that some part of it belonged to the Congress. Other properties like ashrams and buildings have been attached.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Have all these ashrams become the permanent property of Government?

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: At present, they are with Government.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Can Government sell them?

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: That remains to be seen. So, this figure can be easily put up. I am glad to note from the Honourable the Home Member that they were only attached and not confiscated, and he is not inclined to dispose of them at any rate.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I suggest you should read the Ordinances.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Thus, we can easily increase the revenue by 40 lakhs —15 lakhs from Land Revenue, 15 lakhs from Excise and 10 lakhs from the Administration of Justice and confiscation of properties. That is exactly what I feel and that is my opinion.

Then, we have a small amount of Rs. 30,00,000 on the deficit side. Surely, if the Honourable the Finance Member is courageous enough, he can effect retrenchment to the extent of 30 lakhs. There has been a deficit budget since the year 1925. Everybody knows that the income of all members of society has gone down. The Government servants are having a cut of only ten per cent. in their salary. May I ask you and the House whether the income of different members of society has not gone down tremendously—the traders, the lawyers, the agriculturists and doctors and others? It has affected them to a much larger extent than ten per cent., and if the cut on the pay of Government servants is increased from 10 to 15 or 20 per cent., it will not matter much: they will not in any way be worse off than individuals who are not Government servants.

Then, there is another source. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Bhimbhai Naik quoted the other day the expenditure under civil administration. It is 7,77 lakhs including allowances and other things. Is it not possible to save 30 or 40 lakhs from an item of 7,77 lakhs? It is not an impossible task at any rate. It only requires courage. An emergency has arisen, there is a crisis; and to meet it you require a bold man. I trust that the Honourable the Finance Member will rise to the occasion and will not show a deficit budget and get his Finance Bills passed.

Then, there was a suggestion made by the honourable member representing the Bombay Chamber of Commerce (Mr. Winterbotham). It was also a suggestion made by His Excellency in his address. His Excellency said that he had almost made up his mind to reduce the size of the Cabinet. I do not see why that reduction cannot be made immediately. The only reason why it could not be made was suggested by His Excellency, namely, that it might create dislocation of work belonging to the various departments. But some day that thing has to happen. Why not face it now and reduce the Cabinet at once? We can save thereby nearly two lakhs or even more. Thus, it is quite possible to balance the budget.

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

Various retrenchments have been made, but, as has been pointed out by several members, the retrenchments have not been in the right direction. If we go by the figures, we find that retrenchment has been effected mostly in the transferred departments; a much higher percentage of retrenchment has been effected in the transferred departments than in the reserved departments. I find that in an expenditure of 5,09 on the reserved side of the civil administration, only 18 lakhs have been reduced; while on the transferred side of the civil administration out of 3,02 lakhs, 27 lakhs have been reduced. The percentage works out to a little more than 3 per cent. on the reserved side and a little less than 10 per cent. on the transferred side. This is the way that the nation-building departments have been affected. I certainly congratulate the Honourable Minister Sir Rafiuddin Ahmad for the able fight that he put up in the Cabinet, as he stated yesterday, against a larger cut in his department than 27 lakhs.

Then, Sir, a reference has been made to the way in which the present administration is carried on, and how the rigours of the present administration are felt. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Bhimbhai Naik from Surat District made a reference to the attachment of the Anavil Boarding School. It was really a very exciting sight to see as it was described. At broad daylight, at twelve o'clock, a raid was made on the Boarding House. The Anavil Boarding House is a place meant for the Anavil community from all over the Surat District and even from outside for providing boarding and lodging convenience to Anavils who intended to send their children to schools, facilities for which do not exist in other villages. So, in that particular boarding school there are two types of pupils, residential pupils and day pupils. The day pupils come to attend the schools located in the boarding house, stay there from 11 to 5 and return to their homes. But children who come from the mofussil are housed in the boarding house and have no other arrangement to put up in the city; they reside as boarders as well as students. The raid was carried out when the school was working. This school is a Government recognised school, being affiliated to the Sarwajanik Education Society of Surat, which receives certain Government grants. So far as I know, the school is open to Government inspection; I learn there is a girls' school also. During the course of the raid little children, boys and girls from 9 years or less, and young boys of 15 and 16 were all turned out from the classes, the residential boarders as well as the day pupils who were there. They were not allowed when going away from their schools to take their books and slates, pens and bicycles. The children were turned out into the streets. You can imagine the mental condition of these little children who were turned out at midday. They were not allowed to take any money with them. The children, who belonged not to the city but came from the district, did not know how to reach their homes. Some had to go out to persons not belonging to their own community. Sir, it is situated in your own neighbourhood in the city, and you can easily imagine what sort of inconvenience it must have caused. If this raid was made in a more reasonable and lenient way, all this sort of demonstration would not have happened. There was a tremendous protest from the city in regard to this.

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

Then, I will refer to another incident to show how rigorously the administration of ordinances is going on in Surat District. There is a small place called Rander, two miles away from the city. Five or six children between the ages of 5 and 10 were playing about in the street in that place when the car of the Deputy Superintendent of Police or some other police officer happened to pass them and the children shouted "Boycott, boycott." Mind you, these were children between the ages of 5 and 10, children who could not understand the meaning of the word "Boycott", and these children were hauled up before the magistrate and they were fined, and the fines were recovered from the parents. The boys were not all Hindu boys; some of them were Mahomedan boys. Surely, it would never have been the intention of either the parents or the children to insult officers in any way. And yet they were rigorously dealt with!

Mr. B. P. WADKE: Were they all Indian children?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Then, Sir, a reference was made by my honourable friend (Rao Bahadur Bhimbhai Naik) about me personally. I should not have referred to the matter at all, being a man of very modest temperament, and where I am personally concerned I would not thrust forward myself; but two honourable members have referred to this matter, and I feel it my duty to place before this honourable House the incident in its proper perspective and state facts as they happened. Dr. Sumant Mehta, a highly cultured man, of university education, aged about 55, and who had held a very responsible post under the Baroda Government, was doing social work in Baroda territory somewhere about 25 miles north of Ahmedabad. He was arrested from that place and brought to Surat. After some days he was released and an order was placed in his hands signed by the District Magistrate. He happens to be a relation of mine and an old co-student. He wanted consultation in the matter; he wanted to see me. He met me and told me that he was served with an order which it was impossible to obey. He was asked to go and reside in Jalalpur, a village near Navsari about 20 miles south of Surat. He has no home in Surat city, nor any in Jalalpur of the Surat District. He has a home in Ahmedabad where his wife and children stay permanently. He asked me what he should do in the matter. He did not know anybody in Jalalpur; there was no hotel there where he could go and set up. It was absurd to expect that he should put up a house in Jalalpur within a few hours and go and stay there. A cultured man of that type could not be expected to go and sit on the roadside like a leper or sleep on the footpath. He must have a house to shelter him and some nourishment to feed him. The absurdity of the order is perfectly obvious. He is not a man who would evade law; he is a man who would obey law if it was made possible for him to do so. He would disobey if driven to do so. There was no other alternative for him. I tried to persuade him to obey the orders of the District Magistrate by making an attempt to get the objectionable nature of his order modified, and I said, "Come along; I will go with you to the District Magistrate and represent the case properly to him." At any rate, I expected that if the District Magistrate could be seen and the case properly represented, he would modify the conditions of the order. The District Magistrate was out camping when we reached his bungalow. We left the bungalow, and I put Dr. Sumant up with me in the afternoon, evening and night anticipating that the District Magistrate would arrive on the morrow. As it happened, the information that I had received did not turn out to be correct and even the next day the District Magistrate did not return. I decided to go next morning to Bulsar myself and represent the case. But in the evening at about 6-45 he was arrested and taken away. I put him up with me in a small farm cottage where I am carrying on a few agricultural experiments in cotton growing. I was staying with my family in the very farm cottage for about five weeks before this incident happened. Next morning it was my turn to be arrested. Two sub-inspectors dressed in their trim uniforms came to me and took me in a police car with them to the police office. I was asked to go with them. I asked the reasons why I was being taken. They replied, "Because you have harboured a man who has disobeyed the orders of the District Magistrate." I go to the police office, wait there for some time and then the Deputy Superintendent comes and talks to me. I put the whole case before him, the circumstances of the case, as to the way in which I had put Dr. Sumant up with me and the object of my putting him up. My object was to see that Dr. Sumant obeyed the orders of the District Magistrate by getting the humiliating and absurd clauses removed. After some time I was asked by the Deputy Superintendent if I could put that down in writing and give an undertaking. I asked him why he wanted a written statement from me. Did he want to humiliate me? He said, "Far from that." He did not want me to apologise or express regret. I shall read out the statement which I gave to the Police for the information of the House:

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

"Dr. Sumant B. Mehta was not harboured by me with a view to hide him from the police. It was never my intention nor his to do so. Even in future I shall not harbour anybody with a view to hide him from the police or assist such people in any way for evading the law in any way."

These are the very words which I wrote out in the police office. Somebody may ask me why I gave that undertaking. The position was clear. I did not want to earn a cheap martyrdom by refusing to write that. I had to write it. Possibly, had I not written it, I should not have been able to attend the Council but might have been rotting in Sabarmati or some other jail. This episode did not end there. Had it ended there, neither the public nor the House would have known anything about it. Next morning inspired news was published in a local paper and in the Times of India here. I leave it to the House to judge for themselves and compare the written statement which

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

I have read out and that published in the Times of India, and say whether the information published in that paper gives the correct version of the whole affair. I feel that I have not done anything wrong by making an attempt to make it possible for Dr. Sumant Mehta to obey the order of the District Magistrate by getting the conditions modified after properly representing the case to the District Magistrate. The tragedy of the whole case was that the District Magistrate did not happen to be in Surat when this happened. Had he been there, nothing would have happened and probably Dr. Sumant Mehta, who has now been sentenced and lying in the Sabarmati jail, would have been a free man. I was arrested about 9 a.m. from my place and released about 12-15 noon from the police office.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Mr. President, I always feel somewhat reluctant to intervene in this particular debate, because, as the House is aware, this is the one occasion in the year on which honourable members have an opportunity of wandering over all the wide fields of administration, and when by a happy convention and through the kindness of the Chair questions of irrelevancy do not often arise. I know how much honourable members appreciate the privilege of discoursing on their favourite subjects, whether they be ordinances or mental hospitals or even the wells of Malir. And, therefore, it always seems to me unfortunate if occupants of this bench, who have so many opportunities of airing their views, should occupy any considerable portion of the three days which are allotted to us. If, therefore, I venture to make a few remarks today, it is because it seems a little unlikely in the natural course of events that I shall have an opportunity of addressing the House on what is, after all, a very important subject. Unless the House radically changes its methods, I think it hardly probable that the item of "Land Revenue" will be reached this year when we come to discuss the demands for grants, because unhappily "Land Revenue" is at the wrong end of the stick.

Again, I observe that a large number of important resolutions have been put down for discussion in connection with land revenue, but unless honourable members—or a large number of them—are going to withdraw their bills, it seems to me unlikely that at any rate most of these resolutions will be reached. And, therefore, I take the opportunity which is afforded to me today by this general discussion to say a few words on the subject of land revenue, although, as the House is aware, it is only part really of the general financial situation. We are now halfway through this debate and I have observed with some surprise and perhaps natural gratification that very few trenchant criticisms have been directed against the department with which I am chiefly concerned. Modesty, of course, forbids me to attribute that to any idea that there is perfection in the Land Revenue department; but I do feel, in the present crisis through which we are now passing, that the absence of criticism is a tribute to the moderation and the efficiency with which our revenue officers have carried out their particularly difficult duties during the past year and is also a tribute to the general correctness of our land revenue system. There were, as I said, comparatively few criticisms, but there have also, I am glad to say, been one or two very interesting constructive suggestions. It is very refreshing to us, on this bench, when we get from the other side not merely criticism, but also something constructive, and it gave me great pleasure yesterday when my honourable friend Mr. Karbhari actually ventured into what I may call the experimental field. He suggested, amongst other things, that we should put (if I understood him) a heavy assessment on big landowners and a low assessment on small landowners. I do not know how far that commends itself to my honourable friends the leading zamindars from Sind. But I see that there is something in it, and I have no doubt that in days to come, when there is income tax attached to profits from land, the idea which the honourable member suggested will take shape. But for the present I am afraid it is not possible for us to accept it, nor do I think that this House would accept it either. Then my honourable friend went on to make what I think was a happy suggestion, that we should insure land revenue. That would put Government in a most powerful position. Nothing is more difficult for us at the present moment than to decide what remissions we should or should not give. We should be able to be very generous, indeed, when the insurance companies would bear our losses, and to that extent I most heartily welcome the suggestion of the honourable member. But if he would just fill in a few of the details on some future occasion and tell us, first of all, what companies he thinks are likely to take on this risk, and, secondly, what premium we should have to pay, the Revenue Department will be very glad indeed to consider the proposition.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Now, Sir, in the course of the debate, it has been thrown up against us that we have not retrenched as much as we should. One or two honourable members, I think, especially objected to the fact that we had not accepted en bloc the recommendations of that very hard-working and able body, the Retrenchment Committee. I am sure honourable members will agree with me when I say that that has always been the fate of retrenchment committees. I do not suppose any retrenchment committee that ever existed has ever had all its recommendations accepted. But I do claim, at any rate as far as the department with which I am concerned, that we have accepted a great many suggestions and to every one of them we have given the fullest consideration. When we have reluctantly been compelled to turn them down, it is because we felt after most meticulous consideration that they were not feasible. Just to take one or two instances: honourable members will observe on page 17 that we have made one or two very radical changes in the revenue department. For instance, we are abolishing Huzur Deputy Collectors. That is a matter which has been under discussion for a very long time and has been very strongly objected to by a large number of officers, I may say officers with considerable financial experience. But we have taken that suggestion from the Retrenchment Committee. We are also abolishing Daftardars in Sind, a step against which I have fought all my life, and which I know is going to result in a marked diminution of efficiency. But we have done that on the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee. Then, again, we are carefully investigating, and I have no doubt shall in due course carry out, the abolition of certain districts. I do not know if that is going to be an entirely popular measure. I am already receiving vigorous protests from the inhabitants of the districts which expect the axe to fall on them. We are also proposing to abolish a considerable number of talukas, and that, again, is a most unpopular measure. I would appeal to honourable members who represent the districts which are to be abolished or who live in the talukas which will cease to be talukas and become mahals, to use their influence and explain to the people why it is that we do these things—not because we want it, not even because we admit that they are sound administrative measures, but simply and solely because we must do them on grounds of economy.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Then there is a proposal to abolish the post of one of the Superintendents of Land Records. We do not propose to abolish the Superintendent of Land Records because on careful consideration we think it is practically impossible without the work being hopelessly dislocated. We are proposing, however, to place in abeyance the post of Settlement Commissioner until such time as it is absolutely necessary that he should be reappointed.

Then take a case in which we have been obliged to refuse to carry out the recommendations of the Committee. It was suggested by them—I do not think they pressed it—(I give just a typical case) that the post of Superintendent of Land Records in Sind should be amalgamated, if possible, with that of the Manager of Incumbered Estates. The answer to that is that it is impracticable. It so happens that 25 years ago or thereabouts I myself combined for the brief space of one month these two particular offices. I do not think they have ever been combined since, and of course, for a month anybody can carry on the two offices, by the simple expedient of not doing the work of one of them, leaving it for completion when the permanent incumbent returns. But I do assure the House, that as a permanent measure it is quite impracticable. The point is this, that no one, not even a Government officer, can be in two places at one and the same time, and that it is quite impossible for the Superintendent of Land Records, during the touring season, to go to the places where the Manager, Incumbered Estates, ought to go, or for the Manager of the Incumbered Estates to go to the places where the Superintendent of Land Records has to go. I am not going to enlarge upon that. I am only quoting this as an instance of the way in which Government have had to deal with these recommendations. We did give the suggestion very careful consideration. I knew in my own mind it was impossible, but I did not turn it down like that. I sent it to the Commissioner in Sind, in order that he, in consultation with the Superintendent of Land Records and the Manager, Incumbered Estates, might consider whether under the present conditions it was possible. Their answer was more definitely in the negative than mine could have been. I would submit to the House that, in a case like this, we are not justified in carrying out the recommendations of the Committee, because I am sure it must be obvious to honourable members that the members of the Committee could not possibly know all the details of the work that these officers have to do.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

But I claim on our behalf that, as far as possible, we are carrying out retrenchment. In addition to the items I have mentioned, we are cutting 10 per cent. of our establishments. Now, I heard it stated in the House—I think yesterday—that retrenchment was not going to mean any loss of efficiency. I beg, with all respect, to differ. I have spent the last 30 years in inspecting offices,—offices of Collectors, offices of Assistant Collectors, offices of Mamlatdars. I have spent a good deal of my time in chasing village establishments and trying to get them to do their work, and I know perfectly well that this 10 per cent. cut, which we have carried out because we felt we must, is unquestionably going to reduce the efficiency. The work will be done more slowly if possible than at present. Honourable members, I think, sometimes say that the mills of Government grind exceedingly slowly; but they are going to grind slower still. I do not want any one to go away with the idea that such blessed words as "reconstruction" and "re-organization" are going to make up for loss in personnel. I do not say they will not make up to some extent, but they will not make up the whole. In saying this, I am not of course thinking of the reduction on this Bench, to which we are all looking forward, and I should be sorry to embarrass those of my honourable colleagues who will still survive the axe by suggesting that the four will not do their work as efficiently as the seven do at present. But when you get lower down the scale, I can assure the House that there is going to be a considerable reduction in efficiency. We have got to face that fact, and I for one am quite prepared to accept the fact that, if you are going to pay Rs. 5 where before you paid Rs. 10, you cannot expect to get the same value for your money. You will be very lucky if you got, say, seven rupees worth.

Now, I turn to another side of my work, that is in connection with assessment and the present agricultural situation, because I am sure that a great many members of this House are very anxious to know what Government are proposing to do in that regard this year. I do not think the House will require any assurance from me that we have watched the agricultural situation with the gravest anxiety. We have done our best to get correct information about such difficult things as prices and the position of the agriculturists. I have held two conferences with all the Commissioners, and the Commissioners have held conferences with all their Collectors. I have made rather a lengthy tour in Sind, and there personally discussed the situation with all the Collectors (except one who was ill), and we have come or are coming to certain definite conclusions. I propose to take the House into my confidence today, because I want the House to share the responsibility which

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Government holds in this matter and also to feel that the House supports us in the action which we are proposing to take, although that action may seem to be singularly ill-timed, in view of our present financial position.

The House will remember that last year we gave certain new concessions, concessions which had never been given before, chiefly in view of the fall in agricultural prices. Last year the House will remember we collected none of the arrears. That was a very considerable loss to us. In addition to that, we gave special remissions outside the ordinary rules to the extent of Rs. 15,00,000. Altogether there were suspensions of Rs. 10,00,000, which would not have been granted under the ordinary rules, and Rs. 15,00,000 of remissions. In addition to that, in the course of the past year, we have reclassified certain lands in Bardoli and Chorasi. These involve Government in a loss of Rs. 28,000; and reclassification would have been spread over a much larger area if the foolish people of Bardoli taluka had not refused to co-operate with the officers of Government who were conducting those operations. If and when they come to their senses, those operations will be continued; but they must inevitably mean a loss of revenue.

Then the House will remember that all settlement reports which were written before a certain date have been hung up, and that Government have made no attempt to introduce fresh settlements. In certain talukas in the Kanara district we have reduced assessment to the extent of Rs. 17,000, because the Settlement Officer, when he prepared his reports, had recommended those particular reductions; but he had also recommended very considerable enhancements. I felt sure that I should have the approval of the House in agreeing to the reductions being put into force and the enhancements being postponed indefinitely. But the House will see that in our present financial position all these concessions are extremely difficult, and they make the position of my honourable friend the Finance Member even more arduous than it is at present.

Now we come to the present year. Fortunately for us, we have had, on the whole, what I may call a good monsoon—some exceptions of course—but on the whole a distinctly good monsoon. But prices are still in some cases well below the level of the past few years. I am glad to say that in some cases there has been some distinct improvement, in cotton for instance and various other crops,—I will not go into details—but as regards rice, there is no doubt that the inhabitants of the rice tracts are having a pretty bad time, and we had to consider what action should be taken in regard to them. Now Government have decided—and I hope that the House will support us in this decision—that in this year's acreage we will not ask anybody to pay any of the authorised arrears, i.e. more than one year's dues. That is again a very serious loss, and when my honourable friend over there felt so confident that we had under-estimated our receipts under land revenue, he I am afraid was speaking very much without the book. If we get anything like the revenue which we have estimated, I for one shall be extremely surprised, although I am bound to say that at the present moment the money is coming in very well. But that proves nothing, unfortunately, except that most of the people in the presidency are quite ready to pay their revenue when they are asked. But suspension of all authorised arrears will cost us a good many lakhs.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Then, in addition to that, we are going further than we have ever been before. The House will remember that last year I uttered a word of warning about the dangers of tinkering with settlements. I could hand down no worse legacy to my successor in this office than a precedent which suggests that settlements are things which can be enforced when it suits the agriculturist, but cannot be enforced when it does not suit the agriculturist. Last year, I am glad to say that in the great majority of cases we were able to collect our revenue without making any of these exceptional concessions. But we have come to the conclusion that two years are worse than one, and that in certain areas some sort of concessions must be made. We have decided,—and I feel sure that the House will approve of this decision, although what I am now announcing is going to cost us six or seven lakhs,—that in certain talukas in the Kolaba district, in the Thana district, in the Bombay Suburban district and in the Ratnagiri district, where settlements are comparatively recent, we will give a suspension of 2 or 3 annas in the rupee outside the ordinary annewari rules. Now, the House will see that that is a very considerable concession; and it is much more than that—it is really going beyond the principles of our settlements. I confess that I have agreed to this with the greatest regret, because I cannot help feeling that it is the thin end of the wedge. But, on the other hand, one does realise that there are very exceptional circumstances, and we can only hope that with a return to better prices these suspensions will in due course come back to us. We are also making certain concessions in the Ahmednagar district. I will not go into details, but the Ahmednagar district in the Central Division is one which has had rather a chequered history, and we feel that where the crops have not been up to the average, we must do something special for them. Also certain parts of the Belgaum district, the rice villages, have had a bad year. It is really a precarious tract as far as rice is concerned. There again we are breaking our rules and making certain concessions.

I say nothing about Sind at present, because we have not definitely settled what we are going to do. I am still awaiting the final report from the Commissioner in Sind. But my friends from Sind know that I have a soft corner for them in my heart, and the danger as far as I am concerned is that I go too far rather than the other way.

We have also not decided anything about rabi. The House will agree, I am sure, that we must give nothing away until we are absolutely obliged. Our financial position is such that much as we should like to be what is called generous, we have to remember that that generosity is at the expense of the general taxpayer, and therefore we have made no decision whatever in regard to the rabi crops. All I can say is this, that our officers have the most careful instructions to watch the course of events and report to us if in any particular case or cases they think that a concession is absolutely necessary. I do not think the House will want Government to go further than that. It must be so obvious to every one that any concessions which are beyond what is absolutely necessary are unfair to the general taxpayer. I have before me various resolutions tabled by honourable members.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Mr. V. N. JOG: The wheat crop has failed.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: If the wheat crop has failed, if and when the crop fails, that would be a matter for special consideration. [Interruption.] We are not going to discuss the details now.

I have before me a large number of resolutions none of which will probably come on. One honourable member recommends a remission of not less than 50 per cent. Fifty per cent.! I am not an expert mathematician, but it does not require very much to calculate that it would add 2½ crores to our existing deficit. I do not think that the House will expect us to regard such a resolution seriously. These are amiable gestures made for the consumption of constituencies. But I would like to say to the House that we have not lost sight, in our anxiety to balance our budget and in our anxiety to be generous to the general taxpayer, of the needs of the agriculturists. We do hope, however, that by making timely concessions, even though they may run counter to our recognised principles, we shall enable the ryots to tide over the worst of their difficulties, and that with the revival of world trade a period of agricultural prosperity will set in for this Presidency.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: On a point of information. Has order been issued for postponing the collection of last year's arrears?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I am almost certain that the orders have been issued, as I have received letters from various parts of the Presidency thanking Government for it. If by any chance anybody has paid the arrears, there is no objection to getting it back.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: Money once paid to Government never comes back.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I beg to differ entirely from the honourable member. Large sums of money were repaid last year in similar circumstances.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: Sir, I wish to confine myself strictly to the financial aspect of the budget in the few observations which I desire to make on this occasion. The budget has been characterised as a gloomy or a disappointing one. To a certain extent this description of the budget may be correct. I venture to think, however, that although the budget is no doubt gloomy, looked at from the point of view of the deficit and the necessity for borrowing there is a ray of hope in the budget we have before us this year. It may be remembered at this time last year it was my unfortunate duty to analyse some of the causes of the present state of things regarding the finances of the Bombay Presidency. I described the position in words which recently have been reiterated in one or two articles of the leading English journal in Bombay in attacking the financial policy of this Government. My description last year was, it will be seen, perfectly correct under the circumstances. I think it is our duty this year to review the position during the last 12 months, so far as the action taken by Government is concerned, and to judge whether in the light of the action taken, there has been a different mentality on the part of the Government. I, for one, venture to think, Sir, that the budget presented this year by Government has been presented in a somewhat chastened mood. Thus, in the first place, they appointed a Retrenchment Committee and from the statement of the action taken on the recommendations of the committee there is no doubt that they have retrenched considerably. For instance 59 lakhs as in statement I, another 58 lakhs as in statement II and 37 lakhs as in statement III, which is irrespective of the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee. I think this is not a bad record. Then, again, there are certain outstanding features of these retrenchments—I mean a different outlook, which I just now mentioned. We have been told by His Excellency the Governor that the question of limiting the size of the Cabinet is practically settled. Then again, during the last year, there was the outstanding question of the cut in the salaries of the civilians. That has been tackled. I consider it is a great thing that we on this side of the House have been able to effect a breach in the citadel. The salaries of the civilians have been cut down by 10 per cent. notwithstanding statutory provisions by recourse to enactment of the House of Commons. This is by no means small. There are some people who think that ten per cent. cut is not satisfactory. The question is not whether it is ten per cent. or more but it is a question of principle. That has been achieved during the last year. We have to judge the attitude of Government from various other aspects—of prestige, tradition and so on. Take the question of move to Mahableshwar. Though the cost involved is only Rs. 25,000 or may be Rs. 60,000, still behind it there was a tradition. Government have now come forward to give up the move to Mahableshwar, which was in vogue for more than 60 years. These are the facts which I wish to bring out in order to show that this year's budget has been presented in an entirely different frame of mind. There is the honest effort to retrench. Then, again, as the majority of the members of the Retrenchment Committee have pointed out, sufficient attention was not so far paid to the re-organisation of the Secretariat. I am happy to observe that Government have now come forward to appoint an expert committee, to overhaul the Secretariat and also various other departments. I referred in my speech at Poona to the re-organisation of the Public Works Department. The majority of the Retrenchment Committee also drew the attention of Government to this matter. I think the honourable member the Finance Secretary was at one with me there and admitted that he was in the octopus grip of the engineers. Here again, Government have come forward to re-organise the Public Works Department. These are the features which give me a little ray of hope that Government have realised in their own mind that they have been running the machinery at a great deal of extravagance. I think all this is due to the hammering of the question from this side of the House. Public opinion has asserted itself and the criticism against Government for frittering away the resources of the presidency has had its effect. Now, Government have opened their eyes to their past mistakes and let us hope they will take a new departure in regard to their future financial policy.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

With reference to the decision of the Government to reduce the size of the Cabinet, I share the views of some of my friends here, viz. that although it is a good decision, it is not being given effect to as early as possible. I am inclined to think early effect could be given, if there had been co-operation on the part of those——

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Please repeat the last sentence. I did not quite catch it.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: I do not remember the exact words. I say this good resolution of Government could be given effect to with the co-operation of those concerned, that is to say, the Members of Government. In this connection, with regard to the reduction of the Cabinet, I wish to draw attention to one remark made by the honourable member representing the Bombay European Chamber of Commerce. He pointed out yesterday the need for decentralisation. I do not exactly know what he meant by decentralisation. If by decentralisation he means the transfer of power from the hands of either Ministers or Executive Councillors to local officers in the districts or to the heads of departments, I for one would not welcome that form of decentralisation. If on the other hand the honourable member meant that petty matters of routine on which there is a great deal of unnecessary correspondence should be left to the lower officials, that is a different matter. If there is any feeling in the minds of my European colleagues that there should be decentralisation in order to curtail the powers of the elected Ministers, I for one or any one on this side of the House would oppose such decentralisation.

I now come to another part of the question in which the Honourable the Finance Member has tried to reply to the observations of the Retrenchment Committee on the point of per capita cost in Bombay. He has compared expenditure per capita of the different provinces with that of this Presidency. He has chosen for comparison Madras and Bengal. But the majority of the Retrenchment Committee have taken Punjab for a correct comparison with Bombay from the point of view of the number of districts and the population. If at all he is going to reply to the Retrenchment Committee, I may point out to him that this comparison cannot go on all fours for the simple reason that Madras and Bengal do not compare with Bombay in point of area and population. Punjab should have been taken. The subject is more or less of an academic nature. Unless we know the local condition of each province, it is not possible to come to any decision. However, in one respect I have not been able to follow him when he said that Madras has no expenditure on inam lands as we have here and therefore their per capita expenditure is less. He tried to show that there is no analogy so far between Bombay and Madras. I imagine, Sir, that if there are no inam lands in Madras, though Madras is a ryotwari province, there are I think Proprietary Estates there which are the same as inam lands. I find from the Madras Budget that the Government of Madras are spending a sum of 24 lakhs on those Estates. I do not think, therefore, that the Honourable Member is entirely correct.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

There is another observation of the Honourable the Finance Member to which I should like to draw attention, that is with reference to Sind and the Sukkur Barrage canals which have now come to operate. He has stated in his speech that in this year's budget provision has been made for 13 lakhs for the working expenses for the new Canals. He has not been able to say what the sale of canal water would bring in as revenue. That has a bearing on the point I wish to refer to now.

The Honourable the Finance Member wants to have taxation to raise about 30 lakhs this year. I have no doubt eulogised Government on their frank attitude and I have admitted that they have carried out substantial retrenchments. This does not, however, mean that there is no further room for retrenchment. In that case the expert committee would not have been appointed. Now, my object is not to harp on past blunders. The only question we have to consider is whether new taxation is necessary. There is going to be, as I said, a Reorganisation Committee; until that committee has finished its work we cannot know where we are. But apart from the retrenchments which that Committee will show, I wonder if the Honourable the Finance Member has not overlooked some source of revenue in these new canals. If there is a charge on the debit side of 13 lakhs for working expenses of the Barrage, what about the income from the sale of the canal water? The Honourable the Finance Member says that the estimated revenue is uncertain. But surely if the working expenses are 15 or 13 lakhs, I should expect on commercial and business principles that the receipts from the sale of water should be far more than 15 or 13 lakhs, say 25 or 30 lakhs. Honourable members should realise that the Honourable the Finance Member is trying to get only about 30 lakhs of revenue from all the three new taxation Bills he has in view. Is it not possible to get this 30 lakhs from the new canals? If at all you want further taxation, I am pointing out that you have a source of revenue in the sale of water in the Sind canals. Is it worth while having new taxation to cover only a small part of the deficit? Or you can wait until the Reorganisation Committee can tell you how much you can get from a reorganisation of the Secretariat and the Public Works Department.

Apart from this possible source which I suggest, there is one other reason why we ask that Government should wait before asking us to grant them further taxation. There is the question of the separation of Sind pending and there is also the Federal Finance Committee investigating into the question of federal finance under the reformed constitution. If under the new constitution we get new sources of taxation, and if also under the new constitution Sind is going to be separated, we may soon be able to balance our Budget. I do not see why we should have further taxation simply for the sake of 30 lakhs. If we have to borrow to tide over our difficulties in respect of other large amounts, viz. 195 lakhs, surely it is not worth raising only 30 lakhs by further taxation in these bad times. However, we shall be coming again to the same question when we discuss the Finance Bill on Monday and I do not want to go more into this question. These are only general remarks I wish to make with reference to the need for proposed new taxation as disclosed by the Budget. The deficit which is left uncovered is great, and, after all, we are going to borrow a great deal for covering that deficit.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

There is only one other observation which I should like to make, and that is with reference to the subject of education. It is indeed a pity that a very heavy cut has been given to the Department of Education. In this connection there is one point on which I differ from some of my honourable colleagues on this side and also from the honourable member the Deputy President, and that is the question of the abolition of the two old colleges, the Elphinstone College and the Deccan College. I for one do attach some value to sentiment; but it is not only on grounds of sentiment that I base my case.

An Honourable MEMBER: Hand them over to certain societies.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: There again my objection is that these old institutions like the Deccan College have a moral value of their own. They maintain a standard and a tone which cannot be expected perhaps in other institutions and societies, new and fresh. Just as an Englishman likes to send his boys to Eton and Harrow, because there is a certain tone in those institutions, similarly there are many parents, Government servants and others, who like to send their boys to institutions like the Elphinstone College and the Deccan College. Merely for the sake of small economy, I would not like to see the sacrilege and iconoclasm involved in the destruction of these institutions.

An Honourable MEMBER: Are they at all comparable with Eton and Harrow?

(After recess)

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Sir, the Honourable the Finance Member has presented his annual budget to this House, and on the whole I find it unsatisfactory. Year after year, we have become familiar with the Honourable Member whose lot it has been to present deficit budgets and to appeal to this House to help him to balance them. Government's favourite way of balancing a budget is to ask sanction for additional taxation. But this House has more than once shown in unmistakable ways that it does not consider that the people can bear additional burdens. The land is not flowing with milk and money. The cultivator finds it difficult to pay even the existing land tax owing to abnormal fall in prices. The number of unemployed is daily increasing and trade has been hit very hard. The people being in a very bad condition cannot brook the idea of more burdens. This side of the House had been constantly dinning into the ears of Government that the administration was too costly for the Presidency and that Government ought to retrench. But Government evaded the uncongenial task of retrenchment by putting forward the plea that efficiency would suffer. Matters have drifted from bad to worse and Government have at last come to admit that they have to retrench even at the cost of efficiency. I again repeat that the administration is too costly for the Presidency and also unsuitable to the ideas and requirements of the people. Retrenchment and further retrenchment is necessary. Had the times been prosperous the people could have borne further taxation especially for the advancement of the nation-building departments. If additional burden be placed upon the people it will simply crush them without yielding any substantial amounts to the treasury. The law of diminishing returns will come into operation and both the Government and the people will have to suffer. The requisite revenue will not be got, and the people will have to pay the higher rate without getting any corresponding advantage. A study even cursory of the figures of the last five years will lead to the conclusion that we are going from bad to worse. The revenues are not only not expanding but they are on the other hand receding. Owing to world conditions, the prices of agricultural produce have dwindled abnormally and this has made serious inroads on the revenues of Government. The actual revenue for the year 1927-28 was 13,94 lakhs as against the budgeted figure of 12,59 lakhs for the next year, thus showing a net fall of about one crore or 8 per cent. of the total revenue, within a period of five years. Government have no doubt realised the absolute necessity of retrenching expenditure during the corresponding period, but this retrenchment has had a very disastrous effect upon the activities of the nation-building departments which should not have been made to suffer for want of funds. In 1927-28 the total expenditure on education was 2,01 lakhs. This year's estimate is 1,74 lakhs. Instead of larger amounts being spent we see that the expenditure is lower than it was five years ago with a very heavy cut of 15 per cent. Agriculture is in an equally bad plight. In 1927-28 the total expenditure on this department was 27 lakhs of rupees. Comparing this with the amount budgeted for next year we see a drop of 8 per cent. Public works are in the same sorry plight. Medical relief is in even a worse condition. The work of the nation-building departments has not only come to a complete standstill, but we are actually going backwards.

[Rao Saheb R. V. Vandekar]

Going through the budget figures for the next year, I am disappointed to see that Government's desire to help the backward classes has not been translated into action by provision of more money by way of scholarships and opening of more facilities for improvement of agriculture. The heavy reduction in grants for primary education to local bodies is seriously handicapping the Boards in their attempt to spread primary education among the masses.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Sir, will the honourable member read again his remarks about the depressed classes ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is he reading ?

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR : I am refreshing my memory, Sir.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : I want to know what he said about the backward classes ? Will he kindly repeat his speech ?

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR : I wanted to bring to the notice of the Government that they should have given additional facilities for improvement of agriculture and given more scholarships.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The scholarships have not been reduced in any way.

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR : I wish they had been increased. That is the only point I wished to make.

The heavy reduction in grants for primary education to local bodies is seriously handicapping the boards in their attempt to spread primary education among the masses, a duty which primarily is that of Government, but which Government have now placed on the local bodies. This retrenchment is, to say the least, most unwise and runs counter to various promises and professions made by Government in this House, and I must say that Government is shirking its obvious duties in this respect. As regards the improvement of agriculture, Government have not only not given additional facilities but propose to cut off those already available ; for instance the Baramati farm, Loni agricultural school which did some useful work in this respect.

I shall now say a few words about irrigation, a subject intimately connected with agriculture. It is generally said that irrigation works in the Deccan cost very heavily and do not yield adequate revenue to justify the cost of the venture. Big irrigation works, no doubt, are not directly profitable to Government when only irrigation dues are taken into consideration. But when one takes into consideration the indirect advantages such as the prosperity of the people, affording opportunities for employment of capital and protection from famine, the investment by Government is justified and one cannot urge that more money should not be spent on the development of irrigation. Some hold forth the high revenue received from Sind irrigation and point out what high dividends are realised. I beg to point out that inundation irrigation is generally cheaper than storage tanks irrigation. But at the same time I may also point out that the percentage of return is generally calculated on the amount spent by the British Government and the original cost of the canals constructed at enormous cost by the former rulers is lost sight of. I am under the impression that the heavy profits from irrigation works that are paraded may be due to some such calculations. I have once more to raise my protest against the high irrigation rates that are charged in the Deccan. When the prices of agricultural produce were high on account of war and subsequent abnormal conditions, irrigators could make both ends meet and found money to pay the Government fees. But the prices have heavily fallen down and the cultivator finds it very difficult to recover even the actual expenses of cultivation. If the high dues are to be paid, they must be paid out of his savings, if there be any. This is a drain on his capital and when that is gone he will not be able to go on with his work. The irrigation policy must be based upon the principle of business. Every year water is stored in huge quantities in lakes such as Bhatghar, Bhandardara, and Darna Dams, but unless it is utilised before being replenished by next monsoon the quantity stored goes to waste. This is not the treasury of money which goes on accummulating; hence if the water is issued for irrigation even at nominal rates Government will realise some revenue at least and the profits realised by the cultivators will be immeasurable. The situation is a very delicate one and ought to be handled with great care and statesmanship. At all events substantial reductions in the existing rates are absolutely necessary. I may be permitted to bring to the notice of the department one thing which will bear repetition. Time and again high officers of Government and humble servants have also tried to open the eyes of the department how to avoid and prevent waterlogging. Both on the Nira Left Bank canals and on the recently constructed Godavary and Pravara system the cultivated lands are being rapidly waterlogged. This causes loss not only to the cultivator but to the irrigation revenue also. It also shows how tremendous is the loss by wastage of water. The department has been maintaining a costly staff to investigate the causes of waterlogging and to do research work, to find out how to prevent or remedy the evil. This branch, I am led to believe, is paying more attention to find out how to improve the waterlogging lands. It appears they think that waterlogging is inevitable. So a remedy for the disease has to be found out. The result is that they recommend a system of drainage. But the cost of this improvement is beyond the means of the average bagayatdar. A scheme of compulsory acquirement of waterlogged land and improvement at Government cost was, I hear, submitted to Government. It was shown by statistics that the scheme would be profitable financially and would add to the prosperity of the people. But the stringency of finance during the past few years obliged Government to throw cold water over the brilliant scheme and it must be accumulating dust in the archives of the Secretariat. But waterlogging and its evils are continuing their havoc. I may point out once again that our ancestors had to face the same difficulties from ancient times. It has always been held that the king was to provide irrigation facilities wherever possible. Powerful emperors in ancient times did construct tanks on a gigantic scale. Vincent Smith makes mention of a big tank built by Chandragupta whose seat of government was at modern Patna and the irrigation tank was provided in Kathiawar. In the distribution of water too, the ancients can give a tip or two to modern engineering experts. In my district of Nasik there are a number of minor village irrigation works, which are supplying water to crops in the villages. These villages have devised a scheme of water distribution, rotation of crops, keeping a watch over the crops and such other things. The schemes have been found satisfactory. Wet crops are being raised every year, but there is no waterlogging. Manuring once in three years is found sufficient to prevent exhaustion of the soil. Mr. Simcox, once the Collector of Nasik, made use of his eyes and he did his best to draw the attention of Government to the system, and recommended that the old tried method should be made use of in the distribution of water from the new Godavary and Pravara canals. But his report is lying in some pigeon-hole accumulating dust. I humbly request the Honourable the General Member and the Honourable Minister for Agriculture to call for it and read it.

[Rao Saheb R. V. Vandekar]

[Rao Saheb R. V. Vandekar]

Lastly, the position that our people, the non-Brahmins, are occupying in the services is also most unenviable. The promises made by several Governors have not so far been followed by substantial results. I earnestly request Government to go again into the question of securing fair representation of candidates from non-Brahmin classes in the public services especially when the prospect of having a self-autonomous Presidency is drawing nearer, so that they may get confidence that their interests in this respect will not be affected. I must congratulate the Muhammadans on bestirring themselves and getting the Government to recognise their claims, but so far both Government and the other sections of the House have not done the same so far as our claims for a due share in the public service is concerned.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: Sir, I consider myself fortunate that the departments in my charge have escaped criticism of any description whatever at the hands of this honourable House. In fact, had it not been for the two suggestions made by the honourable member Dr. Gilder, it would not have been probably necessary for me to get up to speak at all.

Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN: I am going to make some remarks.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The honourable member Dr. Gilder made two suggestions. One referred to the abolition of the post of expert alienist at the Thana mental hospital and the other to the doing away with the civil surgeoncy at Thana and substituting instead a man from the B.M.S. With regard to the first, I may inform the honourable member that the matter is being considered by Government. With regard to the latter, I must confess that I have not devoted any thought to the question. The honourable member seems to think that regard being had to the comparative non-importance of Thana as the district headquarters and also to the fact of its being in close proximity to Bombay, Thana might well be placed under a B.M.S. officer. In that connection all I can say at the present moment is that I shall be glad to give my careful consideration to the suggestion, which he has made and, if administratively feasible, I shall be glad to carry out his suggestion.

I understand from the honourable member from Sholapur (Dr. Vaishampayan) that he is going to say something about the medical department, but I am sorry that having got up now, I shall not have, at least during the next day, an opportunity of satisfying his curiosity.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: On a point of information, Sir. In the budget it is stated that the post of Superintendent of the mental hospital has been abolished. The Honourable Minister just now said that it is under consideration. May I take it that what is in the budget is still under consideration?

[Dr. M. D. Gilder]

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The post has been already abolished and the Superintendent of the mental hospital is under notice now. But when I say that the question is being reconsidered, it means that a supplementary provision will have to be made in the event of Government deciding to re-engage the alienist and to renew his contract.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA (Bombay City, South): Mr. President, the budget that has been presented to this honourable House on behalf of the Government by the Honourable the Finance Member may, to my mind, well be characterised as an open confession which is good for the soul. It is good I daresay, for the soul of Government. It is good, I believe, for the soul of the Honourable the Finance Member. I may assure the honourable House it is good for my soul and let me sincerely hope it is good for the soul of the body politic which is now sitting in deliberation over the selfsame budget on the floor of this House. Sir, an ordinary confession obviously connotes sins of omission and commission, but an open confession, whatever else it may signify, portrays a sort of serious atonement even for acts for which the responsibility does not lie. This latter is exactly the situation in which, to a very great extent, Government are just now in. If only this honourable House will bear with me for a few, short minutes with an open and unbiassed mind, I shall amplify my statement and give proof for the correctness of the same.

Sir, the Honourable the Finance Member, in the very first paragraph of his budget speech, has clearly indicated how from the latter half of the year 1930-31 trouble started with economic depression from which the presidency has since been suffering in common with the world at large. The evidence of this I shall give just now. The closing balance for the year was expected to be Rs. 113 lakhs; but what with the fall in land revenue and irrigation dues to the tune of Rs. 48 lakhs,—and here I may incidentally mention a word on behalf of Government, that this was due to remissions and kindly treatment given to the agriculturists on account of the fall in commodity prices—what with the fall in excise revenue to the tune of Rs. 8 lakhs, and in forest revenue to the tune of Rs. 5 lakhs, amounting in all to Rs. 64 lakhs, the closing balance was reduced to Rs. 77 lakhs, out of which the Honourable the Finance Member most candidly and openly admits Rs. 75 lakhs were from the Famine Relief Fund. Further, in the current year, 1931-32, the same adverse forces have been at work in a more vigorous manner. Government, it must be admitted, had no control whatever on this fall in revenue, and it went on falling to an even larger extent than in the year previous. The Honourable the Finance Member informs us that land revenue fell by Rs. 19 lakhs, irrigation dues by Rs. 35 lakhs, stamp revenue by Rs. 10 lakhs, forest revenue by Rs. 12 lakhs, and under minor heads there was a fall in revenue of Rs. 8 lakhs, amounting to a total fall of Rs. 84 lakhs as compared with the Rs. 64 lakhs of the year previous. Sir, I take it that the statement I have made, that the responsibility for this downward trend of the presidency's finances does not lie upon the shoulders of Government, is correct.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Sir, the next most important question that arises is a question that happened to be asked in the fore part of this session by one of the honourable members on this side of the House: what efforts have Government made towards combating this downward trend of the presidency's finances? Sir, we have been assured by the Honourable the Finance Member that in 1931-32 the deficit was Rs. 61 lakhs, and he has shown us on the first page of his speech that an honest and forceful attempt was made to effect savings to the utmost possible extent. Under General Administration Rs. 9 lakhs were saved, under Police Rs. 4 lakhs were saved, and under Civil Works Rs. 9 lakhs were saved. This year, as we may read on page 3 of the Honourable the Finance Member's budget speech, an even more forceful attempt and a bigger effort has been made towards economy with the result that the savings effected are decidedly on a larger scale than the previous year. The savings amount to Rs. 137 lakhs. The items under which savings are effected are given in detail. Incidentally, before I leave the subject of the items and savings, lest I should forget to refer to it later on, I would draw the attention of the honourable House that a fair amount of the savings effected are under items which are nation-building in character. I would heartily wish, and it would be my greatest desire, that somehow or other the major portion of the burden of the savings thus effected may be piled on the non-nation-building departments in the list.

The nation-building departments obviously are Education, Medical and Agriculture. Under these three heads there is a saving of Rs. 27 lakhs, Rs. 3 lakhs and Rs. 4 lakhs, respectively. The major portion of these Rs. 34 lakhs might have been distributed under Bombay Development, Stationery and Printing, Excise, Forest and Irrigation. [Laughter.] I hear a laugh on the other side. It may be taken that standing here as a medical man, I am crying out my own wares, but there is no doubt, and my honourable friend will admit that, after all, the three items I have mentioned come under the heading: nation-building departments, whereas the others do not strictly do so. If therefore I make a claim on behalf of these departments, I feel I am justified in doing so.

I have indicated, Sir, that this year there has been a more honest and a more forceful attempt on the part of Government to exercise strict economy. But, Sir, in addition to these savings effected, Government gave a further thorough earnest of their desire to do their best by the finances of the presidency. A Retrenchment Committee was appointed. First of all, an ad interim report of the committee was published, and on the ad interim report a saving of Rs. 59 lakhs was effected. Then we had the final report of the Retrenchment Committee, resulting in a saving of Rs. 58,26,725. I feel, Sir, that Government have gone a great way in their efforts to safeguard the finances, by combating the downward trend of the finances of the presidency. These are obvious facts which I place before those who care to read them—facts mentioned in the statement that was put in our hands the day before yesterday. In addition to the ad interim and final reports of the Retrenchment Committee, Government have effected a further saving by carrying out retrenchment not included in the Retrenchment Committee's report of a sum amounting to Rs. 37,06,528. In all, by the three methods I have explained there has been a saving of Rs. 1,54,89,193. Well, Sir, if after this, conviction is not struck into the minds of a section of the honourable House in regard to the anxiety of and the honest efforts made by Government to safeguard the interests of the finances of the presidency, all I can say is, broadly speaking, I might as well try and convince a wall.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Sir, I feel I must admit, as against this, there have been lapses in the form of excesses here and there. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Chitale mentioned in his speech the case of Rs. 15,82,00,000 spent during the course of the last 12 years on providing buildings for officers of Government.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: It is absolutely incorrect.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA: I am glad that the Honourable the Finance Member says it is incorrect. I wish he had mentioned this to my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Chitale when he made that statement. Possibly he let it go by then to take it up seriously when his time comes. That is what the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale said, that Rs. 15,82,00,000 were sunk during the course of the last 12 years on erecting buildings for Government officers. Now, 12 years is practically past history. I would like the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale to put his hand on his heart and say whether such a thing has happened within the course of the last three years. The period on the other side of the last three years, so far as the present Council is concerned, may be considered past history. What we are concerned with and what we ought to enquire into now is: what has been done, what efforts have been made towards curtailing expenditure in the course of the last three years? There is no doubt that every effort,—as I have indicated just now and as has been indicated in the speeches of the Honourable the Finance Member,—an honest attempt has been made year after year to effect savings, wherever possible, in the expenditure of this presidency.

Coming now to the battle cry of my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham: he says the finances of the presidency are dependent on peace, retrenchment and reforms. I personally would like to making a small alteration. I feel that the battle cry of the moment should be peace, undoubtedly, trade revival, re-organisation and reconstruction of the administrative machinery, and last but not least the revision of the provincial settlement. These are the items which are going to stand by us in the betterment and improvement of the finances of the presidency. Regarding peace, Sir, I do not know where the dove remains encaged. But let us hope that sooner or later, better sooner than later, he will find his way out of the cage and hover over this presidency in his wonted manner. Regarding trade revival, the sine qua non for the betterment of the finances of the presidency, I would refer to the statement made by His Excellency the Governor, when he appealed to the Bombay merchants not to lend a helping hand to the forces of disorder that prevail. Said His Excellency, "Sanity lies in keeping politics and business apart." Sir, it is said that on trade depend the finances and well-being of the presidency, and nothing can alter it. It is a statement which is absolutely correct. Unless the Bombay merchants co-operate to keep business away from politics, it will be impossible to set the finances of this presidency on a sound footing. One thing that strikes me, and this is that the idea of trying to cripple Government by preventing a trade revival is surely the absurd policy of cutting off the nose to spite the face. Referring to the third factor, re-organization and reconstruction, I must say that the announcement made by the Honourable the Finance Member, regarding the appointment of an expert committee to go into the re-organization and reconstruction of the administrative machinery of Government, is most welcome. We may fully expect that this committee will do its level best to set the finances of the presidency in good order. I quite agree with my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham who paid a high compliment to the chairman who is to preside over the expert committee.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Lastly, regarding the revision of the provincial settlement, there is the equally welcome news that our honourable member the Finance Secretary is shortly to go on a deputation before the Federal Finance Committee to settle the matter on behalf of the Bombay Presidency. I heartily endorse the view of the honourable member Mr. Winterbotham when he says that the Bombay Government could not have selected a better financial medium for the important negotiation.

Before I resume my seat, I feel I must say a word or two about the suggestion offered by my honourable friend Mr. Petit in regard to the Electricity Bill. He has suggested that under the Electricity Act it may be possible to get from the B. E. S. T. Company itself what Government is seeking to obtain from the consumers. I would earnestly appeal to the Honourable the Finance Member to give a serious thought to this suggestion so that the burden may not fall on the poor consumer. I understand that it costs the B. E. S. T. 6·1 pies per unit and they charge Re. 0-4-0. The profit they are evidently making is large. If Government could arrange to obtain the contribution they need from this profit it would be a great benefit to consumers.

With reference to the information asked by my honourable friend Dr. Gilder in regard to the abolition of appointment of the Superintendent of the Naupada Mental Hospital, I quite agree with him that as a large number of poor and indigent people go there for treatment, the services of a specialist must be retained.

My last word is to introduce a suggestion which I personally believe would go a great way in solving the difficult problem of the presidency's finances. We medical men believe in the theory that desperate diseases call for desperate remedies. This theory is based more on commonsense than on the high lines of the medical science. There is no doubt that the House will agree with me that the finances of the presidency are suffering from a desperate disease. Commonsense suggests that the remedy should be drastic. The drastic remedy I therefore suggest is a Sweep-stake run by the State on the lines of the Irish Hospital Sweep-stake. It may be said that such a procedure may verge on the immoral, but I may be permitted to remind the honourable House that a procedure more or less on the same lines was adopted during the world war under the patronage of His Excellency Lord Willingdon, then Governor of Bombay.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Mr. G. WILES: Sir, during eight long and interesting years I have been serving the Bombay Government in the Finance Department. At moments when I listen to yet one more debate on the budget, I am inclined to look on them as long and weary years. Years ago, I described myself as a humble cobbler in the finances of this presidency. I am still cobbling, according to the ability which has been given me. We have done our best to put before the House the financial position; presenting the budget as intelligently as we can. It is a little disappointing to have our efforts referred to as "masterly manipulations." But the masterliness of the Finance Department has been employed solely in arranging the Blue Book, not for the purpose of concealing the position but for revealing it. Every budget that I have known has been "disappointing,"—I suppose every budget must be disappointing to somebody or other. It has become a routine matter for honourable members to open their speeches with the phrase, "I cannot congratulate the Finance Member." I am going to make an appeal to honourable members to try and get away from the past and look into the facts confronting us and the future. I wish to support most heartily this attitude of my honourable friend from Poona, Mr. Kamat. We have now reached a stage which has long been foreseen by every one who has studied the finances of the presidency carefully. It has come, in spite of all efforts to withstand the flood. It has come more quickly and devastatingly, because of the world situation. Once again I say, let us face the facts. Let us abandon these recriminations about what has happened in the past. How are you going to benefit the presidency by urging wearily, "extravagance, extravagance, all is extravagance?" I ask you to satisfy yourselves, we have given you every opportunity of doing it, that Government have done their utmost to set their house in order and have only come to you now with a demand for fresh taxation, after doing their utmost to meet the situation. If we are to have discussions of the past, I would only ask that the discussion shall relate to facts and not to fancy; and that honourable members who criticize shall use their weapons fairly and not misinterpret. Misinterpretation may be either deliberate or may be due to want of study. The statements which have been put year after year in the Blue Book do not change very much; they are only brought up to date. I do not think it is fair for honourable members to complain that they have not had time to study them. That may very well relate to the budget of the future. As regards the past the information is there and there is no excuse for not understanding it. I sympathise very much with those members who complain that they do not get time to study the budget figures; and do not expect them to know them as well as the Finance Department, who takes months to prepare them. But it is not practical politics to give you the budget at an earlier date. Whether it will be possible under the new constitution I cannot say. So long as it has to be passed before the end of March, it is not possible for us to give you longer time for study than we do to-day.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

I am going to refer now very briefly to some criticisms which were made by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale. In spite of what I have said about ignoring the past they were so wrong and have been given such publicity that I think it is my duty to correct them. He refers to the last Appropriation Report of the Accountant General and read what he said was "a criticism of the extravagance of the Bombay Government" during past years in having spent Rs. 15,82,00,000 in housing its officers. I will read out the exact wording. The Accountant General in explaining the debt position of the presidency pointed out a liability of 66 crores, against which there are assets amounting to 25 crores which reduces the outstanding debt of the Bombay Government to 40 crores. He goes on to say:

"As against this, the book value of the Irrigation and Navigation estate of Government was Rs. 2,803 lakhs and of residential and other buildings Rs. 1,582 lakhs. These assets have not necessarily all been created by expenditure from loan funds but they exist at the credit of the Bombay Government and may be taken as a set-off to the debts."

That is interpreted as "criticism of the extravagance of the Bombay Government in housing its officers." These are assets, worth Rs. 15,82,00,000 which have been built up from the time of our grandfathers and great grandfathers. It is the book value of the whole of Bombay Government's possessions and buildings. For the information of the honourable member, I have obtained from the Accountant General the actual book value of residential buildings out of the Rs. 15,82,00,000. It is Rs. 3,70,00,000. That is the book value of the residential buildings throughout the Presidency.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: How am I wrong?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: You are wrong ten times over.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Fifteen crores are sunk which do not bring any return.

Mr. G. WILES: I am repeating that this asset of 15 crores worth of buildings has been built up not from our borrowings but from our revenue year after year. That is the total book value of our possessions. It is not money "sunk", as the honourable member used that term: nor was it used in building residences. Since the reforms, very little expenditure has been incurred. If the honourable member refers to a statement in the Blue Book, which is put in for his information, he will find that since the reforms were introduced less than 5½ crores have been sunk, I use his own word, in expenditure for "other purposes," that is, for purposes other than irrigation. Five crores have been spent: that includes everything that is spent for "other purposes", not for buildings and officers' residences, but everything—roads, bridges, offices, katcheris—throughout the whole presidency. I will only ask, when I put these facts before the House that the honourable member should remove the film of prejudice which causes him to see the figures with such a jaundiced eye. They are susceptible of easy explanation.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

Arising out of this, is the whole debt position of the Bombay Government. Here again, I must take exception to the way in which it is sometimes very carelessly referred to by members on the other side. Once again, I refer to one of those statements which take the Finance Department such a long time to prepare, and put before them for their information. It is worth studying. The seventy-one crores of debt is not only the debt of the Bombay Government: that has been explained many times. If you are going to compare the seventy-one crores with our revenue, you must add to that revenue the whole revenue of the Bombay Municipality, the Improvement Trust and the Port Trust, because their borrowings amount to 20 crores in all. So that, our net outstanding debt at the end of this year is 50 crores. The honourable member has insinuated that with that "masterly" touch of mine I have done something to reduce the apparent cost of this debt. I have done nothing of the kind. The interest charges on these fifty crores are 2,69 lakhs. Here it is in black and white: that is the amount paid as interest charges. The burden on the province is less than that, for the obvious reason that a considerable portion of this 50 crores is productive debt. If we invest our monies in productive schemes, are we not entitled to take credit for the production?

In the same way, I would ask the honourable member to consider carefully whether the figures (which unfortunately I was unable to write down) which he gave of the outstanding debt of other provinces are correct. He compared our figure of 71 crores, if I remember right, with 10 crores of the United Provinces and 2 crores of Bengal. They are the only two figures which remain in my mind. The actual figures which I have taken out from the Government of India Accounts are rather different:—

Madras	..	..15½ crores.
Bengal	..	.. 2½ crores.
United Provinces	..	.. 30 crores.
Punjab	..	.. 30 crores.
Burma	..	.. 2½ crores.
Bihar and Orissa	..	.. A little over 6 crores.
Central Provinces and Berar		.. A little below 6 crores.

While on the subject of statistics and comparison with other provinces, I wish to sound a note of warning about the too easy use of "per capita" statistics. My honourable friend from Poona (Mr. Kamat) put his finger on the spot when he pointed out that the real value of "per capita" statistics depends entirely on the composition of the "heads" of the population. Per capita statistics have their full value only when you have complete homogeneity of population. We know that the population in India is decidedly less homogeneous than that of any other country in the world. So, per capita statistics may be perfectly meaningless. This does not mean to say that they may not be of some value as a rough guide to the incidence of taxation when we compare provinces which probably have the same amount of homogeneity.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale referred again to his remarks of last year about salaries and the need for reduction. I was not quite certain what conclusion he wished us to draw, but I have taken him to mean that salaries in future must follow the ordinary market rates of commercial life, as the salaries paid to-day are in many cases excessive. That is, of course, very true. The revision of scales was one of the first things that the Retrenchment Committee set themselves to, and they have been published in the second volume of the Retrenchment Committee's report; these have been accepted by Government and have been put into operation. It must be some time before they can affect the budget.

This brings me to my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik from Surat, who criticised Government for the large proportion which salaries bear to our total expenditure. Now, has any of the honourable members ever thought out what proportion of Government expenditure must be salaries? Take this budget, take every major head one after the other, and you will see that the great bulk of it is composed of salaries. The expenses of Government must be mostly salaries. Practically the only exception to that rule is the Public Works and Irrigation. It is really no criticism at all against the activities of Government to say that too large a proportion of the expenses is on salaries. You cannot have too large a proportion. That does not mean that no retrenchment is possible. I do not want you to assume that. But we cannot get retrenchment by cutting indefinitely the scales of pay. The only way in which you can now get retrenchment is by reorganisation, by scaling down the salaries in the future and by reducing the personnel of the administration. That you must realise must hit very heavily somebody or other.

In spite of the Honourable the Finance Member's speech, I still find a little misapprehension about what retrenchment has been effected. The note which is given at the end of the pamphlet which has been distributed to you shows the amount of retrenchment which has been effected under the three heads (1) ad interim report, (2) final report, and (3) carried out by Government without the report. You cannot add those three together. I do not want anybody to go under the impression that you can add them together and say that is the total, because some of the retrenchments that were carried out as a result of the ad interim report has been incorporated in the second report.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

I have taken out what I think is the figure. It amounts to about 40 lakhs. So that, the net retrenchment is 40 lakhs plus 58 lakhs plus 73 lakhs, which roughly speaking gives the 136 lakhs, with last year's budget, referred to in the Finance Member's speech. In dealing with retrenchment, I have seen it several times stated in the Press that the 1,21 lakhs recommended by the Retrenchment Committee is permanent retrenchment and that it cannot be understood why Government has not put it into force. That is a misapprehension. The permanent retrenchment recommended by the Retrenchment Committee was only 38 lakhs, and 1,21 lakhs was the emergency retrenchment which they thought could be put into force for the next year. As a matter of fact, the emergent retrenchments which Government have put into force, although they are not the same as those recommended by the Retrenchment Committee, do amount to approximately the same figure. I do not think, Sir, that this can be called, as one honourable member said, tinkering with retrenchment. I called myself a cobbler, but I do know enough about tinkering to understand that you cannot "tinker" with an axe of the size which has been applied to our finances.

Let me repeat, before I sit down, my plea to get down to facts. I claim to know something of what I am speaking about, and I am perfectly certain that Bombay cannot go on in the way it is going on to-day without some additional resources. You may call it a tale of woe, but that does not remedy matters. You cannot go on administering a great province by retrenchment any more than you can go on governing it by ordinances. [Honourable Members: "Hear, hear."] The facts are that the revenues, low as they are—and they could hardly be lower—cannot be raised by any juggling in figures. What benefit is it going to be to this Presidency to juggle with the figures of land revenue? I was delighted to hear our honourable friend from Surat (Rao Bahadur Dixit) say that the land revenue is coming in so well in Surat. But the fact that the ryots there are running to the treasury to pay their dues, does not mean that we are going to get more than our average revenue. After all, Surat is a comparatively small part of the Presidency.

My honourable friend Mr. Kamat is under a little misapprehension about the figure of revenue from Sind. He thinks that when we have put in 13 lakhs of expenditure on one side, it ought to be more than covered by the revenue from the other side. I think he has overlooked the fact that the Sindhi does not pay for his water. There is no "sale of water" in Sind. Sindhis are in the lucky position of having a land settlement just as you have in the Deccan, and however large a quantity of water he may use, he does not pay any more for it. That is a system which, as you know, was referred to as being somewhat anomalous by the expert committee that enquired into the finances of Sind. Those are the facts. It is not possible for us to put into the budget any exact sum from the sale of water, because we do not sell it. But such revenue as we may get in the first year is included in the land revenue estimates. It is not so big as we had hoped, because our engineers told us that in the first year the water which is let into the new canals is not of great use to the irrigators. Of course, if I am wrong, my friends the engineers will correct me—

[Mr. G. Wiles]

Mr. PESTANSHAH N. VAKIL: What is the meaning of giving them the Barrage, if we are not getting any revenue from it?

Mr. G. WILES: The Barrage is going to last more than next year, we hope. I am referring only to the first time that water is being let into dry land.

The steady increase of our unavoidable expenditure has helped to bring us to the position we are in to-day, coupled as it is with a fall in our revenue which the Honourable the Finance Member put very nearly at a crore of rupees. Honourable members who have studied the first statement in the Blue Book will see that that statement is approximately correct.

My honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham has referred to the fact that I am going next week to Delhi to give evidence before the Federal Finance Committee. The Federal Finance Committee is only a section of the Round Table Conference. It is not quite true to say that the Federal Finance Committee is going to settle the finances of India, but it will make recommendations to the Round Table Conference and it is of the utmost importance that the case of the Bombay Presidency for the revision of the settlement should be put before them with all the force of which we are capable. The honourable member Mr. Winterbotham has supported me in my appeal for the support of this Council in what I am about to undertake. I wonder if this honourable House realises our position to-day in the matter of our share of the revenues of India. Perhaps an illustration will tell more than much talk. Bombay is very largely an urban province—more so than most provinces in India. If you take a typical inhabitant of Bombay—a clerk, say, drawing Rs. 100 a month, it has been estimated that he pays in total taxation Rs. 46-5-0 a year. Out of that, 5 annas go to the Bombay Government and Rs. 46 is distributed—Rs. 15 to the Central Government and the balance to the Bombay Municipality.

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA: That is not quite correct.

Mr. G. WILES: As those honourable members who have read the proceedings of the Round Table Conference are aware, it has been proposed that in the new settlement between the Federal Government that is to be and the provinces, the whole of the income tax should be distributed between the provinces in a certain proportion. The exact manner of the distribution is yet to be determined. If this hope comes to fruition, then there is reason to hope for our finances in future. But you ought not to go away with the idea that this can easily be brought about in the very near future; as you know, the finances of the Government of India are very nearly as bad as our own. At the moment it is impossible for them to give up the whole of the income tax to the provinces without getting something in return every year. Whether this can be done by an adjustment of taxation or by the re-introduction of the system of provincial contributions is another matter which remains to be discussed. But it is in the discussion that the needs of Bombay must be put forward. If we are going to get the income tax, we are probably going to pay large sums again in the form of contributions. It is of the utmost importance that we should make it perfectly clear what our needs are and what steps we have taken to meet them from our own resources. It is not going to be much support to me to have to report at Delhi that the opinion of the Legislative Council is that we have not carried out retrenchments to the extent that we should and that it is possible to balance the budget "very easily", without any taxation. Therefore, Sir, I appeal to this House to support the Honourable the Finance Member in the budget which he has put forward and to co-operate—to use the expression which some honourable members have already used—with us in doing our utmost to put our house in order before we appeal to the Federal Government of India. [Applause.]

[Mr. G. Wiles]

Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN (Sholapur City): Sir, the honourable member the Finance Secretary has, in his masterly way, told us that there was no further scope for retrenchment. I would point out, as a layman, that there are so many posts like the Divisional Commissioners' posts which are practically doing nothing but the work of a post office. Then there is the post of Director of Information who is not doing anything else but publishes news which is given in the Anglo-Indian papers. Then the Director of Public Health, who merely collects statistics from the districts and sits in his chair in his office and does nothing. This work could easily be done by sub-assistant surgeons in the districts. But I am not going to deal with all this because the Gauntlett Committee is being appointed very soon and we shall watch its results and then say whether we should vote for the new taxation proposals or not.

When His Excellency addressed this House the other day, he said that his Cabinet would be reduced to 4—2 Executive Councillors and 2 Ministers. I will ask one plain question and it is: when is it going to take place? If we find the will and the courage on the part of Government to remedy its defects, we shall not shirk from our responsibility in extending our hand of sympathy and friendship.

Turning to the medical side of the budget, I would like to point out to the Honourable Minister that at present the poor taxpayer in the district is charged for the medicines which he takes from the civil hospital—let it be one anna or half anna. This practice ought to be abandoned as early as possible.

Then, as the honourable member Dr. Gilder has already pointed out, with regard to the post of Mental Diseases Specialist at the Thana mental hospital, the Honourable Minister has given us an assurance that he is re-considering the question. I am therefore not going to speak on that.

As regards the Indian Medical Service I have to say a few words. The recruitment to this service should immediately be stopped. We find that there are eminent men amongst us who are more efficient than the present civil surgeons.

[Dr. V. G. Vaishampayan]

The number of beds has been reduced in a number of hospitals in the mofussil as well as in Bombay city proper. The retrenchment committee ought not to have touched this part of the nation-building department which is an essential duty of the Government to help the poor.

If the Government really want nationalists to rally round them, let the ordinances be withdrawn, as the lathis and bullets do not make any distinction between a loyalist and a congressman. It is by these ordinances that Government are forcing people to become congressmen against their will. I would therefore urge that the emergency ordinances should be withdrawn and a peaceful atmosphere created, so that the seed of hatred may not be deeply sown into the hearts of the younger generation.

Lastly, I have to say that if they want revenue to come to Government, they must act in the way suggested by a number of honourable members since yesterday. With these few remarks I resume my seat.

Khan Bahadur GHULAM NABI SHAH (Thar Parkar District) (Addressed the House in Urdu): Mr. President, the Honourable the Finance Member has presented a Budget showing a deficit of Rs. 73 lakhs. Last year also the budget presented showed a deficit of one crore and odd lakhs of rupees. I am unable to understand for how many years the Honourable the Finance Member will go on proposing deficit budgets and requesting the Honourable House to sanction fresh and fresh taxation bills. If there is any happy class of people in these days of depression, it is the services. Government can conveniently reduce number of posts in services.

The fall in prices of agricultural products has rendered the position of Zamindars very pitiable. The prices of such commodities have been reduced to one-third of their former value. The people of Sind, including those of Thar and Parkar District, want assessment to be reduced to 50 per cent. as it was originally fixed on different and high valuation of market values of agricultural products. To my mind that much reduction appears quite reasonable. The Governments of the Punjab and the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh have reduced the assessment in their respective areas from 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. The conditions in Sind are far worse. I beseech Government to consider this point very dispassionately and not drive the peasantry to desperation. The Honourable the Revenue Member was pleased to announce the rebate in the remission in the Presidency proper only. As far as Sind is concerned he is still awaiting the report from the Commissioner in Sind. I cannot help remarking that the condition in Sind is very bad generally, and particularly that of Thar and Parkar district which is indebted to the extent of Rs. 50 lakhs only to Government and co-operative department. Loking to the low rates of grain, I feel it would be too great a hardship upon zamindars to bear, if the assessment is not reduced by 50 per cent. at least.

[Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah]

I would like to bring it to the notice of the Honourable the Minister for Education that our district has only one high school. The public of Thar and Parkar has been crying for many years for even a decent building to house the school. His Excellency the Governor during his visit to that part of Sind remarked in the visitors book about the necessity of a building for the High School. In spite of that, I am sorry to submit, Sir, that Government has made no provision in the budget for it. The Honourable Minister is also one of the elected members and it is his duty to impress upon the Honourable the Finance Member the necessity for funds for this building. I am surprised that despite the deficit budget and in the teeth of opposition of the entire block of Sind's representatives in this Honourable House, Government can find lakhs of rupees for constructing buildings at Dadu and quarters for police in Thar and Parkar amidst the sandy desert and sandy hills at exceptionally great costs. Where is the necessity for these in these most critical times ? But, Sir, this Government cannot find funds for providing a school building for poor boys who are suffering for want of suitable accommodation. This in spite of insistent demand for the last 7 or 8 years.

The Mussalmans are being thrown out of Government service; officials say, because of need for retrenchment and further is the plea, for their bad record. To this, Sir, my humble submission to Government is that if and when they do wish to dispense with any one in the services for either of the above reasons, they must frame charges and give to the party concerned a chance to vindicate his position or explain. And if after such explanation Government feels satisfied that his services are no longer desired they may do so. I must urge at this stage, Sir, that Government must fulfil its verbal and written promises and declared policy for giving 50 per cent. posts to Mussalmans in Sind. Till now these have remained dead letter in practice of Government while making appointments. An honest and serious effort is required from Government to convince us that Government means business and is sincere in its professions. If it is expedient, as a measure of retrenchment, that Government should reduce number of Government servants, they should retire those incumbents of various posts who have already put in 30 years or even 25 years of service so that the younger Mussalmans may be able to continue in service till their quota of 50 per cent. is completed. But what do we find, Sir, is that even some Officers are being maintained, due to undue influence or reasons best known to Government, even after they have reached age limit or 30 years of service. Is this justice to younger people ? I have been reminded here of an instance as to the treatment meted out to Mussalmans in various branches of Government service in Sind. A Mussalman servant was reduced by Rao Bahadur Jagat Singh, Collector of Thar and Parkar District presumably according to usual official practice in Sind with regard to such matters. But when the true facts were brought to the notice of the Collector, R. B. Jagat Singh, that just and fair officer, after a thorough investigation found the man to be absolutely innocent and undeserving of any punishment and restored him to his original post and confirmed him in that appointment. But I am sorry to say that, even in such an instance, that man has again received a notice of termination of services. I beg to emphasise, Sir, that our district has hardly produced half a dozen graduates uptil now, in this long long period of efforts of education department in Sind, for want of facilities for secondary and higher education in Thar and Parkar District, and if these young graduates are turned out of service and discharged in the manner described above, I venture to say that it would deal a blow to our efforts for inducing people who are poor, to take advantage of higher education and improve their economic condition on account of prospects of Government service prescribed for qualified men. If this discouragement is continued in the above fashion and it appears it is going to last for ever, the Mussulmans will remain entirely unrepresented in the services and the consequence of it would be what can be imagined on account of complete domination of one small community over an overwhelming Muslim population of Sind. We already have had very bad results and Government can very well see it in the utmost poverty and pitiable ignorance of Mussulmans of Sind. It is no fault of Mussulmans who are living outside cities and towns to have taken late to education as they were deprived of all facilities for education by the action of Education Department in Sind by providing Schools in Municipal towns only. The result is that the services are flooded with overrepresentation of our sister community which again now does not like to lose its monopoly of it and does not like members of Muslim community entering services. Even when a Mussulman by stroke of fortune gets a job, he is soon dislodged from it by the device of Hindu superiors. The tale of this is told daily in this honourable House by the paucity of figures of Muslim employees in Government service as supplied by Government in answers to questions. It is far from me to suggest that all Hindus are alike. There are very many honourable exceptions who treat Mussulmans with fairness and justice, but the vast majority of them are so prejudiced that they victimise the Mussulman subordinates to retain the monopoly for their community. And thus our economic and educational backwardness continues and we are being impoverished by a particular oligarchy. This cannot be rectified unless a special and honest effort is made by Government to appoint Mussulmans to the extent of at least 50 per cent. as heads of offices.

[Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah]

I like to draw the attention of the Honourable the General Member that the Punjabi Mussulman servants of Government in Sind are being driven out of service simply because they belong to the Punjab which is not a part of this Presidency. I feel it will be very hard on those servants of Government to drive them out now after a long, honest and meritorious service. I am strongly of opinion that Mussulmans of Sind should have preference over all communities. But as there is not a sufficient number of Sindhi Mussulmans there, the Muslim recruitment should be extended to Presidency Muslims and then Muslims from all over India. Mussulmans of Sind do not desire to oppose employment of

[Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah]

Mussulmans of other places in India, provided it is not to their own exclusion. It is the undue influence of the sister community that is at the bottom of turning out Punjabi Mussulmans. According to teachings of our holy religion all Muslims are brothers. It is said in the holy book of God in Koran that "کل مومنین اخوت" all believers are brothers. Therefore the Mussulmans are entitled to their share of representation in the services and their places should not be filled by any other community. Mussulmans should be appointed to them be they from the Punjab or any other part of India if Sindhi Muslims are not available. Even the fate of India is being decided and powers being transferred today on the basis of proportion of different communities in India. It is a point of special note by Government that many Punjabi Mussulmans have settled and naturalised in Thar and Parkar District of Sind after the construction of Jamrao Canal in 1902. They are watching this policy of Government of excluding Punjabi Mussulmans with great concern and painful feelings. I would therefore beg of the Honourable the General Member to give appointment to the Muslims of Punjab in preference to other communities and he should not permit his subordinates to turn them out of it, after having kept them in it for so many years.

After the passing of the Irrigation Act, in 1931, I like to bring it to the attention of Government, Sir, that the zamindars have been very much handicapped on account of the Act providing the officers of the Public Works Department with weapons to harass the zamindars. Of course, it depends upon the individual officers how they desire to operate the Act. Some officers do take a liberal view whereas many others are autocratic and fail to understand the intentions of Government and the spirit underlying such an Act. I wish all the Executive Engineers would work in same harmony and sympathy with the zamindars as is being done by Mr. Menesse, the Executive Engineer, Fuleli Canals. And then zamindars will hardly have any cause to complain. I am sure that the Chief Engineers and the Superintending Engineers will make every effort to see that justice and fairness are done to zamindars.

In the end I will request the Honourable the General Member and the honourable member the Secretary to Government, Irrigation Department, to kindly instruct the district officers-in-charge of Mithrao Canal that they should provide for rice cultivation and so design the modules so as to give sufficient water for maturing rice crops for such lands, on Mithrao Canal, as have yielded rice cultivation since 1900. The attempts at conversion of these rice tracts to any crops would reduce the yield, so much so that there would be no income to zamindars. Moreover the zamindars will suffer because of the price of land being affected considerably which may practically ruin them. I am afraid many of them may seek legal redress if driven to desperation if Government did not pay attention to my this reasonable request made on behalf of them here.

Mr. V. A. SURVE (Ratnagiri District) (Addressed the House in Marathi): On a careful examination of the budget for the year 1932-33 presented before the Council for its approval by the Honourable the Finance Member, any one can point out that the amounts on the debit side far exceed those on the credit side.

The figures on the credit side for the last twelve years, i.e., from the year 1921-22 to the year of the present budget are with a few variations almost the same; that means that revenue has not decreased. The actual collection from land revenue in the year 1930-31 comes to Rs. 4,74,45,000 and the budget estimates for the year 1931-32 place the amount at Rs. 5,05,96,000; while in the revised estimates it is shown to be Rs. 4,86,92,000. The amount of Rs. 4,88,48,000 has been shown in the estimates as the total amount of collection of land revenue in the next year, and the same item has been shown to amount to Rs. 4,46,34,000 on page 25 (Sic) of the book containing detailed estimates. Amounts on the debit side under this head are always shown in excess every year. The amount of expenditure under this head has been shown in the blue book as Rs. 64,94,000 for the year 1930-31, while Rs. 71,25,000 have been shown as the amount of expenditure for the year 1931-32. For the next year, however, only estimates have been made.

The cut in the expenditure on primary education made in the present budget is opposed to the principles of justice and equity. An amount of Rs. 1,30,16,972 was spent on primary education in the year 1930-31, but a great cry was raised that the amount spent was quite inadequate to meet the demand for primary education in the Bombay presidency. Despite this fact, the above amount was reduced by five per cent. in the all round retrenchment of the last year. After deducting this percentage the Educational Authorities had set aside the sum of Rs. 1,25,60,000 towards primary education as shown in the revised estimates. The budget estimates for the ensuing year placed before the Council show that the amount of Rs. 1,07,27,000 is to be spent on primary education; that means that the amount is less than the one spent last year by Rs. 18,23,000. Thus for the sake of maintaining peace and inviting co-operation the Government of Bombay is devising such measures as would tend to deprive the children of peasants of their education and place the primary teachers in worse than half-starved condition in service. Under the Primary Education Act, which was passed in the year 1923, Government made it obligatory on itself to contribute 2/3rds of the amount decided upon by the local boards to be spent on education, etc., but this very Government is now evading to pay the extra cost incurred by the boards. This goes to show how far Government cares to observe the rules of law and equity, and how it sets the people to think on the question. From this very budget it can be shown how Government manages to show deficit in its budget estimates. The (actual) income realised from excise department in the year 1930-31 is Rs. 3,04,35,644; and it is estimated for the current year at Rs. 3,35,79,000. The debit side shows that an amount of Rs. 10,31,000 has been estimated in excess of the ordinary expenditure.

[Mr. V. A. Surve]

Capital accounts and non-capital accounts—Items Nos. XIII, XIV, XV are the most expensive items in this budget. Out of these three, income realised from the two items, viz., XIII and XIV is shown to be Rs. 38,30,000, and the expenditure charged for these two items is shown at Rs. 1,02,37,000. And if the expenditure on item No. XV, which is non-capital and non-productive, be added to this amount, the total amount spent comes to Rs. 1,53,00,000 per year. After excluding such amount as would be required for public utility, a saving of Rs. 75,00,000 can easily be effected from these three items. It is the pious wish of Government that it should be allowed to spend lavishly on departments which are unnecessary and that people should keep quiet by the fear of its authority and co-operate with it.

From the year 1931-32 retrenchment is being bruited about throughout the presidency; and the salaries of the lower servants who are in a half-starved condition have been reduced at a certain percentage. This Government has, however, shown courage in effecting a similar cut in the fat salaries of its higher servants simply to placate the lower staff. The primary teachers who do not get even a bare living were already affected by the all round retrenchment and a cut of five per cent. was effected in their salaries. But Government does not seem to have been satisfied with that, and, therefore, the amount for primary education has been reduced by Rs. 18,23,000 in this year's budget estimates. It will never be possible to wipe off the deficits in the budgets by effecting retrenchment as proposed by the Bombay Government and recommended by the retrenchment committee. I am constrained to say that Government has ignored the real methods by which retrenchment could have been effected. There are three posts of Deputy Collectors for every district in the Bombay presidency. Of these three posts only one post viz., that of the City Magistrate or the Huzur Deputy (Collector) should be retained and the remaining two posts should be abolished. Similarly all the posts of the Revenue Commissioners in this presidency should be abolished. Only the staff required for keeping the record in the offices of the Revenue Commissioners should be maintained. The post of the Director of Information should altogether be abolished. All the posts of the Police officers subordinate to the Commissioner of Police and superior to the District Superintendent of Police should be done away with. It is also necessary to abolish the posts of Deputy Directors, Assistant Directors, etc., in the office of the Director of Public Instruction, excepting the post of the Director. Similarly all the posts of medical officers in the medical department, subordinate to the Surgeon General and above the rank of the District Civil Surgeons should be entirely abolished. In the Public Works Department all other posts excepting those of the Chief Engineer and the District Executive Engineer should be abolished. It is essential to do away with posts of Engineers in the Public Health Department in these days of financial strigency. One doctor for each laboratory should be the scale fixed for the laboratories in the Bombay presidency; and the rest of the posts should be abolished. Reduction in the strength of the Judicial Department, should, however, be such as would not hamper the work of administering justice. I am of opinion that if Government practise economy as suggested above, it will never get any deficit in its budgets. The Bombay Government has always failed to effect economy as suggested above. His Excellency the Governor, in his address given on the 17th instant, appealed to the members of this Council to co-operate with Government in passing the taxation bills and thus increasing the various taxes. Government expects co-operation of the members in imposing additional taxation on people, but when the representatives of the people table resolutions to consider the situation created by the ordinances in clapping into jails innocent ladies, students and leaders struggling hard for the welfare of the people in this country, those resolutions are disallowed by Government. And with all that His Excellency the Governor holds out his hand in the hope of securing co-operation, but I do not believe that it will receive a sympathetic response from the representatives of the people so long as His Excellency wears on his hand the "tiger's claws" in the form of Ordinances. His Excellency deplores the present state of commercial depression in his address. But this solicitude on His Excellency's part is for the sake of those merchants who can get their grievances redressed with the help of the prime minister. Indians are not now so ignorant as not to understand that this solicitude on His Excellency's part is not for the sake of the merchants in India but for those beyond the seven seas.

[Mr. V. A. Surve]

The Bombay Government is not prepared to discuss with the representatives of the people the resolutions sent in by them on the present situation; and, therefore, Government is not entitled to ask for their co-operation. In meetings convened in cities and Villages in the Bombay Presidency it is being stated on behalf of Government that this Government is taking great pains for ameliorating the condition of agriculturists and Marathas; and has been making all possible efforts so that the interests of these classes may not be affected. But Government will not be able to cite even a single example to show that it has made efforts in the direction of promoting education, industry and arts or of improving the economic condition of these Marathas and agriculturists. The people are now very well aware that these talks are being indulged in simply with the view of misleading them.

The Honourable the Finance Member in introducing the Finance Bill in the Council is trying to make out that the deficit shown in the Budget for the next year cannot be made good without additional taxation.

The Bill is a hotchpotch and proposes a tax on the consumption of electrical energy, immeasurable increase in the Court-fees, immoderate increase in the general Stamp duty, and duty at the rate of two per cent. on Succession Certificates. There is discontent prevailing all over the country from the prince to the pauper. In these circumstances Government should make efforts to remove the discontent. If the bureaucracy on the contrary, is under the impression that it can maintain peace in the country by additional taxation or repression, it is labouring under a delusion.

[Mr. V. A. Surve]

The duty which is to be imposed on the consumption of electrical energy will not be a burden to the rich and big officers, viz., the fat salaried servants such as the Minister for Education, the Minister for Excise, the Minister for Forests, etc., if they are required to pay the same. But such is not the case in regard to the Court-fees, Stamp-duty and Death duty. The whole burden of these taxes will fall upon the agricultural classes. The Government, which is tomtoming all over the world that it is the guardian of agriculturists and saviour of the Marathas, has girded up its loins to exploit these two classes by imposing on them this additional taxation. I am confident that the representatives of people who are present in this Council will never be a party to these taxation bills, and it is my humble appeal to them that they should not levy Death duty at the rate of two per cent. by according their assent to the passing of these bills.

I feel sure that, so long as this Government does not give a careful consideration to the demands made in the interest of the public by their representatives and so long as it continues to pay as much inattention to the public interest as it possibly can, it will not receive as much co-operation from the representatives of the people as it expects. I can show from the Council Records that the bureaucracy invented from its fertile brains the idea of levying Death duties in March 1925. The present Finance Member had the honour of being in this Council at that time as an elected representative of the people. On the 14th of March 1925 His Excellency the Governor of Bombay submitted a representation to the Central Government in which His Excellency explicitly stated: "In no other Presidency is there such a heavy burden of taxation ont he people as in the Bombay Presidency. It is not now feasible to impose additional taxation in this Presidency and it will not be possible to obtain sanction from my Council to any additional increase. With your consent, however, I shall have to hit upon a plan of imposing Death duties." Thus the idea of Death duties was in the embryo from the year 1925, and after coming into being in the month of March of the year 1931 it has been placed before the Council for its further consideration. It is that very scheme of imposing Death duties that is before the Council today.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Tomorrow being Saturday, the first question I should like to consult the House about is when to meet. Honourable members must remember that it is not quite a full day, and therefore the speeches tomorrow would not have the same limit of time as today, but a reduced limit of time, and as time goes on probably that limit may alsc be reduced. Yesterday there were not many honourable members willing to get up; today a large number of them were anxious to speak; tomorrow probably a larger number will try to speak. But I must leave at least an hour to one of the honourable members on the Government benches who would like to speak on the questions raised. I hope, therefore, that tomorrow honourable members will not be long in their speeches and will finish their remarks before the time allotted.

[The President]

Now, there is a proposal to meet at 9-30 tomorrow and adjourn at 1, [An Honourable Member: 10 to 1.] Ten to one would mean a loss of half an hour to honourable members. [An Honourable Member: 9-30 is too early.] All cannot agree on a point like that, and I must take the general sense.

Mr. PESTANSHAH N. VAKIL: We are agreeable to 9-30.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is the general sense.

There is another point. I have been approached by various representatives of the Press in regard to the remarks I made this morning about the publication of Rao Bahadur Kale's motion: One of them particularly points out that I omitted to mention the "Times of India" which was quite as much guilty as the "Indian Daily Mail" and the "Chronicle." Well, I intended no invidious distinction at all. My remarks were meant for all papers. I had not seen all the papers. My warning applies to all representatives of the Press in this House.

The House is now adjourned to 9-30 a.m., tomorrow, Saturday, the 20th February 1932.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Saturday, the 20th February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Saturday, the 20th February 1932, at 9-30 a.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHUTTO, Sir SHAH NAWAZ
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. John
JOG, Mr. V. N.
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.

MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WILES, Mr. G.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Sir, if it is in order, I should like to move the adjournment of the House in order to admit some fresh air into the Hall. I understand the cooling system necessitates the closing of the doors and windows during the day. As we have assembled in the morning to-day, the atmosphere in the Hall is stifling.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I will look into that.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: So you rule the adjournment motion out of order? [Laughter.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. As we have met early to-day, some of the honourable members whose questions appear in to-day's list are not present. I therefore propose to take up the list on Monday.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I quite understand, Sir, but might I suggest that in future this bench should be informed the night before?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes. We now proceed with the general discussion on the budget.

GENERAL DISCUSSION ON THE BUDGET—(resumed).

Mr. N. N. PATIL (Kolaba District): Sir, I rise to offer some remarks on the budget that has been presented to this honourable House by the Honourable the Finance Member. In doing so, I propose to confine my remarks to the land revenue policy of the Government which vitally affects the poor agriculturists. The note in the budget does not give us any information as to the actual figures either of suspensions or remissions. The Government ought to have known that this item is a very controversial one. It seems that to avoid criticism they have supplied this Council with figures which leave this matter in absolute darkness.

