POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

BOMBAY CASTLE, 14TH FEBRUARY 1846.

In continuation of the Notifications dated the 9th and 11th instant, the Hon'ble the Governor in Council has the highest satisfaction in publishing for general information the following General Order issued by the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India on the 2nd instant, together with an extract from a despatch from His Excellency the Commander in Chief in India, therein alluded to, and a report from Major General Sir H. G. Smith K. C. B., dated the 30th ultimo, detailing the particulars of the signal victory gained on the 28th ultimo, by the British Troops under his Command, over a strong Division of the Sikh Forces commanded by the Sirdar Runjoor Sing Mujethea.

By order of the Hon'ble the Governor in Council,
J. P. WILLOUGHBY, Chief Secy.

GENERAL ORDER BY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT.

CAMP FERROZEPOOR, THE 2ND FEBRUARY 1846.

The Governor General announces to the Army and the people of India, that he has received from His Excellency the Commander in Chief of the Army a report by Major General Sir Harry Smith K. C. B. dated the 30th ultimo, giving the details of a complete victory gained by the troops under the immediate command of the Major General on the 28th January, over the Sikh Forces commanded by the Sirdar Runjoor Sing Mujethea.

In this decisive and glorious action, the enemy's infantry were dislodged from every position and village they attempted to hold by rapid charges at the point of the bayonet. Their horsemen were driven from every part of the field by repeated charges, in which the superior valour of the European and Native Cavalry was most conspicuous, and the Artillery moving with its accustomed celerity, was always well to the front, directing its fire with precision and effect.—The result of these noble efforts of the three arms of Artillery, Cavalry and Infantry, in which the valour and discipline of the troops were happily combined with the skill of the Commander, has been the signal defeat of the enemy, who was driven across the river with great loss, his camp being captured and 52 pieces of Artillery remaining in the hands of the victors.

These trophies in addition to those taken at Ferozshah & Moodkee, complete the number of 143 pieces of the Artillery taken in the field from the enemy, since the British army moved from its cantonments to repel a most unprovoked aggression on its territories.

To Major General Sir H. Smith, and to the brave troops he commanded, the Governor General conveys the tribute of his admiration and the grateful acknowledgments of the Government and the people of India. The service rendered was most important, and was accomplished by the ability of the Commander and the valour of the troops.

The Governor General's thanks are due to Brigadier Wheeler who although still suffering from the wounds received at Moodkee, energetically headed his Brigade, composed of Her Majesty's 50th Regiment, the 48th Native Infantry, and the Sirmoor Battalion. Great praise is also due to Brigadiers Godby and Hicks who with the 36th Native Infantry and Nusseree Battalion, H. M's. 31st and the 24th and 47th Native Infantry stormed the village of Aliwal, drove the enemy from it, and seized the guns by which it was defended.

The Governor General has much satisfaction in observing the warm terms of admiration in which the Major General speaks of the Nusseree and Sirmoor Battalions, and the Shekawattee Brigade under Brigadier Penny, Captain Fisher and Major Forster. These corps nobly emulated the example of the regular regiments of infantry.

In short the conduct of the troops, European and Native, Regular and Irregular, was throughout the field an honorable rivalry in which every corps bravely did its duty.

Her Majesty's 16th Lancers on this occasion have added to their former reputation acquired in various fields of battle in Asia by routing the enemy's cavalry in every direction and by resolute charges of two of its squadrons under Captain Bere and Major Smyth and Captain Pearson, penetrating the enemy's square of Infantry, in which charges the squadrons were gallantly supported by the 3rd Light Native Cavalry under Major Angelo.

In these exploits the Native Cavalry distinguished itself throughout the day, and the Governor General is happy to bear his testimony to the fact that since the army of the Sutlej commenced its operations on the 18th December, the Native Cavalry has on every occasion proved its superior prowess, whether in the general actions which have been fought or in the various skirmishes at the outposts, such as that in which Captain Becher was gallantly engaged with a small party of the 8th Irregular Cavalry at Alloowalla on the morning of the 27th January.

