PREFACE.

A few words of explanation are needed as to the origin and purport of the present volume. When Mr. L. B. Bowring, c. s. i., (previously Private Secretary to the Governor General, Lord Canning), was Chief Commissioner of Mysore, the garrison of Bangalore included the 22nd Regiment, Madras Native Infantry, one of whose officers, Major H. Dixon, had taken a series of photographs of the celebrated temples of Orissa, and dedicated them by permission to Lady Canning. He was now commissioned, about 1865, to take photographs on behalf of the Mysore Government of the principal inscriptions in this Province. How the selection was made I am not aware, but all he took belong to the north of the country. There were 150 altogether—129 from inscriptions on stone and 21 from those on copper-plates—nearly a half of the whole number being from Balagami and Taldagundi, close to it, both in the Shimoga District.*

Sets of the photographs were sent to the India Office and Asiatic Societies, but without a translation they could be regarded only as curiosities. Some native officials here, with the aid of pandits, attempted the translation of a few for Mr. Bowring, but, as might be expected, with very imperfect results.

About seven years ago the collection was put into my hands, to translate for Government when I had leisure. Though familiar with the language of the country, the subject of inscriptions was not one I had paid any attention to. I also found no one who could read the ancient characters, and had besides little time to give to the matter.† However, gradually setting to work, after many repeated attempts, I had at length the satisfaction of deciphering the whole of the obsolete characters; and continued practice not only gave me facility in reading inscriptions but familiarized me with their general style and method of arrangement, so that on meeting with any, during tours of inspection in the country, I was enabled to pick out the essential historical facts they contained.

* Of the execution of these it is not my province to speak: but owing to imperfect clearing of the inscriptions before the photographs were taken, and the microscopic scale of the greater number, the difficulties involved in deciphering them were greatly multiplied.

† The Pandit placed at my disposal, Somayāji Sīva Kāma Śāstri, (since, I regret to say, deceased), was a clever man and an excellent Sanskrit and Kannada scholar, but he did not know the old characters and took but feeble interest in transcribing inscriptions.

This success greatly enhanced the interest of the subject, though other engagements (such as compiling the Gazetteers of Mysore and Coorg) obliged me often to put aside the work for months together. But the notes I continued to take of inscriptions in various parts of the country convinced me that a very limited and imperfect collection had been made. I therefore drew up a tabular form, a copy of which was despatched to each Amildar, with orders from Government to return it filled up with particulars of every inscription existing in his taluk. The result was, as I had hoped, to bring to light some ancient inscriptions of great value—witness Nos. 151 and 153, which opened as it were a new chapter in the early history of Mysore.

The returns received from the various taluks shewed the existence of at least 3,722 inscriptions throughout Mysore, † besides those in Coorg. But with regard to the particulars of their contents, where the entries were not entirely erroneous, the columns for page on page were simply in most parts filled up with the equivalents for “unknown,” “illegible,” or “not understood.” General attention, however, having been drawn to the subject, I found it easier to get access to inscriptions in any part of the country visited, and from time to time came across more valuable ones than had been produced for entry in any of the lists. Some of these I thought it well to publish at once, and they have appeared in the Indian Antiquary with fac-similes of the originals. A select number I have appended to the present work as Part III.

No pretence can of course be made to have in any way exhausted a subject the materials of which are so numerous, so generally distributed, and which require individually so much time and study to reproduce in English. But in addition to all those photographed by Major Dixon—which I have felt in duty bound to translate, as undertaken, for Government, but for the selection of which I am in no way responsible—I have given from among those known to me such as in my opinion will best serve to present a somewhat complete view of the ancient history of Mysore: and in the Introduction have combined the information thus obtained with such as I have gathered from other sources, in an attempt to treat the subject in as exhaustive a manner as the space at disposal would allow. A summary of results deduced with reference to the language and other matters has also there been similarly included.

* It appears that Chikka Deva Rája, who reigned from 1672 to 1704, caused a register to be made of all the inscriptions in Mysore, no doubt as a check upon the endowments; but the document seems to have been one of those which Tippu found in the palace and contemptuously ordered to be taken for boiling the kwiti or gram for the horses.

And should this work have the effect of, in any measure, promoting, in the case of others, as it has with me, an interest in the people, the country, its institutions, its important language and valuable literature, whether on the part of European scholars or more especially on the part of the sons of the country itself, my labour will not have been expended in vain in elucidating these records and monuments of bygone times—a labour which those alone are in a position to appreciate who have done similar work.

INTRODUCTION.

Hindu literature is remarkably deficient in works of history. But the value of inscriptions has of late years been more and more recognized as one of the chief sources from which trustworthy materials may be drawn for supplying that deficiency. The inscriptions translated in this volume are concerned entirely with the Karnáta or Karnáta^ka country, as represented by the existing state of Mysore (Mahishúr). The modern history of this State is well known to all who are conversant with Indian affairs as forming one of the most important chapters in the records of the progress of British dominion in the East. But the ancient history of the country is, even to its own people, almost, if not altogether, a blank.

The present inscriptions cover a period embracing the whole of the Christian era. Some profess to go back much farther, but their claims to such antiquity will be considered in their proper places. Before, however, presenting in detail the history of nineteen centuries as derived from these monuments of the past, it may be well to describe briefly their nature and character.

As a general rule any inscription is called a s'ásana, a word derived from the Sanskrit s'ás, to command or proclaim, and signifying a royal grant, charter, or edict. A s'ásana engraved on stone (s'ílá) is thence called a s'ílá s'ásana, while one engraved on copper (támra) plates is similarly called a támra s'ásana. A s'ílá s'ásana is sometimes a counterpart of a támra s'ásana: the latter being portable and intended for private custody, the former to be set up in a public place for general information. Some portion of the present collection, as will be explained farther on, does not consist of s'ásanas properly so called.

A s'ílá s'ásana is generally engraved on one side of a large slab of stone (lipi kallu or s'ásana kallu) erected at the entrance or within the enclosure of a temple, or on the outer wall of the edifice. Sometimes the inscription is on a pillar in front of the temple. Where the site is favourable, inscriptions are also cut on the face of the natural rock. Inscriptions on the ground or on the floor usually record the votive offerings of private persons in return for recovery from sickness or other favour received.

A támra s'ásana consists of several plates of copper strung together on a stout metal ring, the place where it is joined being secured by an impression in metal of the royal seal or crest. Such grants are often kept buried in the earth for security.

But some of the inscriptions in this collection are not, as before stated, charters or s'ásanas in the proper sense of the term. They may more accurately be described as epitaphs. The monumental stones on which these occur are of two kinds, sculptured with figures in relief but most usually without any inscription. The first are called vira kal, hero stones, being monuments erected in memory of warriors slain in battle. They are also in a few places called bóru kal, war stones, and kollu kal, slaughter stones. These trophies are met with in every part of the country, sometimes in the middle of open fields, sometimes in the hearts of lonely forests, sometimes singly or in groups by the wayside or in the centre of a village; and probably mark the scene of the hero's last fight.

The other class of monument, called másti kal (that is mahá sati kal) consist of the memorials of sati, and denote the spots on which women were burnt along with their deceased husbands in obedience to the rules for sahágamana,* or the ceremony of "going along with" their departed lords by immolation on the same funeral pyre. They are met with at the entrances of villages, more especially, I think, if not entirely, in the west of Mysora. They very rarely bear any inscription, but the figures sculptured on them are so singular as at once to arrest the attention.

An account of the general style and arrangement of the inscriptions on these several kinds of monuments may not be unacceptable to those who perchance have often gazed upon such memorials of the past and wished for some guide or clue to an interpretation of the time-worn characters and shapes upon them.

To begin with the S'vá S'ásana, or grants inscribed on stone slabs, which are the most numerous. They present the aspect of an unbroken expanse of writing, surmounted by a few sculptured images. The inscription is without any interval or gap from top to bottom, the engraving being rude and rough or skilful and regular, according to the period, and the ability of the sculptor. The most ancient (as Nos. 163 and 164) are in large and deliberately deep-cut letters, on massive and ponderous slabs, seeming as if the work of giant hands. The letters become smaller and more artistically shaped as the period of the Hoysala grants is approached. The inscriptions of this time, or the 12th and 13th centuries, are perfect works of art, being incised on beautifully polished slabs of black hornblende, in regular and ornamental characters, varied in design to suit their position; and the whole so well arranged and fitted together, that no space is left where a single additional letter could be inserted. From this time the character of the engraving deteriorates, until the later grants, after the fall of Vijayanagar, came to be engraved, without selection, on any kind of stone however unsuitable, in very rude characters.

The great majority of s'ilā s'āsana have several sculptured images at top. These do not occur in the most ancient, and their introduction I am inclined to think marks the rise of sectarianism. The figure in the centre represents the donor's chief object of worship. If he be a S'aiva, the linga or symbol of S'iva will appear, often with a priest officiating; if a Jain, the figure of a Tirthankara; and so on for the various sects. On either hand of this deity are other figures. On one side the animal which is the peculiar vāhana or vehicle of the god, as the bull Nandi for S'iva, the kite Garuda for Vishnu, and so on: on the other a cow suckling a calf, the former representing the land presented, the latter the recipient who is to enjoy its produce. Above are the symbols of the sun and moon, both as being the two great witnesses of all treaties and human transactions, and as emblematic of the perpetuity of the gift. Some stones also show the figure of the royal crest, as a boar for the Chālukyas, a sword for the Kalachuryas, &c. In many S'aiva stones will be noticed a human figure, seated in meditation on one side of the linga. This is the donor himself, modestly represented by anticipation as already enjoying the reward of his meritorious donation. According to the S'aiva faith there are four stages of future bliss—salokya, dwelling with God; samlipya, nearness to God; sarīpya, likeness to God; and sayujya, absorption into God. The last two are unattainable by those who live in this sinful age or Kali yuga: the other two are the reward of works of merit and devotional acts. To one of these states of holy blessedness the donor's piety has raised him. In No. 38 he may be seen in the presence, wrapt in profoundest abstraction, undisturbed by the gambols of his attendant boar, which is anxiously offering its services. In No. 21 the royal donor appears in a higher state of glory, as himself officiating in the heavenly temple, arrayed in a costume somewhat resembling that of the Coorgs, but with a singular head dress which also occurs in No. 17.

Following immediately upon these images, which are in relief within the rounded or arched top of the stone, is the inscription, which commences with an invocation or proem, generally in Sanskrit verse, engraved on the raised margin or frame forming the base of the arch above mentioned.

The couplet most frequently met with at the beginning of S'aiva inscriptions is as follows :—

Namas tunga-s'iras chumbi-chandra-chámara-chárase

Trailokya-nagar-árambha-múla-stambháya Sambhate.

Adored be S'ambhu (S'iva), beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

The same verse occurs when the inscription is in honor of Harihara, the combined form of Hari (Vishnu) and Hara (S'iva); while the relation of this dual deity to Lakshmi and Párvati, the consorts respectively of Vishnu and S'iva, affords an opportunity of enlarging on a theme upon which a Hindu poet rarely suffers the veil of modesty to remain unlifted.

Vaishnava inscriptions often commence with the following :—

Jayaty ávishkrítam Vishnor varáham kshobit-árñavam

Dakshinonnata-damshtrágra-vis'ránta-bhuvanm vapuh.

Supreme is the Boar form of the resplendent Vishnu, which scattered the waters of the ocean and raised up the peaceful earth on the tip of his long right tusk.

Jaina inscriptions generally begin with the following :—

S'rímat parama-gambhíra-syád-vád-ámogha-lánchhanam

Jiyát Trailokya-náthasya s'ásanam Jina-s'ásanam.

May the doctrine of Trailokya-nátha, the supreme profound syád váda, prevail, the Jain doctrine which is a token of unfailling success.

Other verses are of course used in many cases, according to the taste of the composer, but these specimens are the most common. It is not however to be understood that only one such verse is used : one or several occur according to the inclination of the composer.

The second portion of the inscription contains the name of the reigning sovereign, with all his titles, generally in prose; preceded in many cases by his genealogy, traced back to the progenitor of the line, or even to the creation of all things; this portion being in verse, with connecting phrases in prose. The language here is for the most part Sanskrit, often largely intermixed with Hale Kannaḍa, the verses being some in the one and some in the other language according to the subject, and so as to display the skill and taste of the composer. More rarely the whole is in Hale Kannaḍa. For historical purposes this, in connection with the date, is the most important part of the s'ásana.

• The lines of kings whose descent is elucidated by the present collection will be given farther on. It may here be noted that every person directly connected with the s'ásana—as the reigning monarch, the donor, &c.,—is introduced with the expression Swasti (Sans.—May it be well!) a term of good omen, probably designed to avert any evil consequences such as orientals apprehend from mention or utterance of a person's name, much more of that of royalty. The character of the sovereign's reign is represented as one of Arcadian simplicity, for he is always stated to be ruling sukha-sankathū-vinodadim, in the enjoyment of security and good conversation (literally, good stories). I have generally translated the phrase more freely, in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom.

Next after the style and dynasty of the monarch, comes frequently an account of the family and pretensions of the great feudatory or officer ruling over the province in which the land lay which was the subject of the endowment, followed by similar statements regarding the donor,—the whole in a strain of hyperbole and excessive adulation, which, by a common infirmity of human nature, becomes more extravagant as the social scale is descended. Each subordinate is presented with reference to his immediate superior as tad-pāda-padmapajivi, dwelling (like a bee) at his lotus-feet. Sometimes a greater distance is implied than even this measure of personal contact would admit of between one step of dignity and the next in the social scale. As in No. 147, where, to illustrate the unapproachable superiority of the queen, it is stated that to move within the space illuminated by her toe-nails was sufficient to confer honour on other king's wives.

A difficulty in determining the rank of these nobility and gentry arises from their freedom in assuming the name of king (rāja or arasa), a title which seems in former times to have been used by all hereditary landholders of noble birth or quasi independent position. Speaking of a similar practice in the charters of the Saxon kings in England, Sir H. Nicolas says,* "It was a common practice for a man to style himself Rex though not supreme king, that is, king in the modern sense. Probably all of the blood royal who had appanages of land may have laid claim to the title, at least before Egbert's victories threw the preponderance into the lands of Wessex."

We next usually, though not invariably, come to the date of the s'āsana, which is given with great apparent minuteness, mentioning the year of the cycle, the month, the lunar date, the day of the week, with any astrological or astronomical phenomenon or conjunction of auspicious import when making the gift, as an eclipse, an equinox, &c., &c. But though all these particulars are thus minutely stated, it is evident they do not, in the absence of a reference to some known determinate era, suffice to fix the date, as the cycle of Hindu years contains a recurring period of only 60: the name of any single one can therefore only confirm the evidence otherwise obtained and cannot of itself give a clue to the age of the inscription.

The most clearly dated of the s'ásanas in this collection mention the year of the well known S'áliváhana S'aka, or era of S'áliváhana, and are thus easily assigned to their proper time.* Many, on the other hand, date from the Chálu-kyá Vikrama era, and others from the eras of obscurer sovereigns. The difficulty of fixing the year according to our reckoning is thus greatly increased. A different kind of difficulty arises from the deliberate falsification of the historical data, for the purpose of enhancing the antiquity of the grant. Some instances of this, in which we are required to go back to the time of the deluge, will be adduced farther on.

But some s'ásanas contain the precise date concealed in a phrase, capable sometimes of various interpretations, and determined to be arithmetical from the context alone; or in letters of the alphabet, combined into a word which may or may not be significant of anything. Add to this that the figures thus to be unearthed (if I may so speak) must, when brought to light, be read backwards, and the precautions are pretty complete against any casual reader coming at the date. The initiated in astrology however are in possession of keys for unlocking these mysteries.

The system by which certain words have a numerical value is a very elaborate one. The principle however is easily intelligible. Supposing, for instance, a date were expressed in English by the words eyes, gospels, poles and moon. Taking them backwards, according to the rule, as we have one moon, two poles, four gospels, and two eyes, the date would, according to this system, be 1242. But even when this result is arrived at, the era must also be known to determine the date. Though the above is the simple principle on which the system is based, in practice it is much more complicated, as any synonym of the representative word for a number may be used instead of the word itself. The variety thus introduced is almost inexhaustible, and controlled alone by the fancy of the composer.

The following is a list of words arranged under the numbers they express: the list is compiled from three manuscript works—Muhúrta-dípiké, Kavikalpa-lata and Sankhya-ratna-kos'a, of which the copy of the last is unfortunately incomplete. All the words are stated to have been taken from actual use.

1. S'as'i, soma, s'as'ánka, indu, chandra, kalánidhi, r'ájá, vidhu, sudhám'su, yama, éka, jana | átma, indra, hasti, as'va, gaja, S'uklat'rik | Parabrat'ma, virádrúpa, málaprakriti, bhámi, airáyata, s'ukranetra, vighnes'aradana, dhruva, uchais'rava, átmi, prapancha, chandram'is, vish'akrit, uktá.

* An inscription at Tala Málíngi is dated by both the Kali and S'aka eras in the following elaborate manner.—Kali varushada pramánula 432000 ke sanda varusha 3179 S'aka varusha 1435 ubhayam 4814 neya varusha sandu naduva varusha S'rimukha samvatsara.

2. Ākshi, chakshu, kara, netra, lochana, bāhu, karna, paksha, drishhti, dooya, yugma, ambaka, nayana, ikshana | pakshi, nadikūla, asikhāra, Rāmanandana | asikhāra, vidhūti, pīda dvandva, kara, dhru, kucha, grahana, nāsatiya, nadikūla, ūru, bāhu, vishuvat, karna, jānu, gulpa, jangha, agnis'irsha, oshīha, paksha, hora, kapila, Rāmanandana, ayana, netra, atyuktā.
3. Vāhni, Rāma, s'ikhi, agni, pāvaka, dahana, anala, s'anksrāksti, pūri, loka, trini, kāla, traya, guna | traya, kāla, agni, dhivana, Gangānārga, ts'āprik, grivārekhā, kārya, s'ula s'ikhā, sandhyā, pura, pushkara, Rāma, Vishnupada | Trivikramapadanyāsa, drekkāna, Haralochana, sandhyā, kārya, ishna, rina, dosha, linga, agni, mandala, Rāma, nādī, s'akti, mūrti, loka, bhāshya, guna, bhringapāda, tyijyapāda, gāyatrī-pāda, pushkara, grivarekha, vahnīpāla, vachana, savana, tanu, triyakpundra, s'ūlas'ikhā, Vishnupatni, pura, das'asyandanopatni, madhyā.
4. Ābhi, sāgara, chatvāri, Vanarās'i, yuga, ambudhi, chatur, ūrīhi, gati, jaladhi, nīradhi | chatvāri, deva, brahmāsya, ābhi, Haribāhu, s'vardantidanta, senānga, upāya, yuga, ās'rama | yuganātha, agnis'ringa, kha'vīpāla, gostana, vidhivaktra, Das'arathaputra, Airāvatalanta, yuga, veda, vyūho, kendra, upāya, mrigānghri, senānga, varna, gati, purushārtha, ās'rama, ābhi, haribāhu, pratishīhi.
5. Indriya, panchama, jnāna, ishu, bāna, mārgaṇa, vrata, dhūta, s'ara, parva, prāṇa, vishaya | pancha, Pāṇḍava, rudrāsya, indriya, agni, mahāpāpa, mahābhūta, mahā-kārya, mahāmakha, purīnalakshana, anga, indriyārtha | dhūta, indriya, s'ara, prāṇa, s'ikhā, kshāra, pallava, s'ivāsya, gavya, tanmātra, kanyā, Gauḷa, artha, Pāṇḍava, kos'a, pītaka, loha, Drāciḍa, klesha, kola, lavana, pītā, m'iti, kachcha, tvak, devapādapa, purīnalakshana, pakshi, mahāyajna, as'vadhārā, supratishīd.
6. S'āstra, shaḥ, ruchi, kāla, ritu, rasadravya, kos'a, shv'īdars'ana, shadāgama | shaḥ, vajra, tris'ironetra, tarka, anga, dars'ana, chakravarti, mahāsenavātana, ritu, rasa | rasa, s'āstra, anga, ves'yā, ūrni, kumārāsya, ātatāyī, karma, ritu, jīva, bhringānghri, tarka, ari, kāraka, chakravarti, dehachakra, anādi, bala, mala, upas'āstra, prayoga, bhāshā, āmnāya, angadevata, pralaya, gāyatri.
8. Ash'ama, gaja, karni, diggaja, danti, hasti, sāmaja, matamātanga, dikpāla, vasu, vāraṇa | ash'au, yoga, anga, vasu, is'amū'ti, diggaja, sulhi, brahma, s'ruti, vyākaraṇa, dikpāla, ahi, kulichala | siddhi, bhairava, dikpāla, siddhānta, vasu, kunjara, Isānīmūrti, mada, gandha, lakshmi, sarpa, mangula, rahasyayogini, pīthapāla, vidyēs'vara, s'arabhānghri, spho'a, pīva, prāṇāma; gayi, yogānga, vivāha, garbhavarjyāngana, āya, yāma, guptatarayogini, kash'a, anusht'up.
9. Navama, navaratna, brahma, kama'āsana, nidhi, graha, khaṇḍa, randhrabhūva, lab-dhaka | nava, anga, dvāra, bhūkhanda, krītarāvanamastaka, vyāghrīstana, sulhā, khaṇḍa, rasa, graha | durgā, ratna, nidhi, nanda, megha, ballālandyaka, gopya, varsha, khaṇḍa, māna, dhānya, anka, dhānyaka, chakres'vari, nāthasiddha, nrisimha, upadhānya, randhra, graha, vira, chala, dhenu, pās'āna, bhakti, vyāghrīstana, vyākaraṇa, āvaraṇa, b'īhati.

0. A'kās'a, gayana, s'ūnya, anlariksha, marutpatha.
10. Das'a, hastānguli, S'ambhubāhu, Rāvanamauli, Krishnāvātāra, dik, avasthā, indravāji, | kula, vishnukalā, mudrā, avātāra, rudrakalā, agnikalā, rāvanāśya, brahmakalā, nighanṭu, dik, avasthā, dharmapatni, snāna, dhūpa, nagnaka, rūpakā, lakāra, dohala, nātya, putra, phalgunanāma, pankti.
11. Ekadas'a, mahādeva, kurubhūpatisenā | rudra, karaṇa, parimāna, trishūp.
12. Dvīdas'a, arka, māsa, rās'i, sankrānti, gurubhū, arikoshaka, senāninetra | garbha-sandhyanga, sankrānti, māsa, s'annukhabāhu, vāgīrambha, sūryakalā, ritupatni, nātyapada, ras'i, divakara, bhāvasandhi, jagatī.
13. Trayodas'a, tāmbūlaguṇa | vis'vedeva, pratimukhasandhyanga, sāmāgāchārya, vīdhyanga, tāmbūlaguṇa, atijagatī.
14. Chaturdas'a, vidyā, yama, Manu, bhuvana | purandara, nirvaṇasandhyanga, Manu, mrigābhūvayā, vūdyā, sampradāyayogini, s'akvari.
15. Panchadas'a, tithi | nityādevi, strikalā, tithi, atis'akvari.
16. Shodas'a, indukalā, ambikā.
18. Ash'adas'a, dīpa.
20. Vims'ati, Rāvanābhūja, anguli.
100. Sata, dhārtarāshṭra, s'atadhīshak, purushāyus, Rāvanānguli, abjadala, sakrayajna, abdhīyojana.
1000. Sahasra, jāhnavaktra, s'eshas'irsha, ambujachala, ravibāna, arjunakara, veda-s'ākha, indradrishtā.

The system by which certain letters of the alphabet have a numerical value is called kaṭapayādi sankhya. The rule for it is thus briefly stated—kādi-nava pādi-nava pādi-pancha yādyaśṭau—from ka nine, from pa nine, from ya five, from ya eight; that is to say, the nine letters commencing with ka count in order as one to nine, and so for the others. The following is the scheme:—

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
k	kh	g	gh	ā	ch	chh	j	jh
t	th	d	dh	ṛ	l	lh	ḍ	dh
p	ph	b	bh	m
y	r	l	v	s'	sh	s	h

No provision, it will be seen, is made for the cipher: this is expressed by the words ākās'a or one of its synonyms, or by s'ūnya. Should the significant letters be involved in words or a phrase, only the last pronounced of combined consonants is counted, while vowels have no value.

The next portion of the s'āsana is generally in Hale Kannaḍa or Old Kannaḍe, and describes the gift itself, with the boundaries, if the endowment be of land. The transfer is made with the ceremony of pouring water, a practice still observed in closing an agreement or sale. The person who resigns the proprietary rights pours a little water on to the hand of the purchaser in token of his entire renunciation of all claims. Often a presentation of a coin is also made at the same time.

The land thus bestowed is given in permanence, and rent free, with release from all burdens and the assignment of all present and prospective profit it may yield. These are generally termed ashṭa-bhoga-teja-swāmīya, the eight rights of perfect possession, which are described p. 3.

Grants to a temple are usually made to a guru or priest of the temple, with the ceremony of washing his feet. The good qualities and professed doctrines of this holy man are often eulogised at great length, giving rise to a suspicion that he must have had a hand in the composition.

The concluding portion of a s'āsana is occupied with quotations of texts in Sanskrit or Hale Kannaḍa, denouncing the crime of revoking or alienating in any way gifts of land to a god or to the Brahmans, and inciting to works of merit. One or more of the following most commonly occur, the first nearly always.

*Svadattūm paradattūm vā yo hareta vasuṅḍharām
S'ashṭhir-varsha-sahasrāni viśhīdyām jūyate Krimih.*

Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

*Dāna-pālanayor madhye dānāchchhreyonupālanam
Dānāt svargam avāpnōti pālanād achyutam padam.*

Of making a gift oneself or maintaining another's, the maintaining is the best: for he who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who maintains one obtains final beatitude.

Na visham visham ity āhur devasvam visham uchyate Visham ekākinam hanti devasvam putra pautrakam.

Poison is no poison, a gift to the gods that is the real poison: for poison kills one man, but a gift to the gods (if usurped) destroys sons and descendants.

Sāmānyoyam dharmā-setur nripānām kāle kāle pālīniyo bhavadbhīh Sarcām etān bhāvinah pārtivendrān bhūyo bhūyo yāchate Rāmanchandraḥ.

Merit is a common bridge for kings, this should you support from time to time, thus continually cries Rāmachandra to the kings, who should come after him.

*Bahubhir vasudhā-bhukta-rājabhis Sagarādibhīh
Yasya yasya yadā bhūmih tasya tasya tadā phalam.*

The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many kings, according to their (gifts of) land so was their reward.

Dharmmaman āvan obban pratipālisidam Gayeyo! Gangeyo! Kurukshetrado! Vāranāsiyo! Prayāgayo! sāsira kapīleyam kodum koḷagamam pañcha-raṭnagaḷim kaṭṭisi vedaparāgarappa Brāhmanaroggē kottā puṇyamam aiyugam.

Whoso maintains a gift derives the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows in the holy bathing places of Gaya, Ganga, Kurukshetra, Vāranāsi and Prayāga, and of presenting koḷagas decked with the five precious stones, to Brahmans versed in the vedas.

The s'āsana sometimes winds up with the names of witnesses and the royal signature. Also the names of the composer and the engraver.

Tāmra S'āsanas or grants on copper do not materially differ in style from those on stone, but are more rarely decorated with the images at top. It is manifestly easier to tamper with such s'āsanas, or even to fabricate forged or hūta s'āsanas, than to alter an inscription on stone set up in a public place, or in such a position to palm off one not genuine. As previously stated, the ring on which the plates of a tāmra s'āsana are strung is secured by an impression of the royal seal, which is an additional mark of attestation beyond what occurs on s'īla s'āsana. But this of course can be forged equally with the grant.

We now come to a description of the Vīrakal, the prominent features of which are, three tableaux sculptured in relief. Where there is an inscription, it is short; and introduced between, on the frame as it were of the bas-reliefs. Being rudely cut, and filled with rustic or obsolete forms of letters and words, it is difficult to decipher or translate. The lowest of the sculptures represents the fight in which the hero fell. As a composition it is spirited, and the grouping not unartistic: but the attitudes are conventional rather than natural, and the hero always of heroic proportions. The elaborated details of armour and weapons are often very interesting: witness the devices on the shields in No. 81.

According to the generally received notions, the warrior falling in battle is at once conveyed to paradise by the apsaras or celestial nymphs, who are allotted to be the portion of the brave, there to enjoy the voluptuous pleasures of Indra's heaven. The middle bas-relief exhibits the translation of the hero from the field of battle to the upper world, and is a most fantastic compound. Sometimes the hero is being bodily borne aloft, supported by the apsaras or celestial nymphs, the whole procession ascending in a triumphal dance, with poses and attitudes that defy description, but no doubt intended to convey the notion of spirits treading the air. In many cases, however, the hero is seated in a vimána or car during the ascent, though the dignity of this mode of locomotion is somewhat impaired by the frantic manner in which the celestial attendants who convoy him are represented as holding on to rings in the side provided for that purpose. In many cases the gandharvas or celestial musicians accompany the procession, performing on their various instruments. The hero is sometimes not alone in his glory but accompanied by his wife, or 'life's lamp' as she is gracefully termed (No. 81), though this pleasing picture of conjugal devotion is marred by our recollection that she must have performed the act of sati thus to accompany her husband.

The upper portion of a virakal is not unlike that of a s'ila s'úsana, and nearly all I have met with are of the S'aiva sect, as indicated by the linga. The figure of the hero here appears seated in meditation in the presence of the deity, as also that of his wife if she is introduced in the car below. The identity of the hero's features in the three tableaux is well preserved and often unmistakable.

A word or two on the epitaph.* It generally commences with the name of the reigning sovereign and the date. Then follows a brief account of the expedition which proved fatal to the hero, and winds up with palabaram kondu sura-loka-práptanáda—"He killed many and gained the world of gods." A short Sanskrit verse often follows, inspiring to valour and glorifying the death of the brave: thus—

Kshane dvandvam kámayatám ká chintá marane rare.

Who wins in fight gains spoil, who falls enjoys the celestial nymphs, what need he then care for death in war who for a moment seeks the close encounter.

* A different class of epitaphs are the Jain memorials of religious suicide (salle bhava), see Nos. 161, 162, 130. A full description of such has been given by me in Ind. Ant. II, 265, 322.

These monuments introduce us to scenes very different from the listening in security to a recital of good stories which we are required in the s'ásanas to imagine was the pleasing pastime of the sovereigns of the day. Cattle-raids, marauding expeditions, the treacherous ambuscade reveal the violent and disorderly character of the times.

The Mástikal also consist of a stone slab, on which is represented in relief the figure of a post or pillar, with a human arm of the natural size, or larger, projecting from the middle of it: the hand is held up straight, with the fingers distended, and in the hollow between the thumb and forefinger is often placed a lime. Below this striking symbol is in many cases a representation in miniature of a man and woman: sometimes seated side by side with the linga above them, sometimes with the man seated and the woman dancing round him, and other arrangements. These stones never have any inscription so far as I have noticed.

What is symbolised by the pillar I regret that I am unable to explain, but the extract given below may throw some light on it. I have seen one stone in which it had the head of a woman. The human arm I have heard called Madana kai, the hand or arm of Mada, that is, of Cupid, love or passion. Some mástikal have two arms projecting from the pillar, one on each side.* Limes are the common offering of respect on approaching a superior, and are always distributed to the guests at the conclusion of a darbar or any native assembly. What they signify, or what determines the number presented, I am not informed, but they appear to be considered in some way efficacious in averting anger or the evil eye.

The following extract about sati as performed in Mysore was copied from Household Words, four or five years ago, but I cannot trace the title and date of the article † "The Canarese, in the early part of the last century, used to dig a shallow pit, ten feet by six feet, which they filled up with logs of wood, placing erect at one end a ponderous piece of timber, weighing five hundred pounds or thereabout, to which a cord was attached. When all was ready, oil and clarified butter were poured upon the wood, and the corpse, decently shrouded, laid in the middle of the pile. A torch was then applied by the nearest male relative of the deceased, and, as the flames leaped up, the devoted widow took

* Those with one arm are called won'i kai másti; those with two, yeraðu kai másti.

Though a Saiva emblem, I do not think the Vydsana-táru (Ind. Ant. II, 48, 133) is the same as the Molana kai.

† For a full account of the ceremonies prescribed for the performance of Sati, consult Colebrooke's Duties of a faithful Hindu widow (As. Res. IV.)

leave of her friends and acquaintances, and with cheerful countenance walked once or twice round the blazing heap, scattering flowers and repeating a form of prayer or invocation. Suddenly she would spring on to the burning logs, amidst a tremendous din of discordant music, and the frantic shouts of the bystanders. At the same instant a Brahman pulled the cord, and the erect beam fell heavily upon the living and the dead, cutting off all means and hope of escape."

"At times, of course, the hapless victim would shrink back at the last moment, appalled by the fierceness of the flames; but it was then all too late for second thoughts. The surrounding Brahmans would thrust her back with long poles, while her agonising shrieks were drowned in the uproar of drums, trumpets, and cymbals, heightened by the multitudinous yells of the spectators. Such instances of natural timidity were, however, of comparatively rare occurrence, for when there was reason to suspect a premature collapse of resolution, narcotics were previously administered, and the stupefied victim fell upon the pile."

The másti kal sometimes takes the form of a statue of the woman. This was especially the case with the Náyak race or Bedar chiefs. The woman is partly in wedding attire. Her cloth, from the waist downwards, is tied in the mode called ganda kús'i, resembling the tight-fitting ladies' dresses of the present period of European fashion. The upper part of the figure is bare, but decked with garlands. On her head she wears the bhúshinga or bridal coronet. The left hand holds a small shield, or a spouted vessel like a tea pot (gindí): the right arm is raised, with the fingers extended as in the Madana kai, and a lime is placed in the hollow between the thumb and the forefinger, or the forefinger is folded down, which appears to be a sign known as abhaya hasta, the fearless hand.

The only másti kal in the present collection is No. 50, which introduces the husband also, and contrary to the usual custom bears an inscription giving the date.

History.

But, as before stated, it is the historical information to be derived from these ancient inscriptions which gives them their main value, and the present collection, it will be found, presents us with a pretty complete outline of the history of Mysore during nearly the whole of the Christian era.

There is at least one Jain inscription (161) which, of whatever date in itself, refers to an earlier period even than that, namely to the 3rd century B. C., a time that may be described as the very dawn of authentic history in India. It does not, however, supply any political information, and will be considered in connection with religious sects.

Of the legends and traditions relating to the pre-historic period still farther back, a summary has been presented by me elsewhere.* They chiefly refer to Paras'u Ráma, Ráma distinguished as Rámachandra, and the Páñdavás. The present collection includes three grants (Nos. 130, 133, 139) professing to be made 3000 years B. C. by the emperor Janamejaya of the Páñdava family, one of them being dated according to the era of Yudhishthira his grandfather. These will be shewn further on to belong to a much more modern period.

But it is desirable, before dealing with the historical facts presented to us in the inscriptions now translated, to indicate certain coincidences and points of contact between the legendary stories and what may be considered accounts of a more authentic character in connection with the pre-historic times.

At some remote period the regions south of the Vindhya mountains were invaded by the Haihayas, who put to flight Báhu, the king of Mahishmati (now Mandla) on the upper Narmadá, and established themselves in his capital. Subsequently his son Sagara recovered the sovereignty and became the paramount ruler in India. We however find the Haihayas again powerful at Mahishmati in the person of their king Kártaviryárjuna. He, attempting to wrest from Jamadagni the possession of Surabhi (Sorab, in the north-west of the Mysore), was slain at, it is said, Koláhalapura or Kolálapura (Kolar, in the east of the Mysore), by Paras'u Ráma, the valiant son of the latter. But Jamadagni was in his turn cut off by the sons of Kártaviryárjuna, in revenge for which, a general slaughter of the Káhattriyas by Paras'u Ráma ensued, and twenty one times he swept them off the face of the earth.

Eventually the Haihayas established their capital at Ratanpur (in the Central Provinces), and continued in power until deposed by the Mahrattas in 1741 A. D. Inscriptions have been found proving the dominion of the Haihayas over the upper Narmadá valley up to the 2nd century A. D., and there are grounds for inferring that they were at that time Buddhists.†

“ Tradition asserts that at the end of the Satya yuga a monarch named Sudhymna presided over the destinies of the East. Of his descendants, one son,

The two former kingdoms of Mandla and Chandrapur, after the lapse of some generations, were overthrown by the Gonds, and the Manipur or Ratanpur kingdom alone survived till the advent of the Mahrattas.†

The ancient Jain Rámáyana, composed in the Hale Kannada language in about the 12th century, enables us to carry on the history from the time of Sagara with a considerable show of probability. According to the work there existed in the south three great empires or kingdoms. These were the Rákshasa kingdom, with its capital at Lanka; the Vánara dhvaja kingdom, or kingdom of the monkey flag, with its capital at Kishkindha; and the Vidyádhara kingdom, with its capital at Ratha-núpura-chakravála-pura. The first embraced Ceylon, in which Lanka was situated, and the maritime districts of the south; the second, whose capital was on the Tungabhadra at the site of the modern Vijayanagara and Anegundi, occupied the country above the Ghats watered by that river, corresponding with the greater part of the present

* Sudhana, a son of Hama Dhwaja, is stated in the traditions of the Mysore to have been the founder of Champaka-nagari, a city represented by the present village of Sampige in the Kadaba taluk.

Mysore, Ceded Districts and Dharwar; the third kingdom was north from these, and its capital may possibly be the Ratanpur in the Central Provinces.*

The victories of Sagara, before mentioned, drove a prince named Toyada Váhana (=Megha Váhana or Jimúta Váhana) to take refuge in Lanka, where he was adopted by the Rákshasa king, who was childless, and succeeded to the government. A connection of this family at a later period founded Kishkindha. The Lanka and Kishkindha sovereigns, down to the time of Rávana the Rákshasa emperor, were in constant alliance. On one occasion, Kishkindha being attacked by the Vidyádhara owing to the quarrel which arose out of the success of the Kishkindha prince at a svayamvara, the Rákshasas supported the latter. But the allies were defeated, and the Vidyádhara emperor, overrunning both their kingdoms, placed a creature of his own on the throne of each. The Lanka princes after a time recovered their capital, but marching to aid in the reconquest of Kishkindha, were again defeated and deprived of their kingdom. Eventually Rávana drove out the Vidyádhara† and both kingdoms were once more ruled by their own princes.

An estrangement now sprang up between Rávana the king of Lanka and Váli the king of Kishkindha, because the latter was unwilling to give his sister in marriage to the former on account of his notorious character. Being, however, powerless to refuse, Váli abdicated in favour of his brother Sugriva. The latter by some stratagem was ousted from his throne just about the time that Rávana accomplished the abduction of Sita, the beautiful wife of Ráma. These royal exiles from the court of Ayodhya or Oudh had arrived near the Pampa or Tungabhadra when this calamity occurred. Sugriva obtained the aid of Ráma in regaining his throne, and forthwith placed all the resources of the kingdom at the disposal of his benefactor for the recovery of Sita. † Reports having been received that the ravisher was Rávana, and that he had carried off his victim to Lanka, Sugriva sent for Hanuman, the chief of Hanuvara dvípa (Honávar or Honore on the Canara coast) and despatched him, as being of Rák-

* The Silaháras of Karabáta (Karhad) near Kolapur claim to be Vidyádhara and connected with the royal race of Ceylon. A Chalukya inscription of A. D. 1008 says, "the Silára family of the Simhala kings are descended from Jimúta-váhana, son of Jimúta-ketu, the lord of the Vidyádhara, who was preserved by the celestial Garuda" (See J. B. Br. R. A. S., No. V, p. 221.)

† In one purána Rávana is said to have been seized and tied up by Kártavíryárjuna, thus making them contemporary.

‡ The so-called monkey army which assisted Ráma is thus evidently a poetical travesty for the army bearing the monkey flag. But it may be noticed that the names of certain tribes, as the Kóts of the Nilgiri, the Kotagas of Coorg, &c., easily suggest monkeys (Kóti, kódagá). Compare the story a p. 96 of the Gazetteer of Coorg.

sheer descent, to Lanka to ascertain the truth of the tidings. He brought back tokens from Síta, and the forces meanwhile assembled for her deliverance immediately set out. The story of the triumph of Ráma, the fall of Rávaca, and the recovery of Síta are familiar to all.*

To pass to the accounts of the Pándavas. The Mahá Bháráta, in describing the expeditions sent out by Yudhishthira to the four quarters to enforce the acknowledgment of his supremacy preparatory to the performance of the Rája-súya sacrifice, represents Sabadeva as commanding the one to the south.† In the course of his march he comes to a region called Guha which he subdues.‡ This is by tradition the name of the country round Harihara on the Tungabhadra. He then goes to Kishkindha and reduces to submission the Vanara rajas, of whom there appear to have been two. Thence he crosses the Kávéri to the city of Mahishmati (Mahishúr, Mysore) and attacks Nila Rája its king. A series of terrible battles ensues: Agni comes to the help of Nila Rája, and Sabadeva's army is in the point of destruction, when he propitiates Agni and peace is made. The reason of Agni's interference is explained at some length. The king Nila Rája, it is said, had a most lovely daughter, of whom the god Agni (Fire) became enamoured. He contrived to pay her many secret visits in the disguise of a Brahman, until one day he was discovered and brought up before the king. When about to be condemned to punishment, he blazed forth and revealed himself as the god Agni. The council hastened to appease him, and he granted the boon that the women of Mahishmati should thenceforth be free from the bonds of marriage, in order that no adultery might exist in the land; and that he would befriend the king in time of danger.

Now, in the celebrated Samudra Gupta inscription on the Allahabad pillar following upon one of Asoka's edicts, Nila Rája is mentioned among the southern kings. The passage was read by Prinsep § as follows:—Kánchtiyaka Vishnu, śápdvamuktaka Nila Rája, Vaingeyaka Hasti Varma, Pálakka Ugrasena, &c.

* As alleged tokens of the time of Ráma, the so-called coins known as Rámaçakri are interesting. They are of gold, about the size of a crown piece and concave. Within the concavity are delicately executed figures of Ráma, Síta and Lakshmana, seated on thrones. On the convex reverse is a figure of Hanomán, and arranged in a square around him, an inscription in what look like Páli or debased Greek characters. It is pretended that these are coins struck under the government of Ráma. They are rare, and found only among the Kómatís, the highest banking and trading class, who profess to be the sole Vais'yas. By these they are preserved with the utmost care as priceless heirlooms, and periodically worshipped as household gods. It is very difficult to get even a sight of one, and they are only sold under the direst necessity, as during the late terrible famine, which brought out a few.

But, as revised by Bhau Dáji,* it appears it should be—Kānchíyaka Vishnu Bhūpa, Avamuktaka Nīla Rāja, &c. We have thus, according to him, Vishnu Bhūpa of Kānchi, Nīla Rāja of Avamukta, Haati Varma of Vinga (? Vengi), Ugrasena of Pálaka, &c. But it seems doubtful if Avamukta is the name of a country.† On the other hand, whether the original be the one or the other of the above versions, the “freed from a curse” of the former or the “liberated” of the latter might be taken as an epithet of Nīla Rāja, and it is conceivable that it might have reference to the circumstances related in the Mahá Bhárata as above. But however this may be, the evidence for the existence of a Nīla Rāja is explicit, and taking into account the other localities mentioned, where can he be assigned to with greater probability than to Mysore? The period of Samudra Gupta, according to the latest authorities, would appear to be about the 1st century A. D. †

In No. 71 the Pándavas are expressly stated to have visited Balligráme after the performance of the Rájasúya. Other points of connection with the Pándavas may perhaps be found in the following circumstances. The vánara-dhroja or kapi-dhvaja, the monkey flag, gave its name to the rulers of Kishkindha; and Kapi-dhvaja is a name of Arjuna, the most popular of the Pándavas. Again, there is reason to believe that Hánagal, just over the north west frontier of Mysore, was the Virāta nagara in which the Pándavas passed their last year of exile incognito.§ Now, the Kadambas, the earliest historical line of rulers in that region, had the kapi-dhvaja or monkey flag as one of their insignia (see pp. 53, 320) and when they were reduced to the position of feudatories under the Chalukyas, it was to the district of Hánagal that their jurisdiction was circumscribed.

With the commencement of the Christian era we enter upon more certain and authentic history. There is evidence that by the 2nd century the Kadambut were supreme in the north west of Mysore, and the Gangas in the south and centre: while the east was ruled by the Mahávali line, and the north east by the Pallavas. To take these up in the order mentioned.

Kadambas.—The dominions of the Kadambas embraced all the west of Mysore, together with Haiga (N. Canara) and Tulava (S. Canara). The founder of the line is variously styled Jayanta, Trilochana Kadamba and Trinetra Kadamba; and their original capital was Banavasi (Jayantipura or Vajjayantipura) situated on the river Varada on the western frontier of the Sorab taluk. It is mentioned by Ptolemy. It is also mentioned (in the Mahawanso) together with Mahisha-mandala (Mysore) as a place to which a Buddhist missionary was sent after the third convocation, held in the 18th year of As'oka or B. C. 245. The thero Mahadeva was sent to Mahisha, and the thero Rakshita to Wanawasi.

As for the origin of the family,—it is said that after his conquest of the Asura Tripura, some drops of sweat fell from S'iva's forehead at the root of a kadamba tree: and thence was born the progenitor of the line, called in consequence the Kadambas (see p. 59). The tree itself is said to have been produced by a drop of nectar which fell upon the earth from the churning stick, namely the Mandara mountain, at the churning of the ocean.

The kadamba tree appears to be one of the palms from which toddy is extracted.* Toddy drawing is the special occupation of several primitive tribes spread over the south west of India, and bearing different names in various parts:—The Hale-paiki or Hale-paika of Naga, the I'diga of other districts in the west of Mysore, the Kumára-paika of N. Canara, the Bilvar of S. Canara, Vastara and Coorg, the Tiyar of Malabar and Coorg, &c. In Manjarabad the Hale-paiki hold a higher social position, and are called Dévara makka!u, sons of God. The Todas of the Nilagiri clearly betray a common origin, for among them the Paiki form the highest clan, from which alone the páláts or priests are chosen, and these also style themselves Der mokh (that is Dévara makka!u)-sons of God.† The Hale-paiki are said to be brave, and good sportsmen. They were employed by former rulers as foot soldiers and body guards, being noted for their fidelity. Besides extracting toddy from the bagini palm, they now engage in the cultivation of rice, and of woods containing pepper vines. The Bilvar are bowmen, as their name indicates. The Todas are acknowledged as the lords of the soil by the remaining tribes on the Nilagiri, and do no manner of work. They hold sacred the buffalo, (mahisha) from which animal Mysore, properly Mahish-uru, derives its name, and maintain large herds of it for the sake of the milk.

* Toddy from the ichalu (date sylvestris) resembles milk in appearance. It is obtained by making a triangular incision in the stem of the tree, just below the head, and tying an earthen pot under the incision so as to catch the juice as it exudes. Trees are successively tapped in this manner at about a foot apart as long as they continue to grow. When the toddy ferments, it has a strong and unpleasant odour. From it is distilled arrack. Toddy is also extracted from the táilé or palmyra palm (borassus flabelliformis). The juice of the bagui or bsini palm (caryota urens), when fresh drawn, resembles lemonade. The general name for toddy in Kannada is henda, sénda.

A strong belief has been expressed that the Todas are connected with the Æthiopians,* a term applied by the ancient Greeks to certain dark races occupying the modern countries of Beluchistan in Asia and Nubia and Abyssinia in Africa. Now in the account which Herodotus gives † of a mission sent by the Persian monarch Cambyses, when he was in Egypt, to the Ethiopians, some curious coincidences present themselves, which may be thought to lend support to the theory; and it is well known that in the language of Beluchistan traces are found of a connection with the south Indian languages. ‡ To quote the passage from Herodotus referred to: "When the Ichthyophagi had arrived from Elephantine, Cambyses despatched them to the Ethiopians, prescribing what they were to say; and carrying gifts, consisting of a purple cloak, a golden neck-chain armlets, a stone jar filled with myrrh, and a flask of date wine. These Ethiopians, to whom Cambyses was sending, are described as the most gigantic and the handsomest of men: their customs, it is added, are totally different from those of other nations, and especially so far as regards the royal power; these people investing with the sovereignty that citizen whom they regard as of most gigantic stature, and of strength commensurate to his size.

* Id. p. 4.

† Thalia, 20 ff.

‡ Bráhui, the language of the mountaineers in the khaship of Khat in Beluchistan, contains not only some Dravidian words, but a considerable infusion of distinctively Dravidian forms and idioms. The Brahuists state that their forefathers came from Haleb (Aleppo). Dr. Caldwell, Gram. Drav. Lang. intro. 43.

The Ethiopians from the East (for there were two kinds of Ethiopians in the army) were drawn up with the Indians; they resembled the other Ethiopians in appearance, but differed in their language and their hair; for the Ethiopians of the East are straight-haired, whereas those of Libya have hair the most curly of all men: for the most part, these people were accoutred after the fashion of the Indians, but they wore on their heads the skins of horse's foreheads stripped off together with the ears and mane; the mane answered the purpose of a crest, while the ears of the horses were fastened in an erect position; in lieu of bucklers they made themselves a sort of armour from the skins of cranes. Laurent's Herodotus, vii, 70. The following is the translator's note—It is probable they occupied, E. of Persia, a part of Gedrosia, and even the country of the Oritæ conquered by Alexander. Meccan, a province of Persia, on the bounds of Hindustan, appears to me to answer to the country of these Eastern Ethiopians.

“ The Ichthyophagi having reached to this nation, presented the gifts to the king, saying as follows: ‘ Cambyzes, king of the Persians, desirous to become your friend, has sent us with his behests to us to have an interview with you and present you with these gifts, in the enjoyment of which he himself delights.’ The Ethiopian, already informed that spies were coming to him, made this reply to them: ‘ It is false that the king of the Persians’ said the prince to them ‘ sent you with gifts, esteeming it such an honour to have me for his friend: neither do you speak the truth, for you have come hither as spies upon my kingdom. If your king were an honest man, he would neither covet another’s territory besides his own, nor would he reduce to thralldom men from whom he has never received any offence. Now, therefore, do you give to him this bow; and say to him these words:—The Ethiopian king advises the Persian king, when the Persians can thus easily string a bow of this size, then to head his overwhelming multitudes against the Macrobian Ethiopians: until that time, let him thank the gods they have never turned the minds of the sons of the Ethiopians to possess themselves of any country than their own.” He spoke thus, unstrung the bow and gave it to the new comers: then he took up the purple cloak, asked what it was, and how it was made. The Ichthyophagi describing to him all the exact particulars respecting purple and the mode of dyeing; the king said, ‘ The men are full of deceit; and full of deceits also are their garments.’ Then he asked about the neck-chain and the armlets: the Ichthyophagi representing the beauty of such ornaments, the king burst into laughter; he knew, he said, they were chains, and observed that the Ethiopians had stronger ones than those. Next he inquired about the myrrh; and when informed how that ointment was manufactured he made the same remarks as he had done respecting the cloak. But when he came to the wine, and was informed how it was obtained, he was beyond measure delighted with the beverage; and then asked, what was the chief food of the king, and what was the greatest extension of life among the Persians. The spies replied, that the king ate bread, and described the nature of wheat; and stated that the longest duration of life prescribed to man is eighty years. Whereupon the Ethiopian prince observed, he was not at all surprised that living upon dung and muck, they should be so short lived; nor indeed would they even be able to attain to that age if they did not refresh their vigour by the use of the beverage, pointing to the wine, and confessing that in that particular, the Ethiopians were inferior to the Persians. The Ichthyophagi, in their turn, questioned the king on the length of life, and the diet of his people: he told them, that most of his subjects reached their hundredth year, and some even exceeded that; their food was boiled meat: and their drink milk."

This digression will be pardoned if it may be supposed to throw any light on the remote origin of the interesting races engaged in toddy drawing, from one of which, the Halepaika* for instance, we are probably to understand that the Kadamba family in reality sprang. These races, though now free, formed for ages, until quite recent times, the servile class; and should there be any reason, as is alleged, to connect them with the Chaldæans, the Turanian inhabitants of ancient Babylonia†, the vista is carried back to the very cradle of the human race and the sources of the Mosaic history of the creation. †

To return to the founder of the Kadamba line of kings. Perhaps he was selected for the crown as the fittest of his race, after the custom of the Ethiopians as related above; but according to tradition, the people of the country being at the time without a ruler, had recourse to the state elephant, which being turned loose carrying a wreath, presented it to the youth whose birth was so miraculous, and he was consequently proclaimed king. The royal line thus founded continued independent till the 6th century, and during this period they claim to have performed many asvamedhas or horse sacrifices, indications of supreme authority. They were then subdued by the Chalukyas and reduced to the condition of feudatories, their jurisdiction being confined to the province of Pánnungal or Hânagal in Dharwar. From the 10th century they appear to have been entrusted with the government of a larger portion of their ancestral dominions, and in the 12th century their capital was at Goa (Gopaka-paṭṇa). The founders of the Vijayanagar empire in 1336 seem to have been connected with the Kadamba family, and from that time no trace is met with of the latter.

The following are lists of the Kadamba kings as derived from various inscriptions. There is not sufficient information to admit of their being exactly synchronized, and there may have been branches of the family, but some of the names in each of the lists evidently correspond.

* The name Halepaika is said to be derived from hale and páyika, meaning the Old Foot: others say from hale and páyaka, the old drinkers. Their occupation may have suggested the latter; and if the peculiarity which Colonel Marshall has remarked in the Todas, that they always keep step in walking—said to be very unusual even among trained sepoy when off duty—be common to the Halepaiki, it may have suggested the other. And with regard to this latter peculiarity, may it not account for the Ekapáda or Ekapádaka, the one-footed men of the Sanskrit writers? (pp. 123, 222).

Of the early kings, Mayūra Varmma was the most celebrated: but the Chandra Varmmas who preceded him are of high interest, if, as seems probable, they respectively represent, one, Chandrahāsa, the hero of the popular and romantic story of that name†, and the other, the progenitor of the Koḷaga or Coorg race ‡

Chandrahāsa's capital is said to have been at Kubattur in the Shimoga District. He was the son of a king of Kerala (Malabar), but on the death of his father and mother, was carried to Kuntala (N. Shimoga, Dharwar and neighbouring districts) by his nurse, where she also died, and he was reduced to subsist by begging. The minister, Dushṭa-buddhi, (a statue of whom is shown at Kubattur), having learnt from astrologers that the boy had signs of greatness upon him indicating that he would one day become ruler of the country, took measures to have him secretly murdered. But the executioners merely conveyed him into the forest and let him go, where he was found by an officer named Kulinda, who was childless, and adopted by him. (Kulinda is said to have been the lord of Chandragutti in the Shimoga District).

The boy grew up as a valuable assistant to his protector; but the minister one day, on visiting the latter, discovered that the young man was no other than the boy he had thought was murdered long ago. Another plan was contrived to get rid of him, but, by a series of romantic circumstances, it came about that he married the king's daughter and succeeded to the throne, on which the minister destroyed himself.

As regards Chanḍa Varmma, there is a story that he rescued from the flames of a forest fire a serpent named Manjista, which, entering into his mouth, took up its abode in his stomach. He was forced to wander about in search of a cure, which was eventually effected by an old woman at Kalyāna-pura. The truth probably is that his kingdom was usurped by some Nāga chief. According to the Kāvéri Purāna, Chandra Varmma was a son of Siddhārtha, king of Matsya (Virāṭa's capital, Hānagal in Dharwar). He left his country, and went on a pilgrimage to all the holy tirthas or bathing places, until Pār-vati appeared and offered him a boon, in consequence of which he received a kingdom at the source of the Kāvéri, and a Sūdra wife, from whom he, as a Kshatriya, should beget a valiant race called Ugras. For the eleven sons he had by her, the hundred daughters of the king of Vidarbha (Berar) by Sūdra mothers were obtained as wives. Each of these bore more than a hundred sons, who, to provide accommodation for their growing numbers, levelled the hill slopes and settled over a district five yojanas in extent at the sources of the Kāvéri river in Coorg.

Mayūra Varmma seems to have restored the authority of the Kadambas, and is sometimes represented as the founder of the line. He became king of Banavasi, and there obtained 'the sword of sharpness, the shoes of swiftness, and the garment of invisibility.' He is said to have rescued Sasiprabhā, the wife of Rāja Vallabha, prince of Kalyānapura, from a yaksha named Kandarpa Bhūshana, living in Hemanta-gube, who had carried her off. He received in consequence a large accession of territory, together with the Kalyāna princess Sasanka-mudre in marriage. He is also stated to have introduced Brahman colonists from Abichchatra (in Rohilkand), and distributed the country below the Ghats into 64 portions, which he bestowed upon them.^o In the reign of his son Kshetra Varmma, Chandragada or Trinetra, these Brahmans attempted to leave the province, but they were brought back; and in order to prevent a repetition of the attempt were compelled to leave unshorn a lock of hair on the forehead as a distinguishing mark. From these are descended the Haiga or Havika Brahmans of the north-west of Mysore. They would appear (p. 196) on this occasion to have been settled by Mukanna, that is Trinetra, above the Ghats, at Sthánagundúru (Tálagundi). During his reign, a kinsman named Chandrasena ruled the south of Tulava, and the Brahmans were spread into those parts. Lokáditya or Lokádípya, the son of Chandrasena, married Kanakávati, the sister of Trinetra, and had by her a daughter, whom Hubásiga, the king of the mountain Chandálas, sought as a wife for his son. In pretended compliance, he was invited to Tripura and there treacherously murdered. The authority of the Kadambas was extended in consequence above those Ghats, and the Brahmans followed this accession of territory. Lokádípya is said to have reigned 50 years.

Of Krishna Varmma we have several notices, to the effect that his sister was given in marriage to the Ganga king Mádhava II, whose reign ended in 425. Krishna Varmma's son was Deva Varmma, who makes a grant, but without date, from Triparvata. He claims to be in the enjoyment of a heritage not to be attained by the Nágas.* From the grants of the others who follow him in column b, it appears that Kákustha Varmma was ruling at Palásika (Halasige in Dharwar); Mriges'a Varmma at Vaijayanti (Banavasi). The latter king is described as a fire of destruction to the Pallavas, and the uprooter of the lofty (tunga) Gangas. Ravi Varmma is stated to have uprooted Chanda Danda the lord of Kánchi†, who should therefore be a Pallava. Bhánu Varmma was his brother, and in his reign may have occurred the Chalukya invasion which terminated the independence of the Kadambas, for Jaya Simha, who effected the conquest, reigned at the end of the 6th century. Accordingly, we find Hari Varmma's grant issued from Uchchás'ringi (Uchchangi-durga near Harihara, the seat of government for the Nolambaváñi Thirty-two Thousand province); but the family are not prominent again till the 11th century, when their alliance seems to have been sought by the Chalukya Vikrama in his plans against his brother, and on his success they were advanced in honour.

The group among whom Jayakes'i occurs had their capital at Gopaka-patna (Goa). It will be seen (p. 98) that the first Vijayáditya married the sister of the king of Hombucha. His son Jayakes'ī married Mailala Mahādevī, 'the ruby of the Chālukyas.' The daughter of the last Jayakes'ī married Karṇa, Rāja of Chedi or Bandalkhand.*

Of the names in column c, Kirtti Varmma was governor of the Banavase Twelve Thousand province under the Chalukya king Trailokya Malla (p. 320). Barmmarasa was an official of Nolambavādi under Tribhuvana Malla (p. 18). Taila appears as the head of the family in the time of Somes'vara (p. 89). Soma, grandson of Barmmarasa before mentioned, was an official of the Nāgara-khaṇḍa Seventy in the time of the Kalachurya king Bijjala (p. 59). Ketarasa's son Nāgati-arasa is described (p. 53) as lord of a Thousand nād and in authority at Uchchangi durga. Many particulars of the family are given in this place. Toppa Devarasa appears as the chief of the family in 1179 at Balligāmve (p. 161). Finally, a Kadamba king, whose name is not mentioned, is said (p. 47) to have been established in his authority by Tikkama, the general of the Yādava king Rāmachandra Deva in 1277.

It seems probable from a consideration of the above particulars, that the branch of the Kadambas at Uchchangi-durga, &c., was different from that at Goa. The former seem to have had the management, and perhaps an hereditary claim to some portion, of the public taxes, referred to as the manneya, pannāya, &c. Though holding a subordinate position, they are always mentioned with great respect, as became the representatives of an ancient royal family of so high distinction.

Their grants of the 5th and 6th centuries, when they were independent, describe them in certain terms which it is singular are those a little later adopted by the Chālukyas, namely—their connection with the group of mothers (the seven mothers), and their being of the Mānavya gotra, and sons of Hāriti.

Gangas.—The true history of this important line of kings—apparently purely Mysorean in their origin—may be said to have been entirely brought to light and authenticated by the inscriptions N^o. 151—157 included in this volume. They were previously supposed to be identical with the Chera kings mentioned in the earliest traditions of the south, but not one of their various grants so far known contains any reference to the Cheras.† An old Tamil chron-

* See the romantic story about this from the Dvyās'raya, Ind. Ant. IV, 233.

† It will be noticed (p. 263) that the Hoysala king Vishnu Varddhana after he had acquired the whole of the Ganga kingdom gives Chera as one of the southern limits of his dominions; that (p. 70) Ganga is distinguished from Chera; also that (p. 143) a Ganga professes to subdue a Chera king.

Chera probably corresponded with Travancore, Cochin, &c.

ins,*—which was, until the present grants were discovered, the principal, if not only, source of information regarding them—simply styles them kings of the Kongu country without any dynastic name.

That document further states that they were preceded in the government of Kongu by seven kings of the Raṭṭa line. Of these no memorial has hitherto been found, but the following are their names, &c.—

	A. D.		A. D.
Vira Rāya Chakravartī.		Govinda Rāya.
Govinda Rāya.		Chatarbhuja Kanara Deva Chakravartī.
Kṛishna Rāya.		S'ri Vikrama Deva Chakravartī	178—188
Kali Vallabha Rāya.

In the section on the Raṭṭa kings, it will be seen that some of these names correspond with those of later rulers of that line. Little is known of the first six kings, save that a learned Jain named Nāga Nandi was guru to the last three. S'ri Vikrama or Tiru Vikrama abandoned the Jain faith for that of Sīva, and after his conversion is said to have made many conquests in the Choḷa, Pāṇḍya, Keraḷa and Malayāla countries. He is mentioned as if the first who ruled over Karṇāṭaka or Mysore.

No reason is stated for the change of dynasty which followed, but it seems highly probable that the Gangas of Mysore threw off his yoke and superseded him in the government, which thenceforward remained in their family or any centuries. The Ganga kingdom may be described, generally, as having extended over all the region drained by the river Kāvéri and its tributaries, with the exception of the delta of Tanjore: that is to say, over the south of Mysore and Coorg, with Salem, Coimbatore, the Nilagiri and parts of Malabar. Their territory in Mysore was called the Gangavāḍi Ninety-six Thousand, as containing perhaps 96 nāds; while their territory in Coimbatore and Salem was called the Kongu country.† Down to the middle of the 3rd century their capital was at Skandapura, which Lassen has placed at Gajalhatti, on the old ghat road from the south of Mysore to Trichinopoly: the seat of government was then removed to Talavara-pura or Talakāḍu on the Kāvéri.

The Ganga crest was an elephant, and with the use of this animal, which abounds throughout the mountain ranges on the southern frontier of Mysore they seem to have been very familiar. They were evidently a hardy and manly race; for one king reckons a wound received in war as his principal ornament, of another it is said his arms were grown stout and hard with athletic exercises and were adorned with hard knobs produced by the discharge of his bow as if with brilliant gems. Their skill in horsemanship is more than once mentioned. But they were distinguished alike in letters as in arms, for two of them are described as authors of books, and others as deep students of political and other science.

* Kongu-des-a-rājākal, Med. J. L. and S. XIV.

† The subjects of Gangavāḍi are represented by the present Gangadikāra ryots (Gangavāḍikāra, p. 206); while those of Kongu are the present Kongas, and a form of that name may also perhaps survive in Kodaga, which has been corrupted by Europeans into Coorg.

The following is the list of the Ganga kings from inscriptions,* with their dates, to a great extent verified by grants.

It will be seen that Kongani was a sort of family name, and held by several of the kings. It also appears in the forms Konguli, Konguni and Kongi; i.

The first king is invariably described as having distinguished himself by the renowned, but rather unintelligible, feat of dividing with a single stroke of his sword a great s'ílá stambha or stone pillar. It seems not improbable that the term should properly be s'íla stambha, the name given to the pillars on which the edicts of As'oka were inscribed. None has hitherto been found in the south, but no reason appears why one should not have been erected in this part of India, which Kongani I. overthrew. The conversion by the uninitiated of so artificial a term as s'íla stambha into the more common collocation s'ílá stambha seems a most natural error. This king is also said (p. 289) to have been a wild-fire in consuming Bana, to whom further reference will be made later on.

The next king, Mádhava I, seems to have been a learned man, and is stated to have written a treatise on the law of adoption. Hari Varmma it was who removed the capital to Talavana-pura or Talakádu, and there all the subsequent kings were crowned. Vishnu Gopa's claim to notice is generally a vague statement of his religious devotion; but in one inscription (p. 289) he is with more apparent truth to nature described as a skilful ruler, who retained his mental energy unimpaired to the end of life; from which it would appear he must have lived to a great age.

* The names in brackets are from the Chronicle and not found in the inscriptions.

According to one inscription (p. 293) he seems to have had a son Rája Malla, who was governor of Talavana-pura during his father's lifetime. But his successor, according to all the fuller inscriptions, was a son called Mádhava, whether the same is not clear.* Mádhava married the sister of the Kadamba king Krishna Varmma, and their son was Kongani II, who, from the fact of his receiving his coronation anointing while an infant in his mother's lap (pp. 292-295), seems to have been born only shortly before his father's death. An important revival of Brahman influence is implied under Madhava II. from the statements (pp. 290, 291, 295) that he renewed many thousands of long ceased donations for the festivals of the gods and Brahman endowments. Kongani II. seems to have pursued the same policy.

Aviníta, the son of the last, appears to have been a remarkable character: his names are singular, and he is credited with a mastery of magical incantations. He was the author of a commentary on the Kirátárjuniya. He is said (pp. 285, 292) to have waged sanguinary wars for the possession of Andari, A'lattúr, Paurulare, Pennagara and other places. Of these, Pennagara or Pelnagara is the place still so called situated near the left bank of the Kávéri in the north west of the Salem district: the others have not been identified. He is also described (p. 292) as ruling the whole of (?) Pákbád (possibly Pálgghát, south west of Coimbatore, near which too is an A'lattúr) and Punnád, as if he had added these provinces to the Ganga kingdom. Punnád was a Ten Thousand country (p. 283), which apparently means that it contained 10 nads, for it is identical with the Padi-nádu of more modern times (p. 334) occupying the south-east of the Mysore District. Its chief at the time was Skanda Varmma, and his daughter, we are told (pp. 222, 295), fell in love with Aviníta and became his wife, although her father had betrothed her to some one else. By his conquests Aviníta is said to have exacted tribute from the kings of Kerala, Pándya, Chola, Draviða, A'ndhra and Kalinga.

Of the succeeding kings, under Vilanda Raja (? Kongani IV), his brother. S'ri Vallabha, who was commander-in-chief, gained a great victory at a place called Bhimes'a gráma over the Pallava king Narasimha or Narasimha Pota Varmma—who was trodden to death in the fight by his elephants (p. 285) He is said to have carried his victories over the whole of the Peninsula, up even to the river Narmadá, taking tribute from Chola, Pándya, Draviða,

* The Chronicle previously referred to gives a different account of what occurred. According to it, Vishnu Gopa, being childless, adopted a son named Mádhava, who was installed in the government in subordination to the king. But the latter afterwards had a son born to him, Krishna Varmma, who was anointed as his successor and Mádhava provided with some territory below the ghats. Krishna Varmma dying childless, Dindikara Rája, a connection of Mádhava's, obtained the kingdom: but the ministers set him aside in favour of Kongani the son of Krishna Varmma's sister.

A'ndhra, Kalinga, Viráta, Maháráshṭaka and other countries. On his return from this expedition, he strongly fortified Talakádu. Meanwhile he took up his residence at Muganda-patna or Mukunda-patna, which was situated at the present village of Makunda, near Molur, close to Channapatna. His successor also resided here, but it is at about this time that the Kadamba king Mṛigeśa Varmma speaks of uprooting the lofty (tunga) Gangas, and the Chálukya king Vinayáḍitya of being served by A'lva Ganga (p. 237). The succession is not very clear until Prithuví Kongani, who had a long and prosperous reign. His queen was named S'rijá (p. 288). It must have been his successor Rája Malla, whom, according to Ratta inscriptions, the Ratta king Dhruva or Nirupama defeated and imprisoned; the Gangas, it is stated, having never been conquered before. This Ratta king's son Govinda, on coming to the throne about 785, released from his long and painful captivity the Ganga king whom his father had confined, but eventually was forced again to seize and imprison him.*

It is to this period, both from its style and from some of its historical allusions, that I would assign the reign of Ereyappa of the elaborately sculptured stone brought from Begur, 10 miles south of Bangalore (p. 209). He is described as descending with the brilliance of lightning among the stars in the clear firmament (a phrase indicating a peaceful and untroubled succession, specially used with relation to this line) of the world-renowned Ganga kings,—a pretty plain statement that he was an usurper. He is represented as the independent ruler of the Gangavádi Ninety-six Thousand, 'the protector of the mighty Valala and Mekhala kings, and the chosen lord and possessor of the auspicious Taila's dominion.' The former of the above phrases may be doubtful, but the latter is clear; and I consider refers to the Chálukya king Taila or Tailapa, in whose time that powerful dynasty, as will appear in the section relating to them, met with some reverse, and did not recover the possession of their dominions until 973, when a more illustrious Tailapa won back the lost throne of his fathers.

The important Rudra Deva inscription at Anumakonda or Warangal † must also refer to this period, as it speaks of Proli Raja capturing and subse-

* Ind. Ant. VI, 69, 70.

† J. A. S. B. vii, 901: revised and corrected by Bhau Dáji J. Bo. Br. R. A. S. x, 46. There must be some great mistake about the date: the former giving it as Saka 1054, the latter as 1064, and both as the year Chitrabhonu; but Chitrabhonu does not agree with either by 20 and 30 years! The reference to the Chálukya king Tailapa and his successor Bhima, as also to the Ratta king Govinda, unmistakably fixes the period as the middle of the 9th century; moreover the Ayyapa of the Begur stone, who attacked Ereyappa and was defeated, was doubtless the Chálukya of that name, Bhima's son.

quently releasing the Chálukya king Tailapa Deva. The latter, however, afterwards, when Rudra Deva had come to the throne, died, and was succeeded by Bhíma (the next on the list of the Chálukyās) "the vilest of kings" &c., who "ventured to defy the terrible Rudra Deva." He was eventually forced to submit, together with "all the rajas like him living between Kánci-maṇḍala and the Vindhya mountains"—the latter is the region of the Mekhalá or Narmadá river. But to connect Ereyappa more directly with this inscription, it will be seen that Proli is said to have given a kingdom taken from Tailapa (and Govinda Rája the Raṭṭa, who, it will be seen in another place, had at this time acquired supreme control of the Chálukya territory,) to "king Erha" in the first version, "king Udaya" in the second, of which I take the former to be correct.

To pursue the history of the Gangas.—Ganḍa Deva seems to have re-established their authority and is stated to have conquered Kánci and levied a tribute upon Draviḍa. He also fought with the Chola king, and impressing him with fear, afterwards made friendship with Chola and Pándya. Of the two Satya Vákya Konganis there are inscriptions in Coorg, from which the dates are determined.* The first, Rácha Malla, is spoken of as ruling at S'ripura, which was situated (p. 286) near Gúdalúr, the existing place of that name on the north west of the Nilagiri, on the borders of that district and Waináḍ. He assumes the titles "lord of Kovalá|apura or Kolá|apura (Kolar) and of Nandagiri (Nandidurga)" †. Malla Deva, the last on the list, is related to have defeated an attack by the Pándya king.

Soon after this (about 894) it seems that a Chola king took Talakáḍu, and the Gangas were driven from their kingdom; but we continue to meet with notices of members of the family in subordinate positions. The first I can adduce is in a stone inscription, without date, of the Pallava king Bira Nolamba, at Goribidour. He claims to be 'the protector of Ayyapa Deva's daughter' ‡ and is, I take it, the Bira Mahendra of the Begur stone (p. 209), while Ayyapa, as already stated, may be identified with the Chálukya prince of that name. If this be correct, he lost his life in that battle, and his daughter, taken prisoner §, became the prize of the ruling sovereign. In this inscription, whose

* Ind. Ant. vi, 99.

