Letter from Bombay, d. 2d January 1843; No. 2.
 With reference to Court's Letter 29th January 1840, No. 9, paras: 12 and 13, transmit the proceedings of a Court Martial held upon Brevet Captain Mills, late Deputy Pay Master at Deesa, on a charge of embezzling certain sums from the Public Treasure Chest committed to his care, notice a difference of opinion as to the construction of the law as applicable to his case but state that the Members of Government being unanimous in viewing the guilt of Captain Mills, as established, he has been suspended from the Service, pending the receipt of Courts Orders regarding his final disposal.

1. These proceedings have received at our hands the most careful and deliberate consideration.
2. Having maturely weighed and considered all the circumstances of this case, we are reluctantly compelled to express our belief that it would not be for the good of the Service, that Captain Mills should continue to hold a commission in our Army; we therefore desire that his name may be removed from the Army List, from the date of your receipt of this despatch.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 31st October 1843,

The Honorable the Governor in Council is pleased to re-publish for general information, the following Proclamation issued by His Excellency the Governor of Hong-Kong, under date the 22nd of July last.

By order of the Hon'ble the Governor in Council,
J. P. WILLOUGHBY, Secy. to Govt.

PROCLAMATION.

SIR HENRY POTTINGER, Bart., G. C. B., Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary, &c., &c. in China, has the gratification to announce, for the general information and guidance of all subjects of Her said Majesty, that he has concluded and sealed, with the High Commissioner appointed by His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of China to treat with him, a Commercial Treaty, stipulated for in the Definitive Treaty of Peace, signed at Nanking, on the 29th day of August 1842, and the Ratifications of which Definitive Treaty of Peace, have been lately exchanged under the Signs Manual, and Seals of Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, &c., and His Majesty the Emperor of China.

Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary &c., now publishes the Export and Import Tariff, and the Regulations of Trade, which have been, after the most searching scrutiny and examination, fixed and finally agreed upon, and which Tariff, and Regulations of Trade, are to be promulgated in Chinese, simultaneously with this Proclamation, accompanied by a Proclamation on the part of the Imperial Commissioner, &c.

Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary, &c., trusts, that the provisions of the Commercial Treaty will be found, in practice, mutually advantageous, beneficial and just, as regards the interests, the honour, and the future augmented prosperity, of the Governments of the two mighty contracting Empires, and their subjects: and His Excellency most solemnly and urgently calls upon all subjects of the British Crown, individually, and collectively, by their allegiance to their Sovereign, by their duty to their country, by their own personal reputation, respect, and good name, and by the integrity and honesty which is due from them as men, to the Imperial Rights of the Emperor of China, not only to strictly conform and act up to the said provisions of the Commercial Treaty, but to spurn, deprecate, and make known to the world, any base, unprincipled, and traitorous overtures which they, or their agents, or employes, may receive from, or which may be in any shape made to them, by any subject of China—whether officially connected with the government, or not—towards entering into any collusion or scheme, for the purpose of evading, or acting in contravention of, the said provisions of the Commercial Treaty.

Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary, &c., will not allow himself to anticipate or suppose, that the appeal which he now makes to all Her Majesty's subjects, will be unheeded, or overlooked, by even a single individual; but, at the same time, it is his duty, in the responsible and unprecedented situation in which he has been placed by the course of events, to distinctly intimate, that he is determined, by every means at his disposal, to see the provisions of the Commercial Treaty fulfilled by all who choose to engage, in future, in Commerce with China, and that, in any case, where he may receive well grounded representations from Her Majesty's Consuls, or from the Chinese Authorities, that such provisions of the Commercial Treaty have been evaded (or have been attempted to be so), he will adopt the most stringent and decided measures against the offending parties; and, where his present powers may not fully authorize and sanction such measures as may seem to him fitting, he will respectfully trust, that the Legislature of Great Britain will hold him indemnified for adopting them, in an emergency directly compromising the National Honour, Dignity, and Good Faith in the estimation of the government of China, and in the eyes of all other Nations.

G O D S A V E T H E Q U E E N .

Dated at Government-House, at Victoria, Hong-Kong, this 22nd day of July, 1843.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

UNDER WHICH THE BRITISH TRADE IS TO BE CONDUCTED.

