and Small Cause Courts, Rs. 100, and in the case of District Courts, Rs. 200. All sums in excess of this amount shall be paid into the Government Treasury as a deposit with Government. There shall be, as far as possible, a daily remittance from the Court to the Treasury, and to secure an agreement between the treasury and the Nazir's accounts no portion of the amount entered in Form C shall be retained from deposit on the last working day of the month.

19. Withdrawals from the Court's deposit account with the treasury shall be by cheques (Form L) signed by the Judge or Assistant Judge, or (with the approval of Government) the Registrar or the Clerk of the Court. In such cases the District Judge shall inform the treasury officer of the name of the officer authorized, and furnish a specimen of his signature. Whenever it is convenient to make several small payments to different persons, one cheque for the aggregate amount may be issued in favour of the Nazir; but payments to parties when the amount is large or exceeds a limit to be fixed by the Judge, can be made by a cheque in favour of the payee: but the payee must be informed that payment can only be made at the treasury on the date of issue. If it is late in the day, and there is a possibility that the cheque cannot be presented on the date of issue, it can bear the next day's date. If the currency of a cheque has lapsed, it may be revived by an endorsement thereon for immediate payment, on satisfactory explanation being furnished.

20. There is no objection to payments being made to judgment-creditors and others from deposits received during the day, but when the account is made up in the afternoon, the amount so paid shall be recouped by drawing a cheque, which should accompany the cash sent to the treasury and be adjusted on the treasury accounts, so that the gross transactions may pass on to the Government books.

21. The Judge shall arrange to send the pass-book to the treasury during the first week of the month, to be written up, balanced and signed by the treasury officer after verification with the treasury accounts. Whenever the pass-book is presented at the treasury, the cheques paid must be posted in the pass-book and the entry attested by the treasury officer.

22. The Court shall, as directed in Rule 9, render to the Accountant General monthly the duplicate registers (Forms C and D), signed by the Nazir and countersigned by the Judge, accompanied by a Plus and Minus Memo. in the subjoined form:—

These registers will be examined in the Accountant General's Office, and any discrepancies or errors discovered made the subject of reference to the Judge of the Court, until the several transactions entered in them are passed as correct.

23. In the month of January of each year a list shall be posted up in the court-house, showing the sums of money in deposit with the Court which have remained unclaimed for over twelve months, and the names of the persons to whom they are due, and if no one appears before the 31st of March following to claim the sum due to him, it shall be paid into the treasury to the credit of Government as a deposit unclaimed, for the eventual benefit of any person who may duly establish his claim thereto to the satisfaction of the Court. To ensure the lapsed deposits being adjusted at the treasury before the 31st of March, the cheque should reach the treasury not later than the forenoon of that date. In the month of April following the Court shall furnish to the Accountant General in Form C, the heading of the form being suitably altered, a statement of the balances written off and credited to Government, prepared from the original register (Form C) and not from the ledger (Form J).

24. Deposits credited to Government under Rule 23 cannot be repaid without the sanction of the Accountant General, but this sanction will be given as a matter of course on proof that the item was really received, was carried to credit in the Government accounts as a lapsed deposit, and is now claimed by the person who was entitled to draw it before the lapse, or his heir. Applications for refund shall be made in Form M by the Judge to the Accountant General, who, if the credit for the amount is exhibited on his books, will authorize payment and return the document to the Judge for delivery to the party concerned, who should personally, or by an agent, claim payment from the treasury. These refunds will not be brought on the Court's accounts. On receipt by the Court of the Accountant General's sanction, a note of the number and date thereof shall be made against the original entry in Register C.

E by the Názir of the District Court, when he is appointed administrator for the management of the property. At the close of each day the total receipts on account of each such estate shall be posted from column 14 of Register E into Register C, and the total payments shall be posted from column 20 in respect of charges, and from column 24 in respect of the disposal of each of the estates, into Register D, quoting in the latter the original credit entry or entries from Register C. The receipts or acquittances for these payments shall be taken in column 13 of Register D.

12. Attached property which may come into the Court's custody in the course of a suit, whether before or after judgment, shall be registered in Form F, and the proceeds, when realized, shall be posted from column 15 of this register into Register C. When money is attached, it shall be taken direct from Register F to Register C, but a note of this shall be made in Register F when the attachment includes both property and cash. Payments shall be entered direct into Register D, quoting the original credit entry from Register C. A note of the payment shall also be made in the last column of Register F.

13. For subsistence money of civil prisoners and expenses of witnesses, the registers of receipts and payments shall be in Forms G and H, respectively. As these sums are required for immediate disbursement, they need not be deposited in the treasury, but the amounts shall be retained in the cash balance of the Názir or officer of the Court entrusted with the accounts of money received by the Court. The daily total from column 10 of Register G and column 8 of Register H shall be entered in the cash book, Form I. Items remaining unpaid over twelve months at the end of each account year shall be communicated to the Accountant General in the return prescribed in Rule 23 and paid into the treasury as lapsed deposits.