† He appears to have admitted the claim of a son of Ereyanga gamunda to an estate in Kal-nád on his doing homage and paying tribute. Now Kal-nád is the name of the district bestowed by the usurper Ereyappa on similar terms (p. 209). Might the son possibly be his? But if so, it is difficult to account for the grant being set up in Coorg.

‡ S'ríman mahá ... Ayyapa Devana maga| anaga; the last word would also mean Thumber; but I have adopted the more gallant interpretation.

§ Can this be the female, bound, apparently blind folded, to the king's standard in No. 113?

date would thus be about 900, we find a Ganga, lord of Kolálapura, and nanniya Ganga, a Ganga of truth—a title evidently derived from the Satya Vákya of the later kings of his line—fighting under the Pallava king and losing his life in the battle.

Then we have (p. 148) Satya [Vákya], lord of Kuválálapura, chief of Nandagiri, having the ensign of a lusty elephant, nanniya Ganga, &c., making a gift at Balagami, apparently in 1058, in succession to the Chálukya king Jaya Simha. Though making no direct acknowledgement of dependence, he was probably subordinate to the Chálukyas; but the names have been deliberately mutilated. Next (p. 307) we have Gangarasa—retaining the titles, now shorn of their meaning, Konguli Varmma Dharmma Mahárájádhirája—and lord of Kolálapura, with the crest of a lusty elephant, and also calling himself nanniya Ganga, holding the position of governor of the Arabala Seventy and Melála manneya under the Hoysala king (? Ereyanga) in 1065.

A little later, or in 1070, we find (pp. 134, 144, 164) Udayáditya as minister for peace and war to the Chálukya king Bhuvanaika Malla. He seems (p. 165) to have gained some important victories, and by 1075 we find him (p. 142), after having subdued the neighbouring Chera*, Chola, Pándya and Pallava kings, appointed as governor of the Banavase Twelve thousand, the Santalige Thousand, the Mandali Thousand and the eighteen agraháras. His titles are Ganga Permmasádi Bhuvanaika Vira, and he is lord of Kolálapura and Nandagiri, has the crest of a lusty elephant, and is a Ganga of truth (nanniya Ganga). He seems (p. 173) to be still in power in 1102. We next find (p. 216) a Ganga Rája as a minister and general in 1136 under the Hoysala king Vishnu Varddhana, who (pp. 262, 332) had about 20 years before possessed himself by conquest of the whole of the former Ganga kingdom: the significant Ganga titles are now dropped by the representative of the family. This Ganga Rája's wife was Nágalá Devi, and they had a son Bappa.

Further, in 1158 there appears (p. 158) Ekkalarasa, 'a moon in raising the fortunes of the Ganga family', appointed to superintend an agrahára established in the reign of the Kalachurya king Bijjala by the governor of Banavase; while his son Taḷapa Devarasa and his son-in-law Eraherasa remit the claim to certain dues in the same place (p. 160). These two appear (pp. 77, 119) in the same connection down to 1181.

The expression applied to Ekkalarasa, that he was a moon in raising the fortunes of the Ganga family, seems to imply some revival of their power, and accordingly we find an inscription bearing the dates 1173 and 1181 mentioned (As. Res. IX, 436) as having been found at Kurugóḍi, a few miles north of Bellary, from which it would appear that the Gangas had been established by the Chálukyas in a principality situated at about the site of the modern Vijayanagar on both sides of the Tungabhadra, as there are temples and grants by the Gangas at Lakshmesvar. Possibly the union of the Ganga princess with Vira Pándya (p. 70) had something to do with this. The first of the princes that ruled at Kurugóḍi is stated to be Ráksha Malla. His wife was Somala Devi, by whom he had a son Nerungala Rája. The latter married Pakshala Devi, who bore him two sons, Ráksha Malla and Soma Bhúpála, of whom the elder, Immaḍi (or the second) Ráksha Malla, succeeded his father and was ruling at the time of the grant. It is interesting to note that the Chálukya king under whom this grant was made must have been the last of his line, and he is stated to have made Kurugóḍi his capital. See also p. 155 for Báchche Malla's territory.

* This is worthy of note in connection with the hitherto supposed identity of the Cheras and Gangas.

Having traced the Gangas thus far after their downfall in Mysore, and seen how on the occurrence of that catastrophe members of the family found refuge with the neighbouring powers to the north, and were admitted to positions of influence and honour under them, we have now to direct our attention to a more distant quarter, where the Ganga sovereignty was revived and Ganga kings ruled with great glory for several centuries. This was in Orissa, where the Ganga vams'a dynasty—also called Gajapatis or elephant lords, and acknowledged to have come from Karnátaka*—was established at the end of the 11th century and continued to rule that country down to 1534, soon after which it was subdued by the Muhammadans. The first of the line was Ananta Varma, † also called (according to Wilson) "Koláhala, sovereign of Ganga Rághi," which is no doubt a mistake for lord of Koláhalá-pura, and sovereign of Ganga-váḍi.

Chor Ganga (Churanga, Saranga Deva, Rudra Deva)...	1132—1152
Gangesvara	1152—1166
Ekvijátaka Deva	1166—1171

Ananga Bhíma Deva	1175—1202
Rájarájesvara Deva...	1202—1237
Lánguliya Narasimha Deva	1237—1282

Of these kings, Ananga Bhíma Deva was one of the greatest of the rulers of Orissa. He made a survey of his whole kingdom, measuring it with reeds. He also built the present temple of Jagannáth. Rája Narasimha Deva built the great Sun temple at Kanárák on the sea, the black pagoda, 'the most exquisite memorial of sun worship in India or perhaps in any country.*

The line continued in power down to 1534, soon after which the country fell a prey to the Muhammadans: but the only kings that claim notice here are Parushottama Deva, ruling in 1479—1504, and Pratápa Rudra, 1504—1532. The former sought in marriage the daughter of the king of Kánci, famed for her beauty. But on the ground of his performing the office of sweeper to Jagannáth his suit was rejected. He therefore attacked Kánci and was at first repulsed. At length he captured it, and took the princess prisoner, whom he vowed in revenge should be married to a sweeper. The minister charged with the execution of this order kept the girl in concealment until the festival of Jagannáth, at which the king was accustomed to sweep the ground before the god; and while he was engaged in that act, placed her beside him and they were married. The reign of Pratápa Rudra is remarkable for the reformation of the Vaishnava religion by the preaching of Chaitanya, whose views the king finally adopted; and Buddhism, to which he had previously inclined, was banished the country. Pratápa Rudra is said to have extended his conquests southwards as far as Cape Comorin, and his name occurs in many local traditions in the east of Mysore.

Not yet however have we done with the Gangas. About this time, or the first part of the 16th century, a Ganga Raja returned to the scene of their former dominions and established a principality at S'ivasamudram, the island at the falls of the Kávéri, about 12 miles north-east of Talakádu.

Ganga Rája, after a prosperous reign, was succeeded by his son Nandi Rája, who, to atone for some ceremonial offence, leaped into the cataract at Gagara Chukki on horseback with his wife. His son, Ganga Raja the second, enlarged the city greatly, and lived with much splendour. He had two daughters, whom he gave in marriage to the two chief Pálégars in the neighbourhood. The one was married to the Rája of Kilimale, a place now in ruins, about 12 miles from Satyagála: the other daughter was married to the Rája of Nagara-kere, 3 miles east from Maddur. These marriages were very unhappy; for the pride of the ladies gave their husbands constant disgust. They were continually upbraided for not living in equal splendour with their father-in-law; and at length, having consulted together, they determined to humble their wives, by shewing that their power was superior to that of Ganga Rája. Having assembled all their forces, they besieged S'ivasamundra; but for a time had very little success.

The siege had continued twelve years without their having been able to penetrate into the island, when the two Rájás found means to corrupt the Dalaváyi or minister of Ganga Rája. This traitor removed the guards from the only ford, and thus permitted the enemy to surprise the place, while he endeavoured to engage his master's attention at the game of chess. The shouts of the soldiery at length reaching their ears, the prince started up from the game. The Dalaváyi, who wished him to fall alive into the hands of his sons-in-law, endeavoured to persuade him that the noise arose merely from children at play; but the Rája, having drawn his sword, first killed all his women and children, and then, rushing into the midst of his enemies, fought until he procured an honourable death. The sons-in-law on seeing this were struck with horror, and immediately threw themselves into the cataract at Gagana Chukki; and their example was followed by their wives, whose arrogance had been the cause of such disasters.

Jagadeva Ráyal of Chamapatna and S'ri Ranga Rája of Talakád, the two most powerful of the neighbouring Pálégárs, then came, and removed all the people and wealth of the place.

Maháva's.—The rule of this ancient house is established by the inscriptions Nos. 163 and 164, but their name, though connected with one of the most interesting places in the south of India, has been very rarely met with, and the dynasty has hitherto found no niche in history.

The first inscription (p. 304) belongs to the reign of a king named Mahávali Bararasa of the Mahávali-kula,? door-keepers (pratihása) to Parames'vara adored by all three worlds as the lord over gods and giants (sura and asura). The second inscription (p. 305) is of the reign of Mahávali Bānarasa, who seems on account of his victories to have been called Vikramáditya, and to whom other kings gave the celebrated name of Bāna Vijyádharma.*

Mahávali is evidently the same as Mahábali, after whom Mahábalipur or the Seven Pagodas, on the eastern coast a few miles south of Madras, was named. According to Hindu mythology, Mahá-Bali or Bali was a powerful Asura emperor, who became so elated with his prosperity that he omitted the essential ceremonies and offerings to the gods. To punish his arrogance, Vishnu assumed the form of a Brahman dwarf—the vámana avatára, the fifth incarnation—and appearing before him, asked a boon, which was promised. Vishnu requested only as much ground as he could pace in three steps, declining anything more, and this much was confirmed to him with the pouring of water. As the water fell into his hand, the dwarf's form expanded till it filled the world; and Vishnu, now manifesting himself, deprived Bali at two steps of heaven and earth, but on account of some virtues the latter possessed, left Pátála or the infernal regions still in his dominion.

With regard to the Mahávali-kula, they are mentioned in an inscription obtained by Sir Walter Elliot, * from which it appears that the Chálukya king Vikramáditya I (? 650—681) conquered the chief of the Mahámalla† kula, besides by the capture of Kánchi subjecting the Pallava king Jayates'vara Pota Raja. 'From these facts it máy be inferred' adds Sir Walter 'that the rulers of Mámallaipura were in a state of independence in the 6th and beginning of the 7th centuries.' The present inscriptions not only support this view, but, for reasons to be further stated, make it likely that from the 2nd century the Mahávali line ruled the whole tract of country through which the river Pálar flows, from its source near Srinivaspur, where these stones were found, past Kánchi (Conjeveram), to Mahábalipur near its mouth.

To revert again to the legends of Mahábalipur ‡ "The son of Bali, its reputed founder §, was Bájásura (Banácheren in As. Res.), who is represented as a giant with a thousand hands. Aniruddha, the son (or grandson) of Krishna, came to his court in disguise, and seduced his daughter; which produced a war, in the course of which Aniruddha was taken prisoner and brought to Mahábalipur: upon which Krishna came in person from his capital Dváraka and laid siege to the place. Siva guarded the gates and fought for Bájásura, who worshipped him with his thousand hands; but Krishna found means to overthrow Siva, and having taken the city, cut off Bájásura's hands, except two, with which he obliged him to do homage. He continued in subjection to Krishna till his death, after which a long period ensued in which no mention is anywhere made of this place." It was subsequently destroyed by an inundation of the sea.

Whether the Bájarasas of the inscriptions under notice had anything to do with Bájásura of the foregoing story or not, the coincidence of names is singular. But we are not without a direct reference to Bāra which enables us to place him with certainty not later than the 7th century. This is in the Nāga-mangala inscription (p. 287), where Dunḍu, the king of Nirgunda, is described as the confounder of the Bāra-kula, a designation which may be considered as applied to the kings of the Mahāvali line who came after Bāra. But even with regard to Bāra, assuming that he is not the same as Bāra, there is probably a reference (p. 289) which makes him contemporary with the Ganga king Kōngani I, and therefore to be assigned to the end of the 2nd century.

† Another form of the name, which variously appears in that of the city as Mámallaipura, and Mahábalipura.

‡ See Sev. Pag. 13; As. Res. I, 156.

§ Balipura is also given (p. 119) as a form of the name of Balligánve (the mother of cities, pattavangala tavannava, see p. 89), the capital of the Banavase province in the north west of the Mysore, and its origin attributed to Bali, while the name Banavase itself, which was Sanskritized into Vasavási, might possibly have had some connection with Bájásura.

That the Mahāvalis did not continue in power beyond the 7th century not only follows from the known fact that the Pallavas were in possession of Kānchi early in the 7th century—their former capital of Vengi having then passed into the hands of the Eastern Chālukyas,—and the improbability of their tolerating the existence of an independent kingdom in such close proximity to their capital, but from a Pallava inscription of 768 occurring on a stone at the very site where the two Mahāvali inscriptions are, with others from that time onwards in various parts of the Kolar District, and from the existence at Mahābalipur itself of Pallava inscriptions of about this period.

Pallavas.—The Pallavas are an ancient line of kings of high interest who played an important part in the history of the south of India throughout the region in which the Telugu language now prevails. Their architectural remains at Amarāvati and Mahābalipur are among the finest in the country, and show that they were at first Buddhists.*

Their origin is uncertain. They are mentioned in the Purānas along with the Haihayas, Śakas, Yavanas, &c., as Pahlavas, which would imply a Persian source.† “As the name of a people, the word Pahlav” says Weber “became early foreign to the Persians, learned reminiscences excepted: in the Pallava texts themselves for instance it does not occur. The period when it passed over to the Indians, therefore, would have to be fixed for about the 2nd—4th century A. D., and we should have to understand by it, not directly the Persians, who are called Pārasikas rather, but specially the Arsacidan Parthians.”‡

* See Ferguson's Tree and Serpent Worship.

† Wilson's Vishnu Purāna (Hall's edn.) II, 187: III, 292 &c.

‡ Hist. Ind. Lit. (Trübner's Or. Ser.) 188. There are Pahlavi Christian inscriptions at St. Thomas's Mount near Madras and other places in the south, supposed to be of the 7th or 8th century. See Ind. Ant. III, 113.

The Parthians revolted from the Seleucids about B. C. 250, under a chief named Arsakes (Askh, Arsaces) who founded an independent monarchy. The Parthians subsequently overran the provinces east of the Euphrates, and about B. C. 130 overthrew the kingdom of Bactria, so that their empire extended from the Euphrates to the Indus and from the Indian Ocean to the Paropamisus or even to the Oxus. The memorable wars between the Parthians and the Romans eventually weakened the former and gave the Persians the opportunity of throwing off the Parthian yoke. Led by Artaxerxes (Ardashir) they put an end to the Parthian kingdom of the Arsacids, after it had lasted 476 years, and established the Persian dynasty of the Sassanids A. D. 226.

General Cunningham considers them Skythians * and it will be seen that their descent is described as being from S'áliváhana the S'aka king. "The Scythians, who had previously been in some measure allied to the Parthians, were a portion of the great nomad hordes of Central Asia who often swept down on the fertile, cultivated and comparatively refined south, like a whirlwind of locusts. To check their first advance the Parthian princes had paid them a sort of black mail, but Bactria, less fortunate, was rapidly overwhelmed to the north and west. . . . It was on the accession of the Parthian king Mithridates the Great, B. C. 124, that the tide of Scythian victory (over Parthia) was arrested, and they were driven back and compelled to pour their superabundant numbers into Scistan and the eastern provinces of Persia.† Thus was formed the famous Indo-Scythic kingdom of whose chieftains we have so many monetary records. Occupying, as they did, the plains south of the Hindu Kush between Bactria and the Punjab, and occasionally extending their power even to the mouth of the Indus, this Scythian kingdom effectually separated India from Greece, and arrested the growing influence of Greek manners and civilization; indeed, but for these intervening hordes, there seems no reason why the Greek language should not have been as well understood on the Jumna and the Ganges as on the Nile." ‡

Though several grants made by the Pallava kings have come to light, and there are frequent references to the line in contemporary records, yet, owing to the former being undated, and the references being generally to the Pallavas without any specification of names, no chronological list has hitherto been published of the rulers of this line; and, indeed, they have received but scant notice. Having obtained, as I consider, materials for drawing up such a list, subject to the corrections which further discoveries may shew to be needed, it is given below. On certain points there seems to be no doubt, namely, that the Pallavas to the 6th century ruled a country whose name was Vengi, situated between the mouths of the Krishna and the Godávári. Early in the 7th century (? 605) they were dispossessed of this region by the eastern branch of the Chólukyas, and then established their seat of government at Kānchi (Conjeveram), where it remained in all probability till the 12th century; their inscriptions of about the 7th century are found at Mahábalipur.

As regards their connection with Mysore, a grant on copper plates of the 4th century* shows them in possession of Videnúr, that is, the present Goribidnur, which was formerly called Bidanúr. Pallava inscriptions on temples and stone slabs occur throughout the Kolar District, of which I have found several, at Betmangala, A'váñi, Nangali†, Srinivāspur, Nāndi, Goribidnur and Molkalmuru‡. Their titles in these grants generally correspond with those at p. 312. The name of the Noḷambavāli or Nonambavādi Thirty-two Thousand province, extending over most of the Chitaldroog and Bellary districts, specially connects itself to all appearance with the Pallavas, but the earliest mention of it, so far as I can find, is in 1066 (p. 19). There is a gold coin in the Bangalore Museum bearing the image of Harihara on the obverse and the name Noḷambavāli in Haḷe Kannaḷa characters in the middle line of the reverse. The following is the proposed list of the Pallava kings:—

The data on which the above list is based it is now necessary to state.

Sālivāhana, whose era used throughout the south of India dates from A. D. 78, is acknowledged to have ruled at Pratishthāna, now known as Paithan, on the Godāvati. From him are said to have descended Mādhava Varmma, Kulaketana, Nilakantha and Mukuoti Pallava. The last appears as the founder of the Pallava line, with his capital at Dharanikota, and is said to have been a son of Mahadeva (Siva) by a girl of the mountain tribe called Chensuars (Chensabaras). * He is placed in about the year 200, and is, according to local tradition, the king under whom was erected the splendid tope or stupa at Amaravati, which is called on the spot the Dupas Mogasala (or assembly hall) of Mukunti Maharaja.†

* S. Ind. Pal. Pl. xx.

† This is not certainly Pallava, as the most important part of the inscription has gone, the upper half of a fine slab having been recently broken off and carried away; for the repairs of a well, I was told, but did not find the missing piece.

‡ Two inscriptions here, on a rock, but the names and chief particulars have been deliberately mutilated, so they cannot be put down as undoubtedly Pallava, but there is reason to suppose they are: one is dated in Saka 910.

Trilochana Pallava was ruling in the 4th century when Jaya Simha, surnamed Vijayaditya, of the Chalukya kula, invaded his territories, but failed to obtain a permanent footing. Jaya Simha seems to have lost his life in the attempt, for his queen, then pregnant, is described as flying after his death and taking refuge with a Brahman named Vishnu Somayaji, in whose house she gave birth to a son named Raja Simha. On attaining to man's estate, the latter renewed the contest with the Pallavas, in which he was finally successful, cementing his power by a marriage with a princess of that race. ‡ A Trinetra Pallava is said to have introduced Brahmans into his territory, and an inscription to this purport dated 2000 of the Kali (1100 years B. C!) we are told is to be found at Upatur in the Guntur district.§

For the next three on the list, we have a grant by Vijaya Nandi Varmma ruling at Vengi-pura, son of Chandra Varmma, in the 7th year of his reign, of certain dues at Videtur (Goribidnur), in the province of Kuduvara (? the same as Kuvála'a or Kolála, the present Kolar). ¶ Vijaya Buddha Varmma, is also mentioned, in a grant§§ by the same, as his Yuva-raja. For the next six there is a grant|| by Vishnu Gopa Varmma, made from Palakkada (which might suggest Pulicat) while Yuva raja, in the 11th year of Simha Varmma; and one  made by Simha Varmma, the son of Vishnu Gopa Varmma, in the 8th year of his reign, from Dasanapura, of a village in Vengorashtra. Rajendra Varmma, and his son Devendra Varmma also appear in a grant†† and the latter is perhaps the Pallava to whom the Kadamba king Mriges'a Varmma, about 570, describes himself as a wild-fire. Chandra Danda is mentioned ‡‡ as king of Kanchi and uprooted by the Kadamba king Ravi Varmma, which would be about 600 ; and as the name Ati Rāja Chanda Pallava appears on a temple at Mahābalipur* I have supposed him to be the same, but his might be a name of the next, Kāma Rāja or Rāja Jaya, who is also mentioned in an inscription at Mahābalipur† as the Pallavesvara. Either he or his predecessor should, from the evident period of the inscriptions, be the Pallava whom the Chalukya king Satyās'raya (608—634) forced to hide behind the ramparts of Kāuchi‡ which seems to be an allusion to the ejection of the Pallavas from the Vengi country by the Chalukyas.

Narasimha§ or Narasimha Pota Varmma || (p. 301) must be the Pallava king who, about 620, fell at Bhimes'a grāma in a battle with the Ganga king (but at that time commander-in-chief) S'ri Vallabha, and was trodden to death by the elephants (p. 285). He it is who is described (p. 301) as having made (or created) a remarkable collection of statues in stone consisting of Rāja Simh's'vara and other deva ku'ā, which, as there is no god of that name, I suppose to refer to deified members of the royal family, and perhaps to the Chalukya named Rāja Simha who married a Pallava princess as before stated. Jayates'vara Pota Rāja or Pota Varmma appears¶ as the name of the Pallava monarch defeated by the Chalukya king Vikramāditya I (650—681), who, with reference to this victory and one over the Mahāvali king, claims to be the real S'ri Vallabha and the real Rāja Malla, both Ganga titles referring to the victory gained at Bhimes'a by the king bearing the former name. The idea seems to be, that as the Pallava was killed in that battle—and came by his death, perhaps accidentally, by falling under the elephants, it may be of his own side, which charged over him—he could not be considered as conquered. But Vikramāditya actually defeated the king, “who had never before bowed to any other man”, and made him kiss his feet with his crown. Hence he was more the favourite (Vallabha) of fortune (S'ri). The claim to be Rāja Malla need not necessarily imply that the Mahāmalla line continued in power till this period; which, though just possible, is hardly probable: it is sufficient if he conquered the Pallavas who had but recently conquered the Mahámallas, to constitute him Rája Malla, and the verbal resemblance to the Ganga title gives occasion for a side thrust at them too beyond what is contained in claiming to be the true S'ri Vallabha.

|| Pota Varmma is doubtless a corruption of Buddha Varmma. But there is a local god named Pota. C. P. Brown says (Tel. Dict.) “he is a rustic god, like Pan, worshipped (chiefly by herdsmen) throughout the Telugu, Kannaḷa, and Maratha countries; after him many men are named. His wives, after whom some women are named, are called Gangamma and Polakamma or Poleamma. These answer to Punch and Judy.”

In Mysore, Potappi is represented as a man with a sword in one hand and a buffalo's head in the other. His figure is invariably placed in temples of Dharmā Rāya, the chief object of worship among the Tigḷar, a class of cultivators from the Tamil country.

Trairájya Pallava, which does not seem to be a name, is the king defeated (p 237, 241) by the Chalukya king Vinayáditya (681—695). Nandi Pota Varmma is explicitly stated (p 300) to be the name of the Pallava king who was slain in battle in the Udáka province by the Chalukya king Vikramáditya II (733—747), when all the royal insignia fell into the hands of the conqueror, who made a triumphal entry into Káñchi, but refraining from plundering the city, commemorated his entry by causing the statues before mentioned to be gilded; while his queen Loka Mahádevi caused a temple to be erected * at Pattadkal to celebrate the victory. In about 745 the Chalukya prince Kirtti Varmma, then Yuva rája, attacked a Pallava king (p. 301) whose name is not given, and forcing him to take refuge in a hill fort, plundered him of all his treasures and scattered his troops: while in 777 a grand-daughter of the Pallava king, and therefore perhaps this one, is the wife of the king of Niryunda in the Chitaldroog District (p. 288)

About 760 the Raṭṭa king Dhruva or Nirupama claims † to have conquered a Pallava king. As a Pallava inscription of 768, at Gúlgánpode near Srinivasapur where the Mahávali stones were found, gives the king's name as Nolamba, he may be the one. It is some confirmation of this that the name Nirupama occurs in a mutilated Pallava inscription on the Rámalingesvara temple at Avani, in which the Pallava king's name is Nolambádhirája, with the upavákya or cognomen áhava duggan ahitara javanam. It would appear that his wife was a Kadamba princess, and named Devámbiká. There is also an inscription of Nolambádhirája at Nandi (p. 212). The next Raṭṭa king, Govinda or Prabhúta Varsha, also defeats a Pallava king about 790 or 800.‡ Now, according to Wilson, the king of Káñchi in 783 was Hemasitala, whom he describes as the last Buddhist monarch of that place. Akalauka, a Jain from S'ravana Belgoa, disputed in his presence with the Buddhists, who were defeated, and banished to Kandly in Ceylon. The same Raṭṭa king, Govinda, appears * in 804 as receiving from (?) Vattiga, then ruler of Kānchi, certain tribute collected for him by the Chālukya king Kīrtti Varma III, who, as I gather, may have married the Raṭṭa king's daughter, and to whom this tribute had been assigned, perhaps as her dowry, with authority to her husband to collect it. This was no uncommon condition attached to a gift in turbulent times, of which many instances might be adduced; and was nothing more nor less than setting one rival on to levy war against and plunder another, a course sure to result in damage to one of the two, and perhaps to both.

Of the next on the list, there is an inscription of Eṇeva Nolambādhirāja, of about this period, on the Vijaya Raugaswāmi temple at Betmangala, and as the Ganga king Gaṇḍa Deva is stated † to have conquered Kānchi, which would be about 830, I associate this event with Eṇeva. Bira Nolamba is the donor of the Goribidour grant, in honour of the Ganga king who fell in his service. He is the one described as taking charge of the unfortunate Chālukya princess Ayyapa's daughter, † and his name occurs three times in the inscription. For the reasons previously stated he may be placed with some confidence at about 850. Bira Trinetra, mentioned in an inscription on a mūna stambha at A'vani, is perhaps the same.

* S. Ind. Pal. Pl. xxiv an 1 p. 88. As this interesting inscription has not been accurately deciphered, and has been erroneously called Chera, I proceed to transcribe and explain it.

In the Saka king's years the 726th, the year Subhānu, the month Vaiśāḥha, the 5th day of the dark fortnight, Thursday.—May it be well. On coming having levied the tribute imposed during his reign upon Vattiga, the ruler of Kānchi, by Prabhūta-Varsha, the favorite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, Govinda bhātārā, on account of [his daughter] Gāmundāḍbe Mahādēvi; having his . . . on the bank of the Tungabhadra, nettin; (or? knocking down) the crocodiles of the tirtha called Rāmes'vara, and striking the jigs which ran out being pleased with the tirtha, Kīrtti Varmma, supreme lord of kings, with a mind fixed like a bee . . . presented it to the gorava (Kuruba priest) named Sivanāri, &c.

Rāmes'vara tirtha is an island in the Tungabhadra at a lend a few miles north of the junction of the Tung and Bha'ra. This Kīrtti Varmma I conclude must be the Chālukya prince. Govinda or Prabhūta-varsha is a Raṭṭa king. The ruler of Kānchi should be a Pallava; there is a Baddiga among the Raṭṭas.

Three dates then follow without any names. The two first are clearly expressed in words, in Hale Kannaḍa, according to the S'aka nripa kāla, and are cut on two long narrow stones at Betinangala, which are now enclosed in a small temple and worshipped as gods under the name of Gangamma. They are completely smeared with saffron and dotted over with vermilion spots; the usual offerings of flowers, &c., are placed on the heads of the stones and at foot. Both are very brief, and record some grants apparently by Kadamba princesses. From the locality, and comparison with the one above mentioned, I consider them Pallava. The date 988 is that of one of the two mutilated rock-inscriptions at Mulkalmuru. A more careful examination than I had leisure at the time to make, now some years ago, may clearly identify them with the Pallavas.

There seems reason to believe that about this period, the Cholas, having upset the Ganga kingdom, overran the Pallava possessions in the north-east of Mysore and then supplanted the Eastern Chalukyas at Vengi. But the Western Chalukyas must have recovered the present Chitaldroog District, which was formed into the province of the Nolambavāḍi Thirty-two Thousand, and placed under the prince Vijayāditya, who was also viceroy of Vengi (as will appear further on under the Chalukyas). About 1050 we have (p. 327) a Sthira Gambhira Nojamba, who distinguished himself in the army of the Chálukya king A'hava Malla and received the titles Vira-tala-prahāri and Dodḍanka. His son was A'hu Malla. About 1070 we have a Pallava made to pay tribute to the Chálukya king Bhuvanaika Malla by his general Udayāditya of the Ganga family (p. 143). In 1079 we have (p. 396) the Chálukya prince Jaya Sinha, the brother of Vikrama, calling himself a prince of the Pallava line, and it seems to follow that his mother must have been a Pallava princess. In 1031 we find mention of a Pallava subordinate to the Chálukya king Vikramārka. About 1120 we have (p. 331) the Hoysala king Vishnu Varddhana defeating a Pallava, whose name appears to be Narasimha Varmpa, and taking Kánchi. And last'y, the Chálukya king Jagadeka Malla (1138—1150) boasts (p. 58) to have driven the Pallavas from their kingdom, which he added to his own dominions, thus terminating the continual rivalry and contests of seven centuries. It would appear (pp. 8, 52) that this victory was achieved by his general Vijaya Pándya Deva of Uchangī, who was in consequence granted the title 'lord of Kánchipura'; and he calls himself 'defeater of the designs of Rájiga Chola', who will be noticed in connection with the Chálukyas. I have not met with any further references to the line.*

* It appears that a Pallava is said to have been conquered in 1223 by the Yá lava king Singhana Deva of Devagiri. Ind. Ant.

• Chalukyas.—The memorials of this powerful line are perhaps more abundant, exact and varied than those of any line of sovereigns in the south. Their first appearance south of the Narmadá was in the 4th century, previous to which they are said (p. 149) to have had 59 predecessors on the throne of Ayodhya (Oudh). On entering the Dekhan they encountered the Kalachuryas the Rattas, the Kadambas, and the Pallavas. The three first were reduced to the condition of feudatories; the Pallavas however drove off the invader, who was slain, but his successor defeated them and then formed with them an alliance cemented by a marriage with a Pallava princess. The Chalukya capital was established at Kalyána, still known by that name, situated in Bidar in the Nizam's dominions, about a hundred miles west of Haidarabad; their country was called Kuntala des'a and Karṇāṭa des'a.

At the commencement of the 7th century the Chalukyas separated into two branches, of which the Eastern Chalukyas made Vengi, taken from the Pallavas, their capital: the Western Chalukyas, with whom chiefly Mysore is concerned, continued to rule from Kalyána. From the name of the founder of this branch they were called the Satyás'raya-kula. In the 8th century the Rattas appear to have regained an ascendancy, and the Chalukya power was for some time obscured: but at the end of the 10th century their authority was restored, and they reigned with increased glory to the end of the 12th, when they were subverted by the Kalachuryas.

The Chálukyas were of the Soma vamsa or lunar line, and the Mánavyasa gotra. They claim to be the sons of Harita, nourished by the Sapta mátrika, or seven mothers. The boar was the principal emblem on their signet, obtained from Bhagaván Náráyana (Vishnu); but their insignia included a peacock fan, an ankus'a or elephant goad, a golden sceptre, and other symbols. The titles on their inscriptions, which are very numerous in Mysore, especially in the Nagar Division, are nearly invariably as follows—Samasta-Jhvanás'raya, S'ri-prithvī-vallabha, Mahárájádhirájá, Parames'vara, Parama-bhaṭṭáraka, Satyás'raya-kula-tílaka, Chálukyábharana.

Although the above details are very circumstantial, the account of the origin of the Chalukyas is evidently puránic*, and the real source from which they sprang is far from clear. Moreover, while on the one hand the name Chalukya bears a suggestive resemblance to the Greek name Sekukeia, on the other hand it will be seen (p. xl) that the title to be descendants of Harita or Háríti, nourished by the seven mothers, and of the Mácavya gotra, may have been adopted from the Kadambas, on their being subdued; while as to the 59 previous kings, who are said to have occupied the throne of Ayodhya, not a single trace has been discovered. May not the Chalukyan kings have been of Seleukeian or Seleucidan origin; and the prolonged struggles between them and the Pallavas,* supposing these to be of Parthian connection, have been but a continuation of the contests between Seleucidæ and Arsacidæ, transferred from the banks of the Tigris and Euphrates to those of the Krishna and the Palar?

* They are stated (p. 68) to have miraculously sprung from the moisture or water in the hollowed palm (chuluka, chulaka) of Harita's hand; see also p. 153. According to another account (Ind. Ant. VI, 74), from a libation to the gods poured from his chuluka, chuluka or chaluka by Hári'ī, who wore five tufts of hair on his head, that is, he was a Brahmeshári or bachelor student.

The succession of the earlier Chalukya kings, down to the commencement of the 7th century, when the family separated into two branches, has not been very decidedly made out. The following seems to be the probable order:—

	A. D.		A. D.
Jaya Simha, Vijayakṛitya.		Pulakes i, Raṇa Vikramaḥ	... 489
Rāja Simha, Raṇa Rāga.		Kīrti Varmma
Buddha Varmma, Vīra Nōṇamba	... 444	Mangalē'sa, Mangal'śvara	... 506—578
Vijaya Varmma, Vijaya Rāja	... 472

Jaya Simha is said to have defeated and destroyed Krishna the Raṭṭa Rāja. He himself, however, was slain in an encounter with Trilochana Pallava. His queen, then pregnant, fled and took refuge with a Brahman called Vishnu Somayāji, in whose house she gave birth to Rāja Simha or Raṇa Rāga. On growing up to man's estate he renewed the contest with the Pallavas, in which he was finally successful, and married a princess of that race.† The memory of this Rāja Simha it was, I have conjectured, that was preserved in the statue bearing that name, erected by the Pallava king (p. 301). His son was Buddha Varmma, a name evidently Pallava in its associations: with it, therefore, I connect Vīra Nōṇamba, a name also clearly connected with the Pallavas (p. 306), and assign them to the date of the grant No. 158, which date may not be inaccurate, though, as it is, the grant is of a much later period; this will be shown further on. Vijaya Varmma was Buddha Varmma's son.‡

Pulakes'i or Paulakes'i was the most powerful of the early kings and performed the horse sacrifice. He appears as the lord of Vātāpi-nagara or Bādāmi.§ His second name was Raṇa Vikrama (p. 298). His date is taken from a grant in the British Museum. His son was Kīrti Varmma, who was the conqueror of the Kadambas (p. 299). Mangalē'sa, his younger brother, subdued the Kalachuryas. He attempted to establish his own son in the succession, but Satyás'raya, the elder son of Kirtti Varmma, obtained the throne about 585. About 20 years later, or 605, his younger brother Vishnu Varddhana, surnamed Kubja, crooked or hunch-backed, captured the city of Vengi from the Pallavas. From this time the family separated into two branches: the Western Chálukyas continuing to rule from Kalyána to the end of the 12th century, while the Eastern Chálukyas remained in power in the Rájamahendri country till the beginning of the 13th century.

* An expression used of the Pallavas in a Chalukya grant (p. 800), describing them as "by nature hostile" (prakṛity-amitra), seems to imply something mutually hostile in their origin.

The following is the succession of kings in the western line, as confirmed by numerous grants:—

Satyás'raya or Pulikesi II, was a great conqueror and subdued all the neighbouring nations. He is said (p. 299) to have gained victories on simply riding forth alone, mounted on his splendid charger Chitrakantha. His greatest victory was over Harsha Varddhana, king of Kanauj, and the most powerful monarch in Northern India (pp. 236, 299). By this conquest Satyás'raya obtained the title of Parames'vara or supreme lord, ever after borne by the Chálukyas. Of his son Ambera there is a memorial in the grant No. 159 (p. 296). Vikramáditya I. was successful in war against Pándya, Chola, Kerala and Kalabhra* (p. 299) but his greatest achievement was his capture of Kánchi (pp. 237, 241) and forcing the Pallava king 'who had never bowed to any other man' (pp. 237, 241, 299) to kiss his feet with his crown. Vinayáditya, his son, captured and destroyed the army of Trailájya Pallava, the king of Kánchi (pp. 237, 299), was served by the Pallava, Kalabhra, Kerala, Haihaya, Vila, Malava, Chola, and Pándya kings, as well as by A'lava Ganga (p. 237); and levying tribute from the rulers of Kavera, Párasika, Simhala and other islands,† churned all

* Perhaps the Kalabhuriyas or Kalachuriyas.

† Simhala is Ceylon. Kavera may be some island in the Kávéri, as Srirangam, Sivasastrandam or Seringapatam; Párasika, a name of Persia, introduced between the two, is difficult to explain, unless indeed the Pallavas, retaining some tradition of a Persian origin, may have given the name to an island in the south.

the kings of the north and gained possession of the Páli dhvaja* (p. 299). His son Vijayáditya completed the conquests of the two preceding reigns, both in the south and the north, and in addition to the Páli flag, gained the Gangá and Yamuná flags (p. 300). His son Vikramáditya II. gained an important victory in the Udáka province over the Pallava king Nandi Pota Varmma, whom he slew in battle, and capturing all the royal insignia, made a triumphal entry into the capital city Káncchi, which he refrained from plundering, and ordered the remarkable statues he found in the royal palace to be gilded (p. 300, 301). He then, after withering up Pándya, Chola, Kerala, Kalabhra and other kings, took up his residence at Jayamambha, situated on the shore of the southern ocean, called the Rolling Ocean (ghúrnámánárna). Kírtti Varmma II, his son, while yet Yuva Rája under his father, obtained permission to make an expedition against the Pallava king, whom he drove to take refuge in a hill fort, and dispersing his army, plundered his treasures (p. 301).

But the Chálukyas were now to suffer a reverse, and their glory under Kírtti Varmma III was obscured by the ascendancy of the Ráttas:† the proof

* What this flag was is not clear. Páli is the name of the language of Magáda, the sacred language of the Buddhists.

† The Ráttá, Ráthor or Ráshtra kúta family of kings "rose to power in the Dekhan about the middle of the 8th century, and for the space of two centuries obscured and almost took the place of its older rival the Chálukya race of Kalyána. During the time of its prosperity, it extended its rule not only over the Dekhan proper but over the Konkana, a portion of Gujarat, and Central India up to the Vindhya. Its power sank again towards the close of the 10th century, when the Chálukyas, under Tailapa of Kalyána and his successors, regained their ancient position. But even after that period we find Ráshtra-kúta states at Devagiri, at Belgam, &c., in the Dekhan, in Central India, and even as far north as Kanói, some of which played a considerable part during the last period of Hindu rule, and branches of which flourish even in the present day." (Ind. Ant. VI, 59).

The following is the list of Ráttá kings:—

	A. D.		A. D.
Govinda	680	Amoghavarsha	810
Karka	685	Akálavarsha	835
Indra	710	Jagadrudra
Dantidurga, Danti Varmma, Prithvi		Indra Nripa
Vallabha, Khadgavaloka	725—755	Amogha Varsha
Krishna, Vallabha	755	Govinda Rája
Govinda, do	765	Baddiga
Dbruva, Dhora, Nirupama, Kali		Krishna Rája

Govinda, Jagattuuga, Jagadrudra,		Kakkala, Karkara	973
Prithvi Vallabha, Sri Vallabha,
Prabhútarsha	785—810

Dantidurga subdued a prince named Vallabha, and obtained the title Rájádhirája Parames'vara. His successor Krishna humbled the Chálukyas. Dbruva subdued the Pallavas and made a prisoner of the Ganga king, whose family had never been conquered before. Govinda III was the most eminent of the dynasty. He released Ganga, whom his father had imprisoned, from his long and painful captivity, but had again to reduce and imprison him; he also went to the Tangabhadra and again subdued the Pallavas: he also ordered the lord of Vengi (the Eastern Chálukya king) to build him a fort, which was done apparently at Mányakheta (now Málkhed, in the Nizam's dominions), which, under the next king, became the capital. Ind. Ant. VI. 59—72; J. Bo. Br. R. A. S.

of this in 804 has already been given (p. lvii). Of the next three kings, it is considered, as previously stated, that Taila and Ayyapa correspond with those of that name in No. 113 (p. 209). But fuller particulars, as already described (p. lix), are contained in the Rudra Deva inscription.* There the Kákatiya king Proli Deva is said to have in an instant bound down Tailapa, the head ornament of the Chálukyas, but on being pleased with his faithfulness as speedily released him; he dealt in the same way with Govinda, and gave the kingdom (i.e. Taila's kingdom, as it is called in the Begur inscription, which had come under the power of Govinda the Rátta) to king Erba. Then (v. 18) "from sheer fright of the valorous king S'ri Rudra Deva (Proli's son), king Tailapa was afflicted with diarrhoea and became emaciated. And although this resulted in death, Bhíma ventured to succeed to the fleeting royal dignity." And (v. 20) this "Bhíma, the vilest of kings, a brute among men, the husband of his step-mother, who killed an eminent brother at dinner, intent upon attempts at swallowing the skies, ascended the point of the great peak of the mountain of pride, and incensed by envy, ventured to defy the terrible S'ri Rudra Deva." The latter went against him, burnt the suburbs of Chodádaya (or Bodádaya) and forced Bhíma, with all the Rájás like him living between Kánchi mandala and the Vindhya, to submit. Ayyapa, according to the Begur inscription (p. 209) seems to have attempted to attack Bira Mahendra, whom I conjecture, for reasons already given, to be the Pallava king; but was defeated, probably at Begúr, or Bevúr as it is written on the stone, by Irugange Nágatta, an officer under Ereyappa, and slain; his daughter (as represented in the sculpture) being taken prisoner. She, according to the Gori-bidnur inscription mentioned p. xlv apparently became the prize of the Pallava monarch.

The Chálukyas, thus thoroughly beaten and disgraced, had no resource but to flee from their kingdom. The representative of the line, Jaya Simha, perhaps a second name of Vijayáditya's, fled to Anhalvara in Gujarat, the court of Bhoja Raja, the last of the Chawuras or Sauras. There his son Moolraj married the daughter of Bhoja Rája, and in 931 succeeded the latter on the throne, the Salic law being set aside in his favour. He ruled at Anhalvara for the space of 58 years, and his descendants occupied the throne of that country with great glory till 1145.

Meanwhile Tailapa defeated the Rátta (p. 149) in the person of the Rátta king Kakkala†, and retrieved the Chálukya fortunes. He ascended the throne at Kalyána in 973, and transmitted to his posterity a kingdom which increased in splendour and prosperity under each succeeding reign for nearly two hundred years. The Cholas, who, taking advantage of the late collapse of the Chálukya power, had pressed northwards, brought the Ganga kingdom to an end, and overrun much of Mysore, were now the chief opponents of the Chálukyas; and Tailapa is described (p. 149) as full of desire to fight with the Chola Rája, and as being a destroying fire to the Cholas. In fact the tide of Chola conquest seems to have been thus turned aside to the eastwards, and accordingly we find the Eastern Chálukya king Vimaláditya forced into a matrimonial alliance with the Cholas, with the result that his kingdom passed in 1023 to Rájendra Chola or Rájarája Chola, said to be his son.*

To Tailapa and his wife Jakabbe was born Satyás'raya, who succeeded him and married Ambiká Devi. Their sons were Vikrama and Das'a Varmma (p. 87). The former, dying without issue, was succeeded by his nephew Jaya Simha, the son of Das'a Varmma and Bhagavati Devi. Jaya Simha or Jagadeka Malla is said (p. 149) to be a lion to Rájendra Chola, and appears to have gained some advantages over them which led to a formidable invasion by the Cholas in the reign of his son Somes'vara. They burnt Pulikara nagara, the modern Lakmes'var, and destroyed its famous Jain temples erected by Permađi Ganga. But Somes'vara, having the titles Trailokya Malla and A'hava Malla, inflicted a signal defeat upon the enemy, and the Chola king would appear to have been killed. Somes'vara, on returning from the pursuit and defeat of the Cholas, halted at Puliappattana or Puliyar-patna (the modern Huliyar in Chitaldroog District) and made a grant of Sivanur (now Sávanur) to Nága Deva his chief general and minister, in 1059. Somesvara's son, named Vishnu Varddhana or Vijayáditya, who calls himself (p. 19) the Vengi mandales'vara and the punisher of Ayyana (? his uncle: there is a similar reference to Ayyana at p. 327,) was in 1066 ruling the Nolambaváđi Thirty-two Thousand (which seems to be the earliest mention of the province by this name). Meanwhile Rájendra Chola, before mentioned, who ruled 41 years or till 1064, we are told* "was succeeded by his son Vikrama Deva surnamed Kulottunga Chola. On the death (which, from what follows, must have been in 1077) of his uncle Vijayádivya, who had been viceroy of Vengi-des'a, the king deputed his son Rájarája to assume the office; but after holding it for one year, 1078, he resigned it in favor of his younger brother Víra Deva Chola, who assumed the title of Kulottunga Chola. His grants are found in great numbers from 1079 up to 1135." It seems to me clear that A'hava Malla must have formed an alliance with the Pallavas against the Cholas, and married a Pallava princess: that he recovered the north east of Mysore, which had belonged to the Pallavas but was at this time overrun by the Cholas, and formed the new province of Nolambaváji—whose name connects it with the Pallavas,—as a barrier against Chola encroachments on the Western Chálukya dominions.

To continue our history. Bhuvanaika Malla was apparently a weak prince and did not long retain possession of the crown. But he had a powerful minister and general in Udayádivya of the Ganga family (p. 144). His title of Mano Verggáde Danánáyaka, corresponding to Lord High Chamberlain, is deserving of notice as indicating the growth of luxury at the Chálukya court, which will be remarked on again. Udayádivya, it is said (p. 164), defeated before 1071 a secret conspiracy against the throne and against the guru, and seizing the property and jewel-laden women of the conspirators, handed them over to his emperor. By 1075 we find him (p. 142), after many victories, raised to the dignity of viceroy of the Banavase province and other districts, and in the enjoyment of regal honours.

Vikrama in 1076 expelled his brother, seized the throne, and became the most powerful of the Chálukya monarchs, uniting (p. 87) the qualities of the sixteen preceding kings, that is, up to his namesake Vikramádivya I. He set aside † the ancient era of S'áliváhana, and from his accession established the Chálukya Vikrama era, which continued in use as long as the Chálukyás were in power. Many interesting particulars regarding him are contained in Bilhana's Vikramánka Deva Charita.‡

Previous to his accession to the throne he had gained so many important victories, chiefly against the Cholas and other powers south of the Tungabhadra, that his brother, moved by jealousy, sent forces into the Banavasi country

(the Shimoga District) to seize him ; but Vikrama destroyed them. He seems however to have taken the precaution of strengthening himself by alliances. For he married his daughter to Jayakesi, king of the Kadambas, whose capital was then at Goa ; and formed a friendship with his former enemy the Chola Rája, which was cemented by his marriage with the Chola princess. The Chola king died soon after, and his kingdom was thrown into a state of anarchy. On hearing this, Vikrama, who was still tarrying on the Tungabhadra, at once started for the south, in order to place his wife's brother on the throne. He entered Kánci and put down the rebels there ; then destroyed the enemy throughout Gangakunda, (no doubt the same as Gangavádi) ; and re-established the Chola power.

But not long after his return, he learned that his brother-in-law had lost his life in a fresh rebellion, and that Rájiga, the lord of Vengi, had taken possession of the throne of Kánci. Vikrama at once prepared to march himself against the usurper ; but the latter opened negotiations with Somes'vara at Kalyána, who, thinking a favourable opportunity had offered itself for the destruction of his hated brother, eagerly entered into alliance. He followed so closely on Vikrama's march to the south, that when the latter came up with Rájiga's army, Somes'vara's forces were encamped not far off in his rear. A terrible battle ensued, in which victory declared for Vikrama : Rájiga fled, and Somes'vara was taken prisoner. This was in 1076.

Vikrama placed his younger brother Jaya Simha in the government of Banavase and repaired to Kalyána. He there heard that a svayamvara was proclaimed for Chandralekha or Chandala Devi, daughter of the Silahara prince of Karaháta, and possessed of marvellous beauty. He also ascertained that the lady on hearing of his valiant exploits had fallen in love with him, and therefore hastened to the festival, where he was chosen as the bridegroom from among the assembled princes of Ayodhya, Chedi, Kanyakubja, Kalinjara, Malava, Gurjara, &c., who, though filled with anger at the result, were restrained from violence through fear of the great Chálukya.

Next year his brother Jaya Simha rebelled, and collecting a large army advanced to the Krishna. Vikrama being forced in self defence to take the field against him, a battle was fought, in which Jaya Simha was defeated and taken prisoner. The remainder of Vikrama's reign seems to have been peaceful, with the exception of an expedition in 1081 against Kánci and the Pallavas, and one north of the Narmada in 1083. But towards the close he was invaded by the Hoysala Ballála king, who was driven back by his general Achyugi Deva.

In the present volume an account of Vikrama's conquests will be found at pp. 129, 175, 14 and 88. In 1077 he appears as residing at Tagiri (pp. 130, 163), perhaps the modern Daulatabad. In this year, on his son's birthday,* he makes a grant (p. 131) to the Chálukya Ganga Permmadi Jinálaya at Baligámve. His governor of Banavase and associated districts at this time was Barmma Deva (pp. 130, 163, 18). In 1079 his younger brother Jaya Simha, who before long rebelled against him, was viceroy of Banavase (p. 306), with the titles S'rimat Trayalokya Malla Vira Nolamba Pallava Permmadi Jaya Simha Deva. Moreover, though styling himself head jewel of the Chálukyas, he also claims to be prince of the world-renowned Pallava race. Perhaps his father A'hava Malla's queen was a Pallava princess. If so, Vikrama himself must have borne the same relationship to them. Before the next year must have occurred Jaya Simha's rebellion and defeat, for we then find (p. 166) Vikrama's chief minister Anantapála appointing Govindarasa to rule the Banavase province, while (p. 135) Gundamarasa, a Mane Verggaḍe Dandanáyaka, had the management of the taxes and duties. In 1094 the Hoysala king appears (p. 326) as subordinate to Vikrama. In 1096 a general named Kálidám is named (p. 170) as gaining great distinction against the Lála, Magadha, Nepála, Panchála and Pándya kings.

The luxury of the court continued to increase with the growth of its power and wealth, and in 1028 we find (p. 108) Bivanayya, a great minister and (?) senior Lála-Kannaḍa ambassador, bearing among his titles, besides Palace Chamberlain, officer over the female apartments, and president of the concubines! Perhaps he was an eunuch. He causes Padmanábhayya to be appointed governor of Banavase. In 1102 Govinda appears (pp. 78, 127) still as a dependent of Anantapála's, in charge of the taxes of Milvalli. In 1103 he is again (p. 140) governor of Banavase. Anantapála has by this time received a title as Bánasa Verggaḍe Dandanáyaka, lord high chief of the kitchen! In 1107 he is (p. 200) Bánasa Mane Verggaḍe and Govinda still at Banavase. In 1108 we have (p. 18) Achchupa Náyaka appointed by him governor of Nolambávaḍi. In 1112, Govinda, still ruling Banavase under the orders of Anantapála (p. 85), makes a gift at the request of Káma Deva, with the title Tribhuvana Malla, of the Pándya line, said to be the ruler of Konkana and Haive. In 1114 Anantapála is still in power (p. 177), with Govinda under him, who has now the title of Mane Verggaḍe Dandanayaka and claims to have 'washed away the stain of the ignorance of the other generals who commanded in the palace of the king Vikramārka.' In 1115 he appears (p.185) as making war in the south, and neither his name nor Anantapāla's occurs after this. But in 1121 we find (p. 15) a Pāndya Deva, perhaps Vira Pāndya, with the title Tribhuvana Malla, ruling Nolambavāḍi. He also bears the title lord of Kānc̄hipura, which would indicate some victory gained over that city; and a succession of these Pāndyas continued to rule Nolambavāḍi for a considerable time from Uchchangi durga. the district around which is even called the Pāndya maṇḍala.* Vira Pāndya is said (p. 70) to have plucked off the crown of Paundra on the field of battle, while Vijaya Pāndya is described (pp. 8, 52) as defeater of the designs of Rājiga Chola.

Soma, called Bhūloka Malla or Tribhuvana Malla, Vikrama's son, succeeded in 1127 to a kingdom powerful and prosperous on every hand (p. 88). To him all kings applied the name Sarvajña mahīpala (p. 68). In 1138 we find (p. 329) Vinayaditya of the Hoysala line in subordination to him, ruling the centre and west of the present Mysore; while in 1142 Vira Pāndya Deva appears (p. 6) as the governor of Nolambavāḍi. Jagadeka Malla, it is said (p. 58), ruled over the Pallava kingdom, from which he had driven the king; thus bringing to an end the long succession of alternate hostilities and alliances between the Pallavas and Chalukyas from the very time when the latter first appeared in the Dekhan in the 4th century. In 1149 we have an account (p. 97) of the S'ántara kings of Hombucha or Huncha (Paṭṭi Pombuchchapura), in the Nagar country, who were feudatory to him. At that time Jagadeva, with the title Tribhuvana Malla, appears as ruling in the place called Setu

* The origin of these Pāndyas, who are found ruling the same district to the beginning of the 13th century, when they were subdued by Vira Ballāla (p. 265), is related at p. 68. They claim to be Yādavas, and the following is the succession as gathered from that and other notices of them in this volume.

And here it becomes necessary to notice more particularly the professedly Chálukya grant of Vira Nonaumba, No. 158, and to show its connection with the alleged Pándava grants of Janamejaya Nos. 130, 133, and 139, with the view of establishing their real dates. The best known of these is the Gauj agrahára inscription, No. 130, which has been the subject of much controversy. It was first brought to notice by Colonel Mackenzie about 1801 and examined by Colebrooke (As. Res. IX, 446), who denounced it as unauthentic, and declared that the astronomical data in it would not bear the test of a critical examination. These data, as interpreted by Colebrooke, were given by Colonel Ellis to Sir G. B. Airy, the Astronomer Royal, who therefrom calculated that the eclipse mentioned in the grant occurred on Sunday the 7th of April 1521 (J. Bo. Br. R. A. S. X, 81). On this high authority it was concluded that the grant was a forgery of the time of the Vijayanagar kings in the 16th century.

Of these grants by Janamejaya, the one at the Bhímankatte math, No. 139, is dated in the year 89 of the Yudhisht'hira era, which would be 3012 B. C! The three others, belonging respectively to the Gauj agrahára, No. 130, the Kuppagaḍde agrahára, No. 133, and the Begur agrahára (not in this collection), all correspond in their contents and date, which is not referred to any era, and profess to have been granted at the sarpa yága to the officiating Brahmana. But they also correspond in the descriptive portion with No. 158, which is dated in 366 of the S'aka era, only that this grant is attributed to Vira Nonaumba of the Chálukya line, instead of to Janamejaya of the Pándava line. They are all in the Nandi Nágari character, but employ a second form of r to express the now obsolete Ha|e Kanna|a letter. A minute comparison of them has been made by me elsewhere (Ind. Ant. VIII 80) and I will here only state the grounds on which Sir G. B. Airy's date must be rejected, and the grants assigned with some probability to the end of the 12th century.

The dates of the three Janamejaya grants are thus given:—

Tungabhadra - Haridrā-sangame s'ri-Harihara-Deva-sannidhau katakam-utkalita Chaitra mása (Begur) krishṇa-pakṣe Bhauma-dine trit'yáyám Indrabha-nakalatre sankránti vyati-páta ten nimitte.
 (Kuppagaḍde) krishṇa-pakṣe Soma-dine Bharani-mahá-nakṣatre sankránti vyati-páta-nimitte.
 (Gauj) krishṇa-(pakṣe So.....) karaná uttaráyana sa.....vyati-páta-nimitte sūryyapartani-ardhdha grása-grahita-samae.

and the exact part of the sacrifice at which the grants were made, thus:—

Begur. Sarpa-yága árambha-samae.
 Kuppa. Sarpa-yága-purnábuti-samae.
 Gauj. Sarpa-yága-purnábuti-tad-anga-samae.

Now, the So of the Gauj inscription, which, with the preceding akshe, being at the edge of the plate, has got broken off since Colebrooke's time, (see his transcript in As. Res. IX) was the beginning of the words Soma-dine or Monday, as clearly appears from the Kuppaga lde inscription. This, of course, Colebrooke could not guess. He attributed the grant to "the time of a partial eclipse of the sun which fell on a Sunday in the month of Chaitra, when the sun was entering the northern hemisphere, the moon being in the nakshatra As'vini"; adding in a note, "such is the deduction from the text, which states a half eclipse of the sun in Chaitra on the sun's entrance into the uttaráyana or northern path at the moment of vyatipáta (which imports new moon on a Sunday in any one of the undermentioned nakshatra viz: As'vini, S'ravasa, Dhanishtha, Ardra, Aslesha, and Mrigasiras, the first of which is the only one compatible with the month)". Sir G. B. Airy very naturally calculated from the data as interpreted by Colebrooke. But that he was wrong is evident from the fact that the eclipse is said to have happened on Monday and not on Sunday.

The actual calculations, as made for me by the native astronomer Sid-dhánti Subrahmanya Sástri, result in giving the year 36 of the Kali yuga, or 3066 B. C., which is of course fabulous. But by accepting the phrase kaṭakam ukulita as embodying the date, and taking the letters in the direct order, ka ta ka m give us 1115, or in the usual manner reckoning that year as complete, A. D. 1194; and from Struyk's Catalogue of Eclipses it appears that a partial eclipse of the sun occurred on the 22nd of April 1194. So much for the agrahára grants. With regard to No. 158, which, in addition to kaṭakam, gives us S'aka 366 as its date, the only way that occurs to me of reconciling the two is, to take the sum of these figures, 15, as expressing 1115 without the hundreds, a system of which there are examples, and which is common enough among Europeans, as when we speak of 78 meaning 1878, &c. At the same time, S'aka 366 may notwithstanding be a real date, preserved in the annals of the Chálukya house, as that when the first alliance with the Pallavas was formed, and now made to do duty in this corresponding case.

In favour of A. D. 1194 being pretty near the actual date the following evidence may be adduced. In the Gauj grant the village is called the Gautama agrhára; now, Gautama was one of the line of munis who were ácháris of the Kedáres'vara temple at Balligráma, and it is evident that he was officiating from A. D. 1130—1150 (see pp. 87, 97, 99, 102, &c.). Again, No. 56 whose date is also about A. D. 1150, mentions (p. 126) the "mahájanangalu of Kuppagede": which village was therefore an agrahára at that time. Moreover the sarpa yaga, according to the traditions of the place, was performed at Hirremagalur, near Chikmagalur, and an inscription there shews that it was an agrahara in the time of Trailokya Malla (1150—1182). Furthermore, the Kilva Raya of No. 158 corresponds with the Kilvogodeyarasa of No. 13, dated in 1169. And further, the origin of the unusual title Tala-Prahāri is related in the inscription No. 173, dated about 1184, and it is applied to a Nolamba. Moreover, from the names and description of Jaya Simha, the younger brother of Vikrama, as given in No. 165 it is evident that Virā Nolamba implied a prince who was the offspring of a Chálukya-Pallava union.

For these and other reasons, which will occur on comparison of the grants, I incline to the opinion that they may be of the latter part of the 12th century. Also, from the royal titles in the three agrahara grants being distinctively Chálukyan, and the entire descriptive portion corresponding so closely with No. 158, which is expressly stated to be of Chalukya origin, that the grants emanated from a Chálukya prince by a Pallava mother. There were not wanting reasons for falsifying the date at this period. For the representative of the Chálukyas driven from power by the Kalachurya king Bijjala, was maintaining a doubtful authority in the Banavase country, soon to end in the extinction of the dynasty. The Pallavas had equally lost their kingdom and lately become dependents of the Chálukyas. Moreover, in the religious world the triumphs of the Lingayet faith were rapidly overthrowing in the north of Mysore the authority of the Brahmans. The merchant Máro S'etti in No. 158 had no objection to attribute his grant to a prince of Buddhistic associations, such as the Pallavas were, but the agrahāra Brahmans thought it safer to go back to a vague antiquity and an orthodox prince.

Kalachuryas—The Kalachuryas or Kalabhuryas were one of the royal houses subjected by the Chalukyas on their first arrival in the south. They were apparently connected with the Haihayas in descent. From the inscription at p. 64 we learn that the founder of the line was named Krishna, and that he was born of a Brahmani girl by Siva. 'He slew in Kalanjara an evil spirit of a king who was a cannibal and followed the occupation of a barber; and taking possession of his kingdom reduced the nine lakh country of Dahala mandala (Chedi or Bandelkhand) to obedience, and ruled in peace.' After several generations, Kannama Deva arose in this line of kings. His sons were Bijjala and Sanda Rája. The latter had four sons, Nammugi, S'ankha Varmma, Kannara and Jogama; of whom the first and last seem to have ruled in succession. Jogama's son was Permáñi, who was the father of Bijjala.

The latter, as has been related, took advantage of his position as general of the Chalukya armies, and perhaps induced by carelessness or weakness in the sovereign, to usurp the throne. But for several years he did not assume the royal titles, and it would appear (from p. 61, 169 and similar passages in his grants) as if he had formed an expectation of being recognized as a legitimate successor of the Chálukyas. It was not till the fifth year of his usurpation, or 1161 (p. 94), that he marched to the south, whither the Chálukya prince had retired, and there proclaimed himself supreme.

The following is the list of the Kalachurya kings :—

	A. D.		A. D.
Bijjala, Bijjana, Nivanka Malla or Tribhuvana Malla	1156—1165	Sankama, Nivanka Malla or A'hava Malla	... 1176—1181
Ráya Mú'ari Sovi, Somevara, Vira Vijala or Bhuvanaika Malla	1165—1176	A'hava Malla, Aprati Malla	... 1181

Among the titles in their inscriptions, of which there are many in the north of Mysore, are the following :—lord of the city of Kálanjara (the well known fortress in Bandalkhand), having the flag of a golden bull, Malla of the S'ani-vara Siddagiri durga.

It appears (pp. 93, 192, 159, 66) that Díjjala had a minister named Kasavaya or Kasapaya. While the former was still a general of the Chalukya army (p. 58), Kasavaya was the governor of Banavase, in 1157. Under his orders, Kesi Raja (p. 154), Kesimayya or Kes'ava Raja (p. 190) was the Herggañe Danañáyaka and governor of Panavase from 1157 to 1160 (p. 182). The conquests by which the latter had raised himself to favour are given at p. 155, and embrace all the region about the Tungabhadra in the Bellary and Shimoga Districts and westwards to the coast.* In 1160 we find (p. 66) Kasavaya's nephew Barámarasa ruling the Banavase country, after having gained a victory over the Hoysala forces on the banks of the Tungabhadra. In 1161 he is still in that position (p. 93). In 1165 we have (p. 61) Vijaya Pándya, the son of Káma and nephew of Vira Pándya, ruling the Nonambavádi country. Subordinate to them was an officer of the Sindha family, whose origin is related at some length, though unfortunately the inscription is legible only to a certain point. The founder of the line was born from the union of S'iva and Sindhu, and nursed on the milk of a tigress created for the purpose!

* His name is the same as that of the author, living at about this time, of the Sádamani-darpana, the ancient grammar of the Kannada language in Kannada, and we find him (p. 192) making special provision for good teachers of Kannada, but his genealogy as given pp. 154 and 117 does not accord with that of the grammarian as given in his work. Balhgráma is specially described (p. 94) as containing grammarians of many schools.

Mūlati Devi was appointed his family goddess, and Karahāṭa given him as a kingdom. The Sindhas had a blue flag (nīla dhvaja) and a tiger signet (tyāghra m. iḡa lāncchana) and ruled many lands within the Four Thousand of Sindha and Karahāṭa.

Vijaya Pāṇḍya rules Noyambavāḍi down to 1169 (pp. 17, 71, 23) but it will be noticed that he makes no acknowledgment of any higher authority, as if the Pāṇḍyas were now independent. There is little doubt that the commotions connected with the establishment of the Lingayet faith by the minister Basava, as will be noticed under religious sects, ending in the murder of the king Bijjala, must at this time have weakened the authority of the government.

But we find (p. 110) mention of what seems like an act of abdication on the part of Bijjala in favour of his son Rāya Murāri Sovi Deva, who sends for Byālike Kesimayya (perhaps the former governor of Banavase, before mentioned) and directs him to take the government of all the countries forming the treasury of the south. These, it appears (p. 111), were the Taddavadi Thousand, the Hanugal Five Hundred, and the Banavase Twelve Thousand, which he ruled for a long period in peace, a statement which is confirmed by finding him (p. 161) still in power there in 1179.

In 1171 we find (p. 52) Vijaya Pāṇḍya, still apparently independent, calling himself "defeater of the designs of Rājiga Chola" an epithet already adopted 20 years before under the Chālukya king Jagadeka Malla (p. 8). His chief minister is Vijaya Permāḍi, and he also has under him the representatives of the Kadamba family. In 1173 Permāḍi's son Durgarasa appears as adhikāri of Banavase (p. 54).

Under Śaukama Deva luxury had attained to that pitch of excess which presaged the speedy overthrow of the sovereignty of the Kalachuryas. A graphic description of this appears (p. 76) in the gifts presented to him by foreign powers, among whom Lāla (the Konkan) sends young girls. In 1180 we accordingly find (p. 138) Kesimayya, the experienced governor of Banavase, dubbed "chief of the female apartments".

In 1181 it appears (p. 116) that A'hava Malla, the younger brother of Sankama, had come to the throne. He also sends for Kesimayya (p. 117) and appoints him to govern the south 'so that the country may have quiet' and he, accepting the charge, appears, with the names Krishna Kes'ava Deva, as ruler (p. 119) Banavase, Hayve, S'antalige, Yedodore and other associated countries. Among A'hava Malla's generals was Chandugi Deva, who claims (p. 117) to have burnt the territory of Vijayāditya (of the Kadamba line, ruling in the Konkan, see p. 119) and taken the Chola and Hoysala kingdoms. But from p. 119 it would appear that the Hoysala king Vira Ballála reduced these chiefs to subjection.

Hoysalas.—This dynasty, like that of the Gangas, was essentially Mysorean, and ruled this country with great glory from the 10th to the 14th century. The earlier kings were Jains. They claim to be Yúdavás and therefore of the lunar line.

The founder of the family was Sala, and the exploit which raised him to a throne is related in many inscriptions (pp. 214, 31, 322, 260, 271, 324, 275). Going one day to worship Vāsantika his family goddess, whose temple was in the forest near Sas'akapura, his devotions were interrupted by a tiger, which bounded out of the jungle glaring with rage. The yati * of the temple, snatching up a saláki—a slender iron rod—gave it to the chief, saying in the Karnátaka language Hoyi Sala ! Strike, Sala ! on which the latter discharged the weapon with such force at the tiger as to kill him on the spot. From this circumstance he adopted the name Hoysala, formed from the words of the yati's exclamation ; and the dynasty so called descended from him had a tiger (śárdúla) as the device on their flag.

The following is the list of the Hoysala kings, with their dates as obtained from the sources indicated, but their inscriptions are not so dated as easily to establish the exact year of each king's succession. There is every reason to believe that Sala was a chief of some district immediately to the south of the Chandra Deona or Bába Búdan mountains in the Kadur District. According to the Channa Basava Purána, Hoysala was crowned in A. D. 878† but this seems too early.

† Kattel, Naga Varma's Chhandas. Intro. I.

Till the beginning of the 12th century the Hoysalas were apparently feudatories of the Chálukyas, but Vishnu Varddhana then made them independent. Vimáditya, the son of Sala, is said (p. 329) to have ruled over a territory bounded by Konkana, Bhalada-vayal-nád, Talakádu and Sávi-male, and also (p. 261) described as threatening the Konkanas and (p. 329) the Malapas. His wife was Keleyabbe or Keleyalá Devi, who appears (p. 329) as taking a great interest in Mariyáne Dandánáyaka, promoting his marriage, and on that occasion obtaining for him in 1059 the lordship of Sindigere near Chikmagalur. She bore to the king a son Ereyanga or Pereyanga, who succeeded him, and perhaps from assuming the protection (p. 307) of the Ganga prince, who had lost his kingdom, took the name of Vira Ganga. The conquests of Ereyanga are somewhat vaguely described (p. 261). He married Achala Devi and had three sons,—Ballála, Biti Deva and Udayáditya. Of these, Ballála does not seem to have come to the throne. The principal thing related of him in the inscriptions here collected is (p. 330) that in 1103 he was living at Bélápura (Belur), and on the same day, in the same marriage hall, married the three accomplished daughters of Mariyáne Dandánáyaka of the second generation, renewing the gift to him of the lordship of Sindigere bestowed on the family before.

Biti Deva, under his subsequent name of Vishnu Varddhana, was one of the most celebrated kings of this line and of his time. He was converted, probably in 1117, from the Jain faith to that of Vishnu by the Vaishnava apostle Rámánujachári, who had taken refuge in the Hoysala kingdom from the persecutions of the Chola king Karikala, an uncompromising S'aiva. Vishnu Varddhana would appear (pp. 326, 328) to have been feudatory to the Chálukya king Vikrama or Tribhuvana Malla, and commander of a considerable part of his forces (p. 330). His ambition was fired (p. 262) by the stories of the valour and glory of the Sauvira kings.* As soon as he had made himself independent master of the Hoysala kingdom, 'taking up the circle of the points of the compass,' he burnt Talakádu†, the capital city of the Gangas, and took possession of the Ganga kingdom, being the first of his line to rule it (p. 262). From this conquest he took the titles Bhujabala Ganga. It would appear (p. 332) that he was assisted by Mariyáne Dandánáyaka.

During the 200 years which intervened from the capture of Talakádu by the Cholas and their overthrow of the Ganga kingdom to this time when the Hoysalas acquired possession of them, a period of anarchy no doubt prevailed in the south of Mysore. But there are accounts of the springing up of a kingdom there during that interval, which, but for the triumphs of the Hoysalass absorbing the whole country, might have secured a greater place in history. The stronghold of this young power was Bettada-kote on the well known Gopalswami hill. It belonged to a family of nine brothers, called the Nava Danáyak. Bhima Danáyak, one of four of the brothers the chief of whom was named Perumál Danáyak, and who had quarrelled with the other five, gained possession of Nagarapura (Nanjangud) and Ratnapuri (Hedlatale) and set up a separate government. After a time they returned to attack Bettada-kote, which, after a siege of three years, was taken by stratagem. Mancha Danáyak, who conducted the defence, seeing the citadel taken, leaped from the hill on horseback and was killed.* The four victorious Danáyaks, placing a junior member of the family in the government of Bettada-kote, set forth on expeditions of conquest, in the course of which it is said they penetrated as far as Goa on the north; to Davasi Betta (the southern limit of Coorg) on the south; to the Bisale ghat (in the north west of Coorg) on the west; and to the pass of Satyamangala (to the north east of the Nilagiri) on the east. This includes the whole of the hill region to the west and south of Mysore, and these Danáyaks may possibly be the Male Rájás (or hill kings) and Malapar whom the Hoysalas claim to have subdued.

* Probably kings of Rajjatanu.

† Talakádu has been described (Wilson, McK. Coll. I. iv) as the early capital of the Hoysalas. This is an error. Darasasandra was their capital during the whole time of their power.

To return to Vishnu Varddhana. His conquests in the south (pp. 263, 215, 32, 351) extended over Kongu, Kovatúru (Coimbatore), and Toreyúru; and in the east, to Kolláapura (Kolar), Nangali, Vallúru (Vellore), and Kánci-pura (Conjeveram). Westwards he acquired the whole of the Male and Tulu countries (p. 215, 263). The range of his expeditions northwards (p. 308) was as far as Vengiri, Uchangi, Viráta, Pelalu, Pankapura and Earavase. He subdued Jayakesi (p. 216) the Kadamba king, Jagat Deva (p. 233) ruling Tuluva, Narasimha (p. 263) or Narasimha Varmma (p. 331), the Pallava king; overcame Chola, Kerala, and Pándya; subdued As'vapati, Gajapati and other kings, &c. In short, 'he disturbed all the world with the noise of his armies' (p. 216), 'trod it to dust with the squadrons of his Kámbhoja horse' (p. 263), and 'overwhelmed his enemies as if the great deep had been broken up, the coursers of the sun being borne away in the deluge and all the points of the compass filled with the sounds of their neighing' (p. 215).

The boundaries of his kingdom in 1117 are thus stated (p. 263)—the lower ghat of Nangali on the east; Kongu, Cheram, Anamale on the south; the Barkanúr ghat road of Konkana on the west; and Sávi-male in the north.

* The site of this leap is still pointed out.