AT THE FIVE PORTS OF.

Canton, Amoy, Fuchow, Ningpo, and Shanghai,

I PILOTS.

I. Pilots to be granted immediately; and

WHENEVER a British merchantman shall arrive off any of the five ports, opened to trade, viz., Canton, Fuchow, Amoy, Ningpo, or Shanghai pilots shall be allowed to take her immediately into port; and in like manner, when such British ship shall have settled all legal duties and charges, and is about to return home, pilots shall be immediately granted to take her out to sea, without any stoppage or delay.

Remuneration to be settled at each port.

Regarding the remuneration to be given these pilots, that will be equitably settled by the British Consul appointed to each particular port, who will determine it with due reference to the distance gone over, the risk run, &c.

II. CUSTOM-HOUSE GUARDS.

II. One or two Custom-house guards to be attached to each ship.

No fees to be charged for their maintenance.

THE Chinese Superintendent of Customs at each port will adopt the means that he may judge most proper to prevent the revenue suffering by fraud or smuggling. Whenever the pilot shall have brought any British merchantman into port, the Superintendent of Customs will depute one or two trusty custom-house officers, whose duty it will be to watch against frauds on the revenue. These will either live in a boat of their own, or stay on board the English ship, as may best suit their convenience. Their food and expences will be supplied them from day to day from the custom house, and they may not exact any fees whatever from either the Commander or Consignee. Should they violate this regulation, they shall be punished proportionately to the amount so exacted.

III. MASTERS OF SHIPS REPORTING THEMSELVES ON ARRIVAL.

III. Report to be made to, and ships papers &c. to be deposited with the Consul. Penalty for neglect;

For false manifest; and for breaking bulk before permitted.

Communication of arrival to the Superintendent of Customs.

WHENEVER a British vessel shall have cast anchor at any one of the abovementioned ports, the Captain will, within four and twenty hours after arrival, proceed to the British Consulate, and deposit his Ship's Papers, Bills of Lading, Manifest, &c., in the hands of the Consul; failing to do which, he will subject himself to a penalty of two hundred dollars.

For presenting a false Manifest, the penalty will be five hundred dollars.

For breaking bulk and commencing to discharge before due permission shall be obtained, the penalty will be five hundred dollars, and confiscation of the goods so discharged.

The Consul having taken possession of the Ship's Papers, will immediately send a written communication to the Superintendent of Customs, specifying the register-tonnage of the ship, and the particulars of the Cargo she has on board; all of which being done in due form, permission will then be given to discharge, and the duties levied as provided for in the Tariff.

IV. COMMERCIAL DEALINGS BETWEEN ENGLISH & CHINESE MERCHANTS.

IV. Mode of proceeding against fraudulent debtors, agents, &c.

IT having been stipulated that English merchants may trade with whatever native merchants they please, should any Chinese merchant fraudulently abscond or incur debts which he is unable to discharge, the Chinese Authorities, upon complaint being made thereof, will of course do their utmost to bring the offender to justice; it must, however, be distinctly understood, that, if the defaulter really cannot be found, or be dead, or bankrupt, and there be not wherewithal to pay, the English Merchants may not appeal to the former custom of the Hong-Merchants paying for one another, and can no longer expect to have their losses made good to them.

V. TONNAGE DUES.

V. A tonnage due payable in full of all charges.

EVERY English merchantman, on entering any one of the above mentioned five ports shall pay Tonnage Dues at the rate of five mace per register-ton, in full of all charges. The fees formerly levied on entry and departure, of every description, are henceforth abolished.

VI. IMPORT AND EXPORT DUTIES.

VI. Duties to be charged according to tariff, and to be subject to no other fees.

GOODS, whether imported into, or exported from, any one of the abovementioned five ports, are henceforward to be taxed according to the Tariff as now fixed and agreed upon, and no further sums are to be levied beyond those which are specified in the Tariff. All duties incurred by an English Merchant Vessel, whether on goods imported or exported, or in the shape of Tonnage Dues must first be paid up in full, which done the Superintendent of Customs will grant a Port Clearance, and this being shown to the British Consul, he will thereupon return the ship's papers and permit the vessel to depart.

