No. 27 of 1845.—The Hon'ble the Governor in Council is pleased to publish the following extracts from a despatch from the Hon'ble the Court of Directors, dated the 15th January last, No. 4.

Para. 1st. We have carefully examined the proceedings, transmitted with your letter No. 59, of the 27th August last, of two Courts Martial convened for the trial of Commander Powell of the Indian Navy, and Acting Master Lamb, respecting charges arising out of their conduct on the occasion of the loss of the Steam Frigate "Memnon".

3rd. We certainly do not approve of the unqualified acquittal of Commander Powell, of the inattention and negligence with which he was charged. His retiring to rest when the Ship, under his command was rapidly approaching the land, would of itself have been a very questionable proceeding, more especially when the weather was very boisterous, and the darkness increasing with the night, but his omission to render the orders issued by him, for the management of the Vessel, during his absence from Deck, incapable of misapprehension, and his failing to provide in those orders for the very probable contingency of the land being neared without being seen, are altogether inexcusable and contrast strikingly with the anxious care he had previously evinced in the navigation of the Ship.

4th. It is not our intention to disturb the verdict of the General Court Martial before which Commander Powell was tried, but we desire that you make known to him the view which we take of his conduct as well as our surprise and regret, that an Officer of his experience, reputation and standing in the service, should have proved so far unmindful of an important trust, as to relax in his care and vigilance at the very time when those qualities could least be dispensed with.

5th. The conduct of Commander Powell, after the Vessel struck was however very praiseworthy, and we cheerfully join with Sir Robert Oliver and yourselves in applauding the coolness, judgment and unwearied activity evinced by him subsequently to the Shipwreck, and in attributing in a great measure to his exertions the preservation of the lives of the Crew and Passengers, and the recovery of part of the stores and effects of the Vessel.

6th. We are still less disposed to acquiesce in Mr. Lamb's entire exoneration from blame. Without dwelling upon his inattention to orders, there can be no doubt, that with the appearance of land before him he ought of his own accord to have endeavored to ascertain its reality by heaving the lead, and he should have taken care that the Commander was thoroughly awakened. But Mr. Lamb's conduct exhibits stronger indications of both carelessness and want of judgment. It is scarcely possible that the ship could have run so close in shore, before the land was distinctly seen, if a good look out had been kept.

7th. We cannot too strongly express our surprise and displeasure at his not having ascertained beyond a doubt, that Captain Powell had been thoroughly roused, and made acquainted with the ship's position, and at his not having taken upon himself the responsibility of acting with promptitude, and changing the course of the Vessel while there was yet time to save her from wreck. The safety of the ship ought to have been indeed his first consideration, and the calling of the Commander ought to have been effected through the medium of the Midshipman of the watch; his quitting the Deck a second time we consider quite inexcusable; Mr. Lamb however, denies that he was conscious of the danger in which the ship was placed; and with the exception of the Affidavit of an absent witness, only strong probabilities could be opposed to his assertion; still as Sir Robert Oliver has pointed out, it would have been highly improper for the Officer of the watch to leave his post under any circumstances, and it is less easy to find an excuse for his doing so, when the Commander's presence was required on deck.

9th. We highly approve of the several instructions issued by Sir Robert Oliver for the guidance of the Commanders and Officers of our Navy, and every opportunity ought to be taken of inculcating the necessity of vigilance and great caution upon the Commanders and Officers of our Steam Ships. The great command which the power of Steam affords the Navigator in shaping his course and measuring his distance, ought to preclude the possibility of a ship being lost under such circumstances as those attending the wreck of the "Memnon."
