ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Full time work on this thesis has been done during 16th July 1964 to 30th June 1968. Pre-doctoral training at the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, Poona-4, during 1963-64 in Research Methodology, Mathematical Economics and Statistics along with Sociology and Economic Development has enabled me to procure the initial tools of a research worker. Other facilities with a fellowship provided by the Institute authorities both during the periods of research and training have made it possible for me to give the present shape to this thesis. The Senior Fellowship offered during the current academic year has enabled me to do a bit of chiselling and to give final touches to it mostly during spare time. I am highly thankful to the Institute authorities for all this.

This thesis bears the imprint of Prof. Mathur's wide experience and imaginative ideas. He has supplied the flesh and blood to the otherwise bare bones and feeble structure of the work. But for his constant encouragement and interest, the work would not have taken the present shape. It is difficult to express my deep sense of gratitude to him in words.

I owe a lot to Dr. K.M. Mukherjee who was formerly at the Institute and Mr. R.S. Rao for their advice on numerous occasions during the early stages of this work. A large number of my colleagues in the Input-Output Group, Messrs. Venkatramiah, Koti, Kulkarni, Unde, Paithankar, Radha Krishna, Sardesai, Kirloskar, Hashim, Somayajulu and Naganna have been helpful at different stages of this work in more than one way. Mr. Khare's help in computer programming as well as his suggestions and Mr. G.K. Mishra's help at the final stage of the thesis have been quite valuable. I owe a debt of gratitude to all of them.

Mr. Rabindranath of the Planning Commission has been of immense help in finalising classification scheme. Mr. Puntambekar and his staff at the Electric Data Processing Centre, Bombay, have also been helpful in many ways. Messrs. A. S. Prakash Rao and Ramakrishna of the Department of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics, Calcutta have been kind enough to spare their time for discussion on some of the salient features of India's foreign trade statistics during my visit to Calcutta three years ago.

The Librarian and the staff members of the Servants of India Society Library have been painstakingly helpful. Mr. N.G. Phadke has tried his best in doing the highly unpalatable job of typing the thesis.

I am sincerely thankful to all of them.