VII. EXAMINATION OF GOODS AT THE CUSTOM-HOUSE.

VII. Goods to be examined by Custom-house officer in presence of merchant's agent.

EVERY English merchant, having cargo to load or discharge, must give due intimation thereof and hand particulars of the same to the Consul, who will immediately despatch a recognized linguist of his own establishment to communicate the particulars to the Superintendent of Customs, that the goods may be duly examined and neither party subjected to loss. The English merchant must also have a properly qualified person on the spot to attend to his interests, when his goods are being examined for duty; otherwise, should there be complaints, these cannot be attended to.

Disputes regarding value for ad-valorem duties, how settled.

Regarding such goods as are subject by the Tariff to an ad-valorem duty if the English Merchant cannot agree with the Chinese officer in fixing a value, then each party shall call two or three Merchants to look at the goods, and the highest price, at which any of these Merchants would be willing to purchase, shall be assumed as the value of the goods.

Tare how fixed.

To fix the tare on any article, such as tea:—if the English Merchant cannot agree with the custom-house officer, then each party shall choose so many chests out of every hundred, which being first weighed in gross, shall afterwards be tared, and the average Tare upon these chests shall be assumed as the Tare upon the whole, and upon this principle shall the Tare be fixed upon all other goods in packages.

Appeal to Consul where disputes cannot otherwise be settled.

If there should still be any disputed points which cannot be settled, the English Merchant may appeal to the Consul, who will communicate the particulars of the case to the Superintendent of Customs, that it may be equitably arranged. But the appeal must be made on the same day, or it will not be regarded. While such points are still open, the Superintendent of Customs will delay to insert the same in his books, thus affording an opportunity that the merits of the case may be duly tried and sifted.

VIII. MANNER OF PAYING THE DUTIES.

VIII. Duties to be paid to licensed shroffs.

IT is hereinbefore provided that every English vessel that enters any one of the five Ports, shall pay all Duties and Tonnage Dues before she be permitted to depart. The Superintendent of Customs will select certain shroffs, or banking establishments, of known stability, to whom he will give licences, authorizing them to receive Duties from the English Merchants on behalf of Government, and the receipt of these Shroffs for any moneys paid them shall be considered as a government Voucher. In the paying of these duties different kinds of foreign money may be made use of, but as foreign money is not of equal purity with sycee silver, the English Consuls appointed to the different ports will according to time, place, and circumstances, arrange with the Superintendents of Customs at each, what coins may be taken in payment, and what percentage may be necessary to make them equal to standard or pure silver.

Payment may be made in foreign money.

Per centage on foreign money, how fixed.

IX. WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

IX. Standard weights and measures, for duties.

SETS of balance yards for the weighing of goods, of money weights, and of measures, prepared in exact conformity to those hitherto in use at the custom-house of Canton, and duly stamped and sealed in proof thereof, will be kept in possession of the Superintendent of Customs, and also at the British Consulate, at each of the five Ports, and these shall be the standards by which all duties shall be charged, and all sums paid to government. In case of any dispute arising between British Merchants and Chinese Officers of Customs regarding the Weights or Measures of goods, reference shall be made to these standards, and disputes decided accordingly.

X. LIGHTERS OR CARGO BOATS.

X. Any boats may be engaged as lighters, without limit or monopoly.

WHENEVER any English merchant shall have to load or discharge cargo, he may hire whatever kind of Lighter or Cargo-boat he pleases, and the sum to be paid for such boat can be settled between the parties themselves without the interference of Government. The number of these boats shall not be limited, nor shall a monopoly of them be granted to any parties. If any smuggling take place in them, the offenders will of course be punished according to law.

Should any of these boat-people, while engaged in conveying goods for English Merchants, fraudulently abscond with the property, the Chinese authorities will do their best to apprehend them; but at the same time, the English Merchants must take every due precaution for the safety of their goods.

XI. TRANSHIPMENT OF GOODS.

XI. Transhipments only to be made with special licence.

No English merchant ships may tranship goods without special permission; should any urgent case happen where transhipment is necessary, the circumstances must first be submitted to the Consul, who will give a certificate to that effect, and the Superintendent of Customs will then send a Special Officer to be present at the transhipment. If any one presumes to tranship without such permission being asked for and obtained, the whole of the goods so illicitly transhipped will be confiscated.

