Bo. Act VII of 1867 ...	The Bombay District Police Act, 1867.	Sections 33 and 34.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to provide a simple machinery for promoting sanitary improvements and preventing insanitary acts and omissions in the villages of this Presidency which are not included in a municipal district or a military cantonment.

2. Such villages may be divided into—

- (a) villages in which, under the advice and with the encouragement of the district officers or, in some cases, independently of such advice and encouragement, the inhabitants voluntarily take adequate measures for sanitation and conservancy;
- (b) villages in which a very simple form of an institution is necessary for enforcing observance of ordinary sanitary rules and securing the supply of minor sanitary wants;
- (c) villages which are too small to be constituted municipalities, but which, owing to their size or for other special reasons, need to be placed under a somewhat more elaborate and strict system than villages in class (b).

3. For villages in class (a), no legal provision is necessary, and so long as the inhabitants of any village co-operate to provide satisfactorily for keeping their village clean and free from nuisances, and for supplying it with pure water and such other wants of a similar nature as are within their means, it is not intended that any portion of this Bill should be applied to it.

4. To villages in class (b) it is proposed (section 6) that the Collector shall, in his discretion, but not without in the first place hearing objections, apply Part II of the Bill. This part enacts that there shall be a Sanitary Committee in every village to which it applies, consisting of three or more adult householders appointed by the Collector, and that every Magistrate having jurisdiction in the village may, at any time, take part in the Committee's proceedings. Power is given to the Committee to make rules (section 11) for giving effect to the purposes of the Act, and to take cognizance of and punish breaches of those rules (section 14). It can also authorise expenditure for the purposes of the Act (section 16), and the necessary moneys for such expenditure can be raised either voluntarily or by a rate assessed by the Collector, in conference with the Committee, on the inhabitants of the village.

5. Section 7 enables the Governor in Council to extend Part III of the Bill to any village, or group of villages. For such areas, a Sanitary Board will be constituted of persons appointed by the Collector. The members will be partly residents and partly Magistrates having jurisdiction in the area, the number of members being prescribed by Government. In addition to the powers possessed by a Sanitary Committee, a Board will have authority, with the approval of the Collector, to enter into contracts for the daily surface-cleansing of streets, and for the removal of rubbish (section 26), and to provide for the construction of certain essential works and buildings (section 27). Where there is a Sanitary Board, the Collector may, subject to the orders of Government, from time to time appoint a Sanitary Inspector, with necessary subordinates (section 21). The duty of such an Inspector will be (section 22) to take measures for preventing breaches of the Board's rules, and for bringing offenders before the Board for punishment. The Board will be bound (section 29) to provide the salaries of this Inspector and of his subordinates, and all other necessary charges.

6. Part IV of the Bill contains provisions applicable generally to Sanitary Committees and Boards. Amongst other things, it provides (section 39), that District or Taluka Local Boards may make contributions from the local funds at their disposal to Sanitary Committees or Boards and that certain village servants shall be placed under the command of the Sanitary Committee or Board (section 41).

7. The intention is thus to constitute, wherever necessary, small local authorities who, with the co-operation of the magistracy, will be entrusted with the important duty of attending to village sanitation. It is thought that without the aid of such local bodies, operating each within the sphere in which by its constitution it is most likely to possess influence, no attempt to introduce the minor measures of sanitary improvement, which everywhere beyond the limits of municipal districts are so urgently needed, will be successful; and it is believed that for a moderate measure of this nature, the spread of enlightenment in the Bombay Presidency has prepared the people in all, except a few backward parts, and that the Bill will be generally acceptable as affording a simple means of remedying a condition of things which is admittedly the cause of widespread disease, and to a very large extent, of the fatal epidemics with which the Presidency is so frequently visited.