14. In the cash book (Form I) shall be entered separately on the debit or credit side, as may be necessary—

(a) the daily totals of each of the Registers C, D (which include the daily totals of Registers E, F) and the daily totals of G, H;

(b) such items as are intended to be finally credited to Government; these shall be taken direct to the cash book, and the subsequent payment to Government or refund debited per contra. In such cases only will columns 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12 be entered up.

15. All sums that are intended to be finally credited to Government shall be sent to the treasury at frequent intervals during the month, or daily if possible. These remittances shall not be entered in the pass-book (K), and must be sent separate from sums to be credited to the Court's deposit account mentioned in Rule 19. The Court will receive from the treasury officer an acknowledgment on the chalan presented.

16. The cash book shall be closed and balanced every day. The closing entry shall specify particulars of the balance, thus:—

Specification of Balance.

Entry 1 must agree with the pass-book K, and the aggregate of 2, 3 and 4 should be verified by counting the cash. The Názir, having ascertained that the transactions of the day have been correctly entered in the cash book and that the arithmetical balance is correct, shall sign the cash book on the left and obtain the signature of the Judge on the right side below the closing entry. In Small Cause Courts where there is a Registrar, the Registrar of the Court shall be responsible that the amounts have been correctly entered and that the arithmetical balance is correct, and shall sign the book every day on the right side below the closing entry. When a Judge presides over more than one Court, or when he is absent from his Court, there being no locum tenens, he shall on his return to his Court examine and sign the accounts for the days of his absence. In District Courts, where there is an Assistant Judge, he may, by order of the Judge, sign the accounts.

17. The ledger (Form J) is a supplementary record of all sums shown in the Registers C, D. The entries made in C and D shall be posted in J every evening or at latest the first thing the next morning.

18. Transactions with the treasury in regard to the Court's deposit account shall be by means of a pass-book (Form K) and by cheques (Form L). Every remittance to the treasury, intended to be credited to the Court's deposit account, shall be accompanied by the pass-book and a treasury chalan in a form that will be supplied on application by the treasury officer. Entries will be made in the pass-book at the treasury and be received by the Accountant and Treasurer when the remittance is under Rs. 500, and by the treasury officer when it exceeds that sum. The Názir shall not retain, except with the special permission of the Judge, a larger cash balance in his hands than in the case of Subordinate

5. When any person pays money into Court in connection with any suit or judicial proceeding, or when collections of any such money are made by any officer of the Court, such person or officer shall tender such money or collections to the Názir, who shall cause a receipt to be prepared, with counterfoil, according to Form A, and shall obtain the signature or mark of the person or officer tendering the money, on the counterfoil of the receipt. Both original and counterfoil shall be signed both by the officer of the Court receiving the money and also by the Názir. The counterfoil shall be recorded for reference and the receipt delivered to the person paying the money. When payments are made into Court by an officer of the Court, the receipt shall not be given to him, but shall be kept in the record of the proceedings in reference to which the collection has been made.

6. When money is received by postal money order, without advice from the remitter as to the cause or purpose for which the money has been forwarded, the amount shall be entered in a register (Form B).

Pending receipt of the information necessary to admit of the amount being credited to the cause or account for which the money was remitted, the item shall be transferred from Register B to Register C, the words "Money order suspense account" being written across column 5 of Register C. On receipt of the required information the amount shall be adjusted by entering the item in the manner described above, as a payment in Register D, and re-entering the item in Register C or G, as the case may be, as a receipt of that date, the necessary explanation being entered in the column of remarks. A note should invariably be made on the counterfoil of receipts issued in Form A for money received through the post by money order or otherwise, giving a reference to the letter or advice with which the money was forwarded, and if the money order coupon affords information, it should be pasted on the counterfoil of the receipt (Form A). The original receipt, there being no person to receive the same, should be crossed and cancelled and be initialled by the Názir.

The Názir before payment shall obtain the payee's signature or mark in column 13 of Register D, both the original and duplicate; but where a receipt stamp is required, it shall be affixed to the former only. Payment shall be endorsed on the copy of the decree or order when such is produced, the endorsement being signed by the officer actually making the payment, and attested by the Registrar or Názir, who shall also initial the entry of payment in column 14 of Register C and column 11 of Register D.

9. The Registers C and D shall be written up from day to day in duplicate. The original shall remain on the record of the Court, and the duplicate, which must be kept in English, shall also be written up from day to day and be forwarded every month to the Accountant General. In writing up Form C for the Accountant General, the columns 12 to 24 for details of payments shall be left blank for use in the Accountant General's office, but in the office copy of this register columns 12, 13 and 14 shall be filled up at once as the transactions occur; and in writing up Form D for the Accountant General, columns 10 and 11 shall be left blank.
