Notification of the University of Bombay.

No. 2563 OF 1867-68.

CONVOCAATION FOR CONFERRING DEGREES, 1867-68.

The Seventh Convocation of the University of Bombay for conferring Degrees was held in the Town Hall, on Tuesday, the 14th January 1868, at 5 P.M.

At the foot of the stairs leading from the north porch of the Town Hall to the first floor were placed six Norfolk Island pines, round a colossal marble vase. On the staircase were arranged ferns, and the vestibule in front of the Asiatic Society's Rooms was laid out as an artificial garden in the Italian style.

The Senate met in the Durbar Room at 4½ P.M., to robe and form the Procession.

The Corinthian pilasters of the apse at the south of the Town Hall and the four Corinthian pillars next the apse,—two on the east side and two on the west—within which the University dais was erected, were adorned with colours significative of the Degrees to be conferred. Round the shafts of the pillars were spirally wreathed bands of blue (for Arts), of black (for Law), and of red (for Medicine), while vertical stripes of the same colours alternated effectively with the white of the pilasters. On the pilasters also were hung the University Arms, and the Arms of University benefactors—viz., Cowasjee Jehangier Readymony, Esq., the Honourable Munguldass Nathoobhoy, Venayekrow Jugonnathjee Sunkersett, Esq., and Premchund Roychund, Esq. On the dais, which was covered with purple cloth, was set the Chancellor's chair, beneath the statue of Mountstuart Elphinstone, which served as the keystone to a treble semi-circular row of seats for the Fellows of the University.

On the east and west of the dais, seats were reserved in the aisles for the Graduates of the University, and former elevés of the Recognized Colleges, and for the Candidates for Degrees.

From the University Semi-circle an open space was left down the middle of the Hall to the statue of Lord Elphinstone; and east and west of the path were sofas and chairs for visitors, the seats nearest the University semicircle being reserved for ladies.

The Candidates for Degrees, and Graduates met in the Durbar Room at 3 P.M., to sign their certificates, and to robe.

The Bachelors of Arts and the Candidates for that Degree wore gowns of garter-blue: the Bachelors of Laws and the Candidates for that Degree wore black silk gowns, and the Licentiates of Medicine and the candidates for that Degree wore scarlet gowns.

The Senate met in the Durbar Room at 4½ P.M. to robe and form the Procession.

At five o'clock the south-east door of the Hall opened to admit the procession, when the orchestra played the Coronation March, and all present arose and remained standing. The members of the Senate who were present on this occasion, and formed the Procession, were—

The Members of the Senate having taken their seats, the Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, Inspector General Francis Shortt Arnott, Doctor of Medicine and Companion of the Bath, rising, supplicated the Grace of the Senate as follows:—

“Mr. Chancellor—On behalf of João Francisco Gonsalves, of Grant Medical College, I submit the certificate required by this University, and move that the Senate do pass a grace for his admission to the Degree of Licentiate of Medicine.” Whereupon the Chancellor put the question—“Doth it please you that this grace be passed?” And the Senate assenting, the Chancellor said, “This grace is passed.”

The same words—mutatis mutandis—were used successively on behalf of each of the other candidates for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Laws, and Master of Arts; the Dean of the Faculty of Arts, the Rev. John Wilson, Doctor of Divinity and Fellow of the Royal Society, supplicating for the candidates in Arts; and the Dean in the Faculty of Law, Richard Tuohill Reid, Doctor of Laws, supplicating for the candidates in Law.

When all the graces were passed, the Deans of the Faculties presented each candidate separately in the following words:—

“Mr. Chancellor,—I present to you (stating candidate’s name and college), who has been examined and found qualified for the Degree of (stating the particular degree), to which I pray he may be admitted.”

And the Chancellor answered in the following form of words:—

“By the authority given me as Chancellor of this University, I admit you (mentioning the candidate’s name and college), to the degree of (mentioning the particular Degree); and I charge you that ever in your life and conversation you show yourself worthy of the same.” The Chancellor at the same time presented the graduate with the certificate of his Degree.

When all the Degrees had been similarly conferred, the Chancellor awarded to Mr. Barjorji Edalji Modi, the Homejee Curssetjee Prize, consisting of Books to the value of Rs. 200, which he had gained on account of his best poem on the "Solar System."

Since the last Convocation for Conferring Degrees the Regulations for the Jám Shri Vibhájí Scholarship, and the alterations in Regulations 9 and 20 in Medicine, alluded to in the last Report, have come into operation, having been previously approved of by the Governor of Bombay in Council.