XII. SUBORDINATE CONSULAR OFFICERS.

XII. Subordinate officers may be appointed at the anchorages of the shipping.

At any place selected for the anchorage of the English merchant ships, there may be appointed a subordinate consular officer of approved good conduct to exercise due control over the seamen and others. He must exert himself to prevent quarrels between the English seamen and natives, this being of the utmost importance. Should any thing of the kind unfortunately take place, he will in like manner do his best to arrange it amicably. When sailors go on shore to walk, officers shall be required to accompany them, and should disturbances take place such officers will be held responsible. The Chinese officers may not impede natives from coming alongside the ships, to sell clothes or other necessaries to the sailors living on board.

XIII. DISPUTES BETWEEN BRITISH SUBJECTS AND CHINESE.

XIII. Disputes to be settled, if possible, amicably (by arbitration)

Addresses of British merchant to Chinese officers.

Punishment of Chinese and English respectively.

WHENEVER a British subject has reason to complain of a Chinese, he must first proceed to the Consulate, and state his grievance. The Consul will thereupon inquire into the merits of the case, and do his utmost to arrange it amicably. In like manner, if a Chinese have reason to complain of a British subject, he shall no less listen to his complaint and endeavor to settle it in a friendly manner. If an English merchant have occasion to address the Chinese authorities, he shall send such address through the Consul, who will see that the language is becoming; and if otherwise, will direct it to be changed, or will refuse to convey the address. If unfortunately any disputes take place of such a nature that the Consul cannot arrange them amicably then he shall request the assistance of a Chinese Officer that they may together examine into the merits of the case, and decide it equitably. Regarding the punishment of English criminals, the English Government will enact the laws necessary to attain that end, & the Consul will be empowered to put them in force; and regarding the punishment of Chinese criminals, these will be tried and punished by their own laws, in the way provided for by the correspondence which took place at Nanking after the concluding of the peace.

XIV. BRITISH GOVERNMENT CRUIZERS ANCHORING WITHIN THE PORTS.

XIV. A government vessel will be stationed in each port.

AN English government cruiser will anchor within each of the five Ports, that the Consul may have the means of better restraining sailors and others, and preventing disturbances. But these government cruisers are not to be put on the same footing as merchant vessels, for as they bring no merchandize and do not come to trade, they will of course pay neither dues nor charges. The resident Consul will keep the Superintendent of Customs duly informed of the arrival and departure of such government cruisers, that he may take his measures accordingly.

XV. ON THE SECURITY TO BE GIVEN FOR BRITISH MERCHANT VESSELS.

XV The British Consul will be "Security" for British ships.

It has hitherto been the custom, when an English Vessel entered the Port of Canton, that a Chinese Hong-Merchant stood security for her, and all duties and charges were paid through such Security Merchant. But these Security Merchants being now done away with, it is understood that the British Consul will henceforth be security for all British merchant ships entering any of the aforesaid five Ports.

GOVERNMENT NOTIFICATION.

With reference to the preceding Proclamation, &c., it is hereby notified, that the New System of Trade will commence at Canton, on the 1st day of the 7th month of the present Chinese year (the 27th July, 1843), and that from that day, the Hong Merchant's monopoly and Consoo charges will cease and terminate.

The other Four Ports of—A moy, Fuchow-foo, Ning-po, and Shanghai, which, agreeably to the Treaty of Nanking, are to be resorted to by British Merchant Vessels, cannot be declared to be open for that purpose, until an Imperial Edict to that effect shall be received from the Cabinet of Peking. This Edict is expected to reach Canton early in the month of September, and immediate Public Notice will be given of its arrival. In the interim, measures will be taken for the appointment of Consular Officers, and their Establishments, to the Ports in question, in order that no unnecessary delay may take place in the commencement of Trade at them; and merchants may make their arrangements accordingly.

The following temporary appointments are made:—

G. Tradescant Lay, Esq., to officiate as Her Britannic Majesty's Consul at Canton.

Robert Thom Esq., Joint Interpreter and Translator, who is at present stationed at Canton, as the medium of communication between Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary, &c., &c., and the Imperial Commissioner and other High Chinese Officers, will assist in his capacity of Interpreter in the Consular office.