It is an admitted fact that the prices of agricultural produce have fallen by nearly 40 to 50 per cent. In the case of rice and other cereals the cost of production is not covered by the prices realised. There is absolutely no unearned increment from land. Land revenue has now become simply and purely an unjustifiable exaction from a defenceless and disarmed population. In most districts land revenue is nothing but the looting of poor ryots and landholders simply because they happen to hold some land. Appeals, applications, petitions and no-tax campaigns have all failed to impress the bureaucracy with the gravity of the situation. Let me make here quite clear that there is no no-tax campaign in the district from where I come. The landholders and ryots of my district are quite satisfied with the presentation of petitions and applications to Government, humbly begging for some remission in land revenue. But look at the attitude of the Government. They do not even care to send a reply to their petitions. In most of the villages of my district I have found many families of agriculturists who have not even a single grain of corn with them to live upon. They cultivated the land and grew the corn. But owing to the bad season the quantity grown was so small that out of that quantity they could not even satisfy the claims of landlords. These claims are no doubt exorbitant, but at the same time Government exact assessment from landholders and the landholders exact rent from their tenants, using whatever false measures they like, and ultimately the poor agriculturists have to suffer; so much so that many a time they have to go without food. If a man, even of the position of an M.L.C. happens to visit some villages purely with a view to try to improve the most pitiable position of the peasants, with any disadvantage to the Government, what is his fate there? What happens to him? The all-powerful subordinate revenue officers are there to gag him out at once by the issue of a notice under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code. That is the fate of an M.L.C. I venture to state that the gravity of the situation is not at all realised by these revenue officers. Moreover, they are propped up with such huge salaries that their sole object is to minimise the grievances of the people and in any way to add to the revenues of the Government. Though there is an Indian Finance Member with a huge salary, much greater even than that of the Prime Minister of England, the members of this honourable House have been supplied with a budget that contains simply a jugglery of figures.

[Mr. N. N. Patil]

It is earnestly hoped that Government will be pleased to give a remission of at least 33 per cent. in all the districts, on account of the slump in prices of agricultural produce. Suspensions are of little use, and, in the long run they will embitter the feelings of the people against the Government. An opportunity of great possibilities of reconciling the people is afforded to the Government, and Government can afford to be just and equitable in time. It is not necessary, Sir, and it is not desirable also to face an agricultural revolt to learn wisdom. The situation in the United Provinces does not much differ from the situation in this Presidency as regards prices. That Government has granted substantial remissions, and this Government is only thinking over the problem of suspensions and remissions. The loss in revenue can very well be made up by drastic cuts in the salaries of all highly paid posts. What is the use of retrenching the pay of poor primary teachers and clerks drawing Rs. 50 or so per month? Is it equitable and just to apply a uniform cut of 10 per cent. to the salaries of all without any differentiation? It is a wonder, Sir, how Government officers are not ashamed to fill their pockets with the highest salaries in the world when 75 per cent. of the population is starving and can hardly have one meal a day. That is the position in villages.

With regard to my district, Kolaba, my request to the Government would be this, that the khatedars who have to pay an assessment amounting to Rs. 30 or less should, this year at least, be exempted from the payment, because the land that is assessed for Rs. 30 or so is necessarily required for the bare maintenance of that landholder. In the case of other big landlords I may say that a remission of at least 33 per cent. should graciously be granted.

Before I finish my speech, I have to refer to one point, and that is as regards the proposed abolition of my district (Kolaba). I am shortly going to submit my note on this point to the Government. But let me ask Government here as to why they have still retained both the posts of District Deputy Collectors for that district. If they think that the district is so small as to deserve abolition or amalgamation, in the name of acute financial stringency, both these posts of Prant officers can be conveniently done away with. But they are still there against the will of the population.

[Mr. N. N. Patil]

Sir, in the course of criticising the budget, many honourable members on this side of the House have made to the Government many suggestions and many requests too. If the Government do not care to pay any heed to those suggestions and requests, they, that is, the honourable members on this side, will have to keep the same attitude, much against their will perhaps, towards the Government benches when they come forward with their new taxation Bills and with their demands for grants. Sir, I beg to state that one-sided co-operation is no co-operation. In my humble opinion, it is mere submission, and submission kills the self-respect of those who submit. My request to the Government, therefore, is this, that in their own interest they should not force us,—who are ever willing to co-operate with them, who have come here to this Council to co-operate with them,—to submit meekly.

One word more and I have done. As regards the point of decentralisation of powers that has been raised in this Council, I beg to agree entirely with the view of the honourable member Mr. Kamat. In my humble opinion, I should say that the Ministers and Executive Councillors should not be deprived of their powers which they now possess. With these words I resume my seat.

Rao Bahadur G. V. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Sir, for the last three days, we have listened with great attention to the criticism of the budget that has been presented by the Honourable the Finance Member. I will not call it, as the honourable member the Finance Secretary takes objection to it, a disappointing budget, but in any case it has been admitted to be a deficit budget. A deficit budget is not presented for the first time now to this Council; it is being presented for the last three or four years in succession.

Sir, the honourable member the Finance Secretary asks us not to look behind, but to look to the present circumstances and to look ahead. We have been looking behind not so much for offering criticism for criticism's sake, but in order to find out as to whether there were any mistakes committed in previous years, so that they can be corrected in subsequent years. It is no use criticising for things which cannot be corrected, but it is certainly our duty to look into things which can be corrected later on.

Sir, between the years 1920 and 1924 there was a boom period, and it appears every one took it for granted that the boom had come to stay. His Excellency the Governor reminded us the other day that great wars are always followed by temporary booms, subsequently followed by more or less prolonged depressions. That was a very wise warning. But a warning like that should have come to Government benches at the time when there was a boom in the country. They have undertaken from time to time schemes and projects which cost us crores and crores of rupees, and we now find that we are hardly able to pay even the interest charges.

Coming to the present facts, without going very much into the cases of the past years, we find that in spite of retrenchment to the tune of something like Rs. 1,35,00,000, we have still a deficit of about Rs. 60 lakhs or Rs. 70 lakhs, and we therefore want a critical survey of the retrenchment that has been effected in order to find out whether we can ever balance our budgets. A survey of the retrenchment effected will clearly show that out of a retrenchment of Rs. 1,35,00,000 about a crore is only temporary and nominal. The making and repairs of roads have been postponed, the irrigation has been postponed and other amenities of life have been postponed in order to make the deficit smaller. Education has been made to suffer, medical relief is suffering. In spite of all these, we have got still to face a deficit of 60 lakhs. Therefore, the position is that we cannot continue this sort of retrenchment all along. We have to construct and repair roads, have repairs for our buildings, push our education forward and extend our medical relief. If that is the situation, we have to find some way to balance the budget in the near future. But the Honourable the Finance Member has told us in his speech that our revenues are coming to stay between Rs. 12,50,00,000 and 13 crores. If that is the situation and if the retrenchment that has been effected is by cutting down the essential services, we have to pause and think. Our revenues will be Rs. 12,50,00,000 and our expenditure will be 14 crores, including the one crore for amenities of life which will have to be restored. If that is the situation, we will have to try and find out remedies. With the taxation proposals that have been passed here, I do find that the Honourable the Finance Member has been able to put up the taxation only to the tune of 30 or 40 lakhs. This means he himself finds the people unable to bear any more taxes. If that is so, we have again to pause and think as to whether we can produce 1½ crores by taxation. That is a grave situation. If we cannot raise 1½ crores by taxation, what is the remedy ? The position is clearly this. In the boom period—that is why we have to look behind again—the Lee Commission took advantage of the temporary boom to raise permanently the pay of the Imperial Services. Of course I do not say that the Imperial Services may not deserve the whole thing. The question is not what they deserve, but the question is what we can afford to give. Considering the question from that point of view, we must come to the conclusion that the posts, the salaries and allowances, including the overseas allowance are much more than what we can afford. Here the question of efficiency is put up. If one Commissioner is taken away and the districts under him amalgamated to other divisions, it is contended on behalf of Government that efficiency will be lost. It may be argued that if there is a Commissioner for every two districts or if we have 24 High Court Judges, there will be much greater efficiency than we have now. But efficiency has its own limits. If we cannot afford to pay the services as much as they deserve, we must even at the cost of efficiency retrench them. This has been laid down as a policy in certain matters. We have made it a point that the backward and Muslim community candidates should be appointed in services even at the cost of some efficiency. Why should we not apply the same principle in the case of the Imperial Services and retrench them in order to balance our budget ?

[Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan]

[Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan]

The position is that we cannot raise our revenues to balance the budget to the tune of 1½ crores and we cannot reduce this 1½ crores of expenditure. The third position is whether we can get additional revenues from the Government of India. That is the question which the honourable member the Finance Secretary raised. He said that even from that source we cannot expect much, as the Imperial Government is in a worse condition. Even if we get the income-tax, a certain proportion of that amount will be taken away by Imperial Government. Therefore, the question is, what are we to do ? That must be answered and we cannot sit with folded hands without finding a solution for it.

Even in the services, there are what are called supervising staffs. Take for instance one district. If you look into the district court, you will find that the pay of the District Judge is perhaps more than the consolidated salaries of the staff under him at the headquarters. If you look into the office of the Collector, you will find that the whole staff under him at the headquarters is paid even less than the pay of the Collector. We have borne this since the year 1923, and to our great detriment ; we have been consequently facing a deficit budget. We have lost 7 crores of our balances. We cannot afford to go on like this. It has been admitted by the Honourable the Finance Member in the speech he made on the last occasion, that we cannot borrow for running the ordinary administration. The road-making, building repairs and so on cannot be permanently retrenched. He said then that the only remedy was a cut in salaries. A nominal temporary cut of 10 per cent. has been made with regard to the higher services, and another ten per cent. has been made in the staff of the lower establishment. Probably on account of the Lee Commission and on account of the fixed salary promised by the Secretary of State, we cannot touch the strength and salaries of higher officers. Now, a strong case will have to be made out to the Government of India and the Secretary of State, that we cannot bear these charges, and that they should reduce the number of the All-India Services and also retrench their pay permanently. That appears to me to be the only remedy. The Retrenchment Committee has done its work admirably. Certainly their work was confined to seeing whether the expenses for 1931-32 and 1932-33 can be reduced. The Retrenchment Committee never thought of reducing permanently the expenditure on education, and roads and buildings, and other amenities of life. We must have these amenities and also a balanced budget.

The honourable member the Finance Secretary explained the position which was raised by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Chitale. I have again gone into those figures and studied them, though not so carefully as the honourable member the Finance Secretary. Out of the 41 crores of debts, the Accountant General says that 26 crores produce something, while against the remaining 14 or 15 crores of the debts are assets such as buildings and residential quarters. Are we not entitled to know whether these residential buildings fetch any economic rent ? Should we not know whether we get rent on it at the rate at which we pay ? We are certainly entitled to know this. If they are not paying proper rents, they ought to be made to pay higher rents at the rate at which we pay interest.

[Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan]

Leaving this question for a moment, I come to the question of education. The Honourable Minister for Education has told us that he has been fighting in the Cabinet and in spite of the fight he could not succeed. Well, if the members of the Cabinet are fighting amongst themselves, then it is an unfortunate Cabinet, and the less said about the Cabinet the better. The position is clearly this. If education has to suffer, and suffer to the extent of 26 lakhs and more, then ways and means must be found to see that it touches the poor the least. If 26 lakhs is to be procured by a cut in educational expenditure, then this House has a right to demand that primary education ought not to suffer. The position of the Government is not worse than the position of local bodies. The local bodies are getting much less by way of taxes on account of the trade depression, and without any previous warning whatever, and after their budgets are prepared and passed, they are told that they will have to find ten per cent. more for primary education from their own revenues. What is to be the position of the local bodies ? The people are taxed to the utmost ; we all know that. The position is very grave. The Honourable the Finance Member has taken figures on the understanding that we shall have in the year 1932-33 as plentiful a crop as in the year 1931-32. We know, and we know to our regret, that India, and particularly the Bombay Presidency, is not favoured with plentiful crops year after year. If we are faced with a famine next year, what have we to fall back upon ? Practically nothing ! If that is the position of the local Government and local bodies, what are the local bodies to do when they are forced to find ten per cent. more for the education of their children ? Are they to close down the schools ? I submit they cannot, because if they close down the schools, their grants for the next year will be still lower and the grants for the subsequent years will go lower and lower as grants for primary education to local bodies are based on expenses of previous year. Therefore, the closing down of the schools is no remedy. What then are we expected to do ? Raise funds ? There again the honourable member the Finance Secretary has admitted yesterday that the local taxes also are falling. If that is so, what is the remedy ? Are the local authorities to dispense with the services of some of their servants in other departments ? Can the local authorities bear this ? If the local Government cannot bear it, the local Government must come forward to help by reducing their own men. The local authorities will have to reduce their own men, not to the extent of 10 per cent. but something less. I think that the supervising staff in the Education Department can be curtailed to a very great extent even at the cost of efficiency. We have now inspectors for drawing, inspectors for geography, inspectors for everything, inspectors for boys' schools and inspectors for girls' schools. Some of that staff could have been reduced. That has not been done. They are now reducing the grants to primary schools in spite of the promise that was given to the local authorities that they would be given

[Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan]

one-third or one-half of the total expenditure incurred by them. The Honourable Minister for Education remembers the promise given to the local Government——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Local bodies.

Rao Bahadur G. V. PRADHAN: Yes, local bodies. He said that backward classes and Mussalmans object to the closing of secondary schools and colleges. I know the objection. There are certain freeships and scholarships which are given to Mussalmans and backward classes. I do not grudge them those freeships and scholarships. He can make it a condition with the aided schools that they should award a certain number of freeships and scholarships to Mussalmans and backward classes, or he can provide special grants to aided schools for this purpose. But he cannot say that because the backward classes and Mussalmans object, therefore, those schools cannot be closed down.

Coming now to the ordinances, I have a few words to say. As Government say, the ordinances are not going to be here for ever. The ordinances are only temporary. And we have been promised that the ordinances will be used in as temperate a manner as possible. But, as a matter of fact, we have found that in the working of the ordinances, that extra care which is required in the exercise of the powers given under them is not used everywhere. There is a maxim in law that it is rather desirable to let ten criminals free rather than put one innocent man in jail. But that maxim has not been applied in the working of the ordinances. I shall quote an instance, an instance from Nasik town. One Mr. G. V. Ketkar, a pleader, was arrested in Nasik under the ordinances in the beginning of January. His whole fault was that he had taken part in the civil disobedience movement in the year 1930-31. Subsequent to his release from jail in July last or thereabouts, he had declared, and declared in papers, that he was not going to take part in politics any longer. Neither in the bar room nor in the meetings in the town did he speak a word on politics. He conducted himself in such a way that no grudge could fall upon him since his declaration. He had left Poona and was living in Nasik since July last. In spite of that, an order comes from the Collector of Poona that he should be arrested and, subsequently, a further order after his release, that he should not go to Poona for a month after his release. Is this the way in which the ordinances are to be worked mercifully? If this is the way, then no man is safe and there is no room for repentance. As a matter of fact, at the time he was being arrested, he told the Deputy Superintendent of Police of the place that he was not taking part in politics for the past six months and he did not understand why he was being arrested. The answer given by the Deputy Superintendent of Police was that he was helpless in the matter and he had orders to arrest and he had to execute that order.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member's time is up, but I will give him two minutes more.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI : I want to put a question to the honourable member. Where did he learn that efficiency was suffering on account of the recruitment of the backward classes to the services ?

Rao Bahadur G. V. PRADHAN : That is what is stated in the local Government's report to Round Table Conference.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL (East Khandesh District) : Sir, everybody knows that the position of the Finance Member is not a happy one when he has to present a deficit budget and every sort of attack is made upon him. The question before us is why we get these deficit budgets. I may submit, Sir, that many factors are responsible for such a position, namely, the vagaries of the season, trade depression, fall in prices of agricultural products and so on. Of course, these are factors over which Government have no control, much less the Honourable the Finance Member. It is, however, the duty of Government to see that the money of the tax-payer is spent properly in a business-like way. In that connection I am constrained to observe that Government have not used that care which they ought to have used. To prove that I will quote certain figures that appear on page 13 of the Blue Book. They have given the revenue and expenditure from the year 1921-22 to the year 1932-33. The year 1921-22 was a year when the Councils were not in existence.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : They were in existence.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL : For the year 1921-22 the ordinary revenue was Rs. 13·11 crores and the expenditure was 15·02 crores, that is to say, we had a deficit of 1·91 crores. My submission is this : when Government knew very well that their income was only 13·11 crores they ought to have cut their coat according to their cloth, but unfortunately they spent money beyond their means. That is why I say they did not take that ordinary care which a business man generally takes. Now, take the year 1922-23. As if by the wand of magic we got a surplus of 64 lakhs. I do not know in what way Government secured that surplus, whether by retrenchment or in some other way. I hope the Honourable the Finance Member will be kind enough to throw some light upon that point. For that year the ordinary revenue was 14·17 crores and the expenditure was 13·53 crores. I am very glad to say that wiser counsels prevailed upon Government in that year in using the tax-payer's money with frugality and thus securing a surplus of 64 lakhs. Again, Sir, from the year 1923-24 to the year 1924-25 we got a surplus of 29 lakhs and 27 lakhs respectively. Why was that so ? Because Government limited the expenditure to their revenue. Now, when we come to the year 1925-26, we find that the ordinary revenue was 15·59 crores and the expenditure was 16·50 crores, and thus we get a deficit of 91 lakhs. Here the frugality ceased and Government began to spend money extravagantly. When we come to the year 1926-27 we find that our ordinary revenue was 14·86 crores, and the expenditure was 16·52 crores. Here again we find extravagance on the part of Government and the result is a deficit budget to the extent of 1·66 crores. From that year up till now we have been getting deficit budgets excepting in one year, namely, 1929-30 when there was a surplus of 11 lakhs. When we examine these figures we find that the Government have not used sufficient care in spending the taxpayer's money. Everybody in this House knows that every now and then it has been alleged by honourable members on this side of the House that Government have not carried out sufficient retrenchment in various departments. Whenever the budget is presented to this House, what is the reply of the Honourable the Finance Member ? "We have done our best to effect retrenchment. What can we do ?" This has been the usual reply of the Finance Member. But this time the Honourable the Finance Member seems to be serious enough to effect retrenchment and it appears that he has done his best. Had the Government taken such care and effected retrenchment in the past, I am sure that the financial condition of this Presidency would not have been such as we find now.

[Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil]

There is no doubt that Government have spent money extravagantly. This can be shown by the figures which I have quoted. It might be said, "What is the use of crying over spilt milk ?" That is true to some extent. But the question is : how can we remedy the situation arising out of the deficit budget ? Government have very wisely decided to appoint an expert committee. That goes to show that they want to effect further retrenchments. I am sure that the committee will go into the various departments thoroughly so as to secure economy. In this way some economy can be effected and if fortunately we get prosperous years in future, perhaps we may be able to balance the budget.

As regards the taxation proposals, I may say at this stage that they must be examined on their own merits.

Now I come to another point. Some of the members have remarked that the size of the Cabinet must be reduced. In that connection His Excellency has observed that Government have got a definite scheme before them ready for being given effect to. But His Excellency has given a warning, or rather he has given his opinion in these words :

"I am inclined to doubt, however, whether it is advisable to bring it, (i.e. the scheme) into force at present, for I do not think that we can contemplate with equanimity the dislocation which such a change would involve at a time when it may be followed so soon by another readjustment, when the coming constitutional reforms are introduced."

I submit, Sir, that when we get new reforms the whole Cabinet will be elected. It is rather cruel on the part of honourable members on this side of the House (if I may be allowed to use the expression). We should not touch the Cabinet till the new reforms are introduced. The Members of the Cabinet, especially the ministers are the elected representatives of the people ; are they not doing good to the country ? They are doing their best, they are doing as much as they can do for the good of the people. When they are doing that, we ought to be satisfied with their presence in the Cabinet. We must insist upon Government not touching them. I am glad to observe that His Excellency gave his opinion against the reduction. I entirely agree with the view expressed by His Excellency. I know that our Ministers are doing very good work in the Cabinet. I say with pride that the Honourable Sir Ghulam Hussain, when he was Minister for Local Self-Government, did a lot of good to the backward classes by amending the Local Boards Act. In the same way our present Minister (the Honourable Sirdar Sir Rustom Vakil) is doing his best, and if we impress upon him the necessity of a particular measure, he does pay attention to it. He is doing his best for the backward classes. Now remains Moulvi Saheb. He is very attentive to the interests of the backward and depressed classes, Lingayats, Marathas and Muhammadans as well. I think he is also doing his best for the backward classes. So far as our Minister, namely, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur Kambli is concerned, we know that he has been doing his best for the good of the communities backward in education. Now take the case of the Executive Councillors. Fortunately we have got two Indian Councillors—Sir Ghulam Hussain and Sir Govindrao Pradhan. Sir Govindrao is also doing useful work, but unfortunately his position is very peculiar. The vagaries of the season, trade depression and such other things have stood in his way. What can he do? He does not get sufficient revenue. How can he present a surplus budget? I know an attack has been made upon him by my honourable friend Dr. Gilder. That is of course a grave charge, and as Sir Govindrao is a politician and a lawyer, I want to know what reply he is going to make to that charge. Perhaps I may be allowed to suggest a reply to that charge though I have no right to do so. So far as I can think, he can give this reply: "I have grown wiser by my experience. When I made that statement which the honourable member has quoted, I had no knowledge of the inner administration. When I got into the Cabinet I examined the whole situation and found that there was no alternative but to do what I have done." Perhaps this might be his answer. I do not know what answer he is going to give.

[Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I hope the suggestion will be gratefully acknowledged.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: I will touch one more point and I have done. I refer to the policy of Government in the matter of the system of crop anna-valuation known as annewari. This system is very unsatisfactory and I submit to the Honourable the Revenue Member who is now sitting on the last bench—I am sure that my appeal will reach him and he will pay heed to what I say—that the present system of crop anna-valuation is most unsatisfactory. I may tell you how. The present system is this: the circle inspector goes with certain panchas who are generally illiterate persons, and examines one field in each village and says that the anna-valuation is 8 or 10 annas; and that valuation is made applicable to all the fields in that village. I do not know whether all the circle inspectors go to the fields, but even if they go, that is the practice. Then the mamlatdar comes to the village and examines one or two fields. The Prant Officer examines some fields in his charge, but the Collector unfortunately has not sufficient time. When he comes on tour, he examines one or two fields here and there, and the anna-valuation is thus revised. Everybody in this House—especially every non-official—knows very well that this anna valuation system is most unsatisfactory. Therefore, with a view to improve this system I tabled a resolution that a committee of officials and non-officials should be appointed to go into this question thoroughly. I am sure that the Honourable the Revenue Member will be kind enough to look into this question and do what he thinks is necessary.

[Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil]

This year we approached our Collector and told him that suspensions should be given on a larger scale. He was very sympathetic and gave us a patient hearing. During the course of the conversation I told him that he must take into account the money valuation of the crop in order to determine the question of crop anna valuation. He said that, so far as the rules were concerned, he could not take this factor into consideration and unless the rules were modified he could not give the needed relief. He was perfectly right. I say that the true basis in assessing anna valuation is the money valuation of the crops and unless and until the rules are modified in that direction, I think the people will not have any relief by way of suspension. There are also many other factors which can be thoroughly investigated into if a committee is appointed by Government and I hope the Government will agree to it. With these remarks I resume my seat.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): Sir, the budget that has been presented to us by the Honourable the Finance Member leaves us with a deficit of 73 lakhs. I do not for a moment dispute the fact that it is a candid exposition of the real financial situation of this Presidency, but all the same it cannot be called a sound and business-like financial proposition.

The deficit as has already been explained by the Honourable the Finance Member is due to fall in the revenue from land, stamps, irrigation, excise and forests, and in consequence of the worldwide trade depression and abnormal fall in prices of commodities and foodstuffs beyond the control of Government. This gap of 73 lakhs is sought to be made up partly by fresh measures of taxation and partly by borrowing loans. As far as the measures of taxation are concerned, I will reserve my remarks for the proper time. But, as far as the borrowing of loans is concerned, I would point out that our Presidency is already labouring under very heavy debts and we are unable to pay even the interest charges and in the circumstances, it would be a great risk to shoulder any further responsibility by borrowing loans.

Again, I would point out that it would be hardly good finance to borrow for current expenditure, and therefore I propose that the Government should attempt still further retrenchment, and I am confident that their efforts in this direction will not be in vain and will serve to solve the present financial stringency. On an examination of the statement embodying the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee, I find that there are certain items which require still further consideration by Government, and I am sure that if further retrenchment is tried, the whole question will be satisfactorily solved.

[Rao Saheb B. G. Desai]

Regarding the general scheme of retrenchment adopted by Government, as I find from the statement which has been placed on the table, I beg to offer a few remarks. First of all, I consider that the huge cut that is laid on education, especially primary education, is not well thought of. If we curtail the expenditure on education, we practically give a death blow to the various activities of the nation-building departments and I would make a special request to the Honourable Minister for Education to try his level best to get these grants restored as early as possible. There is another direction in which the retrenchment effected by Government deserves some remarks. It is the withdrawal of the grants to veterinary dispensaries. These veterinary dispensaries are known to be a boon to the agriculturists and especially to the poor dumb cattle, and the small grants that the Government used to give to local bodies on this account have not been retrenched by 10 per cent. or something like that, but they have been withdrawn wholesale. This is really a very hard step that has been taken in the course of the general scheme of retrenchment. Then, Sir, another item which I would refer to, and which the Honourable Minister in charge of Agriculture has explained the other day, is the abolition of certain agricultural schools in the Northern Division on the plea of retrenchment. These schools fulfilled a great want, and their necessity is more than amply proved by the fact that they are allowed to remain in the Southern and Central Divisions. Only in the Northern Division, which is as much an agricultural country as the Central and Southern Divisions, the agricultural schools have been abolished, and no satisfactory reason is given for making such invidious distinctions between the various divisions of the Presidency.

The boring department is another direction where the cut has been wrongly applied. I complained against this cut last year, and this year again I have to complain about the policy adopted by Government with regard to the boring machines. These boring machines were distributed, as we are aware, amongst the district local boards, and the district local boards were working them, and they were lent to them on certain conditions, to which they agreed. But these machines were called back perhaps as a measure of retrenchment and were resumed by Government, and I hear that in spite of the various requests from local bodies, Government have been proposing to realise some moneys by selling them; but, after all, the proceeds that are going to be realised by the sale of these machines are going to be very insignificant. Therefore, it would be advisable that Government should hand over these boring machines to the local boards who are willing to work them on the same conditions on which they were lent to them previously. Any attempt to sell them for the sake of enhancing the income as a measure of retrenchment, would certainly be entirely inadvisable and inexpedient.

When we have been effecting retrenchment on one side, we find that there is an attempt to incur more expenditure on other new items. I refer to some of the items in appendices E and F of the Blue Book. However, instead of going through the details of all these items I will take the most typical of them, which requires the immediate attention of this House. It is item No. 19, on page 211 of the Blue Book, referring to the expansion of the Secondary Training College, Bombay. It has been suggested there that this expansion should be made by abolishing 14 classes at the Elphinstone High School, where 500 boys are taking training. It has been further shown that the abolition of these classes will cause a saving to Government of about Rs. 34,000, of which Rs. 22,000 are received as income on account of fees and the surplus that would remain to the extent of Rs. 16,000 would be utilised for the expansion of this institution. Now, Sir, the institution is at present training 60 students. I am told that since the last year it has admitted 75 students for training. It has been stated in the reasons for this extra expenditure that the University Reform Committee of 1924 recommended the admission of 100 graduate students annually to the college and it is for that reason that this scheme of expansion is undertaken after waiting for 7 long years and I am particularly surprised that Government should have selected a year of extreme financial stringency for putting into operation this scheme of expansion, when apparently enough it should not have been at all launched upon. It would appear further that this expansion is going to cost Government an annual, recurring expenditure of Rs. 17,000 and more, and this too for training only 25 students more, which seems to be obviously prodigal. It has been suggested in the remarks on this item that the percentage of trained teachers to the whole body of teachers is only 5·2 which is clearly inadequate, and it is in order to increase this percentage that this expansion of the secondary training college has been recommended. But, Sir, a study of the figures given on pages 37-38, paragraph 46 of the Report on Public Instruction for 1927-28 shows that the whole body of teachers amounts to 4,581, of which 987 teachers are trained. This gives a percentage of 21·5 and not 5·2 as has been shown in the remarks against the item. Out of this body of teachers, the Government teachers are 493, out of whom it is shown in the same table that 334 teachers are trained. That gives us a percentage of 67. I further quote paragraph 40 on page 27 of the same report, which shows percentage of 18 per cent.

[Rao Saheb B. G. Desai]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has two minutes more.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: I would request that if the Honourable the President is pleased to give me five minutes more, I will try and complete within that time.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I cannot do it.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: A further study of the figures at page 38, paragraph 38 of the Report on Public Instruction for 1928-29, shows that the percentage is not less than 17 per cent. and about 1,945 amongst the whole body of teachers are graduates of whom 833 are trained. Out of these graduate teachers 510 are Government teachers, of whom 328 are trained which comes to a percentage of 40·6.

[Rao Saheb B. G. Desai]

Then, it is further stated that the savings available for expenditure by abolishing 14 classes and 19 teachers will not cause any hardship to the public. I would ask the Honourable Minister in charge, if these 500 students studying in the 14 classes sought to be abolished are to be sent away, where are they to go and seek admission? As is well known the other private institutions are charging higher fees. Again out of these 500 students there are a number of backward class and Mahomedan boys, of whom a large number are students who are studying as free students and some are even receiving scholarships. These freeships and scholarships are not given in private institutions. Under the circumstances, it would appear that the undertaking of such a scheme of expansion would be quite inadvisable from the point of view of public interest as well as objectionable in these days of financial stringency, especially in view of the misleading and unfounded savings that are shown in the remarks on page 211 of the Blue Book, which I am unable to discuss at present owing to very little time being now left at my disposal, but propose to discuss the same later on at a suitable opportunity during the present sessions.

Then, Sir, I would come to the most important question, land revenue, and I would seek the indulgence of the Chair that I should be granted five minutes more time to deal with the same.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Not half a minute more.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: The collection of land revenue in the various districts in Gujarat has of course been satisfactory till now. But Government should not be under any delusion and believe that the people are quite able to pay or that they have earned sufficient income from their agricultural activities. On the contrary, the people have paid up the demands owing to the pressing activities of the Revenue authorities, to expedite the collections and in many cases even by incurring debts, and I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member to extend to the Gujarat districts also the same concessions as have been extended to several districts in the Central and Southern Divisions, and especially to the Matar and Mehmedabad talukas and the villages situated in the tract to the north of the Shedi River in the Nadiad taluka of the Kaira district, wherein the condition of the crops and that of the poor cultivators have always been far from satisfactory and too much straitened since the past few years.

[Bell rung to indicate that the honourable member's time was up.]

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ (Central Division): Sir, I also join in voicing the sentiments expressed in this House pertaining to this budget, that it is entirely unsatisfactory. The Honourable the Finance Member, in explaining in what way retrenchment has been effected, has shown that nearly Rs. 30 lakhs have been saved from the Education Department, and I am going to make a few remarks only on this retrenchment. Sir, every time, throughout the period of the past 10 years, in this honourable House the cry has been raised that education should be expanded. But, in spite of that, we see that quite the contrary has been done in this matter. When budgets were presented year after year in the past, practically at all times money bills have been brought forward in this House, and such money bills have been passed simply because of the fear that if they were not passed education would suffer; and to my mind at least all the money bills have been passed on this plea that the Education Department and the other nation-building departments should not suffer. We have passed bills for increased court-fees, for increased stamp duties, I may say even the charas bill, the bookies bill and so many other bills only on this understanding, that the nation-building departments should not suffer. But at the end of all that we have done, what is the result? Out of the cuts made in various departments, the one in the Education Department is the most drastic one. Sir, I will show what was the income and expenditure of the Education Department in 1921 and in 1932. The income of the department in 1921 was nearly Rs. 7,00,000, and in 1932 it is Rs. 14,00,000; in 10 years the income has risen from Rs. 7,00,000 to Rs. 14,00,000. But taking the expenditure side we see that in 1921 the expenditure was Rs. 1,71,00,000, practically the same amount as is budgeted for 1931-32, that is to say, Government has made profit in education department instead of any loss, which is certainly unjust and undeserving for the Government. I now only ask Government to give at least those few lakhs which they have collected more in the Educational Department. That they have not done. The expenditure in 1931-32 is the same and the revenue has increased by 7 lakhs. The Entertainment Tax was passed by this House on the understanding that the whole amount should be spent for education. Nothing has been done practically on that side and the expenditure remains the same.

[Mr. Shaikh Abdul Aziz]

Now, Sir, this year at least the B.A. and Science classes have been proposed to be opened in one of the colleges. Even though Government have now thought fit to do so, I was surprised to hear the remark of the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale that as Government have retrenched in the Primary Education, they ought to have retrenched in the higher education also. He wants the Government at least to postpone the opening of those classes. My opinion is that any increase in any department of education is good for the people. We must not complain that the increase has been made in the primary education or secondary education. We should not grudge any grant for any kind of education or for any community. To my mind the person who opposes such a grant is an enemy to the country, because without education we would not be able to progress at all. We must ask the Government not to retrench in any of the educational departments, because it is an important department. Retrenchment has been effected in all the departments except perhaps in the Police and Jail Departments. Even in the Police Department a retrenchment of 7 lakhs has been made, but the Honourable the Finance Member said that this 7 lakhs also would be spent next year. We do not complain about the fact that no retrenchment has been made in the Police Department. We come here to co-operate with the Government and everybody in this House thinks that law and order should be maintained. For that they must have police. In the same way education also is necessary and that is why they should not make any retrenchment in that also.

[Mr. Shaikh Abdul Aziz]

Another remark I wish to make is about the observation of the honourable member Rao Bahadur Pradhan that the candidates from the Muslim and backward communities are recruited to services, even at the cost of efficiency for the mere fact that they belong to those communities. To this my humble reply is that either in this House or outside it, no leader of the Muslim community has made such a request to Government. Up to this time only efficient Mahomedans have been appointed and no inefficient Mussalman has been appointed in preference to an efficient man of any other community. I can further point out that many efficient and qualified Mahomedans have not been appointed and less efficient persons of other communities have been given the chance. I can quote some of the instances, i.e. the Public Prosecutor of Jalgaon district and many clerks and Sheristedar in the Nasik District Court. There are competent men, but still they have not been given the chance. I will ask the honourable member Rao Bahadur Pradhan as the head of the Nasik Municipality to give a chance to the competent Mussalmans in the Municipality. He knows that a chief officer is to be appointed and a qualified and competent Muslim has applied for the post. We have never asked Government that simply because a candidate is a Mahomedan he should be appointed at the cost of efficiency.

Now, Sir, a few words for money bills which are going to come in this House. We are prepared to help Government also, when we are satisfied that Government is sincere in the retrenchment. But every time the finance Bills are brought, the plea was that if those Bills are not passed, the nation-building departments will suffer. This time they have brought another reason for supporting the bill. Government say that the revenue from the Excise Department is dwindling and so we should pass those finance Bills. So far as the Excise Department is concerned, I think that they are not sincere. If Government is really for prohibition, I will ask them to help those persons who are trying to uphold the cause of prohibition by constitutional means. I do not want them to help those who are doing this work of prohibition by means which are not constitutional. But those persons who are doing this work constitutionally should be helped by Government. Last year the charas Bill was passed. Why was it passed? More border shops have been opened. If they are really for prohibition, they ought not to have done this. I think it is the duty of honourable members of this House that they should not be prepared to help this Department if Government is not sincere. I hope the Finance Member will give some reply to this at the time of his speech.

Mr. E. W. PERRY: Sir, the last speaker stated that the cut in the Education budget was about 30 lakhs. But the actual figure is 27 lakhs, of which 3½ lakhs are accounted for by the transfer of secondary education to the budget head Industries. That leaves 24 lakhs, of which 3½ lakhs are accounted for by the 10 per cent. cut in the salaries of the Government inspecting and professorial staff. The remaining 21 lakhs are principally accounted for by a 15 per cent. reduction in the grants for primary education and a 5 per cent. cut in those for secondary and college education. The cut of 15 per cent. on primary education is a very serious cut indeed. But it means that every local body in the Presidency must put its house in order, and cut the salaries of its servants to the extent to which Government have done. The school-masters must be paid a reduced salary and the head masters and first assistant masters must probably lose their allowances except perhaps in exceptional cases. Further, if there are any inefficient schools, they may have to be closed. We all know the criticisms of the Hartog Committee. The expansion of primary education has been so rapid in this Presidency that it may not be altogether disastrous to cry a halt. It is quite possible that the present situation will produce beneficial results. As there are a large number of representatives of local bodies here, I should like to suggest to them that they should go back to their constituencies and their local bodies and tell them that steps must immediately be taken to set the finances of the local bodies in order to meet this grave situation. If the local bodies will take time by the forelock, I do not think we need fear that this retrenchment will have any disastrous effects on education. It will certainly mean that the school-masters will have to live on smaller salaries for the time being.

As regards the criticism that in the year 1921-22 the expenditure on education was only three lakhs less than the budget allotment for 1932-33, it has to be pointed out to the House that the increase in expenditure on primary education is altogether out of proportion to the increase in expenditure on secondary and collegiate education. The actual expenditure on primary education in 1922-23 amounted to 99·8 lakhs and the actual expenditure that will be incurred in 1932-33 is 1,10 lakhs. So, the difference is an increase of 10·2 lakhs. The receipts from the Entertainments Duty are under 8 lakhs. Government therefore have not broken their undertaking to benefit primary education to the extent of the receipts from this tax.

As regards the criticism of the honourable member Rao Saheb Desai about the inopportuneness of incurring extra expenditure in the current year on the Secondary Training College, it should be pointed out to him that there is a saving of Rs. 16,000 accruing from the abolition of 14 classes in the Elphinstone high school. The reduction of the School and the expansion of the College are complementary parts of one scheme. The actual saving that will accrue from this extra expenditure of Rs. 17,000 is actually greater than Rs. 16,000. We shall have valuable accommodation available in the school building for other purposes besides those of training teachers. We shall also be able to take teacher into the secondary training college before they undertake their teaching career.

[Mr. E. W. Perry]

At present what happens is that many teachers are deputed to undergo training which means that their salary and deputation allowance have to be paid to them while they do no productive work. Owing to the increased accommodation that will now be provided in the Training College, it will be possible to give teachers training before they start their careers. They will undergo the training on a mere subsistence allowance. In the end we hope that this reform will bring considerable relief to the finances in addition to making trained teachers readily available. It has been recommended time and again that there should be an improvement in the training of the secondary teachers and Government hope that this House will approve this reform as some compensation for the set-back which is given to primary education in the present budget.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: On a point of information, Sir. May I know from the honourable member the Secretary for Education whether, in view of the statement made by him, it would not be advisable that Government should take back the control of primary education from the local bodies, in order to rescue them from the impasse in which they find themselves placed by the action of Government?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is a matter of policy, and I suppose the honourable member the Secretary cannot answer.

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District): Sir, I quite sympathise with the embarrassed position of the Finance Member in the present state of the finances of the Presidency. I do not wish to dissect the past, but, as we have been asked, let us face facts. In doing so, the most important thing we have to consider is how best to set our house in order. The measures recommended by the Retrenchment Committee were only meant to be temporary; they were in the nature of emergency measures to relieve the current finances. Our task is to devise permanent measures which will not only enable us to make ends meet but also leave a surplus to be devoted to the material improvement and moral progress of the country. It has been stated from this side of the House, and I have stated it often, and even at the risk of repetition I say again that the only remedy is to cut down our salaries. There is no better remedy than that of cutting down the salaries of our establishment. It is admitted on all hands that the salaries bill is heavier in this province than in other provinces. On the last occasion, it was stated that for the year 1928-29 the salaries bill was 5,37 lakhs. Now, by a cut of 10 per cent. it has been reduced to 5 crores. Whether we take our revenue to be 14 crores and odd as it is shown to be in the ensuing budget, or 12 crores and odd as is given for the budget of next year according to revised classification, the salaries represent more than 35 per cent. of our revenue. Yesterday, the honourable member the Finance Secretary stated that when we are administering a province the major portion of the expenses should be salaries. That is how I understood him. He stated that in some of the departments the expenditure is only on salaries, the only function that those departments have to discharge is to employ certain servants and pay salaries to them. But we have to take into consideration the other matters which the province has to care for. I have summed them up in one phrase "moral progress and material improvement." Roads, medicine, education, future development and many other things we have to care for. I therefore submit, Sir, that we have to take into consideration the proportion we have to spend on establishment. No doubt a Reorganisation Expert Committee is contemplated in that connection, and that committee will go into the matter. But what I wish to impress upon the House is that when I read the speech of the Finance Member introducing the budget I am rather nervous about the attitude the public servants might take towards that committee. No doubt Government have tried their best to meet the situation by emergency measures, but if you read between the lines of the speech of the Honourable the Finance Member, you will see that he is trying to show that our Presidency is right in spending as much as it does over the services. He is arguing more as a lawyer defending the expenditure on services than as a man out to find how the budget can be balanced. He makes out that our Presidency has to spend more because it has a larger area. He gives also many other reasons to justify the present state of things. I submit, Sir, that Government servants should co-operate with us when we are finding ourselves in this embarrassed position. If they make up their minds to reduce our expenditure, I think they will find out a way. I was referring to the justification urged by the Honourable the Finance Member for our costly administrative machine. He tried to show that our Presidency has a large area and Madras has only a very small area with a dense population, and therefore the comparatively higher per capita expenditure in Bombay was justified. May I point out to him that if our area is large, it is composed of deserts, hills and forests, and therefore it is not necessary for us to keep public servants in those areas? I would suggest that Government should divest themselves of this mentality bent on justifying this high expenditure. It has been a standing complaint with us that the salaries in the various departments are very high. In this connection, I will just quote the figures with regard to education. The Hartog Committee went into it. For Bombay the average monthly salary per teacher is Rs. 47 per mensem which is most exceptionally high. The normal level in India is represented by the figures for the Punjab, Central Provinces and United Provinces which are Rs. 25-8-0, Rs. 24-8-0 and Rs. 18-8-0. The lowest average Rs. 8-6-0 is to be found in Bengal.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Sir, may I interrupt the honourable member? Did not the honourable member himself plead for an increase in the salaries of teachers? He said that we could afford to pay more.

Mr. V. N. JOG: That was only with regard to the primary teachers, and not with regard to the teachers in secondary schools and colleges.

When we are to fix the pay of public servants, we should take into consideration the economic condition of the province also and then only we can have a balanced budget. It has been pointed out by the Honourable the Finance Member and also shown in the white book that Government have accepted the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee with regard to the pay of the new entrants and given a cut of 2 annas in the rupee in their pay. With all respect to the Retrenchment Committee, I beg to submit, Sir, that the new scales which they have suggested for new entrants are too high: that is so especially at the top. I am not quarrelling with the lowest salaries they have given. But at the top I find they are heavy and they should be brought down in the case of many services, all-India, provincial and subordinate. I know that some of our Indian officers would not like that there should be a distinction between them and the Europeans in the service. But when the country needs it, even if the persons coming from outside will not co-operate with us or sympathise with us, I think as Indians we should be satisfied with smaller salaries. There may be a distinction between Indians and foreigners who are not willing to serve on the terms given to Indians. We shall try to do without the foreigners, but if that is not possible and we have to have them, I think as patriotic Indians they must reconcile themselves to receiving salaries which the country's resources will enable Government to pay.

[MR. V. N. JOG]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There are only two minutes more.

Mr. V. N. JOG: That is the only point that I wanted to make. Therefore, when the committee meets, the public servants should fully co-operate and take into consideration the resources of the Presidency. We know as a matter of fact that the revenues of the Presidency cannot go up. The new scales should be fixed having regard to that fact.

I do not want to take any more time at this stage, because I shall have to refer to this point when we come to discuss the Finance Bill. At the time of discussing the Finance Bill we can go into the question whether new taxation is necessary or not.

A suggestion was made by His Excellency, when he addressed us the other day, that there should be co-operation from this side of the House in the retrenchment effected by Government by doing away with the second Poona session. Members on this side are not very reluctant to forego that. But we have to take into consideration—it may seem inconsistent with the idea of retrenchment—that retrenchment must be effected in the right direction. In this connection, I submit, Sir, that it is only in sessions in Poona that members on this side get a sufficient number of days to move private Bills, resolutions and other motions of public importance. In this session we generally get only 2 days, though by a change in the agenda a third day has been allotted this year to non-officials. There are a number of Bills and resolutions which are of public importance, and therefore, it is absolutely necessary that we should have two sessions in Poona, unless we have a very long session in July. Sometimes it is not possible for honourable members coming from the mofussil to spare time to stay for a long time and, therefore, two sessions would be most convenient. When private Bills are introduced, they are to be published and it takes one year before they come up for discussion in this House. It is necessary that such a long time should not elapse before they come up for discussion. The saving effected by this retrenchment is a few hundred rupees on account of travelling allowance. I therefore submit that this matter should be reconsidered by Government. Of course, the decision is not yet final, as His Excellency said that, if necessary, a third session would be called. This is the only time when Government members come into contact with outside problems through non-official members. With these words I resume my seat.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Sir, there has already been a good deal of discussion over the budget, which has passed through a volley of criticism, and I believe it will come out polished and refined from the fire. The budget has not received the general approbation of this part of the House. Though it is barren, yet it is not quite disappointing and hopeless. There are some bright features about it and like my optimistic friend Dr. D'Souza, I see a silver lining in the clouds of its shadowy finance. A good deal of credit should go to Government as well as to this part of the House, which was instrumental in bringing into existence the Retrenchment Committee, for making cuts in the various departments of Government. It cannot be gainsaid that the Government has been rather prodigal, to quote the very term the Honourable the Finance Member used in 1924 in regard to its expenditure and there is good scope still for further retrenchment which would enable Government to make both ends meet. The deficit of 73 lakhs is not a very big deficit, compared to the deficits of the past and the current year. The gulf between the revenue and expenditure sides has been bridged by savings to the extent of over a crore of rupees and I do not think it will be difficult to fill the gap by effecting another saving of 73 lakhs from several departments which are like white elephants to Government, for example, the Improvement Trust, Back Bay, the Development Department——

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I may inform the honourable member that it has already been abolished. It is dead and gone.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: I am glad it has gone. There are some top-heavy departments which can safely undergo a little more pruning. A cut of 31 lakhs from civil works under the Public Works Department has already been made. But further cuts are possible in this and some other departments. If hey are made, I think there will not be any real necessity for further taxation. There is a limit to the tax-paying capacity of the public. This part of the House believes that this capacity has reached its maximum limit. Times are going from bad to worse; trade and commerce and the economic condition of the people are worsening day by day and there is little hope, at least so long as the civil disobedience movement continues, for peace and prosperity to return at an early date. But let us not be pessimistic. Let us hope that better times may soon return and peace and prosperity may speedily be restored, so that Government may be able to recoup its finances through increased income from its paying departments. The Revenue Department, I think, should congratulate itself on the large revenue collections which are pouring into the Government treasury from various districts. The Honourable the Revenue Member has been very considerate and sympathetic in giving further remissions to some districts of the Konkan side, but I would urge on his attention the necessity of being a little more kind and considerate towards Gujarat and particularly towards some talukas of the Kaira district which have fared very badly during the last few years. Matar taluka is the worst hit in the Kaira district and still I find that revenue collections for the past year are being made in that taluka, in spite of the assurance of the Honourable the Revenue Member. I do not understand why arrears are being collected——

[Mr. J. S. Kadri]

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Is the honourable member aware that special concessions have been given to Matar taluka during the past two years and are being continued?

Mr. J. S. KADRI: I thank the Honourable Member for the information. I hope instructions will be issued to the authorities concerned not to recover arrears in this badly affected taluka at least——

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Authorised arrears will certainly not be collected. But unauthorised arrears which have been due to political contumacy will certainly be recovered, though I am not sure that there are any in that particular taluka.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: I think people have become sane by experience and they are abiding by the wishes of Government and I do not think there will be any deliberate contumacy this year, so far as the Kaira district is concerned.

Now, coming to the question of retrenchment in various departments, I think that the cut of 27 lakhs in the Educational Department is most deplorable and it should be restored as far as possible. In my opinion, education should be the last thing which should be retrenched, and particularly the primary education. Look at the present condition of primary education in the Presidency and you will find that it is most unsatisfactory, so far as its results are conerned. It is more costly, compared to its average cost in other provinces. The tremendous wastage which is the bane of education in this Presidency is a matter which calls for prompt consideration at the hands of the Honourable the Minister of Education as well as of the Government. We have been spending crores of rupees on education, but with what result? Eighty per cent. of the children in primary schools are not able to reach a higher standard than the fourth. The main object of Government is to break down illiteracy of the masses, by all possible means; but is that object achieved? Illiteracy is there, in spite of all the heavy expenditure incurred on education. Only those pupils who go to higher standards than the fourth, or who have at least passed the fourth vernacular standard, are considered to be literate, but out of 100 pupils, 80 are not able to reach the fourth standard. I have facts and figures to show that. Only 10 per cent. of the boys and 3·7 per cent. of the girls under education are able to go up from the lower to the upper primary stage. That means that the literacy figure of the masses is very low. No efforts, no funds, no means should be spared to make primary education permeate the masses who are still mostly illiterate and ignorant. In the interests of public education, I strongly appeal to this House to restore the cut of Rs. 27 lakhs to the Educational Department. In case this is not possible, I would point out ways and means of finding money for recouping the cut in the primary education at least. Though I am advocating that no section of education should be curtailed—even secondary or higher,—I would press for the recognition of the vital necessity of wide extension of primary education among the masses and, therefore, for the sake of primary education, I would let the other sections, secondary and collegiate, undergo a little sacrifice. I find that there is room for curtailing expenditure from higher education for the sake of primary education. Even if some Arts colleges are closed down, there will be little harm. In this Presidency, there are enough colleges, both private and aided, to cater for the needs of the people. For instance, if the Elphinstone College at Bombay is closed down, I do not think it will inconvenience in any way the student world of Bombay, because there are several other colleges available to absorb the students of that college. There is room for curtailing expenditure under collegiate education. There is scope for reduction in the staff of Government colleges, as I can prove by facts and figures which I have gathered. I know of four or five professors for one subject in a College, some of whom can safely be done away with. There are at times superfluous professors—I will just give an instance. A professor who gets Rs. 1,000 per month in the Elphinstone College teaches only two students in Persian. I think it is sheer extravagance that for the sake of two students in the B.A. class, a professor on Rs. 1,000 should be maintained. I suggest another case for saving. When the Elphinstone High School is to be reduced in size by 14 classes, there will be no necessity for a Principal on a high salary to be maintained for it. The Principal of the Secondary Training College will be able to look after the Elphinstone High School very well, because it serves as a Practising School for the college, the Principal whereof can directly supervise it.

There has been some criticism about the Ismail College at Andheri. It is the only Muhammadan college in the whole Presidency and that college has been brought into existence through the munificence of the merchant prince, Sir Mahomed Yusuf, who gave a princely donation of Rs. 8 lakhs for it some 15 years ago. Muhammadans had a real grievance in not having this College earlier, but now that we have got it, this House should not grudge a little expense for its expansion and progress.

One honourable member remarked that efficiency should not be sacrificed, even if the Muhammadans and backward classes are to suffer.

[Mr. J. S. Kadri]

The Muhammadans and backward classes have already suffered much in point of education and Government should provide special facilities for these classes, in order to enable them to make up the leeway, by spending more money on their education. If we go into the figures given by the Director of Public Instruction in his annual report, we find that Muhammadans are still extremely backward, even in respect of primary education. The figures indicate that only a very small fraction of Muhammadan pupils are able to go to higher standards even in the lower primary stage and still lesser fraction goes to the upper stage, while in respect of secondary education, they are extremely backward. I find the plight of Sind Muhammadans most deplorable in point of education. If the Sind members take the trouble to go into the details of the report of the Director of Public Instruction, they will find that in collegiate education they are nowhere. There is a remark in the report that out of 24 lakhs and odd Muhammadans, there are only 97 students in Arts and special colleges. That gives the Muhammadans in Sind no percentage at all, while in secondary and primary education, they are also backward. The reasons are that Muhammadan schools are very much discouraged by the Educational Department. They are often poorly staffed, badly housed, and badly equipped, the percentage of trained teachers in them being low. The percentage of trained teachers in Urdu Schools is going down even below the prescribed minimum in many cases and Government should take care to see that Muhammadan education does not suffer for want of good teachers. Even in a city like Ahmedabad where I am a member of the Municipal school board, the percentage of Urdu trained teachers is only 40, while that of Gujarati trained teachers is 70. With 40 per cent. trained and 60 per cent. untrained and unqualified teachers, it is impossible to effect any improvement in the condition of Muhammadan education. The one-teacher schools for Muhammadans do no good, because a single teacher is not able to look after the education of a number of students under several classes learning two languages simultaneously. The Muslim children have to learn the vernacular of the district, in addition to Urdu, and that entails a great strain on them. It is physically impossible for one teacher to look after 3 or 4 classes with 30 or more pupils and to teach them two or three scripts.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member's time is up.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: I will conclude with a prayer that the educational uplift of Muhammadans needs a little more sympathetic consideration, not only on the part of the Government but also on the part of this House. Only one point more.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No more points.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH (Sukkur District): Sir, I heard with much interest and great concern some of the remarks of my honourable friend Mr. Karbhari. When he said that the big zamindars as well as the small zamindars should not pay the same rate of assessment,

[Khan Bahadur Allahbaksh]

I think he meant that we should have the system of income-tax. If I have understood him rightly, I for one would welcome it most. If the system of land revenue is converted into a form of income-tax, then I think every zamindar would welcome it, be he small or be he big. But if the object of my honourable friend was that by that means he was going to add something to the revenues of the Presidency he is entirely mistaken, because he will find that at present it is the zamindar who pays the greatest percentage towards the revenues of the Government by way of land assessment. In income-tax a man pays a tax varying from one pice to at the most 4 annas in the rupee; that is the maximum; a man who might be earning lakhs might be paying 4 annas in the rupee, whereas in the case of the zamindars, as the rates are at present, they have to pay more than 15 annas in the rupee out of their earnings by way of assessment to the Government. That is the minimum figure I would put with the present rates, but even when the prices were high, it was never less than 25 per cent. Sir, that is the position, and I know that the system of taxation is not properly distributed between the various classes of this Presidency.

I also heard some of the interesting remarks of the honourable member the Finance Secretary, when he said that the Sind Financial Enquiry Committee has remarked that there is some anomaly with regard to the water rate and the land revenue system in Sind. Quite true. When compared with the system in the Punjab and in the United Provinces, there is that anomaly. But the point is that in every country everybody is made to pay the taxes according to a certain capacity. Whether we divide the rates, that is water rate and land revenue, or whether we have the same system as at present, after all, it is a question what the zamindar should pay, whether it is taken in two ways or whether it is taken in one way. But I might say that there is no anomaly. If we compare the figures of the Punjab and the United Provinces with the figures in Sind, it will be seen that we pay more per acre than in the Punjab and the United Provinces. It has at times been stated by some honourable members, especially by my honourable friend Sir Charlton Harrison, who is not present here to-day, that the rate in Punjab is Rs. 8 and for certain crops Rs. 14, whereas in Sind the maximum is Rs. 6-10-0. That is true, but the question is, if in Sind a zamindar is paying Rs. 6-10-0 or Rs. 7 per acre, how much is that out of the earnings of the zamindar per acre, and when we hear that in the Punjab and the United Provinces they pay as much as Rs. 14 per acre for certain crops, what percentage is it out of the earnings of the zamindar in the Punjab and the United Provinces? That is the point which requires careful investigation and attention. It is no use saying that in the Punjab the rate is Rs. 14 per acre and in Sind it is Rs. 7. Why should we grudge it? The question is, what is the yield per acre? We would be quite prepared to pay a certain share, whatever Government or this House feels would be reasonable—20 per cent., 30 per cent., 40 per cent., 50 per cent., 60 per cent., or 70 per cent.; whatever is decided for the whole of the Presidency, Sind would be prepared to pay, or whatever portion of the yield is decided in other provinces, the United Provinces or the Punjab, Sind would be prepared to pay.

[Khan Bahadur Allahbaksh]

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: From the actual cultivation, or from the income of the landlord?

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: I would say, from whatever the zamindar gets after deducting his expenses; that is to say, after paying to the haris and after paying for silt clearance charges and the supervision charges, whatever they be, whatever goes to the zamindar, we would be prepared to pay any share of it to the coffers of Government, any share which is fixed by this House, on the principle that it will be applicable to the whole of the Presidency, because it is a question of the net assets which go to the zamindar. So, Sir, there is no objection to that.

Now, Sir, coming to some of the remarks which my honourable friend the Revenue Member made, he laid emphasis on the fact that it was a departure from the normal course, that in the past Government had never given remissions in the form in which they are giving them now. That is true. Moreover, he said that a settlement is a settlement, and therefore it is not desirable that he should leave to his successors such instances—that Government have given such sort of remissions in the past. In strict theory he is right. But, Sir, he cannot expect to get blood out of a stone, if I put it correctly. Sir, at present, as the rates are, I might say clearly what the position is. From 1,000 acres of land—rice land is the best land in Sind as is admitted—the maximum outturn would be 500 kharas, that is about 10,000 maunds of rice. The present price is Re. 1 per maund; that gives Rs. 10,000 for 10,000 maunds; that is the maximum I have taken for 1,000 acres and not the minimum. He gets 10,000 maunds of rice from 1,000 acres. The present price of rice is between Re. 1-6-0 and Re. 1-7-0, but Re. 1 per maund is the price which the zamindar gets after deduction of cartage, etc. Therefore, out of 1,000 acres he gets Rs. 10,000. Now, what has he to pay? The maximum assessment per acre is Rs. 6-10-0. The local cess would bring it to somewhere about Rs. 7-3-0. Then there are silt clearance and other charges.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. I should like to know from the honourable member as to how all this is strictly relevant to the general discussion on the budget. Probably, the remark made by the honourable member here meant without any danger to any system being tackled immediately or in the next year.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: Because, Sir, the question of revenue remissions in Sind as well as in the Presidency does affect the budget; it is not that it does not affect it. Therefore, it arises out of that that these remissions are necessary and are justified. Therefore, Sir, Rs. 7,000 will be the assessment; silt clearance and supervision charges will be about Rs. 2 per acre; that means a total expenditure of Rs. 9,000. That leaves practically no margin for the zamindar. The normal price of an acre of rice land—not in boom times, when prices were high, I do not want to quote boom figures—was about Rs. 400. So the price of 1,000 acres would be Rs. 4,00,000. Now, Sir, the interest on Rs. 4,00,000, even at 5 per cent. would be about Rs. 20,000. But the zamindar, owning 1,000 acres of rice land, after deducting the expenses of cultivation, has practically nothing to live upon. He does not get even a fair interest for his capital. Now, Sir, I ask my honourable friend the Revenue Member how long things can go on like this. We must change the system.

[Khan Bahadur Allahbaksh]

Then, Sir, another thing is that even if remissions are given in Sind, it is paid to the coffers of the Presidency in an indirect form. The remissions given last year were somewhere in the vicinity of Rs. 24,00,000. I might say that the fall in the prices of commodities has helped Government in an indirect form. From the figures which were supplied last year to the Sind Financial Enquiry Committee we find that the upkeep expenditure over the canals in Sind was somewhere in the vicinity of Rs. 70,00,000. On account of the fall in the prices of commodities Government have gained at least Rs. 30,00,000 as a result of the reduction in the cost of clearance of the canals. So, it is a question of only adjusting the system, because if Government are losing land revenue from Sind because of remissions, they are gaining in other forms. As I said, the rates for silt clearance and repairs to the canals have gone down. Therefore, if we put these two figures together, Government are not losers. Therefore, it cannot be said that the coffers of the Presidency, on account of the remissions in Sind, have been affected in any way. I heard some remarks of the honourable member Rao Bahadur Pradhan. He says that the people from the backward communities as well as Mussalmans have been recruited in the services at the cost of efficiency. I do not know where he brings that from.

Rao Bahadur G. V. PRADHAN: It is from the Government report to the Round Table Conference.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: It may be from the Government of Bombay in their despatch. But it has not been the intention of either the Mussalman or backward communities that Government should recruit from their communities at the cost of efficiency. Government can lay down the minimum qualification for every post, and if a man from any of these communities has not got that minimum qualification, he should not be appointed to that post. The Mahomedan community has received no encouragement at the hands of Government and this will be seen from the reply to a question asked by my honourable friend Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah. Out of the 30 executive engineers in the Public Works Department in Sind, there is one Mahomedan. There are only five Mahomedans among the clerks and among others there is none. We will be able to supply to the Honourable General Member any number of Mahomedan candidates, provided he lays down the minimum qualifications. If he says, "Here are the posts and I want men from your community," then it becomes the duty of our community to supply the men with the required qualification.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I now reduce the time limit to ten minutes. The Honourable the Finance Member would require at least 45 minutes. There are two or three members who desire to speak. We can stop these speeches at 12-15. However, honourable members who desire to speak, I hope, will finish even within ten minutes, if they can.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I had no mind to speak and I do not propose to make a long speech. I have been told by the honourable member who spoke last, that if I lay down the minimum qualification for these posts, he will produce people to take them up. I once again ask whether the honourable member can find out a single Mahomedan who is qualified and still has not been appointed in the Public Works Department in Sind. We have been distributing the appointments among all the communities, but we try to give preference to Mahomedans, if they are qualified. If there are no qualified Mahomedans, I cannot pick up any Mahomedan and put him as executive engineer. There is a paucity of Mahomedans as executive engineers because very few of them entered the All-India Services in the beginning. There is only one gentleman who entered, and he is an executive engineer. Taking the provincial services, I would refer the honourable member to the rules for recruitment to the provincial services where preference is given to the backward communities including Mahomedans. So, the honourable member will see that Government give every encouragement to the backward communities.

As regards the other appointments, the honourable member must realise that Mahomedans have taken to education very recently. Government have been trying their level best to give them preference in recruitment to appointments.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Sir, it is indeed a gratifying circumstance to note that the departments under my charge have not this time been subjected to the usual severe criticism as in the past by honourable members opposite. I may safely conclude from this that the non-official section of this House is indeed convinced and satisfied about the efficient and economic administration of the departments concerned.

The honourable member from Kaira (Rao Saheb Desai) raised two points in his speech. One of them referred to the closing of certain agricultural schools in the Northern Division and the other related to the curtailment of the boring operations. With regard to these two questions, I may remind the honourable member that these two points formed the subject matter of questions which were put and answered in this very session. I may again remind the honourable member that the replies given to these questions were given after mature consideration of the points involved therein. With regard to the Boring Department, I may inform the honourable member that deep boring has been stopped entirely, but as regards shallow boring, its activities have been curtailed and confined to precarious tracts in the Deccan. With regard to the machines which have been lying idle,

[Dewan Bahadur S. T. Kambli]

I may inform him that after full consideration, it has been decided to sell them by public auction. If any of the local bodies deem it profitable to utilise any of these boring machines, they are welcome to be bidders at the public auction.

With regard to the closing of some of the agricultural schools, I have already given it in my reply to the question put in this very session that the Royal Commission on Agriculture have positively condemned the Loni type of schools and that the schools which have been abolished are of the Loni type. The Commission further observed that agricultural bias schools should be encouraged. Government are encouraging agricultural bias schools wherever they are. On account of retrenchment and in pursuance of this recommendation of the Royal Commission, some schools of the Loni type have been abolished, and not for any other reason. These were the points referred to by the honourable member from Kaira and no other honourable member has raised any criticism with regard to the activities of the other departments.

Mr. V. N. PATIL (East Khandesh District): Sir, I rise to offer a few remarks without going into the history of the financial position of this Presidency which has been dealt with by some senior members of this honourable House. There are three ways suggested by the Honourable the Finance Member to meet the deficit of 73 lakhs this year—taxation, retrenchment and further borrowing. With regard to the third method, no one who knows the financial position of this Presidency will advise Government to go in for fresh borrowing. No doubt, a large part of the debt is what Government calls "productive". All the same, we know that during the last two or three years, Government have been meeting the deficit by borrowing. The present Government have already done a great harm to the new Government to be constituted under the new reforms by saddling them with a heavy burden of debt. The future Finance Minister will have a very hard task to deal with and the fate of many a future ministry will depend on a vote on this very difficult problem of budget which has been made worse by deficit-budgets year after year for some years past. Therefore, the present Government should make no commitments in that direction and hold tight the hands of the future Government. The Honourable the Finance Member is aware that it is unsound finance to borrow for ordinary expenditure. He told us so in his speech last year. But at that time he justified it on the ground that every other possible means had been tried to avoid it. I do not know whether everything possible had really been done. Every time the question of retrenchment is agitated in this honourable House, we are told that retrenchment has reached its last limit and there is no scope for further retrenchment. This is what the Honourable the Finance Member said in his speech last year:

"The scope for retrenchment is most limited owing to continued pruning in past years. The retrenchment newly enforced has definitely resulted in the withdrawal of amenities and the curtailment to some extent of even the necessary functions of Government."

After that speech, we know that a retrenchment committee was appointed, some of their proposals accepted and given effect to, and now

[Mr. V. N. Patil]

Government have come forward with a proposal to appoint an expert committee to overhaul the whole administrative machinery of this Presidency. This shows that the Government were not serious in effecting retrenchment. They took to it only when they were forced to do so by sheer circumstances. They have not approached the problem as a foresighted man would do. Now, Sir, I do not know why this expert committee is to be appointed. The whole matter has been exhaustively dealt with by the Retrenchment Committee. Perhaps some items of expenditure might not have been placed before them for consideration. All the same, I submit that the honourable member the Finance Secretary is a great expert and equally so the Honourable the Finance Member, who are in the know of the facts that are wanted in this connection and I think Government can formulate their own proposals without incurring any additional expenditure for another expert committee.

Then, the way in which retrenchment has been carried out calls for some criticism. The other day when I was at Jalgaon, I learnt that the services of many young clerks in the Revenue Department have been dispensed with. I must say that this is a cruel method of effecting retrenchment and, moreover, this is approaching the question from the wrong end. It would have been far better for Government to compulsorily retire the old men at the top rather than throw the youngsters in the streets. After all, the old man can live comfortably on his pension. It would have been a saving to Government if they had retired the old men drawing higher salary and replaced them by young men on less pay. When Government can maintain both the old and the young without any loss to themselves, I do not see any reason why young men should be thrown out of employment. That would unnecessarily add to the discontent that already exists in this country. If this is the attitude of Government, I am afraid the youngsters, if they are so inclined, will swell the ranks of those who participate in the civil disobedience movement. I request Government not to adopt this dangerous course. The injustice underlying this method of retrenchment is much more apparent when it comes to the dispensing of the services of young men from the backward communities who have taken to Government service only recently. I request Government to give their serious attention to this matter and withdraw the notices which have been already served on such young persons in the East Khandesh district, and in other districts as well, wherever they might have been so served.

There is another place where retrenchment would not be desirable. The other day there was in His Excellency's speech a reference to a proposal to reduce the size of the Cabinet to two Members and two Ministers. As far as the proposal relates to the reduction in the number of Members, we on this side have nothing to say, because under the new constitution those posts are to disappear. However, when it comes to reducing the number of Ministers, we certainly are against a proposal of this sort. Under the new constitution, the whole administration of this Presidency will be entrusted to the elected representatives of the people. It is, therefore, in the nature of things that the present Ministers who are the elected representatives of the people should be placed in such a position in the Cabinet at this time that they should be able to make their voice felt more effectively than perhaps they have been able to do so far.

[Mr. V. N. Patil]

There is another thing to which I would like to call the attention of the House, and that is the remark made by the honourable member representing the Bombay Chamber of Commerce (Mr. Winterbotham) the other day. He said something about decentralization. Attention has already been drawn to this matter by the honourable member from Poona (Mr. Kamat), but I would also like to refer to it. I do not understand what he means by decentralization. After all, if some posts in the Cabinet are abolished, those portfolios will be distributed among the remaining Members or Ministers as the case may be. I do not understand what he meant. If he meant by "decentralization" the transfer of powers from the Cabinet to the permanent heads of the Departments, we on this side of the House strongly oppose any such suggestion. We do not want the powers given to the elected representatives of the people to be given back to the permanent officials in the Services. That will be going back on the Reforms and will be a retrograde step.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Only one minute more.

Mr. V. N. PATIL: I have a lot more to say, and I think I had better stop here.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI (Kanara District): Sir, much of what I wanted to say has already been covered by honourable members who have already spoken.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: We are unable to follow the honourable member.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: The budget that is presented is not, after all, as dismal as it appears, as I shall show later on.

The Honourable the Finance Member says that the income is 12,60 lakhs and the expenditure is 13,20 lakhs. I would request the Honourable the Finance Member to see whether one crore of the expenditure on inams is a just entry. I think this one crore is only a paper figure. After deducting that one crore out of the 12 crores, only 11 crores will remain. Out of that again, 7 crores will go towards payment of interests, salaries and pensions. Whatever the members on this side of the House may say, I think there is an Act of Parliament and nothing can be done to reduce the salaries of the Civil Service. The interest charges on our debts we are bound to pay. So, we have to face hard facts, as stated by the honourable member the Finance Secretary. We have to see how to wipe out the debt. Out of the total land revenue of four crores, one crore is wiped out by inam lands and, after meeting the cost of collection, the rest goes towards payment of interest. I think that is a very bad state of affairs. I learnt yesterday that only 50 crores are the debts of this Presidency. I also learnt that there was a sinking fund.

[Mr. G. S. Gangoli]

I would have liked to go into the details of this budget, but the budget was sent to me rather very late. I received a copy on the 12th evening and I had to start the very next day from home, so that I had no time to consult anybody. I would also like to point out one way how retrenchment is worked out. That affects this House. We were asked what periodical reports were required by us and to reply having an eye on retrenchment. I do sympathise with this move to curtail the supply of reports by supplying only those that are really required by members. I replied giving a list of those reports which I really required, and I was expecting to receive them. But as soon as I went home after the last session, I received a letter that in view of retrenchment no copies of these reports would be supplied individually to members, but that five copies would be placed on the Council table. To read those reports we will have to come here seven days or a fortnight earlier.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: May I know from whom the honourable member received the intimation?

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: I think from the Legal Department.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: From the Legal Department?

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: I think so. As soon as I received this Blue Book (Budget), I wanted to consult somebody, but there was only a short time left. Moreover, there was a label attached to it saying that it was confidential. I did not see the propriety of it, but, as it was so labelled, I could not disclose it to any other person. Further I wanted to study all these figures just as a boy going for an examination. But there was no index for the figures. Without any index it goes hard to know what is contained in what page.

I find that the watch-words of this session are reforms, remission and retrenchment. We hear so much of the reforms. Of course, nothing is so near the heart of the Civil Service as reform. Of remissions and retrenchment much has been said. I have tabled three resolutions about them.

I come now to justify my statement that the budget is not so dismal as it appears. The budget is framed on the basis of the actuals of the last year and the estimates of this year, which again are based on the actuals of the first nine months of this year. So far as abkari and excise revenue is concerned, we have reasons to believe that the estimates will be exceeded. After the first nine months there is a rise in the last three months of the year. The actual income was, I learn, 1,24 lakhs. In Bombay City alone we hear that seven lakhs more than the estimates have been realised during the last month. If this improvement is maintained, then there will be no deficit at all. I think that a deficit budget is presented so that we may not press for remission of land revenue and for more expenditure on education.

So far as agriculturists are concerned, they have been hit very hard. So far as my district is concerned, there is not a single inch of railway in the entire district. Not even the matriculation examination is held there. Our immediate problem is how to keep the wolf off the door. I specially come here to plead poverty. Our district is most neglected. The Honourable the Revenue Member has not held out any hope of remission to our district, where our income is from garden lands in forests. The cultivators do not get any return for the assessments they pay. The villager is erased altogether from the consideration of the Government.

[Mr. G. S. Gangoli]

We find so much in the cities. But how are the top-heavy administrations in big cities run? Not from the income from the cities, because income from income-tax, excise, railways, posts and telegraphs, and stamps goes to India Government. We poor agriculturists pay land revenue and at our cost big cities are provided with so much comfort and we the poor agriculturists and villagers are neglected. If the steady rise in the revenue from abkari and excise is taken into consideration, there will be no deficit at all, and with a view that we may not press for remission we are presented with a muddled deficit budget.

Khan Bahadur A. E. PATEL (Northern Division): Mr. President, I only want to refer to the remarks of the Honourable the Revenue Member on paragraph 22 of Statement No. II in the report on the action taken by Government on the Retrenchment Committee's recommendations. I was particularly interested in that item, namely, "Amalgamation of Bombay and Bombay Suburban District, and abolition of Kolaba and Broach districts, etc." I am glad to hear that the matter is under consideration and that the Revenue Member thinks that this is a piece of retrenchment which is very unpopular with the masses. I hope that further consideration of the subject will convince the Honourable the Revenue Member of the futility of the attempt at amalgamation of certain districts and the amalgamation of certain talukas with other neighbouring talukas. The Government have not been able to show what saving it is going to make, but I understand that, after all, it is only a question of a few thousands. The saving of a few thousands does not at all justify this action on the part of the Government, as it will put the ryots and poor agriculturists to a great hardship. A centre of authority has got a powerful educative influence on the life of the people, and any change in it, though it sounds very simple and innocent, very vitally affects the interests of the district as a whole, socially, economically and commercially. The question of the abolition of collectorates also involves many other changes in the administration of the district. It will involve the reconstitution of the district local boards and various other matters connected with the units of administration amalgamated. So far as the Broach district is concerned, I would assure the Honourable the Revenue Member that although, in point of area, it is a small district, in the matter of revenue and even of population, it ranks higher than most of the districts in the Presidency, while the percentage of expenditure is comparatively very low. A district which pays the greatest amount of revenue ought not to be deprived of the ordinary facilities which are now given to it, and ought not to be made to suffer for the benefit of others. The district has stood as a unit of administration from a very long time, probably for more than a century, and I want to emphasise that it has got an individuality and importance of its own. Sir, formerly the civil administration was for some time joined to Surat. But after further consideration and experience, Government decided to establish Broach district as an independent unit. I do not think it would be in the interests of efficiency and in the interests of general convenience, both to the public and the Government, to join Broach district with Panch Mahals, because Panch Mahals is altogether separate territorially from Broach. As there is Gaikwar's territory coming between these two districts, it will be very difficult to maintain close touch with either of the districts, for their efficient management and administration. Take the case of police, for instance. In the case of a murder, immediate information has to be given to the District Superintendent of Police. If the Superintendent is in the interior of Vaghra taluka, it will take nearly four or five days for that information to be received from the distant part of Kalol in the Panch Mahals district. So administratively it will be impossible for the Government to carry on, without materially impairing its efficiency. Moreover, the people of the district and the citizens of Broach have their special grievances in this matter. The Broach people had thereupon convened a meeting to protest against the proposed change in the administration and a deputation was to wait upon His Excellency in connection with this question. But I am sorry His Excellency was of opinion that as the matter was yet under consideration, he did not think it would serve any useful purpose to hear the deputation at that stage. That being so, it remains for me to voice the feelings and ventilate the grievances of Broach district in this behalf on the floor of this House, in the hope that due importance will be attached to this question before any final decision is taken.

[Khan Bahadur A. E. Patel]

Then again, the question of amalgamation of Vaghra and Amod talukas. It is a question of only a few rupees, as has been pointed out by the deputation which waited upon His Excellency. A saving of about Rs. 6,000 does not help Government very much in the matter of retrenchment when a deficit to the tune of crores is in question. There is another suggestion for the amalgamation of Hansot and Ankleshwar talukas with a novel arrangement that Ankleshwar and Hansot should be joined to Surat. This again will create a very difficult position. Ankleshwar and Hansot have been very long joined to Broach district, I think from the time of the Nawab regime, and the people have many things in common with the Broach district rather than with the Surat district, and by joining Ankleshwar and Hansot to Surat it will be most inconvenient for people of that area to go a long distance to Surat for the redress of their ordinary grievances, and cut off all their interests and connections with the Broach district which is nearer home.

Similarly I have received a memorandum from the people of the Pardi taluka which is sought to be abolished and joined to Bulsar taluka. If that change is brought about, the people of Pardi taluka will have to go a long distance to Bulsar for even petty revenue work. The agriculturist ryots pay all sorts of taxation, both direct and indirect. In the matter of revenue almost all the burden falls on the poor agriculturist population which is, after all, the bulk of the population and which also forms the bulk of consumers. Such consumers who bear the whole burden of taxation ought not to be denied the ordinary facilities for a mere saving of a few thousands. When a taluka kuchery is abolished, the taluka loses all its importance and many other changes take place in the matter of local boards, etc. The taluka which has smaller representation on the local board also loses its importance as a separate unit and is merged in the bigger taluka where its interests, both economic and educational, are altogether neglected.

[Khan Bahadur A. E. Patel]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member's time is up.

Khan Bahadur A. E. PATEL: I will finish, Sir. I have spoken about the abolition of districts and talukas because I am more particularly concerned in this question, and more so because no other member has yet referred to it though it is rather a serious question for the ryots. So I want to bring to the notice of the Honourable the Revenue Member the advisability of dropping all these little items because they will not help Government in any way in the matter of retrenchment. Although no figures have been given, the saving, as I said, will not be more than a few thousands. Sir, such permanent administrative changes of a far reaching character which touch the inner life of masses at every point, are not justifiable at all, when we remember that the deficit budget is only a passing phase. Bombay is not going to be an insolvent Province for all time to come. In the meantime, the people of Vaghra taluka had suggested another way of meeting the temporary difficulty, namely, that if the Government did not deprive them of their ordinary facilities, they would be prepared to bear additional burdens, to meet the balance of the ordinary expenditure of the taluka if that was feasible.

[Bell rung to indicate that the honourable member's time was up.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Only one speaker, and I shall allow five minutes.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Sir, I congratulate the Honourable the Finance Member for placing the budget in our hands with frankness and without concealing any facts. At the same time I sympathise with him because he had considerable trouble in making both ends meet. But the odds being against him, he could not help placing a deficit budget in our hands.

Coming to particular points, I wish to touch education, medical and water supply. As regards education, I would like to reply to my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Pradhan. He has made a charge that the backward classes and Muhammadans are inefficient. That charge has always been levelled against these classes. It is a misfortune that the backward classes and Muhammadans are coming forward so very late.

[Dr. P. G. Solanki]

Perhaps it was owing to the apathy of the advanced class Hindus towards them. But now as they are coming forward, opportunities are being given to them. They take advantage of the educational facilities and come up to the service requirements. But wherever they are employed, in the Secretariat or in some other Government Departments, it is the advanced class brethren who are the advisers of the "steel frame" and it is the high class brethren who always select their own men, for whom they have a liking. Sir, the backward classes and Muhammadans have been hit hard in point of education. I will just put a comparative table before you. Look at the percentage of population of different communities: the advanced classes constitute 9 per cent. intermediate 57 per cent., backward 23 per cent. and Muhammadans 11 per cent. Out of these, the three latter constitute 91 per cent. and the amount of money spent on education is about 2 crores. If you take proportionately the expenditure incurred upon primary education and upon higher and university education, every soberminded person would find out that the lion's share of this expenditure goes for the education of the advanced classes. The Muhammadans and backward classes are starved. It is a great misfortune that though the Honourable Minister of Education is a Muhammadan, he could not help primary education when the axe of retrenchment fell upon it. A sum of 27 lakhs is cut down from education and 20 per cent. falls upon primary education. The Muhammadans and the backward classes and some of the intermediate classes are the hardest hit. Under these circumstances, how are we to have the most efficient men from amongst these people to compete with the advanced classes and the servants who are already in service for years together? They had the advantage of 150 years in education. They have reached the top and we are just trying to climb the hill, while the intermediate classes have reached half way. It is the Muhammadans and backward classes who are trying to climb, and these people who have reached the top of the mountain are crying halt. They say, "Here the question of efficiency comes in." Even the "steel frame" is siding with the advanced classes. They do not show sympathy for the Muhammadans and backward classes though they know they are hard hit. I appeal to my advanced class brethren that they ought to sympathise with these people and help them. When a candidate is appointed in an office, the poor fellow is made to sit in his chair and nobody goes to his help. The result is inefficiency. This policy of the Government and of advanced classes, the depressed and backward classes and Muhammadans resent.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Mr. President, during the last three days, several names have been given to the budget which I have presented to this House. Most of the honourable members have said that this is a very disappointing budget, that this is a deficit budget and that the Government have been presenting deficit budgets year after year. Some members characterised the budget as prodigal. Two statements about the debt position were also made. As the time at my disposal is short, I will reply to some of the salient points which were made in this debate.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

The first grievance of some of my honourable friends has already been replied to by the honourable member the Finance Secretary. That grievance is that we purposely prepare the budget in such a way as to create confusion in the minds of honourable members. That charge has been repeated even to-day; I am sorry to hear that. The Finance Department tries to make the Blue Book as easy as possible. Every conceivable information is given there. As regards the changes which have been made, I may say that they have been brought about according to the orders of the Auditor General. The Blue Book tries to give as lucid notes as it possibly can, and yet we are charged with having something at the back of our mind which makes us prepare this budget in such a way that honourable members cannot understand it. Far from it. Those senior members who are present here will, I think, corroborate me when I say that we have, during the last half a dozen years or more, been trying to make the Blue Book as lucid as possible.

The second charge is that we are not sending the books early enough for honourable members to study them. Honourable members have got to remember that we have to present to them the estimates of the current year and also prepare the estimates of the next year, and on the day that I get my own Blue Book, the Blue Books and the White Books are despatched to the honourable members. It is impossible for us to prepare these books earlier than we are now doing. It is not true that we purposely delay sending these books. We try to prepare them as early as possible and despatch them as soon as they are ready.

The honourable member the Finance Secretary tried to clear the debt position. I must also do that again. I have said repeatedly, and I have got to din it into the ears of honourable members, that the debt position as put forward by certain honourable members is not correct. Because I alluded to it, because I explained it, it does not follow—please do not misunderstand me—that I want to minimise it; but I want to express it in as clear words as I possibly can. There are two statements given in the Blue Book, statements C and D. These statements clearly explain as to what was the pre-Reform debt, as to what is the loan which is given to the three local bodies in Bombay, and what is the loan which is given out of the Development loan to these bodies, and what is also the amount which is in the Provincial Loans and Advances Account. Oftentimes a confusion is made between the Provincial Loans Fund and the Provincial Loans and Advances Account. The Provincial Loans and Advances account is a fund which pays its own way, out of which money is advanced to the agriculturists for improvements to lands and for other purposes. That loan is a self-supporting loan. Now this loan, when the Reforms came in, was about more than Rs. 3,00,00,000; I think it was about Rs. 3,27,00,000 or so. Honourable members know that we were to pay this off in 12 years, and the actual amount which remains to be paid is Rs. 15,66,000. That is also shown there. From statement D you clearly see what is the amount which was borrowed by this Government after the Reforms came in. There is the pre-Reform debt, which is mentioned there clearly, which is a funded debt, for which we merely pay the interest charges, because the rate of interest is very low. The option to pay the principal is with us. So, that is the pre-Reform Irrigation debt. There was also a debt for the Provincial Loans and Advances Account, which we had very nearly cleared off; the last instalment we have not paid this year. Then there is the debt shown for the Lloyd Barrage and the Bombay Development Scheme, and there are headings 3 and 4 for irrigation works and other purposes. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Chitale, who is a senior member of this House and who knows the Blue Book probably from the beginning to the end, now demurs to this statement and says, here is a Government which has sunk fifteen crores after the Reforms, that is, during the period of the last 10 years, in residential buildings alone. I repudiate it entirely; it is absolutely incorrect. He says that this Government is indebted to the extent of Rs. 71,00,00,000. I repudiate that charge; it is not correct. Now, what are the figures?

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: May I give a personal explanation, Sir?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: He may do it, but the time at my disposal is very short.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: If the English of the Accountant General is wrong, I am wrong. On page 9 of the Report of the Accountant General on the Appropriation Accounts of the Government of Bombay for the year 1929-30, the Accountant General has made certain remarks. I wish my honourable friend the Finance Member would read it.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I have read it; it was also read out by the honourable member the Finance Secretary, and the explanation was given.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: The Accountant General there, as against Rs. 40 crores of debts which he shows, says:

"As against this, the book value of the Irrigation and Navigation estate of Government was Rs. 2,803 lakhs and of residential and other buildings Rs. 1,582 lakhs."

"As against this" means, as against Rs. 40 crores that is the only asset.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I submit, Sir, the honourable member has the Blue Book, and he has in his hands even the book which I have in my hands. What is the state of things? I am merely giving figures up to 31st March 1932. Now, the figure of Rs. 71 crores is there, out of which Rs. 20,88,00,000 are given out to these local bodies; deduct that, and you get the figure of Rs. 50,00,00,000. Out of that you have got to deduct Rs. 20,27,00,000 for the Lloyd Barrage, because that is a work which is yet to be completed; that is a work which, today at any rate, we consider as a productive work. We are not paying out of revenue the interest charges on this work. So, we have got to deduct that, and that leaves a sum of Rs. 29,94,00,000. Out of that for the present I am deducting the Development loan for purposes which I shall explain; that is Rs. 12,66,00,000, leaving a margin of Rs. 17,00,00,000 and odd. Out of that Rs. 8,90,00,000 is the pre-Reform debt. Then there is a debt of Rs. 2,30,00,000 in the Provincial Loans and Advances Account, which pays its own way. Now, for the present leave aside the Development debt. If this Government has borrowed about seven, or eight or nine crores of rupees during the period of the last 10 years, and out of which two or three crores are spent for productive purposes, then what is that which you call unproductive? A road, a bridge, a central jail, judicial buildings at Poona and Karachi—all these are called unproductive works; then there is the Council Hall in which we are holding the session to-day. I have examined all the Public Works Department budgets from 1921 up to now, and what are the works under 60-Civil Works? Now this Council Hall has cost Rs. 7,00,000. The Kasheli bridge which joins two roads cost Rs. 30,00,000. There is the Central Jail at Nasik; the judicial buildings at Karachi cost Rs. 33,00,000; then Rs. 21,00,000 or Rs. 22,00,000 was the cost of the judicial buildings at Poona. All these works are called unproductive works. We are constructing roads in the Konkan; we are bridging rivers; we are bridging the Tapti; all these are unproductive. But are they not necessary? Is there any one who says that a civilised Government should not have roads, that a civilised Governmen should not bridge rivers, that it should hold its courts and offices under trees or in an open maidan? Is that the idea? If we have borrowed only a part of the money for such works, and if according to classification it is called unproductive debt, is it really unproductive? Will you not be obliged to rent a building for holding your courts? Will you not be obliged to house your prisoners, and how are you going to do it without jails? All these are technically unproductive; really they are not. We have built main trunk roads; we have bridged the Bombay-Agra road; those works may be unproductive, but they are absolutely necessary. The only residential buildings, so far as I know—there may be some others—which have been built during all these years are the ones at Khopri in the Thana district for the officers who did not have them, and they cost 11 or 12 lakhs of rupees. So, my submission to this honourable House is, please do not be carried away with the idea that this Government has spent Rs.15,00,00,000 during the space of 10 years in housing their officers. We are not such high personages who are being lodged in luxurious palaces like that. Fifteen crores of rupees during the period of 10 years for housing the officers!! I was actually taken aback. Now, Sir, the figures of debt of the various provinces were quoted; it was stated that the Madras Government had borrowed so much, the Punjab Government had borrowed so much, the Assam Government had borrowed so much, the United Provinces Government had borrowed so much, and so on. Now, there is the unfortunate mistake of the Back Bay, which is nearly a dead loss—I freely admit it; but as the honourable member the Finance Secretary pointed out, where is the good of harping upon it repeatedly? You have got to pay off that debt; then there is only a very small amount left; and for every debt that we have incurred, leaving aside the Back Bay debt and the Lloyd Barrage debt, we are actually paying interest charges and also making equated payments. We are paying off unproductive debts by equated payments spread over 30 years, and we are paying off productive debts by equated payments spread over 60 years. So, my submission to this honourable House is that if they study statements C and D, just take care to read them, they will know what the debt position of this Government is. If they care to see what works are carried out under 60-Civil Works, they will know what is an unproductive work, and what works are constructed out of some of the moneys which have been borrowed. I have got in my hand a statement of expenditure, and I will read it out for the information of the House. Forest Capital outlay Rs. 7,84,000, during the past 10 years. You want forest roads, don't you? Otherwise you cannot cut your forests. Then, Capital outlay on Public Health, i.e., Water Works and Drainage: Poona Water Works, Kirkee Water Works and Drainage Scheme, Rs. 44,56,000. I have shown what this capital outlay on civil works is. Even part of the expenditure on the Gateway of India is debited to these works. The amount is Rs. 3,95,37,000; that is the total amount, including roads, jails, public buildings, and everything. Then, Excise, Rs. 20,56,000, out of which nearly fifteen or sixteen lakhs were spent in purchasing the acetone factory, which is a paying proposition. Then 56-A (Reserved), Rs. 29,78,000. That is for the artillery maidan at Karachi. We are buying that maidan and paying to the military; so their buildings have been demolished, and we have been paying for that part of the amount. Then, Commuted Value of Pensions——

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Under which head are the court buildings which cost Rs. 60 lakhs?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: They are under 60-Capital Outlay on Civil Works, Rs. 3,95,37,000. Under that are included the Central Jail, court buildings, bridges, roads, and everything.