During the year under review, alterations of the Bye-Laws and Regulations in Arts, Medicine, and Law have been made by the Senate, and approved of by the Governor of Bombay in Council. By the alterations in the Arts Regulations the Examination for Honours in Arts has been abolished, and a clause, to the effect that Candidates when placed in the First Class either at the B.A. or M.A. Examination, will be considered to have taken honours in the B. A. or in any branch of the M.A. Examination respectively, has been added. And by the extensive changes made in Regulations for Medicine the whole course of medical studies has been altered and improved.

UNIVERSITY PRIZES.

The Munguldass Nathoobhoy Travelling Fellowship.—On the 5th of March last, Mr. Atmáram Sadáshiv Jayakar, L.M., proceeded to England as the first Munguldass Nathoobhoy Travelling Fellow. He has since sent in his first half yearly report of the mode in which his time has been spent in England in accordance with regulation 5 of the Munguldass Endowment. He has successfully passed the examinations for the Membership of the Royal College of Surgeons and for the Royal College of Physicians. He has also passed the competitive examination for a Commission in Her Majesty's Indian Medical Service, and is now attending a course of lectures on Military Surgery, Medicine, Pathology, and Hygiene at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Netley.

The Manockjee Limjee Gold Medal.—The Syndicate regret to report that the Manockjee Limjee Gold Medal still remains unawarded. Only one essay on the "Unprinted Literature of the Maráthás" was sent in, but it not having come up to the proper standard, the medal was withheld.

The Senate have, however, on the recommendation of the Syndicate, lately introduced some changes in the Manockjee Limjee Gold Medal Endowment Regulations, which will afford an opportunity to all the Graduates of the University of five years' standing instead of only to the Bachelors of Arts of two years' standing to compete for the Medal.

UNIVERSITY PUBLICATIONS.

In addition to the Annual University Publication of the Calendar, the University during the last year published a new edition of Locke's Letters on Toleration, which was kindly edited and carried through the Press by Professor Hughlings.

THE LATE MR. E. I. HOWARD.

At a Meeting of the Senate which was held on the 4th October 1867 the following Resolution on the death of the late Mr. Howard, one of the original Fellows of this University, and at one time Director of Public Instruction in Bombay, was adopted :—

“The University of Bombay since its last meeting in Senate, has received intelligence of the sudden removal from life of Edward Irvine Howard, Esq., one of its original Fellows. The University desires to place on record an expression of its great regret at the untimely decease of a most accomplished scholar, whose opinion on all academical questions was felt to be valuable, and who has done the University good service by constantly advocating the maintenance of a high standard for Matriculation and Degree Examinations.”

The Vice Chancellor then announced to the Senate the offer of Rs. 5,000 by Cowasjee Jehangier Ready-money, Esq., for the founding of a Latin Prize in connection with the University of Bombay.

His Excellency the Chancellor then addressed the Senate as follows :—Mr. Vice Chancellor, and Gentlemen of the Senate,—To all of us, I think, who have listened to the very complete and clear report just read by the Registrar, the account that he has given us of the progress and of the prospects of this University must be highly satisfactory; and to most of you, gentlemen, who have attended previous Convocations, it must be a source of gratification to find that the progress established in former years has not only not been lost, but that the University continues in the same onward and steady march of success that has called for congratulation hitherto. (Applause.) For myself, gentlemen, a devoted son of one of our ancient Universities—(Applause.)—who look back to her still at a great distance of time, and in this distant country, with an affection and attachment that as many of you as are University men can well understand, and to whom the recollections of her are forcibly and yet pleasantly recalled by the proceedings of this day—it is a source of great gratification to find myself privileged to be present amongst you on this occasion. (Renewed applause.) From the first moment of my entering into the exciting contests of public and parliamentary life—in the performance of public functions, in the hours of business, and in the moments of relaxation, I have never ceased to feel the value of a University education. (Applause.) And that not because it is merely the completion and the complement of that course in which a man obtains the knowledge which is power, but because that knowledge is obtained accompanied by all the refining influences which an academic life is so calculated to exert. (Applause.) And I rejoice to believe that here in this distant land this young University is fulfilling all those noble functions which for centuries past the sister ancient Universities of our own land have so efficiently discharged. (Applause.)