Messrs. Thomas T. Meadows, and William Meredith, to act as Clerks and assistants in the officiating Consul's Office.

With the view of relieving the officiating Consul at Canton, and his establishment, from the judicial functions, which will hereafter form a part of the duty to be performed by the Consuls at the different Ports, but which might interfere with the officiating Consul's devoting his whole time and attention exclusively to the more important object of promoting and regulating the Trade at its outset, on the new system, Her Majesty's Chief Superintendent of the Trade &c., is pleased to direct, that all disputes and complaints emanating at Canton, and coming within the consular functions above adverted to, shall, for the present, and until further notice, be referred to A. R. Johnston Esq., the Assistant and Registrar to the Chief Superintendent, &c., &c., who will, in the first instance, inquire into, and investigate such disputes and complaints, at Victoria, Hong-Kong, and will, in case of necessity, arising for such a step, proceed to Canton for the purpose of completing his inquiry and investigation. The amount to which Mr. Johnston's awards shall be considered final, and the manner of appealing from that Officer's awards to the Chief Superintendent, will be hereafter notified.

The following extracts from Instructions addressed this day to Mr. Lay, as officiating Consul at Canton, are published for general information, and Her Majesty's Chief Superintendent of Trade enjoins and requires all concerned to pay implicit obedience to them.

" You will see from the enclosed Notification, that you are for the present relieved from the exercise of your Consular judicial functions, and in the event of letters or petitions [in English or Chinese] referring to disputes, or containing complaints, being presented to you, you will [unless they should be of the most trivial and easily adjusted nature] write upon them, "referred to the Assistant Superintendent, &c.," and sign your name.

" You will hold the masters of all vessels responsible to you, for the orderly and peaceable behaviour of their boat's crews, or any other persons belonging to their respective ships, who may visit Canton, and no 'liberty-men' are to go up that City without your previous permission, obtained in writing, in answer to an application, specifying the number [of the propriety of which you are to consider yourself the judge], and distinctly promising and stating that an officer will accompany such liberty-men, to look after and control the seamen or lascars as the case may be.

" In any instance where you may discover that seamen or others are at Canton on liberty, without your permission, and the previous stipulations [above adverted to] having been complied with, you will request the Commander of Her Majesty's ship which will be stationed at Whampoa, to support your authority, to have the seamen or others forthwith sent back to their ships, and you will report the circumstance to me, that I may adopt such further steps as the case may call for. You will at the same time, intimate to the master, owner, or consignee, of the vessel from which the seamen or others unauthorizedly come, that all expenses attending the removal of the seamen or others from Canton, will be charged to the ship to which they belong, and will be recovered before she is allowed to sail.

" In cases of petty affrays or assaults, or riotous and drunken conduct [unattended, however, with any marked degree of violence], in which you may be of opinion that the ends of justice will be obtained and a sufficient example will be made, by fining the offender any sum not exceeding $10, or confining him for a period not exceeding five days, you have my authority to summarily decide in such cases, without even recording the evidence, merely making a memorandum of the fact, in a book to be kept for the purpose; but, in all cases where you may consider the offence to call for more serious notice, you will, with the assistance of the Captain of Her Majesty's ship, have the offender placed in confinement until a formal investigation can be held, and for which I will arrange on hearing the particulars from you.

" Should you obtain positive and incontrovertible proof, that any British merchant ship on the river has been, or is, engaged in smuggling, or evading the payment of the just dues of the Chinese Government as laid down in the Tariff and Regulations of Trade, you will take immediate measures for intimating the same to the Chinese High Officers, and Officers of Customs, in order that they may, if they think proper, put a stop to such vessel either landing or shipping further cargo, as the case may be; and you will likewise apprise the master, owner, or consignee of such ship, of the steps you have taken, and will acquaint them that any attempt to carry on their smuggling practices, or to trade in any shape, by force, in opposition to the wishes and directions of the Chinese Authorities, will oblige me to have such ship removed from the river.

" I annex a Table of Consular Fees which you are to levy, and which are to form a fund for the present, to be subject to such instructions as may be hereafter received from Her Majesty's Government."

G. A. MALCOLM,

P R O C L A M A T I O N ,

Issued by the Imperial Commissioner &c.

