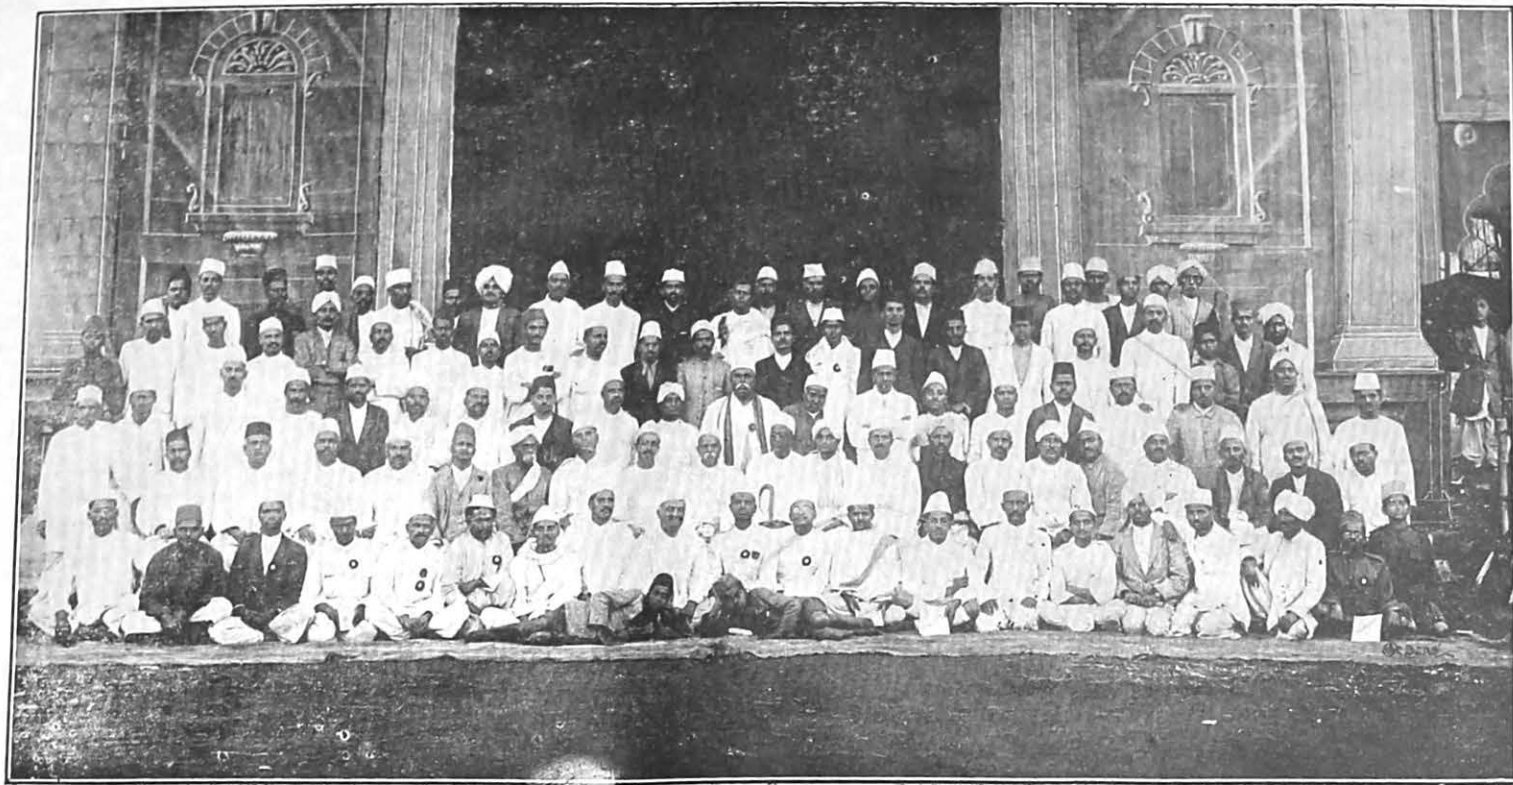

PLATE 2.

WORKERS' GROUP.

39th Indian National Congress, Belgaum.

Introduction.

