ANNEXURE I

STANDARD OF LIVING INDEX

A standard of living index was created by the National Family Health Survey (NFHS) as a summary household measure (IIPS and ORC Macro, 2000). The components of the NFHS index are set out in Table A, together with their respective weights.

	le I.1: Standard of living index (SLI) IS Standard of Living Index compon

25	Water pump	- yes=2	- no=0
26	Bullock cart	- yes=2	- no=0
27	Thresher	- yes=2	- no=0

The index is calculated by summing the weights which have been developed by the International Institute of Population Sciences NFHS research team in India. These weights are based upon their considerable knowledge of the relative significance of ownership of these items, rather than on a more formal analysis. For example, a household which owns a colour TV is considered to be three times as wealthy as one that owns its own house IIPS and ORC Macro, 2000). The first group represents the poorest group of the population and the third represents the affluent.