There are some points in the report which has been read to us upon which I wish, with your permission, to make a few passing observations. And, first,—it may be a remark that has been made by my predecessor and by many of you before, but it is that which has very forcibly struck my own mind, and therefore I desire to draw attention to it—I rejoice to find that the University is firm in maintaining the high standard it established for the matriculation examinations. (Applause.) It may be a matter of regret that more candidates did not succeed in obtaining admission within our walls;—I think only one-third or less of those who presented themselves have succeeded, according to the report, in the matriculation examinations; but still I am glad the severity of the matriculation test is so strictly preserved. The importance of it is obvious. If the matriculation test is lowered, and the standard of the after examinations is maintained, it is obvious that it will only lead to the failure of a greater number in the more important examinations,—lead to the disappointment of the students, and the discredit of the University. But if after such an experience it were to result that the standard of the after examinations was lowered, then the value of the University distinction would be lost, and the influence of the University would be impaired. (Applause.) And not only this, but it must be recollected that the maintenance of a high standard in the matriculation examinations, has an important effect upon general education throughout the country. The schools from which the students are drawn are compelled by this circumstance to maintain a high standard; and thus it is that indirectly, by maintaining the severity of the matriculation test, the University establishes a higher standard of education for those whose means and prospects do not lead them to aspire to a University training. (Applause.) I hope, therefore, that in future, as hitherto, the University will be firm in maintaining the strictness and severity of the matriculation test. (Loud applause.) There has lately been somewhat of a controversy between my honourable and valued friend the Vice Chancellor and an official on the other side of India with reference to the merits of the systems pursued in the three Universities of India. I am not going to enter at all into a comparison of those systems, or of the merits or distinctions of the three Universities. I will only say that I am amply and fully satisfied with the statement which the Vice Chancellor has made as to the position and the merits of the University of Bombay. (Applause.) But there is one thing that he brings to notice which is peculiar to this University, and which I hope this University will be firm in maintaining; and that is, that whereas in the other Universities the examinations are not conducted solely at the head quarters of the University, but at various towns and other places throughout the country, and are conducted by means only of written papers without any oral examination, that in the case of the Bombay University, over and above an examination upon paper upon fixed subjects, there is also a probing and searching oral examination which must test the merits of the candidates, all of whom have to appear for their examination in Bombay. (Applause.) This, too, I hope will be maintained. It gives to you, gentlemen (turning to the new graduates), to whom I have had the pleasure to-day of presenting the certificates of the degrees you have obtained,—it gives you the power of saying to all who see that certificate in your possession,—“I not only have obtained a degree which shows that I have acquired a certain amount of knowledge, but that certificate has been given to me after a more searching and a more difficult test than that which is applied by any other University in India.” (Applause). Well, Sir, there was another point which struck me in the report which the Registrar has just read, and I think it is one which ought to give us all unmixed satisfaction; and that is, that in the list of those whom he has read out to us as having successfully passed the matriculation examination, we find that there is not a part of this Presidency—that there is scarcely a district—which has not sent up its successful candidates to represent it within the walls of the University. (Applause.) It might well be expected that in a young University like this the candidates would be almost exclusively drawn either from this city or from the centres of education throughout the country; but instead of that we find by that list which the Registrar read, as I have said, that there is not a district of this Presidency from north to south, from east to west, which is not represented in it. And it shows to us this, that a sense of the value of a University education is not confined only to those who are brought into communion with the professors and teachers connected with the University, but that it has taken wide root throughout the Presidency, and is felt by every class of the people. (Applause.) It is a matter of congratulation, I think, that what may be pointed out particularly in the report which has been read to us is the number who have succeeded in obtaining degrees in the Faculty of Arts. Now, that implies a more general and a more liberal, a more enlightened course of studies, than that which probably has been followed by those who have obtained degrees in special faculties. There is a wider extent of learning, a wider field of study required for a degree in Arts than that which necessarily would be required for the degree of L.M., and I think it is a matter of congratulation that the great success which has been manifested in the examinations, has attended those who have sought to graduate in Arts. It is a matter of congratulation, too, that large success has attended the examination in Law, because the University examination in Law is not an examination in the knowledge which qualifies a man to be a successful practitioner,—it is not a knowledge of cases and decisions, and practice—it is a knowledge of the principles of law and jurisprudence; it is a knowledge of the history of law; and so is of infinite value in this country in particular. (Hear, hear, and applause.) And I'll tell you why. The British Government has been engaged in introducing into this country a fixed code of law which applies to many of the relations of life. It requires here for the due administration