The province of Karnatak had a distinct entity in the ancient Indian polity. It has played no mean part in its contribution to and preservation of Indian culture. In fact, it may be proudly said that Karnatak for seven hundred years i. e. from the Chalukain period to the fall of the glorious and never-to-be-forgotten Empire of Vijayanagar nurtured and defended the precious Aryan culture when it was threatened with extinction. Ultimately in common with the rest of India, Karnatak too, as has been truly observed " had had to pass through a period, brief but very disastrous period of the dwindling of the fire of life, a period of ill-started disintegration, marked politically by the anarchy which gave European adventure its chance; and inwardly by an increasing torpor of the creative spirit in religion and art, science and philosophy. And these evils have been incalculably aggravated by the multiple partition to which the province has come to be subjected ". It was only during the last decade that a movement for the unification of Karnatak was started. Meanwhile under the constitution of the Indian National Congress as adopted at Nagpur all the provinces were reorganised on linguistic basis. Thus, since 1921 Karnatak got its recognition as a distinct province in the national affairs.

General.

The Congress held its session, for the first time, in Karnatak in December 1924. The responsibility on the province in inviting the Congress was no small one, as the province comprises barely seven British districts though large territories under more than a dozen Native States with hardly any scope for political activity are included in it. Still the enthusiasum for the Congress was unique and it must be noted with gratitude that all the districts and States, especially the State of Mysore, heartily responded to the appeal made on behalf of the Reception Committee for funds.

The Karnatak Provincial Congress Committee met in March 1924 to select a suitable place for holding the sessions of the Congress; and after a very keen contest the choice fell upon Belgaum. Belgaum is by no means a very large or populous city; but it afforded a number of facilities suited for making the best possible arrangements with a view to convenience and comfort of all concerned. Belgaum could, moreover, with some pride claim to have contributed its humble mite in the recent political activities of the nation. It was in Belgaum in the year 1916 that the 16th Bombay Provincial Conference held its session

when the basis was laid for the unity between the two wings of the Congress of those days, namely, the Moderates and the Nationalists with the result that both the parties once again came under the common flag of the next Congress at Lucknow. It was in Belgaum again that Lokmanya founded his Indian Home Rule League in 1916

Formation of the Reception Committee.

The Karnatak Provincial Congress Committee at its meeting referred to above formed the Reception Committee which met in its turn on the next day to make provisional appointments of the office-bearers. The Reception Committee met again in August when the final appointments of the office-bearers, the formation of the Executive Committee and the various sub-committees took place. There were in all 16 sub-committees to look to the different functions of the Reception Committee, the Chairman and the General Secretaries being ex-officio members of each sub-committee. The names of the office-bearers and the various sub-committees with their members are given in Appendix I.

Arrangements.

The Reception Committee chose a beautiful site situate on the ground of the Belgaum Extension covering an area of about 80 acres—all compact and beautiful-surrounded on one side with the amenities of modern city life and on the other with all the charm of rural life and gave it the historic name of Vijayanagar to remind us of the glorious Karnatak Empire of that name.

The principle arrangements made by the Reception Committee in Vijayanagar were :—

1. The Pandal—The Reception Committee had secured on hire for the purposes of the Pandal the huge khaddar Tent which the Reception Committee of Coconada had got specially made for the Congress by Messrs A. N. Mukerji of Calcutta and which had been purchased by the All-India Congress Committee for the annual sessions of the congress. It was tastefully decorated all through. Just near the centre of the platform were seen the life-size portraits of Lokmanya and Mahatma Gandhi while a number of portraits of patriots who have earned name and fame in the cause of the Country were exhibited on all sides. Following the precedent of the last three years, the assembly sat on the floor covered with carpets excepting visitors for whom a gallery of wooden planks was provided running all round the tent.