The Governor General's thanks are due in an especial manner to Brigadier Cureton who commanded the Cavalry. This officer's whole life has been spent in the most meritorious exertions in Europe and Asia, and on this occasion the skill and intrepidity with which the cavalry force was handled, obtained the admiration of the army which witnessed their movements.

The Government of India ever desirous to mark its grateful sense of the services of the army, will cause a medal to be presented to every Officer and Soldier of the East India Company's service, engaged in the Battle of Aliwal, and requests through His Excellency the Commander in Chief that a nominal roll may be furnished for that purpose.

By order of the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India.
(Signed) F. CURRIE, Sec. to the Govt. of India with the Govr. Genl.

Extract from a despatch from His Excellency the Commander in Chief to the Right Hon'ble the Governor General, dated the 1st February 1846.

Meanwhile the upper Sutlej has become the scene of very interesting operations.

It is a strange feature of this War that the enemy, pressed for supplies on his own bank, has been striving to draw them from his Jageer states on this side of the river. In the town and Fort of Dhurm-kote, which were filled with grain, he had in the second week of January, a small garrison of Mercenaries Rohillas, Ensufzies and Affghans, Major General Sir Harry Smith, was on the 18th sent against this place with a single Brigade of his Division and a Light Field Battery. He easily effected its reduction, the troops within it surrendering at discretion, after a few cannon shots. But whilst he was yet in march, I received information of a more serious character. There remained little cause to doubt that Sirdar Runjoor Sing Majeethea, had crossed from Philour at the head of a numerous force of all arms and established himself in position at Baran Hara, between the old and the new courses of the Sutlej; not only threatening the City of Loodiana with plunder and devastation, but indicating a determination to intersect the line of our communications at Bussian and Rackote.

The safety of the rich and populous town of Loodiana had been, in some measure provided for by the presence of three Battalions of Native Infantry under Brigadier Godby, and the gradual advance of our reinforcements, amongst which was included Her Majesty's 53rd Regiment, and the position of the Shekawattee Brigade near Bussian gave breathing time to us in that direction.

But on the receipt of intelligence which could be relied on of the movements of Runjoor Sing and his apparent views, Major General Sir Harry Smith, with the Brigade at Dhurm-kote and Brigadier Cureton's Cavalry, was directed to advance by Jugraon towards Loodiana, and his second Brigade under Brigadier Wheeler, moved on to support him.

Then commenced a series of very delicate combinations, the momentous character of which can only be comprehended, by reflecting on the task which had devolved on this army of guarding the frontier from Rooper down to Mundote.

The Major General breaking up from Jugraon moved towards Loodiana, when the Sirdar, relying on the vast superiority of his forces assumed the initiative, and endeavoured to intercept his progress by marching in a line parallel to him, and opening upon his troops a furious cannonade. The Major General continued coolly to manœuvre and when the Sikh Sirdar bending round one wing of his army, enveloped his flank, he extricated himself by retiring with the steadiness of a field day by echellon of Battalions, and effected his communication with Loodiana but not without severe loss.

Reinforced by Brigadier Godby he felt himself to be strong; but his manœuvre had thrown him out of communication with Brigadier Wheeler, and a portion of his baggage had fallen into the hands of the enemy. The Sikh Sirdar took up an entrenched position at Budhowal supporting himself on its Fort, but threatened on either flank by General Smith and Brigadier Wheeler, finally decamped and moved down to the Sutlej. The British troops made good their junction, and occupied the abandoned position of Budhowal; the Shekawatee Brigade and Her Majesty's 53rd Regiment also added to the strength of the Major General and he prepared to attack the Sikh Sirdar on his new ground. But on the 26th, Runjoor Sing was re-inforced from the right bank with 4000 Regular Troops, twelve pieces of Artillery and a large force of Cavalry.

Emboldened by this succession of strength, he ventured on the measure of advancing towards Jugraon, apparently with the view of intercepting our communications by that route.