And in 1136 the provinces of his kingdom are given (p. 216) as Talakádu, Kongu, Nāngali, Gangaváđi, Nōlambaváđi, Māraváđi, Huligere, Halasige, Banavase, Hānūgālu, and Nāđugonda; that is, the whole of the present Mysore, with Coimbatore, Salem, parts of Bellary, Dharwar, Canara and Malabar. His chief ministers were (p. 332) two Jain brothers, Mariyāne Dandānāyaka and Bharatāna Dandānāyaka. His wife, and the mother of Narasimha who succeeded him, is called (p. 32) Lakuma Devi and (p. 264) S'ántala Devi. From the continuation of No. 117 it would appear that the birth of his son took place in 1136 at the time when he had gained some victory at Bankapura, and that both events were attributed to the favour of Párs'vanátha, whose temple he had recently caused to be built at Hanasoge (Hassan District). He accordingly named his son Vijaya Narasimha, and the god Vijaya Párs'va.

Vijaya Narasimha would seem to have succeeded to an established and peaceful kingdom. He must have been a minor at the time, and this may account for his mother S'ántavo being mentioned (p. 328) among his counsellors. He is said (p. 327) to have been like a god, enjoying the pleasures of the gods; and his glory to exceed that of the elephant kings, doubtless the Gangas. His standards are described (p. 308) as being planted as far north as Devagiri.

His queen was Achalá Devi and they had a son Vira Ballála, who rivalled even Vishnu Varddhana in the glory of his reign and the extent of his conquests, so that the Hoysala kings are also called after him the Bullá'a kings. Vira Ballála's conquests are described at p. 104. They were principally to the north, where a fierce contest arose between the Hoysalas and the Yádavas of Devagiri for the possession of the late Chálukya-Kalachurya dominions. The Pándya ruling at Uchchangi was reduced to submission (p. 266) and his power restored to him. After a defeat of the general of the Kalachuryas, in consequence of which he appropriates their titles of Giridurga Malla and Malla of the Sanivára Siddigiri durga, and carrying his dominions up to and beyond the Krishna, Vira Ballála made Lokigonda (Lakkundi in Dharwar) his residence for some time, and here took place the great and sanguinary battle (described p. 32) between him and Soma the general of the Devagiri king Jayatuga Deva. In 1192 his minister Eraga was governor (p. 104) of Banavase and Sántalige. In 1205 it appears (p. 137) that Pananappa Arasu was ruling Banavase.

Vira Narasimha, the son of Vira Ballála by Padmalá Devi, succeeded his father. His army was chiefly employed in the south (p. 34). He is described (p. 33) as churning with the Mančara mountain of his powerful right arm the ocean of the Kádava army into which the Pándya alligator had plunged, and thus acquiring numerous elephants of great strength. He overthrew, it is said, the Kádava king, Makara, the Pánjya king and others and gave the crown to Chola. Also (p. 272) that he dragged out the Chola king, who had been overwhelmed under the clouds of dust raised by the march of hosts of enemies, and set him up again in power. Whatever the incident referred to may have been, the Hoysalas claim in their later inscriptions to be "thrusters out of the Pánjya Ráya, and setters up of the Chola Ráya." Narasimha's wife was Lokámbiká, whose native place was apparently at Turuvekere (Túmkúr District). His general and minister was (p. 34) Polájva, who had also held that position under Vira Ballála. He erected the temple of Harihara on the Tungabhadra, and was called Telagada Kamba (unshaken pillar).

Soma or Vira Somes'vara apparently (p. 272) had a generally peaceful reign. His queen is stated (p. 272) to be Bijjali Devi, 'to move within the space illuminated by whose toe-nails made the wives of other kings honourable'! But he appears (p. 322) to have married Somala Devi, and with her taken up his residence at Vikramapura, 'which he had established for his own pleasure in the Chola country, conquered by the power of his own arm'.

Narasimha, the son of Soma by Bijjali, succeeded him on the throne. He had a general Perumála (p. 273, 11), called the king of the Ráuttas, who gained some victory over a chief named Ratnapála and thence had the title Javanike Nárayana. Soma, the son of the king's elder sister, was his minister (p. 324). He founded the agrahára of Somanáthapura on the Kávéri, and erected the celebrated temple there (p. 325; 50). Narasimha's son, it would appear (p. 7), was Ballála Deva, who, as commander of the army, together with his cousin Soyana, ably supported his father and eventually succeeded him on the throne. His ministers were Mendige Deva and Aliya Mácheya.

The grant containing these particulars falls in the very year that the Ballála dominions were invaded by a Muhammedan army under Káfur, the general of Ala-ud-Din, the second king of the house of Kbilji or second Pathan dynasty. A great battle was fought, in which the Ballála king was defeated and taken prisoner. Dorasamudra was sacked, and the enemy returned to Delhi literally laden with gold. Another expedition, sent by Muhammad III of the house of Toghlak in 1326, completely demolished the city. After the first defeat the seat of government seems to have been removed to Belur, the king now retired to Tondapur (Tonnur), 9 miles north of Seringapatam, at the foot of the Yádava hills. He is said to have borne the name of Vishnu Varddhana.

Thus ended the rule of this powerful line, consisting of nine chief princes, and thence called the Nava Ballála; which, from a very small beginning, had, by the valour of its several members, subdued the whole of Karnátaka up to the Krishna, with Tuluva on the west, Dráviða on the east, and part of Telingána on the north-east.

Yádavas.—This line of kings arose in the northern part of the old Chálukya kingdom, the founder being contemporary with Vira Ballála of the Hoysala line. They overcame the Kalachuryas and became masters of all the Western Dekhan, having their capital at Devagiri, the ancient Tagara, and now known as Daulatabad. Their standard bore the device of a golden garuða.

The following is the list of the kings:—

	A. D.		A. D.
Balkun, Bhállama ...	1183—1193	Mahadeva ...	1269—1271
Jayatuga, Jaituga, Jaipala ...	1193—1210	Rámachandra, S'ri Ráma ...	1271—1310
Sihahan, Singhana ...	1210—1248	S'ankara ...	1310—1312
Kandara, Kanhara, Krishna ...	1248—1260

If the inscription No. 101 belongs to the first king of this line, it would appear that he had taken possession of the Banavase country. But the Hoysala king Vira Ballála soon drove the Yádavas beyond the Krishna. Their genealogy is given at p. 44. It was not till the time of Simhana Deva that they re-appear in Mysore. Among the conquests of the latter (pp. 20, 72) he claims to disperse the dark clouds the forces of the Karnátaka kings. His minister was Hemmaya Nayaka, who 'so discharged his duties that the king was not disturbed in his enjoyment' (p. 72). An amusing description of the proclamation of Mahadeva's accession to power is given (p. 45), where his heralds summon all the neighbouring kings forthwith to submit to him. He is said to have acquired the Telunga kingdom and established the kings in their three cities. Rámachandra was the first to regain a footing in Mysore. His general Sáluva Tikkama claims (p. 47) to have taken Dorasamudra, the Hoysala capital, and levied tribute from the Hoysalas. The Yádavas accordingly from this time assume the title of lords of Dváravati paṭṭana, and the general proclaims himself 'establisher of the Kadamba king, disgracer of the Hoysala king.' He built a temple at Harihara. Rámachandra also styles himself (p. 127) 'disgracer of the Hoysana Rája, establisher of the Telunga Rája.' The Yádavas would seem at this time to have made Bettur in the Chitaldroog District the seat of their government in Mysore.

The Muhammadans now first appeared in the Dekhan, and Ala-ud-Din took Devagiri in 1295. By 1318 the Yádava power was completely overthrown, and in 1338 Muhammad Toghlik removed the capital of his empire from Delhi to Devagiri, giving it the name of Daulatabad.

* Whether the old name Hemmattanúr belonged to this place or to Chitaldroog I do not feel sure.

Vijayanagar.—The last great Hindu sovereignty of the south was founded in 1336, and brings us back, after a lapse of more than two thousand five hundred years, to the site of Kishkindha, whose annals engaged our attention near the beginning of this historical survey. Though the details vary, all accounts attribute the origin of the Vijayanagar empire to two persons named Hakka and Bukka, assisted by the celebrated scholar Mádhava, surnamed Vidyáraya or forest of learning,* who was the guru of Sringeri (Kadur District), and is also known to literature as S'ayana, the most celebrated commentator on the vedas.

Hakka and Bukka, of whom the former assumed the name of Harihara, were the sons of Sangama, described as a prince of the Yádava line and the lunar race. Mádhava was minister to Sangama. Nothing is known of the situation of Sangama's kingdom, but one inscription describes him as S'ailankánátha, and his father's name appears to have been Kampa. The earliest of the inscriptions of the Vijayanagar kings are found in the north and west of Mysore.

The site selected for the new capital was a remarkable one, on the banks of the Pampa or Tungabhadra, where the ancient Kishkindha had stood. In the words of an inscription (p. 55) 'its rampart was Hemakúta, its moat the auspicious Tungabhadra, its guardian the world-protector Virupáksha, its ruler the great king of kings Harihara.' The Vijayanagar sovereigns adopted the vardha or boar as the emblem on the royal signet, and their family god was Virupáksha, the name under which S'iva was worshipped in a celebrated temple erected at the capital. Their grants are signed S'ri Virupáksha.

The succession and dates of the Vijayanagar kings as traditionally handed down are much confused. The following list is approximately correct, based on many inscriptions I have examined.

	A. D.
Harihara, Hakka, Hariyappa	1336—1350
Bukka, Vira Bukkanua	1350—1379

* The capital was apparently called Vijyánagara (city of learning) at first, in honour of the sage Vidyáraya, who was chiefly instrumental in its foundation; but by a natural transition it passed ere long into Vijayanagara (city of victory), the Bijanagar of Muhammadan historians, and the Buznagar of Sangama—'the lady of whose brilliant fame was like an ornament of musk adorning the brow of a sky as dark as the shade of the *honge tree'—by his wife Kámámbika had five sons, Harihara, Kampa or S'ankara, Bukka, Márapa and Muddapa.† Harihara was the first ruler of Vijayanagar, and was succeeded by Bukka. Márapa ruled over the Kadamba territories, as yuva ráj or viceroy, at Chandragutti (Shimoga District). What became of the others does not appear. Bukka Raya married Gaurámbika, and had a son Harihara, who succeeded him on the throne. Harihara's son was Deva Ráya, whose queen was Mallayavve, and by her he had Vira Mallanna, perhaps the Mallikárjuna who succeeded him, and who seems also to have borne the title of Praudha Deva. But Vira Pratápa Praudha Deva are epithets commonly applied to the Vijayanagar kings in inscriptions.

Their dominions up to this time seem to have been most extensive under Harihara and his son Deva Ráya. The former had a general named Gunda, whose conquests are referred to pp. 227, 228, and with most extravagant detail at p. 222. Of the king himself it is with more truth said (p. 26r) that he conquered Chola, Kerala and Pándya, besides by his victories causing the days to appear ever cloudy to the Yavanis (the wives of the Muhammadans) through their blinding tears. Harihara's minister was Mudda (pp. 58, 268) who had been his father's adviser. This king repaired the great temple at Belur,—which the Hoysala king Vishnu Varddhana had erected, but which the Muhammadans had damaged by fire,—and renewed its endowments (p. 222). Deva Ráya's coronation is referred to (p. 279). An account is given (p. 28) of a dam erected during his reign in 1410 across the Haridra, the stream which flows from the Sulekera into the Tungabhadra at Harihara. This work appears to have been executed with the funds of the Harihara temple. But (p. 40) there is also an account later on of the breaching of the dam in 1424, on which Náganna, the king's minister, seems to have brought official pressure to Saurah Cháma nripála, the commander of the forces, and induced him to the French. It is also commonly known as A'negundi, properly the name of a village on the other side of the river, said to have been the capital of the Yavanas, regarding whom so little is known. A'negundi, a Kannad name, meaning elephant pit, was translated into Sanskrit as Hastinapura and Hastinavati, which is the designation in the Mahá Uharata of the capital of the Pándus near Delhi. (Vidyánagara may, however, become Vijyanagara according to rule see Vijyádhara, p. xlix.)

undertake its repair. During this reign the eastern districts of Mysore seem to have been administered from Mulbagal (pp. 213, 259, 208) by two brothers Akhanna and Mádanna, called the Hezgaḍe Devas. It was this Deva Rája between whom and Firoz Shah, the Sul'tan of the Babmani kingdom, which had been established at Kulbarga not long after Vijayanagar, arose the alternation of sanguinary wars and alliances of which Ferishta's History gives long and interesting accounts (see Gaz. Mysore, I, 225 ff).

With Narasa or Narasingha the line was changed. The origin of Narasa is traced (p. 243) to the Taluva kings, among whom S'ekbara, of the family of Krishna Rava, was his father, and Bukkamma his mother. An important account is given of his conquests, p. 243, and he appears to have established his residence at Seringapatam. He had two sons Vira Narasimha and Krishna Rája, by different mothers. These ruled in succession to each other, and an account is given (pp. 244, 245) of their dominion and power.

Krishna Rája was one of the most powerful and distinguished monarchs of the Vijayanagar line. About 1520, the Muhammadans sustained a severe defeat from his armies, in consequence of which a good understanding prevailed between the courts of Vijayanagar and Bijapur for a considerable period. He not only restored the kingdom to its former limits but extended them in every direction. He kept possession of all the country up to the Krishna; eastwards he captured Warangal and ascended to Cuttack, where he married the daughter of the raja as the bond of peace; while westwards his conquests extended up to Salsette. He was also a great patron of Sanskrit and Telugu literature. Eight distinguished poets, called the ash'a-dig-gija, were maintained at his court.*

The Hindu traditions represent Krishna Rája as conducting his affairs both in peace and war in person. But they acknowledge that he owed much to the Brahman minister of his father, who had saved his life, and who continued to be his minister until his death, three years preceding that of the raja. His name was Timma Rája, the Hemraj of the Muhammadan historians. At no period probably in the history of the south did any of its political divisions equal in extent and power that of Vijayanagar in the reign of Krishna Rája.

Achyuta Raya, who next came to the throne, was probably the cousin or nephew of Krishna Rája. He was succeeded by Sadás'iva Rája, his son (p. 228), who was only nominally the ruler, under the guardianship of Ráma Rája (supposed to be the son of Timma Rája before mentioned) and Tirumala

* The principal one was named Appaya Dikshita.

Rája (pp. 228, 225). These are described (p. 253) as brothers and their genealogy is given. Tirumala Rája, the maternal uncle of Sadásíva, managed for a short time to gain the supreme power, but being overcome by Ráma Rája, destroyed himself. Ráma Rája's arrogance provoked the hostility of the Muhammadan powers to the north—Bijapur, Golkonda, Ahmednagar and Bidar—who, uniting their armies, advanced against him, and in the great and decisive battle of Talikota, fought on the 25th of January 1565, slew Ráma Rája, routed his army and virtually brought the Vijayanagar empire to an end.

From this point it is unnecessary to pursue in detail the later history of Mysore: it has been given by me with sufficient fulness elsewhere (Gazetteer of Mysore), and the task undertaken in the present sketch, of delineating more especially the ancient history of the country as contained in its inscriptions, has been accomplished. Moreover, from this time inscriptions on stone or copper are less frequent, their place being supplied by sannads, written on paper, which confine themselves more to the immediate object of the document and are not, as with the ancient grants, made the medium of enlarging on the genealogy of the royal family and the achievements of their ancestors, nor a vehicle for exhibiting the powers and taste of the author in poetical composition.

At the same time, a few inscriptions of modern date framed on the ancient models have been included by me in this collection. The most interesting of these are the Yelandur grant (No. 175), and the grants by the Mysore Rájás (Nos. 167, 168, 169).

Geography.

The ancient geography of Mysore, as contained in the inscriptions to the time of the Vijayanagar empire, is best exhibited in the form of the accompanying map, which will shew at a glance, better than any description, the former divisions of the country, and identify the sites of ancient cities, towns and places of interest.

Of the various states into which Mysore was broken up after the fall of Vijayanagar, a sketch map has been given by me elsewhere (Gazetteer of Mysore, Vol. I, p. 234), to which I have only to add that a small state, omitted there, should be marked off from the north east corner of Chikka Ráya's territory and the east of the Chikka Ballapur territory, with its chief town at Yerukálve in the former.

The rise and extension of the modern State of Mysore at different periods of its history have also been shewn in a separate map in the same work (p. 266). To that I have nothing to add, save to remark that, although the existing State was constituted by the treaty of Seringapatam in 1799, the actual present limits date from the subsequent treaty of 1803, when an exchange was made with the British Government of certain border districts, as described at p. 297 of the first volume.

Language.

These inscriptions are a permanent record of the form and style of the Kannaḍa or Karnāṭaka language, called Canurese by Europeans, at successive stages of its growth. To enter into this question fully would need a separate treatise of considerable dimensions. If it should be my good fortune to complete the publication proposed to myself of the two standard ancient grammars of the language, namely the Karnāṭaka Bhāshā Dhūshana of Nāga Varmma, and the Karnāṭaka Śābālinus'āsana of Bhaṭṭākaḷaṅka Deva, with its two commentaries the Bhāshā Manjari and the Manjari Makaranda, no slight contribution will have been made towards the elucidation of the subject.

Here I can only refer to certain inscriptions as characteristic of their respective dates, of which I have transcribed the Kannaḍa of the original in whole or in part in foot notes. The earliest are unquestionably those on pp. 304 and 305 (Nos. 162—164). Reference may also be made to pp. 293 and 283. These passages are none of them later than the 5th century. There is a specimen for the 7th century in No. 98.*

Religion.

Jains.—The oldest of the inscriptions in this volume, No. 161, refers to a great migration of Jains from Ujjayini to the south under the leadership of Bhadra Báhu, in order to escape a twelve years famine which he had foretold. On arriving at the present Śravaṇa Belgola, feeling a premonition of his approaching death, he resolved to remain there to perform the final ceremonies of a sannyási, dismissing the multitude who followed him on their journey southwards under another leader. One single disciple he retained with him to minister to his last moments. From the account of these transactions derived from the Rājāvali Katha as published by me elsewhere*, we ascertain that this Bhadra Báhu was one of the śrūta kevali or hearers of the first masters, as these were called who were disciples in the second generation from Mahāvira or Varddhamaṇa, the great Jain apostle, whose death in 527 B. C. is the era from which Jain chronology dates.

Bhadra Báhu is said to have lived 170 years after Varddhamaṇa, or 357 B. C., and the single faithful disciple who elected and was suffered to remain with him to the last was, it is alleged, no other than the emperor Chandra. Gupta, whose period, from his identification with the Sandrokoptos or Sandrocottus of the Greeks, has long formed one of the most certain landmarks in Indian chronology. According to Jain accounts he abdicated the throne, which most Jain kings are represented as doing, and took dikshe in order to devote his last years to religious exercises, joining himself to Bhadra Báhu. The latter expired in a cave at Śravaṇa Belgola, where his footprints are still worshipped, and the sanctity with which the spot was thus invested led to the formation there of the existing Jain settlement, the seat of the chief gurn of the sect in the south. The bare granite hill on which the inscription is cut is also scored over in all directions with memorials of Jain saints, who selected this since holy spot in which to end their days by keeping the vow of sallekhana, an account of which, and of the epitaphs of which No. 162 is a specimen, has been published by me elsewhere. †

The religious leader to whose direction Bhadra Báhu committed the company of pilgrims who followed him from Ujjayini was, according to the history already referred to, named Vis'akha muni, one of the das'apúrvis, as the disciples who come next after the śrūta kevali were called. He, on the termination of the famine in the north, led back those of the emigrants who wished to return, and visiting on his way the hill where Bhadra Báhu had remained behind to die, found Chandra Gupta muni there, awaiting the time when he too should quit the body, and from him received an account of the last hours of Bhadra Báhu. As this interesting inscription mentions several gurus in succession to Visákha, the inference is that it was inscribed some time after the period to which it actually refers, and I have assigned it to the 1st century B. C.

It would appear that at the time of Bhadra Báhu's death there were no Jain settlements in the Mysore, though there are said to have been some in the countries further south whither the emigrants went. But it may be also inferred that Jains had settled at Sravana Belgola by the date of this and cognate inscriptions. The history previously referred to describes the settlement as being formed in the time of Chandra Gupta's grandson.

At what time the colossal image of Gomates'vara was erected there, is not known, but it appears from Jain chronicles that it is attributed to Ravana, and that its existence was revealed in a dream to Chávuṇḍa Ráya, who caused it to be consecrated afresh and endowed it with lands for the permanent maintenance of its worship. The account of Chávuṇḍa Ráya's action is confirmed by the inscriptions at the foot of the image. He is said to have been the minister of Rája Malla the Pánjya king of the southern Madhura, which may be the existing place of that name, or possibly Humcha in the Nagar Division. Who Gomates'vara, Gomma'es'vara or Gummates'vara was, is not clear.* He is also described as Bhuja Bali and Báhu Bali. It is singular that Gomates is discovered in the cuneiform Persian inscriptions of Behistán to be the name of the Magian known in history as the Pseudo-Bardes, who personated Bardes the

* The account given in the Bhuja Bali Charita is that Dharmta (after whom India is called Bharata-varsha) and Bhujabali were sons of Náti. At a city in the north, called Pádana-puri, the rdjarshi bhartos'vara, son of A'di Brahma, set up a bimla or image of Bhujabali, in the form of a man, 525 bow-lengths in height, so natural that he seemed as if smiling and speaking. This Bhujabali received the new (ashinava) name of Gummaṭa. A merchant who visited the court of Rája Malla gave such a description of this image that Chávuṇḍa his minister resolved to go and see it. He set out, with his mother Kálikámba and their guru Simha Naná, taking a vow that he would not taste milk until he had seen this wonder. In the course of their journey they meet with unexpected difficulties, and while resting one night at a Jinálaya near a small hill, each of them has the gmo-dream, in which a muni appears and informs them that an image of Bhujabali, set up by Ravana, is on that very hill, 10 palm-tree (tila) trees in height or 20 bow-lengths. They accordingly find the image, and in the year 600 of the Kali yuga, the year Vibhava, Chaitra Suddha 5, Sunday, under the Mriga'sra nakshatra, saubhágya yoga and kambha lagna, Chávuṇḍa consecrated this Gommates'vara, who thus appeared to him in Bejagola in the Kushmándáranya, endowing it with lands to the value of a lakh and a half of pagodas. The king Rája Malla on hearing of his munificence gave him the title of Ráya.

Only three of these images are known to exist—the one at Sravana Belgola, 60 feet high; the other two in South Canara, at Karkala and Yennur, 40 and 35 feet high respectively.

brother whom Cambyses the Persian monarch had murdered, and usurped for a time the Persian throne.* The Jain chronicles too, apparently, connect their Tirthankara Párs'vanátha with Persia. Chávuṇḍa's consecration of the statue of Gomateś'vara is assigned to the year 600 of the Jain Kali yuga or 50 B. C.†

Of the early spread of the Jain faith in this country, apart from the fact of the Raṭṭa kings of the beginning of the 2nd century A. D. having a Jain guru, we have the evidence of No. 151, which shews by the middle of the 5th century six generations of gurus down to the one in favour of whom the grant there recorded was made by the Ganga king Avinita. From No. 153 we find Jains in high consideration in the 8th century, and numerous other memorials down to No. 120 of the 13th century. They still continue to form an important section of the population of Mysore. Their religious establishments are, and have long been, in a state of decay, but in trade and commerce the Jains hold a prominent place.

Buddhists.—The oldest reference we have to Buddhism in connection with Mysore is the passage in the Mahācanso previously referred to, which states that Buddhist missionaries were sent to Wanawasi (Banavase) and Mahisha maṇḍala (Mysore) after the third Buddhist convocation, or 245 B. C., in order to propagate the faith. That the early Pallava kings were Buddhists, there is abundant evidence both in monuments and names, and possibly the Mahávalis too.‡ The Ganga king Kougani I of the 2nd century is said to have overthrown a s'ild stambha, which I have already given reasons for supposing was a s'ila stambha or pillar inscribed with Buddhist edicts under As'oka.

The Chinese pilgrim Hiouen Tshang of the 7th century, who visited only Buddhist scenes, is well known to have halted at a place somewhere in the Mysore, which he calls Konkānapura, the site of which has been the subject of much controversy without resulting in any certainty as to its site (see Gazetteer of Mysore, Vol. I p. 206). As late as the 12th century we find (p. 90) a Bauddhālaya among the five maḥas of Balligrāme, and from p. 109 it would appear that a Buddhist nun was the head of it in 1098.

Hindus.—Brahmans are stated to have been introduced into the countries east of Mysore in the 3rd century of the Christian era by Mukunti Pallava: and into the countries to the west a little later, below the Ghats by the Kadamba king Mayūra Varmma and above the Ghats by his son.§ But the revival of the modern Hindu sects dates from the time of Sankarácárya, the first Sringeri guru, in the 8th century. The main result of his labours was to displace the Jain and Bauddha faiths by the supremacy of S'iva worship. In the 12th century took place the revival of Vishnu worship under Ramánujá-chári, the first guru of Meluko'e. These forms of faith had probably been all along in existence, though not so actively influential as they became after the periods referred to.

That there was much religious toleration is evident from many circumstances. Thus the five máthas of Balligrámé were, even in the 12th century, respectively dedicated (p. 90) to Vishnu, S'iva, Brahma, Jina and Buddha. At the same period the virtues of the queen of Sámanta Bhaṭṭa are described (p. 328) as including all that were embraced by "the Mahes'varágama, the Jina-S'ridharmma, the Sad-Vaishnavágama and the Bauddhágama," thus putting them all on an equality.* Even in the 14th century, the god Kes'ava of Belur is declared (p. 226) to be identical with "whomsoever the Vedántins in their hearts adore under the name of Brahma and S'iva, or the Bauddhas under the name of Buddha, the Naiyyáyikas, skilled in the sacred scriptures, adore under the name of A'tma (soul), whomso the Jainaka understand by Tanu (body), whomso the Mímámsaka call Karma (action)."

This toleration embodied itself in a palpable manner in the form of the god Harihara, which united in one deity both Vishnu and S'iva. He is called (p. 41) "god of all the chief gods, reconciler of the disputes between the S'aivas and the Vaishnavas." And again this incarnation is thus explained (p. 30), "Some saying there was no god on earth but Hari (Vishnu), and some saying there was no god on earth but Hara (S'iva), to remove their doubts the Harihara múrti was revealed in Kújalúr † in a single form. The S'iva that was, obtained the form of Vishnu; Vishnu obtained the mighty and celebrated form of Siva; in order that the saying of the Vedas ‡ might be established.

This liberality in religious thought co-existed with the acts of charity which are its best outcome. An eminent example is found in the description at p. 94 of the Kójiya mátha attached to the Kedares'vara temple at Balligráme, which temple it appears from No. 98 was in existence as far back as the 7th century. At this mátha "food was freely distributed to the suffering, the destitute, the lame, the blind, the deaf, . . . the naked, the wounded, &c., and to poor from all countries," while, more remarkable still, "suitable medicine was dispensed to various kinds of diseased persons."* Moreover, among the ceremonies prescribed at p. 194 is that of "pronouncing a blessing on the reigning sovereign", a practice which is new to me in connection with Hindu worship.

* I cannot forbear noticing the chivalrous regard with which women are generally mentioned in these inscriptions. And what single term have we for all that is becoming and attractive in feminine accomplishment, so simply expressive as the voppuva vidhya of p. 21?

† At the junction of the Haridra with the Tungabhadra.

‡ That they are the same, or that there is only one God.

At a later period we have what appear to be distinct traces of Christian knowledge in the following ascription to the god Kes'ava of Belur:— "the giver of sight to the blind, who raises up the poor to royal dignity, who causes the lame to be the swiftest of the swift, makes the dumb as eloquent as Brihaspati, the barren to be crowded with offspring."

No account of religion in the Karnátaka would be complete without a notice of the great sectarian movement that resulted in the establishment in the 12th century of the Lingáyet faith, which so largely prevails throughout the Kannaḍa speaking countries. It was founded by Basava, the minister of Nijjala the Kalachurya king, who being enamoured of Padmávati the beautiful sister of Basava, gave himself up to the charms of his bride, leaving all power in the hands of her brother, who was thus in a position to carry out his views of religious reform. He rejected the authority of the vedas and the Brahmans, together with the observances of caste, pilgrimage and penance. The symbol of the S'ivabhakta or S'ivachár, as his followers are called, is the jangama linga, or portable linga, worn upon the person. (For further accounts see Gazetteer of Mysore.)

These principles were largely adopted by the mercantile and trading class, known as the Banajgaru, or in these inscriptions (pp. 120, 123, 73,) as the Vira Bananju dharma. Nothing can be more humorous than some of the descriptions here given of the sect, their praises being so expressed as to convey a double meaning, attributing to them in one sense royal birth, heroic deeds, &c., as if they were kings, and in another sense alluding to their travels and business transactions. Perhaps the best specimen is at pp. 123 and 124, but it is impossible in English to convey the raciness of the allusions, while some are so far-fetched that they are positively untranslatable.

* The following, as gathered from the inscriptions in this volume, was the succession of gurus of the Kadavévara temple in the middle ages, and the dates when they are mentioned as in office.

Kadavé S'akti.	Vádi Vidyábharaṇa	1129
S'ribhaṇṭha.	Gautama	1139—1146

v The Lingáyat faith was the state religion of the Keladi, Ikkeri, or Bednur rulers; and at p. 250 one of these dignifies himself and his creed by assuming the title "establisher from beginning to end of the forbidden veda"!

An endless variety of topics might be noticed in this Introduction, such as the system of government (nád ádiya rúdhí, p. 99), the elaborate machinery of taxes and transit, duties, the land tenures, the land measures, &c., but this would extend it beyond the limits proposed. What has been written will, it is hoped, suffice to shew how great a wealth of information lies around on every hand to reward the researches of diligent students.

The śāsana given by Mallinḍha Vodeyar, son of Aṭiya Śōi Nāyka, is as follows :—

Fortune. Reverence to the gurus. Obeisance to S'ri Siddhanḍha. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

Beyond the reach of slander, a thunderbolt to the mountain chains the hostile kings, is Bukka Rāya, at the brandishing of whose glittering sword the earth trembles, kings steal away in terror and hide themselves; by their evil desigas they bring ruin on themselves and are beaten however strong. What king in truth can stand before him? A lion to the rutting elephants the hostile kings, a crowning ornament of the wisest monarchs, firm as mount Meru, delighting in battle with opposing kings, the treasury to which all kings and rulers come, who, O Bukka Rāya, among the kings of the earth is king above you?

May it be well.—While the Mahā Mandales'vara, the king who is a destroyer of rulers, the conqueror of opposing kings, the punisher of kings who break their word, the lord of the eastern and western oceans,* Vīra S'ri Bukka Rāya Vodeyar, was in Hosa pattana, a city possessed of all titles, the capital of Nijagali Kaṭaka Rāga, in the Hoysana country, ruling the kingdom in peace and wisdom :—†

And for the erection of a stone tower to the southern gateway of that god's temple, in order that his mother Mallayavve might obtain merit in the other world, he presented within the four boundaries of that Mallápura, late Kunchiganahalli, the nidhi, nikshepa, jala, púshána, akshina, ágúni, siddha, sádhya, with all the ash'a-bhoga-tejas-swamyá rights, † with freedom from every burden, as long as sun and moon endure ; and for the service, processions and illuminations of the god Hidimbanátha, the remission of all taxes.

This s'ásana of the gift for the service of god of the late Kunchiganahalli, named Mallapura after our mother, bestowed with presentation of a coin and pouring of water, in sole possession, for the sake of future merit, have we, the Mahá Mandales'vara, Vira Mallanna Vodeyar, given of our own free will and consent. When offering the daily service and prayers to the god Hidimbanátha at the three seasons, may the devotees of the place enjoy this ; and Parvati grant her blessing that Mallayavva may obtain the heaven of merit. May the people eat with joy the food presented to the god.

An ornament to those who were born in the excellent Atreya gotra was Vishnu Disha. To him and to Trivitta manchale, praised by all the world, was born the exalted son Perumāla Deva Mantri, the Rāutta Rāya, of good character, worshipper at the two lotus feet of his guru Ramakriṣṇa. With his sword he offered up the head of the powerful Ratnapāla to the Lakshmi of victory though there was a screen between them, and capturing that tent (javanike) he obtained the name of Javanike Nārāyana, such was the might of this Rāutta king.

May it well.—While the heroic emperor, that Hoysala S'ri Narasimha Deva, possessed of all titles, was in the royal city of Dorasamudra, ruling the kingdom of the earth in peace and wisdom:—*

The dweller at his lotus feet, the auspicious Mahā Pradhāna, Perumāla Dandānyaka, punisher of the slayers of swamis, king of the Rāuttas, Javanike Nārāyana, worshipper of the lotus feet of Ramakriṣṇa; the śaka year 1208 having passed, and the year Byaya being then current, in the month Chaitra, the 10th day of the moon's increase, Wednesday; within the Bemattanūru vrittis, at the hands of Benaka Gauḍa, son of Kama Gauḍa, on the application of the giver of gifts the Adhikāri Viṭhappa, son of Vissanna, and on the application of the people of that Bemmattanūru, of the Nād prabhus to whom the vrittis belonged, and of all the persons having an interest in the lands and dues; that Perumāle Deva Dandanūyaka, paying the proper value of that time into the hands of that Benaka Gauḍa by the hand of Vokkalaya, took as a regular purchase, with presentation of a coin and pouring of water, Kurubara Kāleya's tank situated in the Nagarēri S'ime, and the paddy land attached to that tank, together with the *āgūni within the sluice of the tank; also the tract of dry-cultivation land within these four boundaries, within the stones erected by that nād, namely, from the tamarind tree, on the north Bamiya Benaka, on the south the Benne pond, on the west Holaveri, on the east the Bella hollow.

And on this tract of dry-cultivation land, that Perumāla Deva Dandanūyaka, erecting stones within the four boundaries as far as the Hule well of that Bemmattanuru durga; divided it into 24 vrittis according to the two dozen sacred names, and attaching it to the Brahmapuri belonging to Perumūlapura which he had built, gave it with pouring of water to the Brahmins.

And in this kehetra he presented, with pouring of water, 10 kolagas of paddy land for offering of food to Hidimbes'vara; 1 salige of paddy land for offering of food to Choles'vara; 1 salige of paddy land and 100 kamba of dry land to Benaka Gauḍa as koḍige for building the tank; 10 kolaga of paddy land to Bāchaya, the nād shanbhog; and 10 kolaga of paddy land to the Heggade Chāmaya. All the rest belongs to those Brahmins.

And the s'āsana of this gift which the citizens of Bemmattanūru, (namely) Chatte Setti, Bomma Setti, Bhrāntiya Malla Setti, Voḍeya Pille Setti, Sankeya Nāyaka, Bomma Setti; the master of the nād, that Benaka Gauḍa; Barada Gauḍa of the Sigali stone quarry; Hāla Bomma Gauḍa of Sādarahalli; Balla Gauḍa, the son of Kāma Gauḍa of Benne-dōni; that Bāmna Gauḍa; Keta Gauḍa, the son of Bomma Gauḍa of Siddhapura; Bāchanna, the son of the Volageri Vittiya Nād Prābhu, Ampaleya Hiriyanna; Malla Gauḍa, son of Boppa Gauḍa of Manale; Nāga Gauḍa, son of Naga Gauḍa of Maleyanuru; the Nād Setti Gutta Chaladanka Rama Setti; the Nād Rāja-guru Māla Guru; that Chola Guru; Volageri Vitti Dhammana Guru; that Bomma Guru; the Nād Senabhova Bāchanna; that Chāmāiya Heggade; Kāma Bhova, the son of Kabella Kāla Bhova—caused to be written, and gave to Perumāla Deva with pouring of water, as of a Brahmapuri themselves had made, was as follows:—Within this kehetra whatever alivu or annyāya is included in the siddāya, kaṭaka, sese, and Adored be S'iva in the form of Om. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chamara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. Obeisance to the wearer of the crescent moon, the embodiment of pure wisdom, the three vedas being his eyes, the bestower of all happiness. Manifest to the senses, benefactor of the world, cause of the preservation, destruction and creation of the universe, the soul of all things, conqueror of anger and love, lord of the three worlds, to thee, O S'iva, obeisance.

Vallabha of fortune, vallabha of the victorious spoils of his enemies, vallabha over the proudest aspiring kings and all the earth with its wealth, vallabha of the Lakshmi of a pure unsullied fame, is the auspicious Vallabha emperor Vikrama Bhupa. What kings can compare with the lord of Kuntala, shining as the protector of the kings who sought his protection? All other kings he defeated without opposition. This being true, how can they compare with him in greatness or like him become famous? Will they rush into the flames of his valour and equal him? Dismiss the idea (tege). Will they capture his victorious army shouting with a lion-roar? What enterprise will those who become his enemies undertake against him? The famous and fearless kings of Vanga, Anga, Kalinga, Pandya, the mightiest among the Ballavas, with those of Saurashtra, Varata, Lata, Karahata, Chedi, Kashmira, Gurjara, Sindhu, Trigarta, Malava, Turushka, and other countries, he subdued by the power of the sword in his hand, the Chalukya emperor.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of the auspicious Tribhuvana Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favorite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyas'raya kula, ornament of the Chalukyas, * was increasing in prosperity to endure as long as sun and moon:—

great might, the famous Malla Deva, possessed of great and royal wealth, bearing up the burden of the world surrounded by the four oceans, surpassing Vikrama in bravery, was Pándya Bhúpa.

Breaking down the pride of the Chola kings, tiring out the Andhra kings, terrifying the Kalinga king, scaring and pursuing after the kings of Anga, Vanga, Magadha, and slaying by his bodily might many other kings, he became famous: That he left the Gurjara king, was it because he was defeated, that Pándya Bhupála? 'Tis false. This great king gave up his enmity (!). Punishing the mightiest among the groups of brave kings and wearing them out, an ornament of the Pándya mandalikas, a joy among the mandalikas, king over all the mandalikas, of great fame, was Vira Pándya.

The dweller at his lotus feet, the auspicious Barmarasa, entitled to the five great drums, chief of great tributaries, great minister, Bārasa Verggaḍe Dandānāyaka, having by the support of Anantapāla been appointed to the government of the whole country, possessed of all ministerial and lordly qualities, an eloquent speaker, purifier of the . . . gotra, son of a well-born mother lord over Achchupa Nōyaka, having these and other names and titles :— was ruling in peace the panniya of the Noḷambavādāi Thirty-two Thousand, punishing the evil and protecting the good :—

May it be well,—Adorned with good qualities, of great valour, the object of universal praise, giver of rewards to his friends, his head placed with great joy at the lotus feet of Siva, his breast against the full bosoms of the youthful fair, of a life of virtue, thus was Barmarasa in the world. In Kogali nād, among the dependents (?) of the noble Kodamba chiefs, from the half share of customs duties which he received, having with affection made a grant of one tenth for a temple and Jinālaya, dancing girls (?), a tank, a well, and a chatram*, famous was Barmarasa, a setting for the gems of good qualities.

For the service and decoration of the god Sarveśvara, bright as the sun with his flaming eyes, lord of the daughter of the mountain king, (i. e. Parvati), for the great illuminations, for the daily processions, and the monthly processions, Barmarasa made the following gift with great joy. In the 33rd year of the Chalukya Vikrama era, the year Sarvadhari, the month Pushya, the 5th day of the moon's increase, Thursday, at the time of the sun's entering on his northern course, at the moment of vyati pāta; Barmarasa, washing the feet of Nīlakauṭha Paṇḍita, made the grant, with pouring of water, as a gift to the god, of 5 pana a month from the half customs duties (sunka) which he received, for the illumination and service of the god Sarveśvara.

Whoso maintains this gift will derive the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows, and kolagas decked with the nine jewels, to a thousand Brahmans versed in the vedas, in the holy bathing places of Varanasī and Kurukshetra. Whoso resumes this gift will incur the sin of killing a thousand cows and a thousand Brahmans versed in the vedas, in the holy bathing places of Varanasī and Kurukshetra. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Moreover that Kanda Raya's son was S'ri Ráma Deva, whose bravery was as follows —

The servant of his lotus feet was Kúji Rájá, whose royal guru was Márdangi Deva, the glory of whose descent was as follows :—chief among the Vira Sena senácháryas, firm as mount Meru .

The Chakreshvara Madusena Yogi

the glory of the agraganya of his line was as follows :—

Munipada Sena Yati

chief of the bhattárakas

A sun to his adherents, of blameless character, in learning a wonder, a patron of distinguished wise men, an axe to cut down the spreading creeper of sin, a friend to the humble, an abode of morality, was Padma Sena Yatinátha, son of Chitra Bhúpati.

And devoted to the two lotus feet of the king, a Meru in firmness, his chest like a broad rock, the mere dust thrown up by the troops of his horse covering up all other kings, glorious with many titles, was Kúji Rájá, whose greatness was as follows :—The son of Nimba Deva praised by all the world, and of Malámbika whose fame resembled the full moon in autumn, younger brother of Chaita, the husband of Lakshmi, reverencing the lotus feet of Padma Sena, of established merit, of distinguished fame, an abode of learning and truth, such was the glory of Kúja.

Through affection like the life to one another, celebrated in the world as were Rama and Lakshmana, in strength like Bharata, who can compare with these, thus did poets and their relatives praise Chaita Nripati and Kúja Rájá.*

And the excellence of that exquisite Lakshmi was as follows :—Like the embodiment of the spells of Manmatha, of a colour like that of the most beautiful champaka, of a blameless character, glorious in good qualities, skilled in all useful learning (sooppuva vidhya), praised by the whole circle of the earth, having the gait of a lusty elephant, thus was Lakshmi Devi the wife of Kúji Rájá famed throughout the world.

And the glory of Kúji Rájá's son was as follows :—the son of a hero, of surpassing excellence, all offering gifts to him on account of his bravery, like the chief embodiment of valour, deriding the courage of the sun, devoted to the lotus feet of the guru Padma Sena, of great fame was Yaro Deva.

* See No. 15.

And in the middle of the Pándya des'a was Bettúru, whose beauty was as follows :—Having matchless temples, delightful rows of shops, with a street of dancing girls, and surrounded with ramparts, beyond which were extensive pleasure gardens. And the greatness of its Manneya S'etti and Guttara Gauḍa was as follows :— an assemblage of the three branches of wisdom, lords of the Pándya des'a, descendants of the Manneyaru, of great bravery, abodes of all good qualities. Forsaking the companionship of the evil, making good use of their abilities, of distinguished fame in the world, were the sons of the Mandala S'etti. And one son of Mácha was Hariva Gauḍa, of extensive fame, profound as the sea, of a form like that of Manmatha. And the other son of Mácha was Yoga Gauḍa of great glory.

And great by fortune was Rána Gauḍa, firm as mount Meru, descended in the family of Sámanta Gauḍa, to which sky he was the sun.

Kúji Rája, having obtained possession of Bettúru and other towns, while dwelling there at ease, by the instruction of Padma Sena erected a Lakshmi Jinálaya, in order that his wife Lakshmi might obtain the blessings of svarga and moksha. Of incomparable beauty was the temple erected by Kúja, the light of the celebrated Sena gana, and the Pogari gachcha.

Moreover that Kúja Rája, in the year Prajotpati, at the time when S'ri Vira Mahádeva Rája was establishing the Báluma agrahára, obtaining from him the village of Hunasehalli and 12 honnu as a free grant in permanence, came and presented them on a fortunate day to Párs'vanátha Deva of that Jain temple, writing a s'ásana and washing the feet of Padma Sena Bhaṭṭáraka.

And with the consent of the Gauḍas, the Manmatha-like Kúja also gave the following :—a shop, an areca garden, an oil-mill

2 matta, with pouring of water.

The mine of good qualities presented Hunasehalli, with pouring of water, to the Párs'vanátha temple, in perpetual gift.

At that time; may it be well.—In the S'aka year 1091, the year Virodhi, the second (or intercalary) month S'ravana, the 15th day of the moon's increase, full moon, Monday; the lands which had been formerly given rent free for the service and decoration of the god Avimuktes'vara, which was set up in the old ruins (haleya biṭu) of the royal city Hiriya Betúru, in the kingdom of the warrior Kilvoḡ-odeyarasa Deva, † (namely) under the first sluice of the king's tank, 1 matta 450 kamba of paddy land; also 200 kamba for a garden: on the east 1 matta 100 kamba of dry land for a flower garden; and near it 100 kamba of dry land :—

These lands, having made inquiry that they formerly belonged to the gift which had been alienated, he gave again, with pouring of water, rent free, for the service and decoration, the daily worship, the illuminations and repairs, of the god Avimuktes'vara.

Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Merit is a common bridge for kings. This from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra from age to age beseech the kings who come after him.

Sakapura Tille Náyaka the S'iva Kalyána Nambi, received the vritti.

May it be well.—In the year 1477 of the victorious increasing Sálváhana era, the year Ananda, the month Vaishákha, the 14th day of the moon's increase, Monday:—While the auspicious great king of kings, the supreme ruler,* S'ri Vira Pratápa Sadásiva Deva Maháráya was in Vidyánagara, in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom† ruling the empire of the world, seated on his diamond throne:—

May it be well.—To the god S'ri Prasanna Harihara, lord of all worlds, original god over all gods, the supreme, punisher of his enemies and subduer of their shouts, the giver of boons to Márkaṇḍeya rishi, the one (joint) incarnation of Hari-Hara, the planter of his lotus feet upon the breast of Guhúsura who opposed the vedas in Guhápura, worshipped by the three worlds of heaven, earth and hell, granter of the desires of his votaries, the remover of all fear in the sacred forest of Guháranya, dwelling on the eastern bank of the Tungabhadra, lord of the city of Kúṭalúru;—Krishnappa Náyaka, son of Bayappa Náyaka, worshipper of the lotus feet of that Sadásiva Ráya, terrible as the white-bodied bearer of the moon (Siva), boon lord of Maninágapura,‡ on the auspicious occasion of the birth day of Narasimha,* in order that his father Bayappa Náyaka and his mother Kondamma might obtain merit; presented the village Beluvádi to provide for the mid-day meal in the chatram of the god Harihara; and the money obtained from the harigólu† fees at the river of Harihara (he assigned) for furnishing the evening meal and lamps; and presenting a silver tray for offering the evening food, felt as if every desire were satisfied.

Whoso maintains this gift will derive the merit of performing countless horse sacrifices. Whatever sinner unable to let it live, destroys it, will incur the sin of killing cows and Brahmans in the Ganges, of parricide, and of causing a mother to eat the flesh of her son.

Thus is the stone writing (!)

To maintain a gift made by another is twice as meritorious as to make a gift oneself. To resume a gift made by another is to lose all the merit of one's own. Of making a gift or maintaining one made by another, the maintaining another's is the best. He who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude.

Great good fortune be to Dásappa, the son of Kúmarasa, who caused the village of Beluvádi to be written down for the chatram of the god Harihara.

Adored be S'ri Harihara. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. The mighty tree of bounty in the form of Harihara do I adore, which is entwined by the vines the shining arms of Lakshmi and Parvati. A pearl in the frontlet of the pleasures of Parvati and Lakshmi, a chintámáni granting all the desires of his votaries, a head jewel to the upnishads, the of the three worlds, that Harihara ever protect us. The god who in sport assumed the form of a boar, and shone forth tossing up the earth on the tip of his tusk which resembles a jasmin bud, may he protect us. By virtue of whom the earth is called the firm, the jewel wombed, the mine of hidden wealth, the fertile with crops, the sustainer of all. May he who adorns the crest of S'tambhu with glory, the brother of Lakshmi, Chandra protect us.

Considering that in this Kali yuga the earth was filled with kali (sin), Vishnu formed the intention of being born in the lunar line as Sangama. The lady of whose brilliant fame was like an ornament of musk adorning the brow of a sky as dark as the (leaves of the) hongc tree. In that line, as Rama in the line of Pas'aratha, so was born Bukka Rája, distinguished with all auspicious marks, destined to be the deliverer of the world. While he with his great strength was supporting the burden of the world, Vishnu and S'iva enjoyed complete rest in their beds (they had nothing to do!) His son was Rája Harihara, in the milk sea of whose fame the mundane egg (Brahmán's) floated as a bubble. The fire of his valour, as flame fed with ghee, so it increased, watered by the rain of the tears of hostile kings' wives. Again and again without end had he bestowed the sixteen kinds of gifts, and others besides.

As from S'iva was born Senáni, so from this king sprung Daiva Rája, the punisher of the evil. When he went forth to war the dust thrown up by the hosts of his cavalry caused the sun to set, and his enemies were drowned in the streams of blood drawn forth by the clouds of his arrows, thus was Daiva Rája famed in the world. During his reign no lesson was taught but the veda, agitation was only in the waves of the river, trembling only among the leaves of the vine, none of these things occurred among men. By the brightness of whose fame all the world shone with white, and the fear of Agastya forsook this milk sea.

The conqueror of the hosts of his enemies, a Bhoja to learning, a kalpa vriksha in bestowing, a Kubera in wealth, a Manmatha to women, to all manner of wisdom a refuge, a devoted worshipper of S'iva, thus shines Daiva Rája.

May it be well :—An ornament to all the world, bearing in his mighty arms a bow skilled in destroying the groups of powerful enemies, rejoicing S'iva with his unintermitting devotion, lord of the eastern and western, the southern and northern oceans, whose inexhaustible arrows are the envy of all other kings, destroyer of the serpents the kings who break their word, to Hindu rajas a divine protector, granter of life, land and wealth to the kings who seek his protection, displaying his power in uprooting and destroying the trees the evil, remover of the fears of all by his might, devoted to the worship of the lotus feet of the self-born S'iva ; by the worship of the feet of the royal guru Kriya S'akti,—auspicious royal ácharya of the rája-guru man'ala, chief āchāri, invincible king of the Rāhuṣas, the united dwelling place of the Lakshmi of penance and the Lakshmi of government,—having obtained all manner of wealth and the kingdom, the auspicious king of kings, the supreme ruler, S'ri Vira Pratāpa Daita Rāja Mahārāja*, in the Saka year netra, agni, vahni, indu, the year 1332, the year Vikruti, the month Bhādrapada, the 12th day of the moon's increase, Monday, made an agreement (vyavahāra) between the god Harihara and the Brahmins residing in Harihara kshetra, as follows:—

On the Brahmins at their own expense building a dam to the river Haridra, and leading a channel through the land of the god Harihara into Harihara-pura; of all the lands irrigated by the thus led channel, two shares (thirds) shall be for the god Harihara, and one share (third) for the Brahmins who at their own expense constructed the channel, to be by them enjoyed, free of all burdens, as long as sun and moon endure. Thus was it given in a copper sāsana.

In order that it may be known with certainty what Brahmins have a right to this land, their gotra and sūtra are here set down.

And for the daily service of the god Harihara one vritti, and for the food of the Brahmins (in his temple) two vritti, altogether 111 vritti.

Taking together all the land which is irrigated under the channel made to Bayani, Kandu, Belurādi, Hanugavādi, Harihara, Guttūru, as far as Ganganarasaiya tank:—the god Harihara shall enjoy two shares thereof, and the Brahmins who built the dam and led off the channel at their own expense shall enjoy one share.

And the expense of annual repairs of the channel, and expenses arising in course of time from any orders of kings, or the judgment of God, shall be borne at the rate of two-thirds by the god, and one-third by the Brahmins.

The water of the channel moreover shall be distributed at the same rate of two-thirds to the (land of the) god, and one-third to (that of) the Brahmins.

And the expense of cleaning out the channel and building sluices shall be borne at the same rate of two-thirds by the god and one-third by the Brahmins.

Thus is it written in a copper sāsana, of which this stone sāsana is a copy.

At the time of building the dam to the river Haridra, the god Harihara and the Brahmins, the past present and future possessors of the vrittis, gave to

*See note p. 25.

Bharata arádhya, the son of Krishna Mallácharya, of the Gautama gotra and the Rik shákha, with pouring of water; 10 manuvina kolaga of paddy land under the channel; namely, 5 from the god and 5 from the Brahmans: altogether 10.

And to the preparer of this s'ásana, the god Harihara and the Brahman vritti-holders uniting, gave from the god 4 kolaga, and from the Brahmans 4 kolaga, altogether 8 kolaga of paddy land; namely, to Cháyanáchári, the son of Vishnukarma, called Kalli Rája, a káikripa taksha (? poor working carpenter) of the Yajus shákha, and skilled in stone work, they gave 8 manuvina kolaga.

And at the time of building the Haridra dam, the god and the Brahmans gave to S'ankhara Bhatta, performer of the anga pradakshana, with pouring of water, from the god 2 kolaga and from the Brahmans 2 kolaga, altogether 4 manuvina kolaga of paddy land.

Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

May the god Harihara, whose feet trampled to death the rakshasa Mura, and hasten to the assistance of all pure kings who praise them, protect us as long as sun, moon and stars endure.

ginning or end, the perfect, the form of wisdom, without growth, the being without form who took upon himself a form in the celebrated Guhiranya, receiver of the praises of the chief gods, S'ri Hariharu, protect us.

The Lakshmi of fortune dancing on the stage of his breast, the Lakshmi of victory disporting in the pleasure garden of his powerful arms, Sarasvati reposing on the lotus of his face, his orders being borne upon the diadems of hostile kings, his pure fame spreading light all around, the king Narasimha, the mightiest of kings, ruled the earth as far as the ocean shore.

The genealogy of this first of the monarchs of the world was as follows:— The veda (sruti) being his throne, Lakshmi with lightning glances fanning him with chámaras, the changing lustre of gems in the crowns of the adoring gods rising up as the wave offering (drati) of a lotus before him, Nárada rishi hymning his praises in the assembly, shone Padmanábha (Vishnu) as a kalpa vriksha, granting the desires of the world. From the midst of the lotus of his navel sprung Brahma, having the four vedas as his four faces, the cause of the creation of gods and men.

From the lotus of the heart of Brahma, as pure fragrance worthy of it, came forth the pure Atri. To him was born Chandra, his beams filled with the streams of nectar.

To Chandra, delighting all worlds with his growing rays of glory, was born the gentle Budha. From Budha that was, sprung Purúrava. From Purúrava Ayu. From Ayu Nahusha. From him Yayati. From this Chandra kula sprung the Yadu kula, in which was born the incomparable Sala.

He being a friend (or disciple) of the muni, was with devotion offering praises to the goddess Vásantika of Sas'akapura, in order that he might obtain the dominion of all kingdoms, when a tiger rushed forth, with its waving tail lashing the earth so that it trembled, its eyes flaming forth streams of fiery rage, its tongue stretched out as if the river of fire so formed, roaring like a thunderbolt, terrific in form. The muni saying Hoyi Sale, he slew it and dragged it along, and thus became Hoyisala.

To the sky of the kings of that Hoyisala race was Vinayáditya the sun. Glorious was Yereyanga, who on those that with obeisance resorted to him for protection descended in showers of gold like the rain, but on others he fell as a destroying thunderbolt. The sons of this Yereyanga were the powerful Ballála, Biti Deva (and) Udayáditya.

Among them Vishnu nripa was celebrated as the most handsome in form, a great king of the earth. When he set out for the conquest of other kings the dust raised by his hosts covered the ocean and turned its waters to clay, but by their march treading it down firm, they passed over, subdued mighty kings, and brought them into subjection, thus was Bittiga the chief among the three. When this Bittiga, the jattiga (boxer) of the battle field, set out for victory, Kanchi was breached, Kongu was overthrown, Virata-kôte cried out, Koyatûru opposing was destroyed, the seven Konkanas unable to stand against the (chariot) wheels of his command threw down their arms and cast themselves into the sea.

To that Vishnu Vardhana and to Lakshma Devi, resembling the royal queen of Manmatha, was born the king Narasimha, a lion in battle. More powerful than Bhima, stronger than Parasu Rama, purer than Ganga, firmer than the chains of mountains, profounder than the ocean, more glorious than the incomparable sun, braver than the lion, a swift victor in the field of battle, was Narasimha.

As if sprung from the sharp edge of Narasimha's terrific sword, was born Ballâta, conspicuous for his bravery. With the army of Somana he fought in the battle field, till the earth could no longer drink in the streams of blood which covered it, the paths were choked up with headless bodies, and Though accompanied by 200,000 troops besides 12,000 horse and numerous mounted chieftains all regarding him affection, he (Ballâta) on his single elephant routing that immense army of Somana nripa, pursued him, and stopping him between Sovatîra and Krishna veni, slew him, this Vira Ballâta Râya. And escaping the hostile chiefs who with fury singling him out came to fall upon him, when he had halted and re-formed the pursuing army, he marched to Virâta kôte, and speedily laid siege to the hill forts within Bellitige, Rajapalli, Sovatîru and Kurugôla: how shall I praise him, this Gîri Durga Malla?

From the love of the mighty Ballâta Râya and his queen Padmala Devi was born the king Narasimha, to women a form of love, to fame a royal lover, to poetry an ocean, to the most powerful kings a budding Yama, to all others a kalpa vriksha. Thinking he had conquered but one, two or three, others opposed him, but lost their lives as soon as they appeared against him. How shall I describe him? As there was no part of the Kuru land which Bhima had not traversed with his gada weapon, so was there no battle field which the state elephant of this paramount king Narasimha had not trodden: why should I count the victories? When he went forth mounted in a splendid howdah on his caparisoned elephant, and the bravest of the brave, the lotus of their jewelled heads swaying before its gold-covered shoulder, addressed him as Bhala! (well done), Jagadeka Vira! (sole champion of the world), Maruldeva! (god of the gods), Pūrbāpūrba Deva! (the ancient and modern god), Nārāyana! Narasinga!—the waving of the banners at the top appeared as if nodding in token of approval. This ornament of the Yadu race, the king Narasimha, churning with the Mandara mountain of his powerful right arm the ocean of the Kādava army into which the Pāndya alligator had plunged, acquired numerous elephants of great strength, though the gods and rākshasas churning the ocean with the Mandara mountain obtained but a single elephant. Having first on the one hand slain Vikramapūla on the other hand he overthrew that Kājara Rāja, Makara, the Pāndya king, and Konda, and being charmed with a certain elephant he placed it before Chola and gave him the crown, and in that Bridge (setu) he set up a pillar of victory, this Narasimha.*

May it be well:—While the protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, lord of the city of Dvārāvati, sun in the sky of the Yādava race, a crowning ornament of the wisest, king of the Male rājas, ganda among the Malepas, ganda bherunda, unassisted hero, sole champion, Malla of the Shanivāra Siddigiri hill fort, † in war like Rama, a lion to the elephants the tributary kings, a thunderbolt to the great Pāndya rock, a Janārdana to the Kaiṭabha the Kādava king, the rooter up of the Makara rāja's kingdom, the setter up of the Chola rāja's kingdom, thus celebrated, Hoysala S'ri Vira Narasimha Deva, surrounded by mahā mandalika, by great commanders, by tributary kings, and fair women, was in his own capital of Dorasamudra, ruling the kingdom of the earth in peace and wisdom:—

To that valiant emperor as the reflection of his glory
the power of his council, to his kingdom as a wall of adamant, of sincere mind, lord of the office of the prime minister, having the title of Tolagada Kamba

the good, the manager of state affairs, the supporter of fame, an ornament to poets, a moon filled with the nectar of good works, rejoicing in liberality, an Brahma, virtuous by nature, was Polūva Deva.

Gay with the tinkling of the golden ornaments of beautiful dancing girls and of the bells of young and lusty elephants, and with the lively strains of singers, giving joy to all people on earth, a continual source of happiness, thus shone Nāraṇapura, in the Andhra country. In that royal city, a favourite of Lakshmi, of pure fame, a Manmatha in form, famed for liberality, was the glorious Aṭṭi Rāja.

To the beautiful Navilideyakka—a kalpa vine to all her dependents, a Lakshmi to the Oṭwas,—and to Aṭṭiyarasa, was born a son Polāṭra, a Vishnu to all titled commanders. In battle a weapon, in giving a hand, prudent in council, a favourite minister, in liberality a Karna a jewelled ornament to the assembly, thus praised, he was the life to Ballāṭa Rāja and to king Narasimha, this Polāṭra Danādhipa. In war when he subdued the south (tenkūna) sending his troops of four kinds, this minister being in friendly consultation with the other councillors as to who was the bravest in the fight, all exclaimed 'Who in government and in war is equal to this minister Polāṭra? All testified that among kings and ministers there were none besides these, saying, 'Among kings that Narasimha, among all the ministers we have seen this Polāṭra, you two in bravery and government have surpassed all in the world, Who in these days has protected all the dominions of the Hoysala kingdom like you?'

. in government, in dignity and energy like Brahma, accomplished in virtue, revered by all the world as the abode of uprightness and energy in the army of Narasimha. In beauty without a peer, single in speech, liberal without intermission, in discerning merit knowing no party, in the king's business without thought of profit, in wealth without pride, after praising him to whom will praise apply? After taking milk what more can one take?*. Wealth and learning without opposition are both found in him, and ever young ever increasing have like the flood of the Ganges spread through all the world, thus was the greatness which Polāṭra Danādhipa had acquired in the world.

May it be well:—In the year 1145 of the victorious increasing era, the year Svabhūtu, the month Māgha, the 11th day of the moon's increase, Thursday; Polāṭra Danādhipa, the malā pradūna of S'ri Vīra Narasimha Deva, the setter up of the Chola king, caused to be erected a temple adorned with 115 golden pinnacles for the god Harihara.

* Hāṃṃṃ mēl umbūdo? a Kannaḍa proverb.

To describe the glory of that temple :—

Celebrated through all the world as of unequalled magnificence, of lofty eminence, such as none in any former age had constructed, the temple thus built he caused to be constructed so that it should endure, an ornament to the earth. Placing on the eight cardinal points images surrounded by hills, surmounted by numerous pinnacles, with towering golden domes shining like the disks of the sun and moon, after this manner did Polálva Dandádhira, a Dharma Ráya among the liberal, erect it. Is it a hill or the peak of a mountain? Is it a sun or a kalasa? The groups of figures, are they the ladies of the points of the compass or shining creepers? That all might thus say, Polálva Dandánátha caused this marvel of a temple to be erected for Harihara. A place of brightness expanding like the sun, of lofty fame like donations to the good, like a pond of waterlilies, like the elephants at the points of the compass adorned with bells, thus did he cause the residence of Harihara to be adorned, this Polálva Dandánátha, the chief commander of the Yadu king. With a tower adorned with figures having smiling mouths, with numerous lotuses, with high raised knees (?), with plates of precious stones, like the stem of a vine adorned with leaves of pictures and bells, thus a marvel to all, painted with many colors, did the temple of Harihara shine.

Praised by all as the sole chief among Vaishnava emperors, this Polálva Dandes'a alone has obtained the fruits of merit, for he obtained the treasure for the creation of the Harihara temple, shining with 100 golden pinnacles. Formerly there was a king *Hermádí who thought to build a temple for Harihara and besought the god, who in a dream said to him, 'You forbear, a devout one will arise who shall accomplish this.' And this Polálva being directed in a dream saying 'You do this' he accordingly erected the temple and gained great fame. The temple of Harihara, which neither the king Sagara, nor the king Bhagiratha, nor Kártiviryárjuna, Bharata, Purúrava, Prithu, Dilípa, none of these chief kings of old had erected, this Polálva Dandánátha caused to be built, surmounted with golden pinnacles. In the Harihara kshestra, greater in the earth than Setu, Varanási and Kurukshetra, and surpassing them in beauty, in this region, attracting all like a magical charm, did Polálva erect the temple of Harihara with golden pinnacles towering to heaven.

And 104 holy Brahmans, the embodiment of the meaning of the vedas, to the law like its lips, to the mantra its excellence, to the tantra its origin, thus possessed of all ability, caused a metal roof (vajra kavacha) to be made for the sake of merit, but Polálva of greater merit erected the temple.

* More commonly met with as Peruádi.

In this Harihara kshetra, famous as Dvārāvati, known as Guhāranya, celebrated with the name of Java Lakshmi Nārāyana, with dvārapālaka at the four points of the compass, was Bānavalli at Holehātu, in the noble Bīnaralli, this liberal king presented them to the 104 Brahmans in order, with pouring of water, Polāṭva Danḍandātha the chief minister of the Indra-like great king Navasimha.

What shall I say? Making the temple of Lakshmi Nārāyana a joy to all, he presented certain vritti in Bānavalli for that temple, to endure as long as sun and moon, this Polāṭva, the chief commander of the Yadu king.

None truly besides you was worthy to make these two gifts in the past and none will be in the future. This from a love of merit did you do. Who before erected such a beautiful temple for Harihara.

Whoso with joy preserves this gift will obtain life and wealth. Whoso destroys it will incur the sin of slaying many rishis, Brahmans, cows, and Brahmans versed in the vedas, in Kurukshetra and Varanāsī. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Than making a gift, preserving one is better. By making a gift svarga is gained, but by preserving a gift final beatitude is obtained. To all kings land presented to Brahmans is a younger sister, whom neither may any other possess nor take away by force. Than making a gift oneself, to preserve the gift made by another is doubly meritorious. To alienate another's gift is to lose all the merit of one's own gift. Whoso violently takes away a gift made by himself or by another will be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Those who by force take away land given to Brahmans will boil in the hell called Kumbhīpāka as many years as the Brahmans from whom they seized it, with their families and descendants, are in suffering therefrom. Whoso carries off the money of an agrahāra, saying it is for the tribute to the king, or the gift to obtain a wife, or a contribution to save the village, incurs the guilt of incest with his mother. Support the bridge of merit, continually cries Rámachandra to the kings who come after him.

* See No. 18, p. 28.

The messengers of Nāganna Dhannāyaka the Mahā pradhāna of S'ri Vira Pratāpa Deva Rāya Mahārāya, having brought intelligence that the Haridra dam had breached,* on inquiring who would undertake the meritorious work of restoring it, looking upon Chāma nripāla, the commander-in-chief of all the forces of the auspicious great king of kings, the paramount sovereign Sri Vira Pratāpa Deva Rāya Mahārāya, a devoted worshipper of the lotus feet of the Somes'vara linga, worthy with all good personal qualities, son of Boppa Deva, a kalpa vriksha to his dependents, a Manmatha to women, a victor in the battle field, skilled in the four branches of policy, protector of works of merit, fond of songs—(he said) 'the dam which by order of Deva Rāya Mahārāya I built to the river Haridra having breached, to restore by the assistance of merit the provision for the service and decorations of the god Harihara and the property acquired by the Brahmans resident in that kshetra, except you there is no one else. That the fruit of the merit of building this dam will according to the veda and the dharma s'āstra be beyond calculation you are well aware. You therefore must repair this work of merit.'

Hearing this order, and with submission undertaking the work, in the S'aka year 1346, the year Krodhi, the month Kartika, the 12th day of the moon's increase, Monday, at an auspicious time, Chāma Nripāla, with his own hands pouring water on behalf of the god Harihara and the Brahmans, and committing the work with pouring of water into the hands of Bukkarasa, sent him saying 'Do you in my behalf build this dam and excavate the channel' and had it repaired. Whose great glory is as follows :—

Of a form shining with firm friendship, gainer of the praises of all the world, filled with the highest good qualities, a moon to the ocean of a good race, devoted to good works, disposed to virtue and merit, glorious as the sun, thus shines Chāma nripāla in the earth. Of a form granting all desires, of a fame which aimed at the points of the compass, unshaken as mount Meru, a Yama to his enemies, to his own family shining as an island of jewels, beautiful as Manmatha, an abode of all good qualities, son of the king Boppa Deva, who can bestow praise worthy of your greatness, Chāma nripāla? To the world as a Bhoja, to his enemies a Bhima, in protecting the world of great glory, in firmness as mount Meru, hymned by all the poets, conspicuous among the meritorious, to the poor as a kalpa vriksha, thus famous was Chāma rāja. Praise to Harihara Rāja.—May it prosper.—Adored be S'ambhu, beautiful with the châmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. I praise Harihara, the moon to the ocean of eternal mercy, the father of Manmatha and Karimukha (Ganesha), the diadem of the upanishads, adorned with the crescent moon, wearer of the serpent and the kaustubha, the remover of fear. Grant me joy, O merciful god Harihara, who on the rākshasa (Bali) the great tormentor of gods, men and the serpent world, didst place thy foot and force him down to hell. Whoso protects this sāsana will acquire the merit of performing the horse sacrifice and of giving shelter to many Brahmins. The extreme sinner who does not protect it will incur the guilt of slaying innumerable Brahmins versed in the vedas at Kās'i, Prayāga, Gaya and Kurukshetra, of patricide and matricide, and of causing a mother to devour the flesh of her son.

To maintain a gift made by another is twice as meritorious as to make a gift oneself. To resume a gift made by another is to lose all the merit of one's own. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Of making a gift or maintaining one made by another, the maintaining another's is the best. He who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude.

One in form says the s'ruti are Hari and Hara, and thus is he revealed. Whoso causes their division Yama will thrust into hell. That god Harihara, the sole ruler of the world, may he protect us.

Great good fortune be to Sūrapaiya, son of Chadupurāla Kondama Raja, who making application to Mārḡa Sahāya Nāyaka repaired the village of Ganganarasi, and gave it up for the car procession of Harihara and Lakshmi. Fortune, fortune!

Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the châmarâ-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May the four arms of Vishnu protect you, black as a cloud, hard with the blows of the Sharṅga bow-string, the pillars of the mantapa of the three worlds.

May the boar form of Vishnu protect you, on the tip of whose tusk the earth is firmly fixed like a female bee clinging to the shining white bud of a lotus. May the boar form of Vishnu with great affection preserve this gift, on the tip of whose tusk the earth rests like a female bee in the centre of the pure lotus. May Harihara protect this holy gift, who in the beginning took the form of the boar *

May Gaṇapâti grant our desires, the elephant-faced, the son of Sîva, with broad eyes like the lotus, son of Parvati, free from old age and death, the light from the jewelled heads of the serpents which bind his waist causing the lotus of his feet to open even by night, lord of the three worlds. May Sarasvatî dwell on my tongue, who holding in her hand, as a jewel of the rosary, the mundane egg created by Brahma, is ever praying both night and day for the good of her votaries.

From Soma (Chandra), who rose so glorious as their great original from the ocean which gave birth to Lakshmi, arose the mighty Kshatriyas. To their dominion succeeded Yadu, from whom all the kings of that line have been famed as Yâdavas. From the appearance of Rama and Krishna to remove the burdens of the world, from that time has the line been greatly renowned.

In which, as the sole lords of the lady Earth, were ruling Bîlâma and others. After whom came Jaytugi Deva. His son, powerful, of increasing greatness, of great bravery, by excellence established as superior to all, lord of the earth, was Singhana.

When he with joy marched forth to war, and seeing the dust raised by his hosts, all kings fearing brought their wealth and offered it to him, so that the feet had no standing room for the money spread on the ground, he caused the waters of the ocean to recede and to leave a plain for them. The sun Singhana by his power evaporating the waters in the lotus ponds of the hearts of hostile kings, caused the waterlilies the eyes of their queens to close, while it expanded the lotus the face of the Brahmanas with joy.

His grandson, born in love, lord of the earth, was Kandara Deva, through fear of whom all kings forsook their kingdoms. By his great fame, by the strength of his capital city, by the might of the power of a Kshatriya, by his skill and valour in seizing upon the royal wealth of hostile kings, he was as renowned as the friend of the Pándavas (Krishna), the brave Kandara Deva. As if in order to bring great glory to the Yadu line Hari were born as a king in the form of Kandara Deva, such was the fame he acquired.

And as if Hara, in order to subdue his proud enemies, were born from love (for him), so did Kandara's younger brother, the great Mahadeva shine. Mahadeva being now the sole lord of the world, you, Kerala, give up the pride of your kingdom, do not ruin yourself by excess of courage: you, Konkana, come at once and quickly present your gifts and tribute; Chola, what can you do with your forces?—thus do the heralds (or door-keepers) make proclamation. Gauḷa being afraid of war went and stood by the snake hole, Utkala forgetting shame ran away, Chola losing his composure ran and took to the sea, the Málavas trembled, the Lálas gave tribute and had audience, all the other kings were subdued and ruined, how shall I extol that king's great power. Had his power not been thus, would he have acquired those Telunga kingdoms and established the kings in their three cities? * What other king in the world had gained such great fame by subduing the herds of lusty elephants? Thus is it certain that Síva was incarnate as Mahadeva Ráya.

The son of that Kandara, who possessing himself of the wealth of his enemies became the lord of Lakshmi, the favourite of the earth, was Rámachandra Mahindra. Of a secure and mighty kingdom, served by hostile kings, remover of the troubles of the world, of a great fame filling all the points of the compass, a sun to the lotus the face of the Brahmanas, the son of Kandara, a

A moon to the water-lilies the faces of the fair, an embodied Manmatha, of surpassing brilliance, a Jewel to the wealth of the Yādavas, lord over the whole circle of the earth, universal emperor (sārva bhōuma), worthy of his illustrious name, thus did he shine, this Rāma. Delighting Devendra with his sacrifices, protector of the Brahmans, lord over the world, capturer of the finest elephants among the elephants of his enemies, a lion to the elephants and their lofty vine-covered mastapas his enemies, a white elephant of the points of the compass, shining with fame, may this Rāmachandra prevail.