of law—for an enlightened view of law as it ought to be administered in this country—a knowledge of the ancient laws as applying to inheritance, to property, to succession, to marriage, to religion, and to many other subjects of that kind; and it is a great satisfaction to find that there are young men who seek to distinguish themselves not only with a view to success in their professions, but also to obtain that wider and more enlightened view of law which will make a successful prosecution of their profession hereafter most valuable. (Hear, hear, and applause.) It is to be regretted, as regards the degree in Medicine and the degree in Civil Engineering, that equal success has not attended the students who have desired to graduate. But still it is a satisfaction to find that there are young men now seeking degrees in these faculties, and I will tell you why. I believe there is nothing more important than the influence which the University is day by day exercising amongst us in teaching the rising generation here not to look to Government employ only, not to look to the interests of patrons or to the favour of the “Sircar,” but to know that they have always before them an independent career in honourable professions, (Applause)—that they have equal honours, if not greater, to attain by means of their own exertions,—feeling sure as I do that such a result,—a desire amongst the enlightened native youth of this country to pursue liberal professions here—would tend as much to secure good and enlightened Government, that would render the people happy and contented, as any exertions on the part of those who are concerned in the administration. (Loud applause.) There are several other points, Mr. Vice-Chancellor, which I should desire to draw attention to, but I feel I am trespassing too long upon your time. I cannot, however, refrain before I sit down from alluding to that letter which you read just before I commenced my address to this Senate, and from which we learn that Mr. Cowasjee Jehangier, one of the most enlightened citizens in this city, who has been always amongst the first to promote the highest interests of his people, the highest interests of society here, and to promote the best interests of this University in particular, as he was amongst the first, is now the very latest benefactor of the University of Bombay. (Applause.) And I do not think that there is anything which is more pleasing, in looking back to the past history of this University, than to find that alike in times of prosperity as in times when prosperity is past, there are enlightened men amongst the native community of this country who, feeling and knowing the duty they owe to society, are desiring to discharge that duty by nobly supporting this most valuable institution. (Applause.) I see near me a friend and colleague of my own, who himself must feel the greatest pleasure in a portion of that report which refers to a travelling fellowship established by him—I mean Mr. Munguldass Nathobhoy. It must be a satisfaction to him to find that the first person who has obtained the travelling fellowship which his munificence has established, has distinguished himself by attaining the honour of the membership of the College of Physicians and the membership of the College of Surgeons of London, has in open competition obtained admission to the Medical Service of this Government, and is now pursuing those studies which will lead him hereafter to a distinguished career. (Applause.) I do not think that there is any other point which I desire particularly now to press upon your attention, but I cannot refrain from expressing the pleasure I feel at the interest which is taken in the success of the University, as manifested by the crowd that surrounds me in this room, of all classes of the community. (Applause.) There has been, as we have seen in the journals, a considerable discussion going on for some time as to the respective merits of Native and European rule in this country. I do not desire to enter into that point. I believe we have given to this country a certainty of administration of justice, a certainty of the tenure of property, and the knowledge that all are equal in the eyes of the law. (Applause.) And by the institution of a University such as this, we are conferring benefits, not perhaps so direct and tangible, but I think not the less valuable and important. (Loud applause.) We are teaching the youth of this country not to value knowledge only for the power and the success it brings, but for the self-improvement it gives the student,—teaching him to value knowledge for itself. (Applause.) We teach him, further, that it is his duty, by cultivating the highest qualities which God has given him, to fit himself to fulfil his highest duties, and in doing this I am sure we confer upon this country benefits even more extensive or more important, or at least equally important, with those institutions which, secure to all the benefits of a settled and enlightened Government. (Loud and long continued applause.)

The Right Honourable the Chancellor then again rising from his Chair pronounced the Convocation dissolved.

3. The following Rules must be observed by Departments sending work to the Photozincographic Establishment:—

1st.—Colored copies of Maps, Plans, or Prints cannot be received for Photozincography.

2nd.—The lines of Maps, Plans, or Prints, sent to be copied, on the same, or on a reduced scale, must be clear, distinct, and black, or good copies cannot be guaranteed.

3rd.—The number of copies required must be stated in the requisition, and the scale on which the Map should be reproduced should be distinctly written in the margin of the copy sent.

4th.—In the event of a Map being required on a different scale to that on which the copy sent is drawn, the scale required must be neatly printed and pasted over the scale on the copy, e. g. a Map on a scale of an inch to a mile is required to be reduced to an inch to four miles.

A "slip" scale 1 inch to 4 miles must be pasted over "scale 1 inch to a mile," otherwise the copy reduced by the Camera would contain the original scale, whereas the reduced scale adopted should be shown, which will be effected by the observance of this rule.

4. A scale of charges will be published hereafter.

5. All packets—to be franked by privileged officers, if bona fide on Her Majesty's Service, or prepaid—should be addressed to Mr. Cousens, Photozincographic Office, Poona.
