Read again the following extracts from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department:

No. ⁶/₁₅₃₋₆₆ (Archæological),—dated Simla, the 11th August 1885.

In 1882 Her Majesty's Secretary of State, when sanctioning the appointment of Mr. Fleet as Epigraphist to the Government of India, suggested the desirability of training Native scholars in such a way as to fit them hereafter for taking a prominent place in the prosecution of historical research. Mr. Fleet, whose opinion was obtained on this suggestion, advised that Professors of Sanskrit in Government Colleges should form classes of selected students for special training in epigraphical and historical researches. He observed that, with such a preliminary training, a few students would be secured who would be fitted to commence under him the more rigid study of critically examining new inscriptions, of translating and editing them, and of disposing of their contents in a scholarlike manner.

2. The views of Local Governments and Administrations were invited on the suggestions made by Mr. Fleet. From these letters it appears that the adoption of Mr. Fleet's suggestion regarding the formation of palæographic classes under Sanskrit Professors in Government Colleges is not practicable. The time of the Professors is already fully occupied with their ordinary duties, while it is doubtful whether, if such classes were formed, students would, under present circumstances, be forthcoming to attend them. There is a general agreement, however, that the Universities might with advantage be moved to make Indian palæography an optional subject for the higher degrees; and the Governor General in Council would be glad if the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal would move the Universities of their respective provinces to consider what steps should be taken for attaining this object. It is observed that the Government of Madras has already consulted the Syndicate of the Madras University, and that the Government of Bengal proposed to address the Senate of the Calcutta University on the subject. The question whether similar action might not usefully be taken in regard to the Punjab University will doubtless be considered by the Local Government.

3. In order further to encourage the education and training of natives of India in epigraphy, the Governor General in Council would suggest that a special prize of Rs. 500 should be offered by the Local Government annually at each University to the student who does best in this subject, if he is recommended for it by the Examiners. This prize would probably be supplemented by the liberality of the private gentlemen interested in the ancient history of their country, if their attention were invited to the subject. His Excellency in Council is also pleased to direct that an annual prize of Rs. 500 be offered for the best collections of inscriptions with a critical essay on them by bond fide graduates of the Universities under 30 years of age. The essays should be sent to the Epigraphist to the Government of India on or before the 1st April of each year, and the amount of the prize will be charged in the contingent bill of the Epigraphist. The selected essay will be printed at the expense of Government. Lastly, in order to encourage the study of epigraphy among the Surveyors and Assistant Surveyors employed in the Archæological Survey Department, the Governor General in Council sanctions the grant of a reward of Rs. 500 to any employé of that Department who qualifies in epigraphy within two years from the date of his appointment to the Department.

4. As regards British Burma, the circumstances of which province are peculiar and which does not fall under the scope of the above orders, it will be left to the Chief Commissioner to take such steps as he may deem necessary for encouraging the study of epigraphical research among Native students and others.

No. 1A.
17-33 (Archæology),—dated Calcutta, the 18th January 1886.

In paragraph 3 of the Resolution dated 11th August 1885, it was decided—

- (1) that a special prize of Rs. 500 should be offered by the Local Government annually at each University to the student who does best in epigraphy, if he is recommended for it by the Examiners;
- (2) that an annual prize of Rs. 500 be offered for the best collection of inscriptions, with a critical essay on them, by bond fide graduates of the Universities under 30 years of age, the essay to be sent by 1st April of each year to the Epigraphist to the Government of India; and
- (3) that a reward of Rs. 500 should be given to any Surveyor or Assistant Surveyor in the Archæological Survey Department who qualifies in epigraphy within two years from the date of his appointment to the Department.

The Governor General in Council sees no ground for modifying or expanding the first two of these proposals; but as regards the third point, His Excellency in Council is willing to grant a reward of Rs. 500 to any employé of the Archæological Survey who qualifies in epigraphy at any period of his service in the Department. The reward will be given for a competent knowledge in any one or more of the ancient languages of India, but cannot be earned more than once during service.

RESOLUTION.

From the Resolution of 1885, it will be seen that Her Majesty's Secretary of State when sanctioning the appointment of Mr. Fleet as Epigraphist to the Government of India, suggested the desirability of training Native scholars in such a way as to fit them to take a prominent place in the prosecution of historical research. Mr. Fleet, who was consulted on the subject, recommended that Professors of Sanskrit in Government Colleges should form classes of selected students for special training in epigraphical and historical researches. Local Governments were addressed accordingly on the subject, but on receipt of their replies the Government of India came to the conclusion that it was not expedient to adopt the suggestion put forward by Mr. Fleet. It was, however, thought desirable that Indian Universities should make Palæography an optional subject for the higher degrees; and in order to further encourage the study of epigraphy, a system of moderate money-rewards for proficiency in that branch of learning was established. From the replies of the Local Governments read above, the Government of India learns with satisfaction that the Syndicates of the several Universities in Madras, Bombay, Bengal, and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, have resolved to allow Palæography to be studied as an optional subject for the higher degrees.

In paragraph 3 of Resolution mentioned above, it was said that the essays on inscriptions should be sent to the Epigraphist to the Government of India on the 1st of April of each year. As the appointment of Epigraphist to the Government of India has since then been abolished, the essays should be transmitted to the Director General of the Archæological Survey of India.