It is my gratifying duty to announce that this presumption has been rebuked by a splendid Victory obtained over him. He has not only been repulsed by the Major General, but his camp at Aliwal carried by storm, the whole of his cannon and munitions of war captured, and his army driven headlong across the Sutlej, even on the right bank of which he found no refuge from the fire of our Artillery.

I have the honor now to forward the Major General's report, which has just reached me. It is so ample and luminous that I might perhaps have spared some of the details into which admiration of the Major General's conduct and of the brave army confided to him, in these operations, has led me.

It now remains for me only to congratulate you, Right Hon'ble Sir, and the Government of India, on the brilliant success which, under Divine Providence, the Major General has achieved; and to record my opinion that, throughout these arduous and important operations, he has displayed all the qualities of an able Commander. Most strongly, and most earnestly at the same time, I beg to bring to your notice, and to that of His Grace the Duke of Wellington, and the Honorable the Court of Directors, the officers and corps on whom he has so justly bestowed his commendations.

Camp Field of the Battle of Aliwal, 30th of January 1846.

To,

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL OF THE ARMY.

SIR,

My despatch to His Excellency the Commander in Chief of the 23rd instant, will have put His Excellency in possession of the position of the force under my command, after having formed a junction with the troops at Loodiana, hemmed in by a formidable body of the Sikh army under Runjoor Sing, and the Raja of Ladwa. The enemy strongly entrenched himself around the little fort of Buddawal by breast works and "Abattis," which he precipitately abandoned on the night of the 22nd instant, (retiring as it were upon the ford of Tulwun) having ordered all the boats which were opposite Philor to that Ghat. This movement he effected during the night, and by making a considerable detour, placed himself at a distance of ten miles and consequently out of my reach. I could therefore only push forward my Cavalry so soon as I had ascertained he had marched during the night, and I occupied immediately his vacated position. It appeared subsequently he had no intention of recrossing the Sutledge, but moved down to the Ghat of Tulwun (being cut off from that of Philor, by the position my force occupied after its relief of Loodiana) for the purpose of protecting the passage of a very considerable reinforcement of 12 guns and 4,000 of the Regular, or "Aicen" Troops, called Avitable's Battalion, entrenching himself strongly in a semicircle, his flanks resting on the river, his position covered with from 40 to 50 guns (generally of large calibre) howitzers and mortars. The reinforcement crossed during the night of the 27th instant, and encamped to the right of the Main Army.

Mean while His Excellency the Commander in Chief, with that foresight and judgement which marks the able General, had reinforced me by a considerable addition to my Cavalry, some Guns, and the 2nd Brigade of my own Division under Brigadier Wheeler, C.B. This reinforcement reached me on the 26th and I had intended, the next morning, to move upon the enemy in his entrenchments but the troops required one day's rest after the long marches Brigadier Wheeler had made.

I have now the honor to lay before you the operations of my united forces on the morning of the eventful 28th January, for His Excellency's information. The body of troops under my command having been increased, it became necessary so to organize and brigade them as to render them manageable in action. The Cavalry under the Command of Brigadier Cureton and Horse Artillery under Major Lawrenson, were put into two Brigades; the one under Brigadier Macdowal C. B., and the other under Brigadier Stedman. The 1st Division as it stood, two Brigades H. M's. 53rd and 30th Native Infantry, under Brigadier Wilson, of the latter corps. The 36th Native Infantry, and Nusserree Battalion under Brigadier Godby, and the Shekawatee Brigade under Major Forster. The Sirmoor Battalion I attached to Brigadier Wheeler's Brigade of the 1st Division, the 42nd Native Infantry having been left at Head Quarters.

At day light on the 28th my order of advance was the Cavalry in front, in contiguous columns of Squadrons of Regiments, two Troops of Horse Artillery in the interval of Brigades. The Infantry in contiguous columns of Brigades at intervals of deploying distance, Artillery in the intervals, followed by two 8 Inch Howitzers on travelling carriages brought into the field from the Fort of Loodiana by the indefatigable exertions of Lieutenant Colonel Lane, Horse Artillery. Brigadier Godby's Brigade, which I had marched out from Loodiana the previous evening on the right. The Shekawatee Infantry on the left. The 4th Irregular Cavalry and the Shekawatee Cavalry considerably to the right for the purpose of sweeping the banks of the wet nullah on my right, and preventing any of the enemy's Horse attempting an inroad towards Loodiana, or any attempt upon the baggage assembled round the Fort of Buddawal.

