No. 4764-B.—The following Extract from a letter from the Government of India, Home Department, (Sanitary), No. 151, dated 15th June 1896, is published for general information:—

"6. The last point dealt with in the Secretary of State's Despatch, dated 5th December 1895, to which it is necessary specially to refer, is referred to in the remark in paragraph 5 that it would be well to declare in Article 67 (now Rule 66) of the Regulations that the fixed dues payable on arrival at Camaran and at Jedda, and none others, should be included in the cost of tickets issued to pilgrims. This suggestion has been acted on, and I am to explain, for the information of the Governor in Council, that by 'fixed dues' appear to be meant the 4 piastres landing charge at Camaran, and a sanitary fee of Rs. 1-13-0 levied at Jedda. These fees should, therefore, be included in the cost of the ticket, and I am to request that, with the permission of His Excellency the Governor in Council, this may be done and, if necessary, the intention to do so notified under the orders of the Government of Bombay for the information of the pilgrims."

Bombay Castle, 28th October 1896.

- (a) take such special measures, and
- (b) by public notice, prescribe such temporary regulations to be observed by the public or by any person or class of persons, as he may think necessary to prevent the outbreak of such disease or the spread thereof.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 26th October 1896.

No. 7269.—The following General Rule made by Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Bombay under Section 15 of the Statute 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. 104, for regulating the practice and proceedings of all Criminal Courts subject to its jurisdiction, has received the sanction of the Governor in Council and is published for general information:—

(To be inserted as Circular 98 at page 77 of the High Court Criminal Circulars.)

98. Commissions sent for execution to any place where the language is different from that of the Court issuing them should be accompanied by translations in the language of such place, or in English.

No. 7309.—The following General Rule made by Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Bombay under Section 15 of the Statute 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. 104, for regulating the practice and proceedings of the Courts of all Magistrates subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court, has received the sanction of the Governor in Council, and is published for general information:—

(To be inserted as Circular 30-A, in Chapter III of the High Court Criminal Circulars.)

30A. The Honourable the Chief Justice and Judges regret to observe that the trial of cases is at times unnecessarily and unduly protracted. Their Lordships, therefore, desire to point out, for the guidance of all Magistrates, that it is their duty to despatch their criminal work with the least possible delay, it being essential for the proper administration of justice that it should be promptly dealt with. As far as possible, criminal work should be given precedence over other work, cases in which the accused are in custody being taken up for disposal in preference to those in which the accused are on bail. Magistrates should so arrange for the despatch of their criminal work that the hearing of one case should, as much as possible, not be allowed to interfere with the hearing of another, each one being fixed for hearing for distinct days, due regard being had to their probable duration. Every effort should be made to minimise delay and hardship to the parties and witnesses. When a case is once commenced, it should be heard de die in diem and completed with every possible despatch, the whole or as much of the working day as could be spared being devoted to its hearing. Witnesses remaining over from one day should be examined at the first sitting of the Court on the following day. The practice of taking up a case for an hour or so and then dropping it again should be avoided, and cases should be disposed of, as far as possible, in continuous sittings. Adjournments should as a rule be avoided, specially when the accused are likely to be prejudiced thereby, and if from any unavoidable cause an adjournment is deemed indispensable, it should be for as short a time as possible.

In any case a trial once commenced should be continued from day to day, except on Sundays, and other days when the Public Treasuries are closed and days when native usage absolutely requires the intermission of all business. Every Court should sit daily and punctually at the hour appointed for its opening, unless prevented by circumstances, which should be recorded in its proceedings.

When a Magistrate is on tour, every care should be taken to let the parties and witnesses know the place as well as the time for their appearance, which should be fixed so as to obviate, as far as practicable, the inconvenience, which must be caused to them by their being called away to long distances from their residences, and the hearing of cases should, as far as possible, be completed at the appointed place without obliging them to move from camp to camp with the Magistrate.

Bombay Castle, 28th October 1896.