May it be well.—During the rise of the victorious kingdom of S'ri Rāya Nārāyana, Praudha Pratāpa Chakravarti, S'ri Vira Rāmachandra Rāya, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, lord of the city of Dvārāvati, a sun in expanding the lotus bud of the Yādava race,* a Siva to the Manmatha the Mālava king, an elephant-goad to the elephant the Gurjara king, the establisher in his kingdom of the Telunga king, mighty of arm in seizing upon the wealth of the Hoysana kingdom, skilled in beating time upon the group of hostile kings (!) :—

The commander of all his household troops was the auspicious Sāluva Tikāma Deva, whose descent and glory were as follows:—Born like the commander of the forces of the gods, of unequalled good qualities, commander of the army of Ramachandra Deva king of the world, thus great was Tikkama mantri. A hero, liberal, sporting from his great bravery with his shining sword which subdued the valour of all others, master of all the forms of greatness, a bee at the lotus feet of Vishnu and Siva, of powerful strength, of great fame in the world, was Sāluva Tikāma Deva. He shone like a faithful son to the heart's affection of the auspicious Mahadeva, like the moonlight of the chandra (moon) the mighty king Rāmachandra. wrestler Chamira (viz.), the hostile kings, and shutting up their shouts, an able antagonist like the purána Náráyana : by the favour of Tryambaka and Harihara having obtained the kingdom in protecting which he was a powerful right arm, in liberality of gifts a growing Karna, establisher of the Kádamba king, disgracer of the Hoysala king,* rejoicing in the abiding prosperity obtained by favor of the Brahma of a virtuous life, commander of all the forces, Nissanka Pratápa S'ri Sáleya Tikkama Deva Rana, having in an expedition to the south captured the city of Dorasamudra, accomplished his object, and taking a tribute of all manner of wealth, especially of horses and elephants ; while coming thence :—†

The liberal Tikkama saw the city of Harihara, the residence of Vishnu the conqueror of Guha, and the place where his faithful votaries obtain mukti. Kuru, Kási, Varanási, Himagiri, Gaya, Godávári, S'rinaga, are famed in the world each for some single excellence, but this Guháranya des'a surpasses them, for it owns the power of the Boar (váráhi), has 104 Brahmans the gods of the earth, and is the dwelling place of Vishnu. Is it a city or is it the residence of Devendra ? Is it the silver hill on which the lord of Gauri dwells, standing in the ocean from which Lakshmi rose, this wonder of the world ? Never have we seen so rare a place. Thus saying, the minister of Mahadeva Ráya made there with joy some gifts of land in the name of his sovereign.

His various free gifts in this Harihara agrahara were as follow :—

On account of his victorious expedition to the south, and his visit to the Harihara incarnation, he presented a tank, free of all dues and siddháya.

And Sáruva Tikkama Deva besought that he might have the honour of building a temple in the city of Harihara in the name of his sovereign Mahadeva Ráya, thus :—That as this god had with affection granted what his worshipper prayed for, he had with the consent of the mortal creatures there made a free gift, and requested that he too (the king) as a divine incarnation might ever abide in that city. Thus did he this minister Tikkama. Accordingly, to the god who had accepted his prayer, he resolved to set up a Lakshmi Náráyana incarnation of his master Mahadeva, and having bought the land, rejoicing the hearts of those 104 (Brahmans), he informed the king of the date on which he proposed to commence the erection of the temple, (namely) on Friday, the 13th day of the moon's increase, in the month Chaitra, the year Is'vara, the s'aka year 1199. And in the following year, Bahudhanya, the month Magha, the 6th day of the moon's increase, Wednesday, the powerful Mahá Mandalika Tikkama Deva set up the image of Mahadeva Ráya in the form of Náráyana the universally adored lord of Lakshmi.

And in the year following, the year Pramádi, the month Phalguna, the 5th day of the moon's increase, Tuesday, the nakshatra being Asvini, he set up golden pinnacles to that temple, and presented the following lands to provide for the service of the god reigning in Harihara.

That Tikkama Deva having purchased with joy 4 matta of paddy land belonging to the Betta Gauda tank, at the price fixed by the subhe, presented it to the god.

(The photograph does not include the symbols).

Adored by S'ri Harihara. Adored by S'ambhu, beauteous with the chá-mara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May he protect us from danger

(Much illegible.)

From the lotus of his navel sprung Brahma, from him Atri, from him Chandra

In that line was born, a wild-fire to the forest of the ornaments of the moon-faced wives of hostile kings, a moon to the ocean of the Yádava race, an ornament of ministers to the lord of Kalyána, destroying with the pillar of his right arm the hostile Kshatriyas, growing in power. The poison of the serpent of calamity he admits not into his throat, association with serpents he does not form, he bears not throughout the three worlds the name of cruel, yet is he truly characterized as (or named) Rudra.

From him was born Mañaya, celebrated for his great fame, preventing the wives of hostile kings from painting their eyes (i. e. widowing them.) Thus having reduced all hostile kings to be his servants, was the Heggada Mañya, a moon to the ocean of the treasures of the lord of Kalyána, a kalpa vriksha born on the earth, whose words were as sweet as nectar. His wife, brilliant with the colour of gold, was Revallati, conquering by her good qualities and wealth, by her bright smiles and splendour putting the moon to shame.

By her to the Heggada Nayaka was born Soma, the central gem in the garland of the pearls of good qualities, of a fame like the light of the moon, great by the perfume of his goodness, a moon (soma) in causing the lotus faces of the wives of hostile kings to shut up, a moon (in raising the tides) to the ocean of the Hoysa'a line.

To the lord of the earth Soma, the brave Narasimha was son, who setting up the wealthy Chola, Pándya and other kings, had acquired great renown as a commander of the army. Truly was Soma a herd of elephants filled with the water of wealth, else whence flowed the river of his bounty.

By this king, devoted to merit, were many agraháras erected on the banks of the joyful Kávéri, which are praised by many great poets. And in those agraháras (even) the parrots had a knowledge of níti, and were nourished upon the mimámsa. In one place they assembled together arguing in the severest critical terms of the turka, in another they beautifully recited subda, yajna and kavíva. Thus was it in the mine of learning Somanátha-nagari, a brilliant ornament to the world.

And by him were many gods and goddesses set up on the banks of the Kávéri, namely Purahara, S'ri Narasimbes'vara, S'ri Lakshmi N'ribari, Murahara, S'ri Yoga Narayana. And on the north east he set up the five-faced Siva, Bijjales'a and others; in the centre Gopála, Janárdana, S'ri Kes'ava, the Matsya and other the ten avatars, Murahara, Narayana. And on the walls Kes'ava and others the twelve murtis, Sankars'ana and other murtis, Vishvaksema and numerous other minor deities, Padmasena, Indra and other gods. Gira and all these gods were set up in Somapuri.

His elder brother was the great commander Melaiya, of great good fortune. His elder sister's son was Malli Deva, a spear to the bodies of hostile kings, a wild fire to the forest of his enemies, the gratifier of the desires of his dependents, who continually extol his good qualities.

Of great strength was the commander Soma, resembling Karna, giving his assistance to all the kings of the east he set them up on their thrones and increased their power, the wealth of his enemies he destroyed, *Gaṇḍa Penḍúra

Chandis'a (Siva) had granted him the boon of prosperity as long as sun and moon endure.

Thus in his line was born the reverend Gangádhara, praised by all and of great wealth, a sun in chasing away the darkness of the Chárváka and

* A jewelled anklet, denoting championship.

Buddha doctrines, in tarka an independent authority, an Agastya avatāra in his skill in swallowing up the ocean of the Jainas; this great pandit illuminated the assembly like a gem.

To that god Harihara was this Soma the servant, who had become incarnate in face of the world that he might establish the advaita (the non-duality or unity) described in the vedas of Vaikuṇṭha (Vishnu) and Nilakantha (S'iva); who had stopped the growth of the world (in wickedness); by whom the Kaivalya Lakshmi (or Lakshmi of moksha) had settled on the lotus hands of all people; who had devoured the flesh of the rākshasas. To Gauri life, to S'ri a lord, adorned by Bhadra, indivisible (advayam) and thus a bigamous husband, the crowning glory of the talva, O Harihara, do thou remove my sins; thy lotus feet are my refuge, which will not spare in trampling upon every cause of sorrow; who enjoying unending happiness art of boundless generosity.

The Saka year 1190 having passed, and the year Vibhava being current, Somanātha caused a temple with golden pinnacles to be erected at the door of the temple of the god Harihara. May the joy-producing meritorious work of the chief commander, Gaṇa Penjāra Soma, prevail as long as sun and moon endure.

*An ornament to the beautiful country bordering on the Kāvéri, having lofty towering walls surrounded by a deep moat, containing a soma street and an ārka street, the numerous houses of which were filled with people, was the city bearing the name of Somanātha, a joy to the eyes of all. There congregated, the excellent Brahmins increased, performing the ceremonies prescribed by the vedas, understanding the meaning of the āgama, talva, mantra, tantra, and tarka; engaged in their individual daily rites, works of merit, and sacrifices; pure, single minded, devoted to acts of virtue, good men. Astonishing was the greatness that Somanāthapura had acquired from the many great men who had their origin there. Surrounding it were numerous pleasure gardens, in which the trees bent down with foliage, and the fields were filled with grain,

On all sides were tanks filled with lotuses and waterlilies, and with the motion of the waves in the moat the hanging boughs of the trees were waved. Thus was this Somanāthapura, like the name of the jewel of the earth.

In the middle of this celebrated Somanāthapura having erected a great temple and adorned it with a god-like incarnation of Vishnu which continued ever as bright as if just set up, highly distinguished became Soma chamupati. And in the Vishnu temple which by his order had been erected in the middle of Somanáthapura, S'ri Kes'ava distinguished by the name Prasanna Chenna, surrounded with brightness, to the south of him Gopála the beloved of the world, Janárdana the emboliment of the desires of all; these three múrti were the chief and the most richly endowed with all manner of gifts.

* The foregoing part of the s'āsana is in Sanskrit, the remainder is in Kannada and repeats a good deal of what was stated before.

And as if in this scene of many victorious processions Vishnu had strung together all the varieties of his forms, many other gods did he there set up, namely, the Matsya and others the ten *avata*ras, Kes'ava and other deities, Sankars'ana of auspicious form, the Variha form, Náráyana and other gods the givers of wealth and prosperity, Krishna and twelve other gods the merit of whose worship is incalculable. The excellent Ganapati, Bhairava, Bhaskara, Vishvaksena, Durgi and other gods. Altogether 74 gods adorn the temple which he built in the middle of the city.

And on the north-east side he set up the five-faced S'iva, which in order are Bijjales'vara, next to it Pergaḍes'vara, the four-fold Abales'vara, and the splendid Jaḡavales'vara, and in the middle Somanátha S'ivalinga. Having securely established these, Soma Dandádhipa gained great renown. And the excellent form of Narasimhes'vara, the auspicious Yoga Náráyana, the ever abiding Lakshmi Narasimha, being established in it, the city of Somanátha, shining in the middle of the Kávéri as the residence of so many gods, was thus rendered worthy of reverence from all the world by the mighty Soma Dandá-dhinátha.

Adored by S'ri Harihara. May the kalpa vriksha embodied as S'ambhu Náráyana ever grant our desires, whose smiles resemble the brightness of its white shining flowers, whose powerful arms are its branches, whose hands are its ruddy young shoots, encircled by the creepers of serpents, enriched with the four manner of fruits.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of the auspicious Vijaya Pándya Deva,—entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Mandales'vara, lord of Káncipura, sun to the sky of the Yádvava race, a head jewel of brave warriors, his mind purified by meditation on the lotus feet of the god S'ankara Náráyana, an ornament of the Yádvavas, sun to the lotus of the Pándya kula, champion over the smiters of their enemies, defeater of the designs of Rájiga Chola * of surpassing greatness, splendid with these and other titles, revered by crowds, an abode of glory,—was increasing in grandeur and prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky:—

All the chiefs who heeded not his commands were driven out; those brave ones who came to fall upon him, being seized, disgraced, tormented, their bodies worn out, forsaking their places they fled in all directions; how great was the bravery of the king Vijaya Pándya.

The dweller at his lotus feet; May it be well.—the Mahá Pradháca was the auspicious Vijaya Permañi Danñanútha, a lion to the herd of elephants the most powerful tributaries, terrible in the field of battle, his forehead adorned with a wafer made of the dust from the lotus feet of Vijaya Pándya, a mill-stone to the slayers of swámis, skilful as Chánakya in driving off with powerful incantations the rákshasas the hostile kings, a central jewel to the diadem of the group of ministers, a powerful new Anjaneya in leaping over the ocean the forces of hostile kings; his fame was stamped as an ornament of sandal powder on the swelling breasts of the ladies of the points of the compass, having received from his king the honor of the name of Kumára, a promoter of wealth, protecting all the people with even greater care than if his own children, splendid with these and many other titles, in firmly establishing the great kingdom of the king over kings, Vijaya Pándya Deva, his able right arm. Braves who do not ask him for orders there are not in the land, proud ones who despising him will not serve under him there are not, obstinate ones who twisting his orders carry out something different and live, there are not; thus did he manage the kingdom of king Vijaya Pándya, what an abode of consummate ability was Permañi Dandádhipa. Whoso refused to do obeisance, them he forced first to do obeisance to himself and then made them do obeisance to king Vijaya Pándya. And so celebrated was his government in all the world, that all did him obeisance, this Vijaya Perma Dandádhits'a.

Moreover a dweller at the lotus feet of Vijaya Pándya Deva, that abode of the Lakshmi of self-secured victory was; May it be well.—Ketarosa, entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Mandales'vara, lord of the city of Bunavási, having a monkey flag and a lion signet, lover of the sound of Permadí's drums, the setter up in 84 cities of the frontal-eyed (S'iva) and the four-armed (Vishnu), universally known as having performed 18 as'vamedhas in strict conformity with the vedas, having by his power set up in the cave and on the peak of Himavat the chief of mountains a stone pillar describing the surpassing glory of his line, splendid with the mighty elephants he had bound, born in the line of Mayúra Varmma, the Kádamba chakri, lord of Úchchangi-giri, obtainer of a boon from S'ankara Náráyana. *

To him and to Kanakabbe arasi, the moonlight to the chakora and the waterlilies of his heart and eyes, was born Nágati nripála, whose fame made havoc of the lotus gardens the hostile kings. To describe the greatness of his qualities. The terrible shadow of the bodies of hostile kings smitten by the shining sword in the hands of Nágati, the chief of kings, resembled the moon at sunrise (being bloody). Moreover, the serpent of the surpassing strength of king Nágati snatches away as flesh the poverty of the learned, and the best of the lands of hostile kings.

His younger brother, of surpassing bravery, of great good qualities, a dazzling light to the swarms of grasshoppers the hostile kings, was Hari arasa.

To that king Nágati was born; as Karna in former times to Súrya, distinguished by gifts of liberality, an abode of virtue, a friend of the learned, Ketarasa.

And to that king Nágati was born another son, skilled in all learning, an ornament to all kings, a Karna to supplicants, the celebrated Múcharasa.

One day, while that abode of praise and glory, Nágati arasa, chief of a Thousand nad, with his uncles Hamparasa and Sattiyarasa, and that Nágati arasa's younger brother Hari arasa, and his sons Ketarasa and Múcharasa, were in the enjoyment of peace and security, listening to the history of the early kings, and the account of their meritorious works †; perceiving that they were as devoted to merit as eager to carry off the lady victory from the forces of opposing kings; remitted the tribute which they received from Kūḍaluru, the ancient agrahāra of the god Svayambhu Sankara Nārāyaṇa, together with the dues they received from the cultivation of the beautiful channel; and in the S'aka year 1093, the year Vikriti, the month Pushya, the 1st day of the moon's increase, Friday, at the time of uttarāyana sankramana, presented them, with pouring of water, at the divine lotus feet of Svayambhu Sankara Nārāyaṇa, to endure as long as sun and moon.

Whoso maintains this gift will obtain the merit of presenting at Varanāsī, Kurukshetra, and holy bathing places; at Gaya, Prayāga, in the dwelling of Sankara Nārāyaṇa and other most sacred places; at the auspicious times of new moon, the sun's eclipse, uttarāyana sankramana and vyati pāta; to a s'ankha (a trillion) and a mahā-s'ankha (a quadrillion) of Brahmans, versed in the four vedas and their vedāngas, masters of all learning, of incalculable merit; to each one separately, a crore of golden coloured cows, and golden ko'agas decked with jewels, together with milking cups of bell metal, according to the s'āstras. Whoso destroys it will incur the guilt of slaying with his own hand that number of Brahmans and cows in those holy places at those times. Of making a gift or maintaining one made by another, the maintaining another's is the best. He who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude. Merit is a common bridge for kings. This from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rāmachandra from age to age beseech the kings who come after him. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

(Here follows another s'ūsana, dated 2 years later.)

May it be well—In the Saka year 1095, the year Nandana, the month Bhādrapada, the 3rd day of the moon's increase, Wednesday: the auspicious Mahā Pradhāna, Durgarasa Dandanāyaka, adhikāri of the Banavasi 12,000, whose father, a worshipper of Indra and Vishnu, a mine of good qualities, was Permadi Danjādhinātha, his mother the celebrated and fortunate Mahāderi, his younger brother, served by all the learned, Soma Deva;—this Durga Danjādhinātha, obtaining greatness in the world, a moon to the ocean of the Vishvamitra gotra and thus no common man: presented in the ancient agrahāra of Kūḍaluru, 100 gadyāna to the 104 Brahmans, in order that they might devote one hāga a month for the lamp of the god, as long as sun and moon endure; thus did he give, with pouring of water, that the Brahmans might provide for the god S'ankara Nārāyaṇa.

Adored be S'ri Harihara. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds, Obeisance to Gaṇeś'a, on the drops of moisture exuding from whose temples the bees delight to cluster. Supreme is the original Boar, by whom uplifted the earth with its growing crops appears as if still horripilated with joy. May the glory in the form of Harihara, the creator of the world, ever grant prosperity, who boasts in the rivalry of the joint wives Pārvati and Lakshmi, who presents the appearance of the rain-cloud associated with the cloud of autumn, the supreme cause of the creation and destruction of the world.

Ever active in the world is the mighty Yōdava race, an ornament to the earth, an abode of great minds, beautiful, the birth-place of good qualities. As the bright spring causing the flowers to bloom adorns all the other seasons, so did the king named Sangama adore that race with his high qualities. The streams of moisture issuing from the temples of the herds of his lusty elephants caused all other streams to appear like the river of Yama.

The kings Harihara and Bukka protected the earth as if Bala Rāma and Krishna had again united for its preservation. Harihara, the elder brother of Bukka, having subdued by his might all hostile kings, ruled over the earth, all kings in which desiring his service continually wore his commands like garlands around their necks. Afterwards his younger brother Bukka Rāya, celebrated in the world, governed the city named Vijaya in the same manner as Krishna ruled the beautiful city of Dvāraka.

From that Bukka Rāya was born the glorious Harihara, as the splendid moon arose from the milk sea. In that same city did Harihara dwell, as in former times Rāma dwelt in the midst of the city of Ayodhya. Its rampart was Hemakūṭa, its moat the auspicious Tungabhadra, its guardian the world-protector Virupāksha, its ruler the great king of kings Harihara. The golden zone of the land Kānc̄hi, the incomparable S'ākhapura, words fail to give a description of these.

* Or Garuda.

Harihara, the successor of Bukka Ráya, at the time of obtaining the government also obtained a minister, Mudda Danjádhipa, who by his policy alone daily overthrew the might of hostile kings, resembling Sumantra the minister of the heroic Rama. (Much illegible.) * Whose sword was a creeper through fear of whose falling upon them the wisest of kings were continually in a tremble, the rivulets springing from the water poured forth by him in making his gifts united into a great river and converted an unirrigated into an irrigated land.

This Mudda Dandasha, a kalpa vriksha to his supplicants, forming an agrahára by the name of Mudda Dandanáyaka-pura, at Kottúru, near Uchchangi durga, and making a large tank:—In the S'aka year reckoned as s'as'i, kha, s'ikhi, chandra, (1301), the year Siddhárti, the month Kártika, the 12th day of the moon's increase, Monday, at the auspicious time of Hari-pada; making 36 vrittis for Brahmans, presented to the god Harihara 12, and to the Brahmans 24. Thus were all given.

That all may clearly understand, the boundaries of the land are here written in the Karnátaka language. North-west, the white stone of Tugilappa at the boundary of Muduhadade Bisalaballi; thence east, the black stone of the Beddana-doddi of Kindadaratti; thence east, the Doneya-kola; thence east, the white stone at the three rocks below the Basaru-katte; thence south . . .

(A great part of the inscription knocked off here, in which apparently the boundaries were continued, and the names of the Brahmans entitled to the land, with their gotra and s'utra, given.)

Merit is a common bridge for kings. This from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra from age to age beseech the kings who come after him. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Land presented to Brahmans is to kings as an only sister, neither may she be enjoyed nor ravished away, (otherwise, nor subjected to taxation.) Of making a gift or maintaining one made by another, the maintaining another's is the best. He who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude.

May this gift of Mudda Dandasha continue without disturbance as long as sun and moon endure. Great prosperity! Fortune, fortune!

S'ri Harihara Ráya's approval;

S'ri Virupáksha.

From the whole of this agrahára created by Harihara Deva one vritti was given to Bhaktadara Bhaṭṭa, a celebrated Váśiṣṭa, which, added to the 36 given before, made 37.

The agrahára holders' approval :

A glory there is in the form of Harihara, in colour like a blue waterlily, eternal, causing the roots of the kandali tree the joy of its worshippers to spread. May Harihara, beloved by Lakshmi and Párvati, of a splendour uniting both light and shade, lord of the earth, a beloved jewel to svarga, having Garuḍa and Vrishabha as his vehicles, of a brilliant form, grant to Soma Bhūpati lasting prosperity and long life.

... were the Chalukya emperors. In succession to whom,* destroying a certain son of a rúkshasa (dana suta) who with enmity had carried off ... Taila, born as a lord of justice, in valour Vikrama himself, subdued the dominions ruled by the Ráshṭra kúṭa kings, and restored the Chalukya race.

Afterwards his son Satyás'raya ruled the world. And after him Vikramánka his younger brother's son ruled the world. After whom, his younger brother, with a fame as splendid as the light of the moon, the able Appaya ruled the earth surrounded with the seven oceans. Jaya Sinha then ruled the lady Earth, whose breasts are the swelling mountains, the leafy honge trees her tresses, engirdled by the sea as with a zone.

Afterwards when Ahava Malla, a crowning ornament of kings, accomplishing what even Brahma had not done, ruled the world, the regents at the points of the compass forgot their cares and were at ease. His son, who caused the hearts of his enemies to burn, superior to all kings,

Soma Deva obtained renown. His younger brother Vikrama, tying up the mouth of Nepála, and shewing the might of his arms by conquest of many other kings, ruled over the whole circle of the earth. His son, distinguished in all learning, having made the tour of victory, a Manmatha to women, praised throughout the world, Bhūloka Malla, gained renown. His son, Jagadeka Malla then governed the earth. Destroying the Pallava and Mūlava kings, he ruled over the Pallava kingdom, from which he had driven the king; lord was he over the Lāta kingdom, the king of which stood with folded hands placed to his forehead; the Kalinga king and land he reduced to the greatest straits, and by his great might subduing many kings he gained great fame. The whole of the Chalukya army did he protect, devoted to the service of the feet of the Chalukyas, adorned with the gems of good qualities, obtaining the name of Sadāya Nāyaka (the bountiful chief).

At that time, while the abode of good qualities Kasāvaya Nāyaka† was ruling the Banavasi Twelve Thousand, punishing the evil and protecting the good :‡—An asylum of peace was that Vanavāsi, the native land of wealth, the stall in which prosperity was tied, the cradle of virtue, the birth-place of the learned, the region free from fear. And the land was full of pleasure gardens

And it shone with the brightness and beauty of women's faces

And in that nād was the Nāgara khaṇḍa kampana, in which was no garden that was not surrounded with amorous bees clustering on the lotuses in the ponds, no ponds in which the lotus did not grow, no town around which cool streams did not flow. And ever was it bright with groves of punnāga trees, of nāga and champaka trees, and of the nāga creeper. Thus was the

Nágara khaṇḍa a splendid setting for gems of beauty. Containing numerous sandal trees filled with most fragrant oil, it enraptured the minds of all like the young new moon.

Ruler of the manneya of this beautiful Nágara Khaṇḍa Seventy,* a moon to the waterlilies the faces of women, famous in the earth was Soma nripála, who by his supremely excellent government converted this Kali yuga into the Krita yuga, raising the waters of the ocean of pleasure, surrounded by the splendour of his fame even by day he shone with the moon-like radiance of Ramachandra. The pure race from which sprang a portion of the glory of the master of that maṇḍala, the jewel of the region, was as follows :—

As if Rudra had himself become incarnate under the excellent kadamba tree, so was born the king Mayúra Varmma, the disperser of his enemies, revered by crowds of kings. Shining with an eye in his forehead, he assumed the government by his might, as if all the kings had assembled and placed the crown on his head. Increasing under the thick shade of the numerous kadamba trees, that race became (known as) the Kadamba kula.

And when many great kings had been born in that fortunate race after Mayúra Varmma with the flaming eye in his forehead :—Barmma Deva arose, the sole ruler of the world, the rays of whose fame sported like swans at the ten points of the compass, whose form gave delight to the eyes of all, whose unflinching bravery troubled all the hostile kings, whose Kshatriya qualities overcame all the Kshatriyas, thus did he shine. As no kings are in the world to compare with the king born in the kadamba grove, so gaining great superiority his fame filled all the points of the compass, this Barmma. That king's wife, Kálala Devi, like the moon in autumn, like a kalpa creeper of the modern Manmatha, praised by all people in the world, an abode of learning, to her dependents a cow of plenty, was greatly celebrated.

Their son was Boppa Deva, famed as in great bravery like Arjuna, in liberality like Karna, in purity like Bhisma.

Can the sea compare with him as a treasury of good qualities, can a mountain compare with him in grandeur, or Hari in valour, or the moon shining at night in splendour, or Manmatha in beauty of form? Far was he above these, Boppa Deva. His wife was Siri Devi, a kalpa creeper to her dependents, a jasmin creeper to the bees the eyes of her husband, a bhúta creeper to the kógile the learned,

To these two, as to Hara and Párvati was born Kúmāra, to Náráyana and Siri Manmatha, to Indra and Indráni Jayanta, so, *lord of a pure fame, was born Soyi Deva, praised by all the world. His son was Soma

May it be well—Obeisance to Vishnu, having the lotus navel, the able, the giver of the boon of happiness to gods and Brahmans, an ocean of power. May the tusk of the original mighty Boar protect you, to which the earth clings as its consort, whose light irradiates Pátála and the earth.

Surrounded by an ocean fearful from its mighty roar, luminous with the rays of glittering gold and clusters of gems, casting up spray which filled the sky and reached to all the points of the compass,—was Jambu-dvīpa. In the exact centre of Jambu-dvīpa, thus surrounded by an ocean full of jewels, shone the Mandara mountain, whose peaks overturned by the gods were the landmarks of countries, around the summit of which the constellations revolved, the abode of the chief gods. An ornament to the south of the Mandara

* Or the donor worshipping.

† From No. 9 it appears that Vīra Pándya was ruling in 1165; and from No. 85 that Vijaya Pándya was ruling in 1167. The present grant seems to belong to the class of Vīra Pándya's government.

mountain, was the Kuntala des'a, lovely with its beautiful fields, splendid towns, and groves which resembled the tresses (Kuntala) of the lady Earth.

Of that Kuntala-des'a were many Chalukya emperors the rulers. In succession to whom (atikramanadol) :—The world was obtained by Jagadeka Malla, who utterly despoiled the wealth of the Mūlava kings, who forced the group of Pallava kings to hold the sprout, * the kings of the Lūta country to place their folded palms to their forehead, who increased the troubles of the sign of the Kalinga kings, so that all the world praised him as the exhibitor of terrible valour.

At that time, (lat kūtado!) was Bijjala king, whose mighty arms were a refuge to the earth, the serpent of whose sharp sword swallowed up the air of the lives of boasting enemies, the bounty lovingly bestowed by whom filled all lands with satisfaction, whose glory filled the ears of the elephants at the points of the compass, thus was he praised by all people.

Devoted to the service of the feet of that king, was S'ri Vīra Pāndya Bhūpa, an ocean to the gems of all good qualities, subduer of trouble from his enemies. His younger brother was Nigalanka Malla Kāma nripala †, versed in all learning, receiving the submission of many brave hostile kings, devoted to happiness, Harihara and Brahmans. His eldest son was S'ri Vijaya Pāndya, son of the learned Pāndya Rāya, a sun to the group of lotuses the learned, a splitter of the mandalika with the vajra of Gaṇḍagiri, brave in war.

While the lords of the Pāndya-maṇḍala were ruling the Nonambavūdi Thirty-two Thousand with justice, the origin of him of the Sindha rams'a who was serving them, was as follows :—

By the union of S'iva and Sindhu was born a son, to whom S'iva himself with affection gave a name Saiv . . . , together with the protection of Indra. Considering that unless nursed with tigress' milk he would not be brave or pure, S'iva with affection created a tigress, and that infant drinking the tigress' milk grew. † Moreover appointing Mūlati Devi to be his assistant in war, § he gave him a second name of Kshoni Sindha. On receiving that, and being directed that Karaháta, the residence of yogis (yogi pítá), was to be his abode, thither he came, and by the might of his arms speedily slaying the groups of kings there, this king born of the Sindha line ruled the country, all the people ever praising him as the mightiest among kings, the bravest, the best, and the most illustrious by birth.

May it be well.—The Mahá Mandales'vara, entitled to the five great drums, lord of the city of Karaháta, possessor of all lands through the boon bestowed by Málati Devi, to the Lakshmi of victory an earring, conspicuous with a blue flag (níla dhvaja), a Karna in bestowing gifts, rejoicing in the sound of the mallali (a drum), adorned with the gems of good qualities, a sun to Sindha, of a victorious arm, of the family of . . . ni Rája an ornament to the good, having the signet of a tiger (vyághra mriga lánchhana), donor of gifts of gold, the abode of bravery, to enemies as fearful as Vishnu, an elephant-goad to those bearing the emblems of the . . . the s'anka (conch), and the karagasa (saw), a wild-fire to the grove his enemies, this Sindhara Deva, with his long arms (nídu dól) ruled many lands within the 4,000 of Sindha and Karaháta.

And in his line many more ruled. Among them, an ornament of surpassing valour, possessed of many royal spoils won by the might of his powerful arms from hostile kings, bold as a lion, an Agastya to the ocean of his enemies' forces, thus praised by all people in the world, Piria Beṭṭarasa obtained great renown. His wife, a combination of all good qualities, more illustrious than Sita or Párvati, was Dorabarasi, famous as if the originator of conjugal affection then first discovered.

By the merit of that husband and wife a son was born to them of surpassing bravery, Nágarasa, who ruled the world. To him was born a most fortunate son, Beṭṭarasa.

(Some unintelligible,—praises of Beṭṭarasa.)

Afterwards in that line, arose Deva narapála, glorious with wide-spread fame, chief among the number, of great bravery in defence, ever increasing in policy, reverencing the worthy, promoter of bravery, glorious in fame, splendid as the sun of exalted fortune, of great valour.

(Some illegible, referring to the same.)

Like the milk sea from which sprung Lakshmi, or as S'iva unites with Párvati as his other half, so did he with the Lakshmi of prosperity; as mount Meru is a refuge to the gods, so was he a refuge to the learned; as Vishnu for lofty valour, as the sun among the stars, so was he a sun among the virtuous, a sea of modesty (vinaya), a mighty one in the world, of exalted merit was Deva narapála.

To this prince (kumára), who was as a moon to the ocean of the Sindha race, Beṭṭala Devi was the chief queen (agra mahishi), in beauty, grace and conjugal affection, superior to Rati, Parvati and Arundhati, the mistress of his house. All the world praised her as in descent, in strength, in stature, in grace, in good fortune, in resolution, in the charms of beauty, in wealth, in disposition, in affection, a jewel of women, in devotion to her husband a Sita.

His younger brother, of virtuous life, delighting in exercise with chariots, able in putting down the boasts of the proud, was Malli Deva, of wide-spread fame. His younger brother (a second one), whose renown filled all the world, an abode of all high qualities, bearing great affection to his elder brother, was Ayvarasa, like Krishna to Bala Rama, like Bhimasena to Dharma Ráya, like Lakshmana to the world-renowned Rama, possessed of firm faith, virtue and purity, modesty and courage, esteemed as a man of great purity, he remained with his elder brother. As if liberality had once more opened its eyes, or Karna was again born into the world, so was he esteemed for his gifts, this Ayvarasa revered by all.

The eldest son of that Devarasa was Ráyarasa, whose fresh glory in his father's kingdom was as follows:—Of great power in protecting with his arms the world, in war terrible as a lion, to courtesans a Manmatha, the king was to him like his minister (!), his enemies, whither had they fled? a prince ever mindful of the learned in order that his fame might never diminish. To this ornament of the Sindha line, the loving Buchala Devi was the wife, whom all the world praised as akin to virtue, in all graceful charms resembling Parvati, Sarasvati and Lakshmi.

To this husband and wife, as the moon from the milk sea, as the sun from the eastern mountain, as Brahma from the lotus of Vishnu's navel, as an offspring of the Lakshmi of good fortune, was born a son Is'vara nripála.

(A few verses in praise of him and his sword. The rest of the s'ásana illegible.)

Obeisance to the divine form of Harihara, of surpassing glory, the eternal, the one, he who causes the kadali tree the joy of his worshippers to flourish. May Harihara-murti, uniting in a single form both S'iva and Vishnu, lord of all worlds, exceeding the comprehension even of Harihara the chief priest (paramarudhya,) ever establish the desires of his favourite Dandadhira Barmmarasa.

A Brahmani girl (ilamara putri) having paid worship to S'iva, seated on a hide, in order to obtain the fulfilment of her desires, she had a dream, in which S'iva himself embraced her and she conceived a portion of his glory. Having thus conceived, when nine months were accomplished, it happened that she bore a son named Krishna, possessed of great beauty, of surpassing courage, bearing all the marks of fortune, famous in all learning.

He slew in Kulanjara an evil spirit of a king who was a cannibal and followed the occupation of a barber,* thus obtaining great fame among all people. Placing him between the teeth of Yama, this king Krishna, by the might of his arms, took possession of the government of his kingdom, and reducing the nine lakh (country of) Dahala mandala to obedience to his word, ruled in peace, an ornament of the Kalachuri kula.

And in his line many kings ruled, in succession to whom (atikramanado!), Kannama Deva obtained a name in the world, by his form, his beauty and his skill, the founder of the science of captivating haughty women, the originator of bravery in the subjection of proud enemies, the creator of a fame which resembled the brightness of the moon when it rises in the east. To this illustrious king, like an additional pair of arms, favourites of the Lakshmi of victory, were born two dear sons, Sanda Raja and Bijjala. The elder of these, Bijjala Deva, a treasury of emulation, established himself in that excellent kingdom, and with the point of his sword causing the groups of hostile kings to bow before him, engaged in the task of conquering the world, that he alone might be worthy of estimation.

To that king's younger brother, shining like the four arms of Vishnu, or the four tusks of Airavata, were born four famous sons, Nammugi, S'ankha Varmma, Kannara and the celebrated Jogama.

The eldest of these, Nammugi After- wards his younger brother Virata Jogama became conspicuous by his policy ; those kings who came near to fight him he seized in a grove, those kings who escaped and fled he cast in Yama's face, thus punishing them according to his pleasure, while those who fell at his feet he treated with the utmost respect, thus obtaining the praises of all the world. His son, who when engaging in war with hostile kings was seized with great fury and cast them headlong into an ocean of trouble, who was the promoter of his dependents, whose life put to shame the purity of the life of Manu, how great was he Permaḍi Bhúpálaka.

To that king was born, a treasury of valour, Bijjala Deva with whom was born benevolence, with whom was born the love for him of the haughtiest women, with whom was born for the groups of boasting hostile kings, and a time of festival for kings who were his friends. To all the world his powerful arms were a refuge, the serpent of his sharp sword swallowed the air of the lives of boasting enemies, his donations lovingly bestowed filled all lands with gratification, while his glory filled the ears of the elephants at the points of the compass ; thus was he praised this Bijjala Kshonipála. Some kings who came trembling with fear biting their fingers and letting the betel drop out of their mouths, to beseech that he would not bear them enmity any longer, these ignorant chiefs he guided as with an elephant goad. Save giving such protection, could he protect the elephants, the horses and chariots of those who came to him ? When he placed the crown of the kingdom on his head, all the bravest were filled with alarm, and by his might and his rage he soon poured boiling water on the roots of the mandalika and at last exterminated them altogether, this ornament to the glory of mighty emperors, Bijjala Kshonipála.

How with one tongue can I praise the growing greatness of this Giridurga Malla, for he so destroyed the might of many kings who came against him with united forces, as if all the elephants and horses in the world could not avail against him. The heads of those kings who opposed him those who thought themselves unconquerable would he leave with life ? those who came to overthrow him would he leave without cutting in pieces ? , so mighty was this Bijjala Deva. As Agastya born from a pot drank up the ocean, so did this ornament of kings swallow up all the earth.

May it be well—While the victorious kingdom of S'rimad Bhuja Bala Chakravarti Tribhuvana Malla Bijjana Deva, entitled to the five great drums, great king of kings, lord of the city of Kálanjara, having the flag of a golden bull, with the damaruga, turya and nirghoshana (kinds of drum,) a sun to the lotus of the Kalachuri race, invincible hero, a Meru in honour, a light among great warriors, an elephant-goad to the mighty, master of elephants, a cage of adamant to those who sought his protection, in valour a Ravana, a brother to the wives of others, Malla of the S'anivára Siddagiri-durga, valiant as Rama, a lion to the elephant the hostile kings, Nissanka Malla, distinguished by these and other titles;* was increasing in wealth and prosperity, to endure as long as sun and moon :—

The dweller at his lotus feet was Kasavoya Náyaka,† of sincere wisdom in benefiting his master, of a form of beauty like that of Manmatha, liberal as Kamadhenu, distinguished in gratifying the desires of Brahmins, of surpassing ability in destroying the groups of elephants the boasting hostile kings, famous was the land which owned him. Resting with great affection at the two lotus feet of the great king Bijjala, the chief of the monarchs of the world, by valuable gifts, by eloquence, by promoting the performance of meritorious vows, he increased his wide-spread fame until it filled all the points of the compass. In discrimination a Rukmanga, a second Dharma Raya, a new Prahláda, in parity of life a Bali, thus was he praised by all the people in the world.

His nephew (maiduna) was Barmmarasa Dandanátha, praised in all lands for every good quality, of great fame and courage. His father was Munjala Deva, born in the line of the emperor Sagara, his mother was Bayila Devi, famous for her matchless beauty, his father-in-law was Dobha chamupati, a treasury in making gifts of horses. Thus pure by descent was this Barmma. Beautiful as Manmatha, glorious as Chandra, of great wealth

Having slain without exception the hostile kings, he cared naught for the opposition of Hoysala, and meeting him on the battle field drove his wounded forces into the Tungabhadra, whose waters were as red with their blood as if dyed, with kunkuma from the bathing place of women, and such they were. On destroying the force, every one exclaimed that he had surpassed Adisesha and was an ornament to the most illustrious, thus exalted was Barmma Dandanátha's greatness.

To his king Bijjala Rúya, he with devotion gives advice, saying, 'From this fort alone we may subdue the hill forts, the sea forts (or forts with a moat) we may cast into the sea, the fire forts we may consume with the fire of our valour.' How brave was this Barmmarasa.

Food to eat, clothes to wear, and many other benefits does he confer on the people. Weapons of war does he bestow and thus subdue all hostile kings. He with his ministers, all of whom were truthful, sincere, mighty of arm and meritorious, was a treasury of favour to his friends, in promoting Brahmanical rites a place of their daily growth. His high descent, his worth in war, his commanding person, his disposition befitting that form, his fortune equal to his disposition, his prudence equal to his fortune, his skill equal to his prudence, all these qualities uniting adorned him.

Among his karnams was S'ridhara Náyaka, a great warrior, of excellent life, glorious as the sun among the karnams. By youth, by generosity, by power of administration, in gratifying the desires of all applicants, Vengana Náyaka was famous among the karnams.

While Barmmarasa Dandanáyaka, surrounded by all these karnams, was ruling the Banavase Twelve Thousand punishing the evil and protecting the good, one day when the subject of dharma and its greatness were the topic of discussion—

(A few lines follow which appear to be in praise of the town Harihara. The s'asana then ends and is evidently incomplete).

34. S'ila S'asana at Harihara, date A. D. 1147.

Size ft. 9 3' × ft. 3 5'.—Half Kannada Characters.

(The commencement and much of the body of the inscription illegible.)

To the south of it shone Bharata varsha, in the middle of which was the Kuntala des'a, shining like the tresses (kuntala) of the lady earth. The rulers of that Kuntala des'a, matchless in valour, of immense wealth, who, adorned with every good quality, were as bridegrooms to that land, were the Chalukya kings. The origin of whose line was as follows:—

From the profound ocean of the navel of Vishnu, the lord of Lakshmi, sprang a lotus, fragrant with delicious perfume; from the ovary of the lotus of that navel came forth Brahma, from the lotus of whose heart sprung the true founder of this race, the highly renowned Harita. His son was Harita, from the moisture of the palm of whose hand was miraculously born Sattima Deva, holding a drawn sword and teeming with all wisdom.*

From that Satyás'raya Deva the Chálukya line acquired fame. And in that line many kings ruled with power and glory. By their valour acquiring greatness, by their splendour striking terror into the hearts of their foes, for whose greatness no simile can be found, they were lords of the beauty the Kunta'la des'a,

An ornament of the Chálukyas, his breast embraced by the Lakshmi of prosperity, of terrific valour, drinking the blood of his enemies, Tailapa ruled the world. Giver of immeasurable wealth, surrounded with obedient kings a conqueror of the world was Taila. The son of this Tailapa of exalted bravery, was Sattimanta Nripála. His son was the able Vikrama, whose younger brother was Sandanya (†) the mighty king Jaya Simha. His son was Ahava Malla with the designation of king Trailokya Malla. His son was Somesvara.

His younger brother was a king revered by all, a fire in consuming the hostile kings, whose sword never stayed from slaughter on the field of battle, in possessing whom the earth was blessed with a good king. Celebrated on the shores of the four oceans, with the tongue of the cobra his sword drawing out the life of his enemies' souls, illustrious from his great valour, in the pastime of destroying his enemies on the field of battle enjoying the sports of S'iva, this king Vikramánka protected the circle of the earth.

His son, a treasury of all wealth and learning, bearing the distinguished name of Sarvajna Mahibhrit (all-knowing king), a moon surrounded by the light of a pure fame, the king Soma increased in greatness. This king Bhúloka Malla ruled the world, and to him all kings applied the name of Sarvajna Mahipála

His son, Permma Nripa, having uprooted his enemies, a thunderbolt in splitting the mountains his enemies, a protector of the virtuous, ruled the earth. By the pride of his greatness and bounty the equal of Sagara and Bhagiratha,

* *tan nija kuládi bhúta Haritan atí vikhyátam || d'tana tanúbhavam Haritan

how can he be compared to the emperors Manu and Nrigu, say. Of matchless valour and surpassing courage, this Jagadeka Malla protected the earth.

To this illustrious Chalukya king of great renown was Vira Pándya Deva.

All praise of the descent of that Vira Pándya Deva is impossible, by him the lunar line became known to all.

From the lotus which sprung from the lotus of Vishnu's navel was born Brahma, from the lotus of whose heart came forth, a joy to all, the excellent rishi Atri. From the dazzling light of his eye was born Chundra, adorned with tresses of glorious rays, an ornament to the forehead of Lakshmi. Though really born in three ways, from water, from Brahma's navel, and from the muni's eye, yet is he strangely called Atrijanana.* In this Chandra-vams'a was born Yadu, and from him the royal race of Yádava is known, of wide-spread glory.

In that line was born . . . by whose birth the line was greatly purified. Then Aditya Deva, an ornament to all the Yádava race. From his arm sprung Pándya, and to that Pándya Rája a son named Chedi Rája was born.

The kings descended from that Chedi Raja were famous above all for their mighty deeds. That Chedi Raja's son, esteemed as an ornament of the Yadavas, was Dampala, whose son was Vira Pándya. To Vira Pándya of the Yadava descent, Dampala was son beloved of fortune Kavela nripála was born. To that king was born, great as Indra, a great general . . . the beloved king Pándya. Assuming the government of all the world he gained great fame. . . . with his powerful arms he ruled all the world as Indra rules svarga. His wife was Sávala Devi, in exalted qualities the equal of the king.

Of this husband and wife the eldest son, praised by all the world, of great distinction in policy, of a fame pure as the stream of the Ganges . . . deriding the government of Bhoja Raja, of king Vatsa, and of S'ri Vikramá-ditya who ruled from Himáchala to Setu, saying 'Who was a witness of their greatness?' thus did S'ri Pándya bháupalaka rule.

Instructed in all wisdom by Madhu Súdana Deva, and thus possessed of all learning and beloved by all the wise, what comparison could other kings bear to him? His younger brother, distinguished for all learning, having subdued many brave hostile kings, reverencing gods and Brahmans, was Vira Pándya Deva.

* A pun on the word, which may mean either a-tri-janana, not born in three ways, or Atri-janana, born from Atri.

His younger brother was His younger brother was Kíma Deva, of exalted character and great generosity.

The son of the learned Pándya Deva, a sun to the group of lotuses, the learned, a thunderbolt to the mountain of the neighbouring kings was Taílapa.

A crown of great ministers born in an imperial line, excellent in all the world, thus shone Dandanátha. Ganga Devi, the daughter of that lord, by her distinguished qualities and pride of beauty becoming the queen of Vira Pándya Deva, obtained the name of Maha Devi. Seeing this, S'ankhara (S'iva), Indra and Upendra (Vishnu) of their own will bestowed on her the boon to take the place of Piri Arasi, and from the lady Ganga was born Trinetra, worthy of praise from all the learned, in order to destroy Ugra Shonítá asura. And the eyes of Vijaya Devi were as the petals of the open lotus, her commands like those of Vikramáditya, to Vira Pándya she was like his own arms, to the learned a kalpa vine, thus was she celebrated. On account of the great love of Vijaya Devi, may S'ankhara, the lotus of the earth and sky, filling the moon and all worlds, having fire, sun and moon as his three bright eyes, beautiful as the moon, wearing the moon in his crest, now grant her desires.

Among the kings of the earth S'ri Vira Pándya Deva being the chief, the most liberal, the greatest destroyer of the forces of hostile kings, he obtained the name of Jagadeka Mulla vallabha. The mighty kings of Ganga, Kalinga, Vanga, Maru, Ghurjara, Kerala, Chera, Chola, Gauda, Anga, Varáta, Láta, Khasa, Barbbara, Kosala, Pundra, Párasí, Kongana, Koga, Konkana, Kuru, Drupada, Anáhra, Turushka, and Magadha he causes to weep, so greatly do all people praise this Pándya bhúpaja.

(Very much illegible, apparently in praise of the same.)

May it be well.—Vira Pándya Deva, entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Mandales'vara, ornament of great warriors, sun to the lotus of the Pándya race, a wild fire to hostile kings, who plucked off the crown of Paundra on the battle field a lee at the lotus feet of the assembly of gods, of mature wisdom, worshipper of the feet of the god S'ankara Náráyana, ruling the Noñambarúdi Thirty-two Thousand and several other countries

Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. This S'iva do I praise, who dwells in the mountains united with Párvati, destroyer of the world, wearing the moon as his crest.

May it be well. The glory of Simhana Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, lord of Dvaravati-pura, a sun in causing to unfold the lotus bud of the Yadava race,* a goad to the elephant Gurjara, the pairer (?) with the Málava woman, the plucker up by the root of the lotus the Tellunga Rayo's head, a Rudra to the group of hostile kings, Raya Narayana—was as follows:—A piercing light in dispersing the darkness the forces of the Karátaka kings, a lion in destroying the herd of bellowing elephants the kings of Málava, an Agastya to the roaring ocean the mighty forces of Taila, a head ornament to all kings, victorious over all, is this king Simhana.

The dweller at his lotus feet, the mahá pradhana, the sarvadhikari, of great benevolence, was Hemmaya Nayaka whose greatness was as follows:—

Making known to Simhana nripala all his intentions, he so discharged his duties that the king was not disturbed in his enjoyments

. . . a master to all the families, bestower of residence for traders, a chief giving joy to all. And the greatness of the mahá pradhaná's wife was as follows:— in brightness and amiability the equal of Arundhati and Lakshmi, how shall I compare others with her?

This husband and wife, in the enjoyment of pleasant discourse, having come to Balligave, where was the chief of the gods, the self-born, Dakshina Kedares vara, whose glory was as follows:—chief among Brahma, Vishnu and all the gods praised by the vedas, in the form of the siddhanta of the upanishads. Om. Obeisance to Siva.—Adore be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chāma-ra-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. Adored be S'ambhu, with a form of eternal wisdom and fortune, through the fulfilment of his designs the foundation of the Brahma-pillar. Obeisance to the royal guru.

May it be well.—The protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, lord of the city of Kālasjara, having the flag of a golden bull, possessor of the damaruga, turya and mirghoshana, sun to the lotus of the Kalachurya line, fierce in war, in honour Meru, a light among great warriors, an elephant goad to the brave, lord of elephants, a cage of adamant to those who seek his protection, in valour Ravana, to others' wives a brother, Malla of the S'anivāra Siddhagiri-durga, brave in war, a lion to the elephants the hostile kings, Nissanka Malla; having these and other truthful titles,* S'rimat Bhuja Bala Chakruvarti Tribhuvana Malla Bijjana Deva, thus acquired the permanent dominion of the earth:—

The earth which through the ignorant king Prithu for many ages remained as a cow, that earth having now become the crowned queen of Bijjana Deva

continually rejoices. As a gem shining first in the sea, then on the shore, then in a stone on a mountain, at last became the kaustubha on Vishnu's breast, thus through connection with this mighty king did the earth become worthy of praise.

To describe the glory of the dear son of that king of kings Bijja!a. The birth of this Soma resembled that of the moon (soma), the darkness of the crowd of hostile kings was dispersed, the waterlily of the earth's joy opened its petals, while the lotus of the faces of hostile kings' wives shrivelled up; shining with wisdom as the moon among the stars, lord of a fame resembling the light of the moon, thus did he rise from the ocean of Bijjana mahipála. Such being his birth, he ruled the whole world under his single umbrella, Rúya Murári Sovi Deva; whose younger brother's government was as follows.

At length becoming equal to him (his elder brother), by the performance of rites maintaining a continual festival on the earth, in purity a Bhishma, a new Purukutsa, thus did Sankama Deva rule the world. They wrote humble letters offering—Gau!a to send him elephants, Turushka horses, the great king of Simhala pearls, Chola milk-white cloths, Magadha musk, the Malaya king sandal, Lá!a young girls; and his councillors read them to the lord Sankama Deva Bhúpa.*

Those who in various ways having rid the earth of all enemies, the ministers of that great king of kings and chief emperor, reckoned as maha pradhana, were—the Piriya Danjanayaka Lakshmi Deva, the officer through whom all the numerous orders were delivered Chandlangi Deva, the chief officer for the land Rechanayya Dandanayaka, the sarvadhikári Soranayya Dandanayaka, the commander of all the forces Kavanayya Dandanayaka.

Coming with all these ministers to the south for his pleasure, and seeing in Balligrame, belonging to the Banavasi Twelve Thousand, the temple of Dakshina Kedareshvara, with its three towers, the lata mantapa, the golden pinnacles decked with precious stones, the charitable gifts for learning, for food, and for many good works,—he was convinced that this was truly the southern Kedara, and considering 'Here we must certainly perform some work of merit,' he gazed for a long time with great astonishment at the schari of that place, the royal guru, and observed the greatness and power he had acquired by penance. In grammar a Panini pandit, in níti a Sri Bhushanacharya, in ná!ya and other bhara!a sashtra Bharata muni, in kávyá the poet Mágha, in siddhánta Naku- livara, in worship of Siva's feet a Skanda, such in disposition and attainments, Vāma S'akti yati is ever supreme.

To this master of many great qualities, the beloved son of Gautama the king Sankama bearing a sincere attachment: May it be well.—In the 5th year of Sankama Deva, the year Vikāri, the month Vaishākha, new moon day Monday, at the vrisha sankramana, and vyati pāta; in order to provide for the decoration and processions of Kedāresvara Deva, for repairs of the temple, and for food to the Brahmans performing penance; S'rimat Sankama Deva Chakravarti presented Kiru Balligave in the Jiddulige kampana, washing the feet of the Rāja-guru Vāma S'akti Deva, the achari of that place, and pouring water; to last as long as sun, moon and stars endure.

This gift whoso protects will obtain the merit of a hundred sacrifices. Whoso destroys it will incur the sin of interrupting those hundred sacrifices and of killing Brahmans, and will go to Naraka.

(Here follows another gift),

May it be well.—Mahā Manjales'vara Tailaha Deva and Mahā Mandales'vara Yeraharasa coming and seeing this gift, and saying 'This is connected with our family, this is the native place of our guru, here we must perform some work of merit,' the wisdom to perform a work of merit entered them.

To describe their glory:—The cruel enemy who came to war against him he sent to svarga, on him who came as a friend he bestowed wealth, on whom he defeated a good fate the son of Kāla nripa, Tailapes kshonipāta, daily with pride and affection bestowing on all the object of their wishes. Those kings who fled before him in war have never again even to this day seen the light of the love of their queens, for terrified at the brilliance of the new flashing sword of Yeraharasa they have never even to this day returned to their countries.

Thus in many ways the abodes of praise and fame, S'riman Maha Mandales'vara Tailaha Deva and S'riman Maha Mandales'vara Yeraharasa, in order to provide for the great services and illumination of Kedāres'vara Deva, in the same tithi as before written, washing the feet of the Rāja-guru Vāma S'akti Deva, and pouring water, presented the manneya, kirukula, āya and *dāya united, of Kiru Balligave in the Jiddulige nād, in the manner approved by all, to endure as long as sun, moon and stars.

Whoso without fail protects this gift will obtain the merit of presenting in Varanas i, Kuruksetra and other holy places, a thousand tawny cows and kola-

* Manneya, seigniorage; kirukula, petty dues; āya, fees to village servants; dāya, presents.

gas decked with gems, to Brahmans versed in the vedas. Whoso destroys this gift will incur the guilt of killing those cows and Brahmans with his own hand, and go to Naraka. In witness whereof it is said, 'Whoso resumes a gift made by himself or by another will assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.'

(Here follows another gift).

May it be well.—In the s'aka year 1108, the year Parabhava, the month Vaishakha, the 5th day of the moon's decrease, that Rája-Guru approving of the mantapa of Kedáres'vara Deva which they had newly built, gave to Bisadoja, Bávoja, Singoja, to these three, in the manner approved by all, adligi-tada keyi kamma* 150, to the south of the valagere of Hálneri in Kiru Balligáve, to endure as long as sun and moon endure.

Moreover he gave in the manner approved by all, Samatolalu in that Jiduge Seventy, to be enjoyed for three generations.

Prosperity.—Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May Siva the lord of Párvati protect us, worthy of worship from gods and giants, the tide of the ocean of whose heart's joy is raised by the moon the beauty of Párvati.

May it be well.—With a broad chest for the Lakshmi of fortune to rest upon, his feet placed on the heads of crowds of enemies, of a fame extolled by all, was Vikramáditya nripa.

Devoted to the service of his feet, having pulled off the powerful arms of brave enemies, worthy of reverence from the learned, an ocean to the gems of good qualities, was Anantapála chamupa. Among the friends of his lord the chief friend, among the pure the purest, among the able the ablest, was Anantapála Dandádhis'a. A Yama in destroying the mightiest of his enemies, a swast to the group of lotuses the learned, how greatly did he extend his fame in the world, Anantapāla.

May it be well.—While the auspicious Anantapāla Dandanāyaka,—entitled to the five great drums, lord over great feudatories, a mighty general, the arrow of Siva to Tripura the cities of his enemies, of great liberality in gifts to dancers, to the naked, to beggars, to singers and to eulogising bards, an abode of the Lakshmi of valour, a lion to his enemies, in prudence a Brahma, adorned with the garland of the jewels of good qualities, the patron of the learned, moonlight to the waterlily the Līta kūla, resting like a bee on the lotuses the feet of Siva,—having obtained two five hundreds (?), the Banavase Twelve Thousand, the vadda rāvuḷa and perjjunka, was protecting them in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :—*

The dweller at his lotus feet, his breast filled with the embraces of the breasts of the Lakshmi of fortune, shining with a garland of the gems of good qualities, the giver of joy to the assemblies of the learned, was Govinda. Who is the only one able to subdue those who refuse to bow to him? Who but Govinda?—Who is he that turns back only from troubling the worthy and trampling on them? Who but Govinda?—Who thus acquiring fame has obtained from all people the name of Jiya? Who but Govinda?—

Besides him no other did all the people thus praise. Save they cast themselves on his mercy, to all who come against him with forces he assumes the terrible aspect of Ranaranga Bhairava, with a great blazing eye, with fearful serpent earrings, in his lotus hand a piercing trident, on his face shining tusks. His terrible wrath blazing forth in an eye of the fiercest flame, the keen sword in his hand like the terrible trident, his groups of brave warriors the attendants, thus appearing before all the enemies' forces, this Ranaranga Bhairava had the aspect of the Bhairava of the final deluge.

The lightning he takes by force, confronting lusty elephants he breaks their tusks, with his broad chest rushing upon great tigers he swings himself by their whiskers, the bravest who come against him with great shields, in his pride he drinks their blood, not letting it fall to the ground. The two lotus feet of the s'akti dwelling in the creeper of his shining sword he constantly worships with offerings of flowery crowns—the curly frontlets of brave warriors, of brilliant vermilion—their fresh flowing blood, and of lotuses—their fallen heads. The mightiest enemies by the high road formed by his dreadful arms he carries up to heaven, O wonder!

It is not clear what the vadda rāvuḷa was: the perjjunka is the same as the Acjjunka of previous inscriptions, and means the large stūpas or customs dues.

A Yama to titled kings, cutter of the throats of the brave, great punisher of the proud, Mrityu to shouting enemies, valour his ornament, such is Govinda, the Ranaranga Bhairava. The Ranaranga Bhairava, chief among those adorned with the gems of good qualities, reverencer of his elder brother, mightiest of great warriors, thus did this Govinda, a Vishnu to the rákshasas his enemies, shine forth in the world. In valour, in might, in stature, in ability, without an equal; a great warrior, victor in many wars was Govinda, the Ranaranga Bhairava.

To the treasury of wisdom Kes'i Rája and Nilabbe (his wife) was born, beloved on account of his great fame, a gem of good qualities, Dási Rája. This sun to the sky of the Parásara gotra being his father, and the mine of all pleasing good qualities, Somámbike, his mother, how honourable was Govinda in the world. To describe the greatness of his bounty. Question . . .

Answer—Kali kálu Karna (the Karna of the Kali age).

While the auspicious Danjanáyaka Govindarasa—adorned with such a cluster of good qualities, patron of the learned, the waterlily of the circle of the earth illuminated by the moonlight of his self-acquired fame, the Ranaranga Bhairava, a kalpa vriksha to good poets, Vatsa Rája to the horses the evil, abode of the Lakshmi of valour, displaying to all the points of the compass the wealth acquired through the favour of Anantapála—having obtained the vaḍḍa rávula, the two bilkode and the *perjjunka of Milvalli, was protecting them in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :—

. the eloquent muni named Somesvara, who is acquainted with the fate and fortune of all living things—Prosperity!

May it be well.—The full moon of autumn in the sky of the Chalukya line, the theme of poets, of a self-acquired fame brilliant as the rays of the moon, his lotus feet placed on the heads of hostile kings, gratifier of the desires of Brahmans, chief of universal emperors (sárva bhaumi), of mighty strength, is Vikramāditya Deva. The occupation he provides for his enemies is to give up their titles, to forsake the pleasures of the lands they ruled and to dwell in caves on the mountains, thence on returning again to battle to leave their wives behind and to form alliance with the celestial nymphs.

* Seems to be the same figure as in No. 38.

While having obtained such glory and fame, S'rimat Tribhuvana Mulla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the Chilukyās,*—his own victorious kingdom continually increasing in prosperity to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky; being in his residence at Kalyāna, in the constant increase of supreme happiness (parama kalyāna), and protecting the whole circle of the world under his single umbrella—was in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom.†

In former ages great fame had Chandra obtained in the world, being named a rāja in the veda; but bearing that same title, they being really such and he so but in name, he also having spots and they being spotless, how greatly have they exalted the name, having become the theme of all poets' praise, the worthy among the illustrious Pāndyas.

And after many sons of kings (arasu makkalu) had been born. In the Krita yuga, to the accomplisher of his desires Jamadagni, the husband of Renuki, was born the powerful bearer of the Paras'u (axe), the slayer of the son of Kritavirya, who murdered the guru. And twenty-one times slaying all the kings in the world, he bestowed the circle of the earth upon the Brahmins, and remained among them; but thinking that he should not dwell in the property of the Brahmins, departing, he turned back the sea with the tip of his bow, the universally praised son of Renuki. And that prince saying 'Cannot the western ocean spare me a kṛna of ground?' took the seven Kenkanas for his residence. Thus was it called the creation of Paras'u Rāma.

And to the lady Konkana, Haive was as a kankana (bracelet), in which like the beautiful chief gem shone Sisugali. The children there born even to enemies through this name acquired courage, for as being considered the seat of learning was this chief city among royal cities called Sisugali. †

There many Pāndya kings ruled and governed. Among them was born Chandra, whose fame was as moonlight rejoicing the hearts of all people in the world, who rose shining from the sea of this race as Chandra rose from the sea of the veda. Among women the best, worthy of praise from all, was Kamnic-la Devi; like the moonlight to her husband Chandra, by her union with him she increased his glory.

* See note p. 14.

‡ i. e. Sisu kali, instructor of children.

To that husband and wife, as if from Lakshmi and Vishnu, was born a worthy son Káma, rejoicing the hearts of the coyest fair ones. And Bágala Devi, clever, of high qualities and beauty, praised by all, a gem among king's daughters, became his beloved wife, to this Káma a Rati. And to that Bágala Devi and that great king Káma was born a son of great strength, Chandra, of pure fame, surpassing Indra in the splendour of his wealth.

While Kali is surveying the place with the view of establishing his practices there, while the enemy is preparing to display his strength, while the proud boasters are preparing to shout, at the mere sight of his face they are driven away; thus did all people praise this Chandra narendra. Reverenced by all women, her fame her wealth, of firm conjugal devotion, was Sovala Devi: and as Rohini to the famous Chandra, so was this Rohini the beloved wife of this Chandra. To that Sovala Devi and that king was born a son, devoted to Siva, of pure fame and great wealth, famous among the brave, Káma Deva.

All the people on earth called him Mammatha, the Lakshmi of his valour was to him as Rati, great wars the spring season to him, with him truly abode the power with showers of poisoned arrows to send brave enemies to the society of the celestial nymphs, . . . this was in truth Káma Deva.

While like the nose (!) to the face of the lady the Pándya line,* seated on the Pándya throne, Tribhuvana Malla Káma Devarasa, entitled to the five great drums, the mahá manóales'vara, lord of the city of Gokarna, head jewel of the Pándya race, a garland to brave men,† a Bhishma to strange women, a glory to the learned, ruler of the Konkana rásht̃ra, to liars an impaling trident, a favourite of fame, Nigalanka Malla †, his crest adorned with the lotus feet of S'rimat Tribhuvana Malla, a root to the kandal tree of valour, having these and other names,—was ruling the kingdom in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom:—

One day in a discourse on Siva dharmma, the S'iva dharmmánus'ásana being quoted, to the effect that,—dharmma is the root of the vine of fame; dharmma is beloved in both worlds; save the man devoted to dharmma there is none worthy of reverence in the world:—and from the divine discourse thereon of Somes'vara Pandit'a Deva, a worshipper of spirit, of great learning; having conceived a desire to perform the works prescribed for S'iva dharmma:—

† See No. 32.

Tribhuvana Malla having bestowed the government of the Vanavasi country on Anantapala, protector of the vine the Lakshmi of his fame, a patron of all the learned : when he, accepting the same, was governing it ; and by his command, the dweller at this lotus feet, Govinda,—the Rararanga Bhairava, brave as a lion, splendid in valour, of glorious qualities, affectionate to his elder brother, famous in praise, to Krishna Rāja the little younger brother, without pride carrying out orders as being a great distinction and hence called Maleya (humble),—was protecting Banavase and the Malapara jaju (?) also,* with pure shining fame :—

Washing the feet of Mebi Setti, the son of Bhuvanaika Setti, the son of Mebi Setti, called the Pattaya sami, the chief officer (janapam) in the beautiful royal city Ballipura, which was an ornament to the four quarters of Banavase; making an agreement regarding the gift of the freehold land attached to the lotus garden, and buying 110 kamma of excellent land, with pouring of water, and with the knowledge of as many as belonged to that great royal city Balligive (to wit) of the five matha sthāna nagara and of the three pura :—

Thereupon, in the presence of the five mathas of that great royal city Balligive, (namely) of Sānta Siva Paṇḍita, āchāri of the Piriya Maṭha; Sakti Paṇḍita, āchāri of the Pancha Linga; Kriya Sakti Paṇḍita, āchāri of Tripurāntaka; Mūliga Ponneya Jiya; Nagarada Panneya Barṃna Setti, and others—with the knowledge of all these the five matha sthāna nagara and the three pura, he presented that land—situated in the tract belonging to the Tāvaregere beloved by all the people of the earth, having on the east the garden formerly presented to Kedāresvara, on the south Ponneya Jiya's garden, on the west a stone he set up, on the west (? north) the garden of Purige Deva,—the land within these boundaries, Danlādhiṣha Govinda, the king of that nād, worthy of praise from all people, gave, with a heart filled with devotion to S'iva.

And at that time, in that manner, the lord of the land settling with Mebi Setti for freeing it from all imposts, gave a permanent order that the five matha nagara should continue it free of all dues.—

Moreover, among the Kālamukha, descended in the line of the security for three boons (?), † obtaining fame among those great S'aktis, the rainy season to the chātaka birds his disciples, was the pure S'rikanṭha, praised by all the learned, son of Kedāra S'akti, bearing S'rikanṭha (S'iva) ever on his breast, of a s'rikan:ha (a holy throat) filled with the choice words of the veda. Deeply versed in the science of mind he was invincible in argument, like pure gold perfumed, placing the feet of S'iva as an ornament on his head, possessed of the secure merit of great penance, self-chosen husband of the lady wealth, adorned with all good qualities, such was S'rikan:ha yogisvara.

* Maleya is lesakheya because maleya is malapara jaju or malapara jaju would mean the games or gambling of the Malapara. The Hoysala kings had a title Malepara's ganḍa, champion among the Malapara. See note p. 7 &c. † See note p. 80.

The son of S'rikan:ha was Somes'vara, revered by all the world of yatis, S'rikan:ha (S'iva) himself in the form of a muni, a Vishnu to the rákshasa of sin. Somes'vara Parvata Deva, thus praised by all people,—perfect in yama, nyama, svádhyáya, dhyaána, dháarana, mauna, amsh:kána, japa, samádhi, and s'ila; * promoter of the learned, a Brahma to the dháarana, a sun to the lotus of a good race and to poetry, of pleasant speech, master of eloquence, having acquired the greatness of penance,—although angry (úgraha!) when requested to accept this gift, (Govinda) having won his favour;

In order to provide for repairs of the temple of the lord of the three worlds, Dakshina Kedáres'vara, situated on the bank of the Távaregere which is on the south of the royal city Balligáve, the head of the Banaváse Twelve Thousand; and for flowers, incense and lights for the god, for the daily worship and various other services, and for the food of the rishis:—in the manner approved by all; in the year reckoned as giri and bhavalochana, the 37th of Vikrama, the year Nandana, the month Pushya, the 4th day of the moon's increase, Tuesday, the uttarayana:—this ornament of kings, amid the plaudits of the universe, washing the feet of that great sun of learning praised by all the world, and pouring water, this king of illustrious fame presented it (that land) to endure as long as earth, sun and water continue.

Whoso destroys this gift will incur the guilt of slaying Brahmins, tawny cows and sanyásis in the Ganga and Yamuna and at their confluence with the sea. Whoso protects it will derive the merit of bestowing in those holy places a crore of tawny cows upon Brahmins. Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Consider this.

Mallikárijunachárya, a most able poet, disciple of that great sun of learning, wrote this s'ásana of a S'iva dharmma, although newly erected, so as to be praised by all poets.

(? Signature). Gobbíra dháarana sárvva bhauma sukavindra Mallikárijuna Bhatta Shanmukham.

May it endure, this S'iva s'ásana.

Obeisance to Siva and Pārṣvati, surrounded by their worshippers.

May that Gautama grant protection, who by favour of the pure rishi Vidyābharanārya having obtained the management of the Kelūra maḥa, through constantly beholding the amrita of the favour of Kedāres'vara has become like the ancient Gautama.

From the lotus of Vishnu's navel sprung Brahma, the lord of Sarasvati. From Brahma's terrible arms came forth, like emanations of Vishnu, the earliest of the Chālukya kings, masters of a dominion surrounded by the sea and protected by their invincible arms.—Among them, bringing to mind the Vishnu who with matchless powers slew on the field of battle the rākshasa that carried away the earth, and thus restored the world—so by his power did Taila nripa.

The eldest son of Tailapa Deva was Sattiga. His son, lord of fortune, was Vikrama; whose younger brother, an axe to the creeper the lands of hostile kings, was Das'a Varmma. His son, lord of the lady Earth, Jaya Simha, obtaining the laud, governed it. His son was the brave Ahara Malla. His eldest son, lord of the earth, unequalled wrestler, was Bhuvanaika Malla.

Afterwards, of superior fame among those Chālukya kings, uniting the qualities of the sixteen (preceding) kings,* praised by all the world, was Permmādī Deva his younger brother. Not as Hari, who to prevent the continual overthrow of the order of things established by him, assumed the tortoise avatāra and unsteadily bore up the earth; this Hari, fearing such an unstable base, more immoveably established his government, and thus ruled all the world without anxiety, Vikramāditya. In the ocean of the sword of the Chālukya emperor Vikramāditya ever dwells the Lakshmi of victory, in order by its ablution to purify the world of the evil which under many kings of the Kali age had accumulated and increased.

The palace of the king was flooded with the streams of the sweat of rutting elephants and of the foam of horses, offerings of the troubled kings to secure their safety. The Málava, Chola, Gau'a, Magadha, Anga, Turushka, Kalinga and Vanga kings, trembling and panic stricken, despaired of their kingdoms . . . the anger of the Kuntala lord.

To Permmáli Rája thus famous, was born,—as from the Rohana mountain all manner of beauty, from the milk sea the moon, from the eastern mountain the sun,—Soma Mahija, of wide spread glory, an ornament to the line of kings. Then was fame born to Dhárati, then to the earth was born royalty, then was born sorrow to hostile kings, such was the birth of this exalter of the Kuntala des'a. Even in his boyhood he was an unyielding opponent, a head jewel of princes, the gem taken from the forehead of the elephant all good kings, a palace to all the worthy, in eloquence a parrot, able in bending the bow. As soon as he learned to walk all hostile kings began to walk away into the forest, as soon as he began to talk their talk was restricted to hermits.

The sea of Vikrami chakri's joy was full, the lotuses the hands of hostile kings withered away, the waterlilies the eyes of the singers opened wide their mouths with laughter, when Soma vallabha rose like the sun upon the eastern mountain. The Chalukya king Soma with his powerful arms supported all the earth, relieving Adisesha of the continual load of which he was weary, and the tortoise from the perpetual attitude which prevented its turning to behold any object on one side or the other. His broad chest was a spacious palace for the abode of the Lakshmi of fortune, his sword was a jewelled residence for the Lakshmi of valour, the lotus of his face was a dancing stage for the Lakshmi of learning, thus great was this Dhúlaka Malla.

A moon surrounded by the stars the gems on the crowns of prostrate kings, the moonlight of his pure fame rejoicing the chakora birds the good, such were the praises he received, this Somes'vara the Chalukya king. Though the brightness of his rays gratifies all the gods, though a jewel on the head of S'iva rejoicing the waterlily the circle of the earth, can the moon (soma) in the sky compare with this Soma, who shines not only by night, and who has no spots? The brightness of his terrific sword, at the mere mention of its name, eclipses the glimmering light of the glory of hostile kings.