A beautiful garden with a marble fountain in the centre was artistically laid out just in front of the Pandal, -

2. The Gopura—The main gate to the pandal formed quite a unique and remarkably attractive feature. It was designed and executed by the young promising artist of Karnatak now carrying on his business in Bombay under the name of Shrinivas and Co. taking for his model the gate of the temple of Shri Virupax of Hampi, the capital of the Vijayanagar Empire. At night the Gopura was illuminated with electric lights supplied by special installations.
3. Subjects Committee Hall—A specious octagonal Hall covering an area of about 14,000 square feet was erected just adjoining the Pandal with a view to minimise the chances of disappointment to visitors eager to witness the proceedings of the Committee. This hall was also intended to serve and it did serve to afford facilities for holding meetings of the various other conferences on the congress grounds.
4. Central Offices—By the side of the Subjects Committee Hall, a big quadrangular space was reserved on which the various Reception Committee offices were located including offices for Post, Telegraph and the Bank.
5. The "Khaddar Palace"—Close by the Subjects Committee Hall, a small and simple structure was constructed for accommodating the President. Though it was worthy of being called a 'palace' from the point of view of beauty it was certainly a cottage from the point of view of cost.
6. Hospital and Medical aid—A little further to the west of the President's camp and in a quiet corner was erected a hospital where qualified medical men were ever ready to render service. Besides this, there was a free dispensary under the supervision of experienced doctors and it was freely resorted to by delegates and visitors.
7. Spinning Hall—A hall equipped with spinning wheels and other accessories was specially constructed for the convenience of delegates desiring to spin. Spinning competitions were also held here and prizes awarded. In this connection it should be noted that the thanks of the Reception Committee are due to Sjt. Satish Chandra Das Gupta of the Khadi Pratishtan, Calcutta, for having entertained large masses of people by his Lantern lectures giving a visible representation of the prosperity of India in the pre-British period and also of the meaning of the Khaddar movement so far as it relates to the revival of the glorious past.
8. The Concert Hall—Close by the spinning hall was erected another structure with an appearance of a modern theatre for holding musical concerts. Prominence was given to Kannad rāgās and tunes.

Celebrated musicians from Mysore including Sjt. Veené Sheshanna—the veteran and talented Veena player, contributed a great deal in making this part of the programme quite attractive and successful. The Reception Committee is deeply indebted to all these musicians for their honorary services.

9. Accommodation—Accommodation for delegates, members of the Reception Committee and visitors from other provinces were provided in Blocks constructed either of khaddar or of bamboo mats, each block containing generally 12 rooms and each room accommodating 6 persons. In all 72 blocks were erected out of which 39 blocks were of pure khaddar. In addition, there were 70 "special cottages" each being separately provided with kitchen, bath and water-supply for the convenience of those requiring such arrangements.
10. Dinner arrangements—A central general kitchen providing meals in Karnatak style was arranged and a huge hall measuring about 500x100 was reserved for dining. Arrangements were also made for separate kitchens for provinces desiring to have their own arrangements. Close to the kitchen, a store was maintained to supply all provisions at cost price
11. Water Works—The town of Belgaum being without the facility of any water works, special arrangements had to be made for the supply of water. For this purpose a large well measuring 50x50 was dug to a depth of nearly 40 feet for getting perennial and sufficient supply of water. The water was then pumped out by steam pumps specially put up for the purpose into tanks of the capacity of 30,000 gallons and then distributed by means of pipes throughout Vijayanagar.
12. Conservancy and Sanitation—Following the precedents of the last few years, trench privies were constructed. The Municipal staff and a noble band of Volunteers under the direct supervision of Sjt D. B. Kalelkar worked in close co-operation in arranging for the disposal of the night-soil. But for the devoted work of the Volunteers, satisfactory management of this department would have been impossible.
13. Lighting—Arrangements for lighting had also to be specially made. Exhibition enclosures were lighted by "electricity specially installed" for the purpose. The Pandal, the Subjects Committee Hall, the offices, Volunteers' barracks and the President's camp were lighted by Petromax lights; the kitchen, Dinining Halls, the Roads and other public places by kitson lights and the Delegates' quarters by Dietz lanterns.
14. Volunteers—The Volunteer organisation was another unique feature of the Belgaum Congress. Early in April, Dr. Hardikar had prepared an elaborate scheme for securing " trained " Volunteers for the Congress. Owing to dearth of funds the scheme could only be partly carried out. The strength of volunteers was 1156 consisting of 817 Sahayaks, 141 Sahayikas ( Lady volunteers ) and 198 Scouts—all recruited solely from Karnatak and Kannada residents of Andhra, Maharashtra and Bombay. Of these, about 275 Sahayaks had received full time training in camps specially opened for the purpose and an equal number were given instructions in classes conducted by some of the regularly trained Volunteers. Taking into consideration the fact that the Volunteers had onerous and heavy duties to perform such as, crowd and traffic control, night patrol, and guard-duty—not to speak of ordinary duties—it must be noted with gratitude that they acquitted themselves quite creditably under the able management of the Captain and other officers of the Volunteer organisation.