In this order the troops moved forward towards the enemy, a distance of six miles, the advance conducted by Captain Waugh 16th Lancers, the Deputy Assistant Quarter Master of Cavalry, Major Bradford of the 1st Cavalry and Lieutenant Strachey of the Engineers, who had been jointly employed in the conduct of Patrols up to the enemies position, and for the purpose of reporting upon the facility and points of approach. Previously to the march of the troops it had been intimated to me by Major Mackeson, that the information by Spies, led to the belief the enemy would move somewhere at day-light, either on Jugraon, my position of Boddawal, or Loodianah. On a near approach to his outposts this rumour was confirmed by a Spy, who had just left his camp, saying the Sikh army was actually in march towards Jugraon. My advance was steady, my troops well in hand, and if he had anticipated me on the Jugraon road, I could have fallen upon his centre with advantage.

From the tops of the houses of the village of Poorein, I had a distant view of the enemy. He was in motion, and appeared directly opposite my front on a ridge of which the village of Aliwal may be regarded as the centre. His left appeared still to occupy its ground in the circular entrenchment, his right was brought forward and occupied the ridge. I immediately deployed the cavalry into line, and moved on. As I neared the enemy, the ground became most favorable for the troops to manœuvre, being open and hard grass land, I ordered the cavalry to take ground to the right and left by brigades: thus displaying the heads of the infantry columns and as they reached the hard ground I directed them to deploy into line, Brigadier Godby's Brigade was in direct echellon to the rear of the right, the Shekawtee infantry in like manner to the rear of my left. The cavalry in direct echellon on, and well to the rear of, both flanks of the Infantry. The Artillery massed on the right, and centre and left: after deployment I observed the enemy's left to out flank me, I therefore broke into open column and took ground to my right, when I had gained sufficient ground, the troops wheeled into line: there was no dust, the sun shone brightly. Thus manœuvres were performed with the celerity and precision of the most correct field day. The glistening of the bayonets and swords of this order of battle was most imposing, and the line advanced. Scarcely had it moved forward 150 yards when at 10 o'clock the enemy opened a fierce cannonade from his whole line. At first his balls fell short, but quickly reached us. Thus upon him, and capable of better ascertaining his position I was compelled to halt the line, though under fire for a few moments, until I ascertained that by bringing up my right and carrying the village of Allewal I could with great effect, precipitate myself upon his left and centre. I therefore quickly brought up Brigadier Godby's Brigade, and with it and the 1st Brigade under Brigadier Hicks, made a rapid and noble charge, carried the village and two guns of large calibre. The line I ordered to advance, H. M's. 31st Foot, and the Native regiments contending for the front, and the battle became general. The enemy had a numerous body of cavalry on the heights to his left, and I ordered Brigadier Cureton to bring up the right Brigade of Cavalry who, in the most gallant manner, dashed in among them, and drove them back upon their Infantry, mean while a second gallant charge to my right was made by the Light Cavalry and the Body Guard. The Shekawtee Brigade was moved well to the right, in support of Brigadier Cureton, when I observed the enemy's encampment, and saw it was full of Infantry, I immediately brought upon it Brigadier Godby's Brigade, by changing front, and taking the Enemy's Infantry "en-revers." They drove them before them, and took some guns without a check.

While these operations were going on upon the right, and the Enemy's Left Flank was thus driven back, I occasionally observed the Brigade under Brigadier Wheeler, an officer in whom I have the greatest confidence, charging and carrying guns and every thing before it, again connecting his line and moving on, in a manner which ably displayed the coolness of the Brigadier and the gallantry of his irresistible Brigade. H. M's. 50th Foot, the 48th N. I. and the Sirmor Battalion altho' the loss was, I regret to say severe in the 50th, upon the left, Brigadier Wilson with H. M's. 53rd and the 30th N. I. equalled in celerity and regularity their comrades on the right, and this Brigade was opposed to the "Aiccu" Troops, called Avitable when the fight was fiercely raging.