Then, I was referring to the payment of commuted value of pensions. Is not that the policy of Government, that there should be a commutation of pension? Does anybody want Government to go back upon it, or is it not in the interest of the Government servants that we should allow commutation of pension? In order that we should not plead want of funds, this policy has been adopted, viz., that we borrow and we make these payments; and we repay the debt by instalments in 15 years. Can it be said that the amount which we have borrowed is borrowed by a prodigal Government? As I said, I make an exception of the Back Bay scheme. I do not take into consideration the Lloyd Barrage, because it has yet to be completed and we also consider it as a productive work. So, barring the Bombay Development scheme, there is absolutely no reason to stamp or dub this Government as a prodigal or reckless Government.

Then, Sir, the cry of the House was retrenchment, retrenchment and retrenchment. Everybody said, "retrenchment," and to that cry was added, "'Well, you have not yet sufficiently retrenched. There is a committee which is going to be appointed, and unless we know the result of that committee's work, we shall not vote for your Finance Bills." Now, Sir, if I remember aright, last year, when I brought forward my first taxation Bill, I was told, "You are not going to appoint a Retrenchment Committee; unless you appoint a Retrenchment Committee and that committee examines your expenditure, we shall not vote for this Bill." All right; we did appoint a Retrenchment Committee. In November last year, when I came forward with the Succession Duty Bill, I was told, "Well, you have not told us what action you have taken on the Retrenchment Committee's recommendations." I said that on that day I got the report of the committee. But they said, "All the same, as Government are not in a position to tell us as to what action is taken on the Retrenchment Committee's report, we are not going to pass the Succession Duty Bill." Now, I have come forward and said that not only the Retrenchment Committee's cut has been accepted, but over and above that we have gone a step further; when that committee wanted a cut of Rs. 120 lakhs, we have taken a cut of Rs. 136 lakhs. I further said that we are ready to appoint another expert committee; we are not going to stop at what we have done so far. That expert committee will re-organize the departments if they like. And now honourable members say, "Let the result of the expert committee's work be known, and we will then vote for fresh taxation." So, I submit, Sir, that I have tried to meet them in every possible way. The Retrenchment Committee was appointed, its report was considered and not only their recommendations were accepted, but we went one step further. We want that there should be a further examination. According to our ideas we have retrenched to the utmost. What is the idea of the opposition benches when they say that there is still room for retrenchment? At the same time they say, "Do not cut education, do not cut medical relief, do not cut veterinary." The honourable member Mr. Patel says, "Do not abolish the Broach District." Do not amalgamate this taluka or that taluka, they say. Wherever we try to effect retrenchment, they say, "No". What other retrenchment can we effect? The interest charges have to be paid, the amount for appropriation and avoidance of debt has got to be paid and the commuted value of pension has to be paid. As regards Police and Jails, if there is the civil disobedience movement, the police must be there and the jails must be there. Not only that, the expenditure will have to be increased. If you take a total of all this, the balance is about 10 crores. Medical relief and veterinary should not be touched. There remains a balance of 9 crores. This 9 crores includes the sundry departments which take away about Rs. 1,35,00,000. Out of this 9 crores, two crores is for education. There remains 7 crores. Where is the margin out of which economies can be effected? Even if all the tall poppies are cut, even then it is not possible to retrench to the tune you want us to do. Even assuming that there is scope for retrenchment, do you not want additional money for education, do you not want additional money for the Agricultural Department? If there is the slightest margin, I am prepared to admit

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

it. The land revenue will go down. The Honourable the Revenue Member has given remission of 3 annas in Thana, Kolaba and Ratnagiri districts and 4 annas in parts of Kanara and Belgaum districts. The honourable member from Kolaba was not present it seems——

Mr. N. N. PATIL: There is no remission for Kolaba.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: There is a remission of 2 annas for Kolaba. All this remission means loss of revenue. The revenue that is estimated will not be realised, and yet the honourable member Dr. Dixit says from his experience of the Surat District, "Why should we not push up the figure under land revenue; why should we not push up the figure under Excise?" Because we realised in Bombay some 7 lakhs more, he wants us to push up the figure under Excise. Year after year our bitter experience has been that we have been more optimistic. We have been putting down revenues which we never realised. Assuming that the honourable member Dr. Dixit is correct and we get some more revenue, have we not got expenditure for that amount? We have to restore the cut in the salaries. Some honourable member said that the emergency cut on roads and building repairs should be restored. The total of all this comes to 50 lakhs. These are emergency cuts which will have to be restored, if more revenue comes in. Is that any reason for not balancing our budget? How will you fill in the gap of 96 lakhs?

Some honourable members thought that we ought not to take a pessimistic view of our revenues. I have taken the revenue for nine years from the year 1921. I have calculated the average which comes to 14·4 crores. I have taken the average also for the next three years which comes to Rs. 12,49,00,000. There is a difference of Rs. 1,55,00,000. How is this gap to be filled up? The revenue has fallen and I have already sounded a note of warning. Unless there are fresh sources of revenue, even in normal times this Presidency will have to meet deficit more and more. We do not know whether new sources of revenue will come to us. Are we to go on borrowing for current expenses? One honourable member quoted my speech which was made last year to show that I was against borrowing, for current expenses. I am against borrowing, and the necessity we were put to for borrowing has entailed an additional charge of 15 lakhs by way of interest. Some honourable member suggested that we can borrow for current expenses. Can we do it? In the same breath they say that this Government has piled up the debts and this Government is prodigal. Do you want to see this Government sink deeper and deeper into the mire of debt? We can borrow for productive purposes and we can borrow for unproductive works as I have described. We should not borrow for current expenses. We have done our level best and we are going to have an experienced officer, Sir Frederic Gauntlett, who knows the working of all the presidencies. Let him show us the way. The honourable member Mr. Patil asked whether we cannot do it. A doctor does not usually treat his own child because he takes an exaggerated view of the illness. It is a father's affection for his children. We have done our best and we find we cannot go further. Let him tell us that we are wrong. If we are convinced that we are wrong, we shall remedy that. I am sorry to see honourable members opposing the finance Bills, even before hearing my speech on the subject. Even before they begin to discuss the merits or demerits of the Bills, they are anxious to tell the Government that they have come prepared to vote against them. I must tell them that it is a most unreasonable attitude. This money we are raising for your ultimate good. You will not be justified in piling up debts by borrowing for current expenses throwing the burden on the future generation. One honourable member stated that the Finance Department of this Government has made the position of future Minister for Finance so difficult that he would find it very difficult to make both ends meet. Do you want that that position should be made worse by borrowing for current expenses ?

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Mr. V. N. PATIL: There was a reference that the deficit should be met by borrowing. I said that there should be no further borrowing.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If the sources are pointed out to me, I will not borrow one farthing.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: May I point out one source ? I have told this House on a former occasion that the increased cost of the establishment since the Reforms is something like Rs. 1,25,00,000. Government have retrenched to the extent of 37 lakhs by the 10 per cent. cut. There still remain, therefore, a possible 88 lakhs by way of enhanced cost of establishment. Even after allowing a margin for the higher cost of living in recent years, I believe there is evidently still room for retrenching cost of establishment.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: There is a special statement given of expenditure under the different departments, so that honourable members may compare the expenditure under the different departments. They will find that the expenditure has mostly grown up in the transferred departments. My honourable friend from Ahmednagar (Rao Bahadur Chitale) shakes his head.

The honourable member Mr. Surve is at a loss to understand why we are giving a sort of contribution to Inamdars by way of a crore of rupees. That is not so. If he will refer to page 116 of the White Book, he will find that there is a sum of Rs. 83,00,000 by way of Warshasans, Devasthans, and so on. The bulk of this one crore cannot be called expenditure. If you look at that page, the total comes to 96 lakhs, but I do not take into consideration the amount spent for the village services, useful to the community and useful to the Government. There is a sum of 83 or 84 lakhs which is for inams, which is shown as expenditure but which is not an expenditure. It is payment to the inamdars. The honourable member Mr. Kamat said that in Madras also they give 24 lakhs as inams. The honourable member the Finance Secretary looked into the matter. That is a sum which is given as remuneration to the village servants for the service they render.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: Is this amount to be paid in cash? They are alienated lands.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: They are Warshasans, saranjams, devasthans, and so on, which are payments from the treasury—some of them cash and some of them inam lands. They are shown in the budget as expenditure.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: Does it not include alienated inam villages? Do you include the revenue villages which are enjoyed by inamdars?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: A corresponding entry is not made.

Mr. V. N. JOG: May I know whether it is credited to revenue and a double entry made?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: It is a double entry; the entry on one side is balanced more or less by the entry on the other side. Although you call it an item of expenditure, it is not an item of expenditure as such. Government gets no services in return for the 83 lakhs given. Eighty-three or eighty-four lakhs are paid out of the treasury for which Government gets no services in return.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: The amounts of the income from alienated villages are included on the revenue side.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: The inamees merely pay the judi. The whole revenue amount is shown as expenditure.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: It is also shown on the credit side.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I have already explained that. There are only five minutes more. As regards those works which are completed, the repair and maintenance charges cannot be charged to capital. Therefore, the charges incurred on those canals which are completed are debited to the revenues.

Now, as regards my honourable friend Mr. Jog, the revised figures of salaries show a reduction varying from 12½ to 33⅓ per cent. These figures are published. So, it is not correct to say that we are paying the new entrants the old salaries. That is also a reply to my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale. All the new entrants are being paid the new scales; but, where new scales have not been framed, there is a cut of two annas in the rupee. As regards all-India services, there is published a scale of future salaries.

There are some minor points made out. One relates to the recruitment of I. M. S. officers. Now, some I. M. S. officers have got to be taken up on the Civil List when there is no war. There is a certain scale fixed and, according to that, certain officers have to be provided with civil employment. That is why they are with us.

As regards the abolition of two posts of district deputy collectors, I do not know what circumstances there are in the district of the honourable member who proposed it. I do not understand why he does not want a single district deputy collector for his district, when in several other districts there are three district deputy collectors. If there is any reason for abolishing them, he should make a representation to the Honourable the Revenue Member.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

As regards the complaint about the cut on Education, I can say that it is a pro rata cut, and perhaps less than a pro rata cut. If the local bodies are handicapped by the reduction, they have to take into consideration the cut in salaries and cut in establishment that Government have effected and reduce their expenditure. When we make an all round cut, necessarily that cut will fall upon the local bodies also.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think the point raised by Rao Bahadur Naik and pursued by some honourable members was met by the Honourable the Finance Member. But there are certain entries in the White Book, which might be explained, if the Honourable the Finance Member has no objection, by the honourable member the Finance Secretary.

Mr. G. WILES: I thank you, Sir, for giving me this opportunity. There seems to be some misapprehension about these inam lands. The fact is the whole assessment of these inam lands is shown as revenue. On the other side——

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: We know it is credited and debited.

Mr. G. WILES: Let me speak. The whole of the nuksan is shown on the expenditure side. So that the revenue side is unduly swelled by revenue which we do not get and the expenditure side is also swelled by expenditure which we do not incur. That is the whole point. In other provinces there is nothing similar to this, and, therefore, there can be no comparison.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: At page 166 of the White Book a sum of 65 lakhs and odd is shown against the name of inamdars. What I said was that these inamdars have not been giving any revenue to our Government.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: We cannot forfeit the inams. [Interruption.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: Sir, on a point of information. The Honourable the Finance Member said that the cut in Education was pro rata and perhaps even less. May I know from him how he has arrived at that conclusion? In General Administration he says the cut is 19 lakhs. That is out of a total of 2,25 lakhs. The total under Education is only 1,99 lakhs, but there is a cut of 27 lakhs.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: It is really not 27, because part of the Education grant is shown under Industries. As I said, 10 crores is the expenditure that can be retrenched—deducting interest and other necessary charges. Two crores is one-fifth of ten crores. If you divide 1,35 lakhs by 5, you will get 27 lakhs.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: You have cut it pro rata. But have you done the same with General Administration?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: You will please deduct out of the figure for General Administration the figure for inam lands. The eighty-three lakhs for inams is shown under General Administration.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: General Administration is 2,25 lakhs. There is a grave mistake. [Interruption.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. There seems to be no agreement on this point.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Those honourable members who are not satisfied with the reply can see the Honourable the Finance Member or the honourable member the Finance Secretary.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The House is now adjourned to 2 p.m., on Monday, the 22nd February 1932.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS

Monday, the 22nd February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Monday, the 22nd February 1932, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHUTTO, Sir SHAH NAWAZ
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.

KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KIRKE-SMITH, Mr. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
MCELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MODI, Sardar DAVAR T. K.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCE, Sir REGINALD
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.

VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WADKE, Mr. B. P.
WILES, Mr. G.
WINTERBOTHAM, Mr. G. L.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT: CONFIRMATION OF ACTING CLERKS.

*Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) How many acting clerks are working on the staff connected with the offices of the Deputy Educational Inspectors and Educational Inspectors in the Presidency?

(2) Will Government be pleased to state the length of service of each of them?

(3) (i) When do Government intend to confirm them in service?

(ii) Will Government be pleased to state reasons why they are not confirmed as yet?

(4) (i) How many such clerks were confirmed since the year 1924?

(ii) Will Government be pleased to state particulars as to their full names, qualifications, dates of joining service and confirmation as well as their present appointment and duties?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) 30 on 1st October 1931.

(2) Their length of service ranged from one month to nearly twelve years.

(3) (i) and (ii) The clerks have not been confirmed because there are still some District Local Boards in the Northern Division which have not taken over control of primary education. The question of their confirmation is at present under consideration.

(4) (i) 3.

(ii) Government do not propose to collect this information.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: The answer to question (4) (i) is that three clerks were confirmed since the year 1924. May I know whether these clerks were senior to those who were not confirmed?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I cannot say; they might be.

VISUAL INSPECTOR.

*Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) When was the post of Visual Inspector created?

(2) What is the cost of maintenance of this post and of the staff attached to it?

(3) What are the duties of the Visual Inspector?

(4) How many Deputy Educational Inspectors in each district in the Presidency are provided with magic lanterns?

(5) Are they successfully worked with the assistance of the subordinate staff?

(6) Is it a fact that almost all Government high schools are supplied with magic lanterns and that they are successfully worked by competent assistant teachers ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (1) In November 1920.

(2) Rs. 10,756 in 1930-31.

(3) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to paragraph 128 of the Report on Public Instruction in the Bombay Presidency for the year 1920-21 for the information.

(4) The Senior Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector or Deputy Educational Inspector in each district is provided with a lantern.

(5) and (6) Yes.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT, INSPECTING STAFF : EXPENDITURE.

*Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District) : (1) What was the net total expenditure on account of the inspecting staff of the Educational Department in the Presidency in the years 1910, 1920 and 1930, respectively ?

(2) What was the number of boys studying in the various primary and secondary schools in the Presidency in the years 1910, 1920 and 1930, respectively ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (1) and (2) The required information is given below :—

	Expenditure on Inspecting Staff.		Number of pupils in Primary and Secondary schools.
	Government Funds.	Total.	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Rs.	Rs.
1910 ..	3,73,429	4,75,384	644,717	116,170	760,887
1920 ..	8,86,750	8,93,633	674,048	168,447	842,495
1930 ..	11,02,787	15,07,123†	947,797	250,262	1,198,059

†Inclusive of the Inspecting staff transferred to or appointed by the Local Authorities.

GOVERNMENT HOSPITAL, KARACHI : FOOD.

*Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Karachi Government Hospital authorities require poor indoor patients to provide their own food ;

(b) if so, since when it is being done ;

(c) what are the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : From the middle of last year, in view of the retrenchment in the grant for diets, those patients who could afford to bring their own food were asked to do so ; but no patients who could not afford to do so were asked to bring their own food.

LOCAL BOARD, POONA: KHADAKWASLA-SINHGAR ROAD.

*Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the income from the three forest kurans of Dharjai from Ghera Sinhgar is being credited to the District Local Board, Poona, to meet the charges of repair and maintenance of the road from Khadakwasla to Sinhgar Fort;

(b) if not, why not;

(c) how do Government intend to compensate the Board for the money spent by it over the road?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) No.

(b) Because the Kurans are in charge of the Forest Department.

(c) Since 1905 Government have been making liberal grants to District Local Boards for local works. In the Central Division every local board gets a grant equal to 50 per cent. of the expenditure incurred by the Board on roads during the previous year plus Rs. 200 per mile of metalled roads maintained by it, in addition to grants for original works and special repairs. Thus there is no reason why Government should give any sum for this particular road in addition to what the District Local Board, Poona, gets for road maintenance.

BRIDGE OVER KUKADI AT PIMPALVANDI.

*Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the public travelling on Poona-Nasik road are much inconvenienced owing to the absence of adequate means of crossing the river Kukadi at Pimpalvandi;

(b) whether the plans and the estimates of the bridge in question are ready; if so, whether they are sanctioned and provision of the amount for the work has been made from the fund which is now at the disposal of the Government;

(c) whether they intend to take up the work of constructing the bridge across the said river before the forthcoming Sinhastha Fair begins; if not, the probable date of making a beginning in the work of construction?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes.

(b) No. They are under preparation.

(c) The work will be taken in hand after the plans and estimates are sanctioned and funds allotted.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: In what year did the engineer take the preparation of the plans in hand and when will the plans and estimates of the scheme be completed?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The plans and estimates are under preparation and are expected to be completed in due course.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: But in what year did the engineer take the preparation of the plans and estimates in hand?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: If the honourable member gives me notice, I will find it out for him.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR: Can it be started this year?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: No, it cannot be started this year.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR: When is the construction likely to start?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The answer to (c) is quite clear. It will be taken in hand after the plans and estimates are sanctioned and funds are allotted.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Is it a fact that the plans and estimates of the bridge of full height were ready, but the idea of having that construction being abandoned the scheme of constructing the causeway in its place has been taken in hand and for that purpose the separate plans and estimates are being prepared now?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The answer to (b) is clear. The plans and estimates are under preparation.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: What plans and estimates are under preparation? Plans of the bridge or the causeway?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: It is an answer to the original question put by the honourable member.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: When will the work of preparing plans be finished?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: It is a new question altogether. I would require notice of the same.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT: ASSISTANT ENGINEERS.

*Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District): (1) Will Government be pleased to state how many assistant engineers are attached to the office for doing office work in each circle of the Public Works Department?

(2) How many Sub-divisional charges are held by (a) temporary assistant engineers, (b) temporary supervisors, and (c) temporary overseers in each circle?

(3) Why are sub-divisional charges held by temporary men not given to permanent assistant engineers or to suitable permanent overseers in pursuance of the policy laid down by Government?

(4) Is it a fact that temporary supervisors accept the post of permanent supervisors on a reduced scale of pay?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN:

(1) Chief Engineer, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction and the Superintending Engineers under him.	6 including one temporary Assistant Engineer.
Chief Engineer in Sind and the Superintending Engineers under him.	3
Northern Circle	3

Central Circle	3
Deccan Irrigation Circle	1
Irrigation Development and Research Circle	4
Southern Circle	1
Public Health Circle	2
(2) (a) Chief Engineer, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction and the Superintending Engineers under him	35
Chief Engineer in Sind and the Superintending Engineers under him	1
Northern Circle	2
Deccan Irrigation Circle	1
Irrigation Development and Research Circle	1
Electrical Engineer	2
(b) Chief Engineer, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction and the Superintending Engineers under him	24
Public Health Circle	4

(c) Nil.

(3) Government have not laid down any definite policy in this respect. Permanent Assistant Engineers are intended for the charge of Sub-divisions and Temporary Assistant Engineers are given Sub-divisional charges only when suitable permanent officers of that class are not available. Only in exceptional cases, when permanent or temporary Assistant Engineers or Supervisors are not available, are permanent Overseers given Sub-divisional charges.

(4) Permanent Supervisors belong to the old Upper Subordinate establishment, to which recruitment has already been stopped. There can, therefore, be no occasion for temporary Supervisors to accept posts of permanent Supervisors even on reduced pay. Temporary Supervisors desirous of joining the Bombay Subordinate Engineering Service can, however, be appointed as permanent Overseers with a reduction of their existing pay on temporary establishment.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: From the reply to 2 (b) I find there are 28 temporary supervisors who are in charge of sub-divisions. There are many permanent overseers who are senior in service and who are more experienced than the temporary supervisors and they have been acting as sub-divisional officers for many years, but they are not given charge of sub-divisions now after the amalgamation of the Barrage with the Public Works Department. Why has preference been given to the temporary supervisors?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: If the honourable member reads the whole reply, he will find out the reason.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: The reply is not very clear.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: How many assistant engineers are attached to the Superintending Engineer's office, and how many to the offices of the Executive Engineers?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: If the honourable member gives notice, I shall find out.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: It seems in the Public Health Circle two assistant engineers are attached to the Superintending Engineer's office. Is there any necessity for their being attached to the office instead of their being put in charge of some sub-division in his charge ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The Public Health Department is under the charge of the Honourable Minister, but as a matter of courtesy, I have answered the question.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Is the Honourable Minister prepared to answer the question ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I have not followed the question, Sir.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: There are two assistant engineers attached to the office of the Superintending Engineer, Public Health Department, and my question is whether there is any necessity for two hands ? One assistant engineer is generally sufficient for carrying on the office work of the Superintending Engineer.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I was in charge of this portfolio for some time, and as far as I remember, one man is doing the work of preparing plans of the various schemes that are being designed with regard to drainage and other things. The other attends to the office work and helps the Superintending Engineer. He more or less acts as his personal assistant.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Is it a fact that there is a separate engineer for preparing projects under the Superintending Engineer, Public Health Department, and if the post be taken into account, there would be three engineers attached to his office in all ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I am speaking from memory. I have given what explanation I could.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Also there are four temporary supervisors holding sub-divisional charges and getting Rs. 50 per month extra allowance for this duty. If so, is it not necessary to give this post in these days of financial stringency to the assistant engineers or overseers attached to the office ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The question is not clear, Sir.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: These are all matters of detail, and if the honourable member gives me notice I promise to furnish him with all the information that he requires.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: With regard to part 4, may I know when and why recruitment under permanent supervisors was stopped ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Because we now have the Subordinate Engineering Service and the Bombay Engineering Service, we have a sufficient number of officers in these services.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Then why did they have temporary supervisors ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : They might be old hands continuing in that grade.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Do they all have enough work to do ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : They must have ; otherwise, they would not be employed.

LAND EROSIONS IN SIND.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that lands in Karachi District and also in some other districts of Sind are eroded by the river year after year ;

(b) whether it is a fact that those very lands are in certain cases thrown out by the river after a certain period ;

(c) whether it is a fact that lands so thrown out are not returned to their original owners ;

(d) whether it is the intention of Government to return the lands so thrown out during the last five years to the original owners of these lands ;

(e) if not, the reasons therefor ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) and (d) When the land thrown out by the river is identifiable it is returned to the original owners. When it is not identifiable it is given to such of the zamindars in the neighbourhood as have suffered by erosion according to their respective claims, unless their daryakhurdi claims have been otherwise satisfied.

(e) Does not arise.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID : May I know since how long this practice has been in force ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : Longer than I can remember.

BARSI LIGHT RAILWAY : TAX AT BRIDGE OVER BHIMA RIVER.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the Barsi Light Railway is recovering a tax of 6 pies per head per crossing from the agriculturists using the side footpaths of the Railway Bridge on the Bhima River near Pandharpur ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the whole cost of the bridge incurred by the Railway Company has been recovered from the extra railway fare levied on the passengers ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. The total amount recovered by the Barsi Light Railway by way of pontage charges has exceeded the cost of the bridge.

Mr. J. G. MORE : When the cost of the bridge was recovered from the public, may I know why this special additional tax was imposed by the Barsi Light Railway Company on the foot-path passers ? Is it fair ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I assume that this bridge requires a good deal of money spent on annual repairs. I suspect that is probably the reason why the Barsi Light Railway Company still charge this small fee on the foot passengers.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Has he made enquiries regarding this?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: No.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Are the Government going to make any enquiries?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I do not think so. It is a perfectly reasonable proposition.

Mr. J. G. MORE: I have heard that no tax has been gathered in one month.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I understand quite well what the honourable member wants. I suggest that he should address his representations to the Company.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: May I know what kind of agreement has been entered into by the said company with the Government for levying this tax of six pies?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: The agreement was that they should be allowed to levy a tax of six pies per head.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Till what period?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I think there was no time limit. But if the honourable member wants to be perfectly certain about that, he must put a separate question.

"AT-HOME" TO COLLECTOR OF SHOLAPUR.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the Managing Committee of the Urban Co-operative Credit Bank, Pandharpur, offered an "At Home" to the Collector of Sholapur, Mr. H. F. Knight, I.C.S., in the month of January last;

(b) whether the expenditure of the "At Home" was from the funds of the Bank;

(c) if so, whether such expenditure out of the shareholders' money without their consent is approved by Government?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) The Bank was "At Home" to a number of guests on the occasion of the opening by the Collector of the Bank's godowns.

(b) Yes.

(c) Government cannot give their opinion as the matter is sub judice.

Mr. J. G. MORE: With regard to (a), does the Honourable Minister mean to reply that at the At-Home offered to the Collector there were many other guests?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Certainly.

Mr. J. G. MORE : Then it must be that the At-Home must have been offered by the Bank to the Collector. Is it not so ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : A number of guests were invited along with the Collector.

Mr. J. G. MORE : My question is whether the At-Home was specifically offered to the Collector.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : I think my answer is quite clear on the point.

Mr. J. G. MORE : When an At-Home is offered to a distinguished guest, there are other guests or friends invited. I want to know whether this At-Home was specifically offered to the Collector by the Bank.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : I repeat that my answer is quite clear, and I do not think it necessary to add anything to it.

Mr. J. G. MORE : I beg to submit, Sir, that the answer is not clear.

DISTRICT LOCAL BOARD, SHOLAPUR : LOCAL FUND CESS.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the District Local Board of Sholapur in 1923 raised the local fund cess from one anna to two annas on the ground that the additional taxes proposed by the Board on trade, professions and other callings were not sufficient to meet the expenditure incurred on account of primary education ;

(b) if so, whether the District Local Board levied taxes on trade, professions and other callings ;

(c) whether it is a fact that this additional levy of local fund cess of one anna was to be spent in addition to what the Board used to spend for primary education ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the Board spent 16 pies out of this two-anna local fund cess from 1925 to 1928 ;

(e) whether it is a fact that the District Collector of Sholapur as head of the District Local Board during supersession period reduced this primary education expenditure from 16 pies to 12 pies ;

(f) if so, for what purposes the balance was spent ;

(g) what is the exact amount so spent ;

(h) whether it was found to be an unauthorised expenditure ;

(i) whether Government disapproved of this ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) It was not intended that the whole of the proceeds from the increased cess should be used only on primary education in addition to what the Board used to spend on that account.

(d) The District Local Board paid 16 pies to the School Board, but the whole amount was not actually spent by the School Board.

(e) Yes, as a very large balance was lying idle with the School Board and the budget of the Local Board was not sufficient to meet the other obligatory demands on the Board, as a tentative measure only 12 pies out of 24 pies of cess were paid to the School Board.

(f) The amount was spent on the objects which are obligatory on the Board, i.e. dispensaries, veterinary dispensaries, vaccination, cholera, roads, water supply, etc.

(g) No separate account for the balance has been maintained and it was merged in the general balance of the Board for every year and the whole general balance of the Board was budgeted for the above subjects.

(h) No.

(i) No.

Mr. J. G. MORE: With regard to (a), I wish to know whether the reply given by the Honourable Minister is to a part of the question or to the whole question.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: I do not follow the honourable member. The reply is very clear. There were only two alternatives placed by the board: one was to levy a profession tax, and the other was to increase the local fund cess from one anna to two annas. The board decided to drop the former proposal and put up only the latter. So the former was not at all considered by Government.

Mr. J. G. MORE: With reference to (a), to the question whether the cess was raised from one anna to two annas for the purpose of meeting the expenditure on primary education, the answer is in the affirmative. In part (c), the question asked is "whether it is a fact that this additional levy of local fund cess of one anna was to be spent in addition to what the Board used to spend for primary education;" and the reply to that is, "It was not intended that the whole of the proceeds from the increased cess should be used only on primary education in addition to what the board used to spend on that account." When he replies to part (a) of the question in the affirmative, how is it possible that this increased cess was not intended exclusively for purposes of primary education?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: It was not intended that the whole of the tax realised by the difference of the additional one anna should be spent on education. That is not intended by my reply to part (a). Moreover, the school board has money available, more than it requires, whereas the district local board has not got enough money to meet its obligatory expenses, and therefore it is but proper that the money that is required for the regular, daily expenses should be first provided. I should like to know whether the honourable member means to say that the school board is not given enough money. Is that the point?

Mr. J. G. MORE: My point is this. The board passed a specific resolution in 1923 that this extra cess was to be spent exclusively on primary education. That was the resolution of the board. The board had given the people to understand that this extra cess of one anna would be spent exclusively for primary education purposes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Where is that here? That is probably the honourable member's private information or knowledge.

Mr. J. G. MORE: I think the Honourable Minister must have got this information from the District Local Board. What I mean to say is that this extra cess ought to be spent primarily for education purposes as per resolution of the Board, but it is being spent by the district local board for other purposes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not see the inconsistency between (a) and (c). In part (a) the honourable member asked whether this tax was raised from one anna to two annas because the board were not in a position specially to meet the expenditure incurred on primary education, and the reply is, yes. In part (c) the honourable member has asked whether it is a fact that this additional levy of local fund cess of one anna was to be spent in addition to what the Board used to spend for primary education, and the reply is, "It was not intended that the whole of the proceeds from the increased cess should be used only on primary education.". It appears from the reply that there was an insufficiency of funds, and they adopted the method of raising the local cess from one anna to two annas. Out of that the expenses were met. Probably there was a little surplus and out of that other expenses were also met. There is no inconsistency between (a) and (c) to pursue the supplementary question at all.

Mr. J. G. MORE: When the board passed the resolution——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is not before us.

Mr. J. G. MORE: When the cess was raised, was sanction given to the board to raise the cess?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: If the sanction had not been given, the cess would not have been raised.

Mr. J. G. MORE: When the money was spent for other purposes, was there any sanction from Government?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member's question is: What was the sanction for and why was the cess increased?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The cess was increased with a view to meet the additional expenditure incurred on education. It does not mean that every farthing that is realised out of the tax must be spent for education, if no funds were necessary.

Mr. J. G. MORE: The sanction is required.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The second question the honourable member wishes to ask is whether any sanction is necessary to use any amount out of that cess for any other purpose?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: What year does he refer to? He is perhaps referring to the period during which the board was under supersession and the Collector was in charge. It is presumed he must have got the sanction. I will not be able to say now without reference to papers.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: About the year 1925, Government have issued a Government Resolution in which they have made it permissible to spend this amount also on communications.

Mr. R. B. SHINDE: I want to know whether Government have given special sanction to the district local board to raise the cess from one anna to two annas specifically for using the proceeds on education? Is it not wrong if this money has been used on non-educational purposes?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: My reply is in the negative.

Mr. M. M. KARBHARI: If this additional one anna cess has been sanctioned by Government specially on the district local board asking the Government that this should be utilised for educational purposes, will the board be justified in diverting——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: This question has been asked in another form and there was no reply.

LAND REVENUE COLLECTION, MADHA TALUKA.

*Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in Madha Taluka, district Sholapur, the Mamlatdar has collected revenue arrears of past years from certain villages;

(b) if so, from what and how many villages;

(c) why the Mamlatdar did so?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) Yes.

(b)

Name of village.	Amount collected. Rs. a. p.
Tandulwadi	177 1 0
Nandgaon	16 10 0

(c) The above collections were made by the Mamlatdar before receipt of Government orders regarding resuspension of suspended arrears. No collections were made after receipt of the Government orders. Rs. 92-9-0 were refunded to cultivators of Tandulvadi; the remaining amounts were credited against last year's and the current year's demands.

Mr. J. G. MORE: The order was issued by the Collector to the Mamlatdar. When was it received by the Mamlatdar?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I must ask for notice. I cannot carry all these details in my head.

Mr. J. G. MORE: May I know why the rest of the money has not been refunded?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Because they did not apply. Any one who applied, received the money back. In the case of those who do not apply the money is credited to the last year's revenue or to this year's revenue. That is the ordinary procedure.

JAMALPUR TOWN PLANNING SCHEME: AHMEDABAD.

*Mr. A. K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Ahmedabad Municipality (being the local authority in the Jamalpur Town Planning Scheme, Ahmedabad, No. 1) permitted the Hume Pipe Factory to construct its workshop and to carry on its business in Final Plot No. 14 in contravention of Regulation No. 1 of the said scheme;

(b) whether it is a fact that stables and godowns for storing grass have been permitted to be constructed by the Local Authority in Final Plot No. 13, which is reserved for commercial purposes only and whether only 15 feet margin has been kept in constructing the buildings in this plot in contravention of rule 6 of the scheme;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Ahmedabad Municipality, i.e. the Local Authority, has decided to construct its own workshop in Final Plot No. 38 of the scheme which is reserved for horses' stables only;

(d) whether any alterations in buildings in Final Plot No. 75 have been made, and, if so, whether the permission therefor was obtained from the Local Authority;

(e) if replies to (a) to (d) above are in the affirmative, whether it is their intention to take action under section 43 (3) of the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) Yes, for a temporary use only: Such user is not considered by the Municipality to be in contravention of regulation No. I of the Scheme.

(b) Yes; as regards the latter part of the question the Municipality is taking necessary action against the owner to enforce compliance with regulation No. 6.

(c) Yes, on a part of the plot only as the whole area of the plot is more than necessary for horses' stables.

(d) and (e) No.

Mr. A. K. RESALDAR: The Honourable Minister answers in the affirmative regarding the points I have raised in my question. The arbitrator of the said scheme also expressed the opinion that the scheme has proved a failure. According to the municipal——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is the question?

Mr. A. K. RESALDAR: In view of the reply given by the Honourable Minister, does he propose to revoke the scheme under section 46 (2) of the Town Planning Act to remedy the grievances of the people?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is a suggestion for action.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT, NORTHERN DIVISION: CONFIRMATION OF CLERKS.

*Mr. A. K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the names of acting clerks in the offices of the Educational Department in the Northern Division, with their pay, qualifications and period of service;

(b) the number of clear vacancies in those offices;

(c) whether it is a fact that clerks with more than ten years' service are still acting;

(d) whether there are any departments under the Bombay Government where clerks of such long standing are still acting, and if so, in what departments;

(e) if not, why such clerks in this department are still not confirmed;

(f) whether Government are aware that because such clerks are not confirmed they do not get leave on full pay;

(g) the names, qualifications and period of service of clerks either confirmed or made probationers during the last three years with reasons for their confirmation;

(h) whether Government intend to take up the question of confirming the clerks?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a), (b), (c), (e), (g) and (h) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to-day to a similar question asked by Rao Saheb B. G. Desai.

(d) Information is not readily available.

(f) The clerks receive leave on full pay if the grant of leave does not involve extra expense to Government.

WAKF ACT: EXEMPTIONS.

*Mr. A. K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that they have classified Wakf properties as Khas and Am?

(b) How many big Wakf property holders of malki wakf have been exempted from the Wakf Act in the Northern Division and in the city of Bombay?

(c) How did Government ascertain that those exempted properties were Malki Wakf?

(d) Are Government aware that the donors entrusted those properties to them believing them to be reliable men to maintain Madressas and Yatimkhanas, and not for their private and indirect enjoyment?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) No.

(b) No wakf property is now exempt from the operation of the Act.

(c) and (d) Do not arise.

Mr. A. K. RESALDAR: Will the Honourable Minister state whether the property of the Kwaja community and the property of Pir Mahomed are under the operation of the Wakf Act?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I want notice of that question.

LIQUOR LICENSE: RACE COURSE SECOND ENCLOSURE.

*Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): With reference to the following statements made by the Honourable the Minister for Excise and reported at page 1038 of Volume XXXI of the Official Report of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates—

(i) "This license has been granted for the last 14 or 15 years."

(ii) "As you know, Sir, there were bookies before."

(iii) "At that time also this license was given,"

(a) Is it a fact that the bookies were done away with in or about the year 1912, i.e., about 19 years ago, and the license has been given for the last 14 or 15 years as stated above?

(b) Will the Honourable Minister kindly explain how the bookies and license could have existed simultaneously?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: My statement is perfectly accurate regarding the Bombay Race Course, and as the honourable member points out it is inaccurate regarding the Poona Race Course.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: With regard to the statement marked (i) it is stated that the license has been granted for the last 14 or 15 years. Is that statement accurate or correct?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have stated that my statement with regard to Bombay is quite accurate but not so with regard to Poona.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: My point is this. The bookies were done away with in the year 1912. Therefore the contradiction arises in the case of Bombay also. If the bookies were done away with in 1912, and the license was granted to the Bombay Race Course only 14 or 15 years ago—say it was granted about 1915 or 1916. Then, at that time there were no bookies; they being done away with in 1912. It is assumed, according to the statement made, that the license to the Bombay Race Course was given in 1915. Therefore, at least for two or three years the licence and the bookies could not have co-existed. Thus the inaccuracy arises even in the case of the Bombay Race Course.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I have nothing more to add. It is correct so far as Bombay is concerned but not with regard to Poona. I have distinctly said so.

Poona Suburban Municipality: Clerks' Dismissals.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE for Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that two clerks of the Poona Suburban Municipality, namely Messrs. Waingankar and Sheikh Husain Patel, were forced to leave the Municipal service without any decision having been taken by the Municipal Board in the matter and without any notice of discharge having been served on them;

(b) whether Government are aware that one of the two clerks, Mr. Waingankar, refused to resign and was thereupon summarily dismissed by the Board; and that the other clerk, Mr. Sheikh Husain Patel, who had rendered a service of 34 years, resigned under pressure from the Board;

(c) whether the gratuity to which Mr. Sheikh Husain Patel is entitled will be paid by the Municipal Board;

(d) if not, who is responsible for the loss of his gratuity?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: Government have no information on the subject.

Labour Commission Recommendations: Licence to Supply Seamen.

*Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE for Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the Labour Commission's recommendation No. 158, contained in Appendix I, page 506 of their Report that "the licences granted under section 24 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act should not be renewed;"

(b) the date on which the licence granted by the local Government to the present shipping brokers for supply of seamen in Bombay under the above section expires;

(c) the arrangements that the Government propose to make after the termination of the present period of the licence;

(d) whether Government propose to move the Government of India to so amend section 24 of the above Act as to give suitable effect to the above recommendation?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) Government have seen the recommendation referred to.

(b) to (d) The matter is no longer within the cognizance of the Local Government.

POONA SUBURBAN MUNICIPALITY: ELECTORAL ROLL.

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE for Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Mr. S. B. Medhekar, the present President of the Poona Suburban Municipality, is not a rate payer;

(b) if so, how his name appeared in the electoral roll of that borough twice as employer and employee;

(c) whether it is fact that the said Mr. Medhekar is being prosecuted by a clerk of the said Municipality under section 500, Indian Penal Code, for defamation;

(d) if so, on what grounds?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) His name is entered only once in the Municipal Electoral Roll. He is qualified both under section 11 (1) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act and under rule 8 of the Poona Suburban Municipal Election rules as the Manager of a property paying annual rental of not less than Rs. 12.

(c) Yes.

(d) On the ground that certain words, appearing in an order dismissing the clerk in question which order was signed by the President, are defamatory.

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE MOVEMENT: INDIAN BANKS AND INSURANCE COMPANIES.

*Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the speech made by Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas at the Federal Committee at London on the 19th November 1931 in which he has said that the Government of Bombay had issued a circular against Indian Banks and Insurance Companies during the Civil Disobedience Movement?

(b) Is it a fact that they had issued such a circular?

(c) If the reply to (b) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to place a copy of the same on the Council table?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.
(b) No.
(c) Does not arise.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: Have the Government inquired of Sir Purshotamdas if he ever made such a statement at the Round Table Conference?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: No.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: Did the Government issue such instructions in the form of a leaflet or in any other form if not in the shape of a circular?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: There was a leaflet issued by the Director of Information called "Boycott of British Goods" in June 1930, and questions were asked about that book in the July sessions of 1930 by Mr. Hooseinbhoy A. Lalljee and Rao Bahadur Govindbhai Desai and replies were given to them. I invite the honourable member's attention to the replies given on that occasion.

RETRENCHMENT: BACKWARD AND DEPRESSED CLASSES.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number, designation and pay of employees of the Maratha and allied castes, the Mahomedan community and depressed classes in the Revenue, Police, Judicial, Educational, Excise, Agricultural and Co-operative Departments who will be affected by the retrenchment that will be put into force on account of the inquiry of the Retrenchment Committee;

(b) whether they are aware that all members from the backward communities were taken into service since the issue of Finance Department Circular No. 3840 of 23rd July 1925, on account of the decision of Government to fill up 50 per cent. of the posts by appointing persons belonging to the backward and Mahomedan classes?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (a) and (b), "The time and labour involved in compiling the information required in clause (a) of the question is incommensurate with the public interest involved and Government do not propose to collect it. Government have laid down for the guidance of their officers, that retrenchment should be so carried out in each office or Department that the ratio between the backward and advanced communities represented by their present numbers in each category of Government servants is maintained to the nearest practicable figure."

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: May I ask the Honourable Member whether he is aware that in view of this blank cheque given to heads of various departments notices of discharge from service have been given mostly to members of backward classes?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Government have not issued a blank cheque: Government have issued specific instructions as to the way retrenchment has to be carried out. That is what I have stated. It is incorrect to say that Government have given a blank cheque to the officers.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I used blank cheque in this sense: that although the proportion is fixed by Government, that proportion is not adhered to by the various heads of departments. For example, in the Office of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and in the offices of officers working under him, discharge notices have been served mostly on the backward class servants.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: May I know what the question is?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: In spite of the instructions issued by Government, why is it that the proportion is not maintained in the case of the backward classes?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Government have not got any information that the instructions have not been adhered to.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: I have given an example.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If any information is given, Government will look into that.

LOCAL BODIES: FINANCIAL AID.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have appointed any committee to consider (1) the question of financial aid to local boards, (2) the question of the future of Village Panchayats, (3) the question of the transfer of provincial roads and buildings to district local boards for maintenance, and (4) the question of the transfer of control of medical, vaccination and veterinary staff to district local boards and the reorganization of the Public Health Department;

(b) if so, with what result?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) The Committee referred to under (3) was not a Committee appointed by Government but was a Conference of certain gentlemen called by Sir Ghulam Hussain Hidayatallah, the then Minister for Local Self-Government, to consider the question. In pursuance of a resolution passed by this Conference Government appointed a Special Officer to investigate the question and submit a report to Government. As regards the other Committees the reply is in the affirmative.

(b) The reports of the Special Officer and the Committees referred to have been received and the position as regards these reports is explained below:—

(i) The report of the Committee appointed by Government to consider the question of the financial aid to local boards has been filed, as it is financially impossible for Government, for the present at least, to consider any increase in the grants made by Government to local boards.

(ii) The recommendations of the Village Panchayat Committee have been considered by Government and a self-contained Village

Panchayat Bill embodying such recommendations of the Committee as have been approved by Government is at present under consideration of Government.

(iii) The reports of the Special Officer appointed by Government to consider the question of the transfer of provincial roads, etc., to District Local Boards were received, but the Road Board recommended that before transferring the provincial roads and buildings to the District Local Boards, a provincial cadre of the District Local Board Engineers should be formed. This recommendation is under the consideration of Government.

(iv) (a) As regards the transfer of control of veterinary staff the Committee recommended that present arrangements should continue and that Government grants for the maintenance of veterinary dispensaries should be increased. Government considered, however, that no action on their part was necessary since grants-in-aid are given, according to the needs of each case, up to one-half of the total cost of maintenance incurred by a District Local Board or Municipality. In view of the present financial stringency it will not be possible to increase these grants any further. (b) The Committee's recommendation for increased grants to District Local Boards on account of the transfer of the control of medical, etc., staffs to them has not been approved by Government in view of financial stringency. (c) Orders with reference to the Committee's recommendation for the transfer of control of vaccination to the District Local Boards have already been issued by Government. (d) Proposals for the transfer of the control of the Medical Staff to local bodies are still under consideration. (e) The Committee's recommendations for the reorganisation of the Public Health Department, involving the appointment of District Health Officers cannot be accepted owing to financial stringency.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: With reference to clauses (a) and (b) of para. (b) (iv) of the reply, which says that in view of the financial stringency it will not be possible to increase these grants any further, is the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government aware that the grants which have hitherto been paid to the local boards for the maintenance of veterinary dispensaries have been totally stopped by Government?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: In some cases they may have been.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: There are orders issued by the Local Government that not a single rupee of grant will be paid to local boards for veterinary dispensaries. Is the Honourable Minister aware of it? I mean for the ensuing year, from the 1st of April 1932.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: They have been paid this year.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: I know that they have been paid this year. Have orders been issued to the various district local boards that these grants which have hitherto been paid to district local boards for the maintenance of veterinary dispensaries will be totally discontinued from the 1st of April 1932 ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL : My honourable colleague to my right (The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. Kambli) will be able to answer that question, because that is not my department.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : The answer is put down in the name of the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government. I want a reply to my question, so that I may put further supplementary questions.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : Probably some of the district local boards may have been given such notice ; not all.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Does the Honourable Minister say that some of the district local boards have already been served with such notice ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : It is probable that they may have been served with such notice.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : I take it that some local boards have been served.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : You may take it in that way.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the reply ? Have they been served or not ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : Some of the district local boards may have received such a notice ; not all of them, Sir.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : The question is whether they have been.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : If I am given notice, I shall find it out for the honourable member.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Sir, I have got the notice served with me.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : May I know why an invidious distinction has been made between certain local boards and others ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The information supplied by the Honourable Minister is very indefinite.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : I want to know the reason why a distinction has been made.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : If notice is given, I shall find it out.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : I want to know why a distinction has been made.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : I repeat, Sir, that if the honourable member gives me notice, I shall find it out for him.

GRAZING AREA, ASHEWADI.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether there is any reserved forest between the village of Ashewadi in Dindori Taluka, Nasik District, and the grazing area of Ashewadi ?

(b) If so, are there any other villages in the Dindori, Kalwan, Baglan and Igatpuri talukas, where there is a reserve forest between a village and its grazing area ?

(c) Are they aware that such an arrangement causes trouble and annoyance to the agriculturists of such villages ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (a) There is such reserved forest but it is open to grazing.

(b) There are a few villages in the Kalwan Taluka where there is closed forest between the village site and the open forest available for grazing. There are no such villages in other talukas.

(c) In all cases where there is closed forest between the village site and the grazing area the villagers are allowed a way through the closed area. Moreover, no forest is closed to grazing within a quarter of a mile of a village. No trouble or annoyance is therefore caused to the agriculturists.

WATER SUPPLY, NASIK.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that the people of Nasik City suffer great hardship owing to scarcity of water, especially in the hot season, and that their suffering will be greater during Sinhast Fair ?

(b) If so, do Government intend to take any steps for the removal of this grievance ?

(c) Has the city municipality submitted any scheme to Government for approval and has it approached them for any help ?

(d) If so, what is the result thereof ?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) It is for the Nasik Municipality to take the requisite steps in the matter. Expert advice is given by Government whenever it is asked for.

(c) The Municipality has recently requested the Superintending Engineer, Public Health, to undertake the work of raising the Anandwalli Weir on the river Godawari by 2 feet in order to store additional quantity of water. The Municipality also requested Government to sanction a loan for making the necessary sanitary and water supply arrangements during the Sinhast Fair.

(d) The work of raising the Anandwalli Weir will be taken in hand by the Superintending Engineer, Public Health, as soon as the water level over the Weir is sufficiently lowered, that is, in January 1932. Government have recently sanctioned a loan of Rs. 75,000 to the Nasik Municipality for the improvement of water supply and general sanitation required in connection with the Sinhast Fair.

STATE TECHNICAL SCHOLARSHIPS: INTERMEDIATE AND BACKWARD HINDUS.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) to whom the Government of Bombay State technical scholarships were awarded during the last three years;

(b) the number of such scholarships that were advertised, and the number that were awarded, and if fewer were awarded than advertised, the reasons therefor;

(c) how many applications were received from the Hindu intermediate and backward classes, with the names and qualifications of the applicants;

(d) the reasons why none of these scholarships was awarded to any of the applicants mentioned in (c) above?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a), (b), (c) and (d) Owing to financial stringency no State Technical Scholarships (by which it is understood is meant technical scholarships tenable abroad for higher technical training) were advertised during the last three years. One special scholarship was, however, awarded in 1929 to a Backward class candidate.

LAND IMPROVEMENT LOANS, CENTRAL DIVISION.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state the amount of money allotted to each district of the Central Division for the improvement of land under Act XX of 1883 (Land Improvement Loans Act) in the year ending 31st March 1931?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: No separate allotments are made to the Divisional Commissioners under the Land Improvement Loans Act and the Agriculturists Loans Act for the grant of advances to cultivators, but a lump sum is provided for loans under both the Acts. The Registrar of Co-operative Societies is, however, provided with an allotment to be utilised solely for advances to co-operative societies under the Land Improvement Loans Act. The information regarding the amounts distributed by the Commissioner, C. D., under both the Acts and the Registrar of Co-operative Societies under the Land Improvement Loans Act is furnished below:—

Name of District.	Amount sanctioned by the Commissioner.	Amount sanctioned by the Registrar.
	Rs.	Rs.
East Khandesh	25,000	3,700
West Khandesh	32,660	23,425
Nasik	10,000	500
Ahmednagar	40,000	4,700
Poona	20,000	...
Sholapur	8,000	500
Satara	10,000	3,700
	1,45,660	36,525

PUBLIC WORKS : TRANSFER TO MINISTER.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the control and recruitment of the transferred half of the Public Works Department is fully handed over to the Minister as in the case of Madras and other provinces ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Government of India had asked the Government of Bombay several times to do so ;

(c) the reasons for not having transferred them to the Minister ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the question of separating the Roads and Buildings Branch from the Irrigation Branch is under consideration of Government while the question of retrenchment is before them ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (a) The Minister has full control over the transferred branch, but as the Roads and Buildings and Irrigation Branches are not separated the cadres of the two Branches are still common and recruitment thereto, so far as this is in the hands of the local Government, is made with the joint approval of the Honourable Minister in charge of the transferred Branch and the Honourable Member in charge of the reserved Branch. The position in Madras is the same as in this Presidency.

(b) No.

(c) In view of the reply to (a) above, this does not arise.

(d) No.

LAND REVENUE COLLECTION : 1930-31.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they had issued any circular under Government Resolution, No. 5710-28 of 7th March 1931 informing agriculturists that they are not to pay the arrears of past land revenue but only the current year's revenue, that the arrears of revenue from a khatedar, if recovered, will be deemed to be revenue payment for the next year and that those who wish to obtain a refund of the arrears so collected may do so by applying for the same ;

(b) whether wide publicity was given to such instructions and a copy of the same was put at the chavdi of each village in the district ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : (a) The Government Resolution referred to by the honourable member was addressed to officers of Government.

(b) Yes, except that in a few talukas of the Ahmednagar District copies were not put up at the chavdis. In these talukas, however, the orders were nevertheless carried out.

CURRENCY POLICY : EFFECT ON BOMBAY.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether after the announcement of the Secretary of State for India on the 21st September last that the rupee will be maintained on the sterling basis and the issuing of the Viceroy's Ordinance temporarily relieving the Government of India from the obligation under the Currency Act, 1927, to sell sterling, there was a rise in the prices of the agricultural produce in the Presidency;

(b) what has been the effect of this policy on the Bombay trade and industry and in the general position?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: (a) The honourable member is referred to the monthly and fortnightly returns of prices current in the Bombay Presidency published in the Bombay Government Gazette.

(b) This subject pertains to the Central Government to whom the honourable member may apply for further information.

SATARA-PANDHARPUR ROAD: REPAIRS.

*Mr. B. P. WADKE (Bombay City, South): (a) Are Government aware of the unsatisfactory condition of the road from Satara to Pandharpur via Koregaon?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state if it is their intention to repair that road, and if so, when?

(c) Are they aware that there is heavy motor traffic on that road especially due to a large number of visitors to Pandharpur?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes.

(b) The length of the road is 88 miles. All that could be done with the funds available, viz. (Rs. 19,878), for current repairs is being done. Special repairs on a large scale cannot be undertaken on account of the acute financial stringency.

(c) Yes.

BOMBAY ISLAND AND THE DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT.

*Mr. B. P. WADKE (Bombay City, South): (a) Will Government be pleased to state what is the total area of the Island of Bombay?

(b) How much out of the said area is in the possession of the Bombay Municipality, the City Improvement Trust, the Bombay Port Trust, the B. B. and C. I. Railway, the G. I. P. Railway, Government, and the Development Department?

(c) What is the total developed area of the Back Bay Reclamation scheme on 31st July 1931?

(d) How much of the said area will be available for the public for building purposes, how much will be for military purposes, and how much will remain in the possession of Government?

(e) What rate do Government expect from the public per square yard when the land is available for disposal?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) 24 square miles, 117 acres and 4,773 square yards.

(b) The approximate areas are as follows :—

Bombay Municipality	689	acres, exclusive of the land absorbed in roads and streets.
City Improvement Trust	2,451	acres.
Bombay Port Trust	1,813	acres.
B. B. and C. I. Railway Company	737	acres.
G. I. P. Railway	690	acres.
Government—
(a) Vacant lands in charge of the Collector of Bombay.	45	acres.
(b) Reclaimed area in Back Bay ..	433	acres.
(c) Public open spaces, and sites occupied by Government buildings.	Not ascertained.

The Development Department ceased to exist as a separate department of Government from 1st March 1930.

(c) The reclaimed area is 433 acres. None of it is developed.

(d) 94 acres, 235 acres and 104 acres, respectively.

(e) The honourable member is referred to page 675 of Volume XIX, Legislative Council Debates, February-March 1927, from which it will be seen that average valuations of Rs. 70 per square yard for Block No. 1 and Rs. 50 per square yard for Block No. 2 were announced in March 1927. The dry-filling of Block No. 7 has been stopped. Owing to the recent fall in values, Government have now under consideration the revaluation of the assets of the scheme.

Mr. B. P. WADKE : As regards (d). My question is "How much of the said area will be available for the public for building purposes, how much will be for military purposes, and how much will remain in the possession of Government ? " and the reply is " 94 acres, 235 acres and 104 acres respectively." When the scheme was taken in hand, were the public given to understand that these would be the areas which would be left in the hands of the public, the military and the Government ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : I do not know. I must ask for notice of that question.

Mr. B. P. WADKE : As regards the rates given in (e), Rs. 70 and Rs. 50, is it a fact that when the scheme was taken in hand the public were given to understand that land would be available at the rate of Rs. 11 per square yard ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : I do not think so, but if the honourable member puts the question in writing, I will try to discover where he gathered that impression.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

SATARA-KOREGAON RAILWAY.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District) : (1) Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total estimated cost of the Satara-Koregaon Railway project as finally revised ;

(b) the amount spent by Government up till now on the construction of the line during the famine of 1918-19, showing the value of land acquired for the line and the amount spent on the work separately;

(c) the value of the work done during famine, at normal rates as provided in the estimate;

(d) the total area of land acquired for the railway line, showing the different villages out of which land was acquired and the area acquired out of each village?

(2) Will Government be pleased to lay the whole project of the Satara-Koregaon Railway on the Council table?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (1) (a) The total estimated cost of the project as prepared by the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway in 1928 is Rs. 7,97,202.

(b) The amount spent is Rs. 1,92,154-10-7 made up as under:—

	Rs.	a.	p.
Value of land acquired, i.e. compensation etc. (1919)	69,630	5	6
Special establishment charges (1919) ..	954	10	2
Value of land acquired, i.e. compensation, etc. (1926)	2,305	7	0
	72,890	6	8
Amount spent on the work	1,19,264	3	11
	1,92,154	10	7

(c) Rs. 36,168.

(d) The total area acquired is 302 acres 19½ gunthas made up as under:—

In the year 1919.

Koregaon Taluka.

Name of village.	A.	g.
1. Koregaon	24	33½
2. Lhasurne	10	15½
3. Shirdhon	36	25½
4. Manglapur	10	35½
5. Tandulwadi	45	1
Satara Taluka.
6. Chinchner	35	34½
7. Mahagaon	30	33½
8. Mahuli	17	31
9. Khed	53	4½
10. Karanje	32	27
	298	½

In the year 1926 (for realignment).

Satara Taluka.

Name of village.	A.	g.
Karanje	3	20
Khed	0	39
	302	19½

Out of this area land measuring 13 acres 13 gunthas was relinquished by the Railway as under :—

Satara Taluka.

Name of village.	A.	g.
Karanje	7	33
Khed	5	20
	13	13

(2) A copy of the traffic survey report and estimates of the Satara-Koregaon Railway project as prepared by the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Administration in 1928 is available for inspection by the honourable member in the Public Works Department, Secretariat, during office hours.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATIONS : POONA-BOMBAY.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District) :—

(a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the people of Poona have been very gravely inconvenienced during the past few weeks as a result of the continual failures of telephone communication with Bombay ?

(b) Are Government aware that the present telephonic facilities are totally inadequate for the amount of business done between Poona and Bombay ?

(c) Are Government aware that business people are additionally handicapped on account of the fact that when some lines are out of order Government calls without any time limit are given preference ?

(d) If the answers to any of the above questions are in the affirmative will Government be pleased to state what action it is proposed to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON.: (a) and (b) No.

(c) Although it is a fact that Government calls are given priority, Government have ascertained that no appreciable delay occurs in the transmission of private calls.

(d) Does not arise.

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS : FREE SUPPLY TO LIBRARIES.

Khan Bahadur A. E. PATEL (Northern Division): (a) Will Government kindly state the amount of savings effected by retrenching the supply of Administration Reports of different Provincial Departments, Reports of committees and commissions of the Governments of Bombay and India and of the Scientific and Historical Survey and Research publication of the Government, to the registered libraries of the presidency and newspapers of the Bombay Presidency ?

(b) What would be the annual cost of supplying free all Government publications to only one registered library in each district of the Presidency ?

(c) Are Government aware that people are quite ignorant of the work done by Government for the welfare of the people through its different Departments ?

(d) Have Government considered whether it would be advisable to arrange with one public library in each district of the presidency to preserve all important Government publications for public use and reference ?

(e) Is it a fact that important scientific, economic and historical publications of the Governments of Bombay and India become out of print immediately after publication, because they are purchased in large numbers outside India ?

(f) Have Government considered whether it would be advisable to preserve at least one copy each of all such publications in each district at a library ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) The amount of savings effected by retrenchment in the supply of the Administration Reports, reports of the Committees and Commissions and Scientific and Historical Survey and Research publications issued by the Government of Bombay to the registered libraries and newspapers in the Bombay Presidency is about Rs. 28,740. The information regarding the Administration Reports, etc., of the Government of India cannot be furnished by Government as their supply is regulated by the orders of the Government of India.

(b) The annual cost of supplying all the publications mentioned under (a) free of charge to one registered library in each district would be about Rs. 1,250.

(c) and (e) No.

(d) Yes.

(f) No.

NOTIFIED AREA COMMITTEE : TALEGAON-DABHADE.

Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how the notified area committee of Talegaon-Dabhade is functioning ;

(b) whether the said committee has done anything to improve the condition of the notified area ;

(c) whether the said committee was established against the wishes of the people there ;

(d) whether an application was made by the people to abolish the said committee?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) and (b) Although no serious defects in the administration of the Notified Area Committee have been noticed, it is true, to a certain extent, that the Notified Area Committee has not been able to do much good to the local residents. This being so, new members who were among the signatories to the application, referred to in clause (d), have been appointed on the Committee and they have been given a chance to improve the conditions in the Notified Area. The Collector has been asked to submit a report in the matter by June 1932.

(c) No.

(d) Yes, an application was made to the Commissioner.

Khan Bahadur A. E. PATEL: Sir, I want to put my question.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That cannot be allowed now.

ADJOURNMENT MOTION re: LATHI CHARGE AT AHMEDNAGAR.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, I beg to move for leave to move the following motion:

"That the House do adjourn to consider a definite matter of urgent public importance namely, the recent lathi charge by the police on an unarmed, defenceless, unprovocative gathering on the evening and night of the 4th February 1932 at Ahmednagar, resulting in causing injuries to a considerable number of men, women and children."

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Sir, I object to this motion. May I state the grounds on which I object?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No.

Question put, and leave granted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has the leave of the House. The House will adjourn for the consideration of the motion at 4 o'clock to-day. We shall rise for tea at half-past three.

PETITION FROM THE EAST INDIA COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Major W. ELLIS JONES: Sir, on behalf of the East India Cotton Association, I have to present a petition with regard to the levy of stamp duty on "forward" contracts proposed to be instituted under the present finance bill. I request that it may be placed on the Table. Copies of the petition are being circulated to honourable members.

BILL No. IX OF 1931 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE INDIAN STAMP ACT, 1899, IN ITS APPLICATION TO THE PRESIDENCY OF BOMBAY).

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I withdraw Bill No. IX of 1931.

BILL No. I OF 1932 (A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR THE LEVY OF A DUTY ON CONSUMPTION OF ELECTRICAL ENERGY IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BOMBAY AND TO AMEND THE COURT-FEES ACT, 1870, AND THE INDIAN STAMP ACT, 1899, IN THEIR APPLICATION TO THE SAID PRESIDENCY).

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Mr. President, I introduce Bill No. I of 1932* (A Bill to provide for the levy of a duty on consumption of electrical energy in the Presidency of Bombay and to amend the Court-fees Act, 1870, and the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, in their application to the said Presidency).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Bill is introduced.

First reading.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I move the first reading of Bill No. I of 1932 (to be called the Bombay Finance Act, 1932).

In my budget speech I have conclusively shown how with every endeavour at retrenchment Government are not able to balance the budget and even with fresh taxation which is intended to be raised by the present Bill, as well as the Bill to amend the Indian Succession Act, it is expected that there would still be a gap between the revenue and expenditure of 45 lakhs. In order to bridge over a part of the gap these measures are sought to be introduced, and in choosing the measures care has been taken to see that as far as possible the burden should fall on broad shoulders, should be easy of collection and that much additional cost should not be involved in the agency of collection. The object of bringing a consolidated Bill in the shape of a Finance Bill is that it gives an opportunity to the Honourable House to examine at one time the proposed adjustment of taxation to meet the demands of Government for grants for required expenditure. On this occasion all additions except those in Part V are, in view of the unsettled conditions of the country, proposed for one year only. This will enable the House in the Finance Bill of next year to take fresh stock of the financial position, and of the effect on the economic situation of the increased duties.

The amendment to the Indian Succession Act has not been incorporated in the Finance Bill as, though it is expected to bring in some revenue, it is really a matter of procedure, and seeks to amend permanently a Government of India Act. That is why it is presented in the form of a separate Bill.

The present Bill consists of four parts: Part I relates to the levying of a small surcharge on electricity, on the units of energy consumed. Part II relates to the amendment of the Court-fees Act. Part III relates to the amendment of the Stamp Act; and Part IV provides for the extension of the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, which is already in force in Bombay, to the three cities, Poona, Ahmedabad and Karachi.

In the Electricity Bill provision is made for the levying of a surcharge on the actual consumption of electrical energy used for lights and fans. The licensee or the supplier of energy is charged with the duty of collecting

* Appendix 1.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

this surcharge. He will be called upon to maintain accounts in the prescribed form which will be open to inspection by specified Government officers. Power is given to the licensee to collect this surcharge from the consumer and he is also authorised to cut off supply in the case of refusal to pay this duty. Government themselves take authority to collect the surcharge through a civil court or as an arrear of land revenue, but it is hoped that this somewhat cumbrous procedure will not be required. It has from the first been the intention of Government to exempt the power supplied to industrial concerns, and to exempt the use, for their own purposes, of energy by local authorities and certain utility companies. For convenience of drafting, the Bill provides for giving authority to Government to grant exemptions, and it is the intention to issue a notification, after the passing of the Bill, exempting industrial power, tramway companies, railways, and local authorities. Exemption will also be given to hospitals forthwith. A surcharge on the cost of electrical energy is a novel expedient, as its opponents have not been slow to point out. But as the House is well aware, the sources of revenue open to Provincial Governments are much restricted, and Government are convinced that this small duty will be readily paid, and that the apprehended effect on the consumption of electrical energy and upon the extension of electrical enterprise will not be appreciable. Its effect, however, will be carefully watched, and the House will have a further opportunity, after one year's experience, of examining its incidence. The estimate of revenue from this duty is 12 lakhs.

Part II amends the Court-fees Act of 1870 and follows the lines of the Bill presented to this honourable House in 1926. The principal changes which the Bill introduces in the Act at present in force, which expires at the end of March, are these:—

The duty on suits of the value of more than Rs. 1,000 is enhanced by raising the ad valorem rate between Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 7-8-0 from Rs. 5; and on suits between Rs. 5,000 and Rs. 10,000 from Rs. 12-8-0 to Rs. 15. The maximum percentage for probate duties will rise as in the Act which was in force during the year 1922-23 to 7 per cent. by graduated stages, and provision has been made for raising the valuation of the land for purposes of the proviso to section 7 of the Court-fees Act. The proportions of the survey assessment which were fixed as long ago as 1870 are now, as has long been recognised, completely out of date.

As regards suits for injunction or other consequential relief, or for a declaratory decree and consequential relief, or suits the value of which is left to the option of the plaintiff, the maximum stamp duty leviable is fixed at Rs. 15. The honourable members are aware that suits in the nature of easements or account suits or suits for declaration of injunction are mostly of a very complicated nature and take a long time of the court and oftentimes such suits are tried to be fought out on a stamp of six annas. It is intended to remedy this inadequacy.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Part III of the Bill amends the Stamp Act of 1889. The Indian Stamp (Bombay Amendment) Act of 1922 will expire on 31st of March next. Experience of the last 10 years has amply proved the necessity for its retention. The Act having been amended from time to time in the past, and as the present Bill proposes to make further changes, it has been considered desirable from the legal point of view to allow the Act of 1922 to expire and to be re-enacted in an up-to-date form. I am afraid this has led to some misapprehension on the part of some of our critics, and it seems necessary to remind the House that the present Bill amends the Act of 1889, and merely repeats many of the changes introduced in 1922 and in force to-day. In revising the law, opportunity has been taken to bring the rates of duty leviable on a bond, bottomry bond, conveyance, lease and reconveyance of mortgaged property to a certain extent in line with those in force in Bengal and elsewhere. In particular, the duties on long leases have now, as in a majority of the other provinces, been graduated, those on perpetual leases being reduced and on those exceeding ten years raised.

The most important changes now introduced relate to the stamping of what are known as "forward" transactions in various commodity markets and in the stock exchanges. The taxing of these transactions has often been recommended, and most recently by the Committee that sat to consider measures of revenue which could replace the loss of excise duties. The estimates of revenue, however, which have been made in the past have generally been grossly excessive and are based on a misapprehension of the actual course of procedure in the forward markets. The present measures provide for a small stamp duty on every transaction, that is to say, every sale and purchase of, what is the usual unit in the commodity market concerned. Thus the usual unit in the cotton market for forward contracts is 50 bales, and the by-laws which regulate conduct of forward business in this market recognise this unit as the lowest which will be recognised in the periodical clearings of forward contracts. In the same way in the wheat market the unit is 25 tons; and similarly for other markets the usually accepted unit is given in the Bill amending the schedule. Contracts for forward delivery, on the other hand, may or may not conform to this unit, but will pay the same small proportionate duty. Transactions in the Stock Exchange cannot be treated in exactly the same way, and provision has been made for raising the duty on agreements to buy or sell securities from the present rate of 2 annas for every Rs. 10,000 or part thereof to 1 anna for every Rs. 1,000 or part thereof. Transactions in Government securities have been exempted from the increase, in order not to place Bombay in this respect at a disadvantage as compared with other provinces.

It has been provided that a memorandum of such contracts shall not be admissible in evidence unless duly stamped. The stamping of these accounts, although, as I say, has often been proposed on various occasions, is again something of a novelty, and its practical effect on the course of business in some of the markets is still a matter open to some doubt, to judge from the criticisms which have been submitted by commercial associations. It is obviously impossible to consult associations beforehand as to the details of a measure of this kind, and I agree that they should now be given full opportunity of placing their recommendations for amendment before a select committee of the House.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

The estimate of additional revenue from Part III of the Bill amounts to Rs. 2,50,000.

Part V of the Bill extends the provisions of Act II of 1926, which at present applies only to the City of Bombay, to Ahmedabad, Poona and Karachi. The opportunity has been taken of applying the same duties as on conveyances to transfers of leases by way of assignment. The reason for this is that a large proportion of the properties in the city of Bombay are held on very long term leases. All those, for instance, constructed on the estates of the Bombay Improvement Trust and the Port Trust escape the enhanced duty. The duty on instruments, generally known as equitable mortgages, has also been brought into line with the duty imposed in other provinces. There is also an increasing tendency for wealthy parties to resort to instruments of settlement in order to avoid payment of probate duties after death. As recommended by the Taxation Enquiry Committee, therefore, provision has been made for raising the duty on instruments of settlement to the same duty as on conveyances.

I referred in the beginning of my speech to the object of incorporating these measures into one Finance Bill. Some of the criticisms which have been published of the individual measures entirely ignore the factor on which I have laid stress, that we must regard the taxation measures as a whole. As I said in my budget speech, the field for taxation open to Provinces is so restricted that it is impossible for a Provincial Government to adjust their taxation entirely in accordance with theoretical considerations, and in considering the incidence of taxation it should, strictly speaking, be necessary to bring under review all taxation, whether central, provincial or local. But, without going so far as this, it is obviously unfair to select any particular item of taxation and condemn it because it affects only a small proportion of the population. It is a misstatement of the principle to say, for instance, as has been said about the proposed Electricity Duty Bill, that it violates the fundamental principle of scientific taxation, that it should be equally borne by all sections of the community. Hardly any single tax can be equally borne by all sections of the community, and in the additional taxation measures which we are now proposing we have not ignored this fundamental principle, but have endeavoured to spread the increases as equitably as we can over the whole population. In regard to the electricity duty in particular, we have deliberately excluded from its incidence electrical energy used for industry, in order to avoid any discrimination against Bombay industries.

As I have said, it is our intention, if the first reading is agreed to, to refer this Bill to a select committee, and after critical examination there to bring it up for the second and third readings at a later stage of the present session.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Sir, I must bring to your notice that I have tabled two amendments. In my humble opinion, they are amendments of detail and not amendments of principle. It is for you, Sir, to decide whether any of them is an amendment of principle, so that if I have to move it, I must move it at the first reading. If you decide that they are amendments of detail, they can be moved at a later stage.

Question proposed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There was something which the honourable member Mr. More wanted to say. Was it a point of order?

Mr. J. G. MORE: I wanted to ask whether the Honourable the Finance Member is entitled to read his speech, when we are not entitled to do so.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: It is usual that statements coming from Government should be very precise. They are, therefore, permitted to be read out.

Now, I have to point out a few things before we proceed, and one of them was referred to by the Honourable the Finance Member himself in the concluding part of his speech, with regard to the principles of this Bill. I hold that there are three principles of this Bill. The first and the foremost is whether taxation in this particular form, in so many parts, be levied or not. That is the first—whether taxation under this form is one of the pressing needs of the Presidency, or whether it is not a necessity. That would be the first point on which honourable members may dwell. The second principle is the period for which this Bill is to continue. The third principle is the scope or the jurisdiction of the Bill—whether the whole of the Presidency should be affected by it, or certain portions are to be excluded.

There is an amendment tabled by the Honourable the Finance Member as follows:

"In Part II—Electricity Duty—to clause 4 (c) add the words "and includes any person who has obtained the sanction of the Local Government under section 28 of that Act."

Now, I should like to have an explanation as to what is aimed at—what sort of persons are thought of to be included in it, who were not contemplated at first in the Bill. The question of the exclusion of certain bodies becomes an important part and parcel of the Bill, and therefore has all the appearance of a principle of the Bill. Similarly, the question of the inclusion of certain sections or certain persons may become a question of principle. I, therefore, hold that both the amendments of the Honourable the Finance Member are amendments of principle, unless an explanation is given as to which body of persons has been thought of. If the explanation makes it clear that it is a matter of detail, then I would rule that the amendment is one of detail.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, under section 28 of the Indian Electricity Act (IX of 1910) Government is authorised to issue licences to some persons other than a licensee. Section 28 says:

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

"No person other than a licensee shall engage in the business of supplying energy except with the previous sanction of the local Government and in accordance with such conditions as the local Government may fix in this behalf, and any agreement to the contrary....."

There are some persons who are called permit holders; that is, they supply the energy for a time just to feel their way. So, those persons are really in the position of licensees. They are technically called permit-holders, because they have not been issued a licence. In order that persons who really supply energy should be brought under the Bill that amendment has been tabled. That is why I said it makes the matter clearer.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I might take that as an amendment of principle, which might be disposed of at the first reading. That will make it easy for honourable members. Now I hope it is clear as to which are the principles of the Bill which should be discussed at the first reading.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM (Bombay Chamber of Commerce): Sir, on a point of information, I am not clear on the question of the first principle of the Bill. Is the question of principle whether new taxation is necessary, or whether new taxation of this particular nature is necessary, and if the latter, does that mean that the details of the Bill will come in for discussion at this stage?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Whether new taxation in this particular form is necessary, is the issue here. The necessity for taxation, of course, has been discussed very widely during the general discussion of the budget. Now, a Finance Bill has been brought up to levy taxation in this particular form. Whether taxation in this particular detail or in this form, in these four parts, is the necessity of the day or not is the first principle, and while discussing that principle the general aspects of each part may be discussed without going into the details. Is that clear?

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: I am afraid, Sir, it is not clear to me. Take, for instance, the question of taxing the consumption of electrical energy or of stamping forward contracts. We may approve of the principle of taxing forward contracts. But we may heartily disapprove of the methods adopted in this particular Bill. I should have said myself that all my objections to part IV of the Bill, the details of which are many and complicated, are such as would properly be put forward in select committee.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Quite so.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: If we do not now comment on the obnoxious features,—the method adopted by Government to give effect to their intentions,—we may be told when the Bill comes back from the select committee that those obnoxious methods still in it were its principles and that we have missed our chance of commenting upon them.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The instance the honourable member has quoted can very well go as an instance of the details of that part of the Bill. Any comment on the obnoxious, as the honourable member puts it, nature of the particular feature of the Bill certainly can be discussed on the first reading while discussing the general principle.

[The President]

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, is it not one of the principles of this Bill that it is introduced in the shape of the Bombay Finance Bill, having several Acts under its purview? I notice for the first time since this Council has come into existence that this kind of legislation, embracing several Acts which are in existence already, is brought forward as a finance measure, and it is just possible to argue that this mode of bringing in taxation proposals is not a proper mode.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not know where the difficulty is at all created. The honourable member can very well discuss whether taxation in this particular form, by this particular method, is necessary or not.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: The Chair has not appreciated my point. Suppose, for instance, there were several Bills of taxation, say, Scheduled Taxes, Entertainment Tax, Betting Tax and other taxes; supposing a consolidated Bill of this nature is brought forward, it certainly throws this part of the House into confusion, and it detracts from the consideration of the merits, because we have only an allotted time in which we can speak, and we cannot speak in more detail.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is hardly a point to be raised now.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Under the Government of India Act, are Government allowed to bring a number of Bills together?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: This is again hardly a point of order, because it is within the powers of Government to bring a Bill in this form.

Mr. J. B. PETIT: If we once accept the principle of this Bill, I take it that we cannot go back upon it in the select committee. What is then the position of an honourable member who may wish to vote for certain proposals contained in the Bill and not for others?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is the risk which Government have chosen to take upon themselves.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Sir, speaking on the Finance Bill on its merits, it is rather difficult for members of this honourable House to vote either for or against it. Their position has been rendered more difficult still, owing to the fact that the Government are unable to amend the principle of this Bill, in view of the ruling given by you. It is, at the same time, not possible for them to split up the Bill for the convenience of the House into three separate parts, at this stage, even if they wish to do so. Under these circumstances, those honourable members who are against one part of the Bill will be compelled to vote against the entire measure even if they happen at the same time to be in favour of one or two other parts, as some honourable members are. On the other hand, those honourable members who are in favour of one or two parts of the Bill and have an open mind on the others, will be forced to vote either for or against all the parts, because the different parts will not be voted upon separately. In either case, the voting is likely to be against the interests and requirements of the Government. I consider the innovation of consolidating all the requirements of the Government in one comprehensive Bill, a most undesirable one from more points of view than one. Such a system leaves no option to members to vote separately on the different parts of the Bill on their merits, but compels them to vote either for or against the entire measure. It is an unfortunate position in which the Government have placed themselves, for it will make it impossible for members to support them to a limited extent even if they wish to do so. As far as the proposed additional taxation itself is concerned, I cannot help saying that we are all against it, both this House and the public outside. But, we realise the desperate position of the Government and wish to pass the first reading thereof, provided that the measure is to be for one year only and provided further that the Government expedite the appointment of the reconstruction committee which they promised two days ago. On these two conditions, I am prepared to support the first reading of this Bill, as a special case, and would advise the House to do likewise. If this measure is ultimately referred to a Select Committee, I wish to draw the attention of the Government to the proposal which I made two days ago in my budget speech, regarding the Electricity Bill. I hope the Government will consider the suggestion and give it the support it deserves. The proposal is by no means impracticable, and I do not think that it would be impossible for the Government to give effect to it if they only wished to do so.

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

As regards the other suggestions that I have made, I have an open mind; and I for one shall be quite prepared to refer the entire matter to a Select Committee for further consideration.

With these reservations, Sir, I beg to support the first reading of the Bill.

Mr. G. WILES: Sir, I should have thought that since there are still two other readings even after the select committee, in which members will have an opportunity of rejecting any part of the Bill if they wish to, this would have been sufficient. But, if it is not, I venture to make another suggestion. If there is any part of the Bill which the majority of the House is anxious not to refer to select committee and to reject forthwith, it is open to any member to move an amendment that that part be excluded from the Bill. A vote can be taken on that.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If the amendment is allowed at this stage.

Mr. G. WILES: If the President allows the amendment.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: No such amendment has been tabled.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If honourable members find that they are opposed to any part of the Bill, they can table an amendment to exclude it. This can be done even at the second reading.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Honourable the Finance Member emphatically stated in some portion of his speech on the first reading that the Bill must be taken as a whole. The Bill as it has come before the House can only be taken as a whole. The difficulty which now appears to Government benches cannot be said to be a difficulty which has suddenly cropped up. It should have been anticipated before this. It stands to reason that a certain section of the House may be agreeable to support the Bill in one or two parts and others oppose some other parts. This could have been easily anticipated. The Government could have chosen to bring this Bill in any other form. I realised this difficulty when the Bill came to my hands. The Honourable Mover himself said that the Bill can be taken only as a whole. If honourable members speak on the principles of the Bill and if they agree that these four parts are necessitated by the present situation, they will accept the four parts. Then, the four parts can go to the select committee and each part altered as the committee thinks fit. After the first reading, no honourable member would be entitled to say, "I do not want this part."

[The President]

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: You ruled that the first principle of the Bill was whether the taxation in a particular form should be levied or not. There are four different forms incorporated in the Bill. Any honourable member is entitled to say that any part of the Bill may not be accepted and to table an amendment to that effect. That is what the honourable member the Finance Secretary stated.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT: Will the Honourable the President allow an amendment at this stage? He has often disallowed such amendments.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: You have got the power, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I would have suspended the Standing Order and accepted some such amendment. But when I see that the whole House is divided into so many opinions, as pointed out by the honourable member Mr. Petit, is it fair for the President to accept an amendment at this stage? The honourable member Mr. Winterbotham, who is speaking for the European section, or the honourable member Mr. Petit could have tabled an amendment before this. It would not be fair on my part to force an amendment on this House in such circumstances.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: Sir, as you have specifically mentioned my name, I should explain that as soon as the Bill came into my hands, I made enquiries, possibly not in the proper quarters, but in well-informed quarters, how it was going to be dealt with by Government. From the answer I received, somewhat foolishly perhaps I thought that the principle of the Bill would be the necessity for fresh taxation.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The principle is the necessity for taxation "in this particular form". Whoever gave that advice must have followed it up with that proviso. The necessity for taxation is nothing new at all. If the honourable member had put the question to any responsible member of Government, he would have said that "taxation in this particular form" is the principle of the Bill.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: There is one point. We are told that this Bill is framed more on the analogy of the Legislative Assembly. As far as

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

I know, the Finance Bills in the Assembly only deal with questions of tariffs or customs duties on articles and commodities like sugar or motor cars or various other articles, whereas this Bill comprises such diverse principles as stamp duty, court-fees and so on. I do not know whether the analogy is quite correct.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Even in the Assembly they are considered at the second reading.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: I refer you, Sir, to page 233 of the Manual, paragraph 4, sub-section (2):

"At the first reading of a Bill, the principle of the Bill....."

(In the singular).

"and its general provisions may be discussed."

How can a Bill have more than one principle? If there is only one principle, what is that?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member is perfectly right. If it suits him, I will leave aside the question of period and jurisdiction for his purposes. I can show it to him that there is only one principle involved and that is taxation in this particular form. The honourable member seems to challenge my ruling.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: The last thing I should wish would be to give the impression that I am challenging your ruling. I am asking on a point of information. How can a Finance Bill have more than one principle under the section I quoted?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The principle is taxation in this particular form.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: One for each part of the Bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes, it would come to that practically. Then there are amendments tabled by honourable members and there is an amendment tabled even by the Honourable the Finance Member that the Bill shall continue for one year. If the honourable member has read the Bill carefully, he will find that the Bill as proposed is intended to be a permanent measure. When that amendment is to be taken up, is a question which the President has to decide.

In order that no amendment of principle may be ruled out at the first reading, I pointed out that the period for which the Bill will be in operation was a matter of principle, as also the area to which the Bill is made applicable. Honourable members have tabled amendments to exclude certain areas from the operation of the Bill. Those amendments can be discussed at the first reading. Therefore, the principle is a multiple principle.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: I am afraid I do not quite understand. I was referring mainly to the first of the four principles which you enunciated, and that is the principle of taxation, and your ruling was that the principle was taxation in the present form. In the present form, there are four principles, because there are four proposals of taxation. I say, with due deference, Sir, that I cannot reconcile your ruling under that head with that section of the Standing Orders which I have quoted, because there can be only one principle.

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The short cut to all this is that while the honourable member cannot reconcile, I can. Further, my attention has just been drawn to one of the principles of law, namely, that singular includes plural.

(After recess)

ADJOURNMENT MOTION re: LATHI CHARGE AT AHMEDNAGAR

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, I beg to move—

That the House do adjourn to consider a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the recent lathi charge by the police on an unarmed, defenceless, unprovocative gathering on the evening and night of the 4th February 1932 at Ahmednagar, resulting in causing injuries to a considerable number of men, women and children.

Mr. President, it is with very great reluctance indeed that I put forward this motion for adjournment, but I think it is my duty to do so. I do this not so much with a view to get redress as to emphasize certain principles which should be applied in the working of the ordinances so long as the ordinance raj exists. In the address that he delivered to this Council, His Excellency very rightly enunciated the principle of government; His Excellency said that a Government which allows this sort of thing to go on unchecked is failing in its most elementary duty, the protection of the liberty of the subject. Therefore, Sir, His Excellency along with the members of his Council must respect this dictum, that the protection of the liberty of the subject is the first essential in carrying out any executive laws. The honourable member representing the Bombay Chamber of Commerce enunciated another principle that will commend itself to the acceptance of everybody in this Presidency, namely, peace. He had his mind on the future and he emphasized the necessity of peace. Having regard to these two principles, I would like to put the facts before this House and ask it to form its own judgment on them. I hope I shall not be carried away by any passion or make any statement which may be in the nature of overstatement. I will try my best to be perfectly within limits and try to make a statement which will be an understatement rather than an overstatement.

It was this time last year, when the civil disobedience movement was at its height, when I myself, in my capacity as a councillor eulogised the services of the officers, both police and magisterial, as far as my district was concerned. I said it was a great day for me on that occasion to point out that the authorities had been acting in a manner worthy of their offices. It is, therefore, with great reluctance that I have now to go against that and in fact to put before this House another picture. It is necessary, however, to point out that in those days, namely, last year, we had senior officers in our district. Unfortunately, at the time I am complaining of, we had junior officers who were foreign to the district and had taken up their duties only a few months ago, and, in the case of the District Magistrate, only a few days ago. That may be a point in their favour which I wish to state at the outset. I may state also for the information of this House that last year we had many more militant activities than now, and yet the district authorities behaved in a manner which was worthy of their prestige and their office. If I were to compare the present movement with that of last year—I hope the Government authorities will agree with me—the movement now is much more peaceful than it was last year. It is only general principles that matter now, as I know there are other methods of getting remedy for individual complaints. The position was this: that the district authorities thought it proper to declare as unlawful one Seva Dal Association and take possession of the building in which the members of that association met. The grounds on which they met did not belong to the Seva Dal but belonged to another institution of which some of the members of the Seva Dal were members. There was a flagstaff on which the national flag used to be flown. But since the signing of the armistice the meetings were seldom held there and the flag was seldom hoisted there. There is a road which leads from the station to the fort, and that has to be crossed to go to that place where the flagstaff was. As far as I know—I was at Ahmednagar then—no public procession, at least not 90 per cent. of the processions, ever passed along the road leading from the station to the fort. Perhaps on occasions they crossed the road to reach the other side. I have no quarrel with the fact that the district authorities thought it proper to ban any processions through this road. But I must submit that it was an unnecessary provocation, because I may here state that those people would have found no room for disobedience if that road was not banned for public processions. I must say to the credit both of the local authorities and of the people who are carrying on those activities, that they came to a mutual understanding. That understanding was that in order that the law may not be broken in so many places, as they could have done it—there are dozens of places where, if they wished, they could have kept the police at bay—they came to a reasonable compromise that at a particular place, that is in front of the cotton market, those processions would go and volunteers that wanted to disobey would stand out of the crowd and then try to trespass, and that before they did so they would offer themselves for arrest and be arrested. You will see further that the public meetings or processions were not banned. The authorities had taken no steps whatsoever to tell the people that the meetings and processions would be banned. They allowed them to hold the public meetings, they allowed them to parade through the streets. I say that, to the credit of both the people and the authorities, they had agreed upon one plan, that this satyagraha was to be offered only on two days in a week, namely, on Monday and on Thursday evening. And the pact on both sides was kept in letter and in spirit. Not only that, but I have myself seen the police authorities taking steps to keep the crowd in a very comfortable mood.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

I now come to the unhappy incident on the 4th February. There had been processions from the 9th January to 4th February, the police co-operating. The people offering themselves for arrest were tried the next day and sentenced as usual without the slightest murmur either on the part of the people or the police. On this fateful day, namely, the 4th February—I call it fateful because all this understanding between the authorities and the people was suddenly given the go-by without the slightest notice—on this fateful day the people gathered as usual, went in a procession as usual without the least molestation or warning that the procession would be banned. Those of you—and I see some of the members are here—who know Ahmednagar well, will see that this road from the city to the fort is outside the city. The Fergusson road which leads to the cotton market is a broad road which meets it just in front of the cotton market. Unfortunately, this road has warehouses on both sides of it,—a matter which will have to be looked into later on more carefully. As usual, on the understanding that no ban had been placed upon them the people started satyagraha exactly at 6·20. The people came over there and watched the procession and two or four people who called themselves volunteers and had distinguishing marks stepped out on the road and offered themselves for arrest. Up to this time the District Superintendent of Police was not at the station. That is what I am told.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: He was not at the station?

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: He was not at the station at Ahmednagar. That is what I am told. It appears he had to come from a place where he was touring. I myself do not vouch for that information. But it does appear to me that he came from some place outside the station. He came to the place, got out of the motor car with a hunter and a revolver. As soon as he came in front of that place he loaded his revolver and he asked the police inspector also to load his. And to the great dismay and astonishment of the people gathered there, he gave a cut with his hunter to the first volunteer on his left eye. This was a signal for the lathi charge.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: Were you present there?