15. National Flag—A specious quadrangular camp was constructed for housing the Volunteers with the Senapati's tent in the middle. Adjoining the camp, on the open Maidan, a flag staff of majestic height was raised and the national flag of pure khadder with charaka was hoisted on it with due ceremony. Daily in the morning & in the evening the flag was hoisted and lowered. The entire camp, the Sahayaks, and other officers in their khaki and white uniforms and the Sahayikas in their black tri-colour-bordered and edged saris and Kumars (scouts) with their scarfs, saluting it at hoisting and lowering times every day in the horse-shoe formation was attracting a very large mass of on-lookers. This daily hoisting of National Flag was altogether a new function in the history of Congress volunteers.
16. Swadeshi Exhibition—The Swadeshi Exhibition was arranged in a special enclosure measuring 350x200. It was divided as in previous years into four sections (a) Museum (b) Demonstration (c) Sale and (d) Ayurvedic.
- (a) In the Museum section. various Indian arts and industries were allowed to be exhibited. The Mysore Government was good enough to exhibit a handsome number of articles relating to agriculture as well as other manufactures and they reflect great credit on the industrial activities and progress of the State.
- (b) In the demonstration section parties from different provinces were allowed to demonstrate all the processes commencing from the ginning of cotton to weaving of hand-spun yarn.
- (c) Sales section provided stalls for sale of articles of Indian manufacture.

- (d) Ayurvedic section exhibited Indian Medical herbs and essences. This section was a new feature this year.

The co-operation of other bodies.

The M. S. and M. Railway company were good enough to accede to the request of the Reception committee for opening a flag station close to the Congress site. Besides this, they showed readiness to meet the needs of the Committee in all possible ways. Last but not least, it is gratifying to note the hearty and enthusiastic co-operation of the Belgaum Municipality and its officials. But for their help and co-operation the Reception Committee would not have been able to achieve all it did. Special thanks of the Reception Committee are, therefore, due to these two bodies and to such other public departments and their heads for having rendered all possible assistance.

It is regretted also that the report could not be seen through the press and published before 28th April 1925 as is required by the Constitution as amended at Belgaum. Various causes beyond our control conspired to cause this regrettable delay

Belgaum Impressions

By Mahatma Gandhi

When there are too many impressions all clamouring for expression, the registrar's task becomes unenviable. Such is my position as I take up the pencil to register my impressions of Belgaum. I can but try.

Gangadhar Rao Deshpande and his band of workers rose to the highest height. His Vijayanagar was a triumph—not yet of Swaraj—but certainly of organisation. Every detail was well thought out. Dr Hardikar's volunteers were smart and attentive. The roads were broad and well kept. They could easily be broader for the convenience of the temporary shops and the easy movement of thousands of sight-seers. The lighting arrangement was perfect. The huge pavilion with a marble fountain in front of it seemed to invite all who would enter it. The capacity of the pavilion could not be less than seventeen thousand. The sanitary arrangements though quite good needed still more scientific treatment than what they had. The method of the disposal of used water was very primitive. I invite the Cawnpore people who are to have the honour of holding the Congress session of 1925 to study the most effective methods of camp sanitation now and not leave this very important part to the eleventh hour.