The enemy, well driven back on his left and centre, endeavoured to hold his right to cover the passage of the river, and he strongly occupied the village of Bhoondee—I directed a squadron of the 16th Lancers under Major Smith and Captain Pearson to charge a body to the right of the village, which they did in the most gallant and determined style, bearing every thing before them, as a squadron under Captain Bere had previously done, going right through a square of Infantry wheeling about and reentering the square in the most intrepid manner with the deadly lance.—This charge was accompanied by the 3rd Light Cavalry under Major Angelo, and as gallantly sustained. The largest gun upon the field and 7 others were then captured, while the 53rd Regt. carried the village by the bayonet, and the 30th N. I. wheeled round to the rear in a most spirited manner, Lieutenant Colonel Alexander's and Captain Turton's Troops of Horse Artillery under Major Lawrenson dashed almost among the flying Infantry committing great havoc, until about 800 or 1000 men rallied under the high bank of a nullah and charge them, which they were able to do upon their left flank, while in a line in rear of the village.—This native corps nobly obeyed my orders and rushed among the Avitable Troops driving them from under the bank, and exposing them once more to the deadly fire of 12 Guns within 300 yards.—The destruction was very great, as may be supposed by guns served as these were, H. M's. 53rd Regiment moved forward in support of the 30th N. I. by the right of the village.—The battle was won.—Our troops advancing with the most perfect order to the common focus, the passage in disorder red masses into the ford and boats in the utmost confusion and consternation, and precipitating themselves upon their boats, when the "Debris" of the Sikh army appeared upon the opposite and high bank of the river, flying in every direction, altho' a sort of line was attempted to countenance their retreat, until all our guns commenced a furious cannonade when they quickly receded. Nine guns were on the verge of the river by the ford. It appears as if they had been unlimbered to cover the ford. These being loaded were fired once upon our advance two others were sticking in the river, one of them we got out, two were seen to sink in the quick sands, two were dragged to the opposite bank and abandoned. These and the one in the middle of the river were gallantly spiked by Lieutenant Holmes of the 11th Irregular Cavalry, and Gunner Scott of the 1st troop 2nd Brigade Horse Artillery who rode into the stream and crossed for the purpose, covered by our guns and Light Infantry.

Thus ended the battle of Alival one of the most glorious victories ever achieved in India by the united efforts of Her Majesty's and the Hon'ble Company's Troops. Every gun the enemy had fell into our hands, as I infer from his never opening one upon us from the opposite bank of the river, which is high and favorable for the purpose, fifty-two guns are now in the Ordnance Park, two sank in the bed of the Sutlej and two were spiked on the opposite bank making a total of 56 pieces of cannon captured or destroyed. Many

11 Guns since ascertained to be sunk in the river, total 07
30 Odd Jinjalls fell into our hands.

Jinjalls which were attached to Avitables Corps, and which aided in the defence of the village of Bhoandee have also been taken. The whole army of the enemy has been driven headlong over the difficult ford of a broad river, his camp, baggage, stores of ammunition and of grain, his all in fact, wrested from him, by the repeated charges of Cavalry and Infantry aided by the guns of Alexander, Turton, Lane, Mill, Boileau and of the Shekawattee Brigade and by the 8 inch howitzers. Our guns literally being constantly ahead of every thing. The determined bravery of all was as conspicuous as noble. I am unwont to praise when praise is not merited; and I here most avowedly express my firm opinion and conviction, that no troops in any battle on record ever behaved more nobly. British and Native no distinction, Cavalry all vying with H. M.'s 16th Lancers and striving to head in the repeated charges, our guns and Gunners, Officers and Men, may be equalled, but cannot be excelled by any Artillery in the world. Throughout the day no hesitation, a bold and intrepid advance, and thus it is that our loss is comparatively small, tho' I deeply regret to say severe. The enemy fought with much resolution, they maintained frequent rencontres with our cavalry hand to hand. In one charge upon Infantry of H. M.'s 16th Lancers, they threw away their muskets and came on with their swords and targets against the lance.