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: I am not going to answer any question now. A lathi charge was made on the people. I am bound to say that the lathi charge was not so serious, neither did it lead to any serious injuries except in about a dozen cases. But the gathering was cooped up and they could not move about or recede back on account of a large crowd of people running pell mell. Some of them fell in ditches or over the wires and some got hit with lathis.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

Three principles, therefore, come out so far as the subject matter of this discussion is concerned. I have read the ordinances. I understand a bit of law. I have seen it administered in judicial courts. Leaving aside the question whether the police are justified in beating people—for the sake of argument I will admit they are—they should have some show of reason in using force in proper circumstances. When you allow, by your own conduct, conduct going on for several weeks, people to assemble in that particular fashion to see the volunteers surrendering themselves to the police, is it proper that suddenly you should change your mind without the least provocation and beat those people? That is one.

The second is: should the District Superintendent of Police take it into his head to use his hunter first and injure the volunteer in his eye, and after such conduct hold his revolver in readiness as if the whole crowd was menacing and was intent on doing some mischief? That is another method in which these ordinances are being administered. My humble submission to this House is that apart from the question whether you can check unlawful actions in that particular manner or not, it is necessary for the peace and goodwill that is to come, if not now later on, that the authorities themselves should help to keep peace and goodwill as much as possible. You should not try to destroy it because in that case the feelings of the public are so much hurt that those who have no sympathy with the movement will develop a tendency in favour of the movement. You will be creating many more people inimical to yourself against their own wishes. This is a phase which ought to be avoided as far as possible.

The next event, the lathi charge, took place at about 11 o'clock at night. That was in the Gandhi Maidan. That again is a cooped up place. The maidan is in front of a school house and close to a theatre, and compound walls are being built around it, and trenches and stones are spread all over the place. As I said, the agreement between the authorities and the people was that after the procession and handing over of the volunteers, the people used to meet in a public meeting there at 9 o'clock. The dictator came forward and announced his name. He was arrested and taken away by the police and the meeting quietly dispersed. On this particular day what happened was that the meeting did take place as usual at 9 o'clock. The dictator came forward and everything went on as usual. The police authorities were there. They did not interdict or ban the meeting. The meeting went on till half-past ten——

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The honourable member said that it started at 11.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: I am stating the facts. I am narrating the events as they took place.

Then it appears that some one out of the meeting came forward with his programme of salt making. That was outside the programme of the meeting. A boy came out with his programme of making salt. He declared so—he had not brought any water from the sea coast, very probably he had brought water and common salt—he wanted to parade and say that he was disobeying the laws. As soon as that was started—and that was at 11 o'clock—the police hemmed in. They were in the school building and also on the theatre side. The compound wall was being built on the eastern side and stones and bricks were spread over, and the police party came out only by one entrance which is about 10 feet wide and they began to belabour the people without the least provocation or warning. The fact that emerges is that many people were injured in this melee. As a matter of fact, as far as my information goes, they were not given the usual warning or enough time to disperse. My grievance is that in all these cases, if you have this power of using lathis, by all means do it, but be as moderate as possible and give the people enough warning and enough time to disperse before you use these lathis on a crowd which has been peaceful for a number of days and given no cause for complaint. I should think that the administration of the ordinances on those two occasions was such as could not be defended from any point of view. I do maintain, Sir, that these are difficult times for both the Government and the governed. It is too true, indeed, that it is very necessary that every one of us should keep his head cool and administer these obnoxious laws with the least possible friction. And I think I am perfectly within my limits in pointing out that if you do not do it, then one result is certain. The amity, the peace and the goodwill of the people will disappear. You must not alienate the sympathies of the people and it would be very difficult if the day comes which, according to my view, is not very distant, and when peace and goodwill will have to be established in spite of yourself. Then you will make the conditions and circumstances more difficult for the peacemakers. With that view I commend my resolution to the acceptance of the House.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: May I enquire if the honourable member was an eye-witness of the alleged events or if he depends upon hearsay?

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: I was not myself present. But I have got it from two eye-witnesses who are quite reliable and who are not members of this movement.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Sir, when the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale stated this morning that he wanted to move this adjournment motion, I objected to it, and I wanted to state the reasons; but the Chair, according to tradition I suppose, declined to give me that opportunity. I was only going to say in a few words why I objected to this motion. The first reason was that I think that on behalf of the House one has a right to object to the time of this House being wasted, particularly in a budget session, when we have a very important Finance Bill placed before this House to discuss and a very heavy agenda to get through, by an adjournment motion being moved. I doubt whether even half a dozen members on the other side had heard a word about it before the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale gave notice of his motion. I may say that I heard more than one honourable member of this House sitting on the benches in front of me saying "What is this lathi charge ? We have never heard of it. We have not even seen it in the papers." I think if there had been a lathi charge of such urgent public importance as to justify an adjournment motion to be moved in this House, it is a most extraordinary thing that not a single newspaper has made any reference to it, and my experience for the last four weeks has been that most newspapers never miss a single opportunity to give full publicity and more than full publicity to any incidents of this kind.

[Mr. G. A. Thomas]

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE : That is not a fact, because the lathi charge is reported in the papers.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : It may have been reported in the newspapers, but in so inconspicuous a position that no one saw it. But I was really surprised to find the honourable Rao Bahadur taking this opportunity to discredit some district officers because they happened to be juniors and some of the other district officers because they were not present at the station.

The second reason why I was going to object to this motion being moved was that an adjournment motion is in the nature of a vote of censure. On whom does the honourable Rao Bahadur wish to pass a vote of censure ? On Government ? How can Government be connected with, or held responsible for, an incident that occurred in Ahmednagar ? Therefore, his vote of censure is to be passed upon an officer of Government, and it is clear from what he says that this vote of censure is to be passed on Mr. Maxwell-Gumbleton, the District Superintendent of Police of Ahmednagar. Mr. Maxwell-Gumbleton is not here to be heard in his defence, and I submit to this House that it is entirely contrary to the British sense of justice that a man should be accused and condemned unheard, and until to-day I thought it was also contrary to the Indian sense of justice. I regret I have made a mistake.

The honourable Rao Bahadur started off and ended up with talk about the ordinances. The ordinances have nothing whatsoever to do with this case. The action taken by the police on this occasion had nothing to do with the ordinances. It would have been taken if ordinances had not existed. There was a procession, there was a crowd which, rightly or wrongly, the District Superintendent of Police thought was likely to cause a disturbance of the peace, and he dispersed it. He did it under the ordinary processes of law, in the interest of law and order ; he did not act under any section of the ordinances.

I do not wish to refer at length to the preliminary remarks which the honourable Rao Bahadur made before he led up to the actual narrative of the incidents which occurred on the 4th of February. But I must contradict him on the fact when he says that there was an understanding between the authorities and the people that processions should be allowed on certain days of the week. That is not a fact. It is true that on two days in the week processions had taken place, but they were small processions, they were peaceful processions, and when two or three people had been arrested, the processions dispersed. But on this occasion, as the House will see from the report of the District Superintendent of Police of Ahmednagar, which I will shortly read, the procession was a much larger one than on the two previous occasions and of a much less peaceful character than in the past.

[Mr. G. A. Thomas]

Then there is another remark of the honourable member which I think I must contradict. He said that he got information—he is very careful to say that he cannot vouch for the information, because he knows that his information is open to suspicion—that the District Superintendent of Police did not come into Ahmednagar until late in the afternoon, apparently when the procession was taking place. He says that the District Superintendent of Police got out of his car on arrival at the place, seized his "hunter," and hit the first volunteer with it on the left eye. That is the most extraordinary story I have ever heard. Then, he says a lathi charge was made and the crowd dispersed. How many were injured? The honourable member did not say how many people, how many men, women and children were injured, how many were taken to the hospital, what happened to them. Surely, evidence would have been produced to prove the nature of the injuries and the number of people injured. But he dismisses it by merely saying that they were injured. Then he says that in the evening a second meeting was held in the maidan, and as soon as the crowd came into the maidan—where incidentally he says a boy came forward to make salt, which the honourable member treats as a joke—the police began to belabour the people without the least warning. Now, Sir, I propose to read the report which I have received from the District Magistrate forwarding the report of the District Superintendent of Police. It is a report of four or five pages, and I propose to read it out in detail. In passing, I do not know whether the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale has ever had the honour of meeting Mr. Maxwell-Gumbleton. If he has not, I can only say he has missed the opportunity of meeting one of the finest types of Englishmen that I know, one of the finest types of British officers in India. Some day I hope the honourable member will meet him and recognise that he has made a mistake in trying to pass a vote of condemnation against him. Personally, I have known this officer for 10 years. To my mind he is the soul and embodiment of honour, sincerity and truth. I will now read his report. He says:

"Before the 4th of February....."

that is the day on which this incident occurred,

"..... processions were being taken twice a week along the Fergusson Road to the Station Road."

[Mr. G. A. Thomas]

That bears out what the honourable Rao Bahadur says.

"On getting to within 100-200 yards of the Station Road the main procession would halt and volunteers varying in numbers from 6 to 4 would walk out singing songs and would attempt to go along the Station Road. Large crowds always collected to watch them and cheer them when they were arrested."

There was no understanding as the Rao Bahadur says. The police had not made any attempt to disperse these crowds and processions up to the 4th of February. They simply arrested two or three people that came forward. In that sense, from what the Rao Bahadur says it might be said that there might have been some kind of tacit understanding between the authorities and the people.

"On the 4th of February, it was announced that 100 people were going to court arrest."

It was a definite departure from the previous procedure. Formerly, two or three people only had come forward and been arrested. But on the 4th of February as many as 100 people were going to court arrest. So, the situation was altered.

"Up to that date the people arrested had been nonentities. As these large crowds of spectators afforded them a great advertisement, it appeared to me to be undesirable to continue to arrest these nonentities. I, therefore, in consultation with the District Magistrate, decided on a change of tactics."

I emphasise the words "in consultation with the District Magistrate" because this entirely disproves the statement made by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale on his information that the District Superintendent of Police had not been present in Ahmednagar at the time, but came at a late hour that afternoon. The report goes on to say:

"On arriving at the place where the procession would come on the forbidden road, I found, as I expected, a large crowd. One section of it was immediately behind, and only about 2 yards from, the armed police. There was no time to disperse this crowd except by a determined lathi charge, which, as they were merely harmless spectators, was clearly undesirable."

The District Superintendent of Police is not the blood-thirsty monster the Rao Bahadur makes him out to be, because he felt that a number of harmless spectators might be injured by a lathi charge. Therefore, he deliberately refrained from a lathi charge on that occasion. The report says further:

"At the same time they could not be allowed to remain so close to the armed police. I accordingly ordered them to move back into the public garden near by, and remain behind the walls of the garden. They could be easily kept there by a few police.

The crowd was reluctant to move, so they were pushed back and a few people were struck with light canes."

There were no lathi charges that afternoon; there was no lathi used there.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: I cannot agree.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The report goes on to say:

"This had the desired effect and they moved into the garden.

Both sides of Fergusson Road were lined by large crowds and after disposing of the crowd behind the armed police I moved the crowd on the East of Fergusson Road further away from the armed police who were drawn up on the Station Road. The crowd on the West of Station Road had a large proportion of women in it, so I did not move them then."

[Mr. G. A. Thomas]

The Superintendent of Police did not make war upon women. The report then says :

" Before the crowd on the East of Fergusson Road had dispersed, the procession arrived. I stopped the people (3 in number) who had come to court arrest and told them to disperse. They refused; so were pushed back on to the head of the procession with which the crowds from both sides of the road had amalgamated. I then ordered the crowd to disperse, and warned them that I would disperse them by force if they disobeyed. They showed no signs of dispersing, so I ordered the police who were armed with light canes (not with lathis) to disperse them by force. They did so and the police also drove back the crowds who were mingling with the main procession on both sides of the road. I had previously warned the police not to hit women."

Consider the forethought and kindly thought of the District Superintendent of Police. The report goes on to say :

" The first charge drove the crowd back about 200 yards and they were dispersing when I saw a group of women gathering round a large Congress Flag. It looked as if they were about to form a procession and advance. I accordingly arrested the ringleader and the remainder dispersed. The arrested woman was subsequently released on her promise to take no further part in the C. D. movement. This new attraction had stopped the dispersal of the crowd. I accordingly warned them again and again charged."

The Rao Bahadur says that no warning was given.

" This time they were driven back to beyond the Fergusson Gate and started dispersing gradually.

It has been stated that I gave the crowd no time to disperse before using force. To a certain extent this is a true allegation."

The District Superintendent of Police says it is a true allegation, and I repeat it because it shows he does not want to conceal anything. He says :

" I did however give them ample time to start dispersing had they wished to do so, and force was not used until it was obvious that the crowds would not disperse without its use. I could not wait for long as it was getting dark. It was also Ramzan, and many of the police on duty were Mahomedans who had no food or drink since before sunrise and who would be wanted again to deal with the meeting to be held that night."

Again, the District Superintendent of Police shows his humanity and kindliness of heart.

" Practically all the police used on this occasion were armed with light canes. A few, with heavy lathis, were used to push the crowd back and occasionally no doubt they struck a man with these lathis. The Deputy Superintendent of Police, the Home Inspector, the Sub-Inspector, Head Quarters, and myself were on the lookout to stop the police using heavy lathis vigorously.

The only person I saw at all damaged, except with canes, was a little boy of about 8 years old who had been knocked down by the first speedy retreat of the crowds..... "

I wonder whether the Rao Bahadur has not heard of this little boy of eight years old who had been knocked down not by the lathis of the police, but by the crowds. The report says further :

" I picked him up myself..... "

Here is this atrocious monster of a policeman pausing in the act of dispersal of a crowd picking up a little boy, acting the good Samaritan.

" He appeared rather dazed and his nose was bleeding slightly, but he was not even crying, so I do not think he was badly hurt. I handed him over to a youth of about 20 who said he was his brother and sent them through the police cordon."

[Mr. G. A. Thomas]

Another kindly act.

"Since then I have heard nothing of him, so I presume he was uninjured. One policeman was struck by a shoe thrown from the crowd, but was not hurt.

While returning to the police station after the crowd had dispersed, a police Jamadar was hit on the right eye by a stone. He was treated at the Civil Hospital."

That closes the incidents of the early evening, or late afternoon. Now comes the second incident referred to by the Rao Bahadur. The report says :

"It had been announced that salt was to be made at the meeting to be held on Gandhi Maidan that evening."

That is quite a different story from the one that the Rao Bahadur gave us of a small boy coming out with his programme of salt making in the earlier meeting. It had been announced that salt was to be made at the meeting. Now, the manufacture of salt is not a lawful act, and any person pursuing that unlawful act, or a big crowd which assembles to witness that act becomes an unlawful crowd and must be prepared to take the consequences. They must be aware what the consequences may be. An announcement was made that salt was to be prepared at the meeting.

"I therefore kept the police in readiness to disperse the meeting. On hearing that they had started to make salt, I went to Gandhi Maidan with the police. As soon as the crowd, about 1,000, saw the police they fled. I arrested the President and two people who were making salt. One was subsequently released, as he was only a boy."

The honourable member said that—

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE : Was "salt maker" arrested on the spot ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : I choose to believe the report of the District Superintendent of Police.

"While I was waiting for a lorry to arrive to remove the prisoners, the crowd started to reassemble on both sides. I told the police to drive them back and as soon as the police moved to obey they retreated about 40 yards without any force being used."

See what happened subsequently.

"About two minutes later a sepoy came up to me and reported that he had been hit by a stone. I went to the place and found a crowd of about 22 standing some 20 yards from the police cordon. As I passed through the cordon another sepoy called out that he had been hit ;"

The Police Superintendent was himself hit by a stone.

"and as I got in front I was hit on the left elbow by what felt like a fair sized stone. I accordingly charged the crowd from which the stones were coming and dispersed them. I ordered the sepoys to charge any crowd that reassembled on that side and went to the other side."

The honourable member said that there was no stone-throwing.

"The situation there was the same. The police said they were being stoned and there was a slightly smaller crowd there about 20 yards from the cordon. I accordingly charged and dispersed them and gave the same orders.

Meanwhile the prisoners were removed. Another crowd started to collect but dispersed on seeing the police advance towards them.

In dispersing these crowds canes and heavy lathis were used."

[Mr. G. A. Thomas]

The Police Superintendent has to maintain law and order. The honourable member said that many people were injured.

"I do not think many people were hurt, though because, as soon as they saw the police meant business, they ran for their lives.

I reported on 5th morning that 2 or 3 sepoys had been hit by stones as I had personal knowledge of them. Subsequent enquiries show that 10 were hit. None were seriously injured.

Only one member of the public was admitted into or attended the civil hospital as a result of injuries received on 4th February. He arrived there on 5th morning with a fractured forearm which he said was caused by falling into a gutter near the Gandhi Maidan on 4th evening. His name is Meghraj Motirmal, age 45, merchant by trade."

The honourable member said that many women and children were hurt as a result of the injuries.

"No women or children were treated at the hospital.

I did not see any women or children (except the boy arrested for making salt) in the crowd on the Gandhi Maidan. No one was found lying on the ground after any of the charges by the police on the 4th, and I am certain that no woman or child was injured by the police."

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Was not a child injured and a girl arrested?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I think the District Superintendent of Police is the best person to say what happened.

I am perfectly certain, after having heard the statement made by the District Superintendent of Police, the principal actor in the drama, any honourable member will come to the conclusion that the honourable member Rao Bahadur Chitale has made out no case to pass a vote of censure on him, particularly in his absence, when he cannot be heard in his defence. I will conclude by reading the report of the District Magistrate who was not at the place, but he says:

"All I have to add to the account given by the Superintendent is that I had enquiry made at the civil hospital about Meghraj Motirmal. I am informed that he only attended the hospital once as an outdoor patient on the 5th February when they put his forearm in splints, but since then he has not returned to the hospital. Nothing seems to have been said at meetings about him since then.

From the facts detailed by the Superintendent it is plain that the police force behaved with discretion and resolution. The fact that both on that and subsequent occasions they preserved the order forbidding processions on the Station Road from being broken has had the good effect of subsequently reducing the general agitation, since people began to realise that there was no intention of giving way to hostile demonstrations near the road, and so abandoned the project from the 15th February."

Question, "That the House do adjourn," put, and negatived.

DISCUSSION ON THE BOMBAY FINANCE BILL—(resumed).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The consideration of the motion that the Bill be read a first time is before the House now. I once more bring it to the notice of honourable members that we have gone back to the item of business which we had before the House this morning—the consideration of Bill No. I of 1932 for first reading. Does any honourable member wish to speak? [Honourable Members: "To-morrow."]

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: I find that the general sense of the House is that as there are too many composite Bills the discussion should be postponed till tomorrow, as there was not sufficient time to study these provisions and give our clear views.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No. The Bill has been before the House for some considerable time. They should have considered it.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, after the statement of the Honourable the Home Member, I was inclined not to take any part for more reasons than one.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Is the honourable member criticising the speech?

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: I am not criticising the speech. I think this Bill deserves to be spoken upon, and should not be allowed to pass in silence. As I said at an earlier stage, the form in which it has been presented to us is confusing. This Finance Bill which comprises four Bills is so confusing that it is not possible to allow of opinion being rightly and honestly divided. But it has pleased Government Benches to move it in that form, not with a view to certifying the Bill later on as a Finance Bill, in case this House throws out this Bill, but in view of the fate of the last Bill, in order that certification may be brought into force. I hope that there is no such desire on the part of the House to come under the bludgeon clause of certification against its wishes. I combat the view that there is any necessity for further taxation. I combat the view that unless this 30 lakhs is found within the next 12 months, Government will not be able to function. I will not dissect the carcass nor flog the dead horse. But we will accept facts as they are. As regards the facts they are there.

I speak subject to correction, but I think this Blue Book does not give the information. I find that the income from salt is Rs. 20,000. That is not shown as income anywhere. [Interruption]. My point is that the salt duty has lately been increased. Proportionately our share of the revenue also must have increased. This revenue has not been brought into account. It is very unbusinesslike to do so. However, Government themselves have retrenched a lot and propose to retrench more if the examination of the expert committee convince them that there is enough room for using that method. Unless the Local Government were satisfied that there was such room, I do not think that they would have gone to the length of appointing an expert committee: I believe that the Local Government themselves are sanguine enough that this examination by the experts will reveal enough scope and show where and when to retrench. That being so, I should think that for one year at least they should not bring forward any proposals of taxation, any proposals of taxation in the form in which they have brought them.

In the first place, as I said, after all, these proposals are not intended to bring in a very big revenue. I should think, Sir, that if the budget is to be balanced for ever, as the Government of India did balance their budget for the next eighteen months, that would be something. But this is all patch-work, patch-work in the sense that they themselves admit that the retrenchment effected this year to the extent of one crore will be effective only for this year and that it will have to be made good in the next year. The proposals they have made in this particular form are very inadequate. If they had come forward with courageous proposals which would once for all balance the budget and enable Government to hand over a balanced budget to the powers that may come hereafter, then that might have been acceptable to the House. But this is all patch-work. Moreover, they have not the heart; they are afraid of displeasing this section, that section or the other section; and therefore comes in the exemption clause and the clause reserving to themselves the powers to increase the number of exemptees. For instance, take the Electricity Bill. I wish, Sir, speaking candidly, that if they had the courage of their own convictions then, the whole of the amount needed could have been found by adequate taxation. But they want only to strangle the growth of this enterprise in the mofussil; they want to keep the vested interests untouched and to let them go without the least taxation. The levy that they wish to make is disproportionate, because the rate at which a unit is charged in different places differs so much that the percentage will never be equal, it will always be disproportionate. That is not one of the best methods of taxation. It is claimed that this proposal is justifiable on the general grounds that the tax is easy to collect, that it falls equitably on all persons and taxes the persons who are most able to bear it. Examining the Bill on these grounds one is bound to say that it offends against all of them. For instance, the Bombay Tramway Company, I forget the exact name—the company which enjoys the monopoly of electric supply in the Bombay City—it does hold the monopoly—is making pretty good profit. They are buying their energy at present from another company at a much less cost than what they estimated when they went in for this enterprise. The Bill proposes that the Tramway Company should escape the burden; it is not taxed at all. The Tramway Company is at present paying a handsome dividend. What would it matter to them if that dividend was lowered by, say, one per cent.? They have declared those dividends in past years and solidified their position. They have got some advantages which they had not when they first started their enterprise. Then, take the mill industry. That also is not intended to be hit the least. Some of my honourable friends will look at me and ask me whether it is proper to tax the industry. Well, I ask, Why not? At present Government is in a parlous position as regards its finances, and the more money comes from the pockets of the leisured and moneyed classes the better. It was stated by the honourable member the Finance Secretary that while the average tax paid by an inhabitant of Bombay City to the Government of India and the Municipality is Rs. 45, the average tax paid by him to the coffers of the local Government is only five annas. If that is the case, that is not a very desirable state of things. How can you call it desirable?

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

Bombay City does not pay anything by way of land revenue. If the Bombay inhabitant pays only five annas to the local Government, it is only reasonable and logical to say that some method must be devised by which he can be made to pay more to the local Government's coffers. The point of view that I wish to put before the House is that there is no case made out why the tramway companies and other commercial concerns should be allowed to be on the free list. I do say, Sir, emphatically that if a poor man, a man who lives in a one room tenement, has to contribute to the local Government four annas or six annas—whatever the amount—there is a case to treat that man with more sympathy than the richer man. Even a small sum of six annas is to a poor man more valuable than whole rupees to a richer man. By "richer man" I mean the shareholder either in the tramway company or in a mill or other concerns. It was stated that the rate these people are charged for electrical energy for power and lighting purposes is very small, less than an anna or two per unit. Therefore, there is no reason why Government should be very sympathetic towards them. Then, again, these electric concerns are rising up in many of the mofussil towns. Take, for instance, the backward and famine-stricken district of Ahmednagar. A company has just come there and obtained a licence. It wants to charge six annas a unit. If in addition to the six annas charged by a struggling industry to the poor people in the town of Ahmednagar a surcharge is to be levied, what reason is there to exempt richer concerns in richer areas? I hear that in Dhulia also they are going to start an electricity company. Thus, there are many places in the mofussil which are now getting the benefit of electricity, which is certainly a matter for congratulation. Then, I may be told that this is a good tax and, after all, they are trying to get only 12 lakhs. My opposition to the Bill is that it tries to take only 12 lakhs. If you are able to get the whole of your requirements, namely 26 lakhs or 28 lakhs, then, by all means, collect it by this one measure, and let go the poorer people, namely, the agriculturists, by keeping out the Court-fees and Stamp Bills. I believe Government will earn the better opinion of the poorer people if they accept that view.

As regards the Court-fees Bill and the Stamp Bill, although they are considered to be only temporary measures, we find that they have been on our statute book from year to year. I have been watching the temper of this House today. During the last session my honourable friends here spoke very eloquently and very emphatically for lowering the scale of pleader's fees of lawyers from 5 per cent. to 3 per cent. Now, the increase in Court-fees and Stamp duties will hit mainly the agriculturist and make litigation more difficult and much dearer than it is. The House will remember that on all occasions, when Court-fee was sought to be increased for any amounts below Rs. 5,000 it had shown itself against it; and though it was tried almost every year, Government in the nick of time came forward with a proposal exempting suits below this amount. I think Government has got up in their sleeves an idea of appeasing us and getting our support in that way after some struggle.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

But I submit that no case has been made out for increasing the tax all round. The Honourable the Finance Member must not forget the law of diminishing returns. The diminishing return rule is so wholesome, that he will himself find at the end of the life of this Bill, namely, one year, that the circumstances are wholly against him. If he gets the figures of the institution of suits or appeals either in the mofussil or district sessions or even the High Court, he will find that the number is decreasing rapidly even now. If, therefore, you put more taxation by way of Court-fees, I am certain that you will not only not make up the amount that you want, but you will unnecessarily get a bad name. You will get a bad name because this is the time when you can make a wholesome and welcome gesture to the poorer people who are harassed in various ways. There is no doubt about it. Though the crops may be good, the prices that they can get or hope to get in the near future are so small that it is not possible to recover even the cost of cultivation. That is my complaint with respect to the Court-fees clause of the Bill.

As regards the Stamp Act, again, I think it is a very good measure so far as it wants to cover the forward transactions, but I am sure that the Honourable the Finance Member will find that the vested interests, at least so far as the bigger cities of Karachi, Poona and Bombay are concerned, are very difficult to "samjao." No amount of argument or reasonableness will convince the commercial body as a whole, because it has to be recognised that trading concerns have been hit very badly both by way of incometax and supertax and the parlous condition in which the present trade finds itself. Apart from what I have stated, it is indeed too true that the plight of the tradespeople is such as to deserve our heartfelt sympathies, and it is just possible that there also the law of diminishing returns will come into force and Government will get a bad name without being able to fill their coffers. In smaller things also the Stamp Act is intended to be used in such a way as to touch the poorer classes. It is no use passing legislation against the wishes of the people. After all, you are finding almost two-thirds of the amount of deficit from loan funds. It is only for a very paltry sum that you are seeking the aid of this House in passing this taxation proposal. I do not think, Sir, that it is a proposal which would be acceptable to this House.

Then, again, as I have said, the form in which you bring this proposal is very objectionable. You want a whole vote which we are unable to divide. Either we must say "Yes" or "No." Just as we lawyers are in the habit of putting a question, so also I am afraid that the Honourable the Finance Member expects us either to say "Yes" or "No." I am afraid the Finance Member has called upon himself a predicament. I do not know how he would extricate himself from it. I know he will extricate himself from it somehow. But I am of opinion that the proposition before us is such that it cannot commend itself to this part of the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. There seems to be some confusion, I am told, in the minds of many honourable members about the voting on this Bill. I personally see no difficulty at all. I have made it perfectly clear, and I would like to make it more clear, if possible. The Bill has been brought forward in one whole form with five parts in it. I want honourable members to follow me closely, because they know the gravity of the situation. It has already been pointed out on the floor of this House, during the last few days, that the financial position of the Presidency is very serious. To meet that situation, this is one of the methods Government have thought of. It is for this House, representing the Presidency, to decide once for all whether they would come to the help of Government by passing the taxation measure in this form. It is not for me or any section of this House to dictate terms to the other sections.

[The President]

Now, the Bill must be taken as a whole. It has been suggested that I should accept amendments to delete certain portions of it. I cannot make up my mind to accept an amendment of that kind. The whole House should decide whether taxation must be voted in this particular form, but it is going too far to request me, as the President, that I should play one section of the House against another. [Hear, hear.] Order, order. The suggestion boils down practically to nothing else than this, that I accept an amendment from one section of the House which has vested interests in Part I, to the effect that that Part be deleted. In fairness, therefore, I shall have to accept an amendment from another section of the House seeking to delete, say, Part II, in which that section is interested. Another section will seek to delete Part III, and so on. What is the practical result? The result is the deletion of the whole Bill. Honourable members should make up their own mind one way or the other. Deletion of this clause or that clause or the other is really not the method, as each part is an important part and parcel of the Bill, and involves an important principle. If I admit an amendment that the clause relating to the duty on consumption of electrical energy should be deleted, it means that the section seeking its deletion will vote in favour of the rest of the Bill. When the time is reached, they would probably join together and group A would say to group B, "I will help you in getting rid of the electricity clause if you will help me in getting rid of the clause which affects my interests." This is ridiculous. I cannot allow that. I am anxious, I am in a mood to help the House, but the House as a whole, and not any particular section of it. I was anxious to see what procedure was followed in the Legislative Assembly in similar cases. It has been brought to my notice that in the Assembly when the finance bill was brought, amendments were accepted to change certain figures, say from 10 to 5, from 5 to 2 and so on.

Another question was put to me privately by an honourable member on the Government bench, whether honourable members can, in the second reading or at a later stage, come forward and table an amendment deleting a certain clause. Certainly, they can do that, provided that the attempt on their part is not an attempt to delete a whole part. For instance, in Part II, there are several clauses. Amendments coming in at a later stage would seek to delete clause 1, clause 2 and so on, with the result that the whole part relating to electricity will be deleted. That would be going back upon the principle of the Bill. The honourable House must make up its mind whether it is prepared to vote for taxation in this particular form or not. If it is, then in the committee stage the whole Bill can be amended as best as it can be.

[The President]

Having explained the position, I must repeat that I cannot help any one section of the House in this matter. It would be very unfair to call upon the President, who has got to see that all sections in the House are equally treated; and if I treat all sections of the House equally by accepting all their amendments, the result is, so far as this Bill is concerned, that the whole Bill is nullified. I therefore would urge honourable members now to proceed to speak on the principle of the Bill.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I submit that when amendments are tabled, several members do not put their heads together and arrive at a common understanding. It may happen that in the second reading one honourable member may table an amendment deleting clause 1 and another deleting clause 2, and so on. The effect of those amendments would be that the whole part would be deleted. But when you, Sir, rule that you will not allow amendments the effect of which is that the whole part is deleted, that means all the honourable members moving amendments must act together and put in an amendment which will not delete the whole part. Secondly, I submit with great deference that in the Legislative Assembly they did not want the whole duty on salt to be removed. They simply wanted to reduce the duty and gave amendments reducing the figure of duty. In the finance bill which was moved in the Assembly, all subjects like paper currency, income-tax, salt, postal rates, tariffs, all these different things are jumbled up together, as I have done. It is not a novelty. That is done in the House of Commons. In the Assembly in 1925 there was a similar Bill. In such cases there is an amendment to remove, say, entry 1 from Schedule II to Part I; there is an amendment to reduce the salt duty from Re. 1-4-0 to annas 12. There was nothing to prevent any member moving for the removal of the salt duty altogether. How can an honourable member be prevented from moving an amendment the effect of which would be to delete a particular form of tax, because the Bill contains several forms of taxation? An amendment may be moved which will have the effect of not granting to Government the right to levy a duty on the consumption of electricity. There may be another amendment—several honourable members may differ from one another—the effect of which would be to reduce the court-fees to the original level. So, I submit there is nothing to prevent such a thing happening. So, when it is ruled that no amendment will be allowed the total effect of which would be to delete a particular part, then it means that it is assumed that the persons moving the amendments must have put their heads together, and it is said "If you move this you cannot move the other. Let us have some loophole, so that one clause at least remains." In the

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Assembly there is nothing to prevent anybody from moving that a particular tax be reduced.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I am sorry the misunderstanding still continues. I fully realise, according to the instances which the Honourable the Finance Member has pointed out, that the Honourable Member himself, or Government, or any section of this House is entitled to follow methods which suit each one's purpose. I am not sure whether such manoeuvres could, however, be countenanced by the Chair. In fact, a motion to delete a clause is not in order. You can vote against it; you cannot have a motion to delete it. I think we have fully dealt with this matter now, and the principle of the Bill may be discussed in the way I have indicated.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : Would you, Sir, agree to keep it open to us to show whether such a procedure has been followed or not ? Because, when I say parts I, II, III, IV and V, I mean these different duties. What is there to prevent anybody from saying that x should not be the charge, but y should be the charge ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : I rise to a point of order. Is the Honourable the Finance Member entitled to speak thrice and four times on this ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : He is doing it with my permission. I would like to hear anything that reasonably could be pointed out to make me accede to the request that amendments of the nature I have indicated can be allowed.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : I could not understand my honourable friend's point of order. I was not making a speech upon the merits of the Bill. I was merely making a few observations, with your permission, Sir, as regards your ruling, and you have assured me that you would keep it open to us to show whether such a procedure has been followed or not. I pointed out (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) duties. There is nothing to prevent anybody from saying that duty (a), duty (b) or any other duty should not be charged.

Mr. G. WILES : Sir, may I be permitted to say just one word on a difficulty that will arise owing to your ruling ? Certain honourable members, I understand, wish to commit the whole Bill to a select committee, on the understanding that they will still have the opportunity of rejecting any part of the Bill when it comes back at the second reading. But, obviously, it will not be open to any honourable member, under your ruling, at the second reading, to move for rejection of a clause, which would have the effect of offending against the principle of the Bill. It would be impracticable, obviously, for any honourable member who objects to any particular tax to attack that tax in the second reading, so that the attack must be made at the first reading. That is the difficulty to which honourable members are put. Now, it was not the intention of Government, in bringing forward this Finance Bill, to raise any such difficult problem. A Finance Bill in this form was a matter of convenience not only to Government but, as we thought, to this House—that the whole of the taxation proposals might take up one debate, and not 4 or 5 debates one after the other. But, owing to this misunderstanding which has arisen, honourable members, I understand, have not tabled amendments, which they would otherwise have tabled, for the rejection of particular clauses. For instance, my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham or Mr. Petit would presumably have tabled an amendment to omit clause 5, which says :

[Mr. G. Wiles]

"There shall be levied and paid to the Government of Bombay, on the units of energy consumed, excluding losses of energy in transmission and transformation, a duty..... at the rates specified in the schedule to this Part."

The effect of moving that amendment would be, if it were carried, to exclude the electricity duty. Honourable members have not understood that they ought to have tabled amendments in that form beforehand, and if you could permit honourable members to move them now by using your discretion under the Standing Orders, I think the House would be very satisfied.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University) : Sir, what I wish to point out is that the difficulty in this case about moving amendments of principle at a late stage must be apparent to the honourable members on that side of the House. Also, if amendments omitting certain parts only were to be tabled, it was quite open, as you have ruled, for honourable members, to do so. But now all that is sought to be done is to seek your help in getting permission to move amendments of principle now, and you have very rightly ruled that they cannot be moved at this stage. All that was sought by the Honourable the Finance Member and by the Finance Secretary was that an amendment of principle could be moved in the second reading. As you have ruled, as there have been no amendments of that nature tabled so far, no permission is to be given to move them hereafter, and very rightly, because it is such an important question. Honourable members on this side have not come prepared for dealing with amendments of principle in the various parts now, because there is no amendment before them for the deletion of any part. Certainly, it would not be the right thing for you, Sir, as the President of this House to be now in a position to allow amendments of principle at this late stage.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : As I have said, at the second reading, a clause may be opposed and thrown out, if the House shows a tendency to do so. But it is really wrong on the part of any section of the House to demand from the President to allow amendments which would suit the convenience of particular sections, and those sections, when they are relieved of their anxiety, to be in a position to help Government against the wishes of the other sections. The Chair cannot be a party to it. I still adhere to my ruling.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : I hope it will not be discussed as it has been discussed up till now.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If anything is brought up to convince me to change my opinion, I will be open to hear it.

Rao Bahadur G. V. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Sir, the reformed Councils have been working for the last 10 or 11 years. I do not suppose that the fact that the reformed Councils are composed of so many different interests, perhaps antagonistic to one another, has not dawned upon the House as a whole in such glaring light until to-day. The problem has now been put forward in a nutshell. Several sorts of taxes are proposed in one Bill, and now it dawns upon the House, that, if one portion of the Bill was before us, then one section would have supported it, but not otherwise; and if another portion of the Bill was before us, another section would have supported it, and not otherwise; and so on.

We find, and we have been told so many times, that the resources of the Presidency, or rather the revenues of the Presidency, have hit hard and very hard upon the agriculturists and upon the mofussil areas. The resources of the towns have no doubt been tackled, but tackled comparatively to a very small extent. It had been stated by the Honourable the Finance Member in his reply to the budget debate that this Council has come in a mood perhaps to sanction no extra taxation. I beg to differ from him. From the very beginning of this new Council, from the year 1921, even the Honourable the Finance Member has known that this Council has sanctioned taxes of a miniature nature, but taxes which do bring him revenue to a certain extent. First of all, there was the introduction of charas. It was he who put up the proposal; it was he who saw that the proposal was gone through in the House. The second proposal was the introduction of bookmakers. Bookmakers were allowed, and it has brought him, according to his estimates, a sum of Rs. 3,00,000, although the Honourable the Revenue Member said last year that it was too modest a figure, and in his opinion it would bring the Government Rs. 6,00,000 or Rs. 8,00,000.

Sir, the position is clearly this. The position is, are we going to sanction the taxes that have been put in the present Finance Bill, and are the taxes shown in that Bill really necessary? If the question had simply been whether we have to meet the deficit in the budget or not, the answer would have been only one. The answer would have been that we have to meet the deficit. But the next question is more serious. The question is, how are we to meet the deficit? I made it clear in the course of my remarks on the general discussion of the budget that the deficit could be met only by a cut in salaries and staff. Now, we have been asked to make up the deficit up to a certain portion, say about Rs. 30,00,000 by fresh taxation. The Honourable the Finance Member remarked on Saturday that fresh taxation had been postponed from time to time by this honourable House on the plea that a retrenchment committee had not been appointed, or on the plea that the retrenchment committee had not sent in its report, and on the plea that the retrenchment committee's recommendations had not been given effect to by Government, and that now we want to await the result of the expert committee's work. Yes. We are entitled to say that, so long as Government have not convincingly shown that the utmost limit has been reached, that every possible effort has been made to see that the deficits are covered, and until we are satisfied to that extent, no fresh taxation would be sanctioned, not only by this House but by any House. The proposal for the appointment of a special expert committee has not come up from this side. It has come from the other side. It has come up from the Government benches, and as the Government benches have put up this proposal, this side is entitled to say that perhaps it is an eye-wash. Several proposals of the retrenchment committee, which could have reduced the expenditure by lakhs of rupees, have been left out, and left out with a remark that they are being considered by Government, or that they will be placed before the expert committee, in order to have their decision. What this means is that so long as the expert committee has not given its opinion, all these expenses will go on and go on increasing.

[Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan]

Now, coming to the question whether, if any taxes are to be imposed, the present taxes are the proper ones, I, as representing the rural classes, would say that Part II imposing a charge on the consumption of electricity and Part IV imposing a stamp duty on forward contracts, may be passed if necessary. These taxes may be imposed not only in the proportion proposed in the Bill but even in a higher proportion. On the contrary, the increased stamp duties for mortgages, sales, leases and kabulayats of an every day nature as well as the court-fees, and the court-fees in particular, would seriously affect ultimately the agricultural classes. But now, a situation has been created which is difficult. The question is, am I or am I not entitled to vote in this way? If I am not entitled to vote in this way, then I must say emphatically that I am not going to vote for any taxation whatever. That would not be the mistake of the House, but that would be the mistake of the Honourable the Finance Member in putting together so many taxes in one Bill in such a way that the whole House would be opposed to those taxes.

Mr. C. N. PATEL (Kaira District): Sir, I rise to oppose the first reading of this Finance Bill. The first objection I have against this Bill is that there is no necessity for any further taxation; and, secondly, the taxable capacity of the people has already been reached. Whichever part of the Finance Bill you take, I am in a position to show that the persons on whom this Finance Bill will fall are not in a position to bear the burden. People coming from the mofussil may not be in a position to know the burden the second part of the Bill, namely, the electricity Bill, will entail on the people who reside in cities and towns. There are a large number of middle class people who are out of employment. So, this tax will work very heavily and adversely on such people residing in cities and towns. We expect Government to promote the use of electricity among people as an amenity of life by reducing the charges. For instance, in Mysore various attempts are being made to popularise the use of electricity amongst their subjects. If my information is correct, there the rate per unit is 2 annas per unit for fan and lighting purposes. Here it is 5 annas or 6 annas and Government want to have over and above this a surcharge of half an anna. The result will be that people will have to revert to their oil lamps. It is not a luxury in the case of people living in cities and towns. They have become accustomed to using it all these years, and they cannot be expected to give it up at short notice. The alternative suggested by the honourable member Mr. Petit that if really Government want money, they can tax the company itself—is quite proper. He referred to section 28 or 24 of the Electricity Act and stated that Government can force the company to lower down the rates and Government can take the difference. If the company is charging five annas per unit, you can ask them to reduce the scale and to charge 4 annas or 4½ annas and you can take the difference. It is within your power to do it. I am quite sure you can do it, if you have a mind to do it. The rates fixed by the company are not permanent. They are liable to revision at set intervals and I think this set interval has already come. But Government do not choose to exercise their right. If they do not choose to exercise their right, this is not the right way of trying to collect money.

[Mr. C. N. Patel]

As regards the court-fees, the increase is out of all proportion and particularly the increase in the ad valorem fees is very heavy. To-day the court-fee for Rs. 5,000 is Rs. 275 and Government propose to raise it to Rs. 375. They also intend to propose a higher scale as the amount goes up. The reason that is given is that the money value has gone down. As the money that goes into the pocket of Government is less in value, they require more money. But the claims also have lost their money value. If Government were to calculate the benefits that they are giving in return for the fees they charge, I submit there is a case more for reduction of court-fees than for an increase. Government do not consider the heavy cost of the litigant who has to pay for the various services. To begin with, he pays court-fees, he is fleeced by the bailiff, he has to pay the process fees. In recent years there has been an increase in the copying charges. For a single half-sheet of paper 3 or 6 pies are charged; the comparing fees and other fees have been increased. On the top of this comes the increase in court-fees. As the court-fees to-day stand, they are heavy and should not be increased. In the High Court, there is a complaint that Gujarati and other vernacular papers have to be translated into English at a huge cost. There is no end to the expenses that the poor litigant has to undergo in the different stages of litigation. Ultimately this heavy burden is going to fall on the poor agriculturist. I do not see any reason why this increase should be sanctioned by this House.

As regards the stamp duty, every one knows the condition of the trader. He is in no way better than the other classes. This increase, I think, would even be an impediment to trade. We know quite well what happened originally when the stamp duty on promissory note was increased. Thousands of claims for want of legal knowledge, were thrown out, because the stamps were not properly affixed. Under the stringent provisions that are sought to be made, many valid claims will be lost. Under the present circumstances, parts 4 and 5 of the Bill will adversely affect the traders in the towns and also people in the mofussil, and as such they should be thrown out.

[Mr. C. N. Patel]

Again, this Finance Bill proposes to raise something like 30 lakhs of rupees, but still the trouble of Government does not end there. They will be borrowing for the remaining deficit. I wish that rather than pass the Finance Bill we should leave Government to borrow 30 lakhs more. Especially this is not the time for any further taxation. Government have gone on borrowing and they can borrow 30 lakhs more. The new constitution that is coming must have some avenues left for them for taxation. Leave some avenues for them for fresh taxation. I would request the House to throw out the Bill in toto.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The amendments which I ruled as amendments of principle have to be moved at the first reading. Any honourable member who has to move an amendment may speak generally on the Bill and move his amendment also.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Sir, this is the first time in the history of this provincial legislature that a Finance Bill in this form has been brought. For the last eight years I have been in this Council, when we always have had separate Bills for the different kinds of taxation. In the present case, when I got the copy of the Bill I was myself surprised as to what course I should adopt when there are objections to different clauses of the different Bills, which have been jumbled into one. It certainly produced the greatest confusion to several honourable members of this House to send in amendments. This confusion was manifested at the earlier hours of the day. That is on account of the form in which the Finance Bill has been brought. We know that that is the procedure in the Legislative Assembly, but in this Council this is the first time it is introduced in that form. Though you have laid down by your ruling the principle of the Bill, honourable members who are in favour of certain parts of the Bill will find it very difficult to express their opinion and vote upon it as a whole. Anyway I must say that the Government have really, as you rightly stated, taken a grave responsibility on themselves in introducing the Bill in this form. It obviously looks that many members will be in a difficult position either to oppose it or to support it.

Speaking generally, the question I want to touch upon at first is with regard to retrenchment. The Honourable the Finance Member has shown in his speech that he has been able to retrench to the tune of Rs. 1,36,00,000 and as compared with the expenditure of last year, he said that he has been able to save Rs. 1,16,00,000. But, Sir, the Blue Book indicates that of the last five years the year 1929-30 was the most prosperous. That was the year which was immune from calamities like floods and failure of rains which affect agriculture. In that year the expenditure of this Presidency was also the highest, it being in round figures 15,86 lakhs. The budget estimates for the next year show the expenditure to be 15,08 lakhs. Consequently, Sir, there has been retrenchment only to the extent of about 78 lakhs. The explanation of the Honourable the Finance Member is that certain new items have been added to the expenditure side, thus swelling the total figures of expenditure. However, the figures show only a retrenchment of 78 lakhs. A large section of the non-official members are not one with the Honourable the Finance Member, because the retrenchments effected have hit the transferred departments harder than the reserved departments.

[Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro]

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I do not want to interrupt the honourable member, but his speech looks something like a budget speech. There are no arguments either in favour of or against the principle of the Bill.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: Retrenchment is closely connected with the question of taxation. I started with that argument. Retrenchment will be relevant as we are discussing the question of fresh taxation.

I was pointing out that the retrenchment effected was not sufficient, as the Honourable Member had tried to make out that it was sufficient. I have taken the totals of the retrenchments effected in the reserved and transferred departments separately—I do not consider it necessary to detail the exact figures of saving effected in each and every department and take thereby much time of the House. The totals are: Reserved departments, Rs. 33,13,000 and Transferred departments, Rs. 45,00,000. Under Education alone 31 lakhs have been retrenched since 1929-30. Of all the departments of Government, Education has suffered the most: no other department has been cut to the extent that Education has been cut. By this 15 per cent. reduction in expenditure, primary education will suffer a great deal. As against it, take Police. There has been practically no retrenchment under Police on the expenditure of 1929-30. On the contrary, there is an excess of Rs. 5,78,000 over the figures of 1929-30. This is a time when the Government of Bombay should realise that questions of prestige, efficiency and standard of living should not be taken into consideration, as has been mentioned in the last paragraph of the Honourable the Finance Member's speech. Government must think more of balancing the budget than of anything else. For this reason, the maintenance of efficiency of administration, for which this Presidency is said to be noted in India, is really immaterial and should not be considered.

Sir, I am also very much opposed to borrowing. It is bad finance and it leaves a bad legacy for the Government that will succeed. That Government when it takes over the administration will find itself handicapped, as it will have to impose heavy taxation to meet the interest charges. The suggestion of the Honourable the Finance Member that the finances of the Presidency should be re-examined and placed on a sound footing is a very good one, and I do hope that he will take early steps to obtain the services of experts to overhaul the finances of this Presidency.

[Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro]

As regards the Finance Bill itself, I admit that I have not been able to go into the minute details of it clause by clause. But there are four sections of the Bill. I will take first the section which deals with electricity. The proviso to clause 5 of that section excludes the tramway company, the railways and Government from the operations of the Bill. By excluding these big concerns, Government are giving up a very large income. The tramway company and the railways must bear their share of taxation as anybody else. The rich and the poor of the population are going to bear it. It may be argued that the railways are Government concerns. But I find that the B. B. & C. I. Railway is a private concern. Even as regards the other railway (G. I. P. Railway), it belongs to the Government of India. There is no reason why the Central Government should not pay to the local Government a tax which the local Government has the power to impose. One of the honourable members has already said that the tramway company in Bombay is making large profits, and there is no justification to exclude that company from the operations of the Bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: These are details of the Bill.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: This is a fundamental point. I have not been able to send in amendments owing to the difficulty I have explained. I did not know whether the amendments would be accepted at the first reading. This applies to the scope of the Bill, and your ruling is that the scope of the Bill is one of the principles.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes, but the question whether the tramway company or any other company should be excluded is a matter of detail which may be discussed later on. The question now is whether consumption of electricity should be taxed.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: I bow to your ruling, Sir. I understand that of the four principles that you laid down, one was the scope and the jurisdiction of the Bill. By the deletion of this proviso the scope of the Bill will be widened by bringing in other concerns that are exempted.

As regards court-fees and stamps, I must say that the ability to bear taxation has certain limits. If taxation is enhanced beyond a certain point, people will refrain from going to courts for litigation or seeking the help of law in civil courts, and then the revenue side will deteriorate very much and the expectations of Government will not be realised. In imposing any tax, the first thing that Government should consider is whether the people have got the capacity to pay that tax. This point needs close attention.

The other difficulty that I find about this Bill is that the Honourable the Finance Member has not been able to say how much he expects out of court-fees and stamps. I only find from his speech that he expects in all 28 lakhs out of the five Bills. If I understood him aright, he said that from the duty on electricity he expected 12 lakhs; that means, from the remaining four taxation Bills he expects only 16 lakhs. Even if all the money Bills are carried through, there will still remain a deficit of 35 lakhs of rupees.

[Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro]

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : Forty-five lakhs.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO : So, Sir, anyway the budget will not be balanced even if all the money Bills are carried through. Besides it has not been worked out how much each Finance Bill will yield to Government in the course of the next twelve months. There is a good deal to be said with regard to the details of the Bill, but I do not consider it necessary to go into them at this stage. I must again bring to the notice of the Honourable the Finance Member that these proposals need very minute consideration. I do not know whether in the form in which they have been brought forward they will help him to realise his expectations or whether on the contrary people will refuse to take advantage of the courts, and consequently the stamp duty will as a result diminish all round.

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District) : Sir, I want to say a few words as regards the necessity of further taxation at this stage. The deficit which has been shown in the budget is 73 lakhs, and by means of these taxation measures it is sought to recover about 28 lakhs, leaving the rest to be borrowed, except only 6 lakhs. If we are compelled to borrow, I ask why not borrow the whole amount ? As we are now in a difficult position and all the adjustments which have been contemplated have not taken place, we can, for the moment, adjust our finances by borrowing. When financial adjustments have taken place, if we find that we cannot balance our budget in spite of the adjustment, then only can we put forward these proposals. According to the Honourable the Finance Member himself, he is going to the Government of India to press his claim for income tax which we have lost. There we have got a grievance that we have been unjustifiably deprived of a source of revenue which is expanding. As stated by the Honourable the Finance Member, steps have already been taken to put the case of the Bombay Government frankly before the Federal Finance Committee. I submit that it will be rather impolitic at this stage to show to the Government of India that we have got additional sources of revenue. They would say that the Presidency has been sanctioning fresh sources of taxation and thereby the capacity of the people to bear further taxation has not yet been exhausted, and therefore they would not give us the whole of the income tax which we are claiming. I therefore say that it is rather impolitic to sanction this legislation. Unless we convince the Government of India or the Federal Finance Committee that the resources of this province cannot bear further taxation, we cannot expect to get the revenue of which we have been deprived by the Government of India. Before Government approach the Government of India with any proposals, they should show by their own conduct that the people are incapable of bearing this taxation. Pressing for further taxation will show that the Province is able to bear further taxation.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

The second point is, our position would not be worse by borrowing to the extent of making up the deficit for one year. We can make further retrenchments in salaries and adjust ourselves. The Honourable the Finance Member himself wants these measures by way of adjustment for one year. Similarly I say, by way of adjustment, Government can borrow money. The Finance Member means to borrow to make up the deficit of 1,11 lakhs of last year. In order to do this he has postponed the payment of annual equated instalments of pre-reform debt. I refer to the sum of 29 lakhs of rupees which is an equated payment for the sinking of that debt.

It was explained to us that the debt position of our Presidency is not so very hopeless, because, after all, the debt which we have to pay by the end of the year will be only 54 crores. Out of that I am taking out the sum of 9 crores which we are not required to repay. It is irredeemable. The interest charge is very small. But including the amount which we are going to borrow, the capital debt may be Rs. 44 crores odd. As has been pointed out by the Finance Member, against this debt burden we have got property, the book value of the Irrigation and Navigation estate of Government of Rs. 28·03 lakhs and of residential and other buildings Rs. 15·82 lakhs and we shall not be much worse. I do not advocate the principle that we should go on borrowing for current year's expenses. But simply as a via media for the present, our Presidency would not be worse off if we borrow this amount. When the expert committee goes into the matter, if fortunately they show us the way by which our expenses can be reduced, then we shall find that we have unnecessarily taxed the people to that extent. We have been seeing instances of temporary taxation becoming permanent. I may quote the instances of the Court-fees Act and the Stamp Act. Every year they are sought to be temporarily revived. These temporary measures have a tendency of becoming permanently temporary. That is what we have been seeing since the year 1922. Sometimes they were brought for four years; sometimes attempts were made to bring them permanently on the statute book, but when signs were discovered that the Bill would be lost, temporary life was advocated. Therefore, unless we are quite sure that we cannot make both ends meet even after the expert committee has made its recommendations, we cannot see our way to accept further taxation. I for one believe that retrenchment in salaries is still possible.

These are very bad times. There is trade depression in the country. It is, therefore, very inopportune to come forward with finance bills when people are suffering. Agriculturists are suffering; their income has dwindled down because they are not getting proper prices for the produce they grow. Landlords are not getting their rent. The amount which has been lent by moneylenders cannot be repaid. It is bad policy to bring forward fresh taxation proposals at this time of depression all round.

With regard to the Bills themselves, I am not going to speak on the details. But I can say that with regard to the Court-fees Bill and the

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Stamp Bill, Government should find out what income they are going to get by enhancing the fees. If they go closely into the details for the last ten years, they will find that the law of diminishing returns has come into force. They expect a certain revenue to be received, but ultimately at the end of the year they find that the revenue which was expected has not come in. If the court-fee is raised, the Government's expectations will never be realised, because diminishing returns will set in. People will effect compromises among themselves rather than go to courts. They will give remissions. Even now, landlords and other creditors are satisfied with 70 or 60 per cent. of the debts. They will remit the balance rather than fight out their case in courts by paying high court fees, lawyers' fees, wait for getting the money through legal process. Therefore, if they pass this measure, they will not get the revenue which they expect. If you take into consideration the real incidence of this taxation, you will find that it ultimately falls on the poor agriculturists, in whatever way you consider it. When the creditor goes to the court to recover his money, no doubt initially he pays the stamp fees, but mostly in such cases, the debtor has no substantial defence. His plea will be one of inability to pay the instalments for repayment. Ultimately there would be a decree and the costs will be recovered from the debtor. If the claim is a true claim, then the court naturally allows the cost to fall upon the debtor, and the debtor, who is in most cases the agriculturist and poor has to pay the cost. So the real burden of the taxation will fall upon the poor people, especially agriculturists. I do not want to go into all the details. There are so many items for which the court-fee is proposed to be enhanced, even for application and receipts. In this connection, I submit, Sir, that really the person who is poor will have to bear this burden.

With respect to the tax proposed on the consumption of electricity, I submit that up to this time it was only in Bombay that we had the benefit and pleasure of electrical energy. But since recently electricity supply companies are being floated in the mofussil, and this industry is in its infancy. It is only recently that people have been venturing on this industry, and they are investing their capital in it. If at such a time a burden is placed upon such an industry, I submit that the industry in its infancy will be crippled. Therefore, from whatever point of view we consider the Finance Bill, I think this is not the right time for it, and there is not the capacity in the people to bear this additional burden. Taking all these circumstances into consideration, I think the best course for Government would be to continue with the deficit. A deficit of a few lakhs more, as I said in the beginning of my remarks, will not make our position very much worse. Therefore, Government should not press for this Bill.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM (Bombay Chamber of Commerce): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this Bill, not because I think it is a good Bill, nor because I think Government have been in any way clever in lumping together in one Finance Bill increases in existing taxation and new taxation. I believe that that portion of the Finance Bill before the House which represents new taxation should have been in the form of separate Bills, which could then have been circulated for opinion in the ordinary way. However, as I made it plain, I hope, the other day, my attitude in regard to this taxation generally is that, in view of the fact that it has been made abundantly plain that there is an unbridgable deficit in the budget for the coming year, and as everything possible by way of retrenchment has been done, and as schemes are on foot for examining the re-organisation and reconstruction of the whole administrative machine, Government have done what is in their power to do to bridge that gulf without extra taxation. Therefore, I do not think that it befits this honourable House to deny to Government any new taxation.

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

As regards the principles of the various parts of the Bill, I desire to make it clear that in normal times, if the financial situation of the Presidency was not what it is to-day, I should oppose the second part, the electricity tax. I believe it is a bad tax, because it is a tax on progress. At the same time, I doubt if it is a worse tax on progress than many other taxes that are already in existence. Is it any worse than the excise duty on petrol or the excise duty on kerosene? I very much doubt it. At any rate, it will be very much lighter in its incidence than the excise duties on petrol and kerosene are. We have to consider what the actual effect of the tax will be. I am unfortunate enough, at the moment, to live in a bungalow whose rent I cannot afford. My average monthly bill for electric lights and fans is, say, Rs. 25. Other people may pay more; I happen to be an economical man. Even if it were Rs. 40 or Rs. 50, you cannot say that 8 or 10 or 12½ per cent. on that monthly bill is in any way excessive as an emergency measure of taxation, and I hope that the Honourable the Finance Member will take note of this—as an emergency measure of taxation, I am reluctantly compelled to support this tax in so far as it is one of the parts of the Finance Bill generally. But I do not think that it will be sufficient for the Honourable the Finance Member to say that the Bill will automatically come up for revision after one year. It will. But the question is, what is the intention of Government? Is it the intention of Government to regard this as emergency taxation, or is it the intention of Government to regard it as taxation which, year after year, will very easily be passed by this House?

As regards the third part of the Bill, court-fees, the principle of that tax is already approved, because it is already in existence. The only part of the Bill which affects me personally is the increase in probate duties. That will not affect me until I am dead, and it is almost certain that I shall not have saved sufficient before I die to cause me to trouble myself about a higher rate of probate duty. Therefore, it is with a light heart that I contemplate the increase of probate duties.

Coming to the fourth and the most important section in my opinion, that of stamp duties, this section endeavours in a Finance Bill to give effect to a proposal which has been before the country, not only before this Presidency for many years—the taxation of forward contracts, what are commonly known as "futures". I am not prepared to say that I object to the principle of the taxation of forward contracts and futures. I am, however, exceedingly doubtful whether the clauses of the Bill which are intended to give effect to Government's intention,—which, in spite of what I consider to be an exceedingly disingenuous clause of explanation, I understand is to tax what might be deemed gambling transactions in commodities,—I am not at all sure whether the net result of the Government's proposals will not be to turn into forward contracts a very large portion of every day business transactions of every day life. I will very briefly explain my meaning. Possibly this is a question for the select committee, but who knows whether this Bill will get as far as the select committee? Therefore, I would like to put my point of view before Government. Under clause 15 (1) (a), proposed new clause (12A), forward delivery is defined as follows:

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

"'forward delivery' means, in relation to any transaction for the purchase or sale of any goods, merchandise or other thing, that no immediate delivery of the goods, merchandise or other thing purchased or sold is contemplated."

The effect of that, unless the word "immediate" in that definition is defined or modified, is to turn into a forward transaction everything which is not bought or sold for immediate delivery from stock on the spot. That, as a plain business man, is my interpretation of it. The authors of this masterly draft may say that if you would look to page 19, you would find that there are only 8 classes of goods which will come under the definition of forward sales. That is all very well. That is Government's present intention, but I would call the attention of the House to the provision that "in transactions in merchandise such unit as the Governor in Council may by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette fix in this behalf." Not the honourable House on whom should devolve the duty of deciding what goods or commodities should be taxed, but an executive order in Council, and the principle would be the same——

Mr. G. WILES: May I point out that the honourable member is misinterpreting the Bill? It is only the unit which is to be fixed by the Governor in Council.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM: In view of the Finance Secretary's explanation, I am more fogged than I was, and I pass on to the next part of the Bill, on which I have no comments to make.

I would in all seriousness make an appeal to the House not to deny Government any further taxation, as they will if they vote against the first reading of the Bill. We none of us like taxation, and this is not the time when either individuals, or corporations or companies can afford extra taxation. But we have first and foremost to think of our own credit and the credit of our Presidency, and in spite of the fact that the taxation proposals in the Bill may be bad, are we in a position to put forward any proposals in substitution? And if we are not, I submit that it is our bounden duty anyhow to go as far as giving a first reading to the Bill, so that Government's proposals, whatever they may be, may be subject to criticism and fire in the select committee.

[Mr. G. L. Winterbotham]

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi City): Sir, I rise to oppose the first reading of the Bill. I will try not to tread the ground which has already been trodden or to repeat arguments that have been already advanced by my honourable colleagues against this measure. If I were to put in a nutshell the object of the measure, it seems to me it aims at taxing light, air and justice. I think a Government that resorts to these measures must be necessarily in a very pitiable condition. I wish I could help Government out of this plight. There is one danger I see in the taxation of electric fans. One day perhaps even those persons who get sufficient amount of air through the windows may also be taxed. Government by taxing the air have set their foot in a domain in which they can find unlimited sources of a fresh income.

It has been stated by some of my honourable friends that a part of the taxation will ultimately fall upon the shoulders of the agriculturists. Now, coming from a province which is mainly agricultural, I may say that the taxable capacity of those people has been reached and there is no further room for taxation. If Government have looked carefully into the reports of the Banking Enquiry Committee, they must have known that the agriculturists in Sind are already involved in debts to the extent of 17 crores, upon which they have to pay the annual interest which comes to 4½ crores. Not only that, various witnesses have stated before that committee that for current expenditure also the agriculturists have to borrow money between 4 to 8 crores and pay back the borrowed money along with interest from their produce which comes to nearly 5 to 9 crores. When such is the condition of the people, I wonder why Government should resort to measures which affect that class which is already over-taxed. If they had come with a proposal to levy some sort of taxation upon non-agriculturists or upon those who make their wealth out of dealings with agriculturists, I would have certainly supported the Government. But at present I think there should be no increase in court-fees and that part of the measure should have been brought separately as well as other measures, so that the honourable members should have given their opinion on all questions on their intrinsic merits. It has been suggested that even what will be realised from these new money Bills will not be much and that Government will have to borrow for current ordinary administration. I agree with my honourable colleague Khan Bahadur Khuhro that it is a bad finance principle to borrow money for current administrative expenses. With these few remarks I oppose the first reading of this Bill.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I had no mind to speak on this Bill at this late hour of the day, but I have been tempted to do so after hearing the last speaker. I know that he is a real representative of the rural areas who, like myself, lives in cities. Therefore, I would request him to consider the Bill on its merits without bringing in any personal or extraneous consideration. No doubt, many honourable members in this House are representatives of the rural areas, but I know most of them have left their villages and migrated to the big cities. Therefore, they are opposed to the Electricity Bill, but I would request them to reflect the real opinion of their constituencies in regard to the Electricity Bill. I was amused to hear the last speaker when he said that the Electricity Bill will affect his constituency, the agriculturists——

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID : I did not say that. I made a reservation that if the court fees had been brought separately, I would have given my opinion on the intrinsic merits.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The honourable member started with saying that Government were taxing air and light. No doubt, as I said, it will affect him and me, because we happen to live in big cities. But I am afraid, if he were to consult his constituency, they would surely vote for this tax. The last speaker has not realised that his constituents, the villagers, are using dim oil lamps. They would not oppose a tax on electric lights which are used in big cities. If he were to consult his constituency which is mostly agricultural, they would most willingly ask him to vote for a surcharge on electricity.

Now, Sir, I see a good deal of agitation about the levying of the surcharge on electricity by electric corporations, their directors and their shareholders. That is quite natural. They are afraid of losing their good dividends. Now, there was a suggestion by one of the honourable members not to levy the surcharge on the consumer, but to charge the company. I have not been able to follow him properly. If he means that we should have a surcharge on their income, then the Government of India will not allow it. He made another suggestion that we should reduce the maximum rates. Suppose the companies are levying a charge of 6 annas per unit. You ask them to levy 4 annas and tell Government to take the difference. He does not realise that we have given licences to various companies which are to run for a number of years and on certain conditions. Unless they come again for renewal, we cannot have recourse to that method at all. But this money is wanted for this year. Otherwise we would have willingly considered the suggestion.

Mr. G. L. WINTERBOTHAM : I hope not, Sir.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The opinion in this House is so divided. One honourable member says, "Charge the company." Another honourable member says, "Let the consumer pay." Rao Bahadur Chitale suggested that Government should not have the power of exempting any one. He says that the mill industry should have been taxed. He says that the tramways should have been charged, and so also the railways. We have heard the honourable member representing the millowners saying that we are killing that industry.

Then, there is another suggestion that Government have not done enough in the way of retrenchment. Well, I have been hearing that argument for some years. Government last year appointed a committee of the representatives of this House to go into the question of retrenchment—they did not appoint any one of their own officers. [An Honourable Member: "Nominated."] I am afraid by election a better committee could not have been appointed. What are the recommendations? The emergency cuts proposed by that committee amount to Rs. 1,21,00,000, and Government have reduced the expenditure by Rs. 1,37,00,000. I think, therefore, Government deserve well of this honourable House. They have not only given effect to the recommendation of the representatives of the House, but they have gone a step further. But I am sorry honourable members of this House, in spite of whatever Government may do, are never pleased. See the bona fides of Government. They are appointing an expert committee and the honourable members are not giving credit to Government for being in right earnest in appointing a committee. My appeal to the House is that we want this money this year. Otherwise we would have waited. Had we not been in right earnest, we would never have appointed or thought of appointing that committee. Our bona fides is clear. Honourable members must realise that Government are in right earnest. For this expert committee was not suggested by this House or by any one else. It occurred to Government themselves. That is an additional feather in the cap of Government. They have given effect to the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee. That means that Government are prepared to carry out every recommendation of the representatives of this House. [An Honourable Member: "Not every."]

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

A suggestion was made that we must make up this deficit by borrowing. Only a few days ago, on the floor of this very House, every member got up and condemned the policy of Government borrowing for current expenditure. But now, when it suits honourable members, they say, "All right, borrow this time."

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: You are already borrowing; borrow more.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: They condemned the policy of borrowing for current expenditure as bad in principle. Knowing, therefore, that it is a bad principle, they still say, "Borrow and make up the deficit."

Now, as regards the Electricity Bill, it was stated that Government should not have the power to exempt. These are matters of detail. The Bill is going to be referred to a select committee, and the members of the select committee are at liberty——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order; I find that an honourable member is reading a newspaper, which is not allowed.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The members of the select committee are at liberty to remove the exemption given to utility companies, mills or anybody else.

Now, as regards the other Bills. Take the Court-fees Bill. There, too, the rates have been in existence for a long time. The principle has been accepted, not only by Bombay but by every other province. If there are any rates which ought to be reduced, it will be left to the select committee to reduce them. Similarly, as regards the Stamp Bill, that will go before the select committee, and they can make any changes they like in the rates.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

I submit, Sir, that these are only emergency measures which will be in operation only for one year. They are going to be referred to a select committee. With regard to the difficulty of some of my honourable friends as to how they are to vote upon these four principles that are put under one Bill, the whole Bill will go to a select committee, and they can make any changes they like. Each clause of the Bill will then be put before this House, and they can vote against any clause they wish to.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Vote against it.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Yes, they can vote against it. They can ask for the deletion of any clause. [An Honourable Member: "Not, if it defeats the principle of the Bill."] They can throw it out clause by clause or even as a whole.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The House is now adjourned to 2 p.m., to-morrow, Tuesday, the 23rd February 1932.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Tuesday, the 23rd February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Tuesday, the 23rd February 1932, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present :

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHUTTO, Sir SHAH NAWAZ
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN.
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN.
JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.

KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MODI, Sardar DAVAR T. K.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCE, Sir REGINALD
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI

THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WADKE, Mr. B. P.
WILES, Mr. G.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

MAGISTRATE, KURLA: ORDER UNDER SECTION 144, CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE.

*Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE for Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the order issued under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code by the Resident First Class Magistrate of Kurla on November 3, 1931, was kept ready before the expiry of the month of October and that it was promulgated on November 3, after making the necessary changes of dates, etc. on the typed copy?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Yes.

INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES: SPEECHES AND PROCESSIONS.

*Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE for Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the order issued under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code by the Resident First Class Magistrate of Kurla on November 3, 1931, contained the following words, viz. "and that any attempt on the part of the mill authorities to start the mill again, has resulted in acts of rowdyism and violence on the part of the strikers, who were trying their level best to stop workers from going to the mill for work by holding meetings and making speeches and holding processions";

(b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether holding meetings and making speeches and holding processions in an industrial dispute have been held to be illegal and to constitute an offence under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.

(b) This section does not deal with offences but the prevention of offences. The legality of meetings etc. in an industrial dispute has nothing to do with section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

MAGISTRATE, KURLA: ORDERS UNDER SECTION 144, CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE.

*Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE for Mr. R. R. BAKHALE: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the order under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code issued by the Resident First Class

Magistrate of Kurla on November 3, 1931, was to have remained in operation till the end of November 10, 1931, and that another order under the same section by the same Magistrate was issued on November 4, 1931;

(b) if so, the reasons why the first order was superseded by the second within twenty-four hours of the former's promulgation;

(c) whether it is a fact that on the expiry of the order under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code issued on November 4, 1931, by the Resident First Class Magistrate, Kurla, another order under the same section by the same Magistrate was issued on November 12, 1931, for a period of three weeks;

(d) if so, whether the two orders were identical in their scope and application; if not, on what grounds the order was widened?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.

(b) As the order of the 3rd November 1931 was considered to be too wide, a modified order was issued on the 4th November.

(c) Yes.

(d) The only difference in the two orders was that the order of 12th November was also made applicable to the open places adjoining the Bombay Mill Workers' Union Offices at Kurla where the strikers and their sympathisers were most likely to collect together.

ANGLO-URDU HIGH SCHOOL, HUBLI: BUILDING.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): (a) Will Government be pleased to state what steps they have taken to provide the Anglo-Urdu High School, Hubli, with a building of its own?

(b) Are they aware of the unsuitability of the present building?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) In view of the continued financial stringency, Government have not so far been able to provide the Anglo-Urdu High School, Hubli, with a building of its own, but fresh enquiries are going on to see whether a piece of Government land which local Muhammadans have asked for can be made available for a new building.

(b) Yes.

Mr. A. J. BANGI: May I know what piece of land is referred to?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I think it is the site on which the Dak Bungalow is situated.

S. T. COLLEGE, BOMBAY: SANSKRIT AND PERSIAN.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that they have made provision for training teachers in Sanskrit in the S. T. College, Bombay?

(b) If so, why similar provision has not been made for training in Persian?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) One of the lecturers in the S. T. College happens to be interested in the teaching of Sanskrit by the direct method. The teaching of Sanskrit by the method was therefore introduced in the College experimentally five years ago. It involved no cost to Government.

(b) The number of students in the College with the knowledge of Persian is always very small. Possibly, now that Government have decided to expand the College, there may be enough Persian-knowing students to give rise to a demand for training in Persian teaching. If so, Government would consider if similar arrangements could not be made for Persian.

ANGLO-URDU HIGH SCHOOLS, POONA AND HUBLI: ADMISSIONS.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): (a) Will Government be pleased to give the number of students who applied for admission to the Anglo-Urdu High Schools at Poona and Hubli during the last 5 years and how many of them were refused admission and why?

(b) What steps do Government intend taking for the English education of the rejected applicants?

(c) Are Government aware that there are no other Anglo-Urdu schools whether private or aided, in the said places?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) The following statement gives the information desired by the honourable member:—

—	1927-28.	1928-29.	1929-30.	1930-31.	1931-32.
Anglo-Urdu High School, Poona.
Number of pupils who applied for admission.	..	63	60	61	55
Number of pupils who were not admitted.	..	32	30	31	18	Not admitted for want of room in Standard I.
Anglo-Urdu High School, Hubli.
Number of pupils who applied for admission.	55	54	54	55	85
Number of pupils who were not admitted.	25	24	24	25	37	Not admitted for want of room.

(b) In view of the present financial situation, it is difficult for Government to undertake further direct liabilities. If, however, English classes are attached to local Urdu schools, Government will be prepared to recognise them and admit them to registration for grant-in-aid, subject to funds being available.

(c) Yes.

WELL BORING OPERATIONS: EXPERT COMMITTEE.

*Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether any action has been taken on the following resolution passed by the Provincial Board of Agriculture at the meeting held at Poona on 26th and 27th September 1927—vide page 43 of the proceedings, Resolution No. 5 :—

"The question of what part should be taken by various Departments and public bodies, the Agricultural Department, the Revenue Department, or the District Local Boards, in the organisation of the boring work should be considered by a small committee to be appointed by Government. This Committee might also consider the best expert agency to carry on the actual boring operations" ?

(b) If the reply is in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to place the Report of the Committee on the Council table ?

(c) If the reply is in the negative, what was the reason for not carrying out the work recommended by the Provincial Board ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (a), (b) and (c) No such committee was appointed. Government decided that their policy in connection with water boring operations, both those financed from the Famine Relief Fund and those financed from the general revenues, should be thoroughly examined with a view to determining whether there were good grounds for their continuance. After an examination of past results, they directed in August 1931 that these operations should be reorganised and continued on a restricted scale in the precarious tracts of the Deccan only.

IRRIGATION : CANALS.

* Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) How many canals, bundhs and dams have been constructed by Government for irrigation purposes in each of the three divisions and in Sind till now ?

(2) At what total cost each of these works was constructed ?

(3) What are the maintenance charges for each such work ?

(4) What income was derived from each such work last year ?

(5) Is the construction of any more irrigational works—canals, bundhs, dams—under the contemplation of Government at present ?

(6) How far has the proposed scheme of the Mahi Irrigation Canal Project progressed ?

(7) Will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the correspondence and plans of the Mahi Irrigation Canal Project on the Council table ?

(8) Are any schemes in progress with regard to the Khari, Meshwa, Watrak and Shedhi rivers in Gujarat ?

(9) If so, what are they ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (1) to (4) The honourable member is referred to the Irrigation Administration Report which is issued every year and gives all such information about the irrigation works throughout the Presidency as is required by the honourable member.

(5) Yes.

(6) The Project has been prepared and is under the scrutiny of the local officers.

(7) An index map† showing the scheme in general is placed on the Council table. The relevant correspondence will be printed in the preamble of the Government Resolution, which will issue in due course disposing of the scheme.

(8) and (9) There are schemes under contemplation with regard to the Khari, Meshwa and the Watrak rivers. The schemes are (a) the Meshwa Canal project which also provides for improving irrigation on the Khari river and (b) the Watrak river project. There is no scheme for the Khari river as such, nor for the Shedhi river.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT: INSPECTING STAFF: COST.

* Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) What was the total annual expenditure on account of the inspecting staff of the Educational Department in the Presidency in the years 1910 and 1920 and what is the expenditure incurred at present?

(2) How many primary schools were maintained by Government, and what was the total number of boys attending the same in the years 1910, 1920 and 1930?

(3) How many primary schools are maintained (not aided) by local bodies from their own funds and what is the total number of boys and girls attending the same?

(4) How many primary schools are yet maintained by Government, and what is the total number of pupils attending them?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to clause (1) of a similar question put by him and answered in this session.

(2) and (3) The accompanying statement gives the information required.

(4) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the figures mentioned against the year 1930 in columns 2 and 3 of the statement referred to in the reply to parts (2) and (3) above.

—	Number of Primary schools maintained by Government.		Number of Primary schools administered (not aided) by local bodies.
	Schools.	Pupils.	Schools.	Pupils.
1	2	3	4	5
1910	18	2,000	6,839	430,354
1920	34	4,163	9,801	622,245
1930	33	4,091	11,999	926,057

† Kept in Secretary's office.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE FOR INVESTIGATING THE COMPLAINTS OF RELEASED PRISONERS.

*Mr. G. S. GANGOLI (Kanara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the Report of the committee appointed in 1931 for investigating the complaints of released prisoners under the chairmanship of Dewan Bahadur K. M. Jhaveri;

(b) if so, whether the remarks printed at page 8 thereof that the vegetables growing in the jail gardens go to the jail officials or the jail visitors are correct;

(c) whether they intend to take any steps to enquire into the matter;

(d) whether they intend to enquire into the allegations and recommendations contained in the report?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.
(b) No.
(c) The question does not arise.
(d) No.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: May I know whether the allegations are false or whether it is not so printed?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The question was: "If so, whether the remarks printed at page 8 thereof that the vegetables growing in the jail gardens go to the jail officials or the jail visitors are correct" and the answer is that they are not correct.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: The remarks have been made by some responsible men against the jail administration. Will they be hauled up?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is asking for opinion.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: My submission is: it is reported by Dewan Bahadur K. M. Jhaveri and Sir Lalubhai Samaldas and some members of this Council that such things are carried on in the jails and it has been brought to the notice of Government. Government say that the allegations are incorrect. What is the remedy? Will they be hauled up if they are false?

PRISONERS VISHNU SHARMA AND MANILAL VYAS: TRANSFER.

*Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether Mr. Vishnu Sharma and Mr. Manilal Vyas have been transferred from the Karachi district jail to the presidency jails;

(2) if so, the reasons for such transfers;

(3) the amount of expenses Government had to incur to carry these prisoners from one jail to another;

(4) whether the attention of Government has been drawn to the recommendation of the Government of India to give all facilities to A and B class prisoners by locating them at one central place?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) Yes.

(2) Administrative convenience.

(3) Rs. 109-8-0.

(4) If the honourable member will quote the recommendation referred to and say in what publication it appears, an endeavour will be made to answer this question.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: May I know what administrative inconvenience would have been caused if the prisoners had been allowed to remain in the Karachi district jail?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I am not prepared to add to the answer.

ZAMINDARS, THAR PARKAR DISTRICT: INDEBTEDNESS.

*Khan Bahadur GHULAM NABI SHAH (Thar Parkar District): Will Government be pleased to state the amount of arrears due by the zamindars of Thar Parkar District—

(1) on account of Land Revenue;

(2) on account of Taccavi (a) for building of houses, (b) for other purposes;

(3) to the Mirpurkhas Zamindari Co-operative Bank, Limited;

(4) to the Mirpurkhas District Central Co-operative Bank, Limited?

	Rs.
The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON:
(1) Arrears of land revenue.. ..	5,51,615
(2) Arrears of takavi—
(a) for building houses	4,82,473
(b) for other purposes	18,13,213
(3) Amount due to the Mirpurkhas Zamindari Co-opertive Bank, Limited	5,34,274
(4) Amount due to the Mirpurkhas District Central Co-operative Bank, Limited	7,79,715

Figures in clauses (1) and (2) represent arrears at the close of the revenue year 1930-31 and figures in clauses (3) and (4) represent arrears at the close of the financial year 1930-31.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: What arrangements have Government been pleased to make with regard to the fixing of instalments for recovery?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Instalments for recovery of what?

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: Have Government decided to make this debt recoverable by instalments?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Taccavi is nearly always recovered by instalments. Does the honourable member refer to the debt due to the Mirpurkhas Zamindari Co-operative Bank, or land revenue arrears or taccavi arrears?

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: Land revenue arrears.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: No arrangements for payment by instalments have been made with regard to that.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: Does the Honourable Member think it is possible for the zamindars to pay the arrears in one lump sum?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I am not prepared to express an opinion about that.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS, BOMBAY: CANDIDATE CLERKS.

*Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM JITEKAR (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number and names of candidate clerks engaged in the Government Central Press during the last three years;

(b) whether it is a fact that one of the candidate clerks is serving as a despatcher and that there is not enough work for him;

(c) whether they are aware that in spite of Government circular, F. D., No. 9084, dated the 10th August 1931, not to fill up any acting vacancies but to discharge fresh temporary hands and to distribute the work among the permanent hands, some new hands have been temporarily engaged or retained on Rs. 60 per month as against Rs. 50 provided by the G. R.;

(d) whether it is a fact that contrary to G. R., F. D., No. 5708, dated 20th July 1931, candidate clerk Phulgaonkar has been retained;

(e) the reasons why backward class men are not taken as candidate clerks;

(f) whether several Muslim graduates and under-graduates have applied for candidate clerks' places in the Press;

(g) the number of Muslim clerks in the Press out of the 30 clerks serving there?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN:

(a) (1) Mr. G. D. Kasar.
(2) „ P. A. Chinchankar.
(3) „ S. V. Vanjare.
(4) „ H. M. Kazi.
(5) „ R. S. Phulgaonkar.
(6) „ W. J. Gavande.

(b) One of the candidates is at present working as telephone and despatch clerk. He has enough work to keep him fully occupied.

(c) and (d) I have satisfied myself that there has been no contravention of any Government orders in the making of these appointments.

(e) The two candidate clerks now officiating on the clerical establishment belong to the Backward Class.

(f) No. In 1930, a typist clerk was needed at the Press and a Muhammadan candidate was appointed.

(g) One.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS, BOMBAY: SUPERANNUATED EMPLOYEES.

*Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM JITEKAR (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number and names of employees in the Government Central Press working for over thirty years;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Foreman Printer who has put in more than 30 years' service is to be granted an extension;

(c) whether, consistent with their policy of retrenchment, Government contemplate retiring such superannuated employees;

(d) if so, whether any instructions to that effect have been issued or are proposed to be issued to the Superintendent of the Press?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) There are 30 such employees. It is not considered necessary to state their names.

(b) There are two foremen printers in the Government Central Press who have put in over 30 years of service, but only one is under extension. This has been granted by the Superintendent, Government Printing and Stationery, under the authority vested in him.

(c) and (d) The view of Government is that it is a waste of public money to pension an officer still capable of useful service. It would, therefore, be inconsistent with the policy of retrenchment to pension such officers, unless it is intended at the same time to abolish their posts.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS: READING DEPARTMENT.

*Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM JITEKAR (Southern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of men in the reading department of the Government Central Press;

(b) the number of them that are qualified;

(c) whether it is a fact that about 40 men are non-qualified;

(d) whether it is a fact that about 20 appointments were made in this section during the last three years and that not a single Muslim was taken;

(e) if so, the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) 37 readers and 32 reading boys.

(b) and (c) No qualifications are prescribed for these posts.

(d) and (e) About 20 appointments were made. The only Muslim who applied for an appointment, was given one.

WILD ELEPHANTS IN KANARA.

*Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District): (1) Has the attention of Government been drawn to an article in the Karmavir Kannad Weekly Journal of Dharwar dated 15th May 1931, in which the havoc played by wild elephants in Kanara District is described?

(2) What is the procedure adopted by Government to assess the loss caused by wild elephants and what is the relief usually granted ?

(3) Is a panchnama made in every case of loss caused by elephants ?

(4) Have Government officers made panchnamas in the Islur and Targod Centres where according to the estimate of the ryots during February, March and April, the following destruction was caused :—

48 betel nut trees in Islur.
157 plantain trees in Islur.
29 pepper creepers in Islur.
587 betel nut trees in Targod.
1,180 plantain trees in Targod.
90 cardamom plants in Targod.
170 pepper creepers in Targod ?

(5) What has been the compensation or remission given ?

(6) What steps and precautions have Government taken to prevent such havoc ?

(7) What is the number of hunters appointed by Government to kill elephants ?

(8) Have Government supplied powerful guns to ryots to enable them to kill the elephants ?

(9) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the remedies suggested in the Karmavir Kannad Weekly paper of Dharwar dated 15th May 1931 to counteract the havoc caused by elephants ; and, if so, what steps have they taken in view of the suggestion ?

(10) Is it a fact that there was only one elephant hunter in that part ?

(11) Was he sent home at the beginning of April ?

(12) Why was another not appointed in his place before he was relieved ?

(13) Was the gun supplied to him (elephant hunter) powerful enough to kill elephants ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : (1) Yes.

(2) The village officers are required to visit the lands damaged by the wild elephants with panchas. Panchnamas are made regarding the loss which is verified by the Circle Inspectors and the Mamlatdars by personal inspection. The relief usually granted is the remission of land revenue equal to one-half of the damage caused by the wild elephants.

(3) Yes.

(4) Yes. The losses as estimated by the local officers were as follows :—

Village.	Betel nut trees and plants.	Plantain trees.	Estimated loss in money. Rs. a. p.
Sadashivalli (Targod)	53	42	8 5 6
Islur	29	102	9 8 0

(5) Remission was granted to the following extent :—

	Rs. a. p.
Sadashivalli (Targod)	4 2 9
Islur	3 4 0

(6) and (7) Four Shikaris have been entertained for the destruction of wild elephants. They have been provided with suitable rifles and ammunition. Government officers of the various Departments and the local bodies have been asked to report the movements of the animals to enable the Shikaris to deal with them.

(8) No.

(9) Yes. The suggestion for the liberal grant of gun licenses is not practicable as wild elephants cannot be killed except by rifles of high velocity. Licenses for such rifles will be granted by the District Magistrate to big landholders if they apply for them. Beating the forests with a view to driving out the elephants from Kanara is a difficult and expensive task.

(10) Yes.

(11) and (12) His services have not been dispensed with, but his remuneration was reduced as it was not justified by results.

(13) Yes.

Mr. V. N. JOG: With regard to (9) has such licence for rifles of high velocity been given to any landholders?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: If the honourable member gives me notice, I shall find out.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: With regard to (4), who estimated the loss and how?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The panchas appointed by Government.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: Non-officials?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: If the honourable member gives me notice, I shall find out.

Mr. V. N. JOG: With regard to (2), why has only half remission been given?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: That is the rule made by Government.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: With regard to (11), why were his services dispensed with?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: His services have not been dispensed with.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: What was his remuneration?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: He was paid Rs. 10 per month.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: The shikari was employed for killing wild elephants. He was paid Rs. 10. To what amount has it been reduced?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: I require notice.

ANCIENT MOSQUE: AHMEDABAD CITY.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the existence of an ancient mosque by the side of Gaekwar's Haveli near Raikhed river gate in the city of Ahmedabad;

(b) whether the mosque has been noted as a public mosque in official records;

(c) whether it is a fact that there are several tombs existing in the open court-yard of this mosque;

(d) if so, whether one of these tombs has been covered over by the verandah of a bungalow of a police inspector;

(e) whether the mosque had an ingress from outside the Haveli;

(f) whether the mosque was being used for prayers by Mussalmans until 1928;

(g) whether it is a fact that the District Superintendent of Police, Ahmedabad, had accorded written permission to the Mussalmans to use the mosque and have ingress to it through the Raikhed gate of the Gaekwar's Haveli;

(h) what steps they intend to take to meet the demand of the Mussalmans for a free access to the mosque to offer their prayers?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.
(b) No.
(c) Yes.
(d) Yes, since 1905.
(e) No.
(f) No.
(g) Some petitioners were offered the use of the mosque on certain conditions in 1927, but they did not accept the conditions.
(h) Government do not propose to take any steps.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: The answer to part (b) is, no. Do Government mean to say that it is not a public mosque?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: It is not a public mosque.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: The answer to part (g) is, "Some petitioners were offered the use of the mosque on certain conditions in 1927, but they did not accept the conditions. May I know what those conditions were?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: One condition was that ingress should be only through the Raikhed gate, and the second was that they should not be in the mosque after 9 o'clock at night.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: Are Government prepared to allow the use of this mosque on those conditions now?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I must ask for notice of that.

Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI (Thakor of Kerwada): The Honourable Member says it is not a public mosque. May I know from him whether in the Government records this mosque appears as the property of any individual or anybody?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I said that it was not a public mosque, because the question asked was whether it has been noted as a public mosque in official records. Perhaps, the honourable member who put the question will tell us what he means by "public mosque."

Mr. J. S. KADRI: By "public mosque" I mean a mosque for the use of the Mussalman community.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: The answer then is, no.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ: If it is not meant for use by the Mussalman public, then for whom is it meant?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: It is not used as a mosque. It has not been used as a mosque for the last generation.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: It was allowed to be used up to 1927. How can it be said that it was not used as a mosque? Were they not using it?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: No, they were not using it as a mosque. In 1927 they asked whether they could use it as a mosque, and they were told that on certain conditions they could. They did not accept those conditions. If the request is repeated, it will have to be considered. I cannot guarantee that it will be allowed to be used as a mosque, without reference to the local authorities.

Mr. B. P. WADKE: Are there any architectural features about the mosque? A portion of the mosque is occupied by a bungalow. Why was it occupied by a bungalow?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I do not think this question arises.