The Kuntala des'a being like the tresses (kuntala) of his loved one, Kánci like her glittering zone (kánci), the streams poured forth with his gifts the birth place of the naiads of his palace; he set himself to conquer on every side, till his valour reached to the farthest limit of the points of the compass. Thus did he rule the whole world, Soma vallabha. His only anxiety was that he had not yet punished Yama for disrespect in killing even those he had protected, that he had not secured Maha Meru to bestow in gift, that Mainaka and other great mountains continued to shelter the earth (while he was its shelter), such was the sea of anxiety in which was he plunged.

When this king Somes'vara, with the intention of making an expedition of victory over the whole world, came to the south, and encamping his forces in the tirtha of Hulluni, was in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom,* discussing the question of merit;—seizing the opportunity,—

Taïla, a head jewel to the Kadamba race, a central gem in the diadem of rulers, a chintamani to the learned, in firmness a great mountain; Taïla, the joy of Virāta-nagari, lord of Vanavīsa-pura, a pearl necklace to the Lakshmi of victory, beloved by all the kings of his line: rising and standing, folding the petals of his lotus hands, (said) ‘Deva! A petition!’

“Among all the countries the famous Kuntala-des'a is the best: in it the Banavīse-nādi is the best: and in it, if well considered, Balligāve, the mine of virtuous men, the mother of cities,† is essentially the best, whose fame has filled all the world surrounded by the ocean. Like Amarāvati it is the abode of the gods (or the wise): like the famous and splendid Bhogavati, the abode of bhogis (snakes, or happy people): like Alakapura, the abode of Kubera (or wealth): thus celebrated throughout the sea-encircled earth, what city can compare with this Balligāve?

“To describe the qualities of its citizens (nagara-janangatu):—Hospitable to strangers, sincere of speech (eka-vākyari), the birth place (tavarmāne) of prudence, the dwelling place of dharma, a theatre for the performance of excellent poets, to prosperity simply an inexhaustible mine, where in the world but among the citizens of the great Balligāve will be found worshippers of such pure merit devoted either to Harihara, or to Pankajāsana (Brahma), to Jina or to other gods. As by bestowal of perishable articles they can obtain neither this world nor the next, they from time to time stock their shops with the imperishable, the citizens of that famous town. Who among the citizens of the famous Balligāve but as Surapati (Indra) among the gods so is the resort of the learned; as Indra's elephant shines with moisture, so glitters with wealth; as the moon is surrounded with light, so beams with wisdom; as Adiraja supports all the world so is a supporter of the whole earth. And in that city, the prabhus of the people are like the tusks to the elephant, like the dreadful canine teeth to the lion, like the great wings to the s'arabha.

† Pattananga'a tavarmāne.—Tavarmāne is a woman's birth place, the home from which she was taken as a bride.

“ And there in that city are the five maṅhas of Hari, Hara, Kamalāsana (Brahma), Vitarāga (Jina), and Bauddhālaya, which are like five garlands to the land.* And there are three purās, which are like three eyes of Samagra Lakshmi, or like three pearl necklets on the throat of that lady.

“ In this Balligave, the native home of all beauty and all merit, at a short distance from the southern quarters, is a garden of white lotuses. And there, as if all the great merit of the citizens had combined into one abode of Sīva, is the beautiful temple to the god called Nagaresvara. This Dakshina Kedāra is the means of the absolution of sin, the very presence of Sīva manifested to all, visibly displaying all the glory of the Krita yuga. Moreover the course of the sacred bathing streams is like that of the holy Ganges at Kedāra, and the lofty tower of this Sīva temple pierces the heavens and rises up like the peak of Kedāra, and the rishis there performing penance are in austerity equal to the ascetics of Kedāra, thus is this a new Kedāra, the standing crops of its fertile fields resembling the horripilation arising from the worship of Sīvalinga, its temple the abode of Paramesvara.

“ May the god Kedāra therein, who, thinking with supreme benevolence upon his faithful worshippers—fearful of the falling mist (manju) and unable to make the distant pilgrimage (to Kedāra)—frees them from all sins (here); revered by all the chief gods, a head-jewel of wealth and glory, the brilliance of the lotus of whose feet dazzles all people, may that god, wearing the crescent moon on his head, protect you. And in that holy temple reigns the lord of the Krita yuga, whose lofty tower proclaims to all that he is the remover of the sins of the Kāli yuga, that let their sins be ever so numerous all may here obtain release from the fear of them.

“ And to describe those maṅhas. A refuge are they for all people; as Puruṣa simha (Narasimha) was distinguished for the dāna (smiting) of Hiranya-kas'ipu, so are they distinguished for dāna (gifts) of hiranya and kas'ipu (money and food); as Kurukshetra is rendered fruitful by Sarasvatī (the river), so are they by Sarasvatī (learning); as the Khachara mountain is surrounded by the vidyādharā (inferior deities), so are they by vidyā dhara (masters of learning); as the Mandara mountain they are the most excellent in all quarters; as Vāsudeva was enchanted by the words of Akrūra, so are they by the sound of akrūra (gentle words); as the grove of Bhavāni honoured with brahmachūri (celibates), so are they honoured with the brahma chūri (observance of the vedas) as a prudent woman whose beauty is adorned with wisdom ; like the banks of the Godávari in being rendered illustrious by the footsteps and vessels of Gautamárya : such is their glory.

“ And the descent of the line of its gurus is as follows : In the line of the muvarakoneya (?)*, devoted to the gods, was born on the chain of mountains, Kedúra S'akti Pandita Deva, of wide-spread fame. And after him was his disciple S'rikantha, resembling the throat of Saraswati surrounded with a necklace of pearls, a touchstone to the golden ornaments of learning, revered by all. That muni's disciple, a great milk sea to learning, his face like the moon (soma), was the famous Somesvarárya. Afterwards, the friend of that great áchári, the worshipful muni's younger brother, the tapasvi Vidyúbharana, an ornament of all learning, a jewel to the lady fame, became celebrated. The energy of the thunderbolt in smiting through the great mountain the Baudddhas, the strength of the lion in tearing open the forehead of the elephant the mimámsa, the brightness of the sun in piercing through the darkness the syád váda, the summit of the nyáya philosophers, was Vidyúbharana muni.

and saying ‘ I will protect this Vána S'akti matha,’ there he now dwells.”

When on his thus making application, the king, hearing the greatness of the merit of that matha, and the power of the penance of the achari of that matha, was filled with joy so that the hair stood erect over the whole of his body ; and, with his eyes wide opened, his voice resembling the note of the kálamba bird, thinking we must perform in this place some work of merit, inquired what towns are there near here—(he replied,) ‘ If the Deva has a mind to perform a work of merit, I have already made a gift for the increase of the glory of the Deva's kingdom, let it by pouring of water from the Deva's hands be confirmed to endure as long as sun, moon and stars.’ Accepting which proposal, for the repairs of the matha, for food to those performing penance, and for gifts for the support of learning in that place ;—

May it be well—In the third year of Chálukya Bhúloka [Malla], the year Kilaka, the month Mágha, new moon day, Thursday, the vhati páta ; sending for Vidyúbharana Deva, presented the village of Hakkalu Hálanu, in Tadavanaleyumana nád, belonging to Jidduḷige na], as a sthala vrutti, to be enjoyed for three generations.

Om. Obeisance to S'iva. Prosperity.—Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chamara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May the kalpa vriksha in the form of Sri Vāma S'akti mini grant your desires, whose root is the cala surrounded by the fibres of the nyāya, whose sprouts are the various kinds of smṛiti tinged with the ruddy hue of dharmma, whose blossoms are the rites of the S'iva faith, whose sap is the meditations of the heart.

May Siva in the form of the pārijāta tree, whose branches are his arms, whose sprouts are his hands, whose blossoms are his gentle smiles, waving with tresses down to his feet, entwined by Parvati as by a creeper—daily grant to king Bijjala all his desires.

May it be well.—Entitled to the five great drums, Mahā Manāles'vara, his foot stool irradiated with the brilliance of the jewels in the crowns of great feudatories, lord of the city of Kālanjara, having the flag of a golden bull, possessor of the āmaruga, turya, and virghoshana, sun to the lotus of the Kalachurya line, fierce in war, in honour a Meru, a light of good warriors, an elephant goad to the mighty, master of elephants, a cage of adamant to those who seek his protection, in courage the lord of Lanka, to others' wives a brother, Malla of the S'anivāra Siddagiri-durga, in character like Rama, a lion to the elephant his enemies, Nissanka Malla, possessed of these and other titles, is S'rimat Bhujā Bala Chakravanti Tribhuvana Malla Bijjala Deva, whose power and glory are as follows:—

The streams of glory issuing from the dazzling sword in his powerful arms quench the fierce flames of the courage of his enemies, so that this great king Bijjala rules the world as its sole monarch, there being no king besides. The black serpent of his mighty sword enters the snake holes—the faces of hostile kings, and drinks up thence the milk—the blood which none else were able to draw out, swallows up the air of the lives of his enemies, terrific with its tongue of consuming flame. The battle field in front of Bijjala Deva resembles the rainy season, for the jewels from the crowns of fierce opposing kings lie scattered on all sides like hailstones, the flashing of weapons is like lightning, the blood falling in all parts runs along forming rivulets. Wonderful is the war of this Giridurga Malla, entrails are poured out in rolls, warriors sinking covered with wounds lie side by side with their horses, while headless trunks dance around, and the abandoned female rākshasas assemble and enter the field for a feast of blood. A single word uttered by him is like a śāsana engraved on the Mandara mountain, to a supplicant he grants all his desires whomso he fights meets with destruction, whoso seeks his protection he delivers from old age and death. What kings can compare with this Rudra of the battle field, Bijjala Deva.

* The titles commence—Svasti samādhigata pancha mahā s'abdo mahā māndales'vara mahā sāmanta makuta minikya nanjari pun' a ranjita pāda pī'ha—and continue as in note p. 66.

A dweller at the lotus feet of Bijjala Deva Mahipāla, the birth place of honour and fame, is Kasavaya Nāyaka,* to describe whose qualities:—

Any thing reckoned as mere rubbish (kaśa), at a single glance of his that moment appeared as shining gold (kaśavara) to all his friends and in all the houses of those born in his family, thus did his name of Kasavaya Nāyaka become famous throughout the sea-engirdled world. Laying his heart at the lotus feet of Śiva, distributing the wealth he had justly acquired among the worthy, shewing the fierce might of his arm in the battle field against the enemy, no common lord was he, this jewel in the crown of the people. Such was Kasavaya in the circle of the world. Resting like a bee on the lotuses the feet of Hara, surrounded with men famous for every branch of learning, a jewel to all the worthy, an ornament to good warriors, was he a common lord? In governing, in bringing a land into order, and increasing its strength, in benefiting his friends, who can compare with this Kasavaya Nāyaka?

By the approval and command of that great benefactor, was Barmmarasa † ruling the Bunavase nāy. To describe the greatness of his qualities:— By his government nourishing as with showers of milk the crops the worthy among the Brahmans, obtaining universal praise as a collection of all wisdom, all folded their hands in reverence to Barmmarasa as the bestower of happiness on all his dependents. Those who know nothing of adhikāra (government) are called adhikāri (rulers), but who can compare with him as an adhikāri (benefactor) to the learned? Thus was Barmma esteemed as a refuge of all the learned.

At the time when the Lakshmi of the government of that Barmmarasa was innocent of adultery (i. e. having him alone as lord and master), the officers standing before his face were Sridhara Nāyaka, Achana Nāyaka, Chaddi- maya Náyaka, Malleyanna Náyaka, and Tikkamaya Náyaka; which five karnams were as the five senses (karnangalu) of Bijjala Deva. The greatness of their qualities was as follows:— Benevolent to others, powerful as the ocean, in ministerial skill unmatched, bold as lions, able in collecting tribute, superior to all opposition, of great fame, possessed of the sound of mighty drums, strengthened with all manner of self-acquired merit, devoted to the faith of the feet of S'iva, how great were these karnams?

Moreover a ravi (sun) in causing to unfold the lotus of the face of the lady the great fame of that Barmmarasa, was the great minister Ravi Deva, the greatness of whose qualities was as follows:—Why by the rays of his ministerial plans do the wide-open lotus faces of other ministers close up and the petals of their hands fold together, while the water-lilies the bright eyes of the lady his great ministerial influence open? This is a great wonder in all the world.

While all these united, in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom, were one day discoursing on merit,—the place Dakshina Kedúra was mentioned as a field (kedúra) the crops standing on which resembled the hair of the body standing erect from the joy of the worship of S'iva linga;

as the place where many S'iva munis performed penance, of which it yielded the fruit; whose anga were the Rig, Yajus, Sama, and Atharvana, of which four vedas it was the place of recital; where commentaries were composed on the Kaumára, Páiniya, S'áka'áyana, S'abdanus'ásana and other grammars*; where commentaries were written on the nyáya, vaisesika, mimamsa, sánkhya, baudhya and others the six systems of philosophy; where glosses were composed on the Akula súdhánta, on Pátanjala and other yoga s'ástras, on the eighteen puráns and the dharmma s'ástra, as well as on all kinds of kávyá and náyaka; a place for all kinds of náyika (dancing); the place where food was freely distributed to dínaru (? sufferers), to the destitute, the lame, the blind, the deaf, to story tellers, singers, drummers, genealogists, dancers, and eulogists, to the naked, the wounded, kshapanaka (Jain sanyásis), ekadandi, tridandi, hamsa, parama hamsa, and other beggars from various countries; the place where suitable medicine was dispensed to various kinds of diseased persons †; a place of security from fear for all living things.

And while thinking we will perform in the Koteya matha there some work of merit, in order to consecrate our vows, our wealth, and our three times seven generations;—Bijjala Mahárája coming to take possession of the southern districts, encamped his army in Baligáde: and when in the enjoyment of peace and comfort, at that time, all these united coming before him and seating themselves, entered upon a discourse of merit. In which discourse Kasavaya Náyaka, rising and standing with his face towards the great king, folding his lotus hands, said, "Deva! a petition," and spoke as follows:—

"This Dakshina Kedára is a place for the destruction of sin, the very presence of S'iva openly manifested in the sight of all people, the visible embodiment of all the glory of the Krita yuga. Besides, this *Kamaṭha resembles the primeval tortoise (kamaṭha) in being a support to all the world; is like the man-lion's dána (smiting) of Hiranyakashipu in its dána (gifts) of hiranya and kashipu (gold and corn); as Kurukshetra is watered by the Saraswati (river) so is it the abode of Saraswati (learning); like the world of gods surrounded by vidyádhara (inferior deities) so is it surrounded with vidyá dhara (masters of learning); like the Mandara mountain in being superior to all in the world; like Vásudeva was enchanted at hearing the words of Akrúra so is it delightful with the sound of akrúra (gentle) words; like the dwelling of Bhavani in being dignified with the pure life of brahmacharis.

"And descended in the line of the gurus of that maṭha is Váma S'akti munisvarádhárya, the disciple of Gautamádhárya. To describe his glory:— Before the time that this munisvara appeared in that line of gurus, several munisvara gifted with all good qualities illuminated that maṭha, but this Váma S'akti muni, like the ovary of a bud composed of the brilliance of jewels, or like the moon, or the rays of the sun, filled the whole world with light, while all its inhabitants, with reverence folding their hands and doing obeisance, exclaimed Jiyá! His face was a stage for Saraswati to dance upon, his mind was a jewelled dwelling for the destroyer of Madana (Siva), celebrated throughout the world is this Váma S'akti Pañḍita Deva. Though in the creepers of the arched eyebrows of the fair Manmatha had placed his sugar-cane bow, in their glancing eyes his flowery arrows, and thus grown very great; yet from fear of the severity of the penance of this Váma S'akti muni, he hid his operations, confining them to the thoughts of the mind.†

"Therefore, were the Deva to perform in that maṭha some work of merit, it will endure as long as sun and moon."

On his saying thus, instantly taking it to mind, Bijjala mahipála, to provide for the decorations of the god Dakshina Kedáresvara, for food for the rishis who resort thither, for the support of learning, for repairs to the temple, and for the gratification of the beloved and the worthy,—in the 6th year (? of his reign), the year Vishu, the month Pushya, new moon day, at the time of the sun's eclipse, washing the feet of Vāma S'akti Pañḍita Deva, the disciple of Gautamāchārya,—presented, with pouring of water, Kirugere in Nūrum-būḍa, with enjoyment for three generations.

Whoso protects this gift will derive the merit of presenting in Vāranāsi and Kurukshetra a thousand tawny cows, and kolagas decked with gold and gems, to Brahmans versed in the four vedas. Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Itāmachandra beseech the kings who come after him. Sagara and many kings have enjoyed the world. According to their (gifts of) laud so was their reward. Those who alienate the property of gods or Brahmans will be born as black serpents inhabiting the hollows of trees in the forests of the Vindhya mountains. Poison is no poison, the property of the gods that is the real poison. For poison kills a single man, but the property of the gods (if usurped) kills sons and descendants. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Ayiranya, in the kampana, of the Pāndya Bājya, Konya Neralagere in the Kāladi nineteen, Siddiyanurudivi in Sattalige kampana, (who?) gave, with pouring of water, to be enjoyed for one life. Also Changaru Mattihalli in Basulu kampana, Chavalli in Nagara khandā, washing the feet of the royal guru Vāma S'akti Deva, to be enjoyed for three lives.

Moreover Bandonike Soyī Devarasa, Chandugi Deva, and Kāma Deva Dannāyaka, making application in a discourse,—for the service of the god Kedāresvara of the Koḍi maṭha, and the service of the god Somanātha, and the service of the god Brahmesvara of Byalur, gave in the manner approved by all, Muriganhalli and Kundangi in the Nāgara khandā kampana, Chikka Kanigya in Itānugalla kampana, with enjoyment for three generations.

May it be well! Fortune!

Om. Obeisance to Śiva and Pārvati, surrounded with worshippers.

Śri Gautamāchārya, the kalpa vriksha of thy dharma gratifies all desires,—its root the veda, the firm nyāya its fibres, the smṛiti its branches, the desire of dharma its shoots, the observances of the Śīva doctrine its blossoms, the thoughts of the mind its sap.

From the lotus navel of the lord of Pārvati sprung Brahma; from his arms came forth several kings who became famous under the name of Śāntaresvara. Mines of the quality of śāntama (the highest good fortune), of great śānta (patience), victors over all their enemies by the great might of their arms, released from the fear and desire of family, they obtained in the world the name of Śāntara.

Among them, able in protecting the feudatory kings, a king named Kamāna, became famous in the world. His brother (sahajita), of great power in the world, famous in the group of the chief kings of the earth, had the name of Singī Deva. The son of that famous king, a spear to the head of all hostile kings, a treasury of fortune to his dependent kings, in valour immovable as a great mountain, was Taila. The son of that king Taila was Śri Kīma Bhūpāla, lover of Rati the Lakshmi of the great wealth of the Śāntara mandalesvara, a Maamatha in attacking the mightiest kings, punisher of all the world in afflicting the inhabitants with the showers of his cruel arrows, thus did he obtain fame. That king's wife was Bijjala Devi, esteemed as herself the Sita praised by all the world, in conjugal affection having reached the acme of perfection as the purest in all the world.

To these two was born, great in immortal wealth, as if sprung from the union of nīli and vivēka, the Śāntara king named Jagadeva. To describe his qualities:—The autumn moon to the milk sea of Jina dharma, garlanded with the pearl necklace composed of the large (elephant) pearls the shining good words of the most learned, possessor of the lofty palace formed of the rays of the moonlight of his fame which shot up to all the points of the compass, grateful to the eyes of all people, was Jagadeva Bhūpa. His good disposition was seconded by his arm; and the wealth acquired by the learned dependent on him was an assistant to the glory of the might of his arm; the amount of jewelry set with gems which the wives of hostile kings cast off from their arms and ears, who shall tell it to the king?—this Jagadeva Bhūpala. The company of the women in the palaces of kings not friendly to S'ri Jagaddeva Bhūpala, had their hair bunched up unadorned with the weight of chaplets of flowers, their bare waists glittered not with the brilliance of golden zones, the twin globes their swelling breasts were not confined with bands of shining pearls.

To Battila Dairi, born at the same time as that Jagadevarasa's mother Bijjala Devi, and to Vijayāditya Deva,* was born Jaya Kes'i, a pure Kshatriya son, considered as the elder brother of that Jagaddeva.—To describe the royal qualities and disposition of that great king:—By the might of his arms forcing to fall at his feet all the hostile kings who refused to do him obeisance, lord of the Lakshmi of the great wealth of the seven Konkanas, this Jaya Kes'i Bhūpaja, by the exercise of the policy of great kings, obtained the same that there was no king more mighty than him. There was no beggar who did not receive his charity, there were no ambitious ones who attempted to govern as kings and lived; when he went forth to war there was no country into which his arrows did not fall; such was Jaya Kes'i, his elder brother, whose fame filled all points of the compass. Who then was so great as Jagadeva?

The younger brother of that Jagadeva, who obtained fame as a head-jewel of kings, a kalpa vriksha in the world to the learned, was Singi Deva. Seizing immense poisonous serpents by the throat, he forced them to discharge their poison, saying, 'Spit it out, spit it out'—then tearing open their venomous throats, and scratching through their hoods, he snatched out thence the fresh-formed jewels, saying 'I will add them as shining ornaments to my elder brother's armlet.'—Who then in the world can fully describe the valour of that Singi Deva?

Thus to fame and wealth a supreme lord, the beloved younger brother of Jaya Kes'i, the beloved elder brother of Singi Deva, entitled to the five great drums, Mahā Man'ales'vara, lord of paṭṭi Pombuchcha-pura, the obtainer of a boon from Padinavati Devi, fragrant as musk, skilled in the niti s'āstra, perfectly accomplished in sāhitya, a snare to the thighs of kings, an impaling post to the titled, S'rimat Tribhuvana Malla Jagadevarasa, while in the place called Setu, ruling the kingdom in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :— †

* A Kadamba king, see No. 55 and J. Bo. Br. E. A. S. IX, 231.

One day, surrounded by skilful wise men and his attendants, discoursing on merit, said thus—‘As water though of one substance is worshipped under many names, so God though essentially one is worshipped under many modes of life (? or systems.)’* On saying which in that discourse,—A bee at the lotus feet of Hara, protector of the worthy and of his dependents, a karnam whose hands were able in subduing the bravest in war, walking according to the rules of the dharma sūtra, a kalpa vriksha to supplicants, a Yama in swallowing up those who came with force to fight against him, an effectual cage of adamant to those who threw themselves on his protection, having acquired a great name by his experience in governing provinces (nād ādiya rādhi), the able Banmarasa,—His lotus hands being folded in obeisance, said,—‘A petition’—and spoke as follows:—

‘Dakshina Kedāra is a place for the absolution of sin, the manifest presence of Siva surrounded by the most learned, the visible embodiment of the glory of the Kṛita yuga. If I should describe the qualities of Gautamārya, the āchāri of that Kedāra sthāna:—Several munisvara adorned with the highest qualities having like great and brilliant lights illuminated that matha, at last Gautama muni, like the blossom of the perpetual light of a jewel lamp, has attained an established fame which enlightens all the world, while all the inhabitants thereof with folded hands exclaim Jīva! Therefore any work of merit there performed will be a permanent means of the absolution of sin.’

Taking that to mind, and coming to Balligēve:—May it be well. In the 13th year of S’rimat Chalulēya Pratāpa Chakravarti Jagalcha Malla Deva, the year S’ukla, the month Kartika, full moon day, Monday, during the eclipse of the moon,—in the presence of the holy feet of the god Dakshina Kedāresvara,—Jagadevarasa, united with his son (kumāra) Banmarasa, washing the feet of Gautama Panjita Deva, the disciple of Vādi Vidyābharana Pandita Deva, and pouring water: gave, in the manner approved by all, for the illuminations of the god, for repairs of the temple, for food to the rishis, and the support of learning, Kundāru, situated within the Kodanād 30 in the Santalige Thousand with enjoyment for three generations.

Moreover he gave on the north-east of the Madumba stream, below the lower bank of the Kabbilaketa tank, 2 matss of paddy land, in the manner approved by all.

This gift whoso maintains will derive the merit of presenting in Váranási, Kurukshetra and other holy bathing places, a thousand tawny cows, with kolas decked with precious stones, to Brahmans versed in the four vedas. Whoso usurps it will incur the guilt of slaying in those holy bathing places those tawny cows and those Brahmans at the time of the sun's eclipse. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another will assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

(A further gift, apparently inscribed afterwards.)

And in consequence of that discourse, (who?) gave, pouring water, Ablase and Hosavalli in Kodaná? kampana, in the manner approved by all; and Givindanahalli in Muduvalalu kampana, with enjoyment for three generations. May it prosper, this S'iva s'asana.

Om. Obseisance to S'iva. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chá-mara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of the auspicious Trailokyá Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyis'raya kula, ornament of the Chálukyas,^{*} was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky:—

At that time,—May it be well. While the auspicious Mahá Mandales'vara, Bijjana Devarasa, entitled to the five great dams, Mahá Mandales'vara, lord of Kálanjara-pura, having the flag of a golden bull, in beauty a Manmatha, possessor of the damaruga, túrya and nirghoshana, a jewelled ornament to kings, a sun to the lotus the Kaluchurya kula, fierce in war, in honour a Meru, a sun to good warriors, an elephant goad to the mighty, master of elephants, a cage of adamant to his dependents, in courage the lord of Lanka, to others' wives a brother, Malla of the S'anivára Siddagiri-durga, in character a Rama, a lion to the elephant his enemies, Nissanka Malla, having these and all other titles,†—was ruling all lands, punishing the evil and protecting the good;—

* See note p. 14.

† See note p. 86.

His great and able Danjanáyaka, a terror to his enemies, a friend to the people of the lands he had subdued, purifier of his family, the most accomplished among the skilful, Mahadevarasa was ruling the Banavase Twelve Thousand.

While united with the four karnams.— Potarasa, Cheddimarasa, Padmarasa, and Sovarasa, embodiments of the mind of Lijjana Deva, royal swans among the spreading lotuses the minds of the learned, chintámanis in granting all the desires of their dependents, suns in dispersing the clouds of poverty of the humble and destitute, he was ruling in peace :—

His mahá pradhána was Mayi Devarasa, a jewelled ornament of ministers, in the form of Manmatha, a bee at the lotus feet of Hara, the sole patron of the learned, a Náráyana to auspicious kings, worthy and familiar in the paratantra, the beloved son of the teacher (upádhya) Nanda Bhaṭṭa, rejoicer of the assemblies of the learned, by his merit purifying his family, the beloved son of Gaurala Devi, conspicuous with these and other names. Besides this, how came Chánikya, who with such great effort destroyed eleven Nānda kula, to be called a minister, say,—for without the slightest effort this Mayi Dandádhira subdued all the enemies of his master and greatly increased his joy and prosperity. Whoso clearly coming into his hand, goes and seeks aid from another, he never suffers to remain without defeat on the battle field; whoso comes against him with the bow, he humbles his pride and befriends him: can he be compared with other ministers, this Mayi Deva.

This great minister, the Hergga's Danjanáyaka of the vadā vāra and hejjunka of the Banavase Twelve Thousand, Mayi Devarasa, being in the royal city of Balligrāme in the enjoyment of peace,—one day, surrounded by all the learned and his attendants, delivered a discourse on merit:—when, they taking that to mind, spoke as follows:

“Dakshina Kedāra is a place for the absolution of sin, the presence of Siva openly manifested to all the citizens, the visible embodiment of the glory of the Krita yuga. And the maṭha there, like the primeval tortoise is a support to all the world and its inhabitants, like the milk ocean in giving birth to the Lakshmi of prosperity, like the pleasure garden of Bhavāni pervaded with the pure life of brahmacharis, like Kurukshetra watered by Sarasvatī (or learning), like Deva loka surrounded with vidhyādharas (or the learned), like Kailāsa protected by deformed śaktis and gods (or Vāma Śakti Deva).

the chain of mountains, though ancient ever new, was Gautama munipa. The son of that Gautama, an intoxicated bee at the lotus feet of the lord of Párvati, with a face free from passion, of worthy life, was Váma S'akti Pañḍita Deva. The glory of the Kedára sth'na was as a kalpa vine in the world, whose branches were covered with shoots by the unmoved penance of Someśvarárya and Gautamárya, until filling all the world it blossomed in Váma S'akti munindra. His face a pleasure house for Sarasvati, his mind a jewelled casket for S'iva, thus is he famed in all the world, Váma S'akti Pañḍita Deva.

"Therefore here should be performed some work of merit". On saying which, taking that to mind,—

May it be well.—In the 6th year of S'rimat Chalukya Trailokya Malla, the year Yuva, the month Mággha, new moon day, the uttaráyaca sankránti, Mouday, at the vyati páta—washing the feet of—May it be well—S'rimat Váma S'akti Pañḍita Deva, perfect in yama, niyama, svádhýaya, dhyána, dhárana, mauna, anushilána, japa, and samádhi,* devoted to the learned, áchári of the sth'na of Dakshina Kedáresvara Deva of the royal city of Ballipura,—and pouring water,—to provide for the food of the rishis, for the illumination of the god, and for the repairs of the temple, freed the areca nut produced in the garden of the god S'ri Kedáres'vara from the vaḍḍa rávu and the hejjunka, from the whole of the bilkonḍe sunka (or transit duties both ways) and the betel leaves of that garden from all customs duties, that they might be conveyed free of all imposts.†

Whoso maintains this gift will obtain the merit of presenting in Váranás'i, Kurukshetra and other holy bathing places, a thousand tawny cows, and kolagas decked with precious stones, to Brahmans versed in the four vedas.

Obeisance to Siva. May Soma, powerful to create with ease the three worlds, which grew with the nourishment of his pure shining body composed of the substance of the earth and all matter, the object of the love which he creates in Párvati, dwelling on the peak of Meru, the abode of happiness, the residence of surpassing glory and wealth, wearer of the crescent moon, lord of the bhútas, be for your wealth. May Vishnu, who supporting Lakshmi on his breast, bearing up in his hand the great mountain of Govardhana, having on his left Brahma, the stable earth at his back, the beauty of lotuses in his eyes, immortal glory in his body, the lord of the Yávaras, be the protector of all worlds.

May it be well.—Protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, first of monarchs, glory of the Yádava kula, ornament of the Hoysalas,* was S'rimat Pra'ápa Chakravarti Vira Ballála Deva, the origin of whose race was as follows:—

To the great (nahá) Vira Ballála, the brother was Vishnu Vardhana. His son was Nṛisimha, famous in the world. Through him the earth with joy obtained the glory of a good king, by him the herds of elephants his enemies were smitten; the destroyer of hosts, who had hung the lamp of his fame on the forehead of the earth, greatly celebrated in the world was Vira Nṛisimha Bhūpati.

The destroyer of brave enemies with his claws and the deep roar of his drums, his rolling eyes green (hasaru) with rage, conspicuous with the cluster of rays of glory, in all matters bringing happiness to the three worlds, to the circle of the world the Chakri (Vishnu) himself, the chief of the Yávaras, the glorious Narasimha Bhūpála shone like Indra himself. A kalpa vriksha not sprung from the ocean which the muni (Agastya) had swallowed, a Mandara mountain which had not been disturbed by Vishnu (at the churning of the sea) and hastily returned to its place, a lion which driving off the beaters had established himself as the king of the herd, such was Narasimha Bhūpála in surpassing valour. The Káli his sword danced with joy in the battle field when smiting through the hostile kings who would not yield, marking its frehead with their blood, and by splitting the heads as they rolled off on every side surrounding itself with a garland of brains, it drank its fill of blood from their skulls.

To him was born a son Ballála Bhūpāla, an ornament to all the world, who enriched with great fame, reigned over all the earth. To describe the glory of that king's valour:—Chōla was driven out of his mind; Pāndya, forgetful of his honour, fled by night with his army, and greatly trembling took refuge on the top of a mountain; besides these, Vanga, Kālinga and Magadha, kings over mighty hosts, hearing the victorious sound of the Hoysala emperor's bow, fled in terror. A Bhīma in personal strength, a moon to the ocean of policy, a Rāma in victory on the battle field, a Mamatha in beauty, a jewel to the group of the kings of his line, a light to the world, thus does Vīra Ballāla Bhūpa prevail. Lāla stood in the open plain (having no city or kingdom), Magadha Gau'a was defeated, the Konkana king was terror stricken, Nepāla was deprived of his bow, Mālava was worn out, and Chōla he terrified and defeated before coming and entering Mālava with great speed, that Vīra Ballāla Deva. † And through fear of him hostile kings deserted their kingdoms, saying 'we may chance to live somewhere.' Some got up into trees, some ran away, some took to boats, some chewed the grass (a sign of submission.) In like manner many groups of kings took refuge in hill forts. Thus did the fame of the mighty warrior Ballāla Bhūpāla mount and ride forth like the sun chasing away the darkness the groups of hostile kings.

And a moon in raising the tide of his wealth, without a second, was the Dandārū Eruga, who shone with great ability as a minister. May he live as long as the earth endures, Freyana Chamunāyaka, whose ability was set up in the temple of the world in order to create merit, whose bounty is devoted to bestowing benefits on all in the world, whose valour is devoted to the destruction of all the enemies in the world. Like a moon does he shine this Ereēna, raising the tide of the milk ocean of learning, nourishing the moonlight the cluster of works of merit daily rejoicing the hearts of the learned and Brahmins, acquiring unusual fame.

That Chamunātha, while governing the Banavase Twelve Thousand and the Sīntalige Thousand as the sole ruler (ekādīshītamāgi), one day in a discourse

A wondrous muni was Gautama in the world, for though enjoying all delight with the woman the brightness of his penance, which illuminated the summits of the mountains; though having a son the wisdom of the wise, and though loving the woman nīti s'āstra, yet was he called a yati. of womankind, the kaustubha ornament and the Apsara nymphs,—so obtained Vāma S'akti, a virtuous son of good qualities, having a knowledge of dharma. May this Vāma S'akti yatindra, praised by all the world, prevail, whose commands are placed on the heads of kings, whose growing wealth is in the discourses of the eloquent, having the knowledge of the eternal, whose actions are a sufficient security to all the world. This Vāmo S'akti yati, the perfection of wisdom, do all the wise thus celebrate,—as the mountain on which rises the sun of tarka, as an ocean to the gems of good deeds, as skilled in discriminating between the enduring and the perishing, the chief in understanding of the vedas, the principal resting place of the heart's desires of his disciples, the original expounder of the tatva. Skillful is Vāma S'akti yatindra to rejoice the hearts of the Chakravyāh kings by the notes of wind instruments sounding sa, dha, ri and other vāgas; by the modulations of the seven notes (or octave)* combined in the enchanting songs of singing women; and by the sounds of the mridanga and other drums.

A king over the whole world was Mūramayya; to whom and to his beloved wife Nāgala Devi, devoted to her husband, adorned with all good qualities, was born a son Barmma, clad in the armour of goodness. Him and his younger brother, the originator of great fame, worthily named Eraga, these did she bear into the world. Om.—Obisance to S'iva. Adored be S'amḷhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well.—The protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, first of monarchs, lord of the city of Kálanjara, having the flag of a golden bull, possessor of the damaruga, túrya and nirghoshana, sun to the lotus of the Kalachurya race, able in war, in honor a Meru, a sun to good warriors, an elephant good to the mighty, master of elephants, cage of adamant to those who seek his protection, in courage the lord of Lanka, a brother to the wives of others, Malla of the S'anivára Sid-dagiri durga, in character a Rāma, a lion to the elephants his enemies, Nissanka Malla,* Bhujā Bala Chakravartī Tribhuvana Malla Bijjana Deva, daily enjoying the lady Earth; to describe whom:—Earth, which through the ignorance (mūḍha) of Piṭhu was for long turned into a cow, having in the present age become the crowned queen (pāṭi mahiṣi) of Bijjana Deva, greatly rejoices, shining with the brilliance of the precious stone, which lying first in the ocean, then cast on the shore, then on a rock, at last became the kaustubha on Vishnu's breast. Thus was the earth, exalted by this king, praised by all mankind.

While thus, without a second or a superior, he was ruling the whole world under the protection of his sole umbrella, he made an order conferring his own government (śimurājyabhāram nirūpaṇam māhīla) upon his son.

To describe the glory of that favourite of the Maharāja:—This Soma, worthy of the name of soma (moon), was born from the ocean Bijjana Mahipāla, dispersing the darkness of the clouds the groups of his enemies, causing the waterly the joy of the world to unfold, and the lotuses the faces of the wives of hostile kings to fade away, lord over the rising of the stars, (otherwise, lord preventing the rise of other Kshatriyas), shining with streams of glory, radiant with learning, possessor of the moonlight of his brilliant fame.

While that son of Bhujā Bala Tribhuvana Malla Deva, king of kings, a sun to kings, with glory as dazzling as the rays of the sun, grantor of their heart's desires to all supplicants, terrifier of his enemies, Jāya Murāri Sovi Deva Chakresvara, accompanied by his ministers, was governing the kingdom in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom:—†

Calling for Byālike Kesimaya Dan'anāyaka,—entitled to the five great drums, great tributary, the issuer of orders to the generals and officers, establisher of the policy consisting of prabhu, mantra and utsāha, the mahā pradhāna, sarvādikari, of great liberality,—favoured him, saying, "Take charge of the countries forming the treasury of the south, and govern them, punishing the evil and protecting the good:" which was accepted as a distinguished favour by that great and powerful Dan'anātha‡: to describe the glory of whose valour:—

This is not the world of *vilyadhara*s this crowd that fills all the sky, it is not the hosts of starga, it is not the group of gandharvas, it is not the shining ranks of kinnara, it is the immense host of powerful kings who, falling as soon as Byálike Kesamaya's victories began, have ascended to heaven. His life is that of the Manus worthy of reverence, his policy that of the ancient kings, all the wealth acquired by his mighty arms is for the benefit of others, the promotion of his government he counts as his own promotion, the happiness of his dependents he reckons as his own happiness, thus during his life-time does the glory of Kes'ava Dandanáyaka increase.

That great one, thus increasing in every kind of glory, ruling the Tal-davádi Thousand, the Hánugall Five Hundred, and the Banavase Twelve Thousand for a long period (áneca kála) in peace; coming to the immemorial (anádi) capital Balligáte for the purpose of inspecting his own country (svades'ávalokanárthavági), and seeing there the elegant tower (má'a kúta) of (the temple of) Dakshina Kedáresvara, its palatial buildings, its decorations of precious stones, its golden pinacles, its gifts for learning and food, and other holy rites; thinking, 'This is double of Varánasi, a hundred fold of Kedára, a thousand fold of S'ri Parvata, therefore here must I perform some work of merit and thus obtain all my desires,'—he came into the presence of the Rája-Guru Deva, the áchári of that place, and took note for a long time of the variety and extent of his learning. In s'abla a Pánini panjita, in níli Bhúshanáchárya, in nátya and other bharata s'ástras Bharata muni, in kávyá Subandhu, in siddhánta Lakulisvara, at the feet of Siva a Skanda adorning the world, thus is Váma S'akti yati truly described.

To him, famous in these and many other ways, on making known his wish to perform there a work of merit, and he replying, 'Be it so (talastu), whatever dharma you bestow we will accept':—In the 16th auspicious Kalachurya year, the year Sarvadhári, the month Vais'úkha, full moon day, Sunday, during the eclipse of the moon, at the sankramana and vyati páta; having made application to Ráya Murári Sovi Deva, and obtaining from him a táura s'á-sana, Byálike Kes'imaya Dandanáyaka, pouring water, gave Clíkka Kannugi, situated in Yelanchi kampana of Hánugall náci, to provide for the worship and decorations of Dakshina Kedára Deva, for repairs of the temple, for food to Brahmans and rishis, and for the support of learning; washing the feet of the áchári of that place, the Rája-Guru Deva, the beloved disciple of Gautama Deva, with enjoyment for three generations; to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky.

This gift whose maintains will derive the merit of presenting in Varanás'i, Kurukshetra, and other chief sacred places, a thousand tawny cows together with gold and many precious stones, and decorated kolagas, to a thousand Brahmins versed in the vedas and s'ástras, performers of the soma yága, and born in the line of somayájis. This gift whose resumes will descend to the Naraka appointed for him who should slay in those sacred places, at that time, those Brahmins and those cows with his own hand. In witness whereof is the s'ruti, Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Merit is a common bridge for kings. This from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra from age to age beseech the kings who come after him. The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many other kings, whose empire was extensive in proportion to their gifts of land. To make a gift oneself is an easy task, to maintain that of another is difficult. But of giving or preserving (another's gift), the preserving is the best. mana Dandes'a! on you has the lady earth set her heart, at the mere sight of your Kuntala (otherwise, curly locks) her Kānchi (otherwise, zone) slips off with agitation. Chanḍugi Deva, burning the territory of the brave Vijayāditya, taking the Chō'a and Hoysa'a kingdoms, troubled the hostile kings who were burning with envy.* The lustre of the beautiful pale (pāṇḍura) cheeks of the crowned queens of the kings hostile to the lord Rechana Danḍanātha, chātaka birds taking for the moon, bees for white waterlilies, swans for the stalk of the lotus, wander about causing the world to laugh.

In doing favours to others a S'ibi, in giving charity a Karna, in benevolence to mankind a Dharma, in extensive liberality and unshaken truth the only one, who in the earth was a king but Sevana Chamupati. Among the elephants of the points of the compass Airāvata, among animals the lion, of gold the Meru mountain, among the gods Indra, of the oceans the shining milk sea, such great fame did Katuna Danḍanāyaka obtain and increase his glory in the world.

The auspicious Ahava Malla Mahipāla, surrounded by these great ministers adorned with all exalted qualities, calling for Kesimanya Danḍanāyaka,—the mahā pradhāna, the birthplace of all virtues, purifier of the Eharadvaja gotra, grandson of Kes'ava Deva and Pampāmbika, son of Holalamarasa and Durggāmbika, the loved one to the heart and eyes of Lakshmi Devi, unassailable by fear or avarice, in wat the three-eyed (S'iva), friend of the learned, a combination of all good qualities which unite in ministers of long service, entitled to the five great drums, great feudatory, the issuer of orders to numerous great commanders, master of all wealth, terrifier of his enemies, possessor of these and other true titles:—and saying "Govern the treasury of the south so that the country may have quiet †, punishing the evil and protecting the good,"—gave him Banarase nāḥ, which was accepted as a distinguished favour by that great minister ‡; to describe whose qualities:

His life was that of the Manus worthy of reverence, his policy that of the ancient kings, all the wealth acquired by his mighty arms was used for the benefit of others, the promotion of his government he counted as his own promotion, the happiness of his dependents he reckoned as his own happiness, thus during his life time did the glory of Kes'ava Danḍanāyaka increase. In the kingdom of this lord Krishna Kes'ava Deva Chamupati there were none conceited, none conspicuous in splendour, no opponents, none great in possessions, none envious, none who went forth to battle and came back weeping, none who unmindful of their proper title gave heed only to the flattery of poets' songs. The double of Chánakya, twenty fold of Sakaluka, a hundred fold of Bhṛigu (Parasu Ráma), a thousand fold of Háli (Bala Ráma), thus much did he exceed them in glory, Kes'ava Deva.

And that mahá pradhána Krishna Kes'ava Deva Danḍanátha's excellent ministers were the following :—His life like that of Manu, never uttering vain words, his faith having obtained him a place equal to that of the son of S'iva, possessed of such glory, who could compare with Singa Náyaka? In affection and speech free from the sins of the Kali age, except to Tikka Rája, to apply to others as frail as grass (pul mánasaram) the name of "king" was like calling a stone a jewel. This is true. What I wish for will come at my wish, all else I prevent from coming, thus used to say Báchayya. The treasurer Sori Deva was to his dependents a treasury, why praise him? for others called treasurers, what connection have they with the assemblies of the learned, what manner of kings are they? Considering as his own all the intentions in the mind of his lord, to the envious like the messengers of Mṛityu (death), to supplicants like a Surabhi (cow of plenty), thus did Bámayya appear. His faith at the feet of S'iva, gentle in speech, eager to do deeds of benevolence, possessed of such qualities, Bibi Rája shone to all the points of the compass. Only for the purpose of gratifying the desires of supplicants did he take the trouble of acquiring wealth and for no others S'iva Tirtha S'ri Dúsi Rája of great glory.

Moreover, to describe the greatness of the karnams who were like the embodiments of the benevolent wishes of the ministers of that great king of kings. Of qualities praised by skilful poets, born from the face of Brahma, able in doing good to others, excellent in the delights of good speech, beloved by the assembly of the Brahmans, profound as the sea, devoted to the faith of the feet of S'iva, with what esteem should those karnams be regarded!

Besides these were Hiriya Viṭṭarasa, like the embodiment of the royal glory of Lakshmi Deva Danḍanátha: Chandugi Deva Danḍanáyaka, the embodiment of fierce might; the Desiya Danḍanáyaka Chikka Viṭṭarasa, the glory of the Váji kula, purifier of the Bharadvaja-gotra, the beloved son of Ittige Duggi Setti; Kes'ava Deva, the chief friend of the world, follower of the life of Rechannayya Danḍanáyaka, an abode of the science of war; Kávanayya Náyaka, like a son to the rája Lakshmi of Sovanayya Danḍanáyaka; Rechannayya Náyaka, glittering like the formidable bow in the hand of Kavanaya Danḍanáyaka.

While surrounded by all these ministers and royal attendants, the Indra of the wealth of the three worlds, like a cooling moon, was ruling the Banavase. Twelve Thousand, with Hayve, Sántalige, Yedodere and other associated countries*, in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom, †—on the occasion of this great assembly, there was started a discourse on merit, describing the (king's) skilful policy and the glory of the city, as follows, by Suími Deva, whose life was that of a muni, of high birth like Kapila, himself the glory of all beauty, considered as equal to Kes'ava, the son of Nachchi, his head marked by the lotus hands of the excellent muni Váma S'aktis'a the S'íva scer, in greatness the noble Rama, the minister of the three puras,— who with great tact entering suddenly,—

' In firmness, of Meru,—in holy life, of Manu,—in providing a theme for the first chief poets, of Sarasvati, —the equal, the peer, the fac-simile‡ ; to good qualities a quarry ; of that firmness the abiding place, of that character the abode, of that sweet theme the home : thus is this lord truly celebrated in the world'—said the minister Sívi Deva, with joy.

' For the glory of the city : the rákshasa Bali having dwelt in this kshetra, made gifts, and in the course of manyantaras been considered as Indra himself ; Balipura is of such immense antiquity that it is beyond my power to praise it. Therefore here perform some work of merit.'

Immediately saying ' Be it so' (tal astu), the S'riman Mahá Manjales'vara, with Talaha Deva ; Eraharasa § their brother-in-law ; Máli Setti, pattaṇa swámi of the royal city Balipura ; pattaṇa swámi Mebi Setti ; Múliga Dharmma Siva Deva, áchári of the Iliriya maṭha of the five maṭhas ; Rudra S'akti Deva, áchári of the Pancha Liṅga maṭha ; Jnina S'akti Deva, áchári of the Tripurántaka ; with other citizens of the five maṭhas and the three puras ; Sívi Deva, Sandore Herggade ; his colleagues (pratihasta) Chattana and Tippana ; the celebrated chiefs of the suns of chiefs who subdued Konkana and took tribute from Vijayáditya, those who having given pleasure to Hoyasa Vira Ballála, chief among the Malapas, had obtained from him respect and were revered by all. ||

* Banavase pannirchekhásiramunman'antah pravishtavoppa Hayve Sántalige Yedodere pramukha des'amam.—Hayve is probably the same as Haiga, North Canara ; Yedodere, the region between the Tunga and Bhadra rivers.

This Vijayáditya was the grandson of the Vijayáditya mentioned p. 98, and son of Jayakes'i the Kadamba king who married a Chalukya princess.—Cf. J. Bo. Br. R. A. S. ix, 231.

And besides these, the Bananju dharmma (a sect)*, firm, of great prudence, granters of their desires to their dependents, of one word, faithful to the feet of Isvara, observers of the policy which raises the prosperity of countries at the right seasons, of good character, of great strength, of exalted merit, beloved by all people, all which is no flattery:—Among the auspicious Ayyas, thus in many ways praised, in Bhallunki and other grámas, nagaras, khedas, klaruvadas, madambas, dronómukhas, puras and pañanas; inhabitants of Láta, Gauja, Karnápa, Bangála, Kás'mira and other quarters and countries: the local heads who united the glory of both classes of the Des'is; Manigára Mahadevi Setti, Manigára Maili Setti, Manigára Padma Setti, Manigára Mánika Setti, Mari Setti who had the feet of S'iva as his crest, Sori Setti, Holla Setti, Sálige Máchi Setti, making joyful all these meritorious ones among the merchants:—

May the three persons (tri purusha), the lords (respectively) of Ś'ri (Lakshmi), Vāñi (Sarasvati) and Girijá (Párvati), seated on Garuḍa (the kite), hamsa (the swan) and uksha (the ox); dwelling in the ocean, in the lotus and on the mountain (Kailása); having the colour of the bee, of the red lotus, and of the moon: possessed of the qualities of satva, rajas and tamas; having two, eight, and three eyes; Govinda (Vishnu), Abhaja (Brahma) and S'ankara (Siva), ever protect us. Adored by S'ambhu, beautiful with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head, the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well. While the victorious kingdom of the auspicious Trailokya Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the Chálukyas,* was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky:—

As mount Meru is a refuge to the gods so he to the learned, as Ś'iva the lord of Uma as Indra continually showering rain so bestowing gifts, as Ahisvara so able to support the burden of the world, as the moon surrounded with rays so with wisdom, as the ocean the birthplace of the beautiful Lakshmi so he of prosperity: thus was the king Ahava Malla celebrated.

In unsullied fame, in wealth, in character, in courage, in victory, in great wars, in exalted qualities, who can say 'I am equal to Ahava Malla?' Can Yayâti, or Bhagirâtha, or Purukutsa, or Purûrava, or Dilîpa, or Bharata, or Nala, or Nahusha? Braves who did not do him obeisance, proud ones who did not fear him, kings who did not seek his protection, lords of the forest (ajavisvaroru) who did not come to him begging, warriors fond of fighting whom he did not cast into Yâma's power, those who invincible by all else did not hide their faces from him, chiefs of hill forts who did not descend from their strongholds and run away, those blinded with pride who did not tremble and quake; there were not,—such was the bravery of Ahava Malla Deva. The seven Mâlava who came against him, in a moment he sent to destruction; the seven Konkana and seven Male, which united together, he terrified and made to obey him; Chauîtka (the Chola king) in the middle of the fight going into a hole died; the kings of all the islands gave tribute*; how great a warrior was this Ahava Malla.

May it be well.—The dharmmáya which the ever bountiful auspicious five hundred, Pattana Sávi Mebi Setṭi, Kirtti Setṭi, and the chief nagaras under them, gave for the decoration and processions of Gavaresvara Deva, and for repairs of the temple :—

The shops of the nagaras ten visa each a year ; the gold merchants ten visa each a year ; the sthala gavaregaḷu one pana a year per sack ; the gavare of other countries one hága a year per sack ; for camphor, musk, kunkuma, sandal, pearls and all such articles sold by weight, two káni per ponnu ; cloth merchants of the place and foreign cloth merchants two káni per ponnu ; for black pepper, cummin seed, mustard, sada flower, bishop's weed, and coriander one visa per pon ; for sugar, assafoetida, dry ginger, long pepper, cardamoms, green ginger, turmeric, and all fibres and roots sold by weight, one visa per pon.

The Danjanáyaka managing the hejjunka and vaḍḍa rávuḷa † freed the sunka on one load in ten loads ; the merchants who load from the place and all merchants from abroad one mána per load ; the forty families of flower-sellers, one garland for each basket ; the thousand támbúligas, a thousand leaves for each family in Chaitra for the procession ; the fifty families of oilmen one sonḍige for each mill, for the lights of the god.

The worthies (manneya) of the Jiddulige Seventy :—Ekkalarasa the chief, the naḍ prabhu, Chiṭṭi Mára Kála gávunḍa, Sigga Báva gávunḍa, Ságavadde Báda gávuda, Avali Jakka gávuda, Hampa gávuda, Hosa Valliyúr Sávimeya, Sankara Bhatta, Kúdali Sánta gávuda, Tottúr Royda gávuda, and all the prabhu gávunḍas gave for the god five pana a year for each village.

The worthies of the Edeṇáḍ Seventy:—Sovarasa Praṇamarasa the chief, the mahájanagaḷu of Agrahára Elase, the mahájanagaḷu of Kuppeḡe, Basamára Bira gávunḍa, Taramára Kola gávunḍa, Barige Jakka gávunḍa, Guḍuve Jaka gávunḍa, Veramára Billa gávunḍa, Tavaniddhi Dutṭa gávunḍa, Soramba Kalla gávunḍa, Kúdali Báka gávunḍa, all these prabhu gávunḍas gave five paṇa a year for each village.

The property of those who die without heirs among the heḡala gavare Bananjigas of the mummuri dandagaḷu in the city and in the náḍ goes to the god.

The goldsmiths of the city gave one paṇa a year for each chafing dish; the washermen of the city gave ten visa each a year; the basket makers of the city gave five visa a year for each knife: the weavers gave five visa a year for each kúte (? loom).

What person soever with affection maintains this gift, will obtain the fruit of the merit of bestowing at Kurukshetra, Gaya, Ganges, Varanásí, and other holy bathing places, to a crore of Brahmans, versed in the vedas and s'ástras, lovers of vows, a crore of tawny cows about to become two-faced (i. e., to calve), with humility, in the punya tithi. What doubt of this? Whoso complaining resumes this gift will incur the great guilt of wantonly killing those Brahmans and those tawny cows in those holy bathing places.

To the kings of my own race or the kings of any other race who with minds freed from sin shall faithfully maintain this my gift, to them do I with folded hands placed to my head do obeisance.

Merit is a common bridge for kings; this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Ramachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Poison is no poison, the property of the gods that is the real poison. For poison kills a single man, but the property of the gods (if usurped) kills sons and descendants: The wild-fire though it consumes all the trees in the forest, spares their roots; but . . . destroys both the kula and its root.

Múliga Madhukesvara Pandita Deva, áchári of the Hiriya maṭha, and his son Dharmma S'iva Deva, presented in the streets of their Múlasthána Deva;—in the west street, one house of ten hands (kai) to Manigára Mahadevi Setṭi; in the south street, one house of ten hands to Manigára Lakmi Setṭi; in the manner approved by all, to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky. The auspicious Mahá Mandalesvara Ekkalarasa's Dandánáyaka Kámarasa remitted for Gavaresvara Deva the koḍavisa on ten bullocks.

May it be well.—May the command of Jinendra, praised as the universal protection, be pleasure-giving as the moon to the faithful; washed by the streams of the united brilliance from the crowns on the heads of gods and rākshasas, may it ever grant prosperity. May the doctrine of Trailokya nātha, the supreme profound syād vāda, a token of unfailing success, the Jain doctrine prevail.

May it be well.—Protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyās'raya kula, ornament of the Chālukyas, * was the auspicious Tribhuvana Malla Deva.

The Chōla king he caused to shake, (his) great ones (aniyaru) he took no count of; to the Lāla king he displayed the power of his arms, and overcoming him destroyed him: the feudatory kings of both emperors (ubhaya chakresvara sāmanta bhūbhrit), mounting his furious elephant, he tormented and took their kingdoms, and became the lord of the shining Lakshmi of the Pāṇḍya kingdom, (his) Vikramāditya Deva, praised by all. To Dārānātha (?) a great and dreadful fever; to Chōla a cruel Yama; his feet revered by the crowns of the lives of the kings of Saurāsh'ra, Anga, Kalinga, Vanga, Magadhā, Anḍhra, Acāṅṭi, Panchāla; the Chalukya regent elephant (dig gaja) sported in the forests and mountains on the shores of the eastern and the western oceans. As the form of Narasimha tore open the breast of the rākshasa king,

... bore up Kailasa on his chest, ... presented with joy the gold of the earth to Indra, subduing all the mightiest destroyed twenty-one times the kings of the earth,—even so, O Vikramāditya, is your enmity implacable! Saying, "Why share it with others? If I take it upon myself alone shall I be overcome with fatigue?"—from the back of the great tortoise, from the head of the lord of serpents, from the company of the elephants at the cardinal points, from the caves of the mountains (at the points of the compass), boldly lifting off the whole weight of the world, by his might he placed it securely in his arms, Vikramāditya Deva.

* See note p. 14.

When thus having freed the world from every enemy he was in his residence at Tagiri, ruling the kingdom in piece and wisdom :—

The dweller at his lotus feet ; May it be well. Entitled to the five great drums, lord of great feudatories, a commander of great power, a terror to evil doers, a moon to the tall waterlily the company of his relatives, a light to the Urahmans, a benefactor to Sarasvati Devi, adorned with good qualities, a Brahma in skill, a lion in courage, an aid to valour, a Garuḍa in devotion to his master, punisher of the evil, destroyer of the garden of lotuses his enemies, of modest aspect, fame his flag, great in emulation, a bee at the lotus feet of Tribhuvana Malla Deva, having these and other names and titles, was the auspicious Danḍanayāka Barmma Deva. *

A security to all the world by the might of his arms, causing great astonishment in the world by his power, the brightness of his terrible glory, his ability, his single word and his exalted fame, an ocean to the gems of all good qualities and happiness, was Barmma Deva. He himself an eye to all people, he their fate, a sun through whose brightness the shining of the stars his enemies was eclipsed, the darkness of evil was dispersed, and all the earth shone with exceeding glory, in order to confirm the dominion of the fame of Vikramāditya did he obtain power, Barmma Deva, of matchless might. The mountain was removed by Hari, by the Daitya the earth was confined in the womb of Pátála, by the hurricane of wind at the destruction of the world the points of the compass were blown away ;—laughing at these as having no stability, his real firmness despises them, Barmma Dandādhipa.

While this abode of praise and fame, the auspicious Mahá Senádhpati, Mahá pradhána, the Danḍanayāka Barmma Devarasa, enjoying (anubhavisutam) the Banavase Twelve Thousand, the Sántalige Thousand, and the eighteen agraharas, punishing the evil and protecting the good, was in the royal city Balligáve :—

His god Jinanátha swámi, his own guru the great vratī Gunabhadra his mother Jakkabbe, his father Soma, his younger brother Mebi, his wife Bhogabbe, his father-in-law Kali Deva revered by the world, a nest of good qualities, a patron of the learned ; thus blameless in every relation, was Singa, distinguished for the collection of tribute and discourse on merit. Of modesty the limit, of merit the home, of virtue the birth place, of reverence the abode, of greatness the summit, to prudence, learning, liberality and patience a mine, thus praised by all the circle of the world, was the bee at the lotus feet of Jinapati, of great qualities, Pratikantha Singa. on examination he is the perfect equal of the son of Sankara, of Sarasvati and of Brahma, thus does all the world praise him, how excellent then is Singa's greatness of fame among the worthy. Pure was the son of Ganga (Bhishma), purer than the son of Ganga was the beloved son of Vāyu (Haruman), purer than the son of Ganga or the son of Vāyu was Suka; but praised as surpassing in purity that son of the river, that king of the apes, and that Suka rishi, is Pratikantha Singa. As birds to a mango tree laden with fruit, as bees to a strong perfume, so to do the crowds of the learned flock to the Divāli festival of his bounty; and he causes them all so to rejoice that they extol it as imperishable and ever new, Singa Raja.

With great ardour did he learn the method of bestowing benefits, he learned how to invite the learned to him and to shew them respect, he learned to maintain the great praise of protecting his dependents, he learned to astonish all as the king among the worthiest, all these were the acquired qualities of Pratikantha Singa.

A sun to the sky of Jina dharma, a moon in raising the tide of the milk sea of Jina dharma, a bee at the lotus feet of Jinapati, these being his true qualities, Pratikantha Singa thus praised, originating a discourse on merit, said "You should present to the S'rimat Permmāḍi basadi (Jain temple) one bāda, obtaining it from S'ri Ballavarasa."*

On his thus making application to his governor, and the auspicious Dandanāyaka Barmma Deva making known the whole matter to his own swāmi; S'rimat Tribhuvana Malla Deva, in the 2nd year of Chalukya Vikrama, the year Pingala, the month Pushya, the 7th day of the moon's increase, Sunday, it being the uttarāyana sankrānti parbba: in the royal city Balligāve, on the birthday of his son (tamma kumāra gūladandu), made the gift to the god of the S'rimat Chālukya Ganga Permmāḍi Jinālaya, to provide for the services, the worship, the anointing, the decoration, the food of the rishis, for repairs of the temple and the new work of the upper basadi.

Greatly conspicuous by the bright glory of his fame, and the lines of shining lotuses his worshippers, driving away the clouds of darkness evil deeds, brilliant as the three beautiful gems in the sky of the Jaināgama worthy of praise from all, a temple of all the qualities of fortune, was (the god) Guna-bhadra Daiva, the sun to the lotuses chief munis. A treasury of great penance, lord of the assembly of munis, distinguished for wisdom combined with merit, was the celebrated Mahāsena brati. And famous was that vratis's disciple: in the extensive s'abda s'āstra he was like the world-renowned Pūjyapāda, in skill in tarka s'āstra he was like Akalanka Daiva, in poetical power like Sámanta Bhadra, thus greatly was Ráma Sena the chief of the learned praised, as the king of the world.

To him, who had thus reached the furthest shore of the ocean of all science, devoted to the performance of supreme penance: to Ráma Sena Pandita, of the S'ri Múla Sangha the Sena gana and Pogari gachchha, with pouring of water and all ceremonies, he gave Manevane one (village), situated in the Jiddulige 70, in the Banavase Twelve Thousand kampana.

This gift whoso maintains, will derive the merit of presenting in Bānarás'i and Kuruksbeta, to a thousand Brahmans, a thousand tawny cows and kolas decked with precious stones. Whoso resumes it will incur the guilty of slaying that number of Brahmans and that number of tawny cows in those holy places.

To the kings of my own race or the kings of any other race, who with minds freed from sin shall faithfully maintain this my gift, to them do I with folded hands placed to my head do obeisance.

Merit is a common bridge for kings. This from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra beseech the kings who come after him. Whoso by violence takes away a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many other kings, whose empire was extensive in proportion to their (gifts of) land.

Chárun'amayya, of the hill of Gunabhadra Deva, wrote it. Great prosperity! Fortune!

May he (S'iva) who like the wild-fire in the forest drinks up the first of rivers (Ganges), its stream widened by the breeze from the waving chámaras in the hands, laden with tinkling ornaments, of the celestial nymphs as they fan him; god of gods; worthy to be praised by the three worlds; the husband of Gauri, grant our desire. May he who is as a thunderbolt to the mountains of trouble, who rejoices in the (movement of the) heads of his serpents, whose prowess is a source of joy, lord of heaven and all worlds, at the kalpa vriksha of whose feet is a place of rest from all care, the sight of whom is a joy to all people, who shines with the light of the moon, Mahes'a, grant every desire. May the god who is conspicuous by the light upon his lotus feet from the rows of jewels in the crowns of the celestial inhabitants prostrate before him, adorned with long arms like shining serpents, protect us.

The auspicious Chalukya emperor, peerless in might, Tailapa; a combination of all splendour, Satyás'raya; Vikramáditya, the home of bravery; Jaya Singa, excellent in wisdom, a treasury of surpassing ambition, kind to all; Trailokya Malla, encircling (as a garland) the fortune of the world—these being famous brought the Chálukya kingdom to renown.

That celebrated Ahava Malla, conqueror on the field of battle, lord of victory, lord of the sea-engirdled earth, a moon filled with the nectar of his good works, the source of fortune to the Chálukya kingdom, acquired great fame by the power of his own arms.

Trailokya Malla, (was such that) whoever refused him obeisance with folded hands, he went against them, O astonishment! in the greatness of his power, surrounding them, broke them, tossed them up, sacked them, dragged them violently along, beat them, slaughtered them, pierced them, cut them in two, plucked them up by the root, transported them. it is impossible to think of all the ways in which he destroyed his enemies.

Bhuvanaika Malla, his son, with qualities worthy of praise from all the inhabitants of the world, a beloved ornament to the wife his father's kingdom, his crest the dust from the lotus feet of S'iva, of the highest fame, the whiteness of the nectar of his splendid features shone into all lauds. The elephants of Bhuvanaika Malla chased afar these who made war upon him, streams of blood flowed on all sides, so that wild animals came in groups to drink it; the enemy's elephants fell here and there exhausted, their heads staggering with giddiness; the enemy's army completely routed, fled panting away.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of Bhuvanaika Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the *Chálukyas—was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon and stars.—

Serving with diligence the lotus feet of this great king was the Vishn—

like S'ri Ganga, who could overcome all difficulties, who had subdued hosts of enemies, whose lotus feet received the homage of all rival kings bearing his orders on their heads, the greatest hero in the world.

Like a sea of good fortune, chief of all the Brahmans, a conqueror by his might in every point of the compass, a head jewel to Brahmaas and Kshatriyas, a king of kings was Udayāditya. Is there any equal to you in the field of battle? you destroyed all the kings of the earth who came against you.

Om. Adored be Sambhu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original-foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

I am obedient to the words of Dhrivésvara Guru, the disciple of S'ri Vādi Rudra, and (am) like the possessor of the kalpa vriksha to the ears of the wise.

Om. Praise to Siva. May it be well. While the victorious kingdom of the illustrious Bhuloka Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the *Chūlukyas—was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon and stars.—

The sculptors Byāvāna and Rāvāna, adorned with all good qualities, of great reputation among the good, brothers, perfect workmen. Their father was Gola, their mother named Ballave, their friends and relations were Gauris'a Dāsas, and they revered Gautamārya, worthy to be worshipped by munis, the āchāri of the Koḷiya maṭha, whose praise is in all the world.

These two, Byāvāna and Rāvāna, in order to clear an aspersion on their own race of the sculptors, † set up an image of the god Kusuvés'vara, and calling together Mebi Seṭṭi, Kirtti Seṭṭi, and others, with all the nagara janar golu and the five maṭhas, as well as their own house people, gave the temple of the Kusuvés'vara to the illustrious Gautama Deva, in the same manner as the god Kelāres'vara.

† This is the name of the temple at Balagami.

And that Gautama Deva, in the year Siddhárti, the month Pushya, the 13th day of the moon's increase, Sunday, the day of the sun's entering the northern signs—in presence of all the Nagaras and of the five mathas—pouring water, gave for the pleasure and daily service of the god, by the hand of Narasimha, 60 kamma of wet land from the eastern portion of the land in his possession. And Meli Setti and Kirtti Setti, and the other Nagara people, experienced in all works of merit, gave in permanence the land rent of the house in which Byavana lived*, for the repairs of the temple of Kusuves'vara. And fifty householders of the oil-makers gave to the eternal god one solige of oil for each mill. And all the (?) tailors gave one pána per house per annum, and one pána for every wedding among them, for a splendid car procession of the god in the month Chaitra. (Some defaced).

Whoso protects this gift as long as sun, moon, stars and sky endure, obtains the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows to Brahmins at Váranási, Gaya, and Kurukshétra. Kings should from age to age support the bridge of merit, thus prays continually Rámachandra. Whoso alienates any gift made by himself or by another will be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Of making a gift and continuing it, the continuing it is the best, for he who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who continues it obtains final beatitude.

Praise to Síva.

May it be well.—Vikramāditya was a king whose navel was occupied by the goddess of fortune, his feet were placed on the head of his enemies, he was praised by all people and of spotless fame. With a gentle smile as white as the body of his fame, which resembled in purity curds or the elephant's tusk, he had brought all the world under one umbrella, a crowning ornament to the lunar race. In strength of body, strength of shoulders, strength in wielding the sword, who in the world can excel you? Are there any kings in the earth so conspicuous when the bravest of the enemy are engaged amid the roar of battle?

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of the illustrious Tribhuvana Malla, a protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyá's'raya kula, ornament of the *Chálukyas, was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon and stars—and while he was ruling in peace and wisdom in his residence of Kalyána.—

Resting at his feet as the bee upon the lotus, was Anantapála Danjádís'a, endowed with titles of honor and virtue, who had exhibited his prowess among the brave enemies, was worshipped by the learned, an ocean to the gem of goodness, the purest of the pure, the ablest of the able.

May it be well.—While entitled to the five great drums, the Mahá manjales'vara, lord over great feudatories, giver of their wishes to the learned, attentive to the good, purifier of the other family (into which he married), son of a superior mother, a fourth Revanta, like Yama to his enemies, able to overcome impossibilities, a new Narasimha, possessed of all titles—the great minister, Bánasa Verggaḍe (chief of the kitchen!) Danjanáyaka Anantapálarasa having received the Puḷvala (or Purvala) Three Hundred, the Puligere Three, the Banavase Twelve Thousand, the seven and a half lakh pannáya, was governing them in peace and wisdom.†

Through his favour, Góvinda Rájá, brilliant with all good qualities, obtained the government of the Twelve Thousand country of Vanavási.

With a navel greatly enlarged by the goddess of fortune, shining with a garland of good qualities, was Góvinda. Like Vishnu to the rákshasas his boasting enemies, like Bhairava his feet were worthy of reverence as those of a king, if seen in anger like S'iva when his central eye flames forth in the forehead, adorned with a snake-like crest, lotus ornaments in his ears, his arms shining with the spear, with a brilliant tusk in his mouth, he was fearful to behold in war. To Kes'i Rájá, distinguished in all learning, and his wife Núlarbe, was born Dás'i Rájá, beloved by all the earth, filled with all good qualities, a sun in the firmament of the Parása family. He was the father, and Sománbika, the abode of all virtues and good qualities, the mother of Góvinda Rájá.

While this Góvinda Rájá, the gem of all such good qualities, protector of the learned, enlightening the water-lily of the world with the moonlight of his spotless fame, Ranaranga Bhairava, like Vatsa Rájá to the river of poison, like the kalpavriksha to the great poets, subduer of all fierce enemies, having received the Banavase Twelve Thousand, the vadda rávula, and the pannáya dues of the fifty six (i. e. merchants) within the shadow of his umbrella (i. e. within his jurisdiction)* was protecting them in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom.

His minister for peace or war was Is'varaya Náyaka, whose descent was as follows.—

From Brahma was born Vasish'ha, a crowning ornament to the body of great munis, continually worshipped by all the people in the world, of perfectly spotless fame, of distinguished greatness, possessed of all the highest qualities, best of the Brahmans. From the family of the great muni Vasish'ha sprung the Sirigi race, celebrated by all people, in which was born Chatta, an ocean of all good qualities, a grinding stone to the heap of sin. To Chattarasa thus reputed, and his famous wife Nágimbika were born two sons, Bábi Rájá and Basava, praised of all people. From the devotion of these brothers to the god Virupáksha, of surpassing splendour grew up Is'vara, like a bee at the lotus feet of Is'vara (S'iva). Will all the works of merit in the sea-engirdled earth come up to the liberality of this worthy Is'vara, or all the meritorious equal him in greatness of mind?

As firm as the Mandara mountain, of unequalled capacities, a mango tree to the parrot of allied kings, of great generosity, the head of the Brahmans of

(Some unintelligible, parts being defaced.)

Resting like a bee at the lotus feet of Govinda Raja and possessing his favour, Is'vara Náyaka, the minister for peace or war, adorned with all good qualities, protector of all the learned, a pleasant moon diffusing rays of mercy, with a banner of shining white,—in the 29th year of Chalukya Vikrama, the year Svabhánu, the month Pushya, the 10th day of the moon's decrease, Friday, the day of the sun's entering the northern signs,—with his heart bent on meritorious works, thinking on the saying that there is no friend like merit—for providing sandal, incense, lights, and food for the god Narasimha, and for repairing his temple on the bank of the Peragatta tank, in the northern quarter of Balligáve, the royal city of the Banavase Twelve Thousand, which shone like nose-jewel and head-ornaments to the land of Kuntala,—with the consent of the citizens of the royal city Balligáve and of the five ma'has, and the knowledge of the auspicious Dan'anáyaka Govindarasa,—Nákanna, the son of Rudramayya, the son of the poet Bán'ava, the owner of Pakkale'yúru, situated in the kampana Jit'ulige Seventy, in the Banavase Twelve Thousand, having made over, free from all imposts, with every formality, with washing the feet and pouring of water, 50 kamma of paddy land according to the kachchavi pole, from his rent free estate in the land of that Pakkale—(Is'vara náyaka) receiving, presented it.

And the boundaries of the land were defined as follows:—On the side of Indra (the east), the stones on which the sásanas are written. On the side of the sun's son (Yama, the south), the tank Brindeya. On the side of the lord of waters (Varuna, the west), the cultivation of the city Balli. On the side loved of Kubera (the north), the Yeleya river. From these marks the land itself may be clearly made out.

Moreover the chief ministers of the Vanavási Twelve Thousand to give every year 1 gadya(na), Brahman renters 1 pana, the royal servants 10 visa.