Having thus done justice and justice alone to the gallant troops His Excellency entrusted to my command, I would gladly, if the limits of a despatch (already too much lengthened I fear,) permitted me do that justice to individuals all deserve—This cannot be, therefore must I confine myself to mention those officers, whose continued services, experience and standing, placed them in conspicuous commands—In Brigadier Wheeler, my second in command, I had a support I could rely on with every confidence and most gallantly did he head his Brigade: From Brigadiers Wilson, Godby and Hicks, I had also every support, and every cause to be gratified with their exertions—In Brigadier Cureton, Her Majesty has one of those officers rarely met with, the cool experience of the Veteran Soldier is combined with youthful activity,—His knowledge of outpost duty and the able manner he handles his Cavalry under the heaviest fire, rank him among the first cavalry officers of the age; and I beg to draw His Excellency's marked attention to this honest encomium—In Major Lawrenson, Commanding the Artillery Lieutenant Colonel Alexander, Captain Turton and Lieutenant Colonel Lane, the service has officers of the very first order, and I am equally satisfied with Captain Boileau, in command of the 9 Pr. Battery and with Lieutenant Mill in charge of four light guns. The two 8 inch Howitzers did right good service, organized, equipped and brought into the field by the exertions and determination to overcome all difficulties of Lieutenant Colonel Lane, equally well served and brought forward always with the Infantry by Lieutenant Austin.

To Brigadiers Macdowal and Stedman Commanding their gallant Brigades of Cavalry, the fortune of the day is greatly indebted, and to all Commanding Officers of Cavalry and Infantry, my warmest thanks are due, to Major Smith, Commanding H. M.'s 16th Lancers, who was wounded—to Major Bradford of the 1st Light Cavalry; to Major Angelo of the 3rd Light Cavalry, to Major Alexander of the 5th Light Cavalry: to Captain Hill of the 4th Irregular Cavalry. To Major Forster of the Shekawattee Brigade and to Captain Quin of the Body Guard, to Lieutenant Colonel Spence Commanding H. M. 31st Foot, to Major Bird of the 24th N. I. to Captain Corfield of the 47th N. I. to Lieutenant Colonel Ryan, K. H. of H. M. 50th Regiment, to Captain Troup of the 48th N. I. to Captain Fisher of the Sirmoor Battalion, to Lieutenant Colonel Phillips of H. M. 53rd Foot: to Captain Jack of the 30th N. I. to Captain Fleming of the 36th N. I. and to Brigadier Penny of the Nusseeree Battalion.

His Excellency having witnessed the glorious services of H. M. 31st and 50th Regiments and of the 24th, 47th and 48th Native Infantry, I have only to report upon H. M. 53rd, a young regiment but veterans in daring gallantry and regularity, and Lieutenant Colonel Phillips' bravery and coolness attracted the attention of myself and every Staff Officer I sent to him. The 30th and 36th Regiments N. I. are an honor to any service and the intrepid little Goorkhas of the Nusseeree and Sirmoor Battalions in bravery and obedience can be exceeded by none. I much regretted I had no Brigade to give Brigadier Penny who is in orders for one as His Excellency is aware I can only say therefore that when he gets his Brigade, if he leads it as he did his gallant band of Goorkhas, it will be inferior to none.

The services of His M.'s 16th Lancers His Excellency has witnessed on a former occasion, and the exalted character of this Regiment is equally before him. The 1st and 3rd Light Cavalry and the 4th Irregulars I believe he has not seen in action, and it is my duty therefore joyfully to report the manner they contended for the glorious prize of victory, in the many charges they this day delivered, and it will be equally gratifying when I assure His Excellency the body guard under Captain Quin and the 5th Light Cavalry well did their duty. The Shekawattee Brigade, under Major Forster is steady, obedient and well appointed, Artillery, Horse and Infantry each arm striving to distinguish itself in the field.