ENGINEERING COLLEGE, POONA: PROFESSOR OF APPLIED MECHANICS.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) how many candidates applied for the post of Professor of Applied Mechanics in the College of Engineering, Poona;

(2) how many of them held foreign degrees;

(3) whether there was any Muhammadan candidate possessing the English degree of M.Sc. and other qualifications;

(4) what were the age, caste and qualification of the candidate selected for the post;

(5) the reasons why the claims of a candidate with an M.Sc. degree were overlooked in favour of a candidate with a lower degree?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) 58.

(2) 41.

(3) Yes.

(4) Age—27 years.

Caste—Parsi.

Qualifications—B.Sc. Hons. (Bom.) with Physics and Mathematics.
B.Sc. (1st Class Honours) in Civil Engineering (Edin.).
A.M.I.Struct.E. (Lond.).
A.M.I.C.E. (Lond.)

(5) The appointment was made in accordance with the recommendation of the Selection Committee.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: Did the selection committee assign any reasons for selecting a man with lesser qualifications than an M.Sc.?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: They have given their final opinion, and that is quite enough.

Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI (Thakor of Kerwada): Is not the selection committee supposed to select the best candidate having all the merits for the post for which he is required? Then why did they select a man of inferior merits?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: He is not at all a man with inferior merits. They have selected the best man.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: Is it not a fact that there were Mussalmans with superior qualifications available for the post?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: No, Sir.

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEER.

*Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University): (1) Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table a copy of the advertisement given in 1929 by the Director of Industries inviting applications for the post of Industrial Engineer?

(2) Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of applications received for the above post;

(b) the names of the candidates who had applied for the post, with their qualifications;

(c) the names of those who were selected by the Director of Industries together with his recommendations;

(d) the qualifications of the candidate finally appointed by Government together with the recommendation of the Director of Industries as regards him;

(e) where he was employed before and what pay he used to draw in such employment and for how long?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) The Honourable Member's attention is invited to the advertisement at page 3 of the Times of India dated the 30th September 1929.

(2) (a) Twenty-nine.

(b) Government do not think it desirable to publish this information;

(c) Government are not prepared to give the names of the candidates who were selected by the Director of Industries nor to state what recommendations were made by him. The qualifications of candidates recommended by the Director of Industries are stated in the accompanying statement;

(d) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to entry No. 3 in the statement appended;

(e) Immediately before joining the Industries Department the candidate finally selected was for eight years with Messrs. Dharamsi Morarji and Morarji Gocouldas as their Superintending Engineer on Rs. 800 per month. Before that he was for two years with the English Electric Company on Rs. 750 per month and for two years with Calico Mills, Ahmedabad, on Rs. 800 per month.

Statement giving the qualifications of the candidates recommended by the Director of Industries.

No.	Qualifications.
1	B.Sc. in Mech. Engineering and B.Sc. in Electrical Engineering of Purdue University, U. S. A. He was in U. S. A. for eight years where he acquired practical experience in different branches of mechanical engineering. Four years of this period he passed in College and four years in Works.
2	The Honours Diploma of the V. J. T. I., Bombay, in Mechanical Engineering in 1914. For four years in the Technische Hochschule, Berlin, 1923–27. He did not complete the course. He worked in Khatau Makanji Cotton Mills, Bombay, Shri Sayaji Cotton Mills, Baroda, Tata Hydro-Electric Power Company's Distributing Station, Bombay, Bijapur Mahaluxmi Oil Mills and Ginning Factory, Shahu Chatrapati Cotton Mills, Kolhapur, Indo-Aden Salt Works at Aden, C. P. Engineering Co. Ltd., Nagpur, and Birla Jute Mills, Birlapur.
3	Diploma Course in Mechanical Engineering, at the Poona College of Engineering. He has 17 years' experience of the Engineering side in cotton and woollen textiles, chemicals, leather cloths, cement, etc., and has designed and erected complete modern power plant in these industries as Erecting Engineer of the English Electric Company. He was also Superintending Engineer for the mills and factories for which Morarji Gokuldas and Dharamsi Morarjee are Agents.
4	B.E. (Bombay), B.Sc., Engineering (Glasgow), C.P.E. He has had practical work with Messrs. Hyde-Park and Govanbank Foundry Co. Ltd., for 6½ months and Messrs. Wm. McPhail & Sons for one month. Worked as Assistant Inspector of Factories, Bombay, from February 1925 to June 1926 on a salary of Rs. 450 per month. Since 1926 in charge of Engineering Works of Messrs. Chuckerbutty and Sons, Ajmer & Cawnpore (Engineers and Contractors).

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: In part (d) the question was, what were the qualifications of the candidate finally appointed by Government together with the recommendation of the Director of Industries as regards him. The answer is, the attention of the honourable member is invited to entry No. 3 in the statement appended. May I know whether the Director of Industries recommended the candidates in the order in which they are shown here?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: He had recommended several candidates. One was selected. I do not know what the honourable member wants.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: There were 25 candidates, out of whom apparently, I take it, these 4 were recommended. I had asked what were the recommendations of the Director of Industries? There is no reference to the names of the candidates or the recommendations; only the qualifications are given. My question is whether the recommendations were in the order in which the qualifications are given here.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I fear I cannot say offhand. Four candidates were selected by him, of whom one was appointed.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: My point is that Government have selected No. 3. Were there any recommendations one by one—first this man, failing him this man, and failing him this man, and so on?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: No, Sir.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Am I to understand that the recommendations were all equal?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Four candidates' names were given to select from.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: I want to know the order in which the different candidates were recommended.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: I am not prepared to say.

RETRENCHMENT: ACTION ON COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

*Mr. B. S. KAMAT: With reference to the ad interim report, submitted to Government in July last by the Retrenchment Committee, will Government be pleased to state what action, if any, has been taken with regard to the following recommendations contained in the report:—

(1) Paragraph 12.—Postponement of certain works aggregating Rs. 1,54,300;

(2) Paragraph 14.—Reduction in repairs grants for buildings;

(3) Paragraph 23.—Home Department: Rates of batta to witnesses;

(4) Paragraph 25.—Peshwa's Daftar;

(5) Paragraph 29.—Reductions in grants to secondary schools and colleges: Has the majority or the minority view been accepted by Government?

(6) Paragraphs 31, 32 and 33.—Public Services: Temporary reductions in salaries from top to bottom:—

(a) which of the several proposals has been accepted by Government?

(b) Are the statutory difficulties being taken up and dealt with?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Action taken by Government on the recommendations contained in the various paragraphs of the ad interim Report of the Retrenchment Committee referred to in the question is as follows:—

(1) Paragraph 12.—The works referred to by the Committee have been postponed, but the saving effected is Rs. 1,53,600 instead of Rs. 1,54,300, as a sum of Rs. 700 was required to meet the liability already incurred in connection with "Surat Quarters for 12 constables."

(2) Paragraph 14.—Against the total saving of Rs. 2,63,000 in the grants for repairs to buildings recommended by the Committee, total savings in the repairs grants, already reported to Government, amount to Rs. 1,26,268 and local officers have been asked to curtail their expenditure so as to make up the balance (viz. Rs. 1,36,732) of the savings required.

(3) Paragraph 23.—Rates of diet allowances and travelling allowances to witnesses have already been reduced as recommended by the Committee.

(4) Paragraph 25.—Attention of the honourable member is invited to the answer given to Mr. L. R. Gokhale's supplementary question in the July 1931 session of the Legislative Council printed at page 487 of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, Volume XXXI, Part VII. Government have since decided to carry on the work to the end of February 1932. No provision for this work has been made in the next year's budget.

(5) Paragraph 29.—The minority view has been accepted by Government.

(6) Paragraph 31.—Revised scales have now for the most part been introduced for new entrants. Where they have not, the recommendation of the Committee to reduce present scales by 2 annas in the rupee has been accepted.

(7) Paragraphs 32 and 33.—As the M.L.C. is aware, a temporary uniform cut of 10 per cent. has now been imposed on the salaries of all Government servants excepting those under Rs. 50 in Bombay, and Rs. 40 elsewhere.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: These questions were sent up, I think, for the September-October session. Two sessions have passed. May I please know whether the little delay of six months in giving answers is due to the fact that the Finance Department was very busy with the deficit budget, or whether the questions were not sent on from the Secretary's office at all?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: The question must have been sent up. Probably final action must not have been taken for some time. After all, only one session intervened. But some action must have been taken; I cannot say offhand what it was. If the honourable member gives me notice, I will find out when the question was sent and when action was taken.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There is one thing about the November session that must be borne in mind. It came to an abrupt ending. In some cases although the answers were received, they could not be printed and placed on the Council table. I do not know whether that is what happened in this case.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The answers were probably forwarded in time. But I thought as the session came to an abrupt end the answers were to be sent to honourable members.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I do not think there was any such undertaking given.

TRAINING INSTITUTIONS: STIPENDIARY AND NON-STIPENDIARY STUDENTS.

*Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the total number of stipendiary students in all training institutions maintained by Government in each Division of the Presidency with the amount of cost to Government for the payment of these stipends?

(b) What is the rate per month of each stipend?

(c) How many applications were received by the Educational Inspector, Central Division, for admission to the various Government training institutions on a non-stipendiary basis in the years 1928-29 and 1929-30?

(d) How many of these applicants were admitted during these years on a non-stipendiary basis?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) The attached statement gives the required information.

(b) The rate of stipends in Government Training Institutions for Men in the Presidency proper is Rs. 12½ per mensem and for women Rs. 15 per mensem. In Sind the rate of stipends is Rs. 15 per mensem both for men and women. As a measure of economy Government have directed that with effect from the next academic year the rate of stipends in the Training Institutions for Men only in the Presidency including Sind should be reduced by Rs. 2½ per mensem.

(c) 25 applications in 1928-29 and 78 in 1929-30.

(d) 6 in 1928-29 and 12 in 1929-30.

Statement showing the total number of stipendiary students in all Training Institutions maintained by Government in each Division of the Presidency, with the amount of cost to Government for the payment of these stipends.

Division.	Number of stipendiary students (1930-31)			Cost to Government (1930-31).
	Provincial stipendiaries	Local Authority Municipal stipendiaries	Total	Provincial stipendiaries	Local Authority Municipal stipendiaries at one-half rate	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
				Rs. a. p.	Rs.	Rs. a. p.
I—Government Training Institutions for Men.
Bombay Division	31	..	31	4,076 0 0	..	4,076 0 0
Central ,, ..	280	24	304	36,083 14 0	2,064	38,147 14 0
Northern ,, ..	21	14	35	2,618 0 0	1,309	3,927 0 0
Southern ,, ..	11	..	11	1,422 0 0	..	1,422 0 0
Sind ..	33	10	43	4,308 0 0	172	4,480 0 0
Total I ..	376	48	424	48,507 14 0	3,545	52,052 14 0
II—Government Training Institutions for Women.
Bombay Division ..	..	..	....	....	..	....
Central ,, ..	64	14	78	9,343 13 0	1,036	10,379 13 0
Northern ,, ..	12	5	17	1,860 0 0	479	2,339 0 0
Southern ,, ..	19	..	19	3,598 8 0	..	3,598 8 0
Sind ..	19	7	26	2,846 0 0	518	3,364 0 0
Total II ..	114	26	140	17,648 5 0	2,033	19,681 5 0
Grand Total I and II ..	490	74	564	66,156 3 0	5,578	71,734 3 0

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: As regards (b), in view of the present financial stringency, when there is such a large number of non-stipendiary students coming forward to seek admission, is it not advisable to stop these stipends so far as the training schools are concerned, and thus save Rs. 16,000?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: That is a suggestion for action.

THE NASIK ELECTRIC COMPANY.

*Mr. A. C. OWEN (Presidency): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they propose to allow the Nasik Electric Company to supply electric energy to the Government Distillery at Nasik Road;

(b) if so, what they intend to do with the electric installation now at the Distillery;

(c) at what rate the distillery makes its own current at present;
(d) at what rate the Electric Company will supply current—
(i) to the public;
(ii) to the Distillery?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: (a) Yes.
(b) The question has not yet been decided.
(c) It has not yet been possible to arrive at an exact figure as it varies, as it must, according to the quantity of electricity generated and the prices of coal ruling at a particular moment, and also as the plant and establishment connected with the generation of electricity are employed for other purposes as well.
(d) The honourable member is referred to clause 9 of the Nasik and Deolali Electric License, 1930, a copy† of which is placed on the Council table.

Mr. A. C. OWEN: Do Government know whether they are effecting any economy by giving the contract to this Company?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: No. It is extremely difficult to say whether we are effecting any economies at the present moment, but we undoubtedly shall in future, because it is unquestionably more economical to have one distributing centre than a number of small installations. What precise economy we will be able to effect it is impossible to say, because we cannot say what the cost of generating our electricity was under the old conditions. I have no doubt that ultimately economy will be arrived at, as well as general economy in management.

"FARI MEASURE"—STANDARDIZATION: KOLABA DISTRICT.

*Mr. N. N. PATIL (Kolaba District): Will Government be pleased to state what progress they have made since the last year in the standardization of "Fari measure" in the district of Kolaba?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: The draft of a Bill for the standardization of weights and measures in the Bombay Presidency is under the consideration of Government.

Mr. N. N. PATIL: May I take it from the reply given that the Bill for the standardisation of weights and measures will be introduced in the July or October session?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: It is under the consideration of Government and it is hoped that it will be introduced in the August session.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Was not this question mooted some six months ago and the reply was that it would be introduced in this session?

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: As a rule, in the budget session these Bills are not introduced, but the earliest that we could do so will be in August. We are trying to expedite matters and, as far as possible, I am hoping to introduce it in the August session.

† Kept in the Secretary's office.

SCHOOL BUILDING FUND, NASIK.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) in how many cases during the last fifteen years before the transfer of control of primary schools to the local authorities they had promised the construction of school buildings in the villages in the Nasik District provided the villagers contributed their share of the cost;

(b) in how many cases the school houses have been constructed;

(c) in how many cases they have not been built although the villagers had contributed their share of the cost;

(d) what are the reasons for not having built them;

(e) whether the district school boards have been asked to fulfil the promise of Government;

(f) whether they are aware that the contribution made by the different villages for the construction of school buildings was not sufficient to erect such school houses of the Government standard type;

(g) what is the total amount of such building contribution fund lying with the District School Board, Nasik;

(h) how Government intend to fulfil their obligation to the villagers who contributed to the school building fund?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) 13.

(b) 4.

(c) and (d) In three cases the contributions were returned to the villagers. In six cases buildings have so far not been constructed for want of sufficient funds.

(f) Yes.

(g) Rs. 2,595-11-0.

(e) and (h) If additional adequate contributions are forthcoming or money is otherwise available buildings will be erected. Otherwise existing contributions will have eventually to be refunded.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE'S HEAD CLERK, NAWABSHAH DISTRICT.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): (1) Is it a fact that the head clerk, Mr. Jethmal, of the District Superintendent of Police, Nawabshah District, has remained in his post there for over six years?

(2) Is it against the policy of Government to keep the same man in the same place for a long period?

(3) Do Government intend to transfer Mr. Jethmal from his present place?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) No.

(2) No.

(3) No.

POLICE HARASSMENT: TALUKA MORI.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that an application was made to the police against Mohram Jamadar of Mori and his brother and that as a result of it their houses were searched, their ornaments taken on suspicion and they were challaned in court;

(2) the name of the officer who issued orders for searches;

(3) the name of the applicant in the case;

(4) whether that applicant's statement was taken before the issue of orders for searches;

(5) whether it is a fact that the police had enmity with these men, and that this fact was proved in the court of the sub-divisional magistrate, Naoshero Division;

(6) whether it is a fact that the officer in charge of police, knowing all these facts, issued orders for searches;

(7) whether it is a fact that the trying magistrate has returned all the property of the above persons;

(8) if so, what action, if any, has been taken by Government against the police officers;

(9) whether Government are aware that on the strength of the same kind of application the police went to a Pir of Dung, taluka Sukrand, and harassed him;

(10) whether it is a fact that the police left him after taking some money from him;

(11) if so, what action, if any, Government propose to take against the police officers of Sukrand?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (1) An application was made against their sons, as a result of which their houses were searched for stolen property and unlicensed firearms. Some property which could not be accounted for was attached, but as it was not identified they were not prosecuted.

(2) Sub-Inspector Partabrai.

(3) Mewomal.

(4) No.

(5) and (6) No.

(7) Yes.

(8) There are no reasons for taking any action against the police.

(9) A petition was received from the Pir's wife complaining that her husband was keeping her in wrongful confinement and that her life was in danger. On enquiry the allegations were found to be false.

(10) No.

(11) Does not arise.

MUNICIPALITIES AND MUNICIPAL BOROUGHS: ARREARS OF TAXES.

Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that of recent years large arrears of taxes have been accumulating to be recovered in many municipalities and municipal boroughs and that the extent of these arrears is increasing every year;

(b) the reasons for such large arrears;

(c) whether they intend to take any action in the matter with a view to prevent such arrears of taxes;

(d) whether they have received any suggestions in the matter;

(e) whether they have called for any suggestions;

(f) whether any rules as mentioned in the last part of sub-clause (2) of section 106 of Bombay Act No. XVIII of 1925 have been sanctioned by them so far for any municipal borough;

(g) whether they have under their consideration drafts of any such rules submitted to them by any municipal borough;

(h) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative will they be pleased to give in a tabular form the information concerning them on the following points:

(i) names of the municipal boroughs that have submitted the drafts of rules;

(ii) dates of receipt of drafts by Government;

(iii) reasons, if any, for delay in sanctioning the rules?

The Honourable Sardar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: (a) Yes.

(b) The principal reasons are—

(i) failure to take coercive measures as provided in the Municipal Act,

(ii) the bad example set by the Municipal councillors themselves in not paying their taxes in time,

(iii) failure to prepare assessment registers on due dates as prescribed in the municipal rules,

(iv) lack of supervision over the work of collection staff.

(c), (d) and (e) Persons in arrears with their taxes have been disfranchised. Government also continually bring the unsatisfactory state of affairs to the notice of the local bodies concerned but with little effect. A suggestion of the Local Audit Department that notice and warrant fees should be raised and vary in amount in proportion to the amount of the arrears, as is the case in Poona City Municipality, so as to make them deterrent has been brought to the notice of municipalities by Commissioners. The names of defaulting councillors are moreover usually published in municipal administration reports.

(f) Rules under this section have been framed by six municipalities and sanctioned by Government.

(g) and (h) The municipal boroughs of Thana, Nasik, Satara City, Lonavla and Belgaum have submitted draft rules, but their consideration has been postponed pending publication of model rules and bye-laws by Government.

BOMBAY FINANCE BILL.

Question again proposed:

"That the Bombay Finance Bill be read a first time."

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, there are amendments of principle which the honourable member the Finance Secretary may be permitted to move.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: As the Honourable Member himself has not done it, I will allow the honourable member the Finance Secretary to move it.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, yesterday, I informed honourable members that these money Bills were emergency measures for one year only. All these Bills will be referred to a select committee, and it is left to honourable members to alter any part of them which they consider objectionable. These Bills will be read a second time, and honourable members can then vote against any clause of the Bill.

Now, Sir, the honourable member from Larkana (Khan Bahadur Khuhro) complained that the cut on education and other nation-building departments was very severe. I am sorry that at the time the General Secretary made a reply to that criticism, the honourable member was not here. I may tell him that the cut was only 20 lakhs. Besides that, the cut includes 10 per cent. cut on the salaries of the establishment. Honourable members of this House are aware that our school masters are getting more than double the salary received by the school masters in Bengal. When the salaries of other servants are reduced by 10 per cent., I do not see any reason why the school masters also should not bear a cut in their salaries. If you look into the cut in the Educational Department, you will see that primary education will not be affected at all. Besides, I cannot distinguish which is and which is not a nation-building department. I have given great consideration to it, and it appears to me that almost every department is a nation-building department. Take the Irrigation Department under my charge. Is it not a nation-building department? Take the Medical Department. Is that too not a nation-building department? Even the Police Department is a nation-building department, because the Police Department protects the lives and properties of the people, and allows them to carry on their daily affairs.

Honourable members will bear with me for a while. I will show them presently that none of the taxes that are proposed will adversely affect the agriculturists whose name has been dragged in here unnecessarily. First of all, take the surcharge on electricity. Honourable members are aware that the poor agriculturists living in their cottages use oil lamps and not electricity. So, it is not the case that the surcharge on electricity will affect them. [Interruption.] I have never known of any company supplying electricity in villages. How then will a villager be affected? [An Honourable Member: Villagers living in cities which are small consume electricity.] There are no agriculturists living in cities. Most of them are big zamindars who have migrated to big cities. Who is affected by the surcharge on electricity? It is the rich man who lavishly illuminates his palace and turns night into day. Some of the extravagant clubs in Bombay use electric lights profusely. I went last Sunday to a club. Even though the sun was up as it was not even 6 o'clock, the lights were burning. I drew the attention of the Mayor of Bombay who was sitting by my side. This surcharge will be a very small sum to Bombay where the clubs are illuminated even before 6 o'clock. Out of the 12 lakhs which the taxation on electricity is expected to bring, not a single farthing will be paid by the real agriculturists whose cause the honourable members opposite are advocating. Take the poor men of Bombay. Often a single tenement is occupied by three or four labourers, and a single light is burnt. The surcharge on one light will not be more than 2 annas a month. If you divide this among three or four labourers, the share which each will have to bear is very insignificant. Therefore, we should not be taken in by this boggy of harm to the poor.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Coming to the court-fees, it is paid both by agriculturists and non-agriculturists. The total revenue that the increased rates will bring in is 5 lakhs. I make a liberal estimate in the case of the agriculturists. They may be affected to the extent of 2½ lakhs. But most of this taxation will affect the rich. The honourable member from Ahmednagar very eloquently advocated the cause of the agriculturists. He knows it and I know it. We all plead the cause of the poor agriculturists so long as it does not affect our pockets. When it comes to a question of vakil's fees, we squeeze the last drop of blood. We do not feel pity for the poor agriculturists then. Not only that, but even our clerks feel no pity for the agriculturists when they have to charge them for writing anything. When compared with the exaction of lawyers, this tax is a very insignificant amount. All my friends who represent the agriculturists will bear me out.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: I protest against these remarks.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: We know it as a fact.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: You are out of it for the last 10 years.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Another objection was that if we increase the court-fees, there will be a diminishing return. That means less litigation. Who goes generally to the civil courts? It is the money-lender and not the poor agriculturist. If there is less litigation, I think the representatives of the agriculturists should congratulate Government for bringing this measure. If there is less litigation, that means that the poor agriculturist will be dragged into the courts less often than now. [An Honourable Member: But you want money.] I do want money. But if you say that there will be diminishing returns, then I say that Government will be happy if the poor agriculturist is saved from being dragged into the civil courts every now and then. The representatives of the agriculturists should, therefore, ask not for the throwing out of this bill, but for further enhancement of the court-fees.

Having dealt with the court-fees bill, I now come to the stamp duty bill. A small stamp duty is to be levied—on what?—on cash transactions, forward and badli transactions. Who indulges in these transactions? It is not the poor agriculturist; it is the rich man who speculates—I won't call it gambling—speculates heavily and loses or wins in each transaction thousands of rupees. That man should not grumble if he has to pay a small stamp duty. So, it is not the poor agriculturist who will be affected by the stamp duty.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Then, Sir, take the Transfer of Property Act, which is already applicable to the city of Bombay. It is to be extended to Ahmedabad, Poona and Karachi. There too, the poor agriculturist does not come in. We will get out of the stamp duty on forward and other transactions about 2½ lakhs. It won't affect the poor agriculturist. Five lakhs is estimated as income from the extension of the Transfer of Property Act. The poor agriculturist is not affected by that also.

Now, Sir, 12 lakhs out of electricity;—there the poor agriculturist is not affected. Two and a half lakhs out of court-fees. That too won't affect him. If at all it is feared that it will affect the agriculturists, we are going to refer the bill to a select committee, and there the representatives of the agriculturists can press for the necessary amendments, and I am sure the Honourable the Finance Member will not be so hard-hearted as not to take into consideration the plight of the agriculturists. That means, out of the 14½ lakhs, not a single pie is to be taken out of the agriculturist. Then, we come to the badli and forward transactions. Two and a half lakhs is the income expected from the duty on these transactions. The agriculturist is not affected by this. Then 5 lakhs are expected to be realised by the extension of the Transfer of Property Act. The agriculturist is not affected by that. So that, out of 25 lakhs, 22½ lakhs will be paid by the non-agriculturists, and I think they ought to contribute fairly to the provincial revenues. It may be that they are paying income-tax and taxes to the local bodies, but they contribute very little to the provincial funds. These proposals of taxation are, therefore, very fair.

In these hard times, it is neither the doctor nor the lawyer who helps the poor agriculturists, who have been suffering for the last two or three years. I say, Sir, it is Government who have helped them. I will read out to honourable members a few figures from the Honourable the Finance Member's speech. In 1930-31 Government made concessions of 48 lakhs in the shape of remissions and suspensions to the agriculturists. In 1931-32, suspensions and remissions of land revenue amounted to 19 lakhs, and the fall in irrigation receipts due to suspensions and reductions in the water-rates is expected to be no less than 35 lakhs.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: May I know how much is by way of remissions and how much by way of suspensions?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I am coming to that. It is 54 lakhs in 1931-32 and 48 lakhs in 1930-31. That means, Government have made concession to the agriculturists to the tune of over a crore of rupees.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: How much of it is remissions and how much suspensions?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, even after these liberal concessions, my honourable colleague the Revenue Member and I are pestered with applications for reduction of water-rates and remissions and suspensions, and the case of my friends from Sind in regard to remissions and suspensions is under the consideration of the Honourable the Revenue Member. I might repeat to them a portion of his speech as most of them were not here on that occasion. He said that he had a very soft corner in his heart for the Sindhis and he was considering their case sympathetically. Honourable members should realise that unless we get money from somewhere we cannot go on making concessions. I will put before the honourable members who are representatives of the agriculturists one consideration. Let them take the vote of their constituents on these two alternatives, whether they will agree to these taxation bills, which do not affect them, or whether they will forgo the remissions and suspensions, and I am sure the verdict of the agriculturist voters would be in favour of this taxation.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Before I sit down, I appeal to my honourable friend Shaikh Abdul Majid, who is a representative of the agriculturists, to vote with me. I have proved to his satisfaction that his constituents are not going to be affected by this taxation Bill. I hope for the first time to find him in our lobby, although he has invariably been against us, because I know he is a conscientious man and he has at heart the interests of the poor agriculturists. He will see that the money that will be realised by these taxation Bills will not be taken from the poor agriculturists.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Mr. President, I had no desire to take part in the discussion on the Finance Bill; but after listening to the Honourable the Leader of the House who informed this side of the House that concessions have been given to the agriculturists, not in thousands and lakhs but in crores during the last two years, I feel it my duty to speak. If this Bill does not affect the agriculturists or the rural classes at all, as stated by the Honourable the Leader, I ask, where was the necessity of consolidating these three separate measures of taxation into one Bill? I must confess that it has created a great deal of confusion in the minds of honourable members, at any rate on this side of the House. The object of the Bill, Sir, is to meet a part of the deficit which is anticipated, of 73 lakhs, in the ensuing year. The anticipated revenue from the Finance Bill is about 30 lakhs, and the remaining amount of deficit is to be met by borrowing. The Honourable the Finance Member has informed us that so far as retrenchment is concerned, Government have done their level best and gone to extremes. Now they think that there is no scope for any further retrenchment. That was the statement made by the Honourable the Finance Member in winding up the budget debate. At the same time the Government of Bombay come forward and say that they have decided to appoint an expert committee to overhaul the whole administration of the Presidency with a view to bring about some savings in the expenditure. Mr. President, I submit that these two views cannot reconcile themselves. If the Government of Bombay are firmly convinced that there is no scope for further retrenchment, where was the necessity of appointing this expert committee with such large expenditure? Are we to take it that it is a camouflage? If they think there is some scope for retrenchment, is it not rather premature to come before this House with this taxation bill ? I for one am prepared to support Government in a time of emergency. But I submit that when they have decided to appoint an expert committee, they must be in the know, though not this side of the House. There must be some loopholes, some sources, still open to make retrenchment possible. Where is then the harm to wait till the report of the expert committee is submitted to Government ? Government can then come forward with a bill of this nature. If it is said that the expert committee will perhaps go into the details and there will not be large savings, then again I say that looking to the cost of the proposed expert committee, the saving will not be commensurate with the expense incurred after the committee. I therefore feel that although honourable members are prepared to support Government in their time of emergency, this is not the proper time for bringing in a measure of this kind. Government could have waited till the report of the committee was out and then come forward with this measure.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

It has been said that this emergency measure has been necessitated on account of the trade depression, which is not confined to this Presidency but has spread all over the world. Governments everywhere have reached such a plight that they are unable to make both ends meet. Therefore, it is their right, I admit, to come to the people for further taxation in order to balance the budget. I also admit that in order to preserve the credit and reputation of the Presidency, the budget must be balanced. But I ask : does the depression affect only the Government of this Presidency ? Does it not affect the people also ? If the depression affects Government, it equally, or perhaps to a greater extent, affects the people in general, except perhaps the Government officers, who also have had to submit themselves to a 10 per cent. cut recently. Now I want to take up another argument. Even if Government have a right to ask the people for further taxes, and it is the duty of the people to help Government in a time of emergency, in this case the question is whether the taxable capacity of this Presidency has been reached or not and whether the people are able to bear further burdens. This question has been debated on the floor of this House on several occasions, I may say times without number. Only yesterday it was touched upon by several members who said that the taxable capacity of the people had been reached and in spite of their desire to help Government, they are not in a position to do so.

Moreover, if we follow the arguments of the Honourable the Finance Member and the Honourable the Leader of the House, I do not see how they would be able to realise 30 lakhs which they anticipate from this Finance Bill. The Honourable the Finance Member stated that we could delete clause after clause in the select committee. The same argument has been repeated by the Honourable the Leader of the House. This might be perhaps to induce this side of the House to accept the principle of the Bill. The object of the Honourable Member in coming forward with the Finance Bill is to get about 30 lakhs and this will not be realised if the procedure which they have suggested is adopted—which is likely to be adopted—in the select committee. I am afraid this 30 lakhs will be reduced to about 12 lakhs or so.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

I see that Government are prepared to borrow the remaining amount to make up the deficit. There will be no harm if they are to borrow this amount also. That is my contention.

Now I come to the general question of the taxable capacity of the people, and with your permission and indulgence, Sir, I will give relevant figures in support of my argument. I will give figures of 50 years in order to convince the other side of the House that not only has the taxable capacity of the people been reached now, but it was reached years ago. I will take the year 1880. Honourable members are aware that a Famine Commission was appointed in 1880 and they tried to make out the average income per head of the population of this country, but there was some flaw in their calculation and it was Sir David Barber who undertook this hazardous task and carried it out with great care and caution. In his report submitted to the Government of India, he estimated the average income per head of the population of this country at Rs. 27. But here we are not concerned with the average income of the population of the whole country. We are only concerned with the average income per head of the population of the Presidency of Bombay and mainly of the agriculturists and middle class population of the Presidency of Bombay. Therefore, I will quote relevant figures so far as these classes are concerned. In the year 1881 the total agricultural and agricultural labour population of this Presidency was 16,446,000; and the total food crop area was 215 lakhs; and 55 lakhs was non-food crop area, namely, cotton, grass and something else. The total gross value was Rs. 36,92,80,000 at the rate of Rs. 50 per ton for food-grains and at the rate of Rs. 30 per acre for non-food crops. This comes to about Rs. 22-8-0 per head. I am only giving you the figures so far as the agricultural and agricultural labour population of Bombay Presidency is concerned. Again, in the year 1901, no less a person than Lord Curzon admitted that the average annual revenue per head of the population of this country was Rs. 30 per head and the latest figure for 1924-25 is Rs. 50 per head as announced by the Honourable Sir H. Cooke in the Council of State. There are also compiled figures of the average income of three periods which I will read for the information of this House. The average annual income per head of all classes, industrial, commercial, and other classes including Executive Councillors was Rs. 36 during the period 1900-14, Rs. 58-8-0 during the period 1914-22 and Rs. 44-8-0 during the period 1910-22. These are the figures not only of the agricultural population but the rest of the population also. I think some of the honourable members might be knowing these figures. I will now give you the figures of the minimum and maximum cost of subsistence of an agricultural and lower class family in this Presidency. The figures have been taken from Government records. The object with which I am giving these figures is that they should be compared with the figures of income——

Sardar Davar T. K. MODI: May I ask whether it is relevant to the discussion of the Bill?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: This is a taxation Bill and this is, in my opinion, quite relevant. In the year 1887 the Government of India asked all the provincial governments to make thorough and exhaustive inquiries and find out the cost of subsistence of the agricultural and lower classes, and the Bombay Government undertook this inquiry in the year 1887-88. I will give the figures of cost of subsistence of agricultural and lower class families of this Presidency by districts with the mean between the minimum and maximum——

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: May I ask from what he is reading?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I hope the honourable member is not going over too wide a range.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: I want to show, Sir, with your permission, that the cost of living is more than the income per head of the population so far as the agricultural and labour population is concerned. Here is the annual charge for living for an adult male (minimum and maximum) and I give the mean. This excludes the cost of dwelling and other expenditure and includes food, stimulants and dress—

	Rs.	a.	p.
Ahmedabad	41	0	0
Kaira	50	0	0
Broach	42	0	0
Surat	61	0	0
Panch Mahals, West	37	8	0
Panch Mahals, East	50	0	0
Khandesh	48	8	0
Nasik	48	8	0
Ahmednagar	42	0	0
Poona	34	8	0
Satara	61	8	0
Sholapur	55	0	0
Belgaum	47	0	0
Dharwar	24	8	0
Bijapur	38	0	0
Thana	58	8	0
Kolaba	62	0	0
Ratnagiri	50	0	0
Kanara	49	0	0
Karachi	44	0	0
Hyderabad	49	8	0
Shikarpur	28	8	0
Thar and Parkar	54	0	0
Upper Sind Frontier	41	8	0

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: What are those figures?

Rao Bahadur S. K. BOLE: Ancient literature.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: They are authoritative figures.

Mr. G. WILES: Are they monthly or annual figures?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: They are annual. I have collected these figures from the records of Government. They are as authoritative as anything else. They were submitted by the Government of Bombay to the Government of India in 1887-88. These estimates, which are summarised, show that the average income per head comes to much below the average cost of subsistence for the agriculturist and the agricultural labourer. That was my point. But I may be told now, and perhaps I will be told again by the honourable members that these are all theoretical figures and very old figures, and therefore cannot be taken as authoritative figures. As a matter of fact, Sir, let me tell the honourable members that the cost of living has very much increased since 1890. Now let me take, for example, the current year, 1931-32, and I take one district, the district of Surat. I hope the Honourable the Revenue Member who was once the Collector of Surat and the honourable member Mr. Mackie, who was also once the Collector of Surat, will listen to what I have to say. I want to give figures of the total production of the district, the total revenue which the district pays and the surplus left to the agriculturist. I want to show to the Honourable the Finance Member what is the surplus left to the agriculturist. I take the district of Surat because it is considered the most fertile district of the Presidency and it pays the highest rate of land revenue. There are 7,00,000 acres of arable land in the district. It has about 2,25,000 acres under cotton, about 2,25,000 acres under jowar, about 1,00,000 acres under paddy and about 1,50,000 acres grazing and grass land. These are not my figures, but they are taken from official records. Taking the produce of cotton at 6 maunds per acre and the rate at Rs. 300 per khandi—because Surat cotton gets a premium above even Broach cotton,—it comes to about Rs. 67,00,000. The price of jowar from 2,25,000 acres, at the present market rate, I have calculated at Rs. 37,00,000. The value of paddy comes to about Rs. 30,00,000. Then comes grazing land, from which of course the grass is not being sold, because it is used for the cattle of the agriculturists; still I put the value at Rs. 30,00,000, because if they had to sell the total quantity—which they cannot—they could have got 30 lakhs in cash. Therefore, the total value of the agricultural produce of the district of Surat for this year, 1931-32, comes to about Rs. 1,64,00,000. You can add Rs. 5,00,000 to Rs. 8,00,000 for the mangoes and other trees like toddy and vegetables that are grown in the district. It will then come to Rs. 1,72,00,000. Now, let me deduct the tax which is being paid by the people of the district. I am only giving the population of Surat District excluding the city of Surat, Rander and Bulsar; I am giving the figures of the rural area of the district which is concerned mainly with agriculture.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: What about the milk and milk products?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: I am coming to that.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

You have to deduct out of the amount I have given Rs. 26,00,000 land revenue, Rs. 20,00,000 excise revenue of the district; Imperial taxation I am taking only at Rs. 2 per head—income-tax, duty on cloth, on salt and everything; it is Rs. 10,00,000 and Rs. 24,00,000 for interest on agricultural indebtedness. If you deduct these amounts, the balance that will remain is about Rs. 92,00,000. Now this has to be divided by 5,27,000 which I have taken as the population of the rural area. The total population of the district is 6,74,000, but if you were to exclude the population of the three cities, the balance will come to about 5,27,000. The result is that you get about Rs. 17 to 18 per head. Now, my honourable friend the Minister of Agriculture asks me, "What about the milk products?" But does he know that I have given these figures of product excluding the cost of labour, which I have not included? The Honourable the Minister of Agriculture is supposed to know the prices of cotton and jowar. Taking 2,25,000 as under cotton and the outturn at 6 maunds per acre, the value will come to about Rs. 67 lakhs at the rate of Rs. 5 per maund or Rs. 300 per khandi, which is a higher rate than for Broach cotton, which is Rs. 230 per khandi. Milk, ghee and everything else will cover only some portion of the cost of labour. Still, it is only Rs. 17 per head per annum that is left to the agriculturist. These are not my figures; the Government members can take them down if they like, and nobody will be more glad than myself if they are contradicted. I have given these figures to show that the taxable capacity of the people has been reached. Questions of retrenchment and the taxable capacity of the people are argued on the floor of this House, and it has been said that we make general and vague observations which Government are unable to follow. So, I say let Government make a thorough and exhaustive enquiry. An honourable member from behind tells me that these are old figures. But the prices which I have taken are not in any way more or less than the prices of commodities in 1890. The prices put down by Sir David Barbour correspond to the prices of to-day. I have taken Re. 1 as the price of a maund of jowar or bajri; I shall be very glad indeed if in any other district the price is more than Re. 1 per maund. Therefore, Sir, my contention is this, that it is no use saying that the taxable capacity of the people has not been fully reached and therefore they should be further taxed. I should have been very glad if the Honourable the Finance Member had come forward with only a few remarks. He might have said that Government know that the taxable capacity of the people has been reached, that the ryots are in a serious plight, worse than that of the Government, that the non-agricultural people are also in a serious plight, but that the Government, in order to maintain their credit and the credit of the Presidency, ask this House to support by any means further taxation. That was the proper course for him to follow and the proper line of argument to adopt. It is no use saying that the people of the Presidency can bear further taxation. I say they cannot bear it. Government ought to have reduced taxation long ago. Of course, I have tried the patience of some of my honourable friends with these figures. I have given them the figures of 1924-25 also; and I think they will be convinced that the average income per head in the year 1922-23 was only Rs. 44-8-0.

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: How do you reconcile it with the figures of Lord Curzon?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: My honourable friend is asking me how I reconcile it with the figures of Lord Curzon. I presume he means the figure of Rs. 17 or 18 I gave for the Surat district. Lord Curzon had given the gross income per head. I have given the gross income after deducting the taxation which the district pays, and that makes a difference. If only the gross income is taken, it will be about double the figure I have given. Sir, I forgot to mention one other interesting fact. As a result of the enquiries of the Banking Enquiry Committee, it has been ascertained that Surat District has got agricultural indebtedness of Rs. 4,00,00,000, and if you take the minimum rate of interest, i.e. 6 per cent., the interest charges come to Rs. 24,00,000, which I have put down.

Now, Sir, I come to the remarks of the Honourable the Leader of the House. He says that Government have given concessions to the extent of Rs. 1,00,00,000 during the last two years. He was asked by an honourable member on this side of the House as to what was the amount of remissions and what was the amount of suspensions. He could not give the figures. Personally, I fail to understand why you call suspensions a concession. Are you not going to collect this amount next year or the year after? Personally, it has been a puzzle to me. Since I entered this House, for the last six years, whenever they suspend land revenue for a year or two, they say they have given concessions. In my opinion, it is not a concession. On the contrary, it will worsen the condition of the agriculturists. It would be better if Government gave a remission of 2 annas in the rupee and be done with it. I would rather prefer small remissions than large suspensions. Suspension of revenue is a debt which the agriculturist has to pay sooner or later. You cannot call it a concession in the real sense of the term. But, have Government really given these concessions? No. They knew they could not collect the amount. If they knew that there was a scope for collecting the full amount, do you think they would have granted suspensions? No, Sir. Why was it not suspended in former years? The last two years were very bad years owing to the abnormal fall in the prices of agricultural produce. Therefore, even with all their processes they could not collect the full amount, as the agriculturists had nothing to give; so they had to suspend collections. It is really not suspension. If you look to the condition of the agriculturists, I maintain not only that the taxable capacity has been reached, but that there is scope for reduction in the present taxation.

Therefore, Sir, without taking up any more time of the House, I would repeat that though the State has a right to come to the people and ask for assistance in times of emergency, at the same time, the State should see whether those from whom they want assistance are in a position to assist, and if the State is convinced that they are not at all in such a position, then I submit that the State should adopt some other course open to it. Again, in view of the expert committee which is to sit very shortly and to report before next August, that is, before the termination of the ensuing financial year——

[Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik]

An Honourable MEMBER: Who told you it was to report before August?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK: I was told that the committee was to sit and report in August next, that is, during the ensuing financial year. Therefore, I was going to say that before the termination of the ensuing financial year there is an opportunity for Government to come to this House with a taxation Bill, of whatever nature it may be, if there is no scope for retrenchment pointed out by the expert committee. Under the circumstances, I would advise the Honourable the Finance Member to keep this Bill in abeyance, rather than push it through this House.

Mr. JOHN HUMPHREY (Karachi Chamber of Commerce): Sir, it is my intention to vote in support of the first reading of the Bill that is now before the House, but I would like to make it perfectly clear that I am doing so simply because of the desperate straits in which Government find their finances, and also because the Bill is only for one year. There are portions of the bill which I consider thoroughly bad. The Honourable the Finance Member, when referring to that portion of the Bill which deals with the proposed electricity duty, described it as a new venture. I should go further than that and question whether it is a wise venture, and whether it is not a penny-wise pound-foolish venture. Bombay has always prided itself on being progressive and here we have a Bill which under no circumstances can be regarded as tending to the progress of this presidency. To my mind, the development of electricity is in its infancy and on that score alone I consider that any Bill that is likely to retard or impede this progress is not a sound Bill. India is making a tremendous effort to progress industrially and I consider electricity is not only one of the industries of to-day but that it is an industry which will, under ordinary circumstances, increase and develop and should be encouraged. The Punjab, the United Provinces and Madras are definitely encouraging the use of electricity. In England millions of pounds are being spent to make electricity more accessible to the public and more reasonable in price. But the attitude of Bombay Government, I admit through force of circumstances, is quite different. That is why I question whether the new taxation proposed is a wise and sound venture. What the effect of the new taxation will be it is impossible to foretell, but it seems to me very evident that it is bound to lead to a decrease in consumption. The small consumer will resent the infliction of even one or two annas per month which this Bill will mean and then he will either give up completely the use of electricity and use other methods of lighting the taxation on which will go to the Central Government or reduce his consumption so that his monthly bill in future does not exceed his monthly bill of the past. The same will apply in a great measure to the more affluent consumer. Then, there is also the danger that those who have been considering installing electric lights and fans in their houses, shops and offices may now hesitate before doing so. It is not as though electricity is not already taxed. Practically every electrical appliance and accessory and all materials connected with electricity have to pay a heavy duty, which has been increased very considerably during the last few months. That income of course goes to the Central Government and it again proves how very necessary it is that when the Federal Finance Committee consider their schemes for the future finances of this country, it should be pointed out to them how heavily this province is taxed without getting any assistance to the provincial funds and how every reasonable source of taxation is taken away from the Provinces. The Honourable the Leader of the House mentioned yesterday that there was an increased demand for licenses. This to my mind is not an argument in favour of the taxation being inflicted but rather against it, for it shows that the use of electricity is definitely making progress in this presidency. But with this new taxation will that progress continue and will those who are now prepared to launch new enterprises be still prepared to do so, if this new Bill comes into being? I have mentioned that I am prepared to support this Bill provided that it is for one year only. I say this because it so infrequently happens that when any Government have found a new form of taxation, even though the original intention is to limit it to a certain period, they eventually endeavour to carry it on indefinitely and not infrequently enhance the taxation rather than decrease it. Therefore, I think we must insist that this Bill should be for one year only, so that this honourable House can consider it at the end of that period as to whether or not it should be continued. In my opinion, it should not be allowed to continue for a moment longer. We were told that it is anticipated—I am referring to electricity—that this taxation is likely to produce 12 lakhs of revenue during the coming year and we know that even with this and the taxation under the other Bills there will still be a considerable deficit. It would encourage, I am certain, this honourable House to agree to the new form of taxation very considerably, if Government undertake that no item of unnecessary expenditure will continue. I am of course referring to the reduction of the Cabinet. I was filled with admiration of the example set and the public spirit shown by the seven Honourable Members and Ministers who occupy the Front Bench when His Excellency told us the other day that they had placed their appointments entirely in his hands so as not to delay any reduction in the Cabinet. But it was a definite disappointment to learn that, although schemes had been evolved for an immediate reduction in the Cabinet, it was intended to delay any reduction, until the inauguration of a new constitution. I maintain that, when Government come to this House for new taxation, it is not reasonable to inform them at the same time that the retrenchment of an expenditure of one and three-quarter lakhs per annum (I am quoting the ad interim report of the Retrenchment Committee) is being delayed, more particularly when we realise that by reducing the Cabinet now, the reduced body would be one of experienced Ministers and they could get over the experimental stage and re-organise the portfolios, so that when the new constitution is inaugurated, which we all hope will be shortly, the experiment of the smaller cabinet will have been made and tested, and instead of disorganisation taking place a satisfactory organisation will be there for them to take over. This, as I say, will be a definite saving to Government and would encourage us to support Government in their demand for new taxation.

[Mr. John Humphrey]

[Mr. John Humphrey]

There is another point about the electricity Bill which seems to me entirely wrong, that is, that the power to grant exemption will be left entirely in the hands of Government. They ask us to give them a mandate and at the same time demand a free hand in how they should exercise it. The exemptions, if any, should be declared or defined now. I would go further and say that Government offices should pay the tax, even though it be only a book entry, for it would not only give them first-hand knowledge as to what the additional cost would be, but it might induce them to save very considerably in their own electricity bill and thus, in a small way, help towards still further reducing the deficiency.

With regard to the Court-fees Bill, I shall certainly support that, but I cannot see that in the Stamp Duties Bill the proposed taxes on forward contracts are a reasonable or fair imposition on trade. If the clauses relating to the taxes on forward contracts are not withdrawn, I shall not be able to give the Bill my support. It is one thing to prepare a Bill, but one wonders whether in preparing this Bill Government have taken the trouble to ascertain what the extent of the infliction of the tax on forward contracts would be. I do not think that Government fully understand how the export trade is dependent on these options. In the export trade, of which I have a certain knowledge, in order to ship even small quantities of goods forward contracts in large numbers have to be made and, when not only the buyer and the seller but the broker on both sides have to stamp their contracts and the books, it can be easily realised how many stamps will be required for each contract put through. This is a point which I am sure will induce a great deal of opposition in this honourable House and I would urge Government to withdraw that portion of the Bill, in which case I will willingly support the Bill. Where one is inclined to be destructive in criticism, such criticism should be followed by suggestion of a constructive nature. I wonder if Government have considered the question of reverting to stamps on cheques as a possible means of raising further revenue. I must admit that I have not had time to go into this matter very carefully, nor have I consulted experts on the subject. I am aware that the Indian Central Banking Enquiry Committee consider that the abolition of stamp duty on cheques has resulted in a greater use of cheques throughout the country, but now that the population has been educated to use the cheque, I do not think that a temporary duty for one year would be found to reduce the use of cheques or to break the banking habit. I, therefore, put this suggestion forward for the consideration of Government.

[Mr. John Humphrey]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Honourable the Revenue Member.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Mr. President, you have called on me by my usual official title, but it is really as Member for Electricity that I propose to address a few remarks to this House, since electricity is one of the side-shows in my portfolio. I observe, Sir, that most, or a great deal at any rate, of the opposition to this Bill centres around that part of it which concerns the proposed surcharge on electricity. Honourable members object, as we all object, to any form of increased taxation, but it seems to me that the opposition rather fixes itself on this part of the Bill, and that if it had not been included we should have had less trouble in getting our first reading through. Now, the suggestion is, I understand—I have seen it in the newspapers, I have seen it in various pamphlets that have been sent to us, and I think it has also been suggested by my honourable friend Mr. Humphrey—that electrical enterprise in this presidency is a miserable weakly infant just beginning to breathe and that Government are now about to practise a particularly objectionable form of infanticide.

Mr. JOHN HUMPHREY: I was speaking of electricity generally, not of this presidency only.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Well, of this country as a whole.

Mr. JOHN HUMPHREY: In the world!

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Well, for the moment I cannot roam over the whole world, but, if the honourable member will allow me, I will confine myself to this presidency. Now, ten years, or only five years, ago that suggestion might, I think, have been put forward with some force, and had I been ten or five years ago in charge of this particular branch, I think I should have done my best to induce my honourable friend the Honourable the Finance Member to keep his fingers off electricity. But I cannot do so with a good conscience now, especially when his proposals are so extremely modest. I am doing my best in every way in my power to encourage the development of electricity in this presidency. And I wish to explain to this House the progress that has been made in the last few years, because I think it is quite possible that some honourable members hardly realise it. Up to the end of the year 1930 there were 42 licences or permits—permits are for all practical purposes the same thing as licences for the supply of electricity. There are at present under my consideration applications for the supply of electricity in no less than twelve places—not villages, but some of them are quite small places—which shows that this enterprise is now really making progress. During the past twelve months electricity has actually been started in seven places, Jalgaon, Dombivli, Larkana, Matheran, Panchgani, Pandharpur and Nasik. In the course of the next few months—I think I may say in the next few weeks—we hope that it will be started in Dhulia, Nadiad and Ahmednagar. Now, I think that shows very remarkable progress in the course of a very short time. I for one am quite certain that this proposed taxation is not going to retard the pace.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

It has been said that this is a tax on progress. That is a charge which seems to me can be brought against every form of taxation, except possibly taxation of drink. Certainly income-tax is a tax on progress, and a very serious one. Certainly any form of taxation of motor vehicles is a tax on progress. I would add that the postage stamp is unquestionably a tax on progress, because it costs a man more to advertise his goods by post. I do not think it is a sufficient answer to any proposal made for further taxation, to say that it is a tax on progress. Nevertheless, I maintain that the effect that this particular tax is going to have will be inappreciable. I admit, of course, that this is only a guesswork on my part: my honourable friend there (Mr. Humphrey) is just as much entitled to hold the contrary view. But I would like to point out that this is a case in which the law of diminishing returns will very shortly show whether the tax is having the ill-effects which are prophesied for it. That is one of the advantages of making this tax a tax for one year. At the end of the year we shall be in a position to see whether, as is stated by some, the poor consumer will go back to his rush lights, and to his oil butti. Personally, I find it very difficult to believe that he will do anything of the kind; nor do I believe that any of the companies which have now applied to us for a license will write to Government and say "We do not wish to pursue our proposal any further." If they do so, if there is any stoppage of the progress which we have made in the last two years, we shall be able to see it at once, and I am quite sure that if I have to go to my honourable friend the Honourable the Finance Member and say that this tax has proved itself to be a real hindrance to progress, he will be quite prepared to reconsider the matter. As for the individual—after all, it is the individual who is going to be concerned in this matter—I would point out that, after all, the charge is a very small one. Like my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham, I too live in a house the rent of which I cannot afford, but unlike Mr. Winterbotham I am too lazy or too busy to be able to economise in my consumption of electricity.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: What is the rent?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I forget; but it is a very large amount. My bill for electricity—I think I am right in saying so—is considerably more than that of my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham. I think in the month of March it comes to Rs. 35 or Rs. 40. The honourable member was very anxious that Government should pay the surcharge. Well, I am sure that the Members of Government will pay the surcharge all right even though Government will not. I should imagine that my monthly electricity bill will go up by five or six rupees. I do not like to pay it any more than anybody else, but I do not think it is going to make a serious difference to me, and I am quite sure that

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

I am not going to disconnect my electric supply. If you work it out, a man whose bill is Rs. 10 a month will have to pay one rupee or something of that sort; Mr. Freke will tell us the exact amount. That is nothing very serious. I cannot believe myself that any single individual who has enjoyed the advantages of electric light is going to say, "Well, I cannot afford this extra ten, twelve or fourteen annas,"—or whatever it is—"I am going back to my oil lamp." Personally, I doubt very much whether he would find it economical. But even if he did, I am quite sure that no one who has enjoyed the great advantages of electricity is going to give it up. If I am wrong in this prophecy of mine, which I put forward with all modesty, we shall discover it within a very short time. If that is the case, as I say, this time next year we will reconsider it. The House, of course, will have the opportunity of reconsidering the matter, and, if I am here then, I shall supply them with facts and figures. At present we are only in the realms of speculation. So much for that particular part of the bill.

Then, I might be allowed as a member of Government to add just a word or two on the general question. I feel from the atmosphere in the House that the wiser heads amongst us are beginning to realise that, much as we dislike it, we must have emergent taxation. I think I said last November that the Government at home had balanced its budget by most strenuous measures. The Government of India has balanced its budget by the most strenuous measures. I saw in the papers this morning a gentleman wrote and said, "Why cannot the Bombay Government follow the example of the Government of India who are putting on no new tax this year?" He apparently did not observe that the Government of India had put on an enormous amount of taxation last year and so balanced its budget. That is the way that sometimes, I think, these public controversies are carried on. We, unfortunately, as I think, are not making any attempt, as the honourable House knows, to balance our budget this year. There is still that very large gap, which my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik seemed to think is going to be bridged by the efforts of the Reorganization Committee. If the Reorganization Committee can bridge a gap of 43 lakhs, they will be the most wonderful conjurors that the world has ever seen; and if the House is under the impression that they are going to bridge that gulf, I am afraid they are going to be seriously disappointed. Even if they do bridge that gap and we do not get this taxation, there will still be a gap of about 30 lakhs. Therefore, even if the Reorganization Committee can give us 40 lakhs by what is called "reconstruction" we still want our 30 lakhs from taxation, and even then we shall only just balance our budget.

It has been said by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Naik that the taxable capacity of this country has been reached. Sir, it is very easy to make these assertions; one sees these assertions made about every country in the world. But I think I am right in saying that this is a matter which no one can prove. I will only invite the attention of the House to a rather remarkable phenomenon which we have observed in the course of the last month or two, namely, that over 50 crores worth of gold have been exported from India in the last three or four months. This does seem to me to suggest that India is not quite so poor as some of our friends make it out to be. I do not wish to argue it in detail; and I am not going to controvert the honourable member Rao Bahadur Naik's figures. This assertion of his is as much proved as the other assertion that he once made that agricultural operations brought only loss, without explaining how it was that the people managed to carry on. But I think it is quite clear that the assertion that the taxable capacity of the people has been reached is one which is extremely difficult to prove. Here again, the law of diminishing returns is bound to operate, and if these taxes which we now propose, and which we hope the House is going to sanction, are beyond the capacity of the people to pay, then unquestionably we shall see the result in the course of the next year. And, therefore, I would appeal to the House at any rate to make the experiment. No very great harm can be done if we make the experiment for one year. And if next year our financial position is as bright as we hope it to be, there will be no necessity for the House to renew these taxes. Surely, Sir, we shall be guilty of grave dishonesty—I use those words advisedly—grave dishonesty if we do not make a deliberate attempt to bridge this gulf, and if we leave it to our miserable successors to bear the entire burden.

[Mr. W. F. Hudson]

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North): Sir, in these finance bills the Honourable the Finance Member comes to us for further taxation. I have great sympathy with him in the position in which he is placed inasmuch as nobody likes new taxes. His taxation bill is divided into many parts, as you said; and as somebody else remarked yesterday, it touches vested interests in many places. I hope, in spite of the vested interests, that if the House is convinced that such taxation is necessary, it will act on the grounds of patriotism and the good of the country and not be misled by the consideration of these vested interests. But, Sir, have we been convinced that these taxes are necessary? First of all, as the Honourable the Revenue Member said, it is very difficult to prove that the taxable capacity of the people has been reached. The Honourable the Finance Member when he was on this side of the House seven years ago thought that it had been reached. His transference from here to the other side evidently has convinced him that it has not been reached. So it seems to me it is impossible to convince those benches that the taxable capacity of the people has been reached or ever will be reached.

The Honourable the Revenue Member referred to 50 crores of rupees worth of gold going out of India. Yes, Sir, it has gone out of India; but does he realise that the 50 crores are the lifelong savings of generations of poor people, that they are the savings which have been kept back for use on a rainy day and which they have been tempted to send out now owing to the high prices? You will see that the gold that is being sent out of India is not in bullion but in ornaments——

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: What is the difference?

Dr. M. D. GILDER: That they are the savings of the people.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: But they had the savings, then——

Dr. M. D. GILDER:——of which Government wants to rob them.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Not at all. They do not want to rob anybody.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: This Council, which has been called in some places the weakest of the provincial councils, showed its strength last year when it did not allow an increase of taxation as it was first brought in by the Honourable the Finance Member. Subsequently, the temptation was held out that a retrenchment committee would be appointed and that the taxes would not be raised but would be kept at the same level as before; and two taxation bills went through. But, Sir, let us for a moment look at the work of this retrenchment committee. The besetting sin of the governing classes in India is the apotheosis of efficiency—efficiency with a capital "E", and if we had only been living in the days of pagan Greece or Rome, we would have seen a new cult established. We would have seen temples of the goddess of efficiency established all over the country and the members of the I.C.S. acting at the altar as the high priests of worship and of sacrifice. My honourable friend the Revenue Member remarked only the other day in the budget discussion that the retrenchments that have already taken place have led to loss of efficiency. Of course, I would not say what passed through my mind—it was too personal to be related to this House. Retrenchment was opposed under the pretence of loss of efficiency, no head of the Government department co-operated wholeheartedly with the retrenchment committee, and where retrenchment seemed possible to be effected, the ground of loss of efficiency was pleaded, aided and abetted by the honourable member the Finance Secretary. The committee were treated as robbers of hen roosts, and they were offered small retrenchments here and small retrenchments there in order to take their attention away from the precious poultry hidden away in the hen-roosts. When the Finance Department had to come to this House for further taxation in November, it was realised that the poultry in the hen-roosts had been hidden away too effectively, and the poultry merchants therefore came to us with further retrenchment, retrenchment which they had effected beyond the retrenchment recommended by the committee. Sir, when Government could effect more retrenchment than the committee, why should they have wasted the time of these honourable members for months together telling them that no further retrenchment was possible? Last November when the finance bill was under discussion, there was a conspiracy of silence on the part of the opposition. If it had not occurred, the Honourable the Finance Member would have seen, as he pleaded so ardently to see, as the Honourable the Education Minister pleaded so ardently to see, the psychic reaction of the different parts of this House to this treatment of the retrenchment committee. Several of us thought that if the Government could make those retrenchments on their own, why should they have spent the money and wasted the time of the honourable members in telling them that no further retrenchments were possible?

[Dr. M. D. Gilder]

I am afraid, Sir, that we may have the same experience with this new committee. Do the Government honestly believe that by appointing this committee further retrenchments will be possible? If they honestly believe it, then why should they not indicate to the House now where the retrenchments are possible? But, from the Honourable the Revenue Member's speech I have grave doubts whether Government are again serious about this retrenchment and whether this is not another camouflage to show to the House that they want to retrench. And this time a more expensive reorganisation committee has therefore been put in. If the House is not satisfied with the expense that a committee of the members of this House cost them, let somebody else cost more and let him say that no retrenchment is possible, and then as the remedy is more expensive, the House might perhaps accept it.

Then, Sir, they say that they are not taxing the poor. In the Electricity Bill—I do not know whether it is an oversight—refrigerators or frigidaires, have escaped taxation. Lights and fans are taxed. Surely poor people use lights. Poor people do not use refrigerators in their houses. That in itself shows that the taxation has been aimed more at the poor than at the rich.

Then, Sir, look at the attitude of the Government, the way in which they have brought together all the various sections of the Bill. They have told the House that if they do not like any one section, they are at liberty to reject it. That means to say that the Government have got the means to get the revenue from somewhere, the money that will replace the loss caused by the part rejected by the House. Sir, I appeal to the Honourable the Finance Member, whom I regard still with respect and reverence as the man under whose guidance I took my first steps in this legislature, as the man who was the head of the party that I joined after my election, that he should assert himself, should rise out of his lethargy, to guide and advise his Secretary, and not be guided and advised by him. I hope still the Revenue Member will persuade his honourable colleague in the Finance Department to keep his hands off electricity, and I trust, Sir, that, if he fails, he will certainly see that the Honourable the Finance Member does not touch a live wire.

The Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR VAKIL: Sir, I rise to repudiate the charge—I may say a very savage charge—which the honourable member Dr. Gilder has levelled against the Government officers. As Chairman of the Retrenchment Committee, I must say that we received all possible assistance from every officer of Government, right up from the Inspector General of Police, so far as the Police Department is concerned, to any other man, and in the same way from every head of department who came and gave evidence with great candour and stood the cross-examination—very searching cross-examination—of some of my colleagues, of whom one opposite to me (Mr. Kamat) is present here and also the honourable member Rao Bahadur Patil, who will bear me out. In fact, in a resolution which was proposed by Mr. Chikodi, who was considered and who really is a very capable man, a man who has studied the budget from A to Z, he said in very clear terms that he received every possible assistance from the honourable member the Finance Secretary, without whose support the Retrenchment Committee would not have been able to do what little it has been able to do. And that resolution is on record and is a testimony of the very valuable assistance that the Committee received from time to time from the Secretariat and the Government officers.

[Sirdar Sir Rustom Jehangir Vakil]

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, I rise to oppose the first reading of the Finance Bill of 1932. While doing so, I am not going to mumble, as I am reported to have done during my speech on the budget discussion, but I am going to thunder over the first reading of the Bill. I must enter an emphatic protest against the manner in which these three or four bills are jumbled together and brought forward in the form of the present Finance Bill. What has electricity to do with court-fees? Electricity is a subject which is diametrically opposed to anything like court-fees and stamps. But Government have purposely brought forward a measure which is the combination of these divergent bills with a view to divide this House and set up one side against another. I can prove this charge, Sir. Electricity affects Bombay mostly, and there is that power already reserved by section 5 of the Electricity Bill under which Government can exempt certain persons, corporations and bodies from this tax on electricity and that power Government can utilise in favour of anybody in Bombay and certain other places. This power will be utilised as a bait to induce members from Bombay to go against members from the mofussil. That is the trick Government have resorted to. If they really wanted this House to assist them in their difficulties, we would surely have considered the matter very seriously. We are responsible members elected by the public. We are also alive to the difficulties of Government and as representatives of the people we would have seen how far we should help Government in their deplorable plight. But they have alienated our sympathies by consolidating together matters which are quite opposed to each other and over which certainly the House is sure to be divided. It has been pointed out that electricity affects Bombay and big cities only and not the agriculturists. I say most humbly that electricity is permeating to smaller towns like Ahmednagar. Just now the Honourable the Finance Member said that there are actually 12 schemes of electrifying cities and smaller towns like Ahmednagar. It cannot therefore be said that only the richer part of society is going to be affected. Poorer people living in smaller towns also will be affected. It cannot be contended for a minute that small cities like Ahmednagar are inhabited by rich people only. The fact on the contrary is that the majority of the inhabitants in these smaller cities like Ahmednagar are comparatively poor people and to tax the use of electricity, is to deny these poor people the use of electric light which is but an ordinary amenity of every day use essential for both the rich and the poor alike.

It is said, Sir, that the principle of court fees and stamp duties is accepted by this House. I cannot understand how and to what extent the House has accepted the principle of enhancement of court fees and stamp duties. The old Acts are there. If Government really wanted to continue those Acts, they would have surely asked the House to do that. But instead of doing that, they have brought forward measures to enhance court fees and stamp duties, and they have combined these Bills with the Electricity Duty Bill. It cannot be said, Sir, that the stamp duties and the court fees do not affect the agriculturists. They affect the agriculturists primarily, and nobody else. I was very sorry to hear a very responsible member like the Honourable the Leader of the House saying that it is only the sowcars that are going to be affected by the court fees. No more fallacious argument than that could be advanced. I say it is common knowledge that though it is the sowcars who go to the Court first, still in the last instance, the costs are thrown on the shoulders of the defendants who are mostly agriculturists. So, it cannot be said that the enhanced court fees are not going to be thrown on the shoulders of the agriculturists or that the agriculturists are not going to be affected by them. It is said, Sir, that all this could be remedied in the select committee stage. I wonder how it could be done. As a member who has had the privilege of sitting in this honourable House for a number of years, I can see what can be done and what cannot be done at the select committee stage. I cannot see, as a member representing agriculturists, how the agricultural community can be excluded or exempted from the operation of the enhanced court fees or the enhanced stamp duties at the select committee stage. If that is the impression left on the minds of some of the honourable members in this House, that is entirely wrong, according to my humble opinion. It is said, Sir, that if this matter is taken over to the constituents of the honourable members of this House, they will surely ask the members of this House to vote in favour of this Bill. I am at a loss to understand this argument. On the contrary, Sir, I say that our constituents will condemn us if we vote in favour of this Bill. They will say, "After all, you are adding one burden after another on one section of the public or another, and thereby helping Government in dividing one section of the public against another, and allowing Government to set up one section of the public against another." That is the mischief which this Bill is going to cause. The tax on electricity, as I said, is going to affect Bombay, but if certain concessions are allowed to the Bombay people, they may vote in favour of the Bill. But the agriculturists are not going to get any concessions. The concession they want is complete exemption from enhanced court fees. If that is granted, I am prepared to vote in favour of this Bill. I say, Sir, let Government give a promise that the agriculturists will be completely exempted from the operation of the enhanced court fees and stamp duties; then, as a member of this House, I am prepared to vote in favour of this Bill. It is no use advancing fallacious arguments and misleading members who are newly returned to this House. They do not know what can be done and what cannot be done at the select committee stage.

[Mr. N. E. Navle]

[Mr. N. E. Navle]

Sir, I need not take up any more of the time of the House. The agriculturists are mostly affected by enhanced court-fees and stamp duties, and they are in a deplorable plight. This is not the time when Government should ask us to vote in favour of this Finance Bill. They should certainly withdraw this pernicious measure at this time, and wait for better times. The times will change, and when better times come we might see our way to vote in favour of one or the other of these Bills. But as the Bills are presented in the form of this Finance Bill in these hard times I do not think a member who has at heart the interests of the agriculturists and the labouring classes can see his way to vote in favour of this Bill. With these words, Sir, I oppose the first reading of the Bill.

Mr. G. WILES: Mr. President, I think the speech of the Honourable the Deputy President which he has just given us is the clearest proof of the desirability of combining these different measures into one Bill. What was the object of it? I would ask the honourable members who think there is something dark behind this procedure to remove suspicion from their minds and place themselves in our position, if that is possible. The object is merely to introduce a system whereby the financial needs of the Presidency can be reviewed at one time and in one measure, to enable this House to consider at one time and in one measure the effect of the taxation proposals for any one year in their relation to one another and to the needs of the province. The tendency of opinion of the Legislative Council has itself long been in this direction. Year after year, it has been the demand of this House that the taxation bills shall be for one year, that the Court-fees Bill and the Stamp Duty Bill shall be treated as taxation bills and granted for one year. The natural corollary of that desire of the House was to combine them into one measure, so that, instead of having debate after debate on different measures, all repeating the same arguments about the necessity of taxation, we should have one clear cut measure, in which to consider the whole question at once. It is no argument against this procedure to say that it is novel to us. The fact that it is novel to us does not mean that it is improper. It is followed in most of the legislative councils of the world, including the Legislative Assembly and the Mother of Parliaments.

An Honourable MEMBER: Where is it done in India?

Mr. G. WILES: In the Legislative Assembly in India.

I am at a complete loss to understand what the honourable member who has just spoken means by his argument that this Bill sets one section of the House against another. How can it? It is still open to the honourable members of this House to reject any part of this Bill at any time. At the second reading, when it comes up clause by clause, any section of it can be rejected. It has been said that Finance Bills elsewhere confine themselves to amendments of previous Finance Bills. That is not a fact. New measures can be consolidated in the Finance Bill just as any amendment of an Act which is already in force.

I will now, Sir, deal with the Bill in more detail. I will assume for the moment—I will return to it later—that the need for taxation is proved.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

Here I should like to ask you, Sir, whether I may move my amendments now, or after I conclude my speech.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Any time during the honourable member's speech.

Mr. G. WILES: Dealing with the Electricity Duty Bill, it would be convenient if I move my amendments now. But before going to the Electricity Duty Bill, I will move my amendment to the general clauses. I move the following amendments—

In Part I of the Bill, after sub-clause (2) of clause 2, insert the following:—

"(3) This section and sections 3 to 15 containing Parts II, III and IV shall remain in operation for one year from the date on which this Act comes into force."

I do not propose to say anything about that, because the Honourable Member has already referred to this intention in his speech. Coming to Part II, I move:

In Part II, to clause 4 (c) the following words shall be added:

"and includes any person who has obtained the sanction of the local Government under section 28 of that Act."

In sub-clause (2) of clause 6, for the word "him" where it occurs for the second time, the words "a licensee" shall be substituted.

The Honourable Member has explained his reason for this also. It is merely in order that a form of licensee who is called a permit-holder shall be treated as a licensee for the purposes of this Act.

Sir, there has been organised opposition to this part of the Bill. I do not intend to deal with it at any length, because the Honourable the Revenue Member who has just spoken has dealt with it. We have been supplied with a pamphlet which deals with every possible aspect of the objections that the opposition has been able to raise against this Bill. I will only say, as the Honourable the Finance Member said in his speech, that it is not proper criticism to take a single tax out of a system of taxation and apply to it the criticism that it fails to conform to some of the principles of taxation. Hardly any single tax in the world can conform to all the principles of taxation. That ought to be obvious. The fact that there are so many different opinions about different parts of this Taxation Bill is in itself one of the strongest arguments that we have, as the Honourable the Finance Member said, attempted to distribute the incidence of the taxation over as wide a field as possible. As the Honourable the Revenue Member said, we do not believe that this tax will reduce consumption, partly because electricity in Bombay City at any rate is so cheap that probably a reversion to the old and primitive methods would be more expensive than electric light. But, as has been said, its effect will be very carefully watched.

It has been argued that the method of levy of this tax is inequitable. But do the objectors really think that it would be more equitable if the proposed flat rate of duty were made proportionate to the unit charge? Surely, it would be more inequitable, less equitable, to charge more to the man who pays 6 annas a unit than to the man who pays 4 annas a unit.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

As for the exemption of the railway companies and tramway companies, the object has been to exclude all industrial concerns. We do not wish to place any industry that uses electricity as motive power at a disadvantage as compared with the other industries that do not use electricity. In regard to railways and tramways, it is quite obvious that any tax on them would be passed on. It is not a fair criticism to say that we are taxing the poor man and leaving out the rich company. Obviously the rich company is not going to pay the tax. It will be passed on in railway fares or tramway fares as the case may be. [An Honourable Member: Is lighting in stations charged ?] That point I have not considered. Lighting in mills is exempted. Exception has been taken to the power reserved by Government to give exemptions. It seems to me rather a curious misuse of the argument in this pamphlet to apply to this power the criticism of the Lord Chief Justice of England. The Lord Chief Justice of England was criticising the rule-making power of Government, but this is a power to give exemption from taxation. I think the Honourable the Finance Member has announced that hospitals and dispensaries will be exempted as soon as the Act comes into force.

In regard to the demand that has been made by several honourable members that, instead of taxing the consumer, we should tax the company, that is to say, the shareholders, it appears to me that the proposal is open to the theoretical objection, which has been raised in this pamphlet. By such a taxation, you would be absolutely discriminating against a certain section, who happen to hold shares in the company. It would be highly unfair that you should tax any company in this way. The further objection would be that such companies are already liable to income-tax. No provincial government would possibly levy a tax on a particular kind of company, which is already paying a similar kind of tax in the shape of income-tax to the Central Government.

I now come to Part III—court-fees. I do not pretend to be an expert in court-fees. I will only refer to one argument that has been used in respect of this section, that is, that the law of diminishing returns is certain to come into force. The law of diminishing returns is a law which is not far from the consideration of any finance department. But in this particular instance, you will notice that the chief increases in fees that are proposed in the Court-fees Act are all of fees which were fixed more than 60 years ago. It seems to me, therefore, that the argument that the law of diminishing returns will apply if we increase these rates which were fixed 60 years ago is probably false. Bombay as a matter of fact, if my information is correct, is the only province in India which has not raised these rates. The only other important change in the Court-fees Bill is the graduated increase on probate duty of fortunes in excess of 2½ lakhs. The rate of duty will be raised for such a fortune from 5 up to 7 per cent.

Part III of the Bill relates to the Stamp Act and in this section probably difficulties will be found. I have very little to comment on in this part, except the tax on futures. Forward transactions to most of us are a sealed book. We do not pretend to understand what it means. I have spent several years in control of the cotton trade and learnt something about it. I do not intend to go into details in explanation of what it means. But it will be necessary for the members of the select committee to study it in detail. I am going to give the reasons why this tax has been introduced. The committee appointed by this Council known as the Kay Committee recommended a tax on exchange transactions. They estimated the revenue from this source at over half a crore of rupees. That revenue was excessively estimated, as I think they did not understand what they intended to tax. The Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee also dealt with the question. They recommended that contract notes should be made compulsory in stock exchanges, and in regard to the commodity markets "produce exchanges" as they call them. They said:

[Mr. G. Wiles]

"The better solution appears to be to continue action on the lines already initiated for repressing gambling transactions and giving statutory recognition to associations which undertake the control of legitimate business. If and when action on these lines has been taken, the question of requiring the issue of a contract note for each transaction and imposing a moderate stamp duty thereon might be considered."

The present proposals are an attempt to put into force these recommendations. Whether the form in which it has been put will be successful or not, it is for the select committee to consider. The principle of taxation is unexceptionable; whether the details will prove practicable or not is still to be considered. So much for the details of the Bill.

I am going to say a few words in general. I asked the other day that the House should be prepared to face facts. I find it astonishing that some members of the House are still so far removed from realities that they are actually prepared to discuss whether the reserved or the transferred side got the better of the retrenchment proposals. The Retrenchment Committee, in spite of the remarks of the honourable member who recently spoke (Dr. Gilder), took its functions seriously. Dr. Gilder must have his little joke; let us be content to leave it at that. The Retrenchment Committee took its functions more seriously than the honourable member Dr. Gilder takes this House. Not one single member raised the question of transferred or reserved departments in the Retrenchment Committee. Every department of Government came under equal scrutiny, whether reserved or transferred. We are to-day facing a situation when the revenue is nearly 2 crores less than it was when the constitution came in which established diarchy. That is the fact which we have to consider. We have to meet a deficit of 73 lakhs. At least 50 lakhs out of the retrenchment that has been effected will have to go back within the course of the next year or two. We have postponed the redemption of debt we owe to the Provincial Loans Fund. By no stretch of imagination are you going to be able to fill this gap by further retrenchment. I have studied the finances of this Presidency for 8 years. If there is any one of you who has any faith in my judgment (other than the honourable member Dr. Gilder), I ask him to believe that what I say is the truth—any one who still goes away with the idea that Government have not put their backs into retrenchment is living in a fool's paradise. There is only one issue left for us to-day, that is, whether you are going to live on borrowing to meet current expenditure or whether you are going to try to cover up the gap. Let us borrow just once again, says my honourable friend from Dharwar (Mr. Jog). I wonder if my friend knows the little story of the serving maid who produced a baby and asked for forgiveness, "because it was such a little thing." This little thing is going to cost us 15 lakhs annually debitable to future revenue. For further deficits, if you fail to cover them now, are going to cost something in addition, which may be as much as 10 lakhs for every additional budget. Where are you going to get it from? Whom is the rejection of this Bill going to benefit? Consider it again from that point of view. Is it going to benefit you to put this additional burden on the annual revenue? I little thought when I warned the House the other day against the danger of using economic expressions like "per capita incidence" and "taxable capacity," that we were going to have so early an illustration, in the fallacious way in which they have been used this evening by my honourable friend from Surat (Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik). It is dangerous—I say with all respect for the studies of my honourable friend—it is dangerous to apply per capita statistics in a way they were never meant to be applied. It may mean nothing at all. As I said the other day, "per capita income" may mean nothing at all where the conditions of the population vary so greatly. If "per capita income" means nothing, then "taxable capacity" in the same way may mean nothing. We are not proposing to tax a man who is living on the margin of subsistence.

[Mr. G. Wiles]

I am sorry, Sir, if I have been depressing; I am not going on any longer. I only wish to ask the House to take themselves seriously and act, in what I may call, the way of a sensible man. We may, in fact we must, lay our hopes for future development on revision of the provincial settlement. But, in the meanwhile, we must, in my opinion, do our utmost, as I said the other day, to put our house in order and prevent the piling up of debt. Let us be sensible men and refer this taxation Bill to a select committee and discuss it in detail when it comes back.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The amendments moved are:

In Part I, after sub-clause (2) of clause 2, insert the following:—

"(3) This section and sections 3 to 15 containing Parts II, III and IV shall remain in operation for one year from the date on which this Act comes into force."

In Part II—Electricity Duty—to clause 4 (c) add the words "and includes any person who has obtained the sanction of the Local Government under section 28 of that Act."

The third is a consequential amendment, I suppose.

In Part II, in sub-clause (2) of clause 6, for the word "him" where it occurs for the second time, substitute the words "a licensee."

(After recess.)

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District): Sir, at the outset I must say that I have very carefully listened to the thunders of the honourable member the Deputy President. I only need tell this House that I have been in this House as many years as the honourable member the Deputy President. I hope I will not be springing any surprise on this House if I say that I am going to support the Bill. It is not because I am misled by honourable members on this side or by any member from the Government benches, but because I have got the courage of my convictions. It is not because I want to flatter this side or that side, but because I am quite competent to convince my constituents that this time at least Government have made out a case particularly for the present Finance Bill.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

Sir, before I deal with the Bill, I want to make one or two preliminary observations. I found a particular kind of opposition, principally on the ground that the form given to the Finance Bill is rather misleading. I tried to find out what sort of opposition it must be. I have thought over it and I am compelled to say that I must characterise that kind of opposition as mean and self-seeking. When I say this, I should like to make myself clear. It must be in the minds of several honourable members that if the Court-fees Bill and the Stamp Bill had been brought forward separately, the Bombay members would have been only too glad to put them on the shoulders of the mofussil people. [An Honourable Member: "Not at all."] I have observed a tendency mostly on the part of the Bombay members to give support to the Finance Bill but for the inclusion of the Electricity Bill. Therefore, when objection is taken to the form of the Bill, I can only represent that opposition as mean and self-seeking. The Bombay people do not want to tax themselves—

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Sir, I rise to a point of order. Can the honourable member call the opposition mean and self-seeking?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The words "mean and self-seeking" as applied to a particular section of the House are unparliamentary. The honourable member probably intends to refer to "selfish methods of legislation."

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: Yes, Sir.

Honourable MEMBERS: Withdraw!

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: I am quite prepared to bow to the ruling of the Chair. As those words are considered objectionable, I do withdraw them. What I wanted to convey to the House was this, that the opposition was not based on any practical grounds. On the contrary, I should like to thank the Honourable the Finance Member for bringing forward the Bill in this form—I hope no motives will be attributed to me—because I believe that it is the proper form in which any taxation Bill should be brought forward. I hope Government have no mean intention of setting one section of the House against another in giving this Finance Bill the present form. I take it as an approach to Parliamentary practice. I do not wish to have each and every Bill brought forward separately; my reason is that by this method we shall learn what is called sense of joint responsibility. The point on which we have, first of all, to make up our minds is whether we should vote further taxation for Government. We should not argue that if the first part was not there, we would have very gladly supported the other parts, or if the other parts were not there, we would have very willingly supported the first part. That is not the way in which a taxation Bill should be considered. It must be considered on its own merits. If we find that there is no necessity for voting fresh taxation we should be bold enough to make up our minds and say that we will reject the Finance Bill in toto. Therefore, I say, personally, so far as I am concerned, I have not the least objection to the form in which the Finance Bill has been brought forward. On the contrary, I do think that this is the proper form in which all taxation Bills should be brought forward in future, so that every section of the House will feel a sense of joint responsibility.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

Sir, I have heard several objections against the Electricity Bill, mostly coming from the Bombay members. I have also read in the Press many objections raised against this Electricity Bill. One of the observations made by the Times of India is that it will go as a classical example of unjust impost. I do not know what it means. The language is striking enough, but it has no sense for me. When I read it for the first time, I did think to myself that this particular criticism must be regarded with the seriousness it deserved, and I thought that it was really a piece of disinterested criticism. But when I read in some papers that one of the staff connected with the Times of India was in the pay of some electric companies, when I got that information, I absolutely ceased to give any importance to that kind of criticism.

The second criticism is this, that this impost on electricity—if I may use that word—is inequitable, for the simple reason, it is said, that it singles out a particular class of persons for a levy. I do understand the force of that argument, but I must tell this House that if the system of taxation in India is closely examined, it will be found that each and every tax is inequitable in one sense or the other. It is exactly to remove that kind of inequity that I welcome this Electricity Bill.

Sir, it is suggested that if this tax is imposed on electrical energy there will be reversion to the use of kerosene oil. I consider this a ridiculous suggestion, and I do not know whether I should take it seriously at all. I do not know if I am accurate, but I think that so far as Bombay is concerned, the rate per unit of electrical energy is somewhere in the neighbourhood of four or five annas a unit. [An Honourable Member : "Four annas."] In other places like Gadag and Hubli the rate per unit is six annas.

Now, this is a duty imposed on the consumption of units. A Bombay consumer will pay, including this duty, 4½ annas per unit, whereas the Gadag consumer or the Hubli consumer will be paying 6½ annas. So the Bombay consumers have decidedly got an advantage over the Gadag or Hubli consumers. It is obvious enough to any man of sense. Are we, Sir, seriously to believe that because of the increase of half an anna per unit, the man living in the city will forgo the brilliant light of electricity? Are we to believe that as soon as he is required to pay this surcharge, he would be compelled to go in for the use of kerosene oil? I for one am not prepared to take any such statement seriously.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

Now let us take the case of the poorer man. We shall not consider the case of the richer man. It is said that the electricity bill of the middle class man comes to somewhere between Rs. 4 and Rs. 5. That means he is consuming about 12 or 13 units, so that the addition to his domestic budget would be 6 annas per month. For the sake of this amount of 6 annas per month, I do not think there is any man in the city who would like to forgo the pleasure and beauty of the electric light. It was rightly pointed out by my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham that the duty on kerosene oil is sufficiently high. The poorest of the poor living in the villages have got to pay this duty. They have not grumbled against this duty. I do not know why this kind of duty should be seriously objected to by Bombay members one after another in quick succession. I do not understand the significance of the objection at all, and particularly when it was coupled with the expression of view that if this part was not there, they would have seen their way to vote for the other parts. When I consider these two together, I do not take them seriously at all. They did not mean what they said.

It was suggested by my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham that this tax is a tax on progress, meaning that this industry is in its infancy and that if this heavy duty is levied upon that industry, very probably the whole industry would be crushed. I challenge any honourable member to prove that this tax is going to kill the industry. Of course, the Honourable the Revenue Member was rather guarded in his speech, but I for one would challenge my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham if he can show next year that this industry had been killed. I do not think that this duty of half an anna is going to kill the industry. I fail to understand how this can kill the industry. On the contrary, we are told that there are heaps of applications under the consideration of Government. I also know there is a good deal of competition. So many people want to start this industry in towns like Belgaum and other places. Not only that, but there is regular competition. If one man says that he is willing to supply electrical energy at 6 annas, another says he is willing to supply it at 5 annas. When this is the position, I do not think this argument that it is a tax on progress and therefore is going to kill the industry, is convincing at all.

We, Sir, who have been using smoky and dingy lamps are really paying a higher duty than the city people. They have all the comforts of beautiful light, and yet we do not grumble and there is no reason why the people of cities should grumble at this small tax. Again, you know, Sir, that the average earnings of a city man are decidedly greater than those of a village man——

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA: What about expenditure?

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: I do not know that. I have not inspected his domestic budget. I only know that the average earnings of the city man are greater than those of a village man. I do not think, therefore, that there is any case for grumbling on the part of Bombay citizens. I know the honourable members from Bombay are going to support this. All the same, the observations which they made were not satisfactory.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

For these reasons I consider that the Electricity Bill is a satisfactory Bill. It is not that I try to discriminate against the interests of the people of the city. Not in the least. I have no such intention. I do not wish to draw invidious distinction between the interests of the villager and those of the city people. But I am trying to understand the whole question on its own merits, and therefore I do not in the least feel that there is any violation of the recognised canons of taxation, for this source has been rightly picked out for giving some revenue to Government.

Now, Sir, I come to speak about the necessity of this Finance Bill. When several honourable members spoke about its necessity, many of them pointed out that there was no necessity, that Government had already borrowed and might possibly borrow even hereafter. That was one of the arguments advanced to show that there was no necessity for bringing in this Finance Bill. The second objection was this. The honourable member the Finance Secretary is going to Delhi and a new settlement will be arrived at and that will solve the difficulties of the Government of Bombay. So far as borrowing is concerned, it was suggested that borrowing was bad policy to meet the current expenses of Government. Another honourable member suggested that if the Government had borrowed in the past, why should they not borrow this time also to meet the deficit? Of course, it is true that in the current year we had a large deficit of 111 lakhs and next year we are going to have a deficit of 73 lakhs. But Government have already borrowed a large part of this. But the argument against borrowing is this: we must decide whether it is desirable or advisable to go on borrowing and piling up debt. Is it desirable that our ordinary revenues should be burdened with interest charges? Is it desirable? It is true that a large part of the deficit is being met by borrowing. Now I put it the other way. Suppose Government had borrowed the whole amount, would it not have simply added to the interest charges? Of course, it is not that it is not known that borrowing is bad policy. Suppose Government had brought forward a finance bill to meet all their deficits amounting to 184 lakhs, by means of additional taxation. Would this House seriously believe that this kind of Bill would have been supported by us? Or is it possible for the people to bear that heavy taxation? When this is the position, I do see the force of the contention that a large portion of the deficit must be met by borrowing, but it is also reasonable that the whole deficit must not be met by borrowing, if we can possibly avoid it, for the simple reason that it is not a good policy, not a businesslike proposition, to go on adding to the interest charges. The honourable member the Finance Secretary told us that we have got to pay additional interest charges of 15 lakhs a year. That means that we are to pay this amount out of our ordinary revenue. This sum of 15 lakhs is not a small amount. Giving away this amount means that we should starve many of our departments, particularly the nation-building departments, because we are seriously told that there cannot be any reduction in the police department, and so on, and that is because the maintenance of law and order is necessary. The only cuts therefore would be in other departments, in which we do not want any reduction at all. Under these circumstances, I do not think it is wise policy to ask the Government to meet all their deficits by borrowing.

[Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi]

Another suggestion which strikes me is this. I do not know how the House will take it. We are on the eve of provincial autonomy and here is a finance Bill—of course it is objectionable in certain respects—I am for it with certain objectionable features taken out—here is a financial Bill which does not violate the recognised canons of taxation. The question is whether we should support it or not. I think it is far better to share the odium of this taxation with the Government rather than share it ourselves in the future constitution. It is better that the financial house of the Presidency is set in order as quickly as possible and that is in the best interests of the Bombay Presidency itself.

As regards the settlement, I do not know whether it can come into operation immediately as soon as the Finance Secretary goes to Delhi and puts forward the case. It will have to take shape. That means some time, and unless that settlement is brought into operation, our finances will not improve and we cannot wait till then. And so, I say, apart from the settlement—I hope it will be a very practical settlement—I hope our needs will be considered—that we should have additional taxation.

Again, it was pointed out that the attempt on the part of Government to exclude certain companies like the tramways is not good policy. I quite agree with that view. The honourable member the Finance Secretary has pointed out that it is no use levying any duty on tramways. I do not think that the duty is going to fall on the passengers. It was pointed out that this company is very much flourishing and is able to distribute good dividends among its shareholders, and there is no reason why particularly such companies should come under the operation of the exclusion clause.

I want to say a few words as regards the Court-fees and Stamp Acts. It was said that there was no attempt on the part of Government to put a burden on poor people, but that the attempt was to put burden on broad shoulders. I have not studied these two bills in all their details, but I think there must be some objectionable features which do affect the poor man. We are, however, told by Government that we are at liberty to take out all such objectionable features which would particularly hit the agriculturist, and with that pruning, I think we ought to be satisfied. If we do find that we have been imposing a burden upon weak shoulders, then of course we are at liberty to take it out at the stage of select committee.

