Directory of colleges in Ayurveda,
Unani, Siddha, Homoeopathy in India.

1980-81.

DIRECTORY OF AYURVEDIC, UNANI and SIDDHA
UNDERGRADUATE COLLEGES IN INDIA.

84 Ayurvedic Teaching Institutions, half of them run by State Government were admitting students in 1979-80, 82 of them were affiliated to Universities. The admission capacity in 1979-80 was more than 3400.

Of the 13 Unani Teaching Institutions, functioning in the country, 11 were affiliated to Universities. Only 4 were run by the State Governments. The admission capacity was about 470 in all these institutions.

The only Siddha College functioning in Tamil Nadu is run by the State Government and is affiliated to Madurai Kamaraj University. The admission capacity is 44.

All the Undergraduate teaching Institutions in Ayurveda, Unani and Siddha are following the Syllabus and curriculums formulated by the Central Council of Indian Medicine and duly approved by the Government of India.

With a view to compile the Directory of Colleges in Indian Systems of Medicine, a circular was issued to the States in the month of September, 1979, eliciting basic information relating to the colleges existing in the States recognised by the respective State Governments. Replies received from the states are incorporated in this report. As the final reply from Bihar is still awaited, available information pertaining to 1978 is included for Bihar.

Right from the 4th Plan period, in the field of Undergraduate Education, the consensus was that emphasis should be laid more on quality rather on quantity. Accordingly, almost all the States have taken adequate steps to safeguard against the mushroom growth of Colleges. Sub-standard colleges existing in the States were abolished or are being developed and many of the private colleges were also taken over by the State Governments. Thus the total number of colleges in the country remained more or less about 100 for the last decade. Bihar and Delhi are the only exception where the number of colleges run by voluntary agencies increased quite significantly in the preceding 3 or 4 years.

The courses formulated by the Central Council of Indian Medicine have been implemented by almost all the colleges in the country.

Salient features relating to the curriculum and syllabus for the Ayurvedic and Unani courses formulated by the Central Council of Indian Medicine are given in Appendix.

Contd.....

The eligibility of admission to the courses varies from State to State as the course in Secondary education varies from State to State, like higher secondary, P.U.C. and so on.

The course as approved by Central Council of Indian Medicine is of 5-1/2 years duration after passing the respective pre-professional course-Pre-Ayurveda, Pre-Tib etc.

AYURVEDA : The minimum qualification for admission in some of the states are the following:-

- (i) Pre-Ayurvedic Examination.
- (ii) Inter-mediate with Biology, Physics and Chemistry.
- (iii) Higher-Secondary with Science and Sanskrit or 2years P.U.C with Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics and Biology.
- (iv) Pre-Degree with Biology, Chemistry and Physics.
- (v) B.Sc. Part I with Sanskrit.
- (vi) 10+2 with Science subject.

UNANI :- The qualification prescribed for Unani Medicine are similar to Ayurveda with the only difference being instead of Sanskrit, knowledge of Urdu is essential for Unani Medicine.

SIDDHA : For Siddha the following qualification are prescribed by the Madurai Kamraj University to which the only Siddha college, functioning in the country is affiliated.

- (i) Pass in advanced Tamil in PUC.
- (ii) Pass in Ist Part Tamil in BA/BSc.
- (iii) Pass in entrance examination to BSM&S course directed by Madurai Kamraj University.

Of the 91 Institutions imparting under graduate Education in Ayurveda, functioning in the country in 1979-80, fresh admission had been stopped in the following Institutions:-

- (1) Government Ayurvedic College, Jammu (since 1976).
- (2) K.A.Samaj Ayurvedic College, Shoranur-3, Kerala (since 1977)
- (3) Raghunath Ayurved Mahavidyalaya, Contai, Midnapur Distt, West Bengal (since 1977).
- (4) Nabadweep Ayurveda Mahavidyalaya, P.O.Nabadweep, NADIA (since 1977).

These Institutions were started just after independence or even before that. Admissions had also been stopped in the 3 private Ayurvedic Colleges in Delhi, which were started quite recently. Thus of the total of 91 Ayurvedic Teaching Institution only 84 were admitting students in 1979-80. On assumption that the examination of all Bihar Colleges are conducted by the University, it may be seen that 82 of the 84 Colleges admitting students in 1979-80 were affiliated to University including the Bihar Ayurvedic College, where only examinations are conducted by the University.

-III-

One college at Balangir in Orissa an aided Institution is not yet affiliated to University. The affiliation of newly started COLLEGE at Coimbatore is under active consideration.

There are only 13 institutions for Unani Medicine including the one newly-started by the Tamil Nadu in 1979-80. The Unani collage at Dar-ul-uloom, Deoband in Uttar Pradesh has not been included in the list even though the same is functioning well over for 2 decades. State Government of U.P. has not recognised the colleges at present. Of these 11 institutions are affiliated to Universities. Two colleges, the only one in Maharashtra and the only one in Rajasthan run by voluntary agencies are not yet affiliated to universities.

The only Siddhacollege at Palayma-Kottai run by the State Government is affiliated to Madurai Kamaraj University.

The admission capacity for ayurvedain the Country excluding colleges in Bihar and one college in W.Bengal is 2929.

The admission capacity for undergraduate education in Ayurveda in the country is about 3400.

10 Unani College have reported in all an admission capacity 375. Three have not reported. The admission capacity of the 13 colleges may be about 470.

The Siddhacollege at Coimbatore admits 44 students per year.

I
HOMOEOPATHIC COLLEGES IN INDIA

A According to the information furnished by the State Govts. and Union Territories, 106 Homoeopathic Teaching Institutions were functioning in the country in 1980. The information furnished by Bihar State Government was incomplete. Hence, for Bihar, the information supplied by the Central Council of Homoeopathy has been incorporated in this Directory. Among these 106 colleges only 8 are run by the State Governments, including the National Institute for Homoeopathy, Calcutta, which is fully financed by the Central Government. The remaining 98 colleges are run by voluntary agencies, with or without aid from Government source.

12 colleges are fully affiliated to the Universities. In the 23 colleges in Bihar, examinations are conducted by the University of Bihar, Muzaffarpur. Including these 23 colleges 35 colleges are taken as affiliated to Universities. 70 colleges are affiliated to Boards. The National Institute is conducting its own examination.

The admission capacity as reported by 86 colleges is 6,157. The admission capacity in the remaining 20 colleges are not known. The total admission capacity in all the 106 colleges may be to the tune of 7,500. This includes admission for degree and diploma courses. Obviously in many States the admission capacity is quite liberal and may not be related to the existing facilities at all. Some colleges in Bihar have mentioned that there is no limit to admission capacity.

The curriculam and Syllabus formulated by the Central Council of Homoeopathy are yet to be approved for implementation. Naturally the courses conducted, varies from state to state; quite significantly.