Captain Mathias of H. M.'s 62nd in charge of a detachment of convalescents of H. M.'s Service, and Lieutenant Hebbert of the Honorable Company's Sappers and Miners readily performed the duty assigned them in protecting the 8 inch howitzers.

To Captain Lugard the Assistant Adjutant General of this force, I am deeply indebted, and the service still more so; a more cool, intrepid and trustworthy officer cannot be brought forward, and I may say the same with great sincerity of Lieutenant Galloway the Deputy Assistant Quarter Master General of the 1st Division. Captain Waugh of the 16th Lancers Deputy Assistant Quarter Master General to the cavalry is an officer of no ordinary abilities, and the manner in which he and Major Bradford, of the 1st light cavalry daily patrolled, reconnoitred and made themselves acquainted with the position of the enemy mainly contributed to the glorious result.

The Brigadiers all speak in high terms of their Majors of Brigade, Captain O'Hanlon of the 1st Brigade, who was wounded in the action and replaced by Captain Palmer of the 48th N. I. Captain Garnock of H. M. 31st foot of the 2nd Brigade, Captain Loftie, 30th N. I. of the 3rd Brigade, and Lieutenant Vanrenen of the 4th Brigade, Lieutenant Patinson of H. M.'s 16th Lancers of the 1st Brigade of Cavalry and Captain Campbell of the 1st Light Cavalry of the 2nd Brigade.

Of the service of Lieutenant A. W. C. Plowden 3rd Light Cavalry Deputy Assistant Adjutant General and my Aid-de-Camp Lieutenant Holdich, and of Lieutenant Tombs of the Artillery, my Acting Aid-de-Camp I am fully sensible, and with the manner which they aided me in carrying orders, I am much satisfied; Lieutenants Strachey and Baird Smith of the Engineers, greatly contributed to the completion of my plans and arrangements, and were ever ready to act in any capacity, they are two most promising and gallant officers.

I have every reason to be satisfied with the Commissariat arrangements under Captains Mainwaring and Williamson.

Owing to the judicious arrangements of Dr. Murray Field Surgeon, every wounded officer and soldier was placed under cover, and provided for soon after dark; and for the zeal displayed by this able and persevering Medical officer, and to the several Regimental Surgeons are the wounded and our country deeply indebted. The whole of the wounded were moved yesterday to Loodianah, for the sake of accommodation and comforts which could not be given them in the field.

If not irregular I beg you would lay before the Commander-in-Chief for submission to the Right Honorable the Governor-General my just sense of the valuable services of the Political officers associated with me, Major Mackeson, Captain J. D. Cunningham, and Lieutenant Lake; For the assistance I have received from them in their Political capacity, I feel most grateful. On the morning of the battle each offered to aid me in his military capacity, frequently did I employ them to carry orders to the thickest of the fight; and frequently did they gallantly accompany charges of Cavalry.

The reports of the several Brigadiers I enclose. A return of the officers Commanding and second in Command of Regiments; also a return of killed and wounded; A return of Ordnance captured and of Ordnance Stores; likewise a return of Commissariat Stores, Grain &c. and a rough sketch of the field of battle of Aliwal.

The Fort of Goongrana has subsequently to the battle, been evacuated; and I yesterday evening blew up the Fort of Buddawul, I shall now blow up that of Noorpoor. A portion of the peasantry viz. the Sikhs, appear less friendly to us, while the Mussulmen rejoice in being under our Government.

I have &c.

N. B. The quantity of ammunition captured with the Artillery and found in the camp of the Enemy is beyond accurate calculation, consisting of shot, shell, grape and small Arm ammunition of every description and for every calibre. The powder found in the Limbers and Waggon of the guns and in the Magazines of the Entrenched Camp has been destroyed to prevent accidents. Six large Hackery loads have also been appropriated to the destruction of Forts in the neighbourhood. As many of the shot and shell as time would admit of being collected have been brought into the Park—the shells being useless have been thrown into the river. The shot will be appropriated to the Public Service.