An Honourable MEMBER: Is there any such assurance?

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: I am asked whether there is any such assurance on the part of Government. The Honourable the Leader of the House made it very clear, and I think the Finance Secretary also made it very clear, that such pruning could go on to any length. When Government have frankly said like this, I do not think we should seriously object to this Bill getting on to the stage of the select committee.

Once again I would like to say this, that the cut in the Educational Department, however much it may be justified, was not liked by this part of the House. I know it was pointed out by the Honourable the Leader of the House that the cut was only Rs. 20,00,000. It is a good deal more than that. For the next year it is going to be Rs. 27,00,000, but if that figure is compared with previous years' figures, the cut comes to a much larger figure than that. It is true that there has been a cut in the salaries of all departments. I do not know whether by this reduced grant Government wish that there should be a cut in the salaries of teachers of all grades. There are teachers getting Rs. 20, there are teachers getting Rs. 30, there are teachers getting Rs. 50 a month and so on. There are teachers of various grades. I do not know whether by this cut Government are compelling the local authorities to have a uniform cut in the salaries of all teachers irrespective of their pay. If that were done, it would really be a bad thing indeed. I can understand a cut being made in the salaries of teachers drawing more than Rs.40 per month. But if you make it a uniform rule, and if even a teacher getting Rs. 20 a month must have his salary cut, it would be a great hardship. That point has to be considered. Therefore, I say, supposing Government are fortunate enough to get this additional revenue of Rs. 28,00,000 or whatever it is, then I do want to put before Government whether they do not think it necessary to give a part of that to the Educational Department, a department particularly for which we feel very much, and a cut in which has pained most of us. Again, Sir, is it a wise policy to keep the masses in ignorance? Is it not in the interest both of the people as well as of the Government themselves that the masses should be educated? Do we want these riots and bloodshed? What are they due to? I ascribe them directly to the ignorance of the masses. Owing to their ignorance, religious animosities are easily roused, when any one tells them something particularly with regard to religion. Are you going to keep them in ignorance? I say it is a dangerous policy, and Government should not do it. I hope out of the additional revenue which Government may get, they will set apart a portion in order to meet the needs of education. With these remarks, I support the first reading of the Bill.

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Sir, when the honourable member the Finance Secretary spoke last Friday on the budget and gave the figure of 5 annas as the contribution to the provincial revenues by the citizen of Bombay, I sincerely hoped that it was not his intention to set up the Presidency against Bombay city. I was afraid then, and I now realise that my fear was correct; that it has created a wrong impression on the minds of honourable members coming from the rest of the province that Bombay is not contributing enough to the coffers of the province. Sir, the honourable member the Finance Secretary said that a citizen of Bombay was paying Rs. 46-5-0 as annual taxation, out of which Rs. 15 went to the Government of India, only 5 annas to the Government of Bombay and Rs. 31 to the municipality. As regards the incidence of municipal taxation in the city of Bombay, I have got here the administration report of the municipality of Bombay for the year 1929-30, and it says that the incidence of taxation per head was about Rs. 21-5-0, and not Rs. 31 as my honourable friend the Finance Secretary mentioned the other day.

[Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola]

Now, Sir, what is Bombay contributing to the provincial revenues? In reply to a question asked in this House, the then Revenue Member, the Honourable Sir Louis Rieu, stated that the provincial revenue collected in the city of Bombay was Rs. 2,92,00,000. I am giving his official figure. Now, Sir, the population of Bombay is about 11,50,000. Therefore, the incidence of provincial taxation comes to over Rs. 25 per head, and not 5 annas. The population of the province is about 2,00,00,000, the revenue is Rs. 15,00,00,000; therefore the incidence of taxation per capita of the province as a whole comes to Rs. 7-8-0, whereas the incidence of provincial taxation in the city of Bombay comes to about Rs. 25. Sir, Prof. K. T. Shah, in his book on the Constitution, Functions and Finance of Indian Municipalities says that the per capita taxation for the citizen of Bombay comes to about Rs. 150, including central, provincial, and local, whereas in Calcutta it is only Rs. 50 and in Madras Rs. 25. Sir, this is what the citizen of Bombay pays to the State, and not so little as it is made out to be.

But Sir, what I strongly object to and what I strongly deprecate is the attempt to set up one part of the province against another, Bombay against the rest of the province, cities against districts, one community against another, Hindus against Mussalmans, Europeans against Indians, and so on. I most strongly deprecate this policy and most strongly deplore it. I hope every proposal that is brought before this House will be considered on its merits as affecting the whole of the province, and not any particular group or any particular part of the Presidency.

Sir, I am strongly of opinion that the Government of Bombay have not taken their financial position seriously. If they had been forewarned for the last few years, they would have tried to set their house in order, and not allowed the financial condition to drag on, as they have done up to now. Sir, there was nothing which the retrenchment committee suggested which could not have been done by the Government themselves, if they had seriously wanted to do it. They are only now going to effect retrenchment. For the current year and for the last year they have carried on with deficit budgets and borrowed money. Whatever was pointed out by the retrenchment committee could have been done by themselves. I say, Sir, again, if the Government had taken their position seriously, we would not have been in the sorry plight in which we are today. The 6 per cent. cut suggested by the retrenchment committee in the beginning of last year was not even given effect to by the Government departments. Now, of course, they are ready to effect larger cuts. But why could they not do it last year? The position of Government finances last year was very bad, and there were no good chances of improvement. The same was the condition the year before. Revenues were falling down, and still Government went on spending merrily without cutting down their expenses. The same thing is happening this year, and now, when their hands have been tied down, when this House has repeatedly refused to give them fresh taxation, they have come forward, and that also on the recommendation of the retrenchment committee, with cuts in the next year's budget.

[Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola]

Sir, coming to the bill, I am not looking at it either from the point of view of Bombay or from the point of view of the districts. I am looking at it from the point of view of the province as a whole. I consider the increases suggested in the court-fees bill to be high. It is said that these rates are prevailing in other provinces. I do not know. That may be so. But is that any reason why Bombay should raise its rates to this high extent, especially in these times of depression? As regards stamps, I do not want to go into the details of each and every item, but I may point out that in any forward transaction which takes place, when a sale and a purchase takes place—that is only one transaction—the Government duty has to be paid four times; between two brokers twice; then between broker and buyer; then between broker and seller. In one transaction of buying and selling the duty has to be paid four times. This is a new sort of taxation that is sought to be imposed.

I do not want to deal fully with the remarks of my honourable friend who preceded me, I mean Rao Bahadur Angadi. But I want to point out, as regards the duty on electricity, that it will fall in the city of Bombay on everybody, rich, middle class and poor. Even the poor are using electric light, and it would be a heavy burden on them, and it would be a burden especially in these hard times. May I point out that it will especially be a blow to new electric companies? The levying of this duty will check the spread of electricity into the districts. Some honourable member said that electricity is used only in the cities and not in the villages. It first started in Bombay. It has been in Bombay for the last quarter of a century. Gradually it has been spreading into the different districts of the province, and it will now go into the villages. Taxation of electricity at this stage will prevent electricity and the benefits of electric lights going into the villages.

Sir, the Honourable the Finance Member, by consolidating all the proposals into one bill, has put us in an awkward position. Some honourable members may be for refusing all taxation to Government; some may be for refusing only the increased taxation. Some may be in favour of one part, in a modified form; others may be in favour of other parts. But the whole thing being jumbled up together, the honourable members are placed in an awkward position.

Sir, I do not want to take much time of the House, because most of the arguments have already been used. But I would request the honourable House and each and every honourable member not to consider the proposals from their personal point of view, or from the point of view of the group which they represent and that point of view alone, but consider all the proposals from the point of view of the whole province and the whole province only.

[Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola]

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL (East Khandesh District): Mr. President, I have listened with great attention and interest to the various speeches delivered by the honourable members of this House. Sir, to accept taxation is an unpleasant task, and whenever a member has to give his consent or withhold the same for any taxation proposals brought forward by Government, naturally one is guided by the attitude of his constituency, and one feels that if we accept proposals of extra taxation, perhaps our voters will raise a hue and cry against us, and perhaps at the next election we shall not be returned. That is the fear of some honourable members of this House. It is not quite unnatural. My opinion is that when we want to give our opinions with regard to the taxation proposals we must really see whether by giving our consent for those proposals we are safeguarding the interests of our constituency. That should be the prominent consideration in the mind of each and every member. I am looking at these bills from that point of view. The honourable member Mr. Rahimtoola said that we must not only guard the interests of our constituency, but also we must look to the interests of all people living in villages as well as in towns. I entirely agree with him. When we look at this consolidated bill, I think it is the duty of every honourable member to see that the interests of all the people concerned are properly safeguarded. Take for instance the electricity bill. I know there are members from Bombay who have criticised certain provisions. I think these provisions must be carefully looked into and when we find that in certain provisions of the electricity bill the interests of the poor people in the city are not safeguarded and they are not in a position to bear the burden of taxation, it is the bounden duty of every honourable member to support that contention of the people coming from the city of Bombay.

When we come to the provisions of the court-fees and stamp duty bills, we have to see that the burden of this extra taxation does not fall on the poor people in such a way as to hit them hard. Take the case of the agriculturists. I may say that in the mofussil courts agriculturists are generally the defendants. I have got experience as pleader for the last 20 years. According to my experience, out of 100 cases in 80 cases the agriculturists happen to be defendants. I may say clearly that the provisions of the court-fees bill as they stand at present cannot be accepted in the interest of the agriculturists. My honourable friend the Leader of the House said that the provisions are such that the agriculturists would not suffer. To that my honourable friend the Deputy President replied and that reply is that the cost will fall upon the shoulders of the defendants who are in the majority of cases agriculturists. I agree with this view of the Deputy President. Sir, it is our duty to safeguard the interests of the agriculturists. In the same way, we should see what provisions in the stamp duty bill are detrimental to their interests. Before going into the clauses I should like to say that Government, as they said, have done their best in the matter of retrenchment and they are doing their best again in that direction. Now, Government have appointed an expert committee. [An Honourable Member: They are going to appoint.] I think Government will have necessarily to appoint that committee. The name of the chairman of the committee has been announced. Only the names of the members have to be announced. So far as I think, Government have done their best so far as retrenchment is concerned. When Government are seriously considering the question of retrenchment, our duty is to help Government after seeing that the taxes that are proposed are such as do not fall on the shoulders of the poor people. I think we have a duty to Government and also to the voters for whom we have come here. Government has said, "We want your co-operation." We say, "We are here for co-operation." May I submit to Government that when honourable members on this side extend their co-operation to Government as asked for, they must also in their turn consider the views of the honourable members in respect of certain provisions which will really be hard on the poor people? It has been said by the Honourable the Leader of the House and the Honourable the Finance Member that it is quite open to all members to attack any provisions in the bill at the select committee. When that is the position, if we find that certain provisions are harmful to the agriculturists or rather very hard in their interests, I think it is quite open to us honourable members of this House to oppose these particular clauses. Now, it has been stated by the honourable member the Deputy President that we must not be misled by certain statements made by certain honourable members and that we must understand the bill in its proper light. In that connection I agree with him, but I know that none made any statement that is misleading. If we find that the bill is not reformed by the select committee in such a way as to protect the interests of the agriculturists, we must oppose the bill tooth and nail at the second reading. My view is that we can safeguard the interests of the agriculturists by moving certain amendments to the bill in the select committee, when it goes to that committee; and even supposing that the select committee reform the bill in such a way that the interests of the agriculturists are not safeguarded, it is open to honourable members to oppose objectionable clauses at the second reading. My honourable friend the Deputy President knows it. He wants to safeguard the interests of the agriculturists. I also want to do the same. I am sorry to differ from his view that the interests of the people cannot be safeguarded by reforming the bill in respect of certain provisions. If we find that we cannot reform the bill as we desire, I think it will be quite open to us to oppose the bill even at the second reading. Government have given us an assurance that every opportunity will be given in the select committee to reform the various clauses. Government have also declared that if we do not approve of particular clauses as approved by the select committee, we can oppose those clauses. The Honourable the President has rightly said that it is open to all the members of the House to oppose and throw out any clause at the second reading. In this way we can neutralise the effect of the whole bill. Government want our co-operation and we want to give our co-operation. After extending our co-operation if we find that Government are unreasonable, then we can have our own way to safeguard the interests of the agriculturists. It seems to me that the attitude of Government is reasonable. It is, therefore, the duty of every honourable member at least to pass the first reading of this Bill.

[Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil]

[Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil]

Now, I may bring to the notice of the Honourable the Finance Member certain provisions. I do not want to deal with the various clauses, but I shall just bring to his notice one fact—one clause of the Court-fees Bill. According to the present law the court-fee up to Rs. 5,000 is Rs. 275. Now, that fee has been increased to Rs. 375. Sir, that is an increase by Rs. 100. I may say that in the mofussil courts there are so many suits up to Rs. 5,000. In these cases a very large majority of the defendants happen to be the agriculturists. We must give concessions to them up to a reasonable scale. Unless and until that relief is given, we shall not be willing to allow this Bill to be put on the statute book. There are other provisions which can be attacked, but I do not intend to refer to them now. When we find that the attitude of Government is reasonable, that every opportunity will be given in the select committee to amend the provisions, there is no other alternative except to support the first reading of this Bill.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University): Sir, we have been told that these are money Bills and the Government have this year adopted a novel but a legal procedure by consolidating all the proposals to raise the necessary amount of money into one Bill. This is on the analogy of the finance Bill in the Assembly and the House of Commons. But, Sir, may I just ask why the period of one year which has now been suggested by the amendment was not put in the Bill itself? If the intention from the beginning was to make this a merely finance Bill to make provisions for the next year's budget, the operation of the Bill ought to have been confined to one year only. It was stated by the honourable member the Finance Secretary that the House had been in the past observing the practice of allowing the Bill for one year and that this practice is followed this year. If we look back to the year 1922, a situation similar to the situation that has now arisen had come into existence. Government said that they were helpless and they could not make both ends meet. They wanted some breathing time. So, the Court-fees and the Stamp Amendment Bills were brought and sought to be put on the statute book permanently. It was this side of the House that insisted that they would not allow those provisions to remain on the statute book permanently, but they would be prepared to give breathing time provided they took steps to appoint a retrenchment committee and overhaul the whole administration and adjust their expenditure to their income. It was under these circumstances that the life of these two Bills came to be restricted from year to year. But, what was the result? Has any attempt been made to effect retrenchment permanently? All kinds of recommendations made by the recent retrenchment committee were confined to one year and when they wanted to continue and make permanent retrenchments, they were not allowed to do so.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

The honourable member Dr. Gilder was not wrong when he said that the Retrenchment Committee was treated in a very unsatisfactory manner. Government dissolved the Committee. The Retrenchment Committee had issued a questionnaire recently and I myself had sent a reply. I was not called and on enquiry I came to know that the Retrenchment Committee had closed its shop. There the matter ended. My point is this: we are aware of the state of things that have gone on for the last 10 years; and feel that the hands of the Government have not been sufficiently forced to undertake retrenchment of a permanent nature.

I now come to the Court-fees Bill. I shall deal with the question as to how the situation should be met later on. But in the beginning let me put before the House certain aspects of this Bill. It was pointed out in the year 1922 that when raising the court-fees on suits brought in the mofussil courts, the institution fees paid on suits should be made applicable to the original side of the High Court also. That point was debated then, and so far as my opinion is concerned, I do still think and do still maintain that this Council has got the power to amend the Court-fees Act so as to bring the original side of the High Court under its provisions. When you have been able to amend the probate duties, which are governed by the Court-fees Act, so as to affect the High Court, I do not see what objection there can be to extending the institution fees to the original side of the High Court so as to affect a large number of claims for lakhs and lakhs which are now brought there without paying any institution fee. I am confirmed in my opinion by the observations of the Taxation Enquiry Committee. The Taxation Enquiry Committee was appointed by the Government of India in order to find out new sources of revenue. In one of their recommendations they have distinctly referred to this matter (Paragraph 347, page 257):

"While uniformity is desirable generally, there is one case in which the lack of it is a subject for remark, and that is the case of the three Chartered High Courts. While the Court-fees Act applies to all other courts in India as well as to the appellate sides of the three Chartered High Courts, in respect of suits on the original side these three courts constitute, as it were, imperia in imperio, exercising taxing powers irrespective of the legislature. Not only do the fees levied by them differ from those levied in mofussil courts and in other High Courts, but those levied in one Chartered High Court differ from those levied in another."

One of the arguments used against the extension of the institution fees to the original side of the High Court was that although there were no institution fees on the original side of the High Court, the High Court in the exercise of its own jurisdiction had laid down some rules for collecting process and other fees and they made up for the absence of the institution fee. That argument was as a matter of fact used on the floor of this House in the year 1922. But this is what the report of the Taxation Enquiry Committee says:

"Nevertheless, an actual comparison of the court-fees paid on the original side of two High Courts in a few typical cases shows that the total sum paid is considerably less than the amount levied under the Court-fees Act in the mofussil courts."

That shows that the fees which have been paid by way of process and other fees are very small as compared with the institution fees in the mofussil courts which are rated at 7½ per cent. and that percentage has been increased. I know that it is stated that it is a doubtful point whether this Government has got power to extend the operation of the Act to the institution fees on the original side of the High Court, but my submission is that ten years have elapsed since Sir Chimanlal Setalvad, who was then the Member in Charge, expressed that doubt. Even at that time, Sir Thomas Strangman stated that there could be no objection to extending the institution fees in the same way as the probate duties were being extended. If there was any doubt, have Government made any attempt to get that cleared? The honourable member the Finance Secretary told us that the Court-fees Act was first enacted sixty years ago. May I point out that the Letters Patent were enacted sixty-five years ago? Then, why not amend the Letters Patent? Supposing the power is in the High Court and supposing there is a technical objection to this legislature interfering with that, why not get the Letters Patent amended? The Letters Patent have been amended in other respects, and there was certainly no objection then. I want to ask the Honourable the Finance Member—who also happens to be a lawyer from the mofussil and happens to be acquainted with the disparity between the court-fees levied in the mofussil and those levied in the High Court—I want to ask him whether any effort has been made in this direction. As I have stated many times in this Council, I feel that the court-fees should be equalised for all courts. At present the burden falls only on the mofussil courts and not at all on the original side of the High Court. Here is an instance where an effort should have been made by those who are responsible for collecting taxes to tackle a new source of revenue.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

Coming now to the stamp duties, increased duties are sought to be imposed on futures. What does the Taxation Enquiry Committee say in regard to this? That Committee had been asked to find out whether the stamp duty as then levied operated as a heavy tax. At the end of their report they point out which tax operates harshly and which not, and among the taxes which are said to operate harshly they include stamp duties. They enumerate one after another the taxes which operate harshly.

"The third place they would give to non-judicial stamps. More than one Finance Member has admitted that the rates in India are much higher, comparatively speaking, than those in England, but have maintained them for reasons of revenue. If and when these reasons permit, it seems to the Committee that effect should be given to their recommendation for a revision of the schedule in the direction of reduction, especially in relation to documents such as bonds and agreements."

That is what is stated generally with regard to the stamp duties. There is also a statement that the taxation of futures is not the proper remedy. I do not find the reference, but there is a statement with regard to the futures——

Mr. G. WILES: Paragraph 306.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: It is paragraph 309.

Mr. G. WILES: Please read paragraph 306 first.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The remarks about the proposed taxation of futures are contained in paragraph 309:

"The Committee have examined the proposals made for the taxation of futures, and it seems to them that it would be not only practically impossible, but on other grounds undesirable, to recognise these gambling transactions and to attempt to secure a revenue from them. The better solution appears to be to continue action on the lines already initiated for repressing gambling transactions and giving statutory recognition to associations which undertake the control of the legitimate business."

They want to put it on the same footing as the betting tax. I am not acquainted with the procedure. The honourable member the Finance Secretary said that after some years of study he became acquainted with it.

My point is that both the Court-fees Bill and the Stamp Bill labour under the disabilities which I have pointed out. Government have not paid sufficient attention when undertaking legislation to remove the defects pointed out on former occasions.

I do not propose to say anything about the merits or demerits of the electricity tax. I think much has been said on that point for the House to judge for itself. One observation appeals to me, coming as it does from the honourable member Mr. Hoosenally Rahimtoola, namely, that it is a tax which does fall on the poor people even in Bombay City, not to speak of the poor people of the mofussil. One of the honourable members said—I think it was the Honourable the Revenue Member—what does it matter if two pice or four pice are levied? To a man who earns only Rs. 20 a month or 12 annas a day, it does mean much. We have to place ourselves in the position of the workman. We should not regard him as we regard the middle classes or the richer classes. Even one anna or half an anna per month is much to a poor man. So, that tax also will fall on the poor people, apart from its being a hindrance to the development of a new industry. I quite agree with the observation made that, so far as Bombay Presidency is concerned, electricity is only just coming into vogue: other presidencies are far ahead of us. Therefore, the tax will, if not kill the industry, at least discourage it. One honourable member to my left (Rao Bahadur S. N. Angadi) said that there are competitors coming forward and saying, "If the others are willing to sell a unit for six annas, we will sell at four annas." That may be so. But we have the instance of the motor-bus services before us. They reduce the rates for competition from one anna to half an anna per mile, but at the end of the year lose everything. They invest their money and get ruined. They ruin themselves and ruin the industry. These instances do not prove that the tax will not affect the industry. You have to consider the case from another angle of vision.

After having dealt with these points, I now come to the necessity of this measure. I do not wish to detain the House long. I can certainly sympathise with the Honourable the Finance Member and the Finance Department as a whole on their having landed themselves into a very deplorable plight. We do acknowledge that it is difficult for any Finance Member, whether he be the present Finance Member or some previous Finance Member, to extricate himself from this plight. But, here again, I have to ask whether we at this stage should be prepared to support the taxation every time you come to us with finance bills unless and until we are satisfied that real reform has been carried out with a view to effect some permanent retrenchment. My submission is, so far as I can think, this has not been done. I only take the question of salaries. The honourable member the Finance Secretary found fault with my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Naik for dealing with the income per head of the population and comparing it with the cost of living. Apart from the consideration whether the condition of the ryot is such that he is unable to bear this further taxation, I appeal to him to consider whether the rate of salaries in this country bears the same proportion to the per capita income of the population as it bears in other countries. From that point the honourable member Rao Bahadur Naik's reference to the per capita income is perfectly relevant. I think I told the Honourable the Finance Member that a pamphlet has recently been published under the auspices of the Servants of India Society dealing with the question of salaries. I hope he has studied it by now. If he has not studied it, then I need not dilate on that point. We are on the eve of important constitutional changes. You are handing over to the people their own government. Is it not up to you, I ask, to do it in such a way that your successors will not be placed in an embarrassing position? Are you not bound to do what you can to enable the future government to adjust itself to the resources that are available to it? I have oftentimes said that I am not for cutting down the salaries of those persons who are at present in service and who are earning the present salaries. Ten years have passed. Even now if you had proceeded to lay down a certain scale giving the rates of pay which are consistent with the financial position of this Presidency, there would have been some justification for us to think that some serious effort is being made to tackle this problem, because I find that this is a condition precedent to the putting of our finances on a safe basis. Take for instance the cut of 10 per cent. I do give credit to those honourable members and other Government servants who have submitted themselves to this cut. But, Sir, this cut affects all alike. It affects a man who earns Rs. 5,000 just as it affects a man who earns Rs. 200. It has been pointed out in criticism that income tax has been increased for incomes exceeding Rs. 2,000. But now the income tax level has been brought down to Rs. 1,000. Is it not then that the even rate of percentage cut tells heavily on the lower paid people and not on the people who earn more? Again, those who pay the income tax are placed in an advantageous position because the cut is reduced by the amount of the tax, while the full 10 per cent. falls on those who do not pay the income tax. The cut thus acts in an inequitable manner, the high salaried man having to bear only a 7 per cent. or even lower cut and not the full 10 per cent. cut.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

The question of salaries was discussed on the motion of my honourable friend Mr. Jog. He had suggested a graduated scale of reduction. We had discussions and we gave expression to our views, with the result that the motion was withdrawn because a motion of that kind was intended to offer suggestions for the purpose of effecting retrenchment. I ask, has any effort been made in that direction, to lay down any such scale for future entrants at least? Now that the foreign agency is gradually to be eliminated and Indians are to be admitted more and more—they have been admitted before and will be admitted in greater numbers—is it not the duty of this Government to revise their ideas of the salaries which are based on the standards which prevailed in early years, when the standard set up by the All-India Services was adopted in relation to the high rates with regard to the provincial services? The whole position has been reviewed in the pamphlet which I have referred to just now, and I appeal to the Honourable the Finance Member to study that pamphlet. It is full of statistics and information. Nothing is given as an opinion of the author, but he has made every attempt to support his views by quotations and by statistics. I ask, is it not proper that we, on this side of the House, should be entitled to have some policy declared before we are asked to submit to this taxation?

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

Then I refer to the reduction of the size of the Cabinet. His Excellency the Governor was pleased to announce in his speech to this House that the reduction has been decided upon with the co-operation of the present members of the Cabinet. We are certainly much obliged to them for having decided to take that step, in the interests, after all, of whom? In the interests of the poor tax payers of the Presidency, because the money comes from their pockets and their pockets are now empty. After all, you are the servants of the public. You must bear that fact in mind. I repeat again that we are obliged to the members of the Cabinet for taking that decision. But then comes the announcement that it is not intended immediately to carry out that proposal. Then, what is the use of making a mere declaration on paper? I submit that the time for giving effect to that proposal has arrived now. My reasons for not giving my support to this taxation measure are that Government should resort to these measures. If you reduce the salaries of Government servants, if you reduce the size of the Cabinet, from the next year, from the first of April 1932, then whatever you are seeking to make up by this fresh taxation will be made up by adopting these measures and then there will be no need for further taxation.

We would have been prepared at this stage to consent to the extension of the Stamp and Court-fees Acts for a year more if only they were to be extended in their present form. We have been giving time to Government year after year thinking that Government would adjust their expenditure to the condition of the Presidency. But now we find that is not the case. Here is a new bill altogether increasing the court-fees. I think that the Honourable the Finance Member, when he was on this side in 1926, had himself got the court-fees reduced and the Act which is in operation now was enacted accordingly. He now wants to go back and increase the fees. It is a new bill imposing higher liabilities and not merely continuing the life of the Court-fees and Stamp Acts, and hence it is that we are in an awkward position. My own opinion is that it is not possible to revert to the continuation of the Court-fees and Stamp Acts.

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

If it were possible, we on this side would certainly have had no objection to allow Government a fresh lease of life for those Acts for one year on condition that the reduced rates would continue. But they are also enhanced rates; they are not rates prevailing in 1870 as the honourable the Finance Secretary said. He paraded the argument that the Act was enacted 60 years ago and that the times have changed now. I know that argument was of avail to him in 1922-23 when the prices had gone up. The value of the rupee then, you must remember, had risen and an agriculturist could get Rs. 10 where he used to get only Rs. 4. Naturally you were then justified in asking him to pay more. Now, Sir, the state of things has been reversed. We have come back to lower prices. The argument which was adopted in 1922 for making the people pay higher rates is certainly now against the Government, because owing to the fall in prices, if the agriculturist sells his corn, he is not able to realise even half the price. At such a time you ask the House to enhance the court-fees. I submit that that argument will not hold good.

These are the considerations which compel us to oppose the taxation proposals. This is the only power in the hands of honourable members on this side of the House. We may ask questions, we may carry resolutions, but the ultimate decision lies with Government. We cannot do anything further. This is the only time when you come to us and ask us to sanction this budget, and it is only by asserting ourselves on this occasion that we can bring pressure to bear upon the Government. We have not come to this House to obstruct the Government, as you know well. We have always offered co-operation in spite of the feeling in the country. With great difficulty we have come to this Council against the popular will. This is the only way in which we can ask you to refrain from doing certain things or undertaking to do some other things which will increase discontent. That is the reason why I think we should be really justified in opposing this Bill.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH (Hyderabad District): Sir, I think this is the first time that I get up during the course of this session to speak on a measure proposed by Government. I shall only pass a few remarks with regard to the general aspects of this measure before I touch upon the merits and demerits of the Bill.

Sir, when I went through the published speech of the Honourable the Finance Member, I came to the conclusion that the Honourable the Finance Member, though he is really an expert doctor for the curing of the diseases of the corporate body of the Government, has not ventured to suggest a real antidote which will really extirpate the disease which has affected this Government. But he has thought it advisable to suggest only palliatives which, besides being very unpalatable, will not cure the disease permanently. If he had been really an experienced doctor, he would at once have jumped upon the antidote which he has suggested but which he has not ventured to administer to us, and that is, Sir, what he has indicated in paragraphs 12 and 13 of his opening speech. I think that every sensible honourable member of this House would jump at the antidote which is the real remedy for the malady that has upset the system of this Government. May I remind him again that that is the question of separation of Sind? It was really surprising to the honourable members from Sind to see the remarkable silence and indifference displayed by this section of the House representing the Presidency with regard to this very important question which has escaped mention in the later speech of my honourable friend the Finance Member or in the speech, for the matter of that, of any honourable member in this House excepting that of my friend Rao Bahadur Argadi. He just reminds me that he has not forgotten it in spite of the muddle of deficits that we find ourselves involved in. I do not know, Sir, why honourable members representing the Presidency should not take the earliest opportunity to get rid of the mill-stone hanging round their necks. But they admit that Sind is really a mill-stone hanging round the neck of the Presidency proper, and the Sind Financial Enquiry Committee has proved it that we are parasites living on the blood of the presidency proper. I cannot understand why, in spite of that and in spite of indications from above and from below nothing is done. From the Government of His Majesty the King Emperor down to the Government of Bombay, there have been indications enough which they should take the earliest opportunity to translate into action by recording their emphatic protest against Sind continuing for a single moment more as part of the Presidency. If that is done, I remind my friends from Presidency that at one stroke you are going to get rid of the deficit, and with one wave of the magic wand you are going to obviate the necessity for imposing fresh taxation upon the shoulders of the taxpayers in the Presidency who are already, according to your own saying, overburdened. You are going to save Rs. 80,00,000 to Rs 83,00,000. There is a deficit of Rs. 73,00,000; the result is that you will have a surplus of Rs. 10,00,000 annually and this is the opportunity to do it. When we are called together by His Excellency the Viceroy, the representatives of the Presidency and the representatives of Sind, to decide how to meet the deficit of Sind, it will be for us to decide how we are going to meet our deficit and our expenditure. My honourable friend the Finance Member has not been pessimistic about it. On the other hand, he is optimistic. In the course of his speech introducing the budget he said, "There is no ground for being pessimistic regarding the ultimate ability of Sind to meet the cost of the Lloyd Barrage." So that, if our Barrage problem is solved, and my honourable friend the Finance Member has indicated that in course of time it will be and shall be solved, then our problem is solved and your problem is also solved. So, why not take that opportunity? This is the real remedy. But he does not venture to administer it. I ask you, why not? If you press upon the Government the necessity of separating Sind it will relieve you of the parasite which has been eating into your very fibres. Now, Sir, I was going to introduce this specific problem in this Honourable House at the time of the budget discussion, but unfortunately I was not present then. I take therefore this, the earliest opportunity, to appeal to the Honourable the Finance Member and to you if he wavers, to press upon Government the necessity of separating Sind, suggesting that Government should come down from the high ground of prestige that they have stood upon, because they think that if Sind is separated they would be reduced to a minor Presidency. Simply on that account they do not venture to suggest this step to the Government of India or to His Majesty's Government; rather, they have been putting hitches in the way—that is my information. So, I would request you, honourable members——

[Syed Miran Mahomed Shah]

[Syed Miran Mahomed Shah]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member must not address individual members but the Chair.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: I am sorry. Now, Sir, apart from that permanent remedy, Government have suggested that the remedy lies in fresh taxation, re-organisation, borrowing and resettlement of heads of revenue with the Government of India. Now, Sir, they have denied that retrenchment is the real remedy, and they have also emphatically asserted that the acme of retrenchment has been reached; rather, they have indicated in their speeches that they propose, at the expiry of two years, to replace these cuts, which are considered by them to be only emergent cuts, and that the expense involved in it will be Rs. 50,00,000; and therefore they have been frightening us that in spite of the imposition of new taxation, and in spite of retrenchment, they will require Rs. 50,00,000 more in order to replace the emergent cuts. When the question of cutting them down permanently comes up for our discussion, then their plea is that they have reached the acme of retrenchment. When the question of imposing fresh taxation comes up, then we plead on behalf of the people that the maximum taxable capacity of the people has been reached, to which they reply that we have no sound argument to prove that position. That is the curious way of putting things when it suits them. Well, Sir, I would record my emphatic protest against any kind of borrowing for current expenditure, and that is not the real remedy suggested by my honourable friends. As regards fresh taxation, if I would ever give my support to any sort of new taxation at this juncture, it will be on a few grounds and those will be as follows. A paramount consideration is with regard to the question which I raised at the outset of my speech. I mean to say, and I am honest in my profession, that I really feel that any taxation proposed by this Government at this juncture, when the province of Sind is linked up with Presidency, will tend to raise ultimately the incidence of taxation in Sind and so increase the volume of revenue drawn from Sind. That will perhaps help us in the future settlement of our question. Therefore, if we are going to be even personally affected by it, we shall consent to it. That is what I really feel, and I would give my consent to fresh taxation from that point of view alone.

Another difficulty was experienced by me when I was thinking of bodily throwing out this Bill. My honourable friend, I think from Bombay, suggested to me that supposing we are going to throw out this Bill, it means that we are going to throw out the Court-fees Act and the

[Syed Miran Mahomed Shah]

Stamp Act bodily. This means there will be no stamp duty and no court fees until Government brings in a fresh Bill, because they have consolidated several Bills in one part. [Interruption.] But, Sir, the Court-fees and Stamp Acts have been in existence since 1870, and I think it will not be in the fitness of things that we should revert to the good old days, and those days will never come back. So that, from that point of view also I think we should give support to the first reading of the Bill. This was one of the considerations that induced me to lend my support to the first reading of the Bill.

Then, Sir, another factor is connected with the human mind. I think it is natural on our part, being to a certain extent the colleagues of Government, or, in fact, as we are forming a parental body, that we should support our creature, the Government, when we see that they are in a bad plight. In spite of their extravagance, we look upon Government as our child, and we have to maintain it anyhow, in spite of its extravagance. We cannot, I think in duty bound, cast it away to the winds.

An Honourable MEMBER: It is a spoilt child.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: Yes, it is a spoilt child; still, as you are the parental body you have to maintain that spoilt child. As parents you have got that filial feeling in your mind. Therefore, from that point of view, we have to give them a definite warning to behave better in future. They should cut their coat according to their cloth and they should not give us these excuses that they are bringing up this Bill and they are imposing taxes for one year only, and then, at the end of the year, they will take stock of the situation and see if the people have really been hit hard, and if the people have been hit hard they will withdraw the measures. This has never been the tradition of this Government or of any Government in this country. As a rule, expenditure is always bound to increase, and whatever temporary measures are brought come to stay. Will the Honourable Member point out any measure which was brought for a temporary period and did not stay permanently? So, Sir, we must believe that this Electricity Duty Bill has come to stay and it is going to form part of our sources of revenue. Whether the scale of rates should be maintained at the level suggested in the Bill or should be reduced is a matter which will come within the purview of the select committee, but we must take it for granted that we are going to pay this electricity tax for ever. Whether it should affect certain sections of the public and it should not affect others is a matter which the select committee will decide. I give expression to my genuine feelings when I say that I am opposed to exemptions. As regards the Court-fees Bill also, I think, if I may say so, my honourable friend the Finance Member has surreptitiously put in an item in the schedule on which they are going to impose higher court-fees. I think Rs. 15 are proposed as the fees for setting aside ex parte decrees, which proposal was turned down in the last session. So that, I assure my honourable friend the Finance Member of the Government of Bombay that we shall not in any way lend our support to things like that which are surreptitiously put in in the Bill. We are all conscious of that, and we shall see that nothing creeps in unknown to us and takes the shape of permanent taxation. With these few remarks, I am constrained to express that I am going to support the first reading of the Bill.

[Syed Miran Mahomed Shah]

Rao Saheb V. S. PATIL (East Khandesh District) (Addressed the House in Marathi): Mr. President, up to now many honourable members who are the elected representatives of the people have made speeches against the Bill. I wish to say that it is the agriculturists who suffer most by these frequent increases of taxes. On account of these taxes, their condition is not improving. Apparently, the agriculturist has nothing to do with the tax on electricity, but he will have to suffer on its account. The fact is that if a tax is imposed in Bombay city, when goods are sent from Bombay for the consumption of agriculturists, the tax is passed on to them by the Bombay merchants to a certain extent. Sir, it is well known that from ancient times it is the agriculturists who form the bulwark of Government. So far as this Presidency is concerned they pay land revenue to the extent of Rs. 5,00,00,000. But what have they got in return for this contribution? A few agriculturists may have been made Rao Sahebs or Rao Bahadurs, a few agricultural shows may have been held, but these things do not benefit the agriculturists. They work day and night in the fields, cultivating the soil, and manage to spend only Rs. 4 on clothing in a year. We, the representatives of the agriculturists, may put on suits when we come to the Council, but it is wrong to infer from that that all the agriculturists are in the position of being to do the same. If proper facilities had been afforded for the education of agriculturists, I would not have been to-day under the necessity of addressing the House in Marathi. They are too poor to pay even for vernacular education; how can they even dream of English education? Sir, there is no question that the agriculturists are not able to pay even the present taxes, let alone enhanced taxes. I am an agriculturist, I work in the fields, I keep accounts, and I know that agriculture in these days does not pay. It is by denying to themselves the necessities of life that they somehow pay the land revenue. Over and above that, if they are to bear these increased taxes, how can they afford it? The result will be that the agricultural industry will be destroyed.

Sir, those members who come to the Council and who pay 32 rupees assessment are not all real agriculturists. It is only clever people who can hoodwink the agriculturists by telling them all sorts of things about what goes on in the Council. When we go back to our constituencies, they ask us what we have done for them, and we explain things away and somehow get out of the difficulty. But we cannot go on doing that for all time. Our position is becoming more and more difficult every day. In spite of the greatest economy the agriculturists exercise in their domestic expenses which come to hardly Rs. 30 per head per year, they are not able to make both ends meet. An agriculturist spends hardly

[Rao Saheb V. S. Patil]

Rs. 4 on his clothes in a year. In spite of the fact that they are contributing a good deal to the coffers of Government, they are in such a miserable plight. I shall narrate a short story. Akbar Badshaha in good old days went for a hunt into a jungle. After some time, he felt thirsty and came to a hut occupied by an old farmer woman and asked her whether he could get some drink. Seeing that it was the king, the old lady squeezed two pieces of sugarcane which gave a tumblerful of juice and gave it to the king. After quenching his thirst the king asked the lady how much sugarcane she produced in her fields. She said that she was raising 50 maunds of "Gul". The king was then inquisitive to know the kist she paid for that land. On enquiry he learnt that it was only five cowdies. The king when he went back to his capital asked the Minister why a land producing 50 maunds of "Gul" was taxed only 5 cowdies. Then, on a future occasion, when he went out for a hunt, he happened to come to the same lady for drink to quench his thirst. This time, the old lady squeezed 25 pieces of sugarcane but still there was only one tumbler of juice. The king was surprised and asked how it was that she could not get one tumblerful of juice for 25 pieces, while on the previous occasion, she gave a tumblerful for two pieces of sugarcane. The old lady replied that the king must have thought something evil about this. We toil day and night in the fields and still our existence is miserable. Any villager that is brought to this city will be surprised to see these tarred roads on which motor cars run smooth. I myself was surprised and paused to consider why, in spite of the fact that we contribute largely to the exchequer, there should be nice tarred roads in cities, whereas we have only rugged roads, which jolt our country carts up and down. We are living in houses with mud walls. The Honourable the Finance Member said that the residential quarters of officers are not palatial buildings. If they are not palatial buildings, I do not know what else they are. But so far as we are concerned, we are living in miserable mud huts. That is our condition, in spite of the fact that we work day and night in our fields and contribute enormously to the revenues of the Government. Instead of taxing the agriculturists Government should reduce the big salaries of their officers and make up the deficit.

Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District): Sir, I rise to oppose the present Bill. In doing so, I beg to submit that the financial stringency is not such as to warrant the present measure, which has been brought by Government in this House. It has been stated by Government that the estimated revenue of Government is insufficient, and therefore the deficit must be covered by certain financial measures. One of those measures is placed before the House. I beg to submit that in the present budget the figures of estimated revenue are given much below what is expected to be realised. This point has been discussed by certain honourable members and they have clearly shown that the present budget has been so prepared and presented as to show a heavy deficit of estimated revenue.

The second point to which I wish to draw the attention of the honourable House is that a statement has been published by Government showing the retrenchment effected. In this statement it will be seen that there are various items to which Government have either not paid their attention or have deliberately delayed the execution of the suggestions made by the Retrenchment Committee. For instance, I will point out one recommendation which has not been given effect to. The Retrenchment Committee recommended that there ought to be a ten per cent. cut in the establishment of the High Court. To this the reply has been given that the matter is under consideration. That itself will go to show that Government have not taken steps with regard to this department. Many other figures of retrenchment have not been shown in the statements Nos. I, II and III that are supplied to this House. In the last budget session Government stated that in addition Government had taken other measures of retrenchment, the financial effect of which could not be stated then. The boast of Government is that they have retrenched more than what the Retrenchment Committee has recommended. I submit there are many recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee which have not been given effect to by Government as yet. If these recommendations are given effect to by Government, I hope Government will nearly realise a saving of Rs. 40 lakhs more. One of the most important items to which Government have not paid attention is the provincial services. Last time when the budget was presented by the Honourable the Finance Member he said that "within a few months that question would be settled according to the wishes of all provinces and the initial salaries of the provincial services and All-India services would be reduced." At that time an assurance was given that this subject would be taken up immediately. So far as the reduction of salaries of provincial services is concerned, I think Government have not taken any steps to reduce the salaries. This is another instance which will go to show that so far as the policy pursued by Government is concerned, they are not consistent with the promises held out to this Honourable House. Government say that they have gone beyond the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee. No doubt, retrenchment has been effected to the extent of Rs. 1,59,00,000 but I think this is not a voluntary retrenchment on the part of Government. Government were really forced to retrench unwillingly, because all financial measures were opposed by this House. Therefore, Government was forced to effect retrenchment. So, the credit of effecting retrenchment does not go to Government but it goes to the representatives of the people who opposed the financial measures during the last year.

[Mr. J. G. More]

Now, I beg to submit, Sir, that the present Bill is not an emergency measure. It is a measure intended by Government to be placed on the statute book permanently.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Not after the amendment. The amendment has been proposed.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Government were forced to bring that amendment. So far as the intention of Government is concerned, the measures should be permanently placed on the statute book.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Not after the amendment, I repeat.

Mr. J. G. MORE: I submit that this amendment is not a voluntary amendment. It was forced.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: As a matter of fact, I have so stated in my speech.

Mr. J. G. MORE: The House has forced their hands, but it is clear the original intention of Government was to place the measures on the statute book permanently.

It has already been contended by some honourable members that this Bill as presented is not in the best interests of the people. Some say that the Government should not have presented this Bill in its present form. I beg to submit that the Bill as submitted by Government is such that all the representatives of the people should join hands and oppose it. To me it appears that a golden opportunity has been thrown to us which should enable us to combine and throw out the Bill. It has been stated by one honourable member that of all the provincial legislatures, the Bombay legislature is the weakest, because there are many sections in it arrayed separately. This is an opportunity which can be seized by this House to combine, as the interest of all is concerned. Therefore, I think the presentation of the Bill in the present form gives us an opportunity to unite and oppose.

There are five parts in the Bill. The second part is surcharge on electricity. So far as electricity is concerned, it is not only the rich and the middle classes that are affected, but also the poorer classes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: These are arguments already exhausted.

Mr. J. G. MORE: Sir, this Electricity Duty Bill is the most indiscriminate of all the pieces of legislation that Government have brought before this House. In addition to that, I think Government want a charter to show favouritism to certain persons and concerns. The provision to clause 5 of this Bill reads:

"Provided that electricity duty shall not be leviable on the units of energy consumed by Government or by a tramway company, or by a railway administration as defined in clause (6) of section 3 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, or by or in respect of any concern, undertaking, institution, premises, body, person or any class of persons or thing which the Government may exempt from payment thereof by a notification in the Bombay Government Gazette."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Is the honourable member likely to finish it within two minutes?

Mr. J. G. MORE: I will not be able to finish it within two minutes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Then, I will give him the chance to-morrow.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Mr. President, it is likely that the discussion on this Bill may be over to-morrow. In that case, Government will proceed with the supplementary grants.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : Not the other Bill ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What the Honourable the Leader of the House says is, supposing the discussion comes to an end to-morrow early and any time remains over, then the supplementary grants will be put forward by Government, and honourable members should not be surprised in that case. They should come prepared : that is all.

Mr. A. N. SURVE : If that suggestion is accepted, I hope Government will not raise any objection to our moving amendments without notice.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is now adjourned to 2 p.m., to-morrow, Wednesday the 24th February 1932.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Wednesday, the 24th February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Wednesday, the 24th February 1932, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present:

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHUTTO, Sir SHAH NAWAZ
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOKHALE, Mr. L. R.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.

MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MODI, Sardar DAVAR T. K.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SINDHA, Mr. MADHAVSANG JORBHAI
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCE, Sir REGINALD
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WADKE, Mr. B. P.
WILES, Mr. G.
WINTERBOTHAM, Mr. G. L.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

GRAZING FEES: SIND AND OTHER DIVISIONS.

*Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) whether it is a fact that the grazing fees for animals in the forests in Sind have been doubled during the year 1929-30;

(2) if the reply to (1) be in the affirmative, what are the special reasons for the fees being doubled;

(3) what is the schedule of grazing fees in the forests of Sind for various animals;

(4) what is the schedule of grazing fees in all the other divisions of the Presidency?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (1), (2) and (3) The rates of grazing fees previously in force and those now prevailing are given below:—

Rates previously in force.

	First class Forests. Rs. a. p.	Second class Forests. Rs. a. p.
Camel	3 0 0	3 0 0
Buffalo	0 12 0	0 6 0
Cow or bullock ..	0 6 0	0 3 0
Horse	0 6 0	0 3 0
Donkey	0 4 0	0 2 0
Sheep	0 1 0	0 0 6
Goat	0 4 0	0 4 0

Existing rates.

	Rs. a. p.
Camel	5 0 0
Buffalo	1 8 0
Cow or bullock ..	0 12 0
Horse	0 12 0
Donkey	0 8 0
Sheep	0 2 0
Goat	0 4 0

The scale was revised after full inquiry as it was found that the rates previously in force which had been fixed in 1913 were far below the economic value of grazing.

(4) A statement showing the existing rates of grazing fees in the Presidency proper is appended.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: Why is it that the grazing fees in Sind are higher than those existing in the Presidency proper?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Not in all cases. For example, on page 3 of the list the honourable member will find that in Panch Mahals the grazing fee for buffaloes, cows, oxen, horses, donkeys and mules is Re. 1 while cows and bullocks are charged 12 annas in Sind.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: That is only in cases of animals belonging to non-village area and to Indian States. May I know whether the Honourable Minister has received any representation from the Cattle owners' Association requesting for reduction in grazing fees?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Yes, Sir.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: If so, has any action been taken on it?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: No action has yet been taken; enquiries will be made hereafter.

Schedule of grazing fees in the District.	Fees for village of Forest villages.

	Buffaloes, cows, oxen, horses, donkeys, mules.	Sheep, if allowed.	Goats, if allowed.
1	2	3	4
I	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
(i) The whole of the Central Division except Peint Taluka of Nasik District. (ii) Dharwar, Bijapur, Kolaba, Ratnagiri and Belgaum districts in the Southern Division.	0 4 0	0 2 0	0 2 0
II
(i) Kanara District in the Southern Division. (ii) Surat District in the Northern Division.	0 2 0	0 1 0	0 1 0
III
Thana District in the Northern Division and Peint Taluka and the villages of Pimpalsonda Karanjul, Chinchla, Ragatvihir, Guhe-Jamanpada, Songhir and Gondhune of the Kalwan Taluka of Nasik District in the Central Division.	Free within the unit defined in Rule VII.	Not allowed.
IV
Panch Mahals District in the Northern Division.	Free within the unit defined in Rule VII.	Not allowed.

districts of the Presidency proper.

cattle			Fees for non-village cattle and cattle from Indian States.
of Non-Forest villages.
Buffaloes, cows, oxen, horses, donkeys, mules.	Sheep, if allowed.	Goats, if allowed.	Buffaloes, cows, oxen, horses, donkeys, mules.	Sheep, if allowed.	Goats, if allowed.
5	6	7	8	9	10
Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
0 8 0	0 4 0	0 4 0	1 0 0	0 4 0	0 4 0
0 4 0	0 2 0	0 2 0	1 0 0	0 4 0	0 4 0
Buffaloes— 0 8 0 Others— 0 6 0	0 2 0	0 2 0	1 0 0	0 4 0	0 4 0
(1) Western Mahals— 0 8 0 (2) Eastern Mahals— Buffaloes— 0 4 0 Others— 0 2 0	Not allowed.		1 0 0	Not allowed.

LLOYD BARRAGE AND CANALS CONSTRUCTION : DRAINS.

*Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): (1) Will Government be pleased to state in a tabular form the names and miles of all main and subsidiary drains with cuts in each Circle—

(a) as proposed in the first original sanctioned project,

(b) as now revised by the Chief Engineer, Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction,

(c) now under construction ?

(2) When will all the main and subsidiary drains be completed ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (1) (a) A statement giving the names and mileages of main and subsidiary drains as provided for in the 1920 Project is placed on the Council table.

(b) Complete information is not yet available as the question of providing efficient drainage is a complicated one and requires very thorough detailed investigation in order that expenditure incurred may not be wasted. This matter is being investigated at present by the Research Division.

Only such drainage schemes have been or are being undertaken the efficiency and absolute necessity of which have been established. These are :—

On the Right Bank.

(a) The Flood Protective Bund Scheme.—The construction of the main Western Nara Valley drain measuring 70 miles and forming part of this scheme will be taken in hand shortly.

(b) The Manchar Drainage Works (in progress).

On the Left Bank.

(c) Containing Banks along the Eastern Nara (completed).

(d) Flood Diversion Banks along the Eastern Nara (completed).

(e) The widening of the bottle-neck of the Puran Dhoro (3·6 miles long) near Jhudo (completed).

(c) The Manchar Drainage Works.

(2) Schemes will be formulated in the light of the results of investigations by the Research Division. After full details of the schemes have been worked up, the works will be taken in hand section by section according to the urgency of each scheme.

Statement showing drainage and protective works as provided for in the 1920 project.

On the Right Bank.

Particulars.		Miles.
North Western Canal—
Main drain		28
Branch drains—
(a) North West Valley	22
(b) North East Valley	56
(c) Candakhe	22·6
(d) Dodapur	25·4
		126
Total ..	126·0

On the Right Bank—contd.

Particulars.			Miles.
Rice Canal—
Main drain			28
Branch drains—
(a) Bahram Hetion Valley		44
(b) Ghar		38
(c) Manjan		18
			100
Total ..		100
Dadu Canal—
Main drain			28
Branch drains—
(a) Khairpur Valley		15
(b) Along North Western Railway		42
			57
Total ..		57
Manchar Drainage Works—
High level drain			5
Low level drain			13

On the Left Bank.

Rohri Canal—
Main drains 1 to 8			308
Branch drains of main drains			371
Eastern Nara System—
Containing banks			125
Flood Diversion Bank			105
Mithrao Canal Remodelling—
Drains			90
Sub-drains			85
Khipro Canal—
Drains			35
Sub-drains			85

URDU PRIMARY SCHOOLS IN S. D.: BUILDINGS.

*Mr. A. J. BANGI (Southern Division): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of buildings, with the amount spent on each, put up by the District Local Boards and Municipal Local Authorities, for primary schools, in each District of the Southern Division, during the last ten years?

(b) How many of these were allotted to Urdu Primary Schools?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) The accompanying statement gives the information required.

(b) Two out of a total number of 62.

Mr. A. J. BANGI: What steps have Government taken to see that the Urdu primary schools get a fair share?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDIN AHMAD: I will make that request known to the Director of Public Instruction and see what he says about it.

(A)

Statement showing information regarding buildings put up for Primary Division during the

Name of District.	Name of Local Authority.	Year 1921-22.		Year 1922-23.
		Name of school.	Amount spent.	Name of school.	Amount spent.
1	2	3	4	5	6
			Rs.		Rs.
Dharwar ..	District Local Board, Dharwar.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Hubli Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Dharwar Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Gadag Betgeri Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Belgaum ..	District Local Board, Belgaum.	1. Sadalga ..	2,379	1. Chikodi ..	28,290
		2. Kattalgi ..	5,701	2. Kerur ..	5,674
				3. Telsang ..	3,660
Bijapur ..	District Local Board, Bijapur.	1. Wandal ..	5,742	..	..
		2. Mangoli ..	5,068
		3. Aiholi ..	1,156
		4. Kaladgi ..	3,660
Do. ..	Bijapur Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Bagalkot Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Kanara ..	District Local Board, Kanara.	..	..	1. Gudeangadi.	5,249 schools by the District Local Boards and Municipalities in Southern last ten years.

Year 1923-24.		Year 1924-25.		Year 1925-26.		Year 1926-27.
Name of school.	Amount spent.	Name of school.	Amount spent.	Name of school.	Amount spent.	Name of school.	Amount spent.
7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	Rs.		Rs.		Rs.		Rs.
..	..	1. Yelavgi Boys.	4,222	1. Kolur Boys.	5,051	1. Kotbagi Boys.	7,486
		2. Hireha l Boys.	3,015			2. Annigeri Boys.	22,012
		3. Harti Boys.	7,523			3. Kotu m-chigi.	13,018
		4. Abbigeri Boys.	14,078			4. Karur..	5,302
		5. Hulkoti Girls.	4,209
				1. Haveri Boys' No. 2.	8,224	..	..
1. Marathi Girls' School No. 1.	4,189	..	..	1. Kanaresa Boys' School No. 2.	50,420	..	..
..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..
..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..
1. Kunnur Boys' School.	7,967	..	..	..	..	..	..
1. Deshnur (Urdu School).	10,248	..	..	..	..	..	..
..	..	1. Sulibhavi.	14,408	1. Kardi.	1,066	1. Sirur ..	1,140
		2. Hungund.	1,660
				1. Hungund (Urdu School).	1,186	..	..
..	..	1. Marathi Girls' School at Idgah.	11,970	..	..	..	..
..	..	..	..	1. Dhed School.	1,385	1. Dhed School.	1,105
..	..	..	..	..	..	1. Tyarsi .	229

(A)

Name of District.	Name of Local Authority.	Year 1927-28.		Year 1928-29.
		Name of school.	Amount spent.	Name of school.	Amount spent.
1	2	15	16	17	18
			Rs.		Rs.
Dharwar ..	District Local Board, Dharwar.	1. Hullur Boys.	4,439	1. Shiggaon Boys.	13,300
		2. Chinchali.	5,133	2. Belwanki Boys.	3,632
		3. Hosalli ..	4,100	3. Tevarmaralihalli Boys.	3,635
				4. Madlur Boys.	3,636
				5. Alur Boys.	9,405
				6. Mudengudi Boys.	3,733
				7. Advisomapur Boys.	3,100
Do. ..	Hubli Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Dharwar Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Gadag Betgeri Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Belgaum ..	District Local Board, Belgaum.	..	..	..	..
Bijapur ..	District Local Board, Bijapur.	1. Honutgi ..	7,478	..	..
Bijapur ..	Bijapur Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Do. ..	Bagalkot Municipality.	..	..	..	..
Kanara ..	District Local Board, Kanara.	..	..	..	..

—contd.

Year 1929-30.		Year 1930-31.		Total.	Remarks.
Name of school.	Amount spent.	Name of school	Amount spent.
19	20	21	22	23	24
	Rs.		Rs.
1. Aladkatti Boys.	4,118	1. Halligudi Boys.	5,241
2. Tirlapur Boys.	9,318	2. Byahatti Boys.	9,772
3. Jigalur Boys.	4,467	3. Naiknur Boys.	5,390
4. Shirguppi Boys.	9,556	4. Gopankop ..	6,568
5. Gagad Girls.	2,773
6. Sulla Boys.	5,357
				30
1. Kanarese Boys' School No. 4.	12,081	1. Kanarese Boys' School No. 1.	11,179
2. Kanarese Boys' School No. 5.	8,473
3. Kanarese Girls' School No. 2.	9,887
..	..	1. Kanarese Boys' School No. 7 for Depressed Classes.	1,550
Shahapur peth Girls' School.	14,932	Betgeri Girls' School No. 1.	13,706		In addition to these schools, one Urdu School which is being built up at Gadag is almost complete but is not yet occupied. The expenditure incurred up to now is Rs. 14,879.
				9
..	..	..	..	6
				1
..	..	1. Kamatgi ..	16,054	10
				1
..	..	..	..
..	..	..	..	3
..	..	..	..	2
			Total ..	62

BORING MACHINES: LOAN TO LOCAL BODIES.

*Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI (Kaira District): (1) How many boring machines are out of use as a result of the abolition of the Boring Department?

(2) (i) How many of these boring sets are power machines and how many handworked machines?

(ii) What is the quality and make of each of them?

(3) How do Government propose to utilise them now?

(4) Have any Local Boards or Municipalities applied for a loan of them?

(5) If so, what are those Local Bodies?

(6) Do Government intend to lend them to Local Bodies?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (1) Owing to the financial stringency the boring activities of the Agricultural Department have been suspended. It is proposed to resume them on a greatly restricted scale. At present 78 boring machines are lying unused.

(2) (i) 34 power and 44 hand machines.

(ii) The requisite information is given below:—

14 Calyx Rotary Drills made by Ingersoll Rand, Limited, of United States of America (capable of taking out cores in rock) as detailed below:—

11 6″ F-3 Portable Drills.
1 5″ G-3 Semi-portable Drill.
1 5″ G-3 Semi-portable Drill.
1 4″ G-31 Semi-portable Drill.

18 4″ Musto-patent power machines made by Richardson and Cruddas, working on the percussive principle.

1 6″ Armstrong portable power machine working on percussive principle—made by Armstrong Machine Company, United States of America.

44 3″ Hand percussive machines made in Bombay and at Dapuri shops.

1 3″ Power Cawnpore machine made by the Empire Engineering Company of Cawnpore.

78

(3) Machines not required will be offered for sale.

(4) Yes.

(5) The District Local Boards, Satara, East Khandesh and Panch Mahals, and the Thana Municipality.

(6) Experience has shown that the maintenance of machines on loan and the replacement of lost parts causes a disproportionate amount of work and trouble and the Agricultural Department cannot now maintain a staff to deal with the loan transactions and undertake repairs and renewals of the machines. Government have therefore decided that such local bodies as require machines should purchase them from the Agricultural Department.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: From the reply to question No. (6) it appears that Government had to engage staff for carrying out repairs and renewals of these machines. Is the Honourable Minister aware that these boring machines were lent to local boards on condition that they should undertake their repairs and defray the entire charges on that account, so that Government had not to pay anything for the repairs of these machines? It is therefore not possible that any expenditure was incurred by Government on that account.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: It is not a question only of repairs but also of maintaining a staff to look after the machines.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: One of the conditions of boring was that no special staff was to be appointed by Government to look after these machines. Only the Deputy Director of Agriculture sent his subordinates to inspect these machines once a year. What extraordinary cost was incurred for this sort of inspection and supervision?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: It causes diversion from their ordinary work.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: If they inspect them once a year?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: It may be once a year or many times a year. It depends on the actual working of the boring machines.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: Was any other expenditure, in addition to that on inspection work, incurred by Government?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Certain persons are to be employed in order to keep accounts for various parts of the machinery.

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: No accounts are kept of the separate parts of the machinery, as all the machinery was lent to the local board. So what accounts are to be maintained?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Certainly, we are required to maintain accounts. Suppose when the local boards return the machines, they do not return some parts of the machines, who is to be responsible?

Rao Saheb B. G. DESAI: Only a register of these parts is maintained and the loan generally extends over a period of three years, and when the machines are returned, the only work to be done is that the parts are tallied with the entries in the register. No other extra work is to be done.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The honourable member assumes that the loan is to extend to three years. It could not always be the case.

Khan Bahadur ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN: Will Government be pleased to sell these boring machines to local boards on easy instalments ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: If an application is made by any local board to this effect, then it will be considered. No such case has still arisen.

IRRIGATION CHARGES, NIRA LEFT BANK CANALS.

*Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): (1) Has the Irrigation Department put up a meter at outlet No. 4 of Distributary No. 2 on the Nira Left Bank Canal ?

(2) If so, when was this meter fixed and how many acres of land are irrigated by the water supplied through this meter ?

(3) How many acres of land are supplied by this meter-system with water (a) for perennial crops such as sugarcane, (b) for eight-monthly crops, and (c) for four-monthly crops ?

(4) What is the total income received by Government annually since the introduction of the meter-system ?

(5) Was this meter-system introduced as an experiment to enable the Government to determine the quantity of water necessary for the various crops such as perennial, eight-monthly and four-monthly ?

(6) Have Government been able to arrive at any conclusion in the matter, and, if so, will Government state what conclusion they have arrived at ?

(7) Have Government found that the supply of water by the meter-system is more economical and profitable both to Government and the irrigators ?

(8) Will Government lay on the Council table a statement giving the following information :—

(a) the total number of acres actually irrigated annually for the years 1924 up to the year 1930 on the Nira Left Bank Canals under the block system ;

(b) the area irrigated annually during that period (i) for sugarcane or perennial crops ; (ii) eight-monthly crops ; (iii) four-monthly crops ?

(9) Will Government state in how many acres the irrigators did not actually plant sugarcane though they had to pay the sugarcane irrigation charges for the same under the block system for the six years 1924 to 1930 ?

(10) Will Government state the total difference between the charges which they should have ordinarily paid for the crops they actually cultivated in those lands and the charges they had to pay on account of block system for these years ?

(11) Are Government aware that some irrigators of Nira Left Bank Canals could not plant sugarcane crops during the current year on account of the depression in trade ? If so, how many acres were thus not planted with sugarcane ?

(12) Are Government aware that these irrigators were not able for various reasons to give notice to the Department before the 15th November as required under the Irrigation Rules ?

(13) Is it a fact that on the Godavari and the Pravara Canals, the number of acres under sugarcane cultivation has been materially reduced ?

(14) Have Government received any representations against the block system from the irrigators of these canals ? If so, what has been the result of these representations ?

(15) Are Government aware of the fact that the order prohibiting the plantation of sugarcane crops on the bunds by the side of the water channels in the fields was not being enforced till the last year, and that it is only this year that it is being enforced on Nira Left Bank Canals for the first time ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (1) It is presumed that the meter referred to is the one fixed at outlet No. 4 of Distributary No. 22 of the Nira Left Bank Canal and if this is so the answer is in the affirmative. There is no meter on outlet No. 4, Distributary No. 2, Nira Left Bank Canal.

(2) The meter referred to above was fixed at the beginning of the Irrigation year 1922-23. The area annually irrigated by water through it is about 900 acres.

(3) The annual acreage of sugarcane, other perennial crops, two seasonal crops and 4 months crops (monsoon and rabi crops) supplied with water through this meter is approximately as under :—

Crop.		Acres.
Sugarcane	..	235
Short-term cane etc.	..	200
Other perennials	..	5
Two seasonals	..	25
Seasonal { monsoon	..	195
Seasonal { rabi	..	240
Total	..	900

(4) The revenue derived annually by the supply of water through this meter is as follows :—

Year.	Rs.
1922-23	14,790
1923-24	15,454
1924-25	14,785
1925-26	18,737
1926-27	21,036
1927-28	17,326
1928-29	16,252
1929-30	18,382
1930-31	16,770

(5) No. This experiment was started with a view to establishing a co-operative system of irrigation by Panchayat and to determine whether irrigation management can ultimately be left to cultivators themselves for co-operative distribution of water.

(6) The experiment not having proved a success, Government have decided to discontinue it for the present.

(7) No.

(8) (a) The approximate areas irrigated annually under the block system on the Nira Left Bank Canal and Shetphal Tank during the years from 1924-25 to 1930-31 are as follows :—

Years.	Acres.
1924-25	15,981
1925-26	16,085
1926-27	20,203
1927-28	19,386
1928-29	22,435
1929-30	20,021
1930-31	22,014

(b) The sub-joined statement contains the requisite information :—

Year.	Sugar-cane.	Other perennials.	Two-seasonal crops.	Seasonal crops		Remarks.
				Monsoon crops.	Rabi crops.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres	Acres.
1924-25 ..	5,417	92	5,499	1,291	3,682	Areas in perennial blocks except cane areas were not measured and hence the areas of other crops shown in columns 3 to 6 are approximate only.
1925-26 ..	6,054	130	951	1,850	7,100
1926-27 ..	6,583	113	350	6,638	6,519
1927-28 ..	6,743	61	188	8,645	3,749
1928-29 ..	6,305	58	522	8,092	7,458
1929-30 ..	6,303	45	759	8,221	4,693
1930-31 ..	6,179	19	890	5,972	8,954

(9) Area of cane not planted in perennial blocks during the years 1924-25 to 1930-31 was as under :—

Year.	Acres.
1924-25	487
1925-26	413
1926-27	374
1927-28	446
1928-29	646
1929-30	564
1930-31	458

(10) As only sugarcane crops have been measured in blocks this information cannot be given.

(11) The area of cane not planted during the current year for various reasons amounts to about 600 acres. It is not possible to determine what proportion of this was due to the slump in trade and what proportion to other causes.

(12) The date of application for cancellation of blocks was extended to 15th February 1931.

(13) Yes.

(14) Yes. Government have since revised the block rules and allowed the concessions of long term overlapping cane and preseasonal waterings in 1 : 3 sugarcane blocks which the irrigators desired.

(15) No.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : With regard to the reply to (5), was any such attempt made to introduce the panchayat system for irrigation purposes ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The answer is very clear : " This experiment was started with a view to establishing a co-operative system of irrigation by panchayat and to determine whether irrigation management can ultimately be left to cultivators themselves for co-operative distribution of water."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Whether this has been done is the question.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It has been done.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : In how many places was it tried ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I cannot give the exact number. I require notice.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Can the Honourable Member name one Panchayat to which the management of the distributary or its outlet was handed over ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : There was one panchayat. The outlet referred to in (1) was given to that panchayat.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Is it not a fact that it was tried nowhere ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It was tried at that particular outlet. That is my information.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Is there no Bagayatdars' Association for that outlet ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I do not know. My information is that the panchayat was tried at this particular outlet.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : With regard to the reply to (9), is it not a matter of great hardship that agriculturists have to pay sugarcane cess on 500 acres, according to the figures supplied by Government, without their actually planting sugarcane over that portion ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : They themselves apply for it. Government cannot help it if they do not cultivate sugarcane on the whole portion.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: If there were no block system, this charge would not have been levied on them.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Without knowing what area they are going to plant with sugarcane, they apply to Government for water. When their applications are sanctioned, they must plant sugarcane in that area. Otherwise Government sells water to some one else.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Part (11) of the question asked: "Are Government aware that some irrigators of Nira Left Bank Canals could not plant sugarcane crops during the current year on account of the depression in trade? If so, how many acres were thus not planted with sugarcane?" The answer is: "The area of cane not planted during the current year for various reasons amounts to about 600 acres. It is not possible to determine what proportion of this was due to slump in trade and what proportion to other causes." I want to know what are the other causes besides slump in trade?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The man perhaps cannot afford the money, or he may be ill, or there may be some other family reasons: his wife or children might be ill.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: I would like to know whether Government is in possession of any other reasons.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: These are the reasons I have enumerated. Perhaps the man cannot afford to spend the money, or he or some one in his family may be ill.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Is not discontent the main reason for not planting these 600 acres with sugarcane?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: One of the causes might be that.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Is not that the main cause?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I do not think so.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Is it not the higher charges for irrigation that prevent him from doing it?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I do not think so.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: Part (13) asks, "Is it a fact that on the Godavari and the Pravara Canals the number of acres under sugarcane cultivation has been materially reduced?" The reply is in the affirmative. May I know whether this reduction in the planting of sugarcane is mainly due to the introduction of the block system?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: No, Sir.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: Then, what are the causes?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: One of the causes might be the slump in trade.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: Is not this also an additional reason, the introduction of the block system?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: No. When the prices are good, people do offer to cultivate sugarcane.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: May I know whether the Government can give us any idea as to the loss in revenue incurred owing to the non-cultivation of these 600 acres?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: How can I say that off-hand?

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Is not the introduction of the block system one of the chief causes for the decrease in area under sugarcane?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: No, not at all. When prices were good, everybody came forward and cultivated. It is only the slump in prices that is the mian cause.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: In part (15) the question is, "Are Government aware of the fact that the order prohibiting the plantation of sugarcane crops on the bunds by the side of the water channels in the fields was not being enforced till the last year, and that it is only this year that it is being enforced on the Nira Left Bank Canals for the first time?" The answer is "No". Am I to understand that Government are not aware that the order prohibiting the plantation of sugarcane crops on the bunds by the side of the water channels in the fields was not being enforced till the last year?

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Have the Government made any enquiry?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: If the honourable member gives notice, I will make enquiries.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: The question is definite. It asked, "Are Government aware of the fact that the order prohibiting the plantation of sugarcane crops on the bunds by the side of the water channels in the fields was not being enforced till the last year, and that it is only this year that it is being enforced on Nira Left Bank Canals for the first time?" The question suggests that it was only this year that the order was enforced. Have Government made any enquiry about this or not?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: No, Government have not made any enquiry.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Do not Government think it necessary to make any enquiry?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: If the honourable member will give notice, I will make the enquiry.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: The question is clear.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The wording of the question is, "Are Government aware?" The reply is, "Government are not aware."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think the ordinary procedure followed, when questions are sent up, is that Government at once refer the matter to the heads of departments, and they get a reply. At least that is my knowledge of it, and when the reply comes, the reply is forwarded accordingly. That proves that an enquiry was made by Government.

So, the question whether an enquiry was made by Government does not arise. Whether an investigation was made would be a different question. The answer is that Government are aware of it, and that must be on the strength of the report they must have received.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: But the Leader of the House said that he made no enquiries.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I said we are not aware of it.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Next question.

PROSECUTIONS IN SIND.

*Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state —

(a) whether they are aware of the prosecution launched against Mr. Manilal Vyas, editor of a paper "Gujarati Dainik", and Mr. Nagendra Kumar, at Karachi, by the Sind authorities;

(b) under what sections of the Penal Code or for what crime they are being prosecuted;

(c) whether it is a fact that Swami Govindanand is being prosecuted for the same offence as the above said two persons?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) and (b) Yes. They were prosecuted for an offence under section 124-A, Indian Penal Code, in respect of an article published in the "Rashtra Shakti" newspaper of Karachi and sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment.

(c) He was prosecuted for a similar offence in respect of a speech, delivered by him in Karachi and sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment.

HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, AHMEDABAD: HEAD MISTRESS.

*Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state —

(1) the number of girls in each standard in the High School for Girls, Ahmedabad;

(2) the name, age, qualifications, service and pay of the present Head Mistress of the school;

(3) the total annual expenditure incurred on this School;

(4) whether this School which meets in the Training College premises was formerly under the management and supervision of the Lady Superintendent of the Mahalaxmi Training College for Women and if so, why was a highly paid new Head Mistress appointed;

(5) whether it is a fact that there was a strike in the School due to bad discipline and whether a large number of girls have left the School on account of the tactless treatment of the Head Mistress?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (1) The information is given below:—

	Number of girls on 1st January 1932.
Standard I	30
Standard II	10
Standard III	10
Standard IV	15
Standard V	10
Standard VI	10
Standard VII	2

(2) Name of the present Head Mistress.—Miss P. I. Thakor.
Age.—28 years.
Qualifications.—M.A., B.Sc. (Columbia University); Montessory Diploma of Teaching (London).
Service.—3 years and 2 months on 1st February 1932.
Pay Rs. 230 in the time scale of Rs. 200—10—340—efficiency bar—15—400.

(3) A total expenditure of Rs. 20,147 was incurred on the School during the year 1930-31.

(4) The reply to the former part of the question is in the affirmative. With regard to the latter part, the reasons for the separation of the two institutions and the appointment of a separate Head Mistress are given by the Director of Public Instruction in his letter No. 17068, dated the 31st March 1919. They are as follows:—

"Ahmedabad already has a full High School for Girls, but it is at present attached to the Mahalaxmi Training College for Women and is under the direct control of the Lady Superintendent—an arrangement which seriously handicaps both the institutions since the Lady Superintendent is unable to give either her undivided attention and ladies attached to one institution are liable on emergencies to be diverted to the other. Each is of sufficient importance to require a separate staff and separate buildings if it is to be efficiently conducted. The separation of the High School from the Training College is thus a very pressing question and Government have already recognised the necessity of it by providing a post of Rs. 250—10—300 for the High School."

(5) It is a fact that there was a strike in the school and a large number of girls have left it: but the same was not due to any fault of the Head Mistress.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: May I enquire whether the circumstances have not materially changed since 1919, when the Director of Public Instruction reported about this matter, as to necessitate a change in the policy of maintaining this school?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: The circumstances are not materially changed in this respect.

Mr. J. S. KADRI: There has been an expenditure of Rs. 20,000, while the number on the rolls is only 85. Does this small number—only 10 pupils in each of the five out of seven standards—justify the maintenance of this costly institution, when there is a financial stringency and when funds are needed for more urgent and better purposes ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The matter had been under consideration. As the honourable member knows, under special circumstances this reduction in the number of pupils took place. Those circumstances are undergoing a change, and therefore no definite policy can be laid down now.

Mr. J. S. KADRI : Will it not now be possible to place this institution under the Lady Superintendent of the Training College, when the Training College has got only one or two classes now instead of three or four as in the past ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : No, Sir.

CIVIL COURT, TASGAON : PROPOSED ABOLITION.

*Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Bombay University) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that they intend to abolish certain civil courts in the District of Satara ;

(b) if so, whether the civil court at Tasgaon is one of the courts proposed to be abolished ;

(c) whether they have received in regard to it any representation from the members of the public of Tasgaon including the members of the Tasgaon Bar ;

(d) whether the suggestions contained and the scheme propounded therein as an alternative proposal have been considered by Government ;

(e) whether they are aware that the abolition of Tasgaon Court is likely to cause great inconvenience and injustice to the population of the surrounding areas and consequent dissatisfaction among the people ;

(f) whether they had ascertained public opinion before resolving upon the abolition of Tasgaon Court ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS : (a) and (b) The court at Tasgaon is the only court abolished in the district.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) Some inconvenience is inevitable, but owing to the improvements in the methods of communication the inconvenience is not likely to be serious.

(f) Both Government and the District Judge received numerous petitions from the public, and these were duly considered before orders were passed.

IRRIGATION CIRCLES AND DIVISIONS : DECCAN.

*Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) the names of the Circles in the Public Works Department Irrigation Works in the Deccan and the names of the Divisions and sub-divisions under these Circles as they stood in each year from 1915 to 1930 with the names of the officers attached to them;

(2) the engineering, agricultural and other educational qualifications of the officers who held the posts together with their duties and dates of appointment;

(3) the names of the officers not transferred for the last ten years with reasons for not transferring them;

(4) the period for which these officers are proposed to be maintained in the same posts, and the figures of the increased or decreased irrigation revenue collected since their appointment;

(5) the reasons for retaining all these circles and incurring heavy expenditure;

(6) whether irrigation revenue is regularly decreasing day by day?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (1) and (2) A statement* showing the names of the Circles in the Public Works Department Irrigation Works in the Deccan and the names of the Divisions and Sub-divisions under these Circles as they stood in each year from 1915 to 1930 is placed on the Council table. As regards the names and qualifications, etc., of the officers who held these posts, Government consider that the labour and time involved in the collection of the detailed information would be incommensurate with any public purpose which it might serve.

(3) There are no such officers.

(4) Does not arise.

(5) The Circles are necessary

(a) for the efficient administration of the Deccan Canals;

(b) owing to the need for scientific research work on various kinds of soils in the interest of agriculture and irrigation; and

(c) for the introduction of improved methods of irrigation.

(6) No, except to a small extent during the last three years ending 1929-30.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: Is it not the case that Mr. Inglis has not been transferred for the last 10 years and is in charge of the special division from 1917?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The reply refers to other officers. Mr. Inglis is a specialist officer for that work. There are no other officers who have not been transferred for the last 10 years. Mr. Inglis has not been transferred for the last 10 years because there are not many officers for his kind of work, and therefore in his case a transfer could not take place at all, as transfers take place in the case of other officers.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: What are his special educational qualifications?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The honourable member knows them very well.

Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI: I asked the same in the question now being replied to, but the reply printed in the list of questions and answers is that it was laborious work to collect all that information in one place. How am I to know them offhand ?

*Kept in the Secretary's office.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Does he possess any special qualifications for the post, or any degrees from anywhere, or any special knowledge as an expert ? Is it for that reason that he is kept there ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : He has special qualifications. He has been to America and to several other places to study this particular subject.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : Does he possess any diploma ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Next question.

EDUCATIONAL INSPECTOR, N. D. : TOURS.

*Mr. A. K. RESALDAR (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of days the Educational Inspector, N.D., was out of headquarters during each month from April 1930 to July 1931 and the amount of travelling allowances drawn by him for each of those months ;

(b) how many times he visited Surat during this period and what were the reasons for those visits ;

(c) whether it is a fact that he generally remains on tour ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : (a) and (b) The accompanying statement gives the information.

(c) No.

Statement.

Month.	Number of days out of head-quarters.	Amount of travelling allowance drawn.	Number of visits to Surat.	Reason for visits to Surat.	Remarks.
		Rs. a. p.
April 1930 ..	15	228 2 0	1	Inspection of Proprietary English School.
May 1930 ..	20	309 9 0
June 1930 ..	11	188 7 0	1	Inspection of the foundations of the Sir P. T. buildings to be built, saw the site of the Municipal buildings.
July 1930 ..	21	243 1 0	1	To attend a meeting of the District School Board.
August 1930 ..	18	152 9 0	1	Inspection of (1) Sir J. J. English School, (2) I. P. Mission High School and (3) N. G. Jhaveri Jain High School.

Statement—contd.

Month.	Number of days out of head-quarters.	Amount of travelling allowance drawn.	Number of visits to Surat.	Reason for visits to Surat.	Remarks.
		Rs. a. p.
September 1930..	16*	29 7 0	..	....	* The Educational Inspector did work on behalf of the University during a major portion of this period.
October 1930 ..	22	194 13 0	1	To attend Sir P. T. Building Scheme Committee meeting.
November 1930..	17	87 13 0	..	....	The Educational Inspector did work on behalf of the University during a major portion of this period.
December 1930 ..	18	167 6 0	1	Inspection of Union High School.
January 1931 ..	23	259 13 0	1	Inspection of T. and T. V. Sarvajanik High and Middle Schools and to preside over the Sir P. T. Building Committee meeting.
February 1931 ..	19	179 15 0	1	To preside over the Sir P. T. Building Committee meeting and to examine two teachers in S. T. Examination.
March 1931 ..	24	270 5 0	1	Inspection of Government High and Middle Schools.
April 1931 ..	16	249 2 0	1	Inspection of Senior Assistant Deputy Educational Inspector's office, saw construction of Sir P. T. Buildings at two places.

Statement—concld.

Month.	Number of days out of head-quarters.	Amount of travelling allowance drawn.	Number of visits to Surat.	Reason for visits to Surat.	Remarks.
		Rs. a. p.
May 1931 ..	8	155 11 0	1	To see Sir P. T. Buildings at Velak, Narthan, Rankuva, Vanzana, Nizar, Tarbhon and Ambheti.
June 1931 ..	14	213 10 0	1	Inspection of Proprietary English School.
July 1931 ..	17	166 1 0	1	Inspection of (1) N. G. Jhaveri Jain High School, (2) Sir J. J. English School and (3) I. P. Mission High School, etc.

HEAD MASTER, JALGAON: URDU SCHOOL.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ (Central Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Nuruddin Shaikh Vazir, the Head Master of the Urdu School at Jalgaon, District East Khandesh, was suspended on 4th November 1928 or thereabout and dismissed on 1st February 1929 by the Jalgaon Local authority;

(b) whether Government have held the decision of the local authority in that matter to be illegal: if so, whether that decision has been communicated to the local authority through the Commissioner;

(c) whether Government are aware that in spite of the orders of Government the local authority at Jalgaon have passed a resolution dismissing him a second time on 28th November 1930;

(d) whether Government are aware that a deputation waited upon the Minister of Education in this matter, and he replied on 28th August 1930 that the appointment of Nuruddin had been confirmed and that orders to reappoint him had been sent to the local authority;

(e) whether Government are aware that Nuruddin has not been reappointed as yet?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Yes.

(b) Government held that the dismissal of the teacher was irregular and called upon the Municipality through the Commissioner, Central Division, to hold regular proceedings against the teacher.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) He was reinstated on 1st December 1931.

SIND CANAL RULES: APPLICABILITY TO KARACHI DISTRICT.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the rules framed in 1918 for canals in Sind are equally applicable to all the districts in Sind;

(b) whether these rules are applicable to old canals also or only to new canals;

(c) whether Government have ascertained about the inconvenience and hardship caused to the zamindars by the application of these rules to the old canals;

(d) whether Government are aware of the Commissioner in Sind's circular No. 1/6285, dated 29th July 1925;

(e) whether Government are aware that a zamindar of taluka Mirpur Bathoro, district Karachi, was fined under section 11, paragraphs 1-6, Sind Canal Rules and on an appeal, the Collector referring to the Commissiner's circular No. 1/6285 of 29th July 1925 cancelled the fine under his No. 323, dated 4th September 1930;

(f) whether Government are aware that several zamindars have been similarly fined and owing to ignorance of the Commissioner's circular have not made any appeal;

(g) whether Government intend to take any action in the matter?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) and (b) The Sind Canal Rules, 1918, applied to all Canals in Sind except as provided in rule 20 thereof. These rules have since been superseded by the Sind Canal Rules, 1930.

(c) Government are not aware of any such hardship.

(d) Yes.

(e) The zamindar referred to is, it is presumed, Syed Bachalshah Haji Shah Mahomed Shah. His fine in respect of "Peech Badal" was remitted. The fine imposed on him for having unauthorisedly occupied Government land by excavating a karia was not remitted.

(f) Government have no information on the subject.

(g) No.

BARRAGE CANALS: RICE CULTIVATION.

*Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that for the cultivation of rice crops in the Karachi District water must be made available for at least 90 days;

(b) whether it is a fact that under the existing circumstances water generally becomes available in the canals of the Karachi District towards the end of May and remains available up to the end of August;

(c) whether it is a fact that in the post-Barrage conditions water cannot become available in Karachi District canals as at present (i.e. ninety days beginning from the end of May to the end of August);

(d) if the reply to (c) is in the negative, by about what date water will become available in 1932 under the Barrage conditions in Karachi District and till about what date it will last;

(e) whether they are aware that a belief is gaining ground in the Karachi District that the water supply in the Karachi District will be curtailed as a result of the Barrage operations;

(f) whether they are aware that the Zamindars and Jagirdars Association of the Karachi District have passed a resolution to the effect that the zamindars in the District should not undertake rice cultivation unless Government convey a definite assurance to them that water for rice cultivation will be made available towards the end of May and will remain available towards the end of August;

(g) if the reply to (e) is in the affirmative, what is the real position of the Karachi District in regard to the supply of water necessary for rice cultivation?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) Yes, as a general rule.

(b) Most of the canals in the Karachi District are ordinarily opened in the first week of June and they continue in flow until the end of August or beginning of September, depending on the level in the Indus.

(c) No, this is not accepted as a fact.

(d) It will depend entirely on the water level of the Indus which cannot be forecasted.

(e) Government are aware that some such apprehension exists.

(f) Yes.

(g) The whole question of supplies to the canals in the Karachi District under post-Barrage conditions has been fully dealt with in the Press Notes† issued on 25th May 1923 and 13th January 1927.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: With regard to (b) the reply is that:

"Most of the canals in the Karachi District are ordinarily opened in the first week of June and they continue to flow until the end of August or beginning of September, depending on the level in the Indus."

May I understand that at least some canals in the Karachi district are ordinarily opened in the last week of May?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: If the honourable member reads the whole reply, he will find that some may flow in May also, because it depends on the level of the Indus.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: But from the answer to (b) one thing is clear that at least some canals are opened in the Karachi district in the last week of May, as has been stated in my question.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The Pinyari and Baghar canals are open in the last week of May.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: These are the two main canals that command a large area of cultivation in the Karachi district. At least half the area is commanded by these two canals.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: You cannot say half.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: Anyway the reply to my question (c) does not stand, because my question is whether it is a fact that under the post-barrage conditions water cannot become available in the canals of the Karachi district towards the end of May and remain available up to the end of August. The answer is that it is not accepted as a fact. This answer does not stand since it is admitted now that Pinyari and Baghar canals are opened in last week of May.

† Copies are kept in the Secretary's office.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: It all depends on the level of the Indus. Sometimes it may be in the third week of May. Nobody can control the vagaries of the Indus.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: The answer to (d) is: "It will depend entirely on the water level of the Indus which cannot be forecasted." The answer to my question (g) says: "The whole question of supplies to the canals in the Karachi district under post-Barrage conditions has been fully dealt with in the Press Notes issued on 25th May 1923 and 13th January 1927." My submission is that the answer given in (g) contradicts the answer in (c), because the forecasts have been made in the press notes, one in 1923 and the other in 1927.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: It is merely an estimate. No forecast can be made. It is commonsense that nobody can control the river Indus. It may rise one year and may fall in another year.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: In normal abkalani, is it possible to give water supply to lower Sind in the beginning of the abkalani season?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: It is likely.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: There is no question of likelihood. I have been definitely referred to the press notes in answer to (g). These press notes definitely forecast the level of the Indus under post-Barrage conditions To my question (d) the Honourable the General Member says that it will depend upon the water level of the Indus; and so it cannot be forecasted. My contention is that the forecasts have been made, to which I am referred in (g).

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: We cannot say for certain. The conditions may change. How can anybody control the vagaries of the Indus?

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: Then the press notes are wrong.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: They are merely estimates. My honourable friend must differentiate between an estimate and a forecast.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID: Shall I be allowed to read from the press note? It is not an estimate but a forecast. Even if it is an estimate, it is synonymous with a forecast.

CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT APPOINTMENTS: BACKWARD CLASSES.

*Mr. R. B. SHINDE (Satara District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of posts in the following grades of the Co-operative Department:—

(1) Assistant Registrars;

(2) Special Auditors;

(3) I Grade Auditors;
(4) II Grade Auditors;
(5) Sub-Auditors of the grade of—
(a) 105—5—140;
(b) 85—5/2—100;
(6) Clerical posts in the grade of—
(a) 150—5—200;
(b) 105—5—140;
(c) 85—5/2—100?

(b) How have the above posts been held by the persons of the following communities:—
(1) Brahmins, Prabhus and other advanced classes;
(2) Backward Hindus and Muhammadans;
(3) Depressed Classes?

(c) How many permanent appointments were made during the last three years (after the issue of Government Resolution, No. 5011, dated 26th September 1928) in the various grades mentioned in (a) and how many were given to candidates of backward classes?

(d) Is there any qualifying test for the appointment of Auditors and Sub-Auditors?

(e) If so, has it been rigidly observed when the appointments of Auditors and Sub-Auditors were made during the years 1929-30-31?

(f) In how many cases was it not rigidly observed and why?

(g) Were there any candidates from backward classes with qualifications similar to those of some of the persons confirmed as Auditors in the years 1930-31?

(h) Was there already a majority of advanced class Auditors in service then?

(i) If so, why were persons from backward communities with similar qualifications not appointed as Auditors as per Government Resolution, No. 5011, dated 26th September 1928?

(j) Are there any such persons who have still not been appointed Auditors and, if so, what are the reasons therefor?

(k) If there is no qualifying test for the Sub-Auditors were the claims of backward class candidates considered as per Government Resolution, No. 5011, dated 26th September 1928, when the appointments of Sub-Auditors were made during the years 1929-30-31?

(l) How many persons from the backward communities who have fully passed the G.D.C.A. Examination have not yet been appointed as Auditors?

(m) Are posts of Auditors which fall vacant temporarily filled by the appointment of such fully qualified persons from backward classes?

(n) If not, what are the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) (1) 8 Assistant Registrars, including the Deputy Registrar in Sind and the Personal Assistant to the Registrar.
(2) 3.
(3) 12.
(4) 32.