KEYING, High Commissioner, &c. &c. Kekung, Governor-general, &c. and Ching-yuetsai, Governor, &c.—issue this Proclamation for the purpose of giving clear information and Commands.

Whereas, when the English had last year ceased from hostilities, our August Sovereign granted them commercial intercourse at Canton and at four other Ports, and was graciously pleased to sanction the Treaty that had been concluded, the ratifications of that Treaty have now therefore been exchanged, and commercial regulations have been agreed upon, and a Tariff of Duties, wherein all fees and presents are abolished, has been distinctly settled. These, as soon as the High Commissioner, with the Governor General and Governor, shall have received the replies of the Board of Revenue, shall be promulgated, and shall become the rules to be observed in the various Ports. The Tariff of Duties will then take effect with reference to the commerce with China of all countries, as well as of England.

Henceforth, then, the weapons of war shall for ever be laid aside, and joy & profit shall be the perpetual lot of all: neither slight nor few, will be the advantages reaped by the Merchants, alike of China and of foreign countries. From this time forward, all must free themselves from prejudice and suspicions; pursuing each his proper avocation; and careful always to retain no inimical feelings, from the recollection of the hostilities that have before taken place. For such feelings and recollections can have no other effect, than to hinder the growth of a good understanding between the two people.

With regard to Fuchow, Amoy, Ningpo, and Shanghai, the four Ports which by his Imperial Majesty's gracious permission are now newly opened for trade: it is requisite that the replies of the Board of Revenue should be received, before the commerce of those Ports should be actually thrown open. But Canton has been a mart for English trade, during more than two centuries past: and therefore, the new regulations having been decided upon, they ought at once to be brought into operation; that the far travelled merchants may not be any longer detained in the outer seas, disappointed in all their anticipations; The High Commissioner, the Governor General, and the Governor, have, therefore, in concert with the Superintendent of Customs, determined, in fulfilment of their August Sovereign's gracious desire to cherish tenderly men from afar, that a commencement shall be made with the opening of the Port of Canton under the new regulations on the 1st. of the 7th, month. The wishes of the merchants will thus, it is hoped, be met.

The Island of Hong-Kong having been by the gracious pleasure of His August Majesty granted as a place of residence to the English Nation, the Merchants of that Nation, who will proceed from thence to the various Ports will be numerous; and such vessels as they may engage to convey them to and fro will therefore be required to lie under no restrictions, but merely to accept Engagements at fair and just rates. If, however, such passengers convey goods in the same boats with the view of evading the dues of Government, they shall be subject to such fines as the Law shall direct. Should Merchants of China desire to proceed to the Island of Hong-Kong, aforesaid, to trade, they will be required only to report themselves to the next Custom-House, and to pay the duties on their merchandize according to the new Tariff, obtaining a pass before they quit Port to commence their traffic. Any who may dare to go and trade without having requested such a pass, on discovery, shall be dealt with as offenders of the Laws against clandestine traffic, and against contumacious visiting of the open Seas,—

As to those Natives of China who, in past days, may have served the English Soldiers or others with supplies, and may have been apprehended in consequence, the High Commissioner has obtained from the good favor of his August Sovereign, vast and boundless as that of Heaven itself, the remission of their punishment for all past deeds, and any such who may not yet have been brought to trial are therefore no longer to be sought after; while all who may have been seized and brought before Government are granted a free pardon. All persons of this class must then attend quietly to their avocations, with a diligent pursuit of every thing that is good and right; they need entertain no apprehension of being hereafter dragged forward, nor yield in consequence to any tears or suspicions.

With reference to the arrangements which the High Commissioner and his Colleagues have made in regard to duties, every thing has been done with a single eye to a just impartiality: all Merchants, then, whether of China, or of foreign Countries, are called upon to consider the many pains that the High Commissioner and his Colleagues have taken, and by all means to abide in the quiet pursuit of their respective callings, and in the enjoyment of so auspicious a peace. From hence forward amity and good will shall ever continue, and those from afar and those who are near shall perpetually rejoice together. Such is the fervent hope of the High Commissioner and his colleagues; and in this hope, they command implicit obedience to what is now thus specially promulgated.