Whoso makes a gift becomes the lord of all wealth. Whoso despises and alienates it, incurs the guilt of murdering in the holy places of Ganges, Gaya, Varanás'i, and Kurukshetra,—cows, Brahmins, rishis and his own brothers: he will go through all the hells and descend to the lowest. Whoso resumes a gift made by himself or by another will be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

The Donor.	Narasimha destroying Hiranyakas'ipu.		Cow suck- ling calf.

Praise to Narasimha, who taking the form of the man-lion slew the rākhaṣa Hiranyakas'ipu.

The auspicious Chōlukya emperor, peerless in might, Taiḷapa; a combination of all splendour, Satyis'raya; Vikramōdita, the home of bravery; Jaya Singha, excellent in wisdom, a treasury of surpassing ambition, kind to all; Trailokya Malla, encircling (as a garland) the fortune of the world—these being famous brought the Chālukya kingdom to renown. Bhuvanaika Malla, his son, with qualities worthy of praise from all the inhabitants of the world, a beloved ornament to the wife his father's kingdom, his crest the dust from the lotus feet of Śiva, of the highest fame, the whiteness of the nectar of his splendid features shone into all lands.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of Bhuvanaika Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyis'raya kula, ornament of the *Chōlukyas, was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, and stars.—

Resting at his lotus feet, shone the Vishnu-like Ganga, who had subdued his enemies, whose lotus feet were worshipped by other kings, who placed his commands upon the heads of hostile princes, the first hero in the world. A sea of great wealth, lord of the Brahmans, a great conqueror by the might of his hands, an ornament to Brahmans and Kshatriyas, king of kings, was Udeyāditya.

May it be well.—While praised by all people, born with all the privileges of Brahmans and Kshatriyas, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, lord of Kolāpura, chief of Nandagiri, having the ensign of a lusty elephant, having received a boon from Sómés'vara, the Ganga Cupid, a Ganga of truth, an increaser of victory, a chintāmani to the desires of all people, a chief jewel in the crown of kings, Śrimad Ganga Permmānādi Bhuvanayka Vira, Udeyāditya Deva was governing the Banavase Twelve Thousand, the Śāntalige Thousand, the Mandali Thousand, and the eighteen agrahāras, punishing the evil and protecting the good,—having subdued the mon-

Who preserves this gift will derive the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows in Ganga, Gaya, Kurukshétra, Váranás'i and Prayága, or of having a kolaga made, decorated with the five precious stones, for Brahmans versed in the védas. Boor.	The Yogi Gunagalla *	Trimurti in a temple.		Cow suck- ling calf.

Supreme is the Boar form of the splendid Vishnu, which dispersed the waters of the ocean and supports the peace of world upon its right tusk.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of Bhuvanaika Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the S'atyas'raya kula, ornament of the Chalukyas †, was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, and stars—

Living at his lotus feet in Bankapura, entitled to the five great drums, chief of great tributaries, subduer of fierce enemies, lord of all the treasures in that place, like Narayana in his ability to carry out his master's behests, the refuge of the learned, clothed with the garment of prudence, possessed of all learning, with a mind purified by the praise of Hara, great in giving increase to the Chalukya kingdom, a lion of independence, like a bee at the lotus feet of Bhuvanaika Malla, adorned with all virtues, was the great minister, senior councillor for peace and war, the Mane Vergga e l an araya Udeyaditya.

At whose request, Bhuvanaika Malla, in the S'aka year 993, the year Viródhikrit, the month Pushya, the 1st day of the moon's increase, Monday, at the moment of the sun's entering the northern sign,—for the ablutions and daily worship of the god Hariharaditya of the royal city of Baligimve, and for repairing his temple, gave up, free of all burdens,—washing the feet of Gunagalla Yogi, a combined light of virtue, wisdom and peace, possessor of all the blessings arising from the sound om,—and pouring water—one village, Bidiringeri, situated in the Jiddulige Seventy, in the Panavase Twelve Thousand.

Whoso maintains this gift, that man shall have eternal joy. He who usurps it shall have eternal pain.

As a (sectarian) mark on the fair brow of heavenly felicity, renowned for the powers of the Advaita, shone the pure minded Gunagalla. As movable things spring from immovable and return again to immobility so was his mind fixed; perfect in Advaita lore, without any equal was Gunagalla. Enjoying unbounded happiness from the all-knowing, all-possessing, all-pervading Advaita; all things and the cause of all things was Gunagalla.

* An inscription over him as follows:—Srimadu Gunagalla Devara dibya murtti.

† See note p. 14.

The moment you acquire the consciousness "I am knowledge" is it not to experience unbounded happiness? "Save myself naught is" of this knowledge was he the treasury, the summit of Advaita, Gunagalla.

Joyful, undual, in the form of virtue and knowledge, without pride, a lover of the divine essence in all things and thus attached to all names was the Yógi Gunagalla. Enmity having broken out between desire which enters into the body and the six passions which seeking for increase abide there, they have left you; all mixed actions and self conceit you have burnt up by the roots—being thus distinguished can heavenly happiness fail you great muni Gunagalla?

Wedded to eternal happiness, without wish for family, having forsaken the pleasures of the senses, without desire, pure, wise and a lover of wisdom was the supremely happy Gunagalla. Having escaped from the seven troubles, and freed himself from ignorance and the influence of the passions, a great rishi was Gunagalla. Perfect in renouncing the world, looking with disgust on family, he desired a life of devoted piety, perfect peace and fortitude, and what he desired he has become, this Gunagalla.

In the east of Tumbigere in the celebrated Kogali nád . . . in the west the abodes of Yoges'vara and Svayambhu, and in the famous city of Balipura he set up Yoges'vara, Hariharaditya, and the god called Vássayana, and built their temples,—this Gunagalla.* In the south country he built a tank, made many divisions of land to Brahmans in the celebrated Muttúru, and built the Sidda Tirtha,—all these in the knowledge of all people did Gunagalla.

He taught the tatva doctrine, and saying "Can you not give up your old ways? This is the way (of truth)" thus with great boldness taught Gunagalla. The great muni Gunagalla by grace has entered on that path, can any thing then be impossible to one who with unshaken faith at all times adheres to his lotus feet? Can the desires be unfulfilled of those who receiving this doctrine, free from desire, given to kindness, are the disciples of the prince of gurus? By deep meditation on tatva the impurity of the mind may be purged away, the light of the soul will always shine as clearly as a little lamp, the favour of the feet of the guru god, obtained with due reverence, is the only thing that will endure, therefore obtain it all disciples by your piety, then happiness and good fortune will come to all.

This was written by Pratikantha Káma Rája.

Whoso maintains this gift will secure the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows to Brahmans at the holy bathing places of Vāranāsi, Kurukshetra, and Prayāga—and of presenting a kolaga decked with the five precious stones to Brahmans learned in the védas, or of presenting a double headed (i. e. par-turient) cow to a thousand Brahmans. Whoso usurps this gift will incur the guilt of killing a thousand tawny cows and a thousand Brahmans at the holy bathing places of Vāranāsi, Kurukshetra, and Prayāga. Whoso by violence seizes the land presented either by himself or by another will certainly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. The earth has had Sāgara and many other kings whose empire was extensive in proportion to their gifts of land. The bridge of merit deserves your support O kings of the earth. Thus from age to age cries Rāmachandra to the kings who come after him. Poison is no poison. The property of the gods that is the real poison. For poison kills one man, but a gift to the gods (if usurped) kills a man with his son and descendants.

The feet of Śiva are worthy of worship by all the world—the works of merit enjoined in the three vedas are a refuge to the different castes. Whoso acts contrary to either of these on his head will I put my foot.

May those who do not wish to maintain this public gift be totally ruined.

Elephant god.		VISHNU.	Sword.		Cow suck- ling calf.
	Boar.

Om. Praise to Narayana. Supreme is the boar form of the resplendent Vishnu, which dispersed the waters of the ocean and bears up the peaceful world on the tip of his strong right tusk. May the three great rulers of the three worlds, Brahma, S'iva and Vishnu, grant us success.

May Kes'ava (Vishnu), the husband of Lakshmi, who by his might acquired the empire of Bali, who combines in himself all the glory of the ten incarnations, surrounded by the conch, the vajra and the lotus in his hands, being favorable to his worshipper Kes'ava the general of the army, grant him to live till the destruction of the world. On the summit of the waves of the milk sea he reposes on his extensive couch the serpent Adisesha. While thus the remover of sins was reposing in the sleep of yoga, his mind being directed to the creation of the world, as if his power had assumed a separate bodily form, from the lotus of his navel sprang in submission Brahma.

On surveying the circle of all the worlds created in order by Brahma, the most beautiful is the middle one (the earth)—in that world the most pleasing region is the delightful Jambu Dwipa—and in that dvipa the most excellent is the Bharata land—and in that land the Kuntala country the most worthy.

The sovereigns of this Kuntala country, the Chálukya race, were they not born from the full vessel in the shining left hand of Brahma, who sprung from the lotus navel of the resplendent Vishnu?*

Of that race the original (prabhavam), king Taílapa, dispersing his enemies, secured the sovereignty, and exerting a power double that which his enemies obtained from the infernal regions, subdued the Rattas who had overrun the whole world, rescued it out of their hands, removed a great calamity and brought fame to the Chálukya race. After him, his son, the ever prosperous king Satyás'raya ruled the land. And following after him, his younger brother's son ruled the land, the proud Vikramárka. After him reigned his younger brother, with fame as bright as the pleasant moon, emperor of all the lands surrounded by the seven oceans, the worthy Apyayya. Then that monarch's younger brother Jaya Simha, a destroyer of the lineage of hostile kings, a thunderbolt weapon to the mountain of the anxieties of the learned, the remover of the afflictions of the earth. Ahava Malla, the son of Jaya Simha, then ruled the lady earth, whose tresses are the groves of honge trees, whose throat and neck are garlanded with the stems of young areca palms, whose bosoms are the swelling mountains. The next king was that ruler's son Somes'vara, then his younger brother, king Permmadaí. The son of this king (followed), Bhuloka Malla, praised in all the world. His son, Jagadeka Malla next obtained the land, who left Málava without possessions, forced Palava to hold the sprout, Láta to place his hands together on his forehead, increased the troubles of Kalinga, terrifying all with his fearful might. Then his younger brother, Núrmmadaí Taila, an abode of dignity, a lion in the destruction of the elephants the groups of his enemies, possessed of very great renown.

At that time was Bijjala king, who bore up the whole world with the strength of his might, whose sharp sword was as a serpent swallowing up the air of the breaths of his boasting enemies, making all wonder whence it came—from whom all the learned obtained great joy, of whom it might be said that the world was surrounded by the ears of his elephants.

The saying that heroes should possess the earth was then made good, for

* Kan || Parame Hari náhi kamaloáradof janyisida vinula Chaturáryana bháswatara sanjyataradof pari ghatin udayasudadaité Chálukya kulam ||

as if the whole world were destined for the Chálukya race, from the southern ocean to the boundary of the north was the place of their encampment* . . .

What a wonder was this, that he caused elephants to fight like men and to feel affection for him, this Bijjala Deva famous for his strength. (Some illegible).

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of the powerful emperor Tribhuvana Malla Bijjala Devarasa, entitled to the five great drums, great king of kings, lord of the city of Kulanjara, having the flag of a golden bull, with the damaruga, túrya and nirghóshana (kinds of drum), a sun to the lotus of the Kalachurya race, invincible hero, in honour as mount Meru, a light among great warriors, an elephant goad to the mighty, master of elephants, a cage of adamant to those who claimed his protection, in bravery like Ravana, to strange women like a brother, Malla of the S'anivára Siddagiri Durga, in war like Rama, a lion to the elephant his enemies, having the title Nissanka Malla and many other titles †—was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, and stars.—

Resting like a bee at the lotus feet of this king, was Kes'i Rája Dandá-disa, raised to greatness from the thunderbolt weapon of Brahman virtue not falling upon him, a lord over many kings, a treasury of ever increasing power.—The descent of this jewel of commanders was as follows :—

In the race of Brahma, having a perfect knowledge of the Parama Brahma, a joy to all the rishis, was born the celebrated Brahmárshi, an ocean of virtue, Bharadvaja. Among the many great Brahmans descended from him, there appeared Bárunda Rája, a treasury of all Brahman virtues, a procurer of immeasurable merit, of a fame which reached the tusks of the elephants supporting the corners of the earth, of high qualities praised by the learned, of undying glory. His wife was the jewel of women, known through all the world as Muddi Akka, a new Sarasvati in all learning, a permanent resting place of all good qualities.

To those two were born the following children—Márappaiya, whose life was like that of Manu and the munis, Váma Deva, of a beauty and glory like that of Manmatha, Bibi Rája, a general praised of all people, of great prudence, the worthy Kes'ava, an abode of generosity, Vishnu Deva, a cause of prosperity to all the learned who sought his protection.

* Kan || Husiyaltu vira bhójjá vasundhará yemba vákyam ene dhareyam sádhisidam ten-kandhiye badaga sine Chálukya kalakav en embada. The saying referred to I am told is a popular prophecy still current, as follows :—Nandan Anandayor madhye vira bhójjá vasundhará. Between the years Nanda and Ananda the world will become a hero's.

† See note p. 68.

On examination the junior of the (first) four yet their equal, and the senior of the last two, was Kes'ava Rája, reported a mine of every good quality, of unspotted fame. His wife Pampá Devi, in beauty, greatness, devotion to her husband, and skill in every kind of work, put to shame (respectively) the goddesses Rati, Párvati, Arundhati, Bhárati, and shamed the wives of all other chieftains.

Their son, for whose daily distribution of charity the entire number of wise men was not sufficient, for whose devotion and pilgrimages all the goddesses and holy bathing places did not suffice, for whose circumambulations and penances all the temples of Vishnu and the other great gods were too few, for whose erection of chatras and watersheds the world was too small, for whose fame the space between the points of the compass was too confined, Háranamarasa, obtained the worship of all the good and was a moon to the ocean of his race. His wife, who if well considered was equal in greatness to Earth, in wifely devotion to Síta, in fortune to Lakshmi, was Durgá Dévi.

To those two, was born Kes'ava Deva, a treasury of power, whose virtuous life the Krita yuga made its excuse and came to an end, whose pointed speech the arrow of Ráma made excuse and turned aside, of the daylight of whose splendid fame moonlight made an excuse and vanished. "If I rest here henceforth engaged in supporting the earth, how shall I procure the fame of being a Karna (celebrated for liberality), or how obtain the name of a Sudraka for heroism, can I come short in this?" thus disputes the hand with the mind of Kes'ava, Dandanátha. "Combining and creating is Brahma's care doubtless, but the preservation of all things is it not mine?" thus said Kes'ava to himself—what a marvel was he in the world? To be of good birth is considered fortunate, or a man is fortunate who has gained distinction, but the term "fortunate man" has become a jest, and of little account is the fortunate man who shines forth as great in gifts, for the merest pauper who but wished for a sight of this personification of the highest benevolence rose up fortunate. How fortunate then was the land in which dwelt this Dandanátha Kes'ava with wisdom of such power.

At the mere threat of this mighty Kes'a Rája, were brought into subjection Sanka male, on saying I want that land he gained Sándálge, Rachche Malla's territory, Gávaśuru, Mogala Nádu, Siriváru, and to the east of the Vanavási hill-fort took Raṣe, Haive and the famous Gutti height.*

* Munidaḍe Kes'a Rája pritanes varam ájnege sádyavádytu Sanka male, sanda Sándálge, korvadar ure enaláge Rachche Mallana nele Gávaśur Mmogala nádu Siriváru Vanavási durgga-párvos naváan irida konda Raṣe Haive negalṭeyo Gutti hettaḷam ॥

Manmatha seeing this immortal commander Kes'ava's superlatively beautiful form, divested himself of shape and in disgust remains disembodied; the lion beholding the power with which he subdued all, fled in anger to the depths of the forest; at the contemplation of his continually increasing greatness and splendour, the sun daily rises and falls in agitation. "Karna gave lands that were waste (say they), S'ibi gave a ship but in anger, Dad'ichi gave bones," but that people might not thus asperse him, Kes'ava used to give only gold pagodas (hongaiane). In war, by blows of the sword wielded by the powerful arm of the commander Kes'ava, all the hostile kings being exhausted, their wives full of affection gave up themselves to save their husbands' lives, and by this assembly of women was first brought into use the rule of sanctuary at snakes' holes.

As Krishna possessed two wives, Lakshmi the daughter of the sea, and Satyabhāma,—and as S'iva had two wives, Pārvati and Ganga,—so the all praised Lakshmi Devi and, shining with fortune, Siri Devi became wives to Kes'ava and obtained the praise of all the world.

His prime minister was famous, without a peer in the world, a prince of liberality, as the resplendent kalpa-vriksha in granting the desires of the learned, a pleasant moon to the lotus of his race, on whose lotus countenance the amorous bees of female eyes rested with delight, in every member a collection of perfect virtue, acquainted with all justice, a lion to the elephants his enemies, of the highest and keenest prowess. Speech without falsehood, liberality without hoping for return, conduct which never violated peace, kindness which never failed, such were the natural qualities of Narasīnga Nāyaka.

And among his great men were—Tikkarasa, chief of the counsellors, a Brihaspati in discerning what was right to be done, rich in an ever increasing fame, promoter of the fortunes of his dependents. Pratihasta, who never withdrew his hand from liberality (a play on the name). Kammarasa, whose unspotted fame was like the light of the moon and filled all the points of the compass with its brightness, celebrated in all the world. Becheharasa, celebrated in all the world as pure in character, pure in descent, an abode of deeds of purity, master of the purest justice, filling all the points of the compass in succession with the pure splendour of his fame. Chattī Rāja who shone in all the world as the good accountant among the royal chief accountants, performing all the duties of Brahmans, resting like a bee at the two lotus feet of Vishnu, of great ability in dealing with enemies and with the learned. Udārasa, a head jewel among the accountants, a chintāmani to the assembly of the learned, a sun shining in the firmament of his race, of great renown in all the world, and virtuous in life. Potarasa, who had studied and understood many plays and poems, whose lotus hand was praised by the bees of the minds of the learned, a draught of intoxicating delight to the best spirits of his race, a head accountant. Mahadeva Náyaka, an accountant, a bee at the lotus feet of Kedarés'vara, ever repeating the praises of Siva, whose life was like that of Manu. Náchi, praised continually by strangers, having secured the light of Lakshmi's eyes. Soma, whose affection was towards good and able men among his subjects. Govinda, who held Vishnu continually in his unmoved breast. Martánda, the brightness of whose fame illumined the globe of the firmament of his race.

While associated with all these high officers and chief accountants of the royal presence, the Dandanayaka Kes'ava Deva,—a chintamani in granting the desires of all those who claimed his protection, a head jewel to his race—was in the royal city of Balipura, punishing the evil and rewarding the good in the Banavase Twelve Thousand :—one day, when seated in the centre of a great assembly, surrounded by all the ministers, royal attendants and people of the city,—one who knew the most auspicious moments, and was acquainted with all works of merit—

He was descended from the great Maríchi, who sprung from the mind of the lotus-born (Brahma), and whose son was Kas'yapa, in whose line was born the general of the army Revana. His son was the lord Somanátha, whose son was the great lord Chatti Rája, a protector of judgment. His wife was Mádiakka, and his son Rechana, ever desirous of obtaining merit.

Recharasa, commenced a discourse upon piety, which (discourse) was an enemy to sin, a breaker open of the mind, a stage for the highest Lakshmi to dance upon, a great wave from the boundless ocean of heavenly joy. His speech was as follows—

“This country has existed through many ages, and is known in all the world for the chatras, pleasure gardens, temples, groves of spreading trees, and water sheds provided by the great commanders who formerly ruled in it. This city of Balipura is the secure abode of merit. The god Kes'ava being established here would be a work of the greatest merit. If well considered, merit beyond what all holocausts, sacrifices, incantations and appointed acts of devotion can procure will be obtained by the setting up here of the image of the god Kes'ava. Moreover, therein may be obtained the prosperity arising from a gift of land, and of the crops and vegetation grown thereon, and of its continually increasing pro¹-ce.”

“Therefore may you (be pleased to) establish here a town, named Kes'ava-pura in honour of your majesty, and in it a temple to the god Vira Kes'ava—then will you obtain in the present world pure fame, in the next state of existence the fullness of merit, and in the end supreme felicity.”

When he thus spoke, expressing the very thoughts of the jewel of commanders, that crowning ornament of rulers, bearing these words in remembrance obtained in the southern quarter of Balipura a piece of land fertile to produce, all manner of fruit, a very extensive region as level as a mirror, from Sarves'vara Pandita, the áchári of the Five Lingas erected by the Pándavas, and from the Hergadde Soyanna, and from the senabhova Kannanna, and all their connections, in presence of the setti, the nagaras, the five maḥas and the three puras—pouring water—

And in that pleasant land, arranging and transforming to the utmost timber and stone, as if striving to add to all the variety of forms in which Brahma had created wood and stone, the great commander Kes'ava, shining with exceeding devotion, built for the god Kes'ava an abode filled with beauty and a joy to the sight. And on a large piece of land in front of that temple, this treasury of the benefits derived from charity, in the fullness of his heart's pleasure, built a town and named it Virakes'avapura. Then the jewel of commanders, gave that town, filled with commodious houses, having cots in each chamber containing the softest beds, and for the sake of heaven donations of money attached, to the Brahmans, that it might bear fruit.

This done, that Virakes'avapura was everywhere praised as the indigenous place of growth for kalpa-vrikshas, as like svarga a place for the continual cultivation of all the vedas, a mine of purity and virtue, a place in which to acquire the most exalted merit—and was as a newly made anklet for the goddess earth, adorned with the nine jewels.

Then for the superintendence of the vrittis in that town—on investigation Ekkalarasa had acquired a great name in the world as a treasury of heroism, a treasury of valour, an overflowing treasury of pure renown for judgment, a treasury of liberality. This mine of all good qualities, a moon in raising the fortunes of the Ganga race,* Ekkalarasa,—his chief minister Kámaya, and his minister for peace and war Mahádeva,—gairing the consent of all the chief authorities of the Jiddudige Náḍ, having received from their hands, with pouring of water and all ceremony, the village of Belvani together with all the (taxes) mannaya, áya, dáya, and kirukula ;†

In the presence of the Pattana Sávi of the royal city Balipura, Kirtti Setti and Mébi Setti and all the other Nagaras of Dharma S'iva Déva, áchári of the five mathas, Múliga Madhukes'vara Pandita Deva, áchári of the Hiriya matha Sri Jagadeka Malles'vara; Sarves'vara Pandita Deva, áchári of the Five Lingas; Jnána S'akti Pandita, áchári of Tripurántaka of Herggađe Soyimayasa, of that place; Váma S'akti Pandita, áchári of the Kodi matha of Herggađe Vennamarasa of that place; and of the seven Brahmapuris—with the assent of the mahá pradhána Kasapaya Náyaka, a promoter of all works of merit—the mahá pradhána Kesimayya, Herggađe Dandanáyaka of the Banavási Náda,* accompanied by his accountants—in the S'aka year 1080, the year Lahudhánya, the month Pushya, the day of full moon, Monday, the day of the sun's entering the northern signs, at the vyatipáta, during an eclipse of the moon—for the worship of the god Vira Kes'ava of the auspicious Kes'avapura, for the repetition of the service, for the daily oblation and offering of food, for maintaining the perpetual lamp, for a splendid car procession and assembly or fair in the month Chaitra, and for any other fresh ceremonies,—gave in the manner approved by all—

To those of the Brahmapuri of Kes'avapura, accomplished in all the holy actions—yama, niyama, svádhyáya, dhyána, dhárana, mauna, anusáhana, japa, samádhi, † diligent in maintaining the perpetual sacred fire, and in serving Brahmans, gurus and gods; versed in the six tarkas, the mímámsa and other sciences; faithful in performing the six religious acts—yajana, yájama, adhyayana, adhyápana, dána and pratigraha—having performed the agnishtóma and the seven other kinds of sacrifice; familiar with many puránas, and the itihása connected with them, commentaries, poems, plays and many modes of skill; praised by learned poets in many languages, an authoritative debater, the enchantment of whose knowledge attracted to him the hearts of all the learned, whose speech was as if engraved on stone, whose fame shone like the rays of the sun, whose body was purified by the avabhrítá (a purifying ablution at the termination of a sacrifice) and the settled abode of all happiness,—namely to the god Jagadeka Malles'vara two shares (vritti)—to the god of the Five Lingas two shares—to the god Kedára two shares—to the Brahmans 38 shares—for the pújári one share—for the garland-seller one share—altogether 46 shares, in the village of Belvani.

† See note p. 16.

And Tailaha Devarasa, possessed of all titles, mahá man'ales'vara, a moon in raising the fortunes of the Ganga race,* a promoter of all meritorious acts—his sister's husband Yeraharasa, and Hadavala Gangana—rising up, in order to renew the gift of their father (boppam) Yakkalarasa, released that village from (the imposts) manneya, áya, dáya, kánike, kirukula,† and pouring water at the feet of the god Kes'ava, gave them up as a gift with enjoyment for three generations. And the great minister, Kesinaya Dandanáyaka, washing the feet of his priest (tammárádhya) the royal guru Váma S'akti Deva, accomplished in all the holy actions—yama, niyama, svádháya, dhyána, dháarana, mauna, anus'hána, japa, samádhi‡—a lover of the learned, patron of the assemblies of skilful poets, spending his time in gifts of food, gifts of gold, gifts of virgins, gifts of cows, gifts of lands, gifts of encouragement, gifts of medicine, and other gifts; holding the unequalled vedas as a jewel, distinguished for his investigation of the sciences and idol rituals, born in the line of the rishi Gautama, a servant at the lotus feet of the god Dakshina Kedáres'vara of Balipura—and pouring water, gave to him the control (áraykeyumam) of that place as a Brahmapuri.

Besides which, Heggaḍe Sárimarasa gave for the áya from the umbali (or rent free) land of Belvaṇi a paddy field of one matta, according to the maragunji pole, and to the god Kes'ava a paddy field of one matta. After deducting for the gauḍike the Guru Deva and the Heggaḍe will divide what remains among the mahájans (or Brahmans).

In this, each share of land (vritti) belongs to the occupant of the house to which it is attached, but the shares of houses unoccupied belong to the god. Among these vrittis, the bhatta-vritti one, the khanḍika-vritti one, the agnish-tóyi-vritti one, and the pújári and máligara-vrittis—altogether five vrittis will be granted and enjoyed. The boundaries of that town:—on the east the row of resting stones (for loads) near the basadi (Jain temple) of Hemmáḍi; on the south, the northern limit of the cultivated land belonging to Bhagavati; on the west, the land belonging to the Five Lingas; on the north, the land of the Hemmáḍi basadi.—

(Furthermore) as a tala vritti for that god, obtaining it from Little Baligámve, the village of the god Kedára, with worship of the feet of that god, he presented for the daily service, for a splendid car procession in Chaitra, for the daily offering of food to the god, and for feeding daily five Brahmans from other parts, one matta of paddy land according to the kacchavi pole under the Narapati Ságara,—and for maintaining the perpetual lamp, one oil-mill in the city besides, to that god.

(Here follows another grant, made 21 years later.)

May it be well.—In the 3rd year of the Karachurya emperor, Nissanka Malla Sankama Deva, the year Vikári, the month Chaitra, the day of full moon, Monday, the time of the equinox, at the vyati páta, during an eclipse of the moon—the mahá pradhána senádbipati, the Banavase Nád Herggaḍe Dandanáyaka Kes'i Rája, who if considered was a treasury of fortune and wealth, as Yama's weapon of punishment in taking the lives of hostile kings, a casket for the jewels of good qualities, a sun to the lotus garden of poets and men of learning. The growing fame of the commander Kes'ava shines beyond the elephants at the points of the compass, and laughs at Indra's royal elephant.

This Kes'i Rája Dandanáyaka—for the worship of the god Kes'ava which he had set up, repetition of the service, for the daily oblation, for maintaining the perpetual lamp, for the procession in Chaitra and the games and fair, for any fresh ceremonies, for a throne for the god, and for feeding twenty Brahmans from other parts, and for repairs of the temple—directed that the land left to the god Somanátha in Bandanike in the Nágara Khanda Seventy, should be attached to both and used in common.

And in the presence of Sampakarasa, mahá mandales'vara, lord of the Gupta race—of Jayadévarasa, worshipper of the feet of Garges'vara, skilled in the management of armies, and his minister Vásudeva Náyaka, of the mahá mandales'vara, sun to the lotus of the Kadamba race, having the favour of Jayanti Madhukes'vara, having the title Niṣalanka Malla and many others, Toppadevarasa, and his minister Tikkaya.—and surrounded by his retinue, his great tributary Sanka Gauḍa, and the chiefs of the Nágara Khanda Seventy, at the feet of the god Kes'ava, receiving from their hands the manneya, áya, dáya, kirukula, kánike,*—pouring water, presented them to the god Kes'ava and the god Somandtha—

Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chamara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

The great Chálukya emperor Taílapa, peerless in might; Sátyás'raya, an abode of dazzling splendour; Vilramadditya, a combination of the most exalted bravery; Jaya Singha, a treasury of ambition to excel; Trañokya Malla, a collection of all the fortune in the world,—these being famous brought renown to the Chálukya kingdom.

(Some illegible.)

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of Tribhuvana Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the *Chálukyas—was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, and stars—and he was ruling in peace and wisdom† in his residence of Tagiri.

The dweller at his lotus feet; May it be well.—Entitled to the five great drums, chief of great tributaries, subduer of fierce kings, a moon to the group of lotuses his brothers, patron of the assemblies of good men, a jewel in the cluster of good qualities, in liberality like king Nala, chief ruler in all the earth, like Adishesha upholding the world, like Brahma in skill, a lion in bravery, a jewel-mirror to the good, a protector of those who depend upon him, a punisher of the evil, a lusty elephant to the groups of creeping lotuses his enemies, of a mild countenance, fame his banner, great in ambition to excel, a bee at the lotus feet of the illustrious Tribhuvana Malla Deva, invested with titles and degrees of all kinds, the mahá senádhípati, mahá pradhána Danjanáyaka Barmma Devarasa;

In the 2nd year of Chálukya Vikrama, the year Pingala, the month Mágha, the day of full moon, Monday, at the auspicious moment of the moon's eclipse—for the ablution and daily offering to the god Mallikárjuna which Pújári Linganna of the royal city of Balligánve had set up—and for digging a tank and for a chatra—gave, with pouring of water and every ceremony, one village Háravúru, situated in the Jiddulige Seventy.

This gift is a gift from all the heads of the garland-sellers, they in particular will maintain and carry into effect the gift.

Whoso maintains this gift will derive the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows in Prayága, Váranási, Agritírtha, or Kurukshétra, and of presenting kolagas made of gold and silver to a thousand Brahmans versed in the four vedas, washing their feet. Whoso usurps this gift incurs the guilt of slaying a thousand tawny cows, and a thousand Brahmans versed in the four vedas, in the holy bathing places of Ganga, Gaya, Váranási, and Kurukshetra. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. The bridge of merit deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus from age to agé cries Rámachandra to the kings who come after him.

Maylayya, washing the feet of Pavitra Rája Pandita, and pouring water, set up this s'ásana.

Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well.—While the victorious kingdom of Bhuvanaika Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the Chálukyas *—was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, and stars—

Living at his lotus feet in his residence of Bankapura, entitled to the five great drums, chief of great tributaries, subduer of the fiercest opponents, lord of all the treasures in that place†, like the son of Yוגandha in carrying out his master's orders, a refuge to the wise, clothed with judgment and wisdom, possessed of all learning, great in prowess, able in war, a bee at the lotus feet of Bhuvanaika Malla Deva, a combination of all good qualities, was the great minister, senior councillor for peace and war, Mane Verggade Dandanáyaka Udayáditya.

Completely defeating the Málava king who had raised his enmity, and all those who had secretly conspired against the throne and against the guru, and seizing their property and women laden with jewels he handed them over to his emperor—thus by his judgment and his mighty prowess he was renowned as the subjecter of the three worlds—this Udayáditya Dandádhinátha. His mind unstained by fear, his speech quite free from pride, his body full of radiance, a treasury of all wealth, his conduct without any admixture of evil—thus reputed, what a fame was his, this chief jewel of commanders, Udayáditya.

Who placed themselves under his protection had nothing to fear from men, who accepted his support had nothing to fear from poverty, who turned to attack him in war surrendered their lives—if considered, how great was he in might and fame, the commander Udayáditya. He subdued Male secure of victory, like Vishnu himself in the attributes of might, an ornament to the face of those who answer wisely, Udega Dandádhis'am.

At the request of Udayáditya the mighty hero, thus entitled to all honors and praise—the king Bhuvanaika Malla Deva and all his ministers, in the S'aka year 993, the year Viródhakrit, the month Pus'hya, the 1st day of the moon's increase, Monday, at the auspicious moment of the sun's entering the northern signs,—for the bathing and daily offering to the god Malikámodes'vara of the royal city of Balligámve, for repairs of the temple, for any fresh ceremonies, for the food of the ascetics who resort to it—gave, washing the feet of the owner of the place * Somes'vara Panñita, the disciple of Chandra Bháshana Panñita, accomplished in all the holy acts, yama, niyama, svadhyáya, dhyaná, dhárana, mauna, anush'hánta, japa, samádhi—and pouring water—one village, Hange, in the Nágari Khan's Seventy; and of the paddy land of the royal city of Balligámve, 4 mattas—free of every burden.

Whoso maintains this gift derives the merit of presenting 12,000 double-faced cows in the holy bathing places of Váranási, Kurukshetra, Prayága. Whoso usurps this gift incurs the guilt of slaying 12,000 cows and Brahmans learned in the four védas in the holy bathing places of Váranási, Kurukshetra, Prayága, and of the five great sins. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. The earth has had Sagara and many other kings; according to their (gifts of) land so was their reward. The bridge of merit deserves your support O kings of the earth. Thus from age to age cries Rámachandra to the kings who come after him. Poison is no poison. The property of the gods that is the real poison. Adored by S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

While the victorious kingdom of Tribhuvana Malla, protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the Chalukyas *— was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon, and stars; and he was ruling in peace and wisdom †.—

Among the Chalukyas the senior (piriyam) was king Tailapa; after him the promoter of valour, king Trailokya Malla; then followed Vikramáditya Deva, a beloved monarch, superior to them in skill, in bravery, in great expeditions, in liberality, in his body of god-like brightness, and in fame.

Taking Tribhuvana Malla as his master was the champion Kálidása, a terror to the fiercest enemies, ruler of all the world, filled with fame, bearing S'iva on his head, full of wrath towards his enemies. Confronting in battle the Lála king, the Magadha, Nepála, Páñchála and Páñdyá kings, he took from them their fame, and when they brought an immense number of elephants, women and horses, and sought the help of that Chálukya emperor, this terror of his enemies, Kálidása, obtained the merit.

This lord's uncle (father's younger brother) was the commander Sarva Deva, acquainted with joys surpassing those of Indra, and always devoted to pleasure. Thus was that illustrious Sarva Deva a pleasure to the hearts of good men and his people; a mine of mercy, he acquired a fame as white as the swan, and his country was celebrated like him.

As the moon rises to enlighten the world plunged in the ocean of evil, as in the Vatsa gotra, sprung from the race of the lotus-born (Brahma), casting a radiance over the Kamma kula, was born an extraordinary hero, praised by all.

To this general Chávrunda and his wife Felayakabbe, who was like another Lakshmi, was born, giving them great joy, Nága Varmma Dandádhipa, praised by all. Nága Varmma's wife Nágiyakka was a Párvatí, S'iva's queen, in affection for her husband, Brahma's Bhárati herself in eloquence, Lakshmi in good fortune—so said all the world.

As to S'iva and his consort Párvati were born Ganga and Kumára, so from the love of Nága Varmna, the treasury of wisdom (vidyá nidáhi) and the fortunate Nágyakka were born the lord Sarva Deva and the commander Chá-vunda. May Lakshmi honored by them, give them all fortune as long as sun and moon endure. Like Ráma and Lakshmana may Sarva Deva and Ráya live in the world with great affection, and like a row of lamps cast the light of blessing on both sides (their ancestors of both lines). May the god who is lord of all, whose pair of feet are worshipped by all the celestials, whose crest is the crescent moon, the husband of Párvati, whose locks are the skies, the remover of all sin, S'iva,—to Sarva Deva and the enlightened Chá-vunda Ráya, versed in all the learning of the Brahmans—grant increase of power and authority. May S'iva, the remover of sins, the law giver, the supreme spirit, the creator of all, the protector of all, shelter with affection Sarva Deva and Ráya.

The Mandara mountain is supported by Vishnu, the Amara river (Ganges) by the Mandara mountain, the ocean by the Amara river, the earth by the ocean. But is the Mandara mountain a fit comparison for him? In greatness it may be. Is the ocean? In capacity. Is the earth? In endurance. But in bravery and heroism this Chá-vunda Ráya's qualities surpass them all.

The younger (brother) of this illustrious Ráya was Chidda, in generosity a kalpa-vriksha, lord of several lands, in greatness like the ocean, in firmness like the great (mountain) Méru.

The earth flooded with polluting streams of blood was unable to move, Brahma hid himself, the ocean left its bounds and fled, through the astounding feats performed in war by the unequalled and surpassing Sarva Deva, who had overcome death from the flattery of strange women, not a man of two words (double speech), a protector of all who claimed his protection whether friends or foes.

His word was like mount Méru, in tearing in pieces the bodies (of his opposers) he was like the enemy of lusty elephants (the lion), in granting the desires of his people a young kalpa-vriksha, his wealth was composed of whatever the poor desire (he gave away everything in charity), to sin he was an increasing judgment-fire, in beauty peerless—how can I describe the greatness of this mighty Sarva Deva.

To this mine of humility and ornament of the learned, Sarva Deva, was Sántala Devi wife, noted among women as the unequalled Lakshmi for devotion to her husband.

To this jewel of affectionate wives Sántikabbe and the mine of generosity Sarva Deva, was born a son, the powerful and illustrious Sovi Deva. When by the favor of Somés'vara of the city of Palikara, Somes'vara was born, great and settled fortune came to the whole family of Sarva Deva. A moon to the ocean of the learned, an ocean of poetic conceptions, in eloquence a garden of flowers, to courtesans a Manmatha (Cupid), a terror in the field of battle, was that Soma.

How excellent then was Sarva Deva, the god of whose desire was S'iva, his protector and master the Chálukya emperor, his father Nága Varmma revered by all the good, his mother the pure Nágiyakka, his priest Váma Deva Brati the equal of the Vámans incarnation, his brothers Ráya and Chidda, his son the great Sovi Deva, all friends of good people.

The mighty Sarva Deva, a bee at the lotus feet of S'iva, was a helper of the race of good gurus, able to remove the sins of all his line.

A descendant of the excellent Kálámukha Chakravartti muni of great wisdom, Kás'míra Deva; the chief disciple of Trilóchana Munindra was Vares'vara Deva, with a body purified by penance, devoted to piety, a jewel of pandits, worshipper of the feet of S'iva the god of gods. On the good advice of this Vares'vara Muni, a destroyer like Yama of all evil deeds, the lord Sarva Deva, with a pure mind, built a temple for the great and celebrated Tripurántaka in Valligráme, which was as a crown or a golden bowl for the god. The favorite of the goddess of fortune, Sarva Deva, erected a residence for Sarves'vara, and crowned it with a golden dome, such that it seemed as if Indra's car had stopped in the royal city of Bali, as the most charming spot in all the earth. In this the choicest spot in the world, the celebrated Valligráme, as who should say this is Méru, this is Kailása, there dwells Sarva Deva who like Brahma set up a pillar from earth to sky—thus made he a temple with great joy, and decorated it with all manner of ornament for the god Sarves'vara.

May it be well—The Dandanáyaka Sarva Devarasa entitled to the five great drums, lord of many tributaries, a great and brave commander, granting the desires of the learned, a moon to the race of the Brahmans, a mount Róhana to the jewels of good qualities, an ornament to the good, careful of his master's orders, pleasing the mind of his lord, destroyer of the pride of his enemies, walking according to the rules of morality, of unshaken courage, with these and all other titles—in the 21st year of Chálukya Vikrama, the year Dhátu, the month Pushya, the 5th day of the moon's increase, Sunday, the day of the sun's entering the northern signs, at the vyatipáta—for the pleasure and the daily offering of the god Sarves'vara which he had set up in the royal city of Balligrāme, and for food and clothing to the rishis who resort thither—assembled with all his ministers, and having obtained the permission of the emperor—gave, washing the feet of Vares'vara Deva Pandita, accomplished in all the holy acts, yama, niyama, svādhyāya, dhyāna, dhāraṇa, mauna, anushāhāna japa, *samādhi—and pouring water, so as to be approved of all—as a gift to Permes'vara—in the vritti of the place in the Balli plain, a paddy field of one matta, and in the Nāgari khanda Seventy, the village Hāruvadeppa.

Whoso maintains this gift will secure the merit of presenting a thousand tawny cows to Brahmins at the holy bathing places of Vāranāsi, Kurukshetra, and Prayāga—and of presenting a kolaga decked with the five precious stones to Brahmins learned in the vedas, or of presenting a double headed (i. e. parturient) cow to a thousand Brahmins. Whoso usurps this gift will incur the guilt of killing a thousand tawny cows and a thousand Brahmins at the holy bathing places of Vāranāsi, Kurukshetra, and Prayāga. Whoso by violence seizes the land presented either by himself or by another will certainly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. The bridge of merit deserves your support O kings of the earth. Thus from age to age cries Rāmachandra to the kings who come after him.

S'iva,	Vishnu,	Brahma,
Nandi.	each in a temple.	Cow suck- ing calf.

Om. Praise to S'iva. Adored by S'ambhu, beautiful with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. Supreme is the boar form of the resplendent Vishnu, which dispersed the waters of the ocean and supports the peaceful world upon its right tusk.

Govinda Rója, the head jewel of the Vaishnavas prays as follows—May he the splendid, the eternal, the husband of Lakshmi, shining with all worlds in his loins, praised of all the gods, reposing on the serpent, of endless incarnations,—protect us.

From the golden lotus in the lord of Lakshmi's shining navel, of which O wonder! his lotus face was like a reflection, sprung Brahma. From the mind of Brahma came forth before the creation nine (the nava Brahma) able to confer fortune, the brightness of whose bodies filled the points of the compass, abodes of pure qualities. From these sons of the mind of Brahma descended the shining jewels of the Chalukya race, the peerless monarchs who ruled the world.

After them (avarim balikke)—As the great boar in the beginning scattered the ocean and by his might raised up the world which was sunk in the waters, so delivering earth from the dominion of the enemies who had subdued it, he took the government of the world, the Sárva bhaumi Taila. His lotus head he made an offering at the feet of Lakshmi, and by his might putting to shame the ocean as if to say, Is that the limit of the world? he extended the Chalukya kingdom to the very points of the compass and ruled over it. A nail to the heart of his enemies, a light to the greatness of his race, his fame was a celestial Ganges which like a mount Himálaya he supported, thus shone Taila, bravery his nature.

An emanation (or brightness) of the goddess of victory, his dearest son, of heroic conduct, Satyás'raya, an abode of all the royal virtues, (next) ruled the sea-encircled world. His son Vikrama, of unequalled bravery, who as Indra himself made all other emperors bow to him, a combination of the bravery of all the regents of the points of the compass, then ruled the world. His younger brother next ruled the earth, who caused all to say, Why mention the tortoise

(as supporting the world)? Did the ten incarnations deliver the earth from trouble? But he did, Narmadī, superior to them all, greatest of all the great in the battle field. His son Jaya Sīmta, then ruled the earth, by whose creeper-like sword all enemies were subdued, who lorded over many countries reduced by his force of elephants. His son Ahava Malla next ruled the lady earth, whose swelling bosoms are the mountains, whose necklace round her throat are the stems of the lofty areca palms, whose soft waist are the young sprouts of plants. The elder brother of the world-renowned Ahava Malla, a chief of men, praised by all the world, Bhuvanaika Malla (next) ruled.

Then that king's younger brother Vikramārka ruled, unshaken by fear, the sea-encircled peaceful earth, filled with the spoils of victory, a proud umbrella among the first of warriors.

While he was ruling this middle world—whoever through fear of his dreadful warfare did not oppose him, whoever threw themselves on his protection, whoever sought his favour, or whoever did not fall at his lotus feet and do him obeisance, the Sauvra, Abhira, Andhra, Golla kings, he knew how to look upon with kindness or with a terrible frown, the king Vikramārka. The Chola king he forced to go without clothing, the Pallava king to have his hands full of sprouts, the Andhra king to go into caves, the Singhala king's heart of wicked designs to evaporate, the Málava king to give up his garland, the Ghárjara king to shrug his shoulders, (all plays upon the words)—thus did he treat them with his continually increasing power, Vikramāditya Deva. If he but stood up to make war, the hostile kings, though powerful to subdue others, knowing that destruction would befall themselves and their armies, asked themselves what use of lusty elephants, what of our great army, what of all our arrows, what of all these attendant people? His great uplifted sword, which none were able to stay, terrified all the kings with its jalajala noise, and forced the goddess of victory to attend on it ever. Just as tender boys seeing their reflection in water turn and run away in fear, so the hostile kings and their elephants ran away at the mere sight of the great Chálukya prince. As the Láda king ran away, the Chola king seized his ear and shook it, while the Kalinga king asked where his own lost kingdom was. What fear then did he produce, this causer of weeping to kings.

While with such a name he was ruling in peace and wisdom* in his residence at Kalyána-pura—

The dweller at his lotus feet—a kalpa-vriksha born in human form, offspring of all the merit of gifts to Brahmans in former existences, a fruit from which other merit producing trees might be propagated, a beautiful swan in the Mánasa

lake of the hearts of learned poets, an ornament to all who were freed from sin, of great liberality, thus praised with great affection by all people was Anantapála.

Full of the piety of faith in S'iva, praised by all people, an abode of fame, able to subdue and put to death a crore of Rávanas if they would stand up against him, the home of victory, his might was so great what use of swords, there was no limit to his qualities of greatness. Seeing his warfare Adisésha delighted trembles, and assists him in collecting wealth for his lord (the emperor). As the sea so he (Anantapála) causes the commanders who hinder his sacrifices (labors) to drink poison and presents Lakshmi (fortune) to him who rules him, thus the sea too befriends him.*

Living at his lotus feet like a royal swan, looking on him as his patron god, among Brahmaus the foremost, the best man in the world, compelling (by his brightness) the other inferior commanders to hide in the forest all the day-time, spontaneously a friend to the good, an abode of virtuous life, praised by all the people in the world, the youthfulness of Lakshmi which was at his command he made over to the learned, that Govinda Rája Dandá dhípa.

With a patience, majesty, famous learning, power of command and wisdom such as did not exist in all the line of the lotus-born, enlightening the world, like a sword in the hands of the Chalukya kings, was Govinda Dandá dhípa. Although he wished to live (peacefully) according to his own inclinations, the other commanders all said with great fear, 'We know his mind that it is always engaged in thinking how with his great power to cut in pieces the armies and all the property of the fiercest among the tributary kings, and (destroy) their very seed; therefore we must not approach his person which dazzles like the sun.' Though in his mind cherishing mercy and not how to destroy his enemies, if he sent but a messenger to any part, their minds foreboding the destruction of their kingdoms, the other kings with hearts full of terror came at once in haste to see him. How great among the powerful was this Govinda Dandá dhípa. As if burning the points of the compass, thus with blood-shot eyes did his groups of elephants, resembling those at the points of the compass, exert themselves in the destruction of his enemies, while his angry eyes with their ruddy flames, which were as a scarlet wafer on the forehead of the queen of the points of the compass, burnt up the enemies' country and reduced them to a state of primeval desolation—thus powerful was the peerless Govinda Rája.

* The allusion here is to the occurrences connected with the churning of the ocean.

Quickly washing away the stain of the ignorance of the other generals who commanded in the palace of the king Vikramārka, he shone with the brightest purity, this Govinda Rāja Dandādhis'a. Hostile kings from all quarters coming to prostrate themselves before him and receive his commands, he stripped the walls of the points of the compass of all their decorations this Govinda Rāja. Where remained there an enemy's country that it might be said it is in death, or in calamity, or where there was a confluence of people? How great then in war was the king Govinda.

His father was Dtsi Rāja, a great hero praised by all the world; his mother Somala Devi, a joy to her relations, true of speech, devoted to her husband; his god was Vishnu, the chief of the gods; thus purifying the Parás'ara gotra, how great in the world was this king Govinda.

May it be well.—While the mahá pradhána, Māne Verggaḍe Dandanáyaka Govindamayya, entitled to the five great drums, chief of tributary kings, chief of the great generals, granting the desires of the worthy, like a bee at the lotus feet of the lord of Lakshmi, like Kumáraswámi in the front of war, pleased to horripilation with hearing the law, whose fame was as bright moonlight to the water-lilies the eyes of the queen the points of the compass, a terror in the field of battle, a right arm of victory to Tribhuvana Malla, a sun to the high mountain of the Brahman race, possessed of these and all other titles—was ruling the Banavase Twelve Thousand, the Sántalige Thousand, two six hundreds, the vadda rávula and pannáya,* in the royal city of Balipura—Vishnu sported in the great waters in the mighty expanse of the milk sea, while unable for the tepid breeze to come forth from the lotus (the navel of Vishnu) shone Brahma in its centre like its ovary. With affection did Vishnu gaze at the gentle smile of the resplendent Lakshmi, surrounded with shining large shells and branches of creeping coral, above which rose the spray like a rampart of the thorny kétare flowers.

This chief general, whose pure auspicious form was praised by all, of extensive fame, caused to be made two twelve-faced disks (images of the sun), full of radiance and dazzling to behold. And he made a 'pure tank of water such that it was as if his sea had come there with Vishnu, or through love for the daughter whom Vishnu bore (Lakshmi), being called by her.

(Also) may it be well—To 25 mahájans (chief Brahmans), accomplished in the holy acts—yama, niyama, svádhyáya, dhyána, dhárana, mauna, anusthána, japa, samádhi, †—purest of all the inhabitants in the world, distinguished by their excessive attachment to the worship of Vishnu, with hearts close to the throne of the feet of Vishnu, occupants of the sky in virtue of its being filled with the celestial Ganges of their fame, devoted to the performance of the Brahman penances, celebrated in the world for personal purity, causing Indra himself to tremble from their Indra-like greatness (through penance), as Brahma himself to the vedas, illuminators of the Brahman race, whose curse never failed, enlightening like a lamp the treasury of universal merit, of purest bodies—in the 39th year of Chálukya Vikrama, the year Jaya, the month Chaitra, full moon day, Sunday, the day of an eclipse, at the vyatipáta, the time of the equinox,—as a gift to Paramesvara, and writing a copper s'ásana—gave, with washing of feet, pouring of water and every ceremony, free of all burden, with enjoyment for three generations—the Savati khanda plain of the thala-vritti of the royal city of Balipura.

The boundaries of that tract—west, the weir of the Bengere tank and the Heggatta halla; north, the Arasakatte and Indragere; east, the boundary of Govindapura; south, Baligada and the west of the Sarasvati garden.

And near the Heggatta halla, for the daily oblation to the god, for the worship, the repetition of the service, a procession in Chaitra and for repairs of the temple, granted 8 mattas, 4 flower gardens, 4 oil mills, 4 shops, 4 betel and mango gardens, the carriers of loads (héru vokkaṅge) being freed from hejjunka, vadda rávuṣa, varddhá dána, and talara sunka.*

Whoso preserves this gift is as if he had made it himself: whoso destroys this gift incurs the guilt of slaying cows and Brahmans. Poison is no poison. The property of the gods that is the real poison. For poison kills one man, but a gift to the gods (if usurped) kills a man with his son and descendants.

(Rest illegible.)

* See note p. 79. Varddhá dána would appear to mean gift on promotion or increase; talara sunka, local customs duties levied by the watchmen.

Om. Adored be S'ambhu beauteous with the chamara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May the ocean of goodness, the jewel of deliverance from domestic troubles, the giver of treasures to Kubera, the adorned with all good qualities, the remover of sin, the husband of Gauri—grant the desires of his worshippers.

May it be well.—May that illustrious one, the remover of all fear, worshipped by the assemblies of gods and rakshasas, a jewel to the race of all kings, possessed of all titles an ocean of good qualities, the mighty king of the earth—be victorious as long as sun, moon, and stars endure.

The greatest of all is the line of the Yādava dynasty
(A considerable portion of the s'asana in this place is almost entirely illegible—the name occurs of Vira Ballūla bhūpam).

May it be well—A lord of all the lands belonging to the Kshatriyas living in Sidda-kshetra, an abode of the pleasure of Sarasvati, a new moon to the lotuses his enemies, causing pleasure to the lotus hearts of those who serve Siddes'vara adorned with the half moon, whose image is in the chief city that shines surrounded with pleasure gardens and the shelter of young creepers, skilled in making all kinds of gifts, holding a conch in his hand—many kings were the servants of his feet.

From the great sage Vasishtha did his race originate. and Kratana a son was born, speaking pleasantly to all people,—a light to the race of the Brahmins, was that great commander. To that Kratana by favor was born Kumāra.

He in the S'aka year 1117*, the year Ananda, the month Margas'ira, the day of new moon, first of the moon's increase, Monday, at the vyatipāta,—for the pleasure and every kind of service of the god Siddes'vara, gave to the greatly renowned Deva S'iva Paṇḍita at that time there, washing his feet and pouring a libation—gave along with the nidhi, nīkshēpa, jala, taru,

*páshás—lands belonging to the city and lands belonging to Siddápura—gave with affection, the great rája washing his feet so as to shew the yava (or lucky marks in the toes)—gave, pouring water in the manner approved by all.

The gift which he thus privately made, with the pouring of water from a kalas'a, became celebrated among all people and gained him the glory of a giver of lands. In war like S'ibi, good deeds were his distinction, conqueror of all his foes, to women a Manmatha, was that Kumára. Adorned with all good qualities, an abode of growing good fortune, of pure extended fame, clothed with a pure body. With his terrible words the clouds were forced to come near and the pleasant streams flowed down from the mountains filled with lusty elephants. Skilled in all the science of weapons, possessed of a splendid army, he was surrounded in war by neighbouring kings and friends. Having made images of Soma and Uma he caused the place called Agnes'vara, adorned with groves and hills, with fruits ripening in their season, and with all holy actions, to be celebrated among all people.

The boundaries of Prasiddhipura, as determined by the Kshatriyas of that town, were—east, the cultivated land of the Brahma stream—west, a hedge of bamboos, namely the hedge of bamboos included between the jáli tree at the end and the mark of the creepers—south, the enclosure of the Berundés'vara temple to the mark of the jáli tree of Ballipura and the boundary of the temple of the god Avimuktés'vara—north, Heggaṭṭa—these four boundary pillars extend as far as Kiru Baligáve.

The boundaries of the field—east, the southern waste weir of Hávalgajje—south, Nidugolla—west, the Baduva tank-bund of Obbaddi—north, the southern arm of the paddy land of the god Indraprastha Varáha, adjoining the stream.

. . . a paddy land of one maṭṭa, and under the tank bund of the god Rames'vara 4 flower gardens and paddy land of one maṭṭa.

Whoso preserves this gift will obtain merit. Whoso destroys it incurs the guilt of slaying a thousand Brahmans and a thousand cows. Whoso revokes by violence the land presented either by himself or by another will certainly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Om.—Praise to Siva.

The auspicious god of Kailāsa, first of the deities, lord of the sound Om, embracing earth, moon, sun, Yama, wind, sky, fire, water, and Brahma, without birth, husband of Pārvati, having the world as his car, the fountain of mercy, known by the twanging sound of his bow, king of the gods, the master of Daksha—into this S'iva my mind enters.

* This is a female figure, and stands a step lower than the other.

† There appears to have been some inscription at the base of this figure, which is too much defaced to be made out.

This mother (Párvati), the genitrix of the twice-born (Brahmans), hearing the glorious order of Mahadeva, first of all the illustrious rishis, lord of the syllable om, for the unending work of the creation of the three worlds, shone at his left side obedient to the words, and conceived the desire for the essences from which was produced the greatness of the world.

From the lotus in the navel of the lotus-eyed (Vishnu) came forth the generator of the birth of the world, the husband of Sarasvati, with his womb (sic) of light. From that lotus, by the intent of Vishnu, worthy to be worshipped by the three worlds, that the three worlds should praise him, were produced the three worlds, filled with gods, animals and men. But as if these were grown old and not pleasing, Brahma created a land of surpassing merit.

On the globe of the world, which princes sport with, taking in their arms laden with sounding ornaments, like a Linga placed on its throne (or pedestal) shone Jambu dvīpa to the eyes, surrounded with numerous and extensive oceans—and in that region the most glorious was the Kundala country. In that land of exalted merit (karma bhūmī), in the dvapara age, the seed of works of merit produced fruit a hundred crore fold, which shall grow for ever.

After the Kshatriyas who sprung from the arms of Parames'vara, the Chálukya race became renowned.

Of that Chálukya race, the son Tailapa was a king renowned; his son was the king Sattiga; whose son was the king Vikramanka; equal to him was Jaya Simha his younger brother; whose son was Ahava Malla; whose son was Núrmaḍi; whose son was Somu; whose son was Jagadeka Malla; whose son was the king Taḍa.

In this manner the kings of the Chálukya line having ruled in order, at that time:

May it be well—Entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Maṇḍales'vara, lord of the chief city Kálanjara, having the ensign of a golden bull, having the great sounds of the damaruga, turya and nirghoshana, a sun to the lotus the Kalachurya race, able in war, in honor as mount Meru, as a god to the fighting-men, an elephant goad to the bravest (of his foes), a cage of adamant to those who claimed his protection, in bravery like Ravana, to strange women like a brother, the Malla of the S'anivara Siddagiri durga, in war like Rama, a lion to the elephant his enemies, Nis'sanka Malla, possessing these and many other titles*—was the powerful emperor Bijjana Devarasa, whose greatness and bravery were as follows—

* See note p. 66.

Considering that the world was in his hand, looking upon all like the pleasant moon, of marvellous splendour in the field of battle, possessing the wealth of all the points of the compass, with teeth like the jasmine, of mild disposition, causing joy to all by his speech, reckoning virtuous qualities as his life although all such qualities were in him, with his body stretched out as far as the elephants at the points of the compass he plucked out their tusks and gained a great fame, the king Bijjana.

The dweller at his lotus feet was the mahá pradhána, the Banavase náđ Dandánáyaka Kes'imoyya, whose lineage was as follows.—

Bearing the burden of all his line like Girijesa, of unequalled bravery, Ho!ala Rája, increasing in splendour from the glory of king Bijja, was his father, his mother Dugganabbe, shining with the brightness of the moon—thus was he a glory of the Bharadvája tribe, a light to the Aravinda náđ, no ordinary man. In beauty of person the son of Indra, in good fortune Manmatha, in morals Manu, in understanding Brahma, in helping and protecting others the emperor S'ibi, in worth, majesty and profundity Raghu Ráma, thus is he considered and described with great joy by people on both sides of the earth.

The most distinguished of his ministers were—Narasimha Deva, of great wisdom; Mahálárya, an ocean of good qualities; Tikkarasa, foremost in gifts, of great dignity, without an equal.

His revenue accountants, some regarding him with affection and some with the obeisance due to a treasury of wisdom, Chatti Rája governed and protected—(namely) Mailári Dandanátha of rapidly acquired fame; Potarasa, a treasury of liberality; Chánakya, gainer of all lawful profit; Soma, a collection of all fortune. And among those herggade karanas, of sincere mind and blameless life, were—having embraced the path of Manu, of great liberality, Ebbe Rája; of inestimable qualities Revana; Soma, unshaken, majestic and pure; Mártánja, of shining fame; Nagoyli Rája, of a renown worthy of all praise; the skilful Mallappa, a just and good king—all of them experienced in the path of virtue.

While the mahá pradhána Kes'ava Dandánáyaka, surrounded with all these his ministers, royal attendants, chief men, servants, people of the city, and chief accountants, was ruling the Banavase Twelve Thousand, punishing the evil and rewarding the good, residing in the royal city of Ballipura,—one day when in the midst of the assembly, with a few attendants round him, one at his feet watching with great fear to receive his wishes, one who himself received obeisance from others—

From the lotus-born (Brahma) was descended a lord of many, Kas'yappa; from him was born Abja who obtaining the great Paritapati (as wife) became renowned. He had (a son) the prudent Soma; from whom a mighty emanation was Chastri Rája, a protector of all who sought refuge with him. His wife was Mádiakka. To these two was born Rechanna, destined to acquire all merit.

He commenced a discourse (as follows) on merit, which, filled with eloquent words and skilful arguments, pleased the lotus heart of all people as the rays of the sun bring delight to the lines of lotuses.

'Thus adapted to the increase of merit are the greatness of gifts of land, and gifts of villages, the distinction of gifts of food, the glory of gifts of learning. (The advantage of) each one of these may be described as follows :

"Of all gifts a gift of land is the best, this frees from all sin, this obtains svarga. Thus say the learned who are acquainted with the secrets of merit— 'Those who perform penances, those who perform sacrifices according to the s'ástrás, the followers of truth, those who know many sciences, those who reverence and love gurus and gods, will not go beyond (to a higher heaven than) 'donors of land.' No gift is equal to gifts of land, no treasure is equal to land, no other gift is so allied to truth, as than untruth no sin is greater.

"From the gift of villages with all the crops and waters belonging to them, free of all burden, if presented from love to Siva, listen and I will relate the merit one obtains. Shining like a crore of suns, surrounded by crores of celestial nymphs, in a car such as is promised to those who make crores of gifts, filled with all he may desire, accompanied by twenty one generations of his line, shall he come to my world (says Siva) and there for time without end live in the enjoyment of all delights.

"There is nothing better in the world than food, neither has there been nor will there ever be; food is the cause of the world being what it is, all in the world depends on food, therefore whoso makes a gift of food is as if he made a gift of life. It is more meritorious than even a gift of life, therefore he who makes a gift of food obtains the merit of all gifts.

"The Brahmins and others of the four castes, the four religious orders, Brahma and all the gods, are engaged in gifts of learning. Whoso performs incantations and penance, what man soever with ability instructs disciples, by these no greater can be bestowed, they have made all gifts. Whoso supplies students with food, applies unguents to their bodies, furnishes them with clothes, gives them alms, to him all his desires will be fulfilled, of this there is no doubt. Whatsoever merit arises from pilgrimages to holy bathing places, whatsoever arises from performing sacrifices according to the s̄āstras, a crore-fold greater merit shall he obtain who makes gifts of learning."

Listening to the glory of the various kinds of gifts by which those who are tormented with many sins may free themselves, his mind being filled with piety and prepared, inquiring for a place where such a gift might worthily be made, and coming with Necharasa to a village named Sthānugūḥa, a gift of the golden-wombed (Brahma) whose wisdom is full of desire for the creation of all worlds, a place of shelter for 32,000 Brahmans, shining with the images of Pranaves'vara and other gods made by Brahma, purified by the residences of Brahma. Aditya and others created by the four-faced (Brahma) and other gods, surrounded by many shining pleasure groves situated near it—this he decided on as a suitable place for the performance of a work of merit—and as if to increase the love of meritorious works he already had, saying 'I will cause it to be done', rising up from the place of the assembly, he came, along with his accountants, and first performing all manner of worship to the god Pranaves'vara of the Sthānugūḥa village—

And then in the presence of the Vedanti Svayampaki Deva, of the 32,000 mahajanas (Brahmans) of the agrahāra revered by all the nād, the Sthānugūḥa village,—accomplished in the holy acts, yama, nīyama, svādhyāya, dhyana, dharana, mauna, anushāhana, japa, samadhi,* diligent in performing the agnihotra and other sacrifices, and in serving gurus, Brahmans and gods, versed in tarka, mimāmsa and many other sciences, devoted to all kinds of merit, diligent in performing the agnishōma and seven great sacrifices, of a fame that dazzled like the sun, with bodies purified by the bathings after many sacrifices—and of the Deva the Herggade karanam of the place, of the Nāgara Khanḍa worthies, Badanike Sovarasa, Nakana, Goidana, Begūra Keta Gavunda, Megundi Sanka Gavunḍa, Malavalli Keta Gavunda, Konavalli Prāthivi Setti, Kiruvadi Masani Setti, these and other the Nāgara Khanḍa chiefs and head men, and the Herggades and accountants of that Kampana—

For the pleasure and worship of the god and the daily service, the enthronement, the offerings and oblations, for a procession in Chaitra and attendant sports, and for any fresh ceremonies,—together with four Veda khandika, two Bhaṭṭa vritti, and for learned teachers of Kannāḍa letters† six khandikas for the food, clothing and chatra for the teachers and students—with the consent of Kasapaya Nūyaka his governor.‡

Kes'ava Dandanáyaka and his accountants, in the S'aka year 1079, the year Is'vara, the month Pushya, full moon day, Monday, the day of the sun's entering the northern signs, at the vyati-páta—pouring water, gave, with enjoyment for three generations—the village of Hiriyá Tagulatti in the Kampana Nagara Khanda Seventy of the Banavase Twelve Thousand, and to the south-west of Thanagundurú, the Kónavane plain—purifying the four boundaries according to the ancient custom.

The settlement there made was as follows—to the god Múlasthaná of Tagulatti, one matta; for the freehold land of the Gauda two mattas; in the Konavane plain, the Rig-veda khandika one, the Yajur-veda khandika one, the Kalpa khandika one, the Sâma-veda khandika one, for the teachers of language and grammar one khandika, the Prabhákara-vedânta khandika one, for the separate heads of the different schools of logic three mattas, for the Vedânti Svayampáki Svámi one matta, for the davusigarú one matta, for the garland makers of the flower-garden 20 kammás—altogether 5 mattas 20 kammás.

And of the paddy produced on the remaining land, the equivalent of one fourth part, after deducting one year's crop for the daily worship and offerings to the god—and of the residus of the paddy and of the money obtained from Tagulhatti, devoting one (fourth) part to the god—the remaining paddy and money are for daily feeding 30 Brahmaus who eat in the god's chatra, the disciples of the 8 khandikas, reckoning 6 to each, 48 khandika disciples, the pujari and manyaru (servants) of the god 2—altogether 80—

For three female cooks (bánasittigarú) 6 gadyána for their keep, and 6 pana for cloths (sirege), for 50 disciples 2 pana each for cloths, altogether (?) 10 ra for an oil bath once a week, and for feeding 30 extra Brahmaus on Mondays 4 gadyánas, for daily oblations 5 gadyánas, for the teacher of Kannaða 5 gadyána, for teachers of the sâstra to boys, for teachers of the puránas, for those who maintain the sacred fire, for the presenters of akshati and sandal, and of betel and nut (támbúla) to the Brahmaus who have been fed in the khandika chatras.

And from half the money obtained in Tagulhatti for the god,—from the gardens which S'icharasa, Hattagára, Boðarasa, Mahadeva, the agents (kaj-jangalu) presented—and from the seven vritti to the east of Siddaballi given by the faithful, there shall be performed daily gaddige púje, worship with incense, oblations and the perpetual lamp; and one thousand burnt offerings of gingeli seed (tila homa).

And from month to month, on the two 8th and two 14th days of the moon, on new moon and full moon days, at the vyati-páta and equinoxes (sankramana), —at these auspicious times, first performing all the usual daily services, then the teachers of the s'ástras will recite the S'ántyadhya, the 6th of the S'iva-dharma; and according to the rules therein making a mandala in front of the god, with the proper incantations place on it offerings of food (bali)—and pronounce a blessing on the reigning sovereign (des'avanálva kshatriyánmam), on cows and Brahmans, and the principal director of the ceremonies.

And whenever they happen in the year, on the maháparvas, the two equinoxes and the two solstices, on the eclipses of sun or moon, at the full moon days in Asháḍha, Kárttika, Mágha and Vais'ákha, on which occasions the service performed brings as much merit as worship for six months—at those auspicious times, beginning with a thousand gaddige púje (worship of the god's throne), then performing the punyáha váchane (repeating praises of the day and purifying the assembly by sprinkling), and the s'ástra khandikas separating the guru-mandala, vidyá-mañḍala and S'iva-mañḍala—these three mandalas worshipping, shall recite the s'ánti adhyáya.

And the four veda khandikas, filling four purified pots with water; and taking perfume drugs, gall of cattle, the five kinds of sprouts (viz., those of the mango, wild fig, banyan, sacred fig, and waved leaf fig), five kinds of bark, the five products of the cow (milk, curds, ghee, urine and dung), cardamoms, sandal-wood, &c; will put these into them, and place them towards the four points of the compass, and repeat the verses in praise of S'iva from the four vedas. The gaddige púje being thus ended—

Then making before the god eight libations, and anointing him with the pancha gavya (the five products of the cow above mentioned) and the panchámrita (viz., milk, curds, honey, ghee, and cocoanut-milk); will mix the flour of wheat and rice in warm water coloured with turmeric, and then bathe the god with kus'a-water, sandal-water, flower-water, pure-water, gold-water and jewel-water.

After that the vedic priests, taking up those four pots, will approach, repeating the verses of the Rig-veda commencing with the word samudra, and with their arms performing the auspicious bath, will place upon the god the five sweet perfumes (viz., two kinds of civet, scented vermilion powder, superfine camphor, and musk). Then according to the s'ástras, decorating him, and tying on the sacred thread, making the offerings of madhu-parḥa (a dish of plantains, honey and curds) and áchamantiya (a little water), and worshipping him with flowers, fruits and food, with burning of incense and lights, and waving of lamps,—they will place in four metal plates lamps made of the five kinds of colored rice, each with three wicks, and wave them three times before him, with hymns of praise, with the sound of all the drums, the conchs and horns.

And at the three seasons (morning, noon and evening) after making an oblation of rice, milk and sugar, of cakes and other eatables; and presenting betel-leaf and areca-nut; they will offer around that oblation balls made of sugar as a bali. Then shall they come and worship all the gods of the village.

And at the uttaráyana (the equinox in which the sun enters the northern signs), anointing the god with 100 palas of ghee, and making a large garland of flowers containing 1008 blossoms of the blue water-lily; they will worship him therewith.

And at the full moon in Mágha they will make an oblation of ghee, and in Chaitra, after performing high service, will seat the god on a high car, and take him to visit the reigning prince, exhibiting the umbrella, the *chámara*s, the great banner, the standards, the vessels and the mirrors; sounding all the most auspicious musical instruments, conchs and horns, as well as those in daily use; displaying all the pictures, &c., which daily surround the god. And after making a grand illumination they will return and cause all to be placed in their positions again.

Thus shall the king who rules our nád and his chief accountants and the 32,000 remit the dues in their several places and maintain the gift. Thus will they gain all the regions procured by the merit of reading the Sáma-veda, of making gifts, and of reading the Yajur-veda. Thence enjoying the pleasures of the Rudra-loka, and for endless ages dwelling there in happiness, they will then obtain an eternal, indestructible, undisturbed place in the dwelling of the god Soma-nalina (S'iva), and there abide in everlasting joy.

Of making a gift or continuing it, the continuing it is the best, for he who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who continues it obtains final beatitude.

Adored be Hara Praise to S'iva, the husband of Pārvati, having the crest of the crescent moon, destroyer of the sins of all people, served by rishis, by whom all the world has been adorned, wearing serpents as his ornaments.

May it be well—While the powerful emperor, Vira Ballu(a) Devarasa, protector of all the world, favorite of earth and fortune, a sun in the firmament of the Yādava race, a chintāmani to the desires of all, Raja of the Male Rājas (hill rajas)* . . .—was ruling his kingdom in peace and wisdom†—at that time ;

In the world great with all good things, and surrounded by the girdle of the sea filled with the high waves of the Ganges, shines Jambu-dvīpa, conspicuous with the rich country of Kuntala. In it, ornamented with pleasure groves grateful to the minds and eyes of men, with clustering branches and fruit, and with lakes surrounded with lines of lotuses covered with buds and leaves, were the pre-eminent lands of Kedāra, whose king, the chief of many countries, of which Banavase was the first, Mukkanna Kaḷamba, born to confer benefits on the world, rejoicing in gifts, to the Brahman race in the south . . . selecting from Ahichchhatra agrahara 12,000 Brahmans purified by agnihotras, belonging to 32 families, bringing them thence and placing them before him, sought out for them a holy spot, celebrated in the four ages, pure, distinguished by Pranames'vara and others, by Five Lingas established by Brahma and other gods, and made there an agrahāra named Sthānarudrapura.‡

To describe it—Filled with the sounds of groups of parrots, with fields of paddy, groups of lotuses, and bowers of spreading creepers, abounding in beautiful gardens, melodious with full grown cuckoos—this place thus glorious, as if, resolved that no other should equal it, had fixed that bound as a charm, lay near the mountains. But as if fearing that surrounded by mountains it would be dark, Indra, the splitter of mountains, had removed the mountains to a little distance from that Tánagundúru.