Whilst I am able to give ungrudging praise for the almost perfect organisation that one could see in the Congress camp, I cannot help remarking that Gangadhar Rao could not escape the temptation of making the outside look lavish and in following the traditional custom of going in for extravagant luxuries for the 'people at the top.' Take the presidential 'hut'. I had bargained for a khaddar hut; but I was insulted with a khaddar palace. The floor space reserved for the President was certainly quite necessary. The fence round the 'palace' was an absolute necessity for my protection from embarrassingly admiring crowds. But I am sure that, had I been contractor, I would have given the same space and the same comfort to the President at half the expense. This however is only one instance of the many I can quote of lavish expenditure. The refreshments supplied to the members of the Subjects Committee and others were unnecessarily lavish. There was no sense of proportion observed as to the quantities served. I am finding fault with nobody. The extravagance came from a generous heart. It was all well meant. Forty years' tradition cannot be undone in a day, especially if no one likely to gain a hearing will repeatedly criticise it. I know, when I suggested to Vallabhbhai in 1921 that he should make a beginning, he retorted by saying that whilst he would try to attain simplicity and avoid extravagance, he would not allow his pet Gujarath to be considered miserly. I could not persuade him that if he did not have a temporary fountain costing several thousand rupees he would not be considered miserly. I told him too that whatever he did was bound to be copied by his successors. Vallabhbhai would not take the odium of being considered miserly. I advise Cawnpore to lead the way. The miserliness of Cawnpore may be considered the extravagance of tomorrow. There were many things Vallabhbhai did discard. I did not hear any remarks about the disappearance of things that were really not a felt want.

Let us remember the Congress is intended to represent the poorest toilers who are the salt of India. Our scale must be so far as possible adjusted to theirs. We must therefore be progressively economical without being inefficient and stingy.

In my opinion the charges for accommodation and food are much too heavy. We may do worse than take a lesson from the book of Swami Shraddhanandji. I remember the sheds he built for his guests who came for the Gurukul anniversary in 1916. He built grass sheds for them at a cost ( I think ) of about Rs. 2000. He invited contractors to open restaurants on the ground and made no charge for the accommodation. No one could complain of the arrangement. They knew what they were to expect. Nearly 40,000 people were thus accommodated on the Gurukul ground without the slightest difficulty and with practically no expense. And what is more, each visitor received what he wanted and was at liberty to live cheeply or extravagantly.

I do not say that the Swami's plan should be copied in its entirety. But I do suggest that better and chesper plans are imperatively necessary. The reduction of the delegate's fees from Rs. 10 to 1 was universally acclaimed. The reduction of lodging and dining charges would be, I am sure, still more appreciated.

The source of income should be a small entrance fee levied from every spectator. The Congress must be an annual fair where visitors may come and get instruction with amusement. The deliberative part should be an item round which the demonstrative programme should turn. It therefore should take place in decent time, as this year, and the appointments must be religiously observed.

I am not sure that the packing of all other conferences into one week serves any national purpose. In my opinion only those conferences should take place during the Congress week that aid and strengthen the Congress. The President and his ' Cabinet ' must not be expected to give their attention to anything but Congress work. I know that, if there had been no other call upon my time, I could have better attended to the charge entrusted to me. I had not a moment left to me for contemplation. I was unable to frame the necessary recommendations for making the franchise a success. The fact is that the organisers of various conferences do not take their tasks seriously. They hold them because it has become the fashion to do so. I would urge workers in various directions to avoid the annual dissipation of energy.

The exhibition of indigenous arts and industries is an institution that should grow from year to year. The musical concert was a treat that thousands must have enjoyed. The lantern lectures tracing the tragic history of the ruin of the greatest national industry and the possibilities of its revival were apposite, instructive and amusing. I tender my congratulations to Satish Babu upon the thoughtful and thorough manner in which he organised these lectures. The spinning competition must also be a permanent feature. Its popularity is evinced by the number of competitors, the brilliance of results and the number of donors. This spinning movement is bringing out women from their seclusion as nothing else could have done. Of the 11 prize winners, 4 belonged to the gentle sex. It has given them a dignity and self-confidence which no university degree could give them. They are realising that their active assistance is just as indispensable as that of men and, what is more, such assistance can be as easily rendered by them as, if not more easily, than, by men.

One thing I must not omit before I close these impressions. There were nearly seventy five volunteers, mostly Brahmans, who were engaged in conservancy work in the Congress camp. The Municipal bhangis were indeed taken, but it was thought necessary to have the volunteers also. Kaka Kalelkar who was in charge of this corps tells me that this part of the work would not have been done as satisfactorily as it was, if the corps had not been formed. He tells me too that the volunteers worked most willingly. Not one of them shirked the work which ordinarily very few would be prepared to undertake. And yet it is the noblest of all from one point of view. Indeed sanitary work must be regarded as the foundation of all volunteer training.