(5) (a) 22.
(b) 5.
(6) (a) 3.
(b) 10.
(c) 11.
(b)

—	Brahmins, Prabhus and other advanced classes.	Backward Hindus and Muhammadans.	Depressed classes.	Total.
(1) Assistant Registrars	6	2	..	8
(2) Special Auditors	3	..	..	3
(3) I Grade Auditors	9	3	..	12
(4) II Grade Auditors	29	3	..	32
(5) Sub-Auditors—
(a) Rs. 105—5—140 grade ..	11	11	..	22
(b) Rs. 85—5/2—100 grade ..	2	3	..	5
(6) Clerks—
(a) Rs. 150—5—200 grade ..	3	..	..	3
(b) Rs. 105—5—140 grade ..	7	3	..	10
(c) Rs. 85—5/2—100 grade ..	6	5	..	11
Total ..	76	30	..	106

(c) The following permanent appointments were made in the different grades mentioned below :—

—	Advanced.	Backward.	Total.
Auditors—Rs. 150—5—200	3	....	3†
Head Clerks—Rs. 150—5—200	1	....	1†
Sub-Auditors and Clerks—Rs. 105—5—140 ..	9	2	11
Sub-Auditors and Clerks—Rs. 85—5/2—100 .	4	6	10

(d) Yes; the auditors have to pass the examination for the Government Diploma in Accountancy or the Government Diploma in Co-operative Accountancy. In recent years, the same standard has been applied in making appointments to the Rs. 105 and Rs. 85 grades also.

(e), (f) and (k) The test was observed rigidly in the case of auditors in the years 1929-30-31. As regards sub-auditors it was applied in the years 1930 and 1931 in making all appointments to these posts but this wasnot done in the year 1929 as no qualified candidates were forthcoming. In that year six promotions to Rs. 105 grade and five to Rs. 85 grade were sanctioned by the Registrar. In the former grade two posts were given to the members of the backward classes and three in the latter.

†No candidates with the necessary qualifications were then available from the Backward Classes.

(g) Yes, one.

(h) Yes.

(i) The individual referred to in clause (g) was not considered sufficiently experienced for appointment as Auditor but he was appointed as Sub-Auditor in preference to, and over the heads of, equally qualified and more experienced candidates belonging to advanced classes.

(j) Yes. One—the individual referred to in clause (g). The reasons are given in clause (i).

(l) One.

(m) Not necessarily.

(n) Many persons with longer service, and the same qualifications, stand above the candidate referred to in clause (g). The latter has been given special promotion twice.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: With regard to (b) in the list of assistant registrars, special auditors, clerks, etc. out of a total of 106 persons, there are only 30 backward class members including Mahomedans. Is it not necessary to speed up the proportion according to the Government Resolution issued by Government?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Every effort will be made to enlist members from the backward classes whenever vacancies occur, provided duly qualified persons are forthcoming. I assure the Honourable the Deputy President that every care is being taken and will be taken in this respect to give effect to the Government Resolution referred to.

LIQUOR LICENSES, RACE COURSES, BOMBAY AND POONA.

*Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): Will Government kindly state—

(a) the number of temporary liquor licenses given to stalls in the race courses at Bombay and Poona;

(b) the amount received in fees per license;

(c) the kind of liquor served, viz. country or foreign;

(d) the number of shops vending foreign and country liquors, within a radius of one mile from the race courses at Bombay and Poona, and the amount of license fee each pays for his license?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) Two.

(b) Rs. 5 per license for every race meeting.

(c) Foreign.

(d) Statement furnishing the necessary information is placed on the Council table.

Statement showing the number of shops vending foreign and country liquor within a radius of one mile from the Race Courses at Bombay and Poona and the amount of license fees paid for each license for the year 1931-32.

Serial No.	Shop.	Annual license fee.	Remarks.
	BOMBAY.	Rs.
	(Country liquor.)
1	No. 51, Moreland Road	14,546
2	,, 85, Dhobiwady Road	8,159
3	,, 99, Tardeo Road	5,459
4	,, 111, Haines Road	5,328
5	,, 113, Arthur Road	10,328
6	,, 128, Tardeo Road	4,178
7	,, 156, Clerk Road	5,698
8	,, 193, do.	5,688
9	,, 194, do.	14,845
10	,, 227, Haines Road	5,931
11	,, 231, Arthur Road	5,711
12	,, 238, Junction of Haines and Ferguson Roads.	7,358
	(Foreign liquor.)
1	R. R. No. 22, Lamington Road ..	2,150	The licensees have to pay besides these fees, assessment on actual sales.
2	,, 40, Ripon Road	2,150
3	"On" No. 23, DeLisle Road ..	12,500
4	,, 49, Arthur Road.. ..	1,350
	POONA.
	(Country liquor.)
1	Boottee Street	18,000
2	Gutta Street	17,100
3	Main Street	47,000
4	New Modikana	28,227
5	Sholapur Road	6,000
6	Wanowrie	11,000
7	Cavalry Lines	13,000
	(Foreign liquor.)
	"Off" Shops.
1	Mr. C. C. Noronha	No fixed license fee is charged but the licensees have to pay assessment on actual sales.
2	,, P. Cornfield
3	,, R. D. Nicholson
4	,, N. M. Nicholson
5	Messrs. Nusserwanji Sorabji and Sons ..
6	Mr. Byramji Bizanji
7	Messrs. Edulji and Company ..
8	Mr. Merwanji Cawasji
9	Messrs. Mathar and Company ..
10	,, Dorabji and Company ..
11	,, Phipson and Company (for sale of milk punch).
	R. Rooms.	Rs.
12	Mr. E. Muratore	350	The licensees have to pay besides these fees assessment on actual sales.
13	,, P. Cornfield	75
14	Messrs. F. Cornaglia	350

Mr. A. N. SURVE: With regard to part (a) which says, that there are two licenses, does it mean two licenses for Bombay and two licenses for Poona ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Two for Bombay and two for Poona.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: The temporary licensees pay only Rs. 5 per meeting, whereas the regular licensees pay amounts in thousands, as is stated in the statement at page 28 of the Questions and Answers List. I am reading from column 3 against Bombay (Foreign liquor): One is paying Rs. 2,150; another, the same amount; a third, Rs. 12,500; and a fourth, Rs. 1,350. Has the Honourable Minister taken a note of the disparity between these fees and the sum of Rs. 5 levied in the race-course ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: The honourable member quoted the annual licence fees. Rs. 5 is for a day. Besides Government gets a still head duty for consumption.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: Will the Honourable Minister state the reasons for giving licences within the enclosure when there are 16 licences in Bombay and 21 licences in Poona within a one mile radius of the race-courses ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Does the honourable member expect that after the fatigue of a race meeting the racegoers would travel one or two miles for a glass of beer or brandy ?

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: They may get some outing also if they do so.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: Had the licences for shops within the enclosures not been issued, would not the customers have gone to the shops of regular licensees outside ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is hypothetical.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: Is Rs. 5 quite enough for the licences ?

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: On what basis is this fee fixed ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: It is found convenient to continue the fee of Rs. 5.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: That is no answer to my question, Sir. On what basis is this Rs. 5 fixed ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: That is the fee fixed some time ago and that has been continued.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE: Why not auction these shops, just as you auction the shops in the vicinity, instead of having a fixed fee of Rs. 5 ?

Dr. V. G. VAISHAMPAYAN: Will not the auction system bring more revenue to Government ?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: This is only for fourteen days; however, I will bear the suggestion in mind.

Prevention of Prostitution Act: Application.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state what are the areas in the presidency to which Bombay Act XI of 1923 (Bombay Prevention of Prostitution Act) has been made applicable?

(b) In how many cases has any action been taken in each area under that Act up to 31st July 1931 and under which section of the Act such action was taken and the result in each case?

(c) Do they propose to apply the provisions of the Act to the City of Nasik and to Pandharpur?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) The whole Act as amended by Act XII of 1930 has been made applicable to the Bombay Suburban District and to the towns of Karachi, Poona and Belgaum. Certain sections of the Act have been made applicable to the towns of Hyderabad, Ahmednagar, Ahmedabad, Nasik and Dhulia.

(b) A statement giving the requisite information is placed on the Council table.

(c) Certain sections of the Act have already been extended to Nasik. The extension of the Act to Pandharpur is under consideration.

Statement showing the number of cases filed under the Bombay Prevention of Prostitution Act, XI of 1923, with their results.

Year.	Number of cases filed.	Sections.	Result.
			Convictions.	Acquittals or discharges.
Hyderabad (Sind).
1926	1	5(1)	1	..
1927	10	5(1)	6	4
1928	1	5(1)	..	1
	3	3	2	1
Poona.
1930	1	3	1	..
1930	1	3(b)	1	..
1931	3	3	2	1
1931	1	3(b)	1	..
Ahmednagar.
1925	1	6	..	1
1927	1	6 and 8	1	..
1927	1	3	1	..
1928	4	6	2	2
1928	2	3	1	1
1928	1	3 and 6	1	..
1929	3	6	1	2
1929	1	3(b)	1	..
1930	2	6	2	..
Karachi.
1923	2	5	2	..
1924	13	5	11	2
1925	10	5	9	1
1926	15	5	14	1
1927	9	5	9	..
1928	6	5	6	..
1929	8	5	7	1
1930	12	5	12	..
1931	5	5	4	1

TERRITORIAL FORCE, NASIK DISTRICT.

*Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): (a) Will Government be pleased to lay on the Council table a statement giving the names of the members of every District Branch Committee of the Indian Territorial Force, mentioning the steps taken by each Branch to promote and popularise recruitment to the force?

(b) Is there any Branch Committee of the Indian Territorial Force for the Nasik District; if not, will they be pleased to state what measures the Administrative Commandant Adjutant of the Territorial Battalion has decided to adopt to raise the quota for the District of Nasik?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) A statement is placed on the Council table. Lectures have been given in villages and leaflets have been distributed showing the advantages of service in the Territorial Force.

(b) No; no quota has been fixed for any district; the paucity of applicants from the Nasik District has been such as to render it undesirable in the interests of economy for the Officer Commanding the Unit to proceed there to enrol recruits.

Statement giving the names of the members of the various District Branch Committees of the Indian Territorial Force.

Bombay.

1. Dr. P. G. Solanki, M.L.C.
2. Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar.
3. Rao Bahadur S. K. Bole.
4. Mr. I. S. Haji, Bar-at-Law.
5. Captain J. A. D'Souza, B.A.,
6. Mr. Mathew DeCruz,
7. Mr. A. N. Surve, B.A., LL.B.,
8. Mr. G. B. More.*
9. Hazi Ismail Rakudia.
10. Mr. Syed Munawar, B.A.
11. Mr. Hasan Ali P. Ibrahim.

Ahmednagar.

1. Mr. Dayabhai Velji.
2. Mr. Bharao Deorao Patil.
3. Rao Saheb Govind Suraji.
4. Mr. N. E. Navle, M.L.C.
5. Sardar S. B. Thorat.
6. Captain Shaikh Yasin.
7. Subhedar Major Nalavade.

Poona.

1. Mr. G. M. Kalbhor, M.L.C.
2. Mr. Babasahib Krishnarao Jadhav.
3. Mr. Rajaram Patil Tupe.
4. Mr. Shivram Ramji Patil Gunjal.
5. Mr. Pandharinath bua Ramdas Kabirbua..
6. Mr. Ladbhau Sakharam Khandge.
7. Mr. Haribhau Anaji Patil Bute.
8. Shrimant Laxmanrao Gulabrao Kadam.
9. Mr. Anantrao Krishnarao Jagtap.
10. Mr. Madhavrao Bhaurao Nigade.
11. Mr. Sakharam Balkoba Inamke.

Satara.

1. Risaldar Shaikh Haider.
2. Mr. R. G. Rane.
3. Mr. B. A. Kale.
4. Mr. Papamiya Kadarkhan.
5. Mr. Anandrao Abaji Kadam.

Sholapur.

1. Khan Bahadur Shaikh Ismail Karim.
2. Reverend Hazen.
3. Lieutenant A. V. Jakhal.
4. Lieutenant Gaud, Assistant Recruiting Officer.
5. The Mamlatdar of Sholapur.

*Note.—The correct name is Mr. G. B. Nare.

Belgaum.

1. The Collector (Chairman).
2. The Assistant Collector, Northern Division.
3. Mr. B. K. Dalvi, LL.B.
4. Mr. Bhimrao Patil.
5. Subedar Babaji Chalke.
6. Mr. Narayanrao Shitole.
7. Meherban T. N. Desai.
8. Meherban B. G. Desai.
9. Rao Bahadur V. A. Angol.
10. Mr. V. A. Desai.
11. Mr. A. A. Patil.
12. Mr. Shahazadesaheb Inamdar.
13. Mr. James Arlikatti.
14. Mr. S. V. Bhati.

Bijapur.

1. Rao Saheb Shivashiddappa Virappa Sarnaik.
2. Sardar Sangappa Amingouda Sardesai.
3. Rao Saheb Shivlingrao Jagdevrao Deshmukh.
4. Rao Saheb Gurlingappa Gurusangappa Motgi.
5. Khan Bahadur I. M. Bedrekar.
6. Mr. Dowalatrao Subhanba Jadhav.
7. Mr. Rudrappa Basapa Chalwadi.
8. Mr. Tulsigereppa Khanappa Desai.

Dharwar.

1. Diwan Bahadur S. V. Monsinkai.
2. Sardar Laxmanrao alias Dadasaheb Hublikar.
3. Sardar Mahaboobalikhan Biradar Nawab.
4. Mr. D. B. Deshpande.
5. Mr. G. A. Hiremath.
6. Mr. Nagappa Inamati.
7. Mr. S. S. Malimath, B.A., LL.B.
8. Khan Saheb Mahamad Gous walad Abdulla Saheb Khudavand.
9. Mr. Parvatgouda Kallangouda Patil.
10. Rao Saheb G. C. Tenginkai.
11. Mr. Bhujanrao alias Balasaheb Davalatrao Ghorpade.
12. Mr. B. H. More.
13. Mr. Puttraj Madiyer K. Madiyer.
14. Mr. Chandasaheb walad Faridsaheb Chigaralli.
15. Captain A. G. Jadhav.

Kanara.

1. Rao Saheb Balkrishna Purushottam Naik.
2. Lieutenant Jogi Naik.
3. Khan Saheb Sayad Idrus Sayad Hussein.
4. Mr. Ramnaik D. Gaonkar.
5. Mr. Timma Koira Naik.
6. Rama Bhicku Naik.
7. Mr. Shiva Nilkant Naik.
8. Mr. Venkatrao Narayan Telang.
9. Mr. Nilba Balso Gaonkar.
10. Mr. Sukru Ramchandra Naik.
11. Mr. Hussein Khan Haidarkhan.
12. The Mamlatdar of Karwar.

Ratnagiri.

1. Rao Bahadur L. V. Parulekar, President.
2. Mr. Shantaram Narayan Dabholkar.
3. Subedar Sitaram Gavde.
4. Captain S. N. Ghogle,
5. Subedar Sitaram Parab.
6. Subedar Major Daji Sawant.
7. Subedar Sabajirav Shivajirav Rane.
8. Subedar Mhadshet Kokate.
9. Subedar Ganpatrav Jadhav.
10. Subedar Vithojirav Patole.
11. Sardar Bahirji Kanoji Raje Shirke.
12. Subedar Balajirav Ghag.
13. Subedar Raghunathrav Hanmantrav Chavan.
14. Subedar Major Ramajirav Kadam.
15. Havildar Gopal Anajirav Bhonsale.
16. Mr. Jagatrav Babajirav Bhonsale.
17. Khan Saheb Munirkhan Dost Mahamadkhan Sarguro.
18. Jemadar Sudam Balu Shirke.
19. Naik Hanmantrav Ganpatrav Shirke.
20. Mr. Sakharam Bhivbarav Gujar.
21. Mr. Balaji Madhavrav Ghosalkar.

Kolaba.

1. Captain Sakharamrao Jagtap, Sardar Bahadur, President.
2. Subedar Major Babajirao Dalvi.
3. Subhedar Gopal Waje.
4. Subhedar Babajirao Sawant.
5. Mr. Ramchandra Baburao Mane.
6. Mr. Devoorao More.
7. Mr. Nathoo Mahadevrao Choudhari.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: Will the Honourable the Home Member kindly refer to the names given of Bombay members? The name given against serial No. 8 is "G. B. More." Is that correct? My information is that it is "G. B. Nare."

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: I cannot answer that question now, but will find out and make the correction if necessary.*

Vide* foot-note at page 455.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

BORING MACHINES: LOAN TO LOCAL BODIES.

Khan Bahadur D. B. COOPER (Satara District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many boring machines have been purchased by them during the last ten years?

(b) What is the book-value of these machines?

(c) What is the cost per machine of each class or type of these machines?

(d) From what budget heads the cost of these machines was met?

(e) Is it a fact that the boring machines were purchased for exploring water sources mainly for the benefit of the agriculturists?

(f) What was the annual net expenditure on maintaining and working these machines since the year 1924-25?

(g) How many boring machines are now lying idle with the Government due to stoppage of boring activities?

(h) What is likely to be the annual depreciation in value of these machines if they are kept idle as at present?

(i) Have any Local Boards offered to work these machines for the benefit of the agriculturists at their own cost?

(j) Were the requests of such Boards granted?

(k) If not, what were the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) 59.

(b) The book-value on 31st March 1931 was Rs. 2,14,049-12-0.

(c) The cost of each type of machine was as shown below:—

	Rs.
6" Armstrong machine with equipment ..	10,175
6" F-3 power calyx drill with equipment ..	16,920
5" G-3 power calyx drill with equipment ..	9,850
4" G-31 power calyx drill with equipment ..	7,160
3" Hand exploratory boring machine with equipment.	1,900

(d) 43-A, Famine Relief.

(e) Yes. 45 hand exploratory boring machines, 13 power calyx drills and one Armstrong machine were purchased in the years 1924-25 and 1925-26 for this purpose.

(f) The figures are:—

Year.	Expenditure. Rs. a. p.
1924-25	11,651 14 7
1925-26	42,048 15 7
1926-27	54,966 15 1
1927-28	69,554 1 7
1928-29	43,845 10 4
1929-30	58,385 13 9
1930-31	38,763 11 6

(g) 78.

(h) Rs. 9,651-1-6.

(i), (j) and (k) Between 1923 and 1929, ten District Local Boards applied for boring machines and 20 machines were given on loan to them. Of these, 17 machines were worked by 9 District Local Boards with the help of the Departmental staff paid by the Boards direct. One District Local Board worked the remaining 3 machines with its own staff. Requests made by two District Local Boards in June 1929 and January 1931 had to be refused on account of the curtailment of the boring operations.

SIND CANAL RULES: APPLICABILITY TO KARACHI DISTRICT.

Mr. GHULAM HYDER SHAH (Karachi District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the rules framed in 1918 for canals in Sind are equally applicable to all the districts in Sind;

(b) whether these rules are applicable to old canals also or only to new canals;

(c) whether Government have ascertained about the inconvenience and hardships caused to the zamindars by the application of these rules to the old canals;

(d) whether Government are aware of the Commissioner in Sind's circular No. 1-6285, dated 29th July 1925;

(e) whether Government are aware that a zamindar of taluka Mirpur Bathoro, district Karachi, was fined under section 11, paragraph 1-6, Sind Canal Rules, and on an appeal, the Collector referring to the Commissioner's circular No. 1-6285 of 29th July 1925 cancelled the fine under his No. 323, dated 4th September 1930;

(f) whether Government are aware that several zamindars have been similarly fined and owing to ignorance of the Commissioner's circular have not made any appeal;

(g) whether Government intend to take any action in the matter?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) to (g) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to a similar question† by Mr. Shaikh Abdul Majid.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS OF DISTRICT LOCAL BOARDS IN SIND.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH (Hyderabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number, the names and qualifications of the administrative officers serving in the various local authorities, i.e. (district local boards) in Sind;

(b) whether they were directly recruited by local authorities, or whether their services were lent by Government to the local authorities;

(c) the total period of service of each administrative officer and the service rendered by him to the local authority;

(d) the amount of pay and allowances, if any, drawn, by each administrative officer at present and the purpose for which each such allowance is paid;

(e) the amount of their contribution to local authorities by way of grant on account of the pay and allowances of each administrative officer?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) The accompanying statement gives the information required:—

†Printed in to-day's Debates.

State

No.	Name of Administrative Officer.	Qualifications.	District Local Board under which serving.	Whether directly recruited by the Local Authority or services lent by Government.
1	2	3	4	5
1	Mr. Abdul Haq Abdulla Shaikh.	Matric ..	Karachi ..	Lent by Government.
2	Mr. M. S. Memon ..	B.A., S.T.C.D.	Hyderabad ..	Do.
3	Mr. Jan Md. A. Kazi ..	Matric, S.F., S.T.C.	Nawabshah ..	Do.
4	Mr. A. W. Musavi ..	B.A. II (Hons.), B.T., M.A. (Aligarh).	Thar and Parkar.	Do.
5	Mr. Md. Ibrahim Md. Kasim Sumra.	B.A., S.T.C.D.	Sukkur ..	Do.
6	Mr. A. G. Kazi ..	B.A. II (Hons.), S.T.C.D.	Upper Sind Frontier.	Do.
7	Vacant ..	....	Larkana.	....

ment

Present pay.	Allowance if any.	Total service on 1st January 1932 (to nearest year).	Service under the Local Authority on 1st January 1932 (to nearest year).	Proportion of pay and allowance contributed by Government to the Local Authority by way of grant.
6	7	8	9	10
Rs.		Years.	Years.
680	Compensatory allowance of Rs. 65.	27	5	The whole.
390	....	17	5	The whole.
290	....	16	3	Two-thirds.
300	....	10	2	Two-thirds.
590	Personal pay Rs. 60.	25	5	The whole (as regards pay). Nothing (as regards personal allowance).
390	....	15	5	The whole.
....	....	....	....	....

BOMBAY FINANCE BILL

Question again proposed :

" That the Bill be read a first time."

Mr. J. G. MORE (Sholapur District) : As I have already stated, Sir, the Electricity Duty Bill makes a provision which gives scope to Government to show favouritism and partiality. The proviso to clause 5 is the best illustration in point.

It has been contended by some honourable members that this duty will not touch the pockets of the poor. Sir, I beg to differ from that view. To me it appears that the pockets of all classes alike—rich, middle and poor—are sure to be touched. We must take into consideration the indirect as well as the direct effect which this piece of legislation will have upon the poor people. Directly the rich and the middle classes will suffer most, but indirectly the effect of this legislation will be to tax all classes. For instance, if this tax is levied, the marketing value of all articles will necessarily be raised. Shopkeepers will be required to pay this duty first, but they in their turn will realise the duty from their customers. Now, you cannot say that only the rich and the middle classes resort to these shops and the poor abstain from doing so and buying articles. Therefore, the indirect effect of this legislation is to tax the poor as well. So there is no force in the contention that the pockets of the poor will not be touched. It may be that the poor are not so much affected as the rich and the middle classes. But it will reduce their salt.

The third and the fourth parts of the Bill deal with court-fees and stamps. Sir, these are the parts in which the agriculturists and the poorer classes are concerned most. More than 90 per cent. of the tax realised by Government from the court-fees comes from the pockets of the poorer classes. In the civil courts in the mofussil, it will be seen that 75 per cent. of the parties are agriculturists. Whether they go there as plaintiffs or as defendants does not count : the costs are borne usually by the defendants. In the civil courts the defendants are mostly agriculturists, and they will therefore have to bear the cost. This measure will therefore necessarily fall heavily on the agriculturists and the poorer classes. The enhanced fees cannot be justified in the present circumstances. The agriculturists all over the presidency are affected in a great degree by the slump in prices. They find it very difficult to pay the revenue assessment even. They are forced to sell their bullocks, carts and other necessary implements for agricultural purposes. That itself will go to show that if this Bill is passed, the state of the agriculturist will be reduced to simple and pure poverty. I beg to submit that parts 3 and 4 of the Bill are not in the interests of the agriculturist but they are highly detrimental to his interest. I shall try to impress upon the honourable members on the Government side one fact. There is now a huge jump in the excise revenue. This fact, which was anticipated by some members of this House, has been corroborated by newspaper reports. Let the Government take that fact into consideration. Let them take into consideration also the state of the agriculturists and the poorer classes in the whole Presidency.

[Mr. J. G. More]

Then I think that they will be pleased to withdraw at least parts 3 and 4 in the interests of these classes. If Government do not withdraw parts 3 and 4, then I think it is the duty of honourable members on this side of the House to oppose the Bill altogether and throw it out in the first reading.

Mr. A. N. SURVE (Bombay City, North): Sir, Government have submitted proposals for additional taxation to this House. In this connection I would like to mention the difference of outlook which exists between the official and non-official benches. Sir, the official benches can afford to take short views. They can afford to be shortsighted. But the opposition has to take a very long view. Because the consequences—good or evil—of its actions are to be borne by itself and the people whom it represents. It cannot afford to be nearsighted. The officials are pressed with their immediate needs and that fact to a very great extent obscures their vision. But we on this side have this advantage, that we can look at questions from a dispassionate point of view. Therefore, Sir, when the Honourable the Leader of the House yesterday asked us to support the taxation proposal for the reasons which he gave, I was not greatly surprised. The reasons which he gave are in themselves diametrically opposed to the duty of honourable members of this House—at least the non-officials—which they owe to the public and the Presidency.

Sir, when we come here, we come here to guard the interests of the Presidency as a whole and not of any particular section of it. If the Government are thinking that they are specially merciful to the agriculturists, I deny that. They are barely doing their duty. They are giving protection, according to their opinion, to the people. But later on I shall show how the agriculturists are treated in my constituency. To that matter I shall refer later.

First of all, I must submit my credentials when I am speaking here to-day; coming as I do from an urban constituency, it may be lost sight of that I represent the agriculturists. I represent the agriculturists, not of one district, but of all districts that are in the Presidency. I request honourable members to bear in mind that I occupy the reserved seat. I am here as the representative of the Maratha and the allied castes who form the agriculturists class. You know, Sir, that the agriculturists from the mofussil when they have no harvest work come to Bombay to earn their bread as labourers. They are variously estimated at from 6 to 8 lakhs in my constituency. On behalf of those 6 to 8 lakhs I am speaking. Again, I am speaking, not for one district, but on behalf of the people coming from several districts that constitute this Presidency.

Now, Sir, I come to the burden of taxation on the agriculturists. I am only referring to my constituency, and in my constituency, I shall tell you that even the stamp duty presses hard against the agriculturist whom I represent. Will anybody challenge me when I say the agriculturist in Bombay has to bear the court-fees tax, the stamp tax, etc.? I am reading from the Government's Blue Book—I am reading from the

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

Report on the Administration of Civil and Criminal Justice in the Bombay Presidency for the year 1930. I am not referring to the High Court. I am referring to the Small Causes Court where the labourers are dragged—they do not go there of their own accord—they are dragged to that court by the money-lenders, the corn dealers, the landlords and various others. Now, Sir, what is the state of things in the Bombay Small Causes Court? Government report shows that the number of suits instituted in the Bombay Small Cause Court was 41,113 in the year 1930. So many labourers were dragged to that court. The cost fell upon them, and they had to pay the court-fees eventually.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: (Observing two or three honourable members standing on the floor of the House and engaged in conversation) Order, order. The ordinary rule is that only one member who has possession of the House stands. I see three members standing at the same time. [Laughter.]

Mr. A. N. SURVE: This figure, Sir, is increasing. I may say here that there was an increase in the institution of suits and that was due to the fact that there was unemployment. Had there been no unemployment, had the times been normal, these labourers would have satisfied their creditors and the Small Cause Court would have had less work.

Then, Sir, I might give the amount of total litigation. The total value of suits amounted to Rs. 85,27,000; which means that the labourers in the city of Bombay paid to the Government ad valorem duties on these 85 lakhs in one year. Can anybody say now that the Court-fees Act does not press on the agriculturist in the city of Bombay?

Then I come to the next point. Some of the members from the mofussil think that they can transfer their burdens to urban areas and especially to Bombay. They consider that Bombay is an El Dorado and that they can shake the golden tree and ask Government to gather pagodas there. But, Sir, has anybody taken the care to notice what amount of burden is borne by the city of Bombay? I am quoting from another blue book, the Annual Statistical Tables relating to the working of the Stamp Department. I am quoting from there for the information of honourable members what is the total amount which the Presidency—I am excluding Sind—paid for judicial stamps in the year ending 31st March 1931. The whole Presidency yielded a revenue of 74 lakhs, out of which Bombay city alone gave 29 lakhs, i.e., more than a third—nearly 40 per cent.— of the court-fees stamps were paid for by my constituency alone.

Then as regards general stamps. The total income from the Presidency came to 54 lakhs out of which 30 lakhs were contributed by my constituency, Bombay City. That comes to more than 50 per cent. Therefore, Sir, Bombay City, where these agriculturists come to earn their bread, is made to bear a greater portion of this burden than any other district singly.

Now, let me mention the fact that the prosperity of our Presidency rests on the well-being of Bombay City. If Bombay city is there, the agriculturist from the mofussil can come here and win his daily bread. But if this city falls, the agriculturists will not get that income which at present they are getting from Bombay city. Therefore, it ought to be the special care of honourable members from the mofussil to take care of their Presidency town. It should not be that they should isolate from their consideration this unhappy city of Bombay. In their attempt to shift the burden from the rural to the urban areas, that is what they are doing. Bombay city, I am saying, is on the downward grade. The prosperity of Bombay is declining. The prosperity of Bombay lies upon its port; and what is the state of affairs at present? Port of Karachi is competing with Bombay; the Kathiawar ports are competing with Bombay. To-morrow, when Sind is separated, Karachi will go away from us. The Kathiawar ports are diverting our trade, and if we go on imposing additional burdens, I warn Government that Bombay will lose its premier position. If you want that Bombay as a Presidency town should not fall down, then it is the duty of this Council to take care that Bombay is not saddled with more burdens. Sir, during the past 10 years what amount of taxation has Bombay city borne? Let me mention a few facts. I am reading from the Memorandum prepared by the Government of Bombay for submission to the Indian Statutory Commission; I am reading from page 601. There you will find that during the past 10 years Bombay has submitted to the following items of additional taxation: the cotton cess, that was introduced in the year 1920; the Entertainments Tax, that was introduced in 1922-23; then the betting tax, that was introduced in 1925-26. Then there was the Transfer of Property Tax Act; that was in 1926, and again in 1931 we had the Bookies' Tax; and on the top of these there have been the Stamp Act and the Court-fees Act. All these burdens have been heaped upon Bombay City, and if Bombay is sought to be burdened with still further taxation I must say that it will break the proverbial camel's back. I might also state from the same source the amount of actual taxation which has been paid from these additional sources. Now, the figures which I am giving are only for 5 years, i.e., from 1921-22 to 1926-27, because the memorandum does not give figures for the subsequent period. From those figures, it will be seen that cotton cess has yielded Rs. 1,16,00,000; General Stamps, Rs. 75,00,000; Court fees, Rs. 18,00,000; Entertainment Tax, Rs. 35,00,000; betting tax, Rs. 20,00,000; and the Transfer of Property Tax, Rs. 5,00,000. If you total up these figures, you will get the colossal figure of Rs. 2,69,00,000. Please take note that this is merely additional taxation, not taxation out of normal and ordinary sources. This is taxation which has arisen as a result of the enhancement of the ordinary rates of taxes and duties or the imposition of fresh duties, and the major portion of this large amount has been given by Bombay city alone.

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

Therefore, when honourable members from the mofussil try to heap burdens upon Bombay City, do they pause for a minute and consider the pitiable position of Bombay? I appeal to them that before they consent to accept the Government proposal they should pause and consider.

Then, Sir, I go to the next point, and that point is very important. I am referring to the correspondence that has passed between the

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

Government of Bombay and the Government of India. I ask the Honourable the Finance Member whether the Government of India are not considering the appropriation of the Stamp revenue for themselves. That is a matter which you will find is dealt with in this memorandum on page 584. There you will notice that the Government of India are thinking of having the revenue arising out of the stamps for themselves, and in this fashion if you go on developing this source of revenue by pressing us, and if this revenue at a later date goes to the Government of India, what will be the position of the Government of Bombay ? I am reminding the Government of Bombay about income tax. Income tax was developed by the Government of Bombay in the pre-Reform days, under the belief that a share of it would come to them. But what has been their fate ? Their fate has been that in spite of all this labour which was undertaken by them, the fruit of it has been appropriated by the Government of India. Therefore, I earnestly mention this fact that let us not inflate our Stamp revenue, so that it may not create a temptation in the mind of the Government of India.

Then, Sir, I come to the form of the Finance Bill. The Honourable the Finance Member has presented this Bill, and has informed us that we are adopting the practice which is followed in the Legislative Assembly. But as regards the form, I submit that the form in which the Finance Bill is presented to this House is faulty. I am sure the Honourable the Finance Member has looked up the Finance Bills of the Legislative Assembly, and if he has done that, I am quite sure that he must have found that the form adopted by our Government is faulty. I might just mention this fact that, when a Finance Bill is introduced, it pre-supposes that there are Revenue Acts already on the statute book, and for matters of revenue only those particular items in them are amended for the time being ; i.e., the rates are increased or decreased. But here, what do we find ? We find that three separate Acts, one of which is an altogether new piece of legislation not yet brought upon the statute book, are tied together in a string and placed before us, and we are told that this is the Finance Bill and we must accept it. In that case, if this is the proper form, will the Honourable the Finance Member point out to me where in a Finance Bill a provision is made for a penal clause ? In the Electricity Bill there is actually a penal clause. Where is a single Finance Bill in which you will find a penal clause ? By presenting the Bill in this form, we are unduly deprived of our privilege of examining a piece of legislation which is to come upon the Statute Book. Now, Sir, a penal clause is a matter of principle. If we accept the Electricity Bill, or that part of the Finance Bill which deals with the surcharge on electricity, what will be our position to-morrow ? To-morrow, we would not be able to say, "Delete the penal clause," because that is the clause which gives the sanction. But, situated as we are to-day, we cannot call in question the penal clause ; we cannot say whether it should remain or should not remain there. That is our difficulty. In presenting the Bill in this form, I submit that there is a grave invasion of the privileges of this House as well as of the parties that are affected by it. The Honourable the Leader of the House made the novel suggestion, "Accept the first reading of this Bill; let it go to the select committee, and when it goes to the select committee, you make any change you like in the select committee, and we will allow you to do that." But when the Bill goes to the select committee and it is brought again here for second reading, at that time we will not be in a position, to say "Delete this penal clause," because when we accept the first reading, we accept the Bill as it is, we swallow it whole-meal. Therefore, in submitting the proposal in this form, we are unnecessarily hampered, and I request the Honourable the Finance Member to realise our difficulty.

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

Then, Sir, in the Electricity Bill, the Honourable the Finance Member has in his mind only three parties, the supplier, the consumer and the Government. But in the city of Bombay there is a fourth party also, of which he does not appear to have taken notice, and that fourth party is the landlord. In Bombay city every tenant has not his own meter. In the residential premises which are let out as single room tenements, there is a single meter which stands in the name of the landlord or the house owner. He pays the charges to the supplier, and he charges a fixed rate to his tenants. Therefore, if this duty is levied, the consumer will be subjected to a double tax. He will be subjected to the tax of the Government, and in addition to that he will be subjected to the tax of the landlord. In this way, are Government showing pity to the agriculturists that are in the city of Bombay? He is a victim of so many forces over which he has no control. There is the political agitation; there is the trade union agitation; there is the depression. He is subject to these various factors. To-day, he finds that he is not getting any employment; on the top of that the Government of India are raising their taxation, and side by side our Government are also trying to press the screw still further.

Where will the poor agriculturists go? In this Rs. 2,69,00,000 representing the additional taxation, the Bombay city has contributed a large share during the last 5 years. What is the return that the agriculturists residing in Bombay city have received? I shall come later on to the extra privileges that are given to these people in the city. Take primary education. In the city of Bombay education is free but not compulsory. In the mofussil free and compulsory education is a living thing. In the city of Bombay the progress of education has been arrested by the litigation between the Government and the Corporation. So, in the matter of education, the Bombay labourer suffers and there is nobody to give extra facilities for his children. That is for education. Take medical relief in Bombay. Within the course of the last two or three months, in the hospitals of Bombay 140 beds have been abolished by Government. Accommodation for 140 patients has been done away with. That is another privilege! Up to now, any man having an annual income of less than Rs. 1,800 per annum had the privilege of going to the hospital and getting treatment free. Now, even a beggar in the street, even though he has not got a pie with him, cannot get medical relief from Government hospitals, unless he pays one anna per day for medical relief at the out-door patients' Department!

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

Mr. E. W. PERRY: It is not so, Sir. The medical officer has discretion to waive any charge.

Mr. A. N. SURVE: I am thankful to the honourable member the General Secretary for mentioning that the discretion vests in the medical officer. Let me respectfully tell him that the out-door patient does not know who the medical officer is. When he goes to the clerk, he says, "Put down one anna." How can a patient go to the medical officer, who is in his office, he is not at the desk of the registrar, because registration work in Bombay hospitals is done by clerks? Thus, the out-door patients have to pay one anna per day. As regards the in-door patients, the charge is two annas per day. So, the poor agriculturists, if they go to the out-patients' dispensary, have to pay one anna and if they want to go as in-patients, they have to pay two annas per day or be deprived of medical relief altogether. So, in the matter of education as well as in the matter of medical relief, the poor agriculturists are made to suffer.

Then, we come to justice. Here the labourer never goes to seek the protection of the law. But he is dragged there by his creditors. Therefore, whether he is willing or unwilling, he is dragged to the court and the burden of additional taxation falls on him. Therefore, if the Government are solicitous about the interests of the agriculturists, I request them to withdraw this taxation proposal.

Sir, look to the critical condition in which we are situated. The finance committee of the Round Table Conference is actually in India. In the course of a few months, it will be coming to Bombay perhaps, and if at that time you show that you have plenty of resources in reserve, at the time of the allocation of provincial revenues, your case will be lost, just as you lost at the time of the Meston Settlement. The reason why you lost it is that you had crores of rupees in reserve. Now, if you show that the presidency is able to pay additional taxation, what you will get is only a patronising pat on the back and you will be told: "You are very well off. You can manage your house very nicely. We will give you "Shabaski" but we will not give you any additional sources." If we throw out the proposal for additional taxation or if the Finance Member is kind enough to see his way to accept my suggestion and withdraw the Bill, what will happen? The heavens will not fall down. I am just reading from the speech of the Honourable the Finance Member where on page 8, in last sentence he says:

"The total loans to which we have been committed to meet deficits in the annual budgets amount to 198 lakhs, and the annual burden on the revenues of the loan charges calculated on a 30 year basis will amount to approximately 15 lakhs."

What he says is that we have to pay the 198 lakhs loan in equated instalments in 30 years. He wants to repay the loans already raised to meet the deficits by equated payments. Situated as we are, the best course would be to make provision for these 25 lakhs, representing the proceeds of the Finance Bill, from borrowings, the interest on which will come to a fraction of a lakh. What advantage will the Government obtain by adopting that proposal? Government will have their weapon in their hands and they can say: "We submitted our proposal for additional taxation but it was rejected. The non-official side of the House is not in favour of imposing any further burden, because it is not possible for the people to subject itself to any more burden of taxation. Unless some new sources are given to the presidency, we will not be able to balance our budgets." Therefore, if this proposal is rejected by the House, it will strengthen the hands of Government indirectly. I request the Honourable the Finance Member to take a note of that. I know that our Bombay Government is a debtor and unfortunately it is a debtor who is in the unhappy position of not being able to manage to pay its own expenses out of its revenues and therefore has to borrow. Sir, you know in ordinary life what the position of such a debtor is in the eyes of the creditor. The Government of India is our creditor. But the Bombay Government are not able to place their claims boldly in regard to the Meston Settlement before the Government of India, because they are in the position of a debtor who lives on borrowed money and not on his income. Therefore, my humble request to the honourable members from the mofussil is that they should reject this Bill as statesmen who have the real interest of their presidency at heart should do. I appeal particularly to those members who think that because this additional burden will be thrown on the city areas they can join hands with Government and vote for the Bill. What has been the history? The Stamp Bill was introduced for the first time for two years only. What is our experience? From the year 1922 till to-day, it has remained there. Even at that time it was shown as an emergency measure. The same arguments were brought forward. I warn you that the one year duration clause is only the thin end of the wedge. If you accept taxation for one year, next year you will have to consider whether it should not be extended for one year more. Then, we will be in the same pitiable position and we will have the repetition of the same arguments which we have been hearing for the last so many years. Government have attempted on many occasions to make the additional stamp revenue a permanent source. Are you going to submit to that kind of treatment? I submit that it is your duty as honourable members of this House to take a long view. You see the present depression. In view of the suffering that is borne by the people this time at least you have to be considerate to all the people of the presidency alike, whether they live in cities or in rural areas and therefore you should either ask the Finance Member to withdraw the Bill or reject it yourself. I for one oppose the first reading of this bill.

[Mr. A. N. Surve]

Mr. A. B. ACHREKAR (Satara District): Sir, in rising to speak on the first reading of this Bill, I want to express my views on the nature of this taxation Bill so far as it relates to the agriculturists, whom I have the honour to represent. I have heard that this Bill has been brought before this House to meet the deficit. I do not know myself whether this deficit is due to the short-sightedness of the honourable members on this side or whether it is due to the Government policy.

[Mr. A. B. Achrekar]

Somehow or other I do feel, and I want to record my protest, that this deficit is the direct outcome exactly of the Government policy which has been followed for the last 10 or 12 years. The Honourable the Finance Member in his forcible and lucid arguments has shown to us that Government must somehow find money, as they have to meet the expenditure and therefore money must come from somewhere. I do not agree with the view taken by the Honourable the Finance Member. An honourable member who is not now here (the honourable member from Belgaum, Rao Bahadur Angadi) gave his view that the consolidation of the various Bills into one Bill was right: in doing so, he used some expressions, which were objected to by this House, regarding the attitude taken by some of the honourable members here as regards this consolidation. I say, Sir, that that honourable member's view is not correct at all. This consolidation is, in my humble opinion, very unhappy. I have read the Bill brought in the Assembly: that refers to items of taxation which affect all sections of His Majesty's subjects. But in this Finance Bill, Part II refers to the urban population, Parts III and IV to Bombay as well as to the mofussil, and Part V again to the cities only. The honourable member for Belgaum might be labouring under the impression that the form of the Bill is the right one, but this side of the House has shown that it is opposed to this consolidated form of the Bill.

Sir, referring to the deficit, my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Patil has attributed it to the vagaries of the seasons. I do not know what revenue head has lost on account of the vagaries of the seasons. I do not see eye to eye with my honourable friend. I certainly say that this deficit is due to the policy of the Finance Department. I do not wish to be misunderstood: I do not attack the present Honourable the Finance Member. I know he has simply inherited a legacy. But certainly, in my opinion, the Finance Department of the Government of Bombay, has been muddling up the finances and has been going on just on the lines of an Accountant-General's office. They have not applied that prudence which they ought to have, in the past years. Sir, I do appreciate the necessity of a balanced budget. But if the budget cannot be balanced, would it not be wise policy to retrench expenditure rather than ask more money from the already overtaxed people? To make up the deficit, what are the remedies suggested? I believe there are two schools of thought among financiers, one believing, when there is not enough revenue, in cutting down the expenditure, and the other in increasing taxation well adjusted and well laid out. I believe, Sir, that India, and especially our Presidency, is in such a state that Government in the Finance Department should follow the first school of thought, namely, the one that believes in reducing expenditure rather than increasing taxation. It is taking this view that this side of the House resents the attitude of the honourable members of the Cabinet coming to this House for money.

[Mr. A. B. Achrekar]

I wish to show that this deficit can be wiped out if there is reasonable retrenchment. In the course of his speech the Honourable the Finance Member stated :

"It is clear, if we assumed that the maximum retrenchment possible as a permanent measure has already been carried out, that there would be no hope left of this presidency ever again balancing its budget until a new settlement adds to its resources. Government, however, have no intention of abandoning hope in this manner and they therefore have decided to obtain the best expert advice in investigating whether it is possible by reorganisation to reduce our general expenditure to a figure more consonant with our resources."

From this passage I do infer that the Honourable the Finance Member has got a hope ; he has not abandoned every hope of finding sources of further retrenchment. As Government have appointed a retrenchment committee, I do presume that they do anticipate—the Finance Department ought to say that they have a clear forecast—that there are still certain possibilities of retrenchment.

Sir, before the Finance Department come forward with proposals of further taxation they must be certain that there is sufficient taxable capacity left in the people who are to be taxed. The honourable member Dr. Gilder has already quoted the Honourable the Finance Member who said in 1924-25 that the taxable capacity in this Presidency had been reached and that people could not bear further taxation. So, I would not repeat that quotation. But I wish to quote Professor K. T. Shah, who was considered an authority in this matter by the Honourable the Finance Member, who quoted him when moving the Succession Duty Bill. This is what Professor Shah says :

"The average Indian income is so small that it is quite insufficient to meet even all the primary wants of man, of food, clothing and shelter.

"Assuming that the last is relatively unimportant under Indian conditions, and that the first absorbs two-thirds of the total income, the remaining third being enough to cover all the rest, the average Indian income is just enough either to feed two men in every three of the population (or give all of them two in place of every three meals they need) on condition that they all consent to go naked, live out-of-doors all the year round, have no amusement or recreation, and want nothing else but food and that the lowest, the coarsest, the least nutritious ! So, if they must meet all the other wants and require some clothing, however primitive, some house-room, however wretched, some distraction however primitive, they must consent to getting only one meal in place of every three they absolutely require."

Therefore, on the authority of Professor Shah, I say that the taxable capacity has been reached. I would also quote on this point a higher authority—Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the Prime Minister. He says :

"India needs more State expenditure : India cannot stand an increase in the burden of taxation."

This is from his work "The Government of India." Therefore, Sir, the Prime Minister, Professor Shah, who is a financial authority, and our Finance Member, all have come to the conclusion that the taxable capacity has been reached. Therefore, the only possibility of financing the budget lies in reducing expenditure. I would ask the honourable members of the Cabinet whether they really and sincerely think that the taxable capacity has not been reached. I find the Honourable Ministers are not here : I wanted to ask especially the Honourable Minister for Agriculture whether he really thought that this fresh taxation would be easily borne by the people. [An Honourable Member : You repeat that question when he comes back]. Therefore, my humble advice to the opposite benches is that the only solution is to curtail expenditure. Government should cut their coat according to the cloth and they should see whether there are possibilities of further retrenchment or not.

[Mr. A. B. Achrekar].

Sir, one of the arguments against retrenchment is that efficiency will suffer. But I believe, Sir, that efficiency does not always go with high salaries. I would quote an example. We read the other day that Sir Leslie Wilson, our late popular Governor, who was drawing here a very high salary (Rs. 10,000 per mensem) has accepted the post of Governor of Queensland, where his salary will be only £ 3,000 per annum, or about Rs. 2,500 per month. I am not going to accept the proposition that he will work in Queensland with only one-fourth of the efficiency with which he worked when he was the Governor of Bombay. So, I hold that efficiency does not always depend on high salaries. I would also say that as our country is poor, it cannot afford to have a highly efficient administration. The country should be given the administration it deserves. I cannot accept a proposition that for efficiency's sake one should run into debt; if I cannot afford a higher priced car, I must be content with a Chevrolet or Ford. This talk of efficiency should not be raised when we talk of retrenchment at this time. I am sure that there are other administrations in India which are carried on at a much less cost.

I am especially against the second, third and fourth parts of the Bill. I would vote for the fifth part of the Bill if it stood alone. But I cannot see my way to vote for this consolidated Bill. Parts III and IV affect the poor. I come from a constituency which is purely agricultural. I find that the condition of the agriculturist is really pitiable. Government themselves have admitted it; the Honourable the Revenue Member declared that he would give some remissions and suspensions, and thereby he has admitted the inability of the people even to pay the land revenue. The Honourable the Leader of the House asked us, honourable members coming from the mofussil, to consult our constituencies. In this connection I would give my personal experience. If the honourable members representing constituencies in the mofussil were to go to their constituencies and ask them whether they should vote for this measure, they would not get any hearing. It has been admitted that it is impossible in these times of agitation to get any hearing from any public body. But if it were possible, they would say, "Do not vote at all." But I would ask the Honourable the Leader of the House that instead of asking the mofussil representatives, he should request honourable members from Bombay City, as they could immediately go back and refer the question to their constituencies whether their voters stand for any further taxation. I am sure that the voters of Bombay would not give their consent to their representatives voting in favour of this taxation. It has been admitted that the Congress is the best organised party of the country. It has also been admitted by moderates and persons like myself who want to adopt constitutional methods, that it is not possible to reach the people and that the voice of the Congress people only can reach the ears of the people. Therefore, I would again request the Honourable the Leader of the House to induce members from Bombay City to make a referendum and come to this House with a mandate that they can vote for this taxation measure. [Interruption.] I suggest that there is a possibility of further retrenchment and balancing the budget instead of coming forward with fresh taxation. I am bound to suggest some means by which you can effect this retrenchment. I would, first of all, say that Government have not carried out any retrenchment in the Police Department as such. I do not say that in the present situation the executive force should be touched, but I would suggest that we should do away altogether with the prosecuting branch of the Police Department. That would result in a saving of Rs. 1,50,000. The work can be given to local pleaders who are loyal to Government and they may be paid Rs. 5 or Rs. 10 per day for doing such work. Of course, some honourable members may think that my suggestion is to get more work for persons of the legal profession. But I am not making this suggestion with that view. I would say that there are certain people who would work for the Government and thereby Government would save a large amount of money. Another objection might be put forward that confidential matters relating to the Police Department may leak out if this work is entrusted to pleaders———

[Mr. A. B. Achrekar]

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: How is all this relevant to the discussion, Sir?

The DEPUTY PRESIDENT: The honourable member is perfectly in order in so far as he is showing various ways of retrenchment.

Mr. A. B. ACHREKAR: Under the Evidence Act, I say this discussion is relevant when I am to show that there is no necessity for fresh taxation. I am within my limits in showing how to effect retrenchment and avoid fresh taxation. [Interruption.]

The DEPUTY PRESIDENT: Order, order. Let the honourable member proceed.

Mr. A. B. ACHREKAR: Some objection may be raised that the confidential matters of the Police Department may go out and be made known to the public. But the public prosecutors have to deal with more important sessions cases and they all are recruited from the bar and not from the police service. The police cases are small petty cases which are handed over to the prosecuting inspectors and sub-inspectors to conduct. I do not understand the argument that confidential cases will not be safe in the hands of the members of the bar.

The second source of retrenchment which I would suggest is under land revenue. I would mention the expense incurred by District Deputy Collectors in touring their sub-divisions, at the time of Anewari and Pikpahani. I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member —unfortunately he is not here—to get information whether the District Deputy Collectors have been still touring for Pikpahani, when the crops have been harvested long since. What they do is to see the clerks and talatis and get information from them second-hand. But they tour at a time when there is not a blade of grass or any corn in the fields. They are simply following red-tapism. As a matter of fact there would be absolutely no work for them, if efficient mamlatdars are posted in the talukas. The Government have accepted the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee as regards the abolition of the posts of Huzur Deputy Collectors, but in my opinion District Deputy Collectors are also of no use because the only work they do is to transfer the work of the mamlatdars on to the Collector.

[Mr. A. B. Achrekar]

Then there is the Forest Department. Honourable members coming from the Central Division would bear me out when I say that the Central Division has no valuable forests. The works of the Forest Department can be handed over to the Public Works Department or the Revenue Department. I do not know myself whether the forests in the Central Division do give any income. I request the Honourable Minister in charge of the Forest Department to please take my remarks into consideration. I think that in the Central Division there is no necessity of keeping this Forest Department containing highly paid officials.

Again, some saving in the Public Works Department is possible. Take my district of Satara, for instance. My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale will bear me out when I say that no buildings have been constructed during the last 8 or 10 years. The senior Executive Engineer has to see whether the roads have been macadamised—roads only 300 or 400 miles long. I think the Public Works Department in the district of Satara is spending more on its establishment than on its work.

Then I come to the delicate question of expenditure on account of the promulgation of ordinances. Unfortunately, the civil disobedience movement has affected trade and commerce. It is known to this House that the Imperial Government is deriving an income of something like 20 crores from this Presidency. Therefore, this expenditure, which is extraordinary expenditure, should be borne by the Imperial Government. I therefore request the Honourable the Finance Member to see his way to refer the matter to the Government of India and induce that Government to bear this extraordinary expenditure on account of the civil disobedience movement, because all the heads of revenue affected by the civil disobedience movement belong to the Government of India.

My objection to the consolidation of this Bill is this: Parts 3 and 4 do affect the agriculturists—whether they be in the mofussil or in Bombay. I agree with the honourable member Mr. Surve that Bombay is not inhabited only by the rich people. Seventy-five per cent. of the Bombay population come from the mofussil and they too come here to earn their livelihood or supplement the income of their families in the mofussil. They go to their homes every year, and the earnings they get in Bombay are very useful to them for supplementing their income in the mofussil. I therefore very strongly object to these parts which affect the agriculturists. I request that members opposite should give an assurance, as my friend Rao Bahadur Patil suggested yesterday. Unless the Honourable the Finance Member gives an assurance, I cannot see my way to support the Bill as it stands. I do not know whether my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Patil has received that assurance or not, but he spoke of it yesterday. I would willingly vote for Part 5 without any compunction. But on account of this unhappy and unfortunate consolidation, I would ask for some assurance to be given by the Government benches. In that case only I will be able to vote for the first reading of the Bill, otherwise I shall be compelled to oppose it.

[Mr. A. B. Achrekar]

Mr. N. E. NAVLE: Will the honourable member who has just spoken kindly say what kind of assurance is required from the Honourable the Finance Member, whether he wants that the agriculturists should be exempted from the operation of the Stamp Act?

Mr. A. B. ACHREKAR: My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Patil has thrown out a suggestion on the floor of the House that if the Government assures us—I want to repeat and strengthen what my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Patil said yesterday—that these rates can be reduced in the select committee and that the Bill, as far as the Court-fees and Stamp Acts, are concerned, will maintain the rates as they prevail to-day without any increase in the rates, we will see our way to support the first reading.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not know whether that kind of assurance can be given by any member on the Government benches at all. When the Bill is referred to the select committee, the whole committee would have the authority rather than any one member of Government. The Honourable the Finance Member will be the chairman of the committee and he may use his good offices. That is all that he can do. There is another point. Even after the Bill comes out of the select committee, the House has the possession of it.

Rao Bahadur D. R. PATIL: May I say a word, Sir? As the honourable member referred to me, I have to say something to him——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No, no. The honourable member cannot speak now.

Dr. J. ALBAN D'SOUZA (Bombay City, South): Mr. President, I rise to make an appeal to this honourable House with all the earnestness at my disposal to request honourable members, when covering the ground of the principle of the Bill that is now before the House, to exercise every care so as not to trip into that rather facile pit of giving the dog a bad name in order to be able to hang him. Sir, judging from the remarks of my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale and some other honourable members who spoke in the same strain, there seems to be a fairly remarkable tendency to hang even the new and rather satisfactory acts of the Government on the old pegs of heedlessness, extravagance and prodigality. There is also one other tendency. It is this: that in all our important debates, in all matters of provincial importance that come up on the floor of this House, there is a fairly remarkable tendency of thinking in terms of our respective constituencies regardless of the interests of and the broad outlook we ought to have on the Presidency as a whole.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Sir, coming now to the question at issue, that is, the principles of the Finance Bill, there are, I believe, two pertinent and basic questions which every honourable member of this House ought to give the most careful attention to, in arriving at a decision as to whether he is going to vote for the Bill or vote against the Bill. The first question is: what justification have Government got to introduce this measure; and the second: is the justification justifiable? Besides these two questions of basic importance, there are certain details connected with the Bill; such as the manner in which the measure has been introduced, and the form in which the same has been done. However irksome and irritable these may be, I would certainly consider, and I hope the House will agree with me, that these, after all, may be deemed to be of secondary importance. Objections have been raised that rather meagre publicity has been given to this Bill before it came in this House. This may be right, this may be wrong. Whether right or wrong, it is surely a matter of secondary importance. Secondly, serious objections have been raised to the omnibus form in which the Bill has been presented. The Bill as it has come for consideration before this Honourable House contains Part II, the Electricity Duty, Part III, the Court-fees, Part IV, the Stamp Duties, and Part V some other duties on certain instruments in certain cities. Sir, apart from the fact that the omnibus presentation is merely a copy of what is being done, not only in the Assembly but in several parts of the world, there is no doubt that in the case of this particular Bill it happens to be an unfortunate circumstance. This arises no doubt from the fact that the principle of a new and novel form of taxation has been coupled with the principle of a form of taxation already in existence; but, Sir, as I say, these matters are of detail, and being of detail, I think they ought to be deemed to be of minor significance and importance. To my mind, these should not prove a bar to the Bill being sent to the select committee, where measures may be adopted, as has been suggested from several sides of the House, to so modify, for example the Electricity Duty Bill, as to suit the interests of company, consumer and Government.

Coming, Sir, now to the questions which I have stated are of basic significance, the first question is: what justification have Government got for introducing this measure? Sir, my reply is that there is not only a justification for it, but it is a decided need. It is not only a decided need, but it is an immediate need. It is an emergency measure, no doubt, and fortunately as the amendment that has been tabled, tells us, it is an emergency measure to last for only one year. Government is in urgent need of the receipts for purposes of the government of the Presidency. Is the justification justifiable? Coming to this question, the main justification to my mind, and I hope it will appeal to other honourable members of this House, is that Government, during the last two years and a half, as I indicated in my budget speech, have given an earnest, and a thorough earnest of their desire to exercise the utmost possible economy in the expenditure of the government of this Presidency. I shall give a few facts in proof of my statement. From the time when, during the latter half of 1930, the economic depression with the consequent fall in revenue was pressing heavily upon the finances of Government, Government introduced a process of economy. We are told that practically Rs. 43,00,000 were saved in the course of the year 1930-31. I have also indicated in my budget speech how, in addition to the cuts which had been recommended by the Retrenchment Committee in their ad interim and final reports, amounting to savings to the tune of Rs. 117 lakhs, the Government have on their own, irrespective of the Retrenchment Committee's recommendations, effected a cut of no less than Rs. 37 lakhs. Now, I ask the honourable House where comes the room for that absolute fastidiousness on the part of certain honourable members in not believing that Government have done their level best in exercising economy during the last two or three years? I am not referring to what was done 12 or 15 years ago, but I am referring to the sincere effort which has been made by Government during the last two years, which effort I heartily believe will be carried on by Government. They have already given an indication that they will.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

Sir, referring to the 10 per cent. cut, a remark was made by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale that it should not have been a cut of 10 per cent. all round, but that it should have been a graduated cut according to the salaries on which the cut is imposed. But, Sir, it must be remembered that this suggestion of a 10 per cent. cut has come to us from the Government of India, and this Government has acted up to the suggestion which came from the Government of India. Now, an assurance is asked for that a graduated cut will be exercised or brought into force by Government. Well, all I say is that Government have given a real earnest of their desire to exercise the strictest possible economy, and the honourable House must take it for granted that Government is in real earnest to achieve this result. I was rather surprised at the remarks made by the honourable member Dr. Gilder, when he had a tirade on the work done by the Retrenchment Committee in bringing about the retrenchment they have effected. I was very pleased, however, to note that the Honourable Minister for Local Self-government, who happens to have been the Chairman of the Retrenchment Committee, has done full justice to the work which the Retrenchment Committee has done in effecting such a large saving. Sir, in addition to all this, Government have given yet a further thorough earnest of their desire to exercise economy. There was an announcement made by the Honourable the Finance Member that an expert committee for the reorganisation and reconstitution of the administrative machinery of Government is going to be appointed shortly.

I wish to refer next to the suggestion put forward by my honourable friend Mr. Petit regarding the Electricity Bill. I personally believe, Sir, that the suggestion, if taken up, would ease the condition of the consumer, upon whom the burden is likely to lie. In reference to the same, the Honourable the Revenue Member made a suggestion that in case a levy was taken from the company and not the consumer, the shareholders would suffer. I personally think, Sir, and I hope the House will agree with me, that it is better that the burden is taken off the consumer and put upon the shareholders, because the shareholders, after all, have the money to buy the shares with and are therefore financially in a better condition than the poor consumer.

[Dr. J. Alban D'Souza]

The very happy idea of my honourable friend the Finance Secretary of moving an amendment to the effect that this Bill should be in existence for a period of one year only has certainly been most opportune. It is an emergency measure, and as such it ought to be a mere experimental process, with the object of determining after a year, whether the Bill ought to continue or ought to be eliminated. I do not wish to take up more time of the House, because previous speakers have done ample justice to it—I would only refer to the remark of my honourable friend Dr. Gilder, when he appealed to the good sense and patriotism of the members of this honourable House. In considering this Bill I appeal to them to look broadly to the interests of the Presidency as a whole, and give their assent to the Bill that is now under discussion.

Dr. J. A. COLLACO (Bombay City, South): Sir, the speech of the Honourable the Leader of the House, yesterday, was the most extraordinary speech that I have ever listened to. The whole of yesterday's speech was devoted to the representatives of the agriculturists. He told them that, as this tax would not affect them, they should vote for the Bill. He went further and told them that if Government had enough of money, they may give more remissions, and lastly he referred to the soft corner which the Honourable the Revenue Member had for the Sind members. I congratulate the Honourable the General Member on the mass conversions he has made in this honourable House by touching the most sensitive nerve, the nerve that supplies the stomach. Sir, I appeal to the honourable members to lay aside petty considerations, to take loftier and higher view, and do justice, be it to the agriculturists or be it to the townspeople.

Sir, I am a new member in this House. I want to ask a question to the honourable member Rao Bahadur Angadi. Is it or is it not a fact that the Bill for enhanced court-fees was passed last time in this honourable House with the active support and co-operation of the members from the districts, while the Bombay members strenuously opposed it? It does us good sometimes to examine our conscience. Sir, I am against the Electricity Bill. Electricity, to a city, is not a luxury; it is an absolute necessity. It is as necessary as light and air. There are people in Bombay who never see light during the greater part of the day. The only light that illumines their dingy homes is the light supplied by the Bombay Electric Supply and Tramways Company. It is cruel to tax these people half an anna per unit. I agree with the honourable members that have preceded me that it is very bad finance to raise loans to cover deficits. But we are living in extraordinary times and extraordinary times require extraordinary measures. I would ask the Honourable the Finance Member whether it is possible to utilise part of the Famine Fund, which has been dwindling, to cover part of our deficit. After all, we could have no greater famine than what we are having in these days. There is pecuniary famine in every Government department. I should like to know whether part of this Famine Fund could not be thus utilised. I wish every success to the honourable member the Finance Secretary in his mission to Delhi to give evidence before the Federal Finance Committee. The mistake we made before the Meston Settlement should not be repeated. Just before the Meston Settlement, the Bengal Government did not balance its budget whilst Bombay Government did. The result was that the Bengal Government was treated generously by the Meston Committee, whereas the Bombay Government was treated like a step-child by that committee. Therefore, the honourable member the Finance Secretary should go to the Federal Finance Committee and tell them that we cannot balance our budget, that our coffers are empty and that we have lost our financial moorings. He must impress on them that, unless the Central Government give us the whole of the income-tax and a part of the customs duty, we shall not be able to extricate ourselves from this financial morass.

[Dr. J. A. Collaco]

Lastly, the honourable member the Finance Secretary said that a person in Bombay city pays 5 annas to the provincial exchequer. If there is an individual in this city who lives on free-hold land, who does not drink, who does not smoke, who does not eat opium or ganja, who does not burn firewood, who does not go to any entertainments as cinema or theatre, who does not go to the race-course, or who has no children whom he has to educate, if there exists such an individual, he may be paying 5 annas to the Bombay Government. But it will be easier to find a needle in a hay-stack than such an individual——

Mr. G. WILES: The honourable member is entirely misinterpreting me. I was merely illustrating the fact that a large proportion of the taxes which are collected in Bombay goes to the Central Government. I quoted from a report which was published in the Labour Gazette a year or two ago about the particular instance of a clerk on Rs. 100 salary. I do beg of the honourable member not to misinterpret this illustration as being applicable to everybody in Bombay. It was never intended to be so used and it cannot be.

Dr. J. A. COLLACO: I must stretch my imagination and take it for granted that this particular clerk lives on a free-hold land, does not drink, does not smoke ganja, bidi or cigarettes, does not go for entertainments, does not go to the race-course, and has no children whom he has to educate and pays 5 annas to the Bombay Government.

Rev. R. S. MODAK: Sir, I do not want to take the valuable time of this honourable House any more by discussing in detail this Bill No. I of 1932. A great deal has been said in opposition to and in support of this Bill. There are important points to be considered on both sides. I should like to give my support to this measure for two special reasons. One of them is that if we believe that Government have been putting forth sincere efforts to retrench and to reorganise, they certainly deserve a little more help. If it is not a fact, then they do not deserve any help. It has been stated by honourable members who supported the Bill and by honourable members on Government Benches that a good deal has been accomplished by way of retrenchment, and that some more help and resources are required now so that Government can be better off in future than at present. In financial circles, figures only express the inward need as it is felt in the human mind. If it is felt that the Government must be run in a particular way, it must cost a certain sum of money enough for the purpose. The people of this Presidency and the country have already reached their limit of taxation. They cannot pay any more under ordinary circumstances. But all the same, we are to look to the proper conduct of Government. We cannot separate the people from the Government as responsible leaders in this House. As it has been brought to the notice of the House several times that we can by helping Government in the present situation improve the future, I do not think much more harm will be done to the people by this new taxation for a while. This Bill is anyway for a short time only. Since it is going to the select committee and since we feel that Government have in their own way been trying their level best to retrench, we should at this time support it.

[Rev. R. S. Modak]

I might say one thing here. If we are going to face a similar situation over and over again, for one reason or another and on the plea of efficiency, I do not think we can stand it much longer. This is an emergency case and a special occasion. Therefore, I say that it would be a good chance for us now to help Government and show them that we are interested in their affairs, provided also that Government are interested in our aspirations.

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Sir, I am not opposed to the first reading of this Bill, because it is natural that Government should expect our co-operation and we should not leg behind in offering the same out of good motives at this juncture. When Government have given this House an assurance that the duration of the Bill is only for one year and that it is to pass through the ordeal of the select committee, there is no reason why it should not be given a chance. With all the serious efforts Government are making at retrenchment, we have every hope that the need for renewing the measure will not arise in future, provided Government take full advantage of the co-operation of this side of the House, in making further retrenchment and economy, in all possible directions. For my own part, I am convinced that there is further room and wide scope for retrenchment in the various departments of Government, and in doing so, we should follow the example of other Governments. For example, the Punjab Government has effected a great amount of saving by closing down certain departments which are superfluous. The Department of Public Health has been abolished by them. Why can it not be done here too? In reply to one of my questions, it was stated that the establishment of the Director of Public Health costs Rs. 47,000. Even if this one post were abolished, it will result in a handsome saving of half a lakh of rupees. There are several other sinecure posts under Government, which could safely be abolished without impairing the efficiency of the Government machinery.

[Mr. J. S. Kadri]

There are various kinds of allowances such as duty allowance, local allowance, compensatory allowance, overseas allowance and so on which can be abolished. I think all such allowances must go, because there is no justification for them in these days of dire financial stringency. When these allowances were created, times and circumstances were different, there was plenty of money and Government had to grant such allowances for good reasons. The real need for such allowances does no more exist. There are in several departments superfluous posts, which deserve to be wiped out. Why should not these go at once? I can cite several instances of posts which can be retrenched immediately.

There are Personal Assistants to Collectors and Educational Inspectors. In view of the financial stringency pressing hard on Government now, these posts can very well be done away with. The post of the Personal Assistant to the Educational Inspector, Southern Division, was abolished some years ago. I was myself there as Educational Inspector and I never felt the need of a personal assistant. I can from my personal experience say that there is no pressing need for a personal assistant to Educational Inspectors in the Bombay and Central Divisions. The Bombay Division for educational purposes was created only 10 years ago. I was its Educational Inspector for some years. This division was formed by separating certain districts from other divisions and attaching them to the Bombay City. In those days, I do admit there was real necessity for separating this division. But now that the control of primary education has been transferred to the local authorities, there is comparatively less administrative work for the Inspector of the Bombay Division to do. If this division is abolished, I think there will be a saving of nearly half a lakh of rupees. Then, again, special attendance allowances are given to head-masters and first assistants in primary schools. This allowance is paid only to particular teachers on the attendance of pupils at school. Is it not the duty of all teachers including head-masters and first assistants to enforce regularity of attendance on the part of their pupils? Where is the need, then, for giving bonus for such attendance to only particular teachers to the exclusion of the rest? This allowance, if abolished, will result in a saving of a very large amount. If avenues for economy are properly explored and if Government are in right earnest to effect retrenchment, with the assistance and co-operation of experts, sufficient savings in expenditure can be effected to balance the budget. In that case, I do not think there will be any need for extra taxation. The burden of taxation has been ever increasing and extra taxes have been imposed and continued year after year under various pleas. In spite of all these devices, Government have not been able to extricate themselves from the morass of financial difficulties. They are on the horns of a very serious dilemma. They have either to tax the people or to borrow money for balancing their budget. Both these alternatives are detrimental, not only to the interests of the Government, but also to the moral, material and economic interests of the public at large. When Government are in financial straits, I think this House will be well advised to go to their rescue and assist them out of their grave difficulty. For this reason, I would appeal to my honourable friends to extend their co-operation to Government in their hour of need, but subject to a clear assurance that such measures of taxation would not be continued a day longer after their urgency is removed by a recourse to reorganization, reconstruction and economy. I am deeply conscious of the present sad condition of the agriculturists and the rural population. They are really in a most deplorable predicament. The prices of agricultural products are very low and poor peasants are living from hand to mouth. I think the Government Benches are not unaware of the indebtedness of the poor ryots in the rural areas. I submit, Sir, that the peasants are very badly hit by the all-round fall in commodity prices, and all the gold which has been going out of India is partly from the pockets of these poor people who have been selling their ornaments and jewellery to discharge their debts to Government and other creditors. The flight of gold is, therefore, a symptom of distress in the country, really speaking. If Government probe this problem deep, they will be able to assign the big exports of gold to economic and agrarian distress. I think Government should not trot out this casual phenomenon of gold worth 50 crores having gone out of the country as a proof of the country's prosperity. As a matter of fact, the country has become poorer by it, and I think there is very little hope of the loss being recovered. The gold is gone perhaps never to return and there is very little grain now left with the cultivator for his maintenance, because he has already sold a greater part of it to pay his Government dues. I do not think the agriculturists will be able to make both ends meet, if they have to pay their land assessments as well as past arrears. It is, however, a consolation to learn from the Honourable the Revenue Member that he has made certain concessions to agriculturists in various districts and he has also assured the House that no arrears, at least authorized arrears, will be realised. I think that will afford some relief to the poor agriculturists.

[Mr. J. S. Kadri]

I should like to touch the question of co-operation for which a plea is made out by Government. When Government is talking of co-operation, I wish to point out that co-operation should be reciprocal. When we extend our co-operation to them, we naturally expect co-operation from them also. But how they co-operate with us, can well be guessed from the way in which answers are vouchsafed to the questions put to them by the elected members of this House. Yesterday, I got a funny reply to my question about a mosque at Ahmedabad. It is a mosque, and they admit that it is a mosque. The mosque must necessarily be meant for Mahomedans. A mosque was certainly not built for Government officers or for police Inspectors. They have erected a bungalow close to the compound of the mosque, and because that bungalow has come into existence, the mosque has become no mosque. I am really sorry to say that correct information has not been supplied to Government on the subject. I have facts and figures to show that it is registered as a public mosque in the Government records. It has been used for prayers by Mahomedans for a number of years, and yet Government have the boldness to say that it has not been so used. [An Honourable Member: Government mosque ?] It is not a Government mosque; it is a Mussalman mosque, but it is now under Government control. Local Mahomedans have really felt much aggrieved by their being deprived of the use of this mosque. [An Honourable Member: Is there no other mosque near by ?] I live quite close to that mosque; I have offered my prayers there, and I know that for the last fifty years it has been there as a mosque. It is only for the last three or four years that Muslims are not allowed to use the mosque for prayers, because there is a Police Inspector living close by. [An Honourable Member: Are there not other mosques near by ?] There are hundreds of mosques in the city of Ahmedabad. I hope Government will extend their goodwill and co-operation to us in solving such matters amicably.

[Mr. J. S. Kadri]

Then, again, when they ask for our co-operation we expect that they should in turn extend to us, elected members, due measure of courtesy and consideration in matters of public importance. Take, for example, the constitution of the Provincial Franchise Committee. No Mussalman member of the Presidency proper was put on the committee at first. I sent in a resolution for appointing two more elected Muslim members on the Committee and, now, I find that some additional members have been put in. But elected members who can speak with authority on behalf of their constituencies, have been deprived of the opportunity of having their say on such an important matter as franchise by being excluded from the Committee. Nobody grudges Government nominees the honour, but it is a right which ought to have been extended to the elected Muslim members of the Presidency proper. I mention these points only to emphasise that when Government expect us to co-operate with them, they should also extend the same in their dealings with the elected members, so that we may be in a position to know that our services are appreciated.

With these words, I recommend that the first reading of the Bill may be supported.

(After recess.)

Notice taken that 25 members were not present; House counted; and 25 members being found present——

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE (Poona City): Sir, until I had heard the very valuable contribution to the discussion of this Bill from the lips of the honourable member Mr. Kadri, I did not exactly see the reasons to decide one's view about this Bill, whether to support it or oppose it. My honourable friend Mr. Kadri has given the reasons for opposing the Bill in the best terms possible. He has told us, and I believe convincingly, that Government do not co-operate with the members of this House. I do not think he was far from the truth. Then, again, he has told us about the condition of the poor agriculturist. He has in picturesque language told us how they are not able to pay the revenue and the plight they will be in if any additional tax is levied upon them. He has told us that they will have to sell every article of furniture or ornament of gold they may have in their houses to meet additional taxation. I believe these are very valid reasons why the Bill should not be supported. What I could not understand from the language of the honourable member Mr. Kadri was this: after giving all the reasons against the Bill he only quietly added "I support the Bill." And he wants us all to support the Bill. [An Honourable Member: He advised us to support it.] He advised us to support it. That is a point in which I cannot see eye to eye with him. I wish he had taken us into his confidence and told us the one reason why the Bill should not be opposed by certain individuals—I hope my honourable friend will be one of them. That would have enlightened us on his position.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

I must frankly say, Sir, that I do raise my humble but determined voice in opposition to this Bill. I do believe that Government are almost in tenterhooks; I do believe that the Presidency of Bombay is on the verge of bankruptcy; I do admit that the people should be ready to co-operate with Government whenever it is possible. But having said so much, let us examine our situation and see whether we can really support the Bill. I know that if I oppose this Bill, it will very likely, as I see the situation, be a futile attempt; it is very likely that the Bill may pass its first reading. If I read properly the sentiments of the House—I do not think I need make any secret of it now—the Bill will pass its first reading. If it passes the first reading, those who are in opposition will certainly co-operate with Government in putting the Bill into proper shape in the select committee. Whether they should co-operate or not, is not the question now. Whether we should support the Bill at this stage, is the point that requires our attention.

Sir, I will give in short the reasons why I think the Bill should not be supported by the representatives of the people. The first and foremost reason is that Government have made out no case for this Bill. Government have not satisfied the opposition members that they have done their best to retrench the expenses that are being incurred for the present. Our friend the dissentient member in the Retrenchment Committee—I mean Mr. Chikodi—has indicated that retrenchment to the tune of three crores of rupees is possible, although the other members of the Retrenchment Committee do not agree with him. Besides, Sir, Government have now themselves come forward with a proposal for reorganizing and overhauling the administration which they really admit to be top-heavy. That being the case, is this honourable House justified either in opposing or supporting the Bill before the report of the Reorganization Committee is placed before them? Certainly, Sir, if Government say, after reorganization, that they have tried their level best to secure economy and retrenchment, and yet they are not able to make both ends meet, there will be a case for the opposition to help Government. But Government have not done that. Not only that, but Government have told us that they think too that the number of Cabinet Ministers is too large by three members ; but whether large or small, they do not mean to cut down the number at least for the present. When the present constitution is to be changed I do not know if they have told us, but this very instance will show clearly that Government have not decided as to the line of conduct which they propose to follow.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

Then, Sir, there are many other departments, and only an unbiassed, critical person will know where retrenchment is possible. For instance, in the Public Works Department there are two Secretaries. They are, of course, drawing their usual pay, because they are bound to draw it. But the question is : are two Secretaries necessary for that Department ? Is that Department so heavily worked ? I would like to know from the Minister in charge, does he really believe that the two Secretaries—two highly paid officials—are indispensable under the present condition of the Presidency's finances ? This is not an isolated instance where we are spending money without regard to our capacity to spend. My honourable friends have already pointed out a number of other cases. The honourable member Mr. Kadri was good enough to point out that the Bombay Division was unnecessary so far as the Educational Department was concerned, though, of course, he put in a proviso that it was necessary at one time when he had the honour and privilege of being one of the inspectors of that district—but that is another matter. But the question with which we are concerned now is : is it not then necessary that when a person like Mr. Kadri, who has no brief for any extreme or popular views—it is the other way—when he comes and tells us that division is not wanted, that some action should be taken ? This is not an occasion when I should lengthen my remarks upon departments and individuals, but I am sure that if the Government is keen, honest—and honest it is—I do not say that it is not honest—it should first try to set its house in order and then come to us for further taxation. They have not done it. That is reason No. 1.

The second reason is the same as given by my honourable friend Mr. Kadri—I am sorry not to see him here—as regards the condition of the poor labourers. However good we may be at heart, kindness or goodness does not fill the coffers of the poor. Whence is the money to come ? Government admits that the depression that prevailed is yet prevailing. Government does see that the prices have not yet risen. The world conditions of commerce have not much improved. And unfortunately for us the condition of the country is most unsatisfactory. Under such circumstances, is it opportune, I put it, to increase taxation ? People cannot open their shops. We are not discussing the policy either of civil disobedience movement or of the ordinances. We are now here on the economic situation. I ask, is it right, when the people cannot open their shops, when the people cannot trade freely, when the booth licence-keeper cannot have an easy conscience and trade, is it reasonable to expect that the people will be making profits which they used to do once ? Under such circumstances, the Honourable the Finance Member has come before us for additional taxation, and for the reasons I have stated, we believe this is not the opportune time. This is the second reason.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

The third reason is the mentality or the preparedness of the people. Unless the people are ready to accede to the Government's demand willingly and unless they are in a mood to pay additional taxation, to burden them with taxation is to create further disaffection among the masses. I do not want to go into the history of the causes which have created the disaffection. One party may say it was this reason and the other may say it was that reason. But that is not the point for us to consider at this stage. The fact remains that the people have come to understand and think—whether rightly or wrongly I need not say—that no further taxation should now be levied and that the Government should not be paid any more money. Supposing, Sir, we who represent the popular views go back to our constituency and tell them that we have been convinced by the logical facts and figures of the Government benches and have sided with the Government and voted for the Bills, how will they look upon us? What will be their mentality? How will it reflect? Government ought to think of this. Government should wait for a few months more until the reorganisation committee submits its report and then introduce this Bill. Will one year make any worldwide difference in the bankruptcy and the stringent position of the Government? I am told it will. I definitely say "No." A loan of 70 crores with a couple of crores of interest every year to pay will not materially be changed within the course of four months, or for the matter of that one year. I do not want to express what reorganisation means. At any rate it means that the period to which we have to look for some constitutional changes will not be very long. Is this not an opportunity for the Government to stay its hands for the time being and wait until the changes take place? Is this the time when Government should come forward for further taxation and create feelings of distress and disaffection? Is that policy? Is that reasonableness? I will just put it to them: what will be the effect of the conduct of Government and the honourable House if this Bill is passed? How will the people look upon it? I would ask them to consider the question from this point of view. When the report of the Gauntlett Committee comes before the Government and the House, that will be the right occasion either for the representatives of the people to say that Government was wrong, or for the Government benches to say that they were right. That will be the final decision based on facts and figures. There will not be any sentiment. I hope, so far as possible, that will be the deciding factor. Therefore, my third reason is that this is not the opportune time for introducing this Bill. It should wait.

Now, coming to the Bill itself, it is a very ingenious piece of legislation. It passes ordinary comprehension. Is there not a certain reason why so much ingenuity has been compressed into that Bill? The Bill, I do want to suggest in plain words, is attempted to set one section of the community against another. That will be attributing motives. But I put the facts as they are. The Bill tries to levy a tax on electricity so far as Bombay, Poona, Ahmedabad and Karachi cities are concerned. Secondly, the court-fees tax has been increased. Thirdly, the stamp duty has been increased. And lastly, a special stamp duty for those four towns. Is that a milch cow which can be milked to any extent? Is the City of Poona to be distinguished from a neighbouring city like Kirkee where the tax will not be applied? Sir, it is extended to Poona City, not to the Cantonment of Poona, nor to the Cantonment of Kirkee. It is extended to the City of Bombay, not to its suburbs. They want the tax from certain people who are living in a certain area. I understand by the word "City" that it means the people living within the jurisdiction of the municipalities of these cities. Is it a sin of a Poona resident that he should be liable to this tax because he has his house within the city limits and has not the good fortune to live within the suburbs or the cantonment? The suggestion is that if he lives in the city he is to pay tax on electricity which the cantonment also uses. Then he has to pay extra charges on court-fees and stamps which the other cities have got to pay. He has further to pay an increased 40 or 50 per cent. tax on certain documents. I do not see any rhyme or reason in distinguishing in these particular cities for such extraordinary taxation. How will the people look at it? Suppose I am asked tomorrow what reason I see in Government penalising Poona City, or if "penalising" is too harsh, then punishing or in selecting Poona City for such hard treatment, and why Kirkee or neighbouring suburbs have been exempted. What reasons can I give? I would like to know from the Government benches, when the right time comes, on what principles they have made the selection. So far as the Statement of Objects and Reasons is concerned there is not a word about the special favourite treatment that is given to these cities. Of course, I am not alone in this respect. There is Karachi, Ahmedabad and, not the least, there is Bombay. These cities are to have special taxation, and the reason given is very peculiar. The Bill provides for a tax on certain instruments in the cities of Bombay, Ahmedabad, Poona and Karachi only. In revising the duty the rates have been brought, as far as it appeared expedient, in line with those in force in other provinces. That is what the Statement of Objects and Reasons says. I do think that in other provinces there are not cities like Poona and Ahmedabad included in that selection. There are cities perhaps of the type of Bombay. But my point is: why should we consider what other provinces are doing, when we are spending four times of what they spend? Take the instance of our topheavy administration. Have you compared our expenditure with theirs? How are you now entitled to compare these particular rates of taxation so far as those cities are concerned? It passes my comprehension to understand the reason which led Government to ask these particular towns to pay a heavy and unbearable increase of taxation. I know my honourable friends will raise their voice in strong protest against this sort of invidious treatment to be given to us. Take Sholapur, for instance. It is not far different. Poona is not an industrial city. The population may be a little more, but there are a number of cities like Poona. Why are they excluded? I do not, of course, say that you should include them. But why should you distinguish between cities like this? When the right time comes, I will point out by figures that there is no justification for this increase in that particular tax. I refer to article 63. There was an ordinary tax on bonds. There was an increase and that has been again increased and a special duty for Poona City is to be levied.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

These are some of the reasons why I think this Bill is most objectionable. The agriculturists will be told, "Do not be disappointed, because we have excluded you so far as the tax on electricity is concerned." The other cities will be told, "We have excluded you from this special increase of taxation." In that way Government may succeed in collecting the votes of the Council. But that does not mean that it is either statesmanship or fairness.

Lastly, I will come to one point. I do not want to repeat the arguments that have been advanced up to now in opposition to the Bill. One thing that strikes me is the remark about the lawyers. I read the other day, that we were told that the agriculturist suffers more from the exactions of the lawyer than from the court-fees collected. Nothing would be farther from the truth. The court-fee collected is 7 or 8 per cent. The poor lawyer used to get 5 per cent. and that has been reduced by vote of this House to 3 per cent. And yet we are told that the exactions go from the lawyer class and not from Government. I do not know how the Honourable the General Member, who was associating himself with the profession for a long time, can say that. I do not know whether it is on account of forgetfulness on his part——

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It is a fact.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : I know it is not a fact. Suppose a client comes to me with Rs. 100. He will say "My pleader, I have brought Rs. 100. Kindly give Rs. 90 court-fee to the taxing master. Give Rs. 5 to the process fee clerk. Kindly give Rs. 5 to the clerk who writes plaints and everything else, and wait for the fees until I come next." That is how the vakil is treated. Of course, I do not say this about those who are rolling in luxury in the Presidency towns ; I have no experience of them. But I know the position of those who are in the villages. I know in what difficulty they are to make the two ends meet. Instead of putting before the Council the real position of the vakils, in order simply to secure the vote or the opinion of the House for supporting this taxation measure, to say that the vakil exacts money, is not to put the facts as they are. The Honourable Member can take it from me as my experience that the vakil is in a bad plight——

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : There might be exceptions, who do not exact money.

Mr. L. R. GOKHALE : I am in the same boat with many of my colleagues and friends who sail in the same waters, and in troubled waters. It is not at all easy for us. We have to make the two ends meet, and we have to live and let live. For all that, to be told that the vakils are exacting their fees, is to tell us not the facts. Of course, with due deference to the Honourable Member, I have stated what I thought was necessary in defence of a class which is not here to represent itself. It is only in order to avoid any misconceptions on the part of others who are not vakils that

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

I make clear what our position is. I must state it plainly that if there is any cause for ruining the population, it is the heavy charges of litigation by the court-fees, by the process and by the other fees for this and for that which the departments are asking from the poor man. It is denying him the justice which he wants. In India there is the tradition that justice was never sold. We are now living in a changed India. At least, please do not sell justice at too high a price; let us have it within reasonable bounds.

As regards the one year's period, I do not know whether the House has not burnt its fingers so far. Is it really true that next year this Bill which has now been introduced will be taken back? What is the experience of this House? Are we really satisfied with the assurances? I might say one thing. Every honourable member who supported the Bill had to put forth a special plea. Somebody said that it is only for one year. My honourable friend Mr. Kadri was particular about this. He said "No doubt it is an evil; no doubt the people cannot bear it. That is all true, but I have got a soft corner in my heart for the Government, and I want to help them; and the reason why I say this, apart from other reasons, is that it is only for one year." Somebody wanted a guarantee to exclude from the operation of this Bill the agricultural areas. What does it mean? One wants the agriculturists to be excluded, another wants certain Bombay people to be excluded, a third wants Poona city to be exculded. I do not know who wants the Bill. I submit that these special apologies and special pleadings are put forward only because the Government cannot be supported, and have no case. I know, and of course the lawyer Members of the Government know very well, that when they have no case, when the facts are against them, they have to plead sometimes for mercy, sometimes for special equity. I know there are reasons—I need not say what makes me say so—why this Bill may pass the first reading. By a snatch majority, by a majority of a few, it may pass the first reading. If it passes the first reading, Government should remember that this is a Bill which will create difficulties both for this House and for the Government themselves. That is a warning which I think I should express in plain words, because the people are not in a mood to understand this problem.

Sir, I do not want to take any further time of this House by giving further instances of the spendthrift or profligate character of the Government, and this is not the time for it. But I do say that if the Government try once more seriously after retrenchment and then come before the House, I am sure the House will give them a sympathetic hearing.

Sir, the Bill has many defects from my point of view. If it at all passes the first reading and is committed to a select committee, some honourable members will be there to give advice and to point out in what way the Bill requires redrafting. But that is not a question for us to consider now. As regards this question about the impost on cotton dealings, I believe those who have a special knowledge about cotton dealings will tell the Government that it is an all-India question. If we have that tax added to Bombay, perhaps those dealings will be transferred from Bombay to some other centre. Not being a businessman having any dealings in cotton, as I do not deal in forwards or have any actual transactions in cotton, I cannot speak with authority on the subject. But I am told that this impost will drive away the best part of our commercial interest from the port of Bombay to some other port. If it goes to Karachi, I would not be very sorry for it, but if it goes beyond Karachi, I should be very sorry for it indeed. It is a point to consider whether the Government are justified, in collecting a couple of lakhs of rupees, in driving away business in such a large and important commodity out of the port of Bombay. I am sure those who know the business will speak with authority on this question, but my general commonsense tells me that it is an impost which is undesirable in the extreme. Sir, I have no sympathy for those who are dealing or dabbling in futures. It is after all gaming business. But whether or not it is gaming, it is business that is done actually on a large scale. We have legalised horse-racing, and there is no harm if we legalise this sort of business in cotton. But I do not think that Government should take such a risk.

[Mr. L. R. Gokhale]

Sir, this is all that I have to say with regard to these four particular taxes which are proposed by Government. With all the earnest conviction that I can command and express myself, I would ask the Government to reconsider their position before proceeding further with this Bill now before the House, and at this period in the history of the country.