In its groves were the sandal with its comely leaves, the young red sandal, the cocoanut palm, the clove tree, the citrou, the chamṛaka, the neem tree (margasa), the minusors elengi, the as'oka, the areca palm, the boswellia thurifera, the fragrant jasmine, and the mango.

In it were professors skilled in medicine, in sorcery (or magic), in logic, in the art of distorting people by incantation, in poetry, in the use of weapons, in sacrificing, and in the art of cookery to prepare the meals.

While its groves put to shame the groves of Nandana, such was the glory of that great agrahára that all the surrounding country prayed to be taught in the four vedas, their six vedángas, the three rival divisions of mímámsa, the tarka and other connected sciences, the eighteen great puránas, the making of numerous verses of praise, the art of architecture, the arts of music and dancing, and in the knowledge of all the four divisions of learning which were possessed by the Brahmans of the Sthínagundúru agrahára.

Oblations of food, milk and curds, rich milk, pudding of rice, these all abound in this village, thus did each pair of gods ever sing to each other throughout the night.

To describe the Chakradhara of the learned of that village—Having by the circle of his wisdom relieved the village of great trouble and thereby bestowed a benefit upon it, he had received the honorable name of Chakroya.

Whose race was as follows:—Filling the whole world with his fame as the glory of the 32,000, giving protection to many multitudes of Brahmans, of great virtue, the essence of piety, diligent in worshipping gods and Brahmans, was the Brahman lord Makimaya. In virtuous life equal to the sons of Manu, possessing a knowledge of all sciences, true in speech, distinguished in the assembly, of great and secure wealth, born in the race of Erahma, worthy of obeisance from all, for the utterance of whose praise all the learned were unequal, renowned in the Vis'vamitra gotra, thus illustrious was Máki Rája. To the assembly of the learned, and to those who were under his protection, to those who were his friends, and to all who were worthy, like a cluster of fruit he granted all their desires as soon as ever they approached him.

Thus having like as Govinda appeared in the world as a kalpa-vriksha and gained a great name, the learned Máki obtained a son, a possessor of all virtue. And his son obtaining praise from all people, a moon to raise the fortunes of his family, the Brahman Mákimaya rose in the world.

His offspring was as follows—As king Pándu had five sons, so to him also were born five sons—Vámana, Trilochana of unequalled greatness, Is'vara, Dinagopa, and Nrisimha. That these were benefactors to the world and an ornament to their race, to render them this praise did all the earth love. Among these five the most illustrious, understanding the divine method, was the Brahman named Trilochana—like the tender sprout which the hand has caught, or a kalpa-vriksha, so among his illustrious brothers was he the first.

Of a disposition the praise of all, possessed of virtue, character, worth, a relative of all the good, with a form like the forms of those who were the embodiments of all the vedas and s'ástras (the ancient rishis), knowing the glory and the attributes of the two lotus feet of S'iva, who could equal thee, Trilochana, adorned with the gem of all good qualities.

Of a piety which consecrated the image of Pranames'vara shining like a new Brahma, this Trilochana, with an excess of ardour like one possessed had overcome all jealousy between Lakshmi and Sarasvati, and gained the favor of both.—May our minds be thus free from impurity, our dispositions devoted to acts of merit, our desire a birth place of all good qualities—so did all the Brahmans pray.

His mother's family was also fortunate, descended from Kes'ava, grantor of benefits to all, whose son was Bácha, whose son was Vámana, a light upon the people. Among his daughters and grand-daughters the most renowned was Mávikavve. She was the chief wife of Mákimaya, and as to her were born five sons, she is Kunti herself was it said. How great then by fortune was Trilochana. To the goddess Rati in beauty, to Sarasvati in wisdom, to Párvati in majesty, to Árundhati in chastity, was she equal, and even greater merit had she obtained in the world, this mother Márbyavve.

Thus born of pure descent by his ancestors in both lines, and being the abode of prudence, morality, humility, vaidika (religious devotion), laukika (worldly wisdom), virtue, docility, kindness, liberality and many other qualities —that Trilochana Deva thus thought within himself, 'I must obtain a pure merit which shall endure as long as moon and stars'—whereupon Prayāga Paramés'vara appearing to him in a dream in unequalled glory, and saying, 'As in former times Nrisimha was in the pillar at the desire of Prablāda, so will I be in this stone' vanished. To the god Mādhava thus established, in the S'aka year 1113, the year Siddhārti,* the month Chaitra, the 11th day of the moon's increase, Sunday, at the vyatipāta, the time of the equinox—Vāmaya, Trilochana Deva, Is'vara Deva, Govinda Deva, and Narasingha Deva, these five, worshipping the feet of the chief Brahmans in the 32,000 country and gaining their consent—gave in permanence, free of every burden, for the decoration of the god Mādhava and the temple processions (angabhoga and rangabhoga), from their vritti in the southern plain, namely in the paddy land near the tank, the Maragundi paddy-field of 60 kmmas—and from their garden on the northern side 60 kmmas.

Whoso preserves this gift will obtain eternal merit; whoso thinking evil usurps it, incurs the sin of killing cows and Brahmans in Vāranās'i and Kurukshetra.

Moreover for preserving the perpetual lamp before the god Mādhava the Seṭṭis who were his worshippers sold to the hands of Trilochana Deva 5 kmmas of garden land.

Their glory was as follows—Excelling in all kinds of learning, ignorant of falsehood, passing their time so as not to fail in obtaining a better world. . . .

Adored be S'ambhu, beautiful with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well.—While the kingdom of Tribhuvana Malla, protector of all lands, favorite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyās'raya kula, ornament of the Chalukyas†—was increasing in prosperity to endure as long as sun and moon—

* There is a discrepancy of 8 years between the name and the number of the year, besides which the latter has the appearance of 1173 which would not fall within the reign of Vira Ballāla.

† See note p. 14.

While the servant of his feet, subduer of hostile armies, master of all the treasures in that place, sun to the lotus the race of Brahmans, the mighty Dandanayaka Anantapāla was ruling in peace the Two hundred and the Banavase Twelve thousand.

Possessor of the favor of that maha pradhāna the Bānasa Mane Verggaḍe Anantapāla, an abode of fortune, and living at his lotus feet :—

To the abode of all sound wisdom . . . Rāja and his wife Nilabbe was born Dāsi Rāja, a sun to the firmament of the Parās'ara gotra, a favorite of all through his fame, a jewel of good qualities. He was the father, and the treasury of all excellence Somāmbika his mother. While that jewel of good qualities, protector of the learned, of a resplendent fame illuminating the water-lily the earth, the Ranaranga Bhairava, like Vatsa to poison, a kalpa-vriksa to poets, the powerful Dandanayaka Govinda Rāja, was protecting the Banavase Twelve thousand, the valḍa rācula, the perjunka; and the two *bilkode, in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom †.

A dweller at his lotus feet, whose native place was the Vedala village given by Rāma in the Antarvedi, containing eight thousand inhabitants, whose father was Madhava Bhaṭṭa, his mother Jūnaki, his gotra the Vatsa, his sister Irabba, his younger brother Soddela, cousin to the Dandanayaka Goydaraśa,—the landholder Tricali Bhaṭṭa, having come to greatness in the most excellent Tānagundūru; in consequence of a discourse on merit, made request of the 32,000, saying 'Grant me some land that I may construct a tank here'. † They agreeing thereto, and giving him land near the northern road of the village, he in the 32nd year of Chālukya Vikrama, the year Sarvajit, the month Chaitra, the 3rd day of the moon's increase, Thursday—having excavated a tank and obtained therein abundance of water, built there a temple, and for erecting a watershed and presenting (passengers) with gruel (ambali), and for men for letting out the water from the tank and for men to examine the tank,—gave to the hands of Maduki 50 kammas below the tank according to the kacchavi pole, and also to the hands of Madu Deva for a garden 13 kammas—altogether 63 kammas—performing all the rites of worship to the 32,000.

This gift may the 32,000 maintain and the Herggaḍes protect.

Whoso maintains this gift will derive the merit of presenting tawny cows to Brahmans. He who alienates it incurs the guilt of killing Brahmans and cows. Whoso usurps the land presented by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Janaki being the mother who bore him, the celebrated Mádharma Bhatta his father, the hero, the home of wisdom, the lord Goyda Raja his cousin, he was as if Brahma had created him to obtain for the Vatsa gotra the reverence of all the other gotras. How illustrious then was he by nature.

Whoso thinks to rob Pranames'vara will fall into the great sin.

I adore the god Vināyaka, who speedily removes all the difficulties of his worshippers.

May it be well—While the victorious kingdom of the illustrious Traḷokya Malla Deva, protector of all lands, favorite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme ruler, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyas'raya kula, ornament of the Chalukyas,* was continually increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon and stars—

While the dweller at his lotus feet—May it be well—entitled to the five great drums, chief of all the tributaries, like Vishnu a lord over many great kings, an abode of fortune, a Badabānala to the ocean of his enemies, a lion to the elephant his foes, granter of their desires to all who came to him, a deity incarnate in supplying all the wants of rishis, a mine of liberality and kindness, a cage of adamant to those who claimed his protection, a safe asylum to the learned obtaining the reverence of all, a thunderbolt weapon to the race of hostile kings, to young women a Manmatha, possessed of all learning, to strange women as their son, brave as Indra, a benefactor to all his dependents, fierce to proud enemies—the auspicious Maha Man'ales'vara Singana Devarasa was ruling in peace and wisdom† the Risukonia Seventy mandala, the Banavase Twelve thousand, and the Sāntalige Thousand, punishing the evil and protecting the good as far as the Western Ocean.

At that time, in the year Pārthiva, the month Pushya, the 9th day of the moon's increase, Sunday, it being the day of the sun's entering the northern sign,—to provide for worship and daily service in the temple of Īhagavati Balliyable Devi, set up near Balligave—gave a thala-vritti of 18 mattas according to the katsavi pole, and for the distribution of food, a flower garden of 6 mattas to the west of the street of that goddess.

Moreover for the ablutions, the daily offering, for feeding the attendant priests, and for repairs of the temple, gave up, on the east of the Nāgarabhavi street, kammas 18—washing the feet of the priest of that place, Lakshmanes'vara Sīva Pandita, accomplished in the holy acts yama, niyama, svadhyaya, dhyana, dhāraṇa, mauna, and anush'hana,‡ with pouring of water and every ceremony, free of all burdens.

* See note p. 14.

‡ See note p. 16.

The eastern boundary of that thala-vritti is the small stream flowing east and south from the west of the Ara tank. The southern boundary the stream from the south side of the Ara tank flowing west. The western boundary the east bank of the thalavritti of the god Ramesvara irrigated from the south. The northern boundary the drain which runs to the fields. The western boundary of the flower-garden is the small stream north-east of the Kabbina pond. Thence the eastern boundary is to the south of the tank of the god Báláditya Tejomartanda.

The northern boundary of the street of the Devipura is the northern well of the goddess. Thence the eastern boundary is the eastern limit of the land belonging to the god Tejomartanda. The southern boundary is the nirgundi tree to the south of the pond at the south east angle of the Devipura.

The eastern boundary of Nagarabhávi street is that well itself. The southern boundary is the path running north from the south-east angle of the street. The western boundary is the path running in that direction. The northern boundary is the large rugged rock at the north side of the street.

Whoso maintains this gift will obtain the merit of presenting a thousand tawny-cows to a thousand Brahmans versed in the vedas, and of presenting double headed (i. e., parturient) cows, decked with the five precious stones, at the holy bathing places of Ganges, Banarasi, Kurukshetra, Prayaga and Agritirtha. Whoso usurps it incurs the guilt of the five great sins, and of killing in those places with his own hand a thousand Brahmans and a thousand cows.

Poison is no poison. The property of the gods that is the real poison. For poison kills one man, but a gift to the gods (if usurped) kills a man with his son and descendants. Whoso by violence takes away a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many other kings, whose reward was in proportion to their (gifts of) land. The bridge of merit deserves your support O kings of the earth. Thus from age to age cries Rámachandra to the kings who come after him.

Whoso being able to perform it withholds his hand from a work of merit, incurs the guilt of slaughtering a thousand cows. Whoso entirely alienates a gift when made, incurs the guilt of killing a crore of cows.

head. Those who escape destruction from the elephant are led up to be despatched by the king himself, or are speared by some of his attendants, two of whom are seated on the elephant.

The victorious king is seen on horseback, sword in hand, with mangled bodies of the slain at his side, which the crows are pecking at. He is accompanied by two horsemen, and his umbrellas (the insignia of rank,) one a triple one, are borne along with him. A herald preceding him proclaims the victory through a long trumpet, while Fayu, the god of the wind and regent of the north-west point of the compass, rides forth on his swift antelope to spread the news abroad.

Other celestial beings take a part in the scene. On the right, the terrible figure of the three-eyed Bhairava appears, borne by two attendants. He wears a garland of skulls, is half riding on one dead body and has a headless trunk of another at his feet. In his left hand he holds a human head, and with his right is gorging himself with the flesh of the victims, a portion being handed to him by a boy seated on the creop of the elephant. Above this horrid figure is one of Káli or a female rákshasa holding aloft a victim whom she is about to dash before the elephant.

On the upper part of the picture appear the Apsaras or nymphs of Indra's paradise, who according to the Vira S'aira doctrines are the portion of brave warriors and bear them in their arms or in triumphal cars direct from the field of battle to paradise. The queen of the Apsaras appears seated on a throne (1), her feet resting on a footstool grotesquely carved like a man on all fours. She is attended by a female on each side holding a chámara, an indication of rank. On the forefinger of her left hand, she holds a bird (what bird is doubtful, it does not look like a parrot,) which another female behind is trying to entice into a cage. On the right of this part of the sculpture is the only one of the celestial nymphs who exhibits an interest in the proceedings. A warrior at her side is loading a jinjal, but for what purpose is not clear, unless to shoot at the bird before mentioned.

On the left, immediately over the king, stands a female figure under a dhvaja stambha or flag-staff, holding something (perhaps a bag of money denoting wealth) in her left hand. The other hand appears bound to the flag-staff, and the sculptor may have intended to represent thereby the goddess of victory or fortune as forced to attend upon and inseparably attached to the standard of the king, a common metaphor in inscriptions.

May the doctrine of Traḷōkyā Nātha, the supreme profound śyād vada prevail; the Jain doctrine which is a token of unshaking success. May the sign of the moon-rise of knowledge be supreme in the world. May wealth arise from the lotus lake of Jain yōgis. May the sun whose attributes are learning, wisdom and goodness, the friend of his worshippers, shine forth. May Vijaya Pars'va Tirthes'vara, lord of the three worlds, who cannot be reached by the efforts of pride, whose three white umbrellas illuminate the city of the world, possessor of all riches, the luminous expounder of wisdom, prevail. Eternally adored be Om! Reverence to Vijaya Pars'va Jines'vara, whose feet are illuminated by the rows of jewels in the crowns of illustrious kings prostrate before him, the teacher of merit to the three worlds, the enemy of lust, superior to birth, growth and destruction.

Prosperity to the kings of the Hoysala race, a destroying sword to hostile kings, a thunderbolt-weapon to the fiercest.

The manner of its incarnation was as follows—From the celebrated Brahma sprung Atri, and from him Soma. The son of Soma was Purūrava, a king of the earth praised by all the world. From him came the great king Ayu, then the beautiful Nahusha, then Yayāti and Yadu. In this line was born the celebrated Sa'a, surrounded by prostrate kings, a sea of all good qualities.*

The increase of the kingdom of that king Sa'a was brought about on this wise.—

When with joy a Jain ascetic praised by Indra, possessed of the worship of Jains, an adept in all the science of incantations, was performing sacrifice to bring into his power the goddess Padmāvatī of S'as'akapura, a tiger bounding forth, on the yogi saying 'Pierce it with the rod of the bow; drive it away Sala (poy Sa'a),' he removed that danger, whence the name of Poyasa'a became celebrated as the title of the Yadu kings—and from Sala the s'alāla (tiger) became their sign (or crest).†

When this tiger crest had become theirs could the fortune of courage escape their hands? Henceforth did the Yādava kings under the title of Poyasa'a greatly increase in power.

In that line, like the moon among the stars, or as the loftiest peak in a chain of mountains, so arose Vinayāditya, a conqueror over all his enemies, with a body brilliant as the sun. His son was Ereyanga Bhūpa, of a form like that of Manmatha, who had broken the pride of arm of hostile kings, a giver of benefits to the assembly of the learned, an abode of increasing greatness. Before the dread sword of Ereyanga even touched those his enemies whose bodies had not been prostrated in submission at his feet, their heads rolled off (a play on his name), and a warm stream was formed of the blood gushing from their bodies.

While all the world was filled with his praise, to Achala Devi and the king Ereyanga were born, like the Trimūrti, the king Ballāva, the king Vishnu, and Udayāditya.

Among these the great king Vishnu becoming separately glorious, winning from his own family great affection as having brought them to fame with himself, his career was like that of Nala, Nahusha and Bharata.

May the doctrine of Trailokya Nātha, the supreme profound syād vada prevail; the Jain doctrine which is a token of unyielding success. May he be supreme who is the full moon to the ocean of the Jain doctrine

May it be well—While the emperor powerful by his own might, a Narayana to the Yādava race, Vīra Ballāla Devarasa, was ruling the kingdom in peace and wisdom—In the year Nala, the month Kartika, the 1st day of the moon's increase, Sunday—of the villages belonging to the basadi which Siddiyava, the wife of the maha vajja byavahari KavaJamayya, had built for the god Santinatha, Appayya, Gopayya and Bāchayya, the sons of Mallarasaya the doctor (vaiddigeyya)—for the worship of the god Mallināthes'vara of the semiary (paṭṭaśāle) which they had enclosed within the precincts of the basadi of that god S'antinātha, for repairs of his temple, for enlarging or improving it, for the gifts to be made therein, and for the performance of the fortnightly and daily ceremonies—giving to Rāmachandra Deva, the disciple of the maha maṇḍalādhārya Madaviya Balachandra Siddhānta Deva, 60 gadyānas of gold, purchased Kāṭuhalli of Kāraṇṇakere and Bammattigatta of Māchiyahalli.

The boundaries of that Bammattigatta are as follows:—east, the stone of the Hiḍi well; south, west, the Yelcha hollow; north, the tank bund.

Also they gave 20 honnu and built with stones the north side of that tank from the south weir of the tank to the stone at the east well.

(The provision) for the daily worship of the god shall be as follows:—For cooking the bālī (offering of food), 5 balla of rice, 1 māna of cakes, 2 solige of ghee; for the lamps 5 māna of oil; for betel-leaf 2 fanams, for incense 3 fanams, for sandal-wood powder 3 fanams, the fee of the officiating priest 1 fanam.

(Moreover) to provide daily for the garland-makers 6 ballas of rice (they presented) 1 gadyana. For the food of one or two (persons) to remain at the maṭha s'āle to keep watch, 3 gadyanas. For the three Nandi's'vara (sacred bulls or images of bulls) 1 gadyana. For the dancing-girls who come to present the offering of flowers, Also for the swing, the fortnightly illumination, the ceremonies at the times of eclipses and of equinoxes, for the procession with lights, and for all other ceremonies that are required, for the dāna s'āle (hall of gifts or distribution of food), for feeding the poor in the old temple (basti) within the town, and for the cook-house all free of every burden.

The priest of the god S'antinātha, the farmers (gauḥas) of Kāraḍu-halli, will attend to the maintenance of this gift.

Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Having subdued the Kéřala, Taulava and Andhra kings can you fail in accumulating mighty spoils.

That you and your enemy meet on the same battle-field is the only similarity between you, for as even the young of a swan separates the milk from the water with which it is mixed, so do all people discern in you (two) the distinction between good and evil.

When Gunđappa Dandínátha goes forth to battle who can withstand him and live?—the possessor of forces and of all the eight royal requisites, a place of destruction for thousands

Whatever ministers refused to help him in war, reckoning that a man who refuses to assist another is as bad as a drunkard, he punished them according to his superior wisdom and thus ruled the earth.

Having encountered in battle and overcome the kings of Anga, Ganga, Kalinga, Kářhara, Kamboja, Simhala . . . Magadha, Málava, Kerala, Jiddiya, China, Joniga . . . Chola, Pándya, Vidarbha, Saurářhtra, Kuru, Maru, Pancha, Páncála, . . . Telunga, and as far as Párasika, he set up pillars of victory in Kolahana, Kásmira, and in all these regions caused his name to be greatly renowned this Gunđá Dandúdhinátha.

By order of the auspicious great king of kings, the supreme ruler of kings, S'ri Vira Harihara Maháráya,—seeing that the grants to the god Chenna Kes'avanátha,—favourite deity of the great king of kings Vishnu Vardđhana, possessor of the auspicious Velur which is as a new Vaikuntha of the lower world, gratifier of every human desire among the crowds of worshippers who adore him, who incarnate in a body presents himself to the sight of his followers in the midst of his splendid pile—which (grants) the ancient king Vishnu Vardđhana Bīři Deva had made for the decorations, processions, and other holy ceremonies, had through lapse of time become diminished—

He restored them, and made a decree to perpetuate as long as sun, moon and stars endure, the orders for the recital of the Veda which that Bīři Deva

Moreover, at the gate which Gam Sālar (?) the Turk of Kalubarige coming, broke open and burnt*, he built a gopura and 107 chambers.

Adored be Narasimha. The command of the god Kes'ava, enriched as with a garland by a line of adoring gods and rākshasa chiefs, lord of Velapura, the city of delights. May that god Kes'ava protect us, who dwells in the ulterior part (parārdha) of Jambu-dvīpa, shining with the combination of all good qualities, creator of all worlds, praised and worshipped by Brahma, Is'ana (Śīva) and the nava Brahma, of a form of glory, lord of the three vedas, with eyes resembling the crimson water-lily, bearer of the discus, the holy, the god who enables his devoted worshipper to win heaven.

That god Kes'ava preserve us from all calamity, who laughs till the final deluge (pralaya) at the consuming flames from Śīva's central eye, who is in the form of the kalpa-vriksha, in mercy like a great cloud, glancing like lightning over the garment that covers the breasts swelling like mountains of Lakshmi, lord of all the chiefs of the gods.

That god Kes'ava grant us happiness, who in the time of the illustrious Hoisana kings, adorned with the collection of all good qualities, conspicuous for bodily strength,—as if the divine Vishnu sought how to obtain similar fortune, took upon himself the plan of the protection of all the world in Velanagara, the city of his servant.

The god Kes'ava of Velapura, giver of sight to the blind, who raises up the poor to royal dignity, who causes the lame to be the swiftest of the swift, makes the dumb as eloquent as Brihaspati, the barren to be crowded with offspring, the granter of all desires, alike to the residents of that country and to foreigners from abroad—protect us. The great god Kes'ava protect us, the god whom the wise Nārada hymned as follows; 'O destroyer of sin, god of gods, the supreme, remover of all sorrow, the merciful'; who dwells, the first original body of the god, in the city of Velapura, which is a show to check the rising waters of pride.

In the three worlds which came into being from an essence (tatva) incomprehensible and indescribable, which are wonderful with the varieties of uncreated illusious (māya), did Brahma create many distinguished kings, among whom, during the Kali yuga, in order to purify the sins of the age, Sangama came into being.

From the union of Sangama, descendant of a beautiful race, with S'arada sprung five children, resembling five kalpa-vrikshas. The . . . of them was Maryappa whose . . . was Bukka Nripati, bearing the burden of all the world. From him sprung Harihara, lord of the Lakshmi of worldly fortune.

In presenting gifts of gold to Brahmans, like Karna the son of S'arya; in making gifts of lands and gifts of cows, the real Paras'u Rama; in satisfying the desires of all, without any parallel,—thus meritorious, Harihara prospered.

While S'ri Vira Vijaya Harihara Mahārāya, great king of kings, supreme monarch, chief jewel among the ornaments of the race of kings, the Hindu raja who was paramount sovereign of the eastern, western, southern, and northern oceans, protector of the brave, a destroying serpent to kings who break their word, conqueror of the most powerful heroes; in his new capital and the chief of cities Vijayanagara, which shines on the banks of the Pampa river, amid the society of persons ever devoted to works of merit, was ruling in peace and wisdom* the kingdom of the world—

The servant living with affection at his lotus feet, an all-subjecting incantation in bringing into his power the Lakshmi of victory over hostile kings, was Vijaya Gundā Dandānātha.

To describe his glory.—As in former times to king Das'aratha was an excellent minister Sumantra, even so to Harihara was Gundā Dandā, the master over his enemies. Great was the fame that Gundā Dandā had gained in the world, into the tongues of the flames of the might of whose sceptre-like arms the Yavana, Turushka, Andhra and other kings had fallen like moths, a chief of ministers, whose policy was an all pervading energy strengthened by the brightness of wisdom. Having in battle subdued all hostile kings and set their wives free, ruling the earth with justice, his ministers and gurus executing his orders, Gundā Dandādhipa by himself grew prosperous, shining in his independence as a great light among other kings.

† While merely in his mind forming the intention of war, the king of Anga lost all his limbs, the king of Kalinga went out of his senses, the king of Gurjara was seized with a fever of anguish, the king of Panchāla rushed into death, the king of Sādrā with his mighty forces threw himself into the sea, the Andhra king went blind and was as if bound though not caught in a snare, while the Chola king was turned into a hog.

* See note p. 2.

† In this and the following verse the fate of each king is described in a play of words upon his name.

Anga was beaten on the field of battle, Kalinga bolted from the field Andhra hid himself in a cave of the mountains, Gurjara bellowed with cries, Konkana was put in a corner, Chola took refuge in the hills; when the victorious Gunda was made a commander of the forces.

Renowned as the first of great ministers, a globe on which might daily grow surpassing valour, profoundest prudence, lavish liberality, highest courage, untiring energy, wealth and fame; a benefactor and skilful administrator to the Brahmans, protector of the good, punisher of the evil; may it be well with him. Who exceeds him in merit, in prowess, and in the strength of his forces?

(The s'āsana ends here and is evidently incomplete).

May it be well. I bow to the commands of the supreme Virupāksha, commands which without a beginning are fixed and eternal as the Siddas. Even as the furious Rudra when with the weapon of his energy he conquered and put to death the hosts of evil spirits and subdued the gods, thus victorious does Vira Bhadra shine. Adored be S'amḍhu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head, the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well. The year 1482 of the victorious increasing S'alivāhana era having passed, the year Rudhirōdgāri being then current, in the month S'rāvana, the 10th day of the moon's decrease, Monday, at an auspicious time, the ruler of the kingdom, Sadas'iva Mahārāya, son of the mahā maṇḍales'vara, . . . great king of kings, supreme ruler, Vira Pratāpa Achyuta Rāya Mahārāya, being in the city of Haslināvati Vidyānagara, ruling the kingdom in peace and wisdom,*—presented to the god Virupāksha of Hāsana, the village of Saṅgalli, situated within the district governed by Rāma Rājaiya the agent for his affairs, and within the Hāsana country, which by right of the Nāyaka-ship was ruled by Krishnappa Nāyaka, the son of Singappa Nāyaka.

Moreover, many people having represented to Krishnappa Nāyaka, the son of Bayappa Nāyaka, with all humility, that he should secure the merit of festive processions, he presented to the god Virupáksha of Hásana, the paddy land, the fields, the great watercourse, the dam with the land under it, and arable ground belonging to the village of Sattahalli in the Hásana country which (land) Tammappa Náyaka's brother Bukkanna Náyaka had leased to him, having freed them from the imposition of kánike, kappa, jódi, bedige, talavárike, alivu, annyáya, samaya, sankhya, bildána, sunka, and *saudige.

In order that the power and merit and glory in success of great kings might accrue to Krishnappa Náyaka the son of Bayappa Náyaka, Bukkanna Náyaka, the son of S'andávava Krishnappa Náyaka and younger brother of Tammappa Náyaka, presented the village of Sattahalli for the car festival of the god Virupáksha, erecting a s'ásana of the gift.

And the villages of Biranahalli, Aaruvalli, Rájaghatta, Mandigenahalli, Guddenahalli, and Yeřeganágu, belonging to the temple of Virupáksha—Hallanahalli belonging to the god Holada Rames'vara for the anointing and the daily offerings—Honnénhalli belonging to the god Vighnes'vara,—and the paddy land and fields under the Hásana tanks . . . presented, with freedom from the imposts of jódi, bedige, kánike, biráda, hi'ttu, hunmi and bjavari†, to the god Virupáksha—they erected a s'ásana and bestowed upon the gods Virupáksha, Holada Rames'vara and Vighnes'vara.

Whosoever among the kings of the Hásana country, its chiefs, senabhoavas (accountants), gaudas (farmers), subjects or officers, now consenting to consecrate these villages to the service of the god Virupáksha, shall at any time unjustly resume them—will incur the guilt of slaughtering cows and Brahmans in the holy city of Kás'i in the presence of the Vis'vanátha Linga on the Manikarnika bank; of incest with his mother, of killing women, and of murdering gurus. In the mahá Narakas shall he remain, enduring through many Brahma kalpas and manvantaras the tortures inflicted by the servants of Yama.

Whoso protects this gift, shall derive the merit of a crore of as'vamédhas, together with the supreme merit of those who present a thousand cows with all

* Kánike, offerings or gifts; kappa, tribute; jódi, a favourable quit-rent; bedige, begging; talavárike, village watchman's dues; alivu, waste or ruin; annyáya, injustice; samaya, season or proper time; sankhya, enumeration; bildána, transit duties, or else fallow land; sunka, custom; saudige, fire-wood.

† The foregoing note explains some of these terms: the others are—biráda, apportioning, that is, of any extra fine or assessment upon a village amongst the individuals; hi'ttu, flour or pudding, that is for feeding government peons when passing through a village on duty; hunmi, full moon; bjavari, the amount of seed required for a portion of land.

their adornments. For a hundred of celestial years shall they receive honor from the king of the world of gods, thence rising to the service of Mahes'vara in Kailasa, they shall become one with the supreme spirit.

Of making or continuing a gift, the continuing it is the best, for he who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who continues it obtains final beatitude. To lay a tax on land which has been freed is to incur the guilt of slaughtering a thousand cows. To remove the burden laid on the land is to secure residence for ages in heavenly bliss.

By Krishna Nanjappa, the son of the teacher Hāsana Nanjappaiya, well versed in the Yajur veda, was this s'āsana composed, on the 4th of Ashāda. Kūlachandra corrected it, and Timmalachāri, a dependent of Lakhanacharya of the Kas'yapa gotra, engraved it.

Merit is a common bridge for kings. This from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rāmachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

Adored be S'ambu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May the elephant-faced Vināyaka, that benevolent one to whom the seven great oceans are as elephant-ponds for him to sport in—protect the world. May the right tusk of the Boar form of Vishnu, like a sceptre protect us, on which forming a small canopy rested the earth surmounted by the golden peak of Meru. May the Varaha protect us.

There was born a king perfect in his line as a pearl, the brightness of whose fame spread to all the points of the compass, a jewel in the eyes of the most beautiful women, Sangama by name, worthy of being surrounded by an assembly of all the great, (a play on the name.)

From him sprung the illustrious Bukka Rája, a conqueror over mighty kings, king of kings, with a face illuminated by the knowledge of the sciences, of astrology, astronomy, and the vedas; glorious as Vyása, conspicuous with all splendour.

May it be well.—In the year 1276* of the victorious increasing S'áliváhana era, the year Vijaya, the month Mágha, the 15th day of the moon's increase, Monday, at the auspicious time of an eclipse of the moon;—we, Bukka Rája Mahárája, great king of kings, supreme ruler, the embodiment of justice†, have given to Rámanna Joyisa (astrologer), son of the eminent astrologer Mádhava Joyisa, of the Kas'yapa gotra, Badavana súra, and Yajus s'ákha, the town astrologer of the city of the god Harihara‡, the village of Mittali-gana Kátte, which by an order to Mittali Golla we caused to be built on the four . . . land situated in Harihara-Devara-pura, attached to Koyúru chávadi in the Uchchangí venṭheṣ—and with it the niḍhi, nikshepa, jala, pashána, akshina, dgámi, siddha, sádhya, hechchúrika, &c., as well as the whole of the ashta-bhoga-tejas-svámya rights ¶, in sole possession (eka bhoga), with presentation of a coin and water.

The description of the boundaries of the said village of Mittali Golla Kátte:—East of the village, a black stone erected in the middle of the Pándava rocks at the side of the village of Nágenúru: South of the village, two white stones near the white rocks of the village of Mudihadada Yantra: West of the village, three black stones erected on the mound of small stones at the village of Salukatte: North the row of stones, namely white stones and others, erected at the bottom of the mound of white rock belonging to Kundavádi.

May the vásana of the meritorious gift from the east onwards thus presented without reserve in the presence of Virupáksha, be enjoyed by father, son and posterity as long as sun and moon endure.

Of making a gift or perpetuating one, the perpetuating one is the best. He who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Land presented to Brahmans is to kings as an only sister, neither may she be enjoyed nor ravished away, (otherwise, nor subjected to taxation).

May it be well.—Supreme is the Boar form of the resplendent Vishnu, which dispersed the waters of the ocean and bore up the peaceful earth on the tip of his strong right tusk.

Of the illustrious Mānava gotra praised in all the world, sons of Hārīti, nourished by seven mothers resembling the seven worlds, through the protection of Kārttikeya having obtained a succession of good fortune (or the succession to Kalyāna), having in a moment brought all kings into their subjection at one glimpse of the boar ensign obtained from the favour of the adorable Nārāyaṇa, were the kings of the Chalukya race.—

To which (race) being an ornament, with a body purified by the final ablutions on the consummation of the as'vamedha sacrifice, was Sri Pulakesi Vallabha Mahārāja.—Whose son, with a pure fame gained from the conquest of the groups of the Vanavāsi and other hostile kings, was Kīrtti Varmma Prithivi Vallabha Mahārāja.

His son, who having encountered in battle and defeated Sri Harsha Varddhana the king of all the north, had acquired the additional title of Parames'vara, was Sattyaś'raya Sri Prithivi Vallabha Mahārājādhirāja Parames'vara.

His dear son, by whose counsel and help alone had been obtained the abundance of royal spoils from hostile kings, was Vikramāditya Bhattāraka Parames'vara, by the flag of whose fame gained by victory over hostile kings who made war upon him associated with valiant warriors roaring with many different sounds (or in many different languages) all the points of the compass were illuminated; who after conquering the Pallava king whose insults threaten-

Therefore let all future kings, whether of this or of foreign countries, considering that the glory of their life and wealth will rapidly decay, place no regard upon them; but knowing that the earth will endure as long as sun and moon, protect this land as their only daughter.

Thus hath it been said by the adorable Vyása who arranged († separated) the vedas:—The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many kings. In proportions to their (gifts of) land so was their reward. Whoso makes a gift has an easy task, the maintenance of it is arduous. But than making a gift the maintenance of one is more meritorious, for the making a gift procures svarga, but the maintaining of one secures final beatitude. Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or by another shall be assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

This s'asana was written by the minister for peace and war, S'ri Róma.

Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth: thus does Rámaçandra beseech the kings who come after him. Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Poison is no poison, the property of the gods that is the real poison: for poison kills one man but the property of the gods (if usurped) destroys sons and descendants.

May it be well—Supreme is the boar form of the resplendent Vishnu, which dispersed the waters of the ocean and bore up the peaceful earth on the tip of his strong right tusk.

Of the illustrious Mánavyasa gotra praised in all the world, sons of Háriti, nourished by seven mothers resembling the seven worlds, through the protection of Kárttikeya having obtained a succession of good fortune (or the succession to Kalyána), having in a moment brought all kings into their subjection at one glimpse of the boar ensign obtained from the favor of the adorable Náráyana, were the kings of the Chalukya race.—

* Compare with No. 132.

To which (race) being an ornament, with a body purified by the final ablutions on the consummation of the as'vamedha sacrifice, was S'ri Pulakes'i Vallabha Mahārāja.—Whose son, with a pure fame gained from the conquest of the groups of the Vasavāsi and other hostile kings, was Kīrtti Varmma Prithivi Vallabha Mahārāja.

His son, who having encountered in battle and defeated S'ri Harsha Vardhana the king of all the north, had acquired the additional title of *Parames'vara, was Vikramāditya Parames'vara Bhattāraka, by whose counsel and help alone had been obtained the abundance of royal spoils, by the flag of whose fame gained by victory over hostile kings who made war upon him associated with valiant warriors roaring with many different sounds (or in many different languages) all the points of the compass were illuminated; who after conquering the Pallava king whose insults threatened destruction to the dynasty resembling in purity the rays of the moon, had become possessor of Kānchipura; by the thunderbolt of whose prowess the peak of pride of the Chola, Pāndya, and Kerala kings was split; the lotuses of whose feet were bathed with waters distilled from the jewels in the crown of the king of Kānchi who never had bowed to any man; lord of all the lands between the three oceans.

His son, who like as the heavenly general (Kumāraswāmi) of Bārendu S'ekhara (S'iva) smote down the excessively grown might of the Daityas, so destroyed the power (or forces) of Trairājya Pallava; the beloved of all nations for bringing them the security which follows on victory; in his great affection for his great people like Yuddhishtira; in the possession of the Lakshmi of fortune like Vāsudeva; in his driving many kings with an elephant-goat like Paras'u Rama; in being an asylum to many kings like Bharata; Vinayāditya Satyās'raya S'ri Prithivi Vallabha Mahārājadhīrāja Parames'vara thus commands all people:—

Be it known to you all, that the S'aka year 614 being past, and the (?) 12th year of our victorious reign being current, our victorious army being in the village of (?) Chitrasēdu in the Toramara country, the adorable sun being about to turn on his southward course, in the Rōhini nakshatra, Saturday—on the representation of Chitravāha Mahārāja, son of the ocean of good qualities Upendra, the village named Salevoge in the country of (?) Ede to the north east of Vaijyantipura, has been presented to Divākara S'armmana, son of Sankara S'armmana and grandson of Nāga S'armmana of the Devarāta Kaushikasa gotra, a follower of the Rig veda—(presented) with pouring of water and presentation of a coin, with freedom from all imposts on account of taxes or from entry of evil persons of other sects.

Therefore let all future kings, whether of this or of foreign countries, considering that the glory of their life and wealth will rapidly decay, place no regard upon them; but knowing that the earth will endure as long as sun and moon, protect this land as their only daughter.

Thus hath it been said by the adorable Vyāsa who arranged (or separated) the vedas:—The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many kings; in proportion to their (gifts of) land so was their reward.

Whoso makes a gift has an easy task, the maintenance of one is arduous. But than making a gift the maintenance of one is more meritorious, for the making a gift procures svarga, but the maintaining of one secures final beatitude. Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. This s'asana was written by the minister for peace and war S'ri Rāma Punya Vallatha.

(Here follow two lines of a rudely engraved inscription very indistinct, in which apparently some official of the Banurasi country claims merit for perpetuating the gift.)

Adored be Sri Ganādhipati. Adored be S'amḥu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May the right tusk of the Boar form of Vishnu, like a sceptre protect us, on which forming a small canopy rested the earth surmounted by the golden peak of Meru. May the bright form which disperses the dark clouds of all obstacles (Ganesa) be favorable to us, which though in body like an elephant was not born of an elephant, but is the offspring of Agaja (Pārvati) and honored by Vishnu.

Born like shining butter from the churning by the gods of the great milk sea is there a glorious one (Chandra) who drove away the darkness. From him sprung Budha, who by unparalleled penance obtained a lasting name. His son was Purúravas, a combination of all merit. He had a son Ayus, who by the might of his shoulders destroyed all his enemies. From him came Nahusha, whose son was Yayati, dreadful in war, renowned in all the world. His son was Turuvasu, the equal of the Vasus, born to her husband by Devayāni.

* In that race shone Timma Bhūpati, whose wife was Devaki. Of great fame among the Tuluva kings, of the Yadu line, of the family of Krishna Rava, was the victorious ruler Sekhara, whose wife was Bukkamā. From this glorious one sprung the king Narasa, to other kings a head jewel without any flaw of weakness, as Manmatha the joy of Devaki was born from Krishna.

Which king, quickly damming (badhra) the swollen stream of the Kāveri, crossed over it, and through the power of his might in war, taking his enemy prisoner alive, subdued his country, and here building for himself a residence in the city before named Srīranga, planted in the three worlds the pillar of his fame as a donor unequalled for his gifts. Who had conquered the kings of Chera, Chola, Pāṇḍya, the dishonored (mānabhrashā) ruler of Madhura, the powerful Turushka, the Gajapati king, and other kings besides these; who had bound his orders like garlands upon the heads of all the kings as far as the Ganges, and from the eastern to the western mountains; who had from time to time bestowed with great joy, in strict accordance with the scriptures, numerous charities in Rāmeśvara and many other holy places; who, surrounded with assemblies of the learned, had made the sixteen great gifts in the world; who continued to multiply deeds of fame which were hymned by all the inhabitants of the three worlds.

By Tippāksī and Nāgalā Devi this king Nṛsimha had two sons,—as by Kausalya and Sri Sunitra had Dasaratha,—(namely) Vira Nṛsimhendra and Krishna Rāja Mahipati, who excelled in bravery and modesty like Rāma and Lakshmana.

Whereupon, thinking that by the spread on all sides of this king's fame the whole universe would be absorbed, S'iva (to preserve his distinction) made an eye in his forehead, Vishnu took four hands, Brahma took four faces, Káli took an immense sword in one hand and a lotus in the other, Sarasvati held the lute. This he bestowed, surrounded, by his purohitas and numerous wise men famous for their knowledge of the sciences, and of great authority in speech: Krishna Deva Mahārōya, worthy of reverence from the great, bestowed with great joy, accompanied with the presentation of a gold coin and the pouring of water.

And the same Tryambaka, the sacrificer, the head over the chiefs, in the same year and month, and at the same time, bestowed the villages of Grāmātika and Kadabūru on the learned Hariharārādhyā, the most wealthy of the Kotis'a family, who had reached the farthest shore of the six sciences, excellent in all his qualities, a moon to the sea of Madhavārādhyā (i. e. his son), of the Apastambha sūtra, the Yajus s'ākha and the Harita gotra.

Prosperity. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May Ganes'a, honoured by Indra and all the gods, the all-per-vading, continue the protector of the worlds.

While seated on the jewel throne, the king of kings, the glorious, the su-preme ruler, a lion in striking down with the powerful strength of his shoulders the groups of hostile kings, Rama Deva Maharaja, a proficient in all learning, was ruling this whole world :—*

Many were the kings who dwelt under his protection, obedient to his commands and eager to promote his greatness. Among whom was a king named Kenga, a conqueror over all the kings who were his enemies, with the tears of whose widowed queens the earth was wet. He had a son Hanumán, of the highest qualities.

That king having been a donor of all manner of gifts, on a certain occa-sion, on a lucky day, the thought entered his mind that he would make a gift of land that should bring him good fortune. Accordingly, on the day of his son's marriage, he made a donation with pouring of water, of a village, an or-nament to the earth, to the learned Puṭṭa of Vijayi Bilige.

Devoted was he to the worship of the lotus feet of S'iva, purified in mind by researches in the vedanta, having performed pilgrimages to many holy bath-ing places, of great liberality so excessive that Karna fled away, of such pro-fundity that even the ocean did not seem to equal him, of the Vis'vamitra gotra the Bodhayana sutra, a follower of the Yajur veda, a chief among the learned, the son of Gangádhara.

* Ratna-simhásanásino-dhíras chanda-parákrmah rájádhirájas tjasvi yo ríja-para-mes'varah vai-ri-mandala-dordanda-chanda-khandana-kesari Báma Devo mahárájas sarva-sás-tra-vídrádhah tasmin s'ásati dhépále dharaním sakálm imám †

And in the S'aka year which may be reckoned as veda, ambudhi, s'ara and dróni (i. e. 1544) the year Durmati, the month Vaisákha, the third day of the moon's increase, a lucky Saturday,—the Brahman Puttappa, a head-jewel to the learned . . . that large village which he had obtained from the great king, situated in the Sáraga venñhya, within the limits of Gájanúr, in the Ganga Mandala Nádi, on the banks of the Tungabhadra, whose name was Pargaha, worthy of respect from all the learned, whose god was Malles'a Deva, which had another name Turánkara, together with its suburb named . . . free of all imposts together with its four boundaries, containing many houses and gardens; with the rights of nidhi, níkshépa, páshána, siddha, sídhya, and jala; with the akshina and ágámi also*; with the beautiful trees, the tanks, the draw wells and ponds; to be enjoyed by sons and descendants in regular succession, as long as their posterity, or sun and moon should endure; with power to bestow on another, to mortgage, sell or exchange†; this the Brahman Putta, worthy of reverence from the learned, gave, with presentation of a gold coin and pouring of water, to ten Brahmans, having divided it into portions and making ten vrittis. (Here follow the names, tribes and families of the ten Brahmans.)

Its boundaries in the language of the country:—east from the bank of Koraluhalli belonging to Lakkena Koppa; west, from the sluice of the Kusan-kuru tank; south, from the high mound of Kali Koppa; north, the boundary of Honnahalli. Such is the description of the four boundaries.

To this let the sun, moon and other gods be written as witnesses. For a man's character is known to the sun and to the moon, to the fire and to the wind, to the earth and to the sky, to his own mind (or conscience) and to Yama, to day and to night, to morning and to evening, and to justice (dharma).

Land presented to Brahmans is to kings as an only sister, neither may she be enjoyed nor ravished away; (otherwise, nor subjected to taxation). Of making a gift or perpetuating one, the perpetuating one is the best: he who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude. Whoso makes a gift has an easy task, the maintenance of another's gift is arduous: but the maintenance of a gift made by another is twice as meritorious as the making a gift oneself: and by the resumption of another's gift all the virtue of one's own donations is destroyed. Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Ramachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

May it be well.—In the year 1594 of the glorious increasing S'áliváhana era, the year Virodhikrit, the month S'ravana, the 15th day of the moon's increase, the day of full moon,—S'rimat Keladi Somas'ekhara Náyaka caused the following copper s'āsana to be engraved and given to Mudda Linga, the Tungabhadra ferryman (harugola) and other boatmen (ambigaru) at Simoge.

You having made a request for some rent-free land (umbali); on condition of your keeping a harugolu and carrying across the passengers who come daily by the government house (haveli) in the Simoge fort, taking from them a fee; and on condition of your providing extra harugolu and rendering service to the palace whenever required by the government; we have bestowed upon you 24 pagodas of rent-free land, according to measurement with a line (rekha pramāṇa), in the village of Kortahalli, situated in Gújanúr.

Whatever rights belong to this land, within the boundary stones set up at the four boundaries thereof, may be enjoyed by you, in accordance with the ancient customs of the country, and the land be held in possession by you and your descendants.

But according to the nirúpa formerly written and given by the Karta S'ivappa Náyakayya, to Ranga Boya Timma, Sanna Mariya, and Mudda

. and to the three persons Dugga Kúda, Mogge Timma, and Dodda Channa, who to these six we have granted *harugolu and teppa.†

Such is the copper s'āsana written and given, and thus much may you enjoy, rendering service to the palace.

S'ri Sadás'iva.

Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chāmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well.—In the year 1686 of the glorious increasing Sālivāhana era, the year Vijaya being then current, in the month Chaitra, the 15th day of the moon's increase, the day of full moon, the Badaba Murāri koṭi kolāhala (?), the establisher from beginning to end of the nishiddha (? forbidden!) veda, devoted to the service of Siva and his gurus, descendant of Srimat Keladi Sadāśīta Nāyaka, great grandson of Siddhapa Nāyaka, grandson of Sivappa Nāyaka, son of Somas'ekhara Nāyaka's meritorious wife Channammāji—Srimat Basavappa Nāyaka, made a gift of land to Timmanna, of the Kaundinya gotra, the Apastambha sūtra and the Yajus shākha; great grandson of Konanna, grandson of Yellanna, son of Eāvanna, and younger brother of Yellanna; and caused a dharma s'asana to be written as follows:—

The land assigned for the expenses of the god Hanumanta which we had set up, and for which we had built a temple in the agrahāra established in the name of Mariyappa, in the Gājanūr country, in the village of Gājanūr, on the banks of the Tungabhadra.

For every $1\frac{1}{2}$ khandi and 3 mana in the country of Gājanūr and the village of Gājanūr 10 pagodas and $5\frac{1}{4}$ fanams; for 1 pagoda and 2 fanams; from Dasohalli 3 hāga; altogether 12 pagodas, (and so on, through very minute and tedious details.)

The balance, amounting altogether to 153 pagodas 7 fanams and 1 viss, have we given to the god; and within the boundary stones stamped with the Vamana mudre, the ashṭa-bhoga-téjas-svanya rights of nīdhi, &c.*; the crops and trees; and whatever may thereon be cultivated, may you and your descendants enjoy, and as long as sun and moon endure carry on the rites of the agrahāra temple. Such is the dharma s'asana of the gift of land.

To this let the sun, moon and other gods be written as witnesses. For a man's character is known to the sun and to the moon, to the fire and to the wind, to the earth and to the sky, to his own mind (or conscience) and to Yama, to day and to night, to morning and evening, and to justice (dharma.)

beatitude. Land given by oneself should be regarded as a daughter, that given by one's father as a sister, that given by another as a mother; these it is unlawful to take for oneself.

Wheresoever a great yogi abides and devotes himself to the service of Śiva Jīngā, that spot is equal to all the holy bathing places, there is a man's guru.

3 Plates, 4 sides.—Devanāgarī Characters.

Adored be S'ri Ganādhipati. May the four arms of Vishnu protect you, which are as dark as the raincloud; which are hardened with the use of the bow Śārngā and the blows of its bow-string; which are like the pillars of the man'apa of the three worlds.

May it be well.—In the year 89 of the glorious increasing Yuddhishtīra era, the year Plavanga, in the month Sahasya (Margasīra), on the day of new moon, Wednesday,*—S'ri Janamejaya Bhūpa, the great king of kings, the supreme ruler, the valiant among heroes, born in the Kuru kula, in the Vaiyagrāpīpāda gotra,—from his throne in Kishkindha-nagara, protecting the various orders and religious ceremonies of all castes, made this gift of land for the worship of Śiva Rāma adored by Kaivalyanātha, disciple of Garudavāhana Tirtha of the Munibrinda māha, situated in the Vrikodara kshetra, in Sitapura, in the west country.

The four boundaries of the Munibrinda kshetra, in which my great grandfather Yuddhishtīra rested, are the following:—on the east, the western bank of the Tungabhadra flowing north; on the south, north of the confluence of streams at Agastya āsrama; on the west, the eastern bank of the Pāshāna river; on the north, the south bank of the Bhinna river.

The Munibrinda kshetra, situated within these four boundaries, do I give of my own free will, in order that my father and mother may attain to the Vishnu-loka, to be enjoyed by you and your disciples in regular succession, as long as sun and moon endure, along with the tejas-svâmya rights of nîdhi, nîkshepa, jala, pâshûna, akshûna, âgâmi, siddhi and sâdhya.* And this Munibrinda kshetra have I placed in the hands of the Yati, with presentation of a gold coin and pouring of water from the Tungabhadra, in the presence of the god Harihara, at the time of the eclipse (?). †

The witnesses to the confirmation of this sâsana are sun and moon, wind and fire, sky, earth and water, conscience and mind, day and night, and the two (morning and evening) twilights; these have knowledge of every man's religious gifts.

S'ri Vâraha (in Kannaḍa letters.)

Of making a gift or perpetuating one, the perpetuating is the best. He who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude. To protect a gift made by another is twice as meritorious as to make a gift oneself. Land given by oneself is as a daughter, that given by one's father is as a sister, that given by another is as a mother; therefore a gift of land must never be resumed. Dogs will eat what is vomited by any other creature, but not what is vomited by their own species: how much baser is he who resumes a gift himself has made. Whoso by violence takes away a Brahman's vritti, whether presented by himself or by another, shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Adored be S'ri Ganâkhipati. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the châmara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. May the right tusk of the Boar form of Vishnu like a sceptre protect us, on which forming a small canopy rested the earth, surmounted by the golden peak of Meru. May that glory (Ganes'a) be favourable to you, which dissipates the darkness of difficulties, which though in the form of an elephant was not born of an elephant, but is the offspring of Pârva-ti, worshiped by the lion and by Vishnu.

May that glorious one (Chandra) prevail, who was born from the ocean of milk, an abode of all pleasant things, the pure and excellent. His son was Budha, and his grandson Purúravas; whose son was Ayu, whose son was Nabusha, whose son was Yayáti, whose son was Puru. From his line sprung Bharata, from whom descended Santanu, in whose line was born the great Arjuna. His son was Abhimanyu, from whom sprung Parikshit.

From him the eighth in descent was Nanda, from whom the ninth was Chalikya. From him the seventh Sripati. . . . Then came Dhaira, an equal of kings; from whom sprung Bijja'endra. The tenth in succession from him was Vira Hammáli Ráya, from whom the third was Máyapurisha.*

was an ornament among kings, a kalpa-vriksha to the learned, the beauty of his body was such as to draw down the Apsaras from heaven. He took to wife Ballálíka, in whom all virtues were bound up.

To him was born a son Ráma Rája whose crowned queen was Lakkámbika.

He had a son named S'ri Ranga Rája, who in penance surpassed his father. He obtained as wife the beautiful and virtuous Tirumalámbika, in the same manner as Chandra obtained Rohini.

By Tirumala Devi were born to that king three wonderful sons.

The brave Ráma Rája, who destroying all the hostile kings throughout the world, was ruling the whole globe after the manner of the primeval kings Bharata, Manu, Bhagirathi and others.

At sight of his liberality the kalpavriksha itself sank down

Tirumala Ráya, who was of great valour, the subduer of many hostile kings, then ruled the world.

He was a chief among the famous, who offering up the fried rice of the fame of his enemies as an oblation in the flames of his own fame, shone forth as the regent of all the points of the compass; who filling the seven worlds with his fame raised it above the peak of Meru and caused it still to grow; who obtained the throne amid the blessings of Brahmans, and ruled all lands.

From whom even the kalpa-vrikshas receiving gifts, and unable to keep pace with the fame of his liberality, retired to do penance on the banks of the heavenly Ganges; who for the sake of merit had made every variety of gift in Kanchi, in S'ri Ranga, in Sesháchala, in Kanaka Sabha, in Ahobala and other

His son was Viś'ukhi, of great fame and glory, receiving the benefit of the meritorious works performed during a long period by Vengalamba, possessing power through the patronage of S'ri Ranga Raya.

He had two wives, Tirumala Devi and Ka'amba, who shone forth like Lakshmi and Bhūmi the consorts of Vishnu, or as Robini and Chitra Devi the consorts of Chandra.

The stream of his fame, which took its rise in the liberality of his hands, resembling the beautiful rain-cloud, on the day of his coronation by holy Brahmins according to the sacred rites, flowed into the ten points of the compass; and by it was quenched the fire of the thirst of poverty experienced by the indigent.

a protector alike of his own and the enemy's army, for he granted the latter assurance of peace as soon as they besought it, his fame was in all lands, and by all people he was praised as a great politician. Glorious through the favor of the Lakshmi of heroism, lord of Aravīpura, master of all the world resting in the arms of A'dishesha. A chief among kings, as celebrated in the field of battle as Rāmabhadra, possessed of many lofty titles, enjoying the benefit of the rites and ceremonies of many classes, foremost among the kings born in the Atreya gotra, of immeasurable fame. Possessed of immense forces of well trained cavalry, revered for his learning, receiving obeisance from the Ratta and Magadha kings, like Dharma Raya a master of politics, lord of Kalyānapura, a Chālikya emperor, adorned with a crown that was brilliant with rubies. This S'ri Ranga Rāya, a chief among kings, ruling the kingdom seated on his jewel throne; by his fame and policy putting to shame Nriga, Nala

Nabusha and many other celebrated kings; praised by all the Brahmans from the Bridge (setu) to mount Meru; having won the hearts of all from the eastern to the western mountains:—

In the Saka year reckoned as anga, ambara, bāna, inḍu (1506), the year Tārana, the month Kārtika, the bright fortnight, on the auspicious day of full moon, during a lunar eclipse;—presented on the banks of the river Pinākini, in the presence of the god S'ri Rāma, an abode of all good fortune, to Brahmans of many various names, s'ākhās, gotras and sūtras, famous for their knowledge of the vedas; the village of Pushpitodupura, having another name Baichapura, situated in Yelahanka nadi belonging to the Sivana-samudra country.

It lies east from the worthy village of Marasamudra, south east of Bissalahalli, south of Varadanapalli, south west of Dukkanapalli, west of Alike, north west of Bettenahalli, north of Surabhisapurā, and north east of Kadatanamala grāma.

This fertile region, having watchmen and customs tolls, together with its four boundaries, is presented free of all imposts, together with the rights of nidhi, nishchya, pāshāna, sidha, sādhyā, and jāla; with the akshina and *āgami also; and along with numerous trees, ponds, draw wells, tanks, springs and gardens; to be enjoyed by many, descending from generation to generation in regular succession, as long as sun and moon endure; with power moreover to give away, sell or exchange.

This, on the application of the famous Bhairavendra—great grandson of Sonna Baira, who was like Indra a vanquisher of all his enemies, celebrated for his justice, a chief in the fourth race (Sūdra), a follower of the fourth s'ākha (!); grandson of the king named Bhairava, to whom all his enemies were subject; son of Baichappa, an ocean of good qualities; the creator of joy to the eyes of Nāchāmba—did the king worthy of reverence from the learned, S'ri Ranga Rāja, surrounded by his purohita and other holy persons his friends and by many learned men travellers through all the veda and vedānta; give, with presentation of a gold coin and pouring of water.

And moreover he divided the village into forty vrittis, which Bhairavendra and the king Baichya received and distributed in order, to those Brahmans of many s'ākhās, names, gotras and sūtras, learned in all the vedas, whose names are here written:—(Here follow the names, &c., of the 40 Brahmans).

Of making a gift or perpetuating one, the perpetuating one is the best: he who makes a gift obtains svarga but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude. Whoso by violence takes away land presented by himself or another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Land given to Brahmans is to kings as an only sister, neither may she be enjoyed nor ravished away (otherwise, nor subjected to taxation.) Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

Ever adored be Kes'ava and S'iva, the givers of rewards, the witnesses of the deeds of men, worshipped by the three worlds.

From Brahma, who sprung from the lotus the navel of Vishnu, was born Atri; from Atri was born Chandra; his son was Budha; his son was Pururavas; from Pururavas sprung Ayus, from him Nahusha, from Nahusha Yayati, from Yayati Yadu. In the Yadu line were born many kings.

In this celebrated line there arose a famous king S'ala, who in a certain forest being addressed on account of a terrible tiger by a great muni thus, Poy Sala (strike, Sala!), from that speech of the muni's obtained his royal name.

Among the Poy salas, lords of Dvaravati, possessors of the tiger banner, born in S'asapura, was Vinayaditya Bhupati. Depriving all his enemies and their forces of their living, he caused them to scream out with the blows of the

The Konkanigar (people of Konkana) he caused to lament and flee, saying "Is this man's sword vowed to the destruction of us all?" thus did he fearlessly ravage them, Vinayāditya.*

More beautiful than the rays of the moon, the splendour of the milk ocean, or the brightness of Meru, Keliyabba was the object of his love.

As the junction of Ganges with the ocean produces merit to all, so the union of these two brought joy to all, for to them was born a son Ereganga, celebrated as the crowning-point of those who were embodiments of all good qualities.

When he entered upon the conquest of the northern regions, he first took into his hands the kingdom formerly conquered by Bhoja Rāya, chief among the Mālava kings mighty of arm, as if taking the apos'ana (or sip of water) preliminary to a feast. † By the fire of his anger all the country was first scorched and then consumed, which brought to mind the way in which the agnyastra of Rama caused the ocean to burn. †

Achala Devi, calmer than the sea, and celebrated throughout the world for her virtues, became his queen.

To this queen, pure in descent in both lines, possessed of all the lucky marks, and to this king of virtuous life were born three fortunate sons, Ballāla, Vishnu and Udayāditya.

Among those who observe the rules appointed by the s'āstras, among those who understand the pure science of the mind, among the learned and the meritorious, they gained the praise of being the foremost, and worthy of the kingdom.

Supreme is Vishnu Deva, the favourite of the Lakshmi of great victories, joyfully inclined to the cultivation of dancing and other sciences, delighting in deep conversation in the assembly of those noted for their wisdom, possessor of self-acquired fame which was an ornament to the world. An abode of deep and secret counsels, of so great power, that the tortoise which supports the world unable to bear its burden bent down in impotence leaving the earth to be borne up by the sword wielded by his powerful shoulders. The smoke of his sacrifices ascended in such clouds to heaven that Indra, fearing a rival, made him monarch of the lower world. Devoted to the worship of Vishnu, kind to all, in making gifts and bestowing rewards his hands were an astonishing picture, but in punishing his enemies severe, in all other deeds deserving of reverence from the whole world.

Having by the might of his arms first acquired the wealth of the Hoysala kingdom, taking up the circle of the points of the compass, he gained possession of Talakáhu and of Ganga Rájya, being the first to rule them, this Vishnu Bhúpdla, the raiser of the fortunes of the Yadu race.

The Lakshmi of victories gaining great increase by the power of his arms, he burnt the capital city of the Gangas, this powerful king Vishnu called Bhujabala Ganga.*

fame. Filled with benevolence, by the victory obtained in many wars his powerful arms were like the bands of the casket enclosing his world-renowned valour, and his waving sword was as a fetter binding the Lakshmi of victory to himself. His palace resounded with the humming of the bees flocking to the flowers of varied hue bound in the hair of the lovely ones who waited on him. His mind was as peaceful as that of the lady royal policy, like a stage was it for the display of the Lakshmi of valour, or a pleasure garden for her to rest in. Considerate of the welfare of the kings who sought refuge with him, skilled in the art of dancing and in the various modes of music, fond of engaging in argument according to the rules of logic, well trained in the rules of grammar, skilful in examination of the wisdom of the vedas, he was a casket for the gem of his mind, which was honoured by all the puranas. The world being trodden to dust with the troops of his Kambhoja horses, having filled space with the groups of his victorious standards, an unequalled thunderbolt weapon in splitting the great rock the Pándya king, an adept at the game of war in overthrowing the Tulu kings, a Bhairava in destroying the armies of Jagat Deva, like Yama in stringing his bow, Váyu in uprooting the brahma tree the king Narasimha, the favourite of the yoginis for satisfying the thirst of their lips with the blood from the heads of the Kála kings, a garuda in destroying with his sword the serpent the Vengiri king, master over Ma'a Rája, a young elephant in breaking through the plantain grove the two armed Kunia.

His son, the chief king of the Yadu race, of great fame, his valour his wealth, a lion in destroying the elephants the kings who forsake works of merit and walk in their own ways, was Narasimha.

From him, by his crowned queen (pa'ta mahádevi) Ahala Devi, was born the great king Ballá'a. He was a great hero, dispersing the darkness which had covered up works of merit he caused them to shine forth, delighting in the nectar which issued from the lotus feet of the god Kes'ava. Like as Siva set up Kailása which Das'amukha was in the act of bearing away on his shoulders, so establishing many works of merit which had been swept away in the rapid stream of the Kali yuga. Chief of the wrestlers in the field of battle is Vra Ballá'a Bhúpa. May the king Ballá'a prevail, the protector of the whole world, to the white lotus of whose fame the world was as the ovary (!) shining as the enchanter of enchanters, his doors securely fastened, his lodges filled with guards and archers, his ramparts high, surrounded with a moat—the lake named Vásudeva tirtha. Being the favourite of Vijaya Náráyana, he gained the empire of the south : the champion who took Uchchingi, which in length and breadth can be compared within the limits of the lower world to a second sky alone, and was celebrated in the three worlds ; and afterwards, when Pándya cast himself on his protection, restored him his kingdom ; thus both in destroying and in protecting was he greatly celebrated this Vira Ballála Deva.*

To maintain a gift made by another is twice as meritorious as to make a gift one-self: he who makes a gift procures svarga, but he who maintains one secures final beatitude. Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

Chandra was a sovereign whose orders were worn by all kings as their crowns. From the ocean of that Soma vams'a sprang Bukka Mahipati. Under the rule of Nala, Nahusha and other kings the earth was rajavati (tending towards a good king), but when Bukka reigned it became rajanvati (possessed of a good king.)

To this Bukka Ráya, whose fame was like a pure lotus of unequalled fragrance and filled with nectar which opened to all the points of the compass, and on which the sky rested like a bee, was born a son, Harihara, the raiser of the fortunes of his house, resembling in ability Kumara, the son of S'iva. An ocean of morality, his dictates none were able to transgress, and the regions under his rule none were able to trespass upon.

He conquered Chola, Kerala and Pandya, obtaining a fame in the South, which was a mirror to his lotus face. His victorious expeditions, though made when the sun is brightest, caused the days to appear ever cloudy to the Yavanis (the wives of Muhammadans) through their blinding tears. O wonder! Even the kalpa and other bountiful trees did not obtain so great a praise from people, for he excelled the kalpa vriksha, the Earth and mount Meru, each in its chief characteristic.

As Rama had Sumantra, so he had a minister Muda Dandes'a, who had been his father's adviser, and had with ease subjected all his enemies. He put to shame Yugandha in obtaining for his master the decoration of numerous chains of precious stones; and invading the territories of many powerful kings, stopped them in their haste to get away, and seized them alive (as a snake charmer does a snake). The agraharas he had presented were as ornaments on the face of the ladies the points of the compass, and like garlands of perfect pearls the Brahmans in them. The little lakes of the fears of those against whom he marched were absorbed in the dust thrown up by his armies, and they lost themselves in the great ocean of his fame.

To him, thus upholding the laws broken through by other kings, and protecting his subjects as his children, all the cultivators and merchants, with great joy, agreed to pay taxes as in the days of Bharata.

147 (xviii). Tamra S'asana at Belur, date A. D. 1262.

5 Plates, 8 sides.—Devanagari Characters.

May the boar form of Vishnu protect, who smiling beheld Lakshmi mount upon the world, taking it for a budding lotus, when, supported on his long tusk resembling the stem of a lotus in the lake, it sparkled with the play of its ocean waves.

From the lotus navel of Vishnu, whose locks were illuminated by the rays of the jewels in the thousand heads of the serpent on which he reclines, issued Brahma, the creator of all things movable and immovable, on whose countenance Sarasvatī dwells, a female swan in a group of lotuses. Then was born the possessor of the bow and arrows composed of flowers (Manmaṭha), adored by all the groups of deities. From Brahma's mind came forth a son Atri, resembling Śiṣya save in his three eyes, of great wisdom. From him sprang Chandra, a friend to the ocean in raising its tides, a crest jewel to Śiṣya the enemy of the three cities (of the rakshasas) and the guru of the world. Since Budha was born to Chandra, Manmaṭha wanders over the world discharging his arrows at random.

In this fortunate race was born Yadu, chief of the mighty, illuminating all the points of the compass with the increase of his fame. Then was born the king Sala, who purified all the points of the compass, washing them clean with the great ocean of his fame

He, once on a time, being in S'as'apura, going to pay adoration to Vasantika the goddess of his family, drew near to a rishi abstracted in penance, when a tiger appeared. Enraged at seeing them, its eyes glaring forth like flames, its waving tail lashing all the points of the compass, its claws as sharp and long as razors, it roared upon the muni. On this, the muni saying in the Karnāṭa language 'Hoy Sala', gave him an iron rod, with which he quickly slew the tiger. Afterwards, the tiger having obtained svarga (?), its eyes being closed in rage, it became the sign on the banner of all the kings of that race. All his descendants also from that saying were called Hoysalas, just as from Yadu they were formerly called Yādavas:

In that race was born Vinayāditya, who with his hands caused the lotus of the world to open. From him was born the king Ereyanga, flooding the earth with the water dropping from the temples of his towering lusty elephants, a great victor in the field of battle. From him was born Vishnu, who seemed as if his own original (or a divine incarnation), protector of all the world, surpassing by his valour the fame of Indra's conquest of the points of the compass. From him was born Narasimha, who reduced all his enemies to servitude with the unsparing edge of his sword, and fulfilled the desires of all who sought his bounty.

His son was Ballāḍa, whose enemies are even to this day thrown into a fever on hearing his name whispered in their ears, whom his subjects have not yet forgotten as the granter of all their desires, with whose fame the heavenly Ganges still contends for the superiority, renowned for his destruction of the Mallas of the hill forts (giri durga).

From him was born Nrisimha, possessor of no less fortune than his father, an abode of all good qualities, honored beyond even his own desires, a lion skilled in striking down the elephants his enemies. When he became king, the earth brought forth on all sides without sowing, not forced by labor but through love of his goodness. His sword, which was stained with the brains of mighty and powerful kings beheaded by him, he cleansed in the river of the blood of elephants, camels and by bringing forth the Chola king who had been overwhelmed under the clouds of dust raised by the march of hosts of enemies, and setting him up again in power, gained great renown, as the setter up of the Chola king, the overthrower of the Pandya king. The whole region in front of his fields of battle was strown with elephants, horses, and footmen

His son was Soma, who churned the ocean of his enemies with the Mandara mountain of his right arm, whose valour laughed at that of gods and Daitya. Through fear of him all kings left their thrones—terrified by the tramping of the troops of his lines of horse, by the twanging of his powerfully drawn bows, by the war cries of his hosts, by the dreadful sound of his great drums which burst open the doors of the hearts of his enemies—and concealed themselves in forests, living in huts made of branches, or in the hollows of trees. His chief queen was Bijjali, an abode of all pleasure, adorned with all rare qualities, a jewel among women, an ornament to the world, to move in the neighbourhood of the brightness of whose toe-nails made the wives of other kings honorable (!); she shone like the moon in the rays of her moonlight fame.

To her was born the king Nrisimha, whose gifts put to shame the kalpa-vriksha, whose possessions put to shame Devendra, whose fame put to shame the heavenly Ganges, whose increasing wisdom put to shame Brihaspati the guru of the gods, whose power put to shame S'iva with the bull for his vehicle, an eye in his forehead and terror in his decrees, an abode of all good qualities. Which king Narasimha was as a banner of victory to the three worlds; when his heart was set upon war with mighty enemies, the courtezans of svarga at once decked themselves for the crowd of kings who would fall before him. Which king in the field of battle bursts through and through the lines of elephants, cutting in pieces horses and horsemen, breaking into fragments the groups of chariots on which are mounted valiant warriors, whose heads he smites off. Who with great joy fulfills the desires of all, whose sharp sword-edge is a creeper spreading into all the world, this Narasimha is supreme ruler of all the earth, a lion to the herds of elephants his enemies.

Of a pure and marvellous career, entitled to all honors in the highest degree, like the rays of the sun in dispersing the darkness his enemies, Narasimha Mahipála, whose dominion was like the earth surrounded by the ocean, whose pair of lotus feet were brightened as in an illumination by the rays from the thick set jewels on the crowns of his tributary kings, dwelling in his own Hoysala country, in the royal city of Dorasamudra, an abode of all fortune, in the kingdom bestowed upon him with affection by his father and filled with all royal wealth:—

In the Saka year 1184, the year Durmati, the month Chaitra, the 12th day of the moon's increase, Monday, gave, at the time of making various gifts, the village named Belluru, belonging to the Kalkuni country, together with its well known boundaries, and the associated villages, and with the ashta-bhoga-tejas-sicamva rights of nidhi, *nikshepa, taṭāka, árāmat and all other rights.

There was a valiant commander Vishnu, an ocean to the gems of fortune and fame, related to the friend of the ocean (Chandra, i. e., he was of the lunar race). He had a wife La an abode of all good qualities, as devoted to him as moonlight to the moon, skilled in drawing to her the hearts of all. From him was born the commander Perumala, a Yama to the groups of proud enemies, by his liberality outvying the emperor Bali, in justice Dharma Raya himself, whitening the world with the brightness of his pure unequalled fame. His form, pure as the rays of the moon, gave joy to all, his fame purified the three worlds like the stream of the heavenly Ganges, his speech was as the breeze from the Maleya mountains rejoicing the hearts of the weary, a chintamani to all who sought his bounty.

To this Perumala, an abode for the love of Rama and Krishna, in the constant enjoyment of Lakshmi, born in the Atri-vamsa, a great favorite with his sovereign, Narasimha Mahipati presented the village of Belúru for the purpose of making it an agrāhara.

And that Perumala Danlanatha, naming that village Hoysala Narasimhapura, and forming it into 86 vrittis, gave it with pouring of water to Brahmans of many gotras, versed in the Rig, Yajus, Sama and Atharva vedas with the vedangas, and pandits in all branches of learning.

The particulars of this, to the same effect, are given in the Karná'a language, that all may understand.

May it be well.—The protector of all lands, praised by all the learned, the abode of all good qualities, the favorite of earth and fortune, impossible to be possessed by fear or avarice, the king of kings, the supreme ruler, lord of the city of Dvārāvātī, the sun in the sky of the Yādava race, a crowning ornament to the wisest, king over the Māle rajas, remover of the distresses of those who take refuge with him, of a brilliant fame resembling the dazzling thunderbolt, a ganja īheruṅja to the chief of the *Māle*yas, the invincible hero, a sun to the darkness his enemies, the sole champion of the world, the hero of the field of battle, obtainer of fortune on S'auvāra (?), wise as Brihaspati, Malla (wrestler) of the hill forts, splitter open of the hearts of his enemies, in war a Rāma, in conflict a Phīna, a lion to the elephants his enemies, opener of the waterlily of the Yādava race by the moonlight of his bounty, destroyer of the Magara kingdom, setter up of the Chola kingdom, overthrower of the Pandya kingdom, Nisanka Pratiṭṭa Chakravartī Hoysala Bhūja Bala S'ri Vira Narasimha Devarasa;

In the Saka year 1184, the year Durmati, the month Chaitra, the 12th day of the moon's increase, Monday; presented the vṛitti Bellūru of Bellūru in Ka'ukuni nād, and the villages on that channel, Hūlchūlu, Māvinakere, Goliyāhalli, Honakodanahalli, Ariyāhalli, Kavrunakote, Nelligere, Devahalli, Koṇṇa, Genasamudra, Nāyakittiyahalli, Kaliveya Sitarayakere, Bommakkana Mādiyahalli, Chakkana Koliyahalli, Yeriyahalli, Kasavanakate, Dāsana-halli, Karoyahalli, Nerilakere, Duggadoḥḥanahalli, Yelaparatiḡere, Kariyōjyanahalli, Belakalli, and Migoyahalli, these being the principal, together with the well known boundaries, and (here follow a number of detailed measurements and dues thereon payable from the above) (presented) to his dear friend (manomitra) Perumāla Dandanāyaka, with pouring of water, for the purpose of making an agrahāra, together with the aṣṭa-bhoga-trjus-sūamya rights of vidhi, nikshepa, taṭāka, ārūma and all other rights.*

May the gift made by the king Narasimha endure as long as the earth and mountains, as the sun and moon.

To tax a rent-free village is to incur the guilt of slaughtering a crore of cows: removing the taxes laid on a village will procure the highest heaven. Of making a gift or perpetuating one, the perpetuating one is the best: he who makes a gift obtains svarga, but he who perpetuates one obtains final beatitude. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your support, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rāmachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

Great prosperity attend it. Fortune.

May the boar form of Vishnu protect, who smiling beheld Lakshmi mount upon the world, taking it for a budding lotus, when, supported on his long tusk resembling the stem of a lotus in the lake, it sparkled with the play of its ocean waves.

From the lotus navel of Vishnu, whose locks were illuminated by the rays of the jewels in the thousand heads of the serpent on which he reclines, issued Brahma, the creator of all things movable and immovable, on whose countenance Sarasvati dwells like a female swan in a group of lotuses. Then was born the possessor of the bow and arrows composed of flowers (Manmatha), adored by all the groups of deities. From Brahma's mind came forth a son Atri, resembling Śiva save in his three eyes, of great wisdom. Afterwards from the eyes of Atri issued Chandra. In whose line was born Yadu, chief among the mighty.

Afterwards was born Sala, an ornament to all the line. He being in Śāś'ipura, was doing obeisance to the rishi in the temple of the goddess Vasuntika in the forest, when a tiger came forth filled with rage; which that king, who was as brave as a lion, speedily slew, the rishi having said to him in the Kārṣṭa language "Hoy Sala", and given him an iron rod.

The tiger then obtained svarga, its eyes still open with rage. And it became the sign on the banner of all that line.

In that race was born Vinayāditya, a great king, who with his arms caused the lotus of the world to open.

Then was born Ereyanga, flooding the earth with the water dropping from the temples of his towering lusty elephants, a great victor in the field of battle. From him was born Vishnu, a protector of all the world, an abode of all justice, who speedily subdued all inferior enemies and seized their kingdoms. From him was born Narasimha, from whom was born Vira Ballāla, revered throughout the world. From him was born Narasimha, who set up the Chola king, and thereby gained great renown.

From him was born Soma, whose power laughed at the gods and rākhasas, who had churned the ocean of his most powerful enemies with the Mandara mountain of his right arm. His chief queen was Bijjali, an abode of all pleasure, adorned with all rare qualities, a jewel among women, an ornament to the world, to move in the neighbourhood of the brightness of whose toe-nails

She bore the king Nrisimha, whose gift put to shame the kalpa-vriksha, whose possessions put to shame Devendra, whose fame put to shame the heavenly Ganges, whose increasing wisdom put to shame Brihaspati the guru of the gods, whose power put to shame S'iva with the bull for his vehicle, an eye in his forehead and terror in his decrees, an abode of all good qualities. Supreme is Narasimha, the ruler of the world, a lion to the herds of elephants his enemies.

May it be well—The protector of all lands, the favorite of earth and fortune, the king of kings, the supreme ruler, the lord of Dvárávatí, the sun in the sky of the Yúđava race, a precious jewel protecting all, king over the Male rajás, ganda bherunda of the Malepa chiefs, the unshaken hero, the sole champion of the world, the unassisted hero, Malla of the S'anivára Siddigiri-durga, in war a Ráma, a lion to the elephants his enemies, utter destroyer of the Magara kingdom, setter up of the Chola kingdom, overthrower of the Pándya kingdom ; *Nissanka Pratápa Chakravartí. Adored be S'ambhu, beauteous with the chámara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds. Supreme is the bee that buzzes around the temples of Vináyaka, which resembles a heavenly drum sounding for the removal of difficulties. Adored be the Boar, which as in sport tossed up the earth, bristling with its plants and trees as if pleased to horripilation with the game.

His son was Bukka Ráya, in whom the world became possessed of a good king, who by his excellence obtained the title of Rajendra.

To the great king Bukka Raya was born a son Harihara, as to S'iva was born a son Mahasena from Gauri. He having acquired the city named Vijaya, became the sovereign of all the lands surrounded by the ocean.

(Some illegible)

His son was Deva Ráya, devoted to the protection of his subjects, under whose orders were all hostile kings reduced. While this king Deva Raya was ruling the world, the creeper of his fame spread through all the earth, and rising to svarga, derided Devendra and the groups of deities.

Deva Raya shines forth as ruler of the undivided world, having smitten down all his enemies with his might, and having adorned the Brahmans. Of a mighty command emulating that of Indra and the other regents of the world, his wealth and power surpassed theirs.

This great victor in battle and slayer of his enemies, at the time of his coronation, having distinguished a village with his own name, presented it to some chief Brahmans, celebrated throughout the world for their learning, having forms like deities, versed in the vedas and s'ástras, devoted to the performance of the six great rites, having overcome their passions, and continually praising God in their minds.

May it be well.—The year 132(28) of the victorious increasing era being current, in the year Vyaya, the month Kartika, the 10th day of the moon's decrease, Monday, the Bhadrapada (nakshatra), the Priti yoga and Bava karana; at the conjunction of all these auspicious signs, S'riman Mahárájádhirája Paramesvara Sri Vira Pratápa Deva Ráya Mahárója, at the time of his coronation,* made a gift of an agrahára, containing . . . vrit̥tis, distinguished by his own name as Pratápa-Deva-Ráyapura, in the Bhaskara kshetra, on the banks of the Tungabhadra, in the Hemakú'a (mountain), in the presence of the god S'ri Virúpáksha, to Brahmans versed in the vedas and s'ástras, with presentation of a gold coin and pouring of water, to endure as long as sun and moon.

The names of the Brahmans who received vrit̥tis are here written. (The names, tribes, &c., of 38 Brahmans follow). Of this newly acquired agrahára of Pratápa-Deva-Ráyapura are these Brahmans the light, the great yogis who have been separately described above.

The description of the four boundaries of the agrahára given by us is here written in the language of the country that all may understand.

Description of the four boundaries of of Handiganahalli, the coronation agrahára of S'ri Vira Proudha Devaráyapura:—The large rock standing at the level of the water in the middle of the bend of the Handigana tank; thence west, the stone planted in the middle of the pond at foot of the western hill; thence east, the line of stones set up south of Haivinahalli, and the stone inscribed with a linga and a crocodile; thence east, the large watercourse running north-east from the southern bank of the stream in the great forest; thence east, the buffalo swamp west of the stream at the north-east gate; thence north (and so on the details being very tedious).

Such is the dharma s'ásana of the coronation agrahára Pratapa Deva-ráyapura, within the four limits of Handigana-kere; presented with the ashṭa-bhoga-tejas-swámya rights of niddhi, nikshepa, jala, páshána, akshina, ágámi, siádhi and sádhyat; with freedom from customs duties, money taxes, and all other imposts; at the auspicious time of coronation, in the Pampa kshetra, in presence of the god S'ri Virúpáksha, with presentation of a gold coin and pouring of water.

Merit is a common bridge for kings: this from age to age deserves your suport, O kings of the earth. Thus does Rámachandra beseech the kings who come after him. Land presented to Brahmans is to kings as an only sister, neither may she be enjoyed nor ravished away, (otherwise, nor subjected to taxation). His son, the beloved sister's son of Kṛishna Varmma Mahādhīrāja,—who was the sun to the firmament of the auspicious Kadamba kula,*—having a mind illuminated with the increase of learning and modesty, of indomitable bravery in war, reckoned the first of the learned, was Śrīman Kongani Mahādhīrāja. His son, named Avinīta, possessed of the three powers of increase, who had brought anxiety to the face of Yama on account of the smallness of the residue left after the countless animals offered to him as a tribute (namely) the brave men consumed in the sacrifice of the face of the many wars waged for Andari, Aṭṭūr, Paurulāre, Pennagara and other places, author of a commentary on fifteen sargas of the Kirātārjunīya,† was called Duvvīta.

His son, the lotuses of whose feet were dyed with the balls of honey shaken from the lines of bending bees, the clustering savages, rubbing against one another, was named Mushkara. His son, of a pure wisdom acquired from his being the abode of fourteen branches of learning, distinguished for his skill among those who teach and practise the science of politics in all its branches, a rising sun in dispersing the clouds of darkness his enemies, bore the celebrated name of S'ri Vikrama. His son, whose broad chest bore on itself the emblems of victory in the shining scars of wounds received in many battles inflicted by the tusks darting like lightning of huge elephants, possessed of the quintessence of all the sciences, having gained the three objects of worldly pursuit, the glory of whose virtuous life each day augmented, was Bhū Vikrama by name.

Moreover, he who had defeated in Bhīme'sa grāma the Pallavendra Narapati trodden to powder by the feet of a hundred elephants maddened with the stream of blood issuing from the door of the breast of the Bhatāra (or warriors) forced open by his numerous weapons‡, was named Vīlanda Rāja, called S'ri Vallabha, in the enjoyment of fortune obtained by victory in a hundred fights. His younger brother, whose lotus-feet were irradiated with the brilliance of the jewels in the crowns of numerous prostrate kings, who was to fortune as a husband chosen by herself, was surnamed Nava Kīma, beloved of the good, his fame in destroying hostile kings the theme of song. Of which Kongani Mahārāja, whose other name was S'ivamāra, the grandson, the groups of the toes of whose feet were illuminated with a rainbow light from the rays of the jewels set in the bands of the crowns of prostrate kings, who had fixed his faith on Nārāyaṇa, raging with fury in the front of war horrid with the assault

Moreover thus is the sloka delivered by Manu :— Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. To make a gift oneself is easy, to maintain another's difficult ; but of giving or of maintaining a gift, the maintaining a gift is the best. The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many kings ; according to their (gifts of) land so was their reward. Poison is no poison, a gift to the gods that is a dreadful poison : for poison kills one man, but a gift to the gods (if usurped) kills sons and descendants. Whoso protects it will derive the merit thereof.

The whole genealogical portion, down to Prithuvi Kongani Mahārāja, is word for word the same as No. 152. Thence the continuation is as follows:—

By whom, the Śaka year 698 having passed, and the 50th year of his glorious and powerful reign being then current, residing in Mānyapura, from his victorious camp:—†

Praised as the chief protection of the Ś'ri Mūla (the Jains), of the Nandi Saṅghānvaya, the Eregittūr gaṇa, and the Mūlikal gachcha, rejoicing all the world with his combination of the rays of auspicious good qualities, resembling another chandra (or moon), was there a guru named Chandra Nandi. His disciple, whose ability was worthy of protecting the assembly of the learned, a second Kumāra worthy to rejoice the heart of Parames'vara (otherwise the greatest sages) was the munipati named Kumāra Nandi. His disciple, who understood the essence of all sciences, who had acquired the fame of possessing wealth but for the assembly of the learned, was the great muni Kirti Nandya-chūrya. His dear disciple, the beloved of the lotus-lake of the disciples, a sun in illumining the sky of the virtuous actions of good men daily praised for their great learning, was Vimala Chandrachūrya.

of fear like the flood of a great river, who with the sceptre in his hands had broken down the groups of trees his enemies,* was Dundu, first of the name, the Nirgunda Yuva Rāja. His beloved son, who through his knowledge of politics had destroyed without exception the groups of his enemies, a friend to all the world, of a life pleasant to be heard of, making good use of thought, word, and deed, was Parama Gūla, first of the name, the S'ri Prithuvi Nirgunda Rāja.

His wife, born of the beloved daughter of Pallavādhirāja by Maru Varmma, an ornament of the Sāgara kula, was Kundaavi by name. In her husband's house did she grow up, daily promoting works of merit; and she erected a Jain temple, an ornament to the north of S'rīpura, a glory to all the world.

For the repairs of any cracks or defects in which, for erecting any new portions, for the worship of the god, and for the gifts and charities—on the representation of that Prithivi Nirggunda Rāja—the Maharajādhirāja Paramesvara, united with (his queen) S'rīja superior to Lakshmi, made a grant of the village of Ponnalli, belonging to Nirgunda, with freedom from all imposts. Its boundaries:—on the east, the white stone rock of Nolibela; on the south-east, Panyangere; on the south, the bank of the water course of the Belgallitank and the Dilla-tank; on the south-west, the rocky ground of white stone at Jaidurūke; on the west, the tank of the Henkevi weavers; on the north-west, the piles of stones at Punuse and Goṭṭagāla; on the north, the great bend of the water course of the Sāma-tank; on the north-east, the Kalambetti hill.

And he further gave other land on the north-east, (viz) in the plain of the Dundu Samudra a small garden of 12 kanduga; in the share of Nallu Rāja, the chief of Mannampale, 2 kanduga; on the west of the tānda of the Dundu chief, one tānda; in Kammurgatti, in the plain of S'rivura, 2 kandugas; under the Kalani large tank 6 kanduga; in the pasture-land of the Erepūli tank 20 kanduga—this is dry-cultivation land; and in the north-west corner of S'rivura, in the middle of Devangeri, a site for 30 separate houses.

May it be well. Supreme is the Boar form of the resplendent Vishnu, which dispersed the waters of the ocean, and bore up the peaceful earth on the tip of his strong right tusk.

Of the Mānava gotra praised in all the world, sons of Haritī, nourished by the seven mothers the mothers of the seven worlds, through the protection of Kartīkeya having acquired a succession of good fortune (or the succession to Kalyāna), having in a moment brought all kings into their subjection at one glimpse of the boar ensign obtained from the favour of the adorable Nārāyaṇa, were (the kings of) the auspicious Chaulukya race.

To which (race) an ornament, his body purified by the final ablutions of the horse-sacrifice, was Śrī Paulakesi Vallabha Maharaja.

Whose son, with unsullied fame gained by the conquest of the groups of the Vanavasi and other hostile kings, was Śrī Kīrtti Varmma, favourite of the earth, great king.

His son, who encountering in battle Śrī Harsha Varddhana the lord of all the north, by defeating him acquired the title of Paramesvara, was Satyas'raya, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord.

His dear son, perfect in wisdom and reverence, his sword his only aid; making his own the wealth which his father, alone, mounted simply on his splendid horse Chitrakantha and desiring to conquer all regions, had won, together with that inherited from three generations; rejoicing in splitting with the thunderbolt of his valour the mountains the Pandyas, Chōlas, Keralas, Kalabhra and other kings from the sky to their base; whose lotus feet were kissed by the crown of the king of Kanchi who had never bowed to any other man; was Vikramaditya Satyas'raya, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord and sovereign.

His dear son, who as Tārakārati (Kumarasvami) the son of Balendu Sekhara (Siva) to the forces of the Daityas, so captured the proud army of Trairajya the king of Kanchi; levier of tribute from the rulers of Kavera, Parasūta, Simhala and other islands; possessed of the Paṭi dhvaja and all other marks of supreme wealth, which by churning all the kings of the north

This let future kings, whether of our own or of any other race, reflecting that life and wealth are fleeting, preserve as long as sun, moon, earth and ocean endure, as if a gift made by themselves and thus perpetuate their glory. And by the adorable Vyasa, arranger of the vedas, hath it been said : The earth has been enjoyed by Sagara and many kings : according to their (gifts of) land so was their reward. To make a gift oneself is easy ; to maintain another's that is the difficulty : but of making a gift or maintaining one, the maintaining a gift is the best. Whoso resumes a gift made by himself or by another shall assuredly be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years.

Fortune. Adored by Sambhu, beauteous with the chamara-like crescent moon kissing his lofty head; the original foundation-pillar of the city of the three worlds.

May it be well. In the S'aka year 987, the year Nala, the month Pushya, the 5th day of the moon's increase, Thursday, the time of the sun's entering the northern signs:—While the offspring of the Ganga race celebrated in all the world, Konguli Varmma Dharmma Maharajadhiraja, a tree of bounty to his dependents, lord of Kolála-pura, valiant prince, having the crest of a lusty elephant, distributor of gold, having obtained a boon from Padmavati Devi, the Ganga Cupid, a Ganga of truth, promoter of victory, sun to the lotus of the Ganga kula, the Ganga Bhishma, worshipper of the feet of S'iva, subduer of hostile forces, a bow to the proudest, scatterer of his enemies, the sole hero, a cage of adamant to his dependents, alien to the elephants his enemies, in war a close fighter, a saw to his enemies, to others' wives a brother, adorned with all titles, S'riman Mahá Mandales'vara Gangarasa was ruling the Arabala Seventy, and the Melála manneya, punishing the evil and protecting the good:†—

May the Boar protect us, on whose right tusk the earth rested with joy, surmounted by the peak of Hemádri like a canopy.

From the lotus navel of Vishnu, filled with all auspicious qualities, the husband of Lakshmi, was born the progenitor of the world (Brahma). From him Atri, from Atri Chandra, from Chandra Budha, from Budha Puru, from Puru Ayu, from Ayu Nahusha, from Nahusha Yayáti. from Yayáti Yadu
Bhúpati, whose descendants grew to power in the region around Dváraka- nagara.

Certain of those born in this race, coming to the Karnáta country to visit Ramárámaya, the god of their race, who is the glory of the height of Yadugiri; seeing the beauty of the country, they settled with great desire in Mahishura-pura for the protection of the people.*

From them, of famous character, imposing his commands on the heads of tributary kings, sprang Deva Raja Mahipati. As to Das'aratha, so to him were born four sons. The first of them was Dodda Deva Raja, like Rama himself in receiving daily service from his brothers, like Indra himself in daily protecting the vibudha (deities, otherwise the learned), the refuge of highest merit, of great valour in destroying the forces of the proudest enemies, perfect in the science of overcoming hostile kings, thus was he rightly called Deva Raja (i. e. Indra). His virtuous wife Amritamba, as Sita bore Kus'a and Lava, so bore Chikka Devendra and Kanṭhirava Mahipati.

Placing his feet on the heads of all kings, filling all regions with his wealth, and thus protecting all his subjects, displaying the path of virtue, ever creating happiness in the world, Chikka Devendra was without doubt like Chandra (the moon) himself. In the east, defeating in war the Pandya Chokka Bhupa, he captured the great Trijura which was in his possession, and also Anantapuri. In the west, overthrowing the Kejali kings, who were under the power of the Yavanas, he took Sakals'upura and Arakalgudu. In the north, defeating Ranadūlā Khan, he seized Ketasamulra, Kandikere, Handalagere, Gūluru, Tumukuru, and Honnavalli. Overcoming Mushtika, who was supported by the Morosas and Kiratas, he captured Jadakanadurga, and gave it the name of Chikka Derarayadurga. From S'rimushna he removed the original varaha, which had been thrown down by the Yavanas, and took it to S'rirangapatna through devotion to Vishnu. Defeating Timmappa Gauda and Rāmappa Gauda, he captured Madlagiri, Milages'i, Bijjavara and Channarayadurga.

He, while seated on the jewel throne in the Paschima Ranga nagara, governing the kingdom with reverence for gods and Brahmans, the S'aka year reckoned as indu, bindu, anga and chandra (1601) having passed, and the year Siddhanti being current, in the month Saha (Kartika), on the 2nd day of the moon's decrease, the anniversary of his father's death, in the presence of Venkaṭeś'a, god of gods, dwelling in Nilūchala on the northern branch of the Kaveri;—for the purpose of providing for the performance to him of all manner of ceremonies and worship, presented to four chief Vaishnavas four freeholds, namely, (here follow their names, &c.)

To these has this tamra s'asana been given. And the details of the grant are here written in the language of the country. (Rest not copied).

168. Tamra S'asana at Tonnur, date A. D. 1723.

18 Plates, 34 sides.— Devanāgarī Characters.

Reverence to S'ri Ramanuja. May the Boar be ever the protection of the three worlds, which raised up the earth from the ocean, supporting on the tip of his tusk the tortoise on which rests A'dishesha, and on him the elephants at the points of the compass, on them mount Meru, and on it the earth resembling a flower, overspread by the sky. May the primeval Boar be your protection, which raised up from the ocean the earth whose forests stood up as if she were horripilated with joy at being lifted by her lover. May the tusk of the boar form of Vishnu protect you, on which rests the earth covered with ranges of snowy mountains resembling canopies.

On the leaf of the banyan was he (Vishnu) reposing, the creator, preserver and destroyer of the universe, the birthplace of all fortune, the subduer of all evil, that one supreme, whose assistants are Brahma and Lakshmi. From the lotus of his navel sprang the golden wombed (Brahma); from whom, of celebrated character, sprang Atri, to whom were obedient Vishnu, Brahma and Siva. From his eyes was born Chandra, who dwells on the head of the three-eyed (Siva) garlanded with the constellations, the original of the Kshatriya race. From him sprang Budha, from him Pururava, from him Ayus, from Ayus Nahusha, from Nahusha Yayati, from Yayati Yadu Bhupati, whose descendants occupied the city of Dvaraka.

Of that race some came to the Karnāta country to visit Ramaramana their kula deva, the glory of the height of Yadugiri. Seeing the beauty of the country and desiring to dwell there, they settled in Mahishura-pura.*

From them sprang Betta Chama Raj, a mill for grinding the wheat his enemies, who gained the new title of Ambara Ganda. To him were born three sons—first, Timma Rāja Mahipati; second, his brother Krishna Bhupati; the last, his brother Chama nriya, possessed of all good qualities, the victor in battle over Timati Venkata the general of Rama Raja.

He (the last) had four sons, who though unequalled by any others in the world were equal among themselves, promoters of victory as if the embodiment of the four modes of royal policy. The first of them, Rājadharādhirāja, thrashed the proud lord of Karugahalli on the field of battle with his riding whip, and conquering Tirumala Raja took S'rirangapatna, and seating him self on its throne acquired the dominion of a Sarvabhauma. His younger brother was Bettada Chāma Rāja, who with the fire of his valour consumed all the hostile kings, who slew immense numbers on the field of battle with wounds resembling the sacred thread. His younger brother was Deva Rájendra, to whom, as Jishnu to Vishnu, the younger brother was Chária Rája.

To Deva Rájendra were born four sons, as to Das'aratha. The first of them was Dodḍa Deva Rája, a very Rama himself, whom all his brothers daily served through devotion, pure, of good character, full of merit, grateful, performer of his vows, giver of gifts, benevolent, of great bravery, celebrated for merit and fame. The second was Chikka Deva Rájendra, who, in mind, speech, and life resembling Lakshmana, was devoted to his brother. The third was Deva Rája, second to none in his good qualities, a kalpa vriksha to his dependents. His younger brother Mariya Deva, of great virtue, performer of good actions, was of great devotion to his elder brother,—who, being generous, an ocean of mercy, heroic, a sea of friendship, brave, while he ruled the world its happiness was like that under the government of Ráma.

To the elder brother Dodḍa Deva Rája the celebrated Amritámba was wife, who, as Sita bore Kus'a and Lava to Rama, so to this king bore Chikka Devendra and Kanṣhirata Mahipati. Of them the elder, Chikka Devendra, of good qualities, brave, skilled in all knowledge, generous, was as celebrated as Upendra. By him was the Chandra vam's'a greatly exalted, more than by Yayáti, Vikrama, or any of the kings of old. To him was wedded the Lakshmi of victory, a sea of all good qualities, the self chosen lord of fame.

In the world were none greater than Chikka Deva; if there were, none were more worthy; if there were, none could stand before him in battle; if there were such, none were more ready to forgive a fault. At mere sight of this punisher of the evil and protector of the good, his enemies became motionless with fear; on account of whom Vishnu through love for the earth became the sword in his hand, with which cutting down the forces of his enemies he drew out their entrails, and smiting down proud kings, protecting others, conquering the lord of Madhura, imitated the sports of Krishna. Entering the field of battle and knocking off the crowns of the hostile kings, his sword danced about, while the Lakshmi of the victory of his arms sang. As if he were wedding the Lakshmi of victory, the jewels fallen from the crowns of kings were gems for her, the varied shreds of their gay dresses were as decorations for her . . .

his sword dropping blood was as a female bestowing the Kashmir árti, a support to the vine of victory, the destroyer of proud hostile kings, a joy to his dependents. In a dream was this sword given to him by Vishnu, by which he slew thousands of kings. Terrible as Máya, or S'ambara, or Indrajit, or Máricha, he went forth and conquered many districts about (?) Dilli and Bhaganagara and obtained the name of unequalled hero.

S'ambhu lost his valour, Kutupu Shah lost all hope, Ikkeri Basava trembled, Ekkoji absconded alone, Dadoji when Chikka Deva nripati came forth to war. The . . . in one direction, the Turukas on one side, the Marasas in the middle, the group of Arayas in another place, the Tigalas all round, the Katakas in one part, the Malegas in one quarter,—thus did he make offerings of these to all the points of the compass, and acquire a lofty fame; and speedily destroying all the groups of kings, and taking tribute from Kutupu Shah, obtained great glory in the world. As the animals in the forest flee at sight of the lion, as the dove flees at sight of the hawk, as the hare flees at sight of the tiger, as the snake flees at sight of the kite, thus did all the kings flee at sight of Chikka Deva as if a new created Narasimha.

Male of males, champion over the sons of boasters, champion over those who oppose with arms, punisher of kings who break their word, champion over the bravest in war, possessed of these and many other titles, was Chikka Deva Raja.

Bala chakravarti gave to Vishnu but one world, which had belonged to many; Narayana gave to the Brahmans but a few sayings of those from his lips; the sun gives but a few rays to the earth for which he takes a return: but Chikka Deva Raja gives without stint and takes nothing back. The moon gives away one less than 16 digits one by one till nothing is left him, but Chikka Deva Raja gives away the 16 shades (or standards of gold) and yet is as rich as before. For the worthy among his dependents he provided permanent abodes in Sriranga, the Yalu hills, Anjanagiri, Kunchi, Vikshavana, Setu, S'ankhamukha, Darbhasa yana, Kumbhakona, Kas'i, Dvaravati pura, Jaganatha, and Prayaga. The story of Prithu in face of him became vain, Nala lost his name, Raghu's fame was diminished, what mention then of Karta-virya? When Chikka Deva Raja ruled the world where was the glory of Dilipa?

Among the worthiest of women, beloved as Lakshmi by Vishnu, so to him was his wife Sri Devanamba. In devotion to her husband Sri Devanamba was the first of all women, her good qualities eclipsed those of Sudakshina, like the embodiment of the energy of Vishnu, or none else than the incarnation of his mercy, born to protect the world. To describe her virtues even the many tongues of A'dishesha would fail, how then can one tongue suffice? While along with her, this famous king Chikka Deva nripati was ruling the world for a long time, having conquered all the neighbouring kings, protesting Brahmans, gods, friends, the learned and his dependents—he was to the world like the lord of Lakshmi.

To that king Chikka Deva by his wife Devamamba was born, as if an emanation from Vishnu, a son Rāja Kanthiravendra. He was in virtue Ramachandra himself, in uprooting the groups of hostile kings like an elephant, in keeping to rules like a perfect poet, in good qualities Vishnu himself. From Kausalya was born Rama with the face of the moon, from Devaki was born Krishna with a face like a jewelled mirror, but as if Narasimha reflecting that he was born from a pillar with a face of terror had again been born from this Devamamba, so was Rāja Kanthirava. Lakshmi dwelt in his side glance, Sarasvati in his face, faith in the lotus feet of Vishnu in his mind, the earth in his arms, the Lakshmi of liberality in his hands, the radiance of the gems in the crowns of kings in his feet, the learned in his house, his fame in the three worlds.

Having divided the whole of his kingdom into four parts, the first he gave to Brahmans, the second to the gods, the third as gifts of merit, the fourth retaining for himself, he ruled the world. In his reign good food was distributed in every village, so also in every village were there temples in which daily there were processions, in every road were groves and watersheds. Having great joy in all learning, like Yama in devoting to the flames all hostile kings, filled with all good qualities. A moon to the ocean of the royal race, brave, having the title Dharani Varāha, the unmoved in the field of battle, in the assemblies of women a Manmatha, the son of Chikka Deva Raja.

The wife of Kanthirava Raja was Cheluvajamamba, celebrated in the world as in devotion to her husband like Sita to Rama. In qualities, name, patience, character, merit, beauty, faith in Vishnu, she eclipsed all the world.

To her by Kanthirava Raja, as from Devaki was born Krishna to protect the world, so was born Krishna Raja. At the time of his birth, Chikka Devendra obtained a higher name as a conqueror, in his hands were the signs of the chakra, s'ankha and kamala—showing him to be Krishna himself; his fame increased from day to day as the moon fills up her digits; while an infant all kings prostrated themselves at his feet as the great mountains place the rays of the sun on their heads as soon as he rises; as Krishna when an infant taking two or three steps carried the world in his hand, so as soon as he began to walk about the house all kings hastened to bring their tribute and fall at his feet.

Sovereign of the throne of the western Rangarāja-nagara, his mind placed at the lotus feet of Narayana, his feet revered by the crowns of hostile kings, making the protection of gods and Brahmans his chief duty, displaying all the qualities of Chikka Deva Bhūrajā, namely nobility, respect, wisdom, gentle speech, power, kindness, valour, skill, generosity,—through faith in whom, and keeping his sign in his hand, by the favour of Krishna, this grandson was born to Chikka Deva; thence was Krishna rightly his name, and had he Rukmini and Balabhadra he would have been Krishna himself.

By daily processions having obtained the favour of the god of Pashchima Ranga, and by protecting the families of all his friends, and by terrifying all hostile kings, this Krishna Raja became as it were the Vibhishana of the world.

Daily rising at dawn, praising the lotus feet of Vishnu, repeating without omission his thousand names, daily performing the agni hotra, daily bestowing a cow and money on Brahmans, he then listened to the itihasa and kathas. Thus filled from the streams of water poured out with his daily offerings, the Kaveri ran with gold and carried his fame to every land.

For the lord of the Yādava mountain, the protector of his race (Kula mayaka) he caused to be made a crown, set with the nine gems—and for Sampat-kumara, his processional image, he caused to be made a jewelled coat.

A' disesha is the lord of Patala, but his subjects the Bhogis have nothing to eat but wind; Indra is the lord of svarga, but the gods there have to watch for an offering by some one before they can obtain nourishment: but while Krishna Raja rules the world, all his subjects receive good food, handsome raiment, perfumed scents, gold and jewels, and chamaras. To obtain even in suraloka the kalpa vriksha, the chintamani and the cow of plenty is very difficult; but here to all who require them are given jewels, cows and trees. Is there then in all the world so great a lord as Krishna Raja?

His gifts putting to shame the kalpa vriksha, his wealth putting to shame Indra, his fame putting to shame the divine Ganges, his wisdom putting to shame Brihaspati, his valour putting to shame the flame of S'iva's central eye, thus of true greatness is Krishna Raja.

* Srinivasa yati, of the S'ri Vaishnava mata was his guru.

His patā mahishi was Devajamma, besides whom he had eight wives, in whose several names he caused to be made eight sarasu (tanks) in the eight tirtha of the Yadu mountain. And he not only established agrahāras in his own name, but one in the name of his mother Chelvājamāmba, and repairing the temple of Vishnu established an agrahāra in the name of his grandmother Deviramma.

* From this point an abstract only is given, as the verses continue in the same strain.

* After inquiring after all the best and most fertile spots in his own kingdom of Karnāṭaka, he discovered that the most suitable residence for Vaishnavas was the region half a yojana south of Yadugiri, north of the Kāvéri, north-west of Nilādri, east of the hill at the (?) Lakshmantirtha (Rāmānujāṅghri s'ri tirtha tajākādri)—the residence of Lakshmi Nārāyana, beautiful, of genial climate, having the name Hoysala Des'a.

In it is the city of Yādava puri, protected by Vishnu Varādhana, purified by the pollen the dust from the lotuses the feet of S'ri Rāmānuja, its god Lakshmi Nārāyana the benefactor of the faithful, to the east of whose temple is the temple of S A Yādava Nārāyana Vasanta Gopāla Deva.

Considering that between these two temples he should establish agrahāras, he made two agrahāras, each consisting of four streets, each filled with rows of houses. And in order that the ceremonies and processions of both gods might be duly performed, he invited Brahmins from many countries to come and take up their residence there; namely, such as were patient, of good character, versed in the veda and vedānta, professors of the Rik, Yajur and Sāma vedas, professors of the s'āstras, acquainted with the s'rauta and smārta ceremonies, performers of the agni hotra, free from anger and other evil passions, of good descent, family men, acquainted with the essence of both vedānta, acquainted with the Drāviḍa prabandha, S'ri Vaishnavas, Mādhva Brahmins and Advaita Brahmins.

For the residence of whom, and support of their families, he formed vrittis attached to each house, to endure as long as sun and moon, and marked out the boundaries.

Which, in order to have written down in a tāmra s'āsana, signed by his own hand and sealed with the varāha mudra, he sent for Rāmāyana Tirumalārya, a Vaishnava of the Kaundinya gotra and a poet, and directed him to compose a s'āsana grantha. In accordance with which order, the following s'āsana, approved of by both donor and donees, was written by him.

The Sālivāhana S'aka year reckoned as veda, arnava, ritu, kshiti (1644) having passed, the year Shubhakrit being current, in the month Margashira, full moon, Tuesday, Brahma yoga, Ardra nakshatra, Bālava karana—on this auspicious day, the chief of the Vaishnava kings, the moon being eclipsed in the constellation under which Rāmānuja was born, in order to increase the Brahmins in Yādava nagari which had been the residence of that yati, already the resort of many Brahmins versed in the veda and vedānta :—

Among the Yádava kings who came from Dvárávati nagara the embodiment of the fruit of merit, the kalpa vriksha to his dependents, a thunderbolt weapon in cutting off the wings of the mountains his enemies, punisher of those who claim to have a title,* a ganda bheruṇḍa to the elephants the hostile kings, an elephant to the plantain garden his opponents, a sun in dispersing the clouds of his enemies' forces, placing his commands on the heads of tributary kings, a gale to the clouds the Maháráshṭra kings, a wild fire to the withered forest the Turushkas, skilled in punishing the mighty Pándya, a lion to the herds of elephants Chola and Kerala, a pleasure giving rain-cloud to the chakora birds his dependents, Śrīmad Rájádhirája Śrī Bhúpála Parames'vara Praudha Pratápa Vira Narapati, of the A'treya gotra, an ocean of good qualities, of the As'valáyana sūtra, chief of the Kshatriyas, of the Rik shákha, grandson of Chikka Deva Rája, son of Kan'hirava kshítindra, the unequalled Krishna Rája, a kalpa vriksha in continual gifts: assigned to Brahmans (described as before), making vrittis, with houses and groves, certain villages:—

In the Hoysala Des'a, the Kuruvanka náḍ is the most charming: in which, of the agraháras he made, the first was Yádavapuri, known to all people as Tondanúru, in which is the great Chelvadevámudhi (lake); [the second] Atikuppe, both large and populous villages—with their hamlets Honnenhalli, Marahalli, Sámagonḍanahalli, Heruhalli, Harikalale, Ichana-halli, Núḍuboyanahalli, Hemanvalli, Hanumanakatte, Chikkavanhalli, Chikka Hosahalli, Teginahalli, Kanchinakere, Murukanahalli and its koppalu, Hakki-manchanahalli, Ganganahalli, altogether 17 subordinate villages, or with their two chief villages 19 villages, fertile, populous, having bridges and tanks, yielding double crops, all bearing sugar cane, of good soil, filled with groves and hamlets. These, forming into 112 vrittis for Brahmans, he distributed them to each one so that each had an equal share of best, middling and inferior soil. Also, having 112 houses securely built by masons, he filled them with furniture and grain, &c., for one year; provided one milch cow in milk with its calf for each house; and for the decoration of the children of the vritti-holders, gave to each, silk cloths, shawls, sets of earrings, finger rings, &c., to the number of 20 of each, and bestowed them on the residents of the agrahára of Yádavapuri. In the fort of Śrīrangapaṭṇa, whose walls are purified by the washing of the waves of the holy Kávéri, the residence of Paschima Ranga, the Gautama kshetra, in the presence of Ramáramana (Vishnu) reposing with Śrī Devi and Bhu Devi on his couch the serpent A'dishesha, making a vow that he presented this pious gift to Brahmans in order to gain the favour of the lotus feet of Lakshmi Narayana, calling the Brahmans separately, he presented them with the vrittis, with pouring of water and presentation of a coin, repeating they are no longer mine (ná mama na mama).

The names and particulars of those Brahmans for three generations are here written (here follow the names, &c., with a repetition of the grant. Then usual dharma s'lokas).

By the poet Tirumalarya, daily reader of the Ramayana and Bharata, a composer of poetry in Kāṣṇāṭa, Samskrita and A'ndhra, skilled in singing (gāndharva), was this s'asana composed so as to gratify all people.

S'ri Krishna Rájah.

A'treya gotra, an ocean of good qualities, of the As'valayana sutra, chief among the Kshatriyas, of the Rik s'akha, grandson of Chikka Deva Raja, son of Kanthirava Kshitindra, the unequalled Krishna Raja, a divine kalpa vriksha in daily bestowing gifts:—

For the purpose of having all the ceremonies of the three seasons performed for the lord of Hastagiri, in order to provide the necessary funds, articles and persons therefor; and in order to provide for the ceremonies of the daily offering to Varada Rajasvami, and a mantapa, a grove and a pond for the procession in Vais'akha in the name of his mother Cheluvajamma and his father's mother Deviramma;—inquiring after twelve villages which were populous and provided with a tank, within his own territories, near to Kanchi, and having found such according to his wishes on the banks of the river in the Kurimangala-nad belonging to Virabhadra Durga, namely, in the Pannirkola hobli, the villages of Párapatti, with its tank, Yattiganahalli, A'cháradahalli, Kamalanayakanahalli, Gollappanayakanahalli, Mádehalli, Balurú, Paratihalli, Belachanahalli, Sajjalaha'lli, Vepalaha'lli, Nallappanayakanahalli; in order that these 12 fertile villages might be devoted to him who eternally resides in Kanchi to remove the troubles of the faithful, Appratima Krishna Rajendra Chandra; in the fort of Srirangapatna, whose walls are purified by the waves of the holy Kaveri, the residence of Pas'chima Ranga, the Gaqtama kshetra; in the presence of Ramanaramana who reposes with S'ri Devi and Bhu Devi in happiness on the serpent S'esha; sending for Rámanuja Yatis'vara, the son-in-law of Saumya, and saying "You, your disciples, and their descendants, daily perform without break all the ceremonies which we have stated for Varada, taking for the purpose the profit arising from these villages," presented these villages, with pouring of water and presentation of a coin, repeating they are no longer mine (na mama, na mama).

The boundaries and description of the villages presented by Krishna Raja for the ceremonies at Kanchi, are here written in the Karnataka language.

(After repetition of much of the above, continues thus):—also within the four boundary stones of these villages marked with the s'ankha and chakra, the rice land and dry fields, the gardens and store houses, the dams and embankments, the dry cultivation and the wet cultivation, the poor rent-free land and the waste, half the quit rent due to the Virabhadra Durga revenue authorities from the dancing girls of the north temple, the tax on blacksmith's houses, the tax for . . . of the hill, the tax of the palliga caste, the tax for child birth, the tax on naming a child, the fees due to Gopalsvami; and of the customs, the money remaining after deducting the duty on laden bullocks; with the jitaḡāra (slaves), the salary of the kambli makers, the internal transit duties, the duty on all crops, the duty on the profits of cloth sales, the duty on iron, the duty on tobacco, and all other rights.

And in that Pāparpaṭṭihalli, the rents from the market, the customs dues, and the fees from the Thursday fair; with all similar rights in the 12 villages. Also the old freehold in Anantagiri in Atti-nāḡ, namely the village of Vepapundi, with the duties levied therein on the crops,* &c. &c., (concludes in the usual manner).

Seal, 4 in. diameter, a Wounded Tiger, ½ in. relief, with (?) a Salāki; moon above, sun below.

Om. Obeisance to S'iva. May the original Boar be your protection, on whose tusk rests the earth, lifted up as if a fruit plucked from the tree. O tongue, thee do I reverence, aid me in worthily proclaiming the glory of the royal line.

From the lake the navel of Vishnu, powerful to create the universe and devoted to the protection of the three worlds, sprang a lotus on which Lakshmi rests with great joy. Thence was born Brahma, sporting on the waves of the sea of the vedas, by means of Sarasvati having come to the married state and become a house holder. From whose mind, discerning the modes of all rites whether plain or obscure, the cause of the creation of the world, was born Ātri of supreme excellence. From whom was born Chandra, giving joy to all the world with his rays filled with nectar. From him many lines of kings take their rise.

Of whom the kings of the Yadu race are celebrated in the purāṇas, the possessors of many countries acquired by their valour, skilled in all royal accomplishments and methods of government, through the merit of their great sacrifices and penance entitled to a throne in svarga.

Of the kings of this race who in regular descent were ruling the world, a mighty king named Sala arose.

† In the Museum.

He once on a time went into the forest near S'as'apura in order to visit Vásanti, the goddess worshipped by all the kings of his family. Seeing there the great muni, doing reverence to him, he sat down a moment. Then, while unarmed he was engaged in the worship of the goddess and reverence of the muni, a cry of wild beasts arose, and a fearful tiger bounded forth, its claws powerful enough to tear up mountains, its long tongue swinging about with desire to swallow some one, the fiery sparks from its eyes burning up its eyelashes.

That muni, exclaiming in the language of his country Hoy Sale! (strike, Sala!) gave him a salaki, with which he slew it. From that the name of Hoysala came to all the kings of his line; and the tiger going to svarga, was adopted as the sign on the flag of all that line, who being ever ready for war, able in stringing and discharging their bows, at very thought of them all their enemies trembled.

(The genealogy is continued as in other inscriptions down to Soma, and continues:)

In the Bharadhva's kula, descendant of the Soma vams'a, was born Vijarasa, possessed of all good qualities, a great warrior. To him the celebrated Butanuchi was wife. From whom was born a daughter Somala, in beauty superior to Rati, in removing the troubles of her dependents equal to Lakshmi. She became the crowned queen of Soma Mahipati; being filled with devotion, by her gifts putting to shame the kalpa vriksha, her fame ascended up to heaven along with that of Soma Mahipati.

That king thus fortunate, whose glorious career was known in all countries, S'ri Somes'vara Bhumpála, residing in the prosperous royal city Vikramapura, which he had established for his own pleasure in the Chola Mandala conquered by the power of his own arm; in the year Paridhavi, the month Phalguna, new moon day, during an eclipse of the sun; in consequence of a discourse on the gifts proper to be made on that day, giving to the village of Madanampalli together with Mattikatta, situated in the Kallukani-nad another name Somalapura in honour of his pat'na mahishi Somala Devi, and forming there 70 vrittis at a rental of 140 nishkas (pagodas), presented them for the performance of the ceremonies of the god he had set up in that town, to Brahmans of various gotras, with pouring of water.

This matter, in order to be clearly understood, is here written in detail in the Karnata language.

(After repetition of all the titles and epithets) Hoysala Bhujabala V'ra Somes'tara Devarasa, in the S'aka year 1175, the year Paridhavi, the month

Phálguna, new moon day, during an eclipse of the sun (made the grant as given in the original at foot, * many of the terms being unknown).

May this gift of Somes'vara kshamápati endure for many yugas and kalpas, as long as the sun rides in his chariot, as long as the sea rolls with waves, as long as male and female rivers and lakes and ponds flow, as long as the earth stands firm, as long as the sky with its constellations lasts, as long as Setu and Meru continue.

Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Merit is a common bridge for kings, this deserves your support from age to age: thus does Rámachandra beseech the kings who come after him.

S'ri Víra Somes'varasya.

May the supreme male be your protection, who in the form of the Boar raised up the earth from its humbled condition, buffeted by the waves of the sea, and tossed it up as in sport on the tip of his strong right tusk. May the Boar form of Hari be your protection, which smiled at Lakshmi wandering among the lotuses springing from the lakes on the bosom of the earth supported on his right tusk.

like glory Chandra. From him many lines of kings took their rise : among whom of glorious qualities and celebrated career was Yadu.

From him innumerable kings descended : among whom was born S'ala, of great glory, by the might of his arms possessed of all the earth. He once on a time, being in his own Sas'apuri, went forth to do reverence to Va'santi, his kula devati, and to the siddha who dwelt by her side, when a powerful tiger rushed out desiring to devour him. But on the siddha saying in the Karnataka language 'Hoy S'ala' he slew it, and from that time all the kings of his race obtained that name.

In that race arose Ereyanga, who by his gifts put to shame Karra. His son was Vishnu, acquainted with all the rites prescribed in the vedas. His son was Narasimha Bhupati ; to whom was born Ballala Mahivallabha, praised as the bestower of every gift on his dependents. To him Nrisimha Bhupati was son, the setter up of Chola, by his great power and wisdom in government protecting Pandya.

From him was born Soma, like another soma (or moon), the lord of all things moveable and immoveable on the earth, the subjector of all his enemies, whom all the sciences had made their resort. To that Soma, as Ganga to the ocean, so Bijjala was wife. To these two was born Narasimha, resembling a kalpa vriksha, slaying all his enemies with his terrible sword, his fame having filled all the points of the compass and gone to the utmost limits of the ocean, at sight of whose gifts the kalpa vriksha trembled, Karna lost his name, and the kanadhenu was covered with shame.

Once on a time, when dwelling in the city of Derasamudra, the lion of kings Narasimha was seated in the council, there began a discourse on gifts of merit ; when the head among the many learned men present, the friend of the tributary kings, the chief adviser of Narasimha Bhupati, the minister Soma, rose up from his seat. To Malli Deva, an officer in the army, the subduer of the flames of the enemy's power, (? he desired to give) his daughter in the first bloom of her youth ; and also (another) to Chikka Ketaya, able in war, whose might none could withstand : these Narasimha Bhupati cherished like sons. On that minister Soma, the son of his elder sister, coming and doing obeisance, that moon of the Yadu race (the king), discerning all that was in his mind, gave him his desire. And moreover, to provide for the worship of the gods he had set up in the agrahara he had established, presented to him 3000 which that Soma Danthes'a taking, made therewith all the necessary arrangements ; the particulars of which are here published in the Karnata language.

May it be well. While the protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, lord of Dvaravati-pura, sun to the lotus of the Yódava kula, head ornament of the wise, king over the Male Rájas, champion among the Malepas, gan'da bherun'da, unshaken warrior, sole hero, terrible in the field of battle, Malla of the Sanivara Siddigiri durga, in bravery a Rama, a lion to the elephants his enemies, a rare embodied Mannatha, the setter up of Chola Kaya, the protector of the Pandya kingdom, the exterminator of the Magara kingdom, the setter up of columns of victory from Setu to Vindhya, unequalled for valour, Sri Vishnu Varddhana Pratápa Chakravarti Hoys'ala Bhujábala Sri Vira Nárasimha Devarasa was in his residence at Dorasamudra, ruling the kingdom of the world in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :—

His dear son Soma Dhannáyaka (made provision) for the offerings and decorations, the daily processions, the processions on holy days, for repairs of the temple and the food of the rishis who resort thither, of Kes'ava Deva and the other gods he had set up in the Vaishnava quarter of the great agráhára he had established in his own name. And the dues of the places which that Narasimha Deva Arasa in the S'aka year 1192, the year S'ukla, the month A'sháda, the 12th day of the moon's increase, Wednesday, had given with pouring of water ; — and the dues of the places which the great minister, gáyi gopála, gan'da pendára man'dalika, a champion over the (?) Júba great mandalika, a Devendra of Dandánathas, in the use of the sword Svayambhu a Trinetra of the sword, a Rekhá Revanta in riding the most unmanageable horses, subduer of the enemies' forces, (?) born to be an adopted son ; delighting in gifts of food, distinguished for gifts of gold, the senior Dandánatha, a sun upon the eastern mountain, a blossom on the boon-giving creeper of the gods, Someya Dannáyaka had given within those limits with pouring of water :—the sons-in-law of that Dannáyaka, Malli Deva Dannáyaka and Chikka Ketaya Dannáyaka, distributed for the offerings of those gods, for extra expenses, and for the living of the temple Brahmans, in the following manner :—

the god Sárangapáni of Malavalli: the rent of the places belonging to the endowments of all these gods are confirmed to that Somanáthapura, (namely) a land rent of 210 gadyána. And of the 21 vrittis which the Dannáyaka gave, together with the dues of the bandúra of that town, deducting the half vritti of the garden, with the rice field and dry land to the east of the . . . sluice, which is under and belongs to the Bannasamudra Bágilúr channel—the remaining 20½ vrittis are for all the teachers of science (surva s'ástru upá-dhyáyarige). Or, including the half vritti which all those men of science (s'ástradavaru) obtained in exchange from Manjigeya Kávanna, altogether 21 vrittis—of which, 7 being for the S'aiva quarter, the remaining 14 vrittis (rest not copied).

May the doctrine of Trailokya Nátha, the supreme profound syád váda prevail; the Jain doctrine which is a token of unfailling success. May it be well. The doctrine of S'ri Vardhamána the Kondakundánvaya.

Of which a servant,—may it be well—the protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings, supreme lord, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the Chálukyas, S'rimad Bhúvallabha Rája Permmaði Deva, while in his residence at Kalyána, punishing the evil and protecting the good in the seven and a half lakh country, was ruling in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :—

The dweller at his lotus feet :—the fire of whose anger raging dhagil, dhagil, dhagil, in the city of his enemies; blazing garil, garil, garil on the heads of his enemies; burning chimil, chimil, chimil in their bowels; who could war against the Rája of the Male Rájas? His son, causing the badabána fire of the ocean to tremble, eclipsing the fire of S'iva's frontal eye, deriding even S'iva who burnt Káma and swallowed the poison, a consuming fire of valour, was Vishnu Bhúpálaka.

May it be well. While the Hoysala kingdom of—entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Mandales'vara, lord of the city of Deváravati, sun to the lotus of the Yádava kula, ornament of great kings, champion among the Malepas— the hero who took Talakādu, Bhujabala Vishnu Varddhana, was increasing in prosperity to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky :—

His son, whose greatness was as follows :—like a god enjoying the pleasure of the gods, the complete lord of Lakshmi, of glory exceeding that of the elephant kings (dvipa rāja), a lion to the elephants the hostile kings,—was S'ri Narasimha Bhūpa, the . . . of victory.

The servant of his feet :—a bee with its mind fixed on the perfume of the golden lotus the feet of Jina—which are ruddy with the light of the jewels set in the crowns of the residents of svarga, an ocean of . . . , whose eyebrows are black with the smoke of the offerings made in his worship—a sun to the lotus the worthy and his friends, as the foam on the waves of the Ganges rises up at the sight of the moon so his fame ascending into all the regions of space, terrible in war, of unequalled bravery, (&c., &c.) lord of the city of Hulyara, a moveable kalpa vriksha born from the ocean of the womb of Sāntala Devi, the son of Sāmanta Bhaṭṭa, (after a great number of praises of his valour, continues) the remover of the kunkuma from the foreheads of the Maleya women, the remover of the kastūri of the Cholika women, a belt to the Lūta women, a garland between the shining breasts of the Āndhra women, a jewelled armlet to the Gūrjara women, a bee kissing the lotuses the faces of the haughty Gaula women of true virtue worthy of all praise, a jewelled mirror to the moonlike faces of the Karnāṭaka women ; a terror to his fellow kings, smiter on the head of those who claim to be champions (gaṇḍanka tala prahāri), slayer of those who oppose him, knocker down of those who call themselves great, shaker of the world, champion over the wrathful, a bheruṇḍa to the sharabha the hostile kings, the pounder of the tributaries, a chintāmani to the learned, the subduer of the pride of the rutting elephant Ayyana (?), lord over all the world, long live S'ri Bhaṭṭa Deva Sāmanta.

(Much more in the same strain, calling him Kali Bīṭṭi Deva).

To describe his descent :—The chief queen (agra mahishi) of Sthira Gambhīra Nolamba was S'ri Devi. From his destroying at one blow the confederation of his enemies so that they should not unite together, he obtained the title of Vīra-tala-prahāri. Having displayed in the army of the Chālukya king A'hava Malla the valour of the great, he received thence the title of great.*

* Intenisi negalda Bīṭṭi Devāncayadentendode || Sthira Gambhīra Nolamban agra mahishi S'ri Deviyam tad vipotkararam lāgade bandu bandivīḍiyalu taṭ vesri sanghātāmanam baradi deydila prahāradode kondana itlan ā bhīpandārradi vīra-tala-prahāri-vesaram āhātri talam baradi || Chālukya-A'hava Malla nripālana kaṭakadoḥ doḍḍankamunam līeyoḥ pādātan adātam pālis' dōḍḍanka bādīvanemb' s' dirūḍam ||

To his son Ahu Malla and Honnave was born Sámanta Bhíma; to describe whom:—When Vishnu Bhupati with a large force of horses and elephants stood ready for battle and was sounding the instruments, being in his army, he slew S'itagara Ganda by his valour, and thence received from the king the title of S'itagara Ganda in the world, this Kali Bhíma.†

To him was born a younger brother Sámanta Malla, of good character, possessed of all the qualities described as belonging to the Jina márga, beloved by Govi Deva, of great bravery. As if Yama having swallowed all his victims, unable to digest them, had vomited them forth again, such was the condition of the enemies slain in battle by Hu'iyara Bhatta. Slaughtering the elephants of the hostile kings, and satisfying the furies with the blood flowing from the headless corpses of those slain by him on the field of battle, thus greatly excited was the wrath of Sámanta Bhatta. His younger brother was Govi Deva, the creeper of whose fame spread into all the world (&c., &c.)

To describe the wife (sati) of Sámanta Bhatta:—The colour of her body like that of the emerald and the diamond mixed (!), the locks of her hair like the blue sapphire (!), she was as if all the jewels had been born in the form of S'ántale. Whatever virtues are united in the Mahes'varagama, the Jina-s'ri-dharmma, the Sad-Vaishnavagama, and the Bauddhagama, in the possession of all these she had no equal.

Narasimha Deva Mahipa governs with the aid of Sámanta Govinda, Hiriyambhatta, his own mother the celebrated Satavve, Mandaradaiya, Bhú-machj Deva, and Hiriayya Muttayya Bhíma, but who is greater than Vishnu Sámaná, says all the world.

To this Bitti Deva, whose glory was equal to that of Kailása, this Dhujabala Narasimha Mahipa, gave Hennegere, for the support of the elephants (goja brayakk endu).

Which, S'riman Mahá Sámanta Govi Deva, of the S'ri Múla sangha, Des'ija gana, Pustuka gachcha, and Konjakundavaya; of the Bhadrayana hill; in order that his wife Mahadevi Náyakiti might obtain eternal happiness, washing the feet of S'ri Manika Nandi Siddanta Deva, the disciple of Gurachandra Siddanta Deva, gave for the eight manner of ceremonies of the basadi of Jina Pars'va Deva of Heggere, and for the food of the rishis.

174. Síla S'asana at Sindigere, date A. D. 1138.

May the doctrine of Truokya nátha, the supreme profound syád váda, a token of unfailing success, the Jain doctrine prevail.

May it be well. While the victorious kingdom of the protector of all lands, favourite of earth and fortune, great king of kings supreme lord, first of monarchs, glory of the Satyás'raya kula, ornament of the Chálukyas,* S'rimat Tribhuvana Malla Deva, was increasing in prosperity, to endure as long as sun, moon and stars :—

The dweller at his lotus feet :—May it be well. Entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Mandales'vara, lord of Dváravati-pura, sun in the sky of the Yadava kula, head ornament of kings, champion among the Malapas, adorned with these and many other titles, S'rimat Tribhuvana Malla Vinayaditya Poisala was governing all the territory included between Konkana, Bhadada-vayal-nád, Talakádu and Sávi-male, punishing the evil and protecting the good. In the breasts and the brains of the Malapar did the fear of him spread, when he lifted his hands to smite the heads of the Malapar.

The beloved of the mind and eyes of that Mandalesvara, to strangers and to the citizens like herself the embodiment of eternal merit, thus praised in the world, that Keleyavarisi was the protection of the people, the kingdom and the king.

While these two, in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom, were in their residence at (?) Sosulya, ruling the kingdom, Keḷayala Devi, cherishing Mariyane Dandanáyaka as her younger brother, Vinayaditya Pois'ala Deva being also present, gave in marriage to Mariyane Dandanáyaka, Aḍekavve Dandanáyakitti, conferring on him also the lordship of S'indigere in A'sandi nád, in the S'aka year 961, the year Sarvajit, the month Phálguna, the 3rd day of the moon's increase, Monday.

* See note p. 14.

Thus having made the gift of a virgin and the gift of land, with pouring of water, while maintaining them with merit; to the world-renowned Poisála king and the lotus-like Keleyabbaris'i, was born and grew celebrated in the world Vira Ganga Ereyanga nripa. Of unequalled merit, a third Márutti, a fourth Ugra-vahni, a fifth Samudra, a sixth Púgane, a seventh Ubrades'a, an eighth Kuládri, a ninth Hasti of unparalleled liberality, a tenth Nidhi-prabandha, who can utter the praises of Ereyanga Deva ?

(To him and) to Achala Devi, praised as the A'di Bhoga, were born the heroes Ballála kshoni-vallabha, Vishnu dharitri-vallabha, and the chief of warriors Udayáditya.

While Ballála nripála by the speed with which he defeated the combination of proud enemies having obtained the title of (?) Bágibalu Deva, was in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom in the royal city Belapura, governing the kingdom: to Mariyane Dandanáyaka and Chámarve Danđanáyakúti, who resembled a second Lakshmi, were born Padmala Devi, Chávali Devi and Boppa Devi. These three becoming highly accomplished in sciences, in singing and dancing; and of a fame which made them worthy of three kings; Ballála Deva married the three virgins on the same day in the same marriage hall; and in the S'aka year 1025, the year Svabhánu, the month Kartika, the 10th day of the moon's increase, Thursday, as a marriage gift, having again conferred on Mariyane Dandanáyaka of the second generation, S'indigere, together with the lordship thereof, with pouring of water, was maintaining the same:—

As Vishnu, with eyes like the blue waterlily, a face like the lotus, and a gently smiling countenance, displaying the power of his arms in the bright moonlight of his fame which filled the three worlds, delighting in the overthrow of those who have forsaken the paths of justice, S'ri Vishnu Bhupa was shining like a sun in the world. When anger makes him frown all kings are destroyed; in the sport of his victorious expeditions what countries he overran! what lands resounded with his praise! what kings he overcame! even as far as the shores of the ocean; thus gaining possession of all the world—Vishnu kshítis'a.

May it be well. Entitled to the five great drums, Mahá Mandales'vara, lord of Dvárúvati-pura, born in the Yádava kula, a head jewel among the jewels the Chálikya mandalika,* through worship of the feet of Achyuta (Vishnu) having obtained the glory of Jishnu, by nature of a valour which went beyond the regents of the points of the compass ; causing the wives of hostile kings to miscarry at the sound of his victorious conch ; having obtained a boon from Vasantika Devi ; the daily bestower of gifts ; by the performance of unequalled hiranya garbha and tulu purusha * and a thousand sacrifices having satisfied the manes of his ancestors, the gods, gurus and Brahmans ; on account of his valour being without any opponent and thus having acquired the title of Adhiraja Vishnu ; sprung from the sea of the Yadava kula, the line of Vijaya Narayana ; like Brahma in re-creating the world out of chaos ; like Kumaraswami among the learned ; to others' wives a son ; daily receiving the blessings of all people for his justice and thus increasing in prosperity ; unequalled in war ; having by the power of his arms subdued Asvapati, Gajapati and other kings and obtained numerous horses, elephants, and jewels, and thus being in the enjoyment of the Lakshmi of an heroic kingdom ; the abode of Sarasvati ; a Bhairava of the final deluge to the Chola kula ; a lion to the elephant Keraja ; a Badabánala to the ocean the Pándya kula ; a wild-fire to the sprouts of the creeper the fame of Pallava ; a s'arabha to the lion Narasimha Varmma ; his unshaken valour a well into which fell the deer the (?) Kalapála and other kings ; a terrible bow of victory in cutting off the Kalapála ; an ornament of victory born for the destruction of the lines of proud boasting kings ; glorious in the possession of Kanchipura in which he had sounded his terrible din'tima (drum) ; shaking down the houses in the cities of many kings by the thundering sound of his bheri (drum) ; squeezing as if in his hand Dakshina Madhura-pura ; having by his general burnt Jananúthapura ; with a look of his eyes removing the poverty of the world ; the manifest Vishnu ; lord over all the world as far as the ocean ; free from fear as from avarice ; while, possessed of these and other titles, S'rimat Kambigonḍa† Vikrama Ganga Vishnu Varádhana Deva, punishing the evil and protecting the good in the Gangaváḍi Ninety-six Thousand, the Nolambaváḍi Thirty-two Thousand and the Banaváḍi Twelve Thousand, was ruling the kingdom in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :—

The dwellers at his lotus feet :—seeds on the noble tree the office of chief ministers of the whole kingdom ; bees at the lotus feet of Arhat Parames'vara ; adorned with the gems, quietness, self-control, meekness, humility, heroism, skill and other good qualities ; like half moons in possession of the flag embellished with the title of Mahá-prachanda-Dandánayaka obtained from the race of Kambigonda Vikrama Vishnu Vardhana Deva ; decorated with the earrings the Lakshmi of the syúd váda ; of great happiness arising from the daily anointings of the Jina puja ; delighting in gifts of the four vedas ; resembling the eyes of the Lakshmi of pure wisdom ; mutual friends ; were the maha pradhána Mariyane Dandanáyaka, and, reckoned the first lord of Bharata, Bharates'vara Dandanáyaka. These, without any difference in opinion, as if the embodiments of goodness, like Bhíma and Arjuna, or Lava and Kus'a, though two were as if of one form.

[Their praises continue at great length, comparing Mariyane to a young elephant (mari áne), &c., &c. The following is an abstract of important particulars].

The wife of Mariyane was Jakkanavve. Their son was Mariyane Dandanáyaka, whose wife was Yakkani.

Bharata surpassed Chálakya as a minister, his god was Trailokya-bátha Parama Jina, his guru Mághanandi Bratipati.

The following was the genealogy of Bharata Dandanayaka and of his elder brother Mariyane Dandanoyaka :—Descended from the Bháradvája, gotra, was Kákarasa Dandanátha, sole lord of the Ganga kingdom and the Pois'ala kingdom. His wife was Ambi. His sons were Nánkarana chamupa and Mariyane, (?) born to give the Ganga kingdom to the Pois'ala king. His daughter Dandanayakitti Dekavve had two sons, the dharmabharma Dhákarasa and Mabhana Dandanayaka. Dhakarasa's wife was Hammále. Their sons were Mariyane vibhu and (?) Dhakaraji chamupati. Mábhi Rúju's daughter became the wife of Bharates'a Dandanáyaka, the younger brother of Mariyane. To her, Chavallave Dandanáyakitti, were born the Dandanátha Ereyanga and the Chamupati Ballu. Ballu's wife was Padmala Devi, and he also had Chavala Devi and Boppale.

Thus Mariyane Dandanáyaka and Bharatana were grandsons of the sons of Balluva, the son of Yareyanga, the son of Nemana, the son of Dhákarasa, the son of Mábhana Dandanayaka, the son of the senior Mariyane Dandanayaka ; and of the daughters of Boppala Devi and others up to Padu ala Devi.

* While, with the descendants of this long and honoured line connected with the kings of his race, S'ri Kambigonda Vikrama Ganga Vishnu Vardhana Pois'ala Deva, having Mariyane Dandanayaka and Bharatana Dandanayaka as judges (satyádhikarigalu), treasurers, and chief advisers, was dwelling in happiness in the royal residence at Dorasamudra, and governing the kingdom :—in the Saka year 1060, the year Paingala, the month Puhya, the 10th day of the moon's increase, Sunday, uttarāyana sankranti—among the great gifts of the tula purusha, in the presence of Bharatammaiya Dandanayaka, approving of the name of Biṭṭiyanna, (he) depositing 500 honnu at the feet of the Deva, and receiving the lordship of Dadiganakere Bagga-vali ; erected a basadi in Sindigere, the inheritance from their ancestors, which Mariyane Dandanayaka and Bharatana Dandanayaka had received with pouring of water. (for which basadi), among the great gifts, Vishnu Vardhana Deva, pouring water with his own hands presented to Madhuchandra Deva, the junior mantravādi of Ganda Vimukta Siddhanta Deva, achari of the S'ri mūla sangha, the Des'iga gana, the Pustaka gachcha, and Konḍakundānvaya,—the following land :—under the old tank four kanḍuga of rice land, under Tavare gatta a garden sufficient for 20,000 betel vines, in the village of Māvinakere two oil mills, with the dung heaps and customs dues, to endure as long as sun, moon, stars and sky, (Imprecatory verses).

(Here follows another gift made at the same time, in which, being under the Chalukya king Tribhuvana Malla Deva)—S'rimat Tribhuvana Malla, the capturer (gonda) of Talakadu, Kongu, Nangali, Gangavādi, Noḷambavadi, Banavasi, Hanungalu, and Halasige, Bhujabala Vira Ganga Pois'ala Deva, being in the royal residence at Dorasamudra, ruling the kingdom of the world in the enjoyment of peace and wisdom :—the maha pradhana, senior treasurer, Mariyane Dandanayaka,—son-in-law of Sovarasa Da. the son of Bavarasa Da. and son of Dhākarasa Da. the son of the senior Mariyane Da.—united with the maha pradhana Dandanayaka Bharata, obtains for the basadi of Sindigere, the place of their inheritance, with pouring of water from the hands of S'ri Vishnu Vardhana Hoys'ala Deva, the village of S'raavan gihalli. (Concludes with its boundaries, and imprecations).

175. S'ila Sāsana at Yelandur, date A. D. 1654.

May the lord of Gauri, whose chest is marked with the lunkuma from the bosom of Gauri, the ocean of mercy, joyfully give happiness to Mudda Bhumiya.

To the south of Himáchala is Nilagiri. There, while Kapila rishi was performing penance, with the water of the Deva Ganga in his vessel, Nandis'vara appearing, said, "O great muni, pour forth the water in your vessel towards the north, and it shall become a river of merit, bestowing on all people present and eternal happiness." At this command, saying, "I will do it," he poured forth the water of his vessel to the north, and gave it the name of Suvarnávati.

On the banks of that stream is a city, whose glory is as follows:—Brahma desiring to create a place free from all the evil passions, it became so filled with brightness, that he gave this rare city the name of Eleyindúru (city of the young moon) in the world.

And the eight petals of the lotus that city, were—on the east, Svetas'údri, the abode of Gangádhara; on the south east, the Mallinátha mountain near Tárápura; on the south, the Suragi hill, bright with the residence of . . . ; on the south west, the S'ankares'vara mountain, the abode of . . . ; on the west, the mountain adorned by Malikárjuna near Bannúr; on the north west, the Sambhulinga mountain; on the north, Prathama S'ris'aíla, glorious on account of Malles'vara; on the north east, the Nirmála mountain, the abode of Nilakantha. These eight mountains being its eight petals, that city was in the middle of them like the eye of the lotus.

Thither Parames'vara coming, and saying "I will protect it," in each of the four yugas was worshipped under a different name and different colour, as follows:—in the Krita yuga as Tripurántaka, white as crystal, he was worshipped by Jamadagni; in the Treta yuga as Nilakantha, of a tawny colour, he was worshipped by Raghunátha; in the Dvápara yuga as Lokes'vara he was worshipped by the sons of Pánju; in the Kali yuga as Gaures'vara, of the colour of sapphire, he was worshipped by the kings of Padi-náda.

For Singha Deva Bhúpa, not only built his temple and worshipped there, but while with the glory of the lord of Lakshmi, in the form of Manmatha, like the son of Devendra and the king Ráma, an ornament to the race of kings, filled with all learning—ruling over the Ten Náds (Padi náduga(u)), in the S'aka year 1490, the year Vibhava, knowing the glory of Gauris'a the mine of goodness, that king presented for (the support of) his worship the celebrated own of Ganaganúru, without any estimation of its value, so great a doubt was he in the world.

His younger brother, praised by all the world for his spotless fame, was Cháma nripála, a new Manmatha: whose famous sons were Nanja Rája and Tirumála Rája.

And that Nanja Rája's elder brother Tirumala Rdja presented Vadeyara-pura, and near to it S'enagundala; and with great joy that excellent king also gave to Gauris'vara Chinchanapura.

That king's son, a mine of virtue, ever filled with merit, governing with great skill the portion of the world called Padinátu, like a bee at the feet of S'iva, the refuge of beggars, how did he shine in the world among kings, Muddendra Bhípálaka.

And in the S'aka year 1576, the year Jaya, that Mudda Bhupati, with joy obtaining gardens, rice fields and tanks, presented them to the joy of Gauri, the lord of Kantugiri; how was he celebrated for liberality in the world. And this ornament of kings built for Gaurisa a gopura, several temples, and a man-tapa; and set up the Pancha Linga to Gaurinátha with great splendour. And for this his faith he obtained family, kingdom and fame from S'iva.

Ras'ika Panđita, the son of Bommanna Panđita, wrote this for Muddu Bhupa so as to please him. May S'iva grant to Muddu Rája sons, grandsons and great grandsons; elephants, chariots and horses; gold and jewels and splendid treasures; with virtuous and liberal wives; free him from all troubles and diseases; impart to him wisdom, health and strength, learning and . for ever.

Then making a gift oneself, to maintain another's is twice as meritorious: whose resumes a gift made by another loses all the benefit of his own. Whoso usurps a gift made by himself or by another shall be born a worm in ordure for sixty thousand years. Of making a gift or preserving another's, the maintaining another's is the best: making a gift procures svarga, but preserving another's gives eternal happiness.

Description of the lands and rights presented by Mudda Rájaiya for the enjoyment of the god Gauripati:—In the rice fields of Yelandúru,—to the (?) mirror holders (darpanadavarige) 1 , to the presenters of the wave offering of rice and turmeric (pasáriyavarige) 1 , to the presenters of the wave offering of lights (gumbhártiyavarige) 1 , to the illuminators (mangala dípadavarige) one, to the lamp wavers (mangaláratiyavarige) two khandiga, to the dancers one khandiga. In the rice fields of Yariyúru—to the headman of (velada s'ruvegáranige) one khandiga, to the chámara holders one khandiga, to the (?) bricklayers one khandiga, to the garland maker one khandiga, also a garden; for the special offerings on Mondays, Fridays and Dhanurmása, two khandiga, for the offering to Amma one khandiga. In Hosahalli agrahára—to the cymbal beaters 100 bhúmma, to the beaters of the maddale drum, 100 bhúmma. In Gandahalli—to the singers 100 bhumma, to the dancers 100 bhúmma.

In Yalandúru, Yariyuru, Maddúru, Gumbáí, Ammale, Homma, Honnúru, Kesavatturu, Agara—in these villages, a svamya of one kolaga per khandi, and one kolaga per 100 bhúmma, of rice land ; one bundle of cotton per 100 bhúmma of black soil ; two balls per 100 bhúmma of rasabhanda ; ten balls of jaggory per 1,000. Whoso resumes the villages, gardens, rice lands or dues granted by the Padinadu kings, will incur the guilt of slaughtering cows in Kás'i, of incest with his mother, of drinking spirits, and other such sins.

Obeisance to S'ri Gauris'a. May it endure.