Mr. V. A. SURVE (Ratnagiri District) (Addressed the House in Marathi): Mr. President, for the last two days, there has been a discussion going on in this Council about this Taxation Bill. I do not know to what extent Government have considered the existing taxation of the Presidency before putting forward proposals for fresh taxation. Sir, in the Meston Committee's Report the figures of revenue of this presidency from 1912-13 to 1920-21 are given, as also the figures of expenditure for the same period. The revenue from Excise in a period of 8 years, increased by 102 per cent. The increase under Stamp duties has been 119 per cent. We know that from 1921 to 1932 Bills for enhanced court-fees and stamp duties have been brought before this House and passed; that of course is the additional increase. The increase under Land Revenue is 32 per cent., and this has been admitted in the letter to the Government of India about the revision of the Meston Settlement, which was sent under the signature of the Finance Secretary on the 14th March 1925. The increase under the rest of the heads of revenue up to the end of 1920 is 52 per cent. If we include the increases under the various heads of revenue for the last 10 years, I am sure it will come to an increase of 252 per cent. or 262 per cent. Even when the Finance Department know this, they have brought forward new taxation measures. Sir, I want to bring to the notice of the House that land revenue, excise revenue and forest revenue comes out of the pockets of agriculturists. Out of a revenue of about 12 crores under these heads, about 7 crores is paid by agriculturists. Sir, Government call themselves the protectors of the agriculturists. But in return for the collection of so much revenue from the agriculturists, what have they done for the agriculturists ? Sir, there are 20,35,451 landholders in this presidency, and it is these people who, by the sweat of their brow maintain these officers of Government on fat salaries, and in return these officers want to tax the agriculturists still further. Sir, it has been remarked in the Report of the Accountant General on the accounts of the Bombay Government that there is no province in which the expenditure is so high as in Bombay. In spite of it, the expenditure is increasing, and Government want more taxes from the people. Sir, I remember that in 1930 I went to Wada, a village in the Poona district, to enquire into matters connected with the Forest Department. On the way, at Manchar I came across some Koli women carrying a headload of firewood. I asked them where they got the firewood from. They replied that they got it from the Government forest. I asked them what they had to pay and they replied "four pice." I asked them whether they had to pay anything else, and they replied that the guard sepoys take money for grazing goats and buffaloes at the rate of 4 annas each. I told them that perhaps they did not have to pay more land revenue. And they replied they had to do it ; that they had to pay for firewood, for grazing, for leaves from the forest, and for everything. I have already said, Sir, that 75 per cent. of the revenue from forests, from land and from excise is contributed by the agriculturists. Government is supposed to look after the interests of the agriculturists; Government is supposed to protect them ; Government is supposed to look after their education and social advancement. But Government do not want their children to be educated, and so there has been a cut of Rs. 18,00,000 under Education. The poor agriculturists' children suffer for want of education. There are big officers drawing fat salaries for each district, while the people are on the brink of starvation. The District Collector goes on tour, asks the sepoy to bring any man that he sees in a village and enquires of him something and goes away. The moment that an agriculturist fails to pay the kist in time, there is the mamlatdar who comes and attaches the drinking pots and cooking utensils of the poor agriculturist. No mercy is shown to him in the pitiable plight he lives in. Even though the ryots contribute for the expenditure of the costly Government machinery, they do not get even their primitive needs. No education, no medical relief, no good roads.

[Mr. V. A. Surve]

Coming to the stamp duty and court-fees, in their every day life, the ryots need stamps. For everything they have to make a petition and the petitions ought to bear a 4-anna stamp each. Even to make representations to the revenue officers, the ryots have to affix stamps to the petitions which contain their representations. How can we by any stretch of imagination say that there is a tax which does not affect the agriculturists ? In the case of the court-fees and stamps, the ryots are worse affected, as has already been pointed out by some honourable members.

As regards the administrative machinery, the less said the better. If a ryot wants to get relief for any grievance, he does not get it without going through a circuitous channel and even then he is not sure of getting redress. I myself had to make a representation in a particular instance. In the first place, I went and saw the Revenue Member, who asked me to interview the Commissioner. When I interviewed the Commissioner, he directed me to the Collector who took me to task for having gone to the Commissioner and the Honourable the Revenue Member. That is how we are driven from pillar to post when we have any representations to make or when we have to get redress for some grievance.

[Mr. V. A. Surve]

Lastly, I wish to impress upon the Government Benches and this honourable House that the ryots are already pressed down by innumerable taxes. Though they pay their taxes, they do not get facilities for education, medical relief and communications, which are their essential needs. They are not even able to keep their body and soul together. So long as the subjects are not happy and contented, the rulers cannot be happy and contented. Under these circumstances, I request honourable members, if they really represent the agriculturists in this House, to reject the Bill in toto.

Mr. C. W. A. TURNER: I move the closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I cannot accept closure, because there are two amendments yet to be moved at this stage. The honourable member Mr. Tolani has got two amendments. I do not know whether he wishes to move his amendment to clause 3, after the honourable member the Finance Secretary has moved a similar amendment.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Sir, that way there is a third amendment also standing in my name regarding local bodies, but I shall move at present the amendment relating to limiting the scope of the Bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: He can move it now.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI (Western Sind): Sir, many honourable members have spoken for as well as against the Bill, and they have advanced various arguments in support of their views. I shall not take much of the time of this honourable House as the Government are in a hurry to see their victory. The question is whether there is a real necessity for taxation, and whether Government have made proper retrenchment and whether people are in a position to pay. My answer is in the negative.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Do I understand that the honourable member is going to move his amendment?

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Yes, Sir, but, before that, I wish to make a few preliminary remarks. At the time of the discussion of the budget the Honourable the Finance Member told this honourable House that Government have done their best and that there is no further room for retrenchment. But, I say, where there is a will, there is a way. If Government have a mind to do that, they can do it even now. Many honourable members have suggested various sorts of retrenchments. The honourable member Dr. Vaishampayan has made many reasonable suggestions. I shall also place a few before this honourable House.

[Mr. S. S. Tolani]

Every time when there is suggestion for retrenchment Government plead that the retrenchment will be at the cost of efficiency, but I would ask, where is the extraordinary efficiency in today's Government ? I hold that the present administration is both top-heavy and superfluous, which must be reduced to relieve distress and dispense with the necessity of further taxation.

Sir, yesterday, the honourable member Mr. Hoosenally Rahimtoola, who was a member of the Retrenchment Committee, as an honest man, confessed that the committee did nothing extraordinary

An Honourable MEMBER : Are not others honest ?

Mr. S. S. TOLANI : You are also honest.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Address the House, please.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI : He said that if Government were in earnest, even without the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee they could have made all these retrenchments last year. The Retrenchment Committee was not treated in a satisfactory manner. I remember that when the committee was considering the question whether a separate Dadu District should be formed, the honourable members Sir Shah Nawaz Bhutto, Khan Bahadur Khuhro and myself gave evidence on the question. But even before the report of the committee was out, Government had opened the new district.

An Honourable MEMBER : What was your opinion ?

Mr. S. S. TOLANI : My opinion was that the Larkana District should not be split up.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member would still enter into arguments while addressing the House with honourable members interrupting.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI : There are then many unnecessary appointments. If Government want to curtail expenditure, they can abolish those posts. For instance, there is no need for huzur deputy collectors : the mukhtiyarkars can easily do the work of huzur deputy collectors.

The Honourable the Revenue Member said the other day that he had received many protests against the reduction in the number of huzur deputy collectors. I would point out that mukhtiyarkars are doing work satisfactorily, and therefore there is absolutely no necessity for those posts. I am inclined to believe that there is no need even of huzur mukhtiyarkars, because the accountants of the Revenue Department can do the work of huzur mukhtiyarkars. I am strongly of opinion that most of the appointments of Deputy Collectors in the District are unnecessary as they merely serve as post office between mukhtiyarkars and Collectors. As one of the many other unnecessary things I would point out to the Honourable the Revenue Member the instance of the launch

[Mr. S. S. Tolani]

"Jhelum", which is being maintained for the use of the Commissioner in Sind. The Commissioner tours for hardly three months in the year. For the rest of the time the crew and staff are sitting idle at Kotri although thousands are being spent on them. Now with improvement in road communications and the increase in motor traffic, there is no necessity for maintaining that launch.

The City Magistrate of Karachi, Mr. Richardson, has retired, and yet he has been reemployed twice and given a salary of Rs. 1,500. A deputy collector of the senior grade can conveniently be appointed in his place. Only to maintain him he is being reemployed every now and then, and given Rs. 1,500.

An Honourable MEMBER: Because he is trying political cases!

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: Yes, I know that and he is giving "C" class treatment to almost all political prisoners, and it is therefore that he is being maintained.

Then, again, Government have given a cut of 10 per cent. throughout the services, but the pay of sub-inspectors has not been subject to cut. Although they have brought the cut into effect in the case of the inspectors, the pay of sergeants who are drawing more than Rs. 200, the same pay as inspectors, has not been cut.

The other day, the honourable member the Finance Secretary said that the expenditure in the Public Works Department was very high. Then, why not retrench that expenditure now? Instead of that they will increase the number of posts in the Public Works Department. They want two Chief Engineers and six Superintending Engineers in place of one Chief Engineer and two Superintending Engineers. The Government have always applied the axe of retrenchment only in case of poor clerks, but the big officials are generally not touched. The Retrenchment Committee recommended to reduce one of the appointments of Judicial Commissioners, but may I ask what has been done in that direction? If unnecessary posts are retrenched, the expenditure will be only one quarter of what it is now.

The honourable member the Finance Secretary also remarked that you cannot govern a country by retrenchment any more than you can govern it by ordinances. The fact is that they have been governing by ordinances; therefore, why not govern by retrenchment even at the cost of so-called efficiency? I maintain, Sir, that the finances of Bombay have been wasted in a most careless and scandalous manner. It will be found from the Blue Book that before the Reforms we had a balance of three crores. All that has been eaten up and we are in debt. Now that time has come when Government should balance their budget by adopting economy instead of pursuing this suicidal policy of piling up debts and increasing taxation to breaking point.

Yesterday, the honourable member Syed Miran Mahomed Shah said that Government were very extravagant, and yet he supported them, because, he said, they were expecting separation of Sind and after separation those taxes would be useful to them. [Interruption.] My reply to my honourable friend is that Sindhis should wait until they get separation, until the reins of Sind come into their hands, when they can do what they please and make maja (merry) at the cost of poor Hindus by bringing oppressive measures of taxation. Now let them not make the Presidency suffer with Sind.

[Mr. S. S. Tolani]

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: These taxes will not be available for the separated Sind, because the Bill will be effective only for one year.

Mr. S. S. TOLANI: The honourable member Mr. Hoosenally Rahimtoola has pointed out that Bombay City is paying a heavier tax than the other parts of the Presidency. I think he said that it was paying Rs. 25 per head. The honourable member Mr. A. N. Surve also protested this morning against making the cities pay more. I maintain that, when the Government imposed the entertainment tax, they imposed it only on big cities on the ground that Government revenues were being spent more on cities than on small towns. Besides, Sir, electricity is in its infancy, and people have not yet got used to this form of amenity. Therefore, Sir, it will be only fair if the Electricity Bill is confined to bigger cities and not extended to small towns. If it is extended also to small towns, it will discourage the spread of the use of electricity. Sir, very small towns in Sind, with a population of only 10,000, are going in for electricity, for instance Jacobabad, Dadu, Tando Adam and Mirpurkhas. The consumers at Larkana, a place from where I come, have given notice to the companies that in case they are charged the surtax they will disconnect their supplies. When the Government propose this tax as an emergency and experimental measure, why not apply it only to big cities in the first instance?

With these words, I beg to move my amendment, which reads as follows:—

"Substitute for clause 3 of Part II the following:—

'This part shall come into operation in the first instance only in the city of Bombay, the Ahmedabad Municipal District and Cantonment, the Surat Municipal District, the Poona City and Suburban Municipal Districts, the Poona Cantonment the Sholapur Municipal District and the Karachi Municipal District and Cantonment; but the Governor in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette, direct that it shall come into operation in any local area on such date as may be specified in such notification:

'Provided, however, that no such notification shall be published until the said notification has been laid on the Council table, and approved by the Council on a motion made by the Government'."

The amendment is that this tax should be applied only to big cities in the first instance, and that, if Government at any time want to extend it to other places, they should come before this House for sanction.

Much has been said regarding the Court-fees and stamp duty Bill, and I shall not waste time of the House. [Honourable Members: Then please sit down.] I shall certainly do so.

Amendment proposed.

An Honourable MEMBER: I move the closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Although I did not accept the closure moved before, I have noticed that speech after speech in its main part is but a repetition of the speeches made already and nothing of importance is added to the debate. I am, therefore, inclined, after having given three days to the discussion, to accept the closure.

[The President]

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: Sir, I want to move my amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member has not any amendment of principle left. The amendment curtailing the period has been moved by the honourable member the Finance Secretary. The other amendments are not amendments of principle. They will be taken up at the proper time.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: (Kanara District) Sir, my amendment seeks to limit the entire Bill to one year. The honourable member the Finance Secretary said that only parts II, III and IV would be for one year. Part V is there.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member is right. He can move that amendment with a brief speech, if he has got any fresh arguments to place before the House. Otherwise I shall stop him after he moves the amendment.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: If I repeat any arguments, I may be pulled up.

I move that the following be inserted after sub-clause (2) of clause 2 of Part I:

"(3) It shall remain in force for one year only."

In moving the amendment, Sir, I want to make my position clear. After my return home after the last session I considered the question whether we were justified in negativing the Succession Duty Bill without any discussion. I came to the conclusion that in normal times, we would have been justified in opposing the Bill. But as the honourable member Mr. Winterbotham said, these are abnormal times, and however much we may wish to vote against it, we will have to support Government in certain measures to balance their budget. With that intention I move this amendment, thereby accepting the principle of the Bill. I have tabled certain other amendments so that the Bill may not affect the agriculturists and poor classes and also in order that the present Court-fees Act and Stamp Act may be brought on a level with the original India Act of 1899. But after coming here and hearing the arguments of honourable members, I am inclined to think that the Government have not done everything in their power to satisfy us that all possible retrenchment has been effected. In my opinion retrenchment of the right sort has not been effected. Again, I think there is no real deficit at all. The position of Government is not so serious as has been made out. With a view to prove it, I wish to quote certain figures from the Blue Book, and after I have done so, honourable members will agree with me that the budget is not as deplorable, not so dismal, not so disappointing, as it is presumed to be.

Coming to land revenue, Government say that they have given a certain amount of remissions to certain talukas or villages. I do not know what proportion or percentage of land revenue has been remitted. I think the percentage is very low. The land revenue estimated to be recovered in the Presidency is Rs. 5,42 lakhs whereas the revenue actually to be recovered as estimated was 4,88 lakhs. I do not know what the difference represents.

[Mr. G. S. Gangoli]

Coming to the Abkari question, the revenue from Excise was more than they expected. There are four quarters. During the last quarter of the last year the income from Abkari alone, I learn, was Rs. 1,24 lakhs or somewhere nearabouts. In this month the income from Excise in Bombay city alone is more by 7 or 8 lakhs than the amount anticipated. There has been an increase in Abkari revenue in the province of Sind also. If all these figures are taken into consideration, you will find that the estimate is not correct. There is no deficit at all.

Coming to the Entertainments Duty, Bombay city alone brought an income of 11·46 lakhs last year. Now this tax has been applied to all cities in this province and the estimated income has been shown as 7·88 lakhs. I do not know why the income should be so low. The income must have been higher.

Again, as an honourable member pointed out, if Government observed the rule of speed anywhere, they observed electric speed this year in realising fines levied in connection with the civil disobedience movement. I think the income from these fines must be somewhere near 4 lakhs. That has not been shown anywhere in the budget. [Interruption.]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: I shall now come to some of the items which Government have not retrenched and which require to be retrenched. For example, in the Forest Department, the income from forests is only 56 lakhs and the expenditure, leaving aside pensions and allowances, etc., comes to 21 lakhs on establishment alone. The entire policy of the Forest Department is the policy of "Dog in the Manger." They have to spend nothing. They do not allow even cattle to graze in the forests. They maintain a huge establishment costing in salary alone 21 lakhs, as against an income which is God given, of 56 lakhs. They say that they carried out retrenchments in this department properly. After I returned from the November session, I came across the Bombay Government Gazette, and instead of there being a cut, I was surprised to find that an additional post had been created in the Forest Department. I am referring to page 2779 of the Bombay Government Gazette. There His Excellency the Governor (with the concurrence of the Honourable Minister, of course) has been pleased to create a temporary post of Divisional Forest Officer and appoint somebody to hold it.

Now I come to the retrenchment effected. There has been a cut of 10 per cent. in the salaries, but this cut is universal and has been effected under the orders of the Government of India. Again, the Local Government has ordered a 10 per cent. cut in establishments in the province. The expenditure on account of establishments has been shown as 22 lakhs. If 20 per cent. is taken out, it would have come to 16 lakhs.

[Mr. G. S. Gangoli]

Instead of 16 lakhs, however, we find 21 lakhs. This means that they have not effected retrenchment to the extent of 20 per cent. I again repeat that the right policy has not been followed in regard to retrenchments. In my childhood I heard a story. If a camel is overburdened, what should be done to lighten its burden ? An economist came forward and said "cut off its tail." That is what Government have done. That is bad economy. We have had retrenchment in diet in hospitals, retrenchment in rations in jails and so on. They have removed the tail. As we were informed yesterday during question time, a shikari who had to risk his life in killing wild elephants was paid Rs. 10 per month and his pay has been reduced. That amount had been reduced to something which the Honourable Minister wanted notice to find out. Such is the policy they follow in regard to retrenchment.

Take the Co-operative Department which costs them 4 lakhs a year. I do not know what prevents Government from abolishing this Department and handing it over to the Provincial Co-operative Institute. That would save so much expenditure. We speak of provincial autonomy, of Swaraj and so on. I think this Department can be confidently entrusted to the Provincial Co-operative Institute, which has got branches all over the Presidency. This is not a new suggestion and should not come as a surprise on the Government. They know it. This was introduced by the Government of India in 1904 with a distinct promise that it would be temporary and would go on for only 20 years. Those 20 years have passed and yet the establishment is there. Apart from the cost on account of establishment, it has not done any good to the agriculturists at all.

Look at the mentality of the Government benches. Because of the export of gold out of India they have saved their skin as it were in the eyes of the world. Because people were tempted to sell their ornaments on account of high prices, Government come and say that people have got much more gold. What is the gold that has been exported ? The gold is in the shape of ornaments. Does anybody here think that any Hindu or Muslim lady or any person who has hoarded gold will part with it unless on account of extreme poverty ? It goes for the maintenance of her husband, her son, or to pay land revenue or other revenues, because agriculture in India has long ceased to pay. Sometimes it is said that even with the remissions of land revenue they cannot maintain themselves on agriculture. Now prices have gone down, and I do not know how the poor agriculturists have to maintain themselves.

Our grievances against this Government are multifarious. When His Excellency the Governor was on leave, we wanted the Honourable the Leader of the House (Sir Ghulam Hussain) to be appointed as acting Governor——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I think I must stop the honourable member at this juncture.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI : You said, Sir, I should submit new arguments. I have only to put forward new arguments.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Not for the sake of making a speech? If that is so, I will have to stop the honourable member.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: We do not want that the Chief Justice of the High Court should be brought all the way from England——

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Is all that relevant, Sir?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I quite understand that there is an old principle "No taxation without redress of grievances," but the grievances which have to be brought out on an occasion like this are not the ones which the honourable member is trying to put forward. There will be many other occasions for that. Therefore, if the honourable member has finished his speech, I would like him to read out his amendment to the House.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: I want to say one word regarding the proposed taxation, and I shall then move my amendment. So far as the Electricity Bill is concerned, the major portion of it will be paid by——

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: All that has been argued.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: I mean to say the Government have reserved for themselves a blank cheque. So far as the Court-fees and Stamp Acts are concerned, I do not know why we should pay enhanced duties, because there is a fall in the prices of commodities by the sale of which alone we can realise our money to pay Court-fees. Only the other day they reduced pleaders' fees to help the agriculturist. They have been robbing Paul to pay Peter, and they are now robbing Peter, as it were, to pay Paul. With these words, because time is precious, I shall move my amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: It has been moved.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: Then I have nothing more to add.

Question proposed.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Mr. President, the pros and cons of this Bill have been discussed threadbare, and I do not think I need make any detailed reply. I will make only a very few observations, within a short space of time, dealing with some of the salient arguments which were advanced. Many of the speeches which I heard upon the Finance Bill seemed to me to be only remotely relevant to the subject under discussion. It seemed to me as if honourable members were having a general discussion upon the budget.

Now, it has been repeatedly pointed out that there is a gap left in the budget. They say "You are appointing a committee to reorganise your departments." But we have pointed out that we have postponed the payment of about Rs. 27,00,000 to Rs. 28,00,000. There is still a gap of Rs. 43,00,000 to Rs. 45,00,000; Rs. 12,00,000 for repairs to roads and buildings have been retrenched, and there is still the cut in salaries to be made good. Even if you do not take into consideration the cut in salaries, there is an amount of Rs. 15,00,000 or Rs. 16,00,000 out of the Petrol Fund which has to be repaid. The total of that comes to a crore. By the widest stretch of imagination, I cannot for a moment believe that the expert committee can bring the expenditure down by a crore of rupees. You are asking for the expansion of the nation-building departments. Do you want to stand still, or do you want an expansion in those departments? But even if you are prepared to stand still, there is still a gap of a crore of rupees, and even if you bring the best experts, I do not for a moment believe that these experts can give us a cut of a crore of rupees.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI: What is your estimate of the cut?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: I am not going to reply now. There is hardly any time at my disposal, and I do not want interruptions.

Now, if this crore of rupees is not going to be restored or made good, are we going to borrow that money? We are not. We cannot possibly borrow, and saddle the ordinary expenditure with the additional burden of interest on the amount and equated payments. The interest charge on unproductive debt for making good the deficits is Rs. 15,00,000. Is there anybody who would advise Government to borrow still further for the purpose of making good the deficit?

Then, Sir, I was surprised to hear the criticism against this Bill that Government have deliberately brought this Bill forward in order to set one section of the House against another. Far from it. What is there to show that that is the Government's object? I find that the honourable member Mr. A. N. Surve said that this Bill is framed in such a way that every part of it is going to be saddled on the heads of the agriculturists. Then other honourable members got up and said "No, this Bill is so framed that the agriculturists should go against the city people and the city people should go against the agriculturists; and in order to divide the House like that this Bill has been deliberately framed in this way." I submit, Sir, that is not the intention. The Bill has been framed according to established practice. The Bill has been so framed, in order that all the members may have a look at the financial proposals of Government as a whole. There is no intention of dividing the House, one section against the other.

With regard to the amendments, Sir, I oppose both of them. With regard to the amendment of the honourable member Mr. Tolani, we do not want to discriminate; we do not want that some cities should be made to pay the electricity tax and others should be exempted. I oppose the second amendment because it will be noticed that under clause 18 of the Bill we have repealed the Indian Stamp Act. Now that Act is applicable to the Island of Bombay, and by accepting the amendment the result will be that the tax which we are getting will disappear next year. We are getting a tax from the Island of Bombay. So, the effect of the amendment is, as we repeal the Stamp Act by clause 18, that we shall lose even the tax which we are getting in Bombay.

Sir, the honourable member Mr. Surve has given us some statistics. He said that there are so many suits in the Small Cause Court, and he said that in each and every suit the agriculturist was the defendant, though he was a mill-hand. In the first place, that is not correct. Clerks and others are also defendants in these suits. But may I know from him as to how many suits there are the subject matter of which is more than Rs. 1,000 ? But it should be remembered that in suits up to Rs. 1,000 no change is sought to be made in the court fees. The Small Cause Court jurisdiction is up to Rs. 2,000. There are very few suits for over Rs. 1,000. The honourable member said that shopkeepers file these suits. But I ask, are the shopkeepers going to file suits against mill-hands for claims of more than Rs. 1,000 ? I was certainly taken aback when I heard the honourable member make that statement——

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Mr. A. N. SURVE : I have in my hands the——

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : I do not want to yield. The honourable member merely quoted the number of suits. Has he seen as to how many of those suits are for claims of over Rs. 1,000 ? If the honourable member cannot hear me, I cannot help it. That is the point which I want to make. The honourable member said that shopkeepers and landlords file suits against the mill-hands. Now, is there any mill-hand whose landlord will allow his house rent to remain in arrears and swell up to Rs. 1,000 ? Is there a shopkeeper who will give him credit to the extent of Rs. 1,000 ?

Then he said that this is the amount which is paid in the shape of court fees. But how much of it is from the probate duties ? Are the probate duties paid by the poor ? They are paid by the rich. The major portion of it comes out of probate duties, which are paid by the rich.

Then my honourable friend Mr. Gokhale was surprised to find as to why it was that Government have selected the three cities of Poona, Karachi and Ahmedabad for the extension of the Transfer of Property Act. The answer is this : On what principle is it urged that taxation should be so framed that it should fall on broad shoulders ? On the principle that as far as possible the poor should be made to pay the least. So we selected the cities which are able to bear a larger share of the burden, in order to benefit the poor. On what principle is it laid down that taxation should be so arranged that the rich should contribute and the poor should not pay ? On the principle, again, that as far as possible the poor should be made to pay the least ? On that principle it is, Sir, that we have chosen these three cities, and if there is any fourth city which can be included, we shall be glad to do it. I submit, therefore, that there is nothing objectionable in it.

It may be that taxation is not dear to anybody. I do not like it myself. I do not want to pay anything, but the art of running a Government without taxation has not yet been found. When it is found that any administration can be run without taxation, all the people would certainly be happy. I am myself unwilling to pay income tax ; there are innumerable taxes which I do not like at all. Nor do I like the payment of extra charges for my electric lights. But it cannot be helped. You have got to see the state of the finances of Government. You have got to see what retrenchments have been effected. You have got to see the honest efforts which Government are making to reduce expenditure.

[Sir Govindrao Pradhan]

Then, Sir, I will deal with the point raised by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale. It is not correct when he stated that the Taxation Enquiry Committee did not recommend taxation upon forward transactions. All that they say is, by taxing such things do not encourage gambling transactions. All the same, they say that in the case of transactions upon the Stock Exchange there should be a contract note, and that contract note should bear a larger stamp than the one that they are now having. That is their recommendation.

As regards court fees for the High Court, no doubt they say that the court fees in the High Court are recovered in the shape of process fees and other things. They say that there is a disparity between the charges made in the different High Courts of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, and that in some cases the fees which are paid in the High Courts are less than the fees which are paid in the mofussil. So, they say that all this should be remedied by Government. But that is not in our hands. It is not in our hands to modify the Letters Patent. The High Courts have the power under the Letters Patent. Even if there is that grievance, it is a matter for the Government of India.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Have you tried to get them amended?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: If it was in our power, we would have done it. But we have not the power to do it. So, that is what the Taxation Enquiry Committee suggested. It is for the Government of India; they should do it.

Then, Sir, an assurance was wanted from me. I do not know how I can give any assurance. All that I can say is that I will not raise technical objections in the select committee. It is for the honourable members of the select committee to bring forward suggestions, but ultimately it is for this honourable House to model the Bill. It is not in my hands. All that I can say is that I shall not raise unnecessary objections, or theoretical objections as regards any suggestions or amendments that may be proposed. That is the only assurance which I can give. Ultimately, it is for the select committee and this honourable House to shape the Bill, and that Bill which the House would accept would be the final Act. [Honourable Members: Hear, hear.]

Mr. A. N. SURVE: The Honourable the Finance Member asked for some figures, and I am going to give them. Suits for Rs. 1,000 and over were only 1,339 out of a total of 41,113 which were instituted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I shall now put the various amendments to the vote. I shall take up the amendment of the honourable member Mr. Tolani first. It is:

Substitute for clause 3 the following:—

"This part shall come into operation in the first instance only in the city of Bombay, the Ahmedabad Municipal District and Cantonment, the Surat Municipal District, the Poona City and Suburban Municipal Districts, the Poona Cantonment, the Sholapur

[The President]

Municipal District and the Karachi Municipal District and Cantonment; but the Governor in Council may from time to time by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette direct that it shall come into operation in any local area on such date as may be specified in such notification:

Provided however that no such notification shall be published until the said notification has been laid on the Council table and approved by the Council on a motion made by the Government."

Question put, and negatived.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The next amendment is that of the honourable member Mr. Gangoli. It is:

After sub-section (2) to section 2 of Part I, add sub-section :—

" (3) It shall remain in force for one year only."

Question put, and negatived.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The next amendment is as follows:

In Part I—Preliminary, after sub-clause (2) of clause 2, insert the following :—

" (3) This section and sections 3 to 15 containing Parts II, III and IV shall remain in operation for one year from the date on which this Act comes into force."

Question put, and agreed to.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The next amendment is as follows :—

In Part II—Electricity Duty—to clause 4 (c) add the words " and includes any person who has obtained the sanction of the Local Government under section 28 of that Act ".

Question put, and agreed to.

Question, "That in sub-clause (2) of clause 6, for the word 'license' where it occurs for the second time, substitute the words 'a licensee'," put, and agreed to.

Bill read a first time.

Question put, " That the Bill as amended be read a first time ".

The House divided: Ayes, 68; Noes, 26.

Division No. 1.

Ayes.

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
ASAVALE, Rao Bahadur R. S.
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHUTTO, Sir SHAH NAWAZ
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
D'SOUZA, Dr. J. ALBAN
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
HADDOW, Mr. R. R.
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JONES, Major W. ELLIS
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.

Ayes—contd.

LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHE WALLA, Mr. G. E.
MCELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MODI, Sardar DAVAR T. K.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
OWEN, Mr. A. C.
PATEL, Khan Bahadur A. E.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M.
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SPENCE, Sir REGINALD
SPENCER, Mr. A. B.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
WADKE, Mr. B. P.
WILES, Mr. G.
WINTERBOTHAM, Mr. G. L.

Tellers for the "Ayes": Mr. S. H. PRATER and Khan Bahadur ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN.

Noes.

CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOKHALE, Mr. L. R.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
JOG, Mr. V. N.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.
KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PRADHAN, Rao Bahadur G. V.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
VAISHAMPAYAN, Dr. V. G.
*WADKE, Mr. B. P.

Tellers for the "Noes": Rao Saheb P. D. KULKARNI and Mr. PESTANSHAH N. VAKIL.

Mr. PESTANSHAH N. VAKIL: Mr. President, may I be permitted to ask on what principle members are paired, and why without my giving any indication of my views I was asked to pair with an honourable member who subsequently voted in the same manner in which I did? For, for the edification of the House I may state that I also voted for the "Ayes" along with my companion.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not know whether the House will be particularly delighted to learn which side the honourable member voted. Any honourable member can be asked to be a teller, irrespective of his views; because he is honourable. I find one difficulty. The honourable member Mr. Wadke has voted on both sides. [Interruption.] Order, order. Let me hear the honourable member.

Mr. B. P. WADKE: My name should be deleted from the "Noes" list.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: How did his vote happen to be marked there? This is a matter which must be seriously understood. The tellers are in difficulty—whether it was the tellers who made the mistake or the honourable member deliberately voted on both sides.

*Note.—This name was deleted since from the "Noes" List.

Mr. B. P. WADKE: It was a misunderstanding, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: By mistake the honourable member entered the wrong lobby.

Mr. B. P. WADKE: Yes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The result of the division is 68 for the "Ayes" and 26 for the "Noes".

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I beg to move—

That Bill No. I of 1932 (A Bill to provide for the levy of a duty on consumption of electrical energy in the Presidency of Bombay and to amend the Court-fees Act, 1870, and the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, in their application to the said Presidency) be referred to a select committee consisting of the following members:

Mr. G. L. Winterbotham,
Major W. Ellis Jones,
Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola,
Sardar Bhasaheb Raisinhji (Thakor of Kerwada),
Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro,
Syed Miran Mahomed Shah,
Khan Bahadur Abdul Latif Haji Hajrat Khan,
Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale,
Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil,
Rao Bahadur R. S. Asavale,
Mr. A. B. Achrekar,
Mr. J. B. Petit,
Mr. F. O. J. Roose,
Mr. G. Davis,
Mr. G. Wiles,
The Honourable Mr. W. F. Hudson, and myself.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Sir, I am otherwise engaged, and it will not be possible for me to serve on the committee.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan's name may be substituted for that of Rao Bahadur Kale. The Honourable the Revenue Member's name also will be omitted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: What is to be the quorum?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: With a quorum of seven and to report before the 10th of March.

Question proposed.

Mr. C. N. PATEL (Kaira District): Sir, I beg to move an amendment to the list of names proposed. I want to delete one name, the name of the honourable member Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan. My reason for that is, that only one member from the opposition has been selected, although there are many non-Brahmin members, many Mahomedan members, two European members and a number of Government members. I submit, Sir, that even the honourable member Rao Bahadur Pradhan should for his own self-respect withdraw from the committee.

[Mr. C. N. Patel]

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I would suggest a better course. As resentment is caused on the ground that only one member has been proposed from the opposition, cannot the Honourable the Finance Member add one more ?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : Mr. V. N. Jog's name may be added.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The question is—

That Bill No. I of 1932 be referred to a select committee consisting of the following members, seven to form a quorum and the committee to report before the 10th of March—

Mr. G. L. Winterbotham,

Major W. Ellis Jones,

Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola,

Sardar Bhasaheb Raisinhji (Thakor of Kerwada),

Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro,

Syed Miran Mahomed Shah,

Khan Bahadur Abdul Latif Haji Hajrat Khan,

Rao Bahadur G. V. Pradhan,

Rao Bahadur D. R. Patil,

Rao Bahadur R. S. Asavale,

Mr. A. B. Achrekar,

Mr. J. B. Petit,

Mr. V. N. Jog,

Mr. F. O. J. Roose,

Mr. G. Davis,

Mr. G. Wiles, and

The Member in charge (the Honourable Sir Govindrao Pradhan).

Bill referred to select committee. Question put, and agreed to.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : To-morrow, Sir, Demands for Grants will be taken up.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The printed list of cuts proposed has not been received in my office yet. I would, therefore, request the Honourable the Leader of the House, for the facility of the House, to stick to the programme. Of course, it is left to Government to take up whichever work they please. But the printed list of cuts has not been received in my office, and even if it is received late at night, there will be difficulty in distributing it. Cannot the Honourable the Leader take some other work to-morrow?

[The President]

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Some of the supplementary grants are still before the Finance Committee. Therefore, we can go on only with some of the grants.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: We will get on with the supplementary grants; and if there is time, will the Honourable the Revenue Member move his motion regarding the Railway Advisory Committee?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I can move it, but that will take only one minute.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: But we have to distribute the voting papers and hold the election. That will occupy some time.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: What about Bill No. II?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: All right. We shall take up supplementary grants and the motion of the Honourable the Revenue Member.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I thank the Honourable the Leader of the House for the facility.

There is one important thing, and I have kept it purposely till the end of the day in order to get a hearing from all honourable members. I find that there are on an average 90 members attending the House. To-day, for a second time, the bell had to be rung, to draw the attention of honourable members after tea time, to form a quorum. I do not like that. If every honourable member thought that out of the ninety his absence would not matter, an occasion might arise when there will be only myself and my Secretary found here in the House. The non-official side of the House particularly must understand that although there are only three days allotted for private business, every day of the budget session is in its aim a private day for them. It does not matter to the Government side if a whole day or some portion of a day out of so many days is lost. The House must be adjourned by the Chair in the absence of a quorum. Similarly, it is expected, at least I expect it, of Government benches that they will be present to assist the non-official side, because the budget must get through by co-operation and mutual help.

Then, there is one thing more to which, with due deference, I should like to draw the attention of all Honourable Ministers and Members of Government. During the course of a discussion, statements are made by non-official members, some of which may be capable of being challenged or explained. All Government Members, therefore, should be in their places in order to meet any such remarks. Sometimes, an honourable member says, "I have something to ask, but the Honourable Minister in charge is not present."

[The President]

I would, therefore, request both sides of the House to remember that every one of them is expected to be present immediately after tea time. If half an hour is really not sufficient—no complaint has been made to me on that score—five or ten minutes to that may be added. If 30 minutes are not enough, I would not mind giving 35 minutes.

I have now received information that the printed list of some cuts to demands has been received in my office just now, and although it is late, it will be possible to place it in the pigeon-holes for honourable members. It has been arranged by agreement, and the Honourable the Leader of the House has kindly agreed, that the demands should be taken the day after to-morrow. But as the printed list of cuts to demands has been received, if honourable members wish it, we can take the demands from to-morrow.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: We are prepared to meet the wishes of the House, Sir. But we have arranged that the supplementary grants should be taken up to-morrow and then the motion of the Honourable the Revenue Member. If, however, the other side wishes to take up demands from to-morrow, we have no objection.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I asked the honourable members for their views. As, however, they have not spoken, I take their silence as consent—

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: The general sense on this side is that they should be taken as originally arranged.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: We are prepared to meet the wishes of the other side, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Then the cuts will be taken up the day after to-morrow.

The House is now adjourned to 2 o'clock to-morrow, Thursday, the 25th February 1932.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

Vol. XXXIV—Part VIII

Thursday, the 25th February 1932.

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Bombay, on Thursday, the 25th February 1932, at 2 p.m., the Honourable the President, Sir ALI MAHOMED KHAN DEHLAVI, Kt., Bar-at-Law, presiding.

Present:

ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN, Khan Bahadur
ACHREKAR, Mr. A. B.
ALLAHBAKSH, Khan Bahadur
ANGADI, Rao Bahadur S. N.
BALOCH, Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED
BANGI, Mr. A. K. J.
BELL, Mr. R. D.
BHUTTO, Sir SHAH NAWAZ
BIJARANI, Khan Bahadur SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN
BOLE, Rao Bahadur S. K.
BOWERS, Mr. P. L.
BRANDER, Mr. J. P.
BULLOCKE, Mr. A. GREVILLE
CHIKODI, Mr. P. R.
CHITALE, Rao Bahadur G. K.
CLAYTON, Mr. H. B.
COLLACO, Dr. J. A.
COOPER, Khan Bahadur D. B.
DAVIS, Mr. G.
DESAI, Rao Saheb B. G.
DESAI, Mr. H. R.
DHALUMAL LILARAM, Mr.
DIXIT, Dr. M. K.
FREKE, Mr. C. G.
GANGOLI, Mr. G. S.
GHULAM HUSSAIN, the Honourable Sir
GHULAM NABI SHAH, Khan Bahadur
GILDER, Dr. M. D.
GOVER RORA, Mr.
HARRISON, Sir CHARLTON
HUDSON, the Honourable Mr. W. F.
HUMPHREY, Mr. JOHN
JAN MAHOMED KHAN, Khan Bahadur
JITEKAR, Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM
JOG, Mr. V. N.
KADRI, Mr. J. S.
KALBHOR, Mr. G. M.
KALE, Rao Bahadur R. R.

KAMAT, Mr. B. S.
KAMBLI, the Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T.
KARBHARI, Mr. M. M.
KHUHRO, Khan Bahadur M. A.
KULKARNI, Rao Saheb P. D.
LANE, Mr. C. M.
MACKIE, Mr. A. W. W.
MATCHESWALLA, Mr. G. E.
McELHINNY, Mr. G. W.
MEHERBAKSH, Mr. S.
MEHTA, Mr. M. H.
MITCHELL, Mr. H. C. B.
MODAK, Rev. R. S.
MODI, Sardar DAVAR T. K.
MONTEATH, Mr. J.
MORE, Mr. J. G.
NAIK, Rao Bahadur B. R.
NAVLE, Mr. N. E.
PARULEKAR, Rao Bahadur L. V.
PATEL, Mr. C. N.
PATIL, Rao Bahadur D. R.
PATIL, Mr. N. N.
PATIL, Mr. V. N.
PATIL, Rao Saheb V. S.
PERRY, Mr. E. W.
PETIT, Mr. J. B.
PRADHAN, the Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO
PRATER, Mr. S. H.
RAFIUDDIN AHMAD, the Honourable Sir
RAHIMTOOLA, Mr. HOOSENALLY M
RESALDAR, Mr. A. K.
ROOSE, Mr. F. O. J.
SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ, Mr.
SHAIKH ABDUL MAJID, Mr.
SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO, Mr.
SHINDE, Mr. R. B.
SOLANKI, Dr. P. G.
SURVE, Mr. A. N.
SURVE, Mr. V. A.
SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH
SYED MUNAWAR, Mr.
TALPUR, MIR BANDEH ALI KHAN
THAKOR OF KERWADA, Sardar BHASAHEB RAISINHJI
THOMAS, the Honourable Mr. G. A.
TOLANI, Mr. S. S.
TURNER, Mr. C. W. A.
VAKIL, Mr. PESTANSHAH N.
VAKIL, the Honourable Sirdar Sir RUSTOM JEHANGIR
VANDEKAR, Rao Saheb R. V.
WILES, Mr. G.

NEW MEMBER SWORN.

Sir Charlton Harrison, Kt., C.I.E., made the prescribed oath of allegiance to His Majesty the King-Emperor and took his seat in the Council.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

RETRENCHMENT.

Mr. G. S. GANGOLI (Kanara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of hands reduced as a cut in furtherance of retrenchment in the various departments;

(b) the number of servants or officers drawing—

(i) less than Rs. 20 per mensem;

(ii) Rs. 20 to Rs. 80 per mensem;

(iii) Rs. 81 to Rs. 200 per mensem;

(iv) Rs. 201 to Rs. 1,000 per mensem;

(v) more than Rs. 1,000 per mensem;

(c) the total amount saved from each of the above-stated classes?

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: As retrenchment is still in progress, the information required cannot be supplied.

COMPULSORY PRIMARY EDUCATION: MENIAL ESTABLISHMENT IN SCHOOLS, KARACHI.

Mr. GOVER RORA (Karachi City): (a) How many schools have been sanctioned under the Lyari and Trans Lyari scheme for compulsory primary education in Karachi?

(b) Have any peons been sanctioned for these schools?

(c) Is any other menial establishment sanctioned for them?

(d) If the reply to (b) and (c) be in the negative, what arrangements have Government in view for sweeping and cleaning the school premises, looking after water supply, etc.?

(e) Was the maintenance of such menial establishment part of the scheme submitted by the Karachi Municipality?

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: (a) 30.

(b) and (c) No.

(d) Government assume that local authorities will make other and more economical arrangements for these purposes than engaging full time staff.

(e) Yes.

"GUJARAT PATRIKA."

Mr. J. S. KADRI (Northern Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of copies of the "Gujarat Patrika" printed at the Government Press, the number of copies sold to the public and the number supplied free to Government officers;

(b) the name, qualifications and monthly pay of the editor of the "Patrika";

(c) the total monthly expenditure incurred by Government on account of the "Patrika", including the cost of paper, printing, editorial staff, etc.;

(d) the total monthly income derived from the sale of the "Patrika"?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) The total number of copies printed is 7,000 per week, out of which about 450 are supplied to regular subscribers and 400 to 500 are sold to the public. The rest of the copies are distributed free to the public and Government Officers.

(b) Mr. Ambalal Chunilal Parikh is the editor. He is an experienced journalist of over 12 years' standing and is paid Rs. 200 per month less 10 per cent. cut in salary.

(c) About Rs. 970.

(d) About Rs. 250.

RECRUITMENT FROM BACKWARD CLASSES: AGRICULTURAL, FOREST AND CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES DEPARTMENTS.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of persons taken up as fresh recruits in the (i) Agricultural, (ii) Forest and (iii) Co-operative Societies Departments in the years 1929, 1930 and 1931;

(b) the number of persons so taken up from the backward classes;

(c) the number of posts of (i) Auditors in the Co-operative Societies Department and (ii) Agricultural Overseers in the Agricultural Department given to persons from backward classes in disregard of the question of seniority during the past three years as per resolutions passed by Government from time to time;

(d) the number of temporary vacancies in the Agricultural and Co-operative Societies Departments given to suitable and qualified persons from backward classes during the years 1930 and 1931 in pursuance of such Government resolutions?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The Honourable Member is referred to the reply given to a similar question asked by him which is printed in the second list of questions and answers of the current session.*

CONSTRUCTION OF A BRIDGE OVER THE MULA RIVER NEAR AUNDH.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the inconvenience caused to the forty villages including Aundh, taluka Haveli, on the old Poona-Bombay road, in the absence of a bridge over the Mula river near Aundh;

(b) if the answer to the above question is in the affirmative when they intend to take the work in hand?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) Yes.

(b) The question of constructing a causeway is under consideration.

* Vide page 63 of Vol. XXXIV.

IRRIGATION ASSOCIATIONS.

Mr. G. M. KALBHOR (Poona District): Are Government aware that some of the irrigation authorities ignore the Irrigators' Associations? If so, what are the reasons therefor?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN Government are not so aware.

CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT: ESTABLISHMENT.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of clerks and officers in the head office and divisional offices of the Co-operative Department separately for each office with names and castes under the following headings:—

(1) Hindus—(i) Advanced—Brahmins, Prabhus and other advanced classes.

(ii) Backward.

(iii) Depressed.

(2) Mahomedans?

(b) Are Government aware that there is a strong feeling prevalent amongst officers of the Co-operative Department that the interests of Gujarathis and Brahmins are specially looked after?

(c) If the answer to (b) is in the negative, will Government be pleased to state the number of permanent and temporary appointments and promotions from the years 1927 to 1931 under the following heads, specifying the name and the nature of the post and promotion, and whether permanent or temporary:

(i) Gujarathis, (ii) Brahmins, (iii) Other advanced classes, (iv) Backward:—

(a) Hindus and (b) Mahomedans;

and (v) Depressed classes?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: (a) and (c) The honourable member is referred to the reply given during the current session of the Legislative Council to Mr. R. B. Shinde's question* on the subject from which it will be seen that the interests of the backward classes and Muhammadans have been fully considered in making appointments in the Co-operative Department. They trust that this information is sufficient for the purposes of the honourable member. The detailed information now asked by him involves the expenditure of time and labour which Government regret that, in consequence of reductions in staff, they are unable to undertake.

(b) No.

MAGISTRATE, KOPERGAON: MR. GOKHALE.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Mr. S. B. Gokhale, Magistrate, Second Class, at Kopergaon, district Ahmednagar, has many relatives in Kopergaon Taluka?

(b) Is it the settled policy of Government not to post officers at such places where they have vested interests and a circle of relatives?

* Printed in the Debates of 24th February 1932.

(c) Is it a fact that the total service of Mr. Gokhale in the Kopergaon Taluka amounts to more than 15 years ?

(d) Is it a fact that there is some property owned by, and standing in the names of, the members of the family of Mr. Gokhale, who are joint with him, in the Kopergaon Taluka ?

(e) If the answers to (a), (b), (c) and (d) be in the affirmative, what action have Government taken or propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) No.

(b) Subject to the exigencies of the public service, officers are not ordinarily posted at places where they possess landed property.

(c) No.

(d) There is a small property owned by his brother.

(e) Does not arise.

MR. RICHARDSON: RE-EMPLOYMENT AS CITY MAGISTRATE, KARACHI.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the age of Mr. Richardson, the present City Magistrate of Karachi;

(b) how many extensions he was given prior to his retirement;

(c) the reasons for his re-employment as City Magistrate;

(d) whether there is no suitable person in the cadre of Deputy Collectors to hold that appointment ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) 60 years.

(b) Two.

(c) and (d) Government consider that his long experience and good work as City Magistrate make him the most suitable person for the appointment.

CRIMINAL TRIBES SETTLEMENT OFFICER: APPOINTMENT OF —.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a junior Assistant Collector is being appointed to act as Criminal Tribes Settlement Officer in place of Mr. Starte;

(b) if so, what are his special qualifications;

(c) why the appointment is not given to a senior member of the Bombay Civil Service ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) Yes.

(b) Character and ability.

(c) The appointment is not reserved for this service.

SUBORDINATE JUDGES' POSTS: DAIVADNYA AND TWASTA KASAR COMMUNITIES.

Mr. B. P. WADKE (Bombay City, South): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of posts of Subordinate Judges in the Bombay Presidency;

(b) how many of these posts are at present held by persons belonging to the minority communities of Daivadnyas and Twasta Kasars ?

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: (a) 126 in the Presidency Proper and 17 in Sind.

(b) None.

SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS.

Token grant of Rs. 10 for payment to Mr. R. R. Chaudhari, Probationer, Bombay Forest Service, Class I, for expenditure for training at the University of Edinburgh.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Sir, I move for a token grant of Rs. 10, under "8, Forest." The facts and circumstances relating to this demand are fully described in the note* which has been circulated to the honourable members of this House. I hope the honourable House will grant this demand.

Question proposed.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE: Sir, on a point of information, may I enquire as to whether the students from our presidency do not go to Coimbatore, and if they do so, why this student was not sent over to Coimbatore?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The Coimbatore college is intended for training forest rangers only.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Sir, I rise to protest against the method of selection of candidates at present being adopted for Class I of service of the Bombay Forest Service. Formerly, Sir, when Government advertised in the press, it was clearly stated that candidates with certain qualifications should apply, who will be called for interview and then selection made, and the candidate selected would be sent to Dehra Dun for training. Now, Sir, we find for the first time that Government have changed their original intention of training him at Dehra Dun because, perhaps there was no room in the Forest College at Dehra Dun or for some other reasons known to them. They have now undertaken to send this selected candidate for training to the Edinburgh University at Government expense.

Sir, the chief reason why I have to protest against this action is that at present there are qualified hands available who have acquired the B.Sc., degree in Edinburgh University at their own expenses, in the subject of forest. Such candidates are available in Sind as well as in the Presidency proper. I know, Sir, the case of two people in Sind, one Mr. Mufti who is a Mussalman, with first class qualifications, who came out in the first class and has most superior qualifications and certificates from the University of Edinburgh in Forestry. Mr. Gilbert of Forests told me that he was much struck by his excellent certificates that he has been able to secure. Another gentleman is Mr. Karamchandani who is a Hindu, belonging to the Amil community from Dadu and whom the Commissioner in Sind recommended for appointment in Class I of the Forest Service. Both of them possess the same qualifications, which Mr. Chaudhari has been sent to Edinburgh University to acquire. I understand that Mussalmans and non-Mussalmans in the Presidency and in Sind with suitable qualifications are available, who could at any time be selected, and who are fit to hold an appointment in Class I of the Forest Service, according to the requisite qualifications laid down by Government.

*Appendix 2.

[Khan Bahadur M. A. Khuhro]

Then, Sir, on account of certain technical anomalies in their rules, all these first class people, with very good qualifications, who have undergone all this training in a foreign country at their own expense, who are very keen to seek an appointment in Government, are denied the appointments, and Government are going to incur all this expenditure over a new man, after 30 months' training and all this expenditure will at the best obtain the same qualifications which the two gentlemen I have named possess. So, after incurring an expenditure of Rs. 3,600 over the training of this person, at the most, Government will have a man with the same qualifications, that are already possessed by these gentlemen. I think there is a glaring instance of the way in which the finances of this Presidency are being frittered away and I clearly state that this amount is a pure waste. When people with the requisite qualifications, belonging to all classes and communities, Mussalmans and non-Mussalmans, in Sind and in the Presidency proper are available for service in this Department, it is nothing short of a waste to spend money over the training of this man. When the Honourable Minister for Forests made this recommendation for various reasons, which are best known to himself, at least it was the business of the Finance Department to see that the money was not allowed to be wasted like this. The Honourable the Finance Member should have seen that this expenditure is not allowed to be incurred unnecessarily.

I submit, Sir, that the rules, on the pretext of which this action is taken, are most misleading and most unsatisfactory. I must say that they unnecessarily put difficulties in the way of Government and in the way of the candidates, who have acquired these qualifications at their own expense. So, I would strongly urge that the Honourable Minister must see that these rules are altered at the earliest possible date. The Government of Bombay should not be put to the unnecessary expense of training people at the public expense when they can get candidates who have acquired these qualifications at their own expense. So, the incurring of this expenditure over the training of this person for service in the Forest Department is a huge waste. It is unnecessary and not required by time and by the circumstances. They are undertaking all this expenditure for nothing. Therefore, I record my strong protest against this expenditure which this Council is asked to sanction to-day.

Mr. R. D. BELL : Sir, the main objection of the honourable member Khan Bahadur Khuhro to this supplementary demand is on account of the fact that Government are incurring expenditure which might otherwise have been avoided. Well, in this case, Sir, it is quite clear from the note which has been circulated to honourable members that the expenditure incurred by Government on this occasion was the result of almost accidental circumstances and that it is not intentional. But there is a policy underlying the choice of candidates for Class I Forest

[Mr. R. D. Bell]

Service, which it is desirable to explain to the House, and I have no doubt that the Honourable Minister will subsequently, after this debate, consider whether the policy should be changed. But meantime honourable members might like the position explained to them.

When these Provincial Services were created, the manner of recruitment to Class I of the Provincial Forest Service was considered, and it was decided that Class I should be recruited by two methods, one, by promotion from Class II, and secondly, by direct recruitment; and it is with the method of direct recruitment that the honourable member Khan Bahadur Khuhro has found objection. The method originally adopted by the Government of Bombay for selecting their direct recruits to Class I was to advertise for applications, prescribing certain qualifications, which were in fact a First Class Honours degree in certain subjects, or a B.Sc. degree with certain special qualifications. Then, having selected the best man available, the Government of Bombay sent him to Dehra Dun for his training at their own expense. About two years ago, the Chief Conservator of Forests suggested that, instead of obtaining direct recruits in this way, the Government of Bombay might test the open market, and find out what material there was readily available in India already trained for Forest work. The whole question was then re-examined, and it was decided to continue the original arrangement with one modification. The original arrangement was continued on broad grounds of public policy. The Bombay Government must select their direct recruits at one stage or another in a man's career; they must take him before he is technically trained or after he is technically trained. Now, if they advertise for men who are technically trained, these men have been required by circumstances to go to Europe for their training, and it necessarily follows that for probably every vacancy there are in the long run, ten young Indians, who have been sent to England for training. The training of each individual costs about Rs. 15,000, so that ten parents must incur an expenditure of 1½ lakhs in order to find one recruit for the Bombay Forest Service, Class I. These men at present could not be trained in India, because the only place available in India for training is Dehra Dun and admissions there have been limited. In recent years admission has been granted only to students for whom appointments were guaranteed either by a local Government or an Indian State. If the Bombay Government get their own candidate and train him for service, they spare nine parents out of ten unnecessary expenditure. From this point of view, not only in the interests of administration but also in the public interest, this system should be continued. It is also a justification for this system that it utilises the resources available in India for the training of forest officers. After this matter was reconsidered and decided in this way two years ago it became necessary to advertise another vacancy in the Bombay Forest Service, Class I. I ought to have explained that when the matter was re-considered, it was decided that in future the selected candidate must pay for his training. This was the modification in the procedure which was made as a result of re-consideration before the vacancy was advertised last year. As a result of the advertisement Mr. Chaudhari was selected and sent for the usual training for six months in districts under a Forest Officer, at his own expense in every respect including travelling expenses. He had been under training for some months, when the Government of India informed the Bombay Government that as a measure of retrenchment they might be compelled to close down the Dehra Dun College. Acting on telegraphic advice from the Government of India the Bombay Government decided to send Mr. Chaudhari, at short notice, to Edinburgh University for his technical training since further delay might mean the loss of a whole year. This was a more expensive arrangement than that under which the vacancy was advertised, and accordingly, the Government of Bombay have made an allowance to Mr. Chaudhari representing his additional expenditure. It is true that there are available a number of individuals, to whom the honourable member from Sind referred, who are already trained for forest work. But the question is whether for the sake of 3, 4 or 5 individuals a carefully considered policy should be set aside. I am quite sure that it should not be set aside on this ground. It may be reconsidered on public grounds, and on grounds of administrative efficiency, but not in the interest of four or five individuals, of whom, after all, only one could be given an appointment.

[Mr. R. D. Bell]

A further point is this. This vacancy for which Mr. Chaudhari was selected will occur in two years' time; not now. At the present time there is no vacancy for the young men to whom the honourable member Khan Bahadur Khuhro made reference. In view of this discussion, I have no doubt the Honourable Minister will reconsider the policy. But it is desirable to put the facts fully before the House, so that they may understand that, when a policy is laid down after considering fully the public interests, it ought not to be changed, because one or two individuals, in disregard of or in ignorance of the settled arrangements for recruiting officers for the Bombay Forest Service, Class I, made their own arrangements for being trained in forestry.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: Is he from outside the Presidency? What is his academic qualification?

Mr. R. D. BELL: He is fully qualified according to the rules.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH: Does he belong to this Presidency?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: He belongs to this Presidency.

SYED MIRAN MAHOMED SHAH (Hyderabad District): Sir, I had no mind to join this debate, but the remarks that fell from the lips of the honourable member the Revenue Secretary have compelled me to make a few observations with regard to the explanation which he has given to this House, in regard to the criticism levelled against the action of the

[Syed Miran Mahomed Shah]

Government. Not a single word of explanation given by the honourable member has convinced us of the justice of the action of the Government. I think he indulged only in generalisations and the arguments he advanced were rather contrary to what he was going to prove. The policy which he said they were pursuing was to prescribe certain academic qualification, then advertise in the papers and then select a candidate for undergoing the preliminary training. If the Honourable Minister and his Secretary had taken care to see that such candidates are coming forward with requisite qualification, undertaking to take upon themselves the expenses, they could have had half a dozen candidates fully satisfying all the condition. Our objection is only on financial grounds. Because we are asked to pay for the expenses of the candidate, it is therefore that we object to this course. It may be we may take objection on other grounds, for example, the claims of communal representation in all the departments. I presume in this case the gentleman whom this grant is asked for belongs to the backward community. I am sure that the Honourable Minister who comes from a backward community must have taken care to see that the backward classes get proper representation. I have no doubts on that ground, unless the contrary is proved.

As regards increasing our expenses, we are not prepared to sanction a single pie more from the coffers of this Government for an expenditure of this nature to select a man, send him to England for training and pay his expenses. There was no particular hurry about recruitment in this department. If we look to the figures of revenue from this department, I mean the Forest Department we find that we have increased the expenditure in this department by 50 per cent. I think it should be the tendency of Government to gradually transfer this department to local bodies which feeling has been voiced by the representatives of public bodies from time to time, rather than incurring heavy expenditure on this department. I think the representatives of the people will never lend support if this action of Government were to continue and I warn them not to strengthen the view already entertained by members that they are extravagant.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMFLI: Sir, with regard to the recruitment of this particular candidate, I may enlighten the House more fully than is disclosed in the printed note. This post was advertised, applications were invited and a selection committee was appointed, as usual in such cases. Several candidates submitted their applications. Out of the candidates who applied, this particular person Mr. Chaudhari was selected by the selection committee as the best candidate of all. No favour was shown to this particular candidate, on the ground of his caste though he happened to belong to the backward communities; but the selection committee recommended this person for approval solely on his merits. On the recommendation of the selection committee the appointment of Mr. Chaudhari has been made.

[Dewan Bahadur S. T. Kambli]

With regard to the rules regarding recruitment that are in force, the honourable member, the Chief Secretary, has fully and lucidly explained the position. It appears to me from the speeches made by some non-official members that there is a grievance about these rules. I will take note of that grievance and I shall examine the whole position to see whether the rules can be recast. I hope this assurance will satisfy honourable members.

Khan Bahadur M. A. KHUHRO: Why have the Government acted in this way?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The rules as they stand must be enforced; there was no other alternative.

Khan Bahadur ALLAHBAKSH: Who framed the rules?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: The rules were framed, even before I took office. In order to justify the modification of the rules, several points shall have to be taken into consideration. Probably before the next vacancy falls due for future recruitment, all the grievances of the honourable members from Sind will be taken into consideration in modifying the rules if modification is found necessary. I hope with this assurance the House will grant the demand.

Question put, and agreed to.

Token grant of Rs. 10 for repairing bridge over the Krishna river, etc.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Sir, I move for a token grant of Rs. 10 under 41, Civil Works—Provincial—partly reserved and partly transferred. The printed note* explains why it is required. I do not think I need add anything to it. I hope honourable members will sanction the grant.

Question put, and agreed to.

Token grant of Rs. 10 for Bombay Development Scheme

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I move a token grant of Rs. 10 under 59, Bombay Development Scheme—Reserved. This has been approved by the advisory committee as well as the sub-committee, which consist of eminent engineers and business men of the city of Bombay. For the benefit of this Honourable House I will read out their names:

Sir Joseph Kay (Chairman), representative of the Bombay Chamber of Commerce,

Mr. Manu Subedar (Indian Merchants' Chamber),

Mr. J. B. Petit (Bombay Millowners' Association),

Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee (Bombay Corporation representative), and so on. This demand was placed before the Finance Committee, and they have also approved of it. The reasons are stated in the note†.

Question put, and agreed to.

*Appendix 3. †Appendix 4.

Free grant of timber of the value of Rs. 2,000 to the Trustees of the Lord Reay Industrial Museum.

The Honourable Sir RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Mr. President, I make a demand for Rs. 2,000 under "30, Scientific Departments (Transferred)." The facts are stated very clearly in the note,* and if there be anything I shall be very happy to explain.

Question put, and agreed to.

Excess over the voted grant under the head "42, Bombay Development Scheme," on account of write-back of revenue expenditure and adjustment of municipal taxes.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I move a supplementary grant of Rs. 2,42,424 under "42, Bombay Development Scheme."† Honourable members will see that it is merely a change of accounts and nothing else.

Question put, and agreed to.

Continuance of the establishment entertained for the 11th High Court Judge.

The Honourable Mr. G. A. THOMAS: Sir, I move a token grant of Rs. 10 under "24, Administration of Justice". The reason is explained in the printed note.‡

Question put, and agreed to.

Remuneration to the Secretary, Western India Turf Club, for collecting revenue from book-makers.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Sir, I make a demand§ for Rs. 10,600 under "9-A, Scheduled Taxes." The House remembers that we passed the Betting Tax Act a year ago. And this is to pay for the work done by the Turf Club in connection with the collection of the tax from the book-makers. The work requires skilled supervision and is also of a confidential nature. It was impossible to put it in the budget, because the Bill had not been passed when the last budget was prepared.

Question proposed.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Mr. President, it appears to me, Sir, that the allowance of Rs. 300 per race-day, paid to the Secretary of the Western India Turf Club, is rather extravagant. The duties, which this officer is expected to perform, as narrated here, do not give one an idea of any very strenuous work. If that is so, I fail to see why Rs. 300 per race-day should be paid. I think that even if a whole time officer, having some knowledge of accounts, had been specially engaged on a monthly salary of Rs. 300, it would have cost very much less, about a third. I would, therefore, like the Honourable Member to explain why they have resorted to this extravagant method in preference to a much cheaper one, which would have brought about the same result with the same degree of satisfaction.

---

* Appendix 5.
† Appendix 6.
‡ Appendix 7.
§ Appendix 8.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: Sir, I quite understand the honourable member's point, but we were advised by the Finance Department that this was the cheapest method possible. I am not an expert in bookmakers' accounts,—perhaps my honourable friend is,—but I am quite certain that it does require very considerable experience to deal with these matters. However, I take full note of what the honourable member says. If we can come to some more economical arrangement with the Turf Club for the future years, I shall be very glad to do so. I will approach the Turf Club on the subject at a very early date. But the honourable member will understand that for the present year we are committed. The whole of this business is experimental, and I shall draw the attention of the Turf Club authorities to the remarks made by the honourable member and see what they have to say. I can assure the House—I am sure the Finance Department will see that I am kept up to it—that no extravagant arrangement will be allowed.

Dr. M. D. GILDER: On a point of information. Is any extra staff employed by this gentleman for the work?

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON: I do not know anything about whether any staff was engaged. The arrangement made was that the Turf Club with its establishment should do the work. We have not asked for any details about this. We shall go into this question, as we have a year's experience now. When we made the experiment we had not that experience. Now we know and they know. As I have told the honourable member, I shall do my best to see that the amount payable is reduced. I may say, however, that the incidence of collection is not very much; it is only 3 per cent.

Question put, and agreed to.

45, Superannuation Allowances and Pensions.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN: Sir, I make a demand of Rs. 7,94,000 under "45, Superannuation Allowances and Pensions." The reasons are stated in the note.*

Question put, and agreed to.

Expenditure in connection with the Sugarcane Research Scheme for the Bombay Deccan.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Sir, I move for a token grant of Rs. 10 under "34, Agriculture (Transferred).†" I may state, Sir, that the expenditure in this connection is to be met mainly from the grants which are to be made from time to time during the period of five years by the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research. This Government is not on this account to be put to much additional expenditure. Its share of expenditure is described in the printed note circulated to this House. I am sure that the honourable House will readily agree that sugarcane research is a very important one to undertake in the Deccan. The Deccan is the finest of sugarcane tracts in the world. A great obstacle in the way of expansion of cultivation of this crop in the

*Appendix 9. †Appendix 10.

[Dewan Bahadur S. T. Kambli]

Deccan has been the high cost of production. This research is intended to find out means and methods to reduce the prevailing high cost of cultivation of sugarcane in the Deccan. So, this scheme is a very important one from the point of view of agriculture. I hope the House will grant this demand.

Rao Bahadur G. K. CHITALE (Ahmednagar District): Mr. President, it is stated that this research does not cost the Government of Bombay very much. But, if my information is correct, the station which it is intended to put up at Padegaon on the Nira Right Bank forms part of a scheme on which about five lakhs of rupees are to be spent, out of which the Agricultural Research Institute pays a very large portion. But if my information is correct, the Bombay Presidency also has to pay a substantial portion, varying from a lakh to two lakhs. If that is correct, and I think that is correct, then I must say that the location of this station at Padegaon at the extreme end of the Nira Right Bank is not a very happy selection. If that site is intended to benefit the irrigation in the north, then it is the most remote station, because my information is that the soils in the Deccan differ very widely and even from district to district. It appears to me also that there are no facilities at Padegaon. The Nira Right Bank is not properly developed, irrigation is not being as quickly taken up as Government thought it would be. The whole irrigation policy has discontented the bagayatdars in general in the Deccan with the result that I am not quite sure that this station will be a happy and remunerative selection. I say so, because further south at Coimbatore there is a real research station for several years which tries to breed the best quality of sugarcane which can suitably be grown at a much cheaper cost. As a member of the committee which has been looking into the financial aspect of Deccan irrigation canals, I think I may, without breach of confidence, state that the irrigation officers also do not approve of the station being located at Padegaon—at least those skilled officers who alone can give an opinion.

It appears to me also that the kind of officers who are expected to run the show are not being selected with that careful attention which is necessary. We are told that A class officers will be employed, but Government are recruiting B class officers. If my impression is correct, the A class officer who it is intended to put in charge of this show is a man who starts on a salary of Rs. 350 or so. At least that was what was advertised in the papers by the Agricultural Department. When almost all the countries in the world are trying their best to improve their qualities of cane, when Mauritius, Java and other places are doing their best to breed sugarcanes that will yield greater percentages of sugar, I am not quite sure that a novice would be able to do justice to that aspect of the question in Bombay. It is a problem which has baffled the best talents for many many years. I know that the Coimbatore station is doing its best for many years, but still it has never catered for the wants of the Bombay Presidency, I mean not bred cane which will suit this presidency. As far as I know, the Agricultural Department also is deficient in knowledge on this particular point. We are certainly disappointed to see that our Presidency which is known for its sanity is lagging behind by ages. The point at issue, Sir, is certainly very important and it ought not to be tackled in the slipshod manner in which it is being tackled by Bombay. I know the difficulties of the Honourable Minister: I do not wish to blame him for a moment. But I must say that simply because the Government of India has got some money to be spent somewhere, the Bombay Government should not be prepared to abolish Manjri Farm and tack its funds on to this particular demand. I should say, Sir, that is not the correct way to spend the money. Our Department is doing its best at Sakrand for Sind. There we are also having a few more breeding stations round about. Again, if I remember rightly, that is done to suit the different soils. The results will be co-ordinated and then a particular class of sugarcane which is found to be the best will be recommended by the department. That is the correct process. But we find here that our old Manjri is being tacked on to this station. The Manjri method is well-known, but it has spent itself. Manjri method has never led us to any good results as regards the breeding of sugarcane but has worked towards reducing cost of cultivation. I should think the present stressful times have lowered the cost of cultivation much more than the Manjri method would have done for years to come. After all, it is agricultural economics which would bring down the cost of cultivation. But the real want of the Deccan, so far as the cultivation of sugarcane is concerned, is to rear or breed that kind of sugarcane which would give us a larger percentage of sugar, so that the sugar factories may thrive. So far the Pundya sugarcane, which is holding the field for many years, has not yielded it. The Belapur factory is thriving because they have, on their own initiative, bred a new kind of sugarcane which gives a larger percentage of sugar and which makes up the whole difference in the cost and value of the product. And certainly, when we visited that station, we found that there was a real difference. It is of course possible that the soils may change and the variety may disintegrate afterwards.

[Rao Bahadur G. K. Chitale]

From my point of view this grant is not being properly spent. I have no reasons to urge against the grant itself. But what I would like to urge with all the earnestness that I can command is this: do not go about the business in that slipshod manner of staffing the department. Somebody is at the head; and he is given assistants and the results will take care of themselves. Have some eyewash, some land. We want experiments on a bigger scale, under field conditions and under these circumstances, I should think that this is an experiment which ought to be taken up under the best expert who can be imported, if one is not available in India. I would not mind spending for an expert being brought from Mauritius or Java or anywhere else on earth, but pray do not follow the old method of starting something in earnest and in haste and then repenting at leisure because no results would be forthcoming, even though you may spend a very large amount.

Mr. R. D. BELL: Sir, the burden of the honourable member's criticism is that this scheme has been taken up and is being conducted in a slipshod manner, and he made certain criticisms in more detail which really depend on that general allegation. He also made a reference to eye-wash; and, on the assumption that eye-wash is a very good remedy for sore eyes, I shall give him a dose of it.

The scheme has not been started in a slipshod manner. This is a scheme for which there has been considerable competition amongst the Agricultural Departments of Local Governments in order to secure its location in their provinces. It is not a Bombay scheme. It is not a scheme devised solely to meet the requirements of the Bombay Presidency. It is an All-India scheme, and its location in Bombay, I may say, has been viewed with very obvious jealousy in some other provinces. Before it was started at all, and before the site was finally selected, a special committee was appointed by the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research which came down to Poona and sat there for a day or two, examined the local officers and investigated local conditions. This committee consisted of agricultural officers and experts in sugarcane growing and research from all parts of India. They blessed the scheme; and after that, it is quite impossible to say that it was started in a slipshod manner. It has the full approval of an All-India committee of expert officers.

There was some reference to Coimbatore. I did not quite catch the honourable member's suggestion in that connection. He also made a reference later on to the work being carried out under field conditions. As I understand the position, Coimbatore is a station where experiments are carried out on a small scale, that is to say, special types are bred there, but they are not tried under field conditions. I see honourable members shaking their heads, on the other side, but my point is that the new scheme will be conducted under field conditions.

As regards the cost to the Government of Bombay, it is quite true that it is costing the Government of Bombay a little more than they have hitherto spent on sugarcane cultivation. Manjri is not being tacked on to the scheme under discussion. Those were the words of the honourable member opposite (Rao Bahadur Chitale). Manjri is being closed down entirely and the expenditure hitherto incurred at Manjri is being diverted to this scheme. That is the Government of Bombay's share of the expenditure. It is not an additional expenditure. It is the existing expenditure. On the other hand, the Bombay Government on the receipt side will lose the receipts which they have been receiving from Manjri. This is all explained in the note supplied to honourable members.

The last criticism, as far as I could gather, referred to the manner in which the officers were selected. This criticism is not timely since the officers have not yet been selected. As the note shows, there will be three officers. One is an agricultural officer, another a sugarcane physiologist, and the third a soil physicist. The station will be in charge of the agricultural officer, and it is desirable, as the agricultural operations will be in his charge, that he should be a man with local knowledge and experience. He will, therefore, be a man selected from the Bombay Agricultural Department. The other two appointments are being advertised, because it is desirable that the two men should form a team. It is hoped that one of them will be selected from the Bombay Agricultural Department, but it is not decided yet. If possible, the man will be taken up from the Bombay Agricultural Department, but the idea is to get the best team that India can provide.

[Mr. R. D. Bell]

I think these remarks ought to assure the honourable member opposite that every care had been taken before the scheme was started and that every care is being taken to secure officers who are qualified to run the scheme.

The honourable member from Ahmednagar (Rao Bahadur Chitale) suggested that the officer in charge will start on about Rs. 350. The figure which he mentioned is approximately the initial figure of the scale to which the officer will belong and not the actual pay which he will draw. Originally the idea was that the officer in charge of the scheme should draw Rs. 1,000 and the other two officers Rs. 400 each, so that the initial pay of all three would be in the neighbourhood of Rs. 1,800. No definite figure has been laid down for any officer, but the three officers who are selected finally are expected to cost about Rs. 1,800 per month at the outset.

Mr. B. S. KAMAT: Sir, I welcome the scheme for sugarcane research, and I am very glad indeed to see that the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research has selected the Bombay Presidency for this particular scheme. Members of the House may not probably realise the importance of this scheme. I venture to tell the House that sugarcane breeding is intimately connected with the possibility of sugar-making in the Presidency; if Java is scoring a success over India in the matter of very cheap manufacture of sugar with which this country is inundated, it is because Java has, after a great deal of research extending over many years, evolved certain varieties of cane which, in respect of percentage of sugar they yield, are far superior to the varieties which we have in Bombay.

My honourable friend on my left (Rao Bahadur Chitale) seemed to me to be a little pessimistic in this respect from the manner and the disgruntled tone in which he referred to the scheme. I happen to know something about Coimbatore which I had the privilege of visiting in connection with the Agricultural Commission. Coimbatore is doing remarkably good work in cane breeding. The only inaccuracy in the statement which the honourable member the Chief Secretary made was that Coimbatore is not making experiments in cane breeding on a laboratory scale. On the contrary, it has a fine estate extending over 200 acres and the experiments in cane breeding are on a higher scale than the Manjri scheme which Bombay had up to now, or even perhaps the scheme which we are now having with the assistance of the Government of India.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

Now, if cane breeding is to be successful, cane breeding ought to be done on a very big scale. As regards the kind of experts, I may tell my honourable friend on my left (Rao Bahadur Chitale) that even in Coimbatore there is no imported expert who is doing this remarkably good work in cane breeding. We have there at present an Indian, and although he was trained under an Englishman, a great scientist, now the work is carried on very efficiently by an Indian. He has progressed from stage to stage, and it is his good work in connection with sugarcane breeding that has been useful not only to South India but even to sugar factories and for the production of sugarcane on a cheap basis to cane growers in the United Provinces and in Behar. If sugar-making is possible there, a great deal of credit is due to the varieties of cane introduced from Coimbatore, the South India cane-breeding station. That man therefore is doing good work and is supplying such varieties to the United Provinces and Behar that those two provinces are benefiting by those varieties in bringing down their cost of production. I am sure that even an Indian who is put in charge of this new cane breeding station will be able to pick up the threads of research if he is given opportunities of visiting Coimbatore and copying methods which have been practised there.

As regards the site chosen, namely, Padegaon, it is true, as my honourable friend says, that the specialist officer of the Irrigation Department to whom he refers thought that Padegaon would not be quite suitable. On the other hand, if I might refer to the conversations we had in the committee of which my friend is a member, the Director of Agriculture thinks that the Padegaon site is quite suitable. If there is a difference of opinion between the Irrigation officer and the Director of Agriculture, I expect that this difference of opinion between the two specialist officers of Government must have been brought to the notice of the Imperial Agricultural Council, and ultimately, they after taking the balance of advantages and disadvantages between Padegaon and some other sites must have given preference to Padegaon. The great advantage of Padegaon probably is that it is on the Nira Right Bank Canal where irrigation is not yet developed, and there is besides the advantage that you can go ahead without certain prejudices and without those ideas which have been perhaps crystallised in other parts of some of the irrigation tracts. You have, therefore, a clean slate to go ahead with new ideas about cane production. Probably that must have been the consideration in the final choice of Padegaon.

With reference to the choice of officers, my honourable friend was in a way right in suggesting that great deal of care should be taken in fixing the salaries and in the final selection of men. So far as the number of officers is concerned, three officers are intended to be kept at this research station. It is very difficult to dogmatise in this respect; whether an agricultural officer, a soil physicist and a sugar physiologist are all necessary, it is difficult for us laymen to say, probably there might be suitable men who combine the two qualifications in one; that is to say, if you can get an officer who is both an agricultural expert and a soil physicist combined, it would probably be a more economical arrangement, but the difficulty is to have the same man with these two specialist qualifications combined. However, that is a matter of precaution and I do hope that the Department is exercising that precaution which is necessary.

[Mr. B. S. Kamat]

As regards the scale of salaries, I find that the two appointments which are to be filled, carry a salary of Rs. 350 rising to Rs. 1,200. I for one do not know whether Rs. 1,200 would be a necessary maximum for this salary. We are now retrenching in every department and probably if we can have a somewhat lower limit for the maximum, it would have been much better, but that depends on how you can get an expert. If you can get a man on a lesser maximum than Rs. 1,200, it would be desirable to do so in the interests of the finances of the Presidency. But that again is a question of getting a suitable man. I do hope that the choice of men will be made strictly on the basis of qualifications and that men who are eminently suitable for their work will be selected on the basis of qualifications and on no other considerations.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI: Sir, with regard to the site selected for carrying out research work, sufficient explanation has been given by the honourable member the Chief Secretary to show that the selection was made after great consideration and after inspecting and examining various sites. I may add, Sir, that this site has been particularly selected on account of its being representative of the environmental conditions prevailing in the Deccan. This site was regarded on account of its representative character to be the best place for carrying out this particular kind of research work. I may also inform the honourable member from Nasik that the Chairman of the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, when he came down to Poona recently, personally inspected the place and not a single objection of any kind was taken by him or by his Committee.

With regard to the officers who are going to be appointed, I may assure the honourable member that greatest care will be taken to select the best qualified men for these posts. The sole object is to make the research scheme a success and to bring down the very high cost of production which now prevails and which is standing in the way of progress of sugarcane cultivation in the Deccan; this being the object, officers best suited for this purpose and best qualified by their experience and academic qualifications etc. will be appointed to these posts.

With regard to the maximum salary referred to by the honourable member from Poona, I would assure him that the greatest care will be taken to fix the maximum under the present conditions.

As the object of the scheme is to bring down the high cost of production and as we shall bestow the greatest care in selecting the best of officers for the Research Scheme, it is hoped that the honourable House will grant the demand.

[Dewan Bahadur S. T. Kambli]

Question put, and agreed to.

Grant-in-aid for the scheme of Investigation of the Virus Diseases of Plants.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : Sir, I move for a token grant of Rs. 10 under 34-Agriculture (Transferred)*. This expenditure is required for carrying on investigations into the virus diseases of plants. As this expenditure is also to be met from grants from the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, this Presidency will not be put to any expenditure at all. This investigation is absolutely necessary especially in the interests of agriculturists and horticulturists, and I hope that, taking the importance of the investigation into consideration, the House will grant the demand.

Question put, and agreed to.

Excess expenditure under V-Land Revenue—Refunds—1931-32.

The Honourable Mr. W. F. HUDSON : Sir, I make a demand for a grant of Rs. 1,90,000 under the head "V-Land Revenue—Refunds—1931-32."† The grounds for the refunds are stated in the note† and I do not think it is necessary to explain in detail why the refunds have to be made.

Question put, and agreed to.

Excess under the head "60, Civil Works.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI : Sir, I move for a grant of Rs. 79,000 under the head 60. Civil Works—Transferred.‡

Question put, and agreed to.

Loan to Improvement Trust.

The Honourable Sir GOVINDRAO PRADHAN : Sir, I make a demand for Rs. 30,02,000 under the head "Loans and Advances by Provincial Government" for advancing a loan to the Bombay Improvement Trust.§

Question proposed.

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District) : Sir, before we give our approval to this loan to the Bombay Improvement Trust, I wish to know and be satisfied with regard to the advisability of making this loan to the Improvement Trust. The necessity for the loan itself shows that the financial position of the Improvement Trust is not what it ought to be, and we see from the note itself that there are a series of deficits and the expectation of realising the estimated return of the capital expenditure will hardly come true.

The recent budget of the Improvement Trust shows that its expenditure is to the tune of Rs. 1,11,00,000 and the estimated income is only Rs. 76,00,000 or thereabouts. So, there is a clear deficit of 34½ lakhs, and the Government of Bombay has already given a loan of 20 lakhs in

* Appendix 11. ‡ Appendix 13.
† Appendix 12. § Appendix 14.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

the year 1930-31 and during the current year it means to give a fresh loan of 35 lakhs. The total loan which the Bombay Government has given to the Improvement Trust from the Public Debt Development Loan Account is, as given in the Blue Book, Rs. 370 lakhs, and, as the statement at page 9 of the Blue Book shows, the other debt which has been given from the Loan Fund is nearly 411 lakhs. So, in all, the Bombay Government has given more than seven crores to the Bombay Improvement Trust and if these loans cannot in the near future be returned, I wish to know what would become of this loan. How would our province get this money back ? That is the point which we have to take into consideration when advancing this loan. I for one am not acquainted with the affairs of the Improvement Trust, and I do not know whether any particulars or details were supplied to the Finance Committee which met to-day, because the proceedings of the Finance Committee which have been supplied to us only deal with four items. But to-day the Finance Committee has met, and I do not know whether the details or particulars with regard to the assets of the Improvement Trust have been supplied to it. In this matter, we do not know what the property of the Improvement Trust is, or what their assets are to cover this big loan which has been given to them. It has been simply stated that they have been making provision for the liquidation of the loan by some appropriations in the Sinking Fund. We have not been given any figures with regard to the extent of this Sinking Fund which the Improvement Trust has been developing, and unless we are satisfied as regards the solvency of the Improvement Trust, I think it is wasting the money ; it will perhaps be a dead loss, which we shall have to add to the amount which we have already sunk in the Back Bay reclamation.

I also wish to know for what purpose the Bombay Improvement Trust are going to utilise this amount,—whether it is for the purpose of any development, or simply to cover their deficit. From what is stated in the note, it seems that it is simply to cover the deficit. The accounts of the Improvement Trust show that in the long run there is no prospect of any improvement of any kind in the Improvement Trust and that there is not also any possibility of retrenchment in the expenses of the Improvement Trust. So far as I have seen from the papers, it seems there is no scope for improvement, because most of its expenses are on the interest and sinking fund charges. It is said that out of the expenses of the Improvement Trust not less than 95 per cent. goes towards the interest and sinking fund charges, and also probably towards establishment, and it has been said that there is no possibility of making any retrenchment whatsoever in these expenses. So, if that is the state of things, I do not know why the Bombay Government should lend this money to the Improvement Trust. Was there any obligation upon the Bombay Government, when the Improvement Trust was started, that it is to maintain the Improvement Trust by loan funds ? We ourselves are borrowing for our purposes, and out of that borrowed money we have to give a loan to the Improvement Trust. If the Improvement Trust cannot repay the amount, ultimately this charge would fall upon the presidency; there is no doubt about it. If really the affairs of the Improvement Trust are hopeful, why should not the Improvement Trust itself go in for a public loan. This Improvement Trust is in Bombay, and in Bombay there is a great investing public. The Bombay public must know the affairs of the Improvement Trust from a financial point of view, and if they really think that in the long run their money is safe and their investment is safe, there should be no difficulty whatsoever for the public, if a public loan is floated, to go in for it; and if the public are not ready to go in for the loan, it would appear that the public have no confidence whatsoever that they can get that loan back. No doubt, at the time when the Improvement Trust was started, there was the necessity of improving the various slums, improving the residential conditions of the people and also the sanitary conditions. But the question is whether at this time it is necessary to allow the Improvement Trust to go on with its operations by giving it this loan, and whether Government now at least would not think of stopping the operations of the Improvement Trust. It was said some years back with regard to the Development Department and its operations that there must be a stop put to these developments in times of financial stringency. Therefore, now is the time to consider whether, for some time at least we shall have to stop the operations of the Improvement Trust, if it is found that this money is to be spent on improvements. There is a large establishment which is being maintained, and if they have not got the money, I do not think the operations of the Improvement Trust should be carried on.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

It will be seen, Sir, that the Government of Bombay have been effecting savings in the loan money, i.e. Provincial Loan Fund and have been going out of their way to oblige the Improvement Trust. The loan money which was during the current year apportioned to the various bodies has been given on page 179 of the Blue Book, and the savings which have been effected are given on page 180. They have saved something from the Lloyd Barrage, and I am rather grieved to see that savings have been made in the loans which were to be given to the mofussil. From this amount of nearly 33,59,000 a saving has been made. This money was wanted for other objects e.g., Irrigation, etc. and out of this amount the Government are going to save and to meet part of the loan intended to be given to Improvement Trust. No doubt, they are also intending to make a further loan during the next year to the extent of Rs. 38,00,000, and I have given notice of a motion to omit it. It may perhaps come up for discussion to-morrow. For the present, I submit that it is rather starving the mofussil to stop all works there and lend this money to the Improvement Trust. The Trust is in Bombay town, which is a wealthy town and can look after itself. Properly speaking, this work of the Improvement Trust can very well be conducted by the Bombay Corporation. Why should not the Improvement Trust be amalgamated with the Bombay Municipal Corporation? In that case, the whole liability will fall on the Bombay Corporation, and the Presidency need not lend this amount to the Improvement Trust and take the responsibility for it. I find from the accounts that even the equated payment of Rs. 12,50,000 is to be paid out of this loan which is to be given to the Trust. If that is so, if the Government think that the Improvement Trust cannot return the loan already given to it, why should not Government come forward and quite candidly and openly say that the loan which is given to the Improvement Trust is after all a bad debt. We shall then at least see that, after all, it is a loss as in the case of the Back Bay. So, it is no use hiding facts. We have lent money and are getting only a partial return for it. It is high time that the whole matter was placed before this House. Further information with regard to the assets or the properties of the Improvement Trust and their liabilities should be furnished. No doubt, there might be sites which are to be developed. The Improvement Trust might have spent a large capital amount upon the acquisition of sites and lands, which cannot now be sold, because they were acquired during the boom period. So, unless there is another boom, it is not likely that these properties will be sold at a reasonable price. With these remarks, I hope the Honourable Member in charge will be pleased to give us information as to the real position of the Improvement Trust, and whether there is any possibility of repayment of the loan which has been given to the Improvement Trust. With these words I oppose the grant.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Dr. J. A. COLLACO (Bombay City, South): Sir, I may allay the fear of my honourable friend Mr. Jog, by saying that every pie of this Improvement Trust loan and all its losses are payable, rightly or wrongly by the Bombay Municipality. If the Improvement Trust goes into liquidation to-morrow, and there is a deficit, nevertheless the Bombay Municipality will have to pay every pie of the debt. It is the first charge on the Bombay Municipality. The Accountant General can tell the Municipal Commissioner to transfer all the funds of the Bombay Municipality to pay the debts of the Improvement Trust. So, there is no fear that your loans will not be paid.

The Improvement Trust tried its best, in this depressed condition, to get a loan, but the response was very poor. It is very difficult, Sir, in these hard times to get money. The people, looking at the political situation and thinking about other things, do not want to put money in this concern, and the Improvement Trust was in an awkward position.

I may tell the honourable member Mr. Jog that the loss which the Improvement Trust is incurring is not of its own making. I have already told the honourable House that when there was the Improvement Trust in Bombay, improving the city of Bombay, taking over new lands, the Bombay Government started a rival scheme and drove all the people to Khar, Santa Cruz, Chembur and other places. The result is that all the land which the Improvement Trust had taken over is on its hands. They cannot sell it, and I do not know when they will be able to sell it. I hope the honourable member, after hearing these remarks, will withdraw his objection.

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Sir, my honourable friend Mr. Jog said that Government was advancing this money to the Improvement Trust and was starving the districts. But Government are not giving this to the Improvement Trust as a financial help or as a gift, Government are merely giving it as a loan, and they will receive interest every year, and after the period fixed the loan will be repaid by the Improvement Trust. I may inform my honourable friend that, up to now, the Improvement Trust has always set aside every year money for a sinking fund for all the loans that it has borrowed, at fixed rates, and it will be in a position to pay back the loans, when they mature, out of the sinking fund.

Sir, a large amount, or almost the whole amount, of the borrowed money of the Improvement Trust has been invested in land, and on account of the depressed times the lands are not being freely sold. That is why the Improvement Trust is in some difficulty and has asked Government to help it by advancing this money. I hope, Sir, this explanation will satisfy my honourable friend Mr. Jog. No doubt a certain amount of responsibility is laid on the shoulders of the Bombay municipality under one of the sections of the Improvement Trust Transfer Act, which the municipality will have to undertake in a time of necessity. This is merely taking a loan from Government for the Improvement Trust as has been done in the past. For this loan, the sinking fund and interest charges will be provided by the Improvement Trust. I do not find any difficulty in the way of my honourable friend Mr. Jog or any other honourable member. If Government want to spend more moneys outside, they will have to do so out of borrowed money and they will have to pay more interest. Here, Government get their interest and it is not a burden on their revenues. I hope this House will pass the demand.